County okays transfer

By CINDY POTTORFF
Staff Writer

Deaf Smith county commissioners decided to transfer $10,000 from the general fund into Precinct Three's road and bridge fund during their meeting on Monday at the courthouse in Hereford.

Precinct Three's road and bridge fund has been experiencing problems with cash flow since the beginning of the year even though it has remained within budget, explained Commissioner Troy Don Moore.

The $10,000 will be transferred back into the general fund in April, using a certificate of deposit for $12,500 which will mature at that time. The $2,500 surplus will be put in a money market fund to be used as a contingency fund for Precinct Three's road and bridge fund, according to County Treasurer Vesta Mae Nunley.

The county has restructured its ad valorem tax rate, Nunley said. In the past, surplus tax revenues were automatically put into the road and bridge fund. Now, surplus tax revenues go into the general fund. The county is still adjusting to the new system and that is why the $10,000 transfer to Precinct Three's Road and Bridge Fund was necessary.

Nunley said $100,000 has been collected into a holding fund for the county's health insurance.

"It looks like the health insurance is doing exactly what we think it should do," commented County Judge Tom Simons.

Commissioner John Stribling asked if the county could also self-insure for worker's compensation. Stribling suggested that if the county self-insures it pay to an umbrella limit, using an insurance pool to cover unlimited liability claims.

Although Deaf Smith County has had few worker's compensation claims, it pays the same rates for insurance that areas with higher experience rates do. Efforts to find more competitive coverage have failed.

"I think we're paying somebody else's claims," said Simons.

Nunley will find out if Stribling's suggestion is feasible and report back to commissioners.

Stribling also questioned the way monies in the county's prescription account are being spent. He noted that four bottles of Keri lotion were purchased through the prescription account last month, costing the county $21.54. Stribling questioned whether the county should be buying hand lotion at all. He also noted that the prescription account costed the county around $1,000 for one month, an amount he thinks is too high.

The other commissioners agreed with Stribling.

The county is required to provide for the health care of inmates classified as "indigent", which is a major source of costs to the county. Simons will contact the Texas Association of Counties to find out what precisely "indigent health care" is defined as. The commissioners decided that if "indigent health care" could be defined, perhaps some of the county's costs associated with maintaining it could be avoided.

The commission instructed jailers to formulate a policy for purchasing food, getting at least three telephone quotes as required by law.

The commission discussed buying a plumbing snake for the jail.

County commissioners also toured the jail. On the tour, a jailer pointed out a number of things the jail needs, including new coveralls for the inmates, to fix or replace a monitor, one new camera, more padding for the restraint cell, new mattresses and pillows, some of the plumbing needs to be repaired, and parts of the interior need to be sandblasted and repainted.

Voters at polls today

Voters in Hereford and around the state are at the polls today to decide two local contested races and to consider a batch of candidates for statewide offices.

Polls will be open until 7 p.m. today. The polling places will likely not be as busy as they could be with a heavy turnout of voters for the absentee voting period that ended Friday.

Over 900 persons cast early ballots, taking advantage of the new "no excuses" absentee voting rule. There are just over 9,000 registered voters in Deaf Smith County.

In Deaf Smith County only two races are contested, both on the Democratic ballot.

Precinct Two Commissioner Austin Rose Jr. faces Lupe Chavez. The winner of that race will be challenged by Larry Malamen in the general election.

Precinct Four Commissioner Johnny Latham is unopposed in the Democratic primary, but will face Ken Rogers in November.

The other locally contested race in today's election is for the unexpired term of county tax assessor-collector. Margaret Perez, Eileen Behunin and Betty Lou Martin are vying for that office. Perez was appointed last year to fill the unexpired term of the late Neil Miller. Both Perez and Behunin have worked in the office before; Martin works for the Hereford Independent School District.

Democratic incumbent Vesta Mae Nunley and Republican Kyla McDowell are unopposed in the primaries, but will face each other in November for the county treasurer's seat.

The statewide ballot features gubernatorial races in both parties, each seeking to fill the seat to be vacated by Bill Clements. There are seven candidates listed on the ballot in each party.

Locally, both parties will be electing new county chairmen. James McDowell is the only listed candidate for Republican chief, replacing Connie McGill. Loyd Newton and Al Dziuk have announced as write-in candidates for county Democratic chairman.

There are five locations for casting votes in today's Republican primary. Persons in Precincts 1 and 7 vote at the Bull Barn; in Precinct 2 at the courthouse; in Precincts 3 and 8 at Hereford Junior High; and in Precincts 4, 5, 6 and 9 at the Hereford Community Center. Precinct conventions will be held at each of the polling places following the closing of the polls and completion of poll workers' duties.

Democrats will vote at: Box 1, at the Bull Barn; Box 2, commissioners' courtroom; Box 3, Hereford Junior High; Box 4, Hereford Community Center; Box 5, Palo Duro Baptist Church; Box 6, Ford Community Building; Box 7, Dawn Community Building; Box 8, Walcott School; and Box 9, Simms Community Building.

Following the polls' closing, Democrats will hold their precinct conventions at the same place where they voted.

Democrats are also voting on three non-binding referenda. They include limitations on trial by jury; the right of the legislature to nominate and elect judges; and insurance reform.

Demo race a dead heat

AUSTIN (AP) - Three Democrats waged a bare-fisted struggle for the gubernatorial nomination in today's primary, while a millionaire oilman making his first run for office was expected to win the GOP nomination outright.

President Bush, who maintains a residence in Houston, told reporters in Washington today that he voted in the Texas Republican primary.

"I will not tell you who I voted for. I hope everybody understands," he said.

The president also said a candidate's past drug use should not necessarily be held against him or her. The drug issue has been a hot one in the Democratic gubernatorial race because candidate Ann Richards has refused to answer yes or no when asked if she's ever used illegal drugs.

Her main opponents, former Gov. Mark White and Attorney General Jim Mattox, both have said they have not used illegal drugs and criticized Ms. Richards for refusing to answer the question.

"I think that's a matter for the voters to decide," Bush said today. "But in my view, if somebody used marijuana, sometime ago, and is not into anything of that nature, why, no, I don't think that should be held against them."

When asked how he'd feel if the drug were stronger than marijuana, Bush said, "You're getting me involved in the Texas primary, something I don't want to do."

Turnout was brisk this morning in Dallas and Fort Worth, and fair in Houston, said officials at polling places, although there were no local predictions on the day's turnout from voting in the first hours at the polls.

"Our telephones have been very busy so far this morning, but it's hard to gauge the turnout," said Mary Kay Near with the elections department of the Dallas County clerk's office.

In El Paso, voting was light in the first hour of balloting, said Robert Rodriguez, El Paso County election clerk.

In Austin, Travis County Clerk Dana DeBeauvoir said turnout is light in some precincts and heavy in others. "It appears we are headed toward our prediction of a 39-percent turnout."

The secretary of state's office predicted a turnout of 2.1 million to 2.6 million of the 8.3 million eligible voters, who can vote in either primary. Each party's choice needs more than 50 percent of the vote.

Board considers stadium addition; TEA advisors here tonight

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

Hereford school board members will likely decide tonight whether or not to add 1,000 seats to the home seating at Whiteface Stadium to better accommodate fans.

The board heard reasons for and against the addition at a special meeting held Monday at the school administration building.

For the last three seasons, all but two games have been sold out. For most games, student tickets have been "oversold"; there have been more student tickets sold for games than there are student seats.

That has created problems for students wanting to attend games and have seats in the permanent seats on the home side. Last season temporary bleachers were installed for additional student seating but were mostly unused.

Representatives of the board of directors of the Whiteface Booster Club attended the meeting to support the idea of expanding the stadium.

"Overcrowding has been a concern of the booster club for some time," said Temple Abney, the club's president. Abney said the club felt that athletics were an important part of education whether students participated in athletics, band, drill team or other activities, or if they were spectators.

"It is not fair to ask students, fans or the band to be in temporary seating," Abney said.

The board is examining two options if the stadium is expanded: using an aluminum, enclosed frame, or a concrete base with aluminum bleachers like the rest of the stadium. The aluminum plan would cost about $104,000. A cost estimate is to be given to the board tonight, but is speculated to be $150,000.

Most of the booster club members and most board members felt the expansion would pay for itself, although it could force a hike in the price of season tickets from $15 for five games to $25 for five games. With 1,807 season tickets sold last year, a $2 increase in per game tickets would bring in $18,070 in new revenue and would pay for the expansion in about 10 years.

Board members Kathy Moore and Shirley Wilson both said they had problems with the expansion although they realized the importance of the athletic program for the whole community. Moore said she would rather the community decide the issue instead of just the seven-member school board.

"I think if you explain that we are not paying for this with taxes, that it is paid for by football fans, the public will accept it," said board member Sylvia Flores. Flores also said she felt there would be no problem with increasing season ticket prices.

"There's not a football fan in Hereford that wouldn't pay another $10 for season tickets," said board member Dennis Newton.

The board will probably decide the matter tonight.

The board, in an informal poll of the members by President John Fuston, decided to delay consideration of a possible bond issue for necessary improvements at Hereford High School. However, a consulting architect, with no cost or promise of future consideration, will do a cost analysis on needed repairs in the older part of the high school which is almost 40 years old.

"I don't think we can do anything on a bond at this time," said Coneway. He cited the special legislative session that is meeting on school finance. "We need to see what the legislature is going to do."

The board also agreed to have a summer food program again this year, but will offer only lunch instead of lunch and breakfast as was offered in 1989. The district served an average of 594 lunches a day but just 107 breakfasts.

The board also adopted a resolution submitted by the Texas Education Agency that clarifies the role of the superintendent as the chief administrative officer of the district. Two TEA representatives are to meet with the board tonight to review the recent accreditation report.

The board also called the trustee election for May 5 (the terms of Dennis Newton, John Fuston and Sylvia Flores are up this year); approved the recommendations of the textbook committee for the 1990-91 school year; and extended the contracts of all administrators.

Teacher contracts will be reviewed tonight.

DSEC meeting slated tonight

One million dollars will be returned to Deaf Smith Electric Cooperative members during an annual meeting tonight at the Bull Barn, and more than 1,000 people are expected to attend the dinner meeting.

The million dollars is composed of $744,000 in capital credits from 1974-75 and an interim refund of $256,000. The meeting and dinner starts at 5 p.m. and will be highlighted by drawings for door prizes, election of two directors, and special entertainment.

Door prizes to be given away at the meeting total more than $1,000, including a color television set. A short business meeting will follow the entertainment for the evening.

The Florida Boys, famous international gospel group, will begin entertaining immediately following the meal of fish, chicken and beef. The Florida Boys have been singing as a group for more than 40 years. They were hosts of the most successful gospel music television programs in history--the Gospel Singing Jubilee.

The group appears at concerts about 50 weeks of the year all across the United States, as well as foreign countries. They were the first Southern gospel group signed by Canaan Records. The group co-hosts a singing cruise to the Bahamas each year and performs at most of the key events in Southern gospel music year after year.

Gorbachev refuses Lithuanian recognition

MOSCOW (AP) - Despite threats by legislators from independence-minded republics to try to scuttle his plan for a powerful presidency, Mikhail S. Gorbachev took a firm line today against secession.

He termed Lithuania's declaration of independence Sunday "illegal and invalid" and said Moscow would not directly negotiate with any of the three Baltic states on the independence for which they are clamoring.

"We cannot talk about negotiations. You carry out negotiations with a foreign country," he told the Congress of People's Deputies.

On Monday, a congress of popularly elected representatives in Estonia named a delegation to negotiate that Baltic republic's independence with the Kremlin.

Deputies from the Baltic states and three other republics with strong independence movements - Moldavia, Azerbaijan and Georgia - were expected today to try to deny Gorbachev the necessary two-thirds majority he needs to create the more powerful presidency.

President Gorbachev says it is needed to keep the crumbling union intact as he presses ahead with reforms. But opponents say it would give the president dangerous dictatorial powers.

Also expected to be brought to a vote today in the Congress was a proposal to strip the Communist Party of its constitutionally guaranteed monopoly on power and substitute a multiparty system. That proposal was expected to sail through the special session.

Also on the Congress' agenda were constitutional amendments to allow individuals to own factories and lease land.

Progressive Moscow deputy Alexei Yablokov said Monday that legislators from Georgia, Moldavia, Azerbaijan, Estonia and Latvia would abstain from the vote to create the expanded presidency.

Lithuanians were so dismayed by the presidency proposal that they rushed to declare independence before it passed.

Gorbachev said a legislative commission was studying the Lithuanian problem and that he would consider the status quo not to have changed "until the entire situation is cleared up."

"We welcome the fact that deputies from all the republics, including Lithuania, are in attendance," he said.

Testing of experimental AIDS vaccine expanding

WASHINGTON (AP) - Testing of an experimental vaccine on California AIDS patients will be expanded and extended to individuals who are infected with the AIDS virus but have not developed symptoms of the disease.

The Food and Drug Administration on Monday granted permission for further testing of the vaccine developed by Dr. Jonas Salk.

The vaccine, which uses an inactivated virus, is being tested as a treatment for AIDS rather than as an agent to prevent someone from acquiring the fatal disease, which destroys the body's ability to fight infection.

Researchers are trying to find out whether the inactivated virus will cause the body to produce specific cells, called T cells, that destroy other cells infected with the human immunodeficiency virus, or HIV.

They hope that by stimulating the immune system's response to HIV, the vaccine might halt or reverse spread of the virus in newly infected people - those who have the virus but have not developed symptoms of AIDS or AIDS-related complex.

"This vaccine is for treatment" of AIDS, said Dr. Janet Woodcock, director of the FDA's division of biological investigational new drugs.

"Use of this to prevent acquiring (AIDS) is a totally different question."

But she added: "Trials like this in the HIV-infected could yield information that could help design trials for the uninfected."

Work has been accelerating on developing a vaccine to prevent AIDS, but such a vaccine is at least 10 years away from being marketed, she added.

researchers will test different doses of the vaccine.

The California trials, which is testing individuals who have AIDS, were approved under a state law that allows such testing strictly within California.

Dominguez, Flood attend Young Leaders Conference

Hereford High School students, Benny Dominguez and Brandon Flood, recently attended the 1990 National Young Leaders Conference. The youths were among approximately 400 outstanding high school juniors and seniors from around the country who were selected for the unique honor based on demonstrated academic achievement, leadership and citizenship.

Dominguez, a HHS senior, is the son of Bill and Linda Dominguez of 306 Norton. Flood, a junior at HHS, is the son of Ernest and Carmen Flood of Route 4, Hereford.

The theme of the conference was "The Leaders of Tomorrow Meeting the Leaders of Today." Throughout the six-day event, the scholars met with key leaders and newsmakers from the three branches of government, the media and the diplomatic corps.

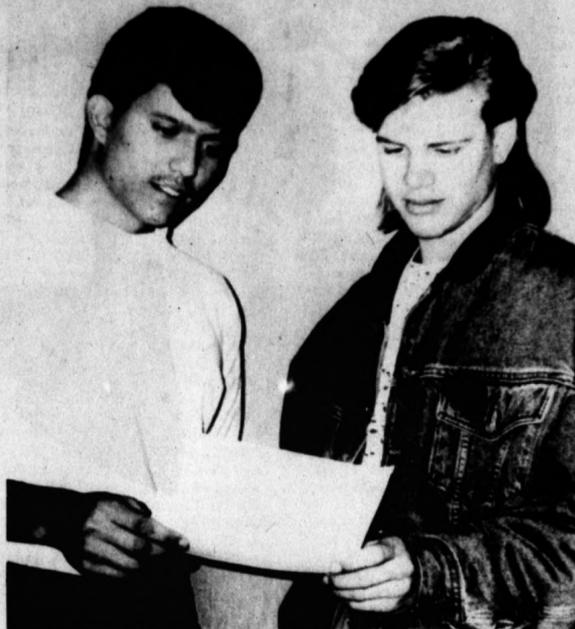

Highlights of the program included a breakfast panel discussion, led by prominent journalists at the National Press Club; welcoming remarks from a member of Congress on the floor of the United States House of Representatives; and a government relations forum comprised of lobbyists from various corporations and public interest groups. A visit to a diplomatic embassy and a State Department briefing were also included among the week's activities.

The Hereford youths were also given the opportunity to meet with Senator Lloyd Bentsen, Senator Phil Gramm and Representative Larry Combest. Culminating the National Young Leaders Conference was the Mock Congress on National Service in which the scholars assumed the roles of United States representatives by debating, lobbying and voting on proposed volunteer service legislation.

The conference was sponsored by the Congressional Youth Leadership Council. Founded in 1985, the Council is a non-profit, non-partisan educational organization committed to recognizing outstanding youth and providing them with a "hands-on" civics learning experience in the nation's capital.

"We firmly believe that by touching one life, the National Young Leaders Conference enriches thousands more. Scholars return to their home communities charged with the lifelong duty of leading all Americans to better understand their rights and responsibilities in this participatory democracy," expressed Council co-founders, Barbara Harris and Richard Rossi. Joining the Council in its commitment to educational excellence is the Honorary Congressional Board of Advisors comprised of over 300 members of the United States Congress.

Youths return

Home dental care lacking

A new survey has revealed that less than 20 percent of the American population change toothbrushes regularly enough to ensure adequate oral hygiene.

The study discovered that almost a quarter of people questioned only replace their toothbrushes once a year. One in three Americans change toothbrushes every six months. Dental research has shown that the plaque removing ability of a toothbrush drops markedly after only one month.

Experts claim that most people do not have high enough standard of oral hygiene. There also is a lack of understanding that the purpose of brushing and flossing is to remove plaque which is labeled the number one dental problem by the American Dental Association (ADA). The most effective method of removing plaque from teeth and gums is by toothbrushing. However, research reveals that:

-Many people are wasting time brushing their teeth with toothbrushes far too old to effectively remove plaque;

-Although dentists recommend brushing for at least three to five minutes for adequate plaque removal, clinical trials show that brushing times average far less;

-Studies show that hard-to-brush areas are particularly prone to plaque build up;

-Dentists recommend brushing after every meal, but research shows that almost half of all Americans brush less than twice a day.

"The most important weapon against plaque is the toothbrush," said a spokesperson from Pfizer's Oral Care Division. "We believe that the key to effective plaque control lies in the consistent removal of plaque through a conscientious daily home care regimen, but because most people just don't do a good enough job, they should use a pre-brushing dental rinse.

A pre-brushing plaque removing dental rinse works to help loosen and remove plaque, thereby increasing the plaque removing ability of the toothbrush.

In addition to regular visits to the dentist, and as a guide to good home care, the Oral Care Division recommends a simple, three-step home care regimen for improved plaque control:

1. Rinse with pre-brushing plaque removing dental rinse.
2. Brush carefully to remove additional plaque from tooth surfaces.
3. Floss to remove additional plaque from between the teeth and below the gum line.

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) - U.S. Sen. Bob Kerrey has renewed his acquaintance with actress Debra Winger, lately divorced from Timothy Hutton, said a Kerrey aide.

Miss Winger and her son, Noah, were spending several days in Omaha this week during the Senate recess, said Steve Jarding, Kerrey's press aide.

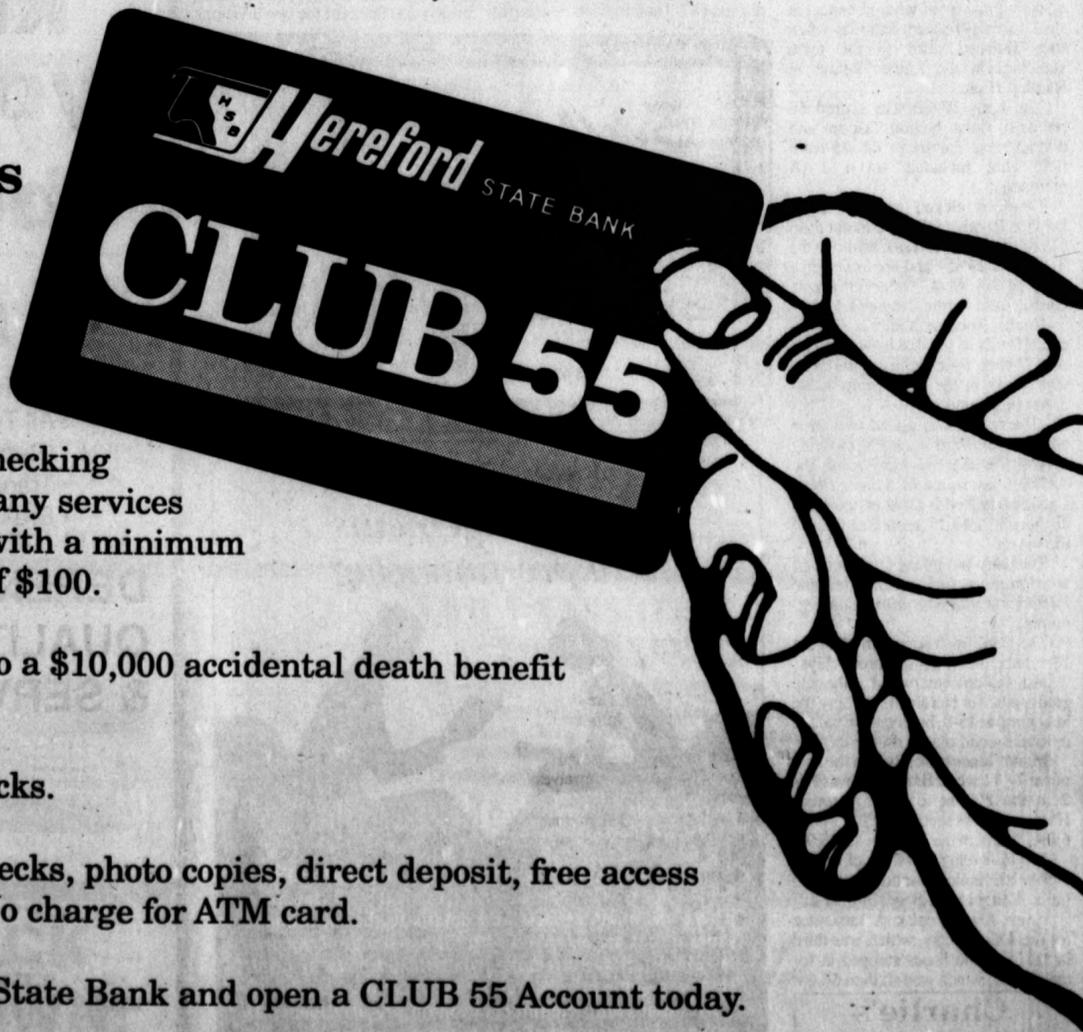

Then-Gov. Kerrey met Miss Winger in 1983 when she was filming "Terms of Endearment" in Lincoln. Their love affair ended in the fall of 1985, but Kerrey and Miss Winger remained friends, Jarding said.

In 1986, Miss Winger married Hutton. The couple had Noah a year later. Hutton, who starred the film "Ordinary People," filed for divorce in December.

Miss Winger is a business partner with Kerrey in the Prairie Life Center, a fitness center in Omaha.

Sandies sweep DSCCCI boys' track team championships

The Amarillo High Sandies blew through a rainy Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Invitational boys track and field meet Saturday at Whiteface Stadium, claiming team championships in all three divisions by healthy margins.

In the varsity division, the Plainview Bulldogs were the only competition the Sandies had in the 10-team field. The two teams combined to win 11 of the 16 events, but the Sandies won six, including both relays, and finished with 183 points to Plainview's 136.

The host-team Hereford Whitefaces finished fifth in the team standings with a season-high 38 points. The Herd entered only 12 seniors in the varsity division, but had at least one entry qualify for the finals in every event entered.

Tate Smith led the Herd's effort, placing second in the long jump at 19 feet, 7 1/2 inches, third in the high jump at 6-2 on a slick track and third in the 110-meter high hurdles with a personal-best time of 15.73 seconds to account for 20 of the team's points.

Pole vaulter Brad Mason added four more points to the Herd's total by clearing 12-6 for fourth place while Phillip Betzen had his best throw of the season (134-9 1/2) for fourth in the discus. Blas Cantu added another fourth-place finish with a 52.16 clocking in the 400-meter dash.

In the JV division, Hereford was the closest anyone came to giving the Sandies a close race. The Herd JV posted 111 points in the team standings, but Amarillo High almost doubled that with 220 points.

High jumper Sean Smith made the most of the bad weather when rain forced the event to be moved into the Herd's workout barn. Smith had a best-ever jump of 6-4 to win and set a new meet record for the division, breaking the old mark of 6-2 set in

The Herd JV also picked up wins in the 200 meters, shot put and discus.

Twins Mike and Mark Daniel took the gold medals in the weight events with Mike winning the shot at 42-1 while Mark claimed the discus at 125-8 3/4. T.J. Sample added a second place in the shot at 41-10 with Mark Daniel fourth at 40-11. Ben Weatherly grabbed the silver medal in the discus with a toss of 124-9 1/4.

Alvaro Avila had the Herd's other win, outracing the field in the 200 in 24.53 with teammate Larry Brown finishing sixth in 25.53. Avila also took second in the long jump at 18-0 while Leo Brown was fourth at 17-6. Leo Brown added another silver medal for the Herd with a 37-4 1/2 effort in the triple jump.

Cody High and Chris Steward came across the line fourth and fifth in the 300 hurdles, High in 44.25 and Steward in 44.82.

Both Browns, Avila and Steward teamed in the sprint relay for third, bringing the baton around in 46.52.

High stepped in for Larry Brown on the mile relay team, which was also third with a time of 3:43.45.

The Herd freshmen finished sixth with 47 points in the 10-team field.

Sprinter Shawn Fogo paced the frosh with a win in the 200, clocking 24.94, and second in the 100 in 11.79 as well as anchoring the sprint relay to second in 46.98.

Noah Garcia, Quincy Curtis and Michael Ramirez joined Fogo for the 4X100 and teamed with Pedro Dominguez to finish fifth in the 4X400 in 3:57.31.

Since this was the first year for the freshman division, all first place efforts were recorded as meet records. Fogo claimed a share of the 100-meter dash mark with his preliminary time of 11.77, which was the winning time in the finals.

Winning form

Naomi Grijalva of the Hereford Lady Whitefaces watches a shot head for the eighth green during Friday's first round of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Invitational golf tournament at Pitman Municipal Golf Course. Grijalva overcame Saturday's rainy conditions to claim medalist honors by four strokes.

Grijalva wins girls' medalist race in DSCCCI golf tourney

Naomi Grijalva of the Hereford Lady Whitefaces posted the second-best score in each round of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Invitational tournament, finishing both days one stroke behind a member of the Pampa Lady Harvesters.

Fortunately for Grijalva, it was two different golfers that shot the better scores, enabling the senior to claim medalist honors in the tournament played at Pitman Municipal Golf Course.

Grijalva added an 86 on the second day to finish at 174, four strokes ahead of Pampa's Kristen Largin.

Largin charged hard in the final round, shooting an 85. But a first-round 93, Grijalva's consistent play and a rainy morning were too much to overcome.

First-day leader Kelly Harris of Pampa fell off the pace with a 96 Saturday to finish nine strokes back and the Lady Harvesters' Deana Pulse, who was third after the first round at 89, slumped to 100 on Saturday.

Grijalva picked up only one birdie all day, the par-4 fifth, but had four pars and only one hole over five strokes the entire round, taking an eight on the par-5 17th.

In the team standings, Pampa managed to place four players in the top seven for the tournament and finished at 735, 58 strokes ahead of Hereford.

The Lady Whitefaces moved into second when Borger, which shot 386 Friday, skied to 410 on Saturday. Hereford picked up a total of 11 strokes on the Lady Bulldogs to claim second by three shots.

Hereford's B girls finished sixth at 912, led by Cecelia Albracht's 211.

In the boys' division, Canyon's Chuck Tucker held on to claim the medalist title, adding a 74 to his first-round 70 to win by two strokes over teammate John Dawson and Randall's Chris Ray.

Ray and Dawson suffered no ill effects from playing in the rain as both matched their first-round 73s with the same scores Saturday. Ray claimed second place in the standings by winning a one-hole playoff.

Three Canyon players finished in the top seven to give the Eagles a 618 and an eight-stroke victory over Levelland, which had three of the top eight individual scores.

The Hereford A boys finished fourth at 662, 14 strokes behind the Raiders. Anthony Gale led the Herd with a 163 while teammates Robert Jones and Jayson Mines both shot 165 for the two days.

The Herd's B team finished sixth at 689, 12 shots behind Perryton. Keith Kelso led the way with his 167 while Mikel Walsler added a 171.

Herd game moved to AHS

The Hereford Whitefaces' baseball game against Amarillo High has been moved to Sandie Field in Amarillo because of wet field conditions at Whiteface Field. Game time is 4:30 p.m. today.

The Herd, which is coming off its first win (7-1 over Borger in the washed-out Dumas Invitational Tournament) will open the District 1-4A season Saturday with a 1 p.m. start at Pampa. The Herd will host Canyon at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday in the home opener.

Herd coach T.R. Sartor said the squad's performance against Borger was much needed.

"We just came out and decided to play good ball Friday," Sartor said. "I was pumped up about it and the kids were pumped up."

Sartor added that the confidence gained from the win will give the Herd a boost going into the district schedule.

"It was the first time we've had that kind of attitude this year," he said. "If we can have that on a consistent level, we're going to be tough. We'll need to do that again against Amarillo and continue it all season."

Sartor said the Herd got tough when it needed to Friday, twice leaving the Bulldogs scoreless after the bases were loaded with one out.

"Our pitching and defense really bore down in those two situations," he said. "Then we came up with a couple of big innings on offense before it started raining."

That rain forced the game to be called after five innings and caused the cancellation of the entire tourney.

Girls 3rd at Raider Relays

Frosh tie for JV team title

The Hereford Lady Whitefaces got a sneak preview of what to expect at the District 1-4A meet Saturday when they finished third in the team standings at the Raider Relays at Randall High.

The Lady Whitefaces scored 68 points to finish behind Tascosa and district rival Pampa in the 15-team field that included seven 1-4A members.

Hereford picked up wins from Daphne Roddy in the 200-meter dash (25.85 seconds), Teresa Castillo in the 3,200 (12:29.85) and the mile relay team of Jill West, Minerva Salazar, Castillo and Jayme Moore (4:15.17).

Cande Robbins added a second-place finish in the discus with a toss of 112 feet, four inches while West was fourth in the triple jump at 34-5, her best jump ever.

Minerva Salazar added two more points for the Herd in the 800, clocking 2:42.40 for the two laps, while the 4X200 relay squad of Salazar, West, Castillo and Roddy covered the same distance in 1:47.15, their best time of the season.

The Lady Whiteface freshmen tied with Plainview for the team title in the JV division with both units totaling 96 points.

The Herd frosh scored in 11 of the 16 events, including all three relays.

Jeannie Barrientez picked up the only gold medal for Hereford, winning the long jump at 15-0, but the team picked up five second places on the day.

Mandi Jones took silver in the shot put at 29-11 while Barrientez was No. 2 in the 800 in 2:50.03. Veronica Hernandez was second in the 1,600 in 6:09.24, and in the 3,200 in 13:15.93.

The mile relay foursome of Brandi Webb, Barrientez, Brandy Dunn and Laura Rangel took silver in 4:31.48.

Angie Jowell replaced Barrientez for the 4X200 relay, which was third in 1:57.06, and Jones stepped in for the 4X100, which was sixth in 56.05.

Dunn added a third place in the high jump at 4-4 and was fourth in the long jump at 14-6.

Rene Banner added another pair of fourth places in the 1,600 (6:19.40) and the 3,200 (13:46.13).

Claudia Ramirez was fifth in the discus at 87-9 and Barrientez was fifth in the triple jump at 29-1.

The Lady Whitefaces will run varsity JV and freshman teams Saturday at the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Invitational at Whiteface Stadium. The meet is expected to draw nearly 25 teams for the two divisions.

Chapter officers to be elected March 20

Xi Epsilon Alpha Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority met recently in the Southwestern Public Service Reddy Room. President Marge Bell announced that chapter officers will be elected at the March 20 meeting.

Fifteen members and one guest repeated the opening ritual. Minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. An executive board meeting and pledge meeting was held prior to the chapter meeting.

In official communications, corresponding secretary Kay Williams read an updated notice concerning the June state convention. She noted that a registration form was available for anyone wishing to attend the event.

Bell read a list of four possible state service projects for 1990-91. Each chapter in Texas will vote on these projects and the top votes will receive sorority donations. Of the four choices, Williams moved and Sharon Bodner seconded a motion to vote for these three choices: Boys Ranch/Girls Town USA; Kevin Wright, a disabled child; and the Children's Dialysis Fund at Baylor medical facility. The motion carried.

Appreciation was voiced to secret sisters by Connie Matthews, Gaye

Reily, Deann Harris, Susan Shaw, Linda Arellano and Pene Copen. Harris thanked the chapter for recognizing her as sweetheart and Danell Culp thanked everyone who helped decorate for the Valentine Ball.

Williams, program and yearbook committee chairman, announced the March 20 meeting will feature Culp as hostess and Williams as co-hostess. Culp's program will be "Protecting Your Home: Security Through Knowledge and Planning".

Membership chairman Denise Hafliger noted that two more pledge meetings will be conducted prior to the April 19 rituals.

President Bell noted that at the March 20 meeting members will select which committees they want to serve on for the next year. Bell noted that chapter members should keep in mind that a vote will be taken in April for Girl of the Year.

Founders' Day information was presented. Harris made a surprise announcement that she will have a baby in September and presented candy to members in celebrating her news.

The meeting adjourned with the closing ritual and Mitzpah. Reily gave the program on "Philosophy: Discussion of Great Questions" while members sponge painted T-shirts. The shirts will serve as the chapter's doorprizes for the June state sorority convention set in Amarillo.

Refreshments were served by Reily and co-hostess, Hafliger, to Bell, Hafliger, Harris, Matthews, Culp, Reily, Williams, Copen, Arellano, Shaw, Susan Cardinal, Barbara Cochran, Paula Todd, Melinda Henson, and Sharon Bodner. Guest for the meeting was Tonya Sediff.

Pound puppies displayed

Smokie and Big Red are only two of the many pound puppies that Christie Barrera has on display at the Deaf Smith County Library. She also collects pound prairies as a hobby but enjoys her real puppy Skipper the most. She is a fifth grader at West Central.

Sheffy presents program to Los Ciboleros, NSDAR

Vice-Regent Mrs. Robert Sheffy presented the program when Los Ciboleros Chapter, NSDAR, met March 8 in the home of Mrs. Gid Brown with Mrs. Herman Drake as co-hostess.

Sheffy spoke on "A Hundred Years of Service to the Nation: DAR Jubilee Celebration." In conclusion, she gave members a "pop quiz" to test the knowledge of the national society and its 100-year history.

Mrs. Austin Rose, regent, conducted the opening ritual, assisted by Mrs. Jack Gililand, acting chaplain, and by Messrs. Leroy Williamson, Joe Reinauer, Merlin Kaul, Jess Robinson.

Brown gave the national defense report on "Women in Combat". A new junior member was added to the chapter roster, Jo Hyman of Dimmitt.

Members present were Mmes. Beryl Fish, J.P. Jones, Charlie Bell, J.J. Durham, Luther Norvell, Stanford Knop, Brown, Williamson, Robinson, Rose, Sheffy, Kaul, Gililand and Reinauer.

Enjoy low calorie dessert

A spectacular finale to a memorable meal need no longer be forbidden or passe just because someone's on a diet. Here's a luscious, low calorie dessert—just under 200 calories per generous serving.

FRESH STRAWBERRY CREAM TORTE

1 cup sifted cake flour
1/2 cup sugar
3 tablespoons instant nonfat dry milk powder
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/8 teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons vegetable oil
1/2 cup water
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
2 egg whites
Vegetable cooking spray
4 cups fresh strawberries, washed and hulled
Topping (recipe follows)
Fresh mint sprigs (optional)

Combine first five ingredients; stir well. Combine oil, water, and vanilla, beating with a wire whisk; add to flour mixture, stirring until dry ingredients are moistened.

Beat egg whites (at room temperature) at high speed of an electric mixer until stiff but not dry; fold into cake batter.

Spoon batter into a 9-inch springform pan that has been coated with cooking spray. Bake at 350 degrees for 25-30 minutes or until a wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Remove from pan, and cool completely on a wire rack.

Return cooled cake to reassembled springform pan.

Set aside six strawberries for garnish. Cut in half; enough strawberries to make a ring around cake; arrange cut side against pan. Stand remaining berries on top of cake. Pour topping over berries cover with heavy-duty plastic wrap and chill three to four hours.

Remove cake from pan; place on serving plate. Cut reserved strawberries in half. Arrange strawberry halves top of cake. Garnish plate with fresh mint sprigs, if desired. Yield: 12 servings.

TOPPING

1/3 cup unsweetened orange juice
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1/2 cup cold water
3/4 cup plus 1 tablespoon sugar
1/4 cup lemon juice
1/3 cup instant nonfat dry milk powder
1 egg white

Place orange juice in a small, narrow glass or stainless steel bowl; freeze 25 minutes or until a 1/8 inch thick layer of ice forms on surface.

Sprinkle gelatin over cold water in a small saucepan; let stand 1 minute. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until gelatin dissolves. Add sugar and lemon juice; stir until sugar dissolves. Chill until the consistency of unbeaten egg white.

Add milk powder to partially frozen orange juice; beat at high speed of an electric mixer 5 minutes or until stiff peaks form.

Beat egg white (at room temperature) in a small bowl at high speed of an electric mixer until soft peaks form. Fold egg white and whipped milk mixture into gelatin mixture. Yield: about 2 cups.

NEW YORK (AP) - Mayor David Dinkins may take on the role of "a big-city mayor" in a cameo television appearance.

Dinkins on Monday said that two new series, "Law and Order" on NBC, starring Michael Moriarty, and ABC's "H.E.L.P.," starring John Mahoney - would be shot in the city.

"The producers of 'H.E.L.P.' have requested the services of a fledgling New York actor - and so, I have agreed to make a cameo appearance in one episode of the series," he said.

Dick Wolf, producer of both series, said, "We had in mind a big city mayor. He'll be playing himself."

"H.E.L.P." is about the people who respond to 911 emergency calls.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: Is there a medical explanation for this problem? I am 21 years old, 5 feet 3 inches and weigh 138 pounds. I am in perfect health, but for three months I have been trying to lose 10 to 15 pounds. To my frustration I have gained 5 pounds and have not lost any inches except for 1 inch from my waist. I have had all the thyroid studies and my thyroid is normal.

I eat a well-balanced 1,500-calorie diet, excluding fatty foods and all things that are unhealthy. My doctor tells me I eat right. I also exercise five days a week for 70 minutes each time. I am desperate to find out why I can't lose weight. This is taking a toll on my emotional health. I have anxiety attacks and insomnia from worrying about it. I'm not obese, but I would feel and look much better if I could shed 10 to 15 pounds. I'm small-boned.

DEAR READER: Since you are in perfect health, I must assume you want to lose the weight for appearance. That is fine as long as you are not fighting your body. Mother Nature did not construct everyone the same and many people were not designed to be thin. Some were designed to be considerably heavier than others. Yes, it is genes. You see the same thing in the animal kingdom. Cattlemen developed certain breeds to be beef cattle and they normally get fat while eating less than dairy cattle. There is a strong genetic factor that determines what many people weigh. Of course you can get fat, regardless of genes, if you eat far too much and don't exercise. But genes can keep you from losing weight despite a proper diet and exercise program.

You might try some alteration in your program. You could cut down to about 1,300 calories a day and add walking two miles a day every day to your present program. I have included a 1,300-calorie diet in my book, "The Weighting Game: The Truth About Weight Control." You can send $11.50 plus $2 for mailing and handling to THE HEALTH LETTER/Dept B, P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713. That will decrease your calorie balance by about 2,200 calories a week, which equal the calories in about two-thirds of a pound of body fat.

You have probably gained weight because you are developing muscles, which is healthy, while losing body fat. That should level off in time.

DEAR DR. LAMB: Has anyone ever had cancer of the heart? I have never heard of it. If so, how does it affect a person?

DEAR READER: Yes, people do have tumors of the heart and the sac around the heart (pericardium). Only one in 2,000 autopsies show tumors that arise from either the heart or pericardium. However, malignant tumors elsewhere in the body spread to the heart and these cancers are 20 times as common as the tumors that arise from the heart itself.

The tumors that arise from the heart are usually benign and may cause no symptoms. The most common benign tumor is the myxoma. It is usually in the left atrium (left upper chamber of the heart) and may obstruct the flow of blood through the heart. That causes symptoms that resemble constriction of the mitral valve. Such tumors, by interfering with heart function, may cause symptoms of heart failure, sudden fainting and heart irregularities. Pieces may break loose as an embolus, like a blood clot, and lodge in the circulation.

Metastasis of cancer to the heart may be silent. Or it may also cause congestive heart failure, cardiac irregularities and accumulation of fluid around the heart (pericardial effusion).

DEAR DR. LAMB: I am writing for my daughter, who is 34, to ask if you have a Health Letter on yeast infections. Five years ago, when she became pregnant with her first and only child, she developed a yeast infection and it has never really left her. It just lies dormant, then comes right back. Her doctor has tried many things without success. Her husband has been tested and is on medication, though we don't know if he takes it. She also eats a lot of yogurt which we understand helps.

DEAR READER: Yeast infections of the vagina are one of the most common problems women have. Yeast is everywhere, including on many people's skin. Many women have yeast in the vagina and have no symptoms. The problem occurs when the yeast multiplies, creating an excess number. Pregnancy is one of the times when an overgrowth is stimulated.

I'm sure your daughter's doctor has tried most things. But for the benefit of others, it is important to avoid moisture in the area. Panty hose and synthetic underwear should be avoided. Tight-fitting clothing from underwear to jeans should not be worn.

There is some question about the role of birth control pills, with some studies showing a relationship and others that do not.

Antibiotics may eliminate the normal bacterial residents in the vagina and that makes it easier for yeast to grow. Reintroducing helpful bacteria may be how yogurt helps. But you need to use a live culture. Most commercially prepared yogurt in grocery stores will not offer this benefit. However, health food stores usually have natural yogurt.

I have provided more details about yeast and other vaginal infections in Special Report 38, Vaginitis and Vaginal Discharge, which I am sending you. Others who want this report can send $2 with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/38, P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713.

Do you love to snack?

NEW YORK (AP) - Do you love to munch and crunch chips, popcorn or pretzels? According to the Snack Food Association, the "average" American spent $41 on snacks in 1988. Potato chips were the top salted snack-food seller, the SFA says, followed by tortilla chips, popcorn, nuts, baked and fried cheese crunch products, corn chips, pretzels, meat snacks (such as beef jerky) and pork rinds.

"Munching on snacks is a big part of the American culture," says association president Jim Shuffelt. "Traditional meals and eating patterns are shifting to accommodate today's lifestyles and people's emphasis on convenience. Snack foods help fill that niche."

The Snack Food Association, located in Alexandria, Va., is an international trade association of the salted snack industry. It comprises more than 700 snack food manufacturers and suppliers.

The association reports record retail sales of $10.3 billion overall in 1988. Popcorn showed the largest growth, with an increase in sales of 19 percent. This rise was led by a 28 percent increase in the sales of microwave popcorn. Ready-to-eat popcorn, spurred by the widespread popularity of white Cheddar cheese seasoning, posted a 23 percent sales increase.

WHO IS BUYING SNACKS? Consumers of snacks are young: one-third are under the age of 35; over half are under the age of 45. The average frequent buyer is 38 years old. Two-thirds of the buyers are married, and they buy snacks for other household members.

More than 20 percent are homemakers; 30 percent are office workers, including professionals; nearly 50 percent have some college education. The average family income ranges between $30,000 and $50,000.

Consumers buy snacks, on the average, about 10 times in a 4-week period.

WHO EATS WHAT? Potato chips, popcorn and corn chips are popular with all age groups.

Pork rinds and nuts appeal to the over-35 crowd; children under the age of 13 prefer cheese puffs and cheese-filled products.

Tortilla chips and dried-meat snack consumers are most often between the ages of 13 and 34. Those under 13 and over 35 prefer pretzels and cracker sandwiches.

WHEN DO THEY EAT SNACKS? The Snack Food Association says most people enjoy snacks while watching television. Other popular occasions include parties, between meals and with meals.

SNACKING RECIPES The following are recipes to satisfy cravings for something sweet and salty: CHOC-TATERLICIOUS CHIPS 1 pound bag of chocolate chips (dark or semisweet) 1 pound bag of heavy rippled potato chips (salted or unsalted) Using a double boiler, melt chocolate chips. Dunk chips into chocolate and spread on waxed paper. Wait for chocolate to harden. (Recipe from: The Potato Board)

WHITE CHIPPER CAKE 2 cups plus 2 tablespoons flour, sifted

1 1/2 cups sugar
1 tablespoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup unsalted butter (1 stick)
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup milk
2 large eggs
Frosting (recipe follows)
1 cup crushed potato chips

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Sift dry ingredients together. Add remaining ingredients. Beat by hand or electric beater for 5 minutes. Pour into a greased and floured 9- by 12-inch cake pan. Bake for 35 to 40 minutes at 350 degrees F. Cool. Cut cake in even squares. Spoon frosting over all sides of the cake squares except the bottom. Dip sides into 1 cup crushed potato chips. Place on serving tray or return to the pan until ready to serve.

FROSTING 1/4 cup water
1 cup powdered sugar
1 tablespoon vanilla extract
Add water gradually to powdered sugar and vanilla until consistency is thick but not runny. (Recipe from: The Potato Board)

PRETZEL CLUSTERS 1 1/2 cups salted mixed nuts
2 cups pretzel sticks, coarsely broken

One 14-ounce can sweetened condensed milk
1 1/2 cups peanut butter chips
In a large bowl combine salted mixed nuts and pretzel sticks.

In medium saucepan, over medium heat, combine condensed milk and peanut butter chips. Cook, stirring constantly, until chips are melted. Pour over nut mixture, tossing to coat well. Drop by tablespoonfuls onto baking sheets lined with waxed paper. Chill until firm, about 2 hours.

LOs ANGELES (AP) - "Willow" and "Rumpelstiltskin" star Billy Barty is being sued by a TV writer who says the dwarf actor owes him $2,000 for his help on the brief-run show "Short Ribbs."

Bill Winckler, 25, of suburban Woodland Hills, said Barty has ignored a contract guaranteeing him pay for each script plus a percentage of syndication profits. The show ran from September to December.

"Barty, 65, was out of town Monday and unavailable for comment, said his sister, Evelyn Barty, from the Billy Barty Foundation, which helps raise money for scholarships for short people.

The attractive rosewood that is seen often in fine furniture, does not come from rose plants. It's the name of several types of wood of the botanical genus Dalbergia.

4-H targets younger group for program

They're being called "Clover Kids"—youngsters in kindergarten through second grade who are the new target audience for the Texas 4-H Youth Development Program.

Four-H is reaching out to a younger group in an attempt to do what they've done best for over 80 years—encourage young people to develop positive life skills and to become productive individuals.

Today, there are almost four million youth in Texas, most of them five to 12 years old, said Tom Davison, assistant director for 4-H and youth development with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Davison believes prevention education, which is the focus of 4-H programs, is most effective in early childhood and a necessity in helping to eliminate critical youth problems.

"The statement has been made that kids are learning their values in the sandbox," Davison said. "We think it's important to use the expertise of 4-H to reach these kids."

Youth problems are evident in national statistics that show Texas has the highest number of births to girls 14 and younger, the second highest number of births to teens overall, and ranks eighth in number of high school dropouts.

Efforts are being made to strengthen and enhance youth development programs that already exist and to implement a new curriculum for Clover Kids, Davison said.

These children will work under the supervision of volunteers who can be day care workers, after-school care providers and other 4-H volunteers.

Programs for Clover Kids are being tested and will be implemented by 1992. One lesson, "It's Up To Me, K-2," is designed to enhance self-perception, self-concept and self-esteem.

"It's an awareness program that will be followed by projects involving food, small animals and horticulture," said Gayle Hall Laine, 4-H youth development specialist and coordinator of the program. "Kids will have a variety of games and activities and get hands-on experience."

Also, 4-H is working on a new program that offers 4-H curriculum to after-school care facilities in Texas counties to help establish quality care for youngsters in kindergarten through 6th grade.

"We're focusing on youth in terms of their developmental process," Davison said. "This is not to say we haven't always done that, but the problem is we have a lot of other factors that are influencing how we work with them today."

Those factors have become known as "youth-at-risk" issues, problems like drug and substance abuse, teen pregnancy, and illiteracy.

Davison said the problems are the same as they were 10 years ago, but they have increased in magnitude.

"Society is now more conscious of these problems," he said. "People realize that kids are our future and they're concerned that we may not have a future."

When 4-H evolved from boys' Corn Clubs and girls' Tomato Clubs, it grew from a need to improve the life of people in rural areas. Clubs provided real-life practical experiences to enrich the learning provided by schools, churches and families.

With migration from rural to urban areas, programs began changing to fit the needs of youth in inner cities.

In Texas, more than 60,000 young people are enrolled in the 4-H clubs. Programs allow kids to learn in an informal, non-threatening environment, Davison said.

Almost 400,000 young people participate in 4-H enrichment programs in schools. Teachers receive material for a series of six lessons for youth in agriculture, natural resources, home economics, science and technology.

"As far as animal projects, we're probably the best," Davison said. "With one project, we can teach the basics of ownership, responsibility, free enterprise and making a profit. You can do a lot of things with something that doesn't cost a lot—teach how to get along in this world and how to survive."

All Texas youth, regardless of their background, are considered at risk, Davison said. Urban and minority youth are unfortunate leaders in many problem areas, but studies show that the largest increases in troubled kids are occurring in rural and suburban areas, among Anglo-Americans, people not on welfare and people who are educated.

Davison said 4-H goals for youth at risk include finding ways to increase the number of alcohol- and drug-free kids, increase the number of children who complete school, improve literacy, and increase resistance to school-age pregnancy.

While targeting kids ages five-12, 4-H also will implement a mentor program that depends heavily on 4-H'ers 13-19.

"We're working on a 4-H mentor program where we pair up older youth with younger kids...in cooperation with schools," Davison said.

Through experiences as leaders, teachers, role models, peer counselors, and advocates, older children will develop their own life skills while helping others.

Davison said Texas 4-H also is exploring ways to collaborate with communities, schools and other youth-oriented agencies to meet common goals.

"We offer our resources to other youth-serving organizations because we have a university base of knowledge and research...and a lot of them don't have that luxury," he said. "So, their kids can be our kids."

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: It's 1:30 a.m., and I can't sleep. But that's not why I'm writing. I want you to help me say "thank you" to my wife.

We both have full-time jobs, and there is plenty to do to keep this household running. Tonight as we were climbing into bed, my wife realized that she had one more load of laundry to move from the washer to the dryer. I knew if she went to do it I'd be sound asleep before she returned, so I convinced her to stay in bed and snuggle, and soon we were both snoozing.

I awoke about 12:15. I knew she needed some of the clothes in the washer to wear to her job the next day, so I figured I'd just toss them in the dryer. When I got there, the dryer was full, and so was the clean clothes basket. I started to fold and stack underwear and socks to make room for the next load. Ann, there were at least 100 pieces to handle from just one load, and I'm sure my wife does at least four or five loads every week.

Well, 35 minutes later, while standing on that cold cement floor, I had a much deeper appreciation for what my wife does several times a week with never a complaint.

I decided not to sign my name, because there are probably thousands of women out there who would fit this description, and I'd like each one to think this thank-you is from a grateful mate. — A Lucky Guy, Canton, Ohio

DEAR LUCKY: Sorry I blew your cover by printing the name of your city, but a husband who is as terrific as you should get a little special recognition.

I say you are both lucky. Hand your wife the paper, and tell her she's in Ann Landers' column today.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My son had a large black panther tattooed on his upper arm when he turned 18 last year. It didn't matter to me one way or the other, because I knew it was something he had wanted for a long time.

Now for the problem: "Dan" is sorry he had it done. He says it looks cheap and makes him feel like a bum. He is obsessed with that tattoo, and it is making him miserable.

I checked with a doctor who said it would $1,400 to $3,000 to have the tattoo removed surgically. He warned Dan that there might be a scar.

Ann, please check with some of your experts and offer some advice. Dan knows I am writing, and we are both eager for a response. — Concerned in Massachusetts

DEAR MASS: I spoke with Dr. Mary Ellen Brademas, assistant clinical professor of dermatology at New York University. This is what Dr. Brademas said:

There are several techniques for removing tattoos, and none are perfect. The young man can have dermabrasion (sanding the top layers of skin), laser treatment or the solution mentioned by his mother, surgical removal. The cost your correspondent was quoted for the latter seems excessive. The method of removal should be determined by the doctor. The decision would be based on the size and location of the tattoo, as well as the depth of the coloration.

No matter which technique is used, there is almost certain to be a scar. Perhaps a satisfactory (and much less expensive) solution might be a cream or liquid to cover the tattoo. Either Covermark by Lydia O'leary or Leg and Body Cover by Dermablend are excellent. Both can be purchased in department stores.

Planning a wedding? What's right? What wrong? "The Ann Landers Guide for Brides" will relieve your anxiety. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $3.65 (this includes postage and handling) to: Brides, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562. (In Canada, send $4.45.)

GARDEN CITY, N.Y. (AP) — Nadia Comaneci's agent says she may have broken up with Constantin Panait, the married man who engineered her escape from Romania.

The Olympic gymnast canceled her first U.S. appearance on the lecture circuit, apparently because she was upset over the breakup, said her agent, Bob Davis. She was to have given a speech Wednesday night at Nassau Community College.

Men's grooming has changed

If you think guys are looking greater than ever these days you're probably right. There's a boom in men's grooming products with stores offering an increasing number of skin and hair products designed specifically for men.

Why are men suddenly ready to jump into new grooming regimens and does their skin really require products different from those for women's skin? According to Karen Quinn, director of marketing services for Liz Claiborne cosmetics, "Structurally, there is no difference between his skin and hair and hers, but men treat their bodies so differently from women that their grooming needs differ greatly."

Studies show that men shampoo more often, from seven to 14 times a week. Men are also much less likely to perm, straighten or color their hair, meaning their hair is less likely to be dry or damaged. Most men opt for a short, easy-to-maintain cut every two or three weeks. This means tangles and split ends are not the problem they are for women.

"Corrective conditioners and styling aids designed to help remedy damage for women's heavily processed hair will weigh a man's hair down, making it soft, greasy and flat," says Karen. "That's why we developed a hard-working shampoo with plant extracts that specifically address a man's hair care needs. Lemongrass helps normalize oily hair, Vitamin E helps to protect and strengthen and hops helps build body into hair."

The shampoo also cleans and conditions hair in one easy step and features a subtle hint of the fresh-air fragrance.

"Men think their skin is tough but it's not!" Karen says. "Men tend to use excessively strong, brisk movements when cleaning. Brisk cleansing motions can cause irritation of the hair follicles. This can be avoided by cleansing in the direction of hair growth, and by using special bracing and cleansing products which help to soothe the skin and to provide a fresh, stimulating experience without damage."

ATLANTA (AP) — Kim Basinger received an award in one of the shortest skirts ever worn in the office of Secretary of State Max Cleland.

State employees put the phones on hold and hung on the actress' every word during the ceremony Monday honoring her as an Outstanding Georgian.

Miss Basinger, star of "Batman" and "9 1/2 Weeks" and owner since last month of the town of Braselton, declared herself "just a proud Georgian."

Miss Basinger said her plans for Braselton are still being developed and she can't talk too much about them. In the past she has discussed building recording and film studios.

She met with the Georgia Department of Banking and Finance concerning her purchase of the Bank of Braselton, spoke to young cancer patients at a hospital
