Judge gives approval, jury enters trial

Robert Strain's case

Jury consideration in the Robert Strain trial was to commence at 10 a.m. today following a two-day hearing to determine the admissibility of certain evidence.

District Court Judge David Wesley Gulley this morning ruled a search warrant used last fall at Strain's residence was legal. He said statements made by Strain when the case broke in August of 1983 were freely and voluntarily given.

Strain's statements, along with those given by most of the 30 witnesses questioned so far, were also found admissible by Gulley. Only testimony from Josie Martinez and Thomasita Martinez would not be accepted, though all others must be determined verifiable and pertinent to the trial.

Thursday's portion of the hearing featured four hours of testimony from Dean Butcher, former sheriff's chief deputy and current candidate for Deaf Smith County sheriff. Butcher was the first member of the local department to arrive at the scene last fall, when more than $100,000 worth of stolen goods were discovered on Strain's property.

Butcher was asked to relate the events of the day the search warrant was issued on the Strain barn.

During District Attorney Roland Saul's questioning, Butcher was asked what he did when he arrived at the Strain farm on the day of the search. Butcher said he greeted Strain and the two walked off to talk. He said he told Strain something to the effect that "it would be better for all concerned if we settle this thing."

Butcher said he did not promise Strain anything. He said one of the Rangers asked him to see if Strain would give a statement. He said he was told that a Ranger had already read Strain his rights.

Butcher said he, Strain and Rangers Warren Yeager and Jim Mull went into Strain's office, where the suspect gave a statement which was typed on a typewriter. Butcher said he was present when the paper was signed. Shelton asked Butcher if he was one of the first officers on the scene when the search warrant was issued. Butcher replied that four Texas Rangers and Terry Colston, investigator for the district attorney's office, were there some minutes before him. He said he heard on his radio that an item had been found that was identified as stolen property.

Asked if he knew what the Rangers had said to Strain before he arrived, Butcher replied that he did not know. Butcher estimated it was about 30 minutes after visiting with Strain that the statement was given. Shelton asked if the statement was given before the Strain house was searched, and Butcher said he believed that it was.

Shelton, during cross-examination, took issue with Butcher's testimony that it would be better for everyone if they just got it over with.

Butcher told Shelton that what he meant by that statement was that if Strain pointed out which items were his own personal property they would not need to remove them from the barn. That, he explained, would make it easier for Strain.

Shelton claimed those remarks constituted undue influence, and Butcher was "holding out illusive help." "Making it easier" on Strain, Shelton quipped, "turned out to be 17 indictments."

Strain was indicted Sept. 1 by a Deaf Smith County grand jury on 17 counts of theft, but only one count is now being tried.

Following Butcher's testimony, attorneys questioned Hereford Police Lieutenant Vernon Hope and Texas Ranger Warren Yeager.

Hope was asked about a .45-caliber handgun he obtained last October as evidence from the burglary of a local business. The gun was among the more than $100,000 worth of items found in Strain's barn last August.

Yeager testified that during the raid, he asked Strain if he would like to give a statement and Strain replied that he would. Yeager said he and Butcher accompanied Strain to his office where the statement was taken. "I typed up the statement, he read it and signed it," Yeager said.

Shelton said the statement should not be admitted as evidence because the officers had executed the warrant in violation of the law. He also contended the arrest was illegal and, "There's no question but what they promised the man it would be easier on him if he cooperated."

Yeager said there was no doubt in his mind that the statement was freely and voluntarily given.

In his closing arguments, Saul said he did not believe any statements made to Strain about things being easier for everyone if he cooperated were in violation of the law. "There was no promise of any benefit," he argued. "It did not affect the voluntariness of his statements."

Saul also took issue with Shelton's repeated objections to admitting statements made by Strain at his farm Aug. 15. Shelton claimed anything Strain said while under arrest should not be quoted in the courtroom.

"I believe his statements and actions at that time were admissible," Saul said. "It is not a violation of miranda to use his statements while under arrest as testimony."

Saul also claimed that the "general rule of law" allows extraneous offenses to be admitted on the basis of intent, knowledge, common scheme or design. A primary reason for the hearing was to determine if similar instances of Strain allegedly purchasing stolen merchandise could be admitted as evidence. Those acts must be proven to have taken place before they can be testified to before the jury.

Shelton summarized his premise during the two-day hearing by saying, "I believe we have properly covered what I perceive to be deficiencies in the search warrant."

Based upon the premise that the search and seizure

Incomplete Senate vote okayed

Kreuger watches counting closely

AUSTIN (AP) — Bob Krueger, unofficial third-place finisher in the Democratic U.S. Senate race, watched closely as the State Democratic Executive Committee collected uncounted votes from at least one county.

"We're just waiting until they get in all the votes and then we'll decide what to do," said Al Schoenbaum, Krueger's campaign manager, when asked about a possible recount.

Kent Hance, who was the No. 1 vote-getter in unofficial returns but dropped to second behind Lloyd Doggett in Thursday's SDEC count, said he would emerge again on top when new results from Dallam County are in.

The governing body of the state Democratic party certified Thursday that Doggett and Hance would be in the runoff according to "official" incomplete returns.

The SDEC said, counting a last minute addition of 1,126 votes from Willacy County but minus a corrected report from Dallam County, that Doggett got 456,018 votes in the May 5 primary. Hance got 455,621 and Krueger 454,568.

Hance told reporters the SDEC reports showed he received only 76 votes in Dallam County when he actually received 806.

"I'll be in first place again tomorrow," Hance said.

The SDEC motion to approve the primary results, approved without opposition, gave State Democratic Chairman Bob Slagle the power to make any changes made necessary by vote counts in counties, after verification by the SDEC.

In other action the state party's 66-member executive committee sidestepped proposals to junk the caucus system of selecting national

Duarte says Nicaragua obstacle

By ALFONSO ANZUELTO
Associated Press Writer
GUATEMALA CITY (AP) — El Salvador's President-elect Jose Napoleon Duarte, en route to a meeting Saturday with President Reagan, accused Nicaragua of impeding peace in Central America by aiding Salvadoran guerrillas. Duarte, a moderate Christian Democrat who takes office June 1, stopped in Honduras and Guatemala on Thursday. He travels to Costa Rica today and Washington on Saturday.

While in Honduras, Duarte said Nicaragua, by aiding leftist rebels fighting the U.S.-backed Salvadoran government, presents a "serious obstacle" but "one which we are willing to confront with serenity and patience" in a quest for regional peace. He did not elaborate on his comments.

Nicaragua's leftist Sandinista junta accused anti-Sandinista rebels based in Costa Rica of attacking three border points, but a Costa Rican security official denied the allegation.

Earlier this week, Nicaragua and Costa Rica signed an agreement calling for a commission to monitor the border and suggest solutions to problems between the two countries.

The Reagan administration says Nicaragua funnels weapons and ammunition to the Salvadoran rebels.

Duarte began his Central American swing in Honduras, which fought a brief war with El Salvador in 1969 over border disputes. Mistrust has lingered between the two countries since then. Nicaragua's Sandinista government has criticized Honduras for allowing a U.S. military buildup there and for letting rebels operate there in their fight to topple the Nicaraguan government.

In Guatemala, Duarte said of Nicaragua: "They have been helping the Salvadoran guerrillas...this is a clear declaration of intervention." Duarte praised U.S. military aid to his country as "valuable and important" but once again ruled out the possibility that U.S. troops would go into combat in El Salvador.

During his stopover here, he met with Chief of State Gen. Oscar Humberto Mejia Victores and other officials.

In Honduras, he met with President Roberto Suazo Cordova and Gen. Walter Lopez Reyes, chief of the armed forces.

At the end of the visit, Suazo Cordova and Duarte announced their intention "to work for the peace and common well-being of Central America, as a task that will require the maximum effort of governments disposed to favor the interests of their peoples."

The Contadora group - Mexico, Venezuela, Panama and Colombia - has been working since January 1983 to establish peace in the region by means of negotiated settlements.

Several goods recovered

Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Department deputies have recovered several goods stolen last month from Cashway Lumber Company, Rt. 2, it was revealed Thursday.

According to Sheriff Joe Brown, there were approximately three Hereford juvenile males involved in the crime, valued at $1,830. Two of the suspects have been confronted, Brown said, and many of the various tools taken are now in his department's possession.

Brown credited Deputy Loy Smith with having directed the investigation.

The theft occurred sometime between 2 p.m. April 28 and 1 p.m. the following day. Included in the loot were two gas-operated chain saws and a circular saw.

Man loses job over gay contest

DALLAS (AP) — Hospital officials say a 24-year-old medical technician was fired after his photograph appeared in two homosexual publications which were mailed anonymously to his supervisor.

Danny White, a pulmonary technician, was fired May 7 by Baylor University Medical Center, which is supported by the Southern Baptist Convention. The center is not affiliated with Baylor University in Waco.

Hospital officials said White's work was satisfactory, but he was fired for "behavior detrimental to the medical center."

Joyce Ross, a spokeswoman for the hospital, said it is against hospital policy to hire homosexuals.

White said Thursday that he was never informed of the policy and had worked at the hospital for four years. He said his photograph appeared in the Metro Times after he won $300 and a trophy for being the most attractive entrant in a contest sponsored by the Dallas Tavern Guild.

Student shoots girlfriend

HOUSTON (AP) — A high school student suspended for fighting with his girlfriend last week returned to the building with a pistol, wounded the girl, then killed himself with a shot through the head, officials said.

Christopher Ross, 18, was pronounced dead at Booker T. Washington High School of a .25-caliber pistol wound Thursday morning.

Shon Carper, 17, was in stable condition at Hermann Hospital early today with a gunshot wound in her side.

Rose Marie Ross said her son was given permission to return to school Thursday after assistant principal Herman Mabrie told him "he and Shon shouldn't have anything to do with each other."

Students said the two fought in a school hallway May 11 and Ross ripped a necklace from Ms. Carper's neck.

Families relieved by identification

HOUSTON (AP) — Preliminary identifications of bodies found aboard an American drilling ship which sank seven months ago have left relatives of the dead grieving but relieved to finally know the truth.

"The unknown is what drove us crazy," Audrey Battiste of St. Elmo, Ala., told the Houston Chronicle on Thursday.

Officials of Global Marine Inc. of Houston told her Wednesday the body of her husband, Gerald, was one of 31 bodies retrieved from the wreckage of the Glomar Java Sea.

"Thank the Lord the body was found," she said.

Dick Vermeer, vice president of the Houston company which owns the ship, said 28 of the 31 bodies recovered have been identified. Those identified include 10 Chinese.

Vermeer refused to release a list of those identified.

Aid package approval predicted

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Reagan administration official predicts the House will approve emergency military aid to El Salvador and undercover assistance to Nicaraguan rebels following the breakdown of negotiations with the Senate on key Central American spending issues.

"It will be a fight, but I think we can do it," William L. Schneider, undersecretary of state for security assistance, said after two days of talks by a House-Senate conference committee ended in disagreement Thursday.

Senate conferees continued to support the $62 million emergency appropriation for El Salvador and the $21 million in spending for the Nicaraguan guerrillas that were approved by the Republican-controlled Senate last month.

Conferees from the Democratic-controlled House, which has not voted to appropriate funds this year for either purpose, refused to go along with the Senate or to strike a compromise.

Reagan loses on nerve gas

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan has persuaded Congress to approve billions of dollars for thousands of weapons as part of his record Pentagon buildup, but he still can't win approval for nerve gas, a weapon he says is "absolutely essential."

The House of Representatives voted 247-179 Thursday to reject a Defense Department request for $95 million in fiscal 1985 to build components for gas bombs and shells.

The vote came as the House worked its way through a huge bill authorizing the Pentagon to spend $285 billion in the fiscal year starting Oct. 1, the fourth year of Reagan's five-year blueprint to "rearm America."

Chemical weaponry is the only major new Reagan program Congress has rejected.

Iraq claims pair of attacks

BAGHDAD (AP) — Iraq said its warplanes today attacked two ships south of Iran's main Persian Gulf oil terminal in the latest of a series of raids — blamed on both Iran and Iraq — that has alarmed governments and oil shippers in the region.

An unidentified military spokesman, reading a communique over Baghdad state radio, said the Iraqi jet-fighters attacked two "big" naval targets south of Kharg Island, set the ships ablaze with "direct and effective hits" and returned safely to base.

The communique did not identify the type or nationality of the ships.

The attacks came a day after the foreign ministers of six Persian Gulf nations decided to seek help from the Arab League and the U.N. Security Council to protect oil tankers from hazards of the 44-month-old Iran-Iraq war.

Madrid returns after visit

MEXICO CITY (AP) — President Miguel de la Madrid Thursday from his first official visit to the United States, saying "the interests of Mexico have been protected."

The president spoke only briefly on arrival at the presidential hangar at Mexico City International Airport at 12:42 p.m. Thursday — 2:42 p.m. EDT — after his four-day trip to Washington.

He said he would make a full report to the nation Friday, including information on his separate visit to Canada from May 6-8 that preceded the trip to Washington.

The president said he was satisfied that a broad range of problems had been discussed in Washington, on international policy as well as U.S.-Mexican issues.

Concerning war

US-aided air force increasing factor

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — The Salvadoran air force has developed with U.S. help from a collection of vintage aircraft at the start of the 4½-year-old civil war to an increasingly active support for the military's beleaguered ground troops.

"They are very good and very professional and have improved tremendously over a short period of time," said a U.S. official with direct knowledge of the air force's inner workings.

The air force's increasingly active role in the war mainly involves providing close-air support for ground troops, conducting reconnaissance and intelligence surveys, ferrying troops to the battle zones and evacuating the wounded.

The pilots, reportedly aided by intelligence gathered from U.S. Air Force aircraft flying over El Salvador from Honduras, have been able to pinpoint guerrilla locations in the countryside.

This, foreign military analysts say, has gone a long way to keeping the guerrillas scattered and on the run, helping to prevent them from massing in recent weeks for major attacks against government forces.

But there also have been repeated accusations by the private, church-linked Human Rights Commission and by the rebels' clandestine radio that pilots have engaged in indiscriminate bombing of towns and villages. These accusations say the bombs have inflicted casualties on civilians, especially the "masas" — those thought to be giving food and support to the rebels.

Many peasants in the countryside talk about their terror at being caught in a bombardment. To many of them, the government and the war is as much represented by aircraft as anything else.

Leftist guerrillas once showed an Associated Press reporter bomb shelters dug into a hillside in an area they controlled. Asked how many people fit into one crude dirt shelter, they replied jokingly: "10 — 50 when the bombs are falling."

U.S. officials deny the aircraft engage in indiscriminate bombing. They say any air strike near a populated area must first be approved by the Salvadoran air force chief of staff or the Defense Ministry.

But they acknowledge that civilians have been killed by aerial bombardments.

In perhaps the most dramatic recent incident, dozens of civilians were killed at the central town of Tenancingo when planes came to the aid of a ground unit last fall.

"There is no plan to go out and drop bombs, shoot at, otherwise do terrible things to non-combatants. Do non-combatants get hit? Yes, they do and there are a variety of reasons for that," said one knowledgeable Western observer, who spoke on condition he not be further identified.

U.S. officials also said no American personnel have flown on combat missions in Salvadoran aircraft. The United States currently has 88 military personnel in El Salvador, including 50 serving as trainers.

Salvadoran Defense Ministry officials refused repeated requests to talk about the air force.

Most of the aircraft used by the Salvadoran air force has been donated by the United States and most of the pilots have been trained by U.S. military personnel.

The mainstay aircraft is the A-37 "Dragonfly" attack plane, which carries a 7.62mm mini-gun in the nose and up to four bombs under each wing.

Currently there are 55 qualified pilots in the 1,500-man air force, which includes a 500-member paratrooper battalion. The rest of the personnel are ground maintenance crews and administrative support, U.S. officials said.

U.S. officials estimate the air force inventory includes six A-37s, six Ourgans jet trainers, 21 Huey UH-1H helicopters, two Hughes 500 helicopters, five O-2 spotter planes, four UH-1H medevac helicopters, one C-123 transport plane and three vintage C-47 cargo planes, which were used as gunships in the Vietnam War.

Additionally, the air force has Arava cargo planes, Fouga jet trainers and a DC-6 cargo plane, Alhouth and Lama helicopters. U.S. officials said they did not have specific figures on those aircraft.

Texans are generally optimistic about the present and future, Franckle said.

The answers do not add up to 100 percent because some of the Texans interviewed were uncertain or did not answer.

Texans also were asked if they felt they would be in better or worse financial condition in the next year; whether business conditions would be better or worse in the next 12 months; whether the state was likely to have continuous good times or bad times during the next five years; and whether now is a good or bad time to buy such major

About economy

Index tells how Texans feel

HOUSTON (AP) — A Houston-based bank holding company's first statewide consumer confidence index shows Texans are not as confident about the state's economy as the average American feels about the national economy.

First City Bancorporation's initial index, released Thursday, was based on a survey of 1,008 Texans, who were asked the same five questions contained in the national consumer index compiled by the University of Michigan.

The bank's first report produced an index of 99.5 for March, compared with 101.0 for the national outlook for the same month.

First City officials expected the opposite.

"The difference is minimal but I would have expected it to be the other way around," Charles T. Franckle, First City vice president and chief convention delegates.

Rep. Al Edwards, D-Houston, state coordinator for the Rev. Jesse Jackson, complained that the caucus system caused "many, many irregularities" unfavorable to his candidate.

Slagle said he had agreed with Edwards to work in the county and state conventions to give Jackson his share of representation in Texas delegation to the national convention.

Mel Phillips, of Amarillo, the chairman of the Texas Democratic County Chairmen's Association, presented a resolution asking the SDEC to abandon the caucus system in favor of a binding presidential primary.

Ed Miller, of Texarkana, offered a substitute motion, supported by Slagle, authorizing the chairman to appoint a commission, after the November general election, to recommend changes in the caucus system.

Slagle said he would appoint Edwards and U.S. Rep. Martin Frost — state coordinator for Gary Hart — and a leader in the Walter Mondale campaign.

"I support the presidential primary but now is not the time to make a change," said Millie Bruner, Dallas, a member of the National Democratic Committee. "It could affect our September state convention and it could affect the November election."

was illegal," he continued, "none of the officers' testimony would be admissible as evidence."

Shelton further claimed that testimony about what the officers saw and pictures taken of the merchandise should be inadmissible "if the search and seizure were illegal."

Shelton pointed out part of Butcher's testimony, during which it was discovered that Butcher still possesses a key to the evidence, now stored in a building east of the courthouse. The defense attorney said that represented a discrepancy in the "chain of custody" of the evidence. He also said that since Butcher resigned as a sheriff's deputy on Feb. 6, he is now a private citizen and not authorized to have that key.

Shelton also complained some of the stolen goods have already been returned to their owners, and that pictures were introduced as evidence during the trial rather than the items themselves.

"There's no testimony that anyone who sold him the stuff told him it was stolen," Shelton said in conclusion. "I know that the law intended for the extraneous offenses to be admitted as evidence. But I'm saying they're inadmissible because of the unlawful search and seizure."

The five-woman, seven-man jury was to report at 10:00 this morning.

Statistics startling

Surely nothing could be worse than wanton misuse of a child, yet we are told that predatory pedophiles are everywhere now.

We're told one-in-five girls and one-in-ten boys is sexually molested before the age of 18.

Were the closed doors of any neighborhood suddenly to be flung open — that all those unheard cries might be heard — it would be more than you or I could stand.

The holocaust is with us yet as savage humans ravage their own.

The May issue of the American Journal of Psychiatry includes a research report stating that, "Children who are exploited by pornographers or sex rings develop severe and long-lasting psychological problems."

That finding took research? The recent National Conference on Sexual Victimization of Children heard some similarly vapid pronouncements: "Pedophiles are usually naturally attracted to jobs where they have close contact with children."

If anything constructive came out of that conference it was of an increased acknowledgment that the several agencies which are supposed to be helping abused children — haven't much.

Therapeutic agencies, police, placement services, child protection agencies and the courts must share a collective blame for inaction.

Meanwhile, the problem compounds itself. Child abuse begets child abuse.

Henry Lawson of Los Angeles confessed sexually molesting two nursery school children — including his own 3-year-old son.

Lawson remembers that he, as a child, was molested.

Senator Paula Hawkins, with ugly recollections of her own childhood, says, "We should shackle child molesters hand and foot and put them on public display so every town would know for whom to look out!"

There may have been merit to shackles and stocks and public whippings in colonial America — but today's misanthrope is likely merely to move on to another town, outdistancing his reputation, and start over.

After each heinous sex crime I hear from many who urge castration. There are more than a few bumper stickers going around reading, "DISARM RAPISTS."

Yet, sociologists insist that such crime is motivated less by sex than by sadism and that amputation of the offending organ might create more problems than it solves.

Sweden hastily drew up and passed such rigid protective legislation that "spanking" is illegal.

Now a boy, age 11, who was switched with a birch branch, is suing his parents — and under Swedish law they could be sent to prison.

Ann Landers Parents at fault

DEAR ANN LANDERS:

Can you stand one more letter about children misbehaving in eating establishments? I applaud the South Bend restaurant owner for barring those parents. It's about time management fought back.

Here are a few observations by a person who has worked in restaurants for many years:

1. Children running into waiters and waitresses
2. Children standing on tables and chairs
3. All the condiments on the table being used to amuse the child, who emptied the salt, pepper, sugar or whatever on the table or floor
4. Parents sitting and talking for an hour or more while youngsters were left to amuse themselves with whatever was handy.
5. Children exploring the bathrooms (water and toilet tissue everywhere)
6. Children getting spankings at the table then left to scream it out
7. A child who misbehaved locked in a car while the parents ate

How much of this would you take if you were the restaurant owner or manager?—Disillusioned in Springfield

DEAR SPRINGFIELD: Probably not much, but I repeat — it's not the children who are at fault, it's the parents. When will they learn that discipline is love?

Permissiveness is the coward's way out. Appeasing an unruly youngster is a lot easier than taking command of the situation and insisting on acceptable behavior.

Too many parents are afraid of their children, and it shows. When kids run the show the results are disastrous. They are insecure, unsure, praying for a wiser, more experienced hand to take over. When no such hand appears, the cocky but terrified youngster plunges headlong into trouble and then blames the parent. More than one unhappy child has asked, "Why did you let me?"

Wake up and smell the coffee, folks. The responsibility to call the shots is yours. Accept it or suffer the consequences.

DEAR ANN: This letter was sparked by the person in Vermont who was bird-watching on the roadside. She was asked by three strangers if she needed help.

When I was stationed in Maine in the '60s, doing military service, I found the local townsfolk were extremely polite and helpful.

Also, state police and local police not only treated all people with respect, but they went out of their way to help solve problems of malfunctioning cars.

When I returned to the New York City area, the courteous or helpful police officer was a rare breed. I'm 20 years late, but I want to thank all the people up there for being such good samaritans.—State of N.J.

DEAR N.J.: Too bad it took so long, but I'm sure those lovely folks in Maine will forgive you for your tardiness.

Confidential to Need to Know How to Act (Waltham, Mass.): Don't act. Be yourself. No one is better qualified.

There is a big different between cold and cool. Ann Landers shows you how to play it cool without freezing people out in her booklet, "Teen-Age Sex-Ten Ways to Cool It." Send 50 cents and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Voice recital slated Sunday

Students from Joe Ella Cansler's studio will present a voice recital at 2:30 p.m. Sunday in the First Christian church fellowship hall.

Preparations underway for Jubilee of Arts activities

Jolene Bledsoe gave a report on the upcoming Jubilee of Arts when members of the Hereford Fine Arts Association met Tuesday evening in the art room of the Community Center. President June Owens conducted the meeting.

The Jubilee of Arts, to be held in August in connection with the Hereford Town and Country Jubilee, is a showing and sale of art work by artists from the local area and beyond.

The association voted to continue the tradition of giving away a selected painting by a local artist. Jean Lyles was chosen as this year's feature artist. Second prize for this activity will be a porcelain doll made by Mary Aguirre and third prize will be a $25 gift certificate from the Texas Art Gallery.

Mrs. Lyles, Shirley Wyssman and Ms. Aguirre have just returned from the National Tole Convention in Albuquerque, N.M., where they attended classes and demonstrations given by many of the top artists in the field of decorative painting. Mrs. Lyles, who gave a report of the trip, had been invited to teach two such classes.

The Tole Society began in Amarillo some 12 years ago with only 22 members. With no advertising, the society has grown by word of mouth and over 2,200 people were registered at this year's annual convention. Over 400 booths were set up to display wares from both wholesale and retail.

Gayla Kimball, art instructor at Hereford High School, introduced the recipient of the Hereford Fine Art Association Scholarship for 1984, Benjamin Morales. Morales is a talented young artist with great potential. He has shown his work in a number of competitions, his latest being in New York in a national competition where he received honorable mention from a field of 150,000 artists.

He is currently entered in competition at Western Plaza in Amarillo where his work will be displayed until May 21. His brother, Martin, accompanied him to the meeting.

An informative program on machine embroidery was presented by June Owens. Mrs. Owen had several pieces of her work on display including a memory quilt made in celebration of her parents' golden wedding anniversary. Details for making a point-ta tablecloth, also on display, were given.

Intricate details on the type of materials, trends and patterns were introduced and a demonstration on embroidering strawberries on muslin was given by Mrs. Owens using her Bernina sewing machine. Her advice on doing top quality work was to use top quality materials.

Refreshments from a meat and cheese tray, along with cookies, were served by Ms. Kimball and Mary Hamby to those already mentioned and Gary Hammett, Euman Lyles, Louella Cowser, Venita Wear, Melba Dillard, Linda Minchew and Ruby Hickman.

Colonial rated difficult

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Let's say you've been tendered an invitation to the exclusive Colonial National Invitational Golf Tournament for the first time.

Imagine your surprise when you get a car, free lodging if you need it, three meals a day, and a babysitting service.

While Junior is being watched, your wife is taken on shopping trips and you're wined and dined like you're part of an exclusive family.

Then there's the legendary course you get to play for the chance to win a $90,000 first-place prize.

It's annually rated as one of the Top Ten toughest on the Professional Golfers Association Tour. Ben Hogan played here, remember. They call it "Hogan's Alley."

Hogan won five times, but the names of the other champions emblazoned in bronze on the first tee comprise a virtual golf honor roll.

There's Jack Nicklaus, Sam Snead, Gene Littler, Arnold Palmer, Julius Boros, Billy Casper, Ben Crenshaw and Lee Trevino.

Sure, you're impressed.

Then you get to play a practice round on immaculate greens over a beautiful, eye-pleasing layout. You agree that the 445-yard dogleg right No. 5 should be ranked in the toughest 18 holes in America by Golf Digest, which it was and is.

The galleries are warm and friendly. The clubhouse man is waiting with snacks and a cool one and a rubdown and a whirlpool.

Yes, this is a professional golfer's heaven.

Of all the stops on the Professional Golfers Association tour through Texas, this is the one that rates the most raves.

The Houston Open is played on an average course without a big name field.

There's Neiman-Marcus in Dallas and Byron Nelson, but how about those mangy looking fairways at Los Colinas Sports Club? The facility is nice, but the course still has a prairie pallor.

The hospitality is excellent and the course challenging in Abilene, but tradition is only ankle-high at the LaJet-Coors Classic.

The Texas Open in San Antonio is the oldest on the PGA Tour and the crowds are friendly, but can't fight the magic of Colonial.

"It's the best Texas golf course and in the top five in the country," said Tom Kite.

"It's always been one of my favorite courses," said Tom Watson.

"This golf course is too good to miss," said Craig Stadler.

"I've won eight tournaments but this is the one I'll carry to the grave," said Jim Colbert.

"There's nothing about Colonial I don't like," said Charles Coody.

And do the golfers' wives love it?

"Colonial is different. It's special," said Donna Koch, wife of Gary Koch. "This is the one you want to go to if you don't go to another."

Tournament chairman Paul Cato said no request by a pro is considered too small.

"If we can do it we'll bust our rear to do it," he said.

For example, former champion Dave Stockton had to fly out of Dallas to California last week on business.

"We cleaned his locker out and picked up his clubs and had them waiting for him when he flew back to Texas Wednesday for the Pro-Am," said Cato. "We're glad to do those kind of things."

Cato said the key to Colonial's success is the invitational status.

"We're able to do more for them because there are less people," he said. "We have 102 here instead of 156 like it is on a normal tour stop. We can make it kind of a family situation."

Cato said all the earnings the NIT generates "go back into the golf course. The course is really the No. 1 reason why they come. If you ask them, the first answer you get from a pro is he likes to play the course."

Colonial annually draws some 100,000 fans for a week of play, and the profits can be huge.

The Masters in Augusta, Ga., and Colonial are the only two tournaments on the PGA Tour that do not have a sponsor and are not tied to a charity. At Augusta, all the profits are plowed back into the course.

"Colonial has become the model of how to run a tournament," said Coody, a former Masters champion. "This tournament is treasured by me and others on the tour."

Tom Place, who oversees the press tents for the PGA on the tour, said, "The hospitality is unbelievable for the players. Colonial was the first to have a nursery. It's a week off for the wives. A lot of players go where the wife says. They all want to come to Colonial."

Javelin pierces woman athlete

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) — A javelin struck a woman competitor and imbedded itself in her chest during warmups for the National Junior Collegiate Athletic Association's Track and Field championships Thursday.

Kathy McPeak, a sophomore from Bismarck Junior College, was hit as she sat on the infield at Angelo State University's sports complex, according to Bismarck Coach Cynthia Graham. McPeak, of Wing, N.D., was expected to be well enough to travel home on Saturday, Graham said.

The javelin was thrown by a teammate who was walking toward her and taking short warmup throws, Graham said. The final toss, however, failed to stick in the ground. Instead it bounced off the rain-slickened grass and imbedded itself in McPeak.

Wiggins ties theft mark

By DAVE GOLDBERG AP Sports Writer

To Alan Wiggins, stealing bases is just a matter of being hot, hot enough to finally send the San Diego Padres' seven-game losing streak up in smoke.

Wiggins, stole five bases Thursday, the last of which led to the run that allowed the Padres to beat the Montreal Expos 5-4. The five pilfers tied a National League record held by three other players.

"Stolen bases come in streaks," said Wiggins, who leads the league with 24 steals. "For some reason, you get that aggressive attitude. You take extra chances, but it's worth it."

With the game tied 4-4 and two out in the bottom of the eighth, Wiggins was walked by reliever Andy McGaffigan, the last of 10 walks surrendered by Expos pitchers. He stole second, wound up on third when catcher Bobby Ramos' throw sailed into center field and scored when Tony Gwynn beat out an infield hit.

There were only two other National League games Thursday. The Cincinnati Reds beat the Chicago Cubs 5-3 and the Atlanta Braves downed the St. Louis Cardinals 5-3.

Wiggins, who fell one short of the single-game major league record of six stolen bases set in 1912 by Eddie Collins of the Philadelphia Athletics, didn't blame Ramos for his spree.

"Their pitchers didn't do a good job of holding runners on," he said. "Every throw he made was right there except one."

The record equaled the achievements of Dennis McGann of the New York Giants in 1904, Davey Lopes of Los Angeles in 1974 and Lonnie Smith of St. Louis in 1982.

Reds 5, Cubs 3
Mario Soto, who allowed only one hit in his last start and held the St. Louis Cardinals hitless until there were two out in the ninth, allowed only three hits to the Cubs and became only the seventh Cincinnati pitcher to reach the 1,000-strikeout mark.

"When I'm going good, I'm going real good," said Soto, who is now 6-1.

"Soto's a tough customer, no question about it," said Manager Jim Frey of the Cubs, who had pounded three homers and 24 hits to score 16 runs in the first two games of the series.

The Reds, who had 16 hits but left 12 runners stranded, ended a three-game losing streak.

Braves 7, Cards 2

Pascual Perez celebrated his 27th birthday by throwing a seven-hitter to post his third win in three decisions since returning from the suspension imposed for his drug conviction in the Dominican Republic.

Rafael Ramirez drove in three runs with a sacrifice fly and two-run triple and Glenn Hubbard smacked a two-run homer for the Braves, who had 13 hits to salvage the third game of their three-game series.

Swiss try to persuade Soviets to compete

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP) — The Soviet Union's top Olympic official, here for an emergency meeting of the International Olympic Committee, said today Moscow would not reverse its decision to boycott the Summer Olympics in Los Angeles.

Marat Gramov, president of the Soviet Olympic Committee, told reporters: "The decision is final."

Gramov conferred for more than an hour Thursday with Peter V. Ueberroth, president of the Los Angeles Olympic Organizing Committee, but the meeting apparently made no progress toward any change in the Soviet position.

Ueberroth told reporters: "It would be misleading to suggest that we came even an inch closer to a solution."

With little real hope, the president of the International Olympic Committee, Juan Antonio Samaranch of Spain, began a last-ditch effort today to persuade the Soviet Union to reverse its decision.

Samaranch opened a one-day emergency meeting of the IOC's nine-member executive board at the IOC headquarters here to discuss the situation, only two weeks before the deadline for Olympic entries expires. The top American and Soviet Olympic officials were to meet separately and with the board later in the day.

Ueberroth and Gramov met face-to-face Thursday for the first time since the Soviet Union announced its boycott on May 8, later followed by nine other Soviet bloc nations.

Int. Pastor: Ruben Flores

Our blessings that have come to pass.
We tend to disregard;
Because we see the greenest grass
In someone else's yard.
The magic thing we call success
Eludes us, come what may,
And thus it seems that happiness
Will never come our way.
However, through the Church we find
That there's no need to roam,
For happiness and peace of mind
Are always close to home.
So, don't go searching all around,
And some day you'll agree:
The greenest grass of all is found Wherever you may be!

— Gloria Nowak
