School to withdraw funds for EDC work

By ANDREA HOOTEN

Staff Writer

The funding for the Economic Development Council might be shaved by 20 percent, the Deaf Smith County commissioners learned Monday, because the Hereford school district may use tax money only for education.

The school district signed an intergovernmental agreement earlier this year with the city and county stating that it would pitch in 20 percent ($24,000) of the $120,000 needed to fund the EDC for one year with the city and county splitting the remaining 80 percent.

But questions started to surface three weeks ago when the school district's lawyer, Paul Lyle, recommended that the district pull out of the agreement because that money would not be used for educational purposes.

"We were committed to the plan and we really felt we were on good grounds in agreeing to fund this," said John Fuston, the school board's president, "but our attorney flip-flopped and said we would be personally liable in using tax money for anything other than to educate the kids. We did originally do this in good faith and we definitely don't like having to back down; because it's going to be tough on the city and county to support it by themselves."

The EDC has already spent $16,951 of the allotted $120,000, and Fuston said he would vote at the December school board meeting to pay 20 percent of the $16,951 to "hold up our end of the bargain."

John Perrin, the EDC's chairman, suggested some alternative funding for the board, including the pursuit of more federal money.

"I don't know if there are funds there or not," said Perrin. "Due to the DOE's pullout (from Hereford after Deaf Smith County was eliminated from consideration for a nuclear waste repository by the Nuclear Waste Policy Amendments Act of 1987), our housing market has devalued and there is definite

HATAB, again, approves abatement for Whiteface

By ANDREA HOOTEN

Whiteface Ford's application for tax abatement was open to public scrutiny Monday afternoon, but no one in the 15-member audience voiced a complaint about the planned two-year, 100 percent tax abatement on the car dealership's $385,000 building it is constructing at 15th Street and U.S. Highway 385.

After there were no arguments from the audience, the Hereford Area Tax Abatement Board voted to approve the abatement which could save the business $12,780 in taxes.

Each taxing entity will have to approve the tax abatement before any abatement is given.

Even though the city, county and school will lose the tax money for two years Roger Wilcox, president of Whiteface Ford, said he is planning to lease 267 vehicles to Budget Rent-A-Car for one year which will increase each entity's inventory tax for 1989.

From that inventory tax, the county will probably reap $6,425, the city will get about $2,650, and the Hereford school district will receive about $9,450.

The tax money from the rental cars was not weighed into the decision to offer Whiteface Ford the tax abatement.

Lewis wins contest prize

Debi Lewis missed just four games and was closest on the Hereford-Cleburne tie-breaker game to win the $100 grand prize in the Hereford Brand Football Contest.

Winning the $35 second prize was Melinda Gamez, who also missed just four of last week's 25 games but was a little farther away on the tie-breaker.

I.V. Watts topped a list of eight people who missed five games and will get the $15 third prize. Others who missed five were Joe West, Wayne Amistutz, Andrew Crandall, Melvin Kalka Sr., Paula Gamez, Gladys Cavness and Harry Watts.

In last week's regular contest, Wade Lewis missed just three games and wins $25 in Hereford Bucks.

HP Cavness missed six games and was closer on the tie-breaker to win $15 in Hereford Bucks.

while Keith Kalka won third place and $10 in Hereford Bucks. Eight other persons also missed six games but were farther away on the tiebreaker.

One person would have picked up second place, because they picked Cleburne to win, but the entry was unsigned.

Winners have until 5 p.m. Friday to claim their prizes.

Local Roundup

Arson investigated

Fire Marshal Jay Spain and the Deaf Smith County sheriff's office are investigating the possibility of arson in connection with a Sunday night storage building fire that occurred on 19th Street, Spain said.

The 30-by-40 foot wood building, owned by Israel Castillo, was destroyed by the fire and a neighboring storage building was partially burned.

Spain said he suspected arson because there was no electricity nor gasoline to start the fire, and no one had been seen near the structure in three or four weeks.

UN moving Palestine debate to Geneva

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Unless the United States reverses its decision to deny Yasser Arafat an entry visa, the U.N. debate on Palestine will shift to Geneva so the PLO chairman can address the General Assembly, diplomats said.

Arab representatives planned to introduce a resolution today in the United Nations that deplores the U.S. action, postpones debate on Palestine now scheduled for Thursday until at least next month, and urges the State Department to grant the visa.

Saturday's decision by Secretary of State George P. Shultz to bar Arafat from the country on grounds he was an "accessory" to acts of terrorism against Americans has been widely criticized by dozens of countries, including the Arab world and such staunch U.S. allies as Britain, Canada and Australia.

Only Israel backed the U.S. decision.

evidence of a negative impact on our tax base. I think if we can package that we can get federal impact funds because it's been their (DOE's) policy to say they'd take care of negative impacts."

The EDC already has used some federal money — $155,000 — that was given to the defunct Waste Deposit Impact Committee which in turn used the money to construct the economic development plan the EDC is based upon.

Another route for supplemental funding might be through a contract with the school district — the EDC offering a service to the school which the school would pay for.

"The EDC would have to offer a service specifically related to the school such as packaging an appeal

In Washington, the State Department said Monday the U.S. decision to deny the visa was "firm and final."

A senior U.N. official said on condition of anonymity that if the United States still refuses to grant Arafat a visa, another resolution probably will called this week for moving the assembly to Geneva.

Arab diplomats say they have enough votes, simple majority in the 159-member body, to shift the assembly to where Arafat would be able to speak.

U.N. legal counsel Carl-August Fleischhauer told a U.N. committee the U.S. decision violates the 1947 U.S.-U.N. Headquarters Agreement that requires the host country to grant visas to people invited by the United Nations.

"The agreement does not contain a reservation of the right to bar the entry of those who represent, in the view of the host country, a threat to its sovereignty and security," Fleischhauer said.

Patricia Byrne, alternate U.S. representative, said the U.S. government disagreed with Fleischhauer's interpretation, but she did not elaborate.

Many nations in the world body said the U.S. action countered what they described as the Palestine Liberation Organization's move toward modernization with its declaration of Palestinian independence Nov. 15 that also implicitly recognized Israel.

The PLO's U.N. observer, Zuhdi Labib Terzi, said, "We have a message of peace that we want to bring to the General Assembly through Chairman Arafat. The United States is imposing some obstacles that would impede easy access, so we have to do it somewhere else."

Open House at new location

Mark's Diesel Fuel Injection has moved into renovated facilities in the former Jack's Marine building on E. Hwy. 60, and Hereford's Hustlers held a ribbon cutting for the firm Monday. Mark Landrum, shown cutting the ribbon at right, is joined by employees and Hustlers for the event. Mark will be sponsoring the C of C Fun Breakfast Thursday morning. The award-winning business offers farmers, ranchers and all diesel owners the finest service in the area.

DEA will investigate false busts staged for media

HOUSTON (AP) — The Drug Enforcement Administration's apparent use of the news media as an unwitting partner in undercover operations will be investigated by a U.S. House committee and the Justice Department, government officials say.

High-ranking DEA officials issued a statement Monday, saying it is not the policy of DEA "to lie or mislead the media," but stopped short of saying the agency has never staged drug seizures and issued false information about them.

The Houston Chronicle Sunday reported that two drug seizures in which the DEA "enlisted local police agencies to find" caches of drugs, then summon the media to announce the discoveries — without disclosing that the seizures were setups.

Last week, a DEA spokesman in Washington confirmed that the practice occurs nationwide, allowing agents to infiltrate higher levels of drug networks.

Sources said newspaper clippings generated by the tactic provide cover stories for agents who have posed as drug smugglers, then need a way to dispose of drugs before they reach the street.

The Texas Department of Public Safety said in a 1984 news conference that 952 pounds of cocaine were found abandoned at a "random" roadblock, which court records reveal was, in fact, a prearranged checkpoint requested by the DEA.

A Harris County sheriff's investigator announced Sept. 29 the "discovery" of 60 kilograms of cocaine in an abandoned car, based on an "anonymous" tip. But the newspaper reported that the DEA arranged for the officers to find the drugs.

"The question is not whether there was a mistruth, the question is whether a mistruth was justified," Associate Attorney General Francis A. Keating II, who coordinates DEA activities and reports to Attorney General Dick Thornburgh, said.

Thornburgh was out of the country.

Keating said he will call for an explanation of DEA policy regarding disclosure to the press. The study will include a catalog of the frequency of and justification for planting misleading reports, he said.

"We need the cooperation and the trust of the public and the media," Keating said. "If something like this jeopardizes that trust, it concerns us. There may be a situation where the creation of a fictionalized stop and arrest is essential for the safety of the informant."

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This is for your zillions of readers who would like to see "The Star-Spangled Banner" dumped and replaced with "America the Beautiful."

Take a close look at the words:

Oh beautiful for spacious skies
(through which thousands of airplanes fly every day).

For amber waves of grain (which is at the mercy of floods, droughts and other natural calamities),

For purple mountain majesties (whose highest peaks cannot escape pollution)

Above the fruited plain! (under which we have buried nuclear waste)

America! America! God shed his grace on thee (He has certainly done that!)

And crown them good with brotherhood (hence millions of legal and illegal immigrants),

From sea to shining sea! (reeling from oil slicks and waste dumpings)

I am not a pessimist but I believe in being realistic. I hope we wake up and do something about the deterioration of the environment before we run out of time.—R.J., Dallas Morning News Reader

DEAR R.J.: Thanks for sharing your wisdom. Here's another letter on the subject:

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I wish that those who would like to trade "The Star-Spangled Banner" for another song could have been with me on Dec. 7, 1941, on the island of Oahu.

That surprise attack at 7:55 a.m. sank or damaged 18 American ships and destroyed 200 of our planes. There were 3,700 casualties.

My cruiser was one of the few that remained intact and she was badly damaged, able only to run in circles because of a broken rudder. The pole that held the Star-Spangled Banner aloft had been cut by flying debris but was quickly repaired and Old Glory was proudly waving in the breeze by morning.

I am not a vocalist but the only time I can't sing our national anthem is when I get choked up with emotion. Replace "The Star Spangled Banner" and you just might start another war.—J.R.R., Chillicothe, Ill.

DEAR CHILLI: Who, me? Not on your life! Thanks for writing.

DEAR READERS: I have just come across a little paperback that can help your child in a big way.

We know that we cannot depend on the schools to do it all. This book will help parents teach their children to have confidence, get motivated, be willing to work hard, be responsible, stick to the job until it is finished, show concern for others and use common sense.

All of the above are learned (or not learned) at home. I believe that this book by Dr. Dorothy Rich can make a difference in your child's life. The foreword by Sen. Bill Bradley gives it a great send-off. The book is "MegaSkills." The publisher is Houghton Mifflin. The price is $8.95. The results could be extremely rewarding.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: For a long time I have read other people's pet peeves in your column. And now will you please print mine?

Why is it that when people call to ask for information and you start to give it to them, they invariably say, "Wait til I get a pencil"? This really drives me wild. Am I too critical?—Valparaiso, Ind.

DEAR VAL.: Not really. But it does prove once again that common sense is quite uncommon.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The column you wrote describing the difference between love and infatuation was a classic. It's time for a rerun.—Miami

These requests, dear readers, come in every day. Sometimes I get as many as 50 in a single day. My smart staff hit on a wonderful solution to an enormously time-consuming task: "Why don't you combine the columns that are most frequently requested and put them in a booklet?" Call it "Gems."

After a great deal of reading and sorting, I have done just that. The booklet is called "Gems" (what else?), and it is hot off the presses in time for Christmas, for the man or woman who has everything—or nothing. It is the perfect gift for a sick friend—or a well one. Ideal for your grandmother who likes to read in short spurts, or your teenager who will get a great sampling of the philosophy I've been espousing these last 33 years. And you just might see a Gem in there that you wish you had clipped five years ago.

Send for "Gems"—in care of Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562. Enclose $4 and a self-addressed, stamped (65 cents postage), long, business-size (No. 10) envelope. This is a lot of money, folks, but as you will see, it's a lot of booklet.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Is this the "Me Generation," I ask you? A person is given a free room at a lodge for 14 nights and doesn't leave the housekeeper a dime.

The guest was an official at a horse show in a New England resort town. She drove a 1988 Saab, which suggests that she might have a few bucks.

The housekeeper tended her room daily and gave excellent service, and there was never a complaint. In case the ignoramus doesn't know any better, the customary gratuity is $1 per room, per night. Tell 'em, Annie.—Tired

DEAR TIRED: Cleaning up after people is not exactly a day at the beach. Hotel and inn maids deserve at least $1 a night per room. You wouldn't expect a bellman to carry your bags for nothing. Why be less considerate of the maid who has a much dirtier job?

Keeping track of the money you spend on the holidays this year may be one of the best gifts you can give yourself for 1989.

According to Granovsky, who is a family economics specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, getting a grip on holiday expenses involves knowing how much you spend for the following:

-Gifts you buy and the cost of materials or ingredients for gifts you make.

-The cost of food and liquor for parties at home; feeding visiting relatives or friends; taking foods to parties or pot-lucks; the cost of ingredients for Christmas baking.

-Tickets to events; hair styling and new clothes to attend events.

-Special contributions made at church or to charities.

-Indoor or outdoor decorations; replacement bulbs; Christmas tree.

-Wrapping, cards and postage.

-Gasoline and food away from home for shopping trips; travel expenses of visiting friends and relatives.

Many holiday expenses don't seem extraordinary, especially when they're mixed in with other items.

Yellowjackets down Whitefaces 35-20 in regional football game

The Hereford Whitefaces were hoping for some sort of déjà vu, not a 35-20 loss when they met the Cleburne Yellowjackets in a Class 4A regional playoff game Saturday at Mustang Bowl at Sweetwater.

Last time the teams had met was in 1986. Mark Artho had kicked a last-second field goal to give the Herd a 9-7 win.

Passing: Scott 10-17, 114 yards, two TDs; Carl Delozier 6-1.
Receiving: Pat Mercer 6-48; Glenn Parker 1-15; Jared Victor 1-12; Clint Cotten 1-12; Kyle Andrews 1-7.

The only kick this time was by the Yellowjackets. The end came early for the Herd, as Cleburne used all but 1:38 of the third quarter clock to pad a 14-7 halftime lead and deprive the Herd of the strong northwesterly wind it had chosen to take to start the second half.

"We have no excuses," said defensive end Brad Smith. "I think maybe we underestimated them a little after we beat Sweetwater, but they just lined up and ran over us. The only thing we had heard about Cleburne was that 1986 game, but we were prepared for everything they did. There are no excuses: they just ran over us."

Cleburne used a balanced attack to pile up 202 rushing yards on 49 carries and 136 passing yards on seven catches. The Herd had 167 rushing yards on 34 tries and 10 passes for 114 steps.

Cleburne had a total of 69 plays, while Hereford had 59 snaps.

Hereford, which finished the season 9-2-1, received the fatal blow in the third quarter as the Yellowjackets went 80 yards on 14 plays into the wind to eat up the first 7:41 of the second half and take a 21-7 lead.

Tailback Onnie McCullough, Cleburne's leading rusher with 22 carries for 92 yards, picked up 36 yards on 10 carries and the touchdown with 4:19 to play in the third period. Quarterback Roger Gregory picked up two crucial first downs, including a 22-yard gain on third-and-eight at the Cleburne 40 early in the drive and a nine-yard gain on a sack escape from the Hereford 31.

McCullough picked up the last 12 yards on three carries, capping the drive with a one-yard run. Joe Flores added the PAT kick to give Cleburne a 21-7 lead.

Hereford could muster just six yards on three runs by tailback Keith Brown and punted the ball to the Yellowjackets, who took over at their own 49 with 2:48 to play in the period.

Cleburne moved to the Herd 38 before being stopped, and a Gregory punt carried to the Hereford 33. Hereford had time for just one play at the end of the quarter, and had a 40-mph headwind the rest of the game.

Hereford managed just six yards on its next possession, and a Brian Fowler punt went just 15 yards to the Hereford 24.

Cleburne ran 2:55 off the clock, going 24 yards on seven plays. Fullback Chance Scott carried the last six yards with 7:35 left in the game to give the Yellowjackets a 28-7 lead.

The Herd had tried just four passes before that time, but Jason Scott hit Glenn Parker and Kyle Andrews coming out of the backfield for 22 yards, and threw two passes for 18 yards to split end Pat Mercer to move the Herd to the end zone.

The last pass to Mercer, in the right corner of the end zone, came with 5:38 to play. Aaron Savage added the PAT to cut the lead to 28-14.

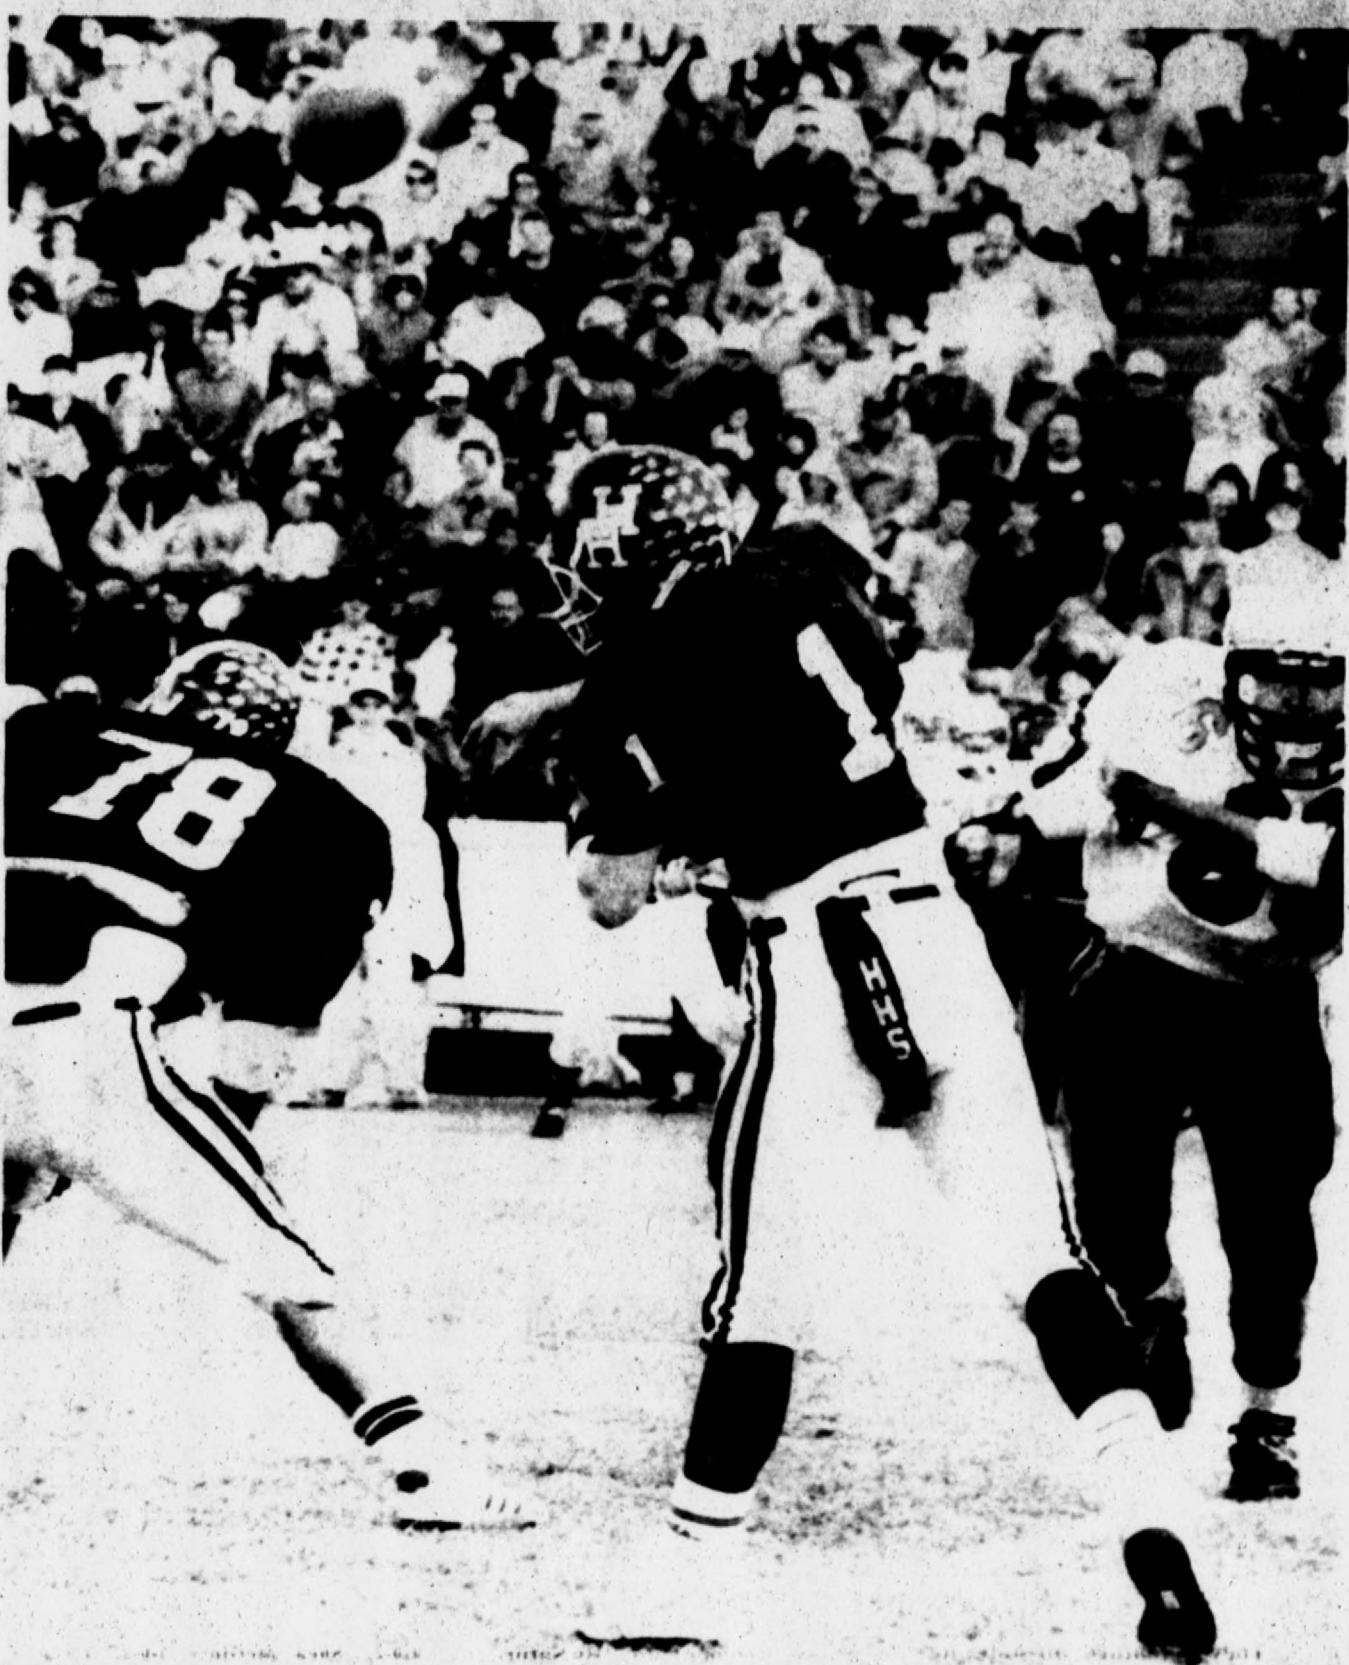

Hereford's attempted onside kick was recovered at the Herd 49, and the Yellowjackets were stopped at the 45. Gregory punted to Mercer at the Hereford 10, but Mercer couldn't find the handle. Cleburne's Brent Marchman fell on the ball at the seven.

Three plays later, backup tailback Donavin Burks carried six yards for the score with 2:03 to play, and Flores' PAT kick increased the lead to 35-14.

Hereford marched 80 yards in 1:10 for its last score. The whitefaces were aided by a 15-yard personal foul call against the Yellowjackets, and the Herd used the passing game, into the wind, to gain all but four of the remaining 65 yards.

Scott hit end Clint Cotten over the middle for a 12-yard gain to the 47, then went 18 yards to Mercer on the left sideline. Scott then went to flanker Jared Victor on the right side for 12 yards to the 23.

After an incompletion and a four-yard gain by Scott, Scott hit Mercer on the left side for a 15-yard pickup to the four. Scott couldn't hit Cotten on the next play, but then threw to Mercer in the left corner of the end zone.

Mercer initially jumped up for the ball, then reached over the top of a Cleburne defender to catch the ball in front of the defender's face for the score with 50 seconds to play.

A two-point try failed, leaving the score final at 35-20.

"There wasn't much to that last one," said Mercer, who had six catches for 68 yards. "I just jumped over him and wanted it a little more than he did."

"I just wish I could've caught a lot more."

The teams traded early touchdowns before Cleburne broke a short pass play that gave the Yellowjackets a permanent lead.

Cleburne won the toss to begin the game and deferred the choice until the second half. Hereford opted to take the wind and defend the north goal, giving the first possession to the Yellowjackets.

The teams traded punts on their first two possessions before Cleburne went 40 yards on six plays into the wind to score.

Gregory hit wingback Eric Smith for 13 yards to the Hereford 26, then Smith gained eight yards on an inside reverse. Gregory gained 15 of the next 18 yards, including a 13-yard run around the left side, eluding three Hereford tacklers to score with 5:07 to play in the first quarter. Flores' PAT gave Cleburne a 7-0 lead.

Hereford showed offensive promise on the next series, going 64 yards on four plays to tie the score.

Brown picked up 40 yards on three carries to open the drive. On the fourth play, at the Yellowjackets 24, Scott went down the right side on the option, found a hole and cut upfield to score with 3:35 to play. Aaron Savage drove a PAT bullet through the goalposts to tie the score at seven with 3:35 to play in the quarter.

After that drive, Brown picked up just 43 yards on 14 carries.

"I thought it was going to be okay after that," said guard Brian Watts. "I don't know what happened. They lined up in exactly what we had worked against all week. They shifted their line every now and then, but it was the basic defense."

"I'm sorry that it's over so soon, but I knew it would be a tough road. We had to get our mind right and play hard every week. I think we played hard today, but it just didn't work."

On Cleburne's next possession, the Yellowjackets moved to the Hereford 45 before Stuart Mitts dived to knock down a pass at the Hereford 40.

"We knew they were going to throw about 30 percent of the time, and they came out throwing," Mitts said. "They flooded us with the back coming out, and we had some trouble with the curl."

"They threw to the curl a lot in the first half, and we had the linebackers covering the curl and the cornerbacks covering the guy out of the backfield."

"We changed that at halftime, but by then they didn't need to throw it. They just shoved it down our throats."

Cleburne grabbed the lead for good after forcing a Hereford punt near the end of the quarter.

On third-and-12 at the Yellowjackets 17, Gregory threw a pass along the left sideline to Smith, who broke four tackles and went 83 yards to score on the first play of the second quarter.

Flores' PAT kick made it 14-7 Cleburne.

The Yellowjackets threatened on their next possession after a Fowler into-the-gale punt went just 21 yards to the Hereford 43.

Cleburne moved to the Hereford 13, but Mercer jumped in front of a Gregory pass at the five and returned the interception to the 20.

The Herd moved from its own 20 to the Cleburne 43, but a Scott pass intended for Mercer at the 15 was broken up by Cleburne's Jason Crysup, forcing Hereford to punt.

Cleburne had to kick the ball away, and a high snap almost eluded Gregory. Instead of a turnover, Gregory kicked a 41-yard rolling punt to pin the Whitefaces at the Hereford 25.

The teams traded punts the rest of the half.

"The defense just had an off day," said junior linebacker Brian Wagner, one of 12 members of the 1988 team that will return. "It was the first off game we've had since Levelland."

"It's been a long season for us, because we've really been in the playoffs since the Levelland game (the fifth game of the season). It's been one loss and we're out since then."

"After the Levelland game we got our act together and got this far. I just didn't think, after we got this far, we would be out this soon."

Girls open district tonight

The Hereford varsity girls basketball team begins District 1-A play tonight at Levelland while the Hereford boys, their ranks swollen with players fresh from the football field, play at Amarillo Caprock this evening.

"This is a good game to see how we match up with the best, see how far we've come, and see what we have left to work on."

The Lady Whitefaces are coming off a sixth-place finish in the Amarillo Girls Invitational Tournament last weekend. Hereford dropped a five-point decision to Amarillo High, defeated El Paso High, then lost to Clovis in the consolation championship.

"We had a chance to win every game, but we had some things that hurt us," Belcher said. "By Saturday evening we were a little tired because we played early, sat around and watched a couple of games, and we didn't get a real good effort Saturday evening."

The Hereford boys may be a little tired, too: Coach Mike Fields spent much of Monday afternoon leading his "new" team through drills and the fundamentals of the Hereford offense and defense.

Aluminum creations

These intricate aluminum Christmas decorations, made by Mrs. Alton Farr, come in various sizes and colors and will be featured during the 8th Annual Festival of Arts and Crafts set from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. Saturday at the Hereford Community Center. Proceeds from the fundraiser, which is sponsored by Wesley United Methodist Church, will benefit the church and Operation Good Shepherd.

SELF-ACCEPTANCE By Bob Wear

In some ways, we can be what we want to be and do what we want to do; but there are some things we cannot be and some things we cannot do.

It is important, therefore, to seek the proper balance between self-acceptance and self-improvement. The recognition of need for self-examination, which is essential to meaningful self-betterment, does not interfere with justified self-acceptance.

In our self-examination, we must be just as wise and realistic as we can be, because this is how we establish the needed balance between self-acceptance and self-improvement. We must not have unjustified expectations for ourselves. On the other hand, we will want to honestly do our best and be satisfied with doing our best. We can try too hard, and it is possible to be too easily satisfied. The sensible balance will prevent both of these mistakes.

We must be fair with ourselves in the self-examination, in order to be effective in our living. "By undue and overstrained self-inspection the mind is apt to become morbid and depressed, and to breed scruples, which tease and harass without producing any real fruit." Goldburn. This can happen, and, for this reason and others, we must be very wise and honest in forming our evaluation of ourselves.

The improvement of self, in some respects, is recognized as a continuing process. We should do this within the framework of reasonable possibilities and basic personal potentials.

The acceptance of self requires continuing effort, too. There are features about ourselves that must be accepted. If we accept them, whatever they may be, and live with them in a relaxed and comfortable atmosphere; they will not be insufferable liabilities. In many instances, they may become assets; part of our distinctiveness as human beings.

Intelligent, wholesome acceptance of self will include a sensible and justified program of self-inspection and self-improvement.

A little girl's dream

Most young girls would be very envious of this femininely decorated bedroom with floral wallpaper, ruffled satin pillows and matching comforter and sheer ruffled curtains. The second-story bedroom, which was decorated by Erma Rickman, at left, also features a window seat. Admiring one of the gaily donned baby dolls is La Madre Mia Study Club member, Bettye Owen. The Rickman residence at 500 Union, as well as the homes of John and Jodi Meyer, 328 Fir, and Earl and Dodi Brookhart, 200 Kingwood, will be open for viewing during the club's Annual Christmas Tour of Homes from 2-5 p.m. Sunday. Tickets are $2 per person and may be bought at the homes or from club members. Refreshments of spiced tea, coffee and cookies will be served at the tour's conclusion site, the E.B. Black House, where the winner of $25 in Hereford Bucks will be announced.

ASK DR. LAMB

Is Use of Mineral Oil Harmful?

BY LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB: What is your opinion of the continued use of mineral oil? A relative of mine has problems with constipation and uses mineral oil daily. I have always read and been advised against this.

DEAR READER: It may be all right for a day or two in situations where it is important to keep the stool soft and to provide lubrication. Otherwise, it is not a good laxative. In the first place, regular use may lead to leakage of oil from the rectum, not a very pleasant complication. It can also interfere with the absorption of the fat soluble vitamins: A, D, E and K.

Mineral oil is not absorbed to any extent. Yet, the small amount that is absorbed can be carried by the circulation and lodge in the lungs, resulting in a condition called lipid pneumonia.

There are much better solutions to constipation. I really don't think it is a good idea to use any laxatives on a regular basis. The exception is one of the bulk formers that can improve bowel function. They include the psyllium preparations such as Metamucil and Fiberall. These act by improving colon motility and restoring the bulk our ancestors got naturally in their diet.

The regular use of chemical laxatives can lead to an irritable bowel syndrome with repeated problems. The same is true of the salt laxatives such as the magnesium salts.

I have discussed the problems with laxatives in common use in Special Report 77, Do You Need A Laxative? which I'm sending you. Your relative may want to read it before continuing laxative habit. Others who want this report can send $1 with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/77, P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713.

DEAR DR. LAMB: Four months ago I was diagnosed as having a hypothyroid condition, so I'll be taking Synthroid the rest of my life. This seems like a tiny inconvenience considering how fabulous I feel. I haven't been this energetic and happy in years. I lost 25 pounds in just a few weeks. My doctor insisted that I have no limitations whatsoever, but I recently read that I should never eat cabbages, kale and several other vegetables. If this is true, what reaction would I have if I did? Would it be harmful to drink alcohol? And what about nonprescription medications? Are there any I should avoid?

DEAR READER: If a person really has hypothyroidism, replacing the needed thyroid has a striking effect, including loss of excess fat and retained fluid, but that is not the cause of most people being overweight. The replacement does simply bring you back to normal.

There are foods that contain a substance that causes thyroid goiters in animals. These are the rutabagas and turnips. They contain an antithyroid substance called goitrogen. This substance has also been discovered in members of the cabbage family. This is believed to occur rarely in humans who consume large quantities of these foods and also have an iodine deficient diet. A reasonable use of these vegetables is not likely to be a problem.

Alcohol probably is not good for any one; in your case it would have the same effect as it would on a person not taking any form of medication and the same can be said for the nonprescription medicines. Just think of taking Synthroid as replacing the normal amount of thyroid hormone you should have.

DEAR DR. LAMB: My family doctor has made a diagnosis of hypoglycemia. He put me on a high-protein, low-carbohydrate diet. Since beginning this diet I have lost five pounds. I do not want to lose more weight as I am 5 feet 5 and weigh 128 pounds. At first this diet seemed to help, but after six weeks on the program my glucose level was down to 59. My symptoms have returned. I have extreme fatigue, thirst, nervousness, irritability, confusion, dizziness at times and even blurred vision. Will the symptoms subside? My doctor has done extensive tests and ruled out other health problems.

DEAR READER: The important question is whether he has ruled in hypoglycemia (low blood sugar) or not. It is not a diagnosis that is made by exclusion of other illnesses but must be made by demonstrating a significantly low blood glucose level at the time the typical symptoms are provoked. In addition, it must be demonstrated that the symptoms are abolished as the blood glucose level rises.

There are other causes that can bring on similar symptoms which are not attributable to hypoglycemia. That includes anxiety. Both anxiety and hypoglycemia trigger an insulin release that can cause the same symptoms. It is important to know which a person has.

A blood glucose level of 59 in itself is not abnormal. I have seen topnotch athletes with lower levels and no symptoms at all. I'm talking about athletes ready to compete in the Olympics.

Official lighting ceremonies Dec. 15

By RANDOLPH E. SCHMID
Associated Press Writers

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Christmas tree has its roots firmly planted in the fertile soil of American tradition, nostalgia and the Ellipse south of the White House.

Official lighting ceremonies for the living Colorado blue spruce will be held Dec. 15 this year, with President and Mrs. Reagan expected to preside for their final time.

Transplanted from Pennsylvania a decade ago, it is known officially as the National Community Christmas Tree and serves as the focus of the annual Pageant of Peace.

In addition to that national Christmas tree, a variety of smaller trees will mark the holiday season in the capital city.

The National Christmas Tree Association is maintaining tradition by supplying a tree for the White House.

The national grower's group conducts an annual contest with the winner getting to send a tree to the Executive Mansion.

This year the tree is coming from Snowcrest Tree Farms in Montello, Wis., operated by Irv Daggett.

Unique bathroom

La Madre Mia Study Club's 19th Annual Christmas Tour of Homes is planned from 2-5 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 4, with the public invited to view three Hereford residences: John and Jodi Meyer, 328 Fir; Earl and Dodi Brookhart, 200 Kingwood; and Lee Roy and Erna Rickman, 500 Union. Study club member, Gladys Merritt, is shown in the spacious master bathroom in the Meyer home. The room features a step-up bathtub, double sinks and is decorated in peach and green tones and accented with gold fixtures. Tour tickets, priced at $2 per person, may be purchased from club members or at the tour homes. At the conclusion of the tour, the winner of the door prize, $25 in Hereford bucks, will be announced at the E.B. Black House where refreshments of spiced tea, coffee and cookies will be served. All proceeds will benefit the community.

Hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

It seems that potpourri has really become popular. I bought one of the small potpourri jars and just love the wonderful smell that lingers in my home when I use it.

Is there a way to make the potpourri at home? Since I use the jar a lot, it has become quite expensive to buy. Any suggestions will be appreciated. — Ruth McQueen, Memphis, Tenn.

Since I am not sure if you wish your final product to be a dry potpourri or a simmering potpourri, I will print the following recipe for wet potpourri, which works wonderfully.

Mix together 2 cups of rose petals, 2 cups rosemary and 2 cups of mint in a large jar. Add in 4 cinnamon sticks, 1/2 cup of whole allspice and 2 garlic cloves.

Cover the above ingredients with hot white vinegar. Put the lid on the jar and leave it for about one week. Then place it in the simmering pot and your house will be filled with the wonderful smell of potpourri.

If you have favorite fragrant blossoms and herbs, why not try experimenting with them.

Good luck and thanks for writing! — Heloise

FLOWER BULBS

Dear Heloise: I purchased some spring bulbs when they were on sale and wasn't sure how I was going to store them.

I found the ideal place! An egg carton. The bulbs fit just perfectly and they stay dry and unbroken.

The cartons are easy to stack, too!

— Spring Planter, Provo, Utah

CHOPPING ONIONS

Dear Heloise: I found out when cutting onions that wearing a pair of safety glasses keeps the tears from my eyes. They are easy to keep in the kitchen so they are handy when I need them. — Bill Putt, Clearfield, Pa.

Names in the News

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — "Miami Vice" star Don Johnson and Stefano Casiraghi, husband of Princess Caroline of Monaco, were more than just celebrity entrants at the 1988 Key West Offshore World Cup boat race.

Casiraghi piloted a 44-foot boat to victory Tuesday in the open class. His average speed was 93.077 mph in an Italian V-hull boat with four 600-horsepower diesel engines.

Johnson finished second in the superboat class. He drove a 46-foot boat borrowed from the race's winner, Tom Gentry, a Honolulu real estate developer.

"I'm here to race, not to be an actor," said Johnson, who was mobbed by fans.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Todd Bridges, who starred in the "Diff'rent Strokes" television series, pleaded guilty to driving his BMW car 80 mph in a 35 zone and received a $200 fine, a court official said.

Bridges entered his plea last week, said a court clerk on Tuesday, who declined to give her name. The 23-year-old actor pleaded innocent to a charge of reckless driving at his arraignment earlier this year.

The incident was just the latest in the actor's legal problems.

In January 1987, Bridges received a suspended sentence when pleading no contest to charges that he bombed an auto customizer's car following a dispute over work on the actor's Porsche.

BURBANK, Calif. (AP) — Actress Dee Wallace Stone, best known for her role as the tolerant mother in

"E.T. — The Extra-Terrestrial," has given birth to an 8-pound girl, her publicist said.

Stone, married to actor Christopher Stone, delivered Gabrielle Elise on Sunday at St. Joseph Medical Center, spokeswoman Susan Patricola said Tuesday.

The first-time mother and daughter returned to their San Fernando Valley home in time for Thanksgiving, Patricola said.

"Both mother and baby are doing well," she added.

The father has had numerous roles, including parts on the daytime soap opera, "The Days of Our Lives."
