Roosevelt Says Americans May Fight In 1942

Russian Armies Recapture Rostov

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, under the direct threat itself, proclaimed Saturday night that Rostov on the Don had been delivered, its captors routed from their week-end prize and plunged into westward flight by one of the most startling counter-offensives of the war.

The sharpest menace to the oil rich Caucasus thus apparently had been shattered, for Rostov is the northern gateway to that vital region.

REVIEWING THE BIG SPRING WEEK

BY JOE PICKLE

Now that the football season is all but past, we can settle down to some serious worry about Christmas shopping. But by way of retrospection, we might observe that the noble constellation of confusion, the district 2-AA executive committee, didn't do the entirely unexpected in tossing out Oleson and declaring Sweetwater champion. By holding a certain Oleson player to be ineligible, the committee probably rid itself of the pangs of conscience for previously having declared him eligible.

It's about time, we think, that somebody recognized the fine contribution Eddie Polacek has made to the Red Cross program here. At his cleaning establishment across from Red Cross headquarters, he has enlisted the aid of his staff in blocking every knitted garment the chapter has turned out. And this has run well past the 1,000-mark.

Turkey Day, that lovely mad scramble last Tuesday, scored a big hit with the public and with us. Our only objection is that the thing gets over in such a hurry that, like a five-ring circus, it was impossible to see all that was going on.

Judging from the ideas that have been submitted, the chamber of commerce will face its most ambitious program in 1942 if it attempts to effect a good part of things the people thought up. What's that old jingle about hitting the wagon to a star?

The high school band needs around $300 more to make its trip to the Battle of Flowers in San Antonio, and the public will have a chance to help out and at the same time spend an enjoyable evening by seeing the band play, "Wild Ginger," Tuesday. The play is said to be full of punch and the cast full of ability. It's a good combination.

We think the city acted wisely in not restricting activities of the fire department to the city limits. While the city has no obligation to give service outside its confines, runs to rural fires may be counted as a good neighbor gesture until such a time as perhaps a piece of rural equipment can be provided.

About this time of the year the question of meeting the demands of a terracing program comes up, and, without apology, we always support it as strongly as we know how. Anything we can do to protect our soil will pay us many fold in the long run. And terracing is one of the very best ways to protect the soil, our first and last resource.

Tuberculosis association officials call attention to the Christmas seal this year. It was painted by a man who has an arrested case of tuberculosis, thanks to the concerted program seal sales make possible. His heart and soul went into that sketch.

If last week was a criterion of what is to come, the smart thing for all of us is to get about Christmas shopping as early as possible. One store said that it had its best run since being in business. Others were taking the optimistic view. All in all it looks like the biggest yet and a hint to the wise should be sufficient.

OIL ENGINEER DIES
TULSA, Okla., Nov. 29 (AP)—Walter Fredrick Statham, 64-year-old retired petroleum designing engineer, died of a heart ailment today. Statham, a native of Salford, Manchester, England, moved to Tulsa in 1913, where he was employed by the Imperial Oil company, and came to Tulsa in 1917.

Declaring the southern army of Field Marshal General Ewald von Kleist smashed, the Russians said four divisions—the 14th and 16th tank divisions, the 60th motor division and the 8. S. Viking division—were in full flight toward Taganrog, 40 miles west of Rostov.

The Moscow radio said red troops re-crossed the Don and invested Rostov from the south in their major assault while other troops broke through to the northeast. The Germans were said to have lost 5,000 killed.

Adolf Hitler's high command already has acknowledged a partial withdrawal from the city.

Meanwhile, Russian and German armies on the northwestern fringe of Moscow's defense zone plunged headlong across snowy plains, the Germans striking through for a frontal onslaught against the capital and the Russians fiercely attempting to halt them short of their goal with a flank offensive.

The fate of Moscow appeared to be wrapped up in the question of whether the red army could strike the German flank hard and deep enough to deflect the drive.

German and Italian forces trapped east of Tobruk have reassembled "their remaining tanks" and, in a mighty effort to escape from their encirclement, have smashed head-on into a British wall and become deadlocked in a new major tank battle, the British announced today.

The battle began yesterday morning southeast of Resegh and continued fiercely throughout the day and into the evening, "without either side having given or gained ground," the British Middle East command stated in its communique.

Rites Said For Mrs. Poindexter
Mrs. Alta Eudora Poindexter, 59, lost a long fight for recovery Saturday morning, succumbing at a local hospital after a three months' critical illness.

Since September she had been in a serious condition, and several times hope for her recovery had been abandoned. Recently she had shown improvement, but two days ago her condition took a sudden turn for the worse and she failed to rally.

Mrs. Poindexter was assistant to the commissioners court and had served under two county judges. She and her husband, H. C. Poindexter, had resided here for the past five years.

Born July 26, 1912 in Richmond, Ark., as Alta McGraw, she was married in April, 1934, to Poindexter.

Services were held at the Nally chapel at 5 p. m. Saturday with the Rev. H. C. Smith, First Methodist pastor, officiating, and the body was shipped Saturday night to Ashdown, Ark., for interment there Monday. The Rev. W. C. Boyd was to be in charge for final rites.

Besides her husband, she leaves her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. McGraw, Ashdown, Ark.; three brothers, Wallace McGraw, Eckel McGraw and Roy Eaton McGraw of Ashdown, Ark.

Pallbearers here were Roy Reeder, Walton Morrison, Lee Porter, Charles Sullivan, Claude Wolf, Hugh Dunagan, Denver Dunn, Andrew Merrick, Buck Musgrove and John Ray Dillard.

One Steel Company Holds Out On Parley
NEW YORK, Nov. 29 (AP)—President Roosevelt's three-man board arbitrating the stormy union shop issue in the captive coal mines announced today that all but one of the steel companies involved had agreed to abide by whatever decision the board makes.

Earlier in the day the Crucible Steel company announced it was withholding a commitment as to whether it would abide by the forthcoming decision.

Business Shows Mixed Trends Here

Business barometers—postal receipts, new passenger car registrations and building permits—continue to show mixed trends here during November, a check of the three agencies showed Saturday.

Postal receipts continued to furnish the bright spot, moving ahead to $4,588,586, a record for the month and considerably ahead of the $3,861,588 for the same month a year ago, as always the case, off from the October record of $5,070,477. This brought the total for the year to $71,833, representing a gain over the same period a year ago of $4,489 and an increase of $1,144 for the last quarter.

New car totals were up to 72, a gain over the 62 for October, but considerably under the 103 for November of 1940. The discrepancy, however, was considered small in view of the national defense pinch and the early season record sales. Commercial deliveries boomed, jumping to 20.

Building activity continued to lull along, amounting only to $11,683 for November, off from the $14,159 for October and for under the $36,587 for November last year. Throughout the year construction activity has shown the most sluggish trend of all the reporting units.

Interesting was the fact that there were 37 building permits issued, 13 of them for new homes. Even more odd was the fact that only two of these were for $1,000 or more, and 10 of the number were for $150 or less. These small home building permits covered structures in the Mexican quarter of town. Only three other new construction permits were issued.

Navy Charges Effort Made To Undermine Civilian Morale
WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP)—The navy charged today that an "organized campaign" was being waged to undermine civilian morale by trading on the grief of survivors of American seamen lost in the battle of the Atlantic.

Secretary Knox made public copies of a letter which the navy said had been circulated among parents of men lost when the destroyer Reuben James was sunk on October 31. The letter was put out, the navy department declared, by "We, the Mothers, Mobilized for America, Inc.," with headquarters in Chicago.

Cotton Bales Spill Over Landscape As Ginnings Reach 40,000 In County

Howard county's bountiful 1941 cotton crop has reached a total of 40,000 bales ginned and surged ahead of local storage and transportation facilities.

Blanketing a large area across the Caprock north of town are 20,000 bales of cotton lined up in neat rows over several acres of ground pending movement into storage. The above photo shows only a part of this lavish display of wealth which forms the foreground of an attractive view of the city.

R. F. Shoemaker, manager of the Big Spring cotton compress, says the pile of cotton north of the city is about at its peak size, with movement now to start moving into storage.

Already, 10,000 to 12,000 bales of cotton are in storage here, but warehouse space is available for 25,000 bales.

Cotton seen in the above picture belongs to both buyers and farmers; some is awaiting shipment; some is to be placed in storage under government loan. Although much of it comes from Howard county, some has been shipped in from other points.

Legion And Auxiliary Members Congregate

American Legion and auxiliary members from a wide area of the state converged here Saturday for the first sessions of a two-day session district and regional convales.

Late Saturday night more than 100 had registered and delegates were still arriving.

Among dignitaries here for the affair, planned first as an officers conference and later combined with a 19th district gathering, was Andrew Dilworth, San Antonio, department commander.

He was to speak at a public gathering in the municipal auditorium at 2:30 p. m. Sunday, discussing the program of the American Legion as developed by the state and national bodies.

George C. Betts, department service officer, supervised the important rehabilitation conference which opened the meeting Saturday afternoon in the Settles ballroom. Hospitalization, widows' and children's claims, and legal phases were touched in the school of instruction period with Dr. Martha A. Wood, department president.

At the open meeting in the auditorium, Charles Sullivan, post commander, was to give the welcome with G. Ward Moody, field representative, responding. Invocation was to be by the Rev. H. H. Black, Colorado City.

Gift Buying Starts Early In Big Spring

Confidentially folks, nobody is trying to scare you when they talk about the propriety of shopping early this Christmas.

People are buying this year earlier than ever before and with the problem of stocks such that there will be little or no replenishment, it looks like a case of first come first served.

All over town, the spectacle of clerks attempting to get up a few Christmas decorations between spells of showing seasonal merchandise is common. With the rush materializing before most had anticipated, not a few concerns were going to be pushed to have their windows and stores decorated for the shopping season's formal opening Monday.

As early as last Monday the deluge of Christmas trade began to roll in. Local business was divided about evenly between those who reported a very definite volume of Yule buying and those who said the lookers or browsers—harbingers of buying—were coming out earlier than usual.

Reports were at variance, too, on the "quality" of Yule purchases. Some said initial inquiries forebode another "dollar Christmas," but the majority said that there was a very definite demand for better merchandise, and an increase in calls for the so-called luxury items. All agreed that those wanting higher priced goods were buying and paying "without batting an eye."

Heavier lines, such as furniture, radios, refrigerators, and more expensive gift items, were coming in for brisk trading and again the demand for the better class goods was pronounced.

One merchant, after a week of exciting activity, said that although he had stocked heavier than seemed wise as early as eight months ago, that "if it keeps going at the rate of the past week, I'll be cleaned out by Dec. 15."

One concern reported that business had been so heavy in November, due to advance Christmas purchases, that it would not be surprising if the total exceeded that for December. The same business, dealing in relatively expensive unit cost, also reported the phenomenal volume of cash transactions exceeding credit deals.

Stores stocking novelties and moderately priced gifts were unanimous in reporting that the "looker" crop was heavier and earlier and that buying was paring loose. Consensus was that the average price per gift would be up.

Jewelry concerns reported much window shopping with more and more making decisions. Sporting goods houses were getting a good run, and those dealing in toys, games, etc. were in for the time of their lives. All in all, the lay away plan was developing into more than a slogan nearly a month before Christmas.

Full Meaning Of Statement Vague

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Nov. 29 (AP)—President Roosevelt said tonight it was always possible that "our boys in the military and naval academies may be fighting for the defense of American institutions" by next Thanksgiving. Then he conferred with Secretary Hull by telephone, and considered rushing back to Washington because of the latest turn in the Japanese situation.

The chief executive made that ominous declaration in an informal address at a dinner tonight at the Warm Springs Foundation for infantile paralysis victims.

He spoke of people in other lands overrun or attacked and those even in countries which are attacking. Then he added solemnly: "I think we can offer up a little silent prayer that these people will be able to hold next year a Thanksgiving more like an American Thanksgiving. That is something to dream about, perhaps."

In days like these, our Thanksgiving next year may remind us of a peaceful past; it is always possible that our boys in the military and naval academies may be fighting for the defense of these American institutions of ours.

The president, who twice postponed trips to Warm Springs, where he had planned to observe Thanksgiving, said he could not help thinking of those things and the dangers overhanging the country while he was in Washington contemplating his journey a week and a half ago. And he said he might have to be back tomorrow or the next day, but he did not know.

Whimsically the chief executive noted that he had been unable to be present here either on the Thanksgiving date he proclaimed or on the traditional date a week later. Tonight's dinner was something of a "third Thanksgiving dinner" for him.

Leading up to his remark that men from the military and naval academies might be fighting for defense in a year, the president said he had listened to broadcasts of two football games this afternoon, between Georgia Tech at Atlanta and the Army and Navy at Philadelphia.

"They were great games, run in the spirit of peace," he said. "And the spirit of national spirit of peace is necessary for the right conduct of either the Georgia game or the Army-Navy game. How many other countries in the world could have things like that going on?"

So, he went on, he thought Americans had great cause to be thankful that in the years since 1918 they had been able to hold a cooperative basis.

The chief executive spoke informally, without notes. Whether his words about the possibility of fighting were based on some undisclosed, specific knowledge of events that may be expected in the field of foreign affairs or merely were intended as a generalization and warning was not readily discernable.

Roosevelt Says America United

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP)—Alertly waiting for Tokyo's next move in the acute Japanese-American crisis, President Roosevelt warned other nations today that America is united behind his foreign policy of opposition to aggression anywhere on earth.

"That there is debate, or that there are statements of conflicting opinion prior to the decisions should not be taken by persons abroad as an indication of lack of cohesion among our people, though that mistake is sometimes made," he said. "While there have been expressions of different views in regard to our foreign policy, I have always felt that those differences were of degree but not of principle."

The president made these statements in a letter to Senator Gillette (D-Ia.). The senator has consistently opposed the Roosevelt foreign policy and voted against the legislative measures designed to implement it. Recently, however, he wrote to Mr. Roosevelt saying that the majority had spoken and offering his "support and services" in carrying out the policy which the majority had laid down.

Price Control Bill Called Toothless

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP)—Senator McNary (R-Ore.) called the administration's price control bill "toothless and timorous" today as indications multiplied that bipartisan efforts would be made in the senate to rewrite the much-amended measure passed by the house yesterday.

Joining with McNary, the minority leader, in criticism of the bill, Senator George (D-Ga.) said that if there was to be effective control of prices the senate would have to write a much more drastic measure than that approved by the house.

Japs Assert East Asia Needs Purge

By The Associated Press

Japan solemnly declared her determination last night to purge Americans and British influence from East Asia "with a vengeance—for the honor and pride of mankind."

This declaration was made by Japanese soldier - premier Gen. Hideki Tojo in the midst of these ominous developments in the heightening Pacific crisis.

The Japanese cabinet met in urgent and special session for a second day to consider a near-ultimatum from Washington reasserting the American policy of opposition to conquest and aggression.

Underlining the United States action, President Roosevelt told the world Americans are united behind his foreign policy of opposition to aggression anywhere on earth.

Japan was reported proceeding with the massing of land and naval forces in French Indo-China for a drive against Thailand (Siam).

Bangkok advices said Thai troops with full military equipment have taken up positions along the borders of both Indo-China and British Malaya.

The official Bangkok radio poured out a steady stream of warnings to the population that the little kingdom might soon become a battleground.

Domei announced the first Japanese raid in months on the Burma Road, route for U. S. aid to Chungking. Singapore accounts told of the doubling of the Japanese air force in Indo-China to 300 planes.

The Chinese feared the Japanese intended attacks upon Thailand or the Chinese southern provinces of Yunnan would be aimed ultimately at severing the Burma Road.

Leaves of all British troops were cancelled at Singapore.

Planes roared over the crown colony of Hongkong in simulated enemy raids, dropping flares for bombs over the blacked-out city.

Authoritative quarters in Hanoi, Indo-China's capital, discounted talk of a possible breathing spell in American-Japanese relations. They said genuine rapprochement must come immediately or an explosion will result.

Report Vichy Has Yielded To Germans

Negro, Mexican Schools To Reopen

Reopening of the Kate Morrison Americanization school and the negro school has been set tentatively for Dec. 8, Supt. W. C. Blankenship said Saturday.

Both of the schools were dismissed during the cotton harvest since attendance normally would have been at such a low figure as to make continued sessions impractical.

Classrooms Saturday agreed that harvest is 90 per cent or better, and that another week would about see the bulk of the work complete.

Inspection Of Rural Schools Due This Week

Eight rural schools will be inspected this week for rural aid, Anne Martin, county superintendent, said Saturday.

With E. H. Boutler, deputy state superintendent, she will start a check of the schools affected Monday and will continue on a schedule until the task is completed Wednesday afternoon.

Only the schools applying for rural aid from the state will be visited on the current tour.

Witness Tells Of Bribe By Torrance

MONTERREY, Mexico, Nov. 29. (AP)—Trial Judge Jesus B. Santos reported officially today that police had arrested a witness who testified he had been bribed by Arthur Torrance to conceal that he had found the author-explorer alone, calmly smoking a cigar, at the spot where Torrance's elderly bride actually met death, about seven miles from the point given by Torrance as the scene of an automobile accident fatal to his wife.

"She was killed here," the judge said the witness, Andres Ruiz, told him after taking Santos to a clump of bushes near the spot where he claims he saw the globe-trotting writer the night of Mrs. Torrance's death.

Fort Worth Resident Heads Church Group

WAXAHACHIE, Nov. 29. (AP)—Gordon Collier of Fort Worth was elected moderator and chairman of the executive committee of the Texas Youth Synod, Presbyterian church, U. S. A. at the closing of a two-day synod meeting at Trinity university today.

Moderator Collier appointed Sammy McPhail of Goose Creek vice moderator. The synod voted to meet annually on the second Wednesday and Thursday in September on the Trinity campus.

New Investments In Mexico Planned

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 29. (AP)—Investment of more than $100,000,000 in the industrial development of Mexico is contemplated by a group of United States, British and Mexican capitalists, Axel Wensner, noted Swedish industrialist and multi-millionaire, said today.

The "middle-way" pattern of government-capital-labor cooperation pioneered and made famous in Sweden by Wenner-Gren will be adopted by the international syndicate now in formation here, the financier said.

Controversy On Iron Ore Freight Arises

AUSTIN, Nov. 29. (AP)—An East Texas-South Texas controversy over freight rates on iron ore, a commodity thrust into new importance due to defense preparation, will be aired before the railroad commission Friday.

Up for hearing by commissioners examiners will be application of the Sheffield Steel corporation for a rate of $1.20 per long ton on iron ore shipped from East Texas to Houston, site of the company's proposed $22,000,000 blast furnace.

Early Sales Of Christmas Seals Good

Initial response to appeals for purchase of Christmas seals is the best on record here, Mrs. J. C. Douglass, secretary-treasurer of the Howard County Tuberculosis association said Saturday.

Returns the first day from 2,000 letters mailed out with a supply of seals showed $160 in the association's treasury.

Mall was rolling in on late returns Saturday but no tabulation has been made.

Encouraging was the fact that many are not only putting in the conventional dollar, but are doubling and in several instances trebling their customary contributions, according to Mrs. Douglass. Three individuals gave a total of $30 toward the program.

First purchaser of seals was J. E. Greene, said Mrs. Ira Thurman, seal sale chairman. Close behind was Willard Sullivan.

Throughout this week speakers will continue to voice appeals over KBBT at 11:10 a. m. for seal purchases. A trailer announcement is running at a local theatre. Mrs. Thurman urged that those who failed to get a supply of seals through the mails purchase them at the Douglass hotel or Cunningham & Phillips No. 1, or contact either Mrs. Douglass or Mrs. G. W. Dickerson, association president.

Priest—The Rev. George Julius, above, new pastor of St. Thomas and Sacred Heart Catholic churches here, will conduct Sunday services today at those churches. He arrived here to succeed Rev. G. J. Duffy a week ago.

Guests To Speak At Christian Church

W. C. Blankenship, sup. of Big Spring schools, will bring the evening message. Special music will be given by the choir.

Fact-Finding Board Works Throughout Weekend To Seek Rail Wage Solution

Board Members Confer With Each Group In Turn

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29. (AP)—President Roosevelt's emergency fact-finding board in the railroad wage dispute undertook mediation of the troublesome issue tonight in an effort to avert a threatened strike of 1,300,000 railway workers.

Representatives of the carriers, the non-operating and the operating unions gathered in three separate rooms on the second floor of the Raleigh hotel and the board members met with the three groups in turn, apparently as a prelude to a general conference.

Chairman Wayne L. Morse announced that the board would meet continuously through tonight and all day Sunday in order to have its second report ready for the president Monday.

Dr. J. Frank Norris Cancels Visit Here

Dr. J. Frank Norris of Fort Worth, who was to have been guest speaker here Tuesday at an all day fellowship meeting at the Trinity Baptist church, will be unable to be here due to illness, church officials advised Saturday. The all day session has been postponed.

City Appears At Midland Airport

By MARY WHALEY

Almost as if by some magic touch, the fringe of the once small Midland airport has been transformed in the short period of four months into a massive array of buildings for one of the U. S. army's advanced twin engine and bombardier units.

Now heading down the home stretch in construction, the gigantic project will have cost around five millions of dollars when completed.

To give you an idea of the population of this field when all the men arrive—there will be 3,744 men. Of this number there will be 333 officers, 508 cadets, and 2,904 enlisted men with Col. I. Davies, commander, in charge.

Right now the field is nearing completion with the first of the men, about 2,000 of them, expected to arrive by December 15th. By January 1st the field is expected to be in full swing and ready to handle all its personnel.

To take care of this number of soldiers, there are 305 green and white buildings that include everything any city can show. There is a hospital with beds for 150 men and room for expansion to 210 beds. There are two recreation buildings and a theatre that will seat 600 persons.

There are two mess halls that will accommodate 1,000 men each for cafeteria style serving. There is one mess hall for 500 men and a canteen mess hall for 478 persons.

In addition there will be 48 enlisted men's barracks, and 14 cadet barracks.

In the center of the huge fan-shaped field around the hangars and concrete apron, there is a small chapel that will be equipped with a pipe organ. Made with amber windows, redwood benches and knotty pine paneling, it is due to draw many worshippers.

Then there are the administration buildings and supply buildings, six warehouses, two airplane hangars, post headquarters and eight squadron operation buildings.

The field will have its own water and sewerage system, six water wells and a 450,000 gallon storage tank.

Something new is the aqua-gasoline system that will provide fuel for the planes. This system uses water pressure to bring the gasoline to the apron of the hangar.

The planes will be parked on the apron instead of in hangars and will be tied down every 20 feet on the surface that is 500 feet wide and 2,500 feet long.

Use of asbestos siding and asbestos shingles has made the buildings practically fireproof.

The men at the head of all this gigantic building are Captain R. J. Harrison, officer in charge, and R. H. McCulloch, supervising engineer.

The engineering employes under supervision of U. S. army engineers, number 166. Some 2,700 workers are engaged in construction. Average payroll is $100,000 a week.

The enlisted men will come from Kelly and Randolph fields and the cadets from Randolph and Goodfellow fields. The cadets, who will have had 10 weeks of primary and 10 weeks of basic training will receive 10 more weeks training as bombardiers. Upon completion of this training they will be commissioned as second lieutenants.

Ranges for the bombardiers (and there will be about seven of them) will be in a radius of 100 miles from the field.

Pecos, Crosby Tests Hold Oil Interests

SAN ANGELO, Nov. 29—Gulf Oil Corp. and L. H. Wents No. 2 L. H. Miller, northeastern Pecos county wildcat, reportedly swabbing an unestimated amount of oil from the Ellenberger, and Callahan & Waggoner No. 1 E. M. Wahlenmaier, a prospect as Crosby county's first producer, likely to be acidized, held attention in West Texas oil circles late in the week.

Sale of the estate of the late W. N. Waddell, Midland and Fort Worth cattleman, comprising surplus rights to 77,000 acres in Crane and Ward counties and the remaining one-quarter royalty, for $1,500,000, was reported being consummated. Eastern interests were the buyers through Moore Bros. of Midland. Gulf Oil Corp. holds leases on all the W. N. Waddell estate on which are located the Tubb, Sand Hills, Waddell and Elia Waddell oil fields.

Gulf and Wents No. 2 Miller in Pecos county, 2 1/2 miles north of the Taylor-Link field, in the southeast quarter of section 43-11-H&GN, was credited in unconfirmed reports with swabbing around three barrels of oil hourly through tubing, with the total depth 4,363 feet in dolomite. It cemented 7-inch casing after reportedly showing 3 1/3 million cubic feet of gas and spraying 45 gravity oil on a drill stem test. The wildcat is 1 1/2 miles northwest of No. 1 Miller which was abandoned in September at 4,538 feet after striking granite.

Ray Albaugh and Richmond Drilling Co. No. 1 J. J. Handley, promised discovery well in Dawson county, in the southwest quarter of section 34-35-EL&RB, cleaned out to the bottom, 4,900 feet, after a short continued testing. Finis Oil Co. of Shreveport spudded No. 1 Higginbotham, Dawson county wildcat 694 feet out of the northwest corner of labor 13, league 300, Moore county school land survey, and cemented 15-inch casing at 205 feet.

L. C. Harrison and Tobe Foster No. 1 E. L. Steek, Lubbock county wildcat, was abandoned at 6,510 feet in lime. It showed no oil and cored lime and anhydrite from 5,130-48 feet that showed sulphur water. It was in the southeast corner of section 7-A-John H. Gibson, three miles west and slightly north of Harrison and others' No. 1 W. G. Nairn estate, Lubbock county discovery well.

Wahlenmaier & Currie No. 1 Texas Land Trust, Glascock county wildcat in the southwest corner of section 15-34-4-T&P, appeared a failure, making approximately three ballers of sulphur water in eight hours in drilling to 3,424 feet.

KBST Moves Into New Home

It's a busy weekend for Big Spring's radio station KBST, as programs are being maintained while a move is being made to a new home.

Office equipment and studio and control facilities are being transferred to the handsome new building at 702 Johnson street, constructed at KBST's design under a lease agreement by J. Y. Robb. Construction work is practically complete.

Jack Wallace, station manager, announced that the station would stage its formal opening on next Sunday, December 7, with an "open house" between the hours of 1 p. m. and 10 p. m. The public is urged to visit the new building at that time. Special programs will be broadcast throughout the day to mark the occasion, and callers will have the opportunity of witnessing the broadcasts.

Opening of the new home comes almost on an anniversary for KBST, since the station went on the air for the first time in December of 1936. The broadcasting company has made application to the Federal Communications Commission for authority to increase its power to 250 watts, and this change is expected in the near future.

The new building, of modernistic brick and tile design, will house all KBST facilities, including offices, studios and broadcasting control. It has been equipped with the latest in facilities. The station, since its inception, has been housed at the Crawford hotel.

Helen Japson, the soprano, designs her own clothes.

Congressman Acts To Bring Defense Contracts To Texas

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29. — Machinery has been set in motion to obtain for small Texas manufacturers opportunities to participate in government and private industry defense contracts for war materials.

Congressman Lyndon B. Johnson said today he is seeking to have OPM business clinics established in Texas and has asked Texas regional chambers of commerce more cooperation in bringing southwest production and manufacturing capacity to the attention of the office of production management, the armed forces and large manufacturers who are sub-contracting large defense orders.

Johnson wrote regional chamber of commerce presidents he had received assurances from Floyd H. Odum, director of contract distribution for OPM, that so-called "business clinics" would be established in Texas as soon as practicable and that allowances for freight differentials would be considered on products manufactured in Texas under defense contracts and shipped to eastern manufacturing centers.

"It is essential for small Texas manufacturing plants to have a share in defense production not only because maximum production is needed for this country's protection, but in order to bolster those firms which have been producing for the state in and out of war and now cannot obtain materials. They must either turn to defense production or greatly curtail operations," Johnson said.

Johnson said the first phase of defense contracts, when 75 percent of the initial orders went to a very few large firms, was over. All plants, big and small, that have suitable machinery and tools should get into defense work, wherever they are located, he declared.

Stroup Found Guilty Of Cattle Theft

B. F. Stroup was found guilty of cattle theft under a Howard county indictment in a hearing before Judge A. S. Manzey at Sweetwater Friday and received a six year penitentiary sentence.

Under indictment here since 1937, Stroup was arrested when sighted on a highway north of Lubbock by Deputy Sheriff Bob Wolf several weeks ago. When the case was called in district court here, Stroup obtained a change of venue to Nolan county.

District Attorney Martelle McDonald conducted the prosecution and Deputy Wolf was a star witness for the state in the trial at Sweetwater. Conviction was on three counts of theft of cattle from L. E. Coleman.

Stroup is now in Mitchell county jail pending trial on similar cases there.

Meanwhile, pleas of guilty were heard by District Judge Cecil Collins in two other criminal cases here.

Mosco Parker entered a plea of guilty to forgery, and was sentenced to four years in prison.

Lee Arthur Flowers was sentenced for four years in prison on a plea of guilty to burglary.

Additional criminal cases on the district court docket here are set trial during the week beginning Monday.

Agreed Judgment Entered In Basin Pipeline Stock Case

Agreed judgment has been entered in the case of G. I. Carlyle against Claude McIver and the Basin Pipeline company, a suit in which Carlyle sought a share of the stock of the pipeline company or the equivalent in cash.

Settlement was on basis of a $500 payment by McIver to Carlyle. The latter had asked $5,000 in stock or cash and damages.

Native Of England Dies At Colorado

COLORADO CITY, Nov. 29 (SpI) — What would have been his 58th birthday was the funeral day of Thos. Dawes, widely known Colorado City musician, for whom funeral services were held at First Presbyterian church in Colorado City Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Ill for the past 18 months, Mr. Dawes died in a Big Spring hospital at 10:45 Thursday morning. Several months ago he underwent surgery for operation of a leg, which later spread to his brain, causing his final illness and death.

Born Nov. 28, 1883, in Oaken Gates, Salope county, England, Mr. Dawes received his musical education at Trinity University, England. He came to Colorado City in 1909 and taught piano and voice until he became ill. He also had classes in Sweetwater, Snyder, and other West Texas towns.

He was married here on Nov. 27, 1915, exactly 26 years before his death, to Eleanor Van Tui, member of a pioneer Colorado City family. She died in October, 1936.

Survivors are one son, Benjamin Van Tui Dawes, who has been living since his father's illness with an aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Van Tui, in San Antonio; two brothers and three sisters in England, and a third brother, Jim Dawes, of York, Pa.

Texas Voters Want Restrictions On Spending In Political Races

By JOE HEEDEN
Editor, Texas Surveys of Public Opinion

AUSTIN, Nov. 29.—During the special senatorial campaign last summer there was almost as much talk about the money that was being spent as there was about the relative merits of the candidates. A few weeks ago State Senator Karl L. Lovelady of Meridian announced that he has a bill ready for introduction at the next session of the legislature which he believes will put a damper on excessive election expenditures. He would appoint a state auditor to whom all contributions would be made and who would allow each candidate to withdraw up to the set limit only.

Postal Employees Cooperate To Handle Seasonal Rush

Whatever the Yuletide may bring in the way of incoming and outgoing mail, the U. S. postoffice in Big Spring is ready for it.

Fortunately, the local postoffice has a limited amount of extra equipment which may be brought into play for the rush season, but it is manpower that tells the tale.

Employees have been cooperative with Postmaster Nat Shick in the past in adjusting hours to meet the seasonal demand. Too, their work has been specialized as much as possible, and a regrouping of working facilities has further speeded the distribution and dispatch of all mail.

As in the past, this year's ambition for those connected with the postoffice is that every piece of mail will be dispatched or put under the day it is received. This entails feverish work right up to midnight, but the force always has been able to turn the trick.

When the rush on parcel mailings and stamp purchases for cards increases to the saturation point, other windows will be opened. This is true for distribution of parcels when the demand is heavy enough. Thus, there are more lines, but all are shorter, and that spells shorter waits.

John Norris Wins Land Title Case

Jury in the case of W. A. Langley against John Norris, a suit for title to a parcel of Howard county farm property, answered issues on which the case was submitted in favor of Norris Saturday.

Trial had consumed practically all of the first week of the current district court term here.

The voters of Texas would welcome such a restriction, a poll taken by Texas Surveys of Public Opinion shows. A large majority of the electorate thinks that too much money is being spent in politics, and that more control should be exercised.

These two questions, followed by the answers received, in percentages, were asked of a sample of adults eligible to vote. The cross section compared in every way with that used by Texas Surveys in many elections which proved the accuracy of this ballot distribution.

"Do you think the amount spent by each candidate in Texas political races should be checked by a state auditor, or do you think candidates should be allowed to spend as much as they want to?"

Terracing Demonstration Set Tuesday

A demonstration of terracing building with another new type machine will be given on the R. N. Adams farm six miles north of Knott Tuesday, County Agent O. P. Griffin announced Saturday.

The machine is to be demonstrated consists of a huge disc which can be set to any angle to throw dirt varying distances. It is priced at all-fully over $100, and can be used with almost any farm tractor.

Griffin urged all farmers interested to be at the farm at 9 a. m. Tuesday. The site is the same as that used a week ago for demonstration of another machine which aroused enthusiastic approval from the farmers who viewed it.

Stamp Sales Reach Peak In October

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Sales of defense savings stamps for October reached a total of $5,928,924, establishing the highest monthly total since the stamps were placed on sale last May 1, the treasury department announced.

This figure compares with the $4,978,000 worth of defense stamps sold in September, shows an increase of 19.2 percent. It marks the fourth straight month that the sale of stamps has risen.

Five Clubs Represented On Herald's All-District Eleven

Five clubs found representation on The Herald's 1941 All-District football team—Sweetwater and Odessa heading the list with three griders each.

A wealth of material was on hand for backfield spots but the nod goes to Marion Flanagan of Sweetwater, Horace Bostick of Big Spring, Otis McKelvey of Odessa and Gus White of Lamesa. Roy Allen of Colorado City edges close to the first team but he is not quite up to Flanagan's and White's running power. Bostick must give ground to Allen in the ball-carrying department but his punting and passing puts him on the card. A near toss-up is indicated between Otis McKelvey of Odessa and Raymond Troutman of Abilene for the fullback position but McKelvey's greater versatility turns the ballot in his favor.

The quarterback assignment goes to the nonpareil Gus White on several scores. First, he is without a doubt the smartest ball-player in the circuit. Added to that is his spectacular ability to slash through the pack on goalward runs. These dashers have won him the name of Gallop'n' Gus but his high-stepping, ghostly jaunts are smoother than the nickname implies. Only twice has he been thoroughly bottled up. Abilene, by concentrating its entire power on him, kept White sewed up early in the season and Plainview did the same. Rain contributed to San Angelo's job in holding down the Lamesa flash. Even Sweetwater, although finally taking the decision, was unable to cramp White's style. As for the Odessa affair, White made just two long trips down the field but those were enough to beat the Bronco. McKelvey's greater consistency gives him the edge over his fleet teammate, Jimmie McCracken, and the powerhouse of the Odessa club, 200-pound Raymond Evans. Take it play-after-play and game-after-game, McKelvey takes his place at the head of Odessa ball-toters.

Flanagan finds his berth on the All-District roster with a brand of ball that has made him the stellar scorer of the state as well as of the district. He lacks the running sparkle and heady open-field maneuvering that features White's performances but his ability to deliver in the clutch has put him among the greats of 3-AA history. He has been challenged by his teammate Emmett Young his 192 pounds of football fury gives him nod.

Horace Bostick has been playing on a losing club but his coffin-corner punting has more than once kept the Big Spring goal line free of too many opposition ball-carriers. But, he has had more than kicking ability. He's a lad who can hurt his 160 pounds into the fray with the weight of a 180-pounder, is a powerful defensive player, and has turned in a commendable bit of passing.

End positions were taken by 165-pound Charles Wilkinson of Sweetwater and Keith "Sugar" Evans, 200-pound end-back combination of Odessa. Wilkinson played on a club that put more emphasis on the ground game than on aerials, yet when his chances came he was on hand to deliver. A smart defensive man and off to quick starts when Sweetwater kicked, the aggressive flanker was one of the reasons the Mustangs won the district race.

Evans, brother to Raymond Evans, had one little peculiarity—he would faint. But, from a sugar deficiency in his blood, not from any timidity on his part. He doubled in grass—working in the backfield as well as on the line. Ponderous, but quick in action, Evans stands as one of the reasons opponents were unable to gain much headway against Odessa along the ground route.

Tom Collins of Abilene and Ed Mays, Jr., of Sweetwater are given tackle slots. Collins scales 190 pounds while Mays tips the balance at 176. Kent Morgan of Lamesa and Jake Rhodes of Odessa ran both the first stringers a close second but the roles go to Collins and Mays on the basis of their steadiness under fire and their hard charging on the offense.

Found for pound, perhaps no griders in district 3-AA had more of the will to mix it up than did Vernal Roberts, 140-pound

Lamesa guard, and Billy Jack Anderson, 160-pound Odessa guardman.

Roberts took a leading part in both offense and defense and there was hardly a play in his sector in which he was not deeply involved—sometimes he came up from the bottom of traps far removed from his province. Anderson was of the same type. The Odessa lad was another contributing factor to the hardy Odessa forward wall. Rugged and fast, Anderson and Roberts take their places on the all-District first team.

Paul Kasch, 185-pound Big Spring center, did not play the full season at the pivot post but in the short time that he did the honors at the mid-sector he grabbed the Herald's All-District berth. He started the season in the backfield, but was shifted to the line when injuries forced a shakeup. It was at center that he took All-

District position last year—his heavy, devastating defensive work, neat ball-placement, and space-leading tactics on the offensive are still tops in the circuit.

Lookin' 'em Over

Why are champions given the title "champions"? Well, an afternoon spent watching Patty Berg, top-ranking woman professional golfer, show her wares gives a pretty good inkling.

Patty is a chubby little redhead who plays each shot as if a title depended on it. Miss one and she's sore—get off a good one and she's as elated as a rank duffer.

She and Helen Dettweiler, and top-notch professional in her own right, are winding up a tour that will have carried them 50,000 miles by December 14. Then, they are going on their vacations—maybe for a bit of golf.

As Patty gives it, this is the way to look at this golf business "It's not how hard you hit the ball but how consistent you are in hitting it."

Dr. M. E. Bennett said Saturday that a polo pony of his was still in the hospital with an injury acquired in a game several weeks ago. To make it even sadder, Bennett is a bit on the ailing side with a cold. But, hurt horse and dawning rider, he intends to battle the Lamesa hearties today.

Justice of the Peace Walter Grice, by the way, has married 57 couples since taking office January 1. He's planning to marry the 100th couple free.

turns to the Big Spring ranks in today's tussle. Before entering the '41 Lamesa Tornados' wars, Gus was one of the mainstays of the local riders. He is due to get in the polo groove without any hitch.

Lamesa will face a Big Spring club composed of Dr. M. E. Bennett, White, Lewis Rix, Lloyd Wasson and Rip Smith. On the Lamesa roster will be Gus White, Sr., Spen Barron, Sol Cleveland and Erle Barron.

Defending the home grounds against the Oklahoma invasion will be Hollis Campbell, T. V. Fulkerson, Elmo Smith and Walter Lawrence.

Alvarens Reggan and Earl Feathers were married Friday evening in a ceremony performed by Justice of the Peace Walter Grice.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Davidson and son Loyd, whose home at Center Point was destroyed by fire November 3, have written a letter of thanks to their Howard county friends for their kindness in replacing much destroyed property. Many neighbors and former neighbors gave showers and contributed gifts of many sorts to the unfortunate family.

Decision Week closed out Saturday at the chamber of commerce with a smaller number contributing ideas—but with a pronounced increase in the total and quality of suggestions for what would make Big Spring a better city.

Climaxing the long list of people who gave the chamber the benefit of their counsel, a man Saturday came across with an itemized program containing five basic suggestions and 30 subdivisions—all of them good ideas.

Beautification edged out paving as the foremost request, although those suggesting more surfaced streets were plentiful.

The need for more industrialization was gaining popularity in the minds of the people and several cards submitted listed the desirability of going after a bevy of small factories which could depend upon raw materials in this area.

Suggestions coming in the mail over the weekend will be put in the hopper and tabulated along with others for consideration by directors. Meantime, those who failed to get in their ideas may communicate them to directors who will see that they are studied when time comes up for the works program mapping for 1942.

Many Request Beautification In Decision Week

Decision Week closed out Saturday at the chamber of commerce with a smaller number contributing ideas—but with a pronounced increase in the total and quality of suggestions for what would make Big Spring a better city.

Climaxing the long list of people who gave the chamber the benefit of their counsel, a man Saturday came across with an itemized program containing five basic suggestions and 30 subdivisions—all of them good ideas.

Beautification edged out paving as the foremost request, although those suggesting more surfaced streets were plentiful.

The need for more industrialization was gaining popularity in the minds of the people and several cards submitted listed the desirability of going after a bevy of small factories which could depend upon raw materials in this area.

Suggestions coming in the mail over the weekend will be put in the hopper and tabulated along with others for consideration by directors. Meantime, those who failed to get in their ideas may communicate them to directors who will see that they are studied when time comes up for the works program mapping for 1942.

Sidelights Of Golf Luncheon Talks

Miss PATTY BERG and Miss HELEN DETTWEILER will respectively from St. Paul and Minneapolis, Minn., and have a great time arguing over each town and which one is next to the other.

Miss BERG'S nickname is "TUBBY" and Miss DETTWEILER'S is "PORKY" and they really have a time kidding each other about their names.

As golfers, everybody knows they are plenty good, but the big surprise was to find that they are plenty all right as after dinner speakers. PATTY spills jokes off right and left and most of them on her golf companion. But HELEN comes right back with some on PATTY so it seems to work out alright.

PATTY is short, red-haired and stocky build and HELEN is taller, blond and dark-eyed. They make quite a team. PATTY says her two jobs consist of working for the company and "chaperoning HELEN".

Both are taking flying lessons, incidentally, and are doing pretty well with them. PATTY'S reason for taking lessons she says is that HELEN wanted to begin and she had to chaperone her so she took them herself.

The clinic held right after the luncheon was well attended by men and women both who drove out for the affair. The golfers explained fundamentals of strokes, holds and stance and gave exhibitions on how to improve your game.

SHEER madness—a hostess nightgown of palest blue silk sheer. Flowing train, hint of bustle, blackest black lace fichu, it is reminiscent of evening gowns worn by the belles of old New Orleans to the distant chant of folk song. Today a lady tunes it to a musical setting in her own home, for dinner at the fireside with her husband. She may long to wear it for dancing or to the neighbor's. Wear, she will, the Chantilly lace mantilla and fichu, separate from the gown, for an outside evening picture. Gown by Carol.

Young Couple Will Live In Isolated Eskimo Community

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—City housewives who think they must live within three blocks of a neighborhood grocery should take note of the case of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Page.

The young Kansas City couple, wed only a year, are enroute to the interior of Alaska where they'll be isolated in an eskimo village for a year, 50 miles south of the Arctic Circle.

In a country where neighborhood stores are almost as rare as star sapphires, the Pages will live on supplies shipped north weeks ago. Two tons of foodstuffs went early because their Buckland, Alaska, base is isolated from river communication and transportation after late August.

Among supplies bought by the Pages were 500 pounds of flour, 90 dozen eggs preserved in wax, 90 pounds of butter in brine kegs, 30 pounds of honey, 25 pounds of onions, 50 pounds of lard, six canned chickens for festive occasions, 150 cakes of soap, 10 pounds of candy, and 20 pounds of bacon.

"This is a kind of dream come true for me," Mrs. Page said. "I've wanted for years to go to Alaska, and I've even kept an Alaska scrapbook."

The couple will work at the Interior Department in connection with the Alaskan settlement program. Page will serve as an assistant government community worker and his wife, a school teacher, will instruct the children of the community.

"We won't be entirely alone," Page said. "I understand there is a Quaker mission there with probably a white man in charge. A doctor visits Buckland once every three months and a district nurse is supposed to come through every two months."

Modern American Soldier And Books Travel Together Now

Reading Tastes Vary From Poems To Westerns

Next to food and shelter, church and hospital, women folks of the modern American soldier like to know he has access to well selected reading matter.

The war department has taken steps recently to bring the soldier even closer to the books he wants. Under a new plan of buying for libraries in posts, camps and stations, purchases will be delivered within two weeks. Heretofore, from 75 to 120 days have been required for deliveries. The army has put into operation more than 600 libraries throughout continental United States. Whenever a transport sails, a library travels along. The mobile book unit has ploughed through the same dusty roads the tanks followed in the maneuver areas. In those groups of temporary khaki tents put up to serve the soldier's leisure hours man's army" varies from the highly technical tone to the slender volume of poetry; is about half and half between fiction and non-fiction; and cares little or nothing for books dealing with the war in Europe. This latter condition is said to arise from the wealth of the radio news and today's wide coverage of the present war fronts. Selectees from the metropolitan area of New York read the latest best sellers in plays, novels and poetry. In the Southwest, the camp libraries have a heavier demand for western sagas and romances. Troops in the territory surrounding the nation's only armored force school at Fort Knox, Ky., cannot seem to get their hands on enough technical books and similar reading matter. In the far west, soldier readers turn to adventure and western stories.

Arming Of Ships Part Of Wide-Scale Strategy

WASHINGTON—America's traditional policy—freedom of the seas—is the official reason why Congress voted to arm merchant ships and send them into war zones.

In short, Uncle Sam will travel the ocean highways even if he has to peck along a six shooter, and furnish the travelers with armed escorts (naval convoys).

But there are other reasons why the government is vitally interested at this moment in the risky business of arming ships and traveling combat zones. These reasons do not appear in the record. But they are more practical than any reason covered by the flourishing phrase, "Freedom of the Seas."

last four months have been only one-fifth what they were in the preceding four months. The combined efforts of the United States and Royal navies and their air services have cut losses by four-fifths, though more subs are roaming the Atlantic than ever before.

He said if that continues, and the United States keeps up its ship building program (we expect to build 6,000,000 tons in 1942), the Allies will be ready for an overseas campaign by 1943.

What does he mean by overseas campaign? Just this: Assuming the Germans do not crack up under the strain of war, any attack against them must be seaborne.

Let's take ship arming first: An armed ship is more of a problem to an attacking submarine than a helpless one. The more timid overseas captains are tempted to release their torpedoes farther from the target, when they know the target is armed.

And there's always the chance that some merchant ship's crew might get a lucky pot shot at a hapless sub before it can submerge.

Then there's merchant marine morale. At the moment, nothing is more important to the Allied cause than sailors morale.

Unarmed ship's crews have a helpless, futile, defeatist feeling that often borders on panic when the white paths of torpedoes are sighted nearby.

So much for arming ships. But how about traveling in war zones? Why was the administration so insistent on that point? Winston Churchill revealed the strategic reason in his November speech to Parliament.

Churchill said ship losses in the

City Will Experiment With New Type Of Yule Decoration

Experimentation will be noted in the city's downtown light decorations for the Christmas season, for an attempt is being made to make light standards appear as big Christmas candles.

The trick is to be turned with large Christmas wreaths which will be placed vertically around the lights, thus making it appear the glow is a candle tip.

As a starter, 12 of these wreaths, which are four feet in diameter and 12 inches thick, are being prepared for use on the street lamps on Third from Society to Runnels streets. They will be fashioned out of mistletoe and cedar sprigs with small Yule lights entwined. Should the idea strike a popular response, the effort may become more pretentious next year.

But the main job of lighting will be the placing of more than two more overhead strings to be hung across downtown streets.

These strings, numbering 45 in all, will be placed at each end of the downtown blocks and with one spanning the street in the middle of the block. This being a bad year to expand on Christmas lighting due to press of the national defense program, the number of lights will be held to around 1,800, about the same as last year.

Many business houses have special light strings, and in former years the Petroleum building has had a couple of pretentious strings used to border the building at Yuletide.

1937 when the total was nearer 75,000. One diamond manufacturer reports making $2,000 rings in October for Christmas brides.

Defense Ideas

MONTREAL—Canadian defense officials have received suggestions that clouds be frozen to act as artillery gun platforms, plans for field guns which fire backwards and forwards and a suggestion that a pontoon bridge be built from Newfoundland to Great Britain.

Jan Valtin Is Man Of Action

Jan Valtin is no myth. He is very much an active man, pointing out his views on the U.S. part in current world conditions, lecturing to thousands on a national tour—and he is due to arrive in Texas today for a two-week stay.

He will be in Big Spring Tuesday night of next week, December 9, for a lecture at the municipal auditorium. The program is under sponsorship of The Herald, with all proceeds going to the local Red Cross. The admission fee on the Valtin lecture here — 55 cents including the federal tax—is, so far as can be ascertained, the lowest fixed for this sensational author-lecturer.

JAN VALTIN

Valtin, who has no more love for the communists than he has for the nazis, is predicting that Russia will be defeated by Germany, and that the United States should use care in aiding Josef Stalin. "The only thing efficient about Russia is the secret police," bluntly says the man who is marked for death by both the German Gestapo and the Russian OGPU.

"The expression of very much sympathy for Russia is now out of place, but there is no reason why the democracies should not make what use they can of Russia," he says. "The democracies should take a hard-boiled attitude toward the war."

Valtin, a one time German communist who was captured and tortured by the Gestapo, knows firsthand of the machinations of both nazism and communism. Although he faces deportation proceedings, much sentiment in official circles has been to forestall this action in the belief that he is more valuable to this country by remaining here.

Valtin was a witness before the Dies committee, and only recently said that he recognized three of the 29 spies rounded up by the FBI a few weeks ago. He declined to name these, but said "They have the right bunch, all right. It was high time they were rounding them up, and it's only a small batch of spies in this country."

Valtin, whose real name is Richard Julius Herman Krebs, skyrocketed to public fame with the publication of his book, "Out Of The Night." The work first hit the United States last January with the force of a six-inch shell and rode the best seller lists for months. He says that a sequel will be issued next spring.

"Out Of The Night" told of his youthful experiences with German communists and his part in the Hamburg riots, his life as a communist organizer during which he served a term in San Quentin, and his final torture at the hands of the Gestapo.

Postmaster Tells How To Make Gift Mailing Easier

Mailing Dates For Foreign Points Given

Early mailing is in order for those who wish to dispatch parcels and letters for foreign delivery before Christmas Day. Postmaster Nat Shick reminded Saturday.

Those with friends and relatives in the armed forces were advised that mailings should be made in time to reach the foreign section of the postoffice from Dec. 1 to Dec. 15, depending on destination. This, however, was indefinite, for postal bulletins list army post-offices by number and not by name.

Date of latest dispatch from New York City for delivery by Christmas stack up like this:

- Dec. 3—Turks Island.
- Dec. 5—Argentina, Bolivia, Barbados, Brazil, Chile, Ecuador, Guadalupe, Martinique, Nicaragua (Corinto), Peru, Uruguay.
- Dec. 8—Nicaragua (Bluefields).
- Dec. 10—Costa Rica, Granada.
- Dec. 11—Guiana (French and British), Surinam (Dutch Guiana), Trinidad.
- Dec. 12—Haiti, St. Kitts, Venezuela, Colombia.
- Dec. 15—Guatemala, Honduras, Salvador.
- Dec. 17—Jamaica.
- Dec. 19—Dominican Republic, Newfoundland, Puerto Rico, Virgin Islands.
- Dec. 19—Canal Zone, Panama.
- Dec. 20—Bahamas, Bermuda.
- Dec. 21—Cuba.

Lumber Dealers To Study Price Fixing

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP)—Price Administrator Leon Henderson said today a meeting of lumber producers, wholesalers and exporters would be held in New Orleans December 5 to discuss establishment of ceiling prices on all lumber made from southern hardwoods.

Hardwoods involved include white and red oak, sap and red sweet gum, black gum, tupelo, yellow poplar, magnolia, beech, sycamore, maple, elm, cottonwood, willow and hackberry.

Firemen Will Prepare Toys For Children

Even though times are booming and money is more plentiful this autumn than anytime since 1929 (with the possible exception of 1937), there will still be those who are unable to buy playthings for their children.

So the Big Spring Fire Department is setting up its work benches to do its annual good turn in repairing such discarded toys, dolls, etc., as people will bring to them.

Already, in response to a preliminary plea by Assistant Chief E. C. Gaylor, a small amount of playthings have been brought to the station. But the fire boys won't start work until the number runs into the hundreds, for with more than 10 hands on the job, they can turn out work in a hurry.

There is no limit to how much they can handle, and the only requirement is that toys be brought as early as possible and certainly no later than Dec. 20 so that paint will have time to dry and that distribution may be made on Christmas.

Few things are too badly battered to be of value to firemen in their repair efforts, for while they like to get things which can be rehabilitated, they may find one part off a junked piece which is just the thing needed to completely restore another toy in better repair.

Boy Scouts and others have helped collect old toys in the past, and it is anticipated that this will be the case again this year.

700 Join Red Cross In Mitchell County

COLORADO CITY, Nov. 29 (SpI)—About 700 has been reported in Mitchell county's Red Cross roll call. It was stated this week by Bruce Hart, county roll call chairman. Many communities were still unreported, Hart said. Thirty-five business establishments of Colorado City had turned in one-hundred per cent memberships by mid-week.

Organizations Plan Special Yule Events

Nearly All Clubs Will Hold Parties During Season

If you belong to any club or organization or church in Big Spring, it's a cinch you'll be going to a Christmas party or having one yourself.

Most of the women's clubs, high school clubs, and service groups are planning some sort of entertainment as a group.

Beginning with the first of December until the 24th, tentative dates have been set for the get-togethers that will mostly feature a Christmas tree, inexpensive gifts exchanged and refreshments.

The Child Culture club will give a party on December 9th in the home of Mrs. Joe Pickle for the youngsters of members and will also share their Christmas with gifts of toys to the nursery.

The Y.W.C.A. girls social club will hold its party at the Settles on December 9th. Wednesday, the 10th, the Lions club will have a Christmas party for the children at the Settles hotel.

The Kensington Klub will party in the home of Mrs. Bill Gage on December 12th and the 1930 Hyperion club will hold luncheon at the Settles on Saturday, the 13th.

The VFW auxiliary and post will have a joint party on December 18th at the hall and the Dos Por Ocho club, a group of women who meet to sew, will gather in Mrs. R. F. Bluhm's home that day for a party.

Bridge club members of the Hill Kare Klub will meet in the home of Mrs. Robert Batterwhite on December 22nd for a celebration. These and many other parties are in the offing for your fun and entertainment.

Heavy Load Expected At Local Office

With Christmas shopping starting earlier than usual this year, the need for early mailing increases. Postmaster Nat Shick said today in an appeal for the public to cooperate in avoiding an undue rush around Christmas.

One of the easiest ways to avoid this rush is by pre-purchase of stamps, particularly for Christmas cards and small parcels. Another is to shop early and do parcel mailing before the lines grow long at the postoffice.

Shick is not just guessing when he predicts a bumper Christmas business at the postoffice, for receipts this year have been up almost all the way and the trend currently is upward.

By early mailing, the public may aid postal employees in devoting more time to incoming mail, thus speeding up service in this department, said the postmaster.

To aid shoppers in getting off their packages early, Shick called attention to the following items:

CHRISTMAS CARDS—Sealed cards require three cents unless for delivery in the city, then it is two cents. If unsealed, they may go for 1-2 cents but no written messages other than "Merry Christmas," "Happy New Year," "With Best Wishes," and names and symbols for purposes of description. More personal messages subject the cards to first class (three cents) rates. Only letters bearing regular first class rate (for sealed ones) can be forwarded.

ADDRESSES—Address all matter plainly and completely in ink, giving street address or box or rural route number whenever possible. Place sender's return card in upper left corner of address side. Tags should not be used unless necessary, and return address should be placed inside in case tag is lost.

PACKING AND WRAPPING—Pack articles carefully in strong durable containers. Wrap gifts in parcels securely and do not seal unless fourth class sticker (notifying that package may be opened for postal inspection, is attached. If sealed and the sticker is not attached, the regular letter rate prevails.

PERISHABLE MATTER—This should be so labeled and materials which might spoil within time reasonably required for delivery will not be accepted.

SIZE, WEIGHT—Parcels of more than 100 inches in length and girth combined may not be accepted. Seventy pounds is the limit weight.

ADDITIONS, ENCLOSURES—Slogans such as "Do Not Open Until Christmas" may be used to facilitate early mailing. Do not enclose letters in parcels, for such will subject entire parcel to first class or letter rates.

SEALS—Do not place Christmas seals on same side as address.

SPECIAL SERVICE—Special handling and special delivery may be had for extra rates ranging from 10 to 25 cents, depending on class of mail and weight.

INSURANCE—Basically, any parcel worth mailing is said to be worth insuring. Fees are five cents up to $5, 10 cents from $5 to $25; 15 cents from $25 to $50; 25 cents from $50 to $100.

Colorful Events Will Open Christmas Shopping Season

Colored Lights Will Appear On Monday Evening

Big Spring will usher in the Christmas shopping season this week with a pair of colorful activities involving the traditional window unweaving and Treasure Hunt, followed later in the week by the Storybook Parade.

All Christmas lights in the downtown section will be illuminated at 6:30 p. m. Monday when milling crowds will circle the business district for the unweaving of Yule displays in show windows.

More than two score overhead light stringers have been placed and connected by the city and Nat Shick and helpers have all but completed the decoration of a tree on the courthouse lawn with between 800 and 900 vari-colored lights.

Those wishing to participate in the Treasure Hunt, which hold out merchandise prizes as awards, may get instructions by contacting the chamber of commerce or by asking agents of the chamber, who will be stationed around 3rd and Main and other downtown points at 6:30 p. m. for assistance.

Another big day will be coming up Friday—the date of the Storybook Parade and the traditional pre-Christmas visit of Santa Claus. As has been the case in times past, old St. Nick will see to it that candy is distributed to the youngsters. More than a dozen rural and city schools, together with three and possibly four bands, will join in the parade which starts at 3 p. m.

Participating schools will costume youngsters to represent storybook characters, some will arrange colorful floats, and others will attempt mass costume to carry out themes or effects. Several thousand people annually flock in to witness the affair.

Among schools accepting the invitation to take part in the parade contest are Chalk, Foran, Midway, Moore, Morris, Richland, and Lomas from the rural division and West Ward, East Ward, North Ward, South Ward, Central Ward and College Heights from the city section.

The Lamesa, Big Spring and Foran bands are due to furnish music for the parade and there is a possibility that Stanton's band will be on hand.

Santa Claus will arrive in time to lead the parade over the customary parade route here and then will visit with children while his friends help distribute small sacks of candy.

Salvation Army Places Kettles On Streets Here

The Salvation Army Saturday placed its traditional Christmas kettles in three busy downtown locations.

Maj. L. W. Canning, local Salvation Army commander, said it was hoped that $500 for the Army's Christmas relief fund would be contributed in the kettles. Last year the receipts were just above $400.

The kettles were placed in front of the postoffice, on Second and Main, and on Third and Main. They will remain in place, with bell-ringing attendants on hand, through Christmas eve.

Maj. Canning said the Salvation Army hoped to bring Christmas cheer to many families, but emphasized that it would be necessary to take only the most destitute cases.

Christmas Trees Must Not Come From State Park

If you are one of those red-blooded souls who insist that a good old native cedar is the only answer to the Christmas tree problem, take a tip and look some place other than the scenic Mountain state park.

R. W. Ogden, who is in charge of the park area for the state parks board, called attention again Saturday to the law which prohibits the molesting or cutting of trees or shrubbery within park confines.

In the past some people have conceived the idea that the park was the best place to get a tree. It's the best place to get in trouble if you're cutting on trees, which are supposed to be left to beauty and not adorn a living room.

Home Appliances Remain In Favor

While defense priorities threaten to curtail manufacture of household appliances, these items continue to rank high on Santa Claus' list.

Big Spring stores are well stocked with merchandise of this class, and especially the smaller appliance items are due to rest under a good many Christmas trees.

A quick list of appliance items includes refrigerators, irons, waffle irons, toasters, percolators, vacuum cleaners, food mixers, radios and radio-phonograph combinations.

Late Closing Of Stores To Be Avoided

Big Spring stores are concentrating this year on efforts to have the public join in an early shopping venture rather than prolonging the period necessary to get store doors open late at night.

Because it has been anticipated the early shopping would obviate the necessity of staying open past regular hours for a week or two before Christmas, merchants agreed that the Saturday evening immediately preceding Christmas Day would be the first for late closing hours.

On the Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday just before Christmas doors will be kept open just as long as merchants feel necessary. And Christmas most of the doors will be closed tighter than the proverbial wedge.

School Holidays Start Dec. 19

Big Spring school children have ten days, excluding Saturdays and Sundays, in which to celebrate the Christmas holidays.

Supt. W. C. Blankenship has announced that all classes will close Friday, December 19, and studies will not be resumed until Monday, January 5.

The Yuletide season will be the last holiday given the local students until sometime in March when they will have a short recess while a teacher's convention is in progress.

Powell, Loy And 'Thin Man' Are Back Again In Mystery-Comedy At The Ritz

Those perennial "Thin Man" sleuths, William Powell and Myrna Loy, are again combining a domestic career with brilliant activities in the field of crime. And in "Shadow of the Thin Man," which is at the Ritz theatre today and Monday, they romp through one of the most entertaining mystery-comedies of the year.

Such episodes in which Powell turns into a living top after a humiliating experience on a merry-go-round to which he has taken his matter-of-fact young son, or a wrestling bout which ends with Miss Loy's lap, may seem irrelevant to the solution of a murder mystery, but in the case of the "Thin Man" pictures, and particularly this one, you can never tell

Trouble Again—William Powell looks unhappy about it all, as the officer demands to see his driver's license. It's a scene from "Shadow Of The Thin Man," newest in a popular series with Powell and Myrna Loy again teaming up as the films' most pleasant matrimonial pair. The picture is at the Ritz today and Monday.

Colorado Christmas Lights On Wednesday

COLORADO CITY, Nov. 29 (Sp) The Yule season will be officially opened in Colorado City next Wednesday night, with the turning on of downtown Christmas lights, a treasure hunt, and other features, according to an announcement made this week by Jack Halton, manager of the chamber of commerce.

The lights will go on at 7 o'clock, and the treasure hunt will begin at the same time, with practically all merchants of the town cooperating.

Funds for Christmas lighting were made up this week by the retail trade development committee of the chamber of commerce. Nat Thomas is chairman.

Rate Of Increase In Accidents Over Nation Now Shows Decline

CHICAGO, Nov. 29 (AP)—The National Safety Council has reported progress in the nationwide effort to dam the rising tide of accidents in the United States.

The increase has not been stopped, the council said, but a peak rise of 23 per cent in traffic deaths in August has been cut to a 13 per cent increase in September and 12 per cent in October.

It was in August that President Roosevelt called upon the council to lead a defense emergency safety campaign to curb the growing menace. In an attempt to offset the usual rise in traffic deaths during the year-end holiday season, the council and 130 cooperating organizations are undertaking a special Christmas safety drive with the theme, "give courtesy for Christmas."

The October traffic toll was 4,050, approximately 400 greater than in October, 1940, but the 12 per cent rise was the smallest for any month this year. Traffic deaths for the first ten months of 1941 totaled 31,620, a 16 per cent rise over the 27,210 toll for the same 1940 period.

Travel in September, the latest month for which mileage figures are available, was 13 per cent greater than in September, 1940. This was identical to the fatality increase. For the first nine months of this year travel was up 12 per cent and the mileage death rate 4 per cent.

Cities of 10,000 or more population reported an average death increase of 4 per cent in October, compared with 6 per cent rise in September and 18 per cent in August.

For cities of all sizes a 6 per cent increase was recorded during the first ten months, compared with or, Maj. W. S. Van Dyke II, who recently gave us that delightful comedy, "The Feminine Touch," and whose rapier-wit touches again enliven the proceedings in the case of the Charles family.

Starting with a murder at a race track, the plot of "Shadow of the Thin Man" has Powell, as Nick Charles, trying to pick out the criminal from such varying suspects as the head of a State Athletic Commission, a gambler, and a betting commissioner and his girlfriend, among others. With Miss Loy's help (and sometimes, in spite of it), Nick ultimately solves the case in his own brilliant fashion.

The stars fit into their respective roles like a glove, and are given excellent support by Barry Nelson, Donna Reed, Sam Levene, Alan Baxter, Henry O'Neill and Dickie Hall, the younger who plays Nick Charles, Jr., and who proves himself a definite "find." And don't forget Asta, the dog. He's incredible!

Anybody May Win Congress Seat In Pennsylvania Meets
HARRISBURG, Nov. 29 (AP)—Pennsylvanians were advised today they'd better get acquainted with their garbageman—he's apt to be a congressman next year.

That's the way State Senator John M. Walker sizes up the muddle over cutting out one of the commonwealth's 24 congressional districts as required by the 1940 census.

The politically divided legislature deadlocked on the problem and now its specially-assigned bipartisan committee seems just as far from a solution. Electing all 33 representatives by a state-wide vote instead of in district balloting is the alternative if a reapportionment is not enacted before March 10.

"There'll be so many candidates, electing them at large, that anybody can win," said Walker, a young Pittsburgh republican. "I think I'll enter my wife and children."

"Anybody with a $35 filing fee can run. My garbageman said to me: 'I'm going to put 35 bucks in that lottery.'"

"Whenever I walk the streets in Pittsburgh and a panhandler hits me I give him a dime and tell my companions: 'You'd better be nice to that guy; he may be your congressman.'"

Jane Withers Goes In For Deb Society

Jane Withers comes through with another grand performance in her latest picture for 20th Century-Fox, "Small Town Deb," which plays today and Monday at the Lyric theatre.

Unlike many of her past films, "Small Town Deb" is concerned largely with story—and a very interesting story it is. Jane is the victim of the social ambitions of her older sister and brother.

With braces on her teeth and her unbecoming horn-rimmed glasses, Jane is no match for them and she turns to sympathetic Jane Darwell for solace in between her attempts to puncture their ego.

In the unusual climax, Jane undergoes a complete metamorphosis, changing into a gorgeous beauty who surprises even her discriminating brother.

Interpersed in the entertaining story are several scenes that will warm the heart of any good housewife. Jane sings and dances in approved jitterbug style and in addition she shows her proficiency on a set of drums. It's well rounded entertainment.

Also featured in the imposing cast are Bruce Edwards, Cobina Wright, Jr., Cecil Kellaway, Katharine Alexander, Jack Searl and Buddy Pepper. The clever picture was ably directed by Harold Schuster from a screen play by Ethel Hill.

Lamesa Band To Participate In Parade

The Lamesa, high school Golden Tornado band will participate in the Storybook Parade here the afternoon of Dec. 5, the chamber of commerce was advised Friday.

Conway King, director of the Lamesa band, said he planned to bring his entire troupe of musicians. Big Spring's high school band will participate and the chamber has extended invitations to other cities in the area.

Among schools who have agreed to enter floats or groups in the colorful parade are Green Valley, Morris, Richland, Lomax and Moore from the rural section, and West Ward, East Ward, College Heights, North Ward, and South Ward and Central Ward from the city schools.

Meanwhile, light stingers were being placed across the downtown area and Nat Shick, with men from the Taylor Electric Co. assisting, was preparing to decorate the elm tree on the courthouse lawn with more than 800 lights so that the Yule sparkle would be ready for Monday evening when windows will be unveiled and the annual Treasure Hunt held.

'Sgt. York' To Play At Ritz Next Week

Regarded generally as one of the outstanding motion picture productions of the year is the Ritz theatre's offering for next weekend—"Sergeant York," the film version of the career of one of the nation's notable characters.

Gary Cooper has the title role, portraying the mountain man who went into the U. S. army in World War One to emerge its greatest hero. The story is based throughout on the life and experience of Sergeant Alvin York, and was produced with the supervision of York himself.

Walter Brennan, Academy Award winner; Joan Leslie, George Tobias and Stanley Ridges are among the supporting cast.

The story essentially is that of Sergeant York, however, and details his life in dramatic fashion from a mountain boyhood to the acclaim as a post-war hero. Drama is put into the story to make it one of stirring American-

Young Ladies Always Like Something To Wear

By HELEN FORRIST HALL, AP Fashion Editor

You never know, from the heap of gifts beneath the tree, just what one thing is going to strike a little girl's fancy.

The photograph business is more than it appears on the surface too. They hear and share more secrets than Dorothy Dix.

Or maybe Mother decides to get her picture taken with baby and surprise father on the big day.

And sometimes father gets the same brainstorm but a good photographer doesn't say "nothing about nothing" to ruin the surprise.

Parents, relatives and friends are all recipients of pictures on Christmas day and as somebody pointed out, "nobody else can duplicate such a gift but you."

Tax Deductions For Education Proposed

EASTON, Pa., Nov. 29 (AP)—The treasurer of Lafayette college today proposed that educational credits up to $400 be permitted on the income tax schedules of families sending their children to college.

John N. Schlegel, the treasurer, said: "If we don't grant this educational credit I predict that next year there will be many young people forced to abandon their education because that portion of the income which last year was available for their education next year will be paid to the government for taxes."

The Cossacks, who long served as cavalrymen under the Tsars, still make up special fighting units in the red army.

Embroideries and appliques of wool or felt will win the heart of a lot, whether it's on a snowsuit or sweater. So will a bit of fur, lining her hood or making a pom-pom on her cap.

Dresses with matching dolls, sweaters, lambskin bonnets, mitts with velvet skirts, and challis blouses, military raincoats and undies—any one of them will make a big hit.

Most exciting are robes with a matching hair ornament. A flower-printed robe has a flower to match the print for the little lady to tuck into her hair.

Pinafores, appliqued with red apples or cherries on white organdy, are charming but not too expensive gifts, while less expensive versions come in white lawn with colorful rickrack trim.

Apron styles include candy stripes which button onto narrow over-shoulder styles. Dimities use dainty embroidered hearts.

Aside from garments, every little girl loves gadgets as gifts, and the price you pay is up to you.

Steering silver link bracelets with bowknobs on discs, mittens with lamb's wool cuffs, gloves and purses all have tremendous appeal.

Colorado City Man Gets High Masonic Office Second Time

COLORADO CITY, Nov. 29 (SpI) When W. J. Chesney of Colorado City is installed Tuesday in Waco as grand high priest of the Royal Arch chapter of Texas Masons, he will be serving for the second time in the highest office a Texas Masonic body has to offer.

Chesney is a past grand master of the Grand Council of Texas, having filled that office in 1935. He has been a Mason for 28 years, a Mitchell countian for 53 years.

He is the only Colorado City man who has ever held the highest office in Texas Masonic bodies, although two, the late Joe Sheppard and Jim White, have been on committees on work, Sheppard in the grand Royal Arch chapter, and White in the Grand Lodge.

Another Colorado City man, the late E. J. Hooper, was elected scribe in the Grand Royal Arch chapter in 1913, but never lived to be advanced to the office of grand high priest.

800 Lights Will Adorn Tree On Courthouse Lawn

More than 800 twinkling messengers of Yule cheer will adorn the city's traditional Christmas tree on the courthouse lawn this season.

This will represent an increase of about 250 colored lights in the stock used over a period of years to dangle about the boughs of a big Chinese elm tree.

As has always been the custom, Nat Shick will be in charge of decorating the tree, for so long as this has been a community enterprise, Shick has been looking after that tree and its lighting.

It may be that in future years he will have something nearer the traditional Christmas tree form to work with—not that he hasn't done wonders with the elm—for a move is on foot to get some shapely ever-green planted specifically as a Christmas tree.

Sterling Again Proves Popular With Shoppers

Sterling, the desire of every new bride and bride-to-be, and the aim of every housewife is having a success with gift shoppers this year.

The shopper with the few dollars or Mrs. Got Rocks can all find what they want in the silver and sterling departments of stores.

A few dollars will buy one piece for a bride and she'll be as thrilled over that as anything you can get her. Or if you've got money to burn, a set would solve your shopping problems and also the problems of your "gifts."

In Big Spring, a whisper to any clerk in any jewelry shop will bring you the answer as to what pattern young Mrs. Joe Doaks has selected or young Miss Smith is going to choose.

Without a wrapping the glitter of the silver would thrill the heart of any woman, but you shoppers will find your local stores more than anxious to wrap your gift in pretty cellophane and ribbon.

What with priorities making a lot of things mighty scarce, silver is in the money this year since it is not being restricted. It's a good year to make a "silver year."

Changing Times Make Hose More Popular As Gift

If you want to win her heart and her favor—send her a pair of hose. Thin silk hose or the new fangled Nylons, whatever you choose, you can't fail to please her.

Since the raid on silk for army and navy use, the once casually-considered pair of hose has turned into something far more valuable. Where runners once made stockings ineligible for wear again, milady now mutters savagely under her breath and sews it up again.

Stocking manufacturers have come forth with their gift boxes of three or two pairs in small treasure chest looking boxes that she'll be able to use for other things when the hosiery wears out, all too soon.

But by your box of hose, see they get tied with a pretty ribbon, and listen. Mr. Joe Dockes, your present will really be appreciated.

feminine friends are the experimenting sort—send them some of these new cotton stockings that have been cooked up for leg coverings.

Some are made with clocks up the leg and are sheer enough that they look like silk from a distance. It might make HER feel more than patriotic to have a pair although you'll find the price has suffered no come down in spite of the cotton materials. There may come a day when they are twice as cheap as silk, but right now, brother, you have to pay for them.

But by your box of hose, see they get tied with a pretty ribbon, and listen. Mr. Joe Dockes, your present will really be appreciated.

Trinkets Prove Popular This Gift Season

This is a trinket year in the giving of Christmas gifts, it is maintained by storekeepers and salespeople. In the minds of many is the thought that this may be the last year that novelties in jewelry and toys may be bought and folks are stocking them in.

Jeweled pins, jeweled watches, notions of all sort are enjoying more popularity than ever has been accorded them. Many of the trinkets are expensive in price but the higher costs of living haven't made pocket book dents as yet. Mr. and Mrs. Joe Citizen are cheerfully paying more for what they want.

Compacts, the old standby, handsome rings, bracelets, and lockets are in demand for the feminine population. For some odd reason, men's rings are the most asked for items for male gifts.

Leather articles, now increased in price over last year's price tags, are selling even better than last year.

All merchants are optimistic about the profits to be made this year but the jewelers and trinket shops are looking for a banner year, something like 1929, remember?

Turkeys Will Taste Better On Christmas

If that Thanksgiving turkey was good, the one you get Christmas ought to be better.

The simple reason is that the birds will have more time to fatten and fill out than they did for Thanksgiving.

The supply of turkeys will be plentiful, and present indications are that prices will be little different from those at Thanksgiving. However, it is a bit early to make predictions. Dressed turkeys were worth about 30 cents per pound here just before Thanksgiving.

Doll Gifts Hide In Rag Bag

Reach way down to the bottom of the bag . . .

By MARGARET KERNODLE
AP Feature Service Writer

A rag doll is about the most hugable doll there is.

And one that you can make out of fabrics left from the frock you fixed for Molly's party or the suit you stitched for Jimmy. The patterns are simple and so is the sewing.

You can cut a rag toy by following the outlines of a comic strip character like Dickie Darr's dog, Wags. Place the cut-out sketch on a big piece of paper and trace around it bigger and bigger forms until you have the size suitable for the young child who is to get the gift. Seventeen to 22 inches sounds big but the bigger it is, the better.

. . . And look what comes out.

the child will like it. That's what the psychologists say and they ought to know.

You can buy patterns cheaply, too, new figures or old-timers of proven popularity. Neighborhood sewing shops can help you plan patterns, choose washable fabrics and point out short cuts in sewing.

Wash and iron rags or remnants before you start to cut your toy pattern. Choose gay colors and bright contrasts if you want to please young children with your handiwork.

Perennially popular are Raggedy Ann and Andy, favorites in fashion again and likely to get more so if toys get costlier. Raggedy Ann usually wears plaid gingham and ruffled pinafore. Raggedy Andy likes striped overalls with button-on suspenders. You can make buttonholes bound like bought ones with the machine buttonhole maker quickly than your mother made your rag doll. And the signature stitch of your machine is just the thing for eyebrows, noses and mouths. Even for eyes if you don't like button eyes.

Strands of yarn left from knitting becomes gay hair in any color. Some children prefer colors in keeping with real hair but they should be brighter than the real thing.

Zoo animals are popular on

Cosmetics Come In Appealing Gift Packages

Cosmetic firms and perfumers have gone overboard this year in preparing dainty and appealing gift packages for the lady of your house. No longer do soap, powder, perfume and toilet water come under the head of necessities—according to the government, but higher price and tax hasn't as yet disturbed the market.

Wrapped in bright colored papers, tied with flowery bows, and arranged in attractive boxes, your cosmetic gifts are sure to please the heart of some lady.

Some manufacturers have arranged their merchandises in sets that range from one dollar on up and up. Nearly every pocketbook can find a range though of pretty gifts at the cosmetic bars.

Some come with powder, lipstick and rouge in the box, all blended to suit a certain type. Others are perfume lipstick and powder, almost any arrangement you might ask.

If you are just a mere male after a pleasant gift like this for the lady of your choice, do a little snooping and find out what kind of powder and perfume she likes. Then take your trade name to the nearest sales girl—and ten to one she'll get the right gift.

"That saves your face when she looks at your present Christmas day and discovers that you gave her Ellich's products when she's allergic to it."

Victor Moore, the actor, is superstitious of the month of August for during that month all his family's misfortunes occurred.

Safe Driving Rules Doubly Important At Christmas

Death and destruction will ride the highways on Christmas week, but many of us will hit the road just the same.

The state highway patrol will keep its full force on the field, and all other agencies are making every effort to curb the number of fatalities.

In general officers are giving the routine warnings about careful. The same old rules of safe driving apply, but doubly so. Quickly listed, these include:

1. Drive soberly.
2. Drive slowly and carefully.
3. Have your automobile in perfect condition.

More particularly applicable to the Christmas seasons are these additional suggestions:

1. Start on time. The family will keep the dinner warm for you, and it is doubtful if they will tell Santa to visit before your car is heard in the driveway.
2. Avoid driving during the more dangerous hours—dusk and early evening, for example. Try getting away in the wee hours of the morning when the highways are clear.
3. Wait until you get there to open that gift pint.
4. Be doubly cautious about passing other cars. With traffic heavier, the danger of meeting someone coming from the other direction is multiplied.

Some of the things which will turn Christmas joys into tragedies are: high speed, liquor, failure to dim lights when meeting other cars on curves or hills, driving when too sleepy, poor conditions caused by rain, mist, sleet or snow.

Here Are Hints For Christmas Bride

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE
AP Feature Service Writer

Christmas time is holiday time and holiday time is party time. And for most new brides, party time is a headache, but one that you can avoid by gearing your dinner party to a menu that you are sure of.

This is especially helpful for a bride's first dinner. Plan a menu that is not too expensive or complicated, one that is good to eat and to look at, and easy to prepare. And be sure to start a week in advance to map out all the details—from the menu, market list and cooking to what goes on the table and where.

This way you will be able to enjoy your Christmas dinners and parties just as much as your guests.

BAKED HAM makes a delicious dinner meat. It's a good buy, too. Cooked, it keeps for some time in the refrigerator and leftovers can be put to many appetizing uses.

Place a smoked ham weighing about 10 pounds, rind side up in shallow baking pan. Bake uncovered 4 1/2 hours in moderately slow oven (275). Forty minutes before cooking time is up, lift off rind. Scrape off about 1-2 inch of the fat on top. Stud the fat on the ham with whole cloves. Mix 1 1/2 cups dark brown sugar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-2 teaspoon cloves and 1-4 teaspoon dry mustard. Pat on top fat. Baste every 10 minutes with fruit blend, made by mixing 1-2 cup orange juice, 1-4 cup each vinegar, pineapple and lemon juices.

To serve cold or hot with glazed, spiced apricots, place 12 or 14 apricots in baking pan. Spread with butter, brown sugar, a dash cinnamon and orange juice. Broil or bake until well glazed and garnish the ham.

If you prefer a 'HOT RAHIN SAUCE' try this: To serve 7 or 8, mix 1-2 cup dark brown sugar, 3 tablespoons flour, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon dry mustard, 1-2 cup seeded raisins, 1-3 cup crushed pineapple, 1-3 cup vinegar, 1-3 cup pineapple juice, 1 cup water and 2 tablespoons butter. Simmer, stirring constantly, until partly thick.

HORSERADISH RELISH SAUCE is also good with ham. Mix 1-2 cup horseradish into 1-4 cup each chopped ripe olives and sweet pickles, 2-3 cup whipped cream, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon each celery salt and paprika. Serve cold.

You should serve another main dish with the meat—scaloped potatoes, corn or cauliflower, noodle ring with creamed mushrooms, stuffed baked sweet potatoes, spinach mold with cheese sauce or orzo-ole spaghetti.

For a refreshing salad, try tossed green vegetable with Roquefort or plain French dressing, celery and pineapple stuffed avocado, diced grapefruit and apple with salad dressing, jellied relish or cole slaw.

SPANISH RICE AND SHRIMPS make an economical main dish. To serve 4 or so, simmer 5 minutes in 1-2 cup chopped bacon, 1-3 cup each diced onions and green peppers and 1-2 cup diced celery. Add 1-2 cup flour and blend. Four in 3 cup tomatoes, 2 cups cleaned cooked shrimps, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon paprika, 1-2 teaspoon poultry seasoning or chili powder and 1 teaspoon minced parsley. Simmer 10 minutes, pour into buttered baking dish, sprinkle with 2-3 cup grated cheese and bake 30 minutes in moderate oven.

DATE PUDDING LENOX can be served cold or warm. Mix 1 1/2 cups chopped dates, 1/4 cup nuts, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1-2 teaspoon cinnamon, 2-3 cup flour, 2-3 cup dark brown sugar, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 2 egg yolks and 3 beaten whites. Pour into buttered ring mold and bake an hour in moderate oven (350). Center with dish of whipped cream, sprinkle with chopped candied orange peel.

Sporting Goods Offer Extensive Gift Selections

The woes of Christmas shopping are many and the processes of cogitation in deciding what to get for whom causes much pucker-ing of brows.

Was a time when certain traditional things were bought for Junior and Sister and the elders. But, sporting goods are coming into their own.

Why? Well, majority of grown-ups like to say they like any sort of sport and delight in showing the instruments of said athletic endeavor. The youngsters—well, the kids just naturally like to bang around with the do-dads and knick-knacks of every sport.

Another thing puts sporting goods high on the shopping list—just about every pocketbook can be easily fitted.

Take the list of items available for young boys. There are archery sets starting at about 60 cents, pistol sets of the old bang-bang variety, BB guns that range from a dollar up, footballs and all light equipment needed for things football, boxing gloves, dart games, and on through the list.

For the older boy, fishing equipment, more sturdy footballs and basketballs are suggested. Added to these fall and winter items are the summer goods—baseball, ball bats, croquet sets, tennis balls and rackets and the time-honored sack of marbles.

Golfing and hunting lites make up the majority of sport gifts available for men and women. Golf clubs, neatly packaged golf balls, golf bags, golf jackets and head gear make truly appreciated gifts. Clubs and balls are so priced as to fit all pocketbooks, be they thin or fat. Jackets range from the dollar or so variety on up to five and ten dollars. Serviceable golf shoes are priced from about $4.50 on up to the ceiling.

Hunting firearms are currently shy on the market, although stocks are still able to take care of ordinary business. But, fishing tackle makes an abundant list of sporting goods that might be suitable for gifts.

American Meat Institute Denies Price Fixing

CHICAGO, Nov. 29 (AP)—The American Meat Institute denied in a statement today a federal charge that the institute, 14 large packing companies and 37 packing executives had conspired to fix meat prices.

In the fifth indictment returned here since grand juries began investigating food prices in May, the 53 defendants were accused of having violated the anti-trust laws for 13 years by setting prices paid farmers for livestock and fixing prices to be charged consumers.

Uncle Sam Sets Trap To Catch Forgetful Debtors

By JACK STINNETT
WASHINGTON—Capital Talk: Uncle Sam may forgive his debtors but he doesn't forget them. Over in the General Accounting Office are ten clerks who do nothing but be sure that the people who owe Uncle Sam money aren't forgotten.

This little division of GAO was started only a few years ago and in its beginnings had only one clerk. Since then, the division has grown to such proportions that in government employ circles it has acquired the nickname of "the beartrap." Caught in the trap when it was last run were more than 300,000 persons who owe the government the staggering sum of more than $1,050,000,000. (These are individual and company debts and have nothing whatever to do with unpaid foreign loans.)

Probably the reason that Uncle Sam's nephews and nieces gave the "beartrap" its nickname is that thousands of them have had their fingers nipped in it. Whenever a government employ quits, owing the government for extra time off, overpayment for expenses, etc., his card goes into the file. And if he ever steps into government service again (as thousands have since national defense started), he pays his debt or else Uncle Sam's debt list is growing by leaps and bounds. The average monthly additions now have crawled up to around 5,000, while settlements are being made at the rate of only 600 a month. At that, the United States is no slouch at collecting its bad debts from individuals and corporations. From a half million to a million dollars are rolled into the federal coffers as result of GAO's new collection policy.

There's a curious reason behind the government's establishment of TWO internment camps and why the Italian sailors (interned when their ships were seized in American harbors) are held at Fort Missoula, Mont., and the German sailors at Fort Lincoln, N. D.

That reason—and the only one—is that the government doesn't dare keep these sons of the AXIS powers together because they constantly fight.

Even in transporting them, although many seamen from both Germany and Italy were arrested in the same harbors, they were kept far enough apart so that they couldn't even threaten each other.

When I asked a government official who has been connected with internment of the sailors what made them fight, he shrugged his shoulders and said: "All I can get out of them is that they hate each other like poison."

Paul V. McNutt, Federal Security administrator, has started a campaign to coin common or "popular" names to replace scientific terms which sometimes scare the daylight out of persons buying foods and drugs.

As an example of what he is driving at, Mr. McNutt cites the important vitamin, "nicotinic acid." This vitamin, so essential to health, Mr. McNutt explains, is found in lean meat, certain vegetables, milk, and in some other common articles of diet — yet when processors label their wares, "This contains so many units of nicotinic acid," the customers shy from it as if it were unadulterated poison.

"Words to the scientist," says Mr. McNutt, "may be purely descriptive but to ordinary people they often have the power to arouse loyalty or hate, belief or unbelief, confidence or skepticism."

Editorial — 'Yes' Votes On Cotton Quotas Will Keep Price Of Lint Up

More or less forgetful of their troubles now are the farmers of this section who are winding up a bountiful harvest year.

With the flush of prosperity, none are forgetting the lean years of the past decade. But some may forget the things that ended those lean years.

One of those things that brought prosperity this year was good weather. For that we all are thankful to the Almighty.

Another was higher prices for cotton. For that we are thankful to Uncle Sam and his AAA.

On December 13 will be held a farmer referendum to determine if cotton marketing quotas, that vital part of the AAA, will be kept in effect for another year.

Unless two-thirds of the cotton producers vote "yes" the quotas will be eliminated next year. And unless farmers turn out in large numbers to vote their support of the quotas, those boys in Washington may think the time opportune to start whittling away the AAA.

Without cotton marketing quotas, overproduction is certain to result. And unless the quotas are in effect, Uncle Sam will not offer a cotton loan next year. The man who says the cotton loan is not the thing that is holding up the price of cotton is kidding himself.

So, for the good of the cotton country, we hope farmers turn out en masse to vote FOR cotton marketing quotas for another year.

Hollywood Sights and Sounds—

John Boles Tries Comeback in Film At Republic

By ROBBEN COONS
HOLLYWOOD — Over at little Monogram studios, where they can turn out a feature movie in six days without excitement, they're beating the drums and stretching the budget on a number called "Boy of Mine," and all because a good guy named John Boles is back in town.

John has been away too long—three years, ordinarily long enough for a movie star to become back number in the Hollywood mind. Often you can mention a three-year-absent name and Hollywood will say, "Him? Oh, yeah, I remember. Whatever became of him?" But you mention John Boles and Hollywood says, "Great! It's about time he got back here." That shows, among other things, one great strategic advantage in being a good guy.

I looked up, John Boles on the "Boy of Mine" set and found Director Phil Rosen putting him and Billy Lee, II, through a scene in a radio station where John has just pinch-hit for an ailing baritone, thereby setting the stage for recon-dition for himself, a contract, and the good things of life for that boy of the title. John plays a widower who can't get a job in radio except as part of a wild-west Indian program. This seems a bit far-fetched, in view of the Boles voice, but John said it was an unusually good story.

He left three years ago after seeing his latest picture—a number he's trying to forget and which we'll kindly forget too, in sympathy. It was a thing done to fulfill a commitment, one of those we've got-him-let-us-him assignments. So John went out on a concert tour, in the U. S. and Brazil, and had a good time (he'd rather travel than stay put) and made money the while.

"I've been mighty lucky," he said, "the way I've been able to start in pictures again after each but I'm glad the last one was a commitment, one of those we've got-him-let-us-him assignments. So John went out on a concert tour, in the U. S. and Brazil, and had a good time (he'd rather travel than stay put) and made money the while."

The first of the five came through Gloria Swanson, who picked him from a summer musical on Broadway, "Kitty's Kisses," to be her leading man in "Burya." He costarred in the silent until sound recording. He was in "Rio Rita" and others of the first musical cycle. The temporary demise of musicals seemed about to leave him stranded, but Universal was making a drama called "Beed," and John was under contract, and they cast him—thus discovering that he could act as well as sing. Start No. 4 found him free-lancing, virtually without song. In "Boy of Mine" he's singing again, and it's high time. He does "America," "Danny Boy," and the aria, "Vision Fugitive," from Massenet's "Herodiade."

And Boles has a better "typically Hollywood" story than that. Once in silent pictures he was made up for a role in "Shepherd of the Hills." The producer protested that slicker type from Broadway. But he played the role, and some time later was up for a modern city role. The same producer said, "Boles? No, he's a hillbilly type!"

Army Bugler Sacrifices All To Hear Stokowski

By GEORGE TUCKER
NEW YORK—I saw Stokowski broadcast with the NBC Symphony Orchestra from the Cosmopolitan Opera House last night. Once again his lionine mane reminded me of Einstein. There was the dancing master's quality to his hands and feet. He stood on the podium in the easy pose of a heroic statue surrounded by his fluted minions and the Westmaster Choir in their rich, deep vestments. Incidentally, there was a Chinese girl in that choir. Her pretty, pliant face stood out as vividly as a water hyacinth on a still pool.

It is not for me to speak of this performance critically (it was Beethoven's 9th Symphony, no less). What can I say of Beethoven or even of Stokowski that hasn't been said? As a spectacle, it was a moving, dramatic event. It was good theatre. Stokowski is not one to ignore dramatic effect. He operated from within his portable shell. I was utterly fascinated. Not a chair creaked. Not a feather moved. What is it that can hold three thousand people more than half an hour without a stir?

It is interesting to note that these symphonic broadcasts this season are something of an experiment. For one thing, they no longer are from the studio. The Cosmopolitan, which is really the old Mecca Temple, has a seating capacity of 3,800, whereas the studio could accommodate fewer than 300.

For another, broadcasts from the studio used to be free. This season there is an admission charge, ranging from 55 cents to $2.20.

When I got to the Cosmopolitan last night the lobby was jammed with drifters and unlucky ones badgering seats. On the way to the door I was stopped three times... "Have you got an extra ticket?" "Have you got an extra ticket?" "Unfortunately, I didn't. These people never get in. Most of them were still there, an hour or so later. If they couldn't see, at least they could hear. That was some consolation."

From time to time during the program I made notes with a leaky fountain pen; so when it was over I hunted up the wash room with the idea of washing some of the stains off my hands.

Inside I found a soldier who was lathering his hands and leisurely inspecting his teeth in the mirror. He was a private from Ft. Monmouth, N. J., and had hitch-hiked all the way to New York just to hear Stokowski's broadcast. Now, he said, he had to get out and hitch-hike back. It was then nearly 11 o'clock.

"Why don't you wait until in the morning?" I suggested. "It'll be easier."

"Can't do it," he said. "I got to get back sometime tonight. By five at the latest."

It seemed to me that 5 a. m. was a very odd hour for a furlough to expire, and I said as much. He shook his head.

"You see, with me it's different. I'm a bugler. I've got to blow reveille."

That's one I think Stokowski ought to put in his book.

THE PHONE BOOTH MURDER

by Phoebe Atwood Taylor

Chapter 15
ABOUT MISS OLIVE
Between mouthfuls and swallows, Asy told her, and when he concluded his story Jennie shook her head.

"Well, I never! Why, I've heard Ouster Mayo talk about Wasby Doane, and it does seem as if by rights he should be the queerest in Mrs. Doane's house. But why never has he mentioned him. Only person he ever speaks of here is Mrs. Doane. Asy, you know what seems queerest of all to me?"

Asy chuckled. "Sure. The woman who walked past you. Your ghost."

"Still don't believe me, do you?" Jennie retorted. "Well, just you wait! Sooner or later, I'm going to prove to you I see someone. But what I think is the queerest is Mrs. Doane herself. Asy, she's worked hard to build this place up from a common boardin' house to what it is now, a nice inn with guests an' a fine reputation. It's taken her years an' years—why, she's never here an' years—why, she's been comin' here more than twenty years, Asy!"

Asy choked on his raspberry tart.

"Jennie, you mean to say you know who she is?" he demanded.

"Why, of course, don't you? Land's sakes, Asy, ain't you even found out who she is yet?" Jennie sounded slightly shocked.

Asy pointed out that having practically only just discovered the body he had hardly had the time to accomplish much in the way of identification.

"You knew what she looked like, didn't you?" Jennie said.

"Why I met Angie Harris up in the drugstore, an' she knew the woman in a minute when I described her. Even the counter boy, he knew her."

"Who is she?"

"Why, she's a schoolteacher lives here at the Inn!" Jennie said. "Everybody knows her. Angie said there wasn't probably anyone in Quisset that didn't know Miss Olive. Miss Olive Beadle, that's who she is."

"Miss Beadle?" Asy said. "Miss Beadle, well, well! Jennie wanted to know if he felt all right."

"I'm improv'n' rapidly," Asy told her, "thanks to you. Remember that phone call we didn't understand, Jennie! Somebody was phoin' her, don't you see? They was askin' for her, only we didn't get it. Huh! Go on, Jennie, tell me more."

"Well, she's been comin' here," Jennie said, "it's either twenty-four or twenty-six years. Angie said it was either the year the ole ice house burned down or the year the livery stable burned down, an' she couldn't remember just which. She's a quiet little body, Angie says, goes to church every Sunday, an' all the suppers an' talks, an' to the movies most every night. She pays more attention to the town an' the townfolks than the rest of 'em at the Inn. Angie says she others are awful high-hat. She says one of 'em, a big fat woman that drives around in a big car with a chaufffeur, she wouldn't even give a measly little dollar to the ambulance fund drive."

Star Boarder
"You'll be glad to know," Asy said, "that the fat lady has made a thumpin' good contribution to-night, though she don't know about it. So Angie thinks this Miss Beadle's all right, huh?"

"Angie likes her. Says she's helped the Women's Club, an' made fancy work for their sales, an' she'd helped some of the town boys through college. She didn't give 'em money when they couldn't afford anything like that—but she introduced 'em to people in Boston who got 'em started. She has a little car she drives around a lot, an'—"

"I wonder, where is that car now?" Asy interrupted. "I ain't noticed it anywhere around here."

"Goodness, why worry about her car?" Course, Angie said she was a woman kind of set in her ways. She used to have a special rocker she liked when it was Mrs. Mercer's Boarding House, an' she made Mrs. Doane keep it on the porch for her even now. I 'spose, Jennie added, "that's the very rocker she's under now. Makes your flesh creep, don't it?" You payin' my attention to me?"

"Uh-huh. I'm just thinkin'," Asy said, "an' watchin' the porch. A light went on just now in the room beyond."

"That don't mean anything," Jennie said. "It's been on an' off a dozen times. Now, of course, I didn't tell Angie anything about what'd happened here tonight, but from what I found out it seemed like you might say this Miss Olive Beadle was a kind of a star boarder, too. That's what I meant, Asy, when I said I thought it was queerest about Mrs. Doane. If she kills anyone, she just is killin' her business too, isn't she? An' somehow, you wouldn't hardly expect that anyone would kill off their star boarder, would you?"

Asy shook his head.

"No," he said, "you wouldn't."

"I got the idea from Angie," Jennie said, "that this Miss Olive, as Angie called her, she'd sort of stuck to Mrs. Doane through thick an' thin. This place half burned down one year, but Miss Olive, she come just the same on June tenth an' lived in the room she always has, even though half of it was just boarded up an' covered with tar paper. An' one time there was a lot of talk that the water at the Inn was bad. Seems somebody come down with typhoid. Everybody packed up an' left but Miss Olive. She stayed right on. An' when some of them that'd left found she was stayin', they gives 'em back. Angie said Miss Olive an' Mrs. Doane, they got along fine, an' more'n once, Miss Olive's smoothed people over when Mrs. Doane had riled 'em. I tell you, I do think it'd be awful queer for Mrs. Doane to be killing Miss Olive now, Asy! But if she didn't, then why—"

"Hold it," Asy said softly.
