County eyes potential DOE study impacts

Deaf Smith County Commissioners unanimously voted Monday to authorize Phillip Niedzielski-Eichner to coordinate departmental assessments for potential impacts scheduled DOE site characterization studies may have on county government.

The commissioners were responding to a request made last week by DOE representative Jeff Neff. During a meeting last Thursday with elected county officials, Neff requested a letter from the county commissioners stating potential areas of impact.

Niedzielski-Eichner is the newly appointed executive director of the Deaf Smith County Waste Deposit Impact Committee which is comprised of the five taxing entities in the county. Eichner will be meeting with department heads to assist in preparing the report Neff requested.

In other business, during the regular session of the commissioner's court, Sgt. Scott of the Texas Department of Public Safety received approval for his request to take advantage of an offer to trade-in an out-dated radar unit for $1,000 allowance on a new unit.

Bill Devers, of the Child Welfare Board, advised commissioners of the potential impact proposed Department of Human Services budget cuts will have on the county. The program is administered at the state level where legislators are viewing potential cuts of 27 percent. Gov. Bill Clements is recommending a 65 percent cut which could eliminate a Child Protective Services office in the county.

Commissioners also approved a YMCA corporate membership program which, at no cost to the county, will permit county employees and their families to take part in YMCA membership at a discounted fee.

An annual fire report showing 327 fires for the time period of February 1986 through the end of January 1987 was approved.

In other business commissioners: Heard a representative from Micro-Shield concerning restroom facility sanitization.

Discussed a possible inter-governmental trade or sale of discarded library equipment to the Vega Library. No action will be taken until District Attorney Roland Saul has checked into the way the situation could be handled from a legal standpoint.

Approved the purchase of tin for the completion of a Precinct Four Barn.

Discussed options for plaster work needed to repair damaged areas of the fourth floor of the county courthouse.

Following an adjournment for lunch, the commissioners, less Austin Rose, reconvened for a budget workshop. The workshop was to continue today.

Sarpalius gets open container proposal through

AUSTIN (AP) — The Senate has approved a bill to make it a minor crime to drink while driving, a measure favored by four out of every five Texans, according to bill sponsor Bill Sarpalius.

Although no one opposed Sarpalius' bill, which was sent to the House on voice vote Monday, several senators questioned certain provisions.

Sarpalius, D-Amarillo, said tougher DWI laws enacted by the Legislature in recent years have been credited with saving over 1,000 lives. But, he added, "The state of Texas will never get serious about drunk driving until we make it against the law to drink and drive, and that's what this bill does."

"It's very simple. It only applies to the driver. An officer must observe an individual consuming alcohol while that motor vehicle is moving," Sarpalius said.

The bill would make it a Class C misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of up to $200, for a person to consume alcohol while driving.

Sarpalius said passengers in the front or back seat could drink while the vehicle was moving. "There's a time and a place to consume alcohol — behind the steering wheel driving down the road is not the time and place to do it," Sarpalius said.

"I'm convinced that this bill will save lives in this state," he said.

Sen. Bob Glasgow, D-Stephenville, said he was voting for the bill but he told Sarpalius he was punishing 95 percent of the people to get at 5 percent who have alcohol-related offenses.

"There's less than 5 percent of the people you're trying to solve a problem with. At the same time, what we're doing is making it illegal for 95 percent of the people of Texas to do something which is legal and they don't abuse," Glasgow said. "You're taking that right away from the good honest folks that don't abuse it."

"We feel like we'll have the speaker's support ... and that any changes in that bill will put it in jeopardy," Sarpalius said. In other action Monday, the Senate approved and sent to the House bills that would:

— Allow cities to charge up to $10 to dismiss a traffic violation after a person completes a defensive driving course.

— Require a juvenile court to determine that there is "probable cause" that a child committed an alleged offense prior to transferring the case to a district court.

Borger must pay for ranch hand slaying

BORGER, Texas (AP) — City manager Jim Layton says it appears this Panhandle city will have to pay more than $1.4 million to the family of a ranch foreman mistakenly killed by police.

The city could petition the high court for a rehearing of Monday's decision, although Layton thinks that's unlikely.

"As far as I'm concerned and as far as the Grandstaff matter is concerned, there is no further appeal," Layton said. "This is it. They just refused to hear our case."

The court, without comment, Monday left intact a ruling that four Borger police officers and the city government must pay the damage award to James C. Grandstaff's family.

"I'm very relieved," said Sharon Grandstaff, widow of the slain ranch foreman. "The system does work. Whether it takes a long time or not, it works."

The Grandstaff family reportedly offered in February 1986 to settle the case for less than $500,000. City officials say they never saw their letter.

City officials have denied seeing the letter and are suing their former legal counsel and insurance company for $1 million damages, claiming the information was purposely withheld. The suit was filed in April 1986 against the city's former law firm, Gassaway, Gurley, Sheets & Mitchell and former insurer North River Insurance Co.

Layton said Monday that if the city wins this suit, the $1 million will go toward paying the Grandstaff settlement.

"Obviously, we're disappointed in the decision of the Supreme Court," Layton added. "We'll be awaiting some official word from the court or our attorneys ... on the total amount, including interest, that is owed by the city of Borger and some time frame that it must be paid. We have no choice but to go ahead and comply with the judgment rendered by the court."

Clara Gillentine rites held today

Clara C. Gillentine, a longtime civic worker in Hereford, died Sunday. Funeral services were held at 10:30 a.m. today in First Baptist Church.

Mrs. Gillentine, 74, was the wife of former Brand publisher Jimmie Gillentine. Officiating at the funeral service was the Rev. Doug Manning, retired Baptist minister. Burial was in West Park Cemetery under direction of Gililand-Watson Funeral Home.

CLARA GILLENTE

Mrs. Gillentine was born at Dodson in Collingsworth County. She was married to James M. Gillentine in 1934 at Wellington. They moved to Hereford in 1937. She was active in the formation of the Women's Division of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce and served as its first full-term president.

Mrs. Gillentine taught school several years and was active in community development. She taught Sunday School classes in the beginner and adult departments at First Baptist Church. She worked with Camp Fire girls, serving as a leader and later as chairman of the board.

Her pride and joy, however, probably lies in the establishment of Hereford Day Care Center. She served as chairman of a task force organization that completed a successful drive to finance and establish the center. She later served as chairman of the center's board of directors.

Survivors include her husband; a son, James M. II of Dallas; a daughter, Sarah Durham of Amarillo; a brother, Bobo Castleberry of Wellington; and seven grandchildren.

Memorials may be to Hereford Day Care Center.

Man tried for 22-year-old murder case

PAMPA, Texas (AP) — More than 22 years after the shooting death of his wife, Albert Branscum is being tried for murder. Branscum, 56, originally was indicted on a murder charge two months after the October 1964 shooting of Glenna Branscum at their Pampa home but was never prosecuted. Authorities at the time believed two bullets he fired into his own head after his wife's death had left him a "mental vegetable" unfit for trial.

Jury selection was to begin today in the case, which was reopened last year by the Gray County District Attorney's office after it was discovered that Branscum has been operating a salvage yard in Konawa, Okla., for 20 years.

Although a judge dropped the old case in June 1972, Branscum never learned of the dismissal, said Assistant District Attorney David Hamilton.

"He'd been expecting somebody to come to the door for 22 years," Hamilton said.

A grand jury in this Panhandle city re-indicted him in September, following a nine-month investigation by Hamilton and investigator Michael Hartsock.

Lawmakers push annual sessions

AUSTIN (AP) — A House committee is studying proposals to require annual sessions of the Texas Legislature, an idea opposed by Speaker Gib Lewis.

The Texas Constitution requires lawmakers to meet for 140 days in odd-numbered years, but three legislators are pushing constitutional amendments that would add budget-related sessions in even-numbered years.

"I think that's a terrible idea," Lewis said Monday. "I don't think it would help at all."

The House State Affairs Committee heard the proposals Monday and sent them to subcommittee for review. The sponsors noted that Texas governors call so many special sessions that it is almost like having regular session every year.

"What I'm here for today is to ratify what we've been doing since I've been here for 10 sessions," El Paso Rep. Paul Moreno testified. "Since I've been here, we've been having special sessions. Let's get a date certain, a time certain, so all of us can make plans accordingly."

Proposed constitutional amendments calling for annual sessions have been unsuccessfully pushed by lawmakers for years.

Supreme Court ruling aids aliens

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thousands of illegal aliens facing possible persecution in their homelands will be helped by a new Supreme Court ruling to win political asylum in the United States, civil rights groups and immigration lawyers predict.

"It's a very significant decision," Ira Kurzban of Miami, president-elect of the American Immigration Lawyers Association, said of Monday's high court decision. "Hopefully, the previous ideological biases in the selection of applicants for asylum now will be open to challenge."

Kurzban said refugees from such countries as Haiti, El Salvador and Guatemala stand to benefit from the ruling.

Immigration officials have viewed with skepticism claims by those refugees that they are fleeing political oppression.

The Reagan administration, which opposed the high court's decision, said there are 11,000 new asylum cases each year.

Administration lawyers also had argued that an adverse court ruling would force immigration officials to reopen thousands of cases in which asylum has been denied.

The Immigration and Naturalization Service, through a spokesman, declined comment on the decision.

Mexican consumer prices increase

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Consumer prices in Mexico increased 7.2 percent in February over the previous month mainly because of the higher costs of medicine, food and household goods, the nation's central bank said.

The Bank of Mexico also said Monday night that the accumulated increase in consumer prices for 1987 was 15.9 percent, following last year's overall price hike of 105.7 percent, the worst one-year inflation in Mexico's history.

The bank said the greatest price increase of 9.1 percent was in the area of medicine-personal care, including antibiotics, cold medicine, vitamins, and soap.

It also said household items such as furniture, televisions, kitchen appliances and light bulbs, increased in cost 8.7 percent last month as did food, beverage and tobacco costs. Clothing and shoe costs increased 8.3 percent.

Other increases in February were transportation, 5.5 percent; education and leisure, 5.3 percent; housing, 3.8 percent, and other services, 5.9 percent.

61 Barrels of poison missing

LONDON (AP) — Belgium's environment minister said 61 barrels of a cyanide-based poison are missing from the British ferry that capsized off the Belgian coast, the London Times reported today.

Meanwhile, Transport Secretary John Moore told the House of Commons on Monday that British authorities are checking ferry loading-door mechanisms and have adopted new safety rules because of the accident Friday night, in which as many as 134 people were killed.

The London Times quoted officials with Smit Tak, the Dutch salvage company working to right the half-submerged ferry, as saying it had heard reports that some trucks on the vessel were carrying cargoes containing dioxin, a highly toxic chemical.

Vatican announces standards

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican today condemned all forms of test-tube births, surrogate motherhood and experimentation on living embryos, declaring that the human body cannot be treated as a "mere complex of tissues and organs."

The church also rejected as morally illicit cloning, attempts to fashion animal-human hybrids, freezing of embryos and the planting of human embryos in artificial and animal uteruses.

The Vatican position was contained in a 40-page document approved by Pope John Paul II and written by the Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith, the Vatican's guardian and promoter of Roman Catholic orthodoxy.

It is entitled "Instruction on Respect for Human Life in its Origin and on the Dignity of Procreation — Replies to Certain Questions of the Day."

Vatican officials, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said any Roman Catholic who "willfully and knowingly" violates the directives will be committing sin.

The document denounces fertilization through third parties such as doctors and biologists, which it said "establishes the domination of technology over the origin and destiny of the human person."

Former Hereford resident to receive recognition

Michael W. Wilkins has been selected to receive honorary award recognition by having his biography published in the tenth annual edition of "The National Dean's List, 1986-87."

He is the son of former Hereford residents, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Wilkins of Odessa and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. John Hunter of Hereford. The National Dean's List recognizes academically gifted students selected by their college dean or comparable faculty representative. Each year 2,500 colleges and universities use the publication as a special award to recognize the most outstanding students.

Only one-tenth of one percent of college students receive this award. Award recipients are then eligible to compete for $25,000 in scholarship awards and to use the Student Referral Service, a reference service for students applying to graduate school or seeking employment. A student at Embry Riddle Aeronautical University in Daytona Beach, Fla., Wilkins was nominated by Dean William A. Martin for inclusion in "The National Dean's List, 1986-88."

SMU students protest, call for change

DALLAS (AP) — Students at Southern Methodist University protested a football corruption scandal's effect on academic integrity as the SMU Board of Governors called for fundamental changes in the school's administration.

Cash payments to football players were the result of flaws in a system that needs to be overhauled, the school's Board of Governors decided Monday.

While the board met, SMU students protested the way school officials handled the football scandal that prompted the NCAA to cancel SMU's 1987 football season and to levy other sanctions expected to cripple the team for years.

Since the sanctions were leveled, Texas Gov. Bill Clements, former chairman of SMU's Board, acknowledged that he and others had known about the payments to football players but kept mum about them.

Several students Monday carried signs saying, "The truth shall make us free," while one carried a placard saying "Oh no, Mr. Bill." Members of the Student Senate, which has called for a lawsuit demanding the names of those who continued the cash payments, moderated the rally highlighted by the demonstrators singing a Billy Joel rock ballad about honesty.

"One thing is evident — the current system didn't work," board chairman William Hutchison said after a four-hour meeting. "It didn't work because the structure at SMU failed to provide the necessary checks and balances required to effectively govern the institution."

A board resolution passed Monday includes a call for reducing the size of the boards of governors and trustees, and making members more diverse and more accountable to university officials.

Clements last week triggered an investigation by the university and the Methodist Church when he said while he was head of the SMU Board of Governors he and some other members knew of the improper payments to football players, and intended to phase them out. The governor said they knew the payments continued even after the NCAA placed the football program on probation.

Current board members flatly deny they knew of the payments and have called for a Methodist bishop-appointed committee to verify their statements.

Hutchison said the Monday resolution will be forwarded to a committee already appointed to study the structure of the 75-member board of trustees, for which the board of governors serves as an executive committee.

The resolution asks the committee to speed up its action and submit its recommendations to the board of trustees within two weeks. A special called meeting for the board of trustees is set for March 20.

Hutchison, in a prepared statement, said the resolution also asks for recommendations to limit the authority and terms of members of both bodies.

The demonstrations followed a letter sent by students to the Board of Governors protesting the handling of the football controversy.

"We are expected to maintain the highest level of academic integrity, and yet are provided with examples of behavior which fall far short of this standard," the letter said.

Ed Brackett, a political science junior, and Carter Mills, a finance junior, said they are worried about the fallout in terms of their diplomas.

Brackett said he is angry at "just the board of governors and the way they've manipulated the students. They jeopardized the whole reputation of SMU."

"For SMU this is pretty radical," said Dominic Grote, a junior political science student.

Sung for names, and possibly damages would be "our compensation for what they've done to us," he said.

In a copyright story, The Dallas Morning News reported Monday that some contributors have said they will not give any more money until the scandal is resolved.

Prison board approves budget request of $1.37 billion

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — A $1.37 billion budget request approved by the Texas Board of Corrections includes money to build two maximum security prisons and five new trusty camps, but the new facilities would not give the system enough beds to meet anticipated growth by 1990.

Board members Tuesday approved the budget request, but they also voted to end the annual Texas Prison Rodeo if a private organization is not found within the next 90 days to take over financing of the 55-year tradition.

The budget request to the Legislature totals $790.4 million in 1988 and $582.6 million in 1989, compared to the $486.6 million being spent this year.

But despite the requested increases, Chairman Alfred Hughes said the system by then would be in worse condition than it is now.

"We're not even budgeting any dollars for any new salaries for prisons until 1989," he said. "We're looking at a long-term problem. There's a lot of talk in the Legislature now, but we don't have one single cent now budgeted to build any new facilities that adds one person to our population."

The request asks for $134 million for two more maximum security prisons and $6.8 million for five trusty camps. The two prisons would add 4,500 beds, while the camps would add 1,000 beds.

However, according to the budget request approved by the board, the department still would be more than 10,000 beds short of projections of anticipated growth by 1990.

Cruz resignation fuels Contra battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — The resignation of Contra leader Arturo Cruz is strengthening House Democrats' efforts to cut off aid to the Nicaraguan rebels until Congress gets an accounting of past aid, including funds diverted from Iran arms sales, supporters of the aid moratorium say.

"This is clearly the death note of the Contras," said Rep. Sam Gejdenson, D-Conn., following the announcement of Cruz' resignation Monday. "This should add opposition to what is clearly now a failed and dying policy of the administration."

Cruz, a former Sandinista ambassador to the United States who defected to the U.S.-backed rebels against his government, has been known as a moderate and the key to some Contra support on Capitol Hill. Sen. Christopher J. Dodd, D-Conn., said Cruz' departure shows the Contras are "not a democratic movement" and added, "My hope would be that what Mr. Cruz has done might convince (members of Congress) that this program is not worth supporting."

House Majority Leader Tom Foley, D-Wash., late Monday introduced a resolution that would give President Reagan six months to account to Congress for any money diverted to the Contras from Iran arms sales, as well as an accounting of the $27 million in "humanitarian aid" given by Congress in 1985 and for any help solicited by government officials from private sources or other countries.

While party leaders say they have the votes to pass such a moratorium when it is brought before the House on Wednesday, they concede it will be only a symbolic gesture because they cannot muster the two-thirds majority needed to override a certain presidential veto.

And because of procedural tangles, the Senate is unlikely to address the moratorium proposal, voting instead later this week on a simple resolution of disapproval for the $40 million that is the final installment of a $100 million aid package approved last year.

At the same time, the leaders of House and Senate panels investigating the Iran-Contra affair scheduled a meeting for today to plan for the beginning of public hearings next month.

While some members of the Senate select committee are pressing to grant immunity to some of the probe's central figures, such as former national security adviser Vice Adm. John M. Poindexter and his aide, Lt. Col. Oliver L. North, the House panel is not yet willing to go that far, said a committee source who spoke on grounds of anonymity.

But the source said the panel may be willing to grant immunity to a new group of "lesser" witnesses who might fill in gaps. Those witnesses presumably would be officials who have knowledge of North's and Poindexter's activities. The panel already has voted immunity for Fawn Hall, North's former secretary, and two other witnesses.

Granting limited immunity to witnesses compels them to testify before Congress, but means what they say cannot be used against them later in court.

In other developments: —A public relations firm that is emerging as a key player in the Iran-Contra affair funneled $21,182 for Contra medical bills through three organizations, masking fund raiser Carl "Spitz" Channell as the original source, documents and sources indicated Monday.

—Senate investigators will scrutinize a 1983 Australian report on drug-trafficking and gunrunning to see if it sheds any light on the activities of several men linked to the Iran-Contra case, a congressional aide said. Frank Sieverts, a spokesman for the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said investigators will look at the report to see whether any government intelligence officials were involved in deals that created illegal profits.

—Maureen Reagan said her father, the president, was "royally P.O.'d" when he saw the Tower commission report, which she said showed that aides had deceived him. She repeated a suggestion that Poindexter and North should be court-martialed for lying to the president.

Fidel Castro seized power in Cuba following the collapse of Fulgencio Batista's government on Jan. 1, 1959.

Facing reality

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A few months ago my father found out that he has cancer. The doctors removed 50 percent of his stomach. After the five-hour operation they told my mother that the cancer had spread to his liver and there is no way he can recover.

Mom took it hard. She refused to tell Dad that he isn't going to make it. He believes he is going to get well. Mom is actually shutting the truth out of her mind and pretending nothing is wrong. I feel that she should tell Dad the truth so he can help her get through this terrible time. Right now she is carrying the burden alone and it is taking its toll. What should be done, Ann? The game-playing is getting to me and others in the family. We are looking to you for advice.—Agonizing in Pa.

DEAR AGONIZING: People with terminal illnesses are far more intuitive than relatives suspect. Your dad will catch on soon if he hasn't already.

The doctor should be the one to inform the patient of the prognosis. Very often the news comes not as a surprise but a confirmation of suspicions. Facing reality will bring the family together and make all members more loving than before.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am heartsick. Our wonderful cat, "Chow Chow," the household darling for 14 years, died yesterday. The veterinarian says his death was caused by eating a variety of houseplants, including poinsettias that had been sitting around since Christmas.

I wonder how many other people didn't know that ordinary, everyday plants can cause the death of a beloved pet. Please publish my letter and warn them.—Too Late for Me in Poughkeepsie

DEAR FRIEND: Here's your letter and my thanks for giving me the opportunity to sound the warning. Along with poinsettias, philodendrons can be highly toxic. Since cats can jump almost everywhere, it is best not to have these plants in your home if you have a feline pet.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Why are some people so thoughtless? I work in a small shopping mall. The other evening a family came in and in the course of conversation I learned that one of their children had just vomited outside the shop. Not only did these people continue to browse, they traveled to another store to do more shopping. That child should have been taken home immediately, not only for her own sake, but out of consideration to others.

Maybe stomach flu is no big deal to some people, but to others, especially elderly folk, it could be fatal. I have two elementary school-age children and the last thing I need is to be sick and pass it on to them or to my husband, who would lose wages.

So, my message is this: If you are sick or feel like you might be getting sick, STAY HOME. If your child is sick or not feeling right in the morning, please don't send him to school just because you have to go to work. If your job doesn't allow for you to stay home with a sick child, you need a different job. Your child should be your top priority.

Thank you for letting me get this off my chest. Unfortunately, some people need to have things spelled out for them because they have no common sense.—Minneapolis Mom

DEAR MOM: Excellent advice. I couldn't have done better myself.

Ann Landers' booklet, "Sex and the Teenager," explains every aspect of sexual behavior—where to draw the line, how to say no, the various methods of contraception, the dangers of VD, the symptoms and where to get help. POLLY'S POINTERS Regular popcorn OK in microwave

By Polly Fisher

DEAR POLLY: With the growing use of microwaves, I'm sure this is a question of many people: Can we make regular popcorn in the microwave? Is there a special way to do it with good results? I can't bear to pay those high prices for the brand-name "microwave" popcorn.

DEAR JUDY: No need to pay premium prices for popcorn for the microwave. The regular varieties work perfectly well. The microwave brands do offer a little convenience since they come already seasoned (except that I prefer the way I season my popcorn myself) and packaged in those little expanding bags. In fact, I think you'll get better tasting popcorn if you use plain popcorn, adding any butter and salt or other seasoning if you like, when it's popped.

I do recommend, however, that you purchase a microwave popcorn popper to do your popping in. These are inexpensive little devices that can be purchased in any store selling housewares. They generally cost only a few dollars and should last for years. Follow the directions for popping corn that come with the microwave popper.

Some people recommend popping corn in brown paper bags in the microwave, but there have been reports of the bags catching fire and damaging the oven. (Obviously this is not a problem with the special bags that so-called "microwave" popcorn come packed in.) So, play it safe and use a special popper. You'll make delicious popcorn inexpensively and quickly.

ALUMINUM LANDMARKING PHILADELPHIA (AP)
Aluminum has long been regarded as one of America's basic metals.

Yet, notes Metalworking News, it was little more than 100 years ago that the first facility for commercial fabrication of aluminum was established in the United States.

The pioneer was a German immigrant, William Frisvold, who set up the first foundry. Until the late 1890s, Frisvold's place was the only location in the nation where aluminum was produced from ore.

The original Philadelphia site, now known as Eastern Non-Ferrous Foundry, has been designated as an American Society of Metals landmark.

Early detection helps prevent hearing loss

Do you often ask, "Can you speak louder?" or "Will you repeat that?" If so, you may be missing out on a portion of life, due to hearing loss. Many people tend to ignore or are unaware of graduate hearing loss.

The Texas Medical Association notes that more than 15 million Americans suffer some form of hearing loss. But it often goes undiagnosed because an estimated 75 percent of the hearing-impaired population never has seen a doctor about these problems. As a result, these people may be wrongly labeled dumb, senile, or anti-social.

Hearing loss is one of the most widespread chronic health problems in the United States. It affects young and old alike, but is most common among the elderly. Hearing loss can result from the aging process, certain drugs, and spending too much time around loud noises like chainsaws, jackhammers, and loud music.

Sounds are made up of vibrations that enter the outer ear, canal and beat against the eardrum. The eardrum's motion produces vibrations in the three middle-ear bones. These vibrations move through the middle ear to the inner ear, where fluid carries them to the cochlear nerves.

When stimulated by these fluid vibrations, the cochlear nerves generate electrical impulses that the auditory nerve transmits to the brain for interpretation into sound and meaning. Problems along this chain can result in hearing loss.

People with a hearing loss commonly will accuse those around them of mumbling. They may listen to television louder than usual. In conversations, they frequently ask friends to repeat themselves or speak up. Or they may withdraw socially to avoid the embarrassment of not knowing what is said.

Anyone with these symptoms should seek medical attention immediately. Early detection and treatment increase the chances of preventing total hearing loss. Fortunately, most hearing impairments can be improved through surgery, hearing aids, or other listening devices.

DAYLIGHT-SAVING CONSERVES ENERGY

NEW YORK (AP)—The new law extending daylight-saving time by three to four weeks annually also will be a boost to the nation's energy conservation efforts and its desire for energy independence, says Energy User News.

The weekly journal notes that the federal law—which moves the first day of daylight-saving time to the first Sunday in April rather than the last—is projected to save the equivalent of 100,000 barrels of oil per day.

Additionally, the new extra daylight hours are expected to help reduce crime and automobile accidents.

Texaco win 'B' division title

The Texaco team defeated S.O.F.T. 43-34 Sunday afternoon to win the "B" division of the Hereford and Vicinity YMCA men's basketball tournament.

Earlier on Sunday, Texaco beat American Fructose 49-45 to advance to the tournament title game. Sunday's games were tiebreakers for the tournament, which had three teams tie for first place in round-robin play the two previous weekends.

Anthony Brady and Floyd Brown each scored 31 points, and Nelson Jackson had 10 points, in leading Texaco to its win over S.O.F.T. The score was tied at halftime, 18-18.

S.O.F.T. was led by Mike Fields with 12 points and Craig Smith and Rick McCracken with eight points each.

Brady totaled 18 points to lead Texaco past American Fructose. Jackson scored 12 points, and Alfred High had seven points.

Texaco held a 28-20 halftime lead. Leading scorers for American Fructose were Marc Williamson with 23 points and Nick Martinez with 12 points.

Members of the "B" division winners, in addition to Brady, Brown, Jackson, and High, are: Gerry Ford, Jeff Wheeler, Royce Sealander, and Clarence High.

Oakland Athletics pitchers were watched closely by American League umpires in 1986. They set an American League record by committing 19 balks.

Texas citizens protected against sex discrimination

Texans now have greater protection against sex discrimination under their state constitution than they do under the federal equal protection clause.

That is the impact of the Texas Supreme Court's first decision relating to the state's 1972 Equal Rights Amendment, according to a Texas Tech University law professor cited by the court in its decision.

And, the irony of the decision, said Associate Law Dean Rodric B. Schoen, is that it benefits not a woman, as the public often expects, but a man.

The decision was handed down last month in the case of "In re Baby McLean," the first suit under the state's 15-year-old Equal Rights Amendment (ERA) to reach the Texas Supreme Court. The case dealt with the rights of an unwed father to receive custody of an illegitimate child.

"The Family Code of Texas provided different standards for unwed mothers and fathers," Schoen said. "The father had a more onerous burden than the mother to receive rights in regard to his child."

The court, quoting arguments first outlined by Schoen in 1978 and 1983 articles in the Houston Law Review, chose to give the Equal Rights Amendment a different interpretation than that given under the federal due process and equal protection guarantees. Otherwise, the ERA if given identical interpretation "was an exercise in futility," despite being passed by a four-to-one margin by Texas voters, the decisions stated.

"The Texas Supreme Court finding," Schoen said, "fully realizes that the Texas Equal Rights Amendment, as part of the state constitution, could be and should be interpreted to give greater rights under the state constitution than the rights provided under the federal equal protection clause."

In addition to providing an expanded interpretation, the court also adopted a very strong compelling interest test that gender-based classifications will not be sustained by the court unless the state can establish that by no other means than by discriminating between genders can the interests at question be vindicated.

Schoen said the decision is significant because of its interpretation as well as the fact that it is unlikely to be appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court. Without an appeal, the decision will become the foundation for future decisions on sex discrimination in the state.

"The Supreme Court was careful to rest its decision on state constitutional law and the decision does not appear to raise any federal issues which can be grounds for an appeal," Schoen said.

The decision could spawn an increase in Equal Rights Amendment lawsuits, he said. By 1982, a full decade after the passage of the state amendment, only 25 cases filed under the state ERA had reached the state appellate courts.

"Now that the Texas Supreme Court has adopted the compelling interest test, many forms of discrimination—differential treatment for men and women, boys and girls—may be challenged in the future," Schoen said.

Differential auto insurance rates for new male drivers and new female drivers or perks that are extended to one gender but not another by a business are the types of issues that may ultimately wind up before the state courts, Schoen said.

If appellate courts continue to follow the direction given in the McLean decision, sex discrimination in Texas will be legally justified only when different treatment can be explained by physical differences, Schoen said.

The court's interpretation follows closely the arguments put forth by Schoen in his earlier Houston Law Review articles.

A MESSAGE FROM THIS NEWSPAPER AND THE DPS TROOPERS

Newspaper Bible

"WHO DO YOU THINK I AM?"

Jesus and His disciples now left Galilee and went out to the villages of Caesarea Philippi. As they were walking along He asked them, "Who do the people think I am? What are they saying about Me?"

"Some of them think You are John the Baptist," the disciples replied, "and others say You are Elijah or some other ancient prophet come back to life again."

Then He asked, "Who do you think I am?" Peter replied, "You are the Messiah."

But Jesus warned them not to tell anyone!

Then He began to tell them about the terrible things He would suffer—and that He would be rejected by the elders and the Chief Priests and the other Jewish leaders—and be killed, and that He would rise again three days afterwards.

He talked about it quite frankly with them, so Peter took Him aside and chided Him, "You shouldn't say things like that," he told Jesus.

Jesus turned and looked at His disciples and then said to Peter very sternly, "Satan, get behind Me! You are looking at this only from a human point of view and not from God's."

Then He called His disciples and the crowds to come over and listen. "If any of you wants to be My follower," He told them, "you must put aside your own pleasures and shoulder your cross, and follow Me closely."

If you insist on saving your life, you will lose it. Only those who throw away their lives for My sake and for the sake of the Good News will ever know what it means to really live.

And how does a man benefit if he gains the whole world and loses his soul in the process?

For is anything worth more than his soul?

And anyone who is ashamed of Me and My message in these days of unbelief and sin, I, the Man of Glory, will be ashamed of him when I return in the glory of My Father, with the holy angels."

Mark 8:27-38
