Iran Parliament Urges Trials

Carter Admits Errors Possible

WASHINGTON (AP) President Carter's extraordinary defense of his handling of brother Billy's Labyan connection doesn't close the case that has rocked his presidency and his party in the final days of his race for nomination to a second

The president's own account Monday night to the public and to the Senate subcommittee investigating the affair acknowledged that it is not definitive or final." Members of the panel indicated they would withhold judgment until their probe is complete.

And in the highly charged atmosphere of an election campaign. Carter's opponents could hardly be expected to let the

But in his 99 page report and the hour-long nationally broadcast news conference that followed, the president insisted that although he may have made some mistakes in getting information about the case out in the open, none of his actions in dealing with Billy and the Libyans was illegal or un-

The president said—and excerpts from his personal diary confirm - that he tried repeatedly, if unsuccessfully, to dissuade his headstrong brother from making a return trip to

"I'm not trying to make excuses," the older brother said But "anyone who knows Billy knows that no one can push him

The president defended using Billy to get to the Libyan government in the early days of the Iranian hostage crisis and said the mission was at least partly successful in obtaining the support of the radical Islamic regime for U.S. efforts to free the American captives. He conceded, however, that "it may have been bad judgment" to have "enhanced Billy's stature in the minds of the Libvans

In his statement, Carter reiterated. I can state categorically that my brother Billy has had no influence on my decisions or on any U.S. government policy or action concerning Libva. I can also state that Billy has never asked for to take any step that would affect any of these actions or

The president also made these sweeping points

He never tried to influence the Justice Department in vestigation of Billy Carter

He did not learn until it was made public last month that the Libyan government had paid his brother $220,000

He never received any of Billy Carter's Libyan money

Imitial reaction to Carter's explanation was cautious. Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., chairman of the special Senate subcommittee, declined comment, but his vice chairman. Sen Strom Thurmond, R-S C, said. We have heard the president's side of the matter, now we will hear the witnesses and may be hear the other side. Sen Bob Dole, R-Kan, perhaps the president's sharpest critic on the committee, said there still is "a lot to explore." He expressed particular interest in a conversation between Carter and Attorney General Benjamin R. Civiletti in which Civiletti told the president that Billy Carter would not be prosecuted if he registered as a Libyan agent Carter acknowledged he made a highly technical mistake when Civiletti and the White House denied the two men had discussed the Billy Carter matter before a thorough record search revealed they had. But the president insisted nothing in the brief conversation was improper or could be considered an attempt to influence the Justice Department investigation Included in the report was the note Carter wrote after the June 17 meeting recounting that Civiletti had told hum. Billy ought to acknowledge" that he was an agent for Libya and "there would be no punishment for him."

Chamber Slates 'Crazy Days Sale'

A citywide "Crazy Days Sale" has been scheduled for Aug. 15-16, and the business committee of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce is coordinating the promotion and seeking to involve as many merchants as possi-

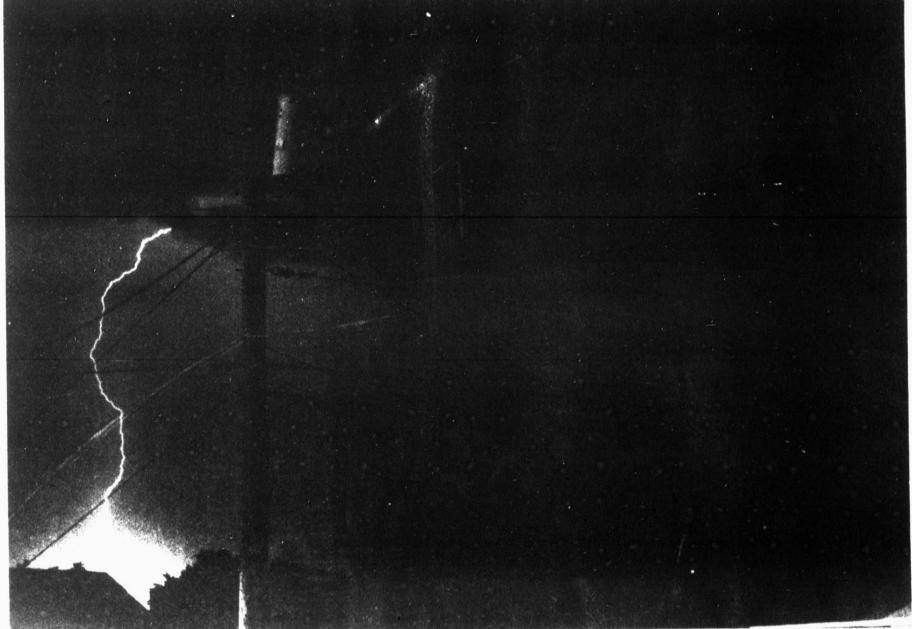

Many merchants will plan special sale promotions for the entire week of Aug. 11.16, with a "Back to-School" theme also being used. The Brand will publish a special section on Wednesday, Aug. 13, containing back-to-school information as well as features on the Crazy Days Sale

The newspaper will be widely circulated in Hereford and the area, with sample copies of The Brand being distributed throughout the county and in the Dimmitt. Friona, Vega and Wildorado areas. Circulation of the newspaper will be more than doubled on that day in order to boost the promotion by local merchants

Merchants are planning a number of special activities on Aug. 15-16, including drawings for $500 in Hereford Bucks, and contests for persons of all ages. Tentative plans for a tricycle-decorating contest, frisbee-throwing contest, and a watermelon-eating contest.

Employees of local stores participating in the events will have a special contest for the Crazy Days promotion Awards will be given to the employees who are judged to be dressed the craziest for the event. This contest will take place Friday Aug. 15 with awards being given at one downtown store, Sugarland Mall, and one for the remainder of the participating stores.

Interest Rates Begin To Go Up

NEW YORK (AP) Interest rates are on the upswing after a four-month decline, and the trend may continue despite the sluggish pace of borrow ing by businesses and consumers

Chemical Bank boosted its prime rate to top-rated business customers by one-quarter of a percentage point Monday to 11 percent. The move came less than two weeks after the nation's sixth-largest commercial bank out the fee to 10.75 percent.

It was the first time any major bank has raised its prime since early April, when it peaked at 20 percent.

Demo Governors Want Conflict Stopped

DENVER (AP) - The Democratic governors are telling the Democratic presidential candidates to stop the bloodletting and get back to the business of beating Republicans.

It is the latest and boldest move by the governors since they took up the unity mission when the party fell apart in 1972, and which they exercised in giving former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter his final boost to the presidential nomination and a party comeback four years ago. Most of the Democratic governors are still behind Carter, but they signaled strongly on Monday that they are more interested in party survival than his quarrels with SKEN. Edward M. Kennedy, the remaining

Delegates Won't Be Turned Loose

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG AP Political Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - As his rivals for the White House court black votes, President Carter is trying to quell the political rebellion against his renomination at next week's Democratic National Convention.

Carter insisted Monday night that he would not capitulate to dissidents in his own party and release his delegates to vote for whatever candidate they wish at the party's nominating convention.

These are not my delegates, they're the voters delegates," Carter said in a nationally televised news con-

In the news conference, Carter also brushed aside concerns over his badly trailing Republican nominee Ronald Reagan in public opinion polls.

The unusual hour-long news conference was held primarily to respond to questions about the administration's handling of Billy Carter's involvement with Libya.

Carter told the news conference that "neither I nor any member of my administratimn has violated any law or committed any impropriety" in the Billy Carter case.

However, he admitted to mistakes and misjudgments in the administration's handling of the case, though he said these were technical in nature.

Reagan told the league convention today that the answer to the economic plight of blacks is to "get the economy moving again. Instead of fighting over who gets the last piece of a shrinking economic pie, let's help America produce a bigger pie so that everyone will have a chance to be better off."

California Condor Vanishing

By ROBERT LOCKE AP Science Writer

VENTURA, Calif. (AP) -The California condor - a giant, soaring relic of an earlier time - is fast disappearing from its shrinking share of the Western sky.

And efforts to save North America's largest land bird from extinction are opening a deep and sometimes bitter schism within the environmental movement.

On the ground, the big vulture is ungainly and unattractive. "But when they're flying, they're just magnificent birds," said John Borneman of the National Audubon Society.

Like some prehistoric aircraft, the condor tucks its head and glides above its domain of bare, brown rocks and dull-green chaparral. The wind whistles softly as it curls black wings that can span nine feet.

The condors, with roots 10,000 years old, once ranged the Pacific Coast from Canada to Mexico. Now fewer than 30 survive to soar above the mountains, scrublands and concrete freeways barely two hours drive from smoggy Los Angeles.

The Audubon Society and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service are preparing a $2 million, decades-long program that includes breeding captured condors and tagging birds with solar-powered radio monitors. Approved by Congress last year, the project is billed as the most expensive rescue ever tried for an endangered species.

Bruce Bishop figured a pile of

But conservationists are split over whether man and technology are the condor's hope for survival or the instruments of its oblivion.

"I doubt if we're ever going to be able to say the condor is secure. It's always going to need man's help," said Borneman, an Audubon condor specialist for 15 years. "The condor's problem is man's refusal to give it a chance to recover on its own," said David Brower, veteran of four decades of environmental battles and founder of Friends of the Earth. "We should not try to make a synthetic condor (that is) dependent on human beings. That would be a kind of immorality.

Brower warns the intrusions could do more harm than good. Condors live 30 to 40 years, he said, so "we've still got time. Let's hold off and put in every effort we can to give the wild bird a chance in its own wild home."

habitat protection - a 360,000-acre wilderness area in the Los Padres National Forest north of Los Angeles - as the primary alternative to captive breeding. It also urges curbs on pesticides.

Friends of the Earth, allied with the Sierra Club, has threatened court action against the Fish and Wildlife Service and Audubon, which supports the wilderness area but contends it alone can't save the condor

The state Fish and Game Commission, which must approve the federal program, withdrew its permits for the plan pending study and hearings. That could delay the program by a year or scuttle

Greg Serrurier of Friends of the Earth called the death "a tragic loss that we feel was an avoidable tragedy" proof condors are so sensitive that no hands-on study can be

Fish and Wildlife biologist Noel Snyder, who was at the scene, agreed the death was tragic. But he said risks must be taken to learn why condors are disappearing and how to save them. "We contend the biggest risk - the risk to the whole species - is to do nothing."

Borneman said the project hopes to attach transmitters to at least eight condors. Five other unmated birds would be captured and, with a male condor at the Los Angeles Zoo, form three pairs for captive breeding.

He said capturing the birds would take several years. The breeding lifespan of condors is not known, but scientists say they seem to mate for life. No California condor has been born in captivity.

Biologists say captive breeding should increase the number of offspring from the birds, which apparently lay only one egg every other year in the wild. "It's called doubleclutching," Snyder said. "If you take an egg from the nest (for artificial incubation), they will lay another egg. That happens in captivity with other species such as the Andean condor," a relative of the endangered California bird. Borneman said descendants of the captive condors would be returned to the wild after being taught to survive.

Borneman said research is vital because "it looks as if the population has been declining by one or two birds each year" and no one knows Major losses occurred at the turn of the century, when collectors paid up to $250 each for eggs. At least 200 birds were killed for museums displays. The current problems, Borneman said, include pesticides, indiscriminate hunters, loss of habitat and other unrecognized factors. He said only intensive study can reveal solutions. The state Fish and Game Commission, meanwhile, is caught in the middle and has responsibility for overseeing the operation.

"The commission is going to want a lot of questions answered before it considers any new application," said spokesman Joe Sheehan. "They certainly don't want anything to happen to any more chicks."

"We should spend more time with the children," I told my husband the other day. "In a few years they'll be gone and we'll rattle around in this empty house wishing we had taken the time to sit down and find out how they felt about things...their hopes...their ambitions..what are you smiling about?"

"I'm still back at the part on rattling around in the house. Do you know I shaved the other morning without steam on the mirror and nearly scared myself to death?'

"Children need the companionship of an adult," I continued. "That very special relationship in the formative years where you listen to one another, advise, assess, mold values, exchange ideas and points of view. We don't even know how they feel about life."

"Get on with it. What are you suggesting?"

"You should take your son fishing and I'll have the weekend here alone with our daughter. That way it's a oneon-one situation where we really get into the meaningful

Last week, as I watched father and son load up all the gear into the four-wheel drive, a lump came into my throat. When they left the driveway, I called to my daughter.

"Whatya want? I'm on the phone."

She was on the phone for more than five hours. As she was showering. I fell to my knees and yelled under the door, "Do you want to talk about anything?"

"Yes," she yelled back. "Do you have a clean pair of pantyhose? Later, as she tore out the front door, I tugged at her sleeve and said, "You wanta tell me how you feel about life?" "I'm for it," she said simply, pecking me on the cheek. The next morning, she slept until noon and at lunch she wore a pair of headphones and a blank expression to the table. I was relieved when my husband and son pulled into the driveway. "How did you make out?" I asked. He smiled triumphantly. "If I do say so myself, it was one of my better performances. I talked about values in this life and how sometimes it was hard not to become tainted by what is going on in the world around us, but we are a family and if we stick together, there isn't anything we can't do. I talked about aims and goals in life and how you had to be patient and sometimes compromise and you know...all the brilliant things a kid will remember his father saying for the rest of his life."

"What did he say?" I asked excitedly. "Nothing. He slept all the way up and back."

Sherry Ballard, coor-

Most of the information on counties was obtained from census records and other official documents.

'We've compiled information on the population, from the study shows many and income levels-all sorts of things about people in each county," Mrs. Ballard said.

"We found some very interesting things. One thing I found surprising in some counties, especially those around Waco, is that the average age is 40 to 45. That's really high," she said.

The average age in Harlingen is 20, and in Houston, it's 25 to 30.

Other information gained average age and education counties in Texas, particular-

TSTI's research division began work on the demographic study in January and recently com-

Mrs. Ballard said the purpose of the industrial study is to determine where job openings exist and determine a company's hiring pattern.

The data will be used to help place students in jobs and to develop new programs for jobs in demand.

Currently, the department has listings of new and expanding plants, but has not yet looked at older businesses and industry.

A NEW PLAN WITH NEW BENEFITS

The old system of Jewish laws gave only a dim foretaste of the good things Christ would do for us. The sacrifices under the old system were repeated again and again, year after year, but even so they could never save those who lived under their rules.

If they could have, one offering would have been enough; the worshipers would have been cleansed once for all, and their feeling of guilt would be gone.

But just the opposite happened: those yearly sacrifices reminded them of their disobedience and guilt instead of relieving their minds. For it is not possible for the blood of bulls and goats to really take away sins.

That is why Christ said, as He came into the world, "O God, the blood of bulls and goats cannot satisfy You, so You have made ready this body of Mine for Me to lay as a sacrifice upon Your altar.

You were not satisfied with the animal sacrifices, slain and burnt before You as offerings for sin.

Then I said, 'See, I have come to do Your will, to lay down My life, just as the Scriptures said that I would." After Christ said this, about not being satisfied with the various sacrifices and offerings required under the old

Cavazos Of TTU Receives Presidential Appointment

LUBBOCK -- President Lauro F. Cavazos of the Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center has been appointed by President Carter to the Board of Regents of the Uniformed Services University of Health Sciences.

The presidential appointment will go to the U.S. Senate for confirmation.

Cavazos, who is president of both Texas Tech University and the TTU Health Sciences Center, was appointed to serve through 1985 on the Board of Regents which oversees the business of the university, reporting long term goals to the Secetary of Defense.

U.S. Rep. Kent Hance described the appointment as "very prestigious." He said that Cavazos is the only Texan among the nine civilians on the board. The chairman of the board, David Packard, is the only other of the 15 members who does not have a doctor of medicine degree. Cavazos' degree is that of doctor or philosophy. Packard is former deputy secretary of defense.

The university provides medical education for all branches of the military services and the U.S. Public Health Service. It incorporates a school of medicine and graduate and continuing education programs. The university, which was established by Congress in degree in zoology and the 1972, is located at the national master's degree in cytology Naval Medical Center in from Texas Tech and the doc-Bethesda, Md. It graduated toral degree in physiology its first class in the spring of awarded by Iowa Sate 1980. The fall enrollment is University. expected to exceed 400.

Hance called Cavazos' appointment a "great honor" and the state of Texas.

"It is of great benefit to the Texas Tech medical school appointment of this stature," the congressman said.

In addition to the civilian members of the board, regents include the surgeon generals of the Army, Navy, Air Force and Public Health Service, the secretary of defense and the president of the university. Graduates receive residency training at military hospitals.

The school, operating on a $26 million budget, has special research interest in medical problems that are particularly relevant to the military.

Regents meet six times a year. Cavazos will receive expenses for his service but no

As much as we hear about proved by combining the questionable properties of foods, many people -especially calorie-conscious dieters - have at least considered the advantages of trycomplements beans.

Vegetarian Diets:

ing a vegetarian diet. According to Dairy Council dietitians, vegetarian diets can be nutritionally adequate if carefully selected. But very strict vegetarian or "vegan" diets pose potential health hazards, especially for infants and young children who may be eating the same diet as their health-conscious parents.

Even though there are several varieties of vegetarian diets - some allow fish and poultry in addition to plant foods; some allow dairy foods and eggs - the quality of protein intake should be the main concern of vegetarians. Animal and vegetable proteins differ in quality; that is, in the kinds and amounts of body-building amino acids they contain.

Animal proteins are generally higher quality than plant proteins. For good health, the protein we take in must contain certain amino acids in amounts and proportions needed to build and maintain muscle and tissue.

Vegetarians can improve the quality of the protein they eat by several methods. First, they can combine animal protein, like milk, with the cereal and vegetable proteins they eat: for example, milk and cereal, or macaroni and cheese.

Second, they can add extra protein to the diet by eating vegetables with a high protein content such as soybeans or dried beans.

Third, the quality of vegetable proteins can be im-vegetable protein foods within each meal that complement one another's amino acids: for example, corn

Another problem with vegetarian diets is that they tend to be low in calcium and riboflavin unless some forms of dairy foods are included. There can even be problems with calcium absorption due to the body's chemical reactions to a high fiber diet.

Paul Harvey News Life With Rusty

Elizabeth Herrick had overheard you and me talking about contemporary disregard-for policemen.

But she'd heard nobody relate adequately what it's really like these days for a policeman and his family.

So, as the wife of one, the Flint, Mich., woman decided to let the rest of us share her life with Rusty.

In the modest house on Remington Street, when the day's chores were done and daughter was napping, Elizabeth Herrick spent any leftover hours writing a story about her policeman hus-

It became a compilation of all the fears and frustrations of a patrolman's wife: a composite of all she'd heard from her own husband and overheard from others-and their wives.

She would write and rewrite until husband, Rusty, would read a final draft and nod and smile and say, "Now, Liz, you've got it!"

Then there were the parts she understood better than he--the inevitable social stigma; the waking up at night, crying; the making-do on a policeman's salary while having to explain to a 2-yearold daughter the snide slurs about "cops and crooks."

And over her shoulder Rusty would read those parts. Then he would lift her from her chair by the typewriter and hold her close. There are unimaginable

This project began two years ago. Then last October the Herricks agreed the story was complete.

Prayerfully, carefully, she folded the manuscript and addressed it to Cosmopolitan magazine.

A long month later the magazine's editor responded; the answer was "yes."

Yes, the magazine did like what she had written, and suggested only a few embellishments.

Liz and Rusty were jubilant. Because she was accepted as a writer, and because what she had written would mean so much to so many--policemen's wives, and those who shun them, and those who live them. Each month Rusty checked the magazine racks.

Each month the new issue of Cosmopolitan was outwithout her story.

By now Rusty had told all the fellows at the Burton City station that the article had been accepted-but where was it?

Three months went by. Nothing. Four months, then

It was May when a Cosmopolitan telephoned.

The article was in galley form. It would appear in the September issue. The issue that you and I can read now.

But Rusty will not. The other night, responding to a department store burglary, he was shot in the back and

Awesome Cougar Linemen Bolster Houston Defense

HOUSTON (AP) - About all that's left for football opponents of the Houston Cougars to use against monster defensive tackles Leonard Mitchell and Hosea Taylor is a pair of log trucks.

And there's no clear cut answer who'd win that colli-

"I don't know anything else they can do to them," Coach Bill Yeoman said, "They've been held, clipped, chopped and double tearnmed. What else is left?'

The answer may only be found in large earth-moving equipment. Last season, Mitchell, 6-7, 270 and Taylor, 6-5, 265, anchored a defense that finished second to Texas in Southwest Conference total defense statistics.

Taylor and Mitchell are primary reasons the Cougar defense isn't expected to be significantly weaker despite the losses of seven defensive starters

Even more chilling, Yeoman figures both seniors will be better this season, Mitchell because of offseason work on weights, and Taylor because of more inten-

Mitchell was a two-sport letterman in basketball and basketball to concentrate on his senior football campaign. He spent the off-season in the weight room and Yeoman says the results have been gratifying.

"If his upper body strength comes along to match his leg strength, he's going to be a very difficult youngster to block," Yeoman said. "He's got fine change of direction and quickness.

"Now if he has the additional strength to get rid of that guy on the pass rush, that's just another problem for the offense.'

As for Taylor, Yeoman saw definite signs of malevolence in his spring training performance

"Hosea played well last year but he was no where what he can do," Yeoman said. "His frame of mind is a whole lot more intense than last year.'

Houston's only other returning defensive starters are cornerback Donnie Love and Grady Turner, who filled a large gap at linebacker last year with a super sophomore

Yeoman says defensive ends Kelly McDonald and Alvin Ruben will have to perform well because opponents football until he dropped will be running away from

Maury Wills Takes Seattle

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) -The pathetic Seattle Mariners, losers of 10 consecutive games and 21 of 25 contests since the All-Star break, have taken what President Dan O'Brien called a "new direction," with former base-stealing star California Angels. Maury Wills at the helm.

The Mariners announced Monday afternoon that Darrell Johnson, the only manager the American League team had ever known, was being dismissed and Wills, a star shortstop mostly with the Los Angeles

Wills made his debut as a major league skipper Monday night, but it made no difference as the Mariners lost their 10th straight, an 8-3 setback at the hands of the

The loss dropped the Mariners into last place in the AL West, one game behind the Angels.

Since his retirement as a player in 1972, Wills has made it clear that he wanted to be a big league manager. He becomes the third black to hold such a position, following Frank Robinson, who managed the Cleveland Indians from 1975-77, and Larry Doby, who guided the Chicago White Sox for part of one season after that. As far as being baseball's third black manager is concerned, Wills said: "I hadn't thought of it. But many times I wondered why I didn't get an offer to manage in the major leagues. I did a lot of soulsearching. I didn't come up with anything feasible."

Mariners Lose, Yankees Batter Rangers

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON AP Sports Writer

"I wish we could have won, but the ship's not going to sink tonight," Maury Wills said Monday night after his unsuccessful debut as a major league manager.

But if Wills had consulted the standings, he would have seen that the ship — alias the Seattle Mariners - did indeed sink ... into last place in the American League West.

The defending champion California Angels rallied in the late innings to hand the Mariners their 10th consecutive setback 8-3 — Seattle has lost 21 of 25 games since the All-Star break - and climb out of last place for the first time since June 6.

"Before the game, I thought I would be shaking like a leaf when I took out the lineup card, but I wasn't," said Wills, who became the third black manager in major league history shortly after the Mariners fired Darrell Johnson. "I felt relaxed, maybe I shouldn't have."

In other AL action, the New York Yankees battered the Texas Rangers 10-4, the Kansas City Royals edged the Detroit Tigers 6-5, the Oakland A's buried the Minnesota Twins 11-2, the Boston Red Sox drowned the Milwaukee Brewers 7-2 and later, Buskey threw three

"The worst rule in baseball is the designated hitter," said Haller, who also thumbed Texas' Bob Babcock and California's Bruce Kison this season for the same reason. "That's what you get (brushbacks) because the pitcher doesn't bat any more. I just didn't want it to get

Reggie Jackson slammed his 30th home run of the season and 399th of his career and Eric Soderholm and Bobby Brown also homered in New York's 14-hit attack. Winner Tom Underwood went six innings, giving up two hits and one run, while loser Gaylord Perry lasted only 31-3 innings in which he was tagged for six runs on nine hits. Al Oliver and Buddy Bell homered for Texas. Jackson's homer off Dave Rajsich in the fifth inning tied him with Al Kaline for 19th place on the all-time list.

"I hope to hit No.400 in front of my father, Martinez Jackson, who will be here from now on until I hit it," said Jackson. "I feel that 400 home runs means recognition as a good ballplayer. Perhaps 500 home runs means the Hall of Fame automatically. But 400 homers, 1,500 RBI and 2,500 hits - and maybe 250 wins if you are a pitcher puts you in the super star

"When I was young and ir the league five or six years people got excited and said 1 was a super star, but I think it takes the test of time, like Ted Williams, Willie Mays. Henry Aaron.'

Royals 6, Tigers 5 Frank White drilled a tiebreaking solo homer off Dan Schatzeder with two out in the ninth inning as Kansas City snapped Detroit's winning streak at five games. White also squeezed home a run in the second inning after Willie Aikens' two-run single.

Darrell Porter's solo homer gave the Royals a 4-3 lead in the sixth inning but the Tigers tied it on Alan Trammell's RBI-double and took a 5-4 lead in the seventh on Lance Parrish's home run but KC's George Brett evened it with a homer in the eighth, extending his hitting streak to 17 A's 11, Twins 2

Rickey Henderson singled, stole his 54th base of the season and hit a two-run homer in an eight-run firstinning bombardment, Oakland's biggest inning in four years. The A's won their 54th game of the season, matching their total of last year when they finished 54-108 and last in the American League West. They are now second with a 54-53 record under new Manager Billy Martin. Jeff Newman also homered while Steve McCatty scattered nine hits in a route-going performance and Dave McKay and Jeff Cox contributed two-run hits in the big first innings.

Red Sox 7, Brewers 2 Rookie Glenn Hoffman hit his third major league homer and second in as many nights, a two-run shot in the third inning that ignited Boston's victory while Steve Renko an ;;tanley checked the Brewers on five hits. Hoffman also doubled to chase Milwaukee starter starter Reggie Cleveland and touch off a three-run seventh. Hoffman's homer gave him seven hits in his last eight at-bats.

"It's a matter of confidence," said Hoffman, who is replacing injured third baseman Butch Hobson and has boosted his average from

Seaver Fans Five In Reds Victory

By BRUCE LOWITT AP Sports Writer

'The biggest thing I did." Tom Seaver said, "was to tell myself not to get excited." But is he gonna tell that to the rest of the Cincinnati Reds? The Reds, without their pitching ace for more than a month, managed to stay right in the thick of the National League West pennant race. And on Monday night, Seaver returned with a flourish.

He pitched six innings, striking out five batters and limiting San Diego to four hits and one unearned run as Cincinnati, riding home runs by George Foster and Johnny Bench, snapped the Padres' eight-game winning streak with a 7-1 victory in the opener of a twi-night doubleheader. The Reds then ran roughshod over the Padres 11-2 in the second

Elsewhere in the NL. Houston defeated San Francisco 4-2, Los Angeles beat 7-4, Arkansas beat homer of the season, as the Atlanta 5-3 and, in another twi-night twinbill, Montreal beat New York 4-3 in the 10-inning opener, then the Mets won the second game

"I'm totally happy. We did just what we wanted to do. I threw 87 pitches," Seaver, 4-5, said after his first appearance since going on the disabled list last July 1 with a sore right shoulder.

"My God, yes, I'm happy!" he exclaimed. "I'm very happy, particularly because I went out throwing hard ... I wasn't going to rush. I was able to throw every pitch I had.

"I will take my place in the starting rotation Saturday against the Dodgers." Los Angeles, with its victory, is second in the division, onehalf game behind Houston. The Reds, who were 61/2-games back in third place when Seaver went on the disabled list, are still third but only 31/2-games off the pace.

Seaver, who underwent cortisone and antiinflammation injections, hotand-cold treatments and a muscle-stretching program during his layoff, recalled that a year ago at this time he was bothered by stomachmuscle problems.

"Last year I pitched my way through it, but this year I decided I wasn't going to do it," he said. "You don't know what's going to happen. It's no fun going out there and getting your socks knocked

In the first game, Dan Driessen hit a two-run triple off Randy Jones in the first inning, Ken Griffey walked before Foster hit his 16th homer in the third, then Foster was aboard on an error in the sixth when Bench hit his 16th.

In the second game, Ray Knight had a pair of runscoring singles, the second one when Cincinnati erupted for eight runs in the seventh inning, five off Padres relief ace Rollie Fingers. Joe Nolan had a two-run single in the outburst.

Astros 4, Giants 2

"With J.R. Richard out, I ballgames," said Houston's Nolan Ryan, winning for the first time since June 19th. He did so thanks in part to Enos Cabell's triple in a two-run first inning and Craig Reynolds' decisive single in the second.

Ryan struck out seven, walked five and allowed four hits in seven rough inning before Joe Sambito registered his 11th save.

"Our team being in first place is a reflection of our bullpen," Ryan said. struggled the whole game.'

But Houston Manager Bil Virdon observed: "I thought Nolan did a better job than usual. He kept us in the ballgame and that's all you can ask of a pitcher. That's the kind of pitching we need to stay in contention now that Richard is unavailable."

Dodgers 5, Braves 3 Steve Garvey and Dusty Baker homered and Steve Yeager broke a tie with a sixth-inning double that carried the Dodgers past Atlanta for their fifth victory in six games and the Braves' sixth consecutive loss.

Garvey hit his 20th homer of the season in the second inning and singled before Baker hit his 20th in the fourth. Pedro Guerrero singled and went to second on Tommy Boggs' wild pitch before Yeager doubled to put LA ahead to stay.

Expos 4-3, Mets 3-4

Andre Dawson's 10thinning single won the first game and extented his hitting streak to 19 games, the longest in the league this year. It also matched Montreal's club record. But in the second game, with the chance to provide more heroics in the

JacksonClips 399thCareer Homer

NEW YORK (AP) - For Reggie Jackson, Monday was a memorable night as a prelude to what he expects to be a more memorable occasion in the near future.

Jackson's 399th career homer was part of a 14-hit assault by the Yankees in New York's 10-4 victory over the Texas Rangers.

"I have 50 games left this season," said Jackson, "and I'm pretty sure I'm going to hit one more homer. I think now, after 13 seasons, I'm recognized as a good player like (Joe) DiMaggio, (Yogi) Berra and (Al) Kaline. But it takes time."

His 400th career home run will be a big event for Jackson, even more so because his father - Martinez Jackson - is coming from his Philadelphia home to watch his famous son until Jackson hits the milestone.

"I don't think 400 homers automatically puts you in the Hall of Fame," Jackson said. "I think 500 probably does. But now I have 13 years, 400 homers, maybe I'm a superstar. And I would have taken it (number 400) off (Sparky) Lyle tonight even without my father here."

New York jumped to a 2-0 lead in the second inning off Texas starter Gaylord Perry. 5-9, when Jackson scored from third on a double play grounder and Eric Sodrholm followed with a bases-empty homer, his sixth of the season and first since June 2.

Perry has given up only six earned runs in his last five starts," said Ranger Manager Pat Corrales, "and came away with an 0-1 record. But tonight was one of those nights when he got the ball up, and in this park, you just can't afford to get the ball up.

Bobby Brown finished Perry in the fourth with a two-run homer that capped a 30th of the season off reliever Dave Rajisch in the fifth and the Yankees scored twice more before the inning ended with Soderholm singling in another run and Lyle forcing the third home with a basesloaded walk to Willie Ran-

"I just want to play," said Soderholm, the Yankee reserve third baseman who raised his average to .322 with three hits in the game.

Now that I'm the regular third baseman until (Graig) Nettles gets back from his hepatitis," Soderholm said, "I've been taking extra ground-ball practice and extra hitting against righthanded pitching. I guess it's human, but I let that go when I didn't have to do it." Rick Cerone's third single of the game drove in another run off Lyle in the sixth. Bucky Dent had singled in the other two runs during the Yankees' four-run fourth.

"I like the harmony on this team," said New York Manager Dick Howser, "but what I really like is the intensity. We have been doing the job without key players all year although I do not minimize the absence of Net-

WANT AD READER

THAT WORK!

MR. MERCHANT

- People look for the NEWSPAPER and look to read the ads in them.
- The ads you put in the NEWSPAPER are seen by our entire reading audience ... everyone in this immediate trading area!

- Many people read the NEWSPAPER as part of their daily routines.
- The NEWSPAPER has something of interest for everyone in the family.

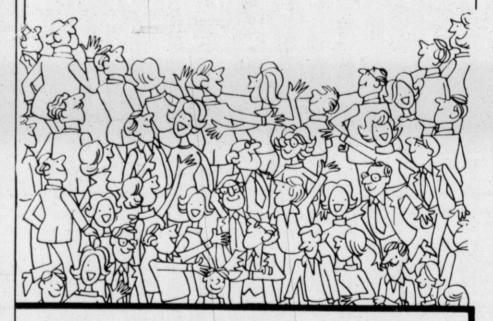

The facts speak for themselves...
NEWSPAPER advertising is more effective, more economical than any other advertising medium!

- People look to the NEWS-PAPER ads when they are ready to buy.
- People read the NEWS-PAPER when it is most convenient for them. It is not an intruder and does not interrupt them from doing anything else.
- NEWSPAPER ads invite public response. An ad you run this morning may bring in customers as early as this afternoon!

- The NEWSPAPER is a medium that can be kept and referred to later on.
 The printed word can be retained easier than words spoken a few seconds, flashed on a screen or billboard.
- Surveys show that many people enjoy the ads in the NEWSPAPER and look for them.
- The NEWSPAPER is ideal for comparison and reference.
 Merchandise and prices in ads may be easily compared with other ads.

The power of the printed word is a powerful form of advertising for you!

Your NEWSPAPER ads get results quickly and economically because in this town, people read...
