Federal judge releases supervision Lubbock ISD changes are given approval

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - Lubbock Independent School District officials say they're confident a decision by a federal judge to remove the district from 21 years of court supervision won't be overturned by the Justice Department.

U.S. District Judge Halbert O. Woodward on Wednesday removed the LISD from more than two decades of court supervision after ruling that the district had complied with orders to desegregate.

Woodward's decision must still pass Justice Department scrutiny. "We believe the opinion will stand," said Bob Craig, LISD School Board president.

Woodward has supervised the actions of the LISD ever since the district was named in a segregation lawsuit filed by the Nixon Administration in 1970.

Two previous decisions by Woodward in the LISD's case were overturned by the Justice Department. "I think Judge Woodward has gone to great pains to allow everyone

Fats in school lunch to be reduced by '94

WASHINGTON (AP) - By 1994, children in the nation's elementary schools should be getting a lower-fat lunch in the cafeteria.

Some already are, but Agriculture Secretary Edward Madigan said Wednesday that educating school cooks on how to reduce fat is a challenge that will take time to accomplish.

"I think they want to provide a healthy diet to children. The menu has to be attractive to children," Madigan told reporters.

"I can assure you that by fiscal year 1994, all food service personnel in the United States will have the tools and the training they need to improve the school lunch program to meet the dietary guidelines," he said.

Public Voice said its analysis of USDA data shows that most 6- to 11-year-olds eat too much fat at home, and get even fattier fare when they buy lunch at school.

U.S. dietary guidelines issued last year say anyone over 2 years old should reduce fat intake to no more than 30 percent of total calories, and limit saturated fat from meat to 10 percent.

Woodward's decision is the culmination of several efforts by LISD since 1970 for a racially balanced district. Those efforts have included forced busing, school closures and altered boundary lines. Administrators also created magnet programs, which are special classes placed in single-race neighborhood schools to attract students of other races.

Woodward said during a brief hearing Wednesday, "I do not want the administration, the students or parents of LISD to think that this gives them license to violate the constitution."

Officials finding money to rehire Dallas teachers

DALLAS (AP) - Fifty-two Dallas teachers remain without jobs while school district officials scramble to find money to put them back to work.

Sixty-two teachers will be rehired to fill vacancies and 68 will be rehired with bond revenue uncovered last week, trustees decided Tuesday night.

Teachers rehired could be back in class Friday, officials said.

Superintendent Marvin Edwards, who proposed raising taxes by .5 percent to save the jobs of all 257 teachers targeted for layoffs, vowed Wednesday to find enough money to rehire the teachers.

"I am not going to abandon my search to try to solve the problem," Edwards said.

Dallas Independent School District trustees rejected Edwards' call for an 18-percent tax increase and instead approved almost $1 million in other budget cuts, mostly in administrative areas.

The board voted 6-3 against hiking taxes, which already had been tentatively set for a 17.5 percent increase. Trustees ordered Edwards to look harder for more money in the $544 million budget to rehire remaining teachers laid off.

"We need to try a little harder and longer before we raise the (tax) rate above 17.5 percent," trustee Trini Garza said.

Meanwhile, a teachers' union said Wednesday it was prepared to resume its legal fight over the job cuts.

Bob Baker, president of the Classroom Teachers of Dallas, said his group would seek an injunction in state district court if all of the 257 layoffs that prompted massive demonstrations were not rescinded by the school board.

"I was appalled and dismayed and disgusted that instead of doing what was right, that the board chose to come up with a stiff-necked posture and again place the superintendent in an untenable position," Baker said.

He said confusion remained following Tuesday night's board meeting.

Earlier, Judge Frank Andrews had instructed trustees to reconsider budget cuts they made to make up for a $47 million shortfall in state aid.

Attorney Daniel Ortiz said the teachers' union would take no legal action if trustees would restore all laid-off teachers to their old jobs without relying on a tax increase.

"If on the other hand, that is not how the district interprets the board action, and says instead that it will employ only as many teachers as it can afford, then we do intend to proceed vigorously seeking a temporary injunction prohibiting DISD from laying off any teacher," he said.

Baker said the Texas State Teachers Association, affiliated with his union, had urged sanctions on the district because of last month's layoffs.

"It looks like the National Education Association will be issuing sanctions against the district. These will let locals and folks around the country know that it can be dangerous to your career to come to Dallas to teach," he said.

Baker said the board did not offer to undo more than 800 involuntary teacher transfers made in the wake of the layoffs.

The LISD's reorganization plan accepted by Woodward proposes two major changes:

- Elimination of forced busing in the first, second and sixth grades, and in junior high. Minority students would be bused one year instead of the current two years.

- Dunbar-Struggs High School, the city's second oldest high school, would be transformed into a magnet junior high.

This proposal, more than any other in the plan, generated vehement protest from minority supporters of Dunbar, who defended the tradition of the school.

Moses says the termination of court supervision will save the district more than $300,000 a year in court fees and other related expenses.

Moses said the reorganization plan would be phased in over the next two years.

"It's a day we have been waiting for for a long time," Moses said. "I don't think there is anyone here that doesn't understand that we have an obligation and a duty to a quality integrated school system. We are committed to that."

Governor makes tour of prison boot camp

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) - Gov. Ann Richards, in re-signing a major crime bill and touring a prison boot camp, says she wants convicts on notice that Texas prisons no longer "have a revolving back door."

On Wednesday, Richards toured the Goree Unit boot camp, which houses 121 inmates who are subjected to a military-style program of discipline. The prison system operates a similar camp at the Ramsey Unit and a third, for women, at Gatesville.

She huddled privately with a group of about a dozen inmates undergoing rehabilitation for substance abuse, visited their living quarters and stood on a reviewing stand while two other groups marched in formation.

"The taxpayers of this state spend money invested in this boot camp because they believe there is something in you and in your life that can be claimed as good," she told the inmates. "We hope when you leave, at some point you will have instilled in you some feeling of self-respect and that you will understand that what each of us do in life we must be responsible for."

She signed the bill Aug. 30 without fanfare and came to Huntsville to the Goree Unit of the Texas Department of Criminal Justice to sign it again in the presence of several state lawmakers, dozens of corrections officials and numerous camera crews.

"We wanted to do it here because it sends a message," she said, noting that a bill never before has been signed at a Texas prison. "I thought it was important."

The bill would spend $672 million to build 25,300 new prison beds, including 12,000 for drug and alcohol treatment, and repair existing facilities.

"We are putting criminals on notice. These new prisons don't have a revolving back door. The days of early release are coming to an end."

Herd's game features two Browns

By JAY PEDEN
Sports Editor

Hereford fans who follow the Herd to Amarillo Friday may see a lot of rushing from a man named Brown.

When the Whitefaces put their 1-0 record on the line against the Palo Duro Dons at 7:30 p.m. at Dick Bivins Stadium, the tailback for each team will be named Brown: Leo for the Herd and Tremaine for the Dons.

Hereford's Leo is coming off a fine performance in last week's 20-7 win over Tascosa, in which he rushed for 162 yards and two touchdowns.

Last year, in Palo Duro's 33-20 win over Hereford, Tremaine avoided the Herd defense for 94 yards and two touchdowns on 14 carries. Last week, he ran for 123 yards on 18 carries in a 35-0 loss to Odessa High.

Tremaine's also the player that Hereford coach Danny Haney mentions first about the Dons.

"They've got a great, great tailback," Haney said, adding that he's got the usual attributes of a great tailback: "He's big, fast and tough."

The Dons run out of the I-formation and the wishbone, and Haney said they do about the same things out of each one: run isolations and the option.

According to Haney, the best player in Palo Duro's 5-2 defense is noseguard Keith Diggs. He's not big (190 pounds) but he's quick.

Haney said the Herd is not doing anything special to prepare for this particular opponent; they're still working on getting their own business straight.

"We're just trying to get better at what we do," he said.

Injury report: OG T.J. Samples, FB Quincy Curtis and WB Kevin Kelso will play after sitting out last week. DT Chad Burns (neck), Will Jones (knee) and Jason Cochran (knee) are out.

Haney named Alvaro Avila and Sean Smith as players of the week from their performances in the Tascosa game.

Avila, a rover, had 10 tackles, three for losses, three passes knocked down and one hurry of the quarterback.

Smith, a split end, had two receptions for 26 yards, and his blocking graded out at 95 percent.

"His blocks were critical on a lot of our big plays," Haney said.

Players of the week on other levels were Michael Melendrez for the junior varsity offense, Ronnie Gomez for the JV defense, Johnny Zambrano for the sophomore offense, Ray Hastings for the sophomore defense, O.J. Rodriguez for the ninth grade white team and Richard Hicks for the ninth grade maroon team.

No abuse found in Sherman

SHERMAN, Texas (AP) - Sherman High School Principal Phillip Garrett said Wednesday he found no evidence of abuse of three football players who were hospitalized for dehydration and heat exhaustion after running sprints.

Coach John Outlaw ordered players to run extra sprints after Monday's practice, officials said.

Two starters, defensive end Tim Cline and linebacker Ryan Woods, collapsed and were taken to a local hospital for treatment. They were released Wednesday.

Brown breaks free

Hereford tailback Leo Brown, here running in last week's Tascosa game, will lead the Herd into its game against Palo Duro at 7:30 p.m. Friday at Dick Bivins Stadium in Amarillo.

Herd vs. Dons a toss-up

The Herd's game with Palo Duro Friday at Dick Bivins Stadium in Amarillo should be a toss-up, at least according to the Harris Rating System.

Both teams have a rating of 179, which ranks Hereford 51st in 4A and Palo Duro 108th in 5A.

The marquis matchup in 4A this week is Lubbock Estacado at Big Spring. Estacado, ranked 19th with a rating of 185, is picked by Harris to win by four points. Big Spring is ranked 49th with a rating of 149.

Other games this weekend involving teams from District 1-4A include Amarillo Caprock at Lamesa, Randall at Levelland, Dumas at Perryton, Borger at Amarillo Tascosa and Pampa hosting Amarillo High. Harris' picks Lamesa by seven, Levelland by eight, Dumas by six, Tascosa by six, Amarillo High by 14.

Other area games of interest--with Harris' picks in parentheses by the favorite--include: Frenship at Lubbock Coronado (by 6); Lubbock Monterey at San Angelo Central (by 9); Plainview at Clovis, N.M. (by 8); San Angelo Lakeview at Lubbock Dunbar (by 7); Snyder (by 8) at Clyde; River Road at Panhandle (by 19); Tulia (by 8) at Canyon; Friona (by 6) at Tahoka; Springlake-Earth (by 5) at Whiteface; Hart (by 3) at Nazareth; Farwell at Olton (by 20); Bovina (by 14) at Lorenzo; and Anton (by 7) at Kress.

GRADUATION DATA

OVERLAND PARK, Kan. (AP) - Academic data is being brought into sharper focus by the NCAA and member schools.

Division I schools this year are required to submit a graduation-rates disclosure form to the NCAA. Division II schools also are being asked to supply such information but they are getting more time.

The NCAA Council granted Division II schools until 1993 to begin supplying the graduation rates information.

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) - The day after a big golf tournament is a day for unwinding. More unwinding may be needed if you have won.

One day after winning the Bob Hope Chrysler Classic, Corey Pavin unwound. Pavin took his son, Ryan, 5, to the San Diego Zoo. Both father and son had a great time.

"Yes, we did," Corey said. "It was a great day. But Ryan wore me out. I was more tired than I was after winning the tournament."

Titans clash: UH vs. Miami

MIAMI (AP) - Tonight's matchup between the Team of the '80s and the Offense of the '90s offers a chance to measure the Miami Hurricanes' staying power and the Houston Cougars' emergence as a national force.

The game also brings together two teams with bad-boy images. For some, the Hurricanes - wearing the white helmets - are the good guys this time.

"I don't know very much about that," Miami coach Dennis Erickson said wryly. "We've never been treated like that much."

Tenth-ranked Houston (1-0) is trying to shake the stigma of NCAA probation, and flamboyant coach John Jenkins has been accused of showing no mercy against weak teams with his point-a-minute offense. Cougars quarterback David Klingler doubts that a victory would impress detractors.

"They can always find an excuse. They might say Miami isn't as good as they used to be," he said. "And if we lose, they'll say, 'We knew it.'"

Meanwhile, the normally brash Hurricanes have made no predictions or promises, no taunts or threats. They've failed to live down to their reputation.

The reason: Erickson ordered his players to stop talking to the media.

"I just felt it was time to focus in on the game," Erickson said. "We were really getting hammered (in the press), and that needed to stop."

Jenkins complained about "derogatory remarks" by the Hurricanes, which culminated last week when defensive tackle Eric Miller said Miami was out to get Klingler.

"We see ourselves being the vigilantes for all those teams that get the score run up on them" by Houston, Miller said. "We just want Klingler. We want him so bad. He's kind of a showboat."

"They don't have a running game. Once you beat up Klingler, they'll be rattled and they'll be out of control. ... They're one-dimensional. Throw

Braves' no-hitter saved by scorer's decision

ATLANTA (AP) - Terry Pendleton will trade an error for a no-hitter anytime.
Kent Mercker, Mark Wohlers and Alejandro Pena made history Wednesday night by throwing the first combined no-hitter in National League history as Atlanta edged the San Diego Padres 1-0, preserving the Braves' half-game lead in the NL West.

The no-hitter was preserved in the ninth when official scorer Mark Frederickson charged Pendleton, the Braves' third baseman, with an error on Darrin Jackson's two-out chopper. Pendleton cut in front of shortstop Rafael Belliard, but backed away at the last second after making a futile stab at the ball, which glanced off Belliard after a short hop.

Frederickson immediately ruled it an error on Pendleton, opting not to wait for a replay.
"Pendleton could have had the ball," he said. "He let it go by. Pendleton committed on the ball and if he would have gone ahead and made the play, he would have thrown him out."

"I'll take an 'E' like that any time of the day," said Pendleton, who did not dispute the call. "The ball when it reached its peak was in the lights."
"I just tried to stab at it and never touched it. I was hoping to at least touch it so I'd definitely get the error so the pitchers would get the no-hitter."

Pena completed the sixth combined no-hitter in major-league history by getting NL batting leader Tony Gwynn on a fly ball to left for his eighth save.
The Padres didn't dispute the call, either.

Frederickson, 32, an Atlanta businessman in his sixth year as official scorer, said Pendleton confirmed his call after the game.
"He said there was no doubt about it. It was an error all the way," Frederickson said.

"That ball should've been caught," San Diego manager Greg Riddoch said. "I'd want an 'E' for my pitcher, too. The call doesn't bother me."
Jackson said he was running and didn't see the play.
"I guess it could have gone either way," he said. "I hope the scorer wasn't swayed by the home factor. A hit's a hit, and an error's an error."

Sixteen days earlier, Bret Saberhagen's no-hitter in Kansas City also was preserved by a scorer's decision to rule an error on a fly ball that glanced off outfielder Kirk Gibson's glove. Last week, a statistical committee finally defined no-hitters, ruling they were no-hit games of nine innings or more that ended hitless - which purged 50 and left 225 intact.

Pendleton provided the only offense of the game, hitting his 20th home run of the season in the fifth inning off Harris. It was enough for the Braves to win their sixth in a row and snap the Padres' seven-game winning streak, their longest since 1987.

Hershiser leads romp over Astros

By BEN WALKER
AP Baseball Writer

OK, so Orel Hershiser didn't pitch a no-hitter. He still did well enough to keep the Los Angeles Dodgers on pace with the Atlanta Braves.

While three Atlanta pitchers combined on a no-hitter to beat San Diego, Hershiser returned from a two-week layoff and led the Dodgers past the Houston Astros 9-1 on Wednesday night.

Hershiser (6-2) won his fifth straight decision, allowing one run on seven hits in six innings. He walked none and struck out five.

Hershiser had not pitched since Aug. 26 because of a sore shoulder. He missed almost the entire 1990 season after reconstructive surgery on his right shoulder.

"I had 15 days to get ready, but if I can throw like I did tonight, I'll be OK," he said. "There was some anticipation before this game. I didn't know if it was going to be fun like it used to be or if I was going to have to work to get people out. Tonight was one of those fun nights."

Darryl Strawberry, Eddie Murray and Lenny Harris each got two hits and drove in two runs as Los Angeles won at the Astrodome and stayed one-half game behind the Braves. The Dodgers begin a three-game series in Atlanta on Friday night.

The Dodgers scored twice in the first inning on Strawberry's sacrifice fly and Murray's 17th home run. In the third, Strawberry hit an RBI double and scored on Murray's single.

The big lead made it a little easier for Hershiser.

"He started the game a little sluggish, but he threw the ball real good later on," Dodgers manager Tom Lasorda said. "He had a couple of real sharp breaking curve balls, and that's a good indication for us."

Pete Harnisch (9-9) was tagged for six runs on seven hits in two innings in his shortest outing of the season.

Pirates 3, Cardinals 1
Zane Smith pitched a six-hitter and singled home a run as Pittsburgh raised its NL East lead to 10 1/2 games, its largest of the year.

Orlando Merced drove in two runs for the Pirates, who have the best road record in the majors at 42-29. They've won five of their last six on the road.

Smith (14-10) walked none and struck out three. He is 2-0 with 1.07 ERA in four starts against St. Louis.

Merced hit his ninth home run in the fifth. Smith and Merced hit RBI singles in the sixth off Bob Tewksbury (9-11).

Giants 4, Reds 2

Tom Herr hit a bases-loaded triple during a four-run seventh inning that sent visiting San Francisco over Cincinnati.

A wild pitch by Scott Scudder (5-7) that allowed Willie McGee to score from second base tied it at 1. Two walks and an error loaded the bases for Herr, who followed with his first triple of the season on reliever Norm Charlton's first pitch. In Charlton's last appearance, he gave up a three-run double to Darryl Strawberry of the Dodgers.

Bryan Hickerson (2-1) was the winner, and Dave Righetti got his 22nd save.

Expos 6, Phillies 5

Pinch hitter Ivan Calderon connected for a tiebreaking, two-run homer in the bottom of the eighth inning and visiting Montreal ended its 10-game losing streak to Philadelphia.

A two-out error by shortstop Dickie Thon set up Calderon's 19th homer of the season and 100th of his career, off Wally Ritchie (0-2). The Phillies lead the season series 12-3.

Bill Sampen (8-4) pitched two shutout innings for the victory. Barry Jones pitched the final two innings for his 12th save despite giving up two runs in the ninth.

Mets 4, Cubs 1

Tony Castillo scattered three singles in six innings and New York won at Wrigley Field.

Castillo (2-1), traded by Atlanta last month, won his first start for the Mets. John Franco pitched the ninth for his 25th save.

Fielder's 40th HR helps beats Red Sox

By The Associated Press

Cecil Fielder isn't thinking home run, he's thinking pennant.

Fielder hit his 40th homer Wednesday night as Detroit snapped Boston's seven-game winning streak by beating the Red Sox 8-2. That made Fielder the first player in 11 years to hit at least 40 in successive seasons. The last was Philadelphia's Mike Schmidt, who hit 45 homers in 1979 and 48 in 1980.

"I'll be able to sit back and think about it and be happy when it's over," Fielder said. "But right now, I've got to concentrate on playing out the season. We've got some things to do yet."

Boston remained four games behind first-place Toronto in the AL East and the Tigers pulled within five. The Blue Jays lost to Seattle 7-3.

"We've got to play our game and not worry about who's ahead of us or any of those other teams," Fielder said. "This was a big win for us. If we hadn't won this game, Boston would have gone three up on us and Toronto six. If we don't win, it doesn't matter what happens with any other team. We've just got to do our own thing - go out and play hard."

Walt Terrell (12-10) pitched a six-hitter, improving his record since the All-Star break to 8-1.

"Walter is having a very good year," Detroit manager Sparky Anderson said. "You never worry about Walt Terrell. He's going to give you everything he's got. If he stinks, he stinks. But he'll never complain."

Matt Young (3-6) allowed three runs and five hits in 3 2/3 innings for visiting Boston.

In other games, Oakland beat Chicago 6-5, Kansas City beat Minnesota 6-1, Baltimore beat New York 4-2 and Texas beat California 11-9 in 12 innings. Cleveland and Milwaukee were rained out.

Rangers 11, Angels 9

Rafael Palmeiro hit a two-run double in the 12th inning at Anaheim Stadium and AL batting leader Julio Franco went 4-for-6, raising his average to .344.

Barry Manuel won in his first major league decision, pitching three hitless innings.

Mariners 7, Blue Jays 3

Erik Hanson (8-7) allowed six hits in eight innings and struck out six, and Pete O'Brien hit a two-run homer for visiting Seattle.

Jimmy Key (15-10) allowed five runs and five hits in two innings for Toronto, which lost its second straight following a five-game winning streak.

Athletics 6, White Sox 5

Jose Canseco raised his RBI total to 101 with a game-winning sacrifice fly off Steve Wapnick (0-1) in the 10th inning, his 38th homer and an RBI single.

Todd Van Poppel, Oakland's top draft choice in 1990, pitched three hitless innings and struck out five straight before being tagged for five runs in the fourth, two on Carlton Fisk's 369th career homer. The 19-year-old right-hander wound up allowing five runs and seven hits in 4 2/3 innings, struck out six and walked one.

Giants' Taylor speaks out on prejudice in New York

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) - Despite his success on NFL playing fields and his $1 million-plus annual salary, prejudice has had no problem finding Lawrence Taylor.

However, the perennial All-Pro linebacker of the New York Giants said Wednesday the prejudice he's faced is a minor symptom of a serious problem of racial discrimination that's nearing a crisis in the New York area.

COUGARS

off Klingler, and the offense collapses."

Since Miller's comments, the second-ranked Hurricanes (1-0) have maintained public silence. The Cougars also have had little to say since Jenkins ordered them not to become involved in a trash-talking exchange.

"We'll talk after the game is over," Houston nickel back Tyrone Davis said.

No taunting on the field? "We're going to try to win the battle after each snap," Klingler said. "Miami can win the battle when the ball's not in play."

Klingler, who threw nine touchdown passes in the Cougars' season-opening 73-3 win over Louisiana Tech, figures to make Miami's offense look conservative by comparison. In an effort to control the ball and keep it away from Klingler, the Hurricanes may throw less than normal.

"I don't think you win very many shootouts with Houston," Erickson said. "If their score gets up in the 70s, we're in trouble."

DALLAS (AP) - National Football League competition was ranked the nation's most popular spectacle, according to a survey by the Sports Marketing Group here.

The pollsters asked more than 2,000 people to give their opinions on 114 spectator sports they might attend, watch on television or read about.

The NFL was rated tops with 39.1 percent of the vote. College football was second in the balloting.

NO LOGO CHANGE

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - The San Francisco 49ers had ideas about changing the logo on their helmets but an outcry from their fans forced them to drop the plan.

The traditional helmet logo of the four-time Super Bowl champions featured a red "SF". The proposed change would have been to a bold, new logo displaying the word "49ers".

The fans did not approve, had their say, and carried the day.

NCAA GROWING

OVERLAND PARK, Kan. (AP) - The total NCAA membership has increased more than three-fold in a little over four decades.

The membership count in 1990 was 1,034, more than three times the 317 members in 1949.

"I'm just a realist and I see what's going on around here," Taylor said. "New York, this area, is a time bomb and it's going to explode soon because too many people are getting hurt out here. Too many people are getting destroyed out here and nobody gives a damn."

Taylor, widely regarded as the NFL's best defensive player in the 1980s, rarely has discussed social issues in his 10-plus seasons with the Giants.

But in an interview in this week's Sports Illustrated, Taylor said he has been the victim of prejudice because several New Jersey golf and country clubs have denied him membership, though he has been allowed to occasionally play on their courses.

Taylor, an avid golfer who belongs to other clubs around the country, told reporters on Wednesday it was wrong to think he was merely upset about the prejudice he encountered at some clubs in New Jersey.

"You think it's an 'L.T. can't play golf' issue," Taylor said. "It's not an 'L.T. can't play golf' issue. It's an issue about black folks are getting killed out here. They are getting mistreated and nobody gives a damn. That's what this issue is about. It's not about golf, so don't play the black man stupid."

Taylor also took the opportunity Wednesday to criticize the media for its handling of his past drug problems.

In 1986, Taylor checked into a treatment center for drug rehabilitation. In 1988, he was suspended for the first four games of the season for substance abuse. Under the NFL's rules, a third problem could result in a lifetime suspension, a penalty that can be appealed after one year.

Taylor said the media never misses an opportunity to label him as a two-time drug offender.

"Every time there is a story about L.T., regardless of what it is, it always has 'L.T., a two-time drug offender,'" Taylor said. "Of course, everybody knows that."

"What are you, afraid somebody is going to pick up the paper for the first time and not see it?" Taylor said, addressing the media. "So why does it have to be in every story? It's something that happened three or four years ago."

"It's something like that every day," Taylor added. "But you feel it's so important because that's the way to keep a black man down."

Public Notice

On June 28, 1991, Southwestern Bell Telephone Company (Southwestern Bell) filed an application with the Public Utility Commission of Texas (Commission) to add a new optional service offering for business Private Branch Exchange (PBX) Trunk customers called Digital Loop Service. The application has been assigned Docket No. 10461.

Digital Loop Service provides digital transmission of circuit switched voice and data communications between the customer's premises and the central office. This service allows the customer to use a 1.544 Mbps facility capable of delivering up to 24 line terminations. Southwestern Bell will provide Digital Loop Service within the customer's serving central office where facilities are available.

If approved by the Commission, the rates for the Digital Loop Service facilities will be $445 per month for each digital transmission loop arrangement which provides a capacity of up to 24 line terminations, plus $5 per month for each line termination and $9 per month for each channel termination. The proposed rate for the unlimited use of the central office varies from $12.25 up to $18.90 per month for each line termination depending on the rate group classification, determined by the customer's location. Southwestern Bell estimates revenue of $2.1 million from this offering during the first year.

As proposed by Southwestern Bell, customers who currently receive digital loop compatibility through facilities installed under a special construction agreement will have the option to receive their current digital loop arrangements pursuant to the Digital Loop Service Tariff or continue to pay their current charges until they make a change of location or account. Any increase in the number of line terminations to a customer's current digital transmission loop arrangement will be provided pursuant to the proposed Digital Loop Service Tariff; however, the customer will continue to have the option of paying current charges for the existing digital transmission loop capacity. Southwestern Bell's proposal to "grandfather" existing digital loop facility arrangements is subject to review and approval by the Commission.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible, but not later than October 15, 1991. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Blvd., Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information may also be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Public Information Office at (512) 458-0258. Tyson denies committing rape

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) - Boxer Mike Tyson denied raping a beauty pageant contestant and said mingling with the public has put him "in the position to become a victim."

Navratilova case gets new lawyer

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - As Martina Navratilova's attorneys hammered away at the qualifications of a lawyer hired by the tennis star's former companion, Judy Nelson went to lunch and hired additional representation in her palimony suit.

Navratilova's attorneys are seeking to have Nelson's lead attorney, Jerry Loftin, disqualified, saying he unjustly gained financial data pertinent to the case. He represented Navratilova in previous matters.

Amid the wrangling over Loftin's status Wednesday, Navratilova and Nelson tried unsuccessfully for a second day to reach an out-of-court settlement. Nelson, with her new attorney, Larry Bracken of Fort Worth, met again with Navratilova and the player's attorneys behind closed doors.

Talks broke by early evening and both sides announced they had agreed not to discuss the progress of their conversations.

The latest flurry of talks came at the end of the third day of a pre-trial hearing to determine whether Loftin should be disqualified from the case. The hearing was scheduled to continue today.

Navratilova, a nine-time Wimbledon singles champion, said through a spokeswoman that Loftin was slowing attempts to settle the lawsuit.

"That's baloney," Loftin said. Nelson countered angrily that it was Navratilova's attorney, Mike McCurley of Dallas, who was the stumbling block.

"We had an agreement but her attorney wouldn't let us carry it out," Nelson said angrily. Later, she added, "We do fine when we're talking together, but he (McCurley) is adding stipulations that make it impossible."

Navratilova said she would not settle until Loftin is removed. "I am still willing to listen to settlement offers from Judy Nelson, but not until Jerry Loftin disqualifies himself or gets disqualified and Judy Nelson acknowledges the invalidity of the non-marital cohabitation agreement," Navratilova said in a statement.

Nelson contends Navratilova renege on the 1986 agreement, drafted by a paralegal. In it, Nelson was to get half of the estimated $5 million to $9 million earned during their seven-year relationship.

The former State Bar of Texas general counsel, called to the stand by McCurley, said Wednesday that Loftin should be disqualified.

"There is an obligation for Mr. Loftin to properly supervise a paralegal," Steve Peterson of Austin testified. "A lawyer should not be a witness, an advocate in a case."

charges Tyson raped an 18-year-old Miss Black America contestant July 19.

The woman claims Tyson forced her to have sex after she refused his advances in his Indianapolis hotel room. Tyson has claimed the woman consented to sex.

"I didn't hurt no one," he said at a news conference after his court appearance. "I'm extremely worried about the situation, but I know I'm innocent."

After posting $30,000 bail, Tyson returned to Las Vegas to resume training for his Nov. 8 title bout against Evander Holyfield. Trial was set for Jan. 27.

Tyson was charged Monday with rape, deviate conduct and confinement - the most serious in a string of allegations over the years that he has fondled or roughed up women. The charges carry up to 63 years in prison.

Tyson was in Indianapolis at the time of the alleged assault to make promotional appearances for the Indiana Black Expo and the beauty pageant.

"I put myself to blame for one fault ... I make myself vulnerable because I'm among the common people all the time," he said. "That's my frame of mind, and I put myself in the position to become a victim."

David Hennessy, an attorney for the alleged victim, said: "My response is that the victim and Mr. Tyson both testified before the grand jury and Mr. Tyson was indicted. Those are the facts, and they speak for themselves."

In the last two years, Tyson has been sued for sexual harassment by a former aide to Robin Givens, his ex-wife, and faces another suit by Rosie Jones, a former Miss Black America, who claimed Tyson fondled her buttocks.

PUBLIC NOTICE

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS

SPECIAL ELECTION
NOVEMBER 5, 1991

PROPOSITION NO. 1 ON THE BALLOT

House Joint Resolution 114 proposes a constitutional amendment that would authorize home rule cities having a population of 5,000 or fewer inhabitants to amend their city charters by a majority vote of a city's qualified voters at an election held for that purpose. The amendment makes clear that home rule cities that have declined in population below the population required to initially adopt a charter may nevertheless continue to amend their charters.

The proposed amendment will be described on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment allowing home-rule cities with a population of 5,000 or less to amend their charters by popular vote."

PROPOSITION NO. 2 ON THE BALLOT

House Joint Resolution 10 proposes a constitutional amendment that would allow the legislature to authorize the Texas Department of Transportation to expend money, from any source available, for the costs of the turnpikes, toll roads, or toll bridges of the Texas Turnpike Authority, provided that any monies expended from the state highway fund shall be repaid to the fund from tolls or other turnpike revenues.

The proposed amendment will be described on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment mandating the repayment to the Department of Transportation of monies expended to assist the Texas Turnpike Authority in the construction, maintenance, and operation of turnpikes, toll roads and toll bridges."

PROPOSITION NO. 3 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 26 proposes a constitutional amendment that would authorize the Veterans' Land Board to invest, as authorized by law, moneys of the Veterans' Land Fund which are not immediately committed to the payment of principal and interest on bonds issued by the Veterans' Land Board, the purchase of lands, or the payment of expenses. Investment of such moneys would no longer be restricted to investments in bonds or obligations of the United States. The proposed amendment would also authorize the Veterans' Land Board to invest, as authorized by law, moneys of the Veterans' Housing Assistance Fund which are not immediately committed to the payment of principal and interest on general obligation bonds issued by the Veterans' Land Board for the benefit of the Veterans' Housing Assistance Fund, the making of home mortgage loans, or the payment of expenses. Investment of such moneys would no longer be restricted to investments in bonds or obligations of the United States. The proposed amendment gives the legislature power to implement the amendment and to delegate such duties and authority to the Veterans' Land Board as it deems necessary.

The proposed amendment will be described on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment to authorize the legislature to further implement and enhance the administration of the veterans' housing assistance and land programs and to expand the investment authority of the Veterans' Land Board."

PROPOSITION NO. 4 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 4 proposes a constitutional amendment that would allow the legislature to authorize the issuance of a maximum of $1.1 billion in general obligation bonds to be used to acquire, construct, or equip new prisons and substance abuse felony punishment facilities, mental health and mental retardation institutions, and youth corrections institutions, to repair and renovate existing facilities of those institutions and to acquire, repair, or renovate other facilities for use as state prisons or substance abuse felony punishment facilities. The $1.1 billion is in addition to the $900 million currently authorized by the constitution to be expended on bond issues for facilities of correctional and mental health and mental retardation institutions. The bonds would constitute a general obligation of the state. The bonds and interest on the bonds would be paid from the first money coming into the state treasury that is not otherwise appropriated by the constitution, less any amount in a sinking fund at the end of the preceding fiscal year that is pledged to payment of the bonds or interest.

The proposed amendment will be described on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment authorizing the issuance of up to $1.1 billion in general obligation bonds for acquiring, constructing, or equipping new prisons or other punishment facilities to confine criminals, mental health and mental retardation institutions, and youth corrections institutions, for major repair or renovation of existing facilities of those institutions, and for the acquisition of, major repair to, or renovation of other facilities for use as state prisons or other punishment facilities."

PROPOSITION NO. 5 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 39 proposes a constitutional amendment that would allow a county, junior college district, or municipality to exempt tangible personal property from ad valorem taxation if: (1) the property is acquired or brought into the state in an enterprise zone to be forwarded outside the state, (2) the property is assembled, stored, repaired, maintained, manufactured, processed, or fabricated in the enterprise zone, (3) the property is transported outside the state not later than 175 days after being acquired or brought into an enterprise zone, and (4) the person who acquired or brought the property into an enterprise zone is a qualified business. A county, junior college district, or municipality may exempt such property by entering into a written agreement with a qualified business that states the duration of the exemption and the terms on which the exemption is granted. Any action to exempt property must be taken before April 1 of the first year in which the property would otherwise be taxed. The term "enterprise zone" means an area that (1) has been designated as such by a state agency responsible for economic development, and (2) has pervasive poverty, unemployment, and economic distress. The term "qualified business" means a business that meets the qualification established by general law and requires that the qualified business is actively engaged in a new business in the enterprise zone or is expanding a business that is already active in the enterprise zone. An enterprise zone is created to foster economic development in an area of pervasive poverty and unemployment.

The proposed amendment will be described on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment authorizing the exemption for ad valorem taxes of certain property in an enterprise zone."

PROPOSITION NO. 6 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 8 proposes a constitutional amendment that would establish a Texas Ethics Commission with the powers and duties provided by law. The commission would consist of eight appointed members selected as follows: two members of different political parties appointed by the governor from a list of at least ten names submitted by the members of the house of representatives from each major political party; two members of different political parties appointed by the lieutenant governor from a list of at least ten names submitted by the members of the senate from each major political party; two members of different political parties appointed by the speaker of the house of representatives from a list of at least ten names submitted by the members of the house of representatives from each major political party; and two members of different political parties appointed by the lieutenant governor from a list of at least ten names submitted by the members of the senate from each major political party. A major political party is a political party required by law to hold a primary. With the exception of the initial appointees, commission members would serve for four-year terms. A member who has served for one term and any part of a second term would not be eligible for reappointment. The commission would be authorized to recommend the salary of the members of the legislature and may recommend that the salary of the speaker of the house of representatives and the lieutenant governor be set at an amount higher than that of other members. If the commission recommends a change in salary, the voters would be authorized to accept or reject the salary change at the next general election for state and county officers. If the voters approve the recommended salary, that salary would take effect January 1 of the next odd-numbered year; if the voters reject the recommended salary, no change in salary would occur. The commission would set the per diem of the members of the legislature and of the lieutenant governor. The per diem could be raised or lowered biennially as necessary to pay members' costs, but could not exceed the amount allowed as of January 1 that year as a federal income tax deduction for living expenses incurred in a legislative day in connection with a member's business as a legislator, disregarding any federal income tax exception for legislators residing near the Capitol. The commission would have other powers and duties provided by the commission's enabling act (Senate Bill 1, 72nd Legislature, Regular Session). The amendment would also provide that an increase in the emoluments of the office of Lieutenant Governor would not make a legislator ineligible to serve in the office of Lieutenant Governor.

PROPOSITION NO. 7 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 6 proposes a constitutional amendment that would allow the board of trustees of each statewide public retirement system to invest the funds of the system in such manner as the board considers prudent. The board would no longer be limited to investing the funds of the system in securities.

members of different political parties appointed by the governor from a list of at least ten names submitted by the members of the senate from each major political party; two members of different political parties appointed by the speaker of the house of representatives from a list of at least ten names submitted by the members of the house from each major political party; and two members of different political parties appointed by the lieutenant governor from a list of at least ten names submitted by the members of the senate from each major political party. A major political party is a political party required by law to hold a primary. With the exception of the initial appointees, commission members would serve for four-year terms. A member who has served for one term and any part of a second term would not be eligible for reappointment. The commission would be authorized to recommend the salary of the members of the legislature and may recommend that the salary of the speaker of the house of representatives and the lieutenant governor be set at an amount higher than that of other members. If the commission recommends a change in salary, the voters would be authorized to accept or reject the salary change at the next general election for state and county officers. If the voters approve the recommended salary, that salary would take effect January 1 of the next odd-numbered year; if the voters reject the recommended salary, no change in salary would occur. The commission would set the per diem of the members of the legislature and of the lieutenant governor. The per diem could be raised or lowered biennially as necessary to pay members' costs, but could not exceed the amount allowed as of January 1 that year as a federal income tax deduction for living expenses incurred in a legislative day in connection with a member's business as a legislator, disregarding any federal income tax exception for legislators residing near the Capitol. The commission would have other powers and duties provided by the commission's enabling act (Senate Bill 1, 72nd Legislature, Regular Session). The amendment would also provide that an increase in the emoluments of the office of Lieutenant Governor would not make a legislator ineligible to serve in the office of Lieutenant Governor.

The proposed amendment will be described on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment creating the Texas Ethics Commission and authorizing the commission to recommend the salary for members of the legislature and the lieutenant governor, subject to voter approval, and to set the per diem for those officials, subject to a limit."

PROPOSITION NO. 7 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 6 proposes a constitutional amendment that would allow the board of trustees of each statewide public retirement system to invest the funds of the system in such manner as the board considers prudent. The board would no longer be limited to investing the funds of the system in securities.

The proposed amendment will be described on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment to allow the board of trustees of a statewide public retirement system to invest the funds of the system in a manner that the board considers prudent."

PROPOSITION NO. 8 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 21 proposes a constitutional amendment that would permit the legislature to create debt by or on behalf of the state if the legislature submitted the debt question to the voters of the state in the form of a proposition and a majority of those voting approved the proposition. The legislature may call the election, by joint resolution approved by at least two-thirds of the members of each house, during any regular session or during any special session if the subject of the proposition is included in the Governor's proclamation for that special session. A proposition must clearly describe the amount and purpose for which debt is to be created and must describe the source of payment for the debt. The amount of debt stated in the proposition may not be exceeded and may not be renewed unless the right to exceed or renew is stated in the proposition. The legislature may enact laws necessary to implement the authority granted by a proposition. A law enacted in anticipation of the election on a proposition is valid if, by its terms, it is enacted subject to approval of the related proposition. State debt that is created following voter approval of a proposition and that is approved by the Attorney General is incontestable for any reason.

The proposed amendment will be described on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment authorizing the voters of this state to consider state debt questions in the form of ballot propositions that must clearly describe the amounts, purposes, and sources of payment of the debt only after approval of the propositions by a two-thirds vote of each house of the legislature."

PROPOSITION NO. 9 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 11 proposes a constitutional amendment that would authorize the commissioner of the General Land Office to issue patents for certain public free school fund land for which there is not a valid transfer of title from either the State or the Republic of Texas to a private party. A patent is a document of title issued by the state. On application to the School Land Board, a person is entitled to receive a patent if: (1) the land is surveyed public free school fund land, (2) the land was not patentable under the law before the adoption of this proposed amendment, (3) the person acquired the land without knowledge of the title defect out of the State of Texas or the Republic of Texas and held the land under color of title, the chain of which dates from at least January 1, 1941, (4) the person has a recorded deed on file in the county courthouse and, in conjunction with his predecessor in interest, has claimed the land for at least fifty years as of January 1, 1991, and (5) the person, in conjunction with his predecessor in interest, for at least 50 years has paid taxes on the land together with all interest and penalties associated with any delinquency. If the applicant is denied a patent, the applicant may file suit against the School Land Board in a district court in the county where the land is located within 60 days from the date of denial. The proposed amendment does not apply to beach land, submerged land, or islands, and may not be used to resolve a boundary dispute. The proposed amendment also does not apply to land found by a court to be state-owned or to land on which the state has given a mineral lease that is in effect when a patent is sought. A patent under this proposed amendment for land within five miles of mineral production shall reserve minerals to the state in the manner provided by law for reservations of minerals in sales to claimants of un-surveyed school land within five miles of production. An application for a patent under this proposed amendment must be filed with the School Land Board before January 1, 1993.

This proposed constitutional amendment is similar to the version of article VII, section 4A, that was in effect between 1981 and 1990. The main difference is that under the earlier version the applicant for a patent to land had to have a chain of title that dated back to at least as early as January 1, 1932.

The proposed amendment will be described on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment authorizing the commissioner of the General Land Office to issue patents for certain public free school fund land held in good faith under color of title for at least 50 years."

PROPOSITION NO. 10 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 15 proposes a constitutional amendment that would allow the legislature to pass general laws to exempt property owned by a nonprofit corporation organized to supply water or provide wastewater service from ad valorem taxation. A nonprofit corporation would be eligible for the exemption if its bylaws provide that on dissolution, the assets remaining after the discharge of the corporation's indebtedness will be transferred to an entity providing water supply or wastewater service, or both, which is exempt from ad valorem taxation. The transferred assets must be property that is reasonably necessary for and used for water supply and wastewater services.

The proposed amendment will be described on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment authorizing the legislature to exempt from ad valorem taxes certain property of a nonprofit corporation that supplies water or provides wastewater service."

PROPOSITION NO. 11 ON THE BALLOT

House Joint Resolution 8 proposes a constitutional amendment that would allow the legislature to pass laws to authorize the State of Texas to operate lotteries and to enter into a contract with one or more legal entities that will operate lotteries on behalf of the State of Texas.

The proposed amendment will be described on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment authorizing a state lottery."

PROPOSITION NO. 12 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 34 proposes a constitutional amendment that would increase the total amount of bonds that may be issued by the Texas Water Development Board to provide wholesale and retail water and wastewater facilities to economically distressed areas of the state. The proposed amendment increases the maximum principal amount of the bonds from 20 percent to 50 percent of the $500 million amount authorized by article III, section 49-4-7, of the Texas Constitution. The proposed amendment would increase the maximum aggregate dollar amount of bonds that the Texas Water Development Board could issue from $100 million to $250 million.

The proposed amendment will be described on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment to increase from 20 percent to 50 percent the percentage of Texas water development bonds previously authorized by Texas voters that may be issued for economically distressed areas."

PROPOSITION NO. 13 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 2 proposes a constitutional amendment that would allow the legislature to pass general laws authorizing Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board or its successor to issue and sell up to $300 million of general obligation bonds to finance education loans to students. The maximum net effective interest rate to be borne by the bonds would be set by law. The amendment would also authorize the legislature to provide for the investment of bond proceeds and to establish an interest and sinking fund to pay the bonds and provide for the investment of such fund. Bonds authorized under this amendment would be paid from the first money coming into the treasury in each fiscal year that is not otherwise appropriated by the constitution, less any amount in an interest and sinking fund established at the end of the preceding year that is pledged to the payment of the bonds or interests.

The proposed amendment will be described on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment providing for the issuance of general obligation bonds not to exceed $300,000,000 to continue existing programs to provide educational loans to students, with repayments of student loans applied toward retirement of the bonds."

Thompson proves big guys can kick, too

By BART HUBBUCH
Dallas Times Herald
PLANO, Texas (AP) - Jeremy Thompson heard the laughter and sensed the funny looks from the stands when he trotted on the field for Plano East Friday.

At 6-5, 200 pounds, Thompson with his 4.6-second speed in the 40-yard dash seems a perfect fit at tight end or safety. Anywhere but kicker, a football world usually dominated by short guys with long, foreign names wearing ill-fitting uniforms and funny face masks.

Garó Yepremian, he isn't. "I look like a lineman out there -

"Too Tall" Jones or something - with a kicking shoe on," Thompson said. "I know I get some pretty funny looks, especially with the holder crouching down. That only makes me look taller.

"I'm sure a lot of people sit there watching, going, 'What's he doing out there?'"

They weren't saying that late Friday night, at least not on the Plano East sideline at Clark Field moments after the Panthers' 17-14 upset of North Garland, then ranked sixth in the area by the Times Herald.

Thompson, a right-footed junior who hadn't played football in nearly two years, had just drilled a 49-yard field goal with no time left that provided the game-winning points.

Talk about nice debuts. What began as a lark during the summer - Thompson considers soccer and basketball his two favorite sports - has made him something of a mini-celebrity in east Plano this week.

"As soon as I kicked it, I knew it was good," Thompson said. "It's like shooting a basketball. But everybody else watched it all the way through. As soon as it did, everybody started mobbing me.

"It was great. I'd started to take my helmet off, but as soon as I saw everybody about to tackle me, I put it back on as fast as I could. I was just in shock."

The same could be said for Plano East coach Mike Bailey, who had heard of Thompson while Thompson was attending Williams High School - a feeder school for Plano East - but didn't expect him to come out for football.

"Our feeder-school coaches kept telling me they had this kid who could kick 55-60 yards," Bailey said. "But I'd also heard he didn't play last year, so I wasn't counting on him coming out. I'll take surprises like that anytime."

Bailey was discounting Thompson for good reason. Despite his excellent size and football blood lines - his father, Don Thompson, was a standout defensive lineman at East Texas State in the early 1970s - Thompson is a much more accomplished soccer and basketball player.

Thompson, who has played soccer for 11 years, the past eight with the Dallas Titans club team that competes regularly in the annual Dallas Cup tournament. He also started at forward on the Williams basketball team the past two years.

"I know it sounds funny coming from somebody in Plano, but I just didn't feel like playing football (last year)," Thompson said. "I wanted to concentrate on soccer because I feel that's going to be the best way of getting a college scholarship."

Now, with efforts of 55 and 60 yards common in practice and a 49-yarder in his first varsity game, Thompson is quickly becoming one of the area's best football kickers.

That was the furthest thing from his mind earlier this summer, when Thompson went to Williams to talk with his former football coach.

"I just started playing around with the football, seeing how far I could kick it," Thompson said. "I hadn't kicked in over a year, but I was hitting them from 55, 60 yards, so I said, 'What the heck.' I thought they'd at least give me a chance."

Bailey gave him a chance all right

- to win the first varsity game he ever suited up for.

The Panthers were ready to settle for a tie after a fourth-and-goal play failed at the North Garland one-yard line. Fortune came moments later when a short Raiders punt gave Plano East the ball with five seconds left.

On came Thompson. What followed already is being referred to simply as "The Kick."

"I just took about two steps and made sure I got a good follow-through," he said. "I didn't kick as hard as I could. All I wanted to do was get it in there and straight. Everything ended up perfect: perfect snap, perfect hold, perfect kick."

Thompson's future with the Panthers, however, might include more than just kicking the ball. Bailey said he is planning to train him as a tight end or defensive back.

"He's not your typical kicker," Bailey said. "When he gets into it and learns everything we're trying to teach him, Jeremy's going to be a player, not just a kicker."

Freshman to be Hog caller

LITTLE ROCK (AP) - A preseason hand injury knocked redshirt freshman Jason Allen out of contention for Arkansas' starting quarterback job. Now healed, and two games into the season, it seems Allen has the upper hand.

But Arkansas football coach Jack Crowe was a little hesitant Wednesday to give Allen the job.

Crowe had Allen and Preston Doyle taking snaps on Wednesday, watching to see who would be at the helm in the Sept. 21 match with Southwestern Louisiana.

"Doyle and Jason both had their moments, but Jason was more consistent," Crowe said after Wednesday's practice.

Crowe said the QB evaluation would continue day-to-day. "We're going to continue on that road until we find what we want offensively," he said.

He said Allen had a good day Tuesday until he ran out of gas because of the heat and other factors. "I like what I saw," Crowe said. "I can't remember the last time we made so few mistakes. His hand seemed sound. His arm and throwing motion are not back to where it was."

Crowe decided to review the quarterbacks after Gary Adams' performance in Arkansas' 17-6 win over Southern Methodist. Adams was good on three of 10 for just 10 yards.

Still, the coach wouldn't eliminate Adams from the race.

Allen and Adams were neck-and-neck for the starting job in the spring. But on the first day of fall practice, Allen injured his hand. Last week, after the cast was removed, he began working on ball-handling drills.

In the Razorbacks' season-opening 31-3 loss to Miami, Adams completed six of 19 passes and missed on all seven attempts in the third quarter. Preston played the fourth quarter and completed two of 12.

"The hurdle in front of us is to create some stability at quarterback," Crowe said Wednesday.

There are no Southwest Conference games this week so Arkansas will remain on top of the standings through the rest of the month.

Asked about being in first place, Crowe said, "I thought we'd get some T-shirts made up."

Seriously, he said, "We're not putting a whole lot of stock in it."

He described the victory over SMU as dominated by the defense and the kicking game, saying it was a disappointment offensively. Arkansas recorded five interceptions

- including a 23-yard touchdown return that secured the victory. Michael James' 56-yard punt return set up the offense's only touchdown of the year.

Asked if the defense, which gave up 360 points during last year's 3-8 season, had turned the corner, Crowe said he didn't know if he had any real answers.

"I do know that we're playing better, that we're closer to the quarterback when he goes to throw and closer to the receiver when the ball gets there," he said.

He said it was obvious against SMU that the defensive unit has character. The Mustangs reached the Arkansas 3, 8, 8 and 14 and came away with two field goals.

"Character wins help your football team," he said.

Prep star seeks dismissal

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) - The lawyer for Arlington Sam Houston running back Jeff Godley says he will ask the district attorney's office to dismiss a theft charge against the player.

Godley, a first-team Associated Press All-State selection last year, is accused of stealing two videocassette recorders from a department store on Aug. 2. The Tarrant County district attorney's office on Tuesday filed a misdemeanor theft charge against the 17-year-old, attorney George Thompson said.

If prosecutors refuse to dismiss the case, Thompson said he will ask that Godley be admitted into a deferred prosecution program, where he would report to county officials for six months.

Joe Hernandez

Primera Iglesia Bautista introduces pastor

By DANEE' WILSON
Lifestyles Editor

Primera Iglesia Bautista of Hereford is proud to announce the arrival of their new pastor, Joe Hernandez, after 18 months without a pastor.

Hernandez came to Hereford in August from Garland where he was involved in church activities and worked in an auto parts store.

"This is my first pastorate," Hernandez said. "I'm not nervous about the job, but I am excited. I've been within the compounds of the church all my life so this is not new to me."

Taking over a church that has gone without a pastor for over a year presents an unusual problem...rebuilding the church.

"My primary goal will be to get the church back into the routine it was in a couple of years ago. I want to reactivate members and programs within the system."

"Next I would like to get the church involved in the community. I want the church to take part in the community, minister to the people of the community. You can't minister to the community without taking part in the community."

"Of course one of the goals has to be evangelism. I want people to know we are here. This church isn't limited to just Baptists. We're here for anyone who needs help."

Hernandez has enjoyed his stay in Hereford.

"I enjoy Hereford," he said. "It was a matter of shifting into first gear. Everything in Dallas is so fast paced. I've joined the booster club and met with other ministers. I'm trying to make myself at home in Hereford. My children enjoy living here. I had a home and was completely moved within one week. God was intervening."

Hernandez has a wife, Elizabeth and two children, Heather, 14 and Joe II, 8.

"We just want the hispanic community to know we're here and available at their disposal. We want to be of help."

The church is located on North Highway 385. It is formally known as Thompson Memorial Baptist Church. The hours are Sunday 9:45 a.m. Sunday School, 11 a.m. worship and 6 p.m. training and worship. The Wednesday prayer meeting is at 7 p.m.

Demos frustrated by candidate's dodging

WASHINGTON (AP) - Frustrated Democrats on the Senate Judiciary Committee say Supreme Court nominee Clarence Thomas is an evasive witness, but no groundswell of opposition to his confirmation seems to be emerging. Several senators were openly skeptical Wednesday over Thomas' insistence that he has no opinion on the 1973 Supreme Court decision legalizing abortion.

If that's so, said Sen. Paul Simon, D-Ill., "he's the only person gathered in the room who does not have an opinion."

Sen. Herb Kohl, D-Wis., added, "I'm concerned about his candor, his willingness to be forthcoming." Kohl was today's leadoff questioner as the hearings entered their third day.

Two pivotal members of the 14-member committee - Howell Heflin, D-Ala., and Arlen Specter, R-Pa. - also voiced concern about Thomas' answers. But the panel's traditional third swing vote, Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., said Thomas was doing well.

Heflin cited the "appearance of a confirmation conversion" and said it may raise questions of Thomas' "integrity and temperament."

But Heflin added, "I am not at this time of any firm opinion one way or the other" on whether Thomas should be confirmed.

And Simon said Thomas' performance thus far "has neither helped him nor hurt him."

Specter blamed fellow committee members more than Thomas in concluding, "We really haven't moved very far in the process."

Thomas, a black federal appeals judge, was picked by President Bush to replace the retiring Thurgood Marshall, the high court's only black justice.

DeConcini said he thought the conservative Thomas "handled the privacy questions very well" without taking a stand on abortion. "I don't see how you could ask him to do anything more."

Thomas expanded earlier testimony by saying Wednesday that he believed the right of marital privacy was "fundamental" - a status that accords it the fullest judicial protection from government intrusion.

But he repeatedly refused to state his views on the 1973 abortion decision based on women's right of privacy. To give such an answer, he said, "would undermine my ability to sit in an impartial way on such an important case."

Thomas, who sat alone at the witness table with no notes or reference materials, also claimed a lack of familiarity with the subject matter when asked about some of his former speeches and articles.

That moved committee Chairman Joseph Biden, D-Del., to give Thomas a stack of the judge's past speeches so the nominee could "help me understand them" during future questioning.

Thomas, testifying calmly but warily, did offer fuller comment on another hot issue before the high court: prayer in public schools.

After Simon discussed the feelings decades ago of a Jewish elementary schoolboy who left the room each day while his classmates recited a prayer, Thomas said, "Any policy of exclusion should be considered inappropriate."

Outside the hearing room, abortion-rights advocates said Thomas should not be allowed to disavow past comments they say show he would vote to ban most, if not all, abortions.

"His most unimpressive testimony poses two equally disturbing possibilities: he is either willfully misleading the committee about his views in order to win confirmation or he is a man whose convictions have shallow roots," said Arthur Kropp of People for the American Way.

Release pleases kidnappers

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - Shiite Muslim kidnappers today expressed support for the U.N. secretary-general's efforts to work out a "comprehensive solution" to the hostage ordeal. Separate factions released photographs of American hostage Terry Anderson and British captive Jack Mann.

The U.N. chief, Javier Perez de Cuellar, was in Iran for talks on an overall deal to free the Westerners, which would likely involve the freeing of some Arab detainees held by Israel and an accounting of Israel's dead and missing in Lebanon.

The latest developments came one day after Israel released 51 prisoners from a jail in south Lebanon and repatriated the remains of nine Shiite Muslim guerrillas. Israel made the moves after receiving definite word that one of its missing men was dead.

The picture of Anderson, accompanied by an Arabic-language statement from Islamic Jihad, or Islamic Holy War, was delivered to a Western news agency's office in Beirut.

"We are fully prepared to extend the required support for him (Perez de Cuellar) to reach the required comprehensive solution," said the typewritten statement.

Islamic Jihad called Israel's prisoner release and body repatriation a day earlier "a positive ... but incomplete step."

Anderson, 43, the chief Middle East correspondent for The Associated Press, is the longest held of the 11 Westerners missing in Lebanon. He was abducted March 16, 1985.

The photo was similar to the one released by Islamic Jihad on Aug. 6. That was the first to show a clean-shaven Anderson in profile.

The Islamic Jihad statement came hours after another hostage-holding faction, the Revolutionary Justice Organization, announced that the 77-year-old Mann was "alive and in good shape," more than two years after he disappeared in Beirut.

The Revolutionary Justice Organization also welcomed the release of the Arab prisoners and expressed renewed hopes of a "happy ending" to the hostage ordeal.

It said its representatives had met with U.N. officials and added that negotiations "have reached a mechanism to release struggling Sheik Abdul-Karim Obeid and other imprisoned brethren stage-by-stage."

Obeid, a Shiite Muslim leader kidnapped by Israel from southern Lebanon in July 1989, is considered the key to any broad swap involving Arab prisoners, Israelis missing in Lebanon and the Western hostages.

"The first stage was completed by the release of today's batch and we hope the other stages will follow soon to end this issue. We shall honor our obligations and commitments so long as the others do the same," the statement said.

Israel radio reported today the Jewish state was willing to release more Arab detainees and make "other gestures" in exchange for information about its missing servicemen.

In Tehran, Perez de Cuellar said he believed he was moving toward a general solution to the hostage crisis.

Perez de Cuellar, the main force in intensified efforts to resolve the hostage ordeal, said of prospects for a broad-based swap: "I am moving in that direction, as you know ... I have already got good results, which I hope will be the beginning."

A published report today quoted a senior U.N. official in Iran's capital as saying that one or more Western hostages could be freed as early as Friday. The New York Times did not identify the official traveling with Perez de Cuellar's delegation in Tehran.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I discovered a pair of high-heeled shoes in my husband's briefcase. After much questioning, "Roy" admitted that he had become terribly depressed when his father passed away 10 years ago and found comfort in dressing up in ladies' clothes.

When I asked him how often he did this, he said, "Sometimes I've gone for two months without dressing up."

I now understand so many things that used to baffle me. For example, Roy's refusal to attend family outings. His pat excuse was, "I have too many things to do in the office." Now I know the man was at home dressing up.

Our sex life has not been very exciting these last few years. I have tried to tell him that I need more attention, but his answer is always the same, "Maybe tomorrow. Right now I'm tired."

I should tell you that Roy is one of the most respected physicians in this city. We have a very solid marriage and he is a terrific father. But I am confused about what to expect in the future regarding my husband's cross-dressing. He says he's been doing it less frequently but I am not sure this is true. I suggested that he get professional counseling, but he insists that sharing his secret with a counselor would be dangerous. I can see how his medical practice would be damaged if the word got out.

I also discovered female hormone pills in Roy's sock drawer. When I asked about them, he said they were for his patients. That got me to do more searching. I then discovered some vials of a substance when he says he injects in his face to fill up the wrinkles. I also ran into several tubes of bikini wax, a box of home electrolysis needles, and catalogs that sell flashy women's clothes, swimsuits, fishnets stockings, black panties and bras.

I am confused and panicked. Can you explain what all of this means? I know nothing about cross-dressing and any information you could give me would be very helpful. Also, what should I do? Divorce is absolutely out of the question. I love Roy and I would never leave him, no matter what.--Somewhere in the Southwest

DEAR SOMEWHERE: Cross-dressers often discover in their teen years, or earlier, that they get pleasure from wearing women's clothes. Many of these males are happily married and are not interested in homosexual relationships. When pressures mount, the cross-dresser feels the need to escape from his troubles, and dressing up gives him a lift.

Roy, however, goes beyond dressing up. He seems to be into needles and pills, which suggests that there is more involved here than just cross-dressing.

Since he will not go for help I hope you will. Surely there is a trustworthy counselor you can talk to about your recent disturbing discovery. Good luck.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The problem I am writing about is not earthshaking but it creates a lot of physical discomfort among males and could be easily rectified.

Please ask shirt manufacturers to put the size and washing instruction labels somewhere besides the back of the neck where they irritate and annoy us. It wouldn't cost anything and would make a lot of people happy.--M.H.F. in Minneapolis

DEAR MINNEAPOLIS: Sounds logical to me. How about the shirttail, Mr. Manufacturer?

Gem of the Day: The problem with bucket seats in automobiles is that not everyone has the same size bucket.

Lonesome? Take charge of your life and turn it around. Write for Ann Landers' new booklet, "How to Make Friends and Stop Being Lonely." Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $4.15 (this includes postage and handling) to: Friends, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

The Lone Star Study Club met for the first time during a covered dish luncheon in the home of Ursalee Jacobson. The group discussed how they spent their summer.

were disturbed by Jacobsen. She explained changes.

It was reported that friends and family of the group visited all the way from Alaska, Colorado and one attended a family reunion in Atlanta, Ga.

Those attending were Betty Jo

Stenholm, Schroeder are Congress' biggest fliers

WASHINGTON (AP) - House members took nearly 4,000 trips at private expense during the last Congress, with Democrats Patricia Schroeder of Colorado and Charles Stenholm of Texas topping the list of frequent fliers.

A survey released today by Public Citizen, a consumer advocacy group, said two-thirds of the congressional trips were paid for by corporations and trade groups, and many were to resorts and vacation spots.

The study said Congress had granted itself a loophole in ethics laws by permitting travel at private expense, and charged that corporations and trade groups used the lure of travel to lobby and influence lawmakers.

The group called for a ban on such travel in its report, "They Love to Fly, and It Shows."

"Many of these trips are nothing more than lobbyist-funded vacations for the nation's lawmakers, a form of legalized bribery," Joan Claybrook, president of Public Citizen, said in releasing the report.

Public Citizen, founded by consumer activist Ralph Nader, analyzed travel disclosure reports that House members, but not senators, are required to file. It examined the 101st Congress, in session in 1989 and 1990.

It found 3,984 trips were taken during the two-year period, and 357 of them were to foreign destinations.

Trip sponsors paid out a total of $4.4 million in honoraria payments to the lawmakers for their appearances. House members by law were allowed to accept up to $26,850 in honoraria through the end of 1990, when acceptance was banned. Honoraria can be donated to charity, as members could do with excess amounts before this year.

Total value of the travel was not available because Congress does not require its members to report the amount of expenses.

Stenholm, a conservative Democrat and member of the House Agriculture Committee, led the list of travel paid for by business interests, with 50 trips. He was followed by Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., chairman of the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee, with 48 business-paid trips. Next were Reps. Jim Bunning, R-Ky., 31 trips; Billy Tauzin, D-La., 31 trips; and Bill Richardson, D-N.M., 29 trips.

Mrs. Schroeder, a liberal and chairwoman of the Select Committee on Children, Youth and Families, led the list in two other major categories: travel paid by ideological, public policy or single-issue groups, and travel paid by educational institutions.

In the ideological category, which included many women's groups, she took 28 trips, a number matched by Rep. Curt Weldon, R-Pa.

She took 39 trips paid for by schools, colleges or universities, more than twice as many as the next legislator.

Combined with other types of trips, that travel put her atop the list of overall travelers, with 98 trips. Next was William Gray, the Pennsylvania Democrat and former House whip whose resignation took effect Wednesday, with 74 trips.

Rostenkowski was third with 53 trips; Stenholm was next with 51; and Weldon was fifth with 40.

Mrs. Schroeder said most of her travel was to unglamorous locations, and usually to meet with students or the public.

Denise Crenwelge, press secretary to Stenholm, said much of his travel was related to the 1990 farm bill. She defended the travel as representing his effort to inform and educate agricultural business groups.

Illness caused by uncooked food

By Sandra Avant
COLLEGE STATION -- Uncooked seafood dishes are tempting treats--but not the safest, according to a seafood specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Some people enjoy eating sashimi, sushi and ceviche, but the risks of foodborne illness are greatest when seafood is eaten raw, said Annette Reddell Hegen, Extension seafood consumer education specialist with the Texas Marine Advisory Service.

To play it the safest, cook all fish and shellfish before eating them and exercise special care in handling.

"Just as the consumption of rare meat, raw eggs and raw milk carries a risk of foodborne illness, so does eating raw fish, oysters, clams and mussels," she said. "Parasites too small to see may be present in raw seafood."

These parasites can be destroyed by cooking or hot smoking the fish, or by freezing it for at least 72 hours, she said. However, parasites may survive such procedures as brining, pickling, cold smoking and marinating.

In addition to parasites, a common saltwater microorganism, vibrio vulnificus, is carried at times by oysters, particularly in summer months in Gulf Coast waters, Hegen said. The organism can cause severe illness and death for individuals with certain medical conditions. People with chronic liver disease or weakened immune systems should not eat raw or partially cooked oysters.

Raw seafood causes illness if it has spoiled or been contaminated, Hegen said. Illness also can result from eating seafood that contains toxins produced naturally in a fish.

"People also become ill if they are allergic to a species of fish, raw or cooked," she said. "This is a food allergy that is often mistaken for food poisoning."

Seafood safety begins at the point of purchase, Hegen said. Consumers can help prevent foodborne illness by following these tips when buying, storing and preparing seafood:

*Make sure shellfish are alive when purchased. Never accept dead oysters, mussels or clams unless they're cooked or the meat is shucked and chilled.

*When catching live seafood along the coast, make sure the waters are approved for harvest by checking with local health officials or calling the Texas Department of Health in Austin at (512)458-7277.

*Store seafood at the right temperature to control bacteria. Keep fresh, pasteurized or smoked seafood products refrigerated at 32 degrees to 38 degrees. Freeze raw seafood that will not be used within two days. For seafood eaten raw, hard freeze it for seven days to reduce the risk of illness.

*Keep live lobsters, crabs, clams, oysters and mussels in a refrigerator. Cover the fish with damp paper towels--don't put them in airtight plastic bags or containers. Do not cook or eat shellfish that have died during storage.

*Thaw frozen seafood in the refrigerator or in ice cold water--not at room temperature, when bacteria multiply quickly.

*Do not cross-contaminate raw and cooked foods. Wash hands and utensils after touching the food and sanitize cutting boards.

*Cook fish until it turns opaque in color and reaches an internal temperature of 145 degrees. Follow package directions when cooking or heating processed frozen foods.

*If buying from roadside seafood vendors, make sure the product is fresh, well iced, and that the smell is not offensive.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: I am 54 years old. Two years ago, after not menstruating for a year, I started taking hormones -- Premarin and Provera. Of course, my periods started again. The hormones help my hot flashes and some other symptoms, but I do get very depressed at times and my periods are still quite heavy and last eight to 10 days. It gets tiresome. How long will I continue to have monthly periods? Do I have to take hormones the rest of my life for osteoporosis or how long can I take them?

DEAR READER: Cyclical hormone replacement with both estrogen (Premarin) and progestins (Provera) will cause withdrawal bleeding in about two-thirds of women. It is usually less than a woman had with her normal cycles before her menopause, and it is usually of shorter duration. Heavy periods of eight to 10 days duration does not sound usual. In the women who have withdrawal bleeding, it will stop in about 40 percent, even if the dosage schedule of hormones is not changed.

However, your story of prolonged heavy bleeding suggests that additional investigation as to the cause is indicated. Simply attributing excessive bleeding to hormone replacement could be a mistake. If you have not talked to your doctor about it, you should.

Your heavy bleeding may also be related to the amount of hormones you are taking. Sometimes an adjustment in hormones will improve the situation.

You will want to know more about the menopause and why many women need hormone replacement, so I'm sending you Special Report 97, The Menopause and Beyond. Others who want this report can send $3 with a long, stamped (52 cents), self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/97, P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077. The most important time for hormone replacement to prevent bone loss is the 10-year span at the beginning of the menopause and afterward. But there are other reasons for continuing to take hormone replacement in many cases. Recent studies suggest that estrogen replacement may help to prevent heart disease in women.

Depression may be related to your hormone replacement. A change in medication may help in some cases.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I'm a confused woman going through the menopause. I get very long, hot flashes and perspire a lot. My periods have stopped and I still feel the bloating. I am in my late 40s. I have not had a physical in five years because of childhood memories and bad doctor experiences.

DEAR READER: A very wise young lady once told me that while she may have had a difficult childhood which she had no control over, now that she was an adult, it was her fault if she allowed herself to have an unhappy life. There is no reason why you cannot see a doctor who will provide proper professional care for you.

You need an annual examination to prevent, or for early detection of, such serious problems as cancer of the cervix. This is the time when you need support for the menopause. Your hot flashes should be controlled with adequate estrogen replacement, and that will help to protect you from bone loss. Later in life, you may regret not doing this. You also need a regular examination for early detection of possible cancer of the breast. Read the report on the menopause for a better understanding and get under a doctor's care for proper management.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I am 88 years old and have been on hydrochlorothiazide for blood pressure for a long time. About six years ago my doctor also put me on digoxin. Later a druggist gave me Lanoxin in place of the digoxin. When I take both the Lanoxin and the hydrochlorothiazide, they hurt me. I have indigestion and dizziness, also I get very short of breath. What is the cause of this and should my medication be changed?

DEAR READER: Lanoxin is a trade name for digoxin, so you are getting the same medicine. This is the same medicine that was used, for a different reason, to treat President Bush's atrial fibrillation initially.

You do need to discuss your reaction with your doctor. Too much digoxin can cause indigestion and dizziness. You are more likely to have such a reaction when you are also taking diuretics. You most likely have a difficult problem to manage and you may need some adjustment in the frequency or amount of your medications.

Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers with health questions. You can write to him at P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077. Although Dr. Lamb cannot reply to all letters personally, he will respond to selected questions in future columns.

Social Security

By JIM TALBOT
District Manager In Amarillo

I read an item about Social Security in a recent financial column that gave me great concern. It said that many widows experience unnecessary financial hardship because they don't know about the benefits Social Security provides for widows.

This is important to you too if you are a widow and you haven't started receiving Social Security yet, or you know someone in those circumstances. I want to point out that, although I refer only to widows, the law applies equally to women and men, but widowers represent less than 1 percent of the total number of people who get these kind of Social Security benefits.

The main difference between the benefits payable to widows and those payable to retirees and their spouses is that widows can start getting their Social Security benefits at age 60 rather than age 62. And if a widow is disabled, she can start getting her benefits as early as age 50. A widow can also get Social Security benefits if she is caring for the deceased worker's child who is under age 16 or disabled.

If a widow starts her benefits at age 60, she gets a smaller amount than she would if she waited until age 65. Although generally, the fact that she gets benefits over a longer period of time more than compensates for the reduction.

A widow who has worked under her own Social Security number can choose to take her widows benefits at age 60 and then switch to her own retirement benefits at age 65 if it will give her more money.

A widow who remarries after age 60 can continue to receive her widows benefits. Widows benefits are also available to divorced women if the couple were married at least 10 years.

To apply for widows benefits, you will need your own Social Security number and your husband's. You also need your birth certificate, marriage certificate, and the death certificate. A divorced widow also needs to furnish the divorce decree. If you need help getting any of these documents, you can call our office for information.

The Amarillo Social Security office is located at 3501 West 45th. The telephone number is 376-2241.

BURBANK, Calif. (AP) - Fred Savage and the rest of the cast of ABC's "Wonder Years" have been expelled from John Burroughs High School.

The school district decided filming was too disruptive.

Much of the "Wonder Years" shooting over the past three years was done during school hours, forcing students to maneuver around cables, cameras and crews.

"I thought we had been a very good neighbor," said Ken Topolsky, supervising producer. "Why we were able to do this for a couple of years and now we can't do it anymore is annoying. It's the inconsistency that bothers us."

Over the years, the show has paid the district $30,000 in location fees.

Still, Richard Tighe, assistant superintendent of business services, defended the decision.

"We have a firm policy that filming cannot interfere with our school programs," he said. "Yes, we need the money, but we're in the business of educating children first." Teachers and parents had complained about the filming.

Home health care coverage can make recovery more comfortable.

Full recovery from a serious illness can take much longer than a stay in the hospital... especially if the patient is elderly. Recuperation at home can be more comfortable and secure. It can also cost your parents or your family a lot of money for which Medicare does not reimburse you.

That's why the CNA Insurance Companies, one of several major companies our independent agency represents, created a new Home Health Care Plan. It provides coverage your parents and your own family may need to help pay the costs of professional health services performed at home.

Contact our agency for a discussion that can make your whole family more comfortable about the future.
