House votes for speed limit change

WASHINGTON (AP) — All but three of the 27-member Texas congressional delegation voted to give states the right to raise the speed limit on rural stretches of interstate highways from 55 mph to 65 mph.

House members passed the controversial change by a 217 to 206 vote, far closer than an earlier vote on the five-year highway funding portion of the bill which passed on a 407-17 vote.

166 income tax returns stolen

AUSTIN (AP) — A mail clerk at the Internal Revenue Service's regional processing center allegedly took 166 completed income tax returns in hopes of stealing checks from the envelopes, police say.

Mark Anthony Hancock, 20, of San Marcos was charged Wednesday with theft of public property. He was held in lieu of $20,000 bond at the Federal Correctional Institution in Bastrop.

Police arrested Hancock Tuesday while searching for a man who, minutes before, had robbed a Pizza Hut. Although he fit the general description of the suspect, police later determined Hancock was not involved in the robbery.

Hancock was carrying a gym bag that contained 32 individual tax returns in opened envelopes addressed to the IRS Service Center. The tax returns, with W-2 forms attached, were mailed by individuals in Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas.

IRS investigators later searched Hancock's residence and found 134 tax returns, according to federal court documents. Hancock admitted to taking the tax returns from the Austin IRS Service Center with the intent to steal checks, court documents said.

State oil, gas hearings held

DALLAS (AP) — When the Texas Railroad Commission held its annual oil and gas "State of the Industry" meeting, Clayton W. Williams had a graphic way of demonstrating the rigors of the 1986 price slide.

Williams, of the Williams Company, showed up with his leg in a cast, his arm in a sling, his head bandaged and covered with cowboy hat shot full of arrows.

"Bankers broke my leg trying collect all the money I owe them. OPEC broke my back and my neck by dropping the price (of oil)," he said.

More than two dozen energy executives who spoke at the hearing Wednesday said that those who emerged from last year's price slump have emerged leaner and meaner. Several said they believe the industry will improve, giving those who economized to survive the low prices an extra edge.

But they had strong words for government officials they perceive as having failed to act.

Deaver claims innocence of perjury

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former White House aide Michael K. Deaver says he is innocent of perjury charges contained in an indictment that gives new details on his use of government connections to lobby for corporate and foreign clients.

The former deputy chief of staff faces up to 25 years in prison if convicted of five counts of lying about his lobbying activities to Congress and to the federal grand jury that indicted him Wednesday.

A longtime friend of President Reagan and wife Nancy, Deaver professed his innocence to reporters as the president issued a public statement wishing him well.

The indictment alleged, among other things, that Deaver lied to a federal grand jury when he denied contacting anyone in the government on behalf of Trans World Airlines, the first client he got after leaving the White House in May 1985.

According to the indictment, Deaver contacted "Secretary of Transportation Elizabeth Dole in connection with TWA's efforts to block or delay a bid by Carl Icahn to gain control of TWA."

The charges said Deaver also contacted Dole's deputy and a White House official on the same matter.

The indictment said Deaver made the contacts "in an attempt to involve the Cabinet Council on Economic Policy in blocking or delaying the Icahn takeover bid."

Deaver had testified to the grand jury that "I don't recall any government contact I made on behalf of TWA."

A Transportation Department official, speaking Wednesday night on condition he not be identified, said Mrs. Dole does not recall details of the conversation she had with Deaver. The official said the conversation Deaver had with Mrs. Dole's deputy, James Burnley, concerned procedures for challenging Icahn's takeover efforts.

Kicking smoking habit

BOSTON (AP) — Quitting smoking appears to raise the odds of contracting a serious intestinal disease known as ulcerative colitis, but the benefits of kicking the habit still far outweigh the risks, doctors reported today.

The researchers said their study appeared to be the first to find a health hazard related to quitting smoking. Cigarette smoking is believed to cause a variety of major illnesses, including cancer and heart disease.

The doctors found that smokers had a 40 percent lower chance than those who never smoked of getting ulcerative colitis. But reformed smokers had double the non-smokers' risk.

"The adverse health effects from smoking far outnumber any potential benefits to be gained from decreasing one's risk of ulcerative colitis," said Dr. Edward J. Boyko, who directed the study.

"Ulcerative colitis is rare, but cancer and heart disease are not rare," he added in an interview. "The argument simply can't be made that one should continue smoking to improve one's health, because that would not be happening."

Boyko, a researcher at the University of Colorado Health Sciences Center in Denver, outlined his findings in today's issue of the New England Journal of Medicine.

The study seems to suggest that something in cigarette smoke protects against ulcerative colitis, Boyko said.

House panel looks for cuts

AUSTIN (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee is working on a mission that Speaker Gib Lewis says borders on the impossible: whittling down the budget without hurting too much or too many.

The prospect had Lewis speculating Wednesday about a broader sales tax base, a state lottery and a state income tax. He said the sales tax expansion would help, but probably has little chance of winning approval this year. The lottery would help, he said, but not enough.

And, although he remains opposed to an income tax, Lewis conceded he is feeling the pressure of the state budget crunch.

"I'm personally opposed to a personal income tax ... but at the same time I realize I have a certain degree of responsibility for keeping this state going," he said. "Sometimes reality will make you soften those positions."

The appropriations committee Wednesday began its agency-by-agency review of 1988-89 spending requests. The process began with agency reviews by the various House committees. Those committees forwarded to the appropriations panel a series of budget recommendations that are $6.8 billion above projected 1988-89 state revenues.

About $2.9 billion of that difference could be covered by a tax bill that has been approved in the House and is awaiting Senate action.

That leaves a difference that Lewis said adds up to budget cuts, another tax increase or a combination of both.

"I think everything gets nailed," he said when asked where the cuts would be felt. "I don't think anyone escapes the ax, to tell you the truth."

Appropriations Chairman Jim Rudd, asked the same question, said, "Ask me in about two weeks and I'll give you the impact."

Rudd, D-Brownfield, said it would take 7 percent spending cuts in all state agencies to meet the revenue projection and give the criminal justice system and Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation the money needed to meet court orders.

Lewis predicted the appropriations committee, which is working with recommendations forwarded by other House committees, will be able to cut the shortfall between $1 billion and $1.5 billion. At that point, attention would turn to Gov. Bill Clements, who has vowed to veto any tax bill other than the $2.9 billion extension of the temporary sales and motor fuels tax rates now in effect.

House Speaker answers questions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some questions asked of Jim Wright by high school students in his home district during a live cable television telecast were easy hits for the House speaker, but others were political hot potatoes.

"What steps should the United States take to restore the confidence of other nations in American foreign policy?" asked Julie Joe, a senior from Fort Worth Arlington Heights High School, referring to President Reagan's Iran-Contra debacle.

Wright quickly responded that the United States has to behave like it talks. "If we are to be credible in the world, then we have to stand for something and we have to be consistent in our deeds in what we stand for," he said.

The half-hour program Tuesday night was the first of its kind telecast across the country on C-Span, a cable television network that records daily goings-on in the two houses of Congress.

The youths who took part in the show had watched congressional action in their classrooms via the net-about 65 mph," said Ortiz, who submitted his own 65 mph bill requiring seat belt use. "My bill offers a little more protection. But even though my bill is in subcommittee, I plan to vote for this bill."

The speed limit provision, sponsored by Sen. Steven Symms, R-Idaho, would let states raise maximum speeds to 65 mph on interstate highways outside urban areas with populations of at least 50,000.

House and Senate conferees, who took three weeks to hammer out the compromise highway bill, had agreed that if the House defeated the 65 mph initiative, the highway legislation would leave the 55 mph limit intact.

House approval means that the higher maximum speed will become part of the highway bill to be sent to the Senate, where it is expected to be approved within a week.

Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, said he is confident President Reagan will ultimately sign the speed limit change into law, but predicted it wouldn't be before the funding side of the highway bill is reduced.

"All over Texas tonight people are calling their mamas and sweethearts and saying, 'While I couldn't afford to fly in the past, I'm coming to see you now,'" Gramm said.

"This is a big day for the working men and women of the nation who can't afford to fly," Gramm said, who introduced a 65 mph bill in the Senate earlier this year.

GARDEN

nightfall are conducive to foliage diseases. Watering should be done in the morning hours to prevent the beginning of such disease.

Mulching is another means of preventing disease. A properly applied mulch prevents raindrops and water from splashing on the soil surface. Mulches also reduce the amount of fruit which rots on the soil surface by preventing the fruit from touching the soil. The absence of fruit rotting under foliage will reduce the amount of molds and fungus which can spread to plants.

It is estimated that a well mulched garden can yield 50 percent more produce than an unmulched garden the same size. Recommended materials for mulching include straw, compost, sawdust and newspaper. Inorganic mulches include black plastic, rocks, and other non-plant materials.

Black plastic used in the spring will warm the soil while newspaper used in the hot summer months will cool the soil temperature.

Mulching also provides for more efficient water usage through less evaporation.

Most West Texas soils must be altered to provide nutrients, drainage and aeration. Compacted soil will benefit from the addition of soil conditioners such as compost or other conditioners as recommended by local nurseries.

The addition of gypsum improves drainage where the soil is heavy clay.

Seeds germinate more readily in well worked soil than in coarse, lumpy soil. Work the soil to a fine texture and work in a preplant application of fertilizer a few days before planting. When transplanting plants use a root starter for best results.

With continued watering, fertilizing and weeding your garden will soon unfold the miracles to be found within a packet of seeds.

Average date of last 32 degrees F. freeze in the spring.

What is impact of NCAA three-pointer?

By JIM O'CONNELL
AP Basketball Writer

A point or three about the rule being used for the first time in the NCAA basketball tournament.

The 3-point field goal, a subject of lengthy discussion throughout the season, has made its debut amid yells of "Three."

Television announcers and arena crowds scream the number of points the shot is worth when it's taken; some get to yell it much more than others.

The 3-point shot was introduced throughout college basketball at a uniform distance of 21 feet from the backboard — some conferences had been experimenting with it for years — to alleviate congestion in the lane and end rough post play.

This year, there haven't been many post players who have drawn attention and thus the 3-point shots seem to stand out more in the minds of those who didn't follow the game throughout the season.

Of the teams in the round of 16 of the tournament, Nevada-Las Vegas has made the most 3-point field goals, 281, while Notre Dame is at the other extreme, having attempted less than half the number that the Runnin' Rebels have made. The Fighting Irish have made 41 of 113 3-point field goal attempts.

Teams haven't changed their styles just because it's tournament time. The ones who were quick to heave the long shot all season have kept it up and the ones who disdained it continued to opt for the more traditional two-point field goals.

Nevada-Las Vegas, the top-ranked team and No. 1 seed in the West Regional, has made 281 of 693 3-point attempts, or 41 percent. That's not near the best percentage of the remaining teams.

Indiana has made 51 percent of its 3-pointers and All-American Steve Alford has taken 78 percent of the Hoosiers' long jumpers. Alford is 95 of 181, for 53 percent, from 3-point range, while the rest of the team has made 23 of 51.

Some of the teams that exited the NCAA tournament early had trouble with the 3-pointer.

Navy made just three of 14 in its first-round loss to Michigan, which made 12 of 20, including a 9-for-12 performance by Garde Thompson, whose 33-point performance was overshadowed by Midshipman David Robinson's 50, all of the conventional one- and two-point variety.

Illinois missed all seven of its 3-pointers in its first-round loss to

12 NCAA tourney teams reported to be without drugs

By The Associated Press

Nothing in the NCAA's basketball drug-testing has come up positive thus far — which means that everything is positive.

The Associated Press contacted all 32 first-round winners. Twelve reported no positive test results while the others either said they had not heard from the NCAA or were not available for comment.

The 12 teams reporting everything A-OK were Alabama, DePaul, Duke, Florida, Georgetown, Indiana, Kansas, Nevada-Las Vegas, North Carolina, Notre Dame, Oklahoma and Wyoming.

The initial basketball tests were taken after opening-round games last Thursday and Friday. Another round of tests will be done following the regional semifinals today and Friday.

The tests are given to the seven players on each team with the most playing time and an eighth chosen at random.

Any player testing positive will be declared ineligible for further tournament play although the team will be allowed to continue.

Austin Peay, which sported the largest of the tournament's long-range gunners, 6-foot-8, 260-pound Darryl Bedford.

Bedford made eight of 18 3-point attempts in the Governors' two games, the second of which was an overtime to loss to Providence, the team that acts like it invented the 3-pointer.

The Friars took 47 3-pointers in their two games, making 21. They averaged more than eight per game during the regular season, tops in the nation, and have three players capable of burying the shot.

Billy Donovan, 91 of 227, Ernie "Pop" Lewis, 90 of 203, and Indiana transfer Delray Brooks, 60 of 143, certainly aren't shy about hoisting the 3-pointers.

Providence's opponent tonight, Alabama, isn't shy either. The Crimson Tide made nine of 11 against North Carolina A&T and seven of 11 against New Orleans.

Williams, Manning in Georgetown-Kansas game

All-Americans to meet each other

By The Associated Press

While Reggie Williams runs the show for Georgetown, Danny Manning pretty much is the show for Kansas.

The two first-team All-Americans will be on display tonight on the basketball court in a Southeast Regional semifinal game at Freedom Hall in Louisville.

The fourth-ranked Hoyas and 20th-ranked Jayhawks meet in the nightcap of the regional doubleheader. The other game has No. 9 Alabama against Providence.

Two other pretty good players, both first-team All-American selections, will be involved in regional play — guards Kenny Smith of North Carolina and Steve Alford of Indiana.

At tonight's East Regional in East Rutherford, N.J., it's No. 2 North Carolina facing 18th-rated Notre Dame, and Florida against No. 10 Syracuse.

In Friday night regional play, top-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas takes on Wyoming and sixth-ranked Iowa plays Oklahoma at Seattle. The Midwest action is in Cincinnati, with No. 3 Indiana opposing No. 17 Duke and No. 5 DePaul playing Louisiana State.

The smooth Williams, who has averaged 23.2 points a game, assumed the leadership role on the young Hoyas this season. He is the only senior of consequence for John Thompson's Big East champions, who have won 12 straight games and are 28-4. Williams scored 24 points and kept the Hoyas under control last weekend as they chipped away at a 15-point Ohio State lead and won 82-79.

"He's a leader, and he's a bread-and-butter player," Manning said of the 6-foot-7 Williams. "If he can't score, he's going to get the ball to someone who can score or get in position to draw the foul."

Kansas Coach Larry Brown is concerned that his players can't match up with Williams.

"We don't have anybody who can guard him," Brown said of Williams. "We have to hope he's not shooting extremely well and we're not giving him cheap baskets."

Kansas, a Final Four team last year, is 25-10. The 6-11 Manning scored a career-high 42 points in Kansas' 67-63 victory over Southwest Missouri State in a second-round game at Atlanta.

"Manning's a great player, and he can do a lot of things, but no one person is going to check Manning," Georgetown forward Ronnie Highsmith said. "Our whole team will play him. If he can get by our whole team, then he is a pretty good player."

Manning, a junior, is averaging 7 of a point more per game than Williams.

"It's not by design that he's become a scorer," Brown said. "It's out of necessity. He's smart enough to know we need him to score in order to win. I just think we're lucky to have him and that kind of ability."

The other Southeast contest figures to be a battle between Providence's home-run hitters and Alabama's construction workers.

The average height of an NBA performer in the 1986-87 season was 6 feet, 7.22 inches. Ten years ago it was 6 feet, 6.1 inches. Back in the 1947-48 campaign, it was only 6 feet, 3 inches.

Change made in rules on pass rushing

By DAVE GOLDBERG
AP Football Writer
KAANAPALI, Hawaii (AP) — Chicago Coach Mike Ditka, whose Bears won the 1986 Super Bowl in large measure because of their pass rush, is aware that the NFL's new limitations on pass rushers may hurt his team more than most. Still, he's all for them. "You spend your whole time trying to teach a guy to get to the quarterback and now you've got to change what's become a habit with them," Ditka said Thursday as the NFL unanimously approved a new rule that will force pass rushers to pull up more quickly after a passer releases the ball.

"But there's no reason for violence against the quarterback. We're in the entertainment business and the quarterback is the guy who the people want to see."

The new rule, which forces pass rushers to pull up after one step instead of the present two after the passer releases the ball, was one of a long list of actions, many of them somewhat obscure, taken at the owners meeting.

Among them:

— A change in the scheduling format that gives fourth-place teams, who now play the same schedules as first-place teams in their divisions, an easier schedule. It doesn't take effect until the 1988 season.

— Putting the ball in play on an out-of-bounds kickoff at the 35 in most cases instead of re-kicking with a five-yard penalty. It's designed to encourage runbacks and speed up the game.

— Defeating a move to change the overtime system by playing all games to a finish instead of ending them in a tie after 15 minutes. It also would have allowed each team to get the ball at least once in overtime.

The day also signaled the start of the negotiating rhetoric season after Jack Donlan briefed the owners on the upcoming labor negotiations, then said they were adamant in their stand against free agency and guaranteed contracts.

But both Donlan and Gene Upshaw, the executive director of the NFL Players Association suggested that early statements should be taken more as rhetoric and not as signs of unbridgeable differences.

"I expected this reaction," Upshaw said by telephone from Washington. "It's early March. If they had this reaction in late August, then we'd have a problem."

Donlan, the executive director of the NFL Management Council, said he could see grounds for compromise and said he is hopeful a repeat of the 1982 strike could be avoided because he gets along far better with Upshaw than he did with Upshaw's predecessor, Ed Garvey.

The change in the roughing-the-passer rules is part of a general philosophical statement designed to cut down on injuries and violence, particularly against quarterbacks. It might also equalize competition a bit — the Bears and New York Giants, the last two Super Bowl winners, both used fierce pass rushes as a principal weapon.

But both voted for it.

PLANNING LADIES
PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Nancy Van Wyk and Cynthia Coleman, the two women who staged the big food and drink extravaganza before the Super Bowl, are relative newcomers to big bashes.

Van Wyk was an urban planner at one time in San Francisco but moved into the field of staging bigger and better parties for corporations with enough money to pay the tab. Super Bowl XXI on Jan. 25 of this year was her fourth straight.

Her partner, Coleman, was director of international and domestic fashion for 11 years at a department store in San Francisco. She describes her change in careers as going from fashion to fashionable food.

Spring training news

By The Associated Press

Jack Morris is in midseason form.

Detroit's ace pitcher, who won 21 games last year despite being tagged for 40 home runs, yielded three long balls — all in a four-run fourth inning — in a 5-3 loss to the Chicago White Sox on Wednesday and has given up six homers in four exhibition outings.

Morris, who once destroyed a batrack in Tiger Stadium, also has a notable temper. That, too, is in midseason form.

Russ Morman hit a solo homer in the White Sox fourth. With two out, Morris and plate umpire John Shulock got into an animated shouting match when the call on a 1-2 pitch to Jerry Hairston was a ball.

Morris came several feet off the mound and Shulock walked several feet in front of the plate. Both men waved their arms and shouted for about a minute. Morris then walked Hairston before giving up successive home runs to Tim Lulett and Ken Williams.

Eric Davis hit a three-run homer to highlight a nine-run sixth inning that carried the Cincinnati Reds over the Houston Astros 11-3. Davis also had an RBI single.

But the best news for the Reds came when veteran right-hander Mari Soto, who had shoulder surgery last August, threw about 60 pitches over three innings of a simulated game.

"He threw good. Every time out he is getting better," Manager Pete Rose said.

Free Agency

The Oakland A's are no longer in the bidding for free-agent catcher Rich Gedman, a two-time All-Star with the Boston Red Sox. Sandy Alderson, the A's vice president of baseball operations, informed Gedman's agent on Wednesday that Oakland no longer is interested.

Gedman has said he would either sign with Oakland or return to Boston on May 1.

Holdout News

The Boston Red Sox talked with one of the agents for holdout pitcher Roger Clemens by telephone but no progress was reported in their salary war.

"We talked for 30 minutes about nothing," Red Sox General Manager Lou Gorman said. "There's nothing new to report. No figures were mentioned. There is still no movement on their part. They still haven't changed their position. I guess I'll have to call again (Thursday)."

Exhibition Games

—Howard Johnson and Mark Carreon homered, leading the New York Mets to an 8-5 victory over the Red Sox. Bob Stanley, being groomed to move from short relief to a starting role, became the first Boston pitcher to go five innings. He allowed four runs and seven hits.

—Pat Tabler and Dave Gallagher tripled during a nine-run second inning that powered the Cleveland Indians past the Seattle Mariners 14-4.

—Run-scoring singles by pinch hitter Jeffrey Leonard and Robby Thompson in the bottom of the 10th inning lifted the San Francisco Giants over the California Angels 2-1.

—Tim Lardner's third spring homer, a three-run shot in the third inning, carried the Minnesota Twins to a 5-2 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers and Fernando Valenzuela. Valenzuela allowed 10 hits in six innings.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A letter I read in your column about Christmas time has been haunting me. I can't get it out of my mind. It was from "Carol in Boulder Creek," who impulsively bought some groceries on Christmas Eve for a down-and-outer in the supermarket. That letter reminded me of something I wanted to do but didn't and I have regretted ever since.

Several years ago, after Christmas shopping, I was waiting for my bus. It was bitter and cold and the corner was crowded with holiday shoppers. I noticed a thin, elderly, shabbily dressed woman whose worn-out shoes were tied to her feet with rags.

There was a shoe store across the street from the bus stop. I was aching to take that woman over there and buy her a pair of nice shoes. But I didn't do it. Why? I don't know. Maybe I was afraid that she might be offended or reject my gift because of pride. Anyway, I did nothing. The old woman caught her bus, I caught mine and we went our separate ways.

God bless Carol, for buying those groceries. I've always regretted not buying those shoes.—Lesson Learned in Georgia

DEAR GEORGIA: Every person who reads your letter can recall a time in his or her life when an opportunity to do a good deed slipped by. What's gone is gone, but we can all learn from those missed opportunities and not let the next one go by. Experience is truly the best teacher.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Here is a new one for you. I hope you never hear of it again.

My husband's name is James H. III. He is, of course, the third generation of James H.'s. We have assured Jim's father and grandfather that if we had a son he would carry the name on.

Last week my husband's brother, "Pat," told us that his girlfriend gave birth to a baby boy and they have named him James H. IV. To make matter worse, this woman is married to a man who has custody of their two older sons.

My husband has never been close to his brother. Pat has been in trouble with the law most of his adult life, in fact he was released from jail just a few weeks ago. I feel so sad for my husband because he has worked very hard to live in a high-minded respectable way and disassociate himself from Pat's terrible reputation.

Please print this letter and let others know the anguish they can cause by taking a name they are not entitled to. And if you have any advice on what we can do about this, I would love to hear it.—Mrs. James H. III (Wis.).

DEAR MRS. J.H. III: There is nothing you can do about Pat's dastardly deed, but nothing says you can't name your son (if you have one) James H. IV. If I were you I would definitely do it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Your column several weeks ago about using electrical appliances while in the bathtub prompts this letter.

My wife insists on taking the English muffins out of the plugged-in toaster my sticking a knife in them. I have told her it's dangerous. She says I am nuts. How about it?—Solid

DEAR SAG: You are right. It is indeed a risky practice. To retrieve something that is stuck in the toaster, unplug the appliance before spearing it.

25 points, 18 rebounds, 7 blocked shots

Olajuwon leads Rockets over Suns, 113-91

By The Associated Press

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Houston Coach Bill Fitch says Rockets center Akeem Olajuwon keeps proving to people why he deserved to be an All-Star this season.

Olajuwon scored 25 points, pulled down 18 rebounds, blocked seven shots and keyed a pivotal 12-1 run late in the third period Wednesday night as Houston beat Phoenix 113-91, dealing the Suns their fifth straight NBA loss.

"Akeem played a great game. He was real active out there," Fitch said. "He played like the All-Star that he is and I think people can see why he was chosen. He really got us going."

Olajuwon had eight of his 14 first-half points in the second quarter, including seven rebounds. His five blocked shots in the period set a new Arizona Veterans Memorial Coliseum record and his six at the half tied another arena mark.

The score was tied 29-29 after the first period before Steve Harris' jumper with 10:58 left until halftime put Houston ahead to stay at 33-31. It also touched off a 27-11 run to give the Rockets a 60-50 halftime lead.

Walter Davis, who scored 24 points for Phoenix, closed the gap to 66-64 on a layin with 3:03 remaining in the third period.

Olajuwon and Allen Leavell had four points apiece during a 12-1 run to put Houston up 77-65 heading into a fourth quarter in which the Rockets led by as many as 22.

Jim Petersen, Rodney McCray and Harris all finished with 14 points while Leavell had 13 for Houston, which won for the 25th time in its last 39 games.

Ed Pinckney added 19 for Phoenix while Larry Nance had 14 points and 13 rebounds.

"Same old story," said Suns interim Coach Dick Van Arsdale. "We got close, but you can't play catch-up all night. It takes too much energy. We got back within four, then two. Then, all of a sudden, boom! It's back to 12 or 14. Turnovers, soft defense. There were too many moments where we let down and too many times when we softened up defensively and didn't do the job on the boards. With Akeem in there, he does so many things well."

The 7-foot, 250-pound Olajuwon tied the Coliseum record of six block shots in a half, originally set by then-Milwaukee center Lew Alcindor (now known as Kareem Abdul-Jabbar) in 1973 and tied three years later by Washington's Elvin Hayes. Olajuwon's five blocks in a quarter broke the mark of four held by four players. It was also originally set by Alcindor on Oct. 12, 1973, and tied by Detroit's Bob Lanier in 1974, Atlanta's Ira Terrell in 1977 and Golden State's Robert Parish in 1978.

GAMAY, OR MAY NOT
In California, two different types of grapes are associated with Gamay wine, Gamay Beaujolais and Napa Gamay. Gamay Beaujolais, until recently, was thought by California viticulturists to be the true grape of the Beaujolais district of France. Now, it is identified as one of the many clones on the Pinot Noir grape. Depending on the producer, the wine may be light or medium in body. Viticulturists now think that it was the Napa Gamay which was always the real grape of Beaujolais. Gamay is used to produce a style very similar to that of the French Beaujolais. Gamay is a light, fruity wine that should be consumed young, the same as its French counterpart. However, it lacks the fruitiness associated with the French Beaujolais.

Wilkins had 37 for Atlanta.

Nets 113, Pistons 112
Orlando Woolridge made the first of two free throws with five seconds left, the last of his 33 points, to break a tie. Woolridge was fouled by Sidney Green on an inbounds play. Detroit's Joe Dumars, who forced the 112-112 tie with a leaping jumper with six seconds left, missed a baseline jump shot at the buzzer.

Celtics 120, Bucks 102
Larry Bird scored 30 points and Boston used free throws and a 40-point third quarter to break open a close game, average Tuesday night's loss in Milwaukee and stretch its home winning streak to 20 games.

Lakers 111, Jazz 97
Magic Johnson had 27 points, 18 assists and 10 rebounds for his fifth triple-double of the season as Los Angeles posted its ninth straight victory.

Nuggets 104, Cavaliers 100
Alex English scored 30 points, 18 in the second half, and Darrell Walker contributed 29 as Denver posted its second straight triumph on the road after seven consecutive road losses.

James Worthy added 21 points and Byron Scott 17 as the Lakers handed Utah its eighth consecutive defeat and 27th in 29 games at the Forum.

Boston led 55-51 at halftime, then scored the first eight points of the third quarter. The Celtics outscored the Bucks 21-8 in the first 6:32 of the

Religious bodies sharpen opposition

NEW YORK (AP)—Major religious bodies, which steadily have opposed outside military infusions into Central America, are stepping up pressures against further U.S. arms supplies to Contra rebels in Nicaragua.

With the issue simmering in Congress and in investigations into the administration's arms deals with Iran that funded battle gear for the Contras, a broad ecumenical coalition has launched an intensive drive against such aid.

Called "Lenten Witness for Justice and Peace in Central America," the special effort was to run through Lent's 40 days of penitence before Easter and include events in the nation's capital and in cities across the country.

Both Roman Catholic and Protestant leaders were spearheading the effort, with local churches urged to hold special services, prayers, study and weekly vigils in front of federal buildings.

Administration policies in Central America are a "betrayal of the American heritage," says the Rev. Arie Brouwer, general secretary of the National Council of Churches, including most major Protestant and Orthodox denominations.

It is participating in the Lenten coalition's drive of mainline Protestant denominations and national Roman Catholic organizations, such as the leadership conferences of men's and women's Catholic religious orders.

The U.S. Catholic Conference, action arm for Catholic bishops, last week reiterated their consistent opposition to U.S. military aid in Central America, and specifically to the Contras.

The Lenten drive, to include weekly demonstrations on the Capitol steps in Washington and lobbying visits with Congress members, began on Ash Wednesday, March 4, when five religious leaders were arrested in the Capitol rotunda.

The process is continuing each Wednesday through April 15, with a turnout of Lutherans and Presbyterians this week in Washington.

The arrests take on a familiar pattern as occurred with the original group of Protestants and Catholics. Refusing police orders to leave, they instead knelt in prayer, carrying crosses bearing names of civilians killed by the Contras in Nicaragua.

Arrested, the religious leaders were held about eight hours, three hours in jail, on misdemeanor charges of unlawful entry, and in court next day, sentenced to time already served in detention — the usual disposition of such peaceful cases.

This "nation continues to prosecute a war and pursue a policy that brings us shame," said the Rev. Avery Post, president of the United Church of Christ, one of those arrested.

Concerning the civil disobedience protest, he said it was not "defiantly against the nation but in broken-hearted penitence that we have joined in defying the God of justice."

He said the "U.S.-sponsored war against Nicaragua" was "obsessive in the extreme, driven by an ideology that has become pathological" and is "not merely counterproductive but self-destructive."

While the larger Christian bodies have denounced such military aid, the National Association of Evangelicals, embracing smaller conservative evangelical churches, instead asks prayers for religious liberty in Nicaragua.

Last revolutionary

The annual report of the U.S. Commission of Pensions for 1874 notes that "with the death of Daniel T. Bakeman, of Freedom, Cattaraugus County, N.Y., April 5, 1868, the last of pensioned soldiers of the revolution passed away."
