Football Queen candidates

The 1989 football queen at Hereford High School will be crowned at a pep rally at 2:10 p.m. Friday at HHS. The candidates and attendants include, from left, attendants Brenna Reinauer and Shantel Cornelius, senior candidates Poppy Richardson, Nikki Self and Kristie Allison, and attendant Amy Solomon. The queen will be presented before Friday's home finale at Whiteface Stadium when the Whitefaces host the Borger Bulldogs.

East Germans consider vote

BERLIN (AP) — East German leader Egon Krenz called for a law ensuring free and democratic elections, and a group of prominent Communists today said the Berlin Wall could soon become a relic.

Communist leaders decided today to consider even more changes in the government hierarchy, which has been revamped in the face of growing public upheaval and the exodus of tens of thousands of East Germans to the West.

The Communist Party's Central Committee set a party conference for Dec. 15-17. A party conference, a forum for making major changes in party policy, was last held in 1956.

The official ADN news agency said the conference would discuss personnel changes in the 163-member Central Committee.

The decision to consider overhauling the policy-setting committee comes on the heels of the mass resignations of the Politburo and the Cabinet.

The remarkable moves at the top again were accompanied by a now-familiar sight in the streets: tens of thousands of people chanting for change as their leaders scramble to embrace — or at least give the appearance of embracing — major reforms.

"There is hope, but there are thousands of questions." -- Opposition leader

About 10,000 people demonstrated Wednesday night in Neubrandenburg and near Karl Marx Stadt for free elections and an end to authoritarian one-party rule, ADN said.

Krenz touched on the volatile topic of multiparty elections in a speech to the Central Committee that was published today in state newspapers. He called for a "new election law that ensures free, democratic general elections with a secret ballot."

He proposed "public supervision in every stage of the balloting."

Krenz did not say whether he was urging a true multiparty system in East Germany. Officials already say elections are democratic, even though the system guarantees the Communists virtually unanimous approval.

Krenz also promised new laws on freedom of assembly, association and the press, but gave no details.

However, he did say independent groups might have a role in the nation's politics as East Germany tries to recover from the shock of losing more than 200,000 mostly young, skilled workers to the West this year.

Politburo member Guenter Schabowski today said the Communists were ready to go into free elections "without any limits."

In Frankfurt, East Germany, a leader of the New Forum opposition group, Baerbel Bohley, welcomed the new initiatives.

"There is hope," she concluded. "But there are thousands of questions, everybody has them... I've gotten to know people who have had much injustice done to them. And this can't be swept under the table."

Meanwhile, a group of 15 East Berlin Communists and scientists wrote a letter to the Central Committee suggesting the Berlin Wall be torn down in the near future.

"It is also imaginable, even in the foreseeable future, that the wall will become a relic of the past" if an agreement is signed with West Germany that would prevent "damage to the East German economy," the group said.

The letter appeared today in the Berliner Zeitung, a newspaper of the city's Communist Party organization.

Communist authorities built the Berlin Wall in 1961 to stop an exodus to West Germany. It became a symbol of the differences between East and West, differences that Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev has sought to erase by urging reforms in the Soviet bloc.

Many East Germans continued to decide to flee their country today rather than agitate for reform. The exodus of thousands of East Germans through Czechoslovakia continued unabated, with new arrivals traveling by train, car, bus and even on foot to overflowing West German reception centers.

Prairie Justice: Circumstantial evidence and the young lawyer

EDITOR'S NOTE: His rakish past closing in, Bobby Templin was implicated but unindicted in the strange death of his pretty wife Rhonda as the 1970s drew to an end. Rhonda's parents had made Bobby the target of their private inquiry since Rhonda's lifeless body was found in the bathtub of her home in April 1976. The evidence the parents collected as they crossed West Texas finally catches the eye of a young prosecutor as this installment of "Prairie Justice" begins.

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer

ROTAN, Texas (AP) — To Rusty Carroll, the death of Rhonda Templin was nothing less than a total breakdown of the system.

"This case demonstrates to me how a smart defendant can set up a cold-blooded killing and do it with such skill that police are fooled, the JP is fooled and various autopsy doctors are duped," he said.

But Carroll was new to his job as assistant prosecutor in Fisher County and did not act at once.

After looking into the frustrating case, he asked investigator Ken Crow to meet with Norbert and Jaye Nell Schlegel and assure them that their daughter's death was not being ignored.

"Tell the parents to be patient," the young prosecutor quietly recommended.

Carroll was well aware that double jeopardy statutes would preclude a second trial if Rhonda's deceitful husband Bobby was prosecuted and acquitted on existing evidence.

"We only get one bite of the apple," warned Carroll in a string of mixed metaphors, "and we better make it good. There's no instant reply. You pick up your marbles and go home."

Ken Crow understood quite well what the feisty but pragmatic attorney was saying, and he so informed Norbert and Jaye Nell Schlegel. They had no choice but to believe him. It was unlikely that Carroll's boss, District Attorney Frank Ginzel, was going to act.

"When Rusty becomes DA," said Crow, "this could become a prosecutable case."

It had been four years since Rhonda Templin was fatally shocked while bathing at her home in Rotan. As part of their private inquiry, her parents were now keeping tabs on son-in-law Bobby through a wrongful death suit they filed against him in 1978.

They dutifully passed along their findings to Crow.

One day the Schlegels received a newspaper clipping in the mail from an old friend of Rhonda. It was a story about Dr. Vincent DiMaio, chief pathologist at the Dallas Institute of Forensic Science, and his testimony in a murder case.

Realizing it was a long shot at best, they gathered up the autopsy report and the photographs and anything else they could lay their hands on and drove 300 miles to Dallas.

Describing that meeting with Dr. DiMaio, Norbert said:

"He looked at everything. He read the autopsy report and looked at the photographs and then called in another doctor, Patrick Besant-Matthews. Dr. Matthews was the foremost expert in electrical deaths and had been in Dallas only two months.

Part 4

"He reviewed the information and said, 'This was a homicide. And I'll testify to that.'"

The Schlegels headed home that evening convinced that fate had finally dealt them a winning hand.

In January 1981, Frank Ginzel retired as district attorney and was succeeded as expected by Rusty Carroll. Unlike Ginzel, the spunky young Carroll was not burdened with doubts about Bobby's guilt or qualms about prosecuting him.

Carroll considered Bobby a handsome and charming womanizer and a clever and ruthless killer. He once told a reporter: "It takes a cold, callous person to do something like that."

But personal animosity aside, a startling bit of information had surfaced via Ken Crow, who got it from the Schlegels, who picked it up from Bobby's relatives. Despite their early resistance, several members of Bobby's family had become openly supportive of the Schlegels' inquiry.

Now, two of his young cousins claimed Bobby once bragged that he and his older brother Jim had electrocuted dogs and cats while youngsters in Dallas.

"He said that they peeled some wires back on an extension cord, and hooked them to the dog or cat, and then plugged them in," Dale Simpson maintained. "Sometimes it killed them and sometimes it didn't."

Carroll knew this wasn't a "smoking gun" but in a classic circumstantial case such as this, it was a loaded and dangerous weapon. It demonstrated Bobby's familiarity with electricity and its use to kill or maim.

"The knowledge of how to harm and kill with electricity is not common," Carroll said. "It is an unusual perversion."

Summoning Ken Crow to his office, Carroll discussed the evidence gathered over the last five years and kicked around the impact of the cousins' strange story.

"I think it's murder," Carroll said, "and I think we've got a case. Let's go. Let's take it to the grand jury."

As luck would have it, Bobby was vigorously contributing to his own downfall. He returned to the small town of Rotan, split with his second wife Melanie and ran off to Cisco with a woman he worked with at the hospital.

Melanie surely was unamused by the irony of Bobby's latest playmate being a co-worker, which paralleled their own affair in the same town in 1976 when Rhonda was alive.

Melanie's divorce from Bobby was not even final in 1980 when Bobby and his new love interest fled town, and Bobby's popularity was hardly enhanced by the fact that his girlfriend abandoned her own spouse and children.

That romance likewise was doomed, crumbling as it did after the couple moved to Sweeny, near Houston. Bobby wasted no time finding a new companion, one whom he promptly impregnated and eventually married.

On April 21, 1981, five years and 10 days after Rhonda's death, a Fisher County grand jury indicted Bobby Templin for murder.

King's Manor dinner tonight

Dr. Windfrey C. Link, president and chief executive officer of McKendree Village, Inc., of Nashville, Tenn., will address the annual Founder's Dinner to be held at 7 p.m. today in the Lamar Garden Room at King's Manor in Hereford.

Donors and other who have contributed to the program at King's Manor in various ways will be recognized at the annual banquet.

Dr. Link has led a very distinguished career in the retirement home industry, serving in several leadership positions state and national organizations, and in many areas in the United Methodist Church.

Dr. Link was granted a Doctor of Humanities degree from Emory and Henry College in 1980, and received the Distinguished Service Award of the UMC Association of Health and Welfare Ministries in 1984.

Entertainment will be provided by Dee Anne Trotter and Steve Sobczak. A minimum suggested donation for tickets is $25 per person, and reservations should be made by calling 364-0661.

Can Hunger drive Friday

Jim Haile, left, chairman of the Deaf Smith County Child Welfare Board, worked with other board members Wednesday on final plans for a canned food drive. Fans planning to attend Friday's Borger vs. Hereford game are asked to bring at least one can of food, which will be donated to the Christmas Stocking Fund.

Canned foods needed Friday

By KAY PECK
Staff Writer

Spectators will be permitted to enter this Friday's Hereford Whiteface football game without a can of food, but they better expect to be given a little grief for their oversight.

"Hopefully, we'll collect two or three tons of food," said Herb De La Rosa, a member of the Deaf Smith County Child Welfare Board which is sponsoring the canned food drive.

Theme for the food drive is "Can the Bulldogs." This theme is referring to the Borger Bulldogs, the team which the Herd will be playing this Friday.

The Child Welfare Board decided some time back that the final home game of the Whitefaces' regular football season would be an excellent opportunity to conduct a food drive. Canned edibles collected on Friday will be included in packages to be distributed to needy families during the Christmas Stocking Fund project which will be conducted in December.

"Our (the Welfare Board) concerns are with people in need, and this just seemed like a logical thing to do," said County Judge Tom Simons whose seat on the Child Welfare Board is part of his official duties.

The board wishes to encourage those planning to attend Friday's game to associate the donation of a can of food with supplying a ticket to enter the game.

"We want to convey that this is a benevolent action that we want to encourage," said Jim Haile, chairman of the board.

Judge Simons indicated that the Child Welfare Board would not have been able to organize the canned food drive without the cooperation of school officials.

"We really appreciate their help," Simons said. The Child Welfare Board is instrumental in overseeing the care of Deaf Smith County children who are in the custody of the Texas Department of Human Services. At present, there are nine children from the welfare board is assisting with their special needs.

Local Roundup

Juvenile incidents reported

Juveniles dominated investigations conducted by the Hereford Police Department since Wednesday morning.

One incident involved $2,000 in damage to a video machine at a fast food restaurant on East Park Avenue. Juveniles are suspected in that case of criminal mischief.

A female juvenile was taken to Deaf Smith General Hospital yesterday from Hereford High School. The girl was apparently suffering from a self-induced drug overdose.

In a second incident at the high school, a juvenile female reported that a 14-year-old boy had threatened her with a knife, holding the weapon to her throat. No injuries were reported, and the case was referred to juvenile authorities.

A woman in the 500 block of Blevins reported that a group of juveniles used abusive language while threatening her and her children.

Police also investigated a report of a suspicious vehicle in an alley in the 300 block of Ave. K. The vehicle was gone by the time officers arrive.

City police issued 15 citations and investigated one traffic accident with minor injuries. The Hereford Volunteer Fire Department assisted in working that accident which occurred on South Main.

Arrests made by the Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Office were: A man, 26, for violation of probation; a man, 33, for violation of probation; and a man, 26, for violation of probation.

Sophomore supper Friday

The sophomore class at Hereford High School will host a Mexican stack supper from 5-7 p.m. Friday at the HHS cafeteria.

Tickets are $3.50 per person ($4 for carry-outs) and tickets will be available at the door. Proceeds will benefit class activities.

Warmer weather forecast

Tonight will be fair and a little warmer with a low of 38. Variable winds will be less than 10 miles per hour.

Friday will be sunny and a little warmer with a high near 70. West winds will be 10-15 mph.

This morning's low at KPAN was 32 after a high Wednesday of 58.

Donation to Red Cross

Betty Henson, left, of the Deaf Smith county Chapter of the American Red Cross, accepts a $500 donation from Kennym Ruland, representing the Hereford Elks' Lodge. The donation will be used to purchase a mannikin that can be used in CPR, water safety and other classes offered by the Red Cross.

Kitty Dukakis is hospitalized

BOSTON (AP) - Kitty Dukakis, struggling against alcoholism, was hospitalized for severe reactions to rubbing alcohol, which she drank while exhausted because of flu and depression, her doctor said.

The wife of Gov. Michael Dukakis had been taking anti-depressants prescribed by her psychiatrist, but tests showed the rubbing alcohol caused her hospitalization, said Dr. Gerald Plotkin, the family physician.

The Dukakis family removed all alcoholic beverages from their home after Mrs. Dukakis entered a treatment program for alcoholism last February, said Mindy Lubber, the governor's spokeswoman.

Plotkin did not comment Wednesday on whether Mrs. Dukakis had knowingly tried to hurt herself or was seeking the effects of alcohol when she drank a small amount of the poisonous substance Monday.

The former Democratic presidential candidate spent Monday and Tuesday at his wife's side, canceled all appointments, and refused to comment.

Mrs. Dukakis, who turns 53 next month, was taken by ambulance to the hospital on the eve of the first anniversary of her husband's presidential defeat.

"Autumn has been a particularly bad season for her," said Plotkin. "Kitty has suffered from chemical dependency and struggled with depression for many years. These two problems often are related."

She was admitted to the intensive care unit at Brigham and Women's Hospital complaining of what a spokeswoman said were "flu-like symptoms." On Wednesday, she was moved to a private room.

Lubber said Wednesday night she did not know how long Mrs. Dukakis would be hospitalized.

Rubbing alcohol is normally about 70 percent isopropyl alcohol, which is much more toxic than ethanol, or drinking liquor, said Alan Woolf, director of the Massachusetts Poison Center at Children's Hospital in Boston.

Isopropyl alcohol can damage the stomach and about 10 ounces of it could be lethal, Woolf said.

It is not uncommon for alcoholics to drink rubbing alcohol if nothing else is available.

"Usually it's somebody with a severe alcohol problem," said a woman at the Alcohol Abuse 24-Hour Hotline who declined to give her name.

"They'll drink anything, even hair spray."

In February, Mrs. Dukakis entered a Rhode Island alcoholism treatment center for four weeks of therapy. She previously said she overcame a 26-year addiction to diet pills.

In October, Mrs. Dukakis participated in an Outward Bound rafting and camping expedition in Colorado, "a great experience that suggested falsely that this fall might not be so bad," Plotkin said.

He said she had been keeping a hectic public speaking schedule and was exhausted when she returned from Indiana a week ago today.

The Dukakis were married in 1963 and have always lived in suburban Brookline, where they grew up. They have three grown children and a granddaughter.

Dukakis' 86-year-old mother, Euterpe, also was hospitalized Monday. She was in satisfactory condition Wednesday at Beth Israel Hospital, where she was admitted after a bout of fainting spells.

Dukakis has faced a difficult season, aggravated by the dissolution of what had been touted as the state's economic miracle.

As Dukakis visited his wife Wednesday night, weary legislators had their hands full, debating cuts into an already lean state budget to offset a $720 million shortfall.

His four-year term ends in 1991. He has said he won't seek re-election.

Fate of Iranian prince's house still debated

LUBBOCK (AP) - Although the United States has unfrozen some Iranian assets after almost a decade, the State Department hasn't decided yet what to do with a house formerly occupied by the Shah of Iran's eldest son.

The Iranian government paid $265,000 for the spacious ranch house near Texas Tech's campus in 1978 so Prince Reza Pahlavi could have a weekend retreat while he attended pilot training at Reese Air Force Base.

The prince completed his training and vacated the house eight months before militant Iranians seized about 60 hostages at the U.S. embassy in Tehran in November 1979.

The revolutionary government led by Ayatollah Khomeini assumed ownership of the house, and the State Department assumed control of it when the U.S. government froze Iranian assets in 1980.

"It's hard to tell what will happen to a specific piece of real estate, as opposed to a transfer of funds," State Department spokesman George Malleck said from Washington. "There may be a decision soon about what we'll be doing with the house, but I just don't know for certain."

In the months preceding the U.S. government's seizure of Iranian assets, Iran tried to sell the house for $625,000, but there were no takers.

"I don't know why, but they really placed a high value on the home," said Stephen Von Phul, a Lubbock real estate agent and the property's trustee. "I assume it was because the prince, part of the royal family they had kicked out, had lived there. But they were just asking too much for the house."

Von Phul filed suit against the revolutionary government in 1980, alleging that, by overpricing the house, the new government had prevented him from selling the property and collecting a commission. He sought $25,000 in lost commissions and $6,000 in legal fees.

When it unfroze the more than half-billion dollars of Iranian assets

Monday, the State Department announced $243 million in other Iranian assets was being transferred to an account to settle Americans' claims against Iran. But Von Phul said he has lost hope of ever collecting on his claim.

"My children and my grandchildren and their grandchildren probably won't live to see any settlement made," he said.

Since 1980, the house has been leased to student pilots at Reese, a Texas Tech fraternity and several families, Von Phul said. A family now occupies the house.

Today in History

By The Associated Press

Today is Thursday, Nov. 9, the 313th day of 1989. There are 52 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On Nov. 9, 1938, bands of Nazis began roaming the streets of Germany and Austria, looting and burning synagogues as well as Jewish-owned stores and houses. The pogrom became known as "Kristallnacht" because of the broken glass that littered the streets.

On this date:

In 1872, fire destroyed nearly a thousand buildings in Boston.

In 1918, Germany's Kaiser Wilhelm II announced he would abdicate. He then fled to the Netherlands.

In 1935, United Mine Workers President John L. Lewis and other labor leaders formed the Committee for Industrial Organization as part of the American Federation of Labor.

In 1953, the U.S. Supreme Court upheld a 1922 ruling that Major League baseball did not come within the scope of federal antitrust laws. In 1953, author-poet Dylan Thomas died in New York at the age of 39.

In 1963, twin disasters struck Japan as some 450 miners were killed in a coal dust explosion and 160 people died in a train crash.

In 1965, the great Northeast blackout occurred as several states and parts of Canada were hit by a series of power failures lasting up to 13 1/2 hours. In 1967, a Saturn V rocket carrying an unmanned Apollo spacecraft blasted off from Cape Kennedy on a successful test flight.

In 1970, former French President Charles DeGaulle died at the age of 79.

In 1976, the U.N. General Assembly approved ten resolutions condemning apartheid in South Africa, including one characterizing the white-ruled government as "illegitimate."

In 1986, Israel acknowledged it was holding Mordechai Vanunu, a former nuclear plant technician who had vanished while in London after making claims about Israel's nuclear weapons capability.

Ten years ago: The United Nations Security Council unanimously called on Iran "in the strongest terms" to release the American hostages at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran.

Five years ago: A bronze statue by Frederick Hart, titled "Three Servicemen," was unveiled on the site of the Vietnam Veterans Memorial in Washington. The statue, depicting a trio of battle-weary soldiers, was included in response to criticism that the memorial did not adequately represent Vietnam veterans.

One year ago: Former Attorney General John N. Mitchell, a major figure in the Watergate scandal during the Nixon administration, died in Washington at age 75.

Today's birthdays: Former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew is 71. Sportscaster Charlie Jones is 59. Baseball manager Whitey Herzog is 58. Astronomer Carl Sagan is 55. Senator Bob Graham, D-Fla., is 53. Actor Lou Ferrigno is 37.

Thought for today: "Men always hate most what they envy most." - H.L. Mencken, American journalist and satirist (1880-1956).

New minimum wage increase clears Congress; Bush to sign

WASHINGTON (AP) - Only President Bush's promised signature is needed for the first minimum wage increase in nearly a decade, following Congress' lopsided approval of a bill raising the rate to $4.25 by April 1991.

The measure - which includes a subminimum wage for teenagers new to the job market - cleared the Senate on an 89-8 vote Wednesday, exactly a week after it passed the House by an equally overwhelming vote of 382-37.

Bush, who struck the compromise plan with congressional Democrats last week, is expected to sign the bill before Thanksgiving, perhaps as early as next week.

"The nine-year logjam on the minimum wage is finally broken," Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said after the Senate vote. "The working poor are about to receive an increase, although it is not as much as they deserve."

Labor Secretary Elizabeth Dole, speaking for the Bush administration, said "the 3 million American workers currently on the minimum wage will benefit." But she said skills training was the best way to help the working poor and urged Congress to move ahead with legislation dealing with that issue.

"The minimum wage is not the pulley to pull people out of poverty," she said.

The compromise plan will push the minimum wage, $3.35 an hour since January 1981, to $3.80 on April 1 and to $4.25 a year later. At the same time, it will create a new, lower wage for 16- to 19-year-old workers who are new to the job market.

Democrats and organized labor long have opposed such a subminimum "training wage" but were forced to concede that point to Bush to strike the deal. In return, Bush agreed to have the minimum wage reach $4.25 nine months earlier than he had proposed and also accepted a far more restrictive training wage than he sought earlier this year.

Labor played down its concessions in calling on Bush to quickly sign the measure into law.

"America's poorest workers have gone nearly a decade without a raise and this long-overdue step will give them a chance to lift themselves and their families out of poverty," AFL-CIO President Lane Kirkland said.

Country Christmas Bazaar

The Westway Extension Homemakers Club has scheduled its annual bazaar from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 11, at the Hereford Community Center. Booths will feature a variety of Christmas decorations, arts and crafts and food items. Proceeds from the booth rentals will go to the 4-H and youth groups. Making concho earrings for the bazaar are Wanda Coody and Cindy Walker.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a woman close to 50 years of age who is completely dominated by her mother. She is nearly 80.

After I was divorced I moved in with Mother because I couldn't afford a place of my own. My daughter was very young at the time, and I had no choice.

My job turned out to be godsend. I did well and am now financially independent. My daughter married recently, but I am still living with Mother and still hating it. She is a chronic complainer, always sees the dark side of everything, and no matter what I do, she feels that she could have done it better.

I cannot make a move without my mother. Every place I go she insists on going along. If I take a day off from work she includes herself in my plans. Some of my friends resent this and have stopped inviting me. The times when I have become determined to "be my own woman" and left her at home alone, she has made me feel so guilty that I decided it wasn't worth it.

I haven't had a decent vacation in years because I'd rather stay home than take my mother. All she would do is complain.

Can you help me get my head on straight? Should I move no matter what? I feel as if my entire life is slipping away and I can't save myself. Please do not indicate where this letter came from. If my mother knew I wrote to you she would crucify me. -- Stuck Somewhere in the U.S.A.

DEAR SOMEWHERE: I am suggesting two moves. First, out of your mother's house and, second, towards a therapist who can give you some understanding of what has been going on all these years.

Your mother's lifelong domination has crippled you emotionally, but before you lay all the blame on her, remember that you allowed her to do it.

It serves no useful purpose to look back. Look ahead. Today a woman "close to 50" is still young. With good professional help you can make a life for yourself and still feel like a loving daughter. The real enemy in this scenario is not your mother but your own sense of inadequacy and that old bugaboo called guilt.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was moved by the letter from the wife who complained because her husband never said, "I love you." My husband was the same way, but he didn't need to say anything. The things he did spoke for him.

We had been married 45 years when he died. He was not articulate; in fact he was more of a blusher than a talker. But there were little pats and pinches, and sometimes a wink. I remember his wonderful gifts during our salad days, a 49-cent box of chocolate cherries and a 50-cent handkerchief from the dime store. One day he bought me a bottle of cologne. He said he had smelled it on a girl in the office and thought I'd like it.

My loveliest memory is the time he came home from a two-day business trip with an artificial sunflower in his suitcase. He said he bought it because it reminded him of me. That sunflower is my most prize possession. As I said, he wasn't much of a talker. He was saying "I love you" without using words. -- Oklahoma City

Recycling program will benefit Kidney Foundation

The National Kidney Foundation, Inc., and Reynolds Aluminum Recycling Company have announced a special bonus program to aid the work of the Foundation.

During November, Reynolds will add a five-cent bonus to the price of every pound of aluminum recycled on behalf of the Foundation. This offer is good at the more than 600 Reynolds recycling centers nationwide including the center in Hereford in the parking lot of Furr's Supermarket.

The five-cent bonus payment from Reynolds is in addition to the ongoing program that urges the public to recycle aluminum and contribute their recycling earnings to the National Kidney Foundation's efforts in the diagnosis, treatment and research of kidney and urinary tract diseases.

The Foundation and Reynolds started their joint recycling effort in 1988 in an effort to stop a long-lived rumor about aluminum can pull tabs. The rumor, which officials at the Foundation and Reynolds say still surfaces in communities across the country, usually goes like this: for every pull tab donated at a recycling center, a needy child will be given one minute of time on a kidney dialysis machine.

This rumor is false, and in fact, no such program has ever existed. Nor is such a program needed.

"The truth is that no one is denied dialysis time because of a lack of money," said William P. Hunter, Jr., Foundation chairman.

"Largely due to the efforts of the National Kidney Foundation, the federal government covers most of the cost of dialysis regardless of someone's age or financial status, while the remaining costs are generally paid by an individual's personal health insurance or a state kidney program."

To Reynolds, one of the more frustrating aspects of the rumor is that consumers will keep the pull tab and throw away the rest of the can.

"Actually, the entire can is recyclable, so we started our campaign urging the public to 'Keep Tabs on Your Cans' when you think of recycling," said Charles W. Rayfield, vice president and general manager of Reynolds Aluminum Recycling Company. "People who wish to help the National Kidney Foundation can donate the entire can at any of our local recycling centers, and we will see to it that the money goes directly to the Foundation's efforts."

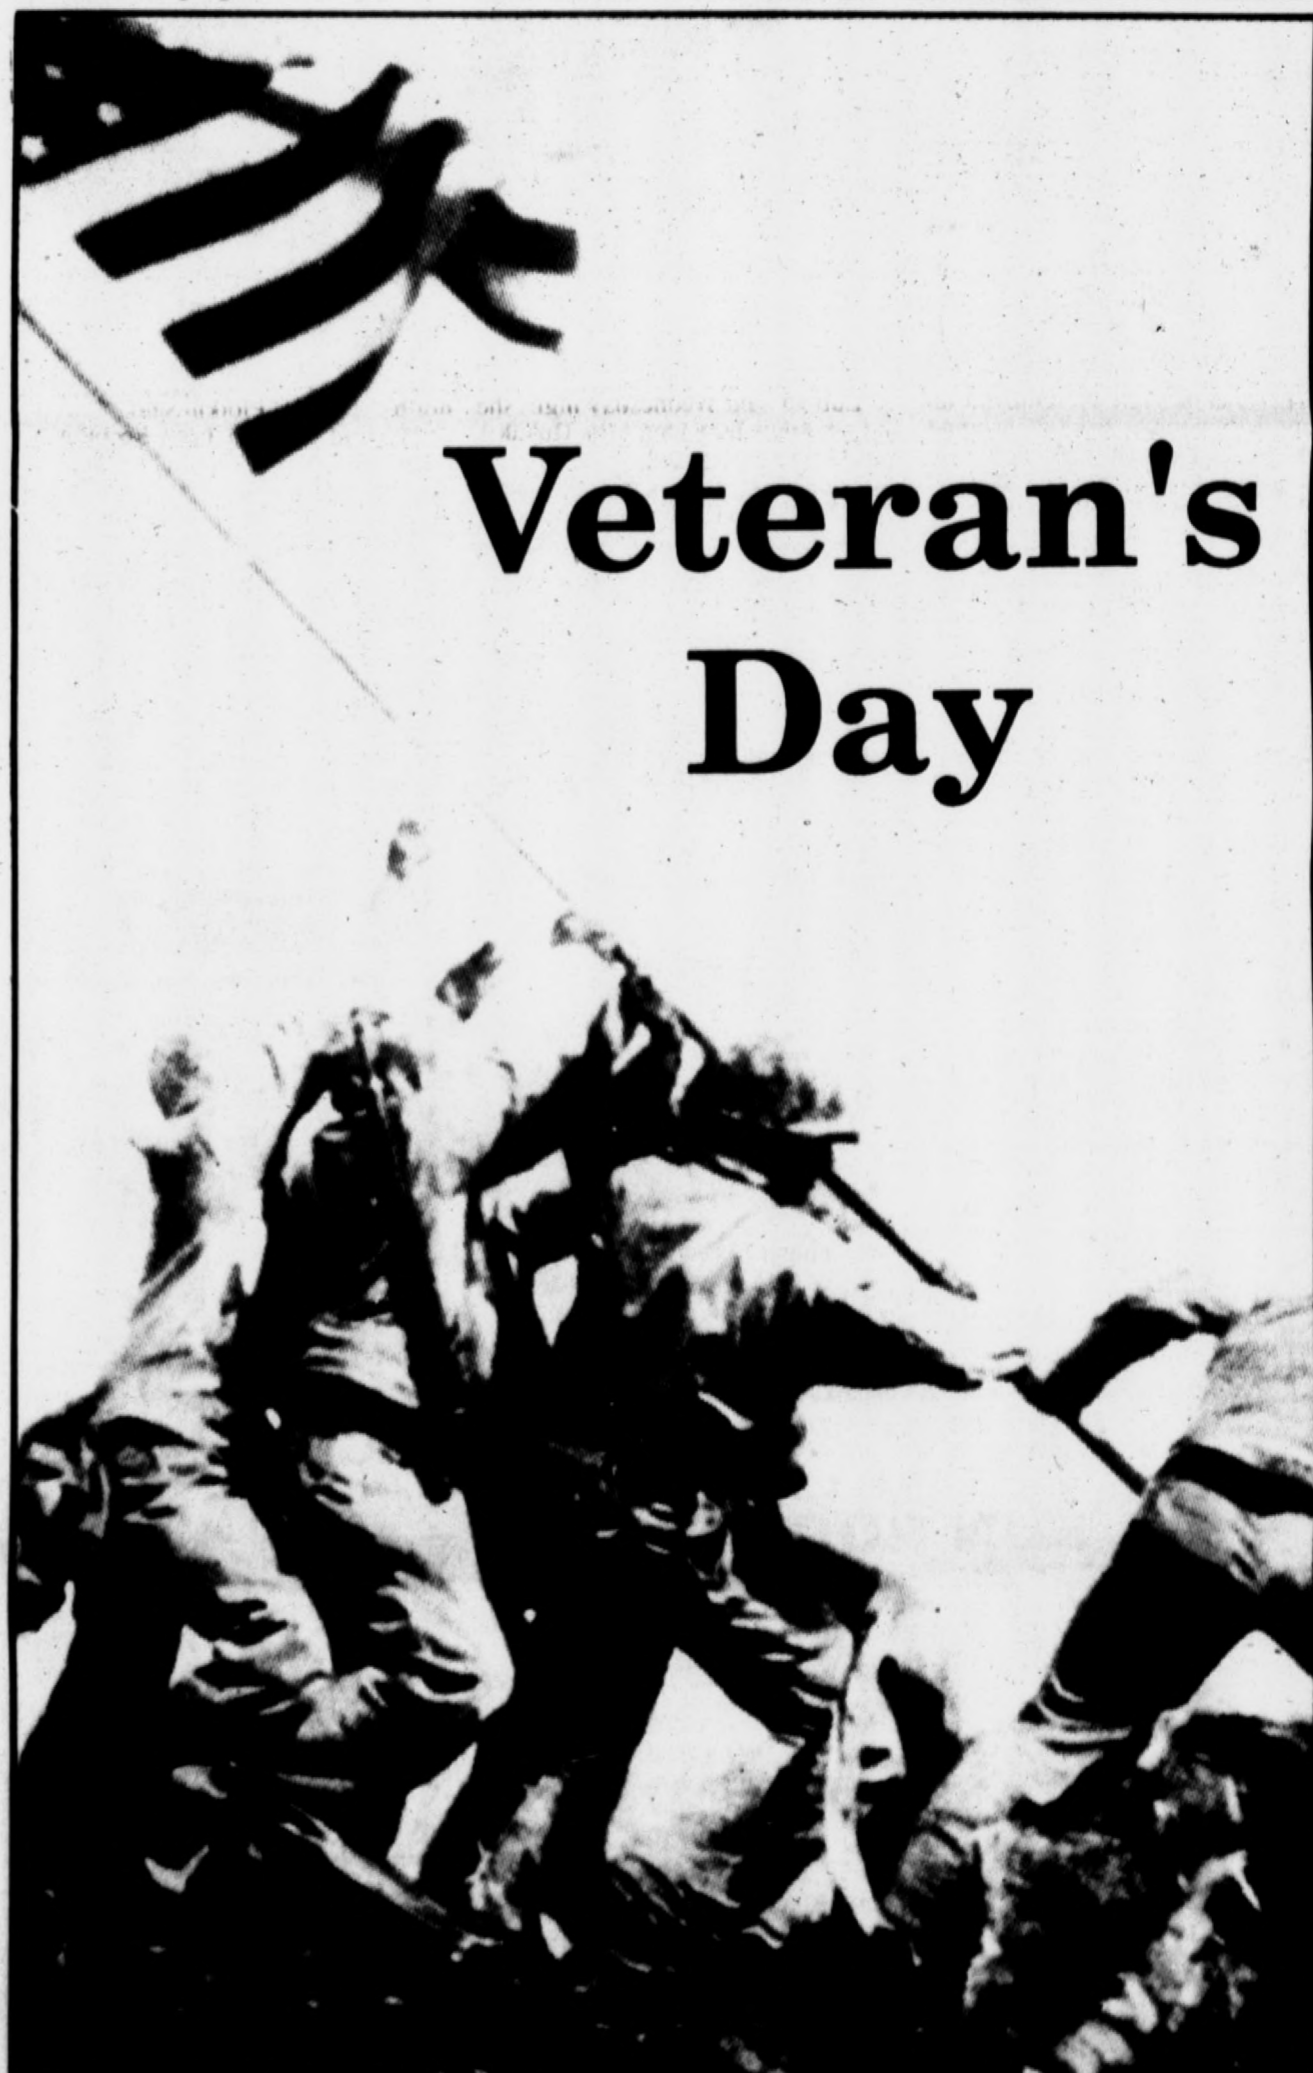

Diseases of the kidney and urinary tract afflict more than 20 million Americans and are a major cause of illness and death in the United States. The National Kidney Foundation and its 50 affiliates and 200 chapters comprise the primary health organization in the United States which fights these diseases and donations through the Reynolds system will help finance research, treatment, diagnosis, detection and cure.

Recyclers are encouraged to contact their local National Kidney Foundation affiliate to determine what groups or organizations might already have recycling drives underway, or to call the National Kidney Foundation at 1-800-622-9010 for more information.

In addition to all-aluminum beverage cans, Reynolds recycles other aluminum items such as frozen food and dinner trays, foil, siding and lawn chairs. Reynolds Aluminum Recycling Company is a subsidiary of Reynolds Metals Company, the nation's second largest aluminum company.

Herd prepared to collar Bulldogs

By SAM W. WALLER
Sports Editor

The Hereford Whitefaces will be looking to clinch their third playoff spot in four years Friday when they take on the Borger Bulldogs in a 7:30 p.m. contest at Whiteface Stadium.

The game, which is the Herd's season finale, will go a long way in determining who gets the second seed in the Class 4A playoffs behind Estacado. Hereford, 6-2 overall and 5-1 in district, can gain that spot with either a win or a tie Friday.

In going up against the Bulldogs, who have records of 4-4 and 3-3, Hereford coach Don Cumpston said the Herd will meet the largest team they've faced this season.

"They're the biggest team we've played this year, of all of them," Cumpston said. "They are huge up front. Their strong guard (Travis Thompson) and their strong tackle (Bodie Hill) are 245 and their center is about 220, and those same kids turn around on defense. They're the front three on defense. So they have good size."

Cumpston said the Bulldogs prefer to keep the ball on the ground, utilizing the talents of tailback Eric Jarrett and fullback Lamar Tillmon.

"They've shown to be, primarily, a ground-game type ball club," he said, "and they do a good job with it. They've got a big offensive line and above-average speed in their running backs, which gives them some real threats. Tillmon, their fullback, and Jarrett, their tailback, are excellent, excellent running backs."

"They just line up and pretty well go at you," he added. "They keep giving that ball to those backs and let them run."

Cumpston added that Borger will employ numerous offensive formations for the pair to run out of.

"They're pretty multiple in their formations," he said. "They run some I and some wing-T and some pro set. They give you a pretty good look at a lot of different formations."

As for the Borger air attack, Cumpston said it can be effective, but the Bulldogs have rarely been forced to pass.

"They haven't really had to," he said. "They've thrown some, but not as much as some we've seen. I guess Estacado had them in that position (having to throw) and pretty much contained them. But they pretty much rely on their running game and the speed of their two backs."

On the other side of the ball, Cumpston said the Bulldogs should be pretty basic, but have proven to be tough, allowing only 73 points in district play.

"They're a 50 defense club," he said. "Those three big guys move over and form the defensive front, and then they've got a couple of 200-pounders (Jason McLemore and Stephen Horst) at defensive end. Like I said, they're the biggest group we've lined up against. They're not extremely quick, and, hopefully, we can offset some of that size with quickness."

Cumpston added that he doesn't expect Borger to throw a new defense at the Herd as did Frenship a week ago, but one never knows.

"We won't know until the ball game starts," he said. "That's something we'll just have to make those adjustments on the sideline and our guy have been able to do that extremely well. I've been real proud of them in that area."

That ability to adjust on the run has been one of the keys to Hereford's improvement. Cumpston said his club is reaching its potential at the right time of the season.

"I've been real happy with our progress," he said. "I think, right now, we're playing the best football of the year. We always say the best teams play their best in November, because that's when the playoff spots are on the line."

"That's the situation we're in right now - we're playing Borger with a playoff spot on the line. That should give us a great amount of desire and motivation to play well."

As for the Herd's attack, Cumpston said there will be some cosmetic changes for the game, but nothing drastic.

"We're not going to change a whole lot," he said. "We've added a few little things for this game, some formations and things, and, hopefully, that will help us do some things we want to do. But, when you get to this point in time, you go with what's been good to you. Then you adjust during the game to do what you have to do."

One problem that has bothered the Herd all year has returned. The Herd could be missing as many as three starters because of injury after two relatively healthy weeks.

Cumpston said offensive lineman Freddy Martinez (neck) and defensive back Chuck Lemons (sprained ankle) are questionable for the game while wide receiver Matt Smith (broken finger) is out and offensive lineman Benny Gonzales (shoulder) is probable.

"Everybody else, hopefully, will be ready," Cumpston said. "I don't know yet about Freddy. He's getting some X-rays done. He's having some pain in his neck and we're having him X-rayed to be sure."

"Bennie has a sore shoulder, but we think he'll be ready. He should be able to go all right. It's going to be a little tender for him, but he's practiced this week."

"And I think Philip Martin got a release from the doctor and will be ready to play. The rest of it's just kind of what you'd expect at this time of year - bunged up with bumps and bruises."

He's got his mind on his job

Hereford Whiteface quarterback Jason Walterscheid (11) ignores the pressure while looking for a receiver during the Herd's win over Randall two weeks ago. Walterscheid and the rest of the Herd will be looking to wrap up a playoff berth in their final appearance of the season at Whiteface Stadium at 7:30 p.m. Friday when the Borger Bulldogs visit. ### Artho attains ranking Tara Artho of Wildorado has placed third among Texas' 5 and 6-year-old skiers in the Coca-Cola Jr. National Standard Race, it was announced last week. She is the daughter of Dale and Kathy Artho.

The ranking was based on Tara's best racing performance during the 1988-89 ski season. She raced at Angel Fire, N.M., one of 165 ski areas where NASTAR sponsors the racing.

Tara earned a listing on selected rankings posters distributed state-wide, a leader patch, and a certificate of achievement. The Coca Cola program ranks the top 10 boys and girls from six age categories in all 50 states. Last season, more than 100,000 youths participated in the program.

Hereford picked to win home finale by 15 points

The Hereford Whitefaces are favored to clinch District 1-4A's second playoff spot by 15 points, according to this week's Harris Ratings, when they take on the Borger Bulldogs at 7:30 p.m. Friday at Whiteface Stadium.

The Herd, 6-2 on the year and 5-1 in 1-4A play, needs only a tie in its last two games to wrap up a playoff berth while Borger, the only other team with a chance to make the post-season party, must win its last two and have Dumas beat Hereford to get in.

Such a finish would leave both teams at 5-3 in district and tied with at least each other for second place. Borger would get the playoff berth on the basis of head-to-head competition.

So much for what ifs.

The Herd dropped two spots in the Harris Class 4A rankings to No. 29 despite beating Frenship, 28-14, last week. Hereford did maintain its power rating of 179 with the win.

The Bulldogs, 4-4 and 3-3, have had their chances at the playoffs considerably lessened by losing their last two games to Dumas and Estacado. The loss to the Matadors, a 24-0 blanking, knocked Borger down 12 places to No. 83 and took three points off its rating to 164.

Estacado (8-1, 7-0) at Dumas (3-4-1, 3-3) -- The Matadors will be trying to put the finishing touches on their district championship season. The Mats wrapped up the top playoff seed with last week's win at Borger and can do no worse than a co-championship with Hereford.

The win over the Bulldogs pushed Estacado up seven places to No. 28 and added three points to its rating to 179.

The Demons still have a chance at a .500 season if they can win their last two games. Unfortunately, those are against the top two teams in 1-4A.

Dumas, whose record reached the break-even point only once at 2-2-1, comes into the contest off an open date. The free week cost the Demons three places to No. 113 while their rating held steady at 157.

The Matadors are a 22-point pick to take the undisputed district title.

Frenship (3-5, 2-4) at Pampa (4-4, 3-3) -- The Tigers have dropped their last two and are in a six-team pack needing to finish with wins to at least break even.

The loss to Hereford cost Frenship five places to No. 95 but left the rating at 162.

The Harvesters are also looking for a winning season in the last two weeks after dropping a 27-13 decision to Randall last time out.

The loss sent Pampa down 12 places to No. 78 and cut four rating points to 165.

Frenship is favored in the contest by two points.

Randall (5-3, 3-3) at Levelland (4-4, 2-4) -- The Raiders can ensure a winning record in only their second year with a win in either of their last two games. Randall has not had a losing record at any time this season with the worst mark being at 4-3. The Raiders have beaten every team except the three ahead of them in the standings - Estacado, Borger and Hereford - and the two at the bottom - Levelland and Dunbar - who they finish the season with.

The Raider's win over Pampa boosted them 11 places to No. 100 and raised their rating four points to 160.

The Lobos are another team looking to salvage a winning campaign at the end of the year after snapping a four-game losing streak with a 30-0 rout of Dunbar.

The win moved Levelland up 14 places to No. 85 and sent its rating up four points to 164.

The Raiders are a five-point favorite to clinch their first winning season.

Dunbar (0-9, 0-7) open date -- The Panthers pretty much gave up on the season after being stripped of their only win, being shut out twice in the three losses since the ruling that forfeited their victory over Estacado.

After Levelland handed them their third whitewashing of the year last week, the Panthers dropped six places to No. 119 and lost four rating points to 152.

Dunbar will try to end the season on a good note next week when they travel to Randall.

Huntsville QB nears record

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer

Huntsville coach Joe Clements has bad news for winless New Caney about his quarterback son Steve, who is 90 yards away from setting the Class 5A record for career passing yards.

He's getting sharper. Clements couldn't have been much sharper last week when he completed 21 of 28 passes for 379 yards in a 51-7 victory over Kingwood that earned him mention in The Associated Press Schoolboy Honor Roll.

"The week before that he completed 16 of 32 and he had nine dropped so if anything he's getting sharper," Coach Clements said.

"He's been under tremendous pressure all year. Every week the opposing coach is saying they have to stop No. 15 so every week the linemen and linebackers are trying to tackle him and the defensive backs are trying to intercept him."

Clements needs 90 passing yards to surpass Mission's Lupe Rodriguez, who owns the state record of 6,917 career passing yards. Clements currently has 6,821 yards.

New Caney has lost 47 consecutive district games and has a 25-game losing streak.

Conroe McCullough receiver Kevin Beirne already has his 5A record after catching a record 18 passes for 230 yards in a 28-15 loss to Spring Westfield.

Alto's Howard Richardson was a scoring and tackling machine in a 53-22 victory over Buffalo.

Richardson gained 324 yards on 13 carries and had touchdowns on runs of 5, 69, 40, 52, 60 and 47 yards. His last three touchdowns were on consecutive runs.

Richardson also added 10 solo tackles and intercepted one pass.

Port Neches-Groves' Ron McGill scored all six of his team's touchdowns in a 42-20 victory over Bridge City. He gained 202 yards on 27 carries and his touchdown runs went for 8, 13, 38, 5 and 3 and 6 yards.

Orangefield's pass-catch duo of Jeff Granger and Wayne Guidry proved to potent for Kountze in a 35-27 victory.

Granger completed 11 of 26 passes for 270 yards and four touchdowns and Guidry caught four passes for 171 yards and touchdowns of 73 and 64 yards.

Athens quarterback Blake Armstrong completed 23 of 40 passes for 308 yards and three touchdowns in a 25-19 victory over Jacksonville. Armstrong now has 30 touchdown passes this season.

Mission junior quarterback Willie Rodriguez completed 19 of 22 passes for 372 yards and four touchdowns in a 54-14 victory over LaJoya. He had 342 yards at the half.

McAllen safety Robert Villafranca intercepted three passes in a 45-28 victory over Edinburg that gave him a state leading 11 thefts for the season.

In other outstanding performances:

- El Paso Irvin's Victor Rodriguez gained 319 yards on 11 carries and scored on runs of 98, 72, 45 and 44 yards in a 62-12 victory over El Paso High.

- Schulenburg's Bo Adams completed 14 of 26 passes for 335 yards and touchdowns of 79, 88, 20 and 9 yards and he scored on a 75-yard run in a 55-7 victory over Weimar.

- Kevin Morris of Corrigan-Camden gained 310 yards on 15 carries and scored on runs of 66, 60 and 53 yards in a 37-13 victory over New Waverly.

- Victoria Stroman's Ronald Ramey gained 302 yards on 17 carries and scored on runs of 65, 46 and 25 yards and threw a 52-yard touchdown pass in a 34-7 victory over Corpus Christi King.

- Corpus Christi Carroll's Victor Frazier had three interceptions and two touchdown-saving tackles in a 38-6 victory over Corpus Christi Miller.

- Safety Danny Ruiz had four of Freer's six interceptions in a victory over San Diego.

- Kyle Kelley of Luling completed 7 of 12 passes for 215 yards and three touchdowns in a 39-0 victory over Cuero.

- Malakoff's Marcus Dowell rushed 329 yards on 43 carries and scored on runs of 7, 4, 1, 49 and 13 yards in a 33-313 victory over Kemp.

- Tomball's Ron Howard gained 237 yards on 20 carries and scored four touchdowns in a 49-7 victory over Brenham that clinched a playoff berth.

- El Paso Bowie's Jerry Belmontes gained 253 yards on 29 carries and scored two touchdowns in a 21-0 victory over El Paso Coronado.

NFLPA to decertify

WASHINGTON (AP) - The NFL Players Association is giving up its right to negotiate a contract for the league's players.

It may not, however, give up representing the players.

Less than a week after an appeals court ruled against its antitrust suit filed at the end of the 24-day 1987 strike, the union informed management in a letter that it would seek decertification.

"The players association will no longer be asserting its rights under labor law as an exclusive bargaining agent, but that doesn't mean the players' legal challenge to management will be over," Doug Allen, the NFLPA's assistant executive director, said. "In fact, it will continue."

But at least one player felt the union was giving up on its membership.

"I think they're really kind of abandoning the players and trying to pass the buck onto the players and maybe not living up to their responsibilities," Vikings linebacker Scott Studwell told ABC Radio Sport. "They feel like maybe they have jeopardized our position such that they might think we can handle it better."

"I think it's ludicrous to think individuals will be able to bargain a position with management as opposed to a solid foundation of players or a union or whatever you want to call it."

The move stems directly from last week's decision by the 8th Circuit Court of Appeals, which ruled that NFL owners were not in violation of antitrust laws simply because of an impasse in negotiations between the union and management.

In effect, that 2-1 decision negated the union's antitrust suit against the league and upheld the NFL's free agency system. Allen said the union would appeal the decision.

The decision to decertify will have to be voted on by the players. It is unclear how long that would take. In the past, players have generally ratified decisions made by union leadership and the executive council.

In any case, that could mean there could be two court cases going at once. If the union votes to decertify, it would likely have to go to court again to challenge management's right to impose its rules.

"Until our appeal is heard on this ill-advised and very troublesome decision, the players have two choices - bargain for benefits collectively or bargain individually for compensation," Allen said. "The union will no longer be a shield behind which management can use to protect itself."

"This decision appears to say that as long as there is an ongoing relationship between the players (union) and the league, players can't challenge restrictions, as there was in the past," NFLPA counsel Dick Berthelsen said.

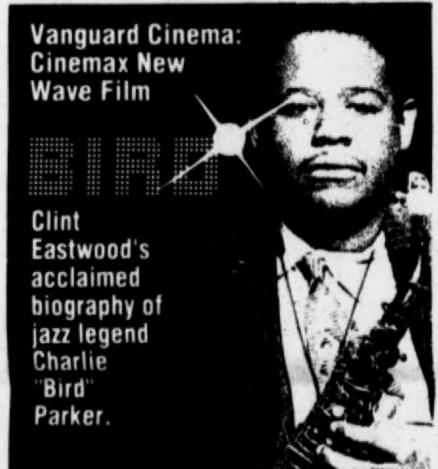

It remained unclear what decertification would mean. Management, meanwhile, called for a resumption of negotiations and Jack Donlan, executive director of the Management Council, expressed his regret in a letter to Gene Upshaw, the union's executive director.

"We continue to believe that a resumption of negotiations would best serve the players' interests," Donlan wrote.

Management Council spokesman John Jones said management felt that all league contract rules would remain in effect, just as they do for other businesses, if the union was decertified.

"I don't believe their strategy is valid," Jones said. "But really, our only desire is to get back to the bargaining table and work this thing out."

To all customers of Southwestern Bell Telephone Company:
Public Notice
Southwestern Bell Telephone Company hereby gives notice that on August 29, 1989 the Company filed an application with the Public Utility Commission (PUC) of Texas to revise its Texas intrastate Digital Link Service Tariff. This application proposes to restructure the rates for MICROLINK II<sup>SM</sup> - Packet Switching Digital Service to establish uniform rates for the service in each of the market areas where it is offered within the State and to expand the service to an additional nineteen (19) Primary Market Areas (PMAs).
MICROLINK II<sup>SM</sup> - Packet Switching Digital Service is for business customers with interactive data transport requirements who are located within the Abilene, Amarillo, Austin, Beaumont, Brownsville, Corpus Christi, Dallas, El Paso, Houston, Longview, Lubbock, Midland, San Antonio, Waco, or Wichita Falls Local Access and Transport Areas (LATAs). This service utilizes several existing network services in combination with packet switching capabilities. A MICROLINK II Primary Market Area is the service area from which subscribers may reach public dial access to the service by dialing a local seven digit number. The twenty-four (24) PMAs that will be affected by this filing are: Abilene, Amarillo, Austin, Beaumont, Brownsville, McAllen, Harlingen, Corpus Christi, Victoria, Dallas, Fort Worth, El Paso, Houston, Galveston, Laredo, Longview, Tyler, Lubbock, Midland, Odessa, San Antonio, Waco, Temple, and Wichita Falls.
The PUC has assigned this matter to Docket No. 9034. It is estimated that the proposed rate changes and the addition of the nineteen (19) Primary Market Areas will increase the Company's annual revenues during the first year the proposed changes are in effect approximately $222,000. For additional information regarding MicroLink II Service or this filing, please contact Southwestern Bell Telephone Company's Marketing Organization on 512-222-5808.
Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible. The Commission has established an intervention date of November 27, 1989. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Blvd., Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information may also be obtained by calling the PUC Public Information Office at (512) 458-0223 or (512) 458-0227, or (512) 458-0221, teletypewriter for the deaf.

Orlando tops Pistons

By The Associated Press

The NBA champion Detroit Pistons played like an expansion team and the expansion Orlando Magic played like champions.

The Pistons were held to their second-lowest point total since the NBA went to the 24-second clock, losing to the Indiana Pacers 95-74. The Magic, meanwhile, posted a second consecutive victory over a playoff team, overcoming a 25-point deficit and outlasting the Cleveland Cavaliers 117-110 in overtime.

Coach Chuck Daly said the Pistons "were never really in the game" against Indiana. "They took our offensive game away from us and executed well."

The Pistons shot only 23 percent in the first half, making just 11 of 47 shots, and trailed 48-25. It was the worst half in their history, erasing the low of 32 points at Phoenix in 1970. The Pistons' low production for a game with a shot clock was an 81-71 loss at Atlanta on Jan. 5, 1988.

In other Wednesday night games, it was Chicago 96, Minnesota 84; Portland 108, San Antonio 104; Washington 112, Boston 103; Utah 102, Charlotte 98; Denver 102, Sacramento 84; Dallas 123, the Los Angeles Clippers 99 and Philadelphia 115, Miami 91.

Detlef Schrempf, starting in place of injured Chuck Person, scored 10 of his 21 points in the first quarter and the Pacers never trailed in winning their first three games for the first time since joining the NBA in 1976. Vern Fleming led Indiana with 22 points and Isiah Thomas had 17 for Detroit.

Magic 117, Cavaliers 110

Sam Vincent and Reggie Theus scored six points apiece in overtime for Orlando, which beat the New York Knicks on Saturday night.

After Cleveland built a 25-point lead midway through the second quarter, Theus scored 12 of his 28 points in the third quarter to help Orlando take a five-point lead. Vincent and Terry Catledge each scored 23 points for Orlando. Ron Harper led Cleveland with 26.

Bulls 96, Timberwolves 84

Michael Jordan scored 13 of his 45 points in the final 4:18 as Chicago ruined expansion Minnesota's home opener.

Minnesota took a 78-77 lead with 5:19 to play with a 14-4 surge, during which first-year Chicago coach Phil Jackson was ejected for arguing with the officials. Jordan's 3-point shot with 4:18 left put the Bulls ahead for good and triggered a 19-6 burst. Tony Campbell scored 31 points for Minnesota.

Trail Blazers 108, Spurs 104

Portland beat San Antonio for the 11th consecutive time as Terry Porter scored half of his 22 points in the fourth quarter.

San Antonio was led by Terry Cummings' 21 points.

David Robinson's follow shot and free throw with 2:59 to play tied the game 97-97 but Portland scored six of the next eight points for a 103-99 lead with 1:17 remaining.

Bullets 112, Celtics 103

Bernard King scored 33 points, 12 in the fourth quarter. The game was tied 83-83 after three quarters but King scored five points in the first two minutes of the final period, keying a 9-2 burst.

Jeff Malone and John L. Williams each had 20 points for the Bullets.

Kevin McHale had 22 and Larry Bird 20 for the Celtics.

Jazz 102, Hornets 86

Mark Eaton, Utah's 7-foot-4 center, tipped in three baskets during a 14-0 run early in the third period. Charlotte trailed only 53-51 when Eaton got his first tip-in. Karl Malone, who led Utah with 26 points, followed with a layup.

Behind leading scorer Kelly Tripucka, who had 24 points, Charlotte staged a mild rally to trail 72-61 after three periods.

Nuggets 102, Kings 84

Lafayette Lever had 20 points, 14 rebounds and 12 assists.

Denver led throughout and took advantage of a 53-43 rebounding edge and 32 Sacramento turnovers.

Mavericks 123, Clippers 99

Roy Tarpley keyed a 41-point third quarter with 12 of his 20 points as Dallas won its first of the season.

The Clippers were paced by Ken Norman's 27 points.

76ers 115, Heat 91

Charles Barkley scored 27 points and Mike Gminski had 19 points, 12 rebounds and six blocked shots for Philadelphia. Ron Anderson hit eight of 10 shots and scored all 18 of his points in the first half to help the 76ers take a 61-44 halftime lead.

Sherman Douglas, Grant Long and Glen Rice each had 15 points for the Heat.

Abundant Life

PLEASED WITH SELF
Bob Wear

It is very important that we like ourselves, that we are pleased with ourselves. This is not a self-conceited attitude, but is a very wholesome feeling. A good feeling about self is essential to a satisfactory life, but this good self-concept is no accident. We must pay the price of learning and doing the things which will enable us to have an honest and justified good attitude about ourselves.

"Self-approbation, when found in truth and a good conscience, is a source of some of the purest joys known to man." - Pope.

We will need a clear conscience, and we can have a clear conscience. We are not going to be pleased with self unless we do have a clear conscience. We know that the conscience is not an infallibly safe guide, but we also know that it must be respected. This requires a wise and well-disciplined manner of life, and the good result is certainly

Massie receives instruction

Ora Bea Massie received instructions in the Rebekah Degree Tuesday evening at the regular meeting of Hereford Rebekah Lodge #228. Amarillo Rebekah Lodge #222 and Friona Rebekah Lodge #308 assisted the local lodge in the ceremony.

Massie is a member of Amarillo Lodge #222.

Vice grand Rosalie Northcutt presided at the business meeting.

Preparations were made for the annual Thanksgiving supper Nov. 14 to honor families of members.

worth our best effort. "He will easily be content and at peace, whose conscience is pure." - Kempis.

We must accept our rightful obligations. There are certain things for which we are responsible, and, to the best of our capability, we must recognize and meet these responsibilities. We do have some control over this aspect of our lives, and this means that we must be wise and discriminating in the formation of responsibility situations. In all of this, we must be dependable people, if we wish to be pleased with self.

In our associations with other people, there will be a better place for us if we are wholesomely pleased with self. We will feel better about them, we will treat them better, and we will have a better appreciation of them. We will be making the living experience a little better for all of us.

We will be pleased with self, when we are honestly doing our best, with what we have and where we are.

"Christmas in the Panhandle" bazaar slated here Friday

A variety of crafts, Christmas decorations, food, etc. will be featured at the "Christmas in the Panhandle" bazaar set from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday, Nov. 10, at First Methodist Church. A luncheon will be held in conjunction with the church's holiday bazaar.

The First UMC bazaar luncheon is a popular event and is planned to appeal to employed persons downtown and in other parts of the city. Charmayne Klett is general chairman of preparations this year and has announced that the menu will include beef brisket, prepared by the G.D. Caisons, along with beans, coleslaw, cornbread and fruit cobbler, all homemade by women of the church.

Margaret Bell and Eleanor Hudspeth will be in charge of the snack-coffee booth, another featured spot at the bazaar that will be open all day to serve hot drinks and homemade cookies, rolls and cake.

All residents of the community are invited to shop and have lunch at the bazaar and spend as much time as they wish browsing through the stock.

Owen presents excellence program

Lt. Gov. Bobby Owen, member of the Kiwanis Noon Club, presented a program on "Encouraging Excellence" at a recent meeting of the Kiwanis Whiteface Breakfast Club.

Thirty-eight were present at the meeting, including four new members, inter-club delegations from the Hereford Noon Club, Amarillo Golden K, and representatives from the Hereford Key Club and Keywanettes.

Roy Shave, pastor of Central Church of Christ, gave the program at the previous meeting.

Next week is National Key Club week and all members are urged to be present when the Hereford Key Club will conduct the regular meeting. Parents of Key Club members and other visitors are welcome.

Accent on Health

There were nearly twice the number of marriages as there were divorces last year in Texas, according to the Texas Department of Health (TDH).

During 1988, there were 172,907 marriages performed and 94,409 divorces granted, according to Tom Pollard, director of the Statistical Service Division of the TDH Bureau of Vital Statistics. The previous year, 188,315 couples married, while 95,098 divorced.

Pollard said the two-to-one ratio of marriages to divorces has been nearly constant for several years.

where 21,423 women and 9,735 men ended their marriages.

The largest number of divorces occurred at no more than five years of marriage (35,910). Some marriages lasted less than a year before divorce (4,834).

In the very young category, 573 women and 30 males 15 or younger were married. Meanwhile, among those 65 and older, 1,804 women and 3,239 men were married. Divorces involving those 65 and older included 889 women and 1,579 men.

About half (49 percent, or 45,915) of the divorces in 1988 involved no children, while 25 percent, or 23,193, involved one child. The total number of children involved in divorces last year was 84,252.

Names in the News

NEW YORK (AP) - "Dallas" star Victoria Principal finds it easier to get roles now that she produces television programs in which she can cast herself. Principal, who played Pam Ewing on the "Dallas" television series, said in this week's US magazine she is just hitting her stride as an actress and producer.

"I'm also producing, frankly, because some of the parts I want to play I didn't think anyone but myself would offer me," she said. "So now I produce, and I give me the part."

Principal, 39, learned braille to play a blind woman in her production of the ABC movie "Blind Witness," to be broadcast Nov. 26.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) - Former soccer superstar Pele said he has no favorite in Brazil's Nov. 15 presidential election, but wants to run for president himself in five years.

Pele is no more unlikely as a presidential candidate than television entertainer Silvio Santos, who announced his candidacy Oct. 31.

"Silvio Santos is an excellent person, but he has no political base or plan to govern. It would be difficult for him to run a good administration," Pele said.

Pele said he considers himself a socialist and would create a new left-wing party for his presidential bid if he runs in 1994.

Pele, 49, whose real name is Edson Arantes do Nascimento, played on Brazil's World Cup champion teams in 1958, 1962 and 1970.

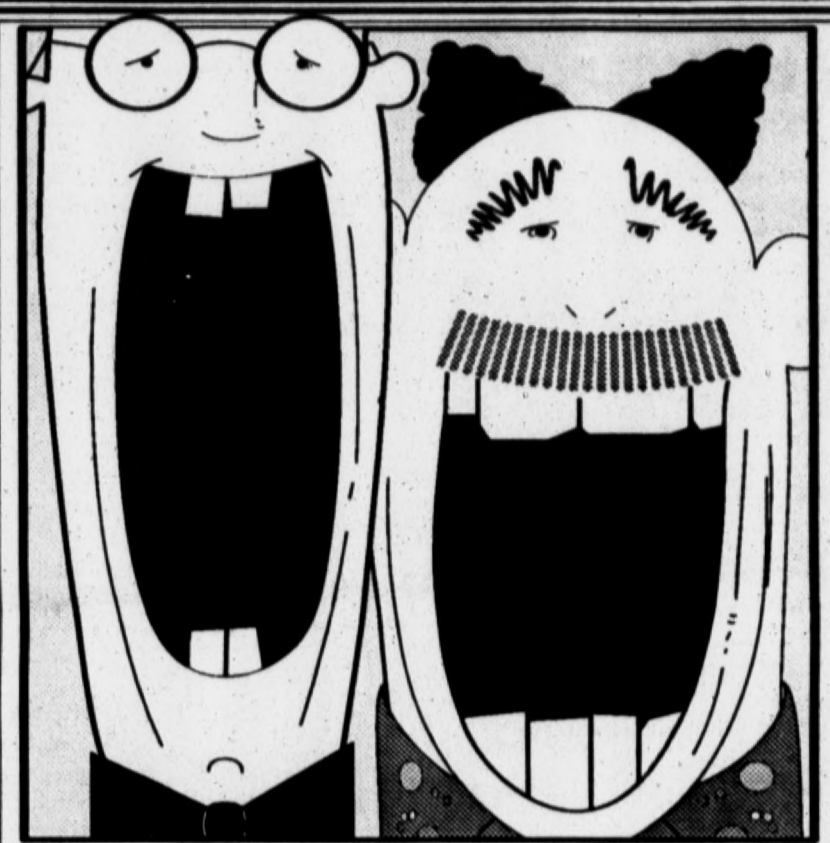

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - Pulitzer Prize winner Alex Haley, the author of "Roots," has been designated a "Living Treasure" by New Zealand.

"That title for certain is theirs, not mine," Haley said.

He will represent the United States in a celebration of the 1990 Commemorative Year of New Zealand in March and will appear in a New Zealand television series, titled "Living Treasures."

The largest saguaro cacti, the common cactus of Mexican deserts and Western movies, are close to 200 years old, and weigh over ten tons.

These people are shouting with joy.

Why? Because they're just two of the people who have enjoyed the success of Hereford Brand classifieds. They were able to target what they had to offer to their prospective customers. Like many customers, it cost them less than $11 a week to run their ad every day in the Brand. Because they ran their ad every day for a week, they received a free ad in the Reach 4 More, reaching customers in Hereford, Dimmitt, Friona, Vega and Adrian. You can be a success, too. Call The Hereford Brand today at 364-2030.

Let us show you a Texas you've never seen before.

- All 172 pages in full color
- Each page measures a large 15 x 11 inches
- Presents the entire state in stunning detail
- Appendices and specialty maps of many different features

THE ROADS OF TEXAS is the culmination of a mammoth project that has involved many individuals for over two years. When you get your copy of THE ROADS OF TEXAS you'll wonder how you ever traveled the state without it.

This 172 page atlas contains maps that show the complete Texas road system (all 284,000 miles) plus just about every city and community! Texas A&M University Cartographic Laboratory staff members produced the maps, based on county maps from the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation. The details shown are amazing—county and local roads, lakes, reservoirs, streams, dams, historic sites, pumping stations, golf courses, cemeteries, mines and many other features too numerous to list.

What they're saying about "The Roads of Texas"

"When you get your copy of THE ROADS OF TEXAS... you'll wonder how you ever travelled the state without it!"

The state would now try to prove its theory that Bobby placed a "live bare-wire extension cord" to his wife's chest as she lay in the bathtub, fatally shocking her.

Prosecutors would contend that the current caused Rhonda's arm to contract against the wire, clamping it there and causing the mirror burn images. Being partially submerged in water, she would have been unable to resist or defend herself.

Moreover, the electricity would pass through the body into the bathtub water, explaining the absence of exit wounds.

For Norbert and Jaye Nell Schlegel, the last five years seemed a lifetime, and they were gratified and maybe a little surprised.

But aside from Bobby, no one was more surprised than his new wife Debra, who was aware of the Schlegels' suspicions but never expected them to result in formal charges.

Bobby was barely back from a honeymoon in the Bahamas when two Texas Rangers showed up at the Houston clinic where he worked.

"You're under arrest for murder," one said.

"I think there's some mistake," Bobby bluffed.

"No mistake," the Ranger countered.

"You're crazy. You got the wrong man," Bobby persisted, gamely but futilely.

At Ken Crow's request, the Rangers sent Bobby back to Fisher County, where he quickly was freed on $20,000 bail.

A fall trial date was set in the 32nd State District Court in Roby.

Rusty Carroll, 32, a Baylor Law School graduate and newly elected district attorney, would direct the prosecution with assistance from his top aide, Lonnie Markley.

Colleagues fondly described the young district attorney as a "loose cannon," smart and quick, a bit brash, and prone to shoot from the hip.

And Markley was the perfect assistant, Carroll said. "He can deliver that fire and brimstone argument that sends folks to the penitentiary."

For the defense, Bobby hired Abilene attorney Charles Scarborough, a third-generation member of the widely known and highly regarded law firm founded in 1908 by his grandfather, Dallas Scarborough.

"An aristocratic blue blood," sniffed Carroll, who privately relished the prospect of opposing a name known all across West Texas.

Two trials and nearly a decade later, Charlie Scarborough, by then 48, would shake his head in wonderment and say:

"That was one of the most fascinating cases I've ever been involved in. Rarely do you have a case that is truly a whodunit."

On Nov. 2, 1981, the state of Texas launched its case against Bobby Templin in a Roby courtroom jammed with spectators, many of them openly skeptical of the state's charges.

"Hell, you don't have a case," joked a court reporter in a little last-minute heckling of prosecutors.

"Just wait a few days and watch," Rusty Carroll replied with a smile.

The state opened by calling Alta Hinson, the neighbor who saw Bobby speed away and return that Sunday morning, who heard the "cry of distress" and who later rushed to the Templin home.

She told the jury of finding Bobby hysterical, Rhonda dead and the radio and bare-wire extension cord in the partially filled bathtub.

Next came Wanda Kiker, perhaps the prosecution's pivotal witness. She said she sold a small radio to a man three days before Rhonda's death and she now identified that man as the defendant Bobby Templin.

If the jury believed Wanda Kiker, then Bobby would be branded a liar, and probably a killer.

Scarborough brought out on cross-examination that she made no sales slip on the radio and that she seemed confused on both the cost of the radio and precisely when she learned of Rhonda's death.

Still, the witness left the stand with her credibility largely intact. And both Bobby and his attorney knew it.

The prosecution was on an early roll and Susie Martin, another neighbor, did nothing to slow things down.

She testified that Rhonda appeared troubled the Saturday night before she died in 1976 and recounted how Rhonda rebuffed Bobby's affectionate gestures. She said she last saw Rhonda when she was brushing her hair at 9:30 the next morning.

Mrs. Martin recalled Bobby's nervous reaction when he learned that an autopsy had been ordered. She said she later asked Bobby pointblank if he was having an affair with Melanie, with whom he worked at the hospital.

"He said no," she testified.

Melanie herself took the stand as a classic reluctant witness, confirming her affair with Bobby while Rhonda was alive. She also told the jury of her and Bobby's subsequent marriage and divorce.

Over defense objections, Melanie admitted telling a friend that Bobby intended to take Rhonda to Shamrock and "dump" her on her parents, a rumor Bobby denied years earlier.

Donna Shipp, who saw Bobby at the drive-in cafe and service station, related how he appeared nervous and jittery when he bought $2 worth of gas that morning. She said he apparently was in a hurry.

Grant Copeland, the Schlegels' brother-in-law, described the bare-wire extension cord he examined at the Templin home after the funeral and said a cord offered into evidence was quite similar.

Jaye Nell Schlegel, her testimony riddled with defense objections, told of the inconsistencies in the various accounts Bobby gave of his activities that Sunday morning and of events before and after Rhonda's death.

She said her daughter preferred showers, never took baths and always brush-dried her hair afterward, the implication being that when Susie Martin saw Rhonda that morning at 9:30 she had already bathed.

According to both Jaye Nell and Norbert, their daughter was well versed in the dangers of electricity and water and never would use a cord such as the one that killed her.

A new and unused cord was available if she needed one, Jaye Nell said.

But prosecutors sought to show that Rhonda didn't actually need an extension cord. They contended she could have reached the radio from the tub if it had been plugged into the nearest wall socket.

Despite Ken Crow's warnings, Rusty Carroll overrode a barrage of defense objections and called Dale and Danny Simpson to relate their conversation with their cousin Bobby about electrocuting dogs and cats as a youngster in Dallas.

Scarborough argued unsuccessfully that the conversation was too remote to be relevant and that the testimony was "highly prejudicial."

Crow privately agreed and the cautious investigator worried that the testimony could be grounds for reversal if Bobby was convicted.

For Bobby's part, he appeared confident to the point of cockiness, occasionally entertaining a giggling group of young female admirers. But he stole a glance at the jury during his cousins' testimony and was not reassured.

He realized several members were visibly affected, and the state was scarcely finished.

Dr. Jarrett Williams, who performed the autopsy, described the mirror image burns under Rhonda's right arm and said they would be consistent with those caused by a bare-wire electrical cord.

He also told of running a fairly unsophisticated scan that detected nothing to indicate that Rhonda might have been drugged before she died or was killed. Since there were no signs of a struggle, the Schlegels theorized early on that Rhonda probably was drugged and unconscious when she was placed in the bathtub.

Dr. Williams' testimony included his recollection of the call he received that Sunday evening from Bobby. He said Bobby told him how the "accident" occurred and wanted to know the results of his autopsy.

Near the end of their case, prosecutors called Dallas pathologist Patrick Besant-Matthews, the expert on electrical deaths. In what surely set a record for the longest hypothetical question ever posed in an American courtroom, Lonnie Markley asked the doctor if he had an opinion about Rhonda's death.

"...I would investigate it as a homicide," he replied.

It was a dramatic moment, but Charlie Scarborough recovered nicely. He got the witness to concede that it was entirely possible, assuming the same set of facts, that Rhonda's death could have been an accident or even suicide.

The state used Norbert Schlegel's testimony to cover most of the remaining bases, such as the $10,000 accidental death policy, but got an angry rise from the defense with this question:

"Mr. Schlegel, I notice...you have been looking over there at this defendant. Has he looked you in the eye yet?"

"No, sir," came the reply, a split second ahead of Charlie Scarborough's objection.

"Sustained," said the judge.

"Ask the jury not to consider it for any purpose," Scarborough demanded.

"Jury so instructed," sighed the judge.
