Four testify to set scene in Valdez murder case

By DEBE GRAVES
Staff Writer

A racially mixed jury of three men and nine women began hearing testimony yesterday afternoon in the murder trial of Victor Rene "Boole" Martinez. Martinez is accused of the Nov. 24, slaying of Jose "Pepe" Valdez.

Sheriff's Department Criminal Investigator Murray Hazelett testified regarding the process followed during the investigation and interrogation of witnesses.

Testimonies of Raul Garcia, Domingo "Roy" Guerrero, Jose Manuel "Poppy" Lucio and Martin DeLuna provided a picture of the hours leading up to the death of Valdez.

All four testified concerning what Martinez court appointed defense attorney, Sid Ham, termed a "party" which took place in the backyard of the home of Lucia Guerrero at 216 Boston where Valdez's body was discovered on Nov. 25.

According to testimony, Valdez and Lucio had been roofing the Guerrero home the day of the 24th and after being paid had purchased a bottle of wine. After consuming the wine the two returned to the home where they encountered Garcia, Roy and Jose Guerrero. The men were drinking beer following a 12-hour shift at the cotton mill south of Summerfield.

With his friends, Valdez made a return trip to the liquor store to purchase more Thunderbird wine and returned to the Guerrero house to continue drinking. Building a small fire to keep warm, the men were joined by Martin DeLuna, nephew of the Guerrero men and grandson of the owner of the home. Jose Guerrero went inside the home and the party continued with all four witnesses testifying to being in some state of drunkenness.

All of the witnesses testified that Valdez got drunk quite often and was to the point of falling down several times during the course of the evening.

Garcia noted the lateness of the hour, and he and Roy Guerrero started to leave. He testified that Valdez and Lucio requested a ride from him but he refused because they were living on Ranger Street and he didn't want to be driving around much for fear of being caught driving in an inebriated state.

Both Garcia and Guerrero testified to stopping the car while Guerrero returned to the yard to settle an argument between Valdez and Martinez. De Luna remembers, "Boole said to Pepe, 'Do you remember when you beat me up?'" He claims that Martinez then hit Valdez twice and that Guerrero got out of the car. "Roy got out of the car and said, 'What did you do to Pepe?'" Boole said, "I just hit him," stated DeLuna.

According to testimony, Guerrero then told the men to leave his mother's house because he was going home. He and Garcia then left.

Poppy Lucio testified that Valdez was standing next to him when Martinez had a knife in his hand. He stated, "I saw Boole get a knife from his pocket and he hit Pepe two times. He stabbed him in the stomach two times." He doesn't recall Guerrero coming back to the yard and telling them to leave.

Lucio claims that Valdez then slumped over on his shoulder but DeLuna went after him and when he ran he doesn't know if Valdez continued standing or fell to the ground. Lucio testified that DeLuna killed him in the face and chest when he fell once but he rose and ran again then he and DeLuna scuffled for a few minutes after he fell down a second time. He claims that he then hid out at the building of the Catholic Church located in the labor camp and when his friend Valdez didn't join him he returned to his house on South Ranger Street.

DeLuna admits that he saw Martinez remove "something sharp looking" from his pocket earlier in the evening but he saw no knife in Martinez's hand when he punched Pepe in the stomach. DeLuna testified that he told Lucio to not use loud cuss words if he ever came back to his grandmother's house and then Lucio then responded with more profanity. At that point DeLuna says he hit Lucio and admits to having chased and fought with him at some distance from the house.

He stated, "After the fight I went back to my home (across the street from the Guerrero home). I saw Boole and Pepe in front of my Grandma's house. Pepe was lying on the ground and Boole was standing there. Boole came over and I saw blood on his hands and I asked him what he had done to Pepe. He said he had just beat him up. I said okay and I went inside."

Testimony will resume today in District Judge Wes Guley's court with the expected appearance of pathologist Dr. Ralph Erdmann.

Stand By Your Man

It was tough going for a while, but Judge Tom Simons, seated in a plush rocking chair, entered into grueling competition during the Senior Citizens' Rock 'n' Roll Jamboree Tuesday to benefit the American Heart Association. His wife Cindy stayed by his side and offered him a cool drink for his parched throat. Other Hereford dignitaries who rocked during the benefit were Dr. Ron Cook, the Rev. Bob Huffaker, City Commissioner Bud Eades, City Manager Darwin McGill and Mayor Wes Fisher. Thirty-six rockers volunteered and five persons in wheelchairs came to add the roll. (See Page 2 for story. ## Just over 100 attend forum

A Candidates' Forum for those seeking office in the upcoming April 4 city, school and hospital board elections was conducted at the Hereford Community Center Tuesday night with just over 100 persons attending.

The forum, sponsored by the legislative affairs committee of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, drew 15 of the 23 candidates who will be on the ballots April 4. The candidates responded to questions submitted beforehand to the chamber office. These included:

Why are you running for office and what are your qualifications? What changes do you think need to take place? What objectives do you have for economic development?

The nuclear waste repository and site characterization issues came up during the mayoral and city commission races. While all candidates expressed concern and varying levels of opposition to the selection of Deaf Smith County as a site for the repository, there were differences of opinion on how the site characterization issue should be handled.

The Candidates' Forum was taped by Hereford Cablevision and will be shown on Channel 3 beginning Tuesday, March 31.

Two of the three mayoral candidates participated in the forum. Incumbent Wes Fisher and challenger Jim Steiert presented their platforms; but candidate Sylvia Flores did not attend. Place 1 candidate Loran Nixon, who is seeking election after being appointed to the commission, stated his views. Challenger, Sylvia Jaurez was not present.

Place 3 candidates Tom LeGate, incumbent, and Boyd Foster presented their views, then turned the floor over to the city's at-large candidates. There are five candidates for the two at-large seats on the commission and each of them made statements and answered questions. They are: Ed Wuerflein, Jerry Walsh, Paul Abalos, Raul Valdez, and Paul Hamilton.

In the Hereford School Board election, only two of the five candidates appeared for the forum. John Fuston, incumbent, and Dennis Newton participated in the forum. Della C. Griego and Demitrio Zuniga, the other two at-large candidates, were not present. Jo Garcia, running unopposed for reelection in District 2, was unable to attend due to illness in her family.

Of the six candidates seeking two at-large seats on the hospital board, three participated in the forum. Those present were Olivia Denning, June Rudd and Ralph Detten. Dr. Gerald Payne, incumbent, and Dr. James Herbertson were reported to be out of town, and Tom Hyer had a conflicting business meeting.

Absentee voting is currently taking place for all of the April 4 elections. The city and school absentee voting is being conducted at the county clerk's office, and the hospital voting is at the hospital.

County Judge Tom Simons was also on the program to explain the county's special election April 4 on whether or not to approve a one-half percent sales and use tax within the county. He explained that the revenue would be used to reduce the county property tax rate.

Forum Leader

Jeryl Baker, chairman of the legislative affairs committee of the Chamber of Commerce, was the mediator for the political forum Tuesday night in the Hereford Community Center. Fifteen of the 23 candidates in the city, school and hospital races attended.

If you know Irene McKinster, you'll want to drop by the reception that Hereford State Bank is holding for her Thursday. Irene is retiring after 20 years service with the bank, and many of us will miss that friendly smile and the encouragement and advice she had to offer.

Irene has been a real booster, not only for the bank, but for the entire community. She was one of the early presidents for the Women's Division of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce and was selected as that group's first "Woman of the Year". She helped start the Newcomer's Club and has been active in many civic and charitable organizations.

I hate for her to know this, but I don't think she looks old enough to retire.

You can make out a check and mail your dues directly to the library, 211 East 4th St., Hereford.

Congratulations to the local workers in the American Heart Association campaign. Ruth Knox headed up a very successful Rock-a-Thon fund-raiser at the Senior Citizens Center Tuesday, raising a record $2,870 for the Heart campaign.

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas likely will propose more than one site to the federal government in the state's pitch to become home to the $6 billion supercollider research project, Gov. Bill Clements says.

"We feel we might have as many as seven or eight or nine potential sites. We also feel that there is a possibility ... that we can make two proposals," Clements told his weekly news conference Tuesday.

The governor's energy adviser, Dillard Hammett, said the Energy Department has said Texas could propose up to three sites.

The atom-smashing research project, formally called a superconducting supercollider, would be one of the largest scientific projects ever built.

The supercollider would be housed in a 52-mile-long underground tunnel and is designed for high-energy physics research. Several states are competing for the project, and officials say California and Illinois appear to be leading candidates.

Clements earlier angered some West Texans by suggesting that the state had only two likely spots for the massive project — Dallas-Fort Worth or the area between Austin, Houston and College Station.

But Tuesday, he said more regions will be given consideration by the state National Research Laboratory Commission that is preparing the official Texas proposal.

Hammett said nine regions made presentations to the supercollider commission on Monday, and added that "I would say we had four good presentations."

But when he was asked during the governor's news conference where those four were, Clements stepped in and told Hammett: "You're talking about an evaluation of the presentations. You don't want to do that, do you?"

Clements also named a 13-member advisory council he said will assist the supercollider commission. The advisers are headed by J. Fred Bucy of Dallas, retired chairman of Texas Instruments.

The advisory group is supplying support for the commission, which Clements said never met and never received operating funds under Gov. Mark White.

State Bottling plant closing hits community

MONAHANS, Texas (AP) — J. Conrad Dunagan says he watched his life's work evaporate with the closing of the local Coca-Cola bottling plant, the latest hard knock this West Texas community has suffered in the continuing oil industry slump.

"You can't help but be sad about something you ran for 56 years," said Dunagan, 72, who became the plant's manager in 1933 and later became chairman of the company's board.

Southwestern Coca-Cola, new owner of the bottling plant, laid off 24 employees Friday when it closed down Monahans' Coca-Cola production. Officials said the plant duplicated their operations elsewhere.

The closing "will be hurtful" to Monahans, Dunagan said, "but it won't mean as much as some of the oilfield service layoffs."

Some of the community's residents who worked in the surrounding oilfields were laid off earlier as the price of oil plummeted. Monahans, with a population of about 8,400, is about 30 miles southwest of Odessa.

Dunagan's father, John C. Dunagan, opened the Monahans plant in June 1927 after operating a twin plant in Midland for a year, Dunagan said.

The elder Dunagan promoted his son, then 18, to manager of the Monahans plant in 1933 so he could devote more time to other area plants.

The younger Dunagan said he oversaw the expansion of the Monahans plant following World War II, engineering the switch from glass bottles to aluminum cans in the 1960s.

He also supervised the plant's reconstruction after a June 26, 1980, gas leak explosion damaged the production building.

He said LuBotCo of Lubbock bought the facility in 1983, and Southwestern Coca-Cola of Amarillo purchased it in December 1986. Computer Center President Robert Wells said he watched 20 percent of his business vanish with the plant's closing. Wells did data processing work for Coca-Cola for 15 years.

Oil import fee won't work

HOUSTON (AP) — An oil import fee may boost domestic production and create needed jobs in the energy states, but it would hurt the overall economy too much and could not be sold to Congress, Energy Secretary John Herrington says.

Although such a fee is seen by many energy executives as the ticket out of the oil industry's depression, Herrington said Tuesday that there would be economic trouble elsewhere.

"It offers potentially appealing benefits at first glance," Herrington told the Houston chapters of the American Petroleum Institute and International Association of Drilling Contractors.

"An oil import fee increases U.S. production. A $10 oil import fee will increase domestic oil production 1 million barrels a day. It will create in the energy states 120,000 to 150,000 jobs. Both those things are extremely positive because they target exactly what we need to target."

Herrington added, however, that it would cost over five years $32 billion annually in reduced gross national product and a loss of 400,000 jobs in other sectors of the economy.

"Those facts alone make it very difficult to put together a proposal in this area that will get through Congress," Herrington said. "It does not make sense to wreck the GNP. I'm looking at costs and benefits and it doesn't make economic sense to me."

An import fee, he said, would prompt calls for exemptions for countries such as Canada and Mexico, for high-use fuel oil consumers and for farmers.

Employees honored at annual meeting

A brief review of 1987 projects for West Texas Rural Telephone was given at the cooperative's annual meeting Tuesday night, five employees were honored for service to the company, and three directors elected.

Elected at the meeting in the Bull Barn were Billy Mayfield, Oklahoma Lane; J.B. Noland, Summerfield; and Pat Robbins, Frio. Mayfield and Noland were incumbents.

A total of 478 persons were present for the meeting; 186 were voters.

Tom Hyer, general manager of WTRT, said that exchanges in Summerfield, Milo Center, Westway and Frio would have old equipment replaced and a long distance switch would be created in Summerfield. That switch would allow calls to be routed to Amarillo from one location in this area.

For customers, it will mean access to services such as call waiting, call forwarding, true touchtone, conference calls and speed dialing.

Hyers said the new equipment should arrive in September and be in service by the first quarter of 1988.

Honored for 10 years of service were Dick Thompson, Mike Harris and Jo Lee. Recognized for five years were Lanell Kendrick and Sonny Flores. All five received plaques.

The co-op reported a net margin for the year, ending Dec. 31, 1986, of $146,154.

Against Bakker, Roberts

Swaggart lashes out

By MARTIN STEINBERG
Associated Press Writer

Jimmy Swaggart, rejecting accusations he masterminded a "diabolical plot" to seize the $172 million PTL empire from Jim Bakker, suggested the evangelist was a "cancer" that needed to be excised from the body of Christ.

In TV interviews Tuesday night, Swaggart repeated denials he was behind any attempt to take over the 500,000-member PTL television ministry by revealing that Bakker had had an extramarital affair.

He also criticized Bakker ally Oral Roberts for his $8 million, do-or-die fund drive, and denied he forced a fellow Pentecostal minister in Louisiana to resign by spreading sexual misconduct allegations.

Bakker resigned last week from the South Carolina-based TV ministry, admitting he had an affair with a woman seven years ago and saying he had been blackmailed. On Monday, he said he quit to thwart a "diabolical plot" to take over PTL, which stands for Praise the Lord or People That Love.

Bakker's attorney, Roy Grutman, on Tuesday identified Swaggart as being behind the takeover plot.

In an interview with the WBRZ-TV of Baton Rouge, La., Swaggart said the charges were a "smokescreen" to cover Bakker's "nefarious" activities.

On "The Larry King Show" Tuesday night on the Cable News Network, Swaggart said: "In one sense of the word, it's a sad day for the church of the Lord Jesus Christ."

"And in another sense of the word it's a very glad day, because this cancer has been excised that I feel has caused the body of Christ untold reproach..."

And on ABC's "Nightline," in an interview that Swaggart said would be his last on the subject, he asserted that Bakker's resignation was "a very painful experience, but it's something that needed to be done."

Asked about Roberts' fund drive, he said, "I think it's very inappropriate. ... I think that this terrible situation in Tulsa and this situation going on in South Carolina is bringing terrible reproach to the Kingdom of God."

Roberts has said God told him to raise $8 million by March 31 or he would be "called home."

In New York, Grutman told a news conference Swaggart had gone to prominent believers and at least one newspaper with "exaggerated and distorted" information about Bakker's sexual liaison of seven years ago.

"It was part of a plan that would have accomplished the ouster of Jim Bakker and if that had occurred, would have enabled Jimmy Swaggart to take over PTL," Grutman said.

Swaggart was not involved in blackmailing Bakker for $115,000, but found out about it and tried to use the information against Bakker, Grutman said.

He warned Swaggart that if he engaged in further intrigue his own secrets would be revealed: "We will have to take action to defend ourselves. And if we do that, I suspect that you will ... bring down the pillars of the Temple upon your own head like Samson."

Swaggart, who admitted he passed on rumors about Bakker's extramarital affair to superiors at the Assemblies of God, the country's largest Pentecostal denomination, said he wasn't worried.

"Whatever so-called dirty laundry he may have he's free to air to the whole world," Swaggart said on CNN.

Bakker and his wife, Tammy Faye, meanwhile, got support from Roberts, who said a demonic conspiracy to sow discord among Christians is behind attacks on the Bakkers and on him for his fund-raising drive. He pleaded with his followers to "go to your checkbooks" to help the PTL.

In other developments Tuesday: —Swaggart was named in a $90 million lawsuit filed in New Orleans by the Rev. Marvin Gorman, who alleged that he committed "an immoral act" with a woman in 1979 and resigned in July as pastor of the First Assembly of God Church in New Orleans after Swaggart joined church officials in a conspiracy to defame him. Swaggart denied the allegations.

—A psychologist said Bakker cried uncontrollably and begged God for forgiveness during a counseling session shortly after his affair with Jessica Hahn, a 27-year-old church secretary in Massapequa, N.Y.

"He was shaking so violently that I had to hold him," Fred Gross said on PTL's television show Tuesday. "He was so totally distraught and out of control that he was racked with pain and guilt from the head to his toes."

—Ms. Hahn confirmed she had a sexual liaison with Bakker in 1980 but denied she blackmailed him, according to a report Tuesday in New York Newsday.

Ms. Hahn, who said she had spent most of her adult life working for the Massapequa Tabernacle Church, said she later received "a few dollars" of the $115,000 that PTL officials reportedly paid after she complained about the incident, the paper reported.

An 8th grader at Stanton Junior High, Joanna is active in Law Enforcement Explorers, science team/club, athletics, church choir, church lector, and serves as a church nursery volunteer.

Her hobbies include jogging, singing, volleyball, and basketball.

Among the gifts awarded to the new Miss Texas Teen will be a tuition scholarship, cash, a watch, diamond pendant, expense-paid trip to the national agent, tiara, trophy, and many other gifts.

Julie Condra, the 1986 Miss Texas U.S. Teen, will be present to crown the new winner. Miss Condra was fourth runnerup in the National competition.

Spingarn Medal

The Spingarn Medal has been awarded yearly since 1914 by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People for the highest achievement by a black American. Some of the recent winners have been Bill Cosby, Mayor Thomas Bradley of Los Angeles, Lena Horne and Mrs. Rosa Parks, who started the bus boycott in Montgomery, Ala., in 1955.

Sorority meets for buffet, guest night

Alpha Iota Mu Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority met recently in the Community Center for a salad supper buffet and guest night.

Members and guests were served from a table decorated with rainbow balloon arches, a buffet of various salads, quiche, strawberry shortcake, and iced tea.

Each table was accented with rainbow balloon bouquets which were given to each guest.

During the business meeting vice-president Beckie Fry reminded members that they are invited to the 35th Anniversary Tea of La Madre Mia Study Club to be held March 29 at the E.B. Black House.

A Shopping Spree is planned for April 4 with further details to be provided at the next meeting.

The Reddy Room will be the setting for the next meeting to be held on April 2. Members should bring empty Leggs' to the meeting.

Hostess will be Beckie Fry with Ruby Sanders serving as co-hostess.

Pictures of members, officers, and committees will be taken for the scrapbook. Girl of the year letters are due.

Following a brief business meeting, guests and members were treated to a game of Wheel of So So Fortune. Fry portrayed Pat Sarjerk while Lisa Rollins was Vampa White. Guests were contestants and had a chance to spin the wheel for prizes. White elephant gifts brought by members were used as prizes.

Guests included: Camille Beville, Patricia Sarchet, Christi Smith, and Marrie Leverett.

Members present were Lisa Pyeatt, Gay Maclasky, Marge Bell, Janice Betzen, Elizabeth Jesko, Nancy George, Glenda Jesko, Jackie Fangman, Rhonda Nicklaus, Fry, Rollins, and Connie Matthews, advisor.

WTSU student gives program for garden club members

Tonya Savage, a West Texas State University senior, was the guest speaker when members of Bud to Blossom Garden Club met recently in the home of Kathleen Brockman.

Savage told of plans to beautify the college campus including a designated area set aside to be made into a picnic area with trees, flowers and shrubs. Members voted to give a cash donation and Paula Hamby announced that she will donate a Russian olive tree.

Patricia Robinson gave a brief report on the recent district meeting held in Midland.

An invitation was read from La Madre Mia Study Club inviting the club to attend its Anniversary Tea from 2-4 p.m. Sunday in the E.B. Black House.

Those present included Naoma Hare, Addie Cunningham, Wilma Bryan, Phyllis Brown, Hamby, Robinson and Brockman.

No Entertainment Necessary

Although a variety of entertainment was provided throughout the day at the Senior Citizens' Rock 'n' Roll Jamboree Tuesday, Stan Knox (at left) and "Tup" Loerwald amused themselves. Knox came fully prepared for a long rocking session with two full cans of Dr. Pepper attached to a long tube for continuous "nourishment" and Loerwald babysit an adopted child. The event, which was chaired by Ruth Knox, benefited the American Heart Association.

Abundant Life

THE HELL OF HATE

By Bob Wear

We can learn how to live together in atmosphere of peace and good will. The framework of our national life is strong enough, and flexible enough to contain all of us and our differing views; except the revolutionaries and radicals who may have sworn to destroy our way of life. No one has a right to spread hate and destructiveness.

There are many possibilities for the development of hate. These exist in our heterogeneous society, because of differing cultural backgrounds, ancestral backgrounds, religious views, and political concepts. If we remain alert to these possibilities, we can manage everything reasonably well, and most certainly without the development of hate.

The hell of hate is a constant threat to all of us. It is, therefore, imperative that we find working ways to get along. From the standpoint of our needs and general well-being, we must be controlled by the spirit of 'live-and-let-live'. We must learn to hold to our own personal convictions while we generously grant others the same privilege. This can be accomplished if we maintain a deep and lasting mutual respect for basic human rights.

There will be times and situations when our differences are in sharp conflict, but we must not give way to hate. Many conflicts can be reconciled by honorable means of open and free discussions. When this is not accomplished, we can freely grant to each other the right to be different, and do so without hate. When hate dominates, people are motivated to the wrong kind of behavior. Hate has no respect for person, character, property, human rights, or for personal worth or dignity.

Hate is destructive to the one who hates. "Hating people is like burning down your own house to get rid of a rat."—Fosdick.

Let us build strong defenses against hate, because the ideals and the principals which form the structure for our 'good way of life' cannot survive in a climate of hate.

Passport photos

Two photos must be submitted to attain a U.S. passport. They have to be sufficiently current (no more than six months old) and a good likeness. Photographs must be portrait-type prints, clear, front view, full face with a light background. Photos of the subject relaxed or smiling are encouraged.

Over-the-counter drugs abused

Abuse of over-the-counter drugs can lead to vitamin deficiencies, psychological dependence and delay in treatment of serious physical illnesses, says a health education expert.

"Some people don't even think of the laxatives or cough syrups they buy at the store as drugs, when they are," remarks Dr. Mary Ann Heussner. "Others look to a pill or tonic as a magical cure-all, rather than placing their confidence in a physician."

"Self-diagnosis and self-medication with almost any type of over-the-counter drug can have possible side effects," cautions the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service specialist.

Aspirin is the most widely used medicine in the world, she says. It's a pain reliever, but excessive use has been known to cause kidney damage, ulcers and anemia.

Laxatives used over a prolonged period may be habit forming. Stimulant laxatives shouldn't be used when abdominal pain, nausea or vomiting are present. Repeated use of mineral oil may affect the absorption of calcium, phosphates and vitamins A and D, explains the specialist.

Diuretics are used to purge the body of excess water, Heussner notes, but they can produce a wide range of side effects, including rash, headaches, constipation, dizziness, sweating and a tingling feeling in the arms and legs. Also, diuretics can cause the user to lose too much natural salt from the body.

The specialist says diet pills used indiscriminately can lead to a psychological dependency for the drug.

Caffeine taken in pills to help you stay awake will temporarily increase alertness. Large doses can also cause rapid or irregular heart action, muscle twitching, agitation and possibly even convulsions, she explains.

Cough medicine typically contains a mixture of two to five drugs. A few mixtures contain as much as 50 percent ethyl alcohol, which is the equivalent of 100-proof whiskey.

Sleeping pills usually contain anti-histamines to induce drowsiness and drugs with other sedative properties. After prolonged use, sleeping pills disrupt healthy, normal sleeping habits. Some of the possible side effects are blurred vision, rapid pulse, dizziness and dryness of the mouth.

"Over-the-counter drugs are useful for minor ailments that last a short time," Heussner says. "But taking them constantly may be postponing treatment for a serious illness."

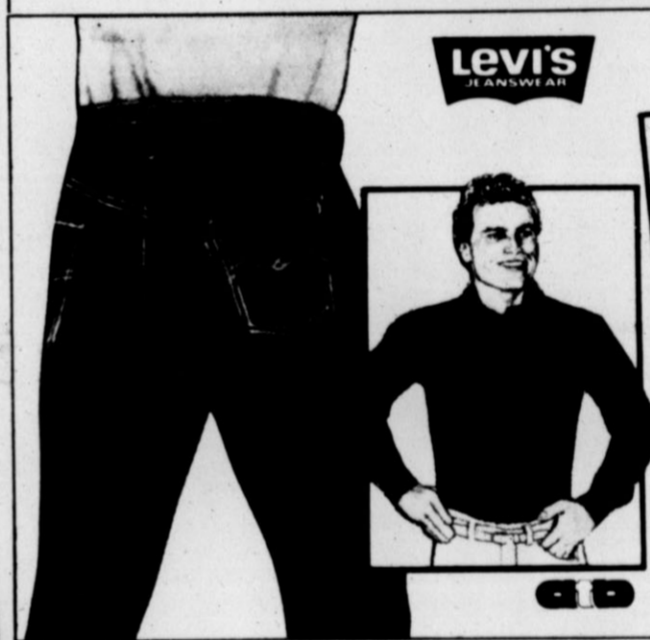

"If symptoms persist, make an appointment with a doctor and find out for sure what is wrong. Then follow his or her advice for proper medication," advises the specialist.

Earth's axis

If the Earth's axis were perpendicular to the plane of the Earth's orbit around the sun, there would be no change of seasons. Day and night would be nearly constant length and there would be equable conditions of temperature. But because it is tilted, the Axis is at right angles with the sun only in March and September.

The only stipulation by the company was for the callers to try to limit their calls to 15 minutes. The senior citizens averaged less than 10 minutes for the 17,000 calls made.

CALCIUM BALANCE

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Too much or too little calcium can cause kidney stones, according to urologists at the University of Rochester.

Too much calcium — in the range of three to four grams daily from milk, cheese and calcium supplements — can cause hypercalcaemia, which sets the stage for kidney stones. However, calcium is used by the body to "offset" or neutralize the oxalate found in instant coffee, cola drinks, beer, tea, spinach and vitamin C.

If the body does not have enough calcium, oxalate will increase in the urine and may cause kidney stones. "All things, including calcium, should be taken in moderation," says Dr. Abraham T.K. Cockett.

Enjoying A Good Joke

Marshall Cook shares a little joke with his father, Dr. Ron Cook, pastor of First Baptist Church, and the Rev. Bob Huffaker, pastor of the First Church of the Nazarene, during the Rock 'n' Roll Jam-boree held Tuesday at the Senior Citizens Center. The event, which benefited the American Heart Association, featured entertainment throughout the day by local citizens including Hereford Day Care children, senior citizens choir and line dancers and 4-H members.

Ann Landers

Start over, get training

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I just read about the girl, now 21, who had had a baby at 16 and another at 18, both by accident.

Well, I'm 21 and have two children, too. I wanted to be with my boyfriend and we decided the sure way to do it was to have a baby. He was also 16, and never worked. Four years later I'm still with him. Now we have two kids. He still doesn't work. I get welfare, which barely covers our needs. I'm tired of struggling to get through the month with two kids to feed and clothe. I never get anything for myself, never have a dime to spare. My boyfriend drinks (when he can get someone to treat him) and he knocks me around when he's in a bad mood.

What can I do with no job training? I feel trapped. I don't love my boyfriend anymore but I am afraid to be alone. Tell me, how does a person start over with two kids and being so young? I'm scared and I know in my heart my folks are right. He'll never amount to anything. I don't want my kids to grow up around this lazy bum. Please tell me what to do.—Oregon Girl Who Messed Up

DEAR OREGON GIRL: The first thing you must do is complete your high school education and get into a job-training program. A social worker can help you do this. Contact the Family Services Association (in the phone book) or Catholic Charities (you don't have to be Catholic), or the person you are seeing about your present welfare arrangement.

The second thing you must do is insist that your boyfriend join AA and stick with it or move out. Better to be alone than with a freeloader who drinks and knocks you around. Get going and good luck.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Although I have not required hospitalization since childhood, I have often felt apprehensive when seeing hospital care depicted on TV or in movies.

Specifically, I dislike it when doctors or nurses address patients in the first person plural instead of the second person singular, as in "How are we feeling?" or "Time for our medication."

Even though the depiction may be based on exaggeration or misinformation, there must be some basis in fact for it. And that is the cause for my concern. Regardless of the motivation, if I were confined to a hospital bed, to be addressed in such a manner would be considered an assault to my dignity and emphasize dependency. Surely talking to a patient in a normal manner is the better way. Do hospitals have any policy regarding this practice?—Ill at Ease in Va.

DEAR ILL AT EASE: This is not a matter of hospital policy. It's personal "style." I suggest to folks who feel as you do that they verbalize their displeasure. Some people don't know they are being offensive until they are told.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have friends who let me know I am welcome to come for holiday dinners — Easter, Thanksgiving and Christmas. Need I tell you they are a godsend? I also have friends who call me a day or so before a holiday to give my family a chance to ask me first. I appreciate this more than they know. It is so good for my self-esteem to say, "Sorry I have other plans," when the family drops me a crumb at the last minute.

People who are picky about how and when they are invited need to take a page from your book and wake up and smell the coffee.—Salina, Kansas

DEAR SALINA: You've packed a lot of wisdom into your short letter. Thanks for a short course in humility and common sense.

How to—and how much? Find out with Ann Landers' new booklet, "How, What and When to Tell Your Child About Sex." For your copy send 50 cents plus a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.)

Concrete pipe could have leaks

"Irrigators who are using concrete underground pipeline to transport their irrigation water from the well to the field should check for leaks in the mortar-connected pipeline joints prior to the upcoming irrigation season," says Ken Carver, Assistant Manager of the High Plains Undergrround Water Conservation District No. 1 in Lubbock.

Thousands of miles of mortar-jointed underground irrigation pipeline are still being used in the Texas High Plains. In most cases this pipeline is 10 to 15 years old and, due to age deterioration, needs to be checked for leaks.

Large leaks are normally easy to find because of the mud puddle that forms at land surface. However, small leaks are generally not detectable from land surface. These small leaks in the pipeline joints can cause substantial water losses, wasting as much as 50 percent of the well yield when numerous small leaks are added together.

Leads in the concrete pipeline can also be caused by temperature variations that will crack the mortar joints. Such temperature variations occur when cold water from a tailwater pit or playa basin is run through the system during the winter, says Carver.

"A flow meter is probably the best and easiest way to find out if your underground pipeline leaks and to what extent the leaks affect your application of water to your crops. Differences between the meter readings at the pump and the discharge point indicate the amount of water lost in the pipeline," notes Carver.

Substantial water losses may mean the underground pipeline needs to be repaired or replaced. Carver suggests, "The best time to check for leaks in underground pipeline is in the winter so the farmer can make repairs before the summer irrigation season."

Information and assistance on checking for leaks in underground pipeline can be obtained from the High Plains Water District in Lubbock, the local office of the Soil Conservation Service or the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Most commercial produce still goes to fresh market

While both fruit and vegetable production and processing are diverse in Texas, most commercially grown produce still goes into the fresh market.

Texas boasts a lot of smaller food processing firms that have been in business less than 10 years and are expanding, points out Dr. Richard Edwards, economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

These firms are involved in all types of fruit and vegetable processing: canning, freezing, dehydration, freeze-drying and aseptic packaging. There are 13 canned food processors (which includes three fruit juice packers), eight in frozen foods, three in dehydration, one freeze-dryer, and some 50 specialty food packers.

A recent survey of the Texas food processing industry showed that the "average" firm had gross sales of more than $7 million and used about 10 million pounds of raw products, Edwards points out. This survey represented about 58 percent of the food processors.

Texas farmers continue to view the processing market as a secondary alternative, says the economist. In some instances, they grow crops specifically for the processing market, as in the case of the cucumbers which are virtually all processed into pickles.

According to Edwards, economics is the main reason the fresh market is more important to Texas growers. Fresh products command a better price. However, current economic conditions are such that vegetables grown for processing could bring higher returns than other field crops.

The economist estimates that the farm value of the wholesale price for processed fruits and vegetables is only about 30 percent. Thus the value added by processing is about three times the value of the unprocessed product.

Where does the potential for expanding the Texas processed (value added) food industry lie?

Mexican foods appear to offer immediate potential, says Edwards. These foods have gained in popularity in recent years.

The popularity of specialty sauces is another example of an expanding food segment. Included in this category are picante style products, barbecue related products, Italian style sauces and related dressings. There are presently about 20 Texas companies of varying size in this growing sauce market, and most use a tomato base that is usually purchased outside of Texas.

The advantage of sauce processing is that it does not require a major capital outlay compared to that needed for a frozen food operation, Edwards points out.

However there is a potential for processing frozen onion products in Texas. Texas produces 19 percent of the national onion consumption, and the best possibility for further processing appears to be in the institutional market. Additional markets could be created by combining the ability to grow top quality onions with innovative processed products.

Modern consumers are continuing to demand new products which are not only more convenient but of high quality, such as Lean Cuisine, Le Menu and Dinner Classics. Firms who seek to produce such items should have a competitive advantage, notes Edwards.

Food processors evaluating possible sites should look at the potential Texas has to offer in several key areas. Texas producers have shown they can consistently supply the quantity and quality of products required. Texas has a locational advantage in relationship to the producing areas of Mexico, since Mexican products are needed to supply plants when Texas products are not available. Also, Texas is close to the rapidly growing population centers of the Sun Belt, adds Edwards. Disadvantages include high energy costs, water availability and transportation.

Coach wins heroism award

HOUSTON — A Freestone County Junior high school coach who rescued a 13-year-old boy from a train-swollen storm drain was announced Monday as the winner of the 1987 Texas Rural Heroism Award.

Arzo Burnim, 62, of Teague, received the award during the 48th annual Texas/Southwestern Safety Council and Exposition for rescuing Russell Keaton of Teague on Feb. 3, 1986. The award is sponsored by the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council. Ben Bullard, assistant safety director for the Texas Farm Bureau, is the Council president.

Torrential rains had swept the area, and Burnim was traveling home to check on some of his cattle when he came upon Keaton struggling to keep from being carried away by the rapid current of the water in the storm drain.

Burnim jumped into the water and grabbed Keaton. He managed to hold onto the youth although he was barely keeping himself from being swept away.

Manning Stevens, the second person on the scene, radioed on his CB for police assistance. Then Shelton Green, a Teague water department employee along with co-worker Alfred Bonds, helped to pull the youth from the drain. Green radioed for an ambulance. He then worked to free Burnim from the drain.

The youngster was covered with fire ants when he was freed from the drain. He was treated for bruises, exhaustion and fire ant bites, but otherwise was in good condition.

ASCS signup deadline March 30

All producers who plan to participate in the 1987 farm program must sign up with the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service by March 30.

The ASCS also needs to know of any changes that would cause a farm or farms to be combined or divided for the 1987 program year.

Any changes in operators, owners, acreage, or mailing addresses should be reported to the ASCS office.

People once believed they could keep their cattle healthy by hanging boughs of the mountain ash tree in front of the stables.

Spring's arrival not signal of fair weather

By DON KENDALL AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The arrival of spring prompts no magical flute-playing by government weather observers or airy poetry to soothe winter's scars.

So it was in a report for the week of March 16-22 issued Tuesday by the Joint Agricultural Weather Facility, operated by the Commerce and Agriculture departments.

"Precipitation slowed land preparation and seeding across most of the eastern half of the nation.

"Winter wheat and small grains experienced wet, cold weather from northern Texas, up through the central and northern Great Plains, and across the Rocky Mountain states.

"The wet snow was beneficial, providing additional moisture and protection. Soil moisture was adequate in most areas.

"Farmers were able to work three days or less in the eastern half of the nation. In the central plains, field work was limited to less than two days."

The report said winter wheat was in "mostly good" shape as spring arrived. And the immensity of the land was suggested by the varying degree of wheat's development as of late March, from "heading" out in the Southeast to being still dormant in Montana.

"Rain and wet fields slowed corn planting," the report said. "Georgia's corn acreage was 11 percent planted, more than three times slower than normal. In Louisiana, only 3 percent of the acreage was seeded, 32 (percentage) points behind normal."

And cotton planting was just getting under way in parts of Arizona, while farmers in California waited for warmer weather.

Sorghum planting was running far behind normal in Texas.

Tobacco transplanting "progressed slowly" in Florida and was just getting started in Georgia. Tobacco beds were being prepared in Kentucky, Indiana, North Carolina and Virginia.

There may be some good news for consumers: Georgia's peach trees were in "good to excellent" condition as spring arrived, with 64 percent blooming.

Vegetable planting continued across the Southeast. White potatoes and early vegetables were being planted in New Jersey. Onions were planted in Idaho.

"Seasonal weather continued over Florida's vegetable producing areas," the report said. "Strong winds caused very little damage. Wetness delayed watermelon planting in northern areas. Early spring and winter vegetable harvest was in full swing."

The condition of livestock nationally was "mostly good" as spring arrived. Cold weather caused lambing and calving problems in the northern plains. Pastures were in "mostly good" shape.

Ag Appreciation Day

The food line is shown on the Hereford State Bank parking lot Saturday as the bank and Hereford's auto and implement dealers hosted an Ag Appreciation Day.

More than 750 farm and ranch people ate hamburgers, visited, and viewed new cars and farm implement equipment at the annual party.

Soviet Union buys more U.S. corn

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union has bought an additional 200,000 metric tons of U.S. corn — about 7.9 million bushels — for delivery through Sept. 30, the Agriculture Department says.

Moscow resumed buying U.S. grain last month with the purchase of 1 million tons of corn, the first since last June.

Officials said the sales were reported to USDA by private exporters as required by law. No prices or other details were disclosed.

The department says the latest estimated price of corn is about $1.56 per bushel at the farm. A metric ton is about 2,205 pounds and is equal to 39.4 bushels of corn or 36.7 bushels of wheat.

Thus, the latest sales, announced Tuesday, would have an estimated farm value of about $12 million.

So far the Soviets have bought 2.6 million tons of corn and no wheat for delivery in 1986-87. Sales in 1985-86 were more than 6.96 million tons, including 6.8 million tons of corn and 152,600 tons of wheat. In addition, the Soviets bought more than 1.5 million tons of soybeans.

In 1953, President Harry S. Truman announced that the United States had developed a hydrogen bomb.

In 1955, Marion Anderson became the first black singer to perform at the Metropolitan Opera in New York City.

Tests made on new cherry tree

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tests are being made on a new variety of ornamental cherry tree from Japan, which the Agriculture Department says might be able to thrive in some of the coldest parts of the United States.

"As far as we know, the tree has never been killed by cold temperatures in Japan. It could possibly live in even colder climates here," said Roland M. Jefferson, a cherry tree expert for the department's Agricultural Research Service. "We expect that places as far north as Minnesota will have, for the first time, an ornamental double-flowering cherry tree that is extremely hardy."

The trees survive in readings as low as 31 degrees below zero Fahrenheit in Japan, Jefferson said

Local ASCS office recognized

In NCAA basketball tournament

For Syracuse, familiarity breeds caution

By The Associated Press

For the Syracuse Orangemen, familiarity breeds caution.

The Orangemen, winners of the NCAA Tournament's East Regional, will face a team they know well in the Final Four at New Orleans on Saturday. That opponent, Providence, has been the surprise team of yet another wild college basketball championship tournament.

What the Friars did in winning the Southeast Regional, including knocking off Big East champion Georgetown, has Syracuse wary, even though the Orange won both conference contests this season.

"They're not the same team we beat twice," Syracuse guard Sherman Douglas said. "They've raised their game a notch. They're using the 3-pointers more. They're more aggressive. The two games we played them, we had to come from behind, which showed us they can beat us."

Providence's 88-73 win over Georgetown, which had routed the Friars 84-66 in the Big East tournament earlier this month, proved there are no favorites in postseason.

"Anyone that's overconfident at this stage shouldn't be in college," Syracuse Coach Jim Boeheim said. He dismissed the fact Syracuse, 30-6, has won 15 straight games against Providence, which was fourth in the conference this year. The Orangemen tied with Georgetown and Pittsburgh for first place and then lost the conference tourney final to the Hoyas.

As for the Friars themselves, Providence Coach Rick Pitino says of being 25-8 and in the Final Four: "It would be understating it to say it is a shock." And he added: "The biggest shock is the way we have done it."

"We played on Alabama-Birmingham's home court and that didn't bother us. One of the toughest defensive teams we faced all year was Austin Peay. Then we played the SEC (Southeastern Conference) champions and the Big East champions and executed very well."

Pitino, who once was an assistant at Syracuse under Boeheim, said he doesn't look for a repeat in style of last Saturday's Georgetown game. The Hoyas shut down the Friars' vaunted outside game but, while guards Billy Donovan and Delray Brooks struggled, Providence dominated the inside.

"We're going to react to what they give us," Pitino said. "We're going to try to push the pace and they're going to try to push the pace with us. It's going to be a very fast game."

Probably not as fast as the nightcap, however. The top-ranked Runnin' Rebels of Nevada-Las Vegas, in the Final Four for the first time in 10 years, won't do much walking. Neither will Indiana, which built its 28-4 record on solid defense — a trademark of all Bobby Knight teams — and a high-powered attack led by All-America guard Steve Alford.

"It will be a real physical game," said Jerry Tarkanian, coach of the Rebels, 37-1. "Bobby's teams always play that way. If we play a real good ball game, I think we have a chance."

The 3-point shot is a staple of the Vegas offense, which averages 92.6 points a game. Freddie Banks and Gerald Paddio do most of the bombing. Inside, Armon Gilliam is the workhorse scorer and rebounder.

The Big Ten champion Hoosiers say they can't afford to fall behind the Rebels the same way they did against Auburn and Louisiana State in early NCAA games.

"I think we've really improved, but at times we play really immature, run the offense too quick," says forward Daryl Thomas. "That leads to a bad defensive conversion. ... The other team gets it out and runs it up."

Aguirre scores 43 points, Mavericks beat Nets

By The Associated Press

As far as Mark Aguirre is concerned, he's ready to do whatever it takes to regain the respect of his teammates and help the Dallas Mavericks go all the way.

Called a "jerk" by one teammate and "immature" by coach Dick Motta after being ejected in the first half of a game against the Detroit Pistons last Saturday in Dallas, Aguirre responded Tuesday night.

He scored a season-high 43 points as the Mavericks reeled off their sixth straight victory with a 119-107 decision over the New Jersey Nets.

Despite a bruised left shoulder suffered late in the first period chasing a loose ball into the scorer's table, Aguirre tied the Byrne Meadowlands Arena pro scoring record Gerald Wilkins of the New York Knicks set Feb. 21.

"I wasn't aware of the arena record," said Aguirre, who scored 17 points in a decisive fourth quarter as the Mavericks came from behind to register their 14th victory in 18 games.

"I was hurting and not into records," he said. "You play to win, and if diving over tables is what you have to do to win, then you do it."

The 6-foot-6, 232-pound power forward hit 14 of 25 shots from the field, including three three-pointers, and 12 of 13 free throws.

"I worked hard to gain the respect and confidence of my teammates," said Aguirre. "I kind of tarnished that respect the other night. I'll do whatever it takes to get it back."

Teammate Derek Harper, who had called Aguirre a "jerk" after the game with Detroit, indicated the incident was pretty well forgotten.

"He's a very emotional player," said Harper, who scored 15 points against the Nets. "But we realize we need him to win."

The Nets, who lost for the fifth time in six games, led by as many as nine points in the third quarter and were ahead 88-84 early in the final quarter. Then Aguirre took over, scoring all of Dallas' points in a 13-4 spurt that put the Mavericks ahead for good.

First, Aguirre hit a jumper from the key and then added a 3-point field goal. After Jeff Turner hit a jumper for the Nets, Aguirre scored on a short turnaround shot, then drove the lane and was fouled for a three-point play.

A hook shot by Buck Williams cut Dallas' lead to 94-92 but Aguirre came right back with another three-point play.

Aguirre had scored nine points in a 13-4 first-period spurt that gave Dallas a 19-10 lead. He finished with 18 first-period points. Rolando Blackman added 18 points, Orlando Woolridge led the Nets with 29 points.

Spurs defeat Rockets 103-97

By The Associated Press

The Houston Rockets were thinking about a season sweep of their cross-state rival and the San Antonio Spurs were thinking about pride and the playoff chase.

Pride and the playoff chase prevailed Tuesday night as the Spurs got 24 points and 12 rebounds from Artis Gilmore to take a 103-97 National Basketball Association victory over the Rockets.

It was the first victory for the Spurs after five losses to Houston this season. The Spurs are now 26-43 and three games behind the Denver Nuggets in the loss column. The Rockets dropped to 36-33.

"You bet we were thinking about the sweep," said David Greenwood, who got a triple-double with 14 points, 10 assists and 15 rebounds for San Antonio. "We were talking about that before the game."

But San Antonio coach Bob Weiss said the Spurs had more on their mind than preventing a season sweep by the Rockets.

"I think our chasing Denver for the playoffs should be motivation enough, but I think the players also wanted to avoid a sweep by the Rockets," Weiss said. "Nobody likes to be swept."

Akeem Olajuwon had 22 points for the Rockets and teammates Robert Reid and Rodney McCray had 18 each.

Walter Berry had 22 for the Spurs and Jon Sundvold had 18 and Johnny Moore added 17.

The Spurs grabbed a 33-24 lead at the end of the first period, but were outscored by 10 points in the second period and trailed 55-54 at halftime.

The Rockets closed to 90-88 in the fourth period before Moore hit nine straight points for the Spurs to pull ahead 99-92 with 3:49 to go.

Houston guard Allen Leavell next drove the length of the court for a layup to cut the margin to 99-94. But the Rockets lost an opportunity to cut San Antonio's lead to three when Olajuwon was whistled for double-dribbling with 1:44 remaining.

Lead District 1-4A with 2-0 record

Whitefaces defeat Dunbar, 14-8

Hereford's Keith Anderson recorded his fourth pitching victory of the season Tuesday when the Whiteface varsity baseball team defeated Lubbock Dunbar 14-8 at Lubbock.

Anderson, 4-1, pitched the first four innings, in which the Herd outscored the Panthers 12-1. He struck out eight Dunbar batters, walked only one, and gave up five hits and one earned run.

The win gives Hereford a 2-0 District 1-4A record and a 9-3 season record.

Two other district games were postponed, and another one was suspended because of darkness — a 9-9 tie between Levelland and Lubbock Estacado.

The Whitefaces, who are ranked 10th in the state in this week's Texas Association of Baseball Coaches, Longview News-Journal poll, play at home at 1 p.m. Saturday against Canyon, which is ranked fourth in the state.

Hereford gained a 1-0 lead in the first inning Tuesday without getting a hit.

Behavioral difficulties to be discussed April 4

Unresolved loss and grief in a young person can result in social withdrawal, school problems, and other behavioral difficulties as well as potential health problems and an increased suicide risk.
 On April 4, a "Good Grief" seminar, sponsored by local churches, Amarillo College, St. Anthony's Hospice and Life Enrichment Center and High Plains Baptist Hospital Pastoral Services, will address these issues. The seminar will be at the Texas A&M Extension Center, 6500 Amarillo Blvd. West, from 9 a.m. - 4 p.m.
 Good Grief will help adults focus on assisting young people in moving through the loss and grieving process in a positive way. Topics included in the seminar are: the concepts of loss and grief and the emotions they generate; understanding the stages of loss and grieving; learning ways of facilitating the grieving process for young people; and identifying personal coping strategies for the caregiver.
 The seminar's facilitators are Marion Hosinski, SSM, PhD, NCC, and Marion F. Belka, SM, PhD, NCC. "The Marions" are national certified counselors, educators, spiritual directors and specialists in grief counseling.
 They have directed over 600 programs in the U.S., Canada, Brazil, Peru, the West Indies, Ireland, England and Israel. Their publications appear in nursing, medical, counseling and educational journals. Their most recent work is "New Beginnings - Learning to Choose Life When Faced With a Life-Threatening Illness."
 To pre-register for the seminar, send $15 with name and address by Thursday, March 27 to: Good Grief, First Christian Church, 3001 Wolflin Ave., Amarillo, Texas, 79109. Registration at the door will be $20.

Physicians less likely to review, discipline colleagues

The fear of a lawsuit is making many physicians reluctant to participate in the regular evaluation of medical and health care services and to discipline negligent physicians, according to the March issue of Texas Medicine. Commonly referred to as peer review, this regular evaluation of medical service is conducted at hospitals, nursing homes, and by state and local county medical societies, among others.

The statewide survey of physicians involved in peer review revealed that 59 percent would be more likely to participate in peer review and discipline activities if there was additional protection from lawsuits which often are brought by the physician who has been disciplined. Currently physicians are afforded some immunity, but it is not sufficient to prevent many retaliatory or harassment suits. More than 50 percent of respondents said they would be more likely to report negligent actions to the Texas State Board of Medical Examiners if there was more immunity. The TSBME is the state agency authorized to license and discipline Texas physicians.

According to the report in the official journal of the Texas Medical Association, between 85 and 93 percent of those questioned said activities such as negligent surgery, diagnosis, or treatment, as well as substance abuse and unnecessary surgery, should be reported to the TSBME.

When asked to rate the job that physicians in their area currently are doing on peer review and discipline, 21 percent said excellent and 50 percent said good. Physicians rated the performance of urban and rural areas nearly equal.

The survey was conducted in December 1986.
