

Beer sales allowed for first time since 1901

By KIM THOGMARTIN

Local beer drinkers had their thirsts quenched on Wednesday—to the tune of about $3,400.

The beer trucks from Amarillo began arriving in Hereford about 10:30 a.m. At Wil-Mart Convenience Store on U.S. Highway 60, the customers were reportedly "breaking the doors down" before the cans were on the shelves. The first sale was made at about 10:45 a.m.

Manager Sherry Green said she has not made an exact calculation, but the tentative figure is about $2,200 made in beer sales by the time the store closed at midnight. She said the first supply of Coors was exhausted by 7:30 p.m. but another truckload had been delivered by 8:30.

"People were really having a good time," she said. "A lot of people just bought one can or a quart. I guess they just wanted to say they had bought beer in Deaf Smith County."

Wil-Mart and Handy Hut, both owned by Southwest Convenience Stores of Beaumont, became the first in the county to sell the substance since 1901. Voters changed Justice of the Peace Precinct 1 from dry to wet on April 7 by voting in an option allowing package store sales of all alcoholic beverages.

The trucks pulled in at Handy Hut, West Park Avenue, around 12:30 Wednesday afternoon. Manager Brenda Brooks said they ran out at 5 p.m. but had soon re-stocked. She figured sales reached around $1,200. "The trucks are unloading again this morning."

Green said an extra person was called in to operate a cash register at the Wil-Mart store. Owner Greg Galloway, up from Beaumont for the historical occasion, spent the evening trying to keep the shelves stocked.

"We're going to stack beer wherever we can find to put it," Green said this morning. "We had been closing at 10 p.m. but now we'll be staying open until midnight."

Hereford Police reported one arrest each for public intoxication and driving while intoxicated on Wednesday. Chief Don Brush said that was a normal figure and he had not expected any additional problems when local sales began.

Reagan may get some aid money

By W. DALE NELSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) —

President Reagan's Democratic critics in Congress predict he will get some of the money he wants to bolster El Salvador's armed forces, but it will not buy a military solution to the "chaos and anarchy" he says communists are spreading in Central America.

Democrats branded Reagan's televised address Wednesday night as a "saber rattling" call to arms that paid only lip service to efforts for a negotiated settlement and could lead to another debacle like the involvement of U.S. Marines in Lebanon.

But they conceded the president will win at least a limited grant of additional funds to buttress the Salvadoran army against the onslaught of Marxist-led guerrillas.

Reagan's speech was his most strongly termed defense yet of his Central American policies, comparing his critics to those who concluded in the years before World War II that "the aggressor's appetite would be satisfied" with just one more conquest or international transgression.

"What we see in El Salvador is an attempt to destabilize the entire region, and eventually move chaos and anarchy toward the American border," the president said.

"We have provided just enough aid to avoid outright disaster but not enough to resolve the crisis, so El Salvador is being left to slowly bleed to death.

"The simple questions are: Will we support freedom in this hemisphere or not? ... Will we stop the spread of communism in this hemisphere or not? Will we act while there is still time?" the president asked.

Sen. Paul Tsongas, D-Mass., one of the Senate's harshest critics of administration policy in the region, said, "The president will get his aid, but not for the right reasons."

"The Republicans will support their president," Tsongas said. "The Democrats to a large extent will give the president what he wants just so that we will not be blamed if anything goes wrong."

Sen. Claiborne Pell of Rhode Island, the senior Democrat on the Foreign Relations Committee, called the address "a strong and in my view saber rattling speech that ignores the wishes of the leading countries of the area, who prefer the negotiating route to the military one."

Reagan repeated his previous pledge to keep American troops out of a Central American war, saying the argument was "definitely not about plans to send American troops into combat in Central America."

"But he said that without more aid El Salvador may not be able to withstand a Cuban-backed guerrilla offensive that the United States believe is planned for the fall.

And he divulged a new assessment of the strength of Cuban forces in leftist-ruled Nicaragua, saying the Cuban force there has grown from 165 in 1979 to 10,000.

Special provisions for power plant outlined

By KIM THOGMARTIN
Staff Writer

Attached to a construction permit issued last week to the Valley View Energy Corporation is a list of fifteen "special provisions."

The Texas Air Control Board said the manure-fueled

Valley View must abide by air control board's rules electrical generating plant must be in compliance with every item on the list or the permit will be revoked.

The first five provisions dictate how and how often the company will be expected to sample and monitor emissions from the plant. The remainder deal with such things as road, maintenance, treatment of runoff waters and disposal of ash.

A company spokesman said earlier in the week he hopes construction will begin by July 1. The facility is to be located northeast of Hereford on U.S. Highway 60, on land purchased from the city last fall. Valley View said about 300 people will be employed during construction; a staff of 80 is required to operate the plant.

The ACB said air contaminants to be sought on a regular basis include (but are not limited to) particulate matter, sulfur dioxide, nitrogen oxides and carbon monoxide. The board is also requiring the company to perform a three-hour test for "ground level concentrations of particulate matter," one upwind and one downwind.

Valley view must also include in its construction of the plant instruments to continuously monitor and record emissions of sulfur dioxide, nitrogen oxides and carbon monoxides.

Addressing the issue of water to be stored in holding ponds near the plant, the ACB said it must be chemically treated and "must not become a source of odors that cause or contribute to a condition of 'air pollution' as defined in Section 1.03 of the Texas Clean Air Act."

As announced earlier, the manure obtained from local feedyards must be tored in two separate stockpiles. The stacks are not to exceed 193,600 cubic yards each and the average moisture content must be maintained between 10 and 30 percent.

Addressing concerns expressed by residents who live near the proposed plant site, the ACB has ordered that "disposal of ash must be accomplished in a manner which will prevent the ash from becoming airborne." The company had earlier indicated it would do that by wetting the ash before transferring it to a below-ground storage area.

Other provisions, which the company also promised to comply with during visits to Hereford earlier this spring, are that major roads to the plant be paved, delivery trucks be covered and a fire extinguisher system be available in case of spon-

Rotarians to sponsor supper

Hereford Rotary Club is sponsoring a steak finger supper from 5:30 to 9 p.m. Friday in Deaf Smith County Bull Barn.

Proceeds from the event are to go toward local projects. Tickets are on sale from local Rotarians and are to be available at the door. The Rotarians plan to serve steak fingers with gravy, french fries, cole slaw, iced tea and coffee.

English namesake sends note

The letter came from "The Mayor's Parlour, Town Hall, Hereford, England."

Hereford, Texas, Mayor Wes Fisher last month opened the correspondence. It was penned by G.R.G. Beynon, MIOT, ARSH, mayor-elect of the across-the-waters Hereford. On May 24, Beynon is to be installed as the English town's 603rd civic leader.

"During my year of office I feel it would be a nice gesture," the letter read, "if the two mayors were to communicate and discover a little about each other and our respective cities." Enclosed was a Hereford city guide which included a history of the town.

Fisher read the letter at a recent city commission meeting, at which local artist Charles Lyles was present. Lyles later offered to send one of his paintings, a western scene than included a herd of Hereford cattle, to our sister city.

Fisher is to send the work this week, along with a letter describing the American Hereford as "a city of about 16,000 people with an agriculturally based economy." Fisher told Beynon that compared to his city, ours is "just an infant," with Fisher being only the 16th person to serve as its mayor.

Voter turnout large here

By SPEEDY NIEMAN

Approximately 53.5 percent

Approximately 53.5 percent of the eligible voters in Deaf Smith County turned out for Saturday's election, compared to an average 30 percent turnout across West Texas.

The Democratic Primary drew 4,758 voters and the Republican Primary had 171 voters, according to figures at County Clerk David Ruland's office.

Ruland estimated there are 9,200 persons who have registration cards and were eligible to vote Saturday. The number is not exact because some people moved and did not notify the clerk's office.

The county attracted 58.7 percent of the voters to the local option election held April 7. At that time, there were not as many registered voters and the 5,100 total represented 58.7 percent of the total. There were almost as many voters Saturday with the 4,929 total from both party primaries.

Rep. Kent Hance, who led the statewide race for U.S. Senator in the Demo primary, said this week he had hoped for a 50 percent turnout in his home district with at least a 60 percent majority. He didn't get the turnout, but he got an 80 percent majority.

Hance got 83 percent support in Deaf Smith County, with highly-contested county races helping get the voters out for the primary. The 19th District representative also got 83 percent of the vote in Lubbock County, but only 26.7 percent of the voters turned out there. In his home county of Castro, Hance got 91 percent of the vote with a 40.6 percent turnout.

Election officials are expecting another good turnout here for the June 2 runoff elections, but it may not be as high as the May 5 primaries. The second Demo primary will have three local contested races to help attract voters, in addition to the senatorial race and the 19th District representative race.

Hance will face Lloyd Doggett in the Demo senate race, while Don Richards and Thomas Richards are the runoff foes in the Demo race to succeed Hance. The Republicans will also have a runoff in the 19th District race, with Larry Combast facing Ron Fleming as the GOP nominee.

Sanctuary trial jury deliberates

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — A Colorado church worker charged with transporting three Salvadoran illegal aliens said she looks forward to the verdict expected today in her case.

An eight-man four-woman jury began deliberating the case of Stacey Lynn Merkt, 29, at 2:45 p.m. Wednesday but failed to reach a decision before the judge sent them home about two hours later. The panel was expected to reconvene this morning.

"It means everyone is trying to take into account everything they heard," Ms. Merkt said, referring to the length of time the jury is taking to consider her case.

"I take it as a good sign and have no feelings of butterflies at all. I feel good and right and strong and am ready for something to be resolved."

Injuries of dead man revealed

HOUSTON (AP) — A man who was fatally injured while being arrested by police suffered a broken neck and bruised lungs, Harris County medical examiner Dr. Joseph Jachimczyk says.

The medical examiner said the injuries of Robert Thomas Lott, 31, are commonly caused by beatings, but also could be suffered by "a person struggling to try and resist arrest."

Lott lost consciousness while four police officers were trying to subdue him outside his parents' home on Monday. He died at a hospital.

Police said the four officers involved in the arrest suffered minor scratches and bruises in the struggle.

The parents of the dead man, Henry and Thelma Lott, told officers they called police Monday afternoon when their son barged into a bedroom where Mrs. Lott and a grandchild were sleeping. The elder Lott got a pistol and chased his son from the house.

Hit man's escape bid discovered

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Charles V. Harrelson, convicted in the 1979 assassination of U.S. District Judge John H. Wood Jr., was hatching a "relatively organized" plot to smuggle weapons into a maximum-security state prison unit so he could escape, a prison spokesman says.

"We just received information that makes us believe this is a real situation," Rick Hartley, a spokesman for the Texas Department of Corrections, said Wednesday. "It's difficult to second-guess whether it would have worked. There are so many variables."

Hartley would not detail the plot, but said prison officials received a tip "several days ago" that Harrelson, 45, tried to get weapons smuggled into the TDC's Eastham Unit, just north of Huntsville in Houston County.

"Investigators have uncovered what appears to be an outside effort to help inmate Harrelson escape," Hartley said.

National

Medicare premiums to increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — As part of the drive to trim federal budget deficits, the Senate has decided Medicare beneficiaries should pay more for additional insurance that covers doctors' fees.

But the Senate — nearing the end of its third week of deliberations — was still struggling today to settle on an overall "down payment" on eliminating government red ink.

Senator after senator has made speeches in favor of serious action to cut deficits. But, so far, the only action has been votes rejecting a series of substitutes for the three-year, $144 billion deficit-reduction package President Reagan has worked out with Republican leaders.

Some of those leaders are becoming exasperated with their colleagues.

"I can't believe we're still on this matter," Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., chairman of the Finance Committee, said on the Senate floor Wednesday.

Large fire scars San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A roaring five-alarm fire said to be one of the biggest in the city's history engulfed two piers on the Embarcadero Wednesday night, injuring two firefighters and sending towers of smoke and flames hundreds of feet into the sky.

Battalion Chief Ed Ahrens said several Navy and Coast Guard fireboats joined more than 150 city firefighters to battle the general alarm blaze, which began at 9:15 p.m. and was reported under control at 11:35 p.m.

Fire Chief Emmet Condon said the blaze caused at least $2.5 million in damage, adding that replacement cost of piers 30 and 32 would likely be much higher.

Assistant Fire Chief Mike Farrell the burning piers were among the largest on the waterfront, about half their space occupied by boat-repair equipment.

James Adams executed in Florida

STARKE, Fla. (AP) — James Adams died in Florida's electric chair today for the beating death of a millionaire rancher more than a decade ago, becoming the fifth convict executed in the state since the death penalty was restored and the 19th nationwide.

Adams, 47, died shortly after 7 a.m. at the Florida State Prison, where four other men have been put to death since May 1979.

He was convicted of the murder of Edgar Brown of Fort Pierce, a rancher and former St. Lucie County sheriff's deputy who was beaten to death during a Nov. 12, 1973, robbery at his home.

"I don't care what they do to him," said Al Brown, the victim's son. "I have mixed feelings about the whole thing."

Pope Paul II makes final stop

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Pope John Paul II arrived today in Thailand, where Roman Catholics are a tiny minority, and began a busy schedule which included meeting the royal family and touring an Indonesian refugee camp.

His special Alitalia DC-10 brought the pontiff to Bangkok International Airport from Port Moresby, Papua New Guinea, where cheering well-wishers beat jungle drums at his sendoff.

Security precautions were heavy for his 34-hour swing through Thailand, a predominantly Buddhist country that is last stop on the pope's 11-day trip to Asia and the South Pacific.

At a Bangkok cathedral on the pope's itinerary, 688 policemen were assigned as guards.

In three counties

Recounts yet to change third place

DALLAS (AP) — Recounts in Dallas, Harris and Travis counties yielded some changes in Saturday's U.S. Senate primary, but the bottom line remained the same: Bob Krueger still finished third.

Krueger, who has requested recounts in 68 counties, lost a berth in the June 2 Democratic runoff by a hair-thin margin to Sen. Lloyd Doggett and Rep. Kent Hance.

Recounts in those three counties netted all three candidates some extra votes, but did not change any of their percentages. The Dallas Morning News reported today.

Krueger picked up 105 votes, compared to 59 for Hance, the front-runner, and 143 for Doggett, who came in second statewide.

Initial vote tallies showed Krueger trailing Doggett by only a few hundred votes. But as early verifications widened that gap, he asked for recounts in 68 counties where voting machines or punch-card tabulation were used to compile results.

Campaign aide Rich Raymond said Wednesday that Krueger didn't expect a big change in the tallies, but "felt we had a moral obligation to ask for a partial recount."

He added that "we really won't have much to say about the new totals until all the recounts are finished."

Exactly how many will be completed is still unclear; Raymond said campaign officials have gotten required court orders in only about half the 68 counties pegged for recounts.

In Dallas County, Krueger gained 62 votes, Doggett picked up 75 and Hance's total went up 30 votes. Those totals kept Doggett firmly in the lead.

In Harris County, Krueger added 36, Doggett 32 and Hance 22. And in Travis County, where Doggett placed first on Saturday, the Austin state senator gained 16 votes while Krueger and Hance both gained seven.

"I didn't expect a significant change," said Ken Benson, Krueger's Dallas County campaign coordinator. "But I think everyone in the campaign is hopefully optimistic that 1,000 votes will turn up somehow before this is over."

A Krueger campaign official in Amarillo, Morris Overstreet, said Democratic vote canvassing in Potter, Randall, Armstrong, Gray and Moore counties have been ordered delayed.

Overstreet said an effort to stop the canvassing was made because it is more complicated to make a recount once processing of the vote is completed by the canvassing boards.

"Once the votes are canvassed, you have to file a lawsuit to overturn the canvassing board's decision," he said.

Alan Schoenbaum, Krueger's campaign director, said recount petitions were filed Tuesday in Harris, Bexar, Dallas, El Paso and Tarrant counties, the state's most populous. They also were filed in Fort Bend, Brazoria, Brazos, Chambers, Jefferson, Waller, Wharton and Washington counties, said Schoenbaum.

A revised report from Fort Bend County on Monday caused Krueger to lose votes.

Fort Bend officials reported a total for Krueger of 4,117 on Sunday. However, the total was revised to 3,232 votes on Monday, a reduction of 885.

Fort Bend County Democratic Chairman John Ferro blamed the mix-up on "people not being able to read the numbers right in the middle of the night."

The votes were retabulated Sunday, Ferro said.

A coordinator of Krueger's campaign, Land Commissioner Garry Mauro, said Monday that Krueger would not seek recounts but would only ask that vote totals be verified in the 68 counties. Schoenbaum, however, said Mauro's statement resulted from a "misunderstanding" and that the losing candidate planned all along to demand the recounts.

Some Krueger campaign officials said they feared that the public would react negatively to recount requests.

Hance and Doggett began preparations for their campaigns toward the June 2 runoff. Neither candidate was expecting the recounts to change the primary results.

Rightist charges fraud

By JOSEPH B. FRAZIER
Associated Press Writer

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Roberto d'Aubuisson withdrew his far-right party from participation in the official count of presidential votes, charging U.S.-backed fraud, and said he would win if illegal ballots were thrown out.

D'Aubuisson, candidate of the Republican Nationalist Alliance, claimed at a news conference Wednesday that his party's tally shows he won 52 percent of the valid votes in Sunday's runoff election to 48 percent for moderate Jose Napoleon Duarte, a Christian Democrat.

No official results have been released, but Duarte claimed victory Monday, saying his party's figures showed he won about 55 percent of the vote.

"Our results are legal, theirs are fake," said d'Aubuisson.

D'Aubuisson also accused the U.S. State Department and the CIA of conspiring with the Christian Democrats to fix the election.

He said he had no "tangible" proof of the claim but read from a statement by Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., who said the Reagan administration used a "covert plan to funnel U.S. government money and assistance to Duarte's campaign."

The United States has pushed hard for elections here but denies it tried to influence the outcome.

Six senior officers in El Salvador's powerful military said Wednesday they would be willing to accept Duarte as the new president but warned he must move cautiously if he wants to win the confidence of the armed forces. They spoke on condition that they not be identified.

The official count was halted Tuesday night when the parties squabbled over procedures and d'Aubuisson's party, known as ARENA, withdrew. The count began again Wednesday without an ARENA representative present.

D'Aubuisson said his party would boycott the count until a "legal" tally is made, meaning his party wants to present challenges before the votes are read in public and put in the computer.

Under Salvadoran law, each party has three days after the final results are announced to issue challenges.

Officials of the Central Election Council rejected the fraud charges and said the tally would be binding whether or not ARENA sent an observer. Conservative parties friendly to ARENA also have representatives at the count.

The vote is seen in the United States as vital for President Reagan if he wants to continue his substantial economic and military aid program. The United States supplied considerable technical and financial help to organize the voting.

MANURE — Intense combustion of the stockpiles.

Valley View is a Dallas-based company that also owns feedyards and farmland. The plant will be the first of its kind in the nation. It is expected to consume about half of the feedlot waste produced each year in the county.

The company is still negotiating markets for the electricity, which is to be produced at a rate of .50 megawatts per day.

Before convention

Mondale aide predicts win

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gary Hart, his campaign rejuvenated in Ohio and Indiana, is campaigning toward the next round of primaries and eyeing unpledged delegates, but Walter F. Mon-dale's camp plans to have the Democratic presidential nomination locked up before the convention.

The Rev. Jesse Jackson, disappointed by his showing in Tuesday's four primaries, planned to discuss the Soviet Union's Olympic boycott today in a meeting with Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin at the Soviet Embassy.

Mondale remained in Washington today, but will be heading to Nebraska, which holds its primary Tuesday, and California, the big prize with a June 5 primary.

Hart was already in Nebraska after spending the night at the governor's mansion in Lincoln as a guest of his supporter Gov. Bob Kerrey. He planned a tour of the state today before going Friday to Oregon, which also votes Tuesday, and on to California for the weekend.

Arriving in Lincoln on Wednesday night, Hart issued a sharp reply to President Reagan's appeal for more U.S. military aid to El Salvador, saying the president's policy has backfired and caused greater military strength and resolve on the part of Salvadoran rebels.

"Communism is not the greatest enemy; poverty is the greatest enemy" facing U.S.-backed governments in Central America, Hart said.

Mondale's campaign director James H. Johnson said that even if Hart continues winning primaries, Mondale will increase his delegate count so steadily that he will have a majority of delegates before the convention in San Francisco in mid-July.

On the day before the final round of primaries on June 5, Johnson said Mondale will have between 1,750 and 1,800 delegates — within striking range of the 1,967 needed to win the nomination.

Mondale, he said, will add to his total through the slower, less-publicized process of second-level caucus meetings and by swaying unpledged delegates to his side.

Having studied English since she was in kindergarten, language was no barrier when Sylvia Khuri decided to come to the United States from her native Ramallah, Palestine, located about ten miles from Jerusalem.

Most subjects were conducted in English as well as her native tongue during her school years, and prior to arriving in this country, she studied business two years at the American University of Cairo in Egypt.

"We are exposed to people of other nations in that part of the world. There are a lot of tourists and we do a lot of traveling," noted Sylvia. "I was homesick at first, but I adapted to the United States very quickly."

Sylvia received her bachelor's degree in business from Jacksonville University in Jacksonville, Fla. After graduation she returned to the Middle East and did graduate work at the American University of Beirut in Lebanon, where her husband, Dr. Nadir Khuri, also a native of Ramallah, went to medical school.

After the couple married, they came to the United States; he completed his residency in Rochester, N.Y., and Morgantown, W.Va., and then was an attending physician at the West Virginia University Medical Center.

The Khuris returned to Ramallah for five years, where he had a private practice and was associated with Ramallah Hospital, and she was employed as administrative assistant to the acting president of Birzeit University, the largest national university on the West Bank.

Sylvia described her job at the university as "very interesting. I was exposed to the whole operation of the university. There was always a sense of excitement."

The couple and their 11-year-old son, Imad, a fourth grader at St. Anthony's School, moved to Hereford one and a half years ago from Ramallah.

Dr. Khuri has a private practice here, specializing in vascular and general surgery, with an office in Deaf Smith General Hospital. His wife is presently working on her master's in business administration at West Texas State University.

"It was difficult making the decision to go back to school, but I am enjoying it very much and am glad I did it," stated Sylvia.

The young mother said she has enjoyed living in different parts of the world. "I like the people here better than anywhere else I've been. It's as close as I ever came (in the United States) to my background," she commented.

Sylvia Khuri

mented. "I'm surprised how many people I already know within a year and a half."

She added that the climate suits her, but that she misses the trees.

The Khuris enjoy traveling, and plan to go to Ramallah this summer. Sylvia's mother, who resides there, is currently in Hereford visiting the family, and the two are excited about taking a trip to Florida and Georgia to visit relatives.

Going to school and studying take much of Sylvia's time, but she has made an effort to get involved in the local community, joining the Women's Division of the Chamber of Commerce and Veleda Study Club.

She enjoys reading, playing tennis, riding bikes, and doing embroidery using elaborate designs from her native country. Her husband likes gardening and collecting antiques.

Sylvia also enjoys cooking and entertaining. She shares several recipes which she brought with her to the United States. Makloubeh is a main dish with both meat and vegetables, Harisseh is a dessert, and Sambusek is a pastry often served as an appetizer.

MAKLOUBEH

- 1 large cauliflower
- 1 1/2 lbs. lamb meat or beef, cubed
- 1 large onion
- 2 c. rice
- 1/2 tsp. allspice
- 1/2 tsp. pepper
- Dash of garlic powder
- 2 Tbsp. butter
- Oil for frying

- 4 tsp. salt (or more)
- 3 1/2 c. water and-or meat broth
- 1/8 tsp. saffron (optional)
- 2 Tbsp. pine nuts (optional)
- Boil meat in water, skimming the froth as it appears on the surface. Add salt and spices. Cover. Let meat simmer over moderate heat until tender. Strain broth into a bowl, reserving meat for later use.

Break the cauliflower into medium-size flowerets. Sprinkle with salt. Fry in deep, hot oil until golden brown. Drain on absorbent paper.

In a 4-quart pot, saute onion and meat. Cover meat with cauliflower, then rice. Add broth or water (if desired, colored with saffron) to cover the rice.

Let it all come to a fast boil. Reduce heat. Cook covered for 40 minutes, or until the rice is tender and water is absorbed. Remove from fire.

Let cool for one-half hour, then turn pot upside down in a large platter or a plate. If desired, garnish with sauteed pine nuts. Serve with yogurt and a lettuce salad.

HARISSEH or NAMMURAH

- 2 Tbsp. Tahineh (sesame seed oil)
- 4 c. Farina (cream of wheat)
- 1/4 c. butter
- 1 c. sugar
- 1/2 tsp. baking soda
- 1 tsp. baking powder
- 1 1/4 c. plain yogurt
- 3 c. syrup
- 1/2 c. blanched almonds
- Dash of salt

Mix Farina, sugar and butter. Stir baking soda and baking powder in yogurt. Add to Farina mixture. Blend together.

Grease 17x12 inch pan with Tahineh. Pour mixture into pan and smooth the top with 2 tablespoons of yogurt. Cut into diamond shapes. Place a blanched almond on each piece.

HARISSEH WITH CHEESE FILLING

- 2 lbs. sweet cheese (Ricotta)
- 1/2 c. sugar
- 1 Tbsp. orange blossom water (Mazaher)
- 1/2 c. dried milk (when using Ricotta cheese)

Blend all ingredients together. Divide Harisseh, placing two-fifths in bottom of pan. Spread cheese mixture evenly. Cover with the rest of the batter. Follow the basic recipe procedure.

SAMBUSEK

- 2 c. butter
- 6 c. flour
- 2 tsp. salt
- 1 egg, beaten
- 1 c. water

Sift together the flour and salt. Cream butter and egg. Combine flour and butter mixture and mix well, until it crumbles. Gradually add about a cup of water, mixing and kneading until dough is smooth.

Cover with a blanket. Put in a warm place for 30 minutes. Cut dough into pieces the size of a ping pong ball. Flatten to circles 3 inches in diameter.

Place cheese stuffing (recipe below) in the center of the circle. Close circle in half, sticking edges together. Pinch edges together with tines of a fork. Bake at 350 degrees in preheated oven for 15 minutes or until light brown. If desired, fry in hot oil until light brown.

CHEESE STUFFING

- 2 c. Syrian cheese, chopped, or Feta cheese crumbs
 - 1 c. parsley, chopped
 - 1 medium onion, finely chopped
 - Salt and pepper to taste
- Mix all the above ingredients together.

Local residents to be awarded B.B.A. degrees

FORT WORTH, Tx -- Thomas Fish of 103 Centre and Steven Shannon Veigel of Route 4, Hereford, are among some 850 Texas Christian University students expected to complete degree requirements and receive diplomas during spring commencement on Saturday.

Fish will earn a bachelor of business administration in management, while Veigel will receive his bachelor of business administration in finance-real estate. Spring baccalaureate and commencement services, combined into one event, will be held in TCU's Daniel-Meyer Coliseum beginning at 7:30 p.m. Presiding will be Dr. William E. Tucker, TCU chancellor.

During the evening the doctor of science degree will be conferred upon Dr. S.B. Sells, TCU research professor of psychology emeritus who headed the university's noted Institute of Behavioral Research from 1962 until his retirement last year.

Before being gored to death in 1920, world-famous Spanish toreador Jose Gomez y Ortega killed more than 1,500 bulls.

The Newspaper BIBLE

ONLY A FOOL WOULD DO THAT!

Someone called to Jesus from the crowd, "Sir, please tell my brother to divide my father's estate with me."

But Jesus replied, "Man, who made Me a judge over you to decide such things as that? Beware! Don't always be wishing for what you don't have."

Then He gave an illustration: "A rich man had a fertile farm that produced fine crops."

"In fact, his barns were full to overflowing--he couldn't get everything in. He thought about this problem, and finally exclaimed, 'I know--I'll tear down my barns and build bigger ones! Then I'll have room enough. And I'll sit back and say to myself, 'Friend, you have enough stored away for years to come. Now take it easy! Wine, women, and song for you!'"

"But God said to him, 'Fool! Tonight you die. Then who will get it all?'"

"Yes, every man is a fool who gets rich on earth but not in heaven."

The Vogue will provide new spring and summer fashions that will be modeled during the Hereford CowBelles luncheon-style show scheduled at 11:45 a.m. Tuesday at the Hereford Country Club. The event is open to the public and reservations may be made through Saturday, May 12, by contacting The Vogue or Freda Cordray at 364-2489. Juanita Bowles, a CowBelle member, is shown wearing a 100 percent cotton two-piece surf green ensemble trimmed in hot pink. The circle skirt features pockets and is complemented by a hot pink tie belt. (Photo by Sandy Pankey)

Ann Landers Rejected by mother

DEAR ANN LANDERS: How can I get my mother to love me as she loves my two older sisters? I am 29 years old and this terrible rejection is breaking my heart.

The problem began two years ago when I gave birth to a child who was severely brain-damaged and physically handicapped. My mother came to see me in the hospital when the baby was 24 hours old. They took her upstairs to see her grandson (through the glass) and she returned to my room, white as chalk. I will never forget the look on her face when she uttered a single sentence that devastated me. "You must have done something terrible or God would not have punished you this way."

I was so shocked I couldn't speak. Mother refuses to come to our home and has asked me not to bring my son to see her. My husband says she is just plain crazy and I should have nothing to do with her, but I can't.

I have discussed this with my priest and my obstetrician. They both offered to talk to Mother, but she refuses to see them. Please, Ann, tell me what to do. Although I am a grown woman I feel like an abandoned child. I need your wise counsel.—Los Angeles Grief

DEAR L.A.: Your mother is not rational on this subject. Accept the fact and put an end to your suffering.

Her accusation that God has punished you by sending a handicapped child is too preposterous to contemplate. It is also enormously hostile—which suggests that she may perceive this unfortunate child as HER punishment. I repeat—this woman is ill. My advice is to make no further effort to curry her favor.

DEAR ANN: I'm fuming over the letter from that idiot who said all smokers are thumb-suckers who have found a substitute. Such rot!

I am tired of being picked on because I smoke. The media and the government are trying to crucify us. I am an American citizen of legal age and of sound mind. What I choose to do with my body is MY business. Right?—Indignant Lady In Oregon

DEAR DIG: Wrong. What you choose to do with your body IS your business, but now that we know non-smokers can be seriously affected by nearby smokers, it becomes everyone's business. You rattled the wrong cage, Toots.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: May I borrow your space to add to your advice to "Meg of Venezuela?" She was not quite 30 and worried that she would die before she had raised her children because both her parents died young.

Meg ought to be told thoughts can change body chemistry. Thoughts can make people sick or keep them well. She should develop a strong positive attitude. When a negative thought enters her head she should refuse to complete it. It should be tossed out and replaced by a prayer of thanks for the good things in her life and the strong belief that they will continue to be good. It works. Try it.—Las Vegas Woman

DEAR WOMAN: I believe in your theory. It has worked for me. Thanks for writing.

Going to a wedding? Giving one? Or standing up in one? Even if you're already married Ann Landers' "New Bride's Guide" will answer questions about today's weddings. For a copy, send $2.00, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (37 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Local author honored at recent reception

George Malouf, author of "Ethereal Moments of Truth," a recently released book of poetry, attended a reception given in his honor by Fred and Alice Salamy of Amarillo along with other friends of the author Sunday at the Camelot Inn of Amarillo.

The invocation was given by the Rev. Father Lou Christopoulos of St. John's Greek Orthodox Church in Amarillo. Malouf offered appreciation to his hosts and recited three of the poems from his book, which is presently on its way to a third binding.

A resident of Hereford for the last 13 years, Malouf is a local store owner and is presently working on his third book of poems. Proceeds from all book sales during the reception were donated to St. John's Greek Orthodox Church.

A variety of Greek and Middle-Eastern hoers d'oeuvres and desserts were served, and the reception finale featured Greek and Middle-Eastern dances.

Among the 116 attending from Lubbock, Amarillo, Houston, Friona and Dimmitt were Hereford residents Lyndia Muse, Dr. and Mrs. Nadir Khuri, Mrs. Wedad Salah, Marvin and Jan James, Kevin and Ginia Malone, Marie Cline, William and Beth Igal, Mrs. Victoria Igal.

Also, Mrs. Genevieve Kuper, Roy and Renee Kuper, Paul Kuper, A.C. and Lupe Cerda, Tony and Emma Lupton, Joe and Jackie James, Ken and Opal Glenn, Mrs. Linda Edelman, Mrs. Leona Paetzold, Gene and Helmi Batterman, Sister Debra, Sister Amy Romero, Jim Cherry and the author's wife, Yiota Malouf.

Helen Caraway recognized as honored guest Tuesday

Helen Caraway, president of District I Federated Music Clubs of Texas for 1983-84, was the honored guest of Dawn Music Club Tuesday at a luncheon meeting in the home of Mrs. John Stribling.

Ms. Caraway expressed her appreciation to all her committees and to her home club, Dawn Music Club, for their help throughout her term of office and in hosting the state convention held in March in Amarillo. Ms.

Caraway was presented a monetary gift from club members.

A salad luncheon was served with Mary Parker and Ms. Stribling, co-hosts.

President Ruby Wimberley presided at the business session and Mrs. H.V. McCabe read a tribute to National Music Week which was observed sporadically from 1912-1924, the year it was instituted as an annual observance in 462 cities. Federated Music Clubs' connection with National Music Week began in 1920.

To open the program on opera, Ms. Stribling gave a report on "The 18th Century Beginning of Light Opera" which had its center in Paris, France. It was started by a group of actors who began a vaudeville show making light of serious opera and the stage. They were forbidden to perform with speech or song so they lowered signs on the stage to instruct the audience to do the singing.

"Music of Victor Herbert," who was born in Dublin, Ireland, in 1859, was reviewed by Corene Smith. Herbert moved with his wife to the United States where he wrote many great works. He died in 1924.

Herbert's "Kiss Me Again" was sung by Ms. Caraway with Ms. Wimberley accompanying and Mrs. Orville Galley played "My Heart At Thy Sweet Voice" from "Sampson and Delilah."

Selections from "The Pirates of Penzance" by Gilbert and Sullivan was reviewed by Ms. Parker. She played an excerpt from the "Overture" and sang "When Frederick Was A Lad."

The song of the month, "Come, Thou Fount of Every Blessing" was sung by members and led by Susie Curtsinger.

New officers were installed by Ms. Caraway. Taking office were Mary Parker, president; Jeanne Galley, vice-president; Susie Curtsinger, recording secretary and reporter; Corne Smith, treasurer; Hazel Stewart, historian; Helen Caraway, parliamentarian; Becky Caraway, choral director.

Ms. Wimberley was presented a gift in recognition of her work as president. Others attending included Thelma Sowell, Glenna Tooley and visitor, Jody Skiles.

Poppy Day scheduled

A poppy day was planned for later this month, when members of the American Legion Auxiliary met recently at the Legion Hall.

The women will sell poppies on May 23 at the two local banks.

Members were also reminded of the monthly bingo night set for May 14 at the veterans hospital in Amarillo, and of a garage sale planned for May 19.

The auxiliary decided to once again maintain a food booth at the Hereford Town and Country Jubilee, and named a nominating committee to select officers for the coming year.

The division convention will be held in Odessa on June 2 and 3, members were told. Alice Gilleland, presided, conducted the meeting.

Gained needed experience

Motta proud despite losing NBA playoffs

DALLAS (AP) — When a team doesn't expect to make it to the playoffs, a little thing like defeat is secondary.

The Dallas Mavericks lost the season 115-99 to the Los Angeles Lakers Tuesday night, but it was only their fourth season and they were in the fifth game of the NBA's Western Conference semifinal series.

If anyone is complaining, Mavericks coach Dick Motta doesn't have any harsh words.

Neither did the fans who packed Reunion Arena and deliriously applauded the successes that took it so far in the season — including its finesse victory over the Seattle SuperSonics in the playoffs' first round and a firm 125-115 rout in Game 3 against the Lakers.

What the Mavericks lacked was something Motta calls playoff intensity. It is that intangible element, or the absence of it, that was demonstrated when rookie Derek Harper intentionally dribbled away the last six seconds of regulation time in Game 4 with the Lakers because he thought, mistakenly, that the Mavericks were ahead.

So for a squad that never expected to go so far so soon, it members were happy just for the ride and the experience.

"I don't think I've ever been prouder of a team than I was of this group," Motta glowed after Tuesday's game. "If anyone had told me at the start of the season that Dallas would play 10 playoff games, I would have called them a liar."

And Mark Aguirre, whose bruised hip allowed him to play only 14 minutes in the final game, said the playoffs "are definitely going to help

Motta said the 10 playoff games would be of "insurmountable value" to the team he wants to begin preparing for another season, and another round of playoffs.

"I don't want this season to come down to some guy dribbling off the clock," Motta said. "We accomplished too much more than that. When I talk about playoff intensity from now on, they'll know what I'm talking about. I told

Other Communist nations join Soviets in boycott of Los Angeles Olympic Games

WASHINGTON (AP) — American officials now expect most of the nations of the Warsaw Pact to follow the lead of the Soviet Union and Bulgaria and pull their athletes out of the 1984 Olympic Games in Los Angeles.

While officials of the American Olympic Committee say a 50-50 chance still exists that the Soviets can be persuaded to change their minds, officials of the Reagan administration say that is not a realistic possibility.

"I think there is an expectation that most of the East European countries will now pull out," said a State Department official speaking privately. "And that is sad."

Meanwhile, Democratic presidential contender Jesse Jackson announced he would discuss the Olympic boycott today with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin at the Soviet Embassy here.

At the White House, national security adviser Robert McFarlane said, "I suppose I don't have any comment. It's a free country."

The U.S. official said it is expected that Yugoslavia, which is not a Warsaw Pact member, and Romania, which is one, will send teams to compete at Los Angeles.

But he indicated that other Soviet-bloc nations, including East Germany, Poland, Hungary and Czechoslovakia, probably will not.

The State Department said that in announcing the boycott, the Soviets ignored repeated pledges from President Reagan that the security of Soviet athletes and the integrity of the Olympic charter would be protected.

State Department spokesman John Hughes issued a 10-point list of assurances made by the United States prior to the anouncement by the Soviet Olympic Committee that obstacles mounted by the United States made it "impossible" for Soviet athletes to compete in Los Angeles.

He said the assurances included authorizing at least 25 Soviet charter flights into Los Angeles and spending about $500,000 so far on security for a Soviet cruise ship, which was to be anchored off Los Angeles as a Soviet Olympic headquarters.

Peter V. Ueberroth, president of the Los Angeles Olympic Organizing Committee, said he had not given up hope the Soviets would reverse their decision.

"We're going to use every ounce of energy to see that they come to the Games because we don't want the U.S. athletes to suffer again," Ueberroth said.

Scores to be published

The sports department of the Brand has prepared master copies for all Kids, Inc. coaches who wish to have baseball scores published this year.

Copies are in the process of being distributed or they may be picked up at the Brand Sports Desk.

Runs, hits, errors, decision pitchers and those who hit home runs are some of the details included.

In T-Ball action Tuesday it was reported that the Yankees defeated the Angels, 22-38.

Sugar Ray Leonard enters ring again

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) — "I'll have jitters, but I'll be like before my first pro fight," says Sugar Ray Leonard, who comes back to boxing Friday night.

"This fight is comparable with my first pro fight," Leonard said Wednesday. But the questions surrounding his first fight and this fight are different.

The question about Leonard when he scored a six-round decision over Luis Vega on Feb. 5, 1977, in Baltimore was could he be as great a fighter as a pro as he had been as an amateur.

But when Leonard fights Kevin Howard Friday night at the Centrum, the question in the minds of some people will remain: why is he fighting at all?

The scheduled 10-round fight comes two years and two days after Leonard had retinal surgery on the left eye, which caused him to retire as undisputed welterweight champion Nov. 9, 1982.

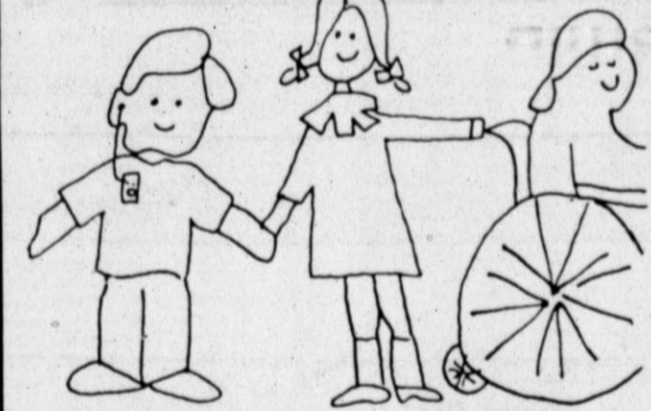

It comes 88 days after a freezing procedure was performed to strengthen the retina in Leonard's right eye. That forced postponement of this fight, which was scheduled for Feb. 25 here.

"Dr. Ryan and I are in agreement that Mr. Leonard should be permitted to resume his boxing career," said Dr. Ronald Michels, who performed the retinal surgery. Dr. Edward Ryan performed the freezing technique.

Besides medical clearance, Leonard also has the support of his wife, Juanita, who wanted him to retire.

Play for 25 innings

White Sox, Brewers set AL record

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

If the Chicago White Sox and Milwaukee Brewers aren't in midseason form yet, they probably never will be.

After playing 34 innings in two days — including an American League-record 25-inning marathon that lasted 8 hours and 6 minutes, making it the longest major-league game ever time-wise — both teams might be ready for the All-Star break. The game was suspended by an AL curfew after 17 innings Tuesday night tied 3-3.

"If you're going to play them that long, you might as well win them," said Chicago's Tom Seaver, the winning pitcher in both games as the White Sox captured the record game 7-6 on Harold Baines' homer and then took the regularly scheduled game 5-4.

Seaver hurled the top of the 25th as Chicago's eighth pitcher and allowed one hit. It was his seventh career relief appearance and first since 1976. Seaver then gave up three hits — two of them homers to Roy Howell and Robin Yount — in 8 1-3 innings of the nightcap after retiring the first 14 batters.

In other AL action, the Detroit Tigers downed the Kansas City Royals 3-1, the Minnesota Twins beat the California Angels 5-2, the Baltimore Orioles took two from the Toronto Blue Jays 7-4 and 7-3, the Seattle Mariners defeated the Oakland Athletics 4-1, the New York Yankees pounded the Cleveland Indians 11-4 and the Boston Red Sox blanked the Texas Rangers 2-0.

The previous longest game in elapsed time was 7 hours, 23 minutes when the San Francisco Giants defeated the New York Mets 8-6 in 23 innings on May 31, 1964. The old AL time record was June 24, 1962, when the New York Yankees outlasted Detroit 9-7 in a 22-inning game that lasted exactly seven hours.

Athletics' 4-1 victory over Boston in 1906 and equaled in 1945 when Philadelphia and Detroit played a 1-1 tie.

The longest major-league game was 26 innings on May 1, 1920, when the Brooklyn Dodgers and Boston Braves played a 1-1 tie. The only other 25-inning contest was the St. Louis Cardinals' 4-3 victory over Seaver's Mets in 1974. Seaver also was a member of the Mets when they lost to Houston 1-0 in 24 innings in 1968.

"I'm more than happy to put them (the wins) on my side of the ledger," Seaver said. "But the important thing is this team earned two victories. It's a great lift because these guys are exhausted. The records and all the other numbers are nice for the media and the fans because that's the mystique that makes baseball what it is. But we were just concerned about winning."

But inning after inning it seemed no one would ever win. Both teams scored two runs in the ninth inning Tuesday night. When play resumed, Ben Oglivie's three-run homer in the 21st gave Milwaukee a 6-3 lead but the White Sox tied in the bottom half.

They blew a chance to win it in the 23rd when Dave Stegman led off with a single. One out later, on a hit-and-run play, Tom Paciorek singled. But as Stegman rounded third he was physically stopped by coach Jim Leyland and was ruled out for coach's interference.

Tigers 3, Royals 1

Alan Trammell collected three hits as Detroit stretched its road record to 14-0. In winning their sixth game in a row and handing the fading Royals their seventh straight defeat, the Tigers moved within two of the AL record for consecutive road victories established by the 1912 Washington Senators. The major-league mark is 17 by the 1916 New York Giants. The Tigers' 25-4 record equals the 1955 Brooklyn Dodgers for the best start after 29 games.

For Houston Astros

Enos Cabell becomes spiritual leader

HOUSTON (AP) — Enos Cabell is recognized as the spiritual leader of the 1984 Houston Astros, the holler guy who inspires the young players on the team.

But Cabell also brought his bat from Detroit when the Astros signed him to a two-year contract during the off-season.

Cabell, playing for injured Ray Knight at first base, had a two-for-three performance Wednesday night, including a two-run triple in a four-run inning.

The Plainview Softball Association is sponsoring a tournament May 25-27 in conjunction with International Tours.

Entry fee is $85 for men's team and $80 for women's. The first thirty teams will be accepted. The tourney is ASA sanctioned with ASA balls and umpires.

Checks must be made to P.S.B. Softball Tournament Account P.O. Box 1963, Plainview, Texas 79073. Check must be received by deadline May 21.

Awards include trophies, bat bags, windbreakers, pullover shirts, T-shirts and men's watches.

first inning to lead the Astros to a 7-1 rout of the Philadelphia Phillies.

"Most of the time when I say something the guys do listen," said Cabell, who boosted his average to .333. "I'm not too articulate but I get my point across. I tell them I play hard and I expect them to play hard too."

Cabell's first inning blast, complete with a belly-flop slide into third base, fueled a four-run inning that also included Jerry Mumphrey's run-scoring single and a sacrifice fly by rookie catcher Mark Bailey.

Houston added a run in the second on a single by Kevin Bass, Mumphrey got his second RBI single in the seventh and Bailey completed the rout in the eighth with his first major league homer and the first by an Astro in the Astrodome this season.

Houston's 11-hit attack was welcomed by winning pitcher Bob Knepper, who scattered seven hits and improved his record to 3-4.

"I didn't really have my good stuff tonight, but my fast ball was moving just enough," Knepper said. "That quick lead really helped. I could just sit back and throw strikes the rest of the night."

Cabell and Bailey are in the lineup because of a series of injuries that have left three starters and the team's top pinchhitter — Knight, Dickie Thon, Alan Ashby and Denny Walling — on the injury list.

"To tell the truth, I didn't think I'd be playing this much," said Bailey, who has hit at a .381 pace since being called up from Class AA.

The Right Fielder Kids, Inc. Update

THE RIGHT FIELDER by 'Lefty' Skinner

What this town needs is a good day together at the ball park. We don't have a medical or pharmaceutical license, but we prescribe a day at the ball game to cure a flock of ills besetting the community, whatever they may be.

There was a day — before so many cars, air conditioners, radios, televisions and things — when everybody from the mayor to the dogcatcher, from the businessman to the ragpicker, got together at the ball park and whooped and hollered — in one voice — for the home team. We were united in a cause — victory for our team — and that unity carried over into other transactions during our daily lives.

It seems to us the old town could use a bit of that articulate unity now. It's wonderful to have the comforts of home, but maybe we shut ourselves off from each other too much when we have in common a great community and our young people.

Let's all go out to the ball park and pull together for our team — and maybe we'll find it easier to keep pulling together in other fields of constructive action, too.

Let's show the young people we're right with them and rooting for victory.

They may teach us something about "team play."

(The above was written in 1957 by an Illinois by an Illinois newspaper editor. Does it fit? Join us at the ball parks Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday nights starting at 6:00. See boys and girls in action on six fields of play. Have a snow cone, popcorn or cotton candy from the KI concession stand, and celebrate what has traditionally been known as "America's Favorite Pastime.")

The annual fund-raising effort by Kids Incorporated participants got off to a good start this past Saturday, as most teams visited supply headquarters and were soon calling door-to-door, offering candy and soap to Hereford households.

Many youngsters were involved, despite conflicts for some (including a "Bike-a-thon" and the finals of basketball) league competition.)

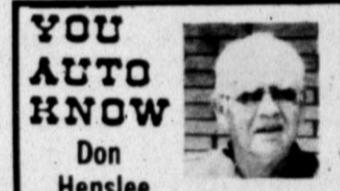

After Saturday's kickoff, the remaining product to be sold was distributed to team members, and they'll be making rounds in their neighborhoods this week trying to wrap up the sale.

Teams who were unable to participate Saturday are asked to contact Gayle Cotten to obtain their inventory and help make this sale a success.

Kids Incorporated provides supervised baseball and softball play for boys and girls ages 7-15, with over 600 youngsters registered in this year's program.

The product sale features Oliver Plumm chocolate bars at $1.00 each; and Strawberry or Honeysuckle 16-ounce hand soap in pump dispenser ($4.00 each.)

The Beatles made their North American television debut on the Ed Sullivan Show in 1964. John Lennon, George Harrison, Paul McCartney and Ringo Starr performed for a studio audience and a viewing audience of millions. Within a month of their appearance on the show, the group had sold 2.5 million records.

Q. Is there anything else to investigate on a brake master cylinder other than fluid level?

A. Yes, there are. First of all, when checking fluid level, it should be within a quarter of an inch from the top. Be careful not to disturb the gasket sealing the cover and be particularly cautious not to get any dirt or foreign matter in the cylinder while the cover is off. After the cylinder is topped off and recovered, pump the brake pedal several times (five times if you have power assisted brakes), then maintain steady foot pressure on the pedal for 30 seconds. If you feel the pedal slowly receding or "giving" under this pressure, worn or malfunctioning parts in the master cylinder is indicated. If the master cylinder is functioning properly, the pedal will not recede under pressure.

Concerning ratings

'Dynasty' paces ABC to victory

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Although outnumbered by CBS in the Top 10 shows of the week, ABC captured the regular ratings race for the third straight week with 'Dynasty' edging CBS' 'Dallas' to lead the way. NBC invaded the list as the opening installment 'V: The Final Battle,' a tale of humans fighting off their would-be alien conquerors, finished at No. 5 in the Nielsen ratings, two spots above part one of ABC's 'The Last Days of Pompeii.' The two ran opposite each other Sunday night.

CBS won the opening days of the May sweeps, the period when local stations are measured. The Nielsen sweeps ratings for May 3-6 showed CBS with 15.6, ABC with 14.4 and NBC with 12.3. Network programs are measured all year by Nielsen, but only in May, July, November and February are the local stations monitored by the ratings service. The ratings during this period help determine what stations can charge for advertising for the next few months, and the networks have scheduled miniseries and original episodes of many series to boost audiences for their stations.

Among the evening news shows, 'The CBS Evening News' began its third consecutive year in first place, posting a 12.2 rating. ABC and NBC had a rating of 10.0. The lowest-rated show of the week was NBC's 'Animals Are the Funniest People.' The five bottom shows in descending order were: NBC's 'The Master,' ABC's 'Ripley's Believe It or Not,' CBS' 'The Bugs Bunny Special,' NBC's 'Knight Rider' movie and NBC's 'Animals Are the Funniest People.'

prepared by the County's Architect, The Gondeck-Poage Partnership, Architects, 401 Isom Road, Suite 190, San Antonio, Texas 79216, Telephone: 512-349-7950.

All Contract Documents, the Drawings, Conditions of the Contract and Specifications will be on file at the County Judge's Office; and certain other specific plan rooms and construction service agencies. A list of these agencies may be obtained from the Architect upon written request.

Prime Contractors may obtain two (2) sets of the Drawings and Specifications from the Architect upon the deposit of $200.00 per set, which deposit is returnable to the bidder if he submits a proposal, and if he returns the plans and specifications complete, unmarked, and in good condition to Architect within seven (7) days after proposals have been received. If a bidder does not submit a proposal, he will forfeit his deposit unless the plans and specifications are returned to Architect no less than four (4) days prior to the respective Bid Opening as written hereinbefore.

A Bidder's Bond, with Corporate, Certified or Cashier's Check in an amount of not less than five percent (5) percent of the largest amount contained in any proposal submitted by a candidate for Prime Contractor, payable to "County of Deaf Smith," must accompany each proposal or bid as a guarantee that if awarded the contract, the successful Bidder will enter into a contract and execute Owner's Protective Bonds (Performance and Payment) for 100 percent of the agreed Contract Price as awarded by the Commissioners' Court, with said Bonds to be executed on forms as published in the Project Manual (Specifications) as will be issued by the Architect for execution.

No bid may be withdrawn for any reason for at least forty-five (45) days after the scheduled closing time for the receipt of bids.

The County of Deaf Smith through its Commissioners' Court, reserves the right to reject any or all bids and to waive any irregularities or informalities of any Bid received. All Bidders must be prequalified as specified in the Instructions to Bidders, and must exhibit sufficient bonding ability, and show satisfactory experience, capital, references, and history of responsibility.

Deaf Smith County reserves, and calls the Bidder's attention to, its rights to issue change orders and to negotiate certain matters with the successful Bidder after the contract is awarded and performance has commenced, as provided in Articles 2368a and 2368a3, V.A.T.S., which statutes are made a part of the Contract Documents.

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Battling infertility

DEAR DR. LAMB - I'm a 26-year-old woman who has taken Clomid for more than two years. My husband and I want children. I don't ovulate every month and sometimes I go as long as five months without a period. Then I have to take pills to start me.

I'm also doing the temperature chart thing. I would like any information you can give me on the charts, too.

I love kids and want to have at least two but I also want to have them before I get to be 30.

DEAR READER - There are a surprising number of couples who aren't fertile. Estimates run as high as 15 percent and 10 percent even when the infertile couples are treated.

I'd like to stress the importance of both partners being evaluated. In your case you believe the problem is with you because of your infrequent ovulation, but the difficulty may be because your husband doesn't produce enough healthy sperm cells. Often the combination of decreased fertility in both partners is the real explanation.

Fertility pills, such as Clomid, are the answer for many women. But again there's more to the process than just ovulating. The tubes must be open as well. The temperature chart, if it's done correctly, is a very useful tool in demonstrating ovulation. The temperature tends to dip a day or two before ovulation followed by a rise one to three days after ovulation. The changes in mucus also help.

Infertility, the temperature chart and mucus sign are discussed in the Health Letter 17-2, Female Reproductive Function, which I'm sending you as requested. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I'm 28 years old, 5 feet 5 inches tall and weigh about 118 pounds. I work out with weights and greatly improved my chest. I nursed three children and kept my weight steady.

My problem is I'm one of those women with no buttocks. It seems my waist and hips are the same measurements. I have been doing leg-lifts while lying on my stomach to increase the muscle and size of my buttocks. However, over the months I have seen little improvement.

Is the buttock just fatty tissue that can't be helped or is it a muscle that I can increase the size of? Am I doomed to be a woman who wasn't blessed with a well-rounded bottom?

DEAR READER - Did it ever occur to you that what you consider a well-rounded bottom might be something the other woman would like to eliminate? The buttocks is both fat and muscle. You can put your hands on your lean bottom while you are standing and voluntarily contract and relax the muscles.

These are the gluteal muscles and their main action is to maintain an upright posture. They act when you raise up from bending over to touch your toes. You use them in walking, running and climbing stairs. But it's very hard to design an exercise to enlarge these muscles.

Some people have genes that cause more fat to be stored on the gluteal region. That's why too much fat in that region is a problem for some people. The fat pad is nature's cushion so you can sit comfortably.

You might get some benefit in rotating your thighs. Stand on one foot while rotating the other thigh. As you identify the muscles by feel when you are contracting them you can do isometric exercises contracting the muscles, holding the contraction, then relaxing.

At least one of the colors in the Olympic symbol—blue, yellow, black, green or red—appears in the national flag of every country.

Some folks say that if your cat sneezes, it will rain.
