Lawmakers seek pay raise from voters Nov. 7

AUSTIN (AP) - State lawmakers are asking voters to triple legislative salaries, and if Texans do so, it will be the last time House and Senate members need voter approval to get a-pay raise.

Proposition 1 on the Nov. 7 ballot would not only boost lawmakers' salaries by 224 percent, it would tie their future pay to the governor's salary - which the Legislature sets.

Supporters say Texas pays its legislators much less than most other large states, and a raise is overdue.

"They make $600 a month and it's woefully inadequate. Yet we continually demand more and more time, energy and expertise from them. The $398-a-month take-home pay is barely enough to pay the rent," Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby said.

But Lynn Oates, a financial analyst and organizer of the anti-raise Texans for Financial Responsibility, said the amendment would strip voters of a long-held constitutional right.

"People need to realize there is more at issue here than just the pay raise. It's whether or not we are willing to give up our constitutional right to approve any future pay raises," Oates said.

In the amendment, lawmakers propose to set their pay at no more than 25 percent of the governor's salary. The House speaker and lieutenant governor would get up to half the governor's wage.

With the governor's salary at more than $93,000 annually, lawmakers would see their own pay increase from $7,200 a year to $23,358 next year.

And in the future, anytime lawmakers raise the governor's pay, they would raise their own wages.

This end run around the Texas Constitution is one of several objections raised by pay hike opponents.

Opponents also say that recent news stories about massive spending on lawmakers by lobbyists and political contributors raises too many questions about legislative responsibility to triple lawmakers' salaries just now.

But supporters say Texas legislators, whose last raise came in 1975, are underpaid for the work they do in a large, modern state. They compare Texas salaries to the $57,500 paid in New York, $47,000 in Pennsylvania and $40,816 in California.

Besides the pay raise, a companion amendment - Proposition 11 on the Nov. 7 ballot - would nearly triple the daily expense allowance given members of the Legislature.

If that amendment passes, the allowance would rise from the current $30 per day when the Legislature is in session to $81, the maximum allowed under federal tax regulations.

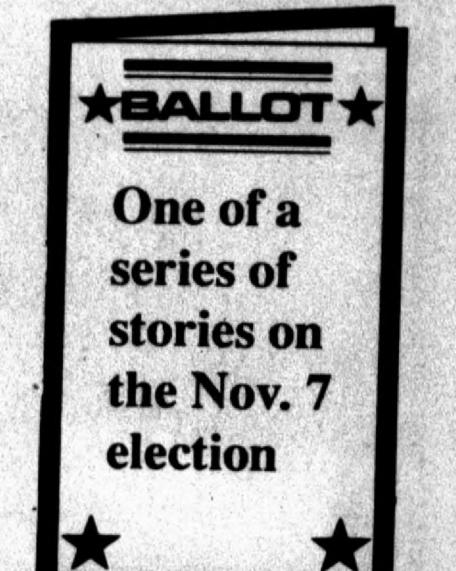

Bill Ceverha, a former House member and official of the pro-raise Texans for Good Government, said concern over recent ethics questions is a reason to vote for the pay raise.

"If you get a decent salary and per diem (expenses), you won't have lawmakers doing all the silly things they're doing," Ceverha said.

"Even with the proposed raises, Texas would still rank eighth out of the 10 most populous states in legislative pay, and more importantly would provide sufficient reimbursement to at least cover the cost of service in Austin," Ceverha said.

A recent opinion poll by The Dallas Morning News and Houston Chronicle showed voters apparently inclined to reject the raise. Fifty-one percent opposed it, while 38 percent were in favor. Pollster Richard

Murray of the University of Houston said, "It looks like a goner."

Murray of the University of Houston said, "It looks like a goner."

Trying to raise funds for the pro-amendment campaign are Lt. Gov. Hobby and House Speaker Gib Lewis, who wrote to some 800 potential campaign donors, including numerous lobbyists.

The letter drew criticism from those who noted that lobbyists are at the center of the ethical storm swirling around the Legislature. During this year's 140-day regular session, lobbyists reported spending more than $1.86 million on entertainment and gifts for lawmakers, including trips to foreign countries.

"In as much as this (fund-raising letter) is directed at the lobby and not the people of Texas, the implication is that the lobby stands to benefit. That's the wrong message to be sending out," said Tom Smith of the group Public Citizen.

Many raise boosters, including Land Commissioner Garry Mauro, said a pay hike would allow average citizens to serve.

"There is no way most Texans can run for state legislative offices, the salaries are just too low. Higher pay will make it possible for many more Texans to consider serving their state in these jobs," he said.

But one who serves now - Sen. John Leedom, R-Dallas - said he sees good reasons for the public to oppose it.

"If we reduce public service to what's in it for the people serving, I'm not sure I'd like that," Leedom said. "If we had to pay people to be scoutmasters, we'd ruin the Boy Scout movement. I think public service is volunteerism of the highest nature. We would lose something by trying to make it commercial," he said.

Leedom said there also is a misunderstanding about "what we're really paid."

"The reality is - if we serve five months in a regular session and 30 days in a special session during the two-year period - we're making about $2,400 a month for the time we work. That's a pretty good part-time salary," he said.

"If you raise that to $23,000 a year - or $46,000 for the biennium - you're getting up there to about $8,000 per month worked."

On the ballot, Proposition 1 reads:

"The constitutional amendment to limit the salary of the lieutenant governor and the speaker of the House of Representatives to not more than one-half of the governor's salary and to limit the salary of a member of the Legislature to not more than one-fourth of the governor's salary."

Proposition 11 reads:

"The constitutional amendment to set the amount of per diem received by a member of the Legislature at the amount allowed for federal income tax purposes as a deduction for living expenses incurred by a state legislator in connection with official business."

ELDERLY

defraud and deceive the elderly," said Leah Kane, a bondholder who has organized a group of 200 at Leisure World, a giant retirement community outside Los Angeles.

"Scams come into Leisure World and we hear about them all the time," she said. "Scams don't usually come in through the banks."

When American Continental asked for approval to begin selling bonds in 1987, the California Department of Savings and Loans approved leasing desk space in Lincoln branches to ACC representatives.

But the department had concerns, and several times wrote to American Continental about misleading marketing and advertisements, such as nearly identical ads on successive newspaper pages for Lincoln CDs and ACC bonds.

Periodic undercover checks found ACC was playing by the rules, S&L chief deputy commissioner William Davis said, but when the leases came up for renewal in 1988, American Continental was ordered out. The company simply rented offices upstairs or across the street from Lincoln lobbies.

"We just had a bad feeling from the very beginning that there was a potential for people to misunderstand," Davis said.

Davoudian, the patient from Germany who has lymphoma, said he resisted the sales pitches for three years until last January - less than four months before American Continental's bankruptcy filing.

The company must have known it was in trouble, he said, and it knew his money was for treatments. "How could they do this to me?"

A class-action suit has been filed on behalf of the bondholders. It accuses Keating and others connected to American Continental of a "classic bait and switch" sales scam, of making "it appear the debentures were like savings accounts or certificates of deposit insured by the federal government when they were not," and of inflating reported earnings and assets at ACC and Lincoln.

In July, a report by Kenneth Leventhal & Co., an accounting firm commissioned by federal regulators, found "egregious" violations of auditing rules at American Continental.

Last month, the federal government accused Keating and most of American Continental's officers and directors of civil racketeering, claiming they conspired to siphon $1.1 billion in federally insured funds from Lincoln for their personal use.

"I'm not guilty of anything. I've done nothing wrong," Keating has said.

He has attacked the government, claiming his empire would be intact had regulators not waged a vendetta against him because he had criticized their thrift policies. Keating has sued the regulators claiming "a pattern of harassment and misrepresentation."

The bonds, Keating has said, were a "normal method of corporate finance" and were portrayed to potential investors as uninsured instruments.

Keating bought Lincoln in 1984. Through risky direct investment in real estate and investment in other corporate junk bonds, he turned a sleepy savings bank with $1 billion in assets into an aggressive thrift whose assets had grown to $5.4 billion by 1988.

The bond sales began about the same time Keating's troubles with regulators began - 1987, a time when Lincoln apparently desperately needed capital to stay afloat.

The Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco examined Lincoln and found it was in danger of failing. Keating took his case to Washington. He persuaded Sens. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., John McCain, R-Ariz., Don Riegle, D-Mich., and John Glenn, D-Ohio, all of whom had received large campaign contributions raised by Keating, to meet with regulators and press Keating's case.

In a two-hour April 1987 meeting, the senators defended Keating as a major employer who ran profitable operations.

DeConcini asked that regulators grant "forbearance" on new direct-investment regulations, and Glenn said, "You should charge them or get off their backs," according to notes taken by William Black, a regulator with the San Francisco bank who attended the meeting.

In an unprecedented move, the Federal Home Loan Bank Board ordered supervision of Lincoln transferred from San Francisco to Washington, and a new examination conducted. Keating celebrated with a champagne party at his Phoenix headquarters.

Many investors could have been spared ruin had regulators' actions not been delayed two years by political influence, said Don Mikami, a Fountain Valley, Calif., dentist who invested $25,000.

"The bonds never would have been sold to California investors," Mikami said. "It was a mad scramble those last two years to get money in the coffers of American Continental."

Four of the five senators now say they regret the appearance of political influence created by the meeting, but insist there was nothing wrong with trying to help a constituent.

"If I knew then what I know now, I would not have done any of what I did," said DeConcini, who returned Keating-related campaign contributions after the Justice Department filed its racketeering suit.

"The question is, Was I abused? The answer is yes."

McCain said he is now "embarrassed" that he attended the meeting. Riegle returned campaign contributions. Glenn said that upon learning regulators had made referrals to the Justice Department, he bowed out of further Keating discussions.

Cranston, who solicited Keating for a $400,000 contribution for his non-partisan voter education project after the meeting with regulators, has "no regrets about trying to help a California institution with thousands of employees and depositors who was having a rough time with red tape and delays by the federal bureaucracy," spokesman Murray Flander said.

Added Cranston's chief of staff, Roy Greenaway, "The things we know now about the sale of the bonds and the confusion created - that whole issue is something we never knew about then."

Cranston has asked the General Accounting Office to examine whether federal or state regulators were responsible in any way for the bondholders' plight, and, if so, whether the government could compensate them out of federal savings and loan insurance funds.

Bondholders say that may be their only hope.

"The regulators allowed this to go on," said attorney-investor Rosenberg.

Even the chance of recovering some money after protracted litigation, bankruptcy proceedings or Washington policy-making is of little comfort to the elderly victims, bondholders say.

"These people need their money now," said Ms. Kane, the Leisure World resident who organized with other bondholders to try to get their money back. "They need to go into nursing or board-and-care homes now. They have medical bills now. They don't have time to wait."

Planning to cook with wine?

Add a little wine to an ordinary dish, and voila! You've gone gourmet! You can substitute wine for some of the broth, water or liquid in a stew, soup or meat sauce. To start, here are answers to some common questions about cooking with wine.

Q. Is an inexpensive table wine good enough for cooking?

A. Yes. If you like the flavor, you'll probably be happy cooking with the wine. But don't use an inferior wine just because it's inexpensive. The alcohol evaporates during cooking, so flavor becomes concentrated. If a wine has an inferior flavor to begin with, it's unlikely you'll be pleased with the result.

Q. Can I cook with the same wine I drink?

A. Certainly. But don't dump a great vintage wine into a stew.

Q. Can I use a partly consumed bottle of wine for cooking?

A. Yes. Re-cork and refrigerate a leftover red or white wine and use it within 2 days. To store for 1 to 2 weeks, refrigerate the wine in a small container with minimum head space so the wine is not exposed to air. For longer storage, freeze wine in a small freezerproof container allowing enough room for the liquid to expand in freezing.

Q. How many calories does wine add to the dish?

A. The calories in wine are from the alcohol.

Speedy Nieman Amendments

Since its adoption in 1876, the Texas Constitution has been amended 307 times. This year's Nov. 7 ballot will include 21 proposed amendments to the Constitution. Since 1989 is an odd-numbered year, no federal, state, county or district offices will be on the ballot (other than some special elections called to fill vacancies). Some local governments will hold elections, the largest being the city of Houston.

Hopefully, voters will study the proposed amendments and go to the polls on Nov. 7. The law requires that the state publish the ballot wording of the proposed amendments twice in newspapers across the state, and these were published in The Brand Sept. 14 and 21. Since the order of the 21 amendments on the ballot were selected at random, we thought it might be of interest to readers to group the proposed amendments by general subject area.

State bonds: Four amendments on the ballot would authorize the state to issue a total of $1.25 billion in general-obligation bonds. These bonds are a means of using the state's credit to borrow money for a particular purpose. Amendment 2 would authorize $500 million for water development. Amendment 3 would provide $25 million for agricultural development; $25 million for new product development; $20 million for small business incubators, and $5 million for rural microenterprises. Amendment 8 would authorize $400 million for prison, youth correction, and mental health/mental retardation facilities. Amendment 21 would provide $75 million for student loans.

Property tax exemptions: The Constitution provides that ad valorem taxation must be equal and uniform and that all real property and tangible personal property must be taxed in proportion to its value, unless specifically exempted. Two amendments would allow new tax exemptions. Amendment 4 would permit the legislature to exempt from local taxation property owned by nonprofit veterans organizations. Amendment 5, the "freeport" amendment, would exempt certain property acquired in, or imported into, the state for assembling, storing, manufacturing, processing or fabricating if the property left the state within 175 days of being acquired or imported. Local governments could override the exemption and tax such property if they acted before specified deadlines.

The Legislature and other officials: Three amendments would affect the Legislature and other officials. Amendment No. 1 would replace the $600 per month salary for members of the Legislature and the lieutenant governor with an annual salary based on the salary paid to the governor. Legislators would receive one-fourth of the governor's salary, and the speaker of the House and the lieutenant governor would receive one-half. Amendment 7 would revise the oath of office recited by elected and appointed officials to eliminate the provisions denying bribery to obtain the office. The bribery denial would be sworn to separately, in writing. Amendment 11 would replace the $30 per diem payment to legislators for each day that the Legislature is in session with whatever amount is allowed as a federal income-tax deduction for expenses in conducting legislative business in Austin.

Criminal justice: Four amendments deal generally with the area of criminal justice or criminal offenses. Amendment 9 would create an exception to the constitutional separation of powers to allow the consolidation of agencies of different branches of government with criminal justice functions. Amendment 10 would allow the Legislature to require that juries considering the sentence for convicted offenders be instructed about laws concerning early release from prison on parole or mandatory supervision. Amendment 13 would specify the rights of victims of crime and allow prosecutors to enforce those rights. Amendment 15 would allow the Legislature to legalize raffles conducted by nonprofit organizations for charitable purposes.

Local government: Six of the proposed amendments (in addition to the two dealing with local property taxation) would effect the local government. No. 6 would allow the Legislature to set a term of office of up to four years, rather than two years, for members of hospital district boards. Amendment 14 would allow the new Fort Bend County district attorney to be elected in 1990 rather than in 1992, as are all other district attorneys in the state. No. 16 would authorize the Legislature to generally allow county commissioners courts to initiate creation or dissolution of local hospital districts, without a special law being enacted for each district. No. 17 would authorize the Legislature to make grants and loans of state money to assist local fire-fighting organizations. No. 19 would allow the Legislature to establish by law how local governments may invest their money. Amendment 20 would abolish the office of county surveyor in Cass, Ector, Garza, Smith, Bexar, Harris and Webb counties, if the amendment is approved both statewide and in the affected county.

Editorial opinion from around Texas

By The Associated Press
Here is a sampling of editorial opinion from around Texas:

Panama Next Time...

President Bush may be getting a bum rap in all the second-guessing about ... what our role should have been in the attempted overthrow of Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega, the Panamanian strongman. But it is clear that we must heed some lessons from this affair...

Lesson One for next time: Establish clearer the lines of communication ...

Lesson No. 2: Do not rely on someone else to achieve what is one of your own major foreign policy goals ...

Lesson No. 3: You can plan in advance but you can't do it all from Washington. At some point, the commander on the scene must have leeway to tell his troops: This is it - move in!

The Administration now says the U.S. does not rule out future use of force, on its own timetable. Good. We only hope when the opportunity presents itself again, as it did last week, that we put our lessons to use and collar this man Noriega.

Don't Blame Religion

The conviction of televangelist Jim Bakker on 24 counts of fraud and conspiracy was certainly a blow to him personally, and to those who retain faith in the defrocked minister. And the conviction, plus the revelations which went into it, have delivered a blow to television high-voltage ministries in general ...

But none of this should reflect upon religion itself. That would be the most tragic outcome of all. What Bakker was convicted of had to do with religion, but with the perversion of religion for personal gain.

If anything, the affair could be a positive factor for traditional churches. It issues a warning to the unwary against being taken in by a charismatic video preacher, encouraging the support of local churches instead. If any good comes of the Bakker trial, that could be it.

Legislative Ethics Deserve Censure

Poor Gib Lewis. And while we're at it, let's all take pity on the poor, innocent members of the Texas Legislature.

All they did was collectively rake in $1.86 million in goodies from lobbyists during the 1989 regular legislative session, and now a bunch of journalists are criticizing them for all those meals, gifts and vacations!

"A lot of (legislators) don't mind making a financial sacrifice," Lewis mused recently, "... But when people start questioning your integrity and calling us crooks, that goes beyond the call of duty."

Worse yet, Lewis said the recent resignation of state Rep. Stan Schlueter, D-Killeen, and state Rep. Mike McKinney, D-Centerville, could be followed by more departures because "it's quit being fun."

Well, if Gib can quit sobbing into his beer for a few minutes, we'd like to point out a few facts:

The people - and journalists - of Texas have every right to criticize legislators when they see them being led around by the nose by wealthy lobbyists. The system of subsidized debauchery that has

Bipartisanship going out of season

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) - With autumn budget deadlines bearing down, bipartisanship may be going out of season. President Bush and congressional Democrats still talk about it, but they also complain about the frustrations each side feels with the other.

It may be a cold winter.

The national drug strategy Bush proposed with a call for bipartisan support and speedy congressional action has become the centerpiece in a new round of the budget fight.

The Democrats say it is undersized and underfinanced, traits they call typical of domestic proposals from the Bush White House. Their complaint all along has been that Bush makes broad, politically attractive proposals without saying how to pay for them, leaving the tab for negotiation with Congress.

For his part, the president says Congress should give his plan a chance before demanding more money. "I don't want to be hypercritical, but I must say there's a certain frustration level when you come out with a sound program and two answers come out: spend more and raise taxes.

"And that I don't think we have to do to be sound in the environment or sound in education or sound in narcotics," Bush told a news conference in Helena, Mont., on Monday.

So far, the Bush course is playing well with the voters - his job approval rating in the public opinion polls is running over 70 percent.

While he has proposed additional spending on education, defense, the environment, even a manned mission to Mars, Bush never has wavered from his campaign pledge that there will be no new taxes. He says his critics - meaning the Democrats - are the ones who want to raise taxes.

That's a corner Democratic leaders were determined to avoid, but at times they have played into GOP hands on the tax question. Sen. Joseph R. Biden of Delaware, chairman of the Judiciary Committee, said before Bush presented his drug plan that it would take a massive commitment of funds to combat drugs.

For his part, the president says Congress should give his plan a chance before demanding more money. "I don't want to be hypercritical, but I must say there's a certain frustration level when you come out with a sound program and "If that means raising taxes to pay for drug-fighting measures, so be it," Biden said then. Chosen to deliver the Democrats' televised response to the Bush drug speech, Biden said combating drugs would take more resources than the president proposed to spend. He's revised the message now. "The Democratic position is not, I emphasize not, new taxes," he said last Friday.

Bush was still responding to the earlier emphasis, saying that Congress ought to get on with what he proposed and demand more if there turn out to be holes in the program.

"But to jump out immediately and start yelling - not had I gotten off that television set than a voice comes from the Democratic side talking about more money," Bush said. "And then you hear this hue and cry about raising people's taxes. We don't have to do that."

But Congress has to do something, and quickly. Oct. 1 is the deadline for enactment of the 13 appropriations bills that finance the government. The House has passed them, but the Senate isn't halfway through. It has been slowed by the dispute over Democratic efforts to increase spending on the drug war by $2.2 billion, far more than the administration wants to add.

As a result, there almost certainly will have to be a continuing resolution, the device by which Congress keeps federal agencies from running out of money until their appropriations are approved. That raises another set of problems because continuing resolutions are must-pass, deadline measures that often become vehicles for contentious amendments a president would veto in other circumstances.

There's another set of deadlines coming up on Oct. 16. Congress must pass a budget reconciliation bill by then, matching expenditures and revenues and seeking to reach goals set last spring. That also is the day the Office of Management and Budget has to determine whether the government is going to stay within the $110 billion deficit limit set by law. If the deficit estimate exceeds that limit, the law requires automatic cuts in federal spending.

And by the end of October, Congress will have to approve a new debt ceiling, probably over $3 trillion, so that the government can keep borrowing the money it must have to operate.

The calendar and the numbers would add up to a tough season even without political differences, and the prospect prompted Bush to remark in Helena on Montana's centennial cattle drive.

"Maybe I can get a few of those drovers to come back with me to Washington," he said. "There's a herd back on Capitol Hill that I'd like to move in my direction."

BABBLING BROOKS

By John Brooks

It's time that we aired, in public, a little problem that we have here at the Brand so that everyone knows about it.

We are not able to obtain condition reports on persons admitted to Deaf Smith General Hospital.

We need to be able to get the condition reports so that we may be better able to report the full story on persons involved in accidents or other news-worthy events.

For the past two months, we have been forced to go to other sources to find the extent of injuries persons have suffered in accidents because the hospital staff has been told not to give condition reports to the Brand.

We are not trying to pry into every detail of the person's malady. We simply want to know whether a person is in "serious" or "critical" or "fair" or "good" condition, and a very general description of injuries.

We are able to get those reports from all other hospitals with which we deal (usually the Amarillo hospitals). We contact the charge nurse or other person of high responsibility, tell them the name of the person of whom we are inquiring, and they give us the information we request.

They act in a courteous and professional manner, and we do too. We don't try to pry for more information than is absolutely necessary.

The same was true at Deaf Smith General Hospital for many years until about two months ago, when Administrator Gary Moore decided to follow the letter of the law and not release condition reports.

Condition reports, strictly speaking, are part of patient information. Patient information records may not be released to the public. That is spelled out in the Texas Open Records Act.

Mr. Moore was most explicit when I called him on August 29 to ask the reason why we could not get condition reports from the hospital.

"I don't have to give you the damn reports, John," Moore said.

I tried to explain the reason why we needed them, but he cut me off and said the hospital did not have to release the information and would not.

At the September board meeting, Moore told the board that the condition reports were no longer being released to the media, based upon the "advice of our attorneys." Moore cited the "Medical Records Act of 1989" as the reason for not releasing the information. Actually, the law that would cover that has been in place in the Texas Open Records Act for many years.

Also, Moore invoked the same policy during his stints as administrator in Littlefield and Levelland. The publishers of those newspapers said they had been able to get condition reports before Moore went to those communities, and are now able to get those reports again.

It would seem to me that when hospitals all around are trying to out-PR each other, our local hospital would be willing to work with the press so we can bring you a full, complete, professional story. Otherwise, we may have to report that persons were believed to have been taken to the hospital with undetermined injuries. Period.

Cleaner Air

A House subcommittee's agreement to extend California's strict auto-emissions standards to the rest of the nation is a major step forward for clean-air legislation. A stalemate over auto exhausts has been 10 years in the breaking ...

The Senate also is working on a bill to raise auto-emissions standards.

The House vote on emissions is the first substantive change that has been made in the 1977 Clean Air Act. The law was due for revision in 1981, but nothing happened because of congressional disagreement.

With tightening of auto-emissions standards finally in motion, Congress needs to move on to other revisions of the 1977 Clean Air Act.

Coal-burning power plants continue to pour 20 million tons of sulfur dioxide into the atmosphere each year ...

Chemical plants and oil refineries release cancer-causing chemicals and other toxic substances.

Clean-air legislation will have a long and tedious journey through Congress. The agreement over auto emissions reached in the House this week is a significant start.

Remove eye makeup with special care

The eye motto for removing even thick layers of eye makeup is: Easy does it!

Attempting to rub it all off thoroughly may be faster and thus appeal to you late in the evening when you're tired, but doing so will result in irritation and redness, says New York-based skin-care specialist Trish McEvoy. That's why you should opt for makeup that isn't waterproof (unless you're going swimming) because the waterproof kind is formulated to stay right where you put it as long as possible; other varieties are more easily wiped off with a gentle facial cleanser or a product intended for eye-makeup removal.

The Eye Research Institute in Boston suggested that the best method to take off makeup is using a cotton swab dipped in a mild baby shampoo. Dab the swab directly on both your eyelash roots and on the margins of your eyelids. Just make sure to rinse all the soap off before you're through. McEvoy recommends using downward strokes and then going across the eyelid in a T motion. Follow this cleansing by carefully dabbing the eye area with a cotton ball soaked in water.

Another strategy that emphasizes a gentle touch is to wrap a tissue soaked in a non-oily makeup remover around your index finger.

Place the finger between your lashes and then blink on it, says makeup artist Linda Mason. Next, rub only the lash from side to side to take off mascara and keep it from going in your eyes. Then, clean off the rest of your eye makeup with a cotton ball soaked in makeup remover, slowly moving in a circular fashion.

Remember: Repetitious and rough rubbing will only irritate the area, says Ronald Sherman, MD, a New York-based dermatologist in private practice. He claims that nine out of 10 cases of eyelid dermatitis (inflammation) are due to such irritations, not actual allergies.

If allergic reactions do crop up as a result of eye makeup, don't use any cosmetics until the condition goes away, he suggests. An over-the-counter topical hydrocortisone preparation should clear up the inflammation within a couple of days.

If the problem lingers, consult your physician. Then, next time you apply makeup (whether you're recovering from an eye irritation or not), prepare the area carefully.

Remember that the skin around your eyes has few sebaceous glands, so it's likely to dry out and wrinkle.

A concealer blended in near the eye's inner corner can camouflage persisting bags or creases. Then, wipe the lid with a wet cotton pad or dab on some

Herd holds Lobos at bay, 28-15

By SAM W. WALLER
Sports Editor

Friday the 13th has a way of making things go wrong, just ask the Hereford Whitefaces and Levelland Lobos.

But the Herd had enough things go right to record a 28-15 win over the defending District 1-4A champs at Whiteface Stadium.

"This is a big win for us," said Hereford coach Don Cumpston. "They've got a good ball club down there and they're well coached. It was a battle out there."

"We made some mistakes," he added, "but you're gonna make mistakes. What I was proud of was we played hard enough, long enough to overcome those mistakes. When you do that, you've got a chance to win every time you go out there."

The win boosted the Herd to 3-2 for the season and 2-1 in district play while Levelland dropped its third straight to go 3-3 overall and 1-3 in district.

The game proved to be a wild affair under a full moon, featuring a fake field goal and a fake punt, three scoring plays of more than 50 yards, a total of eight turnovers and a bunch of headhunters disguised as Hereford defensive backs.

Hereford was led by tailback Matt Bromlow, who rushed for a career-best 267 yards on 28 carries, including scoring jaunts of 63 and 54 yards.

Bromlow said the multiple defensive fronts employed by the Lobos did influence the Herd's attack.

"They were in a 6-1, which is a front all the way across," he said, "so we had to kick 'em out where I could get upfield."

"We couldn't outrun them to the sidelines, and I'd dip inside and then go outside if the hole was there. The line and Greg Urbanczyk did a great job of blocking."

Bromlow added that he is finally rounding into shape after missing the first two games of the season.

"I felt lots better than those other two games (against Estacado and Pampa)," he said. "Of course, each game I've been progressing and I'm getting a little better in shape each time. I think I'm getting pretty much in shape, I wasn't near as tired this time as I was last time."

The Herd opened the game with a 55-yard drive, keyed by Bromlow's 39-yard run. But two straight incomplete passes by Jason Walterscheid at the Lobo 15-yard line turned the ball over on downs.

Levelland responded by going all the way in seven plays, scoring on slot

Using his blockers

Hereford tailback Matt Bromlow cuts back behind the blocking of Jason Walterscheid (11) and Greg Urbanczyk (37) on one of the Herd's two second-quarter scoring drives in Friday's 28-back Joey Fortner's 13-yard run. Jimmy Payton hooked up with Olando Coursey twice for 50 yards during the night.

The conversion failed when Fortner couldn't control the snap and barely got off an incomplete pass as he was swarmed by the Herd defense.

Levelland mounted another long march following the first of four Hereford punts, going 53 yards to the Herd 21.

That's when weird things began to happen. On third down, Coursey never gained control of the handoff on an attempted double reverse.

The Whitefaces took advantage of the turnover, staying off any bad luck for eight plays. Walterscheid garnered his first two completions of the night on the 75-yard drive, both to Russell Backus, including one for 26 yards on third-and-nine at the Lobo 46 and a scoring strike of 16 yards.

15 win over the Lobos. Bromlow finished with 267 yards rushing and scored on runs of 63 and 54 yards.

The shenanigans continued when a high snap allowed Eddie Cantu's conversion kick to be partially blocked, leaving the score knotted at 6-6.

The Herd defense held following the kickoff, and a 26-yard punt by Payton gave Hereford the ball at the Lobo 49. But on first down Anthony Dawn picked off Walterscheid's pass and returned it 20 yards the Herd 40.

Levelland couldn't manage to hold on to the ball much longer, though. On second-and-15, Shane Johnson took Payton's pass and appeared headed for first-down yardage before being separated from the ball by Miguel Casas.

Hereford could gain only five yards after the turnover and had to punt, but the Lobos returned the favor and the Herd took over at its own 43 with 2:42 remaining in the half.

A 20-yard run by Bromlow and a Walterscheid-to-Backus aerial for 17 more put the Herd at the Lobo 20. Six plays later found the Herd facing fourth-and-goal at the 3 and the field goal team came on.

But instead of settling for three, holder T.J. Head whipped a pass to Backus for the touchdown. Cantu added the point after to send the Herd into the locker-room with a 13-6 halftime lead.

Cumpston said executing the fake successfully may have been the biggest play of the game.

"That gave us a lot of momentum (at the half)," he said.

"I just told T.J. when he went in there. We called the field goal team, and as T.J. came by me, I said, 'Let's fake it, let's throw it for a touchdown.'

"(Our team) knew what was happening, we called it in the huddle. But there wasn't much deliberation, I'll say that. I think that kind of stuff works a lot better when you don't take time out and do all that."

"I thought T.J. threw a great pass. They had a guy back there, but, boy, he had to thread the needle."

The teams exchanged punts again to open the third quarter before the wheels, if not coming off, at least got out of balance for the visitors.

On the first play after the Hereford punt, Payton found Dawn for a 24-yard gain, but the Herd secondary forced another fumble and recovered at the Hereford 37.

"I thought our secondary tackled hit good," Cumpston said. "Those fumbles were caused, they didn't just happen. And that's what a secondary player is supposed to do."

Bromlow then went the distance on the next play on a toss left, getting the block he needed from Walterscheid.

The Herd defense forced a punt three plays after the kickoff, and following a Hereford fumble, had the Lobos facing fourth-and-11 at their 48 on the next possession.

But Lobos coach Buster Leaf went with the trick play and Payton connected with Britt Spears for 20 yards out of punt formation.

The gain helped the Lobos reach the Herd 4-yard line, but Payton misfired on two passes into the end zone and the ball went over on downs.

The goal-line stand turned out to be the worst thing that could happen to Hereford. A penalty put the Herd at second-and-11 at the 3, and Lobo defensive end Danny Brackens sacked Walterscheid for a safety.

"I made a bad call on that safety," Cumpston said of calling a pass. "That

Hereford Bull had rip-snortin' good time Friday

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

The last time we talked to the Hereford Bull, that big thing that shows up at every Hereford High School varsity football game and is known to be the last thing to attract a crowd at Texas Stadium, it was down in the dumps.

"Last year, all those Levelland people were hollering at us to 'take our bull out of town,'" the bull said last night from its lofty south end zone perch at Whiteface Stadium after Friday's 28-15 win over Levelland.

"It hurt me very personally and deeply," the bull said Friday, almost with a whimper. "I wanted to wear a hockey goalie's mask like Jamie in all of those Friday the 13th movies, but we couldn't find an XXXXXXXX-XXXXXX that would fit me, so I just came the way I am."

"I'm glad I finally got to snort a few times tonight. I am used to snorting a lot, especially after we win, and especially after home games. That Estacado game was the first time I hadn't snorted after a home game, and it really felt good to snort tonight after the game. I let off a little steam, and it felt good."

And that ain't no bull.

Another player happy to make a few amends for last year was middle linebacker Brian Wagner.

Wagner was pressed into action early in last year's game when starting linebacker Joe Medrano was tossed from the game on what is best described as a cheap call.

We won't directly quote Wagner's evaluation of his performance last year, but he did feel it was the worst game he had "ever played."

"It felt good to go out there tonight and play well," Wagner said. Hereford coaches agreed that Friday's performance by Wagner may have been his best.

Another linebacker that stood out was Oscar Garcia. Garcia made a tackle early in the game that is taught at the Jack Tatum School of Hair Design, then stopped a Levelland drive with an interception in the second half.

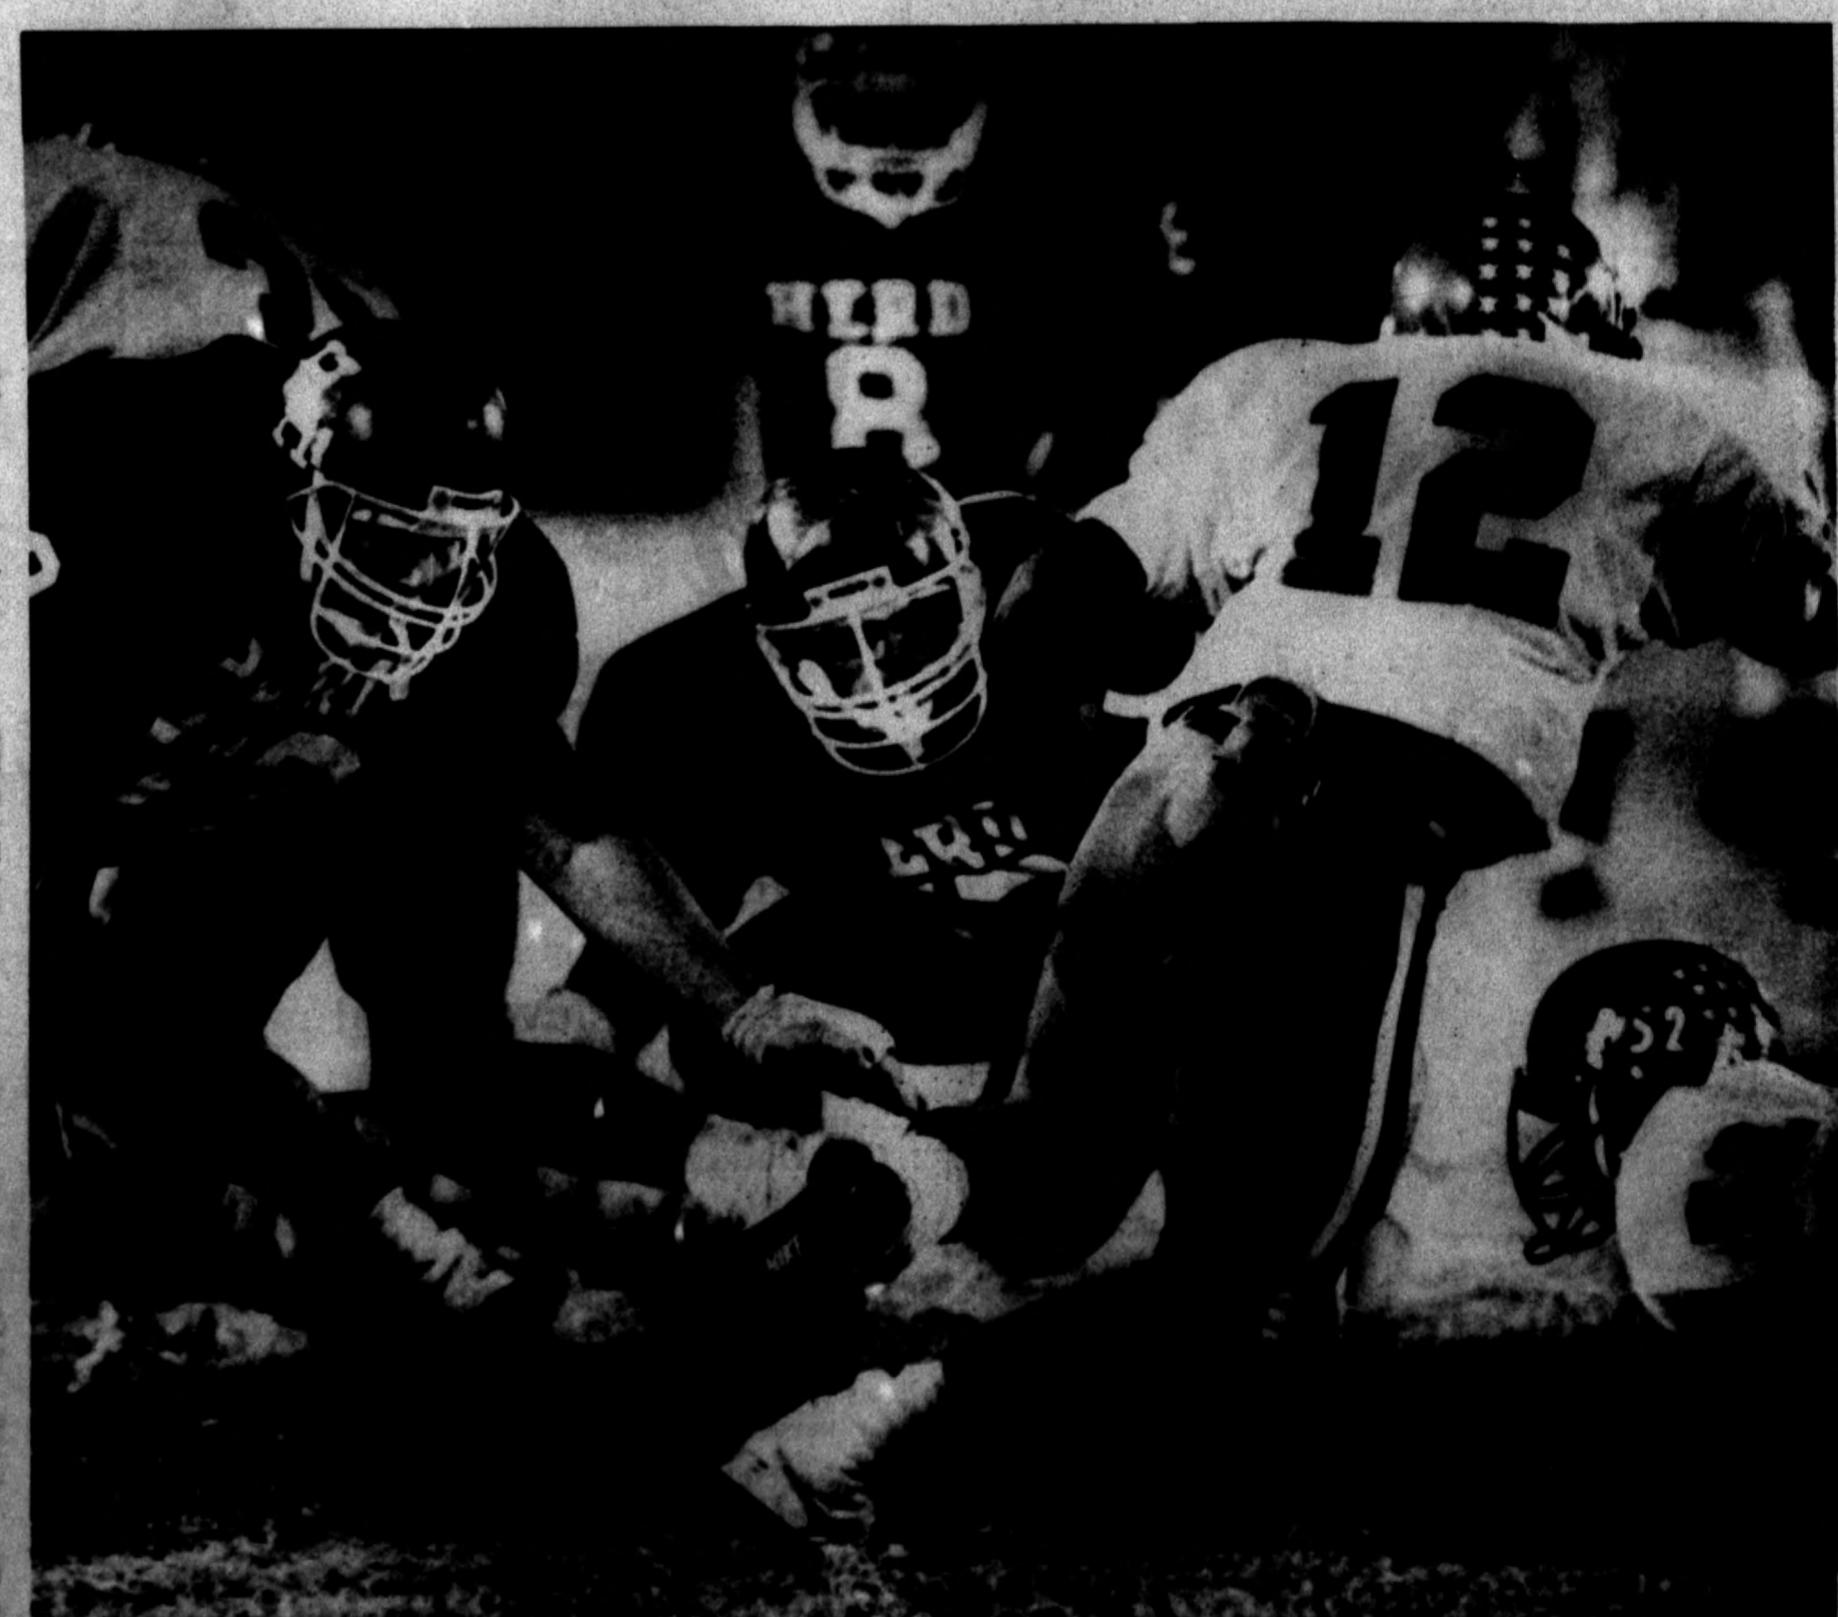

"We made a few adjustments in the dressing room at halftime and loosened up on them a little bit on our pass coverage," Garcia said. "I'm supposed to cover the curl, and I guess their quarterback never saw me because he threw it right to me."

Hereford had been worried about Levelland's speedy wide receivers and a fairly open passing attack, but defensive back Chuck Lemons agreed with Garcia that the halftime adjustments worked.

"We were in a 'Cover 3' most of the night and loosened it up against them," Lemons said. "That helped us stay with them because they are so fast. We were able to stay with them, not let anybody get by. I thought we shut them down pretty good in the second half. We probably could have had some more interceptions, but I thought we played it really well, especially in the second half."

"We didn't do anything too much different from what we've been doing except we loosened up on them at the line."

"I think the secondary played super," Garcia said. "There was a lot of pressure on them all night and they played super."

Not through here

Levelland tailback Curtis Hall (12) cuts away from Hereford defensive linemen Aaron Savage (72) and Philip Martin (55) while defensive back George Madrigal (5) comes up to support the line during the Herd's 28-15 win Friday at Whiteface Stadium. The Herd defense forced four turnovers and recorded two sacks during the game.

For Oilers, there's no place like Dome

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) - There are some facts that refuse to be swept under a Columbia blue rug.

The Houston Oilers have thrilled their fans in the House of Pain (Astrodome), and broken their hearts on the road.

Since 1981, the Oilers have compiled a 10-52 road record, including last Sunday's 23-13 upset loss to New England and preceding this Sunday's visit to the Chicago Bears' Soldier Field.

Coaches and players have changed, but there is still no explanation for the phenomenon. It pops out like dirty laundry each time the Oilers stumble outside the Astrodome.

Players who have been a part of the road flops either shrug or offer suggestions like "more intensity" and "taking care of business."

Cornerback Patrick Allen has stopped trying to explain it.

"If I could answer that question I'd become the first black player-coach," Allen joked. "There are so many intangibles to winning on the road. We make a lot of mental-type mistakes on the road that we don't make at home."

The Oilers have made the playoffs the past two years. But because of their road lapses, they've been forced on the road for the playoffs.

Each unfathomable loss brings back the question.

Coach Jerry Glanville tries to dismiss the subject by either pointing out some of the Oilers' rare road victories or joking about the losses.

"I once had a team that got drunk the night before the game and we won, but I certainly wouldn't recommend that," said Glanville, who does not drink.

Glanville has tried juggling the Oilers' road routine. Last week, the team worked out on Saturday in Houston instead of going to the visiting city and working out.

That idea got the Oilers a 10-3 halftime deficit. They didn't score a touchdown until the final minutes when the Patriots were playing the clock.

"I've done everything I've tried since I've been coaching," Glanville said. "But you go back to Atlanta (where Glanville was an assistant coach) or how San Francisco does it and it's no different from what we do."

Glanville correctly points out that the Oilers HAVE scored crucial road victories, including last year's 24-23 wild card playoff victory over the Cleveland Browns.

The Oilers were 1-7 on the road in 1986, Glanville's first full season as head coach. They were 4-4 away from home in 1987 and 3-5 last season.

But it's the lapses against teams like the Patriots, whom they were favored to beat, that keep the Oilers on the edge of disaster season after season.

"I tried to be a little more vocal (at New England), to try to get everyone pumped up," defensive end William Fuller said. "I tried to get everybody motivated to realize what kind of urgency we are dealing with."

With a 2-3 record looking up at Cincinnati's 4-1 record, there is a lot of urgency attached to Sunday's visit to Chicago.

The Oilers are proud of not losing two games in a row since 1986, but that record will be tested by the Bears, who are likely to be in a grizzly mood after their upset loss to Tampa Bay.

Glanville said he's not concerned about road victories, just victories.

"You don't get a star if you have more wins on the road than you do at home," he said. "When the fighting is all over, you just want to end up with a lot of victories. It doesn't matter where you get them."

But the team's continued road show crashes keeps putting the Oilers in an early season hole.

"We're starting to dig ourselves into a little hole," fullback Alonso Highsmith said. "One of the main problems around here is everybody's always worried about what the next team's record is and who we're playing later down the road."

Highsmith plans to attack the problem on an individual basis.

"I did a lot of soul searching last night," he said. "I'm not worried about anyone on this team. I'm not concerned; I'm going to do what Alonso Highsmith can do to help this team and that's it."

A&M consolidates 21-4A race

By CHARLES RICHARDS
Associated Press Writer

Upsets are becoming old hat to A&M Consolidated in the 1989 Texas high school football season.

The Tigers knocked off their third ranked team of the season Friday night, stopping a 2-point conversion attempt late in the game to hold off Mayde Creek, 20-19.

Mayde Creek was ranked eighth in Class 4A going into the game.

One week earlier, Tomball was undefeated and ranked sixth in Class 4A, but fell to A&M Consolidated, 26-7.

The first game of the season, Navasota, Class 3A's No. 1-ranked club in preseaseon, was a 20-8 victim to A&M Consolidated.

The back-to-back wins over

Tomball and Mayde Creek, both in District 21-4A, have put A&M Consolidated in first place in the district race for the first time in two decades.

The state's top-ranked teams all won.

In 5A, Converse Judson protected its No. 1 ranking with a 48-0 victory over San Antonio Lee, the same score that second-ranked Odessa Permian defeated Abilene. In a meeting of ranked teams, No. 3 Plano East overwhelmed cross-city rival Plano, ranked ninth, 31-8.

West Orange-Stark, in its first week as the No. 1 team in 4A, destroyed Bridge City 57-7, while No. 2 Calallen beat Beeville 23-7 and No. 3 Bay City beat Wharton 25-0.

Defending 3A state champion Southlake Carroll rolled on, winning its 22nd straight game, 38-0 over Coppell, but second-ranked Ballinger was beaten by Abilene Wylie 15-14. Third-ranked Denver City beat Lubbock Roosevelt 17-6.

Groveton stayed on a roll in 2A, brushing aside Grapeland 22-14. No. 2-ranked Lorena stormed past China Spring 47-6, and third-ranked Refugio stunned Karnes City 55-6.

In 1A, No. 1 Munday beat Spur 35-14, No. 2 Bartlett beat Granger 49-0 and No. 3 Sudan shut out Springlake-Earth 35-0.

A&M Consolidated trailed Mayde Creek 13-6, but scored twice in the fourth quarter on Tommy Preston's 10-yard run and Preston's pass to Cliff Groce, who made a one-handed catch and raced 83 yards for what proved to be the winning touchdown.

Mayde Creek scored on Willie Mitchell's 18-yard pass to Walter Walker to cut the score to 20-19, and Mitchell connected with Juan Kemp on the 2-point conversion attempt. But Kemp was stopped short of the goal.

In a Class 3A game involving two East Texas schools, Mount Vernon defeated Prairieland, 40-0. Mount Vernon is unranked in Class 3A, but improved to 6-0 under Coach Willie Roten. Roten is the coach whose Class 2A Italy team made headlines three years ago by holding its opponents scoreless through the first 11 games of the season.

In a Class 5A game in Amarillo, fans grew restless when the 7:30 p.m. kickoff neared Friday night, but the opponent of host Amarillo Palo Duro had not appeared.

But all of a sudden, a bus pulled up and the Lubbock Westerners piled out and hit the field. Their coach had arranged for them to change into their uniforms at Canyon Randall High School about 20 miles away.

The psychological ploy didn't work. After falling behind Palo Duro 12-0, the Westerners did score, cutting the margin to 12-6. But the Dons scored the next 50 points and won, 62-6.

finished with four receptions, three from Walterscheid and one from Head, for 62 yards and two scores. Confer caught the only other completion for the Herd for eight yards.

Both coaches said the ability to overcome turnovers, if not avoid them, was a key to the game.

"We've always had the critical mistake right at the worst time," Leaf said. "Either a fumble, interception or penalty right at the wrong time. It's been with us all year and we've had to fight back from that."

"The reason why we've lost the last three ball games is because we're making so many critical mistakes at the worst time. Everybody makes mistakes, but we're making them at the most critical times."

"We didn't throw and catch as well as we did last week," Cumpston said. "We dropped some passes we'd normally catch and we threw some bad ones. But, when we had to deliver, we delivered."

Homeless 49ers meet hapless 'Pokes

By DENNE H. FREEMAN

AP Sports Writer

IRVING (AP) - Given the downtrodden state of affairs in the Dallas Cowboys' camp and San Francisco's relish for playing on the road, Texas Stadium should look like home sweet home Sunday to the NFL's ultimate road warriors, the 49ers.

The defending world champions have won four games on the road and lost the only one they played at home to the Los Angeles Rams.

They played at New Orleans last week in a previously scheduled home game because the San Francisco Giants were wrapping up the National League championship in Candlestick Park.

"It seems like Candlestick has become a foreign land to us," said first-year 49ers coach George Seifert. "We started the season in Japan and it seems like we've been on the road since."

Life on the road has altered the 49ers' chemistry of getting off to fast starts. They've had to rally from behind to win all four games.

"In the past, the 49ers have had a tradition of having fast-starting teams," he said. "Now we are fragmented and inconsistent when we start the game. It's unsettling. We can't keep counting on coming from behind."

The winless Cowboys, at 0-5 off to their worst start since Dwight

Eisenhower was president in 1960, could be just the patsy the 49ers need for a jump start.

Dallas is last in the NFL in offense.

"Dallas has some weapons," Seifert said. "They have the biggest offensive line we'll face."

"They also are a hungry team and will want to win at home. We'll have our hands full."

San Francisco will be visiting Dallas for the first time in nine years in the soldout noon game.

San Francisco has defeated Dallas four straight times, including a painful 28-27 loss in the 1982 NFC championship game.

While Dallas lost 31-13 to Green Bay last week, San Francisco's Joe Montana threw three second-half touchdowns to help the 49ers beat the New Orleans Saints 24-20.

Montana's passing arm was banged up in the victory, but Seifert said "I feel he will play."

Dallas coach Jimmy Johnson said the 49ers are very talented.

"It seems like there is as an all-pro or a pro bowler at every position," he said. "I just hope we can concentrate on our jobs and not who we are playing."

Oddsmakers opened with the Cowboys as 13 point underdogs.

Jets going from bad to worse fast

By BARRY WILNER

AP Sports Writer

Things are getting ugly for the New York Jets, with nothing pretty on the horizon.

After finishing last season with three victories in their final four games, including a season-ending win that knocked the New York Giants out of the playoffs, the Jets came into 1989 brimming with confidence.

Five games into the season, however, the Jets are 1-4, 0-3 at home, and play the New Orleans Saints, Buffalo Bills and San Francisco 49ers the next three weeks.

The offense has died as top receivers Wesley Walker, Al Toon and Mickey Shuler have been injured. The running game is pitiful. The line is inconsistent.

So even if the defense has had two steady efforts in a row, the Jets are losers.

And they're acting like losers.

"This team is one loss away from falling completely apart," one veteran said last week. "Of course, I think we're one big win away from straightening out. But if the loss comes first, it could make for a really long season."

It's already that, with players snarling in the locker room before practice, feuding with coaches on the practice field and showing little spark during games.

Add to that a coaching staff that always has had trouble righting a listing ship and you've got the makings of a 4-12 season. Or worse.

After the Jets' lackluster 17-10 loss to Indianapolis in their fourth game, Coach Joe Walton said the players lacked intensity and didn't play hard. Then Erik McMillan, one of their few consistently decent performers, threw a tantrum on the practice field after a run-in with defensive coordinator Ralph Hawkins.

On media day, several of the usually affable players decided to clam up, including Marty Lyons, who once admitted he "never met a microphone I didn't like." Lyons is the leader of the defense, a respected 11-year veteran who sets the tone for the unit.

Shuler, one of the most talkative Jets during the 1987 players' strike, and a member of the publicity staff had a shouting match after the tight end refused entry to the locker room to a female reporter. The Jets never had a policy of barring any credentialed media members from their locker room.

"What we need more than anything is to get focused on football," Toon said. "If we do that, we can win."

Not many people predicted a winning season for the Jets this year. But Walton was optimistic, as a coach must be. That optimism hasn't disintegrated.

"I think our chemistry is better this year," he said. "We have a

A's Rickey Henderson rolls into World Series

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) - Rickey Henderson can do no wrong these days. So with a chance to hit against some Oakland pitchers, he got right to it.

Henderson singled on the first pitch of a simulated game Thursday as the Athletics continued to prepare for the World Series.

"You see that? I haven't lost it," Henderson smiled after his hit off Bob Welch.

In his next at-bat, against reliever Dennis Eckersley, Henderson hit a line drive into the right-field corner. "I don't know if you'd say I'm in a groove," said Henderson, the MVP of the American League playoffs. "I just put four or five good days together.

"I'm concentrating real hard, even more than usual," he said. "And I'm seeing the ball real good."

Henderson reached base in 14 of 23 plate appearances in the playoffs. He batted .400, hit two home runs, was successful on all eight steals and was the only player to start every game and not strike out.

Henderson will play his first World Series game Saturday at 8:25 p.m. EDT. Dave Stewart will start for Oakland against San Francisco's Scott Garrels.

"I've waited a long time for this," Henderson said. "It's the World Series. I want to get started."

Both the Athletics and Giants have spent this week trying to stay sharp. Each ended their playoff series in five games, resulting in a Super Bowl-type layoff.

The Athletics played a five-inning game Thursday following an afternoon practice. Manager Tony La Russa made sure the game started at twilight, the same conditions as for the World Series opener. Across the field at the Oakland Coliseum, the Giants' equipment started arriving.

Welch, who will start Game 3 Tuesday night, joined Eckersley, Rick Honeycutt, Matt Young and Todd Burns in pitching. All of the Oakland batters got a chance to hit and Jose Canseco came the closest to hitting a ball out of the park.

The real close call came when Henderson fouled a ball back that almost hit La Russa in the head. La Russa was standing near the backstop.

During Wednesday's workout, La Russa was standing off to the side when the automatic sprinkler system turned on and got him wet.

"Got to be careful out here," he said.

The Athletics, meanwhile, want to be careful to keep Henderson. He is eligible for free agency at the end of the World Series and will surely attract attention.

The New York Yankees, the team that traded him back home to Oakland on June 20, are among those certain to be interested.

"Atmosphere is important and I like it here," said Henderson, who built a home in San Francisco overlooking the city. "But if George Steinbrenner called with a good offer, I'd listen."

"If Oakland made the same offer, I'd rather stay," he said. "I'm happy here."

Hereford section reserved for Texas Tech-Rice

A special block of tickets is being reserved for Hereford fans for the Oct. 21 Rice vs. Texas Tech football game at Jones Stadium at Lubbock.

Hereford will play Lubbock Dunbar at 8 p.m. that same day at Lowery Field in Lubbock.

The block of Hereford seats is in Section 117 above the second concourse on the east side of Jones Stadium. The tickets are $15 per seat.

Fans wishing to make advance reservations can call the Texas Tech ticket office toll free at 1-800-248-3241. Persons wishing to sit in the section need to identify themselves as Hereford fans. Visa and Mastercard are accepted.

Remaining tickets will go on sale at 9 a.m. the day of the game at Jones Stadium.

Dunbar gametime changed to 8 p.m.

Gametime for the Hereford Whitefaces game against Dunbar on Oct. 21 at Lowery Field in Lubbock has been moved back 30 minutes to 8 p.m., according to Hereford High School Athletic Director Don Cumpston.

Cumpston said the move was made in an effort to accommodate the Mighty Maroon Marching Band, which will compete that afternoon in the UIL marching contest at Borger.

Unfortunately, the band has been scheduled to march at 7 p.m. and will be absent from the game.

The day will hold a full slate of HHS athletic events as the cross country team runs at Dalhart that morning while the volleyball team plays at Pampa at 2 p.m., the tennis team plays at Levelland at 1 p.m. and the boys golf team plays at Borger and the girls golf team plays at Amarillo.

One of the hottest fall looks for women is menswear that's been distinctly feminized, soft and crisp at once. A manly jacket is adorned by a rose on the lapel and a soft scarf adds dash to a tailored neckline.

Dapper damsels wear pretty fall makeup

The snappiest new fashions for fall '89 borrow unabashedly from traditional menswear, reintroducing masculine style into a thoroughly feminine frame of mind.

The well-dressed woman will cut a dash in classic menswear suitings, Bloomsbury trousers and chic pantsuits, but the soft, easy silhouette and pretty haberdashery accessories make this look anything but manly!

In delightful contrast to the new dapper dressing, makeup is prettier and more colorful than ever! Eyes are played up with delightfully feminine pastels that are never bleached out or too pale.

The best of the new pastels come with an extra twist. Pinks are blue-cast, peaches are pink-ed, blues are green-toned and greens are yellow-ed.

According to the makeup experts at Aziza Eye Art Studio, this is the season to experiment with interesting, even eccentric, new shades and try out multi-colored looks instead of a single wash of color from seasons past.

Throw caution to the wind and try unexpected combinations such as green and pink or celery and blue. The soft, delicious colors work beautifully together and strike a thoroughly modern note.

Add definition to the eyes with perfectly-applied liner and lashings of mascara. Your lashes should be beautifully separated, of course! In a look that focuses on the eyes, with lips and cheeks underplayed, extra emphasis on the brows will help "balance" the face.

Multi-shadow compacts often give you as many as five or six different colors to play with. If you're not sure how to combine multi-colors, here's a simple but pretty eye look you might want to try, using Coloration Eccentric Greens for the Aziza Fall/Winter Shade Collection "Debonair Flair".

Start by applying delicate peach to the area along and just under the browbone. Next, dust the celery color over the entire lid, taking it into and just above the crease.

Outline top and bottom lids close to lashline with blue shadow and, at the inner corner of the eye, apply the light green to open up the eye. Blend very well so all lines merge.

Next, completely line the eyes with Handsome Heather Silkscreen Pencil (for an evening look you might want to use a liquid liner), and define lashes with Lasting Elegance Mascara in Handsome Heather.

Don't forget to style your brows, coloring them with a brow pencil, using small, feathery strokes and brushing them upwards for extra emphasis.

This fall, there are some beautiful monochromatic multi-shade compacts from which to choose. With a minimum of difference between them—pale grey to lilac to deep violet for instance—monochromatic shades are easy to combine and create a soft but striking look.

Like the new "effeminate" dressing, where you can make the look uniquely yours by accessorizing with a polka-dot cravat, a silk rose in your lapel or an extravagant pin, eye makeup reflects a very individual feeling for color.

Soviets helping US to battle wheat aphid

WASHINGTON (AP) - Hundreds of lady beetles and wasps have been imported from the Soviet Union by the Agriculture Department to help American farmers battle the Russian wheat aphid.

The predator insects are natural enemies of the aphid, and after evaluation may be used in field tests against the destructive pests.

Such biological controls are being sought by USDA scientists as helpers or even complete replacements for chemical pesticides. The chemicals are not only costly for farmers but can threaten food crops and the environment when used improperly.

In all, three species of wasps and four species of lady beetles were collected during May and June in the southern region of the Soviet Union, the department's Agricultural Research Service reported Tuesday.

Actual collecting of the hundreds of specimens was done by insect pathologist Tadeusz Poprawski and entomologist Francis Gruber, who work for the agency's parasitic laboratory in Beltsville, Md.

During their explorations, Poprawski and Gruber were based at a new Soviet-American biological control laboratory in Kishinev, Moldavia. The insects were sent to a USDA laboratory in Newark, Del., for quarantine, rearing of new generations and distribution.

The department's Richard S. Soper said in a statement that the wasps and beetles "are the first exchanges of biological pest controls to come from recent USDA research agreements with the Soviet Union."

Soper coordinates research on biological pest controls for the USDA agency in Beltsville, Md. He left on Monday for the Soviet Union to help plan next year's joint studies and explorations.

The Russian wheat aphid, first spotted in the United States in 1986 in Texas, has spread to 16 states in just three years, damaging wheat, barley, rye and oats. Aphids were said to cost farmers an estimated $123 million last year in grain losses and chemical controls.

Officials said two species of Soviet wasps were sent in August to a USDA research unit in Stillwater, Okla., for evaluation with other wasps from Turkey, Syria, Jordan and France to determine the best candidates for field tests.

Some other wasps were shipped to the department's "mass-rearing facility" in Mission, Texas, to produce more specimens. And the lady beetles are being "multiplied" in Niles, Mich. Research on the beetles will be done at the agency's facility in Brookings, N.D.

Kleuskens is re-elected

Carl Kleuskens was re-elected to the Tierra Blanca Soil and Water Conservation District on Oct. 2.

Kleuskens, one of five board members, will help be responsible for district policies and procedures for carrying out the district's program in compliance with state law.

The board coordinates the conservation efforts of several local, state and federal agencies and other organizations and may enter into working agreements with the agencies and private concerns to carry out its programs.

Brormans earn honors

Jerry and Martha Brorman of Hereford have been selected as finalists in the 1989 Texas Farm Bureau Outstanding Young Farmer and Rancher Award competition.

They are among 12 district winners from throughout the state and among the three finalists for the award, which will be announced at the 1989 Texas Farm Bureau Convention on Nov. 26-29 at Fort Worth.

The winner will receive a year's free use of a 1990 Ford half-ton pickup.

All three finalists will attend the TFB Legislative Development Seminar in Washington, D.C. next April, and the state winners will attend the 71st American Farm Bureau Federation annual meeting Jan. 7-11 at Orlando, Fla.

Jerry Brorman, 33, raises wheat, milo, feed and food corn, and runs stocker and feeder cattle. He is also in partnership in a swine operation.

He serves on the board of directors of the Deaf Smith Oldham County Farm Bureau, and has been farming for 13 years.

As a district winner he has received a plaque and $100 toward the purchase of a pair of boots.

Metcalf sweeps open barrow show at State Fair

Don Metcalf of Hereford, a student at Hereford Junior High and a member of the Deaf Smith County 4-H, shows off some of the many trophies and banners he picked up at the open barrow show at the State Fair of Texas two weeks ago. Metcalf will be back in Dallas hoping to continue his success, which included several grand champions in breed divisions and the grand champion barrow at the open show.

Metcalf sweeps Fair

Don Metcalf will already have a lifetime's worth of awards under his belt from the opening days of the State Fair of Texas when he competes in the Junior Barrow Show at the fair this week.

At the Open Barrow Show on Sept. 30, Metcalf had the first- and second-place lightweight barrows, the third-place heavyweight barrow, then won grand champion honors.

On Oct. 1, in the junior breeding show where spots and berkhires were shown together, he had the champion and reserve champion gilts in the junior division, and had the top exhibitor's herd.

In the open breeding show for berkhires, he had the champion and reserve champions for berkhire boars and sows, and picked up the Get of Sire and Premier Sire awards.

To top off the weekend in the open show, Metcalf was judged to have the first and second place February boars, the first and second place January gilts, and the first, second and third place February gilts.

The February boars were the grand and reserve champions, the first place January gilt was the reserve champion in that class, and the first place February gilt was the grand champion in the division.

Don mixes in athletics and involvement in the Pegasus program for gifted and talented students at Hereford Junior High School. He finds time before and after school to do the chores needed to take care of his pigs, and is involved in other activities. He is a five-year member of the Deaf Smith County 4-H.

After this week's junior show, he will take a bit of a break from the show circuit. The late winter and spring will pick up for him. He plans to show locally and at Fort Worth, and may go to the big show at Houston.

slight dip in the U.S. corn stockpile, compared with last season's decline, when it plummeted from 4.26 billion bushels on Sept. 1, 1988 to the 1.93 billion bushels on hand this Sept. 1.

The report said corn prices may average about $1.85 to $2.25 per bushel in the 1989-90 marketing year, down from $2.54 last season, unchanged from the September report.

Other 1989 crop estimates based on Oct. 1 indications, compared with 1988 output, included:

-Sorghum, 656.7 million bushels and an average yield of 62.4 bushels per acre, compared with 577.6 million and 63.8 in 1988.

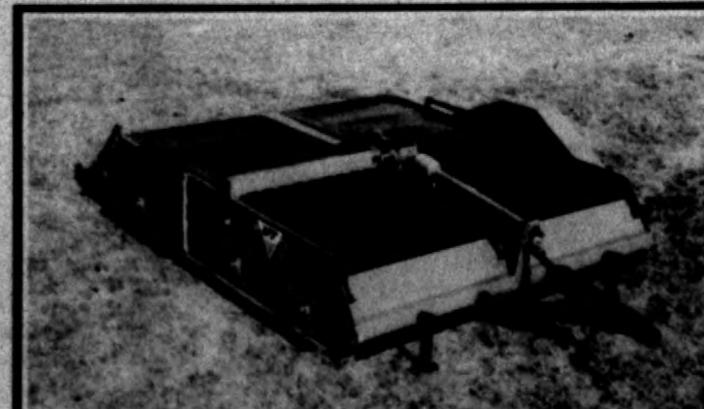

-Peanuts, 4.34 billion pounds and a yield of 2,639 pounds per acre, compared with 3.98 billion and 2,445.

-Sugarbeets, 26.6 million tons and a yield of 20.1 tons per acre, compared with 24.8 million and 19.1.

-Sugarcane, 30.5 million tons and a yield of 35.2 tons per acre, compared with 29.9 million and 35.4.

pulling a wagon down the hospital corridor. Life had a wonderful glow of promise when Abby was released from the hospital and returned home to Hereford.

Then she started getting sick.

One of the low points came at 3 o'clock one dismal morning. Abby was so sick that she was unable to keep anything on her stomach, including her medication.

"Daddy, I'll try to keep it down, but I've never had heart surgery before," Abby said.

Abby's doctors concluded that she was suffering from either a viral infection or from fluid around the heart. They believed it was an infection. They were wrong.

On July 25, Abby faced her second major surgery in less than a month as a quart of fluid was drained away from the area around her heart. It saved her life.

She may have required open heart surgery, but one doesn't have to be around little Abby long to know that there's nothing wrong with her heart. Not her real heart, the one that feels and believes.

"She's been such a trooper through all this," Tonja said.

Abby is not lacking in either bravery or a capacity for happiness. She has displayed a courage beyond what could possibly be expected of one so young. One reason for this may be a deep faith obtained early in her young life.

"Why weren't you scared (in the hospital)?" her mother asks.

"Because Jesus will take care of me," Abby said.

Happy Abby

Little Abby Horrell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Horrell, is a happy, normal five-year-old in all but one respect. Most children her age have never undergone open heart surgery.

Yesterday's Answer

She made the statement with a matter-of-fact confidence. It was as if she had announced that the sky is blue or water wet.

The child's ability to cope was also assisted by her parents and the thoughtfulness of workers at the Children's Medical Center. Before they left for Dallas, Abby's parents began preparing her for the ordeal ahead. The Sesame Street book, "A Visit to the Hospital," gave her a child's-eye-view of life in a hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Horrell and their oldest child, Nathan, did everything possible to help prepare Abby mentally and emotional for her essential surgery.

Adult support and understanding continued after Abby arrived at the medical center. It was there that she was introduced to Catherine.

Catherine is a doll.

Catherine was the means by which the medical procedures that she would soon undergo were explained to Abby.

"The nurse sat down and went over it (the procedures) step-by-step with Abby," Mrs. Horrell said.

The nurse presented Abby with Catherine at the start of the visit, and, as the nurse explained what would happen to Abby, Abby acted as Catherine's nurse. Catherine went through everything, just so the child could see what to expect. Even now, months after surgery, Catherine still wears a bandage on one arm, a lasting reminder of a demonstration on the placement of an intravenous tube.

The hospital was also careful to assure Abby with the presence of a long-time friend both just before and just after her surgery. Her stuffed bunny, Snowball, was at her side as she was wheeled into the operating room, and he was there again when she awoke in recovery.

"We were treated wonderfully," Mrs. Horrell said of the care and attention Abby received at the Children's Medical Center.

Thank You

I would like to thank Deaf Smith General Hospital, the Paramedics, the ER staff, Kaye Hansard, Kathy Whipple and Dr. Birdsong, but I especially want to thank my family (Mom, Dad, & Glen) and friends for standing by me during my wreck.

Sincerely,
Debra Parker

"Christmas in the Panhandle" Nov. 10

A bazaar with the theme, Christmas In The Panhandle, will be held in First United Methodist Church, Nov. 10, from 10:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. The public is invited to do Christmas shopping in the booths, and to have lunch and coffee breaks in the church fellowship hall.

Mary Jones and Rubeth Griffing are co-chairman for the entire event, and Charmayne is chairman of preparations for the western-style lunch which will be served from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. The snack-coffee booth will be open through the day, with Margaret Bell and Eleanor Hudspeth in charge.

A holiday bazaar has been held semi-annually in First UMC for a number of years. Since the church is located in the downtown district, the lunch and snacks are planned especially to appeal to business people. The booths will offer hand-made items suitable for gifts.

There will be a men's booth with Irving Willoughby and Jerry McGowen as chairmen, a children's booth with Kyla McDonald and Dana Hale in charge, a Christmas booth planned by Michele Sobczak and Shirley Carlson, in addition to the usual booths.

Donna Warrick and Nancy Denton are in charge of arts-crafts, Jayne Euler of needlework, Sue Sims of food and Dee Ann Trotter of candy. This year the trash-and-treasures sale will be held in the former Stark home adjoining the fellowship hall. Virginia Garner and Pat Faulkner are chairmen.

Zula Arney will again act as cashier for the bazaar, and Bartley Dowell is treasurer.

Sociologist speaks to L'Allegra Study Club

Members of L'Allegra Study Club met Oct. 5 in the home of Kay Lynn Caviness with Sylvia Khur serving as co-hostess.

Reports from committee chairmen were given and action was taken. Shelly Moss of the Domestic Violence/Rape Crisis Center attended the meeting in an effort to recruit volunteers for the center. Volunteers would undergo special training to qualify them to cover as paper carrying counselors between the hours of 5 p.m.-8 a.m.

Guest speaker Nina L. Stein of Amarillo College presented the program on "Stress Reduction and Creative Living". Stein is a sociologist and is currently working on a degree specializing in human resource and counseling. She presented a detailed discussion of the human brain and the functions controlled by its different parts. She went on to explain how people can improve their capabilities in certain areas of daily living.

Stein led L'Allegra members into several exercises designed to enhance a person's ability to relax. She also furnished everyone with a list of literature and tapes on the subject.

Wedding date set

Paula L. Meyer of Lubbock and Troy W. Bearden of Lake Jackson, Texas plan to exchange wedding vows Dec. 30 in St. Anthony's Catholic Church in Hereford.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald J. Meyer of Route 4, Hereford, and the prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill W. Bearden of Houston.

Miss Meyer, a 1983 graduate of Hereford High School, attended Texas Tech University, and will finish a graduate degree in education and a degree in biology at the University of Houston in Clear Lake City. She is presently employed by Rob Pardee for McKesson Corp.

Bearden, a 1984 graduate of Alief-Elsik High School, is a 1988 graduate of Texas Tech University where he received a bachelor of science degree in mechanical engineering. He is currently employed by Dow Chemical as an engineer.

Festive Foods set Tuesday

"Festive Foods" will be presented by Mary Blideman, Home Economist with Southwestern Public Service Co. on Tuesday.

There will be a 2 p.m. and 7 p.m. session lasting approximately an hour in length. Both sessions will be held at the Reddy Room of Southwestern Public Service Company.

New electrical appliances, their safety and efficient usage, holiday ideas and recipe booklets will be featured in the program.

Reservations may be made by calling the County Extension Office at 364-3573. Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic levels, race, color, sex, religion, handicap, or national origin.

Heavenly sights seen by club

The La Madre Mia Study Club met Thursday evening in the home of Judy Williams to listen to Jessie Ann Davis give a program on astrology.

Davis took astrology courses at Amarillo College. She talked about cloud formations; described "Sun Dog" clouds and gave cloud colors. She told of a circle around the moon called a corona and demonstrated how to use a telescope. She used different charts and diagrams and showed a balloon type ball that had all of the star formations.

Davis also showed how the seasons are different according to the sun, moon, and stars. Venus is the brightest in the sky except for the moon and sun. She explained all of the signs of each club member and gave members a print-out of their sign. Club members looked at the sky using the telescope before the conclusion of the program.

Serving as co-hostess was Susan Robbins.

Vice President Barbara Manning conducted the business meeting in the absence of President Carolyn Baxter. Roll call was answered by wishing upon a star.

Standing committees reported were treasurer, social, yearbook, and project. Home tour correspondence was read and Beverly Lambert asked to become inactive.

Members present were Joyce Allred, Ruth Black, Francyne Brownlow, Merle Clark, Mary

Herring, Betty Lady, Manning, Gladys Merritt, Lavon Neiman, Betty Owen, Nancy Paetzold, Robbins, Lucy Rogers, Georgia Sparks, Debbie Tardy, Betty Taylor, Marlene Watson, Mary Beth White, Williams and Debbie Bentley.

Serving on board

Public invited to concert Oct. 22

The public is invited to the Hereford Chamber Singers concert entitled "A Sentimental Journey" at 3 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 22, in the Hereford High School auditorium.

Tickets are priced at $4 per person and will be available at the door.

The entertainment at the concert will provide an opportunity for the audience to enjoy a nostalgic journey through the popular music of the 1920s, 30s and 40s. Featured groups will be the entire choir; the men's chorus; a barbershop quartet; a ladies' sextet; vocal soloists, Bobby Boyd, Dr. Duffy McBrayer and Bill Devers; piano soloist, Jan Walser; and a "big band" composed of the Chamber Singers and members of the Hereford High School Band.

Some of the musical selections will include "When You're Smiling", "Yes, Sir, That's My Baby", "Ma! He's Making Eyes at Me", "Ol' Man River", "Dizzy Fingers", "Moonglow", "Somebody Stole My Gal", "Hoagy Carmichael, A Choral Portrait", "Steppin' Out With My Baby", and "Boogie Woogie Bugle Boy." Musical numbers will also include tunes from the big band era, an army medley and a sentimental journey through the 1940s.

The Chamber Singers will also present a Christmas musical entitled "Home For Christmas" Dec. 3 in the HHS auditorium.

During the group's recent annual business meeting, two new members of the board of directors, Joe Flood and Gay Maclaskey, were elected to fill positions vacated by Bobby Boyd and Ann Meyers. Other board members who will serve during the 1989-90 year are President Dr. A. T. Mims, Terri Souder, Rose Ann Smith, Sandi Blevins and Bill Devers.

Bill Devers, the founding director of the group, continues to be the leader and Elva Devers serves as accompanist. Karen Flood serves as the music chairman. Founding board members who continue to be a part of the group are Bill Devers, Bobby Boyd, Duffy McBrayer, Jane Gulley and Jan Walser. Other charter members include Bera Boyd, Elva Devers, Joe Flood, Linda Gilbert, Dr. Mims, Joe D.

Rogers, Susan Shaw, Smith and Gene Streun.

Having formed in 1974, the Hereford Chamber Singers are beginning their 16th year as a group which has spread "human relations through music" throughout the community, state, nation and the world. Their most recent travels include a trip to Australia in 1988 to sing for World Expo '88 in Brisbane. Other trips include a Friendship Ambassador sponsored trip to Romania in 1977 and guest appearances at the Texas Choral Directors Association meeting in San Antonio in 1975 and 1985.

Composed of adults who love to sing, there are now 48 active members in the group after eight new members were added this fall. New members include Suzan Schriber, Nancy Shave and Dick Scully, all of Hereford; Avie Lewis and Jerry and Carolyn Jansa, all of Dimmitt; and Scott and Diana Devers of Canyon.

Through careful planning and by selecting high quality travel pieces, professionals can travel with ease, exuding confidence and executive style.

-Pack individual items of clothing in plastic bags, before storing them in your carry-all. The plastic will protect them from dust, dirt, and any liquids that may accidentally spill.

-Be sure to bring a folding umbrella and appropriate gear for local weather.

-Pack a small selection of toiletries, which are easily accessible in a makeup kit or wetpack, to freshen up before you arrive at your destination.

For business trips of more than one night, always think "multiple wearing." For example, women can wear one pair of black pumps throughout the trip similarly, a knit dress in a neutral color not only travels wrinkle-free, but can be worn again with just a change of accessories. For men, a seasonless navy or charcoal gray suit is easily refreshed with a change of shirt and tie.

-For women executives, a roomy, classically styled handbag in a neutral color is appropriate for all business functions-from informal afternoon meetings to evening events.

YOUR EYES

WATERING EYES

Watering eyes can develop as we grow older. The phenomenon may be only mildly annoying or a symptom of a more serious problem. Watering eyes generally result from excessive tear production, or poor tear drainage in the corner of the eye. A normal amount of tearing is necessary to clean your eyes, however.

Watering eyes, or excessive tearing, may be caused by an eye infection, a foreign body in the eye, nasal or dental problems, uncorrected vision that is causing continual eye strain, a blocked tear gland or other general health problems.

Don't try to treat this problem yourself. With your input about your general health and a complete eye examination, your optometrist may be able to determine the cause of your watering eyes. If the cause is eye- or health-related, the examination and treatment may be covered by Medicare.

Ready to rock 'n' roll

These residents of Westgate Nursing Home are anxious to participate in the annual Rock 'n' Roll Jamboree to begin at 9 a.m. Oct. 24 in the Lamar Room of King's Manor Methodist Home. They include, from left, Leana Benjamin, Orville Culp, Gladys Smith and Beth Casad. The event will benefit the American Heart Association. Participants will be accepting pledges for each minute or hour they rock in their rocking chair or roll in their wheel chair. Sign-up sheets are available at King's Manor, Hereford Senior Citizens Center, Westgate Nursing Home and Golden Plains Care Center. For additional information call 364-0686.

Country Christmas Bazaar set

The annual Arts and Crafts Country Christmas Bazaar is scheduled Nov. 11 at the Hereford Community Center.

The event is being sponsored by members of Westway Extension Homemakers Club. To obtain an entry form or for additional information, call Carolyn Evers at 364-4739.

Parents need to read with children rather than read to them. Research tells us that parent-child reading is most successful when it involves give-and-take and identifying words and ideas in a pleasurable situation.

Regular patterns of reading with children 8-10 minutes a day for four to seven days a week are associated with both high reading achievement and positive attitudes toward reading in children.

The more that children and parents are actively engaged in "thinking" about the story as contrasted to "listening" to the story, the more successful reading with children becomes in enhancing children's reading achievement.

Sending letters and postcards to grandparents or friends is a way to involve children in the writing process, as well as encouraging them to understand and be thoughtful of others. At first, children can draw a picture and dictate a short message. Later they can write their own names and gradually add other words and short statements. In this manner, children are encouraged to use writing as a form of communications.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic level, race, color, sex, religion, handicap or national origin.

Happy Boss Day

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Opera director Niklaus Lehnhoff, who created and produced the San Francisco Opera's "Ring of the Nibelung" in 1985, has pulled out of the company's planned revival of the Wagner cycle.

Lehnhoff, in a letter to company General Director Lofti Mansouri, said the rehearsal schedule for next year's cycle was unworkable and made it impossible to achieve "even a blueprint" of the earlier production.

Mansouri on Wednesday confirmed Lehnhoff's withdrawal but denied the schedules were as unworkable as Lehnhoff claimed.

FEATURE HOMES

© By W.D. FARMER, A.I.B.D.

A majestic entrance is to the private central two-story foyer but is fully accessible to the formal living room and family area of the home.

The living and dining rooms are sized for maximum comfort, with plenty of wall space for furniture placement.

The kitchen is equipped with special pantries, an island surface unit and full cabinet and countertop work surface. The adjoining breakfast area is a comfortable size and is fully accessible to the gigantic family room. A fireplace and sun deck access is included. Notice the half bath shown centrally on the first floor for convenient daytime use.

There are four large bedrooms upstairs, three of which are serviced by a central full bath. The master bedroom is indeed a suite with a large walk-in closet, separate toilet and shower area and two vanity, area and garden tub shown within the gable over the garage.

The laundry room is located upstairs and attic access, linen closet and attic fan are indicated from the central hall.

The European exterior is embellished with stucco finish, corner quoin trim, arched top glass windows and a combination hip and gable roof design.

This is a computer generated plan.

The plan is Number 2746. It includes 2,778 square feet of heated area. All W.D. Farmer plans include construction details for energy efficiency and are drawn to meet FHA and VA requirements. For further information write to W.D. Farmer, P.O. Box 450025, Atlanta, GA 30345.

What's new on the market?

THE PRODUCT - A level with a built-in measuring system.

Manufacturer's claim - That this level handles standard leveling jobs, plus those that require direct measurement of angles, slopes, grades and pitches...that it reads all angles full-circle through 360 degrees, offering the angle measurement in a digital readout or "electronic bubble"...that two unique modes measure angles and perform calculations for percentage slope and rise over foot-of-run, automatically displaying the calculation...that it is useful for the installation of countertops, for critical carpentry, for the setting of doors and for job inspections...that it handles the measuring of deck slopes, setting of drainage lines, masonry and landscaping grades and simulates the conventional bubble for checking standard level or plumb measurements...and that it is shockproof and water-resistant.

THE PRODUCT - An epoxy adhesive especially designed for vertical and overhead bonding projects.

Manufacturer's claim - That this epoxy gel bonds quickly through a chemical reaction between the epoxy resin and the hardener...that it will not sag or drip, setting in five minutes...that it bonds wood, metal, fiberglass, china, ceramic, glass and other materials...that, after the adhesive is applied, bonded objects can be handled in 15 minutes, with the epoxy achieving full strength in one hour at room temperature...that it hardens to an opaque finish...that it is available in a dual-syringe container that dispenses equal amounts of the resin and the hardener...and that its special properties make it ideal for bonding objects to walls, ceilings, under counters and wherever such projects normally are difficult to handle.

THE PRODUCT - A motion sensor light control that reduces the problem of false triggering.

Manufacturer's claim - That false triggering, caused by such things as blowing leaves, will be eliminated by 75 percent...that when the sensor discovers heat in motion, it takes a "second look" to verify the object before it switches the lights on...that the sensor detects people in motion from up to 70 feet away, providing more than 4,500 square feet of coverage...that a multitone lens provides overlapping detection zones for both downward and outward coverage...that it has a variable shutoff delay to allow the user to adjust the period of time the light stays on from one to 20 minutes...and that it is UL-listed for wet locations.

THE PRODUCT - A ceramic tile caulk to match or coordinate with many of today's most popular grout colors and shades.

Manufacturer's claim - That the new color selections include Clear, Antique White, Wheat, Sand Tan, Pewter Gray, Red Wood, Black Onyx, Almond and Pure White...that it is mildew-resistant and prevents water seepage around sinks, tubs, vanities, countertop splashguards and tile soap holders...And that it seals surface areas that tend to move slightly, such as where a wall meets a floor or where tiles abut corner and counters.

The level is manufactured by Wedge Innovations, 532 Mercury Drive, Sunnyvale, CA. 94086; the epoxy adhesive by Devon Consumer Division, 780 A.E.C. Drive, Wood Dale, IL. 60191; the light control by Health-Zenith, Hilltop Road, St. Joseph, MI. 49085; and the caulk by Darworth Co., Avon, CT. 06001.

(Do-it-yourselfers will find much valuable material in Andy Lang's handbook, "Practical Home Repairs," which can be obtained by sending $3 to this paper at P.O. Box 1055, NJ 08723.

Here's the Answer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Q. - I have to do some work on my driveway. I have heard that it is best to work on a day when the temperature is fairly high. How high?

A. - You don't need a very warm day as much as you must be careful not to work on a cold day. For the purposes of this reply, a cold day can be considered anything under 50 degrees Fahrenheit. But no matter what I or anybody else tells you, follow the directions on the container of the patching material you purchase.

Q. - I soon will be using a grinding wheel for the first time to put sharp edges on a variety of cutting tools. What angle should the bevel be?

A. - Wood chisels and the blades for planes should be beveled at about 25 degrees. Knives should have a more acute angle. The original bevels should be followed when sharpening most cutting tools.

Q. - Putting down a brick patio floor soon without using mortar. I expect to fill the spaces between the bricks with sand. How far apart should the bricks be?

A. - The wider the space, the more likely the sand will be washed away during a heavy rainstorm. Keep the bricks very close together, perhaps no farther apart than a quarter of an inch.

Q. - Moved into a house that is heated by a forced-air furnace. Would it be a good idea to insulate the ducts?

A. - Definitely, yes. Insulate every part of the duct system that can be reached. When heat escapes from ducts that run in ceilings, floors, etc., it won't matter too much, since such heat will help to warm the house.

Q. - I soon will be cleaning and putting away our aluminum outdoor furniture. Would it be wise to apply paste wax to it now, or should I wait until next spring?

A. - By all means, now. It will help to protect the metal from dirt, condensation and other accumulations that occur even when the furniture is not being used.

Q. - Our kitchen sink clogs up periodically. I have tried almost everything without success, including one of those steel augers. Nothing seems to work. I have been told the only way I will get the drain working again is to open up the plug under the sink at the bottom of the elbow pipe. Is this something I can handle myself?

A. - It isn't difficult if you are the least bit handy. Actually, you can answer the question better than anybody else. Two things come to mind. Before you use a wrench on the plug, be sure there is a pail or basin under it to catch water remaining in the trap. And, secondly, the stoppage may be farther down in the system, in which case you will have to get a plumber.

Q. - I used some nuts and bolts for the first time the other day. When I bought the material I needed, the hardware man referred to one type of bolt as a "carriage" bolt, but he did not know the origin of the term. Any idea?

A. - A carriage bolt got that name simply because it was the kind of bolt often used on horse-drawn vehicles. They probably still are.

Q. - I am making a workbench for my garage, where I will be doing a lot of work. I want to put perforated hardboard at the top of it in the rear to hold various tools. Can I attach it with nails or should I use screws?

A. - Screws would be better. But hold on a minute. If you attach the perforated hardboard to the bench won't everything rattle and roll every time you do any hammering on the bench? You had better reconsider unless you will be using the workbench for chores that will not require any heavy work.

Q. - There is a ragged hole in our blacktop driveway. It's in a part the car usually doesn't go over, but just to be sure, how soon can the car be driven over a repair? What's the easiest way to handle such a repair?

A. - After poking at the opening to loosen anything that will come loose, fill the hole with a blacktop mix. The instructions on the container of mix should be read, but there is nothing left to do but to tamp down the patch. Add more mix if necessary. This kind of repair usually can withstand the weight of a car almost immediately, but an overnight wait is preferable.

Q. - Will a suspended ceiling cover the irregularities in the ceiling of the room where it will be installed? I have put up ceiling tiles in the past but have never tackled a suspended ceiling. Can it be handled by a do-it-yourselfer or must one be a professional?

A. - If you installed ceiling tiles, you should have no trouble with a suspended ceiling. It generally is considered easier. Just take your time and doublecheck everything before you go on to the next step.

(The techniques of using varnish, lacquer, shellac, pumice, rottenstone, stain, bleach, remover, etc., are detailed in Andy Lang's booklet, "Wood Finishing in the Home," which can be obtained by sending $1 and along, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Know-How, P.O. Box 477, Huntington, NY, 11743. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column.)

Territory of Lies by Wolf Blitzer is the complete tragic story of Jonathan Jay Pollard, an American Jew working in Naval Intelligence and spying for Israel. After passing thousands of top-secret documents to Israel, Pollard is caught. He becomes deeply passionate in his commitment to Israel during his college years. His eagerness to serve made the seduction by Israel's master spy an easy one. The decision to hand over documents vital to Israel seemed to be his duty.

The discovery and capture of Pollard by the FBI lead to the ultimate betrayal by his Israeli handlers, all of whom get away. How involved was Jonathan's wife, Anne, and did she deserve a five-year sentence? Did Jonathan work alone, or are there more Israeli spies in our government? You will learn the sobering facts of the damage the Pollard affair caused the U.S. national security, the Israeli relations, and to the American Jewish community. Territory of lies reads with the non-stop excitement of the best spy thriller, but all of this story is true.

I Want to Grow Hair, I Want to Grow Up, I Want to Go to Bosie by Erma Bombeck is a heartwarming book about kids surviving cancer. America's favorite family writer brings us the stories of children who have every hope of beating the odds and living to drive their parents crazy. The reader has an opportunity to smile at their wisdom, be dazzled by their insight and share the joys of their triumphs.

Erma Bombeck was appreciative about the humor to be found in such a serious topic, but realized the guts, optimism and laughter when a child asked her "Would you be happier if we cried all the time?"

The book sparkling with innocence and hope is not a sad book, but a story for everyone and their children, especially for the adult who have forgotten the magic of what it is like to be a child again.

Silent Partner by Jonathan Kellerman is a novel about a psychologist detective, Dr. Alex Delaware. Attending a cocktail party for psychology professor Paul Peter, Kruse Alex is surprised to see Sharon Ransom, a face from the past. Sharon Ransom was the lover who left Alex abruptly more than ten years ago. As alluring and unreadable as ever Sharon hints that she needs help. Alex evades her not wanting to get involved again, and the next day Sharon is dead—an apparent suicide.

Driven by guilt and sorrow, Alex plunges into the maze of Sharon's life in the hope of finding some reason for her death. With little to go on but Sharon's long ago tales. Alex puts together web of clues when his investigation takes a deadly turn.

I would like to announce to all library patrons that because of improprieties the library staff will no longer check patrons out without their library cards. Children coming to the library alone will need to bring their personal or family cards with them in order to check out books. Parents please encourage your children not to loan their cards to friends. Friends having over-due or lost materials checked out on your card cost you money as well as a friend. Remember your library card is a responsibility as well as a privilege.

MR. AND MRS. ARNOLD BETZEN

Reception set today to honor local couple

Friends and family of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Betzen of Hereford will honor the couple with a reception at the Hereford Senior Citizens Center today from 2-4 p.m. in celebration of their golden wedding anniversary.

The Betzens were married Oct. 16, 1939, in Clafin, Kan. and have been members of the Hereford community and St. Anthony's Parish for 37 years. They farmed north of Hereford and raised and educated eight children in this community. They are now retired.

The children and grandchildren invite residents to share in today's celebration.

Heard gives program about environment

Mabel Heard presented a program entitled "Environment: Cleaning Up Our Mess" when members of Pioneer Study Club met Tuesday in the Garden Room of the Caison House.

Heard explained, "The environment is not in any danger. The threat is that we'll sour the conditions that support human life. Is there room for mankind on planet earth? It's up to us. Perhaps the environment, the place where we must all live, will become the bond that finally brings the nations of the world together."

Heard discussed which Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) programs work and which do not. In dealing with air pollution, water pollution, toxic wastes and the ecosystem as a whole, the U.S. environmental management is becoming somewhat better under the direction of EPA new administrator, William Reilly, but global problems such as the greenhouse effect are so severe that environmental protection may become the great international issue of the 21st century.

The invocation was voiced by Rosemary Thomas and Bea Hutson lead the Pledge of Allegiance. Fern Sigle repeated the salute to the Texas flag.

Mary Panciera presided over the business session and also gave the federation report. For My Turn, Eunice Petersen told the story of the bluebird.

A nominating committee was named for new officers to be elected in January of 1990.

It was announced that Panciera, Sigle, Thomas and Johnson will represent the club at the Top of Texas District board meeting set Oct. 21 at Lefors.

Thomas and Johnson served as hostesses to Lucy Fay Cocanougher, Catherine Gripp, Heard, Hutson, Helen Langley, Etoile Manning, Gladys Miller, Panciera, Petersen and Sigle.

Cleveland, Ohio, was founded in 1796.

Sweater makes its history

There are certain fashions that have made history, for instance the French court of Louis XV with Madame Pompadour. There are also times when history has made fashion, as in the cardigan sweater appropriately named for its creator, England's James Thomas Brudenell, Seventh Earl of Cardigan, the man who led the charge of the Light Brigade.

It all happened in Crimea, in October, 1854. Due to the harsh weather the Earl and his men found themselves nearly threadbare, most were wrapped in rags. It seems that the Earl was literally down to his red two-piece knitted long johns. Buttoned to the neck, they could be seen under his cloak. Later he wore just the top as outerwear and the legend grew.

Today, cardigans offer many more options both in style and color and are knitted in every imaginable fiber, including the luxury fibers cashmere and alpaca.

England's contribution to fashion continues. Who better than Dawson International, maker of Ballantyne, Barrie, Braemar, Cashmere & Company and Oscar de la Renta Cashmere, to put the excitement into the new cardigan sweaters, with a variety of styles, silhouettes and colors. There are myriad combinations including solids with contrasting borders, all in varying lengths from just to the waist down to the mid-thigh as well as cardigans that button at the neck, have a V-neckline, or also sport a collar.

The World War I draft lottery went into operation in 1917.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: After reading the letter from Jane in South Jersey, the woman said "You're trying too hard, relax and you'll get pregnant." I cried for an hour. What if the husband is sterile? What if the woman's Fallopian tubes are blocked? What if she has an ovarian tumor or endometriosis? Relaxing won't help a damned bit, and your approval of her dumb statement didn't help either. -- Toledo

DEAR TOLEDO: So I was told by thousands of women. Read on: FROM DALLAS: Relaxing does nothing for infertility. Our five-year struggle to have a child included $40,000 in medical bills (not covered by insurance) and painful tests, drugs and treatment. And now that Ann Landers has endorsed "relaxing" as an aid to conceiving, I will never hear the end of it.

NAPERVILLE, ILL.: If being relaxed increased the chances of getting pregnant, being uptight should work as a contraceptive. If this were true, Ann, 16-year-old girls would not get pregnant in the back seat of old Chevys.

NEW YORK: I'm purple with rage after reading Jane's letter. And you, like a dummy, let her get away with it. We, too, had trouble conceiving and were told to stop trying so hard, take a trip, pray harder, repaint the bedroom, get rid of our cat and eat wheat germ. After six excruciating years we found a great doctor who helped us. Thank God we didn't rely on "relaxation."

NEW HAVEN: Your column hit a hot button. If well-meaning friends want to be helpful, they should stop asking questions such as "Why don't you have children?" and "When are you going to start a family?" What gives people the right to get so personal? Little do they know that we've been going through hell for four years trying to have a child. Nothing worked. Then my grandmother asked me what kind of underwear my husband wore. When I told her she said, "Go out and buy him some boxer shorts." I did. Three months later I became pregnant.

FORT WORTH: Most people assume that when a couple can't conceive, it's the woman's fault. False. The male can be to blame in an equal number of cases. Unfortunately, my husband's ego was smashed when he learned that his sperm count was too low to impregnate me. He became so physically abusive that I had to divorce him.

DALLAS: When we married, John was 38, and I was 35. We wanted to start a family immediately. After failing for 15 months, I went to a fertility specialist. He recommended five steps which we followed religiously, including taking my temperature and, if it was "right," to call my husband from work if necessary and tell him to come straight home. Even that didn't produce results. Finally I realized our lives revolved around getting pregnant. We decided the hell with it and contacted three adoption agencies. Three months later it happened. Doctors don't know everything.

PEORIA: Fifty percent of couples trying to conceive have had one or more children. They are mystified as to why they are having trouble. I was one of that group.

Program focuses on aging

Meeting the needs of Senior Citizens will be the focus of a program on Monday at 2 p.m. in the afternoon at the Community Center-East Banquet Room. Dr. Judith Warren, Gerontologist Specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service will give a presentation and help those in attendance focus on ways to network with other groups locally to meet these needs.

A special invitation is extended to Deaf Smith County residents who have a special interest or concerns in this area to meet on Monday. Additional information may be obtained from the County Extension office at 364-3573.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic levels, race, color, sex, religion, handicap, or national origin.

Your response to Jane perpetuates the "blame the victim" syndrome. Better you should have recommended RESOLVE, a national infertility organization. They do a terrific job and have helped thousands of couples.

Dear Readers: Hundreds of readers wrote in praise of RESOLVE, a nonprofit organization with 52 chapters that serves the needs of people who are struggling with infertility. I have checked it out and they rate 5 stars. The address: RESOLVE, 5 Water Street, Arlington, Mass. 02174. Phone 1 800-662-1016.

Is that Ann Landers column you clipped years ago yellow with age? For a copy of her most frequently requested poems and essays send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $4.85 (this includes postage and handling) to: Gems, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562. (In Canada send $5.87.)

Women offered plethora of stylish options for fall

As the new fall season approaches, women are undoubtedly wondering what innovations, practical or whimsical, the fashion world is going to dictate.

Rest assured! Last fall gimmicks, which most sensible women rejected, are no longer alive in the fashion world. The clothes that look best this season are unfussy and very wearable. The direction from many American collections shows up as a clean-cut look with a curve-plus a few hidden perks.

Dresses and suits that are news are tailored, yet relaxed, for town or office, and wonderfully self-assured. They also can be electrified with a bright shock of color. Dressing is terrifically individual, allowing for a display of elements of personality that women demanded ages ago.

Leap into fall with the season's forte-stunning jumpsuits that offer sophisticated, alternate one-piece dressing. From tailored to tantalizing, these one-piece collectibles cover all bases-from office to resort wear.

Another piece that glides from day into evening wear is the sarong skirt. These skirts are draped, wrapped and slung low on the hips. With an air of the exotic, this body-skimming skirt is perfectly flattering.

ing in a vivid floral or a smoky pastel and is simply indispensable this fall.

Variety is what pants are all about. Many are light and airy, to caress the body, not confine it. These pants, low-waisted and less structured, fly and float on air.

Wide pants co-exist with narrow, long with short, catering to the needs of the wearer. They all look right.

The theme of days gone by on Coney Island reappears in several designer lines. Many collections reflect an easy yet traditional kind of attitude. Free-spirited sportswear is reinforced, as comfortable pieces go dotty!

Decorative details add personality to classically-inspired designs. Yet ornamentation is reasonable-metallic embroidery, scalloping woven into necklines, hems and collars, bright grosgrain ribbon trimmings, or simply a slash of bold, bright, modern color. Other strong influences this season include folklore motifs and Western and Indian details.

The scarf is not just another accessory this season. It is transformed into a sarong skirt, blouse, dress or belt. With the focus on the upper body, the possibilities are endless, when using scarves at the neckline.

Thankfully, length is no longer an issue, probably due to most women's refusal to play musical hemlines. The long and short of skirts coexist side by side. Movement and proportion are important instead.

The shape of things to come is the pyramid. It is a reversal of the past few seasons, which consisted of a fuller silhouette on the upper body, over slim pants and skirts. The pyramid comes in the form of swing dresses and width concentrated at the ankles.

The important news this season is that each designer has decided to break out and do what he or she excels in. The end result is that Seventh Avenue has answered the demands of the woman with a range of unique, exciting alternatives from which to choose.

Contemporary classics

For the young woman of today who would rather not wear the mini-skirt, these dresses are perfect. The simplicity of style allows these ensembles to go anywhere, anytime. Modeling the classic dresses, which are available in Hereford, are, from left, Brenna Reinauer and Sharma Williams.

Color selection important

Choosing the right colors is an important part of finding the best fashion buys for your money. Here are some tips from fashion consultant Emily Cho.

Decide on the two colors you wear most often and use them as your wardrobe base; for instance, navy and white or black and red.

You can pair light and dark shades of these colors for a classy effect. Use trendy colors as accents.

Color-key your accessories but don't overdo it. A red handbag and coordinating shoes work well together, but adding a red belt is too much.

Vested interest

Vests are popular this fall and when you add your own decorative applique, the style becomes very personalized and unique. Lynn Carlile models a denim vest featuring a zebra. A white shirt is worn with short sleeves and goes perfect with your favorite jeans.

Know how to shop smart

Shopping savvy means choosing the right clothes for you. According to fashion expert Christine Kunze-Iman, "Twenty percent of most women's wardrobes get 80 percent of the wear!"

To make sure you don't have a closetful of clothes you're not wearing, follow these tips for finding foolproof fashions.

Take inventory of what you wear most often. These are the base pieces you can add to.

Make a running list of missing items so that you buy what you need-not impulse.

Plan ahead of time how much you want to spend each season. Then you can decide if you can afford to splurge on a special outfit.

Select separates. Mix-and-match pieces expand your wardrobe, not your budget.

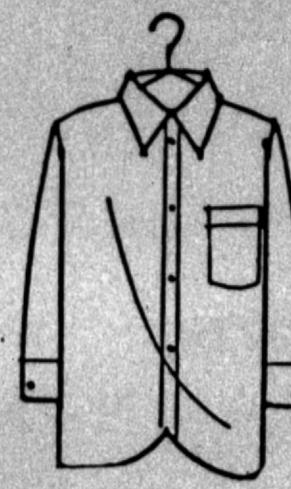

Consider comfort. A bargain isn't a good buy unless it fits.

TUNE IN To The Hottest Lines In Junior Fashions

E7Coral

The authority of the pope was declared void in England in 1536. Britain introduced the concept of voting by secret ballot in 1872.

Understated elegance

This floral print dress designed with bands of fabric trim and matching bows is modeled by Renee Sublett. Because of its fashionable simplicity, the dress can be worn during the day or after five. A variety of new fall-winter fashions can be found in local stores.

Fall fashions come in array of colors

The colors for the fall of 1989 include the following: the berry colors, from grape to darkened raspberry; harvest greens, from olive to moss; and gray, from anthracite to steel blue.

In addition people will wear unusual color combinations with ethnic overtones, such as wine, plum and mustard with gold, plus head-to-toe monochromatic dressing complete with matching shoes and stockings in a bevy of colors including cherry red, violet, camel, moss, spice and black.

When it comes to fabrics, the menswear influence comes in strong. Those classic menswear suiting have checks, pin and chalk stripes, windowpane grinds, herringbones, Harris and Donegal tweeds, serge and worsted blends, houndstooth checks and clan tartan in everything from sportswear to career wear.

Menswear shirtings--dobby and satin stripes, pinpoint oxfords--look wonderful for both tops and dresses. And, to keep the overall effect from becoming too masculine, laces, bows and velvets frequently provide the softening touches.

Quilting appears on everything from casual coat linings to pants to evening wear.

Two of last season's biggest fashion controversies--short vs. long and pants vs. skirts resolved themselves for fall '89.

Skirts are in virtually every length from mid-calf to modified mini. And, while some wear an occasional ankle-grazing straight skirt, the ladies generally agree that straighter skirts look best from mid-knee on up while fuller skirts look best from mid-knee on down.

Pants still abound, in a variety of silhouettes, from full to slim. Except for a few designers who cater to the young and trendy set, fuller pants have departed from the daytime scene to shine happily after dark.

For daytime, pants run toward the traditional trouser or, for a slightly narrower look, toward the classic blue jeans' cut. Jeans make their own fashion statement in black--a fresh alternative to last season's washed-out denim blues.

The jackets that accompany these pants and skirts come in beautiful and varied styles. The traditional blazer shows up longer (mid-thigh) and softly tailored. Designers make blazers even softer with a draped, slightly asymmetrical closing.

Two "accessories"--the shawl and the vest--standout. Shawls show up in every possible manifestation from chiffon evening wraps to frontier ponchos. Vests add texture and contrast to an ensemble.

Favored fabrics include corduroy, velvet and velveteen. Pattern mixing--printed vests with plaid suits or tapestry vests with menswear checks--provide visual contrast.

"Anyone looking for a fast update for last year's wardrobe would be wise to invest in a shawl and a vest," said Brenda Overbeck, county extension agent.

She added that dresses have seldom been more beautiful...or more wearable, from the return of the classic shirtdress to the chemise to the coatdress, there's a style to suit every task and flatter every figure.

Prepare your hair for a smooth fall

Life used to be so simple. In terms of hair care, all you needed was a shampoo, cream rinse, rollers and bobby pins, a few hours under the big bonnet hair dryer and a good coat of hair spray. The teased, helmeted look was in and so were you, if your hair looked like everyone else's.

Hair styles have changed a lot since those days and so have the hair care and styling aids available to us. These new "magic potions" can help us create a wardrobe of looks and simplify life even more; they're great for "get up and go" hair with fall '89's new smoothness and polish.

The hair experts give some of their best tips on using these products to achieve fall's best looks:

While there is a trend toward longer hair for fall '89, all the important looks, long or short, start with a good body building shampoo and conditioner. Finish with volume-enhancing mousse, gel or styling spray.

Formulated for use with blow-dryers, mousse works best on damp hair to add volume and bounce. Gel can be applied to either wet or dry hair, providing added control while allowing you to sculpt and add direction to the hair. Hair sprays add staying power to the look--use aerosol for all-over finishing, non-aerosol for specific trouble spots.

Hair should look soft and natural, never appearing too controlled. Yet, when a little extra help is needed, you may want to try a new styling spritz, a non-aerosol spray which allows styling and more natural, full volume shaping before the hold takes hold.

Fall hair should be in tip-top shape--healthy, shiny and manageable. Extra conditioning is important for correcting Winter's damage, but even the best conditioners can build-up on the hair over time. While mousses and gels can shield the hair from some of the heat from blowdryers, they also tend to build-up, making the hair limp and increasingly less responsive.

If, like many others with blonde, frosted or gray hair, you notice your hair has a tendency to turn brassy, the culprit just may be minerals such as iron salts in our water.

Just as it's beneficial to give your face a rest from makeup once in awhile, it's important to occasionally give your hair a rest from the blow drying. Let it dry naturally sometimes--it's healthier for the hair and gives you the opportunity to really analyze what condition it's in and whether you're due for a trim.

Brush hair before you shampoo to loosen dead skin on your scalp, especially if it becomes dry and flaky during cooler weather.

Hot Lip Tips

Wearing red lipstick requires application know-how, not a perfect mouth. Two essential tools: a lip pencil for lush contours and a lip brush to help color go on smoothly.

Make sure top lip is free of hair by waxing or bleaching.

Match liner to lipstick. Start lining at center of top lip and go to corners.

Discover your fashion image

Never has image been such an important part of our lives. Never have image and fashion been so much in the public eye - and in the public consciousness. You can't open a magazine, flip through a newspaper, turn on the TV, without seeing something about fashion.

Watching the who, what and where of it can be fun. It's when you get to the "how" that so many of us feel the fun ebbing and the fear flowing in. So much seems to ride on being savvy about fashion - the career you break into, the men you attract, how good you feel about yourself.

The secret of dressing well is much the same as the secret of doing anything well: Know what you're doing and why you're doing it - in other words, following the rules.

The secret of dressing superbly well - individually, strikingly, joyously well - is knowing when and how to break the rules. However, you really do have to understand the rules first.

If we were all born alike, fashion could be reduced to mathematics. Take a black suit, add a white blouse and you're dressed for business - no matter whom you are or what your business is.

But, the fact is, we're not all alike; each of us is an individual and expressing our individuality is one of the real highs of living. Indeed, getting to know yourself is the main joy of maturing.

The real challenge is how do you and where do you start to define your individuality? The surest way is to start with the six essential image-types, and discover which one you feel yourself to be. Are you a Classic-Elegant or an Art-Offbeat? A Sporty-Casual or a Sexy-Alluring? A Feminine-Romantic or an Exotic-Dramatic? Not exactly sure which image-type you are? Find out now. Answer the questions that follow.

1. If you could be born again, who would you most like to look like?

- A. Christie Brinkley
- B. Jackie Onassis
- C. Diana Ross
- D. Diane Keaton
- E. Jane Seymour
- F. Raquel Welch

2. Which kind of makeup makes it for you?

- A. No makeup
- B. Understated perfect
- C. Highly dramatic
- D. Very a la mood
- E. Palest possible
- F. Vibrant and glossy

3. Assuming your hair would cooperate, what style would you choose?

- A. Short casual cut
- B. Shoulder-length, blunt cut swinging hair
- C. Hair sleekly pulled back away from your face.

- D. Frizzed hair
- E. Long, wavy hair
- F. Full, softly layered hair

4. If your body could wear it, which would your soul be happiest in?

- A. Crisp cotton camp shirt and pants
- B. Ivory wool gabardine suit
- C. Slim shift of magenta hamming red satin with big shoulders, skinny push-up sleeves, narrow short skirt.
- D. Narrow leather pants and oversized blazer
- E. White Victorian lace summer dress
- F. Red sequin mini-dress

5. What would you wear to a large cocktail party to make a "knock-out" impression?

- A. Colorful silk blouse and black skirt
- B. Simple black dress
- C. Evening tunic over black pants
- D. 1940s print dress
- E. Mauve silk dress
- F. Low-cut electric blue dress

6. Which texture turns you to jelly at a touch?

- A. Soft tweed
- B. Silk
- C. Thin, fine suede
- D. Antique cut-velvet
- E. Angora
- F. Satin

7. Which is the one piece of jewelry you'd feel naked without?

- A. A gold chain necklace
- B. A Cartier watch
- C. A strong brass or pewter choker

- D. An Art Deco belt
- E. An old cameo pin
- F. Diamond drop earrings

8. Which kind of colors color you happy?

- A. Primaries
- B. Pale neutrals
- C. Black
- D. Offbeat, neons
- E. Soft pastels

F. Electric red and electric blue

9. Assuming your shape is no problem, which clothing shapes are you most drawn to?

- A. Crisp and linear
- B. Sleek and defined
- C. Angular and asymmetric
- D. Oversized and unconventional
- E. Soft and flowing
- F. Body-hugging

10. Which compliment would delight you the most?

- A. "You're so much fun to be with."
- B. "You have such elegant taste."
- C. "You have fantastic style."
- D. "You're so creative."
- E. "You look like a dream."
- F. "You're always a knockout!"

Scoring

If you have six or more A's, you're a Sporty-Casual; six or more B's, a Classic-Elegant; six or more C's, Exotic-Dramatic; six or more D's, Art-Offbeat; six or more E's, Feminine-Romantic; six or more F's, Sexy-Alluring. If your score divides more or less evenly among several letters - for example, four A's, three B's, three C's - you're the image-type of the letter that scored highest, with a greater than average potential for crossing over into another image-type from time to time.

Don't worry. Finding your image-type will not restrict you; it will free you because it simplifies your life. It doesn't leave you lost and wandering in the pages of the fashion magazines, or poking through the department stores and boutiques trying to find your dress or jacket or blouse out of the avalanche of new styles that come out each spring and fall.

When you've sorted out your image, you've already sorted out the kind of clothes you're looking for, before you've even stepped inside the store. And that's the biggest way to save time, energy and money. Even better, it's the surest way to look your best.

Fashion tips

Question The models in magazines always seem to have flawless skin even though they wear foundation and powder for photography. So why does my makeup look unnatural and masky?

Answer Apply moisturizer and let it sit five minutes before applying foundation. Sponge-dab on a foundation. Work from center of face outward. Remove excess around the nose, hairline, jaw. Dust on translucent powder. Match foundation shade to skin.

Question What is the best way to wear lipstick?

Answer The best way to use lipstick is to first match lipstick to your skin. For yellow undertones, count on shades of coral, orange-red, warm bronze. For blue undertones, go for pinks, mauves, blue-reds.

If you love pale lip colors, use a lip pencil for definition or lips will fade away. Match liner to skin.

Question Do you use concealer around the base of your nose? Skin here is often red and uneven, making the nose appear bigger.

Answer A concealer that's too light or dark will highlight flaws. Shop around for the right shade -- one quarter to one half a shade lighter than skin is best.

A pale lilac or blue concealer camouflages sun spots and broken capillaries.

Question I never know how to choose and wear accessories. Do I need to match my shoes and handbag? How about jewelry -- what goes with what?

Answer Toning shoes to handbag does create a classic look, but vary the textures and stay in the same color family. For instance, team a black leather handbag with black suede pumps. To mix jewelry effectively, keep the period or look the same, big gold sculpted earrings with simple gold cuffs or a delicate antique bracelet and a strand of pearls.

Autumn palette for lips and nails is inspired by the sultry shades of nature. Chicest choices include cinnamon, desert rose, coffee, mango and bronze. Choose softer hues for work, bolder burnished tones for evenings. Deeper hues demand shorter nails.

Moisture key to healthy skin

Water, water, everywhere...It makes up 70 percent of all body tissue, 20 percent of your bones' composition, about 70 percent of your brain cells and between 80 to 90 percent of your blood. Is it any wonder that water is the main ingredient for smooth, healthy skin?

When your system is low on water, the top layers of the skin (the stratum corneum) become brittle and dry. In severe cases, they can fissure or crack, according to Peter T. Pugliese, MD, skin physiologist, member of the Society for Investigative Dermatology and president of Peter T. Pugliese and Associates in Bernville, Pa. (biomedical consultants to a large portion of the cosmetic and skin-care industry).

That's why drinking enough water and eating water-rich foods (like fruits and vegetables that are 70 to 95 percent water) is a first step towards resisting internal dehydration. But how our skin feels also depends on the water in the air around us.

The body's water moves through the skin to the surface in a process called transepidermal water loss, leaving your skin plump and moisturized. The rate at which water leaves the skin's surface depends on the amount of moisture in the air. In low humidity--when your body contains a lot more fluid than the air around it--your skin loses water more rapidly. That's why a rich water supply inside is the real key to soft skin.

"Besides exaggerating wrinkle lines, severe dryness can cause dead skin cells to exfoliate in large clumps," explains Joseph D. Melnik, director of research for the Erno Laszlo Institute in Trumbull, Connecticut. Under such conditions, your stratum corneum can bottom out at 10-12 percent moisture instead of an ideal ratio of about 15 percent. Any lower than that and your body will seek to replenish its moisture supply from skin layers beneath the stratum corneum.

The Lotion Commotion

So does this mean that lotions and creams are not the answer? Not exactly, though Dr. Pugliese maintains, "You cannot moisturize from the outside--the water will evaporate." Evaporation takes 15 to 20 minutes, depending on the relative humidity and the skin temperature, he says.

It would be ideal if our bodies produced just the right amount of natural oils to keep a constant evaporation-proof seal over our skin so we wouldn't have to fuss with moisturizers. But most often, the oil-producing sebaceous glands either don't produce enough lubrication or are overly active, leading to a greasy complexion sometimes punctuated with red patches. This is because the oils aren't evenly distributed over the skin's surface, according to Steven R. Cohen, MD, associate professor of medicine and dermatology at the New York Hospital/Cornell University Medical Center in New York.

What moisturizers can do is stop water from evaporating from the skin's surface. With this as the overriding goal, moisturizers should both be humectants (able to hold water on the skin's surface) and occlusive (able to trap the moisture rising to the surface by means of transepidermal water loss). A formula of glycerin, propylene glycol, hyaluronic acid, collagen and a chemical called sodium PCA has been found to be the best humectant. For the second task, lipids (fats) or oleaginous materials (oily ingredients like lanolin and petrolatum) offer a protective occlusive film. Since oil and water repel each other, proteins and chemicals called natural moisturizing factors, such as phospholipids, linoleic acid and essential amino acids, must be added.

If you don't have much water in your skin due to dry or overheated environments, wind or excessive soaping (which strips the oil from your skin), moisturizing can do very little, says Dr. Cohen. "A moisturizer will make your skin feel silkier, but it only treats the symptom, not the cause," he explains.

Another step in keeping lubricated is to avoid harsh, abrasive astringents, especially on the sides of the cheeks, Cohen advises. Milder astringents can wipe off surface oil without stripping the skin of its protective film.

Too Much Of A Splash

But dousing your skin with water isn't the answer, either. Too much moisture can keep your skin cells from holding onto their given dose of water. Excessive moisture--from licking your lips or having your hands in water often without rubber gloves--only accelerates the evaporation rate from the skin's surface, leading to even more dryness. Here's why: Without natural moisturizing factors, that surface water won't stay put. Your body responds by sending water from within to your skin's top layers. The result: Dehydration throughout!

A 15- to 30-minute bath causes temporary skin hydration of up to 40 percent. And some of this moisture can be sealed in by putting on some lotion.

Apply petrolatum (a heavier coating than water-based moisturizers) over dry areas, like the arms, hips, behind the shoulders and on your legs, especially after shaving. Unlike other moisturizers, too much petrolatum doesn't help the situation, so just skim your finger over the top of the petrolatum, using only enough to seal your skin's surface. Massage it in until it's no longer oily or visible. But avoid using petrolatum on acne-prone areas, like the face, lower back and chest.

Skin-saver Tips

The biggest skin problems are dryness, uneven skin tone, and wrinkles. Try these skin-saver tips for complexion perfection.

-Keep a humidifier going -- especially at night. Also, surround yourself with greenery -- plants help boost moisture levels in the air and your skin.

-Wear moisturizer all the time -- with or without makeup. Smooth on a night cream before bed.

-Improve skin quality with a gentle scrub or once a week masque.

Feeling sooooo good!

Nothing makes you feel better on a cold day than to snuggle into some cozy sweats. The added bonus to the fall fashion news is that the once plain sweats now come in a multitude of colors and designs. Modeling sweatshirts, which are available at local stores, are, from left, Stephanie Bixler, Cindy Streun and Brianna Reinauer.

Spice up your lips for fall

Spice up your lips with cinnamon lipstick. To make the color last and avoid a harsh edge when using a deep-color lipstick, be sure to line lips with neutral brown pencil first. Dot on key points -- center of upper and lower lips and corners -- and lightly connect the dots. Then fill in outline using side of pencil, not its point, for smooth definition. Next, apply lipstick just inside the outline -- this will prevent color from feathering into fine lines.

Make your eyes entice with sensuous spice. Define only upper lashlines with nutmeg-brown liner. (Lining lower lashlines "closes eyes.") Next, dot cinnamon shadow in eyes' creases, blend with a soft sponge, and sweep a golden curry shade on browbones and centers of lids, to give eyes a lift. Last, accent lashes with two coats of sheer brown mascara.

Give your cheeks a radiant glow with a spiced-right shade. This earthy coffee hue complements cool skin tones. (For ruddier complexions,

Myth
Lines, wrinkles and saggy skin are an inevitable part of aging, and like it or not, there's really nothing you can do to save face.

Fact

There are ways you can help prevent, delay and even reverse the visible signs of aging! Stick to good skin-care habits, regardless of how tired or stressed you are; stop yo-yo weight loss now.

Myth
The only way you'll ever lose weight and get in shape is by joining a health club and taking aerobics classes at least three times a week.

Fact

Great news: Fitness walking is rapidly replacing health-club aerobics classes as the workout of choice for busy women. It's low-impact.

Silver jewelry heads to wild west

All-American, Santa Fe styling is hot on the fashion trail this season, combining a rugged cowboy flair with city sophistication and the romance of the desert Southwest.

Christopher's Enterprises of New Mexico, a representative of 30 top Native American jewelers, reports a growing interest in and a buying spurt of traditional as well as contemporary American Indian sterling silver jewelry.

"Every seven years, the trend is rekindled in a big way, and 1989 marks no exception," a company spokesperson added.

The climate is prime, as evidenced by the popular Georgia O'Keeffe art exhibit; record auction prices of highly prized, antique Native American collectibles; celebrities sporting costly, handmade cowboy boots and belts; and top fashion designers touting chic Western looks for city slick cowboys and cowgirls.

Trail-blazing new ideas

In addition to classic concha belts, squash necklaces and bolo ties, American Indian silversmiths are expanding their range into contemporary pieces for an expanding market.

Newer styles include silver hammered into semi-abstract shapes reminiscent of artifacts; stylized animals, reptiles and birds that are so popular in fashion jewelry today; and sterling inlaid with mosaic patterns of malachite, jet, turquoise, shell, coral and lapis.

Jewelry makes statement

City slicker cowgirls trailblaze the frontier in a mix of traditional, American Indian and Western-inspired, contemporary silver jewelry. Whether you are looking for rawhide hoop earrings and bracelets or a silver and leather concha belt, you can find these accessories at local stores.

Keep shoes in shape for longer wear

How many times have you discarded a pair of shoes, thinking they were beyond hope, or relegated a favorite pair of pumps to the back of the closet because the heels were too run down to be seen in public, even on a rainy day?

With regular maintenance check-ups, shoes will last longer, wear better and help keep you looking your best anywhere, anytime.

Here are some tips for keeping your shoes in tip-top shape:

-Polish shoes before you wear them and have taps or toe points and rubber lifts put on heels for reinforcement.

-Polish, polish, polish again. It looks great, keeps leather in good condition and acts as a water deterrent.

-Cream polish cleans and softens leather. Waxy types protect and polish. Foam or liquid products cover scuffing well. Use alone or in combination.

-For patent leather, wipe with soft, damp cloth; dry promptly. Commercial patent cleaner perks up dimming shine. Leather conditioner helps prevent cracking.

-For fabric shoes, wash with dry suds (foam only); and a nail brush or sponge. Remove suds with nail brush that has been rinsed and shaken dry.

-Sneakers or canvas shoes molded to rubber soles can go into the gentle cycle of the washing machine with a bit of detergent. All fabric shoes should be dried away from the heat.

-Suede, the single most popular shoe material this season, needs a little extra attention. To keep suede shoes dust free, invest in an art gum eraser and/or a good wire suede brush to be used often.

For more difficult spots, try the gentlest cleaning with a little cool water and soap (not detergent). The most radical method is scraping cautiously with the point of a knife.

To recolor faded or stained suede, apply commercial spray color in basic shades, such as black and blue.

-Boots should be protected with several coats of transparent polish before wearing.

If soaked, stuff the toes and let dry in a warm place, away from heat, for at least 12 hours. If salt-stained, immediately rub with a solution of white vinegar (1 teaspoon) and water (1/4 cup) and rinse with clear water. Polish regularly.

-Shoe trees are maintenance musts to prevent all shoes from curling, wrinkling, and creasing. Wooden shoe trees work best.

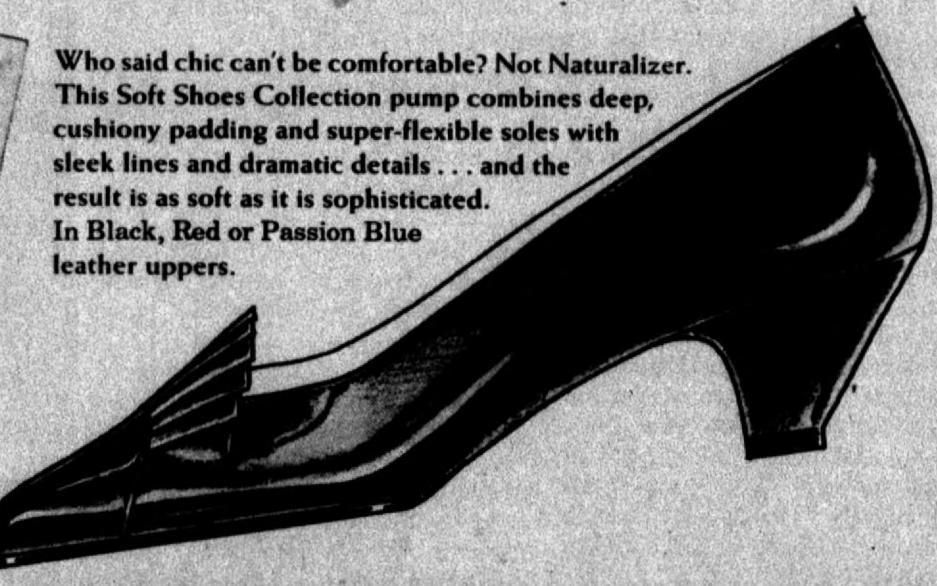

-Lastly, rotate shoes each day. It's healthiest—and smartest.

ANIMAL INSTINCTS

The untamed message for fall is unleashed with leopard spots. J.M. Joss designs a sweater coat with an innate sense of style, in mohair/wool/acrylic/nylon. Black/tan, s-m-l, $170. Just one from a collection of prints and solids.
