Study shows long-range plans, goals take years

BY SPEED NIEMAN
Editor-Publisher

It may come as no surprise that a consulting engineer and business economist has recommended to Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce that it would be most suitable to seek industries which are agricultural-extractive or utilize natural resources or raw materials of the area.

Specifically, this consultant suggests that manufacturing and processing industries have exceptional potential and he lists about 21 types of industries, including a frozen food processing plant.

What might be a surprise, however, is that this technical survey is dated Jan. 1, 1955!

The 136-page survey projects the city and county's future from 1955 to 1980. It was prepared by Burt C. Blanton, consulting industrial engineer and business economist from Dallas. It misses the mark in some areas, such as population, but it is remarkable how some projections have come to pass in the last 35 years.

For example, the first potential industry on this list is an "agricultural implements assembly plant." And, what was the "latest industrial expansion announced by the Chamber and the Hereford Industrial Foundation? Just last month, it was announced that Poarch Bros. and Case International have picked Hereford as the location for a manufacturing and assembly plant for a new cotton-stripper head.

The 1955 potential list of industries also included a few others that are now a reality: a sugar beet plant, a food plant to manufacture such items as corn chips, potato chips and related products, and the development of livestock feed plants.

Blanton projected population totals of 18,500 for the city and 25,495 for the county by 1980. The 1955 estimated population figures were 7,582 and 14,104. There were about 2,200 households in 1954, and the projection was for 5,100 by 1980. That's about the total at this time.

Because of the development of the cattle feeding industry and other ag related business in the county, Blanton was very conservative on his projections for the value of crops, livestock and farm products.

Twenty years after this survey was compiled, the Chamber initiated a Goals for Progress (GoPro) project which was designed to get community

Many goals in 1955, 1975 efforts have been reached involvement "in developing imaginative and realistic goals for the fourth quarter of this century."

This 1975 project resulted in hundreds of goals, compiled by study groups under the headings of quality of life, economic, governmental functions, education, and transportation. By a vote of citizens, the top 10 goals were:

1. Conservation of water and study of importation of water into the High Plains
2. Development of a YMCA program
3. Increased inter-governmental cooperation and sharing of services
4. Establishment of an on-campus advanced educational program of junior college level with emphasis on vocational as well as academic pursuits
5. Development of more comprehensive intercity highway, air and rail transportation systems
6. Construction of a sufficient number of residential rental facilities
7. Further development of medical services and facilities, and the attracting of additional medical personnel
8. Enhanced development of the economic foundation of the area through vigorous leadership and public support for agriculture and new industry and commercial businesses
9. Improved functioning of judicial processes through the establishment of a district court for Deaf Smith and Oldham counties
10. Improved postal services and facilities.

It is interesting, and encouraging, to note that many of these goals have been accomplished, directly or indirectly, and that work is still underway on others.

A glance at some of the other goals set out by that 1975 project are interesting and revealing. They included:

Continue improvement and expansion of city park system, utilization of old Central School building for community use, continue to promote and advertise the cattle feeding industry in Deaf Smith County, establish a goal of reducing irrigation water use at five percent a year for the next 10 years, support the construction of a system of lakes and dams on Tierra Blanca Creek, create a local county weed control program, encourage local businesses to adopt a program showing the advantages of trading at home;

Encourage the formation of an industrial foundation (this was accomplished during the project), continue to encourage the formation and location of ag-related manufacturing and processing firms, consider the feasibility of consolidating the assessment and collection processes of the various taxing entities, develop proposals for inter-governmental cooperation and sharing of services, work to improve US-60 to a four-lane highway from Hereford to New Mexico line, widen Park Avenue between US-385 and US-60, extend runway at airport.

It's surprising to see how many Go-Pro committee members have moved or are deceased since that report 15 years ago. The steering committee was led by Judge Wesley Gulley and had A.J. (Major) Schroeter as vice chairman. Committee chairmen were James Sears, Judge Sam Morgan, Jim Conkwright, O.G. Nicman, Herman Ford and Lynton Alfred. Only Gulley, Conkwright and Nieman are around today. About half of the 76 sub-committee members and contributors are still active in the community.

The 1955 survey and the 1975 Go-Pro project serve to remind us that economic development is a longrange program, that it follows up and down cycles, and that if we don't study history we are going to make some of the same mistakes again.

It also points out that community leaders have had remarkable vision in the past, and perhaps there has never been a problem as to what the community needs to pursue, but how.

Perhaps the legacy we have from earlier community leaders is to continue to set goals and actively pursue a better place for all to live, work and play.

The entrepreneurs of J&J Livestock

Jerad (l) and Justin (r) Johnson hold two of the latest additions to the J&J Livestock business. Already these young boys are working and saving for their future.

Boys learn from project

By DANEE WILSON
Staff Writer

With the rising sun in the east, two cowboys wake to start their daily chores. Although the morning is bitterly cold, they bundle up, break ice in the trough and get bottles ready to feed the calves.

Although the scene is common with most who work cattle, the cowboys are special.

Seven-year-old Jerad and 4-year-old Justin Johnson don't go to bed at night dreaming about the latest Ninja Turtle cartoon or the newest video games, already they are concerned with their cattle and sheep and the responsibility they have to them.

These young cowboys can tell you anything you ever wanted to know about the business and have already won awards for their efforts.

"Three years ago we decided the boys needed a money making project to help them learn responsibility," Jerry Johnson, Justin and Jerad's father, said. "I really got started a couple of years ago when we went to a sale and one orphaned calf was left unsold. The auctioneer, who was always impressed with Justin and Jerad's interest in cattle, told me when we were leaving there would be that calf with a 'J' brand on each hip for the boys. We thought he was kidding until we got home with an extra calf."

The boys bottle feed the calf twice a day until it was old enough to graze. "We were surprised that we got a calf," Jerad said.

When the calf reached 700 pounds, he was sold and the money was given to the boys, who bought eight more calves and raised them from the bottle.

"We let them have lambs and calves because they are small enough for the boys to handle," Rhonda, their mom, said. "We set up a separate account for the boys and they have their own brand."

Jerad keeps the records himself. He is responsible for keeping the receipts and logs in each calves' growth rate.

"We're trying to teach the boys how to work the cattle now so when they get older it will be more natural for them," said Jerry. "We keep them with the small animals now and they are learning how to handle animals."

The boys already look like pros. When there is work to be done, they jump right in and know exactly what to do.

The Johnsons have a special set-up in their barn to allow the boys to help work the cattle. A catwalk was built along the alley leading up to the cattle chute. Hotshots hang from the ceiling and when the cattle come through, the boys are ready.

With Jerad on one side and Justin on the other, the penned cattle are run through the chute in no time. The boys know how to line the cattle up and run them through, both working together, doing the job as good as most adults.

"Here, in the country, the boys don't have a lot of friends," Jerry said. "They learn from the animals. You have to get along and work with the animals like you would have to with your friends."

Their biggest reward is the money they make.

"These boys are learning the value of a dollar at an early age," Rhonda said proudly. "They understand the market's highs and lows. They know the disappointment of not being able to buy cattle because of the price."

The boys consider cattle their savings account. They buy the animals and dad pays for the feed.

Although Jerad and Justin's routine seems like all work and no play, they enjoy what they are doing. When they aren't working, they play

Saddam faces stiffest test yet

By NICK LUDINGTON
Associated Press Writer
NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) - Saddam Hussein, who has tried to make Iraq a regional superpower and himself leader of the Arabs, is facing his most dangerous challenge after 22 years of rule.

He has battled internal foes, dueling with Israel and warred against his larger neighbor Iran. But he has never confronted an opposition like the U.S.-led coalition of Western and Arab forces arrayed against Iraq because of its military occupation of Kuwait.

Saddam, object of one of the world's most intense personality cults, has been effective ruler of Iraq since 1968. He has been president since 1979.

He set up a ruthless dictatorship that brought the longest period of stable government to a coup-plagued country, a nation created after World War I with a diverse population of Shiite and Sunni Moslems, Christians and Kurds.

But his foreign adventures - the 1980-88 war with Iran, triggered by an Iraqi invasion, and the Aug. 2 blitzkrieg into oil-rich Kuwait - brought a halt to economic development.

Near-unanimous world condemnation of the Kuwait invasion led to strict economic sanctions, including a total embargo on purchases of Iraqi oil, that wrecked the already war-weakened economy.

The war with Iran allowed Saddam to build one of the world's major military machines. He has more than 1 million men under arms, 5,500 tanks, about 700 combat aircraft and a hefty supply of chemical weapons.

This encouraged the Kuwait takeover, clearly the start of a bid to become paramount chief of the Arab world with a guiding hand on much of the world's oil reserves.

Saddam's personality cult includes daily broadcasts, poems and even children's nursery rhymes praising the "Knight of the Arab Nation." His face is on posters at the entrance to every village and on the front page of every newspaper.

Saddam is president, chairman of the Council of Ministers, commander in chief, chairman of the Revolutionary Command Council, and leader of the ruling Baath Socialist Party.

The personality cult is backed up by a pervasive apparatus of oppression that includes four security forces, four intelligence services and, according to human rights organizations, the use of torture, summary execution, and imprisonment without legal process.

Saddam controlled the Baath's civilian organization and gradually turned the armed forces, called by one former ruler "a factory of coups," into a dutiful arm of the party.

For an officer to be involved in any political activity other than Baath functions became a capital offense.

Saddam's hold on power was helped by a series of major purges. In the first, after he came to power as strongman behind Gen. Ahmed Hasan al-Bakr in 1968, the new leadership executed 50 senior military and civilian officials. Many were hanged publicly along with a number of Iraqi Jews accused of being Israeli spies.

Saddam has survived at least a half-dozen assassination attempts. Each was followed by a purge.

Saddam and most of his ruling entourage are Sunni Moslems, from his home town of Tikrit, 75 miles north of Baghdad.

He spent lavish amounts to restore shrines of Shiite Moslems, who form the majority of Iraq's 17 million people. But when an Iranian-backed Shiite organization, ad-Dawa, or The Call, was formed to disrupt his rule, he used the stick instead of the carrot. By 1984, more than 600 had been killed.

Saddam was born April 28, 1937, in Tikrit. He was the son of a poor peasant who died before his birth.

Saddam was raised by an uncle, a former army officer who passed along his fierce nationalism to his nephew. He joined the Baath, then an underground movement, in 1957.

His ruthlessness and leadership qualities won him appointment to a Baath team assigned to assassinate the Iraqi ruler of the time, Gen. Abdulkarim Qassem. In 1959 the squad raked Qassem's car with machine-gun fire but failed to kill him. Saddam, wounded in the leg, escaped.

His coolness during an operation on his leg by a colleague, and flight across the desert to Syria, are glorified in Iraqi books and films.

like they are auctioneers and play farm.

"I like to ride the sheep and try to rope them," said Jerad. "My favorite part is bottle feeding and going to sales with my dad."

"I like to play, ride the sheep and I like to feed best," the shy Justin said.

Jerad and Justin's cattle business, complete with hats inscribed "J&J Livestock," has thrived in three years from one calf to 29 calves.

They hope their cattle business will grow and someday they can take over their father's operation. "I don't want to take over for my dad," Jerad said proudly. "I just want to work with him."

The Johnsons hope their sons' cattle business will pay the way for their future. "By the time they are in college, the cost will be so expensive," said Rhonda. "We hope this will give them a start to pay for college and their future."

A "good family project" is teaching responsibility, respect and values to two young cowboys whose hope for the future is to always work with the animals, a job already well done.

Vegetable conference is Tuesday

Production of vegetables while ensuring safety to growers, workers and consumers will be re-emphasized at the annual West Texas Vegetable Conference here Tuesday.

The conference begins at 8:30 a.m. at the Hereford Community Center. The $25 registration fee includes lunch.

"Grower and consumer safety has been part of these educational programs since the conferences began in the 1960s. Speakers will present research-based information which will enhance our farm productivity, conserve the natural resources of the Texas High Plains, and emphasize safe production and a safe product."

Private applicators and license commercial and non-commercial pesticide applicators can obtain five continuing education units, required by TDA each year for recertification.

Topics to be covered include:

- Capturing rainfall to save water and dollars;

BRANDED Women

By Sandy Stagner

I'm a worrier. I worry about things that have already happened and that I can't possibly do anything about. I worry about things that might happen but probably won't. Whether circumstances warrant it or not, I worry.

However, I think worrying is justified when you have children. Take for instance my 13-year-old daughter, Candi. She has yet to cause me any "real" grief but then again she has just recently emerged as a bona fide teenager. I worry about what she might do. I know it's foolish but I hope by worrying about the future now, I can prepare myself for any problems which might occur (kinda like a fire drill).

Now, my son, Tim, is a different story. I worry about him constantly. Since he left for college, I just know he isn't eating nutritious food unless you consider chili dogs, French fries and Cokes chocked full of minerals and vitamins. He tells me the dark circles under his eyes are caused by lack of sleep from staying up all night studying (right!).

During the Christmas vacation, I took advantage of having Tim home under my watchful eye. I nagged at him daily until he choked down the five food groups. Just to be on the safe side, I also hid pulverized vitamin tablets in his mashed potatoes.

Being reassured that he was eating properly, I then began my campaign to make him get at least 10 hours of sleep every night. Oh, he's getting his rest but at my expense. He considers normal sleeping hours from 2 a.m. until noon. That means my slumber is interrupted by rock music, phone calls and the racket from the kitchen as he prepares his midnight snack of pizza and chocolate pudding. Ugh!

Thinking I would have a reprieve from my worrying as long as he was home for college, I let down my guard. One night while I was reading Tim came and sat down on the edge of the bed. He was being overly solicitous so I knew something was up. Sure enough he asked, "Mom, do you think I could go skiing for a couple of days with a friend? I'd be really careful and it wouldn't be too expensive since I saved up my Christmas money and I already have my own ski gear."

After prying more details out of Tim, my husband and I decided to let him go. Actually, it was John that gave him permission. I couldn't say yes because I just knew something awful would happen on the trip.

Tim began packing on New Year's Day in order for he and his pal "Joe" to leave on Wednesday morning. Although he had informed his father that he had everything he needed for his trip, he groped around in John's closet deciding he needed to borrow just a couple of items. Tim wound up confiscating John's ski jacket, ski bibs, long underwear, ski socks, gloves, goggles and his treasured skis. The only things he took of his own were his driver's license and his jeans.

I was on edge all day Wednesday after Tim departed until he called home that night saying they had made it safely to Red River. Good, I thought, at least he wasn't on the highway. I began feeling rather foolish about my needless worrying so I was startled when Tim called home a couple of days later explaining he and his friend had a little accident.

"Are you both alright?" I asked while holding my breath. Not giving my son a chance to respond, I began nervously firing questions at him. "Did you wreck the car? Did one of you break a bone? And what do you mean a little accident?"

"Mother," Tim replied calmly, "listen to me. Yes, there was an accident. Joe broke his ankle but he's okay. He's already called his parents and they've arranged for him to see their family physician as soon as we get home."

With a sigh of relief that Tim's friend wasn't seriously injured, I told my son to wait a day before heading home because the Texas Panhandle was coated with ice.

Thinking everything was under control, I started to hang up the phone. "Whoa, Mom," Tim yelled. "There is still a problem. Beats me how it happened but both my back tires are flat and I can't find anyone around here to fix 'em. I don't have a way to get to the next town to buy more tires and besides that I'm running out of money. What should I do?"

I was in a panic. I could just see my "little angel" in some crummy motel room tending to his friend who was writhing in pain on the bed. "I knew it," I said when I called my husband at his office to tell him of Tim's plight. "We should have made him stay home. Those boys are probably scared to death. They probably have no money for food. They can't go anywhere because the tires are flat. We're going after them!"

"Wait a minute," John said in an exasperating voice. "Give them some credit. They can figure out what to do. After all, Tim isn't a baby. Let's give the boys the benefit of the doubt before we go off half-cocked. Of course, if we need to we'll go to Red River and get them. But at least give them an opportunity to find a solution to their dilemma."

Well, sure enough, Tim found someone to fix the tires and on the way to Hereford, he and Joe stopped at a hospital in Amarillo to see the doctor.

The next day I went into Tim's room as he was unpacking thinking I'd cheer him up after the skiing fiasco. "Well, kiddo, I'm sorry your skiing trip turned out so lousy."

"Are you kidding," Tim replied.

"It was great!"

Hmmmmmm...now I'm really concerned about him.

YOUR EYES

GETTING USED TO BIFOCALS

Bifocal lenses are certainly convenient, like two pairs of glasses in one. But it does take some time to adjust to the demand of eyeglasses which offer dual correction. Here are some suggestions:

- When you read, hold the reading matter closer to your body, and lower your eyes -- not your head -- so that you are reading out of the lower part of the lenses.
- It's easier to read a newspaper if you fold it in half or in quarters and move it -- not your head -- to read comfortably.
- Don't look down at your feet when walking. Try not to look down even when walking down stairs.
- Wear the lenses all day for the first week or two to become accustomed to them.
- Make sure that the frames are properly adjusted. If they get loose or bent, that will move the segments of your lenses out of their proper position.

AMAGANSETT, N.Y. (AP) - Alec Baldwin matched wits with the Soviet and American military in "The Hunt For Red October." Now he's in a showdown with neighbors unhappy about his plans for a new bedroom and chimney.

The actor wants to add a second story to the 135-year-old cottage he bought two years ago in this oceanside community about 100 miles east of New York City at the far end of Long Island. The upstairs would contain a master bedroom suite and support a 28-foot stone chimney.

He won a zoning variance to do it. But neighbors Boleslaw and Marie-Louise Mastai are suing to get the variance rescinded.

"The addition would bring him much too near to us," Mrs. Mastai, a writer, said Wednesday. "He will overlook our swimming pool and every time we step outside our house there will be this looming mass over us like the canyons of Manhattan or Los Angeles."

Baldwin, in a letter to the weekly East Hampton Star, said Mrs. Mastai is really just upset about changes she has seen in the past 35 years.

Extension News

The beginning of the school term is a convenient time to consider a child's allowance. If parents have not been giving an allowance, it may be time to begin. If a child already receives an allowance, the amount may need to be adjusted for increasing needs.

Parents have traditionally used two approaches in providing money for children and teenagers: The "handout system" considered by many to be the least expensive; and the "allowance system." Some parents feel they cannot afford to give their children a regular allowance because of other financial obligations. However, when they take time to add up all the money that is "doled out" during a week, they are shocked at the total amount. Very often the amount of money that is given "as needed" exceeds that of a reasonable allowance.

Money provided in the "as needed" system eliminates the opportunity for a child to learn to plan expenses, allocate funds, and set aside money for use on another day. A valuable lesson in money management can start by simply giving a child one week's lunch money and permitting him or her to take from the total each day to purchase a school lunch. Obviously, the expense to the family is no greater than if the money is "handed out" on a daily basis. But the child is introduced to handling money and making it last to meet needs.

Children learn responsibility by assuming responsibility. When children are old enough to tell the difference between coins and when they begin to ask for money of their own, that is the time to begin a regular allowance. Most children will be able to handle an allowance by age five or six, or even earlier if they have older brothers and sisters already receiving an allowance.

How much allowance is the right amount? Hold a family conference. Communication skills about money can be learned while the decisions are fairly simple. In assessing the situation, keep in mind factors such as the child's age, family size and income, location of residence, likes and dislikes and family routine.

A general rule of thumb is to make an allowance large enough to cover a child's basic needs plus some "extra" to permit opportunity to save or spend, yet small enough to force some choices. Everyone needs to develop decision-making skills and an allowance provides an opportunity for a child to build these skills. Also, an allowance puts the burden of a decision on the child, relieving parents of having to evaluate every request for money or having to be the one to say "no" to purchase.

Probably the most effective way to determine the amount of an allowance is to work out with the child how much he or she actually needs for school or other expenses, and how much he or she will be allowed to spend on choices.

A recent article in Money magazine shows that nationwide estimates of allowance given average from $1 per week for four-year-olds is about $20 per week for older teens, with most parents providing an allowance of less than $10 per week for preteens.

HOMETOWN PRIDE GROWS STRONGER YEAR AFTER YEAR AFTER YEAR

Hereford has a very sweet business deal in progress 12 months out of every year.

It's our local sugar industry, which has grown to become one of the largest sugar producers in the world as a result of a close mutual relationship between area growers and producers.

Harvesters outrace Herd, 78-49; Lady Whitefaces beaten, 47-31

By SAM WALLER
Sports Editor

The Pampa Harvesters handed the Hereford Whitefaces a 78-49 loss Friday at Whiteface Gymnasium in the District 1-4A opener for both teams as Pampa squads scored a sweep of five games on the evening.

The Lady Harvesters maintained their hold on the district lead with a 47-31 beating of the Lady Whitefaces while the Herd JV lost 52-58, the Lady Whiteface JV fell 48-29 and the Herd sophomores were edged 64-61 in overtime.

Pampa 78, Herd 49

I took most of the first quarter for the 10th-ranked Harvesters (20-3, 1-0) to get their running game going, but once they did it was just a matter of who got the pleasure of taking the shot.

Hereford (5-14, 0-1) trailed 4-2 with about three and-a-half minutes to go in the opening period. But Dwight Nickleberry nailed the first of eight Pampa three-pointers in the game to ignite a 14-2 run to close the quarter leading 18-4.

The Harvesters kept pouring it on in the second as another Nickleberry trey increased the margin to 23-10 despite two three-pointers from Richard Sanderson.

Pampa pushed the lead to 18 at 30-12 as Leo Brown was whistled for his third and fourth fouls in a span of 20 seconds. Cederick Wilbon took advantage of both calls, converting a three-point play on the first and a one-and-one on the second.

The Herd made a legitimate run from that point as Andrew Tijerina popped for seven of the next 13 points, capping the 9-4 streak with a three-point play that made the score 34-23. That was a close as things would get the rest of the night, however, as Pampa closed out the half with a 9-0 run and a 43-23 lead.

Tijerina was on the scoring end of three assists from Sanderson on consecutive trips down the floor to open the third period. Pampa got more than that back with an 8-0 run to fashion a 51-29 lead and went up by as much as 29 points before a Sanderson three-pointer late in the quarter made the score 61-35 entering the fourth.

Pampa took its largest lead at 70-37 when Wilbon capped a 9-0 run with a trey. The Herd came back with a 7-0 streak of its own to close to 70-44 at 3:14, the closest it had been since the beginning of the quarter.

Sanderson finished with 18 to lead the Whitefaces while Tijerina added 15. Brown totaled eight before fouling out with Chris Steward getting six and Derek Mason two.

Nickleberry and Wilbon both finished with 20 points for Pampa.

Pampa 47, Lady Whitefaces 31
Pampa scored the last 12 points of the first half to take firm control of the game and cruised to its third district win.

The Lady Harvesters (13-8, 3-0) took a 12-6 lead in the first quarter with the help of a pair of three-pointers from Kristen Becker.

Hereford (12-12, 1-2) pulled to within three early in the second period with a Jennifer Bullard three-pointer before the Lady Harvesters put together a 5-1 spurt capped by a three-point play by Amber Seaton to make the score 17-10 with 5:28 remaining. The foul on the play was on the Hereford's fourth of the half, but it was the third for Donna Grotegut and the senior post was forced to the bench for the rest of the half.

The Lady Whitefaces cut the margin back to four with a free throw by Shantel Cornelius and a jumper from Stephanie Wilcox, but Pampa cut loose over the final 3:19 of the period for a 29-13 halftime cushion.

Hereford came out in the third quarter intent on slowing the Lady Harvesters down and accomplished just that. Becker's third trey of the contest at the 6:22 mark provided all of Pampa's points in the quarter while a pair of baskets from Grotegut accounted for Hereford's scoring. Teresa Baker added a three-pointer with four seconds to go in the period as the Herd pulled within 12 at 32-20.

Cornelius converted a pair of free throws to open the final quarter and cut the margin to 10 at 32-22, but the Lady Whitefaces were never able to get any closer. Pampa went up by 15 but Bullard's second trey returned the margin to 10 with 2:06 left in the game.

Hereford was led by Kevin Kelso with 16 points while Mark Kriegshauser added 12. Kyle Hansen and Jason Paetzold finished with six each with Chad Sandoval getting four, Matt Reiter three and Tempie Abney one.

Laury paced the Harvesters with 18 points with Darren Nickleberry adding 10.

Pampa 48, Lady Whiteface JV 29

Pampa took an 11-5 lead in the first quarter and blew the game open in the second as Jenny Ryan scored 11 points in the period to stake the Lady Harvesters to a 26-12 edge at the half. Hereford put together a 7-0 run in the third to close to 31-20, but Pampa scored the last seven points of the period to put the lead at 38-20 entering the final eight minutes.

Pampa closed the contest with a 10-9 edge in the fourth.

Hereford was led by Kathy Hernandez with six points with Crystal

But Amber Seaton converted a three-point opportunity to push the lead back to 13 and start an 8-2 run for Pampa to close the game.

Grotegut finished with eight points to lead the Herd with Bullard and Wilcox both getting six. Cornelius added five while Baker and Brek Binder had three each.

Four player produced all of Pampa's points, but three of them were in double figures. Becker, who finished with four three-pointers, led with 14 while Nikki Ryan had 13 and Seaton 12. Bridgett Mathis rounded out the scoring with eight points.

Pampa 52, Herd JV 48

Neither team ever held a lead of more than five points, but the Harvesters were able to hold off the Herd down the stretch to win.

Pampa took a 9-8 lead at the end of the first quarter and got seven points from Sammy Laury in the second to post a 12-11 edge in the period for a 21-19 halftime advantage.

The Herd was able to match the Harvesters with 17 points in the third period, but Pampa managed a 14-12 edge in the final quarter to win. McNutt and Misty Dudley adding five each. Kara Sandoval and Roxanne Torres scored four each with Lori Sanders getting three and Kyanne Lindley two.

Ryan finished with 21 for Pampa with Angela Bowers adding 13.

Pampa 64, Herd Sophs 61 OT

Pampa put together a 10-2 run in the last two and-a-half minutes of regulation, tying the game on a Servern Wallace free throw to force the overtime, then outscored the Herd 7-4 in the extra period.

Hereford had led by as much as 12 points mid-way through the third quarter and went up by eight at 55-47 when Brad Lemons converted a one-and-one with 3:03 left in regulation.

The Herd edged out to a 14-12 lead at the end of the first quarter behind six points from Greg Coplen. The lead changed hands four times in the period and neither team held a lead larger than four points.

Even when they win, Mavs just can't seem to win

An AP Sports Analysis
By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer
DALLAS (AP) - An ebullient Linda Carter dropped by the pressroom and exhorted its occupants to "write us some big headlines."

The wife of the owner of the Dallas Mavericks figured the 109-99 upset victory over the Portland Trail Blazers, who lost only their sixth game of the season, was going to be big news in the local newspapers.

It would have been if NFL Coach of the Year Jimmy Johnson hadn't fired two members of his Dallas Cowboys staff and sacked David Shula as his offensive coordinator. The Mavs were second again.

The Mavs, the team good fortune forgot, can't win.

Name it and it's happened to the boys in the green and blue over the past decade of NBA strife.

It's a long litany of struggling through the expansion years, from a disgruntled player like Mark Aguirre to draft misfires of overlooking Karl Malone to Roy Tarpley's troubles both on and off the court to original coach Dick Motta's mysterious departure to John MacLeod's firing 11 games into a season.

It's almost as if the basketball gods got together to figure out what they were going to do to coach Richie Adubato this season.

The first thing they did was knock Tarpley out - likely for the year - with a knee injury in November.

There went the Mavs' inside game.

About the same time, guard Fat Lever had to have knee injury surgery and hasn't been back since.

There went a valuable part of the outside game from an All-Star who was the best rebounding guard in the league.

In December, Herb Williams was placed on the injured list with bursitis in his right knee.

There went the Mavs' bench help.

Center James Donaldson has been bothered by a sore ankle and Derek Harper has missed time with a groin pull.

But just about the time you count the Mavs out of the playoffs they upset a Portland to keep their hopes hanging on.

If Johnson got NFL Coach of the Year for winning seven games, then Adubato should get NBA Coach of the Century if he can somehow nurse this team into the playoffs.

And if he does maybe he shouldn't.

There's the feeling by some that the Mavs should trash this season and hope they can get a player in the lottery.

But if you saw the Mavs handle Portland the other night you know no team playing under Adubato will ever quit.

Adubato was working the officials as if it were the seventh game of the NBA Finals.

Harper and Brad Davis were diving for loose balls like they were trying to make the junior varsity at Richardson Pearce High School.

Adubato was as proud of the victory as he was of his recently born child.

"When we play together, we have a great opportunity to win," Adubato said. "It was an excellent team effort. Everybody did their job."

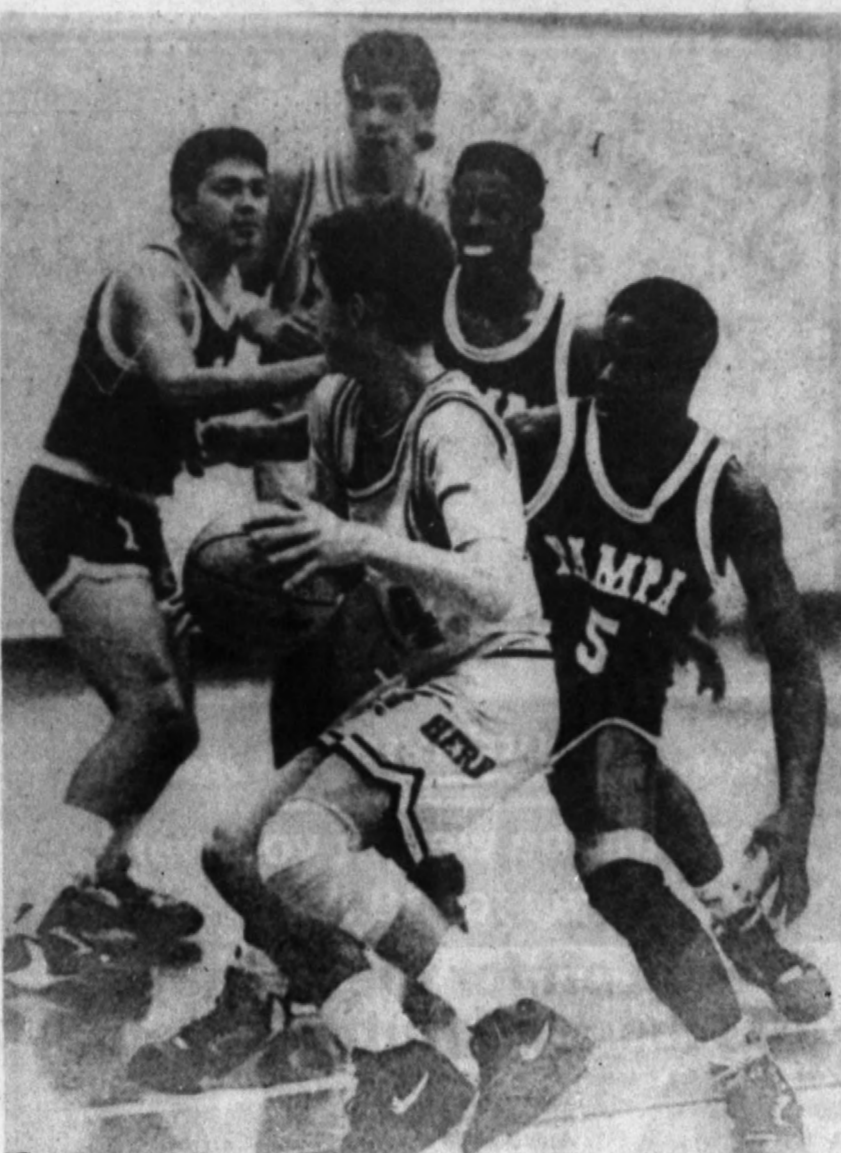

Team. Do your job. The Adubato creed: You can win with five midgets if they pass, shoot well and hustle.

No, the Mavericks won't pull a tank job this year. They'll scrap until April trying to win that eighth playoff spot.

They won't have a high enough draft pick for an impact player. Their trade possibilities are limited.

Adubato will just have to hope all his wounded warriors will be hale and hearty next year.

Then maybe Linda Carter will get her big headlines.

Comin' through

Richard Sanderson of the Hereford Whitefaces drives past Pampa's Paul Brown (5) during Friday's 78-49 loss to the Harvesters at Whiteface Gymnasium.

HERD HOOPS

With Hereford holding a 19-13 lead early in the second quarter, Pampa scored eight consecutive points in just over a minute to move ahead 21-19. The Herd came back to end the half with an 8-2 run for a 31-26 lead.

Ruben Gutierrez converted a three-point play and added another basket early in the third to spark a 9-0 run that gave the herd its biggest lead of the game, but Pampa came back with seven straight points to close within four. Corey Scott and Coplen connected from three-point range late in the period to give Hereford a 48-42 lead at the end of the quarter.

The Herd made it a nine-point game in the fourth on a Kirk Self three-point play and a bucket from Coplen, but Pampa outscored Hereford 13-4 the rest of the way.

Coplen finished with 19 points to lead the herd with Gutierrez adding 13 and Michael Melendrez 10. Jason Tatarevich scored eight and Scott finished with seven while Self had three.

Pampa, which had five players finish in double figures, was led by David Potter with 16, 12 of which came in the fourth quarter.

Texas-Arkansas grid rivalry to end after 1991 season

DALLAS (AP) - The University of Arkansas will end its 96-year football rivalry with the University of Texas when the Razorbacks jump to the Southeastern Conference in 1992, officials said.

DeLoss Dodds, Texas athletic director, said Arkansas Athletic Director Frank Broyles has told him Arkansas will no longer play Southwest Conference teams because the SEC has established its divisions and scheduling.

"We talked about it for about a month," Dodds said. "Sometime around the last (SWC) athletic directors' meeting (last month) we made a decision to look at other options."

The SEC will divide into two six-team divisions when Arkansas and South Carolina join in 1992, and the conference presidents have insisted on an eight-team league schedule.

Between the Covers

BY REBECCA WALLS

In 1932, Paul Bern, one of Metro-Goldwyn Mayer's top producers, was found shot to death in his Beverly Hills home. He had been married to Jean Harlow, Hollywood's newest most beautiful and glamorous superstar, for only two months. Jean apparently had spent the night at her mother's house. When Paul was discovered, every indication pointed to suicide, including a bizarre note apparently addressed to Jean. The note indicated that Paul had taken his own life because he was impotent, and an inquest supported that conclusion. After years of investigation, discovery of lost grand jury files, interviewing people who knew both Paul and Jean, and the inner workings of MGM, the true story has surfaced. Deadly Illusions by Samuel Marx and Joyce Vanderveen tells the story that involves a powerful studio determined not to let scandal destroy its most important new property. There is compelling evidence that Paul Bern was murdered and the reasons are to be discovered within these pages.

Dark Star: The Roy Orbison Story by Ellis Amburn is the story of a star whose work profoundly affected others, from Elvis to Bruce Springsteen. This book follows rock's most unlikely and enigmatic star through his awkward childhood in the 40s, tragedies in the 60s, rebirth in the 80s which was cut short by a fatal heart attack in 1988 at the age of 52. Roy's addiction to hard work, heavy touring schedules, fast motorcycles, smoking and speed all contribute to great personal tragedies. Roy's first wife, Claudette, was killed in a motorcycle accident in 1966. His sons, Roy DeWayne and Tony were killed in a house fire on Sept. 14, 1968. In tracing Roy's life, Dark Star recounts the pioneer days of rock 'n' roll with Elvis Presley, Jerry Lee Lewis, the wild events on tour with the Beatles, the Rolling Stones and the Beach Boys. It also tells of Roy's comeback in the 1980s through the admirers such as Linda Ronstadt, David Lynch, and Bruce Springsteen. This is the story of one of rock's most renowned, yet unfulfilled figures, an uneasy man who hid behind dark glasses, black clothes and dyed-black hair.

John Le Carre's The Secret Pilgrim is said to be his most "magnificent novel." A man called Ned tells of his life within British intelligence known as "the circus." Now approaching the end of his career Ned revisits his own past, an intricate weave of suspicion, danger, boredom and exhilaration that is the essence of espionage and of his own sentimental education. During these three decades in "the circus", the reader is introduced to a host of new characters and reacquainted with the legendary knights of the circus including the notorious traitor, Bill Haydon. Ned illuminates the brave past and the even braver present of George Smiley, the reluctant keeper of the flame. Smiley, Ned's mentor and hero, now gives back to him the "dangerous edge" of memory which empowers Ned to frame the questions that have haunted him for 30 years.

Information facts on arthritis

America's more than 37 million arthritis sufferers continue to benefit as new therapies are discovered to help control the pain of severe joint inflammation. With one in every three families afflicted, more than one million people are expected to develop arthritis this year.

A recent study indicated that patients using a topical capsaicin cream-Zostrix-four times daily experienced significant pain relief.

According to Esther Lipstein-Kresch, Assistant Professor at Albert Einstein Medical School, after only two weeks of treatment, over 80 percent of those using Zostrix were clinically improved. After four weeks, patients using the cream reported a marked reduction in pain.

Applied directly at the point of pain, Zostrix relieves pain without any serious side effects.

Understanding the Pain of Arthritis

Although there are numerous contributing factors, a chemical in the body called substance P, which is involved in signalling pain to the brain, has recently been recognized as contributing to pain associated with arthritis. In addition, this chemical has been shown to activate mediators of inflammation leading to tissue destruction and further pain.

Symptoms

Osteoarthritis, the most common form of arthritis, affects the weight-bearing joints such as hips, knees and ankles. The incidence of osteoarthritis increases with age.

Deep, localized pain, stiffness, joint enlargement and limited motions are all symptoms associated with this disease.

Rheumatoid arthritis, affecting about one percent of the total U.S. population, is a systemic disease which chronically inflames the movable joints. Rheumatoid arthritis generally develops in people between the ages of 30 and 40 and most commonly involves the joints in the hands and feet.

The symptoms of rheumatoid arthritis include weakness, fatigue, musculoskeletal pain, fever and loss of appetite. Should you experience any of those symptoms, see your doctor.

Car care tips given

Cooling system failure is a leading cause of car trouble, especially during cold weather. Rusty Wallace, the nation's top stock car racer, believes most such breakdowns are preventable. The following are three simple precautions suggested by the NASCAR Winston Cup champion.

* Inspect the hoses and belts under the hood and replace them if they seem dry or brittle. It's wise to change these components every three years anyway, Wallace believes.

* Every time you fill up with gasoline, check the plastic reservoir next to the radiator to make sure the antifreeze coolant hasn't run low. If the coolant seems dirty or if more than a year has passed since you last changed it, drain, flush and refill the cooling system.

* Finally, have the battery checked if it's more than two year old.

* Auto racing makes you particularly aware of the more vulnerable parts of a car," Wallace said. "You learn that the best way to avoid trouble is to anticipate it."

RHONDA ANN DAHL, TERRY WATSON

Wedding date set

Rhonda Ann Dahl of Omaha, Neb. and Airman First Class Terry Lee Watson, stationed in Guam with the U.S. Air Force, plan to wed March 16 in St. Columbkille Catholic Church in Papillion, Neb.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas S. Dahl of Omaha, Neb. and the prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Watson of Hereford.

Miss Dahl attended the University of Nebraska at Omaha and has been employed by Hy-Vee Food & Drug Store for five years.

Watson, a 1986 graduate of Hereford High School, attended South Plains College and Texas Tech University before entering the air force.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a professor of psychiatry and director of the Sexual Dysfunction Program at Loyola University in Chicago.

Last September, a 29-year-old woman came in to see me. Her husband had left her. She has two children under five years of age. She took a clipping of your column out of her purse and said, "This is what I have."

The column was about a 22-year-old woman, smart and pretty, with a college degree, loving parents and many friends. She wrote, "I started to have sex with an occasional guy when I was 15. When I went away to college I became widely promiscuous. I told myself it was because I was away from home for the first time, in a new city, free of parental supervision. It's been five years now and I'm worse than ever. I've slept with so many men I wouldn't recognize half of them if I bumped into them on the street. In the morning, sometimes I can't remember the name of the guy in my bed. I don't know why I do this. Some of them are bums and the sexual part isn't even fun."

You advised her to contact Sex Addicts Anonymous. The reason I am writing is to point out that the term "sexual addiction" has become a popular catch phrase these past few years. People tend to believe that wildly promiscuous behavior is an addiction in the way that alcoholism is an addiction. This is entirely false. Alcoholism involves the abuse of a chemical which categorizes the problem as physiological. There is no such component in out-of-control sexual behavior.

The woman who came to see me had a manic-depressive illness. People who have this problem are often hyperactive, have insomnia, sometimes spend money recklessly and indulge in fast driving. I put her on carefully monitored doses of drugs and she is now stable, back at work and living a normal life.--Domecena C. Renshaw, M.D.

DEAR DR. RENSRAW: Thank you for an interesting and informative letter. Your explanation makes a great deal of sense and I am pleased to print it. Again my dear readers have received about $500 worth of a professional's time for the price of this paper.

GEM OF THE DAY: A sign posted on the front door of a home in Detroit: "This house protected by poverty. There is nothing inside worth stealing."

Although the name hippopotamus means "river horse," this animal is really related to the pig.

Thank You

I would like to thank all of my friends for their prayers, visits, cards, food, and flowers following my recent foot surgery. I also offer my special thanks to Dr. Robert Clark for his professional attention & care.

Deaf Smith Genealogical Society assists with research

"Family History Is Fun" is the theme of the new president of Deaf Smith County Genealogical Society, Mildred Sheffy.

In conjunction with this theme, Society members will be sponsoring monthly works to assist the public with their family research. The first workshop is scheduled from 7:30-9 p.m. Monday, Jan 21, in the Deaf Smith County Library Heritage Room. Sylvia Murray of Amarillo, an accredited genealogist, will be speaking on "How To Research in the Carolinas." The public is invited to attend the workshop. A $2 donation is suggested to help defray the cost of handouts and Murray's expenses.

The Genealogical Society promotes the growth and usage of the genealogy section of the library. Memorial books make a nice addition to the library collection. The Society president's long-term project is the acquisition of a computer with appropriate hard and soft ware and printer for use in the genealogy section. Also, the local library is in need of a larger genealogy room to accommodate researchers' work.

The study of family ancestry is not new. Since the television mini-series, based on Alex Haley's novel Roots was viewed by millions in 1977, the popularity of genealogy has skyrocketed. There also has been an increased interest in tracing family lines due to medical issues.

Genealogy is the study of family relationships and the pattern they follow back through the years. Careful genealogical research may enable a person to trace his descent from some of earlier ancestors and to draw an accurate family tree (pedigree). A true pedigree is history. Every genealogist becomes an historian. Joe D. Rogers, a Society member and history teacher with the Hereford Independent School District, includes in his history lessons a section on genealogy. Students interested in family history become more interested in history.

Family lore might be all the inspiration a person needs to begin researching his or her ancestry. Once one begins, data snowballs. What makes genealogy fascinating for many people is learning how their ancestors lived and what influenced their lives. Finding the sources and documenting findings is the foundation of research.

Since generation follows generation so inexorably and rapidly, one generation quickly loses knowledge of prior generations. Ancestors multiply in a geometrical order from parents upward. At the first degree each person has two ancestors; the second, four; the 10th, 1024; and at the 20th, over 500,000. This does not include siblings. Making it true that you will never see a finished genealogy. The fun in the research is finding each ancestor's story.

Now, more than ever, with inflation and higher prices making it more expensive to go to other areas to research, the more necessary it is to have ready access to printed publications. The local library has a genealogy room containing many published volumes, including "how-to" books, state, county and family histories, lists of Revolutionary War soldiers, Civil War and War of 1812 soldiers, pensioners, newspaper abstracts and abstracts of marriage, death, real property and census records, a collection of microfilm of Texas death indices, early marriages and microfiche. The Mormon Church also has donated their family register microfiche. There are two microfilm readers available, an inter-library loan service, and microfilm rental connections. It is now easier to do your research and never have to leave Hereford.

Sheffy emphasizes that the tracing of family roots can be a painstaking, sometimes disappointing but always rewarding venture. The best advice Sheffy offers to a researcher is to be patient, be willing to face disappointment and deadends, have plenty of "stick-to-itiveness", and be willing to work at it. She said, "The more you work, the more you learn, the greater your interest, the more fun escalates."

For further information, contact Mrs. Sheffy or Deaf Smith County Genealogical Society members.

Making presentation

Deaf Smith County Genealogical Society President Mildred Sheffy, at left, presents Deaf Smith County Librarian Rebecca Walls four books for the library's genealogy collection. In the background is the microfilm reader the Society played a part in acquiring. Besides assisting the library, the Genealogy Society will also be sponsoring monthly workshops to assist the public. The first workshop is planned from 7:30-9 p.m. Jan. 21 in the library's Heritage Room. Sylvia Murray, an accredited genealogist of Amarillo, will be speaking on "How To Research in the Carolinas." The public is invited to bring their Carolina research problems to the workshop. A donation of $2 per person will be accepted.

Big Band Jamboree to appear Jan. 20

The Hereford Community Concert Association will present The Big Band Jamboree in concert at 3 p.m. Sunday, Jan. 20, at the Hereford High School auditorium.

The concert will feature The Jimmy Dorsey Orchestra, Terry Gibbs, Fran Jeffries and String of Pearls.

During the concert, Hereford's Concerteers will be formally presented by their fathers.

The Jimmy Dorsey Orchestra was first heard nationwide on the Kraft Music Hall radio series in the early 1930s. With Dorsey's alto saxophone renditions and the vocal blend of Helen O'Connell and Bob Eberly, the band was soon at the top of the charts with hits such as "Yours", "Tangerine", "Amapola", "I Understand", "I Get Along Without You Very Well" and "Green Eyes", which sold 90,000 copies in the first three days. Bob Eberly Jr. continues his father's musical legacy. Conducted by Henry Cuesta, the world-famous clarinetist and saxophone virtuoso, the orchestra joins Eberly to recreate some of their greatest music.

Fran Jeffries began her professional singing career at 16 and since appeared in the country's top supper clubs, co-starring with such names as Bill Cosby, Shecky Greene and Lou Rawls. She has toured Europe with Sammy Davis, Jr. and joined Bob Hope for his last Christmas tour of Vietnam and Thailand. Jeffries has appeared in several feature films.

Terry Gibbs first toured as a vibraharpist at age 11. He went on to play with the bands of Buddy Rich, Benny Goodman and Woody Herman, and later formed his own band which was named "Best Band in the World" in the 1959 Downbeat Critic's Poll. He has served as musical director for numerous television shows, has recorded over 35 albums, written 300 compositions and is the only person ever to be nominated in four categories of the Playboy Jazz Poll every year since its inception.

String of Pearls combines the jazz stylings of Perry Hart, Katherine High and Warren Adams. The ensemble's three-part harmonies and vocal counterpoint bring a fresh sound to the music of the big band era. The group appears regularly with Joan Rivers, Jackie Mason and Marilyn McCoo at the country's top hotels and cabarets.

Through the association with Columbia Artists Management, the world's largest and most prestigious artists' representation, top professional musical attractions are available to members of the Hereford Community Concert Association.

CCA membership drives are conducted each spring. Dues are $15 for adults; $7.50 for students through grade 12; and $40 for families. Individual performance tickets are not sold, one must purchase a membership during the designated time. Attendance at the concerts is by membership card only and if a member cannot attend a concert, he may lend his card to another person.

RIVIERA BEACH, Fla. (AP) - Marion Barry says he used drugs and alcohol to mask his low self-esteem and ease the pain that lingered from his impoverished childhood.

"I was born black and poor - the son of a sharecropper," the former Washington mayor told a church congregation. "I tried to drown my pain, hurt and resentment in alcohol and then cocaine, but I found my way out in God."

Barry returned Sunday to the New Macedonia Baptist Church, where he attended a service while undergoing drug treatment in West Palm Beach last year.

He said his trip was to visit friends at the treatment center, thank the church and warn against drug use.

Barry was convicted in August of cocaine use. He was sentenced to six months in prison and fined $5,000.

SAVE ON FUEL
NEW YORK (AP) - Increasing use of lightweight materials in automobile manufacture will mean lighter cars and resultant fuel economy, reports a metals industry journal.

Expanded use of aluminum will allow that metal to show the biggest gains over the decade of the 1990s in terms of unit content, notes American Metal Market, the daily newspaper that tracks the world metals market.

The publication notes that the content of aluminum in U.S.-built cars will exceed 200 pounds by 1995, compared with the current 160-170 pounds per car - a gain of at least 24 percent.

All of the nation's Big Three automakers, it adds, are working on the development of plastic intake manifolds - components that currently are all aluminum.

Ruth Newsom welcomes new ideas as Women's Division president

BY KAY CRISMON
Staff Writer

"I'm excited and feel comfortable in my new position as Women's Division president," said Ruth Newsom, who was recently installed at the Women's Division Annual Installation Banquet.

"I have served on the board and I know most of the members pretty well. I have been a member of the Women's Division of Deaf Smith Chamber of Commerce for a number of years and I am acquainted with what my responsibilities will be and with the functions of each committee," said Newsom.

As head of the organization, Newsom will assume the responsibility of coordinating the 18 standing committees and will meet with the Chamber of Commerce board of directors once a month in addition to presiding at the Women's Division board meetings and quarterly memberships meetings.

Newsom succeeds Marilyn Culpepper as president of the organization. She feels that her past experience with the Women's Division will help tremendously as president.

"One thing that is of interest to me in the Women's Division is the standing committees. I would like for each committee chairman to speak with the members and stress to them that they need not feel they have to do exactly what was done the year before. I also hope to receive a brief report from each chairman. I will be looking for new ways to add ideas that will help the Women's Division become a better working organization for the community.

"I like records and record keeping. I like parliamentary procedure and keeping things in order. My goal is to have records to pass on next year. Unless reports are written down, we have a tendency to forget. This way we can look back and see what we've done, right or wrong. I hope that everyone gets involved and helps make this year a success for the community and the Women's Division."

Newsom's father, who was a farmer, moved his family from Elsa to Hereford in 1943. After graduating from Hereford High School, Newsom attended Draughon's Business College and then worked at the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce and the First Baptist Church.

Following her marriage to Carroll on May 28, 1950, she became a housewife. Being the wife of a military man required frequent

Erma Bain serves as hostess

The poem, "Things Just Don't Happen", was read by Erma Bain when members of the Kingdom Seekers Sunday School Class of Avenue Baptist Church met recently in her home.

Bain, vice president, called the meeting to order and Maxine Coleman voiced the opening prayer.

Roll call was answered with "Would I be someone else if I had my life to live over?"

Appreciation was extended concerning the food basket project that class members participated in during the Christmas holidays. Also, plans were discussed for the group's Feb. 12 meeting which will be held at K-bob's Steak House with husbands invited as guests.

Juanita Houle gave a devotional entitled "Turn A New Page" taken from Philippians 3:13-14.

Dorothy Sargent voiced the closing prayer and refreshments were served to Velma Carroll, Coleman, Trudie Gray, Houle, Pauline Landers, Sargent, Ruby Skelton, Luella Thomas, Rosie Wall and Ruby White.

moving. Their first child, Janice, was born in Hawaii while it was still a territory. After moving to Hereford, the Newsoms' second and third children, Robert and Nancy, were born. Janice Carr now lives in Hereford and Nancy Woodman resides in Amarillo. Their son Robert makes his home in Tucson, Ariz. The couple also has two granddaughters and six grandsons.

Newsom is actively involved in the Deaf Smith Genealogical Society and says she thoroughly enjoys researching she and her husband's family histories. "I get interesting phone calls from all over from people trying to find out family information. It is very interesting. I have touched base with many people and have adopted this as a hobby because of the enjoyment."

Other hobbies have been making quilts for her grandchildren, making arts and crafts items, sewing, doing needlepoint, swimming, snorkeling, walking and traveling with her husband.

Newsom also holds membership in the Bay View Study Club. She is on the board of directors of the Circle of Friends and has served on the board of directors with the Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center. She is a charter member of the Hereford Cowbelles, renamed the Hereford CattleWomen.

She has served as regent of the Los Ciboleros Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Her main interests with this organization focuses on Constitution Week and American History Month and assisting with the DAR essay contests.

Newsom has served as chairman of the Bicentennial Committee of the Constitution of Hereford for several years.

Newsom is actively involved in politics and has gone to numerous state conventions as well as helping with many candidate campaigns. She has worked with general, primary and city elections. Her most recent contribution was assisting with a fund raising party for Clayton Williams.

She takes her family and civic responsibilities very seriously but also demonstrates a lighter side to her personality. She plays bridge several times a week and one of the groups is known as Sarah Lee Pants. Newsom laughed as she explained, "Some time ago, when our ladies' group first started, we always brought Sarah Lee cakes and goodies and wore pants when we played bridge, hence, the name Sarah Lee Pants. We still enjoy getting together to play but our cooking, the way we dress, and the card game has improved greatly."

Newsom has served as chairperson for the finance/budget committee of the Women's Division and has worked on the Blood Bank and Newcomers committees.

"Most of the committee chairpersons of the Women's Division are older members who have done their jobs well, are dedicated, and have a lot of enthusiasm for the upcoming year.

My goal is not in numbers but that every member would find a spot and would ask to be of service in some way," she concluded.

Best Rx for RA is early treatment

Rheumatoid arthritis (RA) is a puzzling disorder that affects an estimated 2.1 million Americans, primarily women in their 30s and 40s. Neither the cause nor the cure for this often crippling disease of the joints has been discovered.

The warning signs of RA include early morning stiffness, soreness and aching, especially in the small joints of the hands and feet; extreme fatigue; and symmetrical inflammation of the joints on both sides of the body.

If you experience these symptoms, it's important to see your doctor without delay. RA can damage or destroy joints, seriously impacting a person's functional ability, productivity and quality of life. Because RA can be so devastating, many doctors advocate treating it as early and aggressively as possible.

NEED A PLAN WITH FLEXIBILITY?

FEATURE HOMES

BY W. D. FARMER, A.I.B.D.

This beautiful 2-story colonial plan offers the homeowner lots of standard features as well as the flexibility to tailor the floor plan to personal needs. The foyer leads into the living room, formal dining room and family room with fireplace. The hub of this home is a very spacious kitchen with oversized pantry, central work island, and a 2-story breakfast area with bay window. The bay window provides a view of the sun deck. The double garage and a stairway to the bonus room are easily accessible from the kitchen and breakfast area.

To complete the first floor plan, the homeowner may choose between either a formal living room, bedroom, and separate full bath, or a study, bedroom with private bath, and a separate half bath. Both options also include a wet bar.

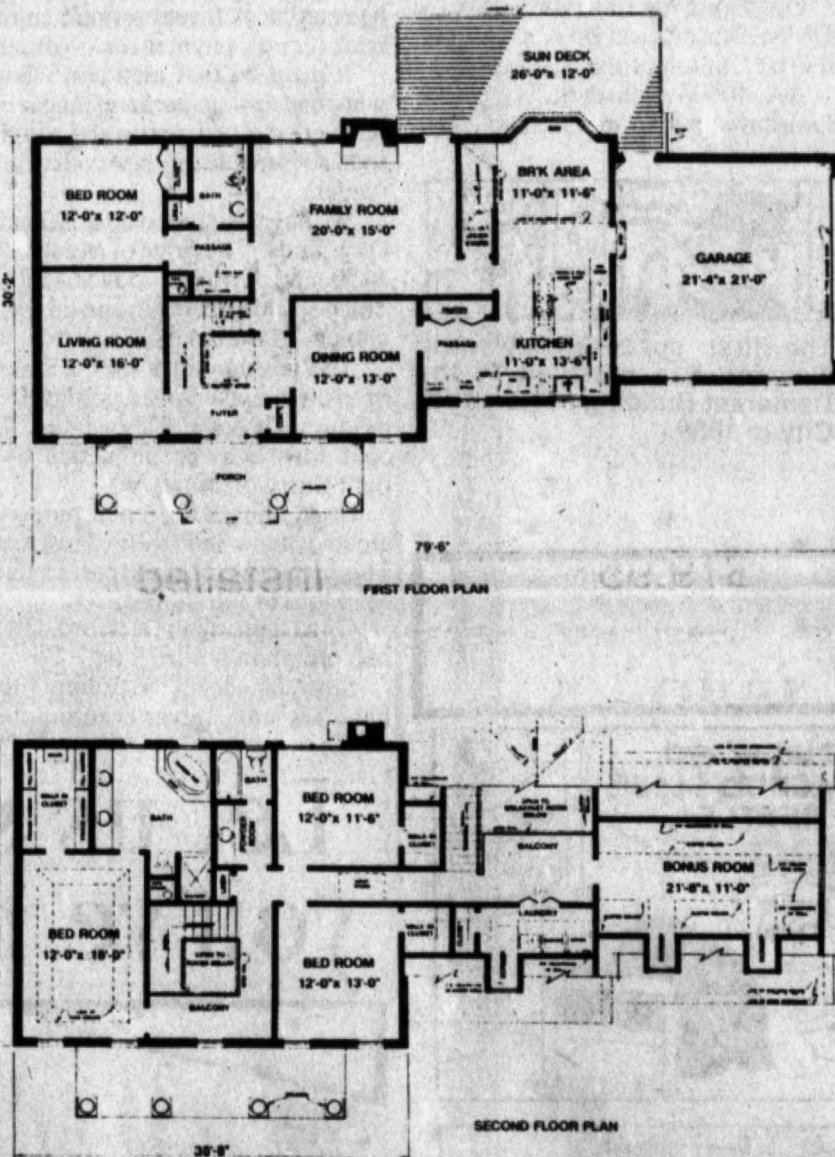

The second floor features a master suite with tray ceilings, huge walk-in closet, and spacious bath. The master bath includes a large double vanity, separate shower and corner garden tub. Two additional bedrooms, a full bath with separate powder room, and a laundry room with storage closet complete the private living area of the home. The second floor also features two balconies and a large bonus room with dormers.

This home is built on a basement foundation.

Colonial style with gable roofs, multiple roof breaks, twelve-lite windows with shutters, 3 dormers, 2-story columns, and a large front porch create an elegant appearance for this majestic frame exterior home.

This is a computer generated plan. The plan is number 3134. It includes 3,389 square feet of heated area. All W. D. Farmer plans include special construction details for energy efficiency and are drawn to VA and FHA requirements. For further information, write to W. D. Farmer, P.O. Box 450025, Atlanta, GA 30345.

Tips can help home problems

Q. - My 4-year-old son decided to use the living room wall as a canvas for his new crayon set. I've had problems in the past trying to repaint over stains when I was unable to completely remove them. What's the best procedure for dealing with this problem?

A. - Your first impulse may be to try to paint over the stain, but many stains cannot be covered with paint alone. Rust, grease or oil, crayon wax and magic marker ink may be activated by the solvent (water or oil) in the paint, and bleed back through the new paint. This is true regardless of how many coats of paint you apply. You must either seal over the stain or remove the offending material from the wall before painting.

The best approach is to try and remove the stain material. Check with your paint dealer for products containing solvents that will remove splattered latex paints, grease, crayons and other stains. Pour some cleaner on a clean cloth, wet the stain and let the cleaner work for a couple of minutes. If you just try to scrub the stain away, you may also remove some wall paint.

If the stain comes off the paint, spot prime the stain area and then repaint the wall.

If the stain proves difficult to remove, you can seal in almost any stain with a shellac sealer. The shellac is fast-drying so it does not activate the stain material, but covers it over.

To avoid the shiny spots due to higher sheen over the shellac sealer, seal the entire wall with shellac, not just the stain.

Q. - We've just bought a 50-year-old house. Not surprisingly, the floors are sagging. How big a job would it be to straighten them out, or should I just forget it? Structurally, everything seems to be in good shape.

A. - In older houses, built before lumber was graded for strength, sagging floors were a common problem. Fixing them is hard work, but is a possible project for the ambitious remodeler.

First determine how much sag or deflection you have. This can be measured while a helper holds a straight-edge that spans the floor from wall to wall. Or, measure the distance from the basement floor to the bottom edge of the floor joist, both where the ends of the joist rest on a center wall or support beam, and at the center, where the sag is greatest.

To straighten the floor, you'll need a helper or two, a scissor or hydraulic jack, extra joists the same size and length as existing joists, a 4-by-4 long enough to reach from the top of the jack to the bottom edge of the joists, a supply of 16d nails, a hammer and a rule.

Set the jack under the center joist, at the center of the room. Measure and cut the 4-by-4 post so it reaches from atop the jack to the bottom edge of the joist. Now, working carefully, and being sure the 4-by-4 post is exactly plumb, use the jack to raise the post and jack the sagged joist until it is level. Depending on the amount of sag you have, you may want to do this in stages and use temporary props to prop each floor joist until they are all raised, then complete the job in a second stage.

When the joist is level, set a new joist alongside the old joist. The ends of the new joists must be setting atop the foundation on one side and the support beam or wall on the other side. While the jack holds the old joist straight, drive the 16d nails through the new joist and into the old one. Nail the two doubled joists together at 16-inch intervals. Remove the jack and check to be sure the joists are now straight.

Support troops overseas

County Judge Tom Simons signed a proclamation recently declaring the week of Jan. 13-19 Support Our Troops Overseas Week in Hereford. Residents are asked to wear yellow ribbons and exhibit yellow bows at their residences and place of businesses to show their support for the troops and their families. Supporting the cause are Ginny, Christopher, and Joey Tijerina and Linda, Cathy, and Jennifer Maeder.

Queen candidates sought

The Hereford Fiestas Patrias Committee is now looking for queen candidates for the upcoming 1991 celebration. Young Hispanic women from area communities, ages 15 to 22, are encouraged to participate as contestants for this historic celebration.

The queen contest is sponsored annually as a means of educating and inspiring the contestants, the Mexican-American people, and all of the Panhandle's varied cultures as to the real meaning of the Fiestas Patrias tradition, as well as the value and proud heritage of the Mexican-American culture that exists in the United States of America.

This contest educates the young women who participate in it by engaging them in a fundraising project to raise scholarship money, thereby building up their confidence in their own skills and talents. The education reaches a deeper level as contestants are required to explore a certain aspect of the rich Mexican-American culture. At the conclusion of the contest, the contestants become the story-tellers of the Hispanic people.

Scholarships are awarded to the four highest-ranking finalists. The queen's scholarship has been increased this year to $1,000, with the next three places receiving $700, $400 and $200, respectively.

Young women interested in participating as candidates may receive more information by calling Virginia Artho at 364-5429.

Deadline to sign up for the contest is Tuesday, Jan. 29.

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) - Bill Fagerbakke, dimwitted Dauber Dybinski on the TV series "Coach," modeled his character on a former assistant coach he had in college.

Dauber's voice and some mannerisms were patterned after a graduate assistant nicknamed "Tuna" at the University of Idaho, Fagerbakke said in a recent telephone interview.

Fagerbakke said he gave up football after suffering a knee injury.

"At that point I realized I was not going to have a great football career," he said. "I loved it in high school, but in college you have to work your butt off to get ready for just 11 nights a year."

After quitting football, he landed a bit part in a campus production of the musical "Godspell" in 1977.

Marlo Thomas plays woman fighting to free husband

David Duke stars as a reporter who is abducted in Beirut, and Marlo Thomas plays his wife, whose perseverance sets him free. The fact-based drama, Held Hostage: The Sis and Jerry Levin Story, airs Sunday on ABC.

Drama revolves around real-life Beirut hostages

By Mary Ann Townsend

Marlo Thomas has been portraying women with spunk ever since she starred as a single woman making it on her own in the big city on That Girl.

In a drama airing Sunday, Jan. 13, on ABC, Thomas plays a socialite-turned-political activist.

Thomas stars in one of the title roles in Held Hostage: The Sis and Jerry Levin Story, based on the real-life incident in 1984 when CNN correspondent Jerry Levin was taken hostage in Beirut, Lebanon. His wife, Lucille (Sis), fought a code of silence to see her husband freed after 11 months.

It was the metamorphosis of this character that initially attracted Thomas to this role.

"She always had her hair and nails done once a week, and she was a part of the Junior League, and she was a volunteer on the arts council. She had never been active in any social concerns," Thomas said of Sis' readiness for her husband's kidnapping. "She just wasn't prepared at all for this kind of life."

Throughout the next few months, Sis met with the American Embassy, the U.S. State Department and finally CNN, and the consensus was that she should not negotiate with the captors. But the disappearance of other journalists and the bombing of the U.S. Embassy in Beirut prompted Sis to speak out, despite warnings from the government.

"She said we had to start talking to these people, that quiet diplomacy was just another word for deadly silence," Thomas said.

While Thomas was impressed with the change in Sis, the actress said she is even more inspired that the Levins continue efforts today to get hostages freed.

"She found her voice, and she is now very active in the peace movement — she is getting her doctorate in peace studies; she teaches. I was impressed with that kind of change that she went through, and that she didn't just get her husband out and say, 'Well, that's that. I've got mine, to heck with everybody else.'"

During the filming, which was done in Israel, Thomas and the others working on Held Hostage had a real-life brush with terrorism. They were in the Middle East the day Saddam Hussein invaded Kuwait.

She described the mounting tension as ships and helicopters converged on the area and as local newspapers ran front-page stories on where to obtain gas masks.

"We got a first-hand feel of what it was really like to be in that part of the world. We, as Americans, have never lived near a war. It was very strange to be there and see how these people live every day," she said.

Held Hostage not only focuses on Sis' struggle to free her husband, but also on Jerry's struggle to survive as a hostage.

"You see him being held captive, what happened to him and what he's going through. I found that very interesting," Thomas said. "You see him trying to hold onto his mind. He's always trying to remember the baseball teams and who plays what position and all that, to keep his mind intact."

Generally, Held Hostage is uplifting and inspiring. But it hits painfully close to home.

SOAP TALK

By Candace Havens. Dear Candace: Generations is one of the best soaps! The story and the actors are terrific. Congratulations to the writers. I can't believe they are taking it off the air. They should be making it an hour show instead. We have watched this soap from day one, and we would be miserable without. Thank you. —Ruth and Nathan Cohn, Bronx, N.Y.

Dear Ruth and Nathan: I'm sorry to say the last air date for Generations will be Jan. 25. The demise of the show is not because of lack of fans, but because the program is shown at off times throughout the day.

Dear Candace: I am 78 years old and retired since 1979. I have watched Santa Barbara for a long time, but they just ruined it for me by putting Keith Timmons on, and he is acting like a jerk.

How many people in his position act like he does? If it were a real town, how long would this keep him in office? Is there anybody we could write to tell how we feel? I like your SoapTalk. —Sincerely, R.O. Dutman, Albany, Ga.

Dear R.O.: You may write Santa Barbara to: NBC, Audience Relations, 3000 West Alameda Ave., Burbank, CA 91523.

Dear Candace: The best present Santa Barbara could give to their fans would be the return of Lane Davies to the role of Mason Capwell. He is my favorite of all male actors. He and Julia make a wonderful couple. Please see if you can help! I do not like this guy that is Mason now. He is terrible.

One thing that bothers me in soap operas is where some of these characters get their money. For example, Tad of All My Children never seems to work, and he buys gifts and plans a big honeymoon. I guess he won't have to worry about it now. —Sincerely, Lavona Carlson, California

I want to hear from you! If you have a favorite soap scenario you would like to sound off about, or a question about the soaps, write to Candace Havens, Soap Talk, P.O. Box 17748, Fort Worth, TX 76102-0748. © TV Listings Inc.

LET'S TALK

Carole Lombard

By Polly Vonetes

Q: I have recently discovered Carole Lombard. Would it be possible to have a list of all of her movies? I would also like to know if any of them are available to rent or own. —Ilene Rich, Burley,

Idaho

A: When you say "recently discovered Carole Lombard," I feel I must tell you something about this charming actress. She was one of Hollywood's most talented and glamorous stars of the '30s as well as a sophisticated comedienne. Happily married to Clark Gable, she unfortunately was killed in a plane crash, returning from a War Bond selling tour. She was 34 years old. She had appeared in over 50 films, but I will give you only the names of her films available on tape: High Voltage; In Name Only; Made for Each Other; My Man Godfrey; Mr. and Mrs. North; Nothing Sacred; Power; Racketeer; Swing High, Swing Low; They Knew What They Wanted; To Be or Not to Be; and Twentieth Century.

Q: I would really like to know where I can write to Oprah Winfrey and Jaclyn Smith. It is especially important to me to have these addresses. —Lisa Thomas, Lisbon, Ohio

A: If it is so important for you to have these addresses, I guess I will have to send them to you. Write to: Oprah Winfrey, 35 E. Wacker, Ste. 1782, Chicago, IL 60601; and to Jaclyn Smith, c/o 20th Century Fox, 10201 W. Pico Blvd., Los Angeles, CA 90035. (This address may or may not work for Jackie.)

Q: Please tell me where Nick Barkley, who played on The Big Valley, is. I've seen the others who played in the series on other shows, but not him. I have written to people like you but never got an answer. —Mozelle J. Jackson, Gilmer, Texas

A: Mozelle, let's agree on one thing right away. I am different from the others you have written to because I am answering your letter. Peter Breck starred as Nick Barkley in The Big Valley. Somehow he never became the handsome "big star" everyone thought he would be. Still living in California, he has reverted to occasional guest roles on series and made-for-television movies.

Q: I am an electronics enthusiast who is interested in new ways to re-create live music. Recently I saw an article on Ron Jones, composer for Star Trek: The Next Generation, and read about some of his advances in music technology. How can I find out more on what he has done? —Greg Levy, West Hollywood, Calif.

A: The best I can do for you, Greg, is to send the address of his publicist. For information on Ron Jones, write to: Selfman & Others, Public Relations, 8489 W. Third St., Los Angeles, CA 90048.

Q: This is the first time I have written to you, and I wish you would help me. Can you tell me if Robert Mitchum is dead, and if not, where is he and what is he doing? Also, Kirk Douglas, is he dead? If not, where is he and what is he doing these days? —Bertha Cowan, Tow, Texas

A: It was nice hearing from you Bertha, and it's even nicer to be able to tell you that both your stars are alive and well. Robert Mitchum starred in a short-lived series for NBC last season, Family for Joe. He is still active in the acting profession, accepting only the roles that really appeal to him. Kirk

Douglas has published a very successful book about his father and his life with him. He has been making appearances in book stores and on all the talk shows publicizing it. He too has remained active but selective in the acting profession. Both men are married and proud grandfathers.

FOOD AWARENESS
 Biotechnology at Work

BST are the initials for bovine somatotropin. BST is not a new product, as it is a naturally occurring hormone in the cow. It is a protein that helps the cow to produce milk.

The reason you may be hearing about BST now is that scientists have developed a method of producing BST in the laboratory. This hormone can be injected into the cow to aid in increasing the production of milk. This is a big economic boost for the dairy farmers.

The bovine somatotropin is species specific. That means it is a naturally occurring hormone in cows only. The small amount of BST that is present in milk is not increased when the cow is given BST. Even if it did increase, the amount would not affect humans, or the taste and quality of the milk.
