

U.S., Israel Negotiating 'Closer' Relationship

By R. GREGORY NOKES

WASHUE— The United States and Israel are negotiating a closer strategic relationship that could lead to a more visible, but still undefined, American military presence in Israel.

well and that there was little danger of a major falling out over the controversial U.S. sale of Airborne Warning and Control Systems Aircraft, or AWACS, to Saudi Arabia. Begin appears to have given up any hope of getting Reagan to change his mind about selling five of the radar planes to Saudi Arabia. The proposed accord on a closer military relationship with Israel was announced by Begin and appeared intended to offset any impression that the AWACS sale meant the U.S. interest in Israel's security had declined. Begin said details on that relationship would be worked out by Israeli Defense Minister Ariel Sharon, Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger and Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. "There will be ongoing consultations over an extended period," Haig said later. "A number of possibilities are under discussion. A Defense Department official, who asked not to be identified, said it could include joint military exercises, storing of U.S. military supplies in Israel for use in an emergency and Israeli support in the event of a U.S. conflict with the Soviet Union.

He said use of Israeli bases by the U.S. Rapid Deployment Force "is not on our list" of things to be discussed. He declined to say whether the sharing of military intelligence, such as from U.S.

satellites, was under consideration, although other officials haven't ruled it out. An Israeli official indicated that some hard bargaining could lie ahead. "Principles were agreed on — common interests, common dangers, the final aim — but how to do it, when and in what way, that was not discussed and will be set for further talks in the very near future," said the official, who did not want to be identified. At a state dinner Wednesday, Begin reaffirmed Israel's interest in extending its peace treaty with Egypt to its Arab neighbors, but said security needs made it difficult to achieve. "For us security is not a word or a concept, it is a way of life," he said in a toast to Reagan.

Nation's Crime Rate Increased 9 Percent During Last Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — There was a murder every 23 minutes and robberies occurred at a rate of one a minute as crime in the United States rose 9 percent last year, the FBI reported today. The bureau's annual Uniform Crime Report said 13 million serious crimes were reported last year in this country of 227 million, a level 55 percent higher than a decade earlier. According to the report, criminals escaped apprehension in about four out of five crimes committed in 1980, with an arrest rate of 19 percent for all serious crimes. Suspected offenders were taken into custody in 44 percent of all violent crimes but only 16 percent of crimes

Small Town Really Has Representation

LEON VALLEY, Texas (AP) — In its wisdom, the Texas Legislature has given the 9,000 residents of Leon Valley the same representation in Congress as its huge neighbor to the southeast — San Antonio. Under the congressional redistricting bill approved by a recent special session of the Legislature, this San Antonio suburb will be Bexar County's most represented township in the U.S. Congress. It may also be the most represented town of its size in Texas, or the nation, with its voters helping choose three U.S. representatives. "It's kind of a crazy deal," laughs Mayor Ken Alley, after it was discovered portions of Leon Valley were placed in three separate districts occupied by two Democrats and one Republican congressman. Under the redistricting plan — to be reviewed by the Justice Department under the Voting Rights Act and still subject to court challenge — Leon Valley would have the same representation in Congress as (See SMALL, Page 2A)

White Resistance and Hostility To Minorities 'Documented'

By JACK KEEVER
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A Mexican-American councilman from Houston says it is too early to tell how the Reagan administration will respond to complaints that whites are harassing and intimidating minority voters and candidates. A report by the U.S. Civil Rights Commission on Wednesday purports to document "white resistance and hostility by some state and local officials to increased minority participation in virtually every aspect of the electoral process."

sample ballot was self-marked." Such an incident "might have discouraged a less well-informed person from voting," the report said. It said Rep. Paul Moreno, D-El Paso, had testified he knew of many similar instances in which voters with marked sample ballots were not allowed to vote. "He (Moreno) stated that the potential voters 'have their ballots in their pockets and at times they are searched ... and if something is found ... they are ejected,'" the report said.

"In judging the Reagan administration, the crucial time is not here yet ... but it will be very shortly," Ben Reyes, councilman and former state House member, told a news conference. A decision on Reagan's attitude toward minorities' voting complaints would come after appeals reach the federal level in a year to a 18 months, Reyes said. "There is no reason to believe it (the Reagan administration) is backing away at enforcing the law," said Texas Rural Legal Aid lawyer George Korbel. The commission's report on the 1965 Voting Rights Act was released Wednesday in Austin, Atlanta and Washington. Two Mexican-Americans, J. Richard Avena of San Antonio and Sen. Carlos Truan, D-Corpus Christi, told the news conference Texas "old-timers" who run elections are among the barriers minorities must overcome to vote. Avena, regional director of the Commission on Civil Rights, said he complained to a South Texas judge that not enough Mexican-Americans were being appointed election judges, and County Judge O.B. Gates of Jourdanton responded by letter which said, in part: "The majority of the people who run for election judges are old-timers at running elections." "It's these old-timers that I'm worried about," Avena said. "You have to remember," said Truan, "that a lot of people are not bilingual and don't look kindly at people who need (language) assistance to vote." In Atascosa and Frio counties, the report said, minorities "reported incidents in which they were harassed or intimidated in their efforts to vote." In San Antonio during the 1980 presidential election, the report said, an election official refused to allow a voter to take a marked sample ballot into the voting booth. The report said the man insisted that he had a right to do so and asked the official to call the Texas secretary of state's office for clarification. A staff member in Austin confirmed that a self-marked ballot may be taken into the voting booth, the commission said, but the "voter was only allowed to vote after signing a sworn statement that the

Kidnap Foiled By Call to Cops

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — Kidnappers who threatened to cut off the head of a woman they held for ransom became frightened when they learned police had been notified and released their hysterical hostage unharmed, officials said. Carol Joy Smith, 20, the daughter of former state district judge Charles B. Smith, was freed Wednesday morning about 15 hours after she was abducted by two men who threw a blanket over her head at a Galveston shopping center. "She said they hauled her up three flights of stairs, tied her up, gagged her and threw her in a bathtub. We don't know much more because she is hysterical," said Galveston County Sheriff Joe Max Taylor. He said authorities are seeking two men who in a series of telephone calls demanded $20,000 ransom in $50 bills, but released their hostage before any money was paid. "They apparently got scared off and decided to abort it," said Galveston County Sheriff Joe Max Taylor. Smith said his daughter overheard the kidnappers say, "There are pigs on the judge's tail." Taylor said Smith followed telephoned instructions of the

Murder Defendant

Hobbled With Brace

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A judge has ordered a defendant hobbled with a leg brace to prevent any escape attempt during his trial on charges of killing two security guards.

Testimony opened Wednesday in the trial of Miguel A. "Silky" Richardson, who is charged with the Aug. 31, 1980, killing of Air Force Tech. Sgt. John G. Ebbert, 40, and Howard Powers, 42.

The two men were employed as security guards at the downtown Holiday Inn.

Their bodies were found in a stairwell. Both men were shot in the back of the head and Powers' wrists were handcuffed behind his back.

Richardson was arrested in Colorado and fought extradition for 18 months.

While held at the Denver jail, authorities said, Richardson attempted to escape twice, once by plunging an 11-inch homemade dagger into a deputy sheriff's throat.

Richardson, 25, who claims to be a practitioner of the occult, also faces robbery charges in Oklahoma City.

Judge Preston Dial of 175th District Court ordered Richardson fitted with a metal leg brace to discourage any further escape attempts during the trial.

Officer Appears

Before Grand Jury

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — A former McAllen police investigator seen striking a prisoner on a nationally televised videotape spent more than four hours Wednesday with a federal grand jury investigating alleged police brutality.

Tom Carter, a McAllen officer for 18 months, was suspended without pay following a 1978 incident at the station booking desk. The videotape shows Pedro Dennett being kicked, slammed against the wall and pounded against the booking desk repeatedly.

Dennett's screams and moans are audible on the tape, which was viewed Wednesday by the grand jury before Carter testified.

No indictments have been returned in the six-month-long investigation which has spanned the term of two grand juries.

After resigning from McAllen, Carter became police chief in Bishop, near Corpus Christi. He resigned that post last May following publicity over his appearance on the McAllen tapes.

A series of civil suits made the videotapes public and a federal judge allowed local television stations to air copies of them. The U.S. Justice Department became involved in April, subpoenaed the tapes for review and began presenting the case to a grand jury.

Deputies Transferred

After Pot Dispute

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — Two Galveston County sheriff's officers have been reprimanded and given new duties after one of them carried marijuana from a confiscated boat and tested the drug without authorization, officials said Wednesday.

Mike Henson, a major crimes investigator, tested the drug when he became bored, Sheriff Joe Max Taylor said, even though he had no orders to do so. Testing is usually done in a Drug Enforcement Agency lab in Dallas.

"He didn't have any business testing" the two 30- to 40-pound bags, Taylor said. He said supervisor John Leonard, who left to get food with two U.S. Customs officers, should not have left Henson alone with the boat.

The marijuana was from the July 23 seizure of the sailboat Fantasy, which was carrying 5,000 pounds of the drug when its crew was taken under arrest just south of Galveston. The incident that led to the reprimands occurred about 2:30 a.m. July 24.

"I've done all I can honestly do," Taylor said. "You can't say those people did anything or stole anything because they did not. I don't have any evidence that they tried to do anything wrong."

District to Appeal

Air Conditioning Order

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — The local school district will appeal a federal judge's order to air-condition a classroom for a second grader who retreats to a plexiglass box in hot weather.

Horacio Barrera, lawyer for the Brownsville Independent School District, said the school system had no choice but to appeal after the parents of Raul Espino Jr. rejected an offer of tuition-free enrollment for their son in a private school.

Ana and Raul Espino have told the district that they do think a private school is appropriate for their son.

An auto accident, that happened when Raul was an infant, left the youngster confined to a wheelchair and unable to control his body temperature. He must stay in environments between 68 and 72 degrees.

None of the local elementary schools are air-conditioned. The district built Raul a 5-foot-by-5-foot glass cubicle cooled with a window unit but his parents claim that segregates their son from his classmates.

in voting."

The report recommended extending key enforcement provisions of the act for 10 years, noting that the provisions were enacted to protect minorities "against pervasive racial discrimination in registering, voting, and running for office."

In July 1980 there were 196 black elected officials in Texas and 933 Mexican-American elected officials.

Avena said, however, Texas had only one black sheriff — "near Abilene" — and none of the state's nine Supreme Court justices were black or Hispanic even though those two minority groups make up one-third of Texas' population.

Reyes said there are no blacks among Texas' 31 state senators.

"To insure participation in the political process we have to extend the Voting Rights Act at least another 10 years," Reyes said.

The report said in Texas, as well as eight other southern states, election systems, voting rules and boundary changes "frequently have reduced the minority population or diluted minority voting strength in specific districts to the point where minority candidates cannot win."

Between 1975 and 1980, the report said, 30,322 proposed changes in voting practices and procedures were submitted to the U.S. Department of Justice, and 16,208 — or 53.5 percent — were submitted by Texas.

The department objected to 128 of Texas' proposed changes, placing Texas second to Georgia in that category.

The commission report also recommended:

— Extending to 1992 bilingual assistance in registering and voting.

— Prohibiting all states or political subdivisions from "maintaining or establishing voting practices or procedures that have the effect of discriminating" on the basis of race, color, or language.

— Congressional hearings on a possible nationwide federal law to set minimum standards for registering and voting in federal elections.

— Civil penalties or damages against state and local officials who fail to clear proposed changes in voting procedures with the Justice Department.

— More vigorous enforcement by the U.S. attorney general of the "preclearance" provision.

— Specific criteria for determining what is an effective language assistance program.

— Monitoring of minority language provisions by U.S. attorneys.

"You don't stand still in the area of human rights. You either go backward or you go forward," Avena said.

"A lengthy journey lies ahead," said Burke. "Clearly, 17 years of remedial effort has not been enough in view of the kinds of persistent opposition to full voting rights for minority Americans."

does San Antonio — the nation's 11th largest city with 785,410 residents.

For the past decade, the suburb on San Antonio's north-west side has fallen entirely within the 21st Congressional District represented by Rep. Tom Loeffler, R-Texas. Loeffler's district, the largest in the continental United States, sprawls from San Antonio 300 miles north to Midland and 400 miles west to Presidio.

But under the Legislature's recent redistricting bill, Reps. Henry B. Gonzalez, D-Texas, whose 20th District covers most of central San Antonio, and Abraham "Chick" Kazen, D-Texas, whose 23rd District goes 150 miles south to Laredo, also would represent portions of the small city.

"I have mixed emotions about it," Alley said, "whether it would be advantageous to have three congressmen or just one to give his full support out here."

Alley concedes the eventuality could lead to "some lively campaigning" in the suburb, whose proximity to San Antonio already causes some political confusion.

"We'll have a lot of placards in the yards. People won't know where the lines stop. We even have San Antonio councilman placards out here sometimes."

State Rep. George Pierce,

R-San Antonio, who helped draw up the redistricting plan, said legislators tried not to put any little Texas towns in more than one Congressional district, but that it did not work in Leon Valley's case.

"I guess it was by accident," Pierce said. "Leon Valley is in four different census tracts. I never dreamed there were four different census tracts in that little town."

"It's mainly because of the way the census tracts are. I don't know who draws these census tracts. We have a lot of trouble. Sometimes they don't even follow major thoroughfares and they run up to a thoroughfare and stop in the middle of it. It makes it rather difficult."

Leon Valley is the fastest growing young municipality in this area, registering a 265 percent growth in population over the past decade, Alley said, and now has over 60 city employees.

Alley joked that perhaps he could persuade one of the three congressmen to open an office in beautiful downtown Leon Valley.

"We're kind of sitting in the driver's seat right now," the mayor said of the redistricting. "We don't want to take sides now, because we don't want to get any of them mad at us."

Jury Investigates Chicago Cardinal

CHICAGO (AP) — A federal grand jury is investigating whether Cardinal John P. Cody illegally diverted as much as $1 million in tax-exempt church funds to a long-time friend, the Chicago Sun-Times reported today.

In a copyright story, the newspaper said the grand jury has issued subpoenas for financial records of the Chicago Archdiocese, the cardinal and his friend, 74-year-old Helen Dolan Wilson of St. Louis.

The archdiocese denied that any church funds had been misused. Cody declined comment on the report and Mrs. Wilson could not be reached immediately.

The newspaper said it learned Cody provided almost $90,000 in 1969 and 1970 for Mrs. Wilson to buy a home in Boca Raton, Fla., shortly after she retired from an $8,000-a-year position as an office manager in St. Louis and moved to Chicago.

The Sun-Times said its investigation shows Mrs. Wilson's wealth growing from a relatively meager amount in the mid-1960s to nearly $1 million currently. The newspaper said that in addition to her Boca Raton home, she also maintained a luxury apartment in Chicago in the early 1970s and later rented an apartment in St. Louis. It said she belonged to an exclusive club in Florida, drove a luxury car and dressed in furs and designer clothes.

The grand jury is looking into the source of those funds, according to unnamed sources quoted by the Sun-Times.

Overwhelmed by Immigration

Our nation can be overwhelmed by immigration.

Any recession could become a catastrophe if we have more mouths to feed than jobs to feed them.

The United States Select Commission on Immigration and Refugee Policy studied the problem for two years. Its chairman, Father Hesburgh of Notre Dame, recommends that we open the front door to more legal immigrants and close the back door to keep out illegals.

He does not say how the back door can be closed; our vast borders remain vulnerable.

Let's see how Japan handles this problem.

Japan is for Japanese. Most advanced industrial nations have an endless procession of outsiders knocking at the door or sneaking in windows.

Industrialized nations offer the irresistible lure of more jobs at higher wages — or generous welfare for persons unemployed.

In West Germany, it's Turks; in France, it's Algerians; in England, it's West Indians; in the United States, it's mostly Mexicans.

Everywhere outsiders create inevitable social pressures, health problems, drug and crime problems, cultural tensions — competing for jobs, houses, education, medical care.

Edwin Reubens, consultant on both labor and migration problems for our government, is just back from Japan.

He concludes that Japan does not have an immigration problem because there are neither jobs nor welfare to attract outsiders. Instead, an extraordinary system of labor-management relations mobilizes homefolks.

Mr. Reubens says we could learn from them.

In Japan those jobs are as good as any. They pay well and are not held in low esteem.

Japanese companies recruit new employees each year from among their own school graduates. Instead of hiring them for specific jobs, they are made members of the big corporate family — expected to remain so for life.

They are promoted regularly; given pay raises. But their duties are rotated to cover the menial chores as well as the more interesting ones and to keep workers from getting "stale" or "bored."

Japanese have learned to perform menial chores as children, thus are not resentful of so-called "low-level work."

Thus job vacancies are rare; thus Japan holds little attraction for foreign workers.

What foreign workers are in Japan are Korean and they comprise but a fraction of one percent of the population.

When Japan needs labor reserves it draws on its own retirees.

Mr. Reubens recognizes that Japan's system cannot be imported to the United States intact. For one thing, their labor unions are company unions; not antagonistic toward management.

And they graduate pay according to age, sex and seniority.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor,

The Amarillo papers and TV are doing a fair job covering the flooding in Amarillo. The coverage doesn't compare with what they give Hereford when we have a problem or an imagined problem they can exploit, however.

We think the Hereford Brand should get Clint Formby and go get us some coverage on Amarillo's embarrassing situation.

If it were happening in Hereford all three TV mobile units and the newspaper would be here.

Sincerely,

Tapes Stolen From Vehicle

Hereford police have taken fingerprints from a vehicle which was broken into Wednesday on the Hereford High parking lot, and will use the prints to make an arrest and file charges.

Mike Butcher, 223 Ironwood, reported that someone had opened a vent window and got twelve tapes, valued at $120, and a tape box, valued at $10.

Police investigated one minor accident and issued 19 traffic citations.

Taylor said Smith was told to go to the bank, get the money and come back for more instructions. The sheriff said he used squad cars and a helicopter to keep the judge under surveillance throughout the ordeal.

"He went up Highway 6 to Manville, Texas, hit Highway 59, came back to Houston. Before he got to his destination in Houston we got a call from the mother. She said her 17-year-old son had been dumped at the Baybrook Mall and she was hysterical," Taylor said.

All told, 13,295,400 serious crimes were reported in 1980, an increase of 1,142,700 over

Dealers Will Protest Texaco Card Surcharge

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Texaco service station operators are planning to march on the oil company's Houston headquarters to protest a proposed 3 percent surcharge for credit card purchases.

Wayne Konitshek, a board member of the Service Station Dealers of America, said Wednesday that petitions and possible legal action also are planned by Texaco station operators.

The move by Texaco will raise gasoline prices and hurt business, Konitshek said.

He said Texaco plans to start charging dealers a 3 percent processing fee for all credit card transactions beginning Nov. 1.

A spokesman for Texaco Inc. said the 3 percent fee was being installed to offset rising costs of operating the credit card system and that the independent retailers are free to decide what they will charge.

The charge would raise costs to the customer 4 cents a gallon, based on the current national average price of $1.34 a gallon, Konitshek said.

Artists, Craftsmen Will Show At Festival

Area artists and craftsmen are expected to participate in the Fall Festival of Arts and Crafts sponsored by the Wesley United Methodist Church. The show is scheduled for Saturday at the Hereford Community Center.

Local artist, Ellen Collins and her daughter, Linda Ramaekers, of Dimmitt, will be displaying creative hand sewn items such as "Quiet Books" which include numerous activities to keep small children quiet and busy. Also, BABY quilts, tooth pillows, and made to order initial pillows. A variety of small ABC quilts, layette sets and carpet owls will also be shown.

Mrs. Collins and her husband, Boyd, have lived in Hereford for 22 years. She has been actively involved in Camp Fire Girls, and is a member of Hereford Day Care Center Board.

Mrs. Ramaekers and her husband, Henry, live in Dimmitt. She was active in Camp Fire while attending school in Hereford.

Mrs. Jo Solomon has been painting in oils for several years, as a hobby, but this will be her first art exhibition to participate in. Her paintings include birds depicted in their natural setting, poppies, and a panhandle favorite, windmills.

Mrs. Solomon is a former in-service training and vocational nursing instructor with the Deaf Smith General Hospital, and was a school nurse in the Hereford school district for nine years. She and her husband, Henry, have lived in Hereford for 20 years.

The citizens of Westgate Nursing Home will display arts and crafts they have created such as quilts, ceramics and hand made items.

Another artist displaying at the festival is former art instructor, Andrew Wilks. Wilks taught in the Hereford school system for seven years before retiring to become a professional bronze sculptor. He will be showing several wildlife pieces, as well as some human studies. All his bronze pieces are limited editions and are cast at Maione Foundry which he owns and operates.

A 10 year resident of Hereford, Lorraine Sandoval, will be showing her creations on glass. Included with her etchings and stained-glass designs will be her own unique clock creations. These shadow box clocks utilize both the techniques of etching and stained glass. She will also be displaying her "mirror magic"-special creations on mirrors. Working with glass has been her hobby for three years. She and her husband, Jim, have two children.

Elaine McNutt and Terrie Hutson own and operate The Finished Frame, a custom framing and personalizing business.

Elaine and her husband, Larry, both graduated from Hereford High School. Terrie and her husband, Rick, moved to Hereford From Kansas.

They will be displaying numerous personalized items including wooden "population plaques and stand up names." Of special interest will be their personalized glass etchings. These will include made to order family trees, names and initials etched on glass or mirror.

Wesley's Fall Festival of Arts and Crafts is especially proud to present the art work of the art departments of Stanton Junior High, La Plata Junior High and Hereford High School. Ceramics, enameled jewelry, pencil drawing, and watercolors are some of the media to be represented. Art instructors at HHS are Gayla Kimbell and Gail Taylor. Ellie Bost is in her second year at Stanton, with Joan Kotrous beginning her first year of teaching in Hereford at La Plata.

One of the performing groups to be featured during the Festival will be a musical group called "New Harvest." This is a christian group who will present a variety of styles, and original songs using the piano, bass and guitar. There will be duets, trios and solos done in contemporary, classic, country and folk music style.

The group began in 1975 with Paul and Mimi Vancil. It has had many members and combinations of talent. They have performed in various settings and functions throughout Texas. The group has an album out titled "New Harvest."

Who would ration gas?

By Robert J. Wagman

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Recent headlines have been somewhat worrisome to those concerned with this country's oil supplies.

The downing by U.S. Navy pilots of the two Libyan fighters prompted some militant Arab states to call for a new oil boycott. Then the latest meeting of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries broke up with the cartel in disarray.

Now the political unrest in Iran has led to predictions that the stalled Iran-Iraq war will heat up this fall. That could again halt oil exports from both countries.

What all of this adds up to is the possibility — albeit not a major one — of another major disruption of crude oil exports to this country. As in 1974 and 1979, insufficient supplies would have to be apportioned among all potential buyers.

The oil companies — not the federal government — would do that allocating under some little-noticed actions of the Reagan administration. Washington is turning over to the oil companies the power to decide who would get what and how much we would pay for it during a new gasoline crunch.

The Emergency Petroleum Allocation Act, which gives the president standby authority to allocate gasoline, expires at the end of September. The administration has asked Congress not to renew the law.

W. Kenneth Davis, the deputy secretary of energy, told a congressional hearing that President Reagan believed that "market pressure" would "fairly allocate" oil supplies during a shortage and that he did not want the power to intervene.

Under questioning by Rep. Tim Wirth, D-Colo., Davis said this would probably mean that those who could afford gasoline would be able to continue buying it in the event of a shortage. The administration would not change its mind, Davis said, "even if gas reached $5 a gallon."

The Energy Department showed that it meant business by announcing plans to fire all 28 members of its Gasoline Rationing Pre-implementation Project. The office of computer and gas-distribution experts was formed in April 1980 to come up with standby plans to apportion dwindling oil supplies so that gas lines would not reappear.

A department spokesman said that the functions of the office would not be transferred elsewhere. The Reagan administration apparently trusts the oil companies to come up with plans of their own to accomplish this end.

But some oil companies are far from thrilled at the prospect of deciding who gets what during a gasoline shortage.

Mobil Oil President William Tavoulares said at his company's annual meeting in May that he thought the nation should have an emergency rationing program in place to deal with gasoline shortages. He voiced disagreement with Reagan and the industry's National Petroleum Council on whether the companies and the marketplace should control allocation during a shortage.

"The very first element of a sensible program to deal with a shortage is to reduce demand," Tavoulares noted. He said that this would have to be done by the government because voluntary conservation by drivers would be enough. "To do this requires some system for controlling demand and, by whatever name, that's rationing," he said.

And it appears that many states do not want the oil companies to take on this responsibility. Many of them are rushing to enact their own standby rationing plans to go into effect if supplies drop below a certain level.

Minnesota recently became the first state to adopt such a plan. In case of a shortage, that state would impose a 50 mph speed limit, "no-driving" days, an even-odd fill-up system and a ban on the use of snowmobiles and certain types of recreational vehicles. Other states are formulating similar plans.

Ann Landers

Mini-Courses Good

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Why didn't you check with DePaul University before you printed that absurd letter about how they were offering courses in advanced ballroom dancing, backpacking, aerobic exercises, self-hypnosis, massage, Mexican cooking, cake decorating, horror film appreciation, etc.?

I am sure John Newman chased St. Vincent DePaul around heaven when that column hit the streets.

You did a serious disservice to a fine school by making it sound as if they were giving credits for such courses. Nothing could be further from the truth.

As a loyal alumnus of DePaul, I believe you owe me an apology. Sometimes your column makes my day. That one spoiled it.—Disappointed In You In Chicago

DEAR DISAPPOINTED:

Tasting Bee Plans Made

Wyche Homemakers Extension Club met recently in the Reddy Room at Southwestern Public Service Co. to confirm plans for the club's participation in the up-

Senior Supper Set

The Hereford High School senior class will hold its annual class supper Friday, September 11, from 5 to 7 p.m. at the high school cafeteria.

The supper will be catered by Savages Hickory Pit Bar-B-Q, and there will be live entertainment.

Cost of the meal will be adults $3, and children under 12-$2.

Tickets can be purchased from any senior class member.

The column to which you take exception was from a reader of The Critic, a well-respected Catholic publication. The information came from that publication.

Please note it said MINICOURSES, which means non-credit. DePaul University advertises these courses in the newspapers, so they cannot be ashamed to offer them.

It turns out I gave DePaul a lot of free publicity, and I am happy to have done so. DePaul is an excellent university and I recommend those inexpensive, non-credit mini-courses as a means of developing new skills and meeting people with similar interests.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I could not believe your answer to "I Hate Pornography."

I am 49 years old, widowed twice and have been engaged for three years to a nice man.

He is hooked on pornography. I despise it. You seem to think censorship is dangerous and, therefore, anything adults want to look at is OK.

Have you ever seen real porn? I mean movies where hookers are burned with cigarettes, or a man hung by chains and beaten senseless—or six girls in bed with two men?

Aside from the violence, filth and vulgarity, the plots are boring and the acting is just plain lousy. Shouldn't movies be a matter of personal preference? I happen to like Westerns. My fiance does not. I don't nag him to accompany me to Westerns. I go along with a friend. I resent the fact that he thinks I'm a poor sport because I refuse to go look at that porno garbage with him.

I could no more compromise on this issue than I could change my views on group sex. To my way of thinking, love-making should be a personal, private act between two people who care for each other. Who needs to watch, anyway? The thought of it nauseates me.—L.M. of S.D.

DEAR L.M.: Hold your horses, lover of Westerns, before you brand me a porno-let. Let's define our terms.

Four years ago some friends convinced me it was essential to my work as a human relations counselor that I know first-hand what a pornographic movie was like. So I went. Well, no amount of money could get me to see another one. What a crashing bore and a waste of time.

What YOU are talking about, however, is something quite different. The sadomasochistic trash described in your letter is for imbeciles, degenerates and sickies.

McEnroe, Gerulaitis Meet in Semifinals

NEW YORK (AP) — It was a washday miracle and a rare event in the tennis life of John McEnroe.

"It was the most tired I've ever gotten without sweating a drop," the defending champion said after underestimating and dragging through his match in the U.S. Open tennis championships against Ramesh Krishnan of India. "It's really weird to play a match where your shirt is perfectly dry."

McEnroe struggled with lethargy, sporadic winds and an unexpectedly tough opponent before winning 6-7, 7-6, 6-4, 6-2.

"It was just an off-balance type of affair," the 22-year-old McEnroe said. Rarely in his pro career has he played so unaggressively.

He advanced to Saturday's semifinals against 15th-seeded Vitas Gerulaitis, who defeated Bruce Manson Wednesday night, 6-4, 6-2, 4-6, 6-1.

McEnroe beat Gerulaitis, a fellow New Yorker, in the final here in 1979.

Two more men's quarterfinals were to be played. Second-seeded Bjorn Borg met No. 9 Roscoe Tanner today. It was their third year in a row meeting in the quarterfinals here. They are 1-1.

Tonight, fourth-seeded Jimmy Connors will play the other quarterfinal against No. 8 Eliot Teltscher.

Teltscher defeated Brian Gottfried, the 16th seed Wednesday, 6-4, 6-0, 5-7, 1-6, 6-3. Teltscher was serving at 5-4 in the third set, but lost his next seven service games before rallying.

The women's semi pairings are set. Defending champion Chris Evert Lloyd will meet fourth-seeded Martina Navratilova Friday, and third-seeded Tracy Austin will play No. 11 Barbara Potter.

Navratilova beat Anne Smith 7-5, 6-4 Wednesday. Austin came from 0-3 down in the first set to beat No. 6 Sylvia Hanika 6-4, 6-3.

And Potier, a 19-year-old making her first semifinal in a big tournament, defeated 17-year-old Barbara Gerken, an amateur, 7-5, 7-5.

McEnroe, the No. 1 player in the world, who beat Borg in the Wimbledon final, never appeared fully involved in his match with Krishnan. "I wasn't moving my feet," he said. "I was just standing there."

But his lack of energy was not the only cause for the extended battle.

Krishnan, a 20-year-old who was the 1979 Wimbledon junior champion, has graceful, effective strokes. He played some deftly disguised drop shots and some streaking passing shots that were as lovely to look at as they were hard to return.

Floyd Tunes Up For Golf Classic

SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — If practice rounds are any indication, Ray Floyd may be the man to beat in the Pleasant Valley Jimmy Fund Golf Classic.

Floyd, who also happens to be the leading money winner on the PGA Tour this year, said he was confident, relaxed and ready for the $300,000 event which opens today.

His 5-under-par 66 Wednesday during a pro-am tuneup attested to that.

"I'm very excited because this proves I'm back, striking the ball well again," Floyd said. "I've really played well all year, but I picked up some kind of a bug and became weak. So I took a couple of weeks off in August, played one tournament and then took last week off."

"I relaxed and played some fun golf at home in Florida and now I feel strong again. I just wish I could take that round (66) and move it back a day or two. I'll take that kind of round anytime."

While winning three tournaments and finishing in the Top 10 12 times in 20 tournaments this year, Floyd, 41, has won $346,385, pushing his career prize money over $1,770,000.

His 15 victories in nine years on the Tournament Players' Association tour include the 1977 event at Pleasant Valley Country Club. "It seems I get good results here," Floyd said. "I've won once, had one clean second and tied for second and generally have done well. I really haven't had a bad tournament here. So, now I come back thinking I can't play badly here."

With Floyd shooting for Player-of-the-Year honors, Tom Kite checked in here for the first time since 1978 with another personal goal.

Kite, third among the money winners this year with $335,324, will be out to improve on his lead for the Vardon Trophy. He leads with an average 69.68 strokes per round.

Kite shot a 69 in the pro-am, then startled some observers by saying he wouldn't be satisfied with four of the same in the 72-hole tournament on the 7,119-yard course.

He explained that the total would be only eight strokes under par, not good enough to win.

Canadian Hockey Team Tops Soviets

By The Associated Press
 Beating the Soviet Union didn't surprise Team Canada. The score did though.

"I don't know what happened to the Russians tonight," said Guy Lafleur after the Canadians scored five goals in under five minutes early in the third period Wednesday night and downed the Soviet Union 7-3 in the final round-robin game of the Canada Cup tournament.

The triumph allowed Team Canada to finish first in the round-robin portion of the tournament.

"They certainly played a lot better against us in the exhibition game when we beat them 3-2. But we played as a team and we won as a team," Lafleur added.

Team Canada will play the United States in Montreal and the Soviet Union will meet Czechoslovakia in Ottawa in semifinals Friday, with the winners meeting in the championship game Sunday in Montreal.

Canada capped an undefeated march through the round-robin portion of the tournament with its most decisive victory over a Soviet team in recent years. A crowd of 16,001 at the Montreal Forum roared its approval as Team Canada left the Soviet defense a shambles.

In other games Wednesday, Czechoslovakia defeated Sweden 7-1 in Ottawa to kill any hope the Swedes had of squeezing into the playoffs, while Finland and the U.S. tied 4-4 in Montreal.

"I thought we'd been playing aggressively in the whole series," said Rick Middleton whose goal snapped the 2-2 tie in the third period and led the Canadian onslaught. "We've had lulls at certain times but, tonight, we seemed to keep the pace longer."

Marcel Dionne, Denis Potvin, Mike Bossy and Butch

Goring all scored after Middleton to turn a close game into a runaway. Wayne Gretzky and Lafleur scored in the first and second periods to give Canada a 2-0 lead before Igor Larionov and Sergei Shepelev evened the score with second-period goals. Sergei Markorov added a meaningless goal late in the game.

Goalie Don Edwards faced 23 Soviet shots. Vladimir Myshkin, who gave first-stringer Vladislav Tretiak a rest, was tested 33 times.

The Soviets finished the round robin in second place with seven points. Czechoslovakia finished third with six points, while Team U.S.A. had five.

Hegman In Cast, May Play In 4 Weeks

DALLAS (AP) — Linebacker Mike Hegman underwent surgery Wednesday to repair a small broken bone in his right forearm and hopefully will be ready to play in four weeks, a Dallas Cowboy spokesman said.

Hegman, injured in Sunday's game against Washington, will wear a splint for two weeks, the spokesman said.

Sunday's game in Texas Stadium against St. Louis is a sellout and will be televised in Dallas and St. Louis only. It will not be carried to other cities on the Cowboy TV network because CBS will televise the U.S. Open tennis tournament.

Steelers, Miami Battle Tonight

MIAMI (AP) — Pittsburgh quarterback Terry Bradshaw says there was a time when National Football League observers wouldn't have been so concerned about the Steelers season-opening loss to the Kansas City Chiefs.

But when you're coming off a 9-7 season and you failed to make the playoffs for the first time in nine years, such alarm is understandable, the 12-year veteran says.

"In football, it's so important to get off to a good start. Well, we didn't, and now everybody's scratching their heads and wondering," Bradshaw said.

Pittsburgh fumbled eight times, losing five, and Bradshaw threw two interceptions as Kansas City upset the four-time Super Bowl champions 37-33 last Sunday. Chiefs linebacker Thomas Howard scored the winning touchdown when he scooped up a Bradshaw fumble and raced 65 yards late in the fourth quarter.

The Steelers, with 15 veterans back from their four titles years and 18 others who played in at least one Super Bowl, will try to get back on the right track tonight when they meet a young Miami Dolphins team that's also struggling to regain its former NFL prominence.

Gametime for the nationally-televised matchup at the Orange Bowl is 8:30 p.m. EDT. A crowd of better than 65,000 is expected for the seventh meeting ever between the American Conference rivals.

The Dolphins, who were 8-8 in 1980 and haven't won a playoff game since Super Bowl VIII on Jan. 13, 1974, are coming off an impressive 20-7 triumph over St. Louis.

Second-year quarterback David Woodley tossed a pair of touchdowns and the Miami defense yielded only 61 yards on the ground against the Cardinals. The Steelers will face Woodley with third-year pro Dwayne Woodruff at left cornerback.

There are a dozen games Sunday with Atlanta at Green Bay, Houston at Cleveland, Los Angeles at New Orleans, the New York Giants at Washington, Tampa Bay at Kansas City, Buffalo at Baltimore, Chicago at San Francisco, Cincinnati at the New York Jets, Denver at Seattle, Detroit at San Diego, New England at Philadelphia and St. Louis at Dallas.

On Monday the Oakland Raiders travel to Bloomington to meet the Minnesota Vikings.

Boston Edges Detroit in 11; Rangers Rally to Beat A's

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer

When it comes to poise, you can't beat Ralph Houk's boys. For the 25th time this season, the Boston Red Sox came back to win a game Wednesday night, a 6-5, 11-inning thriller over the Detroit Tigers.

Gary Allenson singled home Rick Miller from second base with the go-ahead run in the 11th as the Red Sox won for the 14th time this year in their final turn at bat. The victory enabled the Red Sox to leave Detroit with two victories in three games and boosted them toward a three-game weekend series with the New York Yankees starting Friday night.

"I thought last night was the real big ballgame because we had to win a game here," Houk said of Tuesday night's 5-3 victory after a loss Monday night. "Now, winning this game by coming back really gives us a big lift going to New York. Now I don't think the day off on Thursday is going to hurt us."

The Texas Rangers also made a nice comeback Wednesday night, scoring seven runs in the ninth inning to pull out a 9-4 victory over the Oakland A's.

Elsewhere in the American League, Kansas City defeated California 7-3, Cleveland tripped Baltimore 8-5, Seattle turned back Chicago 3-1, Minnesota stopped Toronto 3-1 and New York beat Milwaukee 5-2 in the first game of a doubleheader before losing the nightcap 5-3.

With the score tied 4-4, Miller led off the Boston 11th with a single and took second on a bunt by Julio Valdez. Dave Tobik, 2-1, the fourth Tiger pitcher, issued Jerry Remy an intentional walk before yielding Allenson's single. Carney Lansford walked with the bases loaded off reliever Aurelio Lopez to force home Boston's eventual winning run.

Rangers 9, A's 4
Bill Stein's three-run homer highlighted Texas' seven-run ninth. The A's committed two costly errors to help the Ranger cause.

Mark Wagner and Bump Wills opened the rally with singles off reliever Tom Underwood, 3-6, and Mickey Rivers walked to load the bases. Wagner scored when Al Oliver forced Rivers at second, and Wills came home to tie the score when a hard grounder went through third baseman Dave McKay for an error.

Stein, who entered the game in the eighth inning, hit his second homer of the season on a pitch from reliever Jeff Jones. The final two runs scored on a throwing error by shortstop Rob Piccolo. Steve Comer, 6-1, who pitched the last 22-3 innings, was the winner.

Royals 7, Angels 3
Willie Wilson had three hits and John Wathan, George Brett and Hal McRae all collected two as Kansas City whipped California and handed the staggering Angels their sixth straight loss. Renie Martin, 4-5, picked up the victory in relief. He entered the game with two out in the fourth after left-hander Larry Gura, who had a 2-1 lead, dislocated the little finger on his pitching hand fending a grounder.

The Royals struck for two runs in the first inning off loser Dave Frost, 1-6, and never lost their advantage.

Indians 8, Orioles 5
Von Hayes, one of five Cleveland batters with two or more hits, drove in two runs as the Indians defeated Baltimore. Beaten 9-2 and 14-5 by the Orioles in two previous games, the Indians took a 7-0 lead before Terry Crowley clubbed a three-run homer in the Baltimore fifth off Bert Blyleven, 11-6. Blyleven left after seven innings because of a stiff shoulder, after scattering four hits.

Hayes walked during Cleveland's three-run outburst in the second, against Steve Stone, 4-5, and had RBI singles in the fifth and seventh. Every Cleveland starter except Miguel Dilone, who left the game in the sixth because of a sore thumb, contributed to the 15-hit attack and seven different players had RBIs.

Mariners 3, White Sox 1
Tom Paciorek smashed a two-run homer and Joe Simpson added an RBI single to give right-hander Bob Stoddard his second major league victory in as many starts as Seattle beat Chicago.

The 24-year-old Stoddard pitched 62-3 innings, yielding seven hits. Chicago's only run came on a homer in the seventh by Wayne Nordhagen. That brought in Larry Andersen, who finished up for Seattle to pick up his fourth save.

Dennis Lamp, 5-4, was the loser.

Twins 3, Blue Jays 1
Fernando Arroyo, Jack O'Connor, and Doug Corbett combined on an eight-hitter to lead Minnesota over Toronto. Arroyo, 6-7, gave up just six hits and struck out five before needing relief help in the eighth.

The Twins scored a run in the fifth on an RBI groundout by Sal Butera. In the sixth, Hosken Powell singled and scored all the way from first when Rob Wilfong singled and George Bell overran the ball for an error. Wilfong took third on the play and scored the Twins' third run one out later on a sacrifice fly by Tim Corcoran.

Yankees 5-3, Brewers 2-5
Jerry Mumphrey's two-run homer and the six-hit pitching of Tommy John carried New York over Milwaukee in the opening game of their doubleheader.

The Brewers came back to win the second game as Cecil Cooper slugged a three-run homer, Ben Oglivie hit a solo shot and Mike Caldwell and Rollie Fingers combined on a six-hitter.

End of the Run

Kellie Howell and Dana Cabiness lead the way during Wednesday afternoon's short run cross country practice. The senior and junior are top runners to compete in the two mile run at Levelland Saturday. Coach Martha Emerson said, with returning starters and newcomers that look good, she expects this season to be better than last.

Coach Emerson Eyes Improved Cross Country Team This Year

Listen to some of the cross country runners just before a practice.

"Why am I doing this?"

"Yeah. About halfway through a meet I think to myself, 'What am I doing here?'"

For whatever reason, about 16 girls and 11 boys show up for Herd workouts at 8 a.m. through first period and after school for about an hour. Coach Martha Emerson said the runners have a split practice because a person has "gotta recover from this sport."

The students will run their first meet of the season at Levelland Saturday.

Coach Emerson said she has six returning runners on the girls side and three on the boys.

George Arroyos, who was fourth in district and qualified for regionals last year will be starting in the boys' top seven and Kellie Howell, who was seventh in district, and Olga Alamiz, tenth in district will start the girls team.

"We have a lot of newcomers and they all look good," she added. "I think this year is going to be better."

Deborah Rogers, a senior, is another runner Coach Emerson is counting on.

"I'm going to try to kill her

- make her letter in three sports this year," the coach said. Miss Rogers is a star basketball and track athlete.

A couple of sophomore girls, Dana Cabiness and Yolanda Alamiz, are making a good show, too, according to the coach.

"They've got to learn to run together," Emerson said during a practice Wednesday. I don't want them all strung out because you don't get as good a score."

In cross country the top five runners get points according to the position they cross the finish line. Low points win, so Coach Emerson is wanting the team to stick together although running is an individual competition.

Likely starters for the boys' three mile run at Saturday's meet are George Arroyos, Fernando Carrasco, Edward Flores, Gary Blevins, Cesar Valdez, Tim Riley, and Chris Kahlich or Elisio Ramirez. Top runners entering the girls' two mile race are Kellie Howell, Dana Cabiness, Deborah Rogers, Olga Alamiz, Yolanda Alamiz, Patricia Salazar, and Sara Martinez or Linda Serminio.

Phillies Beat Expos; Braves Blank Astros

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD AP Sports Writer

Although his team has given up 21 runs in two games since he took over as manager of the Montreal Expos, Jim Fanning knows his life will get better...when his team wins a game.

"We scored enough runs to win, but we were a little shabby on defense," said Fanning after Montreal gave up five runs in the eighth inning to lose 11-8 to the Philadelphia Phillies Wednesday night.

Fanning, who took over the Expos after Dick Williams was fired, lost his first game 10-5 on Tuesday night.

Gary Matthews greeted Montreal reliever Charlie Lea with a three-run homer in the bottom of the eighth inning to climax the five-run rally.

"Our pitchers made just enough mistakes to get hurt," said Fanning. "The report from the bullpen was that Charlie Lea was throwing very well. That's when I decided to bring him in."

Despite the consecutive bombings by the Phillies, Fanning is a long way from losing his enthusiasm.

After talking to the media, the new manager walked back into the quiet locker room for a pep talk before the team left Philadelphia for a three-game series in Chicago. After that, the Expos will be at home for 15 straight games.

"Okay guys, we've got to start a string in Chicago," he said, clapping his hands. "Let's do it in Chicago men."

In other National League games, Cincinnati edged San Diego 3-4, New York beat Pittsburgh 5-3, Atlanta blanked Houston 9-0, Chicago trimmed St. Louis 7-3 and San Francisco defeated Los Angeles 6-3 in 11 innings.

Matthews had a perfect night at the plate for the Phillies, with two walks, a double and a single to go with the game-winning homer. He also had a homer in Tuesday night's victory.

Woody Fryman, 5-3, was the loser. Ron Reed, 4-1, the fourth of five Philadelphia pitchers, was the winner.

Cubs 7, Cardinals 3
Bobby Bonds hit two home runs in a game for the second time in three days as Chicago swept the three-game series and handed St. Louis its fifth straight loss.

The Cubs, tied for second place in the NL East with the Mets and Expos, 1 1/2 games behind the Cardinals, already led 3-0 in the second inning when Bonds hit his first homer, a two-run shot. He added a solo homer in the fourth.

Braves 9, Astros 0
Phil Niekro scattered eight hits for his 41st career shutout for Atlanta, but he said he stifled Houston on an assortment of pitches rather than relying on his staple pitch, the knuckleball.

"I didn't have my good knuckler," said Niekro, 7-5. "I was wild with my knuckleball, so I used a fastball, a slider and occasionally a screwball. I probably threw pitches other than the knuckleball 85 or 90 percent of the time."

The Braves provided Niekro with a 5-0 lead in the first two innings on Glenn Hubbard's two-run single and Bob Horner's three-run homer, the 100th of his career.

Rafael Ramirez contributed four hits and three RBI to the Braves' 15-hit attack.

Reds 5, Padres 4
Johnny Bench hit the game-winning single for Cincinnati with two outs in the ninth inning and also blasted his fourth homer in the four games he has started since coming off the disabled list last week.

The Reds trailed 4-2 going into the ninth before rallying for three runs. Ken Griffey had an RBI grounder and Dave Concepcion hit a run-scoring single to tie the game, setting up Bench's decisive hit.

Bench, who suffered a broken ankle early in the season, hit a solo homer in the sixth, the 362nd of his career, putting him ahead of Joe DiMaggio on the all-time list.

Mets 5, Pirates 3
Hubie Brooks hit two run-scoring singles and Terry Leach won his first major-league game with 31-3 innings of scoreless relief pitching to lead New York over Pittsburgh.

Leach, 1-0, came into the game in the fifth inning and allowed only two hits before giving way to Ray Searage, who retired the last five batters for his first major-league save.

Giants 6, Dodgers 3
San Francisco took leads into the bottom of the ninth and 10th innings at Los Angeles before making the final margin stick in the 11th on Johnnie Lema's tie-breaking single and Dave Bergman's two-run homer.

The Giants led 2-0 before singles by Steve Garvey, Jay Johnstone, Mike Scioscia and Rick Monday tied the score in the ninth. Jack Clark and Garvey traded homers in the 10th.

The victory snapped a four-game winning streak for Los Angeles, which also had won 30 of the previous 41 games with the Giants at Dodger Stadium.

PUBLIC NOTICE ON REGISTERING LIVESTOCK BRANDS
The attorney general is reminding every citizen who has registered a brand prior to Aug. 30, 1981 that citizens must re-register each brand with the county clerk within six months in order to protect their right to it. If everyone follows the registration schedule set out by the law, county clerks will have a correct, revised set of records every ten years, and there should be no dispute about the correct ownership of livestock. To register or re-register marks and brands, the livestock owner may obtain forms either by mail or in person from his or her county clerk's office. There will be blank spaces on the form in which to describe the mark or brand and the location on the animal where the brand is recorded. The forms should then be mailed or delivered in person to the county clerk, who will keep the forms in an indexed bound volume or on microfilm for easy reference. B.F. HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Preventing back problems

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am a 24-year-old male. I am in good health and good condition. I strained my back a few days ago by overdoing it with weights. I have never had back problems and don't want any now. My back feels fine now. I just took it easy for a couple of days. Please tell me some exercises for my back to strengthen and make it more limber. I know I should lift with my legs. Is there a better way? I want to take care now so I won't have back problems later. I hope.

DEAR READER - I am glad to see that you understand that prevention is the key to future health. I just wish more people realized it and would do something about it. Lifting with your legs instead of your back is the proper way, but you need to do exercises to strengthen the muscles in your back and in your abdomen. Strong abdominal support helps to brace the back. The muscles are contracted against the abdominal contents and form a column of support. Sitting is the worst thing in the world for the back and our society has a lot of people in it who do a lot of sitting. The abdominal muscles tend to be more relaxed then and the support to the back is the least in that posture. By contrast, when you are standing your stomach muscles are apt to be a bit tighter and provide some support. I am sending you The Health Letter number 13-10, Backache and What to Do About It, which describes the types of exercises you should do as a daily program to maintain good back function. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. You can use situps to strengthen the upper abdomen. They won't do much for the lower abdomen, though. You need to do leg lifts for these. If you do leg lifts improperly or have an underlying back problem, they can cause trouble. Bend your knees as you lift your legs and then straighten them so you don't jerk straight legs off the floor. Then you do need to do exercises that straighten the back by bending your back the opposite direction from a situp. Bumps, grinds and good posture are also important. If more people used a regular, sensible exercise program for their trunk muscles there would be a lot fewer back problems.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I'm desperate for an answer relating to sex. My wife is 27 and we have been married for 10 years and have three kids. For the last four months she has very little sex desire or none at all. She thinks it is a stage she is going through. It's causing a lot of fights between us. We never fought like this before and it is pulling us apart. I'm 27 also and hope to find an answer soon. We have never had this problem before. Please help us.

DEAR READER - If your story is correct, your wife should seek some professional counseling. One cause for a loss of interest in sex is a depression. Sometimes it is the most obvious sign. Also, your wife may be tired if she is raising three small youngsters. Or there may be other psychological factors at work, including resenting finding herself so tied down with a family. If she seeks such help it may turn out that there is a more basic problem between the two of you and then you may need a marriage counselor. When the basic relationship between a couple is disturbed, you can't expect a sexual relationship to flourish, and your wife can't expect you to want to live without sex just because she is not interested.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Polly Fisher

Drain odors
DEAR POLLY - On occasion, our kitchen and bathroom drains give off an unpleasant odor. Hot soapy water and drain cleaner don't seem to help. Have you any suggestions?
- MARY
DEAR MARY - Whenever your drains begin to smell sour or musty, pour a cup of baking soda down the drain. You can do this once a week or so as a preventive measure. Vinegar poured down the drain will also deodorize it. Salt, which is a natural antiseptic, will kill bacteria. When using either the baking soda or salt, pour the dry product down the drain, then gently add a little water. Let it sit for about 15 minutes, then flush thoroughly with hot water. If you have a garbage disposal in your kitchen sink, citrus peels ground through it occasionally will give it a delightfully fresh and clean fragrance. - POLLY

The Miss America That Didn't Reign

By PETER MATTIACE
Associated Press Writer

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Young Bette Cooper was too tender and too terrified to be Miss America. Dashing Lou Off was the handsome gallant who stole her away only hours after she was crowned.

Friends still say it was young love at its truest.

But it is a love lost and, 44 years later, a graying Lou Off recalls with a smile, "Yes, she was a gem and I admired her."

"Who wouldn't be interested in a young girl like Bette and who couldn't fall in love with Miss America?" he said in an interview. "But I don't think Bette and I ever could have... Besides, I haven't the slightest idea where she's gone."

In September 1937, Bette and Lou were an item, all right.

Bette was 17, a blue-eyed blonde who became Miss America "on a lark." Lou was the son of a prominent hotelman, a 22-year-old man-about-town who owned a biplane and a cabin cruiser and quickly became Bette's "first fancy."

But Bette never wanted to be Miss America and shortly before dawn on the first morning of her reign, she called Lou in tears, begging him to drive her home to rural Hackettstown.

Lou spirited her away to his boat and anchored just offshore for 14 hours as angry pageant officials and state troopers scoured the New Jersey countryside for the "missing Miss America" and her new beau.

Lou Off, now 66, is happily married and a successful businessman in nearby Linwood, growing lush orchids for New York City flower shops. His fling with Bette ended with World War II and he hasn't seen her for almost 30 years.

Bette would be 61 now and her whereabouts are unknown. Six years ago, she was living quietly in Greenwich, Conn., a widow named Elizabeth C. Moore. But today, reporters, Miss America officials, even her alma mater — Centenary College in northern Jersey — cannot locate her.

That long-ago summer, teen-ager Bette visited an amusement park with girlfriends and entered its beauty contest on their dare. She unexpectedly found herself the "Miss Bertrand Island" entry in the Miss America Pageant.

Lou was one of many local young men assigned to escort contestants during pageant week, a pleasant chore that included dancing every night on the Steel Pier.

Bette fell in love. Her father, the late Le Brun Cooper, a state highway engineer, remarked then that Lou was Bette's "first fancy and an awfully nice young fellow."

Lou, too, was entranced. Hours before the Saturday finals, he and Bette took a drive and stopped at a nearby restaurant to chat.

"During lunch I asked her, 'Bette, what are you going to do if you win this thing tonight?' And she laughed and she said, 'Oh, that's just not possible.' And I said, 'Don't bet on it, Bette,'" he recalled.

"And I said, 'You realize, Bette, that if you become Miss America, I'm not going to be your Mister America. I'm not going to follow you around on your coattails.' I think that affected her."

Bette's father said then that she was "very nervous from the excitement" by the time she sang "When the Poppies Bloom Again" to win the title on Sept. 11, 1937.

"About 2 a.m., the phone rang and it was Bette," Lou remembered. "She was in tears and she said, 'I want to see you. I don't want any part of it.' And I said, 'If you don't want it, you don't have to have it.'"

With the blessing of her parents, Lou and two buddies smuggled Bette from her hotel and sailed his boat into the Atlantic, anchoring a half-mile off the Steel Pier.

"I figured the boat was the safest place to be. They couldn't search the ocean," he said.

Bette slept soundly below as her guardians fished and watched the commotion on the pier, where pageant officials, photographers and the paying public ever more anxiously awaited the first public appearance of the new Miss America.

She never showed. Police began a state-wide search. Shortly before sunset, Lou brought Bette ashore. As they drove through the New Jersey mountains toward her home, the sweethearts heard Walter Winchell pronounce them married.

"Well, that was one time Walter Winchell was wrong," he chuckled.

Bette refused the pageant's prizes — a $400-a-week vaudeville contract, a $1,000 fur coat and an "airplane trip to Hollywood for a 'deluxe' screen test."

Although pageant historians claim Bette Cooper was the only one of 54 Miss Americas to "abdicate" her title, Lou Off said she made several formal public appearances in New York — but only in his company.

"Her father looked to me to take care of her and he trusted me with her anywhere," he said, explaining that he slept on the floors of her hotel room "for her protection" during public appearances.

"But I never took advantage of Bette," he said. "Oh, no, there was no hanky-panky. We cared for each other for a good many years. We were sort of comfortable together."

Lou courted Bette for about three years, until they were separated when he enlisted as a Navy pilot and she took a sales job in Kentucky. Their last meeting was in 1952, when Bette and her stockbroker husband visited Lou and his wife.

"I guess she found the life she wanted," he said. "I'm sure she looks back on the pageant as a dirty thing, a very objectionable thing. But it was a pity to see her so distressed when she should have been so happy."

CBS Building For Number 1 Season

NEW YORK (AP) — With less than a month to go before the start of the 1981-82 prime-time season, CBS continues to build momentum for another run at the No. 1 position.

Ratings from the A.C. Nielsen Co. for the period ending Sept. 6 showed CBS in first place for the 16th consecutive week — and three CBS programs among the four highest-rated.

Though ABC had more programs than CBS among the Top 10 — four — the network that dominated prime time until late in the 1979-80 season, finished in last place in the latest week surveyed.

CBS' rating was 14.4 to 14.1 for NBC and 13.5 for ABC. The networks say that means in an average prime-time minute, 14.4 percent of the TV-equipped homes in the country were watching CBS.

CBS scored, as it has so often in recent months, with "M-A-S-H," "House Calls" and "Dukes of Hazzard." The rating for "M-A-S-H" was 22.1. Nielsen says that means of the nation's homes with television, 22.1 percent saw at least part of the show.

ABC's "20-20" was the only new program among the 44 most watched. The ABC magazine tied for 20th place with CBS' "60 Minutes," which was composed entirely of repeat segments.

Of the other original shows broadcast during the week, "The Krypton Factor" on ABC tied with "Walter Cronkite's Universe" for 45th place, with "Comedy of Horrors" on CBS No. 47.

NBC and ABC each had two shows among the five lowest rated. CBS' "Enos" was No. 59, followed by a baseball program — a pre-game show and the regionally broadcast games that followed — on NBC, an ABC movie, "Sinbad and the Eye of the Tiger," and "240-Robert," also on ABC.

Here are the week's 10 highest-rated programs:

"M-A-S-H," with a rating of 22.1 representing 18 million homes, CBS; "Three's Company," 21.3 or 17.3 million, ABC; "House Calls," 21 or 17.1 million, and "Dukes of Hazzard," 20.9 or 17 million, both CBS; "Too Close for Comfort," 20.8 or 16.9 million, ABC; "Diff'rent Strokes," 15.9 million, and "Facts of Life," 18.5 or 15.1 million, both NBC; "Laverne and Shirley," 18.3 or 17.9 million, ABC, and "Hart to Hart," ABC, and Movie—"Airport '77," Part II, NBC, both 18.2 or 14.8 million.

Pastel colors have predominated on the island of Curacao ever since an early Dutch official banned white houses because their glare in the sun hurt his eyes.

Collins Furious After Amendment Spurned

By CHARLES RICHARDS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. James Collins, R-Texas, says never in eight terms of Congress has he been blindsided like he was Wednesday in failing to get an anti-busing amendment tacked onto an appropriations bill.

He accused the bill manager, Rep. Neal Smith, D-Iowa, of rushing through the final 16 pages of a 43-page bill and ignoring three amendments to call for final passage during a 2-minute span that Collins was talking to reporters just off the House floor.

"I wouldn't have thought it of Neal Smith," said a furious Collins after the late-afternoon flurry of action. The bill, providing appropriations for the State, Justice, Commerce and Judiciary departments, carried by a vote of 246-145.

"He didn't offer it (the anti-busing amendment). You'll have to ask him why," Smith said moments after the vote.

"We just proceeded in normal manner with the bill. Apparently some others were going to offer amendments and didn't," he added.

Smith admitted he opposed Collins' amendment but denied he called for the vote to take advantage of the Dallas Republican's temporary absence from the floor.

"There was nothing like that. I was opposed to it, yes. It would have carried overwhelmingly. It always has," Smith said.

A similar amendment by Collins on June 19, to an authorization bill, carried by 265-122. But it was deleted later.

Collins was off the floor, telling reporters Charles Richards of the Associated Press and Mark Nelson of the Dallas Morning News why he'd just withdrawn only moments earlier an amendment regarding the Legal Services Corp.

"My main interest is the busing amendment, and I don't want to do anything that will affect that," Collins was explaining as a major reason he'd decided against pursuing the anti-Legal Services Corp. legislation in the face of opposition.

Precisely as he was saying that, the appropriations bill was being pushed through only feet from where he was standing, without his getting an opportunity to offer his amendment.

The move angered him so much he went immediately to the House press gallery to see if the two reporters had been put up to calling him from the floor.

The amendment he withdrew would have prevented lawyers for the Legal Service Corp. from representing anyone involved in a dispute with the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

Collins said he was persuaded by the argument of Smith that the latest changes in regulations provide ample protection against LSC lawyers representing illegal aliens and by the argument of

Rep. Peter Rodino, D-N.J., that Collins' legislation would hinder low-income American citizens with passport or other problems with the INS.

Also a factor, he said, was the 272-122 vote in which the House had rejected an amendment by Rep. F. James Sensenbrenner Jr., R-Wis., to delete all funding for the LSC. He expected a greater anti-LSC vote, he said.

Best In West In Debut

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — ABC had better circle the wagons if "Best of the West," which debuts tonight and is billed as the network's funniest new comedy, is really its top effort in the new season.

The idea of an Easterner moving to a lawless Western town and becoming marshal could have worked as a sanitized version of Mel Brooks' "Blazing Saddles" or as a make-the-best-of-a-bad-situation sitcom like "M-A-S-H." Instead, it is mostly a series of predictable jokes with family relationships straight out of "I Love Lucy."

The greenhorn marshal, Sam Best, played by Joel Higgins, is the show's strength. Higgins gives the character an engaging dimension as the bright-eyed idealist who tries to make the town a better place for his wife and son.

Higgins' good humor and spirits are constantly tested by the black hat of the show, Parker Tillman (Leonard Frey), who owns the saloon and practically everything else. Frey's idea of comedy is deadpan, stares and grimaces. His delivery gets tiring very quickly.

Best comes to uncivilized Copper Creek with his 10-year-old son, Daniel, played by Meeno Peluce, and his wife Elvira (Carlene Watkins).

Best, a widower, met his wife while he and other Union soldiers were burning her father's plantation during the Civil War. Their meeting and the fact that Best purchased a general store sight unseen in Copper Creek and then became marshal is told in the show's theme song. The mocking tone and words of the show's executive producer, Earl Pomerantz, offers some early hope.

"How do you like the West so far?" Tillman asks Best in the opening.

Best looks around the sleazy saloon and says cheerfully that it's just what he expected, except for the fat lady who could have been the bar's bouncer rather than its female escort. This is the kind of playful satire on Western traditions and imagery that could have made "Best" funny and unique.

The cast includes the usual band of caricatures who are just plain silly and offer little substance: the drunken doctor (Tom Ewell), the town idiot (Tracey Walter) and the bawdy frontierwoman (Laney Gibbs).

Actually, tonight's pilot is much funnier than a two-parter we saw dealing with Tillman's trial and incarceration for cattle rustling. Again, the humor falls flat because it lacks sophistication. Just because the characters are from the 19th century doesn't mean the comedy has to be.

The town's hatred of Tillman melts at the end of that show when he offers drinks on the house. "They're so easy," Tillman deadpans.

It's too bad ABC feels the same way about its viewers.

Rather switch?

The use of electricity has been rising by almost 6 percent a year since 1960. The Conference Board observes. Besides the spread of homeownership, this trend has been spurred by more and larger appliances and a drift away from gas to electricity for both cooking and heating.

Cancer Hot Line Bloch's Promise Fulfilled

By ROBERT MACY
Associated Press Writer
KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Annette Bloch took a stick and scrawled the promise in the wet sand of a Florida beach, a vow that challenged the death sentence the family doctor in Kansas City had imposed on her husband.

"We Shall Return."
Then, on a gray weekend in 1978, she and husband Richard Bloch, co-founder of the H&R Bloch chain of 8,000 income tax service offices, went to Houston to learn his fate.

"Dick, you are a very sick boy," a doctor at the M.D. Anderson Cancer Clinic told Bloch. "We are going to make you a lot sicker, but we are going to cure you. We are going to cure you so that you can work for cancer."
It was the first ray of hope for the Blochs since his family physician told him months earlier that he had lung cancer. "It is malignant," the doctor told him. "It is inoperable. If I were you, I would get my estate in order."

Bloch, 52 at the time, had everything a man could desire. He was semi-retired from the business he and brother Henry had built from a dream. He had a loving wife, three daughters, four grandchildren and a beautiful home. He traveled to exotic destinations for several months each year.

A death sentence was the last thing on his mind. "I was devastated," he said, recalling the stinging pronouncement at a Kansas City hospital. "I was full of questions, but I did not know what to ask or whom to ask. My mind was so blown that I could not recall that I had ever known anyone who had cancer. I had momentarily forgotten that my uncle had died from it less than eight years before and we had watched my wife's sister painfully pass away from it."

Bloch asked the doctor if there were any treatment. He was told there was, but it would only make him sicker and could not save his life. He says if he had accepted the doctor's verdict, he would be a dead man, "no doubt about it."

Today Bloch's lung cancer is in total remission and doctors say he faces no greater threat from the disease than does the average person.
Bloch's frantic search for answers and the promise of the Houston doctors prompted him to form The Cancer Hot Line, a unique information service he's expanding nationwide.

In the year since its inception, the hotline has spread to Memphis, Tenn., and Little Rock, Ark., with programs planned soon in Fort Worth, Texas, and Gainesville, Fla.
The Cancer Hot Line is staffed by volunteers who have had cancer or had experiences with the disease they can share with callers. Bloch himself works half-days, fielding questions from around the country.

Deeply tanned, blue eyes dancing, Bloch talks excitedly about the hotline and a companion Cancer Treatment Panel. He figures there are three keys to beating cancer:
1. Prompt treatment. "Don't put it off. Cancer is never as treatable as it is today."
2. Proper treatment. "Cancer grows geometrically — one cancer cell divides into two, two into four, etc. Most cancers can be cured if they're treated when discovered. But if you're having a general doctor try different things on you while the cancer grows, you're in bad shape."
3. Thorough treatment. "A doctor often says 'I cut it all out,' but there's no way a doctor can cut it all out because he can't see everything in your body. One million cancer cells would be the size of a pin head. How can they find one cell in, say, your wrist?"

Above all, Bloch says, get a second opinion. "Any doctor treating a cancer patient without a second opinion is not practicing medicine, but trying to play God," Bloch said.
Bloch said the Kansas City hot line handled 265 calls in August. Some callers seek advice, some an emotional crutch. Others are family members calling to see how to cope with the problem.
The other part of Bloch's program is the Cancer Treatment Panel — medical experts who meet weekly with as many as four cancer patients and their families to review their records and sometimes suggest alternative treatment. The experts are an oncologist, a surgeon, a radiologist, a pathologist and a psychiatrist or psychologist, all of whom volunteer their time.

The panel has seen more than 100 people in recent months. Bloch estimates as many as 25 lives may have been saved.

Bloch says his wife's determination to see him through the crisis "was the only thing that kept me alive."

The Houston doctors made good on their promise to make him a lot sicker, he said, and there were times during chemotherapy and surgery when he wondered whether the fight was worth it.

"But just watching that sun come up one more day, holding my wife's hand is worth everything I went through."

The Blochs return often to that remote beach near Fort Lauderdale where they sought to shake the shadow of death while waiting for the Houston doctors' pronouncement 3½ years ago.

"Annette, with a stick, draws a heart in the sand and puts in our initials, the date, and writes, 'We did return,'" Bloch recalled emotionally. "And we shall continue to return."

New York Files Suit To Keep Primaries

NEW YORK (AP) — The top lawyer for the nation's largest city went to the U.S. Supreme Court on Wednesday in an effort to overturn a voting rights ruling which would bar Thursday's primary elections for local offices.

Allen Schwartz sought a stay from Justice Thurgood Marshall after failing to win reconsideration from the special three-judge panel that issued the ruling Tuesday. The ruling left campaigns in chaos and voters in confusion.

Schwartz had pleaded with the judges to let the election proceed for citywide and boroughwide offices and to postpone primaries for City Council seats. It was a redistricting of City Council lines that prompted a suit in behalf of blacks and Hispanics who contended the reapportionment was discriminatory.

Senator Bill Sarpalius

Reports

IT'S THE LAW

AUSTIN — Most of the time, new state laws become effective on September 1, which is 90 days after the end of the Legislative session. Here's a brief summary of some of the laws effective on that date:

1. Drinking age (Sarpalius) — This law requires that everyone be at least 19 years old to buy alcoholic beverages. Even those who were 18 before September 1 must now be 19.

2. This law does not prohibit 18-year-olds from working in a business that sells alcohol, but they may neither buy alcohol nor have a license to sell alcohol.

3. Wiretapping (Bock) — Allows the Department of Public Safety to tap the phones of those suspected of dealing in dangerous drugs. Also, the DPS may break into a home or office to plant a wiretap or listening device.

4. Of course, the DPS may exercise this power only under court order.

5. Gasohol information (Sarpalius) — Creates a clearinghouse in the Texas Department of Agriculture for gasohol information.

6. Drug paraphernalia (Evans) — Possession or sale of items intended for use with illegal drugs now is illegal.

7. Crimes against the elderly (Gibson) — Increases the penalty for certain crimes committed against senior citizens or children.

8. Generic drugs (Von Dohlen) — Pharmacists now may substitute equivalent generic drugs for brand-name drugs if the generic drugs are cheaper and if the patient and the doctor do not object.

9. Oral confessions (Glasgow) — Prosecutors now may use the oral confessions of criminal defendants in trials if the confession is recorded on film or video tape. Formerly, confessions had to be written.

10. Bingo (Criss) — Communities now may vote on whether to allow charitable institutions to have bingo games for fund raising.

11. Radiation (Traeger) — Sets up strict standards for low-level radiation storage and provides for civil and criminal penalties for their violation.

12. Inheritance tax (Geistweidt) — Substantially reduces the state inheritance tax.

13. Of course, this is just a sampling of some of the more important bills that became law on September 1. Many others will become law on January 1, and we will devote a column to these at the proper time.

14. As we look at the accomplishments of the last session, and look toward the next, we realize how important the help all of you gave us has been. But we still need to hear from you to plan an effective legislative program. Please write to Senator Bill Sarpalius, P.O. Box 12068, Austin, Texas 78711.

Book Critic Bats 1,000 on Choices

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Longview textbook critic Norma Gabler says she "batted 1,000" in the State Textbook Committee's rejection of three homemaking books that dealt frankly with sex.

Two books, "Married Life" and "Finding My Way," both published by Bennett Publishing Co., got no votes from the 15-member committee. The third, "Person to Person," also published by Bennett, received three votes.

"We batted 1,000 on those," said Mrs. Gabler, who led the attack on the three texts.

Mrs. Gabler said that in 20 years of reviewing textbooks from a conservative viewpoint, "I don't know of any that have caused more embarrassment" than "Finding My Way."

She said she would allow only married women on her staff type her review, and one of them could not type it without blushing.

The committee recommended books in 31 subjects or fields. New adoptions take effect Sept. 1, 1982, generally for eight years, and are expected to cost the state $27.2 million.

The State Board of Education will give textbook protestors one last shot at a Nov. 12 hearing, then vote on adoptions two days later.

Mrs. Gabler and others contended at the committee's hearings in August that "Finding My Way" was far too explicit in discussing sex, homosexuality and various "deviate" practices.

They said "Person to Person" questioned the concept of traditional marriage and "glorifies living in fornication."

Mrs. Gabler's review of "Married Life" said it discussed birth control in detail but left out "the only truly safe method" — abstinence.

Bennett replied that "understanding one's sexuality is important in personal development and relationships with others" and said "Finding My Way" recognizes that "people are different and gives them the freedom to follow their own consciences."

Another conservative critic, Eleanor Hutcheson of the Daughters of the American Revolution, also scored well. Of four high school economics books she criticized, three were rejected.

The committee recommended economics books published by McGraw-Hill, Laidlaw, Sterling Swift, Addison-Wesley and Scott. The DAR objected to the McGraw-Hill text.

Amnesia Victim Falls In Love With Wife Again

CHICAGO (AP) — When Larry Krusinski leaves the hospital for the first time in a year, he will go home to a wife he can't remember marrying, but a woman who cared so deeply for him that he fell in love with her twice.

Krusinski is suffering from amnesia — the aftermath of head injuries suffered in a car accident that almost killed him.

After 12 months in a hospital room, Krusinski will return home Saturday, to join his wife, Janet, who has twice inspired his love.

The ordeal began one evening in September 1980 when Krusinski's car smashed into a tree. Krusinski, then 28, arrived at the hospital in a coma. A priest gave him last rites. Doctors were not certain he would survive.

But his wife was. "The one thing I remember was touching him for the first time there," she said. "I thought if I touched him, he'd be OK. God, he was still alive."

"I remember people asking me if I was prepared if he would die," said Mrs. Krusinski, a 25-year-old beautician. "I just didn't think of it. It was like a dream standing there."

For 10 anxious days, Mrs. Krusinski waited for signs that would give her hope. His eyes opened. His hands started moving.

But when he looked into her eyes he saw a stranger. He didn't recognize the woman he had married three years earlier.

"I didn't realize I wasn't going to be remembered," she said. "I kept trying to show him pictures. He didn't remember them. He really didn't know what he looked like. He hadn't seen a mirror."

Throughout the long days of waiting, she said, "He was real honest. He didn't remember me. But he really seemed to like me. He trusted me right away."

And then one special day, after she told her husband she loved him, he repeated the words to her.

"I think he fell in love with me all over again. He doesn't remember that he ever loved me before."

Economic Gap Grows Between U.S. Generations

By JOHN CUNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The United States has enough problems to worry about without bringing up still another.

But to observe that an economic gap grows wider between young and old is not to bring up a problem but to recognize one that has been festering for years, tolerated in part because of familial civilities.

The pattern emerges in several ways; just two of them make the point:

The older generation receives regular annual increases in Social Security benefits; the younger generation is compelled to pay a rising Social Security tax to support the payments.

Older property owners, no matter what has been said about the adverse effects of inflation, have benefitted from seeing market values rise; younger people often cannot afford to buy because of those high prices. If age and economic patterns were stable, the problem might continue to be tolerated with little criticism and little prospect of a rebellion, but the gap grows in two ways:

First, Social Security benefits are indexed. That is, they rise with the consumer price index. Some critics say the benefits rise faster than increases in beneficiaries' costs of living.

Next, the ratio of workers to retirees is changing, in part because life expectancy has increased nearly 10 years since 1940. In 1940, only 7 percent of the population was 65 or over. By 1980 the percentage was 11. By 2030 it seems destined to reach 18 percent of population.

Another factor, inflation, is involved as cause and effect.

By some estimates, one additional percentage point of inflation adds at least $1.5 billion to indexed programs, making it more difficult to balance the budget, and therefore reduce upward pressure on prices.

The converging pressures seem destined to produce a break in the good relations that have existed between young and old. Increasingly, the young sense they are being deprived. How long will they tolerate it?

The deprivation is most glaringly illustrated by the inability of young people to purchase homes — not just homes such as those in which their parents reared them, but smaller, less commodious models.

The dilemma is well known: The young couple saves to make the downpayment on a house; the house, meanwhile, rises in value beyond their means. Moreover, high interest rates rule out further borrowing.

How long will the situation be tolerated? President Reagan might have to come to grips with it before long. In fact, it can be said he has already begun by improving tax advantages for those who invest in their own retirement, thus relieving some pressure on Social Security.

A select group of housing and finance officials already is studying the housing problem and is expected to report to the President early next year, perhaps recommending some new financing techniques.
