Brand blasts TDA, higher business costs

LUBBOCK (AP) - An agricultural chemical right-to-know law and high workers' compensation premiums are driving agribusiness out of Texas, says one of the state's largest producers of onions and melons.

Othal Brand Sr., the mayor of McAllen head of Griffin and Brand Co., which harvests and packs vegetables in the Rio Grande Valley, West Texas and other areas, told 300 people at an agricultural chemicals conference that he's already joined the exodus from Texas.

"We were planting 12,000 acres (of onions last year), and this year we'll be planting 8,000 acres and next year we'll reduce it even more," Brand told reporters after his brief speech at the West Texas Agricultural Chemicals Institute's annual conference.

Brand said his company is joining a trend in which other farmers, packers and harvesters are slowly moving operations to places where labor and insurance costs are cheaper.

Brand said he has moved some operations to Mexico and New Mexico and is thinking about moving some business to Arizona because their governments don't have laws similar to Texas' agricultural-chemical statute.

Under the so-called right-to-know law, Texas farm workers and laborers in packing houses must be informed in their native language what chemicals they are being exposed to and the potential effects. Harvest contractors and packing house owners like Griffin and Brand must keep records of their efforts under the law for 30 years.

Brand complained that farm foremen are responsible for informing their laborers, but that the companies that hire the foremen are responsible legally, meaning the companies can be sued for the negligence of contract workers.

He also said high workers' compensation premiums and excessive jury awards are driving agribusiness out of the state. He blamed the financial problems on state Agriculture Secretary Jim Hightower for his "basic philosophy, lack of knowledge and experience in the business of farming ... and his basic negative appreciation for the things that have built America."

He also blamed the Legislature, especially the state Senate, for not reforming the state's workers' compensation system, which he said is weighted toward benefiting plaintiffs' attorneys.

"You can't reform workers' compensation when the people responsible for reform benefit from the way it is now," he said. "People won't lower their income willingly."

Lend me your ears

Ripened ears of corn from across the area are in the process of being harvested. Corn is one of several crops which is harvested in Deaf Smith County each fall.

Harvest going strong in area

By KAY PECK
Staff Writer

The fields have ears. Lots of them, and, as the first hint of autumn fills the air, those ears of corn are hanging ripe and ready for the 1989 harvest.

"Corn harvest is going strong," Deaf Smith County Extension Agent Dennis Newton said Wednesday.

Early figures on crop yields indicate that the 1989 corn harvest for the county will be good. Newton mentioned two test plots where yields had been 183 bushels per acre on one and 217 on the second.

"The corn I've seen cut so far is doing real good," Newton said.

In a county where agricultural diversification is the norm, fall is a season not of harvest (singular) but of harvests (plural). Overall, Newton feels that 1989 promises to be a good season.

Corn silage harvest is already finished with yields across the county running near the usual norm of 25 tons per acre. Weather was a contributing factor to altering some silage harvest plans.

Much of the corn in the county dried off quicker than expected, causing a premature end to silage harvest. Many farmers will be harvesting, as grain, corn which they had intended to harvest as silage.

Almost all of the corn grown in Deaf Smith County is harvested as silage to be used as a livestock feed or as grain. The grain, depending on the variety and quality, can be used as a livestock feed or as the raw material in the making of food products such as corn chips.

While silage harvest is already complete, the gathering of this year's grain sorghum crop is still sometime in the future. A few fields of soybeans and sugar beets are being harvested, but it is still a little early for the full-scale harvest of those two crops.

"Normally, they (soybeans) are closer to frost," Newton said.

"The first frost in this area usually occurs around Oct. 20."

"Soybeans are looking only fair," Newton said.

The extension agent indicated that one reason for the lack of quality in the soybean crop is the fact that many soybeans were planted on "ghost acres." Much of the wheat acreage in the county did not make a crop this year. Many farmers planted soybeans on these "ghost acres" to salvage some kind of crop for the year.

Preliminary reports say they (sugar beets) are pretty good," Newton said.

Sugar content has been a little low on the first fields of sugar beets harvested, he commented.

"Early harvest, you're going to have low sugar," Newton said.

The sugar content on early beets has been around 12 percent. Normally, the average sugar content is 13 percent although the content can run as high as 15 percent.

In a county where crop variety is the norm, fall harvest is an extended project. While it's still summer at the start of silage harvest, the harvest of other crops will run well into winter.

"It'll go plumb up until January with sugar beets," Newton said.

WTSU sets TAMU meeting

A presentation on the potential benefits of the pending merger of West Texas State University and the Texas A&M University System (TAMUS) will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday in the Activities Center Ballroom on the WTSU campus.

The program is part of WTSU's homecoming event. It is open to the public.

The presentation will focus on the system's involvement in the area, the future of agriculture in the Panhandle and the development of programs to serve the needs of ag producers, processors and consumers.

Texas A&M will be represented by Dr. Zerle Carpenter, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, and by Dr. Robert G. Merrifield, deputy director of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. Monte Winder will represent the WTSU Agricultural Development Association.

Improved quality of higher education opportunities and the stimulation of improved development in the region have been identified among the benefits by WTSU President Dr. Ed Roach.

"We cannot wait for (Texas A&M) to offer programs and research initiatives," said Roach. "We believe TAMUS members will be willing and enthusiastic partners, but the initiative must be ours."

Dr. Arden Colette, head of WTSU's ag division, said the merger is one of the most important developments in area agriculture in many years and could help shape the area's future.

"This meeting will provide Panhandle agriculture supporters a clearer picture of where the merger is going, provide interested person an opportunity to inject their ideas into the planning process and demonstrate the broad-based support agriculture has in the Panhandle," Colette said. "The stronger the turnout for the meeting, the stronger the position this area will have in the development of programs for agriculture."

House repeals catastrophic care

WASHINGTON (AP) - It's the Senate's turn to decide whether to resist or yield to the wrath of millions of retirees angry at being forced to pay for expanded Medicare benefits for catastrophic health care.

If the tally itself was any indication, the House barely thought twice Wednesday before voting to repeal the year-old catastrophic health insurance program.

"The American people have spoken. The House of Representatives has listened," Sen. William Roth, R-Del., observed from across the Capitol.

The House members hardly needed to debate. A deluge of cards and letters had sealed the program's fate before the battle was joined on the floor.

The 360-66 knockout punch was a remarkable reversal for legislation that was hailed upon passage just over a year ago as landmark legislation - the most significant expansion of Medicare in the Great Society program's two decades of life.

However, a feature that may have contributed to the uproar over the program was the fact that it called for collection of money from senior citizens to pay for the expanded benefits before they took effect.

The Senate is poised to grapple with the issue as part of a giant budget-cutting reconciliation measure. Likewise, the House vote was on an amendment to its version of the budget bill.

Final resolution of the catastrophic health plan - along with other budget issues such as child care and capital gains taxes - will hinge on a House-Senate conference committee and then a final vote in both houses.

Lawmakers talked Wednesday of ratios such as 2,000-to-1 and 3,000-to-1 among their constituents in favor of repealing the catastrophic care plan.

Much of the protest was from well-to-do seniors facing an income tax surtax of up to $800 to help cover the cost of providing the new benefits to poorer elderly people - some 20 million of whom were asked to pay only $48 this year.

Congress has heard hardly at all from the poorer senior citizens, but House Ways and Means Chairman Dan Rostenkowski warned his colleagues during the floor debate that the situation was destined to change.

"Five million senior citizens may be complaining about the supplemental premium and you may quench their thirst for repeal today," he said. "But in the process, make no mistake about it: You will be hurting many more millions of senior citizens whose voices have not been heard."

"Mark my words, my friends, their voices will be heard in this chamber in the very near future."

Senate committee votes higher rural health care stipend

WASHINGTON (AP) - In an attempt to preserve access to health care in rural America, the Senate Finance Committee has voted to eliminate the differential in Medicare payments between urban and rural hospitals.

Under the current program, urban hospitals can receive from 12 percent to 40 percent more than rural hospitals for a single procedure on an elderly or disabled patient.

Under the legislation approved Wednesday, phasing out the differential would begin in 1992 and be completed by Oct. 1, 1994.

In a long night of votes that ended at 3 a.m. Wednesday with passage of what is known as budget reconciliation legislation, the Finance Committee also agreed to expand Medicaid health-care coverage to more than 1 million children and pregnant women who have no health insurance.

The differential, enacted in 1983 when Congress approved the Medicare Prospective Payment System, has been blamed for a wave of hospital failures over the last half of the decade.

"Inadequate Medicare payments have contributed to a serious decline in hospital revenues and reduced the health services available to rural Americans," said Sen. Tom Daschle, D-S.D. "The committee package puts rural hospitals on a more even footing with their urban counterparts and helps stop the deterioration of health services in rural America."

According to Finance Committee Chairman Lloyd Bentsen, nearly 160 rural hospitals have failed since 1984, 43 of them in 1988 alone.

"My home state of Texas has the unfortunate distinction of leading the nation in closures with 18 hospitals shutting their doors last year," Bentsen said Wednesday. "Recent studies have suggested that as many as 600 rural hospitals could close their doors in the next five years."

Bush faces more coup criticism

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Bush is coming under mounting congressional criticism for his inaction during a coup attempt in Panama, as top administration officials claim a lack of reliable intelligence made intervention too risky.

"They wanted certainty," Rep. Ike Skelton, D-Mo., said of the administration. "You do not get an engraved invitation to a coup. They just lacked boldness."

Alluding to a charge made against Bush during the 1988 presidential campaign, Rep. Dave McCurdy, D-Okla., added: "There's a resurgence of the wimp factor."

A large cross-section of lawmakers, both Democrats and Republicans, voiced bitter disappointment at the U.S. failure to send in military force to support Tuesday's short-lived uprising by 200 to 300 dissident Panamanian Defense Forces troops against dictator Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega.

Not all lawmakers were critical, however.

"I'm convinced we did the right thing," said Rep. Earl Hutto, D-Fla., a member of the House Armed Services Committee. "It would have been foolish for us to take military action with loss of lives" in the face of "an obvious lack of intelligence."

In public statements and briefings on Capitol Hill, Bush's men portrayed their caution as the only responsible approach to a situation fraught with confusion and conflicting information.

"The president made the right decision," said Defense Secretary Dick Cheney, who first heard of the planned coup in a 2:30 a.m. telephone call Monday from Gen. Colin Powell, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Cheney said the initial report that the coup was to be led by Maj. Moises Giraldo Vega, a close Noriega confidant, raised doubts. "This might well have been a setup," he said.

He told lawmakers there were indications throughout the coup - such as the presence of Noriega's car outside the PDF compound - that led the White House to believe the military ruler was inside. But Cheney said the information was insufficient to act on, according to participants in the briefing.

Cheney also disagreed with lawmakers who said the coup left Noriega in a stronger position after weeding out the ranks of opponents in the military.

"If I was in Gen. Noriega's shoes, I'd be a very nervous man tonight," Cheney said.

Noriega aide Lt. Col. Arnulfo Castrejon said in Panama City on Wednesday that officers involved in the coup attempt held him hostage for up to five hours before letting him go.

Cheney said it remains unclear whether those who led the uprising were the kind of group the United States should support. For one thing, the coup leaders wanted to force Noriega to retire, but were unwilling to deport him to the United States to face trial on U.S. drug charges.

"Clearly they were not of the mind to turn him over to us," Cheney said. "It was not a pro-democracy group that had taken over the PDF. It was more of a power struggle within the PDF itself."

Not counting aliens could cost

AUSTIN (AP) - A proposal to exclude illegal aliens from the 1990 census would cost Texas millions of federal dollars and cause the state to gain fewer congressional seats during reapportionment, state officials say.

The provision "would be disastrous for Texas and its taxpayers," said Attorney General Jim Mattox, who appeared at a news conference with state lawmakers and the Mexican American Legal Defense and Educational Fund.

Other state officials joined in criticizing an amendment to forbid the use of federal money for census data, in connection with reapportionment, if it includes the count of aliens in the United States in violation of immigration laws.

The amendment was attached to the Senate version of a federal appropriations bill that is in a conference committee.

Such an amendment could mean the difference between Texas gaining three or four seats in Congress when reapportionment of districts is done after the 1990 census, Mattox said.

There also is no method to ensure that those excluded from the census for purposes of reapportionment would be included for the allocation of federal money, according to MALDEF.

If the provision is approved and is not vetoed by President Bush, the attorney general said Texas likely would join MALDEF in a federal lawsuit challenging it on constitutional grounds.

Court battles resulting from approval of such a provision would mean "a total disruption of the census process that is relied upon by every state in this union," said Judith Sanders-Castro, MALDEF staff attorney. Even reapportionment could be postponed, she said.

Sen. Hector Uribe, D-Brownsville, said the amendment "smacks of racism and xenophobia."

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a 12-year-old girl who would like to tell you and your readers what it is like to grow up in a neighborhood where there are drug dealers on every corner.

I want to tell you about hearing gunfire every night and sleeping on the floor so you won't get shot. Can you imagine what it's like to know that you could be shot walking to a friend's house next door? Imagine being afraid to walk to the store to get a quart of milk for your mother. What would you say to somebody whose father was just shot? When I was 10 years old I saw my next-door neighbor killed because he didn't pay his drug dealer.

I ask you, what kind of a childhood do these kids have? The cops around here show up 20 minutes after you call. Nobody cares.

I would like to share one more thing with you. It is part of a poem written by a grammar-school student. I read it in our local newspaper. Of course, it's about violence in our neighborhood. That's all kids around here think about. Here it is:

Awake she sleeps, while danger creeps,

The guns fight, no sleep tonight.
Lay on the floor, lock the door,
'Til shots no more, I ask what for?

Who dies tonight?

I try to cope, with life on a rope,
What for? I've lost all hope...

This speaks for all the children who have given up hope because nothing is being done about the drugs and violence. Some of these kids will turn to drug dealing because it's a quick sure way to get a new car, lots of gold jewelry and spending money. -- New Haven

DEAR READERS: What irony that this letter comes from a city that has one of the most prestigious universities in the world. But then my own beautiful Chicago has gangs and drug problems within a few blocks of the most elegant high rises.

Is this a city problem, a federal problem, a medical problem, an economic problem or what? Any answers out there?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Since you seem to have connections everywhere I am hoping that you can track this story down and ease my curiosity.

A while back I was listening to Paul Harvey on the radio (this was when we were having so many different opinions about the flag) and Paul read an Associated Press wire story that went something like this:

In Las Cruces, N.M., a retired Navy person was found guilty of violating a noise law by flying the flag on windy days. His next-door neighbor, who was bothered by the snapping and popping of the 3-by-5 banner on top of a 40-foot flagpole, charged the man with creating a public nuisance. The offense carries up to 90 days in jail and a $3,000 fine.

What happened? Did the fellow have to pay the fine? Did he go to jail or what? -- Dying to Know in Arlington Heights, Ill.

DEAR ARLINGTON: Please don't die. I contacted my good friend Paul Harvey and this is what he said: The offending neighbor agreed to replace his flapping, popping nylon flag with a quieter one made of cotton. The case was dismissed. Whew!

An alcohol problem? How can you help yourself or someone you love? "Alcoholism: How to Recognize It, How to Deal With It, How to Conquer It" will give you the answers. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $3.65 (this includes postage and handling) to: Alcohol, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562. (In Canada send $4.45)

Herd looking to get back on track against Harvesters

By SAM W. WALLER
Sports Editors

The Hereford Whitefaces get back into the swing of things Friday when they travel to Pampa to take on the Harvesters in a District 1-4A contest.

The Herd (1-2 for the season and 0-1 in district) will be looking to end a two-game losing streak in the 7:30 p.m. game.

Herd head coach Don Cumpston said the game is important if the Whitefaces are to contend for a playoff spot.

"I expect our team to play a great game," he said. "And I think that's what it will take. I think it's going to take a great effort, not only by our team but by our fans and everybody."

"Pampa's been selling out every time they've played at home, and we're going to need all the help we can get. I hope our community will get behind this game because it's a big game for us."

Cumpston said the Harvesters' will show a variety of offensive sets in addition to their basic Power I formation.

"They do a lot of things," he said. "They show you bunches and bunches of formations. They run some of what I call the run and shoot. They'll do that for a while and then they'll come back and run a power game for a while, then they'll run the option game for a while."

"They're a solid ball club. They're doing things right and they're executing pretty good."

Both Cumpston and Pampa's Dennis Cavalier indicated that Harvesters quarterback James Bybee, one of only three in the district who started last year, will be important to the game's outcome.

"I think, overall as a football player, I believe he is the best quarterback we will have seen up to this point in the season," Cumpston said. "He does a good job of running the option, he's a good passer and he's pretty cool."

He's not a very big kid (5-7, 150), but he's an operator. He runs that ball club. He's the key to beating Pampa. We've got to contain him."

"We are very fortunate to have someone like James Bybee," Cavalier said. "There's no doubt that we are able to do more of the things we do because he played last year."

The other weapon in the Harvester attack is junior tailback Quincy Williams, another returning starter, who is averaging more than 100 yards rushing per game this season.

"He's their top running threat at tailback," Cumpston said. "I think they've got three outstanding athletes - Williams at tailback, one of their receivers named (Wayne) Cavanaugh and their quarterback."

On defense, Cumpston said the Harvesters will be very similar to the Herd.

"They've got two big ol' defensive tackles and they run to the ball good," he said. "They've been vulnerable to speed. People who have had some speed have been able to break some plays on them. If we'll execute we can move the ball."

Pampa comes into the game after losing to Estacado, 32-10, on Saturday, but Cumpston said the score was not indicative of the Harvesters' talent.

"Estacado just big played them to death," he said. "Pampa had 24 first downs and Estacado had 11, and total yardage was basically the same (387 for Estacado to 316 for Pampa). All of Estacado's basically came on long runs."

Cavalier admitted the resulting short week after the Estacado game could hamper his team.

"I'm not sure there are ever enough days to prepare for what we're going to see Friday. But, yes, we are behind a little in our work and that's something we'll have to deal with."

"And it doesn't help any that they've had an extra week to get ready."

As for the Herd coming off the open date, Cumpston said it should mean a good game for Hereford.

"We have a history of playing pretty good after an open date," he said. "It gave us a chance to work on some of our weak spots and shore up there."

One problem facing the Herd is the number of injuries to starters that have been piling up.

"As far as injuries go, we're not in very good shape," Cumpston said. "We've had some things happen to us. We lost Steve Tucker and Jim Andrews and now we're going to have to hold Jason Lueb out."

"He had a shoulder injury that re-occurred since last year, and it's just killing him. We held him out during the open date and all contact this week and we'll hold him out of this game. If he can just get it well we'll be miles ahead."

"Chris Tardy has a deep thigh bruise and he's going to be questionable. Matt Bromlow will do the punting if Chris can't go. So we're not just totally healthy, but the guys we're going to put in there are going to play good."

Cumpston added that the Herd is more than ready to get back on the field after the week off.

"I think it's going to be a great football game," he said. "I think both teams are very similar. It's their homecoming and there ought to be a lot of excitement in the air."

"I know this: we're certainly looking forward to playing again. I'm awfully proud of our team. I feel real good about this team right now. I'm more confident with them than since the season started. It may be one of the hardest working teams we've ever had. They ain't afraid to get out there and work, and because of that they're improving."

Secretariat dies at 19

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
AP Sports Writer

Secretariat twice finished fourth in his career - in his first start as a 2-year-old and in voting for the Associated Press' Athlete of the Year in 1973

The winner of the first race escapes memory. The winner of the balloting was another pretty good runner named O.J. Simpson.

It was that second fourth-place finish that tells the story of Secretariat.

"Maybe he wasn't the world's greatest racehorse, but he was a charismatic racehorse," said Penny Chenery, owner of the barrel-chested chestnut who put together the three greatest races any thoroughbred ever ran.

Sixteen years ago, Secretariat was the toast of the sports world, not just horse racing. His picture was on the covers of magazines such as Newsweek, Time and Sports Illustrated.

In the ensuing years, he has been the standard of comparison for other great horses, the subject of some controversy about his place as sire. The latest stories have been about his death at age 19 on Wednesday at Claiborne Farm in Lexington, Ky.

"I was proud of his success at breeding," Chenery said. And he was a success, with 40 stakes winners including Risen Star, who won the Preakness and Belmont Stakes in 1988.

"He didn't reproduce himself, but he was so far above the norm for the breed that it would be extraordinary," Chenery said.

In public impact, Secretariat was extraordinary.

"Red," "Big Red," "Superhorse," "Super Red," he was called.

A crowd of 5,000 showed up to watch his morning workout at Arlington Park in Chicago. Winning mutual tickets of his races became souvenirs.

When he lost, it was headlines, and the reasons why were numerous. One of the favorites was to blame Chenery, trainer Lucien Laurin and jockey Ron Turcotte. Secretariat wouldn't have lost on his own.

He won the Horse of the Year title in each of his two years of racing, and his record was 16 victories in 21 starts with earnings of $1,316,808.

There have been many better records, and a lot of horses have earned more money. But he would have beaten any horse that ever lived in the Triple Crown races of 1973 as he became the first Triple Crown champion since Citation in 1948.

He was a red beam down the Churchill Downs stretch in beating Sham and becoming the only sub-2-minute winner in Kentucky Derby history.

At Pimlico in the Preakness, he was last going into the first turn, first coming out, and nothing but first to the wire. It seemed to be Secretariat's idea.

Kelso team wins Key Club golf

The foursome of N.D. Kelso, George Ochs, Mel King and Glenn Wilson carded a 64 Saturday to win the Hereford Key club scramble at Pitman Municipal Golf Course.

The group took a three-stroke victory over the five-team.

Jerry Hodges, Mel Charest, Keith Hansen and Wade Easley placed second with a 67 for the 18 holes.

Third place went to the team of Hugh Blakey, Bartley Dowell, Jerry Best and Waldo Baxter with a 68.

John Stagner, Carlos Mendez, Bill Spies and Meredith Ireland scored a 69 while Robert Schroeter, Don Aycock, Charles Duvall and Sid Ham shot 70 to round out the field.

Herd favored by three over Pampa

The Hereford Whitefaces will get back into the District 1-4A football race as a three-point favorite to spoil the Pampa Harvester's homecoming, according to the Harris Rating System.

The Herd (1-2 overall, 0-1 in district) maintained its 172 power rating after an open date, but dropped four places to No. 46 in the Class 4A ranks.

The Harvesters (2-2, 1-1) come into the contest off a 32-10 road loss Saturday to Estacado. The loss dropped Pampa 23 places to No. 59 and lowered its power rating four points to 169.

This week's other District 1-4A matchups include Estacado at Levelland and Borger at Randall on Friday while Dumas visits Dunbar on Saturday.

Estacado (3-1, 2-0) at Levelland (3-1, 1-1) -- The Matadors rolled through Pampa on the strength of big plays including a 90-yard touchdown run by Robert J. Johnson and a 79-yard scoring jaunt by Patrick Williams. The win boosted Estacado 10 places to No. 20 and added two points to its rating to 178.

The Lobos suffered their first loss of the year, 6-3, at Dumas last week and watched their rating drop five points to 159 while sliding 20 places to No. 101.

Harris lists the Matadors as a 15-point favorite for the game.

Borger (2-2, 1-1) at Randall (3-0, 1-0) -- Both teams enter the contest after big upset wins; the Bulldogs thrashed Dunbar, 36-0, at home while the Raiders stunned defending district champ Frenship, 22-16, on the road.

Borger raised its rating four points to 167 and moved up 11 places to No. 73 while Randall gained three points on its rating to 166 and rose 11 spots to No. 76.

The Raiders are favored by two points for this week's most balanced matchup.

Dumas (1-2-1, 1-1) at Dunbar (0-4, 0-2) -- The Panthers have lost three times on Thursday and once on Friday, so they'll fight to stay out of the 1-4A cellar on Saturday.

Dunbar has been blown out in its last two games, losing by a combined 70-13. Last week's loss to Borger dropped the Cats 14 places to No. 111 and cost them four points off their rating to 157.

The Demons pulled off the shocker of the year last week when Juan Lagos' second field goal cleared the cross bar with no time left to beat Levelland. The win moved Dumas nine spots further from the bottom of the 4A heap to No. 134 and lifted the Demon's power rating three points to 143.

Dunbar rates a seven-point favorite in what may be both team's last chance to win a game this year.

Frenship (2-2, 1-1) -- The Tigers get this week's open date after falling to Randall. The loss dropped Frenship 19 places to No. 93 and erased three points off the Tigers' rating to 163.

Frenship returns to action next week at Borger.

Here are the picks in games of interest across the area by the Harris Rating System:

AMARILLO 7 over Monterey; LUBBOCK 17 over Caprock; Palo Duro 21 over CAPROCK; Plainview 12 over Tascosa; RANDALL 2 over Borger; DUNBAR 7 over Dumas; Estacado 15 over LEVELLAND; River Road 7 over MULESHOE; Littlefield 12 over CANYON; Panhandle 2 over DALHART; DIMITT 16 over OTTON; Hart 1 over FRIONA; Denver City 13 over SEMINOLE; LAMESA 5 over Cooper; Past 1 over BROWNFIELD; FARWELL 10 over Nazareth; SHALLOWATER 9 over Ralls.

Clark, Giants slam Chicago, 11-3

CHICAGO (AP) - Will Clark wouldn't rate his shower of destruction as his best game, although it stands out as "the most timely game I've ever had."

Clark put on a record-shattering performance Wednesday night, driving in six runs with two home runs, including a grand slam, a double and a single, in the San Francisco Giants' 11-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs in the opening game of the National League playoffs.

The Cubs finally figured a way to halt Clark by walking him in the eighth inning, only to have Kevin Mitchell, the other half of San Francisco's power tandem, follow with a three-run homer to complete the rout.

"We didn't play badly but they played real good and if they play like that again, this could be a short series," Chicago's Mark Grace said.

Grace and Ryne Sandberg each homered in the early innings to cut San Francisco's lead to 4-3. Clark delivered his first-pitch grand slam in the fourth inning, a shot that arched over the right-field bleachers and landed on Sheffield Ave.

"I got locked in tonight," Clark said, "but that doesn't mean I have this park or this pitching staff in my pocket. Anything can happen in a seven-game set."

Clark said he doesn't second-guess managers, but did wonder why Chicago's Don Zimmer didn't lift right-hander Greg Maddux with the bases loaded and the Giants slugger coming up.

Clark already had doubled in the first inning and homered in the third off Maddux. With runners on second and third and one out, Brett Butler was walked intentionally.

Robby Thompson popped out and Zimmer went to the mound to talk to Maddux.

"I knew they were trying to set up a double play by walking Butler," Clark said. "When he went to the mound for a conference, I thought he was going to take him out. When he didn't, I had to gather my thoughts about Maddux again."

"I just wanted to make sure we were together on how we were going to pitch to Clark," Zimmer said. "I got the answer I wanted but not the result."

Zimmer said he had indeed been looking for the double play with Thompson at bat. When Maddux retired Thompson, the manager decided to stay with his starting pitcher.

Clark said Maddux had been starting left-handers with a fast ball. "He tried to get it in there but just didn't."

"I got too much of the plate," Maddux said.

Clark's run-scoring double and a two-run double by Matt Williams staked Scott Garretts to a 3-0 lead in the first inning. Grace cut it to 3-2 with a homer in the first after Sandberg had doubled. Grace fouled off eight pitches before hitting the homer. He also had two singles.

Clark set a playoff record by driving in six runs and tied records with four hits, four runs, reaching base five times and with the grand slam.

Garretts had given up five hits and three runs in the first three innings. But after Clark handed him an 8-3 lead, the right-hander allowed three hits and no runs in the next four innings before leaving for a pinch batter.

Manager Roger Craig wasn't surprised that Clark, who finished second to San Diego's Tony Gwynn in an NL batting race that went down to the last day of the season, started off so well in the playoffs.

"There was a lot of pressure on Will in the last three or four games because of the batting title," Craig said. "He hit the ball good but they didn't fall in. I thought he'd have a good playoff."

The Cubs, trying to avoid falling behind 2-0 in the playoffs, send Mike Bielecki, 18-7, against Rick Reuschel, 17-8, tonight.

A's go up, 2-0, in ALCS

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) - Rickey Henderson's dance is mesmerizing - a shuffle here, a sprint there, a slide everywhere - but beware the muscle-flexing, ball-crushing Bash Brothers.

Mark McGwire, Dave Parker, Dave Henderson - the Oakland Athletics' big boys - are bashing their forearms aplenty. Only Jose Canseco is missing, and his problem, a dizzying migraine headache, could vanish as suddenly as it appeared.

"Now we've got the whole ballclub going," said McGwire, who doubled in one run and had three hits Wednesday as Oakland beat Toronto 6-3 to take a 2-0 lead in the American League playoffs. "We're doing a lot of things right now - hitting with power, running, pitching."

McGwire, 4-for-8 in Oakland's two victories, appears back on the beam after hitting .231 this season and finishing last year with a dreadful 1-for-17 in the World Series.

He can't figure out why he's suddenly hitting and doesn't really want to try, lest he fall victim to "paralysis by analysis."

"The only time I don't hit the ball is when I analyze it," said McGwire, who, despite his poor average, hit 33 homers and drove in 95 runs.

McGwire's double to left put the A's ahead 2-1 in the fourth after a "Rickey rally" had tied the game at the start of the inning. Henderson walked, stole second and third, and scored on Canseco's single.

Henderson's playoff-record four stolen bases were fun to watch, and they certainly shook up Toronto, but they were mere appetizers to the main meal delivered by Oakland's big men.

Parker drove a 400-foot homer over the center-field wall, straight over a fan's target, leading off the sixth inning.

McGwire followed with a single and Dave Henderson with a ground-rule double over the center-field fence. Ron Hassey lofted a sacrifice fly to center, scoring McGwire, and Tony Phillips singled to score Henderson.

Canseco struck out after entering Wednesday's game as a pinch-hitter in the sixth inning.

Notre Dame hits the air

NEW YORK (AP) - The Dallas Cowboys aren't America's team. The Atlanta Braves and the Chicago Cubs aren't, either.

Going by television, America's team is Notre Dame. The Fighting Irish are on CBS. They're on ABC. They're on ESPN. They're on SportsChannel America. They're on Raycom. They're not on MTV and the Disney Channel - yet.

"Clearly, putting Notre Dame on isn't a guarantee of magic," David Downs, vice president of programming for ABC Sports, said. "But the question is, what do you put on instead?"

This Saturday's game against Stanford is the only Notre Dame game not scheduled for national television. The 36-13 victory over Virginia in the Kickoff Classic was on Raycom. The 24-19 victory over Michigan was on ABC. The 21-13 victory over Michigan State was on CBS. The 40-7 victory over Purdue was on ABC.

"We've been playing excellent opponents every week," Notre Dame athletic director Richard Rosenthal said. "So the networks have been opting to show our games."

The Stanford game was supposed to be on ABC, but the network backed out after the Cardinal lost to San Jose State 40-33 last Saturday. So if you want to see it, you'll have to tune in WSJV-TV in Elkhart, Ind.

After that, it's back to national for the rest of the year: Air Force on ESPN, Southern California on CBS, Pittsburgh on ESPN, Navy and Southern Methodist on SportsChannel America, Penn. State and Miami on CBS.

"I think that's a product of the schedule and how well you're playing," Rosenthal said. "Our opportunity to be on television would be non-existent if we didn't play great teams."

He's probably a bit modest on that point. After all, no one has confused Purdue with Oklahoma. Notre Dame's victory over the Boilermakers still drew a 4.6 overnight rating.

Against ranked teams, the drawing power of the Irish really shows. The Michigan game got a 10.5 rating; ABC's season average is 6.6. The Michigan State game got a 7.3 rating; CBS' season average is 4.9.

"It's very difficult to quantify," Downs said of Notre Dame's popularity. "But obviously the biggest rating we had last year was our USC-Notre Dame game." That got a 14.5 rating; the season average was 6.2.

Rosenthal isn't worried about overexposure.

"I'm sure there is a danger," he said. "Obviously, if you don't play well, the networks won't elect to put our team on."

Perkins close to signing

DALLAS (AP) - The Dallas Mavericks appear to be close to signing veterans Sam Perkins and Bill Wennington, according to newspaper reports.

Both must be signed before they can participate in Friday's opening session of the Mavericks' training camp.

Lee Fentress, Perkins' agent, said Wednesday his client likely will accept a one-year contract from the Mavericks.

"If he's going to come to camp, he's got to sign the one year, at least. He can't be in the gym without a contract. That's the rule of the collective-bargaining agreement. But there's no deadline on when he has to accept it."

Meanwhile, Wennington, the team's other unsigned restricted free agent, has agreed to a two-year deal and will be in camp Friday, said Norm Sonju, Mavericks general manager.

Sonju also is expected to sign guards Steve Alford and John Long Thursday, both to non-guaranteed contracts.

Perkins has been offered a one-year deal of $975,000, according to the Dallas Morning News.

Perkins turned down a three-year deal worth $5 million, which would have made him the highest paid Maverick in history.

By signing for one year, Perkins would be in the position to gain unrestricted free agent status at the end of next year. He could sign an even better contract with another team that will be in need of a starting forward, while the Mavericks would get nothing in return.

Sonju said the one-year agreement would put the Mavericks at greater risk of losing Perkins.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: I am 75 years old. About 30 years ago I started to lose my hearing. Ten years later I had stapes surgery, first in my right ear, then in my left ear. It lasted for seven years and then I had to resort to hearing aids. Now I have a constant roaring in my left ear. Can I be helped in any way?

DEAR READER: Perhaps the fact that you had a stapes operation tells me that the reason for your initial loss of hearing was otosclerosis. In that recent new bone formation results in immobilization of the small bones in the middle ear chamber that oscillate to transmit sound waves. One of these three small bones, the stapes, is often operated on to free the bones so that sound waves can be transmitted again. There are several different surgical approaches to this problem. When the surgery is successful, which it is in about 90 percent of the cases, the hearing is restored.

The roaring you describe is tinnitus and one of the many causes for tinnitus is otosclerosis. The noises usually do occur at some point during the hearing loss or after it has begun. The treatment is to correct the otosclerosis or excess bone growth when possible. If the treatment is successful, the ear noise goes away.

Not every case of otosclerosis can be adequately treated for an extended period of time. With a 30-year history and a previous operation, I couldn't say what you might expect, but you certainly should discuss this with an ear, nose and throat specialist. Then there is the question of whether you have developed other hearing problems independent of otosclerosis - which would not be uncommon in your age group. In either case, if your hearing can be improved adequately, that should help.

There are some other measures that are used in treating ear noises as well. I have discussed these in Special Report 51, Ear Noises (Tinnitus), which I am sending you. Others who want this report can send $1 with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/51, P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713.

DEAR DR. LAMB: My voice has never changed. When I was between 12 and 13 my voice tried to change but never did. It is very noticeable when I talk to someone on the phone. They think I am a woman. It is very embarrassing to me.

I'm 42 years old, 5 feet 9 inches and weigh 180 pounds. I have one daughter and two sons and have been married for 19 years. All of my features are masculine. My arms and legs are very muscular and hairy. I have a nice beard and mustache. My Adam's apple is not noticeable. Is this a hormone imbalance? Any help will be appreciated.

DEAR READER: I doubt it has anything to do with your hormones. Rather it may have something to do with your larynx (Adam's apple). Voice pitch is related to the size (mass) of the vocal cords that vibrate to make sounds and the tension they are under - like the tension on a stringed instrument. When the vocal cords are under increased tension it raises the pitch.

I would suggest you see a specialist in ear, nose and throat problems at the large medical university I know is near your home. You may need a test called laryngostroboscopy, which shows the movements of your vocal cords when you are speaking. You may have a correctable defect of the vocal cords.

At the very least, if you do not have a correctable condition, speech therapy could help you lower your voice to a considerable degree.

DEAR DR. LAMB: Every time I turn around someone else I know has cancer of the pancreas. It is scary how common it is. So many people have heartburn and digestive complaints. Are medical scientists examining ways to fight it or do they have to spend all their time on AIDS? Does anyone ever recover from cancer of the pancreas?

DEAR READER: Cancer of the pancreas is the fourth leading cause of cancer deaths in both men and women in the U.S., causing about 23,000 deaths a year. It has a very low five-year survival rate. It may not cause any symptoms until it is already in an advanced stage. When it does cause symptoms, they may be digestive complaints that can be caused by many other disorders - including pain in the pit of the stomach with radiation to the back, weight loss or anemia. If it obstructs the bile duct, it may cause painless jaundice.

There is a great deal of research to find better means of diagnosis, which includes sophisticated antibody-type blood tests that are very promising. Combined radiation and chemotherapy treatment offers promise, but early detection, perhaps with the antibody-type tests, offers the best hope for early diagnosis which can lead to an improved outlook.

Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers with health questions. You can write to him at P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713. Although Dr. Lamb cannot reply to all letters personally, he will respond to selected questions in future columns.

To reduce your risk of heart disease follow these American Heart Association dietary guidelines: keep saturated fat to less than 10 percent of calories, total fat to less than 30 percent of calories, cholesterol to less than 300 mg per day, and sodium to less than 3,000 mg per day.

New oil products battle cholesterol

Consumers fighting the cholesterol battle may have another weapon in monounsaturated fatty acid oils such as olive and sunflower.

Dr. Mary Kinney Sweeten, a Texas Agricultural Extension Service nutrition specialist, said recent studies by a California researcher indicate that the monounsaturated fatty acids are equal to the polyunsaturated fatty acids in lowering blood low-density-lipoprotein cholesterol (LDL), or "bad" cholesterol.

"This study investigated heart disease at 15 sites. Dr. Fred Mattson examined high-fat diets consumed by residents of Crete where heart disease is rare," Sweeten said.

Mattson found the islanders consumed much fat from olive oil, which is high in monounsaturated fatty acids. Mattson also examined effects of saturated, monounsaturated and polyunsaturated fatty acids in other studies.

"Although more studies are in progress, Mattson's evidence indicates that diets low in saturated fatty acids and high in monounsaturated fatty acids may help prevent heart disease," Sweeten said.

Mattson also said that replacing saturated fatty acids with the monounsaturated fatty acids effectively lowers overall cholesterol in the blood and decreases the LDL while not decreasing the high-density lipoproteins (HDL), the "good" cholesterol.

Consumers looking for monounsaturated fatty acids now have additional choices, Sweeten said.

"Until recently, olive oil was the only readily available fat high in monounsaturated and low in saturated fatty acids," she said. "New varieties are beginning to appear in store shelves such as high oleic sunflower- and safflower-seed oils and canola oil."

Although olive oil has a distinctive color and aroma, the culinary properties, appearance and taste of the other monounsaturated fatty acid oils are identical to oils presently used in the United States, she said.

An additional advantage is the new oils' resistance to spoilage, a common problem of the polyunsaturated fatty acid oils now used by many health-conscious consumers.

"American Bandstand," hosted by Dick Clark, made its network debut on ABC in 1957.

The United States, Britain and the Soviet Union signed a treaty in 1963 which banned nuclear tests in the atmosphere, in space and under water.

Hints from Heloise

ODORLESS CABBAGE
Dear Heloise: My family loves corned beef and cabbage, but we can't stand the odor of cabbage cooking. I put the cover on the pot but it still has a strong smell. Any ideas on how to eliminate or lessen it would be appreciated. — Betty Wilson, Dallas, Texas

You can help eliminate the odor by adding some vinegar to the water while boiling it. Vinegar has a multitude of uses and its versatility makes it an indispensable product.

Because of its versatility, I have compiled a pamphlet that can be purchased by sending $1 and a stamped, self-addressed, legal-sized envelope to Heloise Vinegar, P.O. Box 19765, Irvine, CA 92713. — Heloise

NEW YORK (AP) - The filming of "Evita" has been delayed indefinitely after an exhausted Meryl Streep dropped the project from her schedule, the film's director and producer said.

"I still very much want to see 'Evita' made," Director Oliver Stone, who directed "Platoon," said in a statement released Wednesday.

Streep withdrew because of exhaustion from her current schedule, producer Robert Stigwood said in the statement.

Calls to three different numbers for Streep's spokesman went unanswered Wednesday night.

Betty Crocker's Cooking Tips

Q. Does hot, scalded milk have to be cooled before adding it to a bread recipe? J.H., Fort Atkinson, WI

A. Yes, however, it's no longer necessary to scald milk, only heat to temperature indicated in recipe. In older recipes, scalded milk must be cooled to between 110 to 115 degrees before adding eggs or yeast. If temperature drops below 85 degrees, the yeast will not grow. If it's hotter than 115 degrees, the yeast will be killed. Sweeteners and salt can be added to hot mixture.

Q. When is glaze added to baking ham? Mrs. M.R., Cahokia, IL

A. Remove ham 30 minutes before it's done. Cut away fat from ham and mark meat surface with uniform diamond shapes. Pat or brush with glaze and bake another 30 minutes.

Q. I like coleslaw with mayonnaise and sugar dressing, but it gets too watery. What would help? M.McB., Sorrento, FL

A. Drain and blot the shredded cabbage very well before adding the dressing because it already has a high water content and may separate after ingredients are added and mixture is stirred. The longer coleslaw is stored, the more it will become watery.

Do you have a question? Write Dear Betty Crocker, Box 1113, Dept. Betty, Minneapolis, MN 55440

TIP OF THE WEEK: For best results, bake angel food, sponge or chiffon cake in a tube on lowest rack in oven.

Salesman Confesses

Claims newspaper is best salesman

On Monday, Jules Wintner, owner of a local retail establishment, confessed his job as a salesman was obsolete due to the impact of newspaper advertising. Wintner, in an exclusive interview, said sales were made in the local paper instead of in the store.

"Sure, we get a chance for additional sales," Wintner commented, "but the newspaper has become our best salesman." Wintner reported that consumers name the local newspaper as their usual source of "Best Buy" information, 10 times more than radio or television. This con- forms with a recent Consumer Data Service report that indicated 60% of the consumers seek "Best Buy" information from the newspaper versus only 6% for radio and 7% for television.

Wintner later remarked that because the newspaper is read by all Texans, regardless of income, his business was able to sell both upper end products as well as value priced items. "No matter what we're selling, we get good response in the newspaper," he said. "In fact, the more expensive the product, the better our response seems to be." This fact is substantiated in a survey by the Texas Newspaper Advertising Bureau that documented readership of the newspaper increases as income increases. In the survey, almost 75% of Texans with incomes exceeding $50,000 a year read

Salesman admits he "never had to sell anything" because of newspaper ads

"Our customers shop the newspaper. When they walk in the door, they already know what they want, they know the price and often have the ad with them."

the newspaper. "My job has become redundant," Wintner admitted. "Used to be I had to really sell each customer, but now I'm just an order taker." Asked what he intended to do now that the newspaper was doing most of the selling, he replied, "Spend more in newspaper advertising than last year."

Dalai Lama wins '89 Nobel Peace Prize

OSLO, Norway (AP) - The Dalai Lama, the exiled spiritual and political leader of Tibet, won the 1989 Nobel Peace Prize today for shunning violence and seeking liberation from China for his Himalayan nation through peaceful means.

"The Dalai Lama has come forward with constructive and forward-looking proposals for the solution of international conflicts, human rights issues and global environmental problems," said the citation from the Norwegian Nobel Committee.

Nobel Committee chairman Egil Aarvik said the Buddhist monk was reached in Los Angeles and informed of the decision.

The man born Tenzin Gyatso in 1935 had been nominated for the coveted prize for at least the last three years, the national NTB news agency reported.

Last year, in a speech to the European Parliament, the Dalai Lama proposed a compromise for ending China's 29-year occupation of his homeland, offering to keep Tibet as an autonomous Chinese territory and to relinquish control of foreign affairs to Beijing.

The Dalai Lama's persistent campaign to free Tibet from Chinese rule has sometimes embarrassed countries he visited that hoped to improve ties with Beijing, including Norway.

During a visit in September 1988 appointments with several Norwegian officials were canceled without explanation. The Chinese Embassy reportedly had protested the visit to the government.

The committee said: "The Dalai Lama in his struggle for the liberation of Tibet consistently has opposed the use of violence. He has instead advocated peaceful solutions based upon tolerance and mutual respect in order to preserve the historical and cultural heritage of his people."

The citation added: "The Dalai Lama has developed his philosophy of peace from a great reverence for all things living and upon the concept of universal responsibility embracing all mankind as well as nature."

Ninety people and organizations were nominated for this year's prize, which carries a cash award of three million Swedish kronor, or $469,000.

The prize winner is the 14th Dalai Lama, chosen when he was 5 years old as the reincarnation of Tibet's god-king, making him both the religious and political leader of the isolated mountain kingdom until the 1950 Chinese takeover.

The Dalai Lama and about 100,000 of his supporters fled Tibet in 1959 and established a government-in-exile in Dharamsala, India in the foothills of the Himalayas.

In recent years he has offered to relinquish any political role for himself in Tibet, saying he preferred to see a democratic government while he led simple life of a Buddhist monk.

"Let the young, intelligent Tibetans carry the responsibility for leading the government," he said last year during a visit to Stockholm, Sweden.

The prize was established by dynamite inventor Alfred Nobel to reward the person who has worked hardest for "fraternity among peoples," disarmament or promoting peace conferences.

But in recent years the committee has used the prize to encourage human rights or to build international support for fledgling peace efforts.

In 1986, the winner was author and Holocaust survivor Elie Wiesel.

The 1987 award went to Costa Rican President Oscar Arias for his Central American peace plan. Last year's prize went to the U.N. peacekeeping forces.

Pickens won't call Koito meet

DALLAS (AP) - Texas oilman T. Boone Pickens says he won't take part in a special shareholders meeting of a Japanese autoparts maker, saying he thinks management is plotting to manipulate the outcome.

Pickens said he will instead look for other ways to establish his rights as the company's largest shareholder.

"We will not take part in a special sham shareholders meeting," Pickens said. Pickens has invested more than $1 billion to acquire a 26 percent stake in the company.

After upping his stock from 20 percent, Pickens indicated last month he might call for a special meeting, but said Wednesday, "Koito Chairman Takao Matsuura and Toyota are already conspiring to orchestrate the meeting to a predetermined conclusion."

Toyota Motor Co. is Koito's major customer for its headlights and several board members are current or former Toyota executives, Koito disputes Pickens' contention, however, that Toyota has three members of the board.

"The recent actions of Koito, Toyota and other shareholders reinforce our assessment of Japan's rigged corporate system, a system that is closed to outsiders," Pickens said.

"They're all ready for a shareholders meeting," said Sidney L. Tassin, a partner in Boone Co., Pickens' Dallas-based investment arm.

"They've already got everybody lined up over there to defend against a shareholder meeting. It's clear that that will not be an effective event. We're going to try some other angles," he said. "We will announce it as we're ready to put it in place."

Since becoming Koito's largest shareholder earlier this year, Pickens has been rebuffed in attempts to gain seats on the 20-member board of directors. He has said the actions indicate that Japan is closed to foreign investors.

Pickens also has asked the board to increase its dividends through distributing about $8 million the company received from Japanese investor Kitaro Watanabe, who was ordered to return profits from speculating in the company's stock. Pickens bought most of his Koito holdings from Watanabe or affiliates.

Because he has held at least 10 percent of Koito stock for at least six months, Pickens can call for a stockholders meeting at any time and Tassin said that option still could be exercised.

As a major shareholder, Pickens also has rights of access to some information, including accounting and financial records. "There are other types of business transactions that we can get in a position to influence or approve," Tassin said.

Pickens said he has written other Koito shareholders, asking their opinion of and support for increasing the dividend, but has received no replies. He said he will send a second letter before determining further actions.

Koito has said it will deal cautiously with Pickens because of his ties to Watanabe, who twice has attempted to get the company to repurchase his shares at a premium before he sold them to Pickens.

Last week, Koito chairman Matsuura asked Pickens to clarify his relationship with Watanabe, specifically if there are any financing or buy-back arrangements between the two raiders.

Pickens declined to outline any relationship, except to say, "We bought and paid for" the Koito shares. "It's ours."
