Farmers Have A Choice

Contracts expired in Bailey County this year on an approximate 8,000 Soil Bank acres. Now, points out J. K. Adams, county agent, owners of these acres must decide what to do with them.

No two owners will have the same situation, says Adams, therefore, each must study the alternatives available. Some choices are to sell, rent, hire work done, leave the acreage in a conserving use, or participate in a government diversion program.

If the farm has a feed grain base, for example, the owner may want to consider participating in the 1964 Feed Grain Program. For owners with part of their farms coming out of the Soil Bank, any feed grain base included in the Soil Bank land will become a part of the farm's total base, explains the specialist. Information on the Feed Grain Program is available from county Agriculture and Extension offices, according to Adams.

Individual situations, existing cover, possible uses of the land, yield prospects, and such considerations as credit, equipment and livestock available will need careful study, says Adams.

H.S. Students Of The Month Named For Jan.

Four Muleshoe High School Students — one from each class — have been named as "students of the month" for January. The activity is sponsored by the local chapter of the National Honor Society.

This month's honor students are Sheryl Stevens, senior; Carol Jarnagin, junior; Carola Bass, sophomore and Terri Bryant, freshman.

The students are chosen on the basis of leadership, scholarship, helpfulness, etc.

Accident

County Agent J. K. Adams was injured Friday in a two pickup collision.

Adams suffered a gashed forehead and was treated in Green Memorial Hospital. He was released. The accident occurred at the corner of First St. and Avenue C.

Wedel-Welch Win Election Seats In Water Conservation District

James P. (Jimmy) Wedel and W. L. (Willie) Welch were elected committeemen of the Bailey County District of the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District during voting January 14.

Both topped their respective opponents by wide margins although the overall vote was light. Wedel drew a total of 13 votes against D. O. Burlsmith who counted five. Welch accounted for 15 votes against Lester Howard who drew eight.

Howard and Welch both drew eight votes from Muleshoe. The deciding votes, seven in all, were cast in Enochs.

In addition to local committeemen, two new district commissioners were elected. They were Chester Mitchell, Lockney and Weldon Newsom, Morton.

Also in the January 14 voting, residents of the Water District and residents of Swisher County voted on the issue of accepting a major part of Swisher County into the District. Residents of the District voted 632 for annexation of the Swisher Territory to 79 against the annexation. However, in Swisher County the unofficial tallies show the annexation to have failed by a vote of 191 for to 264 against.

The Directors were elected for two-year terms of office, while the Committeemen were elected for three-year terms.

The Board of Directors is a policymaking body which, with the counsel of the County Committee, set the administrative policies of the District. The County Committee recommend all water-well drilling permits and serve in an advisory capacity on District matters in their respective counties.

Local Pastors Will Attend Conference

One or more Muleshoe area Baptist pastors and laymen are expected to gather in the First Baptist Church of Lubbock Jan. 23-24 for a regional evangelism conference.

The meeting is one of five slated across the state this year to replace the Texas Baptist Evangelistic Conference which had been staged annually in Dallas or Fort Worth since its beginning.

Although last year's conference in Dallas drew about 20,000 people, evangelism leaders feel that "carrying the meeting to the people" will enable many to attend who could not travel so far. The conferences are geared to the theme "Revival Now."

The slate of evangelistic speakers at the Lubbock meeting represents several states. One of the main addresses at the opening session Thursday night will be brought by Dr. Landrum Leavell, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Wichita Falls. The conference opens at 6:45 p.m. with music by the Austin Baptist Association choir.

School Board Meets

Muleshoe Independent School District met this week and considered several different plans which might relieve expected overcrowding in the elementary and high school levels next year.

No decision was made by the group which will continue to study the matter, according to the group's report.

The current enrollment report as compared with last year shows an increase in student population of 124. At this time last year school enrollment totaled 1,945. Today it stands at 2,069. Here are the comparative figures by school:

1963		1964
514	High School	446
312	Junior High	299
568	Mary De Shazo	579
600	Richland Hills	563
75	Hill Top	58

The board studied enrollment graphs starting with 1954 and continuing into a 1968 projection. The projection showed that the school district could expect to count over 2,500 students in 1968.

This would be an increase of 481 students over the present enrollment. Present facilities could not possibly handle that number of students, and would seem to leave no other course than to either add to present buildings or construct a new school or both. The projection was based on an expected five percent annual growth. Figures for the past 10 years show an average annual growth of from three to eight percent.

The board also studied a new salary survey which was completed by the Tullia School System. It included 70 schools with enrollments of from 1,500 to 2,500.

The survey showed Muleshoe's schools rank just slightly below the average of the 70 schools surveyed. According to the report the schools surveyed average about $256 over minimum. Muleshoe averages about $225 over the minimum.

However, next year the Muleshoe school system will move into another scholastic bracket. This bracket is paying an average of about $480 above minimum.

Mules Downed By Dimmitt Bobcats

By DAVID JONES

Cold Mules fell before the "Red Hot" Dimmitt Bobcats Tuesday night. The Mules hit a cold streak that resembled a "Canada North" early in the first half, hitting 17 percent of their shots from the floor, to fall before the sharpshooting Bobcats 66-48.

Muleshoe's Robert Seagroves pumped the bucket from the inside for 24 points as Dimmitt's sharpshooting guard Clint Summers hit for 20.

Muleshoe lost control early in the first half as the Bobcats rolled up a 35 to 19 margin. During the second half Muleshoe started hitting and made a fire-up Dimmitt team point for point, but it was too late as Dimmitt rolled to a 66-48 win.

The Mulettes were plagued by 4th quarter miseries as Dimmitt played ball control and allowed only 3 points to the Mulettes during the 4th stanza.

Dimmitt, led by Linda McColum's 21 points beat the Mulettes by a 42-27 margin. Dianne Chappell scored 9 points for Muleshoe.

Muleshoe faces Morton Tuesday night in a District contest at 7:00 p.m. The Mules stand 1-1 in district play while the Mulettes are 0-2.

There will be nine breeds of beef cattle, 10 breeds of sheep and eight of swine.

Slimming While Nibbling

An extra has been added to the search for something new and interesting to offer with drinks when you welcome guests: low calorie nibble foods for appetizers, canapes or hors d'oeuvres! Hide the salted peanuts and the potato chips, and prepare an easy and flavorful dip, served hot for the winter season, with chilled crisp vegetables for dunking. Placed beside an iced pitcher of martinis or manhattans, your large bowl of vegetables arranged on crushed ice or cubes will arouse excited comments from all concerned when you mention that these nibblers count less than ten calories each and taste just great.

TOMATO BAGNA CAUDO

1 can (8 oz.) tomato sauce
1 tablespoon anchovy, mashed or paste
1 to 2 cloves of garlic, minced to a paste with a dash of pepper, pinch of tarragon
Yield: about one cup.

ZESTY HOT DIP

1 pint cottage cheese
1/2 cup buttermilk
1 envelope dehydrated onion soup mix

Beat cottage cheese and buttermilk until smooth. Stir in the onion soup mix, straight from its envelope. Just before serving, heat slowly, stirring constantly. Yield: generous two cups.

CURRIED SHRIMP DIP

1 can (10 oz.) frozen condensed cream of shrimp soup defrosted
1/2 cup dry vermouth
1/2 teaspoon curry
1/2-1 teaspoon curry

Combine all ingredients. Stir over low heat until blended. Mash shrimp in sauce with fork. Yield: about 1 1/2 cups.

The dips should be kept warm over an alcohol burner or small electrical unit. As for the dippers, imagination can have free run. Almost any raw vegetable works from the traditional celery and carrot sticks to washed mushrooms, cauliflower heads, broccoli stalks, and even thawed and drained frozen asparagus.

Student Council Names Mrs. Miller Teacher of Month

The Student Council of Muleshoe High School is presenting the teacher of the month: Mrs. John Miller.

After attending Texas Women's University, Mrs. Miller (Bee Robertson) acquired a teaching position. She taught in a county school which was located near Deaton. After teaching for several years, she then returned to Texas Women's University to finish her degree in business.

She also soon obtained her "MRS degree" and became known as Mrs. John Miller. While her husband completed his education Mrs. Miller was employed in secretarial work at Texas A&M. Later, as Miller served with the Air Force, Mrs. Miller worked in the states of Illinois and Nebraska as a bookkeeper.

She later returned to Texas and was employed as a bookkeeper for Continental Oil Company.

"Muleshoe High School students have truly benefited from her services. Mrs. Miller is an excellent teacher because she is interested in the subject she teaches and, more important, she is interested in the people whom she teaches," a Student Council spokesman said.

Mrs. Miller has developed an outstanding character which enables her to be a wonderful person, mother, and teacher.

FRANKLY SPEAKING

by J. Frank Peery

Christian Dispositions
Christian leaders are asking why Christianity has not produced a highly moral nation. In Christian America, why is it that juvenile delinquency has increased markedly since World War II? What about the rise in graft and corruption? What about the political and financial scandals? Illegitimate births have tripled in 26 years. Youths from well-to-do families have gone out to steal or destroy property for excitement.

Last summer in one of Dallas' finer apartment units, a teenage girl — whose parents were away — arranged a small party. They drank all the liquor available, smashed bottles and glasses against the walls, demolished patio furniture, and produced 3 pregnant girls — total damage to personalities — life-lasting scars, and total damage to property, $10,000. When police arrived, they were appalled and found to be "from the better families of the city," most of whom held membership in the church. The list of examples could be extended to any desired length and would include almost every crime in the statute books.

Although there are no specific facts and figures to prove the point, it is safe enough to say that there are few, if any, areas in the U. S. where such things are completely unknown.

Long before the prophet Jeremiah uttered his lamentations about the evil behavior of the children of Israel, the world had seen many calamities. Current tablets tell us about the moral decay of Babylon and Chaldea. Hieroglyphics indicate to us the wickedness of Egypt. So, is the need to get excited about the moral climate of America today? We just better learn to live with such; it's here to stay. It may be here to stay; but, we as Christian America need not pour more fuel on the fires of moral decay.

Why is this chapter in our history snowballing? Communications today among people is generally excellent. Schemes, plans and procedures are no longer difficult. Most of our moral downfall takes place under cover, after dark or in secret. Transportation is a part of this communication book-up. Access to a car is simple — you own one, the family has several, or a close friend is always standing by. Liquor is as easy to obtain as transportation. Given a few dollars, any resourceful person, teenager, or adult, even in legally "dry" areas can lay his hands on a bot-

Shower By U.S. Mail Honors Charles Lenaus In Missouri

At noon Monday, a postman serving the district of Route 5, Columbia, Mo., honked twice in front of the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Lenaus. This honking is a customary signal that the occupants of the house have received a package and should come out and claim it.

Mrs. Lenaus, the former Linda Lou Lancaster and Muleshoe resident, ran to the door: "Just put it by the mail box. I'll be out in a moment and get it, Linda called as she struggled into outdoor wraps.

"You mean all twenty-five of 'em", the postman yelled back. So via U. S. Mail, friends in Muleshoe honored Linda Lou and Charles with a stork shower.

Muleshoe has a way of looking after it's own and extending love and congratulations, even though the recipients be miles away, a friend commented.

Hostesses for the shower were Mrs. Houston Hart, Mrs. Dudley Malone, and Mrs. Morris Douglas, assisted by the U. S. Postman, Mr. and Mrs. D.B. Lancaster and Mr. and Mrs. Julian Lenaus, Muleshoe.

Showers by mail are something new in Columbia, Mo. But then, (wouldn't you know) it takes Muleshoe to keep people up to date in the modern way to give stork showers.

Senate Weighs, House Votes Fallout Shelters

The Nation's military leaders gave strong support to an expanded fallout shelter program in recent testimony before a special subcommittee of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Speaking for the Joint Chiefs of Staff, General Earle G. Wheeler, Army Chief of Staff, backed a House-passed bill authorizing Federal support for 11 million more fallout shelter spaces. He told the subcommittee, headed by Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington:

"A FALLOUT PROTECTION-oriented civil defense is clearly a necessary element of the total United States national security effort. Our potential enemies have a clear capability for nuclear warfare, and we cannot discount the possibility that such a war may occur. . . . An adequate program of civil defense should give our population a reasonable degree of protection as well as increasing the credibility of our military deterrent posture."

General Thomas S. Power, Commander-in-Chief of the Air Force's Strategic Air Command, sent a statement to the subcommittee describing civil defense as "one of the most important aspects of our overall deterrent posture."

The Senate subcommittee's hearing on the pros and cons of the fallout shelter bill was completed in December, 1963. If committee and Senate action to authorize the program is favorable, as it was in the House, Steuart L. Pittman, Assistant Secretary of Defense for Civil Defense, has indicated that he will seek a supplemental appropriation from Congress to get the program underway.

THE BILL would amend the Federal Civil Defense Act of 1950 to:

1. Enable the Federal Government to contribute up to $25 per individual shelter space to incorporate public fallout shelters for about 10 million persons in buildings owned by nonprofit institutions, such as schools, hospitals, and state and local government facilities. It authorizes, but does not appropriate,

2. Require incorporation of public fallout shelters in most new and existing Federal structures. The bill authorizes $15.6 million in this fiscal year to shelter about a million persons.

3. Remove Federal legal restrictions on the use of state and local civil defense personnel and equipment, established with Federal financial aid, in meeting natural disasters.

The bill was passed by a voice vote in the House after a move to send the measure back to committee was defeated 172 to 67. Its passage came after the House Armed Services Committee had approved the bill by a 32-4 vote, with nearly all members reversing their stand on fallout shelters after comprehensive testimony last summer from 108 witnesses.

In floor debate, the bill was widely backed, including speeches by Speaker John W. McCormack of Massachusetts and Rep. Carl Vinson of Georgia, Chairman of the House Armed Services Committee.

FIRST SUPPLIES for fallout shelter areas in Puerto Rico are loaded aboard a van at Brooklyn, N. Y., Army Terminal for shipment to San Juan. The civil defense food, water, medical and sanitation supplies, and radiation detection kits, when over 200 vanloads are placed in shelter areas, will be enough for about 250,000 persons for 14 days in fallout shelters. Commissioner of Health

AUSTIN — Imagine a disaster — tornado, flood or nuclear explosion — striking your community.

People are burned or wounded . . . public water supply and sewage is cut off . . . you are on your own . . . no help is available. What would you do?

If you are one of more than 12 thousand Texans who have received medical self-help training, your chances of survival are increased.

The medical self-help program got underway in 1959 when the American Medical Association reported that during an emergency, cries for help would overwhelm the physicians available.

Following this recommendation, the U. S. Public Health Service, under contract with the Office of Civil Defense Mobilization, undertook development of such a program.

The answer: medical self-help training, an 11-lesson course designed to provide the knowledge and teach skills so that families can take care of their own health needs in a national emergency.

The goal is for at least one member of each family in the United States to receive medical self-help training.

In Texas, the State Department of Health, the Texas Medical Association, and the State Office of Defense and Disaster Relief, are jointly responsible for the program on the state level.

Courses are promoted and conducted locally under sponsorship of county medical societies, local civil defense offices, the local Red Cross chapters and health departments.

Texas had the highest total of participants taking the course, nationally, during the last three months.

Suppose disaster strikes. Are you, your family and your community prepared? If not, contact your local or state health department for further information concerning medical self-help training.

Goose Season will end on January 14, but Goose hunters will find hunting generally very slow as there are very few Geese in this general area.

Quail Season closes January 31 in Bailey County. In general it is thought that hunter success has been down.

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department presented the following report on Quail hunting in Region I:

"January 1964 — Quail Hunters until the Panhandle Quail season closes January 31. Sportsmen partake the Gene Howe Area near Canadian, Texas, or sharing in the good harvest with daily bag limits approaching 6-7 birds per hunter, while normal hunting years usually provide hunters with only 2-3 birds per bag.

"In contrast, Quail hunters on the Matador Wildlife Area between Childress and Paducah, Texas, are having fair success with hunters displaying average 2-3 bird daily bags.

"Quail hunting success in the Permian Basin around Odessa has been below par most of the year with only a few ardent Blue Quail hunters bagging enough Quail to Quail season in General Law counties ends January 16.

"West of the Pecos River, where Quail season closes January 14, Quail hunting is no better than average despite early season rainfall and good hatching conditions throughout most of the summer. Quail are present in substantial numbers, but sportsmen report birds are unusually difficult to bag."

Yarborough In Washington

Dear Fellow Texan:

I attended the joint session of the House and Senate where a Texan in the White House, President Lyndon Johnson, issued a ringing challenge to the best in every American. It was his first State of the Union speech, the seventh I have been privileged to hear as your Senator — four by Dwight D. Eisenhower, two by the late President John F. Kennedy and now one by President Lyndon B. Johnson.

With more experience in government leadership than any other first-year president in our recent history, President Johnson has proposed an outline of hope for achievement of a new security, a new sense of purpose to our Union, a new opportunity to move forward. We may now enlist together in an all-out battle against poverty, disease and despair.

It is a positive approach that will make our country stronger and greater than it has ever been before. I am gratified to see the emphasis placed on the growing needs for more classrooms for students, more libraries, more teachers, more job training. It is also good that we are facing early in this year, 1964, the emergency nature of the unemployment in this country, by concentrating on proven programs to relieve unemployment such as the Area Redevelopment Administration, which creates new jobs.

Texas has already benefited by taking part in the Area Redevelopment Administration program, of which I was a co-author when it was passed in 1961 as the first administration.

It is also good that President Johnson has called for youth employment legislation, to prevent the tragic waste of the minds and energies of our young people out of school and unemployed. More than a million and a quarter of our young people move out of the schools into the work force every year, and another million and a quarter adults are put out of jobs each year by automation.

Where will these youths coming out of school find jobs? I support creating a National Service Corps to help young people help others. Inspired, dedicated young Americans have made the Peace Corps our greatest success abroad in this generation. If given the opportunity for a National Service Corps at home, young people will do as well at home.

Already the Senate of the 88th Congress has passed a Youth Conservation Corps measure, now pending in the House. I was co-author of that measure. It would do in the great parks and national forests what the Civilian Conservation Corps did. It will train young men and improve these great recreation areas at the same time.

We also need a program of hospital care for the aged under Social Security. We need it last year and the year before. For

ENGLISH LAWYERS

Even though the American Revolution ended the dominion of the English king over the colonies, the common law of England as a tie with the mother country remained. It has stood as the common heritage of a sister people and has served as the fountainhead of American legal thought. However, in the years that have passed since the Revolution, the legal professions of Britain and American have proceeded along separate lines of development.

In the English legal profession lawyers are split into two classes. They are called solicitors and barristers. Broadly speaking, solicitors deal directly with clients and prepare cases. Barristers conduct cases before the courts. The closest analogy that can be drawn to the American profession is the practice that has grown up in some of the large firms of having office lawyers and trial lawyers. Actually, there is more difference. In the United States, when a lawyer is admitted to the bar of a particular state, he becomes a combination barrister and solicitor.

The profession of law in England came into being between the Eleventh and Thirteenth Centuries. During the earlier portion of this period, it was customary for a litigant to bring a friend to help him in his law suit. By the end of the Twelfth Century, the common law had become so complex many of our aged citizens, time has run out. The clock is moving. Time must not run out on the hopes and dreams of America. We are on the threshold of a new governmental greatness if we work together and if we work hard.

COMMENTS ON SPORTS

By PETE Fritchie

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The New York Yankees will be favorites again in 1964. The difference this time is that the Yanks won't look so unbeatable, after being swamped in the World Series by the Los Angeles Dodgers in four straight.

In bygone years there is no doubt the Yanks benefited to an extent by a vaunted reputation. Told the friend gave way to a professional called a "narrator." This narrator was the ancestor of the present day English barrister.

Toward the last part of the Thirteenth Century, a second class of professionals emerged. Many litigants, who were large landowners, found it difficult to make a personal appearance in court to assist with the case. In lieu of their presence, they sent an agent or "attorney" who was the forerunner of the English solicitor of today.

Thus, the distinction between the attorney or solicitor, and the barrister or narrator. As written pleadings became the vogue, it was the attorney or solicitor who saw the client, elicited the facts and prepared the necessary papers. The barrister then argued the case in court.

The American legal profession has not followed the English system since the frontier atmosphere and experimentation with new government and new laws did not lend itself to the divided English method of handling legal matters.

(This newsfeature, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform — not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

There have been times that awe of the Yankees carried them to crucial, key-game victories, that have made a big difference.

In the final month of the season challenging clubs play under heavy pressure because they must whip both the Yankees and their September reputation and tradition. It has made more than one team edgy.

This year the awe may not be so overpowering. Of course, it is not this which has won so many pennants for New York. The Yankees have usually had the players and come up with the trades. Their reputation and tradition might have made the difference in some key games during the season, and could have meant the difference occasionally, but year in and year out the Yankees won because they were the best.

Some of the Yankees even say everyone in the league saves their best pitchers for the New Yorks, that they actually play under a disadvantage, which is probably true to an extent. But the reputation and tradition, and resulting hitters and complexes among other players and clubs probably more than make up for that disadvantage.

In 1964 the Yankee will have to be good. They did not play bad ball against Los Angeles last October; their hitting appeared weak against the superb pitching they saw. But they were humiliated nevertheless.

When you lose four straight, you are automatically humiliated. If you are the New York Yankees, such a turn takes on the proportion of a historic humiliation, and the jibes and barbs of winter will sting and sting into spring and summer.

Point number one is that the Yanks will be determine in a close. Point number two is that this year. They may not be as grim way to prove themselves other clubs will be less awed. Detroit, Cleveland or Boston might get the fever and if there are many challengers, the race might turn into a wide open one.

One key to 1964 in the American is whether the lowest clubs can take their share of games against the New Yorkers — if they do, the league could have a genuine race.

U. S. JOBS DROP
Federal Government workers have decreased more than 25,000 during the past year. November alone saw a drop of 1,007 workers.

Civilian employment in November was 2,493,168 compared with 2,518,858 on July 1, start of the current fiscal year.

ECONOMY AND 1964
Commerce Secretary Luther Hodges says the United States economy probably will expand 5 per cent to another record in 1964 and prices will remain fairly stable.

Hodges said that personal income has bounded upward $300 per person in three years, and may rise $100 more in 1964.

1963 a poor year For cattle feeders

Many cattle feeders will remember 1963 as the year of their discontent. The cause was low profits, and the primary culprits were falling feed prices and higher feed costs.

Also contributing to the low profits was the cost of feeder cattle in relation to the price of feed according to the latest summary published by the Cattle Feeders Division of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association.

Lloyd Bergsma of Fort Worth, director of the Cattle Feeders Division, said at year's end the price of 900 to 1,000 pound choice steers in Chicago was down $6.25 per hundred compared to prices a year earlier. Prices on 500 to 800 pound good feeder steers at Omaha were down $3.70 per hundred during the same period. Cattle prices followed a downward trend nearly all year.

Total domestic production of beef reached an estimated 16,470 million pounds during 1963, and this total was swelled by record beef imports. Per capita consumption of beef was 95 pounds

News Report From Washington

WASHINGTON D. C. — Despite its obvious lack of accomplishment in a number of areas, the first session of the 88th Congress will be remembered in retrospect for two significant actions with potentially far-reaching implications not yet fully assessed.

Momentarily obscured by the headlines generated by the impasse over civil right and tax reform and the adjournment hassle over foreign aid, the fact remains that it set a precedent in the field of labor relations by approving the first peace-time compulsory arbitration legislation ever put on the books.

That came about under the duress of a threatened nationwide rail strike which, had it come about, would have dealt a body blow to the country's economic posture. But now that the precedent has been set, there may well be demands that it be followed in other areas, as for instance the maritime industry where a major dock strike ensnared the country's waterfronts earlier in the year.

The other potentially important move was the Senate's soul-searching approval of a nuclear test ban treaty with Russia — something even backers of the calculated risk but one they insisted had to be taken.

What the import of that decision will be on future international relations is something that only subsequent events can demonstrate.

Other notable accomplishments of the first half of the 88th were confined chiefly to the field of education.

In that area the lawmakers for the first time voted federal help for medical college construction and for loans to medical and dental students to meet the growing demand for more doctors and dentists to augment an existing short supply.

In separate measures the 88th authorized grants and loans to public and private colleges to expand their facilities in the science and engineering fields, particularly.

Vocational education and manpower retraining progress were stepped up and for the first time Congress came to grips with the poignant problem of mental retardation.

The lawmakers also approved a two-year extension of the impacted areas aid program which provides government help for operation and new construction in the same public schools crowded with dependents of military personnel and federal civilian workers.

The session noted as much for what it did not do as for what it accomplished — and this was not limited to the areas of tax reform and civil rights.

Other proposals either shelved, ignored or only partially dealt with included those calling for establishment of such things as a domestic peace corps, a mass transit system and youth employment program.

A civil defense fallout shelter program was proposed but no final action was taken in that area. Nothing was done to provide more money for the controversial Area Redevelopment Administration even after the White House scaled down its demands in deference to the economy mood of Capitol Hill.

Revived medical care for the aged never got past the hearing stage.

Some, if not all, of those bills will crop up again as election-year issues.

And even a partial list will spell busy months ahead as Congress faces up to meeting the deadline posed by summer party conventions and the ensuing campaigns.

1964 AND PEACE Secretary of State Rusk predicts that 1964 will be "a period of probing for the possibilities of peace."

But Rusk expressed concern about the vigorous and hostile promotion of . . . world revolution" by Communist China. He said the major issue before the world and probably the only possible cause of major war is posed by the question "what kind of world community shall come out of this period of history."

There is a tradition in the Shenandoah Valley that only young courting couples can stir the boiling apple butter.

McNamara's Economy

Many lawmakers who have preached economy in Congress for years were the first to scream last month when Defense Secretary Robert McNamara announced some 33 military establishments would be closed or cut back.

However, one fiscal conservative congressman refused to get ruffled by the announcement. He is Rep. F. Edward Hebert (D-La.), a ranking member of the House Armed Services Committee, who is losing two installments in his own district under the economy drive.

The Louisianaan was heard to say: "I've been preaching economy for all these years and I'm not going to start screaming now just because they shut down something in my back yard."

Compare that with New York's Samuel Stratton, a Democrat, who threatens to turn the Pentagon upside down before accepting closings in his state.

But none of this should be permitted to stop or even slow down the project upon which McNamara has embarked.

There is nothing new about what McNamara is doing. According to the Pentagon, more than 400 installations have been closed or reduced since March, 1961. And he has made it clear that he plans still more cutbacks in the future.

Vietnam Bust

For all the efforts of United States soldiers, some of whom have died in the process, the mess in Vietnam is still a mess. Cambodia, another vitally important country, Americans have been told, is now embarked on a hate-America campaign.

It will be recalled how exercised the late President became over Asia shortly after he took over in 1961. He called a press conference, in which he used a map to point out this and that about Laos. We were also officially worried about Cambodia and Vietnam.

For year's we have poured in aid and many fighting Communism. What have we received for our efforts? Laos is no better off, Cambodia is anti-United States, and democracy in Vietnam is not in sight (in spite of a revolution we rightfully encourage which threw out the Diem dictatorship).

In short, we have lost ground. The Asian is the world's natural and most gifted bandit and hypocrite. He is far more cunning than American do-gooder dispensers of dollars and guns who come out to Asia to sell and spread democracy — something that is probably impossible at this stage of development in most of Asia, to begin with.

Asia is a long time away from effective democracy, just as is Africa. And our kind of government may never work on either continent, or even in South America for that matter and it is time we face and accept that fact of life.

88th Congress

History will quite properly, from a strictly statistical standpoint, record the first session of the 88th Congress as one of the least productive in many years.

It is being labeled already as that, and some even less flattering things, by a variety of critics motivated by a variety of reasons. And some of the sharpest barbs have come from within Congress, itself, emanating from members who for one cause or another haven't been happy over the way things were going.

Bastis have been aimed at Senate and House leadership, at the committees, and at the parliamentary rules of Congress itself.

Based strictly on results, some of the charges would seem to have surface justification.

Its true Congress lagged interminably on some routine measures such as appropriations bills and authorizations.

But it showed there was nothing wrong with the machinery when it cranked up on those items near the end of the session.

Closer examination clearly suggest most of the delay was deliberate — a sort of forced economy campaign designed to thwart action on legislation opposed by the majority.

Congress is still a pretty effective barometer of constituent thinking. And there's the suspicion the things it didn't do were things the folks back home wanted left undone.

TO SELL WHEAT
The Commerce Department has issued conditional licenses for sale of $40,600,000 of wheat to Russia — but whether there will be a deal remains to be seen.

The licenses were issued to two unnamed American firms — described as permits they provided various conditions.

If the Soviet Union agrees to these terms, then the two United States companies have permission to go through with the sale, a man said.

ON DEFENSE PROFIT
Vice Adm. Hyman G. Rickover has called for changes in defense contracting rules to prevent what he terms excessive profits by some big companies.

In testimony before a House Appropriations subcommittee, Rickover said that present contract procedures usually end up to the advantage of the contractor and the Government can do little to redress any wrong.

The Only Thing Wrong With Our Culture Is... It Isn't

By EDWARD H. SIMS

Part I

American culture has been and is a sensitive subject.

In defense of our pride and country we are prone to employ homespun humor or pass off too lengthy the advocacy of a new emphasis on the achievement of a higher cultural level.

We are the richest nation in the world, the greatest democracy, with the best of everything, that we find it hard to accept the theory that many more, otherwise inferior peoples, can show us the light in many fields of cultural achievement.

Thus there is often no basic understanding, among us, of the deficiencies in the national level.

The field is so broad no expert (the author doesn't claim this distinction) could possibly cover it all in a short appraisal. However there are trends which are evident and there are some conclusions which can safely be drawn.

First, a trend among American composers and orchestras seems to be toward novelty, different effects and technical proficiencies, which often sacrifice the aesthetic true value of music itself.

We like to do everything bigger and better, or differently. Perhaps this is a superficial explanation but whatever reason, too much technically capable U. S. orchestration lacks simple beauty and misses the melody, the whole point.

In this connection, Hollywood must share the blame. The countless sound tracks which have degenerated us from motion picture producers in recent years reek with symbols, drums, French horns, clashes and booms, all seeking to achieve the traditional screen spectacular.

As far as the writer is concerned, if he never hears another sound track spectacular, he will feel little loss. A surprising number of these spectacles, including Biblical film spectacles along with all the rest, sound alike.

Before leaving the subject of music, which is only one field of culture, we must look at our popular music. Here is a field for a team of psychiatrists, or a Presidential Commission, or both. Undoubtedly we come up with some of the world's most popular and fastest selling popular hits. But in achieving this the nation pays a fearful price.

For some years now the nation has been in what the writer likes to call the jungle-yell and sugar-sweet trend. The latter is the school of highpitched male voices, drooling low sugar. The voice is girlishly soft (sugar) and it melts in the cooling mouth and it adds up to the sound of a girl's voice.

Secondly, in recognizing the great talents and rhythms of our minorities, we have gone overboard. The return to a balance will come but meanwhile, and that is now, we are subjected to an ee-ee, oh-oh, jungle-drum beat that makes the hair stand on end. Much of this sells, and there will be rebuttals to this conclusion — citing of sales figures. But this wild and woolly yelling really adds nothing to our level of musical culture.

The best test for the average sane individual is to listen to the popular music programs on the radio for a time and judge for himself. Listen to the screaming singers, who repeat the same line over and over again to a jungle beat, and end up saying nothing in an entire song. Listen to the words. They seldom add up to a sensible thought.

Is this the level we wish to pass on to our children, and the world, in the field of popular music. Our record companies turn out records by the thousands and anyone who has reviewed new records, or tried judging them on merit, will know what the writer is talking about. All in all, our popular music is currently a pitifully low level — with the jungle beat, yelling, and sweet-strawberry-sugar approach comprising about ninety per cent of it.

SINGLETON FUNERAL HOME
 24 HOUR AMBULANCE SERVICE

Phone 7860 Muleshoe

It isn't uncommon to hear some Texan say that he caught a "smallmouth bass."

In the true sense of the word, he hasn't caught a smallmouth but the largemouth bass which is most commonly found in our streams and lakes.

Actually what he caught is a spotted bass.

Smallmouth bass are not native to Texas waters. Perhaps the nearest spot where they are found in any numbers is Ball Shoals Lake in Arkansas. Smallmouths were introduced into the cool waters of the Llano River headwaters, but the transplant didn't meet with much success.

Spotted bass are quite common in some of our streams. Particularly in this true of fast-running rivers like the Guadalupe and Llano of Central Texas. A spotted bass never grows too large. But what it lacks in size, it makes up for with spirit. On sporting tackle, a pound-sized spot fights like a fish twice that size.

Although the spotted bass is primarily a stream fish, some showed up in the lakes of Central Texas when streams were impounded. It isn't unusual to take a spot from any of the Highland Lakes. In this lake environment, sometimes grows to three pounds or larger. But this is very rare. When you catch a two-pounder, you've got a good one.

The spotted bass is sort of an in-between fish. It isn't a largemouth nor is it a smallmouth. Water-wise, it more closely resembles the largemouth since it prefers the warmer habitat. As peacocks-wise, it looks more like the smallmouth.

It really is sort of a Johnny-come-lately to the angling scene. For many years it was confused with the other two species. It was not until 1927 that it was recognized as a distinct and separate species.

When the old Texas Game and Fish Commission transplanted some smallmouth bass into the headwaters of the Llano near the town of Junction, some years back, it encouraged fishermen to report if any of the alien fish were caught.

Right away, they heard anglers tell of catching the smallmouths. But in every instance, when the report was checked for authenticity, it was found that instead of a smallmouth the angler had in fact taken a spotted bass.

Sometimes it is very easy to confuse the spot with the more abundant largemouth bass. Especially in turbid waters which cause the color to be a milky instead of a vivid green.

But there is one surefire way to distinguish between the two. Run an imaginary line vertically down the bass' jaw, just at the rear of the eye. If this line bisects the back of the mouth, you've got a spot; on a largemouth the mouth goes beyond the line. Also, the spot has a red eye while the largemouth does not.

Spots prefer running water and you're most likely to catch one out in the fast-moving channels of a river.

On the Llano, for instance, you will take largemouths in the quiet water along shore. But get out in the current and you'll most always catch a spot.

Almost without exception you will take spots on underwater lures, since they feed almost entirely on underwater food. Tow of their favorites are the minnow and the crawfish. The minnow is No. 1 on its diet.

The two favorite baits of sport fishermen seeking the spots are small spinner lures, either yellow or white in color, and silver spoons.

Steam spots seldom grow larger than a pound in size. A typical one measures about eight inches in length.

Some of the best sport is to be had by the fly-rod fishermen who works tiny spinner baits through the swift channels. Even an eight inch spot, caught on this delicate tackle, will cut all sorts of capers before being subdued.

Our only regret is that the spot doesn't grow larger. It is a great sport fish although not as flashy as the largemouth since it isn't inclined to jump. But one will go deep to fight grudgingly in tight circles. The only thing it lacks is the weight to put authority in its argument.

Episcopalians Elect Officers At Vestry Meet

St. Phillip's Episcopal Church of Muleshoe held their second annual vestry meeting last week, electing Karl Freyer senior warden and Jim D. Small treasurer. Donald W. Taylor is retiring senior warden.

The local Episcopal congregation holds regular Sunday morning services in the Community Room of the First National Bank at 10 o'clock each Sunday with licensed layreaders in charge of the services. The Reverend James A. Mock, Plainview, is rector-in-charge of the church. He conducts the service of Holy Communion the first Sunday night of each month at 7:30 p.m.

Visitors are welcomed at any of the services and are urged to attend the growing congregation of Episcopalians. Communicants are lifted from Farwell and Earth as well as the Muleshoe area.
