Economy stayed 'flat' from July-September

By ROBERT FURLOW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Revising its national growth figures downward, the government said today the national economy stayed flat in the July-September quarter rather than inching upward as first estimated.

The Commerce Department report also said U.S. corporations' profits rose slightly in the quarter. However, they remained at a low level.

Neither piece of news was likely to surprise government officials and private economists, who are generally agreed that the recession moved into a 16th month in October and may well be continuing yet.

The inflation-adjusted, or

"real," gross national product stayed at an annual rate of $1.478 trillion, the same as in the second quarter, the new report said.

Commerce Department economists had estimated last month — before all economic data for the third quarter was in — that there had been a gain at an annual rate of 0.8 percent. Since then, officials said newer reports — especially one showing the foreign trade deficit higher than expected for the quarter — made it likely real GNP would be revised downward.

Real GNP — the broadest measure of U.S. economic activity — is a figure designed to include all goods and services produced in a given period. Before adjustment for inflation, the GNP rose 4.7 percent to a rate of $3.081 trillion in the quarter.

The profits picture improved only slightly. In the third quarter, the report said:

— Before-tax corporate profits rose 4.8 percent to an annual rate of $179.9 billion after rising a slim 0.1 percent in the second quarter.

— After-tax profits rose 2.4 percent to a rate of $119.1 billion after a second-quarter gain of 1.3 percent. Many companies have reported poor profits or none at all this year, with sales sluggish and production cut back. Although profits rose a bit in the third quarter, they were far below the annual rates of $233.3 billion before taxes and $150.8 billion after taxes in the same quarter last year.

On the other hand, sluggish demand has helped keep prices from rising as quickly as in recent years. Another figure included in today's report said inflation — as measured by the broad-based GNP implicit price deflator — rose at an annual rate of 4.7 percent in the third quarter rather than the 5.4 percent estimated earlier. The annual rate for the second quarter was 4.6 percent.

As a general rule, there would have to be solid gains

Agents break up huge 'speed' ring

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Federal agents say they have broken a ring that was manufacturing and distributing millions of dollars worth of methamphetamine, also known as "speed," in Texas, Louisiana and New Mexico.

U.S. Attorney Edward Prado and Chuck Carter, special agent in charge of the Drug Enforcement Administration's San Antonio office, announced that 20 people were accused in sealed indictments and were being rounded up late Thursday.

Carter said the drug traffickers called the organization DOPE and Company or "DOPEC," an anagram for Davis, Oberski, Pearson, Epperson and Co. — signifying, he said, the names of the organization's principal members.

Carter said Charles G. Davis, Michael N. Oberski and Norman Richard Epperson were among the defendants arrested Thursday. Names of the other defendants would be withheld until all the arrests were made, he said.

Carter said DOPEC operated since 1978 in Texas, New Mexico and Louisiana and "was formed solely for the purpose of trafficking in the lucrative methamphetamine business."

"It was a close-knit and highly skilled criminal organization consisting of about 50 members throughout the three-state area," Carter said. "It was a gigantic operation. It did $10 million last year."

Prado said a federal grand jury returned a 33-count indictment against the 20 defendants on Tuesday, but arrests did not begin until Thursday.

Carter said the investigation, which involved undercover activity and "legwork" by DEA agents, resulted in the seizing of illegal South Central Texas drug labs at Wimberley, San Marcos, New Braunfels and Fredericksburg.

The organization formerly ran labs in Baton Rouge, La., and Albuquerque, N.M., he said.

The ring moved throughout Texas teaching people how to manufacture the drugs in laboratories, he said.

Carter said two of the defendants, Davis and Oberski, were charged with continuing criminal enterprise, which carries a maximum sentence of life in prison without parole. Davis was arrested Thursday in Amarillo and Oberski was taken into custody at Wimberley, he said.

With $100,000

Retired retailer 'thanks' employees

ST. CLOUD, Minn. (AP) — A retired department store owner wanted "a nice round number" to thank the employees who helped build his company. He came up with two — 100 checks of $1,000 each.

"What good is money if you don't spread it around and give it to people who have done something good for you?" said 78-year-old G.R. Herberger, who sent out the $100,000 to current and former employees this week.

Herberger, who now lives in Paradise Valley, Ariz., founded the St. Cloud-based clothing store bearing his name in 1927 and guided its growth until he sold it to several company executives in 1972.

The Herberger's chain grew to include stores in several cities in Minnesota and in North Dakota, South Dakota and Wisconsin.

Herberger said he thought about thanking his former workers for some time, but said the timing of the checks, mailed Monday and Tuesday, was not significant.

"I've been thinking about it for quite some time and I didn't want to make it a Christmas deal or a Thanksgiving gift or anything like that. I have been awfully close to the people in my organization since its inception," he said Thursday.

Herberger said he chose 100 as the goal for his thank-you list because "I wanted a nice, round number."

He picked the recipients himself from lists of long-time non-management employees provided by store officials.

"When I review my own personal accomplishments, growth and success over the years, I fully realize the tremendous amount of credit has to be given to people such as yourself," Herberger told one recipient in a letter accompanying the check.

Robert Sullivan, the current president of Herberger's, said more than half the recipients were retired. Although there were no specific criteria, he said none of the employees had worked for the company less than 15 years and some had 40 years of service. Financial status was not a factor, and executives and managers were not included.

"It was his gift, not a corporate gift," Sullivan said. One recipient worked with Herberger when he founded the store in 1927 and retired about 40 years ago. Herberger recalled. Like many other employees, the woman helped him through tough times, Herberger said.

"If somebody gave you a lift way back, then it's something you should never forget," he said. "I'm trying to show how grateful I am to all of them for what they have done."

"The response has been just sensational," Sullivan said. "One of the girls who's a current employee said, 'I want to buy something that I can look at and remember was a gift from Mr. Herberger. All these years, all I've had in my apartment was a black and white television. I'm going to buy a color TV.'"

Sullivan said another employee had turned down an invitation to attend a wedding in the South because she couldn't afford it. Now she's going to go, he said.

He said the responses have been "very emotional." "It's emotional for us, too," he added.

Bob Sims, Bobby Owen and Danny Boyer were named Thursday as the 1983 officers for Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce.

Sims, manager of Tri-State Cattle Feeders, was elevated from vice president to president. Owen, a partner in Summerfield Fertilizer, was elected as the new vice president, and Boyer was named as the treasurer. Boyer associated with Hereford Texas Federal Credit Union, will succeed Irene McKinster.

The new officers were nominated by C of C Past Presidents committee and approved by the board of directors during a regular monthly meeting Thursday. They will be installed in January.

In other business Thursday, the chamber board heard progress reports on C of C projects, approved the monthly financial statement and heard a manager's report from executive vice president Mike Carr.

The chamber's sports committee sponsored two football playoff games here last week, with the help of Hereford coaches, and have another game here Friday night. Carr praised the volunteer workers for helping with the tickets and concessions, pointing out that the games bring many fans to Hereford.

The fifth annual "Eat Your Heart Out, Neiman-Marcus" Fun Breakfast is scheduled next Tuesday. Carr announced that many merchants will have display booths at the breakfast. He also reported the retail trade committee is sponsoring a "Shop Hereford" campaign at this time, with free trips to be given away to lucky shoppers. Some 40 firms are participating in the promotion.

Jim Rowton, chairman of the Pheasant Hunt project, was at the meeting and reported that the group was having difficulty obtaining enough land for the hunters who are sending applications. He said a number of farmers are using the hunting leases as a "second crop" this year.

He urged anyone interested

Announcement coming Monday

'Bunching' plan likely for MX missiles

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan is likely to unveil on Monday a long-awaited basing plan for the MX missile that calls for bunching the huge weapons closely together in super-hardened silos to protect them against a Soviet strike.

The announcement is expected to be made in advance of Reagan's address to the nation, at 8 p.m. EST Monday, on arms control and defense issues.

An administration official, speaking privately, said the MX decision would be announced at the White House and Pentagon, and then Reagan would refer to it during his speech in the context of the administration's overall arms reduction plan. The president is expected to say the MX is necessary because of a massive Soviet arms buildup over two decades, the official said.

In advance of his speech, Reagan was due to meet today with the general advisory committee of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency.

Officials at the White House and Pentagon said Reagan probably will follow the recommendation of Pentagon research chief Richard DeLauer and the Air Force that 100 MX missiles be deployed in silos spaced only about 1,800 to 2,000 feet apart. That plan, known as "dense pack," is based on the theory that the blast and radiation from the first attacking enemy missile would destroy or disable the trailing missiles in a phenomenon called "fratricide."

Supporters of the plan say the mutual self-destruction of enemy missiles would spare most of the MXs.

Although the White House committed itself to an announcement Monday, there were some indications that the final form of the deployment was still under discussion and that the last wrinkles in the plan might not be ironed out until sometime over the weekend.

Officials who have been working on the MX proposals have been asked to look at varying options for deploying the MX with "deceptive features."

What this means, said officials who asked to remain anonymous, is that consideration still was being

China replaces top officials

PEKING (AP) — China replaced Foreign Minister Huang Hua and Defense Minister Geng Biao today, the official news agency Xinhua announced. No reasons for the Cabinet shuffle were given.

But the 69-year-old Huang has been reported ill for some time and last year took time off from his job twice for treatment of a kidney infection.

The announcement came three days after Huang and Soviet Foreign minister Andrei A. Gromyko met in Moscow and called for the normalization of relations. Their talks were the highest level exchange between the estranged Communist superpowers since their foreign ministers met in Peking in 1969.

Huang was in the Soviet capital for the funeral Monday of Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev.

Xinhua said Vice Foreign Minister Wu Xueqian, 60, succeeds Huang as foreign minister. It reported the new defense minister is Zhang Aiping, 72, known as an ally of China's top leader Deng Xiaoping. Zhang has been a vice premier and chairman of the Science and Technology Commission for National Defense.

Conservation key at meetings

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Texas' thirst for 19 million acre-feet of water per year may be quenched now, but some experts say that without conservation measures, water sources in the year 2000 could run dry.

State Sen. Grant Jones of Abilene opened a two-day water conference Thursday with a message for lawmakers: any long-range water plan for Texas will have to be based on conservation.

Speakers at the conference, held at Texas A&M University, said Texas' rapid population growth compounds the Lone Star state's water worries.

"With this tremendous growth rate will certainly

Sunday is a red-letter day for many men around the nation — that's the day pro football returns to the boob tube!

While most men have bemoaned the absence of the game from the tv schedule this fall, reaction from women has been both good and bad. Some liked it because it gave them more time with their husbands; some found it unbearable for the same reason!

Speaking of that "spare" time, Johnny Carson predicted on a recent "Tonight" show that there would be a baby-boom next June and July!

The strike lasted so long that many fans had already given up the idea of watching pro football this season. They're not too enthused now, but maybe that will change. It's incredible that a sport, or business, with so much at stake could be sidelined for such a lengthy period. Both sides were to blame, but perhaps the NFL players and the air controllers might be a little more selective in their spokesman in the future.

Police to investigate gaps in accounts

LONDON (AP) — Northern Ireland police are investigating the accounts of John De Lorean's bankrupt auto plant in Belfast because funds allegedly are missing, the London Times reported today.

It said Sir Kenneth Cork, who was appointed receiver for the plant last February, "has identified several areas from which funds have been lost."

The newspaper said Sir Barry Shaw, Northern Ireland Director of Public Prosecutions, was being kept informed about the investigation.

A few hours before De Lorean was arrested in Los Angeles on Oct. 19, the British government announced it was shutting the De Lorean Motor Co. down. De Lorean, charged with cocaine trafficking and racketeering, is now free on a $10 million bond.

The company's private debts are estimated at between $58 million and $64 million.

The biggest private creditor is the Renault Motor Co. of France, which is owed $16.4 million for engines.

The British government's investment since 1978 when the company was founded totals $121.6 million. The plant, which produced futuristic, stainless steel sports cars with gullwing doors, formerly employed 2,600 Irish workers.

The Times said the police investigation was instigated by the Northern Ireland Industrial Development Board, the government agency responsible for monitoring De Lorean finance.

The Times said it did not know the amount of money alleged to be unaccounted for, "but the amount is believed to be large."

Cork announced Oct. 30 that an American firm, Consolidated International Inc., based in Columbus, Ohio, had bought an option to restart production of the sports car at the Belfast plant.

Talks resumed in 8-month strike

PORT NECHES, Texas (AP) — Negotiations between union leaders and officials of the B.F. Goodrich synthetic rubber plant are "moving forward" after several weeks away from the bargaining table, officials say.

Talks resumed Wednesday aimed at ending the 8-month strike by 400 pipefitters and machinists, said Bob Straface, manager of employee relations for Goodrich.

"I think you could say we are moving forward," Straface said.

The company held negotiations with machinists last week, but had not met with the pipefitters' union for several weeks.

Straface said no new negotiations were scheduled after Wednesday's 2½-hour meeting.

"Right now, we're studying what we talked about yesterday," he said Thursday.

Meanwhile, Goodrich officials planned to shut down the plant from 6 p.m. Nov. 20 until about the same time on Nov. 28 because of poor "business conditions," Straface said.

The shutdown also will give supervisory employees a break from their 12-hour-a-day, 7-day-a-week strike schedules.

The plant was closed twice over the summer because of a high inventory, and decreased demand for synthetic rubber compounds.

Supply company to close plant

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) — A Johnson & Johnson Inc. subsidiary will shut down its plant here and lay off all 195 employees because of poor conditions in the surgical supply industry, a spokesman said.

Surgikos Inc., which manufactures disposable surgical gowns, surgical supply packs and other surgical items, will transfer operations from its 43,000 square-foot plant here to facilities in El Paso, Texas, and Juarez, Mexico.

Employees were informed several weeks ago the company was considering closing the plant, and were told Thursday the facility would be shut down.

"It is with regret that we take this action, in light of the splendid cooperation the company has received throughout the years from our employees, local officials and the business community," said Surgikos President Ernst Tanner.

"We are especially concerned because the effect of this action on our employees, and our first priority is to provide job out-placement assistance," Tanner said. "We will continue our efforts to find new work for employees until the plant is closed."

The company cited "intense" competition and "the difficult general economic climate" as forces behind the closing of the plant, which opened in 1967.

Poll shows favor to programs

NEW YORK (AP) — Three of four Americans favor the idea of a new federal jobs program to reduce unemployment, according to the latest Associated Press-NBC News poll.

And more people would like to see such a program funded by cuts in defense spending than by a delay in the next scheduled income tax cut or by increases in other taxes, the poll said.

For the nationwide telephone poll, 1,583 adults were interviewed in a scientific random sampling.

The responses also indicated increasing optimism about the economy. Forty-three percent said they think the economy will get better during the next year, while 19 percent said it will get worse. 33 percent said it will stay the same and 5 percent were not sure.

In the August AP-NBC News poll, 36 percent said the economy will get better and 28 percent said it will get worse.

In the latest poll, 76 percent said they generally favored the idea of the federal government setting up a new jobs program to reduce unemployment.

Given a choice among defense spending cuts, a delay in next year's scheduled income tax cut or increases in other taxes, the 76 percent split this way in choosing how a jobs program should be funded: cuts in defense spending, 27 percent; a delay in the tax cut, 15 percent; and increases in other taxes, 15 percent. Nineteen percent were either not sure or said they preferred cuts in some other budget areas.

With the nation's unemployment rate at 10.4 percent, there have been various proposals in Washington in recent weeks to create hundreds of thousands of jobs working on highways and bridges. One proposal backed by Transportation Secretary Drew Lewis would raise the federal gasoline tax to fund the program, but Democratic proposals instead support defense spending cuts and higher taxes for the wealthy.

In the poll, a plurality — 30 percent to 37 percent — said it was more important for the federal government to help control unemployment rather than inflation. In a follow-up question, 54 percent majority said they were personally more concerned with inflation than unemployment.

Respondents who said inflation was more important were twice as likely as those who said unemployment to oppose a jobs program. Republicans were more likely to say inflation and Democrats unemployment, but even among Republicans 6 of 10 supported a jobs program.

The higher the respondents' income, the more likely they were to say inflation is more important.

to predict the economy will improve and to oppose a jobs program.

As with all sample surveys, the results of AP-NBC News polls can vary from the opinions of all Americans because of chance variations in the sample.

For a poll based on about 1,500 interviews, the results are subject to an error margin of 3 percentage points either way because of chance variations. That is, if one could have talked this past week to all Americans with telephones, there is only 1 chance in 20 that the findings would vary by more than 3 percentage points.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:
Hi! I'm a lonely Texas boy locked away here in the Indiana State Prison. I was wondering if YOU could help me find someone to correspond with. I have very little family left, and receive almost no mail... I have written to a few church groups in my area, but no reply... I would like very much to hear from your readers.

I consider myself a good person, with good thoughts; maybe even I could help bring a little joy and cheer into some other lonely person's life; it would sure brighten up my life in doing so.

This prison cell gets pretty lonely at times, especially at mail time, as I watch the mail man walk on by.

Any help will be greatly appreciated.

Thank you for your time, and consideration

GNP — from page one in real GNP for two straight quarters before there would be wide agreement the recession had ended.

And that clearly hasn't happened yet, with the figure rising at a very modest annual rate of 2.1 percent in the second quarter after plunging at rates of 5.3 percent and 5.1 percent in the two previous periods.

Since the third quarter, business conditions hardly seem to have improved, with industrial production falling again in October, manufacturers' use of their factory capacity hitting the lowest level ever recorded and unemployment rising to 10.4 percent, the highest in 42 years.

Retail sales did rise 0.6 percent in October, and Americans' total personal income gained 0.7 percent.

But economists said sales will have to pick up more quickly if consumers are to spend the nation out of recession as some officials are hoping. And Commerce

Secretary Malcolm Baldrige conceded that the personal income gain was influenced not so much by wage and salary gains but by "special factors," such as a big jump in unemployment compensation to workers laid off in the recession.

President Reagan told reporters on Wednesday he is considering asking Congress to move up the effective date of next year's tax-rate cut in order to put more money in consumers' pockets and perhaps stimulate the economy.

However, congressional reaction Thursday indicated it was far from certain such legislation could be passed.

Many members of Congress seemed concerned about the likelihood that moving the tax cut up would also add to the already soaring federal deficit. In fact, some congressmen are pressing to delay the July 1 effective date rather than advancing it to Jan. 1.

Clements trims list possibilities

By GARTH JONES
AP Political Writer

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements says he may make one of his most important appointments today, the new chief justice of the Texas Supreme Court, after narrowing a list of would-be appointees to three people.

If the appointment is not made today, it apparently will be made next week because Clements said there would be no announcements on Saturday.

"We have a very short list and we are doing our homework with both the ones being considered as well as the leadership of the House and Senate," he said Thursday.

Carolyn Canon, president of the Women's Division, announced that the Christmas Lighting ceremony has been scheduled for Dec. 6, an event where downtown lights are turned on and Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus make their appearance. The group is also planning for the annual Home Lighting Contest.

The Republican governor was asked if the list of three names contained that of a woman.

"There was, but there is not now," he replied. "Any blacks or Hispanics?"

"There was, but not on the short list." Clements also said the name of John Hill, Austin attorney and former state attorney general, was not on the short list. Hill has been considered a possible Democratic candidate for the position in the 1984 elections come more demands for water for both the urban and agriculture sectors," said Perry L. Adkisson, deputy chancellor for agriculture at A&M.

"The quality of the water also will continue to increase in importance as we move through the coming decades," Adkisson said.

Texas' 1980 population of 14.2 million could jump to 25 million by the year 2000, forcing a tremendous demand on water resources, particularly in the Houston area, Adkisson said.

The state's water usage could increase 25 percent in the next 20 years, he added.

Jones, chairman of the Texas Senate Finance Committee, said solutions to water problems in the past relied on federal funds, which for a full six-year term.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, a Democrat, said he talked with Clements Wednesday night and recommended that Clements leave the appointment of a new Supreme Court justice to Gov.-elect Mark White, a Democrat.

Clements told reporters that Hobby has approved "some" of the three names on the final list.

The appointee would replace former Chief Justice Joe Greenhill, who resigned Oct. 25 to enter private law practice with two years remaining in his term.

The lame duck governor said he had paid no attention to a letter that 14 Democratic senators, out of 31, wrote to Clements threatening to vote against any of his appointees.

The senators said the appointments, particularly the one to the Supreme Court, should be left to White, who defeated Clements in the Nov. 2 election.

"I haven't even read it," Clements said about the letter. "I'm going to do what I intend to do. I think that the Senate will cooperate... I really don't anticipate any problems in the Senate. A lot of problems have a lot worse bark than a bite. As you know, I am an optimist, and I'm also a realist."

Clements said he was using the same criteria he had used on other appointments but "this person must be of especially high quality in a professional sense, recognized by his peers of being of unusual ability and good judgment, and I would not think of appointing someone that would not meet that criteria."

Clements said it was a "possibility" he would appoint someone who would seek re-election as a Republican two years from now, but said that is not part of his criteria and "never has been in any of these judicial appointments."

Whenever young persons write to you and say they want to have plastic surgery to correct a nose they don't like or ears that stick out, please encourage them to do it.

I am 51 years of age and have hated my nose ever since I was a young girl. During my teen years I begged my folks to let me have plastic surgery, but they said they couldn't afford it. I figured one day I would save my own money and have it done, but something else always came first.

I met a nice guy who said my nose looked fine to him. We were married and raised five good children. Whenever I mentioned getting my nose done he would say, "What for? There is nothing wrong with it."

If I could afford it and a doctor told me I had only three months to live, I would have had my nose done. I wish plastic surgeons would give a break to people like me who can't pay their fees. — One Who Nose In N.Y.C.

DEAR ONE: Start saving NOW and I'll bet anything there's a kind plastic surgeon around who will make your dream come true. (Send me a picture when it happens!)

New director of development named

Lila Vars, who has worked as associate registrar at West Texas State University for the past eight years, has been appointed as the new director of development at WTSU.

She assumed duties as the major fund-raiser of the university immediately following her appointment. Dr. Don Cates, dean of admissions and registrar, said a replacement in the Registrar's Office will be hired "as soon as possible," although the title and duties may vary.

"She's been such a valuable person to this office that she'll be a difficult person to replace," he said. Vars will be the second director of development at WTSU. The position was created in 1973 when Keith Winter became director of development. He was involved in recruiting and fund-raising, in addition to several other activities until he resigned in August to join a community development firm in Dallas.

Vars will raise funds for the university as she travels throughout the Panhandle region. She will be responsible for the President's Development Fund and the Endowment for Excellence. The Development Office also administers a number of memorial scholarship funds.

She also will serve in an advisory capacity to the WTSU Foundation, whose members are Panhandle area residents who assist WTSU administrators with fund-raising.

"This is a role of continuing importance to West Texas State University," said Dr. Gail Shannon, WTSU president. "Mrs. Vars, in her role of associate registrar, built an outstanding reputation in her relationship with students, faculty, academic administrators, prospective students and parents."

"Her fine background should permit her to move ahead immediately in various areas of fund developments that are critical in the growing life of WTSU."

A graduate of Friona High School and Texas Tech University with a bachelor's degree in education, Vars taught at schools in Lubbock and Canyon before joining the registrar's staff at WTSU in 1974.

In addition to her duties as associate registrar, she served as director of the Office of Programs for Women for two years and was chairperson of the governing board of the Children's Center.

She was instrumental in establishing a location for the Children's Center at the WTSU Fieldhouse and beginning the center for the care and instruction of children of WTSU students, faculty and staff members. She also traveled as a recruiter.

Since August, she has supervised the activities of the WTSU Campus Services students, who serve as official hosts and hostesses of the university, and the WTSU Student Foundation. Members of the WTSU Student Foundation raised more than $50,000 in pledges during the October phone campaign. The total is beyond the $40,000 goal.

She is a member of the Alpha Delta Pi sorority

Alumnae Association, and an honorary member of Scribes Honor Society, a member of Wives, Etc., and Women Involved in New Goals and Chaired three Texas Panhandle Distinguished Service Awards luncheons.

She also serves as an active participant on nine university committees including Parents Day and Buffalo Branding, the successful orientation program for beginning freshman students.

Community service has been important to Vars. She joined a local federated women's club in 1966 and became president to serve the Top of Texas District of Federated Clubs. A number of duties involved more than 2,000 women from 73 clubs.

She also is a member of the Canyon Study Club and was elected to a three-year term on the board of the Canyon Independent School District in 1981. She chairs the scholarship committee and teaches a class at the First Baptist Church of Canyon.

Vars is married to Don Max Vars, who is chairperson of the board of the First National Bank of Canyon. Their two daughters are Mayla Vars Paris, a sophomore mathematics education major at WTSU, and Misty, a junior at Canyon High School.

Mike Moon speaks at club meeting

Mike Moon was guest speaker at the Tuesday evening meeting of the Toujour Amis Study Club. The group met in the home of Diana White.

During the club's September meeting, Moon had distributed an adjective checklist to members. He then took the results and compiled the information into two paragraphs on each person.

The paragraphs included information about the individual's personality and how they should deal with problems and people. After the paragraphs were read, Moon led a discussion on children and discipline.

Following the program, a meal of lasagna, salad, and hot bread was served by hostesses Ms. White, Pam Perrin and Lori Hall. Nancy Reagan served brownies for dessert.

A brief business meeting was held before the close of the meeting. Members discussed a Christmas party for their children. The next club meeting will be a Christmas social for all members with a gift exchange and meal.

Members in attendance included, Robbi Ames, Nanette Ashley, Marcia Boyer, Shannon Hagar, Karen Keeling, Beverley Lambert, Marilyn Leasure, Rhonda Long, Teri Morgan.

Also, Pam Perrin, Susan Perrin, Susan Sublett, Katy Timmons, Charlotte Tyler, Nena Veazey and Ms. White.

Frost can damage window frames, sills

As winter approaches, homeowners should give attention to winter-fogged windows, since moisture from condensation can cause major damage to window frames and sills.

Condensation — or frost — will appear on windows when the temperature of the glass falls below the dew point, reminds Dr. Jane Berry, housing and home furnishings specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

To reduce the problem while maintaining a comfortable level of humidity in the home, take measures to keep the inner glass from getting excessively cold. Careful installation of storm windows is one way to insulate glass and solve the problem. Make certain that storm windows have quarter-inch vents in the frame where the storm sash meets the will. If they don't, drill holes through the frames. The opening allows the moisture to dissipate," Berry explains. If condensation persists, try placing a teaspoon of silica gel is commonly used for drying flowers and can often be found in flower shops or craft outlets, the specialist notes.

"Interior windows will often ice up when shades or draperies are closed because most window treatments separate the cold glass from the warmer inside air, allowing the glass to cool below the dew point temperature," Berry says.

In the event that sealed, insulated window treatments are used, they should contain a vapor barrier, which may be a sheet of plastic, polyethylene or vinyl. "Always place the barrier as close to the warm side as possible. Any vapor barrier must be tightly sealed on all sides to be effective," she adds.

Berry says the best test of a seal is whether or not condensation occurs. Different homes require differing degrees of tightness depending on humidity.

Basketball season gets underway Tuesday

Boys picked last in 3-5A;

Girls tabbed as high as 4th

BY LES GILES
Sports Editor

Coming off a 7-21 season a year ago, boys coach Bobby Decker is generally optimistic, while girls coach Larry Sowers, following a solid 20-5 campaign, approaches the upcoming basketball season with a question mark.

Both Herd coaches, however, feel pretty much the same way.

If certain things happen, both might find themselves in the thick of 3-5A chase in which the top two teams advance into the playoffs.

Hereford's boys have been picked last in the district race in most pre-season polls, and that's OK with Decker. Sowers' club, a definite contender in the 4-5A race the past few seasons, has been picked as high as fourth.

"I feel we can be a lot better than we were a year ago," Decker said.

"It's kind of hard to put your finger on it, either. We don't have much size. But, this group of kids has worked very hard in the off season, and they've got a great attitude."

"It's almost like they expect to go out and have a good season. They've had a lot of intensity in pre-season workouts."

"I think a big key for us will be to have some success early. If they are going to turn things around they're going to have to gain some confidence pretty quick."

Sowers said simply:

"I don't know how we'll wind up doing this season. We could have a pretty good year, but at this time it's just too early to tell."

"We just don't have any experience this year. We lost eight players to graduation, and they'll be hard to replace."

"I think for us to be successful this season, our guards are going to have to come through, and we have no experience returning there."

"We have some girls who have some ability, so I think the opportunity is there to win some. Just how much I really don't know."

The 1982-83 basketball season for Hereford's two varsity teams begin next Tuesday. Both will host Levelland.

This year, the basketball games will be played in the high school gym. In years past, the boys had played at LaPlata. But, this year, both teams will play their games in the high school gym.

Following the Levelland games, Hereford's boys and girls travel to Dimmitt Nov. 26. For the boys, it'll be a matchup against the defending Class 3A state champion - a team which returns four starters.

Hereford's girls begin District 3-5A play Nov. 30 when they travel to Palo Duro. The boys' district opener will be Dec. 7 at home against Caprock.

In other AFC games, Baltimore, 0-2, visits the New York Jets, 1-1, New England, workouts immediately after the agreement was reached. The Super Bowl champion San Francisco 49ers had a limited practice Tuesday night, taking advantage of the three-hour time difference between New York, where the negotiations were held and their base in California. The Jets skipped Wednesday practice when the club refused to open their camp until the agreement was initiated by both sides Thursday.

Four teams, including the Lions, must come right back with games four days after Sunday, on Thanksgiving Day. In those contests, Cleveland plays at Dallas and the Giants will be at Detroit.

The teams go into Sunday's action with expanded active rosters of 49 players instead of the 45 active and four-man reserve units they had been using. It was decided to increase the number of active players to compensate for possible injuries and fatigue caused by the eight-week layoff. In addition, for the next two weeks, teams can restore players from their injured reserve lists without risking them or the players they replace to waivers. Regular waiver rules will resume after two games have been played.

The players are scheduled to vote on the contract settlement Tuesday. But first, they will play football for the first time since the walkout began Sept. 21, interrupting an NFL regular season for the first time in 63 years.

Terry Shelton, at 6-2, is expected to start at center, while Brian Taylor (6-1) and Steve Welch (6-2) will probably open at forwards.

"I kinda like being picked near the bottom of the district," Decker added.

Cowboys host Tampa Bay Sunday

7 teams unbeaten as NFL season resumes

By The Associated Press

The strike-fragmented National Football League season resumes Sunday with a new look for the standings.

Forget the familiar divisional breakdowns. They don't mean much in the framework of the new playoff system which will qualify 16 teams for what the NFL has termed the Super Bowl Tournament. What's significant now are the American and National Conference standings because the top eight clubs in both will advance to the postseason play.

Going into the resumed season, there are seven undefeated 2-0 teams, four in the AFC and three in the NFC. Two of them meet head-on with the Miami Dolphins traveling to Buffalo to meet the Bills in a key AFC showdown.

The remaining AFC unbeaten are Pittsburgh, which resumes against Houston, 1-1, and the Raiders, who will make their Los Angeles debut Monday night against San Diego, 1-1.

In the NFC, unbeaten Detroit and Washington go on the road against winless opponents, the Lions at Chicago and the Redskins at the New York Giants. Green Bay, also 2-0, hosts 1-1 Minnesota at Milwaukee.

In other AFC games, Baltimore, 0-2, visits the New York Jets, 1-1, New England,

1-1, is at Cleveland, 1-1, and Seattle, 0-2, at Denver, 1-1. In the NFC, the Los Angeles Rams, 0-2, play at Atlanta, 1-1. San Francisco, 0-2, is at St. Louis, 1-1, and Tampa Bay, 0-2, goes against Dallas, 1-1. Interconference pairings have Cincinnati, 1-1, at Philadelphia, 1-1, and Kansas City, 1-1, at New Orleans, 1-1. All of the teams will be playing on short preparation time. Most clubs resumed workouts immediately after the agreement was reached. The Super Bowl champion San Francisco 49ers had a limited practice Tuesday night, taking advantage of the three-hour time difference between New York, where the negotiations were held and their base in California. NFL fans are divided

NEW YORK (AP) — An Associated Press-NBC News poll shows professional football fans divided over the resumption of the strike-fragmented National Football League season.

Questioned on Monday and Tuesday as the strike was ending were 723 people, who said they follow the pro game. Of the group in the nationwide, scientific random sampling, 472 were interviewed before the agreement was announced and 251 after it occurred.

Of the total, 56 percent said the NFL should cancel the remainder of the season. Of those questioned before the settlement was announced, 64 percent felt that games should not be resumed.

After the settlement, 49 percent said the season should still be canceled and 45 percent said play should resume. Six percent were not sure.

Of those questioned before the settlement was announced, 64 percent said the players should accept the owners' latest offer.

Ed Garvey, executive director of the striking players association, received an unfavorable rating from 53 percent of those questioned. Garvey received a positive reaction from 16 percent while 31 percent had no opinion of the union chief.

In a poll the size of the AP-NBC sample, results are subject to an error margin of 4 percentage points because of chance variations.

Says Bobby Knight

Current Russian basketball team is best ever

By WILL GRIMSLEY AP
Special Correspondent

The Russians are no longer just coming, they're already here — and Bobby Knight suggests we better batten down the hatches. "I've been watching Russian basketball teams since 1974 and this one is the best I've seen," says the Indiana University coach, who has been vested with the job of fashioning and leading the U. S. team in the 1984 Olympic Games in Los Angeles.

"I have never seen a foreign team as fluid as these guys. They have excellent agility. Their movements are good. They have tall boys who are wonderful athletes — very quick, can jump and run.

"It will take a very good team to beat them."

The Soviet Union's visiting national team opened a series of games with leading U. S. college teams Sunday a week ago, testing the waters against Knight's Hoosiers and winning 87-77. They lost a double overtime game against Virginia 94-87 Wednesday night and beat Illinois 77-70 Thursday night before tackling Purdue, Iowa and Kentucky in the series of one-stop stands, ending this week.

The Russians are led by a 17-year-old, 7-foot-2 string-bean named Arvidas Sabonis, who against Indiana scored 25 points, grabbed eight rebounds, blocked three shots and generally dominated the floor.

"He is an excellent athlete," Knight said, "a big kid with great instincts. But this is not a team of individuals. It is a team with a lot of fine players who work together marvelously."

It's a young squad with only one holdover from the 1980 Moscow Olympic team, beaten out by Yugoslavia for the gold medal. That is Nicolai Deryugin, 23, five years with the USSR national team.

"Most overseas teams play a mechanical, stereotyped game, as if following instructions in a book," Knight said. "Not these fellows. They flow with the action, improvise and react instinctively — the closest thing I've seen to an American team."

On one of his American stops, the veteran USSR coach, Alexandr Gomelski, was asked where Sabonis came from.

"From Kaunas," he replied.

"Where's that?" someone asked.

"Basketball country, basketball country," he said with a broad smile.

Basketball is relatively new in the Soviet Union, the first Olympic team was fielded in 1972 in Helsinki. The early teams were big, slow and awkward. All the strategy was gleaned from books by such legendary U. S. teaching masters as Claire Bee and Nat Holman.

Once they thought height and strength were the secret. They put a monster of a man named Kurminsch — 7-3 and close to 300 pounds — under the basket. But he proved a hunk of concrete. He couldn't jump. He moved sluggishly. The Yanks ran rings around him.

But the game in the vast Soviet Union has come a long way since those days. There are 3.6 million registered players in the country of 280 million, 1.3 of them graded athletes, meaning they are competition worthy. Twelve hundred are Masters of Sport — the USSR's highest echelon.

The current 12-man squad touring the United States comprise the cream of this great reservoir. There is no professionalism — as such — in the Communist USSR.

Cotton Bowl berth on the line

Arkansas-SMU grid shootout set Saturday

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

The long-anticipated Arkansas-Southern Methodist Southwest Conference football shoot-out begins at 2:50 p.m. Saturday and a Cotton Bowl berth awaits the Mustangs if they can win or tie.

No. 2 ranked SMU was rated a two-point pick over the Razorbacks in sold-out, 65,000 capacity Texas Stadium, with the regional television cameras of ABC looking on.

The defending SWC champion Mustangs already have clinched a tie for the title by virtue of their miraculous 34-27 victory over Texas Tech last week. SMU is 10-0 and 7-0 in league play.

No. 9 rated Arkansas, which was upset 24-17 by Baylor two weeks ago, still has dreams of being in the Cotton Bowl.

The Razorbacks, bolstered by some 25,000 fans who will make the journey to Irving, Texas, for the game, can be

Hale Center-Panhandle clash tonight

They reached this point by different methods, yet one thing's for sure, an off night sends you home packing.

That's what Hale Center and Panhandle face tonight when they meet at 7:30 in Whiteface Stadium in a Class 2A area playoff game.

The winner advances to next week's regional playoffs, against the winner of tonight's New Deal-Reagan County clash, while the loser calls it a season.

Hale Center (9-0-2) is a six-point favorite, according to this week's Harris Rating System poll. Panhandle comes into the contest 9-2 overall.

Hale Center survived a less-than-superb effort last week to get this far. The Owls were tied, 15-15, by Hamlin, but advanced on first downs, 11-6.

the host team in the Cotton Bowl New Year's Day by beating SMU and then downing Texas on Dec. 4 in Austin.

Texas has only one league loss, to SMU, and will have to settle for a Sun Bowl bid.

Should Arkansas lose to SMU, the Razorbacks will be in line for a Bluebonnet Bowl bid in Houston Dec. 31. SMU would go to the Bluebonnet if Arkansas makes it to the Cotton Bowl.

In other SWC games, Texas was a seven-point choice over

Rangers name new coaches

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Wayne Terwilliger will be the only coach retained on the staff of new Texas Rangers manager Doug Rader for the 1983 season, according to Rangers general manager Joe Klein.

Klein said Thursday Terwilliger, 57, who has been the third base coach for the American League team for the past two seasons, is among five coaches hired for next season.

The other coaches hired were Rich Donnelly, Dick Such, Merv Rettenmund, and Glenn Ezell.

How better energy decisions make the difference

You and Southwestern Public Service Company are partners, making energy decisions that make the difference.

How you manage electricity in your home helps us make our decisions about generating power to meet the electrical requirements of the Southwest. For when you install a High-Efficiency Add-On Heat Pump, you can manage the electricity used for your home's heating and cooling — which helps SPS determine how much power you, and the Southwest, will need.

So that economical power will always be available, SPS is developing better ways to generate electricity. One way is with coal.

Construction is now completed on the first unit of our second coal-fired power plant, Tolk Station, which is now on-line and generating electricity. Harrington Station, SPS's first coal-fired power plant, has been operating since the early 1970s.

As partners we have made energy decisions which have built Tolk Station. We're proud of the new power plant as you will be too. You're invited to the Open House of Tolk Station between Muleshoe and Earth, Texas. Just follow the map and join us Saturday 10 to 4 p.m., November 20, or Sunday 1 to 4 p.m., November 21. Come as you are, dress casually. There will be refreshments and guided tours for the whole family.

proposed MX missile site

MX Dense-Pack Plan

The new proposal to deploy the MX missile would place 100 missiles closely together in the special underground silos designed to withstand a nuclear blast. This drawing is from "USA Today" a new nationally-circulated newspaper.

Controversy over MX missile fired up again

The MX missile controversy has fired up again, this time in Clovis, N.M., where a reported 100 farmers and ranchers gathered Wednesday night to discuss latest developments about a new development system.

The Clovis area has been prominently mentioned, along with a Wyoming site, as the possible location for a "dense pack" method of placing the weapons.

About two years ago, residents of Eastern New Mexico and West Texas protested the possible location of an MX system using underground railroad tracks. That proposal failed to materialize.

The new deployment idea calls for placing 100 MX missiles about a third of a mile apart, in steel-and-concrete silos. The missiles would be arranged in a rectangle, about one mile wide and about 12 miles long. It would cost about $35 billion.

according to Defense Department estimates.

At the Clovis meeting, April Moore, coordinator of the Washington-based National Campaign to Stop the MX, said that if the missiles are deployed near Cannon Air Force Base, this area would become a "Nuclear sponge" for the rest of the nation.

Miss Moore added that such a plan would create a hair-trigger response situation, leaving too much chance for an accidental nuclear war, and that she does not believe it is a valid defense system. "We should be spending our money one developing more sea and air-based systems."

Several county Land Owners Associations sponsored the Clovis meeting, and they were opposed because of economic reasons. They don't want to see valuable land torn up for the missile system. Some were critical of the area businessmen who support the MX on the basis of the economic impact to the area.

According to the new "USA Today" newspaper, Sen. Ernest Hollings (D-S.C.) will lead a new fight to block funding for production of the MX missile. And Hollings thinks he has enough votes in the Senate to do that.

The newspaper also reported that Secretary of Defense Caspar Weinberger is expected to back the plan, though he may modify it, and President Reagan has a Dec. 1 deadline to make a recommendation to Congress.

The MX missile is a 98-ton, seven-story intercontinental missile that will carry up to 10 nuclear warheads, each able to strike different targets. It is intended to counter Soviet advances that have produced more accurate and larger missiles.

Today In History

By The Associated Press Today is Friday, Nov. 19, the 323rd day of 1982. There are 42 days left in the year. Today's highlight in history:

On Nov. 19, 1493, Christopher Columbus discovered Puerto Rico.

On this date:

In 1942, Russian forces in World War II staged a counterattack at Stalingrad, surrounding the German troops.

In 1961, about 4,900 Algerian rebels in French prisons ended a 19-day hunger strike on the assurance they would be treated as political prisoners.

In 1970, the Vatican pledged support to a United Nations plan for narrowing the economic gap between rich and poor nations.

And, in 1980, Israeli Prime Minister Begin narrowly survived a vote of confidence, with former defense minister Ezer Weizman among those voting to bring down the government.

Ten years ago: Willy Brandt was re-elected as chancellor of West Germany in federal elections.

Five years ago: Egyptian President Anwar Sadat arrived in Israel on his peace mission to that country.

One year ago: U.S. Steel

Corp. announced a $6.3 billion plan to take over Marathon Oil Co., thus surpassing a bid from the Mobil Corp.

Thought for today: "The greatest of faults is to be conscious of none." — Thomas Carlyle, Scottish essayist (1795-1881).

Veterans receive questionnaire

Many veterans and dependents in Texas received annual income questionnaire cards with their November pension checks.

It is important that those questionnaires be completed and returned by Jan. 1, so that future benefits may continue, said the Director, Waco Veterans Administration Regional Office.

Not all veterans and dependents received those questionnaires, he noted. But those who did must return them on time — or future benefits will be automatically suspended.

Personal assistance in completing those cards may be obtained by visiting or telephoning the Waco VA Regional Office toll-free number listed in your telephone directory.

Capital is invaded, surrenders to nostalgia

WASHINGTON (AP) — Afrika Korps roars through the desert. Washington was invaded by foreign armies today. All who saw the columns of troops were immediately overcome by nostalgia and surrendered to childhood memories.

The invaders — 12,000 strong — are antique toy soldiers from the collection of millionaire magazine publisher Malcolm Forbes, 63, who said he bought a squadron or two at an auction 15 years ago and "I just kept adding more. I couldn't resist."

Forbes' battalions went on display in the National Geographic Society's Explorer Hall, where they will remain until Easter.

His collection of 80,000 toy soldiers, the world's largest, is usually kept — "permanently garrisoned," he said — in a palace in Tangier, Morocco, where the Arabic edition of Forbes is published.

Those troops bivouacking in Washington this winter are displayed in realistic panoramas and dioramas: Aztec warriors in feather regalia battle Cortez' invading troops. The armies of Alexander the Great are locked in combat against the Persians. Rommel's motorized Morocco.

A Norwegian polar expedition, complete with huskies, battles the snow and the cold. Hitler and Mussolini take the salute as the Nazi Wehrmacht parades past the Führer's mountain retreat. William Tell takes arrow in hand to shoot the apple off his son's head.

The collection is under the care of Britons Peter and Anne Johnson. Mrs. Johnson was an antique dealer from whom Forbes bought soldiers. They now spend part of their lives as curators, assembling the collection in Morocco. Forbes adds to it, "but by now it is a highly selective draft," says Johnson, who turned his acquired expertise into a book, "Toy Armies," published last year by Doubleday.

These toys, each individually painted, cost a penny apiece when Forbes was a boy. New ones of comparable individuality might sell now for $8 each, but rare antique soldiers can command $200 apiece, Johnson said.

"Living well is the best revenge." George Herbert

...communicating ideas with art 800 years ago and we're still using art today as an effective means of communication

These crude drawings etched into volcanic rock are easily seen near Albuquerque, N.M. They were done between 1100 and 1600 AD, and are among the best examples of ancient Indian art.

Today art has taken on a more polished look and its role in communications has taken on a greater meaning. In newspaper advertising, art helps communicate business ideas. This newspaper maintains an extensive file of art covering every major facet of retail business for use by its advertisers. This art is provided at no cost except for the cost of advertising space.

Art along with copy, combined in an attractive layout created by one of our advertising staffers, can do an effective selling job for your business. We do the entire job, from the creation of the idea through the polished ad. If your business could use a little more business, contact us today.

Mexican students hijack 31 buses during siege

CIUDAD JUÁREZ, Mexico (AP) — Agriculture students in this Mexican border town who were protesting a shortage of school funds seized 31 buses and two gas tankers during a 6-hour siege that ended without violence, Ciudad Juarez police say.

Students at the Escuela Superior de Agricultura hijacked the buses early Wednesday, forced hundreds of travelers into the streets and threatened to drive the buses to Chihuahua City in an attempt to set up a meeting with Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo, officials in this city of 1 million said.

The diesel and gas tankers were released soon after about 20 club-wielding students seized the buses, most of which were traveling northward from Mexico City and Chihuahua, police said.

The incident ended Wednesday morning when the school opened and most of the protesters returned to the classrooms. Officials said no one was injured, no meeting was set up with Lopez Portillo and no students were arrested. But one officer who declined to be identified said, "we know who the dissidents are."

Students at the private college have been upset since discovering the school could run out of money by December. The last year, they have sought financial assistance from the state university system in Chihuahua. Lopez Portillo was visiting Chihuahua on a northern tour of Mexico when the incident started. Students at one point threatened to drive the buses to Chihuahua to meet the president.

Several hundred travelers were forced off the buses in the middle of the night when students armed with wooden sticks stopped the vehicles just south of Juarez along the PanAmerican Highway and road to Casas Grandes, police said.

Construction halted on nuclear power plant

MOSCOW, Ohio (AP) - More than 10 years after construction began, the William H. Zimmer Power Station sits silent on the banks of the Ohio River, a $1.7 billion nuclear power plant that still isn't finished.

Building the facility has been a decade-long headache for Cincinnati Gas & Electric Co., the plant's manager, and for co-owners Dayton Power & Light Co. and Columbus & Southern Ohio Electric Co.

CG&E has sunk $680 million into Zimmer, Dayton Power & Light $535.5 million and Columbus & Southern Ohio $484.5 million.

And the costs could go even higher, especially after the Nuclear Regulatory Commission last week ordered the utilities to halt all key plant construction because of design flaws.

The NRC said construction can resume only after the commission's regional administrator, James Keppler, is satisfied that design and construction defects have been corrected and that there is little likelihood new ones will be found.

The order is only the latest in a series of problems that have plagued the plant since it was first proposed by Cincinnati Gas & Electric in 1969, with a cost projected at $240 million.

Utility officials say that since then, the company has been picked to death because the NRC keeps changing its rules. They complain of a change in national attitudes about nuclear power - from an era of naivete during the first generation of nuclear plants to what they call the paranoia that surfaced in the late 1970s.

In May 1971, when site preparation for Zimmer began some 30 miles up the Ohio River from Cincinnati, there were 21 nuclear generating plants operating in the United States, 36 under construction and 37 more planned, according to the Atomic Energy Commission.

Today, there are 76 plants licensed, 74 being constructed and fewer than a half dozen on the drawing boards, the NRC says. Of the 11 plants granted construction permits in 1971-72, all except Zimmer and two other complexes are licensed.

"We were caught, I think, in a transition time," said

Cincinnati Gas & Electric senior vice president Earl Borgmann, who has taken most of the criticism for the Zimmer project.

"The first generation of plants had been in service and had proven out to be commercially available," he said. "In other words, you were beyond the experimental stage: you were now at a technology level where you could go buy a plant and place it in operation."

The engineering study was handed by a reputable Chicago firm, and a San Francisco company was hired as primary contractor. CG&E learned several years later that it would be ultimately responsible for every nut and bolt, every weld and every square yard of concrete in Zimmer.

"We're getting into a lot of technicalities, and we are being made to toe the mark to criteria today that really was not the criteria six or seven years ago when some of this stuff was built," Borgmann said.

"I maintain that the quality up there is as good as any other plant in the United States. What the NRC is saying is we simply don't have the documentation to prove it."

Last November the NRC imposed a $200,000 fine on Cincinnati Gas & Electric following an investigation into what it called a widespread breakdown in construction controls. It mentioned instances of harassment and intimidation of inspectors and falsification of documents.

A group that has been critical of the facility, the privately funded Government Accountability Project, said last week that one of its lawyers, Thomas Devine, has been subpoenaed to testify Dec. 7 before a grand jury looking into the allegations of harassment and intimidation at the plant.

CG&E president William Dickhoner has criticized the latest NRC order halting construction, saying the action "appears to be precipitous, punitive and does nothing to resolve the problems."

"It will only increase the cost and time required to complete the plant," he said. "It would appear that the order resulted from outside pressure on the part of the intervenors."

Play safe with film

By Polly Fisher

DEAR POLLY - Will the X-ray machines at airport check-ins really harm photographic film? - M.K.

DEAR M.K. - According to Jack Englert of the Eastman Kodak Co., there's really little risk that your film will be damaged by being passed through one of these machines. However, excessive exposure to X-ray machines can cause objectionable fog and extraneous shadow images on film. You might want to play it safe by just handing your camera and unexposed film to the attendant for visual inspection (I've gone through inspections where the attendants routinely asked travelers to hand cameras around the outside of the machine). You might want to arrange to mail exposed film directly to a processing firm instead of carrying it home on the return trip, which will avoid the problem entirely. Most such processing firms will provide special mailers for this use. - POLLY

DEAR POLLY - Here's another solution for warped records. Place the warped record between two sheets of glass (they can be taken from picture frames and replaced later). Leave this "sandwich" on a flat surface in the sun for one day. When the sun goes down, remove the record. It should be good as new. - MRS. D.P.

DEAR POLLY - I have a Pointer I read in Ann Landers's column a long time ago. It helps to keep your housework under control. "Don't put it down, put it away." The next time it seems easier to throw a jacket on a chair, repeat these words and you'll find you'll hang it up right away. This will save the time required to do it later. - LYNN

DEAR LYNN - And the time to possibly iron a wrinkled jacket later, too. Thanks to you and to a fellow columnist for a reminder even Polly needs once in a while. - POLLY
Polly will send you a Polly Dollar ($1.00) if she uses your favorite Pointer, Peeve or Problem in her column. Write POLLY'S POINTERS in care of this newspaper.

How aging changes you

DEAR DR. LAMB - I have read bits and pieces about antisenility drugs. My mother seems to be acquiring symptoms of senility as she forgets more and more, especially short term things. This annoys her but she attributes it to getting old. She lacks appetite at times and feels sad for no apparent reason. It would be nice if life didn't have to be that way for her.

I have read that a person shouldn't accept all sorts of symptoms as just getting old as often there is something in a person's system that is not produced anymore. Are there drugs to replace what a person's system is not producing? What sort of tests does a person have to have?

DEAR READER - There are lots of exciting things happening in our understanding of aging but we are a long way from being able to stop the changes.

It is quite true that many people have medical problems that are simply glossed over as "senility." That is why a good examination is important. Depression from psychological factors can produce symptoms that can be confused with aging. So can salt and water balance disturbances. And rarely a person may have a vitamin B-12 deficiency. A good place to start is with the family doctor but sometimes it is necessary to see a psychiatrist and a neurologist as well.

There are no magic medicines for aging. If a person is depressed, some medicines help a lot. Gerovital is not a youth drug but does effectively relieve depression in some cases.

The most exciting thing I have seen in research recently is the possibility of grafting cells in the brain that produce acetyl choline, a substance the brain needs for recent memory. Unfortunately, just taking medicines by mouth doesn't guarantee they get to the brain. There is a "blood-brain" barrier that makes this uncertain.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I love yogurt and eat it every week. What are the advantages of it, healthwise? I read an article that said people who eat lots of yogurt live longer. That is not why I eat it. I love it. My husband, who is 72, will not eat it because he thinks it is named after people who practice yoga. Is this true? He is a very dedicated religious man and therefore will not eat yogurt.

DEAR READER - Yogurt has been around for centuries. It was made from the milk of sheep, goats and camels before Christ was born and evidently not long after man first was able to become a herdsman. It is not named after people who do yoga. The word yogurt comes from the Turkish language while yoga comes from the Hindu.

It is good food but don't expect yogurt alone to prolong your life. Think of it in the same category as cottage cheese. It has the same values to your health as milk. Some has had some of the fat removed. So it is a good source of complete protein and the calcium so many people need from milk or milk products.

Thanksgiving Day is an event celebrated by more than one nation, and aside from being a traditional family feast day, it is intended for those of us who are more inclined to dwell on our misfortunes than on our advantages, because we are naturally more conscious of them. For example, sickness is more likely to command our attention than a state of good health. Regardless of our circumstances, we must remind ourselves of all the good things that have happened to us, and also, of all the misfortunes that we have been spared; and we should do this every day of our lives, rather than wait for a special occasion such as this. By attending the Church of your choice you will learn to recognize and be

O Lord! that lends me life,

Lend me a heart

replete with thankfulness!

—William Shakespeare

"But seek ye first the kingdom of God and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you."
