

Repository study may boost economy

Says committee

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — A proposal that a nuclear waste dump be located near Hereford has evoked bitter opposition, but initial studies indicate the proposal would be safe and also provide a major boost to the area economy, a committee of area civic and business leaders concluded.

Wayne Sturdivant, chairman of the committee, recommended during a news conference Wednesday that the Department of Energy proceed with a site characterization phase of the project to select the nation's first high-level nuclear waste depository.

The report doesn't constitute an endorsement of a nuclear dump in Deaf Smith County, only a realization that the site characterization phase will occur despite how state or local officials feel.

The committee released a study, in progress since mid-1985 and sponsored by the chambers of commerce in Amarillo and Hereford, the Amarillo Hispanic Chamber of Commerce, West Texas State University, and Amarillo College.

Sturdivant's report drew criticism from opponents of a nuclear waste dump in the Panhandle.

Wayne Richardson, who operates a multimillion dollar seed company adjacent to the proposed site in northern Deaf Smith County, about 35 miles west of Amarillo, complained that the committee "swallowed the line" from federal officials trying to sell the area on the repository.

"It will be a devastating blow to this area out here," Richardson said, referring to the prospects of a dump in the Panhandle. "There will be billions lost."

Committee members concluded the nuclear waste repository would have positive effects on the beleaguered Panhandle economy. Estimates of the annual impact range from $116 million to $227 million, making the dump one of the largest economic activities in the region.

Richardson and others reacted angrily Wednesday in response to a move by the Amarillo chamber to accept a committee study supporting the DOE's consideration of conducting site characterization tests at a 9-square mile site south of Interstate 40 near Vega.

Vega is along the southern edge of Oldham County. The town is 35 miles west of Amarillo and 30 miles north of Hereford, the seat of Deaf Smith County.

"In our opinion, the DOE and the federal government already have decided to test the Deaf Smith County site regardless of local or state opinion," the report said. The DOE is expected to announce where it will conduct characterization in April.

"What we should be discussing is, if we are going to be the site, we should work together to see that the impact of it is favorable and not negative," Sturdivant said.

George Drain, chairman of Serious Texans Against Nuclear Dumping (STAND), said opponents of the dump aren't basing their opposition strictly on fear, but on well-founded doubts about technology to be used in the dump.

In Austin, Steve Frishman, of the governor's nuclear waste programs office, took issue with the chamber and its belief the DOE should go ahead with site characterization at the Deaf Smith site before the federal agency has announced such an avenue.

Frishman said technical information in his office shows the Deaf Smith site isn't suitable for locating the dump.

Angela Lamb, spokesman for the Texas Department of Agriculture in Amarillo, said the state's No. 1 agriculture-producing county is in danger with the prospects of the dump. Deaf Smith generates $400 million annually directly from agriculture, plus more from agriculture-related businesses.

Committee members concluded that unanswered questions about the location would be answered only through the characterization process and listed 12 assurances it was seeking.

Contras say Sandinistas cornered inside Honduras and will not escape

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP) — Anti-Sandinista rebels claimed to have surrounded up to 1,500 Nicaraguan soldiers in southern Honduras and said they could foil any attempt to break the encirclement and retreat back across the border.

On Wednesday, U.S. military helicopters ferried about 600 Honduran soldiers to the remote area to join another 3,000 Honduran troops near the border. Honduras has said its soldiers are not directly involved in the fighting.

A U.S. Embassy official, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said no further flights were contemplated.

Nicaragua's leftist Sandinista government denies sending any soldiers onto the territory of its northern neighbor, and claims the reports of an incursion are designed to promote the Reagan administration's campaign in Congress to allocate $100 million in aid to the Contras.

Accounts of the fighting could not be verified independently. Honduran military sources said soldiers were ordered to keep journalists out of the area.

However, Honduran military intelligence sources who spoke on condition of anonymity said Wednesday that the Contras had killed 200 Sandinista troops and wounded 150 others since full-scale fighting broke out Saturday.

One military source said Wednesday that "very important things could happen tomorrow in favor of the Contras and harmful to the invading army." He did not elaborate.

Frank Arana, a spokesman for the largest Contra group, the Nicaraguan Democratic Front, said in Tegucigalpa, "Everything is under control. The invaders are not going to return to Nicaragua. Our troops have them surrounded." He also refused to elaborate.

U.S. officials in Tegucigalpa said 14 helicopters from Palmerola air base, 50 miles northwest of the Honduran capital, airlifted infantry and artillery units to the "Las Vegas salient" on Wednesday. The previous day, Honduran helicopters transported about 3,000 soldiers to the border area.

The triangular-shaped wedge juts into Nicaragua about 120 miles east of Tegucigalpa. The region has long been the site of a major camp of the U.S.-backed Contras, who use it as a base for raids into Nicaragua.

U.S. officials said four unarmed Huey and 10 Chinook helicopters of U.S. Task Force Bravo took part in the airlift. The U.S. task force of about 1,200 men is based at Palmerola.

Each Chinook was manned by five U.S. servicemen and was capable of carrying up to 30 soldiers. Hueys have three crewmen each and carry about five passengers.

The airlift represented an escalation of U.S. military involvement in Honduras, where U.S. forces hold almost continuous training exercises with Honduran units. President Reagan approved $20 million in emergency aid to Honduras on Tuesday to help it deal with the reported incursion.

Honduran military sources have said 1,500 Sandinistas crossed the frontier on Saturday in pursuit of the Contras and were trapped inside Honduras by rebels who cut off their

Senate rejects blanket aid ban

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate today rejected a blanket ban on aid for the Contra rebels fighting Nicaragua's leftist government.

The Senate voted down, 74-24, a proposal by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., that would have forbidden U.S. assistance and thus would have effectively scuttled President Reagan's proposed package of $100 million in aid to the rebels.

The vote in the Republican-controlled Senate was the first on a number of amendments expected to be offered to the proposal, which was the final major item on the chamber's agenda before its Easter recess.

Other pending amendments would modify the package by requiring U.S.-Nicaraguan peace talks or by delaying release of the aid until another congressional vote is taken.

Kennedy told his colleagues the U.S. aid should be halted because "we are moving closer and closer to direct military involvement" in the fight against Nicaragua's Sandinista government.

But Sen. David Durenberger, R-Minn., opposed the Kennedy proposal, arguing that it would rule out even non-lethal aid to the Contras and thus would "end the means by which we could achieve a negotiated solution" to the impasse.

In New Orleans, Reagan said the Nicaraguan incursion into neighboring Honduras was "a slap in the face" to House members who voted down his aid plan last week in hopes the action would be taken as an attempt at reconciliation.

Reagan, on his way to California for an Easter vacation, said, "this military drive demonstrates the nature of the Nicaraguan regime."

Earlier today, both sides said they were still trying to work out a bipartisan compromise that would give Reagan a strong vote of approval for his package.

Although attempts to work out a compromise broke down Wednesday, "the lines of communication are still open and we are trying to work

Anti-American posters were tacked up at the airport. One showed a figure with headgear resembling that of the Statue of Liberty, its arms filled with an American flag and missiles with the Star of David on them. A black man and an American Indian were shown spiked on Liberty's pointed crown.

No new action was reported in the Gulf of Sidra, where the U.S. 6th fleet remained on alert after its warplanes hit at least four Libyan patrol boats and a shore installation Monday and Tuesday.

U.S. officials said the attacks were in response to at least six Libyan missiles fired at U.S. planes.

The 6th fleet commander said Wednesday that the Libyan attack had provided valuable information about a part of the Soviet arsenal of the U.S. military has never seen in combat.

Libya is one of the Soviet Union's main allies in the Middle East. Vice Adv. Frank B. Kelso, aboard the Saratoga, told reporters it was the first time that American-piloted jets had been fired on by SA-5s, relatively old surface-to-air missiles that are still a mainstay of Soviet air defenses.

Libyan radio, monitored by the British Broadcasting Corp. in London, urged Arabs of all countries to transform themselves "into suicide squads and into human bombs, missiles and aircraft to deter and resist terrorism and destroy it for good."

"Oh heroes of our Arab nation, let your missiles and suicide cells pursue American terrorist embassies and interests wherever they may be," which Libya radio claimed spy on Arab people and plunder their wealth.

Prime Minister Carmelo Bonnici of Malta visited Tripoli to meet Khadafy, according to Maltese and Libyan official reports.

"We, Mediterranean states, have to understand that we are on the edge of a precipice and if we do not move back, we will throw our peoples into serious trouble," he was quoted as saying on his return home.

Wreck victim critical

Lester Franklin Carter, 56, of Hereford, was reported to be in critical but stable condition Thursday morning at Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo following a wreck Tuesday near Amarillo. A hospital spokeswoman said that Carter suffered a broken neck in the accident. The hospital official also stated that Carter is conscious and talking with family members.

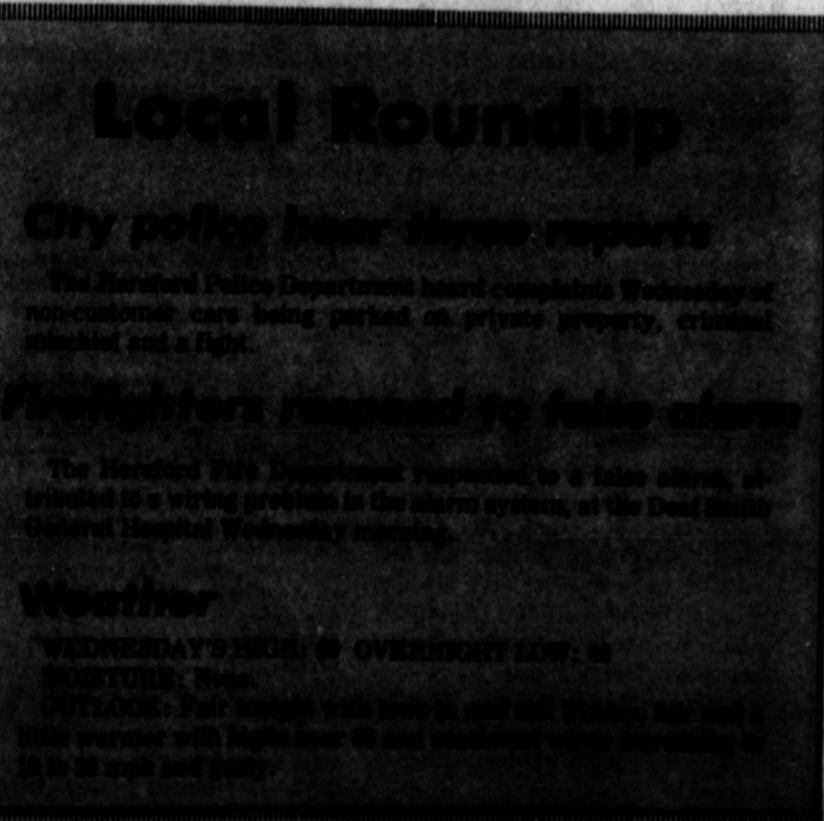

A Borger teenager was killed in the collision, which threatened explosion and fire when nearly 7,000 gallons of gasoline were spilled at Highway 60 and Farm Road 1912 near Amarillo.

Liability insurance hearings promised

AUSTIN (AP) — Attorney General Jim Mattox, saying he is disappointed that the State Board of Insurance won't hold special public hearings on liability insurance, says he will launch a probe on his own.

"Since the State Board of Insurance will not use its statutory authority to get to the bottom of this, my office will use every power within our authority to do this job," Mattox said Wednesday in an exchange of letters with board chairman Lyndon Olson.

Olson told Mattox earlier that the board had no immediate plans for a special hearing because the board had no specific information about state law violations in the insurance industry.

"The State Board of Insurance is proceeding in accord with our best judgment and within the constraints of our authority to seek solutions to today's liability insurance problems and to assist Texas consumers in finding coverage," Olson said in answer to Mattox's March 7 and 19 letters asking for the hearing. "We believe we are moving properly and successfully."

Mattox said he asked for the special hearing because "our citizens who own small businesses, our local government officials and local taxpayers, our professionals such as ministers and corporation officers are confused and suspicious about why they suddenly cannot obtain liability coverage or, if they can, their rates are double or triple what they paid last year — even though they've had no claims filed against them."

Goddess of Liberty is in small town

RHOME, Texas (AP) — Bravo Walker moved to this rural town northwest of Dallas and converted an old cotton gin into his art foundry, his refuge to sculpt and escape.

But these days he is drawing distracting crowds.

The Goddess of Liberty is occupying his already storied American Art Foundry, and the folks in this town of less than 500 situated off Texas Highway 114 are visiting with the open-eyed vigor of tourists.

"It's the biggest thing that has happened here," said Walker, who is making master molds from the old Goddess for the casting of an aluminum replica. "We've had so many people come by here — from the banker to the man who owns the grocery store. They really want to see it."

The replica is expected to be airlifted to the top of the Texas Capitol on May 31.

Today, they would see the weather- and time-worn Goddess scattered in about 100 large pieces throughout Walker's studio.

They would see, on any day, a crew of two to seven people using shells of clay, plaster and rubber to develop a perfect likeness of each section. They would see the workers paint layers and layers of wax until the appropriate thickness of the statue panel is achieved.

"We want to make the maximum structure, so we won't have to do it in another 100 years," said Patrick Rice, vice president and general manager of Washington University Technology Associates, a restoration engineering firm assigned to the project.

Soviet girl aims to promote peace

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Soviet schoolgirl, continuing her United States peace trip, planned to visit the White House and tour the sights of the capital city that she said made her think of Moscow.

Katerina Lycheva, 11, told the District of Columbia City Council on Wednesday that she was enjoying her U.S. reception and hoped her efforts at promoting world peace would have some effect.

"I appreciate it very much. I've been made so welcome here. People here are very kind," the slim, fair-haired girl said, with the help of an interpreter.

"I do hope this trip is not going to be vain," she added.

Air Force wants more rockets

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force wants additional rockets to launch satellites and a replacement for space shuttle Challenger to meet a backlog that in one to two years could total 10 to 21 satellites the service says are essential to national security.

"The near-term impact on the Department of Defense is severe if the orbiter fleet is down for a year," Edward C. Aldridge, the Air Force's top space official, said Wednesday. "There is no recovery option that will mitigate this impact within the next two years."

Aldridge, testifying before two Senate subcommittees, said decisions must be made immediately "to minimize the negative long-term impacts of the orbiter loss."

The Air Force has had 10 expendable launch vehicles (ELVs) on order since last year when it convinced Congress that the nation could not afford to rely on only one launch system — the shuttle.

Schools asked not to use meat

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — U.S. Agriculture Department officials have asked Arkansas schools not to use about 2,100 cases of meat until they are certified free of contamination by the banned pesticide heptachlor.

The Agriculture Department has found such contamination in slaughterhouses supplying food processors where the ground meat patties were bought in January, John Naylor, spokesman for the Arkansas Department of Human Services, said Wednesday.

He said he didn't know if any contaminated meat has been eaten by Arkansas children.

The Agriculture Department is testing meat at slaughterhouses after heptachlor, which was banned in 1963 when it was linked to cancer, was found in thousands of gallons of recalled dairy products.

Officials say Valley Feeds of Van Buren sold heptachlor-tainted feed to dairy farmers in Arkansas, Oklahoma and Missouri.

Israelis attack Palestinian camp

SIDON, Lebanon (AP) — Israeli jets attacked Palestinian refugee camps outside Sidon today, killing 10 people and wounding 22, police said. The attack came shortly after a rocket exploded in an Israeli town near the Lebanese border.

Guerrillas in the Ein el-Hilweh and Mieh-Mieh refugee camps and the nearby hilltop village of Siroubieh unleashed barrages of shoulder-fired SAM-7 anti-aircraft missile at the Israeli fighter-bombers.

The planes released scarlet hot-air balloons to deflect the Soviet-made heat-seeking missiles.

Police said no hits were reported on the four planes that made six attack runs firing rockets on the three targets. Israel's military command reported all planes returned safely to their base.

Israel's military command said the air strike was launched 1½ hours after a Soviet-made Katyusha rocket fired from southern Lebanon hit a school yard in the northern Israeli town of Kiryat Shmona.

Public hearings to be held

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Farm Credit Administration plans to hold public hearings this spring on a request by the Amarillo (Texas) Production Credit Association to voluntarily liquidate and reopen as a mutual loan corporation.

Officials said Tuesday that if the request is approved, the association's federal charter would be surrendered. The PCA then plans to reopen under Texas law as Amarillo Agricultural Credit Inc.

"It would conduct credit operations beyond the 12 counties in the northwestern corner of Texas it is now chartered to serve," the Farm Credit Administration said. "Its assets and liabilities would be transferred to the new corporation, and stockholders would exchange their PCA stock for stock in the new corporation."

The production credit associations, or PCAs, are the grassroots lending units of the Farm Credit System, a nationwide 27-bank network that holds about $70 billion of the nation's $212 billion farm debt. The PCAs handle short-term operating loans to farmers, while federal land banks provide long-term real estate loans, for example.

Overall, the system lost $2.69 billion in 1985, the first annual deficit since the Depression. In a rescue package, Congress created a new Farm Credit System Capital Corp. to centralize and handle financial aid for the worst-off banks.

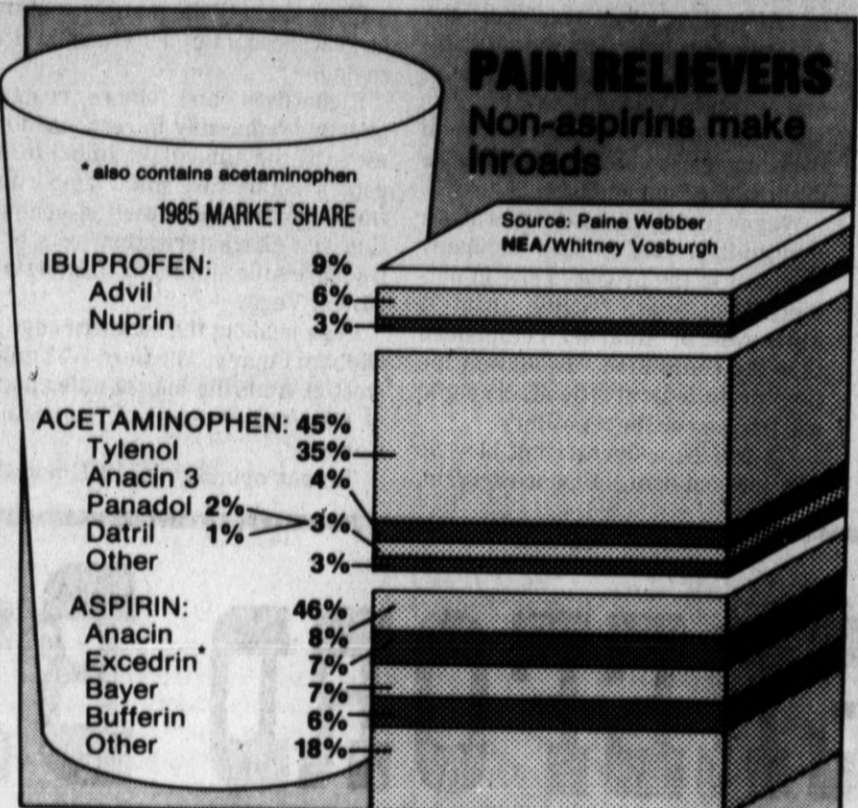

According to the FCA, the federal agency which oversees the system, the public hearings have been scheduled on the Amarillo unit's request because of the far-ranging implications involved, nationwide as well as in Texas.

The Amarillo PCA says it wants out of the system "to avoid the negative effect" it believes would result from an assessment by the Farm Credit System Capital Corp., which was given the authority to require strong institutions in the system to financially aid weaker ones.

Hearings have been scheduled for April 30 in Dallas; May 14 in Denver; and June 10 in Washington, D.C.

Before this year's package-tampering incidents, Tylenol had the largest market share of any pain reliever, and it's expected to retain that lead. However, ibuprofen has made inroads since 1984, when it first became available without a prescription.

Miniseries helps CBS tie NBC

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS fired an air ball with its prime-time college basketball, but some strong plays by its miniseries, "If Tomorrow Comes," enabled the network to tie NBC in the weekly ratings.

NCAA Tournament basketball games finished 52nd on Friday and 62nd on Thursday out of 65 prime-time programs last week, but Sidney Sheldon's "If Tomorrow Comes" picked up the slack. Part 2 of the miniseries ranked sixth and Part 3 was 12th, according to A.C. Nielsen Co. figures released Tuesday.

For the week of March 17-23, CBS and NBC averaged 16.2 ratings, while ABC had a 14.3. After 26 weeks in the 30-week prime-time season, NBC leads with an average rating of 17.8 to CBS' 16.8 and ABC's 15.0.

A national ratings point equals 859,000 homes with television.

NBC had four shows in the Top 10, all from its popular Thursday comedy block. "The Cosby Show" was first with a 36.4 rating and the debut of "All Is Forgiven" finished seventh. "Family Ties" was second and "Cheers" third.

CBS placed three shows in the Top 10: "60 Minutes" in fifth, Part 2 of "If Tomorrow Comes," in sixth, and its Sunday movie, "Dallas: The Early Years," in a tie for ninth with ABC's "Dynasty." ABC also scored with its Tuesday comedies: "Who's the Boss?" in fourth, and "Growing Pains" in seventh.

Prime-time basketball ratings were down from last year. The Thursday match-ups of Georgia-Louisiana State and North Carolina-Louisville had a 10.2 rating, compared to last season's 12.0. The Friday games, Duke-DePaul and Kansas-Michigan State, had a 10.6, down from last season's 10.8.

"If the basketball had done a bit better, we would have won the week," said Michael Eisenberg, CBS' research director.

AID

something out," Senate Minority Leader Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., told reporters today.

Majority Leader Robert Dole, R-Kan., agreed, telling reporters, "I think there's still a possibility we could agree" on something. "If we could achieve that, we would have a policy rather than a narrow win."

Elliot Abrams, assistant secretary of state for Latin America, voiced a similar hope on NBC-TV's "Today" show when he said, "We're still hoping that, perhaps, a compromise is possible. We've got the votes to win, but, of course, we'd rather win by a wider margin."

Nora Astorga, Nicaragua's ambassador to the United Nations, said on the "CBS Morning News" that U.S. aid to the Contras was "a risk for the United States" because, she said, "the Contras cannot win in Nicaragua. It does not matter how much millions you give to them."

Whatever plan the Senate approves will be sent back to the Democratic-controlled House, where Reagan's proposal was defeated last week 222-210.

"I don't think we have the votes to impose any substantial changes" on Reagan's package, Sen. James Sasser, D-Tenn., the chief spokesman for Democrats opposed to the plan, said late Wednesday.

Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, generally agreed with Sasser, but was cautious in his estimate of support for the Reagan package. "My guess is that we have 51 votes," he told reporters.

Reagan's plan would give $70 million in military aid and $30 million in non-lethal help to the Contra guerrillas fighting Nicaragua's leftist Sandinista government. The current U.S. aid package, which expires Monday, includes $27 million in non-lethal assistance for items such as medicine and clothing.

Reagan has offered to modify his proposal by withholding any "offensive" weapons from the Contras for 90 days while the United States and Nicaragua try to negotiate their differences.

Lugar and Sasser were the key players in a daylong series of meetings Wednesday aimed at adopting a compromise that would meet the concerns of enough critics to win a large approval vote and send a message of unity to Managua.

Sasser said progress had been made until Adm. John M. Poindexter, the national security adviser, appeared at the meeting in the office of Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan.

"The admiral, he just steamed in there at flank speed and just said, we're not going to have any negotiations (between Washington and Managua) without preconditions," Sasser said.

But Lugar disagreed, saying Poindexter "cannot be blamed for torpedoing anything" and said his views had been sought because "the administration's thoughts are important to us." Lugar blamed the breakdown on the Democrats.

Following Nicaragua's reported incursion into neighboring Honduras to attack Contras operating across the border, Reagan on Tuesday said he was sending $20 million in emergency military aid to Honduras to help that U.S. ally cope with the Nicaraguan action. U.S. officials said about 100 Sandinistas and 80 Contras had been killed in four days of fighting. However, accounts of fighting could not be verified independently, and Honduran military sources said soldiers were ordered to keep journalists out of the border area.

Gould plays

with Hepburn

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Harold Gould waited nearly 25 years to play his first romantic role, and he got a real plum — leading man in a television movie with Katharine Hepburn.

The character actor, distinguished by his white hair and moustache, stars with Miss Hepburn in the CBS movie "Mrs. Delafield Wants To Marry."

He plays a Jewish physician of humble origins who falls in love with a wealthy widow from an aristocratic WASP family.

It's the first romantic leading role for Gould, who at age 37 gave up a college teaching career to become an actor in 1962.

"I've played a few things close," he said. "In 'Golden Girls' I was Betty White's date. But it wasn't a lead. So now that I'm in my 60s I play a romantic lead. I don't know if this will open up anything or not. Maybe this is it. But it's nice to do."

Miss Hepburn, the winner of four Academy Awards, was cast first and given a choice of leading men.

Gould said that as he did the romantic scenes, there were always visions in his head of Miss Hepburn's famous leading men: Spencer Tracy, Cary Grant, Henry Fonda.

"Once you get past these legends she's played with, you just follow the script and respond to one another," he said.

DUMP

ing from the Department of Energy in its selection process.

Among those are a written warranty to all individuals and entities that could be adversely affected economically by the site.

Sturdivant said the committee is satisfied that possible transportation means and the storage of salt above ground would not pose threats to the Panhandle residents.

While no device for transporting the waste has been chosen, the Amarillo lawyer said, "If they adopted the method of transportation they are now testing, we believe it would be safe."

Assurances the committee has received from technical experts on salt led them to conclude it could be stored without spreading into areas adjacent to the dump site, Sturdivant said.

Committee members realized early on in the study that they wouldn't be able to affect a decision on choosing Deaf Smith County for site characterization, Sturdivant said.

The test of the Deaf Smith County site, listed last year as one of three possible locations for the dump, which is set to be operational by 1998, would include drilling test holes and two full-scale mine shafts.

Committee members estimated the Department of Energy would spend between $600 million and $900 million on the site characterization.

The Amarillo Chamber of Commerce accepted the report, but took no formal action on it Wednesday.

Attendants

MIAMI (AP) — Eastern Airlines threatened to take its flight attendants to court after the union representing the workers halted a ratification vote and accused the company of changing the terms of an agreement signed nearly a month ago.

Eastern management denied making any alterations, and threatened to get an injunction today forcing the union to ratify the contract.

"It is inexplicable, disgraceful and irresponsible behavior on the part of the union. We have not changed anything in that agreement," said Jerry Cosley, Eastern's chief spokesman.

Transport Workers Union president Robert Callahan insisted, however, that Eastern had altered the wording of the original agreement signed Feb. 28.

"The corporation has backed up and reneged on a number of agreements they made with us," he said. "We are refusing to count until this is settled."

Crosbyton farmer named rural hero

DALLAS...A Crosby County farmer who risked his life to rescue a woman from electrocution in a farm accident was announced Monday as winner of the 1986 Texas Rural Heroism award.

C.R. "Clayburn" Marsh, 49, of Crosbyton was honored at the 47th annual Texas/Southwestern Safety Conference and Exposition for rescuing Mrs. Dee (Sherry) Moses, 32, of Crosbyton, Dec. 8, 1985. The annual award is sponsored by the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council. Ben Bullard, assistant safety director for the Texas Farm Bureau, is Council president.

The accident occurred just before sundown on a farm about 1 1/4 miles east of Mount Blanco on the South Plains. Marsh, who farms with the Moses family, said that he saw Mrs. Moses driving a tractor and pulling a cotton module builder when its packer arms came in contact with a 7,200-volt power line.

Marsh was about 20 feet away and realized the danger she was in. He yelled her to stay on the tractor so as not to be grounded.

"Not knowing he wanted me to stay on the tractor, I immediately jumped," Mrs. Moses recalled. "The moment I went out of the door of the tractor is the last I remember."

Mrs. Moses said when she jumped from the tractor the "force of the (electrical) current pulled me back into the tractor," pinning her between the step and back wheel. The tires were blown out and the wire caught on fire.

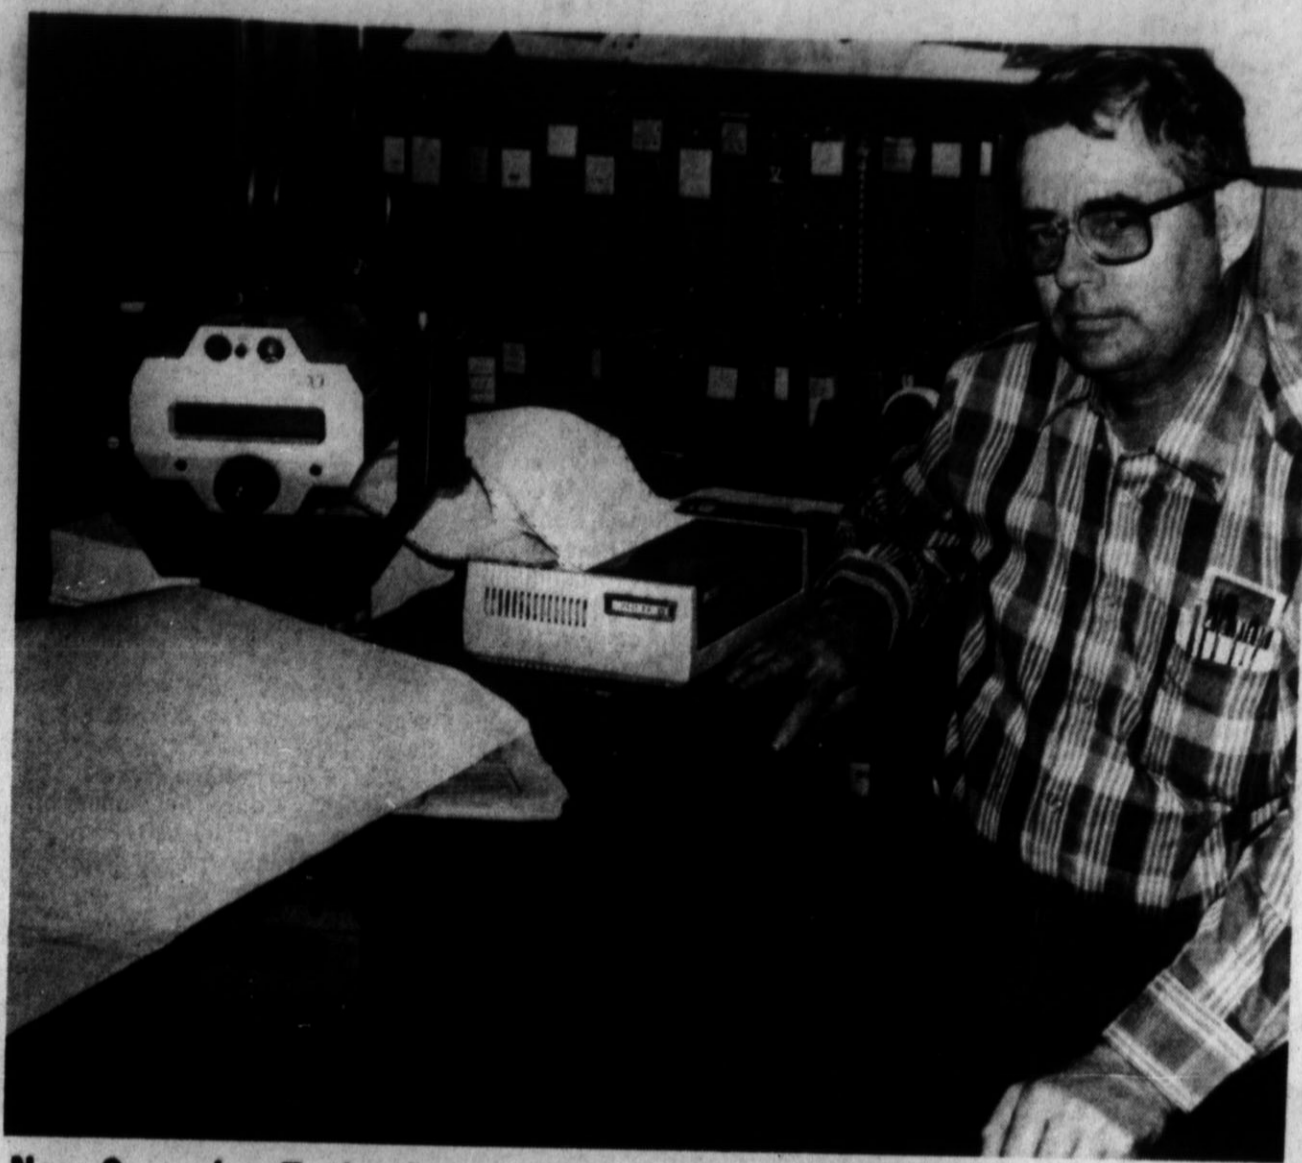

Marsh said blue flames an inch in diameter were shooting 6 to 8 inches from her feet. He finally freed the woman after three attempts, ripping her jacket in the process.

By this time, her husband, who was operating a cotton harvester elsewhere in the field, had noticed the incident and rushed to the scene. Uncertain if she was still alive, the men rushed her 15 miles to the Crosbyton Hospital.

Physicians initially feared the woman would lose both feet. However, they were able to save all except the small toes and metatarsals along with part of her right index finger. She also sustained severe burns to her hip.

"I thank God I am alive to raise our three children," Mrs. Moses said. "I thank Clayburn Marsh, who has a wife, three children, and two grandchildren, for risking his life to save mine."

Marsh took some of the current when he grabbed Mrs. Moses' jacket. Safety experts say he avoided possible serious injury by not pulling her by the hand.

New Surveying Technology

Stanley Williams of the Soil Conservation Service in Vernon demonstrates the use of the total station surveying device used by the SCS. The computerized tool hones a 40-hour job to less than 12 by holding up to 200 separate shots in memory. A beam from the eye of the device reflects from a right angle prism to get a distance reading from as far away as two miles. All the data to get the coordinate is figured by the internal computer. The memory is transferred to a microcassette or, with the right hardware, can be printed out. The microcassette is used on a machine which reads it and prints a map automatically. Williams surveyed 960 acres this week in Deaf Smith County.

17 percent cuts in price support loans possible

WASHINGTON (AP) - Agriculture Department economists are looking at the possibility of a 17 percent cut in price support loan rates for major 1987 crops if Congress and the administration don't settle on a way to trim the federal budget.

If no settlement is reached, the cuts could be mandated by the Gramm-Rudman formula as part of the law's requirement to reduce deficits to $144 billion in the fiscal year that begins Oct. 1 and to balance the federal budget in 1990-91.

The USDA's share this fiscal year of reductions tied to the Gramm-Rudman balanced-budget law was $1.3 billion, which will mean some employee layoffs and a reduction in the net loan rates farmers will get for 1986 crops.

But the impact could be far greater next fiscal year if Gramm-Rudman is allowed to take effect again, according to the department's Economic Research Service. That could happen if no 1987 budget agreement is reached by mid-August.

The agency stressed in its report that the figures used in describing the possible impact of Gramm-Rudman on agriculture are not predictions and serve only as examples.

In reality, however, Gramm-Rudman required a cut of 4.3 percent in most USDA programs during the remainder of this fiscal year. Price support loan rates are not being cut for 1986 crops, but the net loans made to farmers are being reduced by that percentage.

In the case of 1986 wheat loans, for example, the loan rate is $2.40 per bushel. Corn loans nationally are $1.92 per bushel. But under Gramm-Rudman, that means farmers actually will get $2.30 for a bushel of wheat and $1.84 for corn.

Looking at possibilities in 1987, the report said that if Gramm-Rudman is allowed to operate at full steam, defense programs could be reduced 10 percent and eligible non-defense programs by 17 percent.

"A 17 percent cut would reduce USDA outlays to about $45 billion," the report said. "Price support programs would drop from about $16.4 billion (projected expenditures if the 1985 farm bill were fully implemented) to about $14 billion."

"A cut of that size would drop deficiency payment rates 17 percent. Effective loan rates would be reduced 17 percent from the announced loan rates. The effects on net farm income could be severe, although crop use would rise as consumers and the livestock industry paid lower prices for many program crops."

The analysis did not project what the deficiency payments and loan rates might be in 1987 if Gramm-Rudman is fully effective.

If 1986 loan rates are used in 1987, a 17 percent cutback theoretically would mean an effective wheat loan of $1.91 per bushel instead of $2.40 per bushel, and a 1987 corn loan of $1.53 instead of this year's $1.92 per bushel.

A similar 17 percent reduction would be applied to 1987 deficiency payments due farmers who participated in next year's program.

The Nixon Administration in 1973 reimposed mandatory price controls on the biggest oil companies in the United States.

Farmers blame FmHA supervisor for bankruptcies

CHILLICOTHE, Mo. (AP) - Twenty tractors, some with cabs towering 12 feet, ring the one-story storefront that's home to the Farmers Home Administration here, but the owners of the equipment don't want to keep the supervisor in.

They want David Stollings out, and several hundred signed petitions blaming him for impending bankruptcies in Livingston County.

Fields in the hills along U.S. 36 leading into Chillicothe are freshly plowed and ready for planting soybeans, milo and corn. Many farmers complain that Stollings has denied them loans they need to operate through the growing season.

"The real problem is David Stollings," said Charles Peniston, a hog farmer and one of the leaders of a group who have occupied a quonset hut near Stollings' office since March 17.

"It's one thing to be in trouble," said Peniston, who was denied an FmHA operating loan in October. "It's another thing to have this arrogant and egotistical man rub your nose in it everytime you go into that office."

"This man is a problem," Northwest Missouri has suffered more than some other rural areas because two years ago, a two-year drought ended with too much rain. Farmers harvested a good crop last year, but prices were so low many ran out of money after paying interest on their debts.

Stollings said Tuesday that the size of those debts and tightened FmHA regulations forced him to deny some applications for operating loans this year. "I have a county with a large amount of borrowers with negative net worth. Some farmers are too indebted to service their obligations," he said.

Stollings took over the county

FmHA office in May 1985, about the time it changed its rules. Previously, the FmHA, the so-called lender of last resort, would make an operating loan to a farmer who could prove he would be able to repay it at the end of the year. Other debts were not counted.

Farmers now must prove they can repay the operating loan as well as make interest payments on their other loans.

Stollings said he sympathizes with the farmers, but that his hands are tied by FmHA regulations.

Futurity planned

COLLEGE STATION - Texas pork producers will be able to see how their top barrows fare by entering them in the Texas Barrow Futurity at Texas A&M University Aug. 18-19. A Swine Judging Clinic will be held in conjunction with the futurity.

The futurity is being conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service in cooperation with the Texas Pork Producers Association and Texas Pork Producers Board.

Individuals interested in nominating a barrow for the futurity or in preregistering for the judging clinic can obtain forms at their local county Extension office.

X-ray may do well in fiber evaluation

LUBBOCK -- Perfecting a measurement of cotton fiber maturity, one of the most elusive qualities for the textile industry to define, could one day be as simple as taking a dental X-ray.

At least that is the direction research by Israeli physicist Joseph Perel is taking at the Texas Tech University Textile Research Center (TRC). Perel, on 12-month leave from Israel's Fiber Research Institute, is studying X-ray techniques which may offer an objective evaluation of fiber maturity.

"I am trying to identify the degree of molecular organization in fibers," Perel said. "That is the key to maturity because the organization characterizes physical properties of the fiber while the form does not. It is the internal organization that matters. Fibers start with more randomized cells which grow and become 'better' organized as time passes. Due to this organization, their properties change. Consequently, their behavior in processing changes."

Mature cotton is preferred by the textile industry because it creates fewer imperfections than immature cottons, reports TRC Director James

S. Parker. A mature fiber is less likely than an immature fiber to tangle during spinning. Mature fibers also accept dye more readily.

Parker said TRC research over the years has shown that the measurement of micronaire, long believed to show maturity, is an invalid indicator.

By comparing the X-ray results with other proven, but much more time consuming, chemical methods for measuring maturity, Perel may ultimately be able to provide industry a relatively simple measuring technique of the maturity concept.

Rockets win without Sampson

Celtics beat Bucks, 121-115

By The Associated Press

The Boston Celtics won in Boston Garden. What else is new.

With Larry Bird taking charge down the stretch, Boston defeated Milwaukee 121-115 on Wednesday night, the Celtics' 25th straight home victory this season.

"We don't like to lose at home," said Coach K.C. Jones.

The 25 straight home triumphs moved Boston within two of the NBA record, set 36 years ago by the Minneapolis Lakers.

Milwaukee gave the Celtics a lot of trouble until Bird took charge with the score tied at 109-109. He hit a pair of layups and two free throws for a 115-109 advantage.

Dennis Johnson's baseline jumper at 2:16 completed an 8-0 run that clinched Boston's ninth straight victory.

Bird finished with 35 points for Boston. Terry Commings led Milwaukee with 31.

Bullets 120, Mavericks 112

The victory clinched Washington's 16th playoff berth in 18 years and extended Dallas' woes in the Capital Centre. The Mavericks, with a 15-19 road record that is the fifth best in the NBA, have not won in Washington since Dec. 15, 1981.

Rolando Blackman scored 27 points to lead Dallas.

Rockets 110, Pacers 101

Visiting Houston made a few changes to make up for the loss of Ralph Sampson, and they worked well with the other Twin Tower, Akeem Olajuwon, scoring 27 points and pulling down 21 rebounds. Eight of those points came in the final two minutes when the Rockets drew away.

Sampson, the Rockets' 7-foot-4 center-forward who had averaged 19.5 points a game, injured his back in a fall at Boston on Monday night. He is expected to miss at least one more game.

76ers 112, Hawks 103

Moses Malone reached another milestone for Philadelphia, passing the 11,000 mark in career rebounds. He grabbed 11 to reach 11,006, and added 32 points.

Surprisingly, it was Philadelphia's first victory of the season against Atlanta. Until Wednesday, only the Hawks with four victories and the Los Angeles Lakers with two had remained undefeated against the Sixers, who now have won nine games in their last 11 starts.

Dominique Wilkins scored 31 points for the Hawks.

Cavaliers 110, Nets 108

The opportunity was there and so

Ohio State wins

NIT championship

NEW YORK (AP) — Maybe if Ohio State had played this way sooner, Coach Eldon Miller would be back later.

As it turned out, the Buckeyes went on to win the 49th National Invitation Tournament. They did it in Miller's final game with the team before his firing went into effect defeating Wyoming 73-63 in the NIT championship game Wednesday night.

Miller was dismissed Feb. 3, but was told he could complete the season at Ohio State. In the meantime, he was hired to coach Northern Iowa next year, and Boston College's Gary Williams was hired for the Ohio State job.

Junior guard Dennis Hopson scored 26 points, including nine straight field goals. Hopson keyed a 12-2 spurt late in the first half that put the Big Ten Conference team in control. Senior 7-footer Brad Sellers added 17 points and 12 rebounds.

Wyoming, which finished 24-12, started out strong and jumped to a 12-6 lead. The Cowboys were sparked by 6-foot-4 sophomore Fennis Dembo, who finished with 27 points and seven rebounds.

But with Hopson hitting from the outside and Sellers working inside, the Buckeyes kept pounding away. They took their first lead at 19-18 midway through the half and completed their 12-2 streak with a 29-22 lead.

Wyoming trailed 35-28 at intermission and cut the margin to four points early in the second half, but high-scoring center Eric Leckner drew his fourth foul 2½ minutes into the period. With Leckner out of the game, Hopson moved inside and teamed with Sellers, the tournament MVP, to help Ohio State steadily pull away. Hopson made 12 of 17 shots while Curtis Wilson scored 10 for the Buckeyes.

Les Bolden scored 14 for Wyoming, of the Western Athletic Conference, but Leckner had only six before fouling out.

was Edgar Jones, who tipped in a missed shot with four second to go. Roy Hinson had missed a shot, grabbed the rebound and missed again before Jones tapped it in over Nets center Mike Gminski.

The Nets lost their fourth straight. World B. Free, led all scorers with 26 points.

Jazz 116, Nuggets 101

Adrian Dantley scored 18 of his 37 points in the first quarter to pace the Utah past Denver. Denver's Alex English, who is slugging it out with Dantley and Atlanta's Dominique Wilkins for the league scoring title, scored 27 points.

Utah led most of the way but Denver stayed close until the final period. The Jazz led 90-81 going into the fourth quarter, then went on a 10-2 run in the first 3½ minutes to put the game out of reach.

Spurs 105, Clippers 97

Mike Mitchell scored 18 points as San Antonio won for only the third time in their last 19 games. The Spurs maintained their two-game lead over Phoenix for the eighth and final playoff spot in the Western Conference.

Suns 120, SuperSonics 107

Ed Pinckney scored seven of his career-high 27 points in the decisive third quarter to lead Phoenix over Seattle. With the score 63-63 and 9:54 left in the third period, Phoenix took the lead for good with a 10-0 run sparked by reserve Charles Pittman's four points.

HHS graduate named Canyon head football coach

A Hereford High School graduate, Mike Wartes, was named the head football coach and athletic director in the Canyon Independent School District earlier this week.

Wartes, 33, has a 54-29-3 record in eight years as a head football coach at Muleshoe High School, Denver City High School, and Boswell High School.

He replaces Houston Powell, who resigned this school year as athletic director for the Canyon schools and head football coach at Canyon High School.

A graduate of West Texas State University, Wartes is the son of Larry and Joyce Wartes of Hereford. He played at the quarterback position in high school football, and also participated in basketball at Hereford High School.

Wartes was a quarterback all four years at WTSU, on the freshmen team his first year and on the Buffaloes team the other three seasons.

He was a starting quarterback for many games during his three varsity seasons.

Wartes began his coaching career as an assistant coach at Borger High School for three school years, 1975-78. During the school years of 1978-81, he was athletic director and head football coach in Muleshoe.

Muleshoe High School won district championships in the 1978 and 1979 seasons, and advanced to regional playoff games both seasons. The Mules' records under Wartes those seasons were 10-2 in 1978 and 9-2-1 in 1979.

Wartes coached the Denver City Mustangs to a district championship and a 7-4 record in the 1983 season. In 1982, the Mustangs played second in their district to qualify for the playoffs.

Wartes was athletic director and head football coach in Denver City for the school years 1981-85. He was the athletic director and head football coached at Boswell High School, a class AAAA school near Fort Worth, during the 1985-86 school year before accepting the Canyon Independent School District position.

Wartes will coach against his alma mater next season because of the 1986 University Interscholastic League realignment.

Before the realignment, Canyon High School's opponents in District 1-4A were Borger, Pampa, Dumas, Levelland, Lubbock Estacado, and Lubbock Dunbar.

The realignment of District 1-4A, announced in February by the UIL, added Hereford and Frenship to the district.

The varsity football contest between Hereford and Canyon is scheduled on Friday, Oct. 24, at Whiteface Stadium at 7:30 p.m.

Ellenberger might be assistant at UTEP

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Former University of New Mexico basketball Coach Norm Ellenberger could be leaving the state in September to take a coaching job in Texas.

Ellenberger said Wednesday he was contacted about the possibility of becoming an assistant coach at Texas-El Paso and that he discussed the job with UTEP Coach Don Haskins.

"I am very interested in Norm and he is very interested in us," Haskins said in a news release. But Haskins said he would not fill the job until around Sept. 1.

"There's an opening there and we're both interested in me being there," Ellenberger said.

"All we did is just discuss the possibilities," he said. "We just discussed all the possibilities. We just kicked the whole thing around. Nothing is even close to being finalized."

Tim Floyd, UTEP's top assistant basketball coach, resigned Sunday to take the head coaching job at the University of Idaho.

Haskins told The Associated Press last month he became a good friend of Ellenberger during their days as rivals on the basketball floor. Haskins said he would hire Ellenberger "in a minute" if he had an opening. Ellenberger's seven-year career as head basketball coach at UNM came to an end in December 1979.

An FBI wiretap uncovered evidence that the academic transcripts of several of his players had been altered to ensure their enrollment at the university. Ellenberger and his chief recruiter, Manny Goldstein, lost their jobs and nine players were ruled ineligible.

A jury in Roswell acquitted Ellenberger of seven federal counts of mail fraud, wire fraud and interstate travel in aid of racketeering.

But a jury in Albuquerque convicted him on 21 state counts of fraud and filing false public vouchers. The presiding judge at the trial placed Ellenberger on one year of unsupervised probation.

Ellenberger had a 134-62 record as the Lobo head coach.

Haskins said last month, "I think Norm realizes he did some things wrong, but he's got extraordinary talent and I think it's a damn shame that no one will give him a chance."

Last year, Ellenberger applied for a head coaching position at New Mexico State.

He coached a women's professional basketball team called the Albuquerque Energiee during its brief existence.

Final Four brings back memories

By GALYN WILKINS
Fort Worth Star-Telegram
FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — It has been 20 years since Bobby Joe Hill was in the furnace of the Final Four, but he still can feel its unique heat and tension.

"Oh yeah, this is the time of year when I really think about it," he said from his office at the El Paso Natural Gas Co. "A lot of memories start coming back."

Memories. He remembers going to the Final Four with a Texas Western team viewed by the aristocrats of the game not only as an underdog, but an impostor.

Memories. He remembers stealing the ball twice in the first half of the final, sending the first shivers of doubt through Adolph Rupp's aristocrats from Kentucky.

Memories. He remembers coming back to El Paso with the only NCAA basketball championship ever won by a Texas team and finding the city literally ablaze with pride and joy. Victory bonfires were glowing everywhere.

"No one else thought we could do it," Hill said Tuesday. "But we were a very tight bunch with a lot of confidence. We had to be. We've been close ever since, too."

Rupp went to his grave refusing to believe what happened that March night in College Park, Md. Years after he retired, the Baron would say, "I still wake up in the middle of the night wondering what I could have done to help my boys win that game."

He never got an answer. Bobby Joe Hill and the Miners were too quick, too close, too underrated, too confident. When Hill stole the ball from Louie Dampier and raced down the court for an easy layup, Rupp rose off the bench, barked at Dampier and stared hard at the Miners on their bench, as if they were insolent party crashers.

Rupp later admitted, "I knew at that point we were n trouble. I knew we might not be able to control their speed and adjust to their defense."

He was right. Texas Western held the lead the rest of the game and won, 72-65, one of the biggest of Final Four upsets.

Texas Western no longer exists. In its place is UT-El Paso. The small pit of a gym has long since been replaced by a big field house. The memories are still there, however. And the team still exists.

Three weeks ago, an El Paso jeweler fitted championship rings on their fingers in a ceremony during halftime of a Miners game in the big field house.

"Every one of us showed up, too. Like I said, we're still close," Hill said.

Twelve of the 13 walked on the floor for the ceremony. The 13th, Willie Cager, was in a wheelchair. He suffered a stroke a month ago, left the hospital to get the ring he worked for 20 years ago, and went back to the hospital that night.

They were a diverse collection of players recruited by Don Haskins, who was Texas Western's coach and is still UTEP's coach. They came from the streets of New York, from Detroit, from Texas. The closer they got to the Final Four, the more their pedigrees were questioned.

"Rupp even suggested we recruited some of them from jail," Haskins said.

Whatever their origins, they were welded by Haskins into a dogged, unselfish defensive-oriented team that lost only one game, to Seattle in the middle of the season.

"Outlaws." "Playground punks." The Miners were given several nicknames, especially in Kentucky, especially in Rupp's bitter soul.

If he could only see them now, though. They've done well in the 20 years. Only Cager has been struck by misfortune.

Five of them — Cager, Nevil Shed, Willie Worsley, Jerry Armstrong, and Togo Railey — became coaches.

Two of them became corporate vice presidents — Dick Myers for Farrah Manufacturing in El Paso and David Palacio for Capitol Records in Hollywood.

Two of them entered and flourished in strangely different professions — Louis Baudoin as an art teacher in Albuquerque and Orsten Artis as a detective in Gary, Ind.

Hill joined the gas company soon after he left Texas Western and has been there ever since. Dave "Big Daddy" Lattin is a public relations executive for a Houston liquor distributor.

"They were good kids then and they're fine men now," Haskins said. "A lot of stuff was said about them that shouldn't have been said."

Haskins has had good kids and good teams in the 20 years since, but he hasn't been back to the Final Four with one of them. Even though at 36 he was a young coach then, he knew the odds of getting back were perhaps smaller than getting there the first time.

"This is a once in a lifetime thing for most coaches," he told a friend the night before the finals. "Mr. Rupp has a lot of times, but this is probably my one shot."

He made the most of it. He surprised Kentucky with a three-guard lineup, starting Worsley in place of Shed, his big center. They played like lizards scurrying across a hot rock.

Hill and Worsley dribbled away the last minute of the game as the frantic Wildcats chased them.

"I remember all the minutes of that night," Hill said. "Especially at this time of the year."

Ann Landers

Tell 'em to shape-up

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I need your help. My husband refuses to become involved. He keeps saying, "The kids will grow up and the problem will solve itself." The "kids" he is talking about have not lived in our house for several years. They are all in their late 20s.

I want my house to be MY house. I have earned the right to do things in my own time and in my own way. I would like to do my laundry when I feel like it and not go to the utility room and find one of our daughters using the washing machine.

If I feel like sleeping late I don't wish to be awakened by a couple "children" who are screaming at each other.

I do not like several people having the keys to our house. We have come home and found strangers in our living room, eating, drinking beer and watching TV. "We came over with Johnny," one said last week. "He just left."

Yesterday one of our daughters was going through my closets when I was out shopping. I found her when I came home. I told her off and she became upset. "This was once MY home and I will always feel that I belong here!" she yelled. I told, "This WAS your home when you lived here, but now you are a guest and guests come when they are invited and they do not go through closets."

These kids assume that anything and everything in this house belongs to them. I cannot count the number of items they have borrowed and failed to return. My husband or I have had to go get our lawn mower, hand saw, paint, portable sewing machine, a rug shampooer—just name it and they have borrowed it. I had to go to my daughter's house this afternoon to get this typewriter so I could write to you.

The refrigerator is also fair game for whatever they want. I am always running out of milk, butter and eggs because of them. We plan to go to Florida in a couple of weeks. I want to have a showdown before we leave. I am sick and tired of our adult children running through our house when we are away. Every time we return from a trip the place is a mess and some appliances are broken. It would never occur to these slobbs to clean up after themselves or fix what they break.

Am I hard-hearted, as my husband says? Or crazy? Please let me hear from you right away. I need help.—ONE ALONE IN SYRACUSE.

DEAR ONE: You are neither hard-hearted nor crazy. Your husband, however, has a noodle where his spine belongs. He should back you to the hilt in your announcement that the game has changed. Your children should be ordered to turn in their keys at once and accept the fact that the house and everything in it belongs to you and your husband and from here on in they are expected to conduct themselves like guests.

Apparently, they were raised when permissiveness was in vogue and consequently they never learned to be responsible adults. I hope for their sake, as well as yours, that they shape up. It's a heck of a way to go through life.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: According to the Prairie Rambler of Claremont, Calif., Alben Barkley said the best audiences are intelligent, well-educated and a little drunk. You've done a lot of public speaking. Do you agree?—DEMOSTHENES OF DUBUQUE

DEAR DEM: I prefer audiences that are intelligent, attentive and sober.

Do you feel awkward, self-conscious—lonely? Welcome to the club. There's help for you in Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key to Popularity." Send 50 cents with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11996, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

PICASSO SCULPTURE

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles County Museum of Art says it has acquired Pablo Picasso's sculpture "Centaur" as a gift from Gloria and David L. Wolper.

Thought by Picasso scholars to have been destroyed, the rarely exhibited sculpture was for many years in the collection of the artist's son Claude, from whom Wolper acquired it in 1982.

Disorders unsightly but not harmful

Broken, discolored fingernails and toenails are not always a sign of illness. And good nail care will help prevent many nail problems. The Texas Medical Association suggests follow these guidelines for healthy-looking nails:

—Protect your nails from prolonged immersion in water, especially soapy water.

—Keep nails short to prevent them from getting splits, which tend to trap dirt.

—Trim your nails regularly with scissors, special nail clippers or a diamond chip file.

—Either leave cuticles alone, or push them down with a cuticle stick or the thumbnail of the opposite hand.

—If you use nail polish, touch up any chips in it rather than remove it with nail-polish remover. Nail polish remover makes nails weak and brittle. Do not use it more than once a week.

Brittleness, like dry skin, is one problem that is likely to worsen in winter. Wear rubber gloves when immersing hands in soapy water, and warm gloves when outdoors in winter.

White spots on nails usually result from minor injury to the nails. White spots seldom indicate any vitamin or mineral deficiency; they will vanish as the nail grows.

Longitudinal ridges on nails are not unusual; they may be genetic, and they do become more prominent as you age. If you have crosswise ridges, you may have injured the nail with a manicure tool or by biting your nails and cuticles. These ridges also may appear after any illness, but they are not symptoms of infection.

Discoloration of a nail may be caused by cigarettes, hair dyes, and even the tints from nail polish. Discoloration is also caused by various illnesses. The nail bed appears pale in anemia and white in chronic liver disease. Small, black, splinterlike areas appear under the nails in infections of the heart valves.

Many nail problems are not medically significant. Nevertheless, your nails are one of many indicators of health. Any dramatic changes in their texture, shape, color, or growth rate may be a signal that you should seek medical advice.

Council members meet

Members of Deaf Smith County Extension Homemakers Council met Monday at the library Heritage Room with Johnnie Messer, council chairman, presiding.

Maudette Smith, secretary, read the minutes which were approved and the district 1 meeting, April 3 at the Hilton Inn East in Amarillo, was discussed.

Three delegates elected to attend the district meeting included Mary Carter, Carol Odum and Nell Pope. Alternates named were Martha Rickman, Lottie Wertenberger and Toni Vaughn.

Mary Carter reported that all clubs in the county had paid their T.E.H.A. dues.

There were eight clubs represented with six clubs having 100 percent attendance.

Electric short course offered

The Deaf Smith County Extension Service will be conducting a youth electric short course in April. The course is open to all youth between the ages of 10 and 18. There will be a $10 registration fee to help pay for materials.

The short course consists of four sessions scheduled for April 22, 24, 29 and May 1. A lamp will be constructed during the short course.

Local electrician, Harvey Milton, will serve as host and instructor for the project. Any one interested is encouraged to call Davy Vestal, County Extension Agent at 364-3573. Please call to enroll by April 11.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic levels, race, color, sex, religion, handicap or national origin.

Some people seek answers to tough questions

CHICAGO (AP) — Encyclopaedia owners ask the darndest things.

"I've had people wanting to know, 'Did Cleopatra have false teeth, or what is heaven like?'" says Margaret Mottier, who's been digging up facts for the Britannica Instant Research Center for three decades.

"I've also had someone ask what do people taste like," Mrs. Mottier said Tuesday. "I suppose we were supposed to ask the cannibals."

Mrs. Mottier now heads a staff of 14 fact-checkers at the center, a subscriber service created in 1936 by Encyclopaedia Britannica Inc. of Chicago to answer questions from Encyclopaedia Britannica owners.

Owners are entitled to make up to 10 inquiries a year for 10 years after they buy a set of the books, and the staff fields up to 1,000 calls a day. The center reported Monday that establishing a small business and Halley's comet were the most-asked-about topics in more than 300,000 inquiries last year.

It didn't give figures on the number of questions about specific topics.

In zoology, interest in dinosaurs topped questions about whales, pandas and man-eating sharks, with subscribers wanting to know how dinosaurs lived and why they disappeared, said Mrs. Mottier.

"They want to know which sharks are dangerous and examples of incidents where there have been shark attacks on swimmers," she added.

As people become more concerned with practical considerations and self-improvement, "how-to" questions are increasingly common, she said. In fact, most of the leading topics reflect an interest in making, protecting and using money smartly, all in a do-it-yourself style.

"How do I set up a business at home?" is often asked, she said. The questions "basically reflect a very practical group of people."

On an average day, Mrs. Mottier said her staff handles 500 to 1,000 calls or letters.

One question Mrs. Mottier recently had to field was from a young boy wanting to know if a story his grandfather had told him was true.

"His grandfather had been reading from the Encyclopaedia about cavemen, and he told him that his grandmother was a descendant from the prettiest of the cavemen. He wanted to know if it was true, but I obviously couldn't do this. I sent him a letter saying we didn't have any scientific information, but that on this one, his grandfather was the best authority."

DR. GOTT Another use for cough syrup

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am 30, married and have a 5-year-old son. We've been trying for three years to have another child. After many tests, my doctor put me on Clomid and progesterone for four months. I still can't get pregnant. Now he's suggesting that I take Robitussin cough syrup to get pregnant. Have you ever heard of this?

DEAR READER — It sounds peculiar, but Robitussin can help some women become pregnant. The cough mixture contains guaifenesin, a substance that thins mucus. If your cervical canal secretes mucus that is so thick that it prevents penetration by sperm, Robitussin can reduce mucus viscosity and permit fertilization to take place. Please don't become alarmed and think, as one of my patients did, that you could get pregnant just by drinking cough syrup; there's more to it than that.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am a 12-year-old girl. I was born with a shallow hip socket. Could I pass it on to my family? Could I pop it out of place if I did splits?

DEAR READER — Some hip conditions are congenital or inherited. In many patients, stress — like doing a split — could cause a dislocation. I suggest that you discuss your hip problem with your doctor. He or she can give you the best advice for your particular condition.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Is vanilla purchased in Central America or Mexico safe to use?

DEAR READER — The U.S. government requires careful control of foods that are manufactured, processed or packaged in this country — or that are imported. Other countries are not so picky. If, when abroad, you purchase vanilla extract that has been made in the United States, you are safe, providing the container has not been opened. On the other hand, vanilla packaged and sold in a foreign country may contain contaminants. Although the chances of becoming sick from such a product are unlikely, I'd advise caution in using foreign edibles that are packaged and sold in foreign countries.

DEAR DR. GOTT — When I was a baby, a doctor told my mother that I would have to take thyroid pills my whole life. Now, many years later, I'm told I don't need them. However, I have a couple of lumps on my throat, near my jaws. Is this anything to get concerned about?

DEAR READER — Probably not. Doctors know a great deal more about thyroid problems than they did years ago. You may not need the thyroid pills. Your doctor can obtain a blood test that will indicate whether or not you are deficient in thyroid hormone. In addition, a physician can determine if the lumps you describe are in the thyroid gland (and could be kept small by using thyroid pills) or are in the surrounding tissue.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My niece moved to the South recently and somehow contracted hepatitis. She says it's not contagious. Someone prescribed the following treatment: Drink lots of fluids, get rest and eat at least a pound of sugar a day for the next couple of months. The first two sound reasonable, but that third idea sounds crazy to me. What do you think?

DEAR READER — I think it sounds crazy. Hepatitis is a contagious viral infection of the liver. Years ago, doctors prescribed a high-sugar diet because hepatitis patients lost their appetites and their caloric needs were not met by ordinary meals. However, a pound of sugar a day would be astronomically high, even for "Refrigerator" Perry. The fluids and rest are OK. I suggest that you and your niece follow the instructions given by a doctor; the other advice is best ignored.

Company leading maker of Geiger counters

SWEETWATER, Texas (AP) — Don Ludlum's idea 24 years ago was to build a better Geiger counter.

He quit his job to look for a place to start his business. Sweetwater was not on his original list, but here he set up his company.

Today, Ludlum Measurements, Inc., is the leading manufacturer of Geiger counters, Ludlum says, with about 60 percent of the national market.

The plant in downtown Sweetwater also makes other scientific equipment to measure radiation.

The basic instrument with which Ludlum started out is still selling. "It's called the same name, and it looks the same, but the quality is ten-fold better."

Ludlum is proud that those 20-year-old instruments are still in use and are sent back occasionally to be calibrated.

It took two years after Ludlum set up shop in Sweetwater to make and sell the first instrument.

Since then, the number of workers employed by Ludlum has grown from one to about 80. New products have been developed and added, such as a Geiger counter that talks.

Sweetwater's good school system was one of the reasons, he chose to locate here, he says.

Ludlum had four children when he moved here. His first wife died about seven years ago. They had six children.

He gained two more children when he married Irene Peoples of Sweetwater. Two daughters-in-law have been added, bringing to 10 the total sons and daughters.

In 1962, Ludlum and his father,

George, were looking for a place for the business.

They considered Big Spring, where they stayed at a motel without heat and ate at a restaurant without coffee.

Giving up on Big Spring, they headed east. They stopped for coffee at Sweetwater, liked what they saw, and eventually chose the town for the business.

Ludlum Measurements has more than 4,000 customers, which includes practically every hospital and university in the country, federal and state agencies and nuclear power industries.

Ludlum is a native of Tulsa, Okla., but was reared in Kansas and Colorado. He graduated from Kansas State in Manhattan, Kan., and took a job with Eberline Instruments in Santa Fe, N.M.

He was with the company five years before leaving to start his own business.

Business has been flat for a couple of years, he says, but "I expect to see growth again in the coming year."

The company's foreign sales died when its products doubled in price as the dollar's value increased. Oil-field sales declined with the drop in oil prices.

"I expect a significant increase in sales as more nuclear power plants come into use," he says.

In Sweetwater, Ludlum has been involved in a number of activities, including the Red Cross, PTA, Rotary Club, City Commission and at the Presbyterian Church.

He was chosen the city's outstanding man at this year's Chamber of Commerce banquet.

Family ties can help reduce repeat offenders

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Promoting good relationships between prisoners and their families could help reduce the number of repeat offenders, several state prison inmates say.

The inmates told a legislative committee Wednesday that their families were the only connection with reality they could cling to while in prison.

"Without such (family) feedback, the inmate can become disoriented to the outside world, thus incurring severe problems upon eventual release," said John Indo, who is serving a life sentence for murder.

Indo said ex-convicts with good family relationships were six times more likely to stay out of trouble than those with bad relationships.

Five prisoners testified Wednesday at a hearing of the Joint Special Committee on the Family Role in Reducing Recidivism after being subpoenaed by the committee.

The inmates and several family members of prisoners who also testified supported the Texas Department of Corrections' 6-year-old inmate furlough program and the new contact visiting policy.

"Those have really helped us and give an inmate a chance to reconstruct his family," said Huntsville resident Barbara Herrera, wife of an inmate.

Harris County law enforcement officials have criticized the program as being too dangerous, but TDC Director O. Lane McCotter defended the program that allows convicts five-day vacations home.

"I believe it's one of the finest tools we have in allowing a man to go home and maintain the family support system," he said.

McCotter said there have been few incidents of violence and only a handful of escapes from the furlough program.

The Texas prison system's 43 percent rate of recidivism — the tendency to lapse back into anti-social or criminal behavior — is higher than that of most other states, McCotter said.

Sausage making, which goes back as far as recorded history, originated as a means to preserve meat.

Names in the News

SUNDANCE, Utah (AP) — Actor Robert Redford and a number of other residents of the scenic mountain pass called Provo Canyon have joined forces in a bid to seek a ban on truck traffic through the area.

About 40 residents turned out for a meeting Tuesday at Redford's Sundance ski area, including Lhomond and Barbara Jones, whose daughter, son-in-law and three grandchildren were killed in a traffic accident in the canyon recently.

Redford, 49, is a longtime Utah resident.

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — Britain's Princess Anne toured Brazil's government-controlled aircraft manufacturer Embraer for a look at the Tucano turboprop military trainer plane that will be used by the Royal Air Force.

The princess, 35, who is on a four-day private visit to Brazil, visited the Embraer plant Wednesday in Sao Jose dos Campos, 55 miles from Sao Paulo.

The Tucanos will be built by Northern Ireland's Short Brothers Company, through a licensing agreement with Embraer.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Pop musician Sly Stone's songs are not a hit with the manager of his $1,450-a-month apartment, who is trying to evict him and his roommate for allegedly playing loud music and failing to pay the rent.

In a Superior Court suit filed last week, the management of the Oakwood Garden Apartments complains of late-night drumming and loud music in Stone's rooms.

The suit seeks one month's back rent and the eviction of Stone, 42, and roommate Darryl Armstrong.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — Entertainer Kenny Rogers brought the crowd to its feet in his first concert since surgery to remove a small cyst on his vocal cords.

"They sent me to a friendly town to try this," he told the audience of 8,800 gathered at the University of Tennessee-Chattanooga arena Tuesday night.

Rogers, 45, who underwent surgery Feb. 11, performed an hourlong set of more than 15 songs, including "Lady," "Ruby Don't Take Your Love to Town," "She Believes in Me," "The Gambler," and "Lucille."

divorce court with his sixth wife claiming he bloodied her nose when they argued about his interest in other women.

In a divorce petition filed Wednesday, Kerrie McCarver Lewis, 23, claims her 50-year-old husband has "a quick and violent temper and that he has cursed, threatened and struck her on occasions too numerous to mention."

She married Lewis in Memphis two years ago, less than a year after his fifth wife died of a drug overdose.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Singer Rudy Vallee was "wavering between life and death" with cancer before he improved, a publicist says.

"Rudy Vallee came very close to saying goodbye to all of us. There were slim chances he would survive," Chris Harris said Wednesday. "Today, for the first time in six weeks, Rudy had food."

"His wife and I fed him chocolate pudding."

Vallee, 85, had cancer of the esophagus, which was removed by surgery last week, but he was expected to regain his voice. Vallee remained under intensive care in a private room, Harris said.

Shock wave machine smashes gallstones

BOSTON (AP) — The discovery that a blast of shock waves can pulverize gallstones inside the body may spare some people from surgery, but an expert doubts there will be a "rush to crush" and asks if the procedure might cause more harm than good.

A study published today is the first to examine the potential of a machine called the lithotripter for smashing painful gallstones. An estimated 500,000 Americans undergo surgery each year for treatment of this condition.

The lithotripter generates hammering jolts of shock waves inside a tub of water. It was approved less than 1½ years ago for treating kidney stones that otherwise would need surgery.

At the time, Health and Human Services Secretary Margaret M. Heckler said it was "an authentic modern medical miracle." Now, about 50 hospitals in the United States have the machines, which cost $2 million. And doctors have widely adopted them as a safe alternative to kidney surgery.

But Dr. Albert G. Mulley Jr. of Massachusetts General Hospital says differences between the gallbladder, a sac that stores digestive juices, and the kidney may make shock waves less desirable as a treatment for gallstones.

"I don't think there will be a rush to crush gallstones the way there was kidney stones," he said in an interview Wednesday. "It just doesn't make as much sense physiologically or anatomically."

Mulley said crushing stones inside the gallbladder may produce large fragments that could get stuck in the bile duct.

So by using the lithotripter, "you may take a relatively simple ailment that can be approached with a simple operation and make it more complicated and thereby require a more dangerous operation," he said.

The examination of the machine's potential for gallstones was conducted by doctors from the University of Munich. It shows the device can reduce gallstones to tiny fragments or sludge. But the doctors were cautious about making claims for this use of the machine.

The study was conducted on 14 patients by Dr. Tilman Sauerbruch and published in the New England Journal of Medicine, along with an editorial by Mulley.

Masterpiece Theater

Ideological war great for series

NEW YORK (AP) — The English civil war began as a battle of ideas, a great stroke of luck for "Masterpiece Theatre."

The cavaliers loyal to the king and the "roundheads" who rallied around Oliver Cromwell were vigorous pamphleteers, producing weekly and then daily broadsheets in the 1640s promoting their causes.

They argued about the rights of man and the divine right of kings, and about the proper forms of government and worship.

"In fact, our civil war really started the newspaper industry," said John Hawkesworth, producer of "By the Sword Divided," who turned to those old pamphlets as a source of dialogue.

The swashbuckling saga—a sort of "Upstairs, Downstairs" with swords—finds the Lacey family and Arnescote castle beginning to get caught up in the war this Sunday in episode two.

As Alistair Cooke's faithful fans will recall from episode one, the Lacey family is a family divided. Sir Martin Lacey, son Tom and younger daughter Lucinda are stout royalists, but Tom's twin, Anne, has married an upstart bourgeois who supports the parliamentary cause.

Despite hardship and spilled blood, the Laceys usually manage to be ex-cruciatingly polite about the unpleasantness.

"I think they were extraordinarily decent about it," Hawkesworth said of the civil war era. "I think there was a lot of hate, but they had good manners."

Even the lower classes get caught up in the war, as we shall see in the coming weeks.

Similarities to "Upstairs, Downstairs" are inevitable. Hawkesworth produced that earlier series, as well as PBS fare such as "Duchess of Duke Street," "Danger UXB," "Flame Trees of Thika" and "The Adventures of Sherlock

"By the Sword Divided" got off to a plodding start but it perks up in succeeding episodes. Add a treacherous relative, a pompous rebel commander, the odd sword fight and some daring rescues, and the series builds toward an exciting siege complete with explosives.

These nine episodes of "Sword" take the story up only to 1647, with Parliament triumphant but its army turning surly. Hawkesworth has 10 more episodes that he hopes to sell to Mobil Oil, taking the saga up to 1680 and the restoration of King Charles II.

Woman says church school was discriminatory

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Ohio woman who lost her job at a church-supported elementary school after becoming pregnant says people in religious institutions must have protection against discrimination.

"I think that somebody broke the law," Linda Hoskinson of Dayton said Wednesday after the U.S. Supreme Court heard arguments in the case. "And I think it ought to be corrected within the framework of the law even if it means changing the law to take into respect religious purposes."

The court was told that state anti-discrimination laws should apply to church schools that fire pregnant teachers in an effort to keep them home with their babies.

Six charged in clinic raid

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Six people face charges of invading a twice-bombed abortion clinic and injuring two women one day after activists from around the nation were encouraged to take more active roles in fighting abortion.

Police said the six stormed into The Ladies Center clinic Wednesday, damaging equipment and injuring two women, including a member of the National Organization for Women, who was escorting patients into the building.

The six arrested were among about 30 people who had been picketing the clinic, which was bombed twice in 1984, including a Christmas Day incident that drew nationwide attention.

School district trying to attract spring-break teachers

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — College students on spring break have flocked to area beaches to forget about school, but local education officials don't want to let them.

The Brownsville Independent School District needs about 400 teachers for math, English, science, elementary and special education for the fall semester, and it has advertised for teachers both in and out of state.

But now, they are interrupting the rock 'n' roll tunes on local radio stations to try to attract would-be teachers who are tanning at South Padre Island. "Like the beach, stay and teach," is the message that blares from stereos in cars, on the beach and around hotel swimming pools.

The message tells listeners about the teaching field, the salaries, bonuses and fringe benefits in an area close to the border and the beach with great weather year round.

"The radio spots are just something new," said Oscar Barbour, assistant superintendent for personnel. "We have to try everything. We thought radio was the best way to do it."

During the month of March, more than 150,000 people — most of them college students — will have visited the area, chamber of commerce officials say. The throngs will pump about $8 million into the area economy.

BISD officials want prospective teachers to return permanently.

The enrollment next year is expected to be around 38,000 students in 33 schools. There are about 1,950 teachers in the district, Barbour said.

He said because of state-mandated education reforms and the 6 percent attrition rate, about 400 teachers will be needed in all fields next year.

"We've been losing a lot of kids to other fields," Barbour said. "I think it's time we tell them it has a good salary, good fringe benefits and that it's a good profession."

Barbour also said there are about 1,500 students from Mexico who will be enrolled in the local school district and with the student-teacher ratio rule, the district will have to build more elementary and secondary schools.

He said he is confident the district's teachers will pass the competency test administered earlier this month.

"We feel most of our people will be OK, but the attrition rate will really have an effect," Barbour said.

Last year, 60 percent of the school district's new teachers came from states other than Texas, Barbour said. College students from as far away as Wisconsin have spent their spring breaks in deep South Texas, and Barbour hopes some of them would want to return as teachers.

"There just seemed to be shortage of teachers. Maybe we've been missing the boat a lot of years," Barbour said of not trying to attract spring breakers.

He said he has received some responses to the advertisements, but hopes to get more next week.

"It's just another form of advertising," Barbour said. "We knew the kids were not going to pick up a newspaper and read it, but they would have the radio on. It's something we had to do."

HBO, two studios seek to limit satellite use

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Home Box Office, Paramount Studios and Universal Studios have been named in a lawsuit that alleges they conspired to limit distribution of top-rated movies to satellite dish owners.

The suit was filed Tuesday in Fort Worth and was assigned to U.S. District Judge David Belew. No hearing date was set.

Two home video entertainment broadcasters brought the suit. Space Age Video of Fort Worth and Personal Preference Video of San Jose, Calif., claim that the alleged conspiracy has in part prevented them from buying and broadcasting popular programming.

The suit also contends that HBO limited the growth of the satellite dish market by scrambling its signal without making decoders available to satellite dish owners.

"With the scrambled signals and no standard decoding equipment available, the home dish or earth station owner has no reasonable means for receiving signals though legally entitled to do so," the suit said.

Larry Lauck, an HBO spokesman in Dallas, disputed the allegations.

About 20,000 decoders were available on Jan. 19, when the company scrambled its satellite signal, Lauck told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

By the end of February, about 1,800 satellite dish owners nationwide had obtained HBO programming by purchasing a $395 decoder and paying a monthly subscription fee, he added.

Lauck declined comment on other allegations in the suit, the newspaper said.

Sheldon Mittleman, head of Universal's legal department in Los Angeles, said he was unaware of the suit and would not comment, and Paramount officials were unavailable for comment, the Star-Telegram said.

Space Age and Personal Preference video companies serve subscribers who own satellite dishes. Subscribers are billed on a "pay per view" basis, in which they pay only for particular programming requested.

The two companies said they have been "deprived of critically competitive premium programming," such as top-rated movies. Paramount and Universal have "concertedly refused" to deal with them, the companies said.

"HBO and others have entered into agreements plainly intended to hinder competition," the suit said. "Such concerted arrangements are designed to exclude others from competition until HBO determines that it is ready to enter the (pay-per-view) market."

The suit asks that Universal, Paramount and HBO be "permanently enjoined from refusing to deal" with the two companies in the distribution of entertainment to home satellite dish owners.

The suit also seeks an unspecified amount of monetary damages.

If you're over 40, your best safeguard against colon-rectal cancer... the most common internal cancer among men and women... is an annual procto exam.

AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY
MAT #2737.01

Cancer of the colon and rectum can be detected by a proctoscopic examination ("procto") before any symptoms appear. The American Cancer Society urges men and women (who are equally vulnerable) over 40 to have a "procto" included in their regular checkups.

The Newspaper BIBLE

A NEATLY BUNDLED PACKAGE OF LIES!

Five days (after Paul arrived in Caesarea) Ananias the High Priest arrived with some of the Jewish leaders and the lawyer Tertullus, to make their accusations against Paul.

When Tertullus was called forward, he laid charges against Paul in the following address to the governor: "Your Excellency, you have given quietness and peace to us Jews and have greatly reduced the discrimination against us. And for this we are very, very grateful to you. But lest I bore you, kindly give me your attention for only a moment as I briefly outline our case against this man. For we have found him to be a troublemaker, a man who is constantly inciting the Jews throughout the entire world to riots and rebellions against the Roman government. He is a ringleader of the sect known as the Nazarenes. Moreover, he was trying to defile the Temple when we arrested him. We would have given him what he justly deserves, but Lysias, the commander of the garrison, came and took him violently away from us, demanding that he be tried by Roman law. You can find out the truth of our accusations by examining him yourself."

Then all the other Jews chimed in, declaring that everything Tertullus said was true.

Acts 24:1-9

'Fun' machines dangerous

Motorcycles are fun, cheap to run, and easy to ride. They are also dangerous, and injuries are almost 100 percent guaranteed in the event of an accident. In one Department of Transportation large-scale study, it was discovered that 98 percent of motorcycle accidents resulted in injury to the rider. The University of California Davis Medical Center reviewed the medical records from 1980 to 1983 on patients injured in motorcycle accidents.

The findings showed that injured motorcyclists were hospitalized for an average of 21.2 days. The average for a patient with an open fracture and a non-motorcycle cause of injury was 13.1 days.

The extended length of hospitalization underscores the severity of most motorcycle injuries.

Other findings included: 39 percent were younger than age 20, 82 percent were younger than age 30, 92 percent were male, and 75 percent of the injured motorcyclists had no insurance.

Two factors found that could reduce the incidence and severity of injuries were: the use of safety helmets and completion of a motorcycle training course.

Sherlock Holmes mystified many professionals because he could describe, in detail, a sequence of events by looking for clues. You can improve your driving skills by looking for clues that can alert you to the actions of other drivers.

A sudden shift in the body lean of a car or the load distribution in the back of a truck, can tell you that the vehicle is veering to one side or the other. The flashing on and off of the brake lights may be warning you to slow down.

A spurt of exhaust smoke can mean that the vehicle is speeding up. The squealing of tires can warn you that a vehicle is either rapidly accelerating or turning corners at a high rate of speed. Squealing tires can also warn you that the vehicle is braking suddenly. The car's quickly dipping may warn you of rapid deceleration. Don't always depend on brake lights to warn you about sudden changes in movement. They may always be functioning.

When parking your car, avoid parking next to a car that has numerous dents or scratches. It is a major clue about the driving habits of the owner. Although it may be the result of an accident, it reveals that the owner cares little of what's around him when parking.

Be an alert driver. The little you save may be your own.

Benefit checks get new look

Veteran benefit checks will take on a new look beginning April 1. A lightweight paper check will replace the familiar green punched-card check issued by the federal government for the past 40 years.

The change is part of a national conversion to paper checks being implemented by the U.S. Department of Treasury.

Over 4 million checks each month go to veterans, spouses, and dependent children in compensation, pension, educational, or insurance benefit payments. Bi-weekly paychecks for Veterans Administration employees around the country will also take on the new look.

The change to paper checks was made because of changes in technology which made the punched-card check system obsolete. The new check, which contains more than a dozen security features, is more difficult to alter or counterfeit, according to Treasury officials.

The check's design features a full-length reproduction of the Statue of Liberty on the left and a muted close-up of the Statue's head and torso on the right. The check's colors range from light blue to peach with the letter "USA" creating a background pattern.

Many veterans and VA employees will not notice the change since 37 percent of those receiving compensation or pension benefits, and 10 percent of the employees get their money via electronic transfer, a program strongly encouraged by the VA.

The government issues 60 million checks annually. Social Security payments and Internal Revenue Service tax refunds were previously converted. Payments for Supplemental Security Income, Railroad Retirement, Civil Service Retirement and other federal employees will also change to the new check on April 1.

Special publicity efforts are being made to alert government check recipients to the change to avoid confusion.

VA sending letters to delinquent debtors

The Veterans Administration is sending thousands of letters to delinquent debtors informing them that unless efforts are made to pay overdue VA debts, their Federal Income Tax refund may be reduced or denied altogether.

"Unless you take action to liquidate this debt, we intend to refer the debt to the Internal Revenue Service for collection. Any federal income tax refund to which you may be entitled may be offset in full or partial satisfaction of this indebtedness," the letters say.

The letter also provides a nationwide toll-free telephone number for making arrangements to repay the debt. The number is 1-800-626-2912. Minnesota residents may call 1-800-692-2121.
