Martinez guilty, sentenced to life

By DEBE GRAVES Staff Writer

After deliberating four hours and 40 minutes a jury impaneled on Tuesday found Victor "Boole" Martinez, 22, guilty of murder late Wednesday night and sentenced him to life imprisonment.

Martinez pled "not guilty" to the Nov. 24, 1986, murder of Jose "Pepe" Valdez ,43. But, witnesses brought by District Attorney Roland Saul testified on Tuesday to having seen Martinez with a knife and to a dispute concerning debts between the two men during the evening of the murder.

Sherrif's Deputy and Jail Administrator David Castillo testified that Martinez voluntarily gave himself up on Nov. 25 after a warrant for his arrest had been issued.

After booking, including reading Martinez his rights, Castillo took the prisoner to a changing room to shower and put on jail coveralls. While in this room, Castillo testified, Martinez voluntarily and without any questioning admitted that he thought he had killed Valdez but claimed it was in self-defense.

Amarillo pathologist and forensic specialist Dr. Ralph Erdmann had earlier testified to the results of an

Pepe Valdez. Erdmann said that the knuckles on the dead man showed no signs of having hit or tried to fight and that the only signs of defense were two slashes on the arms characteristic of a defense movement t shield the face from an

Erdmann stated that there were several groupings of wounds on the body with a total of 20 stab wounds. The jury was escorted out of the courtroom while Saul and defense attorney, Sid Ham, discussed pictures which Erdmann had routinely taken of the victim's body. Ham objected to several witnesses recalled Martinez the use of the graphic pictures as evidence stating they would prejudice the jury against his client. Judge Wes Gulley overruled the objection. In closing remarks, Saul reminded the jurors of the scene of seven men congregated around a fire of scrap lumber drinking and visiting. He reviewed the events of the evening as told by four witnesses during Tuesday's preceedings and stressed testimonies concerning Valdez's state of inebriation and that no one ever saw Valdez throw a punch or saw him with a weapon of any type. He then reminded jurors that hitting Valdez and that two of the witness testified to seeing Valdez lying on the ground and noticing blood on Martinez's hands.

In his closing address to the jurors, Ham stressed the hazy details of witnesses due to the excessive alcohol intake of those present at the scene. He admonished the jury that if they had any reasonable doubts about the guilt of his client they must return a verdict of not guilty.

Two hours and ten minutes later, dressed in blue pants and a plaid shirt and wearing a tie borrowed from a former employer, Martinez showed little immediate reaction when the jurors returned a verdict finding him guilty of murder.

As the sentencing phase of the trial started, Martinez began to sag. At one point he bowed his head and covered his face with his hands as evidence of three prior felony convictions was presented to the jurors.

Martinez had been convicted of two counts of theft of livestock and one charge of burglary of a building in 1982. At that time he had been placed on terms of probation which were modified in 1985. He was then sent to the El Paso Texas Restitution Center. His probation was revoked in 1986 because of violations involving the use of marijuana. In April of 1986, Martinez was sentenced to 42 months in the Texas Department of Corrections. Seven months later was the Valdez incidence in the labor camp south of Hereford.

Ham, who had called no witnesses during the first phase of the trial, called Martinez sister, Tina Jimenez, to the stand during the sentencing phase. Jimenez testified that her brother had some problems and said, "He needs encouragement and help.

She said Martinez had been largely responsible for taking care of their father, who is partially paralyzed. Jimenez stated that the family was willing to assist him in rehabilitation and that a long prison sentence would adversely affect the health of their father.

During cross-examination Saul expressed that the record shows that family encouragement and support had not had much effect on Martinez, 'as he has been found guilty today, of murdering a man."

Ham then stressed tailoring punishment to the person and stated the defendant was "not a big time crook but a man who is sorry for what he has done and whose family needs him.

In a deep booming voice, Saul opened his closing remarks with the Preamble to the Constitution of the United States and stated, "There is no such thing as a misdemeanor murder. He committed the ultimate

Senate bill opens bid for $100 million annual bonus to state taking nuke dump

Senate Energy Committee's chairman is pushing a $100 million annual bonus to the state that volunteers a site for the nation's first permanent nuclear waste dump, but no early takers camped at the door.

Legislation introduced Wednesday by Sen. Bennett Johnston, D-La. also would offer a $50 million annual incentive to a state willing to house a related facility for cooling, packaging and intermediate storage of spent nuclear fuels and other

The measure, co-sponsored by Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho, would defer into the next century any consideration of building a second permanent nuclear waste dump. Current law envisions that the first facility be built in the West, and calls for a second site to be picked, within years, somewhere in the East.

The Energy Department last year narrowed the prospective sites for the first dump to the Hanford nuclear reservation in south-central Washington, Yucca Mountain in Nevada and Deaf Smith County in Texas. But officials of those three states - and most others as well have made it clear they don't want the repository, estimated to cost $25 billion or more, in their back yard under current terms. And several weren't all that impressed with Johnston's incentive plan, which could provide a state more than $3 billion in bonus revenues, to be shared with local governments, including Indian tribes, over the estimated 30-year

Johnston indicated he thought Nevada the most logical candidate. But "Nevada is not for sale," said Gov. Richard Bryan. Sen. Chic Hecht, R-Nev., said Johnston's proposal was premature, because "safety is still the key issue. LLoyd Bentsen, D-Texas, echoing sentiments long expressed by other members of the Texas delegation and Gov. William Clements, said, "The key issue is not noney, but the credibility of the Department of Energy. DOE is going to have to regain credibility so people take seriously its assurances that a nuclear waste repository is safe."

Rep. Larry Combest, R-Texas, called the idea "a ridiculous proposal" and said Texas' opposition "is not up for sale.

Spokesmen from Combest's office said the bill specified that one-third of the money go to local governments and two-thirds to the state, but no definition was made of which entity on the local level, or which of area towns would get the money.

The legislative aide also said the acceptance of the site would require waiver of veto rights and of judicial review rights.

The state accepting the offer would be paid $100 million now, then $50 million each year until the site construction is completed and $100 million each year until the repository is filled, then funding would stop.

Sen. Daniel J. Evans, R-Wash., said Johnston's bill "at least represents a base from which to start some new negotiations.

But Sen. Brock Adams, D-Wash., said the "states don't want to be paid off" in money, but "want a system which will pay off in terms of credibility, scientific objectivity and environmental protection.

25 Cents

Instead of offering a carrot to the states, we should be taking a stick to the Department of Energy," for its nuclear waste policies, Adams said.

Similarly, Tennessee officials have challenged plans for the intermediate facility, called an MRS for monitored retrievable storage The old Clinch River breeder reactor site near Oak Ridge, Tenn., is the Energy Department's preferred location for that operation, estimated to cost $2.5 billion to $3

Johnston downplayed claims that there are major environmental problems associated with any of the sites on DOE's list, and predicted the incentives built into his legislationmay actually result "in a competition for both the MRS and the repository."

An Energy Department official, Ginger King, said, "Generally, we support the intent of the bill. It appears to have well thought-out funding advantages." She added, however, that the department would review the measure further before the administration takes an official

The repository would be the final burial ground for spent fuel rods from nuclear reactors as well as wastes from the manufacture of nuclear weapons.

Gabriel Chavez, 21, of Portales, N.M., died early today from multiple injuries he received after apparently walking into the path of a car on U.S. 60, five miles west of Hereford.

Investigating DPS trooper Darrell Matthews said Chavez was hit by a 1980 Chevrolet Citation driven by another Portales man, Thomas B. Velasquez, 19, at about 1:45 a.m.

Chavez was taken to Deaf Smith General Hospital where he died at 3:10 a.m.

Matthews said Chavez evidently walked from the median into the eastbound lane of traffic. He said Chavez hit near the headlight on the left side of the car, then went into the windshield.

Valesquez was not injured. Road conditions were dry at the Matthews said Velasquez was given a breath test for alcohol and showed "not a drop." A blood sample was taken from Chavez, but results were not done by this morning.

Papers filed to get info on Secord's bank account

Senate wants a court to help unlock aide the mysteries of secret Swiss banks accounts held by Richard Secord, who helped former White House aide Oliver L. North arrange secret arms sales to Iran and help for the Nicaraguan Contra rebels.

Senate lawyers filed papers Wednesday in U.S. District Court, asking that the former Air Force general be forced to give them access to the accounts or be held in contempt. The accounts may have contained or still contain funds missing in the Iran-Contra affair.

Meanwhile, the chairmen of select House and Senate investigating committees - Rep. Lee Hamilton, D-Ind., and Sen. Daniel Inouye, D-Hawaii - moved Wednesday to keep their own information secret.

They said they would seek removal of any committee member caught leaking unauthorized information and would fire any staffers who leaked information to reporters.

The warnings followed publication Wednesday of a New York Times story that said congressional investigators believe former CIA Director William Casey masterminded the once-secret Contra aid program that was run by North, a

AUSTIN (AP) - Gov. Bill Clements and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby say they are looking for "a common starting point" in solving the financial stalemate of the 70th Legislature:

The two leaders met for more than an hour Wednesday in Hobby's office at Clements' suggestion.

"At least we are going to be singing from the same sheet of music, and that's a great beginning," Clements said later. Both agreed they felt the private meeting was necessary because the 140-day regular legislative session was past its midpoint without final decisions on any major issues. Speaker Gib Lewis and Comptroller Bob Bullock were not in the "We did that by mental telepathy," Clements told reporters.

Both said their discussion included the state prison system, but not possibly dedicating proceeds from a state lottery or other new sources of revenue for prisons.

What impact will Pope's visit have?

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - The impact of Pope John Paul II's visit to the United States may not be felt for years, Archbishop Patrick Flores said after meeting recently with the pontiff.

The pope is scheduled to visit San Antonio on Sept. 13 as part of a nine-city, 10-day tour. Flores was one of several host bishops and archbishops for the U.S. trip who talked with the pope and his staff in Rome last week.

'We've had big fiestas. We've had big rodeos, but ... I think it's going to take 10 years for us to say, 'What did it really do for us?'" the archbishop said at a news conference Wednesday.

When meeting with the pope, the host bishops presented papers compiled on specific issues on the U.S. Catholic Church to Vatican Flores, the first Hispanic bishop in the United States, told the pope about the growing number of Hispanic Catholics in the nation who are no longer confined to the Southwest.

'We had the opportunity to talk about what was in our papers and plus a whole lot more, and then and there in those exchanges we were able to feel like that they understand us a whole lot better," Flores said.

Minimum wage raise proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) - Democrats want to add $1.30 to the minimum wage, which has remained at $3.35 an hour since President Reagan moved into the White House six years ago.

With Democrats in control of both houses of Congress for the first time since Reagan took office, they are proposing to raise the minimum hourly wage to $4.65 by 1990 for some 6.7 million workers and then provide a formula for workers to receive one-half the general hourly wage beginning Jan. 1, 1991.

The administration immediately denounced the Democratic pro-

"We will oppose it," Labor Secretary William E. Brock said. "The administration cannot stand by while some in Congress propose an action which will further deny opportunity to America's young men

Brock said each increase under the Democratic bill would result in "the loss of job opportunities for thousands of teen-agers" who already are suffering an unemployment rate of 18 percent.

Under legislation introduced Wednesday by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and Rep. Augustus F. Hawkins, D-Calif., chairmen of the Senate and House labor committees, respectively, the minimum wage would remain $3.35 an hour until Dec. 31 of this year, jump to $3.85 during 1968, rise another 40 cents in 1989 and become $4.65 on Jan. 1, 1990.

Beginning Jan. 1, 1991, and on Jan. 1 of every succeeding year, the minimum wage would be revised so the rate would equal one-half of "the average private, non-supervisory, non-agricultural hourly wage as determined by the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the Department of Labor for the previous November, rounded to the nearest multiple of 5 cents."

The average wage in February was $8.87 an hour, which would mean a $4.45 minimum wage under the formula.

AIDS may lie dormant for 15 years

NEW YORK (AP) - The AIDS virus may lie dormant for an average of 15 years before causing disease, according to a new study that suggests millions of AIDS cases may yet appear in people already infected with the virus.

The study released today by economist Malcolm Rees estimates 2.5 million Americans who were infected with the virus by around the end of 1984 will develop AIDS during the next 30 years or so, barring medical advances.

The calculations giving the 15-year average incubation period also suggest two-thirds of AIDS cases will arise between 10 and 20 years after infection, but Rees stressed Wednesday that the numbers are not firm.

The study is "a picture of the thing. It's not the last word on it, I'm not claiming it is," Rees said in a telephone interview.

He also said that if AIDS patients survive longer in the future with the disease, the 15-year average would refer more to time until death than time to the appearance of the disease.

Rees, who is studying the cost of AIDS for the British government, reported his calculations in the British journal Nature. They are based on data from AIDS patients who had been infected by transfusions, and national data on numbers of AIDS cases.

The estimates differ from some prior research. While Rees calculated 2.5 million infected Americans by the end of 1984 who would get AIDS, the federal government has estimated a total of 1 million to 2 million Americans would be infected by June 1986.

Letters to the Editor

I really don't know where to start this letter. I have dealt with the problem of being an animal lover and living on the outskirts of Hereford for 16 years. I have suffered through the emotional pain and financial difficulty with the problems of unwanted pets. And I say pets intentionally.

It seems to me that everyone who has a pet they no longer want or can't have they dump it; you guessed it right at the edge of town. Dumped at my home, my yard, on my cons-

A few weeks ago a pickup drove by our house, opened the door, threw out a pregnant cat and drove away. My children went out picked her up and we found her a home. It might be important to note here that the cat was a house pet. She was terrified of the outdoors. As of this date she has run away from her new home because she had to stay outside. She is lost and alone, kittens on the way and has why her master the away. Now what chance did she have? They couldn't have believed they were doing the best or right

The cat that was trying to escape the snow storm today that had taken shelter in my car was not so lucky either. Sometimes reality is as hard to deal with as the fact she is probably better off dead instantly from the fan hitting her in the head than she would be freezing to death. But I could tell you 16 years of stories of kittens, puppies, cats, and dogs. Even old pets left to die.

But all of this has worn on my nerves long enough. I'm going to have my say. And with any luck maybe this won't be my problemforever to bear alone. But then who will take care of them?

The point of this letter is to inform ation in 1867.

Hereford residents that there is a problem and it will get worse if everyone does not start taking some responsibility. I would like to stress that most animals that are dumped end up one of three ways. 1) They are killed by automobiles, a quick death; 2) they are killed by other animals, not quite as easy but better than; 3) they starve to death.

Only a few are saved by some stranger like me. And as the numbers increase it gets harder all the time. I have my own pets to care and support, seven in all. That gets harder every day since the costs of their care is up and pet food costs are would like to appeal to the citizens to get concerned about this local problem. Animals should not be allowed to produce unwanted offspring. And dumping animals is a

Decision on hiring aids employers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The latest Supreme Court ruling on affirmative action will expand job opportunities for women and help shield employers against sex discrimination lawsuits, legal experts and women's rights advocates say.

The Justice Department, on the other hand, called Wednesday's ruling a defeat for the moral principle that hiring should not be based on race or sex. And the man who filed the case after being passed over for a job said he couldn't believe people as intelligent as those on the Supreme Court could rule that way.

The decision upholding the hiring of a slightly less-qualified woman over a man as a remedy to sex discrimination "sends a strong message to employers that voluntary affirmative action is the way to go to remedy past discrimination against women," said Marsha Levick, executive director of the National Organization for Women's Legal Defense and Education Fund.

She said the message for women is, "They have an equal right to compete for advancement and promotion."

"It vindicates our historic position that sex discrimination, like race discrimination, can be remedied by the use of affirmative action measures," added Judith Lichtman, executive director of the Women's Legal Defense Fund.

The court, by a 6-3 vote Wednesday, for the first time upheld an affirmative action plan for women. The justices said employers may give special preferences in hiring and promoting female workers to create a more balanced workforce even if the employers do not admit past discrimination against women.

The court has upheld affirmative action plans to help racial minorities in a series of decisions since 1978.

Penda Hair, a lawyer for the NAACP Legal Defense Fund, said, "Employers will be among the decision's principal beneficiaries. (They) can rest confident that their encourage enrollment in these programs. Rural Texas also is in great need of reproductive services for teens according to the article. The authors encourage consideration of regionalized grassroots advisory groups in these areas. "This advisory process could bridge public agencies and local entities regarding the sensitive issues of adolescent sexuality," write the authors. "It would be recommended that (school) course work be mandated and that the content be at local discretion and

Child abuse and neglect programs are to be financed through a dedicated percentage of state's marriage license fee. Teen pregnancy prevention programs could be funded through a similar mechanism, add the authors.

Smith, Guerrero, and May conclude that policymakers must deal with adolescent sexuality and pregnancy more proactively. At the same time, careful coordination of existing services is needed so that public funds spent on this problem can be justified, they add.

Old flame's fire put out

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have been married for 18 months to a wonderful man. "Tom" has never given me any reason to question his faithfulness.

The problem is a woman he dated long before I came along. He told me their relationship was very intense but he always knew "Debby" was not the woman he wanted to marry.

Debby has called Tom's office several times to ask if he is happy in his marriage. He told her we get along very well and he is thrilled with the way I have changed his life.

Several weeks ago I explained to Tom that her calls are an attempt to get something going again and he should tell her not to call anymore. His response upset me. He said, "I refuse to tell her that. I consider Debby a friend. You have nothing to worry about.

After that disappointing exchange I accepted the fact that I cannot force Tom to do as I wish. I decided to stop pestering him and worry no

Now Tom says Debby wants to meet me. I have no interest in meeting this woman and have no idea why she would want to meet me. Tom and I don't have to meet her if I don't feel like it.

Meanwhile I am ready to blow my stack. For an old flame whose fire went out long ago, good old Debby is sure making a lot of trouble. What do I do now?-Between a Rock and a Hard Place in Yonkers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have a very good relationship with my hairdresser. He is a fine person, has a terrific sense of humor and happens to be a homosexual.

DEAR SANTA MONICA READER: Many studies have been made in an attempt to establish the fact that homosexuality runs in families. One study by Drs. # Cruz expects to be in Astros' lineup

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ AP Sports Writer

KISSIMMEE, Fla. (AP) — He's almost 40 years old and he's heard his name mentioned in trade talks or possibly being platooned in left field. Still, left fielder Jose Cruz chatted amiably between swings in the bat-

Do you expect to be the opening day starter?

"Who else?" Cruz asked smiling.
There are at least three possible
answers — Tim Raines, Ty Gainey or Terry Puhl.

Cruz gets his deserved share of applause in the Astrodome when he is introduced as "Jose Crruuuuuzzzz." He was voted last year by fans as the all-time most popular Astro.

But after 12 years with the Astros, Cruz does admit the possibility of a trade or diminished role with the Astros is not pleasant.

"It bothered me a little bit, yes, especially since I've been a leader on this ball club for 12 years," Cruz said. "So it hurts a little, but you never know in this game."

The Astros have offered a contract to Raines, a free agent outfielder, and Astros Manager Hal Lanier is giving Gainey and Puhl an opportunity for more playing time.

There also have been trades talks involving Gainey, Puhl and Cruz.

Cruz often has been considered underrated. Now he may just be considered old.

Cruz will be 40 years old in August and if he holds onto his starting job, he'll be the oldest regular outfielder in the major leagues. But he's not ready for a rocking chair in the dugout.

"Last year I had a pretty good season even though I was hurt a little," Cruz said. "Now I just have to go out and show those people (management) that I can still play."

Cruz hobbled through the first half of last season with a knee injury. After the first month of the season, he was hitting .121 with only four hits in 33 at-bats.

He was hitting .249 at the All-Star break, but the final 73 games belonged to Cruz when he hit .309 and drove in 40 runs. Now that Cruz is back for his 16th major league year, he doesn't even like to hear the word "platoon."

"I'm an everyday player, everybody knows that," Cruz said. "Last year, even with the bad leg, I hit 278. I know I started slow, but the knee didn't keep me from having a good year."

'Y' wallyball signup deadline is April 3

Wallyball leagues, including ones for adult co-ed "A" and "B" division's, high school and junior high school divisions, are being oganized at the Hereford and Vicinity YMCA.

The league season will begin on April 6, with a registration deadline of April 3. Registration fees are $8 for YMCA members and $16 for non-members of the YMCA.

Playing dates will be Mondays and Tuesdays in the six-week leagues. Single-elimination playoffs will be scheduled after the regular season is over.

Wallyball is volleyball played in a racquetball court. Four people play on the court for each team at once.

Registration forms are available at the YMCA. For more information on the wallyball leagues, contact the YMCA at 364-6990.

Major league umpires trying to instigate strike

NEW YORK (AP) — The chief negotiator for major league umpires said that National and American League officials are trying to instigate a strike by lining up substitute umpires for opening day.

The umpires' contract with the two leagues expired on Dec. 31, and negotiations for a new pact are under way. Umpires have not threatened to strike, but officials from both leagues have alerted teams to line up substitute umpires if the regulars walk out before the season opens on April 6.

April 6.
Richie Phillips, the umps' chief negotiator, said the possible replacements contacted so far include "former umpires, retired umpires, flunked out umpires and everybody else."

Cruz has played in more games, 2,188, than any active major leaguer who hasn't played in a World Series. He and the Astros narrowly missed World Series trips in 1980 and last season, and Cruz is ready to remedy that.

"I think Nolan (Ryan) has to have a good year and we've got to get some left-handed relief pitchers," Cruz said. "But if we all stay healthy, I think we can repeat. Besides, they still have me, so everything should be all right."

'Y' 30-and-over basketball meeting tonight

A meeting to organize an 30-andover basketball league is scheduled tonight at the Hereford and Vicinity VMCA.

The meeting at 7 p.m. at the YMCA building. Playing days, cost, length of league, and awards will be topics of discussion.

Three-point goal survey released

By TRUDY TYNAN Associated Press Writer

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — In an abrupt turnaround, college basketball coaches have endorsed the 3-point goal by such an overwhelming margin that one of the game's chief rulemakers says its game's chief rulemakers says its future is assured. "The support has been beyond my wildest expectations. It's such a clear mandate that there's no question it's here to stay," said Dr. Edward S. Steitz, the Springfield College athletic director who has been secretary and editor of the college basketball rules committee for more than 25 years.

More than 83 percent of the 1,400 coaches and 1,000 administrators, referees and basketball writers who responded to the survey at the end of the season supported the 3-pointer, Steitz said. Eighty percent of college coaches from all levels endorsed it.

The respondents, about 60 percent of the survey group, were nearly evenly split, 36 percent to 35 percent, on whether the 3-point line should remain at its present distance — 19 feet, 9 inches from the basket — or be moved back 9 inches to the distance used in international play.

In the absence of a clear mandate,

Steitz said the current distance would likely be retained by the Rules Committee, which will meet this week at New Orleans, site of the NCAA Tournament finals. However, he said he expected "considerable consideration" of the idea of moving the line back to the international distance.

NCAA Division I coaches favored the longer distance 39 percent to 31. NCAA Division II coaches gave it a 41-35 percent endorsement while those in Division III, junior college and NAIA ranks supported the shorter distance.

Referees were almost unanimous in support of the 3-pointer, with 94 percent favoring it. It also was endorsed by 90 percent of the administrators and 82 percent of the sportswriters.

But the biggest change of heart was on the part of the coaches, 66 percent of whom had told Steitz last spring they didn't want the 3-pointer.

The coaches' complaints continued throughout the first half of the season, "then they started discovering how to use it and what it could do for them," Steitz said.

Looking to next season, the committee will consider various schemes to end the parade to the foul line in the closing minutes of game, he said.

One of the most attractive proposals is to award two free throws to

Swim lesson signup deadline nears

A new series of swimming lessons will be taught at the Hereford and Vicinity YMCA from March 30 through April 10.

Signup deadline for the lessons is Friday this week. The course will include eight lessons, on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday of each week.

Registration fees are $20 for YM-CA members, and $30 for non-members of the YMCA. A minimum of four people may enroll in the class, and a maximum of six. Regina Kester is the class instructor.

There will be classes in two time periods: 5 p.m. to 5:30 p.m., and 5:30 p.m. to 6 p.m. Class members must bring their own towels as well as their own swim suits or swim trunks.

That proposal received the support of 58 percent of the coaches and 65

Hereford Kids Inc. league signups are under way

Signup for the Hereford Kids Inc. baseball, softball, and T-ball leagues is underway this week, and a special signup day is also scheduled, Mike Leavitt, Kids Inc. president announces.

The signup day will be on Saturday, April 11, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Community Center.

The signup deadline is Saturday, April 18, Leavitt said.

The Hereford Kids Inc. organization has these leagues: boys' Babe Ruth League, girls' softball, boys' major league, boys' minor league, boys' T-ball, and girls' T-ball.

Leavitt also noted that more officers are needed for the various leagues.

Dean Paul Martin's body found after jet crash

(AP) - Dean Martin's son and a fellow crewman died instantly when their fighter jet slammed into a remote mountainside in dense clouds six days ago, officials said after finding the fliers' bodies.

Searchers found the remains Wednesday of Air National Guard Capt. Dean Paul Martin, 35, and weapons officer Capt. Ramon Ortiz, 39, of Las Vegas, Nev., in the San Bernardino Mountains where the wreckage of their F4-C Phantom was spotted from the air earlier in the

"They made no attempt to eject," said Sgt. Carolyn Hamilton, a guard spokeswoman. They "perished instantly at the time of impact."

There was no immediate comment from Martin's father, who had been waiting for word of the search at his Beverly Hills home, according to publicist Warren Cowan.

The jet crashed into the side of a granite mountain at about 400 mph,

MARCH AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. after plunging nearly 4,000 feet from its last altitude reading on radar of 9,300 feet.

There was no indication of a malfunction with the plane, said another guard spokesman, Maj. Steve Mensik. "Apparently they did a 360-degree loop, four miles long, after his last hit (sighting) on the radar," Mensik said.

Martin and Ortiz were in one of three Phantom jets that left March Air Force Base, 50 miles east of Los Angeles, on maneuvers near the San Bernardino mountains Saturday afternoon.

As the jets approached 11,502-foot Mount San Gorgonio in heavy clouds, civilian air traffic controllers instructed the pilots to turn. Two crews acknowledged and steered clear of the mountain, but there was no response from Martin's jet.

Searchers had difficulty finding the aircraft, which had a green and gray camouflage pattern that blended with the terrain, Mensik said.

their small children eating too much sugar should also be concerned about their intake of the sugar-substitute asparatame sugar," says Mary Kinney Sweeten, University Agricultural Extension Services.

According to the Food and Drug Administration (FDA), 23 milligrams of aspartame per pound per day is an acceptable daily intake for both children and adults.

Sweeten says this amounts to 920 milligrams for a 40 pound child. Five 8-ounches glasses of powdered asparatame-sweetened drink mixes in one day would contain that amount of the sweetener.

As families eat more diet foods and aspartame is added to more products, it's possible that the amount consumed by some children could exceed an acceptable daily intake of the sweetener," cautions the nutri-

If this mineral is not replaced in the diet (or by pills), patients taking the medicine may become potassiumdeficient. This can lead to heart irregularity. Low blood potassium can also lead to digitalis-toxicity in patients who take digitalis along with hydrochlorothiazide.

I do not know whether your irregular heartbeat is normal or is due to the medication's effects. Check with vour doctor. You need a blood-potassium determination.

If your blood-potassium level is low, you have several options. One is to add potassium-rich foods (such as orange juice, bananas, apricots and prunes) to your diet. You also might consider taking potassium supplements in pill or liquid form. Your doctor might choose to treat you with a combination diuretic that contains a potassium-sparing drug.

Finally, ask your doctor to consider changing your medicine for hypertension. Several that are now available do not affect potassium and may help

Lawyers agreed to pay secretary $265,000 after Bakker affair

FORT MILL, S.C. (AP) - PTL lawyers agreed to pay $265,000 to the woman whose sexual liaison with Jim Bakker led to his resignation, a newspaper said today as the ministry's new board gathered to decide PTL's future.

Leaders of Bakker's denomination, the Assemblies of God, meanwhile, were to meet again today in Springfield, Mo., to weigh misconduct charges against him.

The Rev. Jerry Falwell, who succeeded Bakker as chairman of the 500,000-member PTL, said the eight board members may offer their own resignations today at their first

"We may walk in there and find it's untolerable, unsolvable, that our presence is not going to provide anything positive and therefore there is no need for us to stay," Falwell told reporters in Cocoa Beach, Fla.

The board includes the Rev. Richard Dortch, who had been executive director and is now the organization's president and host of the ministry's "PTL Club" television show, and former U.S. Interior Secretary James Watt.

In its report, The Charlotte (N.C.) Observer said a $150,000 fund was set up from which Jessica Hahn received monthly payments of $800 to $1,200, in addition to a $115,000 payment to her representatives in February 1985.

Ms. Hahn, who had a sexual encounter with Bakker seven years ago, would get the entire $150,000 after 20 years if she did not sue Bakker or reveal the liaison, unidentified sources told The Observer. The newspaper said the fund has operated since spring 1985, with Ms. Hahn receiving $10,045 that year. The $150,000 was deposited in the Bank of Los Angeles, the newspaper said, citing legal documents.

Earlier, The Observer reported the $115,000 payment, of which about $20,000 went to Ms. Hahn directly. The rest was used to pay legal and other expenses, an unidentified source told the newspaper.

The paper said the fund is based on a trust arrangement, apparently never signed, that was part of an agreement reached after meetings involving Dortch, PTL's attorneys and Ms. Hahn's representative.

A retired California Superior Co judge, Charles Woodmansee, acted as mediator, the newspaper said. He approved the settlement's terms after an informal hearing at which Ms. Hahn spoke.

"The judge talked to me and asked me what I wanted to do, asked me if it was all right if they set it up like this," Ms. Hahn said. "Nobody put a gun - the judge said how do I feel about this deal?"

Bakker, who remained in seclusion in Palm Springs, Calif., with his wife, Tammy Faye, resigned as chairman a week ago today, saying it was the only way to stop a "diabolical plot" by another evangelist to seize his $172 million empire.

Bakker's attorney later identified the evangelist as Jimmy Swaggart. Swaggart denied trying to bring down PTL but admitted telling Assemblies of God leaders what he knew about Bakker's sexual encounter with Ms. Hahn.

Bakker also claimed he was blackmailed into paying $115,000 for the one-time sexual encounter with Ms. Hahn. But California lawyer John Stewart, who represented the 27-year-old West Babylon, N.Y., woman, said it actually was a financial settlement "requested by PTL as an alternative to meeting with Christian leaders to discuss the allegations."

Stewart, who is co-host of a Christian radio program called "The Bible Answer Man," and attorney Paul Roper of Anaheim, Calif., said Ms. Hahn claimed Bakker pressured her into having sex with him.

Stewart said the settlement was negotiated on Ms. Hahn's behalf. She received "a few dollars" and the rest was divided, he said, but he wouldn't discuss who got what.

Ms. Hahn told reporters Wednesday outside her home that she had been advised by Roper, who is serving as her lawyer, not to talk. Asked how she was coping with the furor, she said, "I'm fine ... for now. I'm

At a meeting Wednesday in Springfield, Mo., the Rev. John Ankerberg of Chattanooga, Tenn., presented church leaders evidence he said would show that PTL officials attempted to cover up the sexual misconduct reports.

Ankerberg said he was responding to reports that he and Swaggart were involved in the alleged takeover attempt of the PTL, which stands for Praise The Lord or People That

After Wednesday's meeting, the Rev. Everett Stenhouse, the Assemblies' assistant superintendent, said in a statement that the discussion led officials to believe "that as far as PTL is concerned, there has been no conspiracy whatsoever, there has been no blackmail whatsoever."

Preparing For Reception

The public is invited to attend a reception from 2-5 p.m. April 12 at the Deaf Smith County Historical Museum. The celebration will be held to observe the 20th anniversary of the museum. Judge Tom Simons will be present to address the audience and refreshments will be served throughout the afternoon. Special music will also be provided. The DSC Historical Society board renovations and adding new exhibits. Sylvia Castillo, staff assistant, is shown grooming one of the manne-

Rivalry of shows field's competitiveness

NEW YORK (AP) - Signs of rivalry in TV evangelism, which emerged this week in the Jimmy Swaggart-Jim Bakker affair, were seen as symptomatic of an underlying condition in a packed field of such broadcasts.

Some call it a "saturated market," using up the available pool of support, creating increasing competition for it. Others say new, added donors remain to be gained, but nevertheless, the competition goes

"It's part of the free enterprise system among evangelists," says the Rev. Ben Armstrong of Morristown, N.J., long-time president of National Religious Broadcasters.

"The competition for the religious market is a healthy thing, and not hurtful," he said in a telephone interview. "It's what keeps evangelists on their toes, to come out with better programs."

However, he said that in that vying field, TV evangelists are going to have to subscribe to high, defined standards of financial accountability, and his organization is taking steps for such certification.

The Swaggart-Baker feud showed up in disclosures naming TV evangelist Swaggart as the previously indentified figure whom resigned TV evangelist Bakker accused of plotting to take over his ministry.

However, the middle-man Bakker picked to handle it, TV evangelist Jerry Falwell, said the conflict was resolved after he had a long conversation with Swaggart and was convinced he had "no designs whatever" on Bakker's ministry.

"He told me his only goal was to clean up a very embarassing situation on behalf of the Assemblies of God, and I believe him," Falwell said. Both Swaggart and Bakker belong to that Pentecostal denomina-

Bakker earlier had said his resignation was prompted by blackmail over a 1980 sexual encounter.

That episode and other undisclosed criticism were cited in letters both by Swaggart and a group of religious broadcasters, relayed to Falwell, his spokesman said, leading him at one point to see a potential "civil war" between TV evangelists.

"But it's not going to happen," said Mark Demoss, a Falwell associate. "Enough rumors and stories were circulating to give reason to believe that was a possibility. But some misunderstandings that had existed don't exist now." Neverthless, the sequence of events brought out the latent ingredients of rivalry among TV evangelists that both Armstrong and others say exists.

The Rev. Arthur C. Borden, executive director of the Evangelical Council for Financial Accountability, says TV evangelists have "saturated the market. No new donors are out there. That's why they're struggling for them."

To get them, he said, TV evangelists have to take them from each other.

However, Armstrong maintains new audiences and donors still are available, although there is a "sense of saturation in the major markets," and "increasing competition" for them among TV evangelists.

"But the real competition is against the secular market," he said. "The TV evangelists are not at one another's throat, but are trying to get attention in a secular environment in which they've been largely ignored.

"That's the No. 1 battle. The secondary battle is among evangelists and the quality of their programs." He called that a positive, stimulating competition, the kind of free enterprise that "made America great."

"But I don't see the donor pool as exhausted or in trouble," he said. "There's an increasing response to spiritual and traditional values."

He said that while the major markets, with only so much TV spectrum, were crowded, most TV evangelism was in cable systems, with ample room for expansion. 'That's the growing edge," he said.

Graham withholds comment on turmoil

NEW YORK (AP) - Billy Graham, the nation's premier evangelist, is refraining from comment, at least for now, on the furor involving TV preachers Jimmy Swaggart, Jim Bakker and others.

A spokesman for Graham, besieged with requests by reporters for comment or interviews, issued this statement late Wednesday:

"This is a difficult time for Christians to make judgment. There may be more to come out of these situations, and Mr. Graham prefers to reserve comment at this time." Graham, who has carried his crusades around the world, generally has avoided criticizing other people, particularly fellow preachers, throughout his career Even when attacked - and that has been frequent in his nearly 40 years of ministry - Graham has avoided hitting back. However, he has repeatedly warned evangelists he has trained to maintain firmly their integrity so that they would never reflect poorly on the cause of Christ.

He has particularly warned them against two pitfalls — the potential traps of misused money and sex saying they not only could destroy a ministry, but stigmatize the cause.

Both those lures are involved in the furor over Bakker. Last week Bakker quit his TV program and resigned as head of the PTL ministry, saying he had been blackmailed over an admitted sex affair.

Bakker later said that he had resigned to thwart a "diabolical plot" to take over his $172 million PTL empire. Bakker's lawyer said the figure behind the plot is Swaggart, who runs a multimillion-dollar television ministry in Baton Rouge,

Among prominent evangelists, Graham and black TV minister Fred Price are the only ones subscribing to independent auditing and public disclosure rules set by the Evangelical Council for Financial Accountability
