

AROUND TOWN

SIGHTS, FACES SEEN

Football equipment will be issued to all aspiring Whiteface gridmen Monday evening at 5 o'clock in the field house, according to Coach Dalton Criswell. After a week's practice here, the squad will go to Craterville, Okla. for a week of intensive workout. The first game is at McLean September 9. Levelland will be here the following Friday.

Two good fish stories: Sylvester Slagle has just returned from a fishing trip to Red River and Slagle is not at all sure that fishing is what it is cracked up to be. For one thing it's too expensive. Slagle went fishing and caught four trout, which was a most inconvenient number. It was enough to keep, but not enough to feed the entire party, so he plunked down $2.75 for enough more fish to make out a meal. He's resorted now to the "you can't win for losing" philosophy.

And Mrs. W. I. Valentine, who just returned from a fishing trip to Estes Park is gloating over the fact that she caught four trout in seven minutes. Dressed they weighed over five pounds. She has three eyewitnesses to this fish story. Her bait? Popcorn.

Penny's are giving a party! It's the big, gay, back-to-school party with Red Ryder as the number one entertainment feature. Stop by the store and pick up your tickets, students, is S. B. McAllen's call. The party is Thursday at 10:00 p. m. This is just one of those nice things merchants are thinking of to soften the back-to-the-classroom blow.

Mrs. Gloria Adams is the new assistant in the Popular Store ready to wear department. She formerly worked in a Specialty Shop in California.

The Hitching Post will be discontinued until September 10.

"Zesto," a new frozen confections firm has gone in on East First Street. Fred Kroll, formerly of Amarillo, is manager. Mrs. Kroll and 1-year-old daughter, Dianna Elaine, are also here.

Marvin Jones, Chief Justice of the United States Court of Claims, was in town this week.

The Boy Scout Hut is gleaming inside with a new paint job. Through the generosity of Harry McCauley and McCaslin Lumber Company, who donated the paint, and the energy of John Hicks, who did the work, the Hut is now bedecked with upper walls of wedgewood blue and lower walls of Scout brown.

Grain Sorghums May Brighten Picture For Weather Stricken County Farmers

Grain sorghums may prove to be the locale's Cinderella Crop this season as farmers who have suffered through halled out wheat patches, blighted potatoes and cotton patches that washed out, are looking to fall feed harvest to change the picture.

County Agent Hugh Clearman said that grain crops over the county looked better than they had in the past three years. Prospects are good, he declared, and with the harvest histories some of the men have plied up this season, it's mighty handy to have this crop to look forward to.

The picture hasn't been all rosy. Because of the delinquent wheat about a third of the crop had to be replanted and some farmers planted as many as three times. They started seeding the crops in May and continued past the middle of June.

Conscientious farmers are already wondering where they are going to put their grain when they begin the harvest that will probably run from the middle of September into early November.

"This storage situation may not be as difficult a problem as the wheat situation was, but it could still be critical," said Clearman. "It's too early in the season to tell just what the picture will be, of course, since we don't know how much commercial storage space will be available or just how big the harvest is going to be."

There are approximately 88,000 acres seeded to grain sorghums according to the report of the Agriculture Conservation Association. Loan rate this year is pegged at $2.03, still ninety per cent of parity, but down 25 cents from the 1948 government loan price.

Frighted farmers apparently had not been too worried about storage space. Little on-the-farm-storage had been negotiated since wheat harvest. Many of the men had taken their wheat to commercial elevators and saved their storage facilities for the fall crop.

Caprock, Plainsman, Martin and Hegari were the most popular varieties planted. Some had sired sweet sorghums again this year, planting Atlas Sorgo and African Millet.

Those growers who had been forced to reseed their crops often replanted with different varieties, a smart maneuver planned hand in hand with the growing season. As later maturing varieties washed out in the summer downpours, they were replaced with early maturing varieties such as Double Dwarf.

But grain sorghums, like lettuce and sugar beets were something to look forward to, but not to rely on until the combines had taken care of the crop and the market had taken care of the income.

Six Troop 50 Boys Win Third Place In Council Swim Meet

Six members of Boy Scout Troop 50 won 24 points to place third in the Llano Estacado Council swimming meet in Amarillo Thursday night. The meet had been postponed twice because of cold weather, with a resulting small turnout when it was finally run off.

Kenneth Brock won second place in both the crawl and backstroke races for the 15-year-old age class. (All events were 40 yards, except the relay.)

Tommy Woodford won second in the 14-year-old backstroke and third in the sidestroke events.

Duwayne Wallace placed second in the crawl, Nelson Pierce first in the backstroke and Lanny Wilkins second in the sidestroke, all in the 13-year-old class.

The relay team composed of James Nunnally, Tommy Woodford, Duwayne Wallace, Nelson Pierce and Lanny Wilkins won second place.

Troop 9 of Amarillo won the meet with 77 points, and troop 13 of Amarillo nosed out the Hereford troop for second place by two points.

Scoutmaster Bill Phillips said this meet at Gem Lake pool was the first such competition the troop has ever entered. The troop will receive an award, as will the relay team and race winners.

Mrs. Lebow Dies From Wreck Injuries Husband's Condition Considered Bad

Funeral arrangements for Mrs. Jesse T. Lebow, who died Thursday night at 10:30 as the result of injuries received in an automobile accident Sunday night in Amarillo, are pending the decision of her husband whose condition was considered too serious to inform him of his wife's death Saturday.

However, Lebow was taken off the "critical list" at St. Anthony's hospital in Amarillo Friday night.

Mrs. Lebow was the second casualty of the accident. Hubert

W. Wardlow, of Amarillo, who was driving the other car, in the two-car collision, died on the way to the hospital.

Mrs. Lebow, 31, is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Germain of International Falls; six sisters, Mrs. May Zdeb of Sacramento, Calif., Mrs. Len Tanis of Wayne, Mich., Mrs. Emil Lundin, Mrs. Roy Tavaner, and Helen Germain, all of International Falls; two brothers, William Germain of International Falls and Peter of Alaska.

May Raise Money Report Car Theft For Asst. CHDA Here Friday Night

Deaf Smith may be able to keep its assistant county home demonstration agent after all. This week two of the interested farmers of the county offered to instigate a campaign to raise the necessary $1,200 which would be the county's part of the assistant agent's salary.

Wallace Hill said Thursday he would like to investigate the situation and see if there were any other reasons besides the financial aspect regarding retaining Miss Doris Mahaffey as assistant HD agent to work with the 4-H girls.

"If money is the only drawback, I believe we can remedy that," he explained. Jack Renfro has also offered to start a subscription and will donate the first one hundred dollar bill.

"I believe there are twelve men around here who will give a hundred dollars apiece to help us take care of those 4-H kids," he said.

Last week the Commissioners Court had been asked to consider retaining Miss Mahaffey, who came here four months ago as agent-in-training, for Deaf Smith's assistant HD agent.

Report Car Theft Here Friday Night

Theft of a 1942 dark blue club coupe was reported to local police authorities Friday night. The car was taken from the swimming pool between ten and eleven o'clock.

Owner of the car, Bonnie M. Wilson, identified the license number as AN 6153.

Wilson said he and his brother, who both drive the car, had a special place in which they always hid the keys in the automobile. Friday night his brother, Bob Wilson, had parked the car near the pool while he got in the car with some other boys and when he returned, the car was gone.

"The keys were in the car, but they weren't left in the ignition," explained Wilson.

By noon Saturday the car had not been recovered.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE BRAG

Emil Dettman's sister arrived in Hereford from her home in Dallas but she arrived via Colorado Springs. "Whew," she says, "this is the coolest I've been." Temperature readings then were just below 90°.

Troy Womble Is Buried Friday

One of the last remaining original settlers of this area, the man who once owned three sections nearly surrounding the townsite of Hereford, the man whose dugout was the first dwelling in this town, 73-year-old Troy Womble was buried Friday afternoon.

He passed away at his home Wednesday about 6:30 p. m., following an illness that had lasted for 22 months. He died at his home, the huge two story white frame house on Twenty Five Mile Avenue that has been a local landmark since it was built in 1906.

Funeral services for the farmer-rancher were held at 3 p. m. Friday at the First Christian Church of which he was a charter member. Rev. Roy Ford conducted the last rites. Arrangements were handled by the Gilliland Funeral Home and burial was made in West Park Cemetery.

The family had requested that no flowers be sent to the service, but that if anyone wished to make a memorial offering, they give that money to the American Cancer Society.

Early Pioneer

Mr. Womble came to Texas 58 years ago, arriving as a stowaway in the immigrant car chartered by his father to carry the household goods from their former home in Huntington, Tennessee, to the new land of the Texas Panhandle.

He was, however, a North Carolinian by birth. His parents were living on a farm in North Carolina when he was born, January 1, 1875, but soon thereafter, moved to Tennessee, where young Troy spent the next 15 years.

In 1891 the year after Deaf Smith County was organized they came to the Panhandle. He returned to Tennessee in 1890 to marry Miss Sallie Alphonse Baker and the couple moved out to the Panhandle range-land, setting up housekeeping in a dugout on the prairie.

Eight children were born to this couple, and seven of them grew to adulthood, although early life in the Panhandle country was a constant fight against prairie fires, drought, hardship, sickness, and declining cattle markets.

Heard Railroad Was Coming

Mr. Womble and his brother-in-law, L. R. Bradley, had purchased three sections around the townsite of Hereford. They bought the land after they heard the Santa Fe Railroad was planning to run a line through this part of Texas.

In February 1899, Mr. Womble was one of the five men who met to organize the First Christian Church. It was he who made the Christmas tree for the annual Christmas celebration, a tree made of a cedar port plugged with all forms of green shrubbery that could be found. Mr. Womble was the last surviving member of the quintet when he was just below 90°.

Weather and Markets Disheartening To Growers As Potato Harvest Drags

With the season's weather delays, potato harvest was apparently going to drag out another four to six weeks, but from now on the rush was over, and at the end of the week the market picture was none too bright.

Potatoes were being trucked out of Hereford to markets in San Antonio, Dallas, Oklahoma City and Tulsa. W. W. Simpson in Hereford with the government inspection service, said he believed more potatoes were going out by truck this year than they had last year. By Saturday approximately 800 trucks had carted Hereford spuds on long and short haul markets from Amarillo to Oklahoma.

Last year at the same time 2,000 car loads of spuds had gone out by rail; this year it fell to 1,600, said Simpson.

One explanation for the growers resorting to trucks rather than rail was the fact that western potato growing areas, who were also harvesting at this time, could serve those Chicago and Mid West markets better than the Texas Panhandle could because they had a cheaper freight rate, he said.

Demand Is Down

With western markets scooped out from under them, local brokers were sending the spuds wherever there was a demand, and that demand wasn't too prolific. "The market is not too good for several reasons," said Howard Gault. Jack Renfro said there was a light demand and the price was steady at $2.25 and Norman Moore said, "We don't care to tell about the markets."

The Hereford Potato Growers Association planned to wind up their potato season by today, but would continue to run onions for a few weeks, and the J. K. Baker Shed thought they would wind up their seven-week run next week. Dick Barrett said they might be through in another week. However, most of the sheds planned to run from two to four weeks more.

Big yields had been rare. George Jones reported that Roy Woods at Springlake and Frank Knabe had come out with the biggest yields. Both had averaged about 200 graded sacks to the acre, mostly number ones. They dug the first of July and Jones said he thought the quality of those early potatoes had been better on the whole than ones dug later.

Baker described the overall picture: "There have been hardly any big yields this year, and some farmers are only making between 50 and 75 field sacks to the acre."

Trying To Outguess Weather

As harvest wore on growers tried to plot their digging between intermittent rain showers and lagging market demand. Spuds in the meantime were showing up, some good and some bad.

Renfro said that some sheds were making an effort to install equipment that would dissect the potatoes, and kill the blight spores before they could spread to the entire sack, a new innovation, which, if it proves successful, will mean dollars in the pockets of the growers and less worry about late potatoes.

Ralph Carter said his shed would be running until the first of October because of a crop of late seeded potatoes that would come off in September, and he felt that prospects for late potatoes would mean high quality and good yields.

Most of the sheds would be running Monday, but only four were open Saturday.

Several Groups To Close Here Monday

Several classifications of business firms will be closed Monday, Aug. 15, in observance of V-J Day, according to announcements made Saturday.

Included in the group remaining closed will be tailor shops, automobile dealers and barber shops. At least two grocery stores will be included in the group.

Parents of Exceptional Children Meet Second Time Monday In Court House

Parents of exceptional children met at the Court House Wednesday night to hear two trained workers in the field of cerebral palsy treatment and physical therapy encourage them that, with proper training their children may be taught to overcome the difficulties that now seem to handicap them so.

About thirty parents of children who have been hampered with cerebral palsy, speech difficulties, nervous disorders, orthopedic handicaps, deafness, epilepsy or extremely poor vision, were told that there was a possibility for establishing a special school room for these students so they may be given special attention and trained to take their place in regular classrooms.

Miss Helen Kilbourne, physical therapist at the cerebral palsy center in Amarillo, which was opened only August 1, told the parents that the value of special education could never be undervalued.

"I encourage you to do all you can to secure a special teacher, because your child can be taught to handle his handicaps and perhaps to overcome them. A child who suffers these afflictions need not let them ruin his life nor his associations with others, but he must be taught how to overcome these inadequacies, and a special teacher is a real help," said Miss Kilbourne.

To secure this special room, the parents must petition the school board, who in turn gets a petition of this district to present to the State Department of Education. If trained personnel is available, the room may be opened, explained George Graham, superintendent of schools.

"This late in the year it seems almost impossible to secure one for this school term. However, we may begin working on one for next year. Should one of the members of our faculty decide they wish to take this room and take a special training course in work for the exceptional child, next summer, I feel we can offer this room by 1950," Graham said.

Parents took the first step Wednesday night when they petitioned the school board.

The next meeting will be held Monday August 15 at 8 p. m. at the Court House and parents of all exceptional children are urged to attend. The petition will be passed around once again in an effort to secure the names of all parents who wish to have this room made available to them. On the following night the petition will be presented to the school board.

"We think that we, who are parents of these children, can do a lot for them and for ourselves by meeting and discussing some of the problems which we face," said the chairman of the meeting.

Miss Gwendolyn Holden, physical therapist from the Veterans Hospital in Amarillo told the group that in her work with older patients she often encountered people who, had they been given special assistance when younger, could have responded to treatment and have found their place in society much easier when they reached adulthood.

"More and more parents and society are waking up to the fact that special treatment is something to be recognized and cherished. The afflicted child is not to be babied and harbored but to be given special attention according to his needs," she said. The ultimate goal is for the child to become oriented so that he may leave his special training to work with the other, less handicapped children, they were told.

Red Cross Will Handle Dividend Applications

The local chapter of the American Red Cross will start taking applications for National Service Life Insurance Dividend payments on August 29.

Men and women who had the National Service Life Insurance issued to them and in force for three months between October 3, 1948 and December 31, 1947 will be eligible to make application.

The dividend is not automatic, and will not be received until three months after application is made. Application forms will not be available until the August 29 date. How much the payment will be, or how long a period of time it will be issued, was not mentioned at this time.

Farmers Meet Tuesday To Consider Forming State Soil Conservation Service Chapter

Mounting interest in the formation of a Deaf Smith County chapter of the Texas Soil Conservation Service will have a chance to expand Tuesday, August 23, when a representative of the state service will be in town to speak to interested farmers.

This meeting is scheduled for 8 p. m. in the County Court Room, County agent Hugh Clearman announced.

Deaf Smith's interest in the project perked up when the state legislature made available three million dollars in state funds to be divided among the soil conservation districts of Texas and to be eligible for a division of these funds, Deaf Smith must form a chapter.

Not SCS

"This is not to be confused with the Soil Conservation Service, the Wind Erosion district that is already at work in this county," pointed out Clearman. "That is the Federal Soil Conservation Work and is not a part of the state project. It gets no part of the three million dollar state fund."

"If we had a chapter, we could get a cut of those funds, we could use them for equipment, such as land levellers, carryalls, machinery to build terraces and ditches, equipment that would be available to the farmers of Deaf Smith," the county agent pointed out.

He outlined the program of the Texas Soil Conservation Service, formed ten years ago. This law sets up a state soil conservation board with five farmers and ranchmen as members, one from each of five near-equal areas of the state. These Board members are elected by the landowners who live in these divisions.

Can Form New Units

New units can be formed whenever landowners can get together and mark out the boundary, a part of a county, an entire county, two or more counties or a homogeneous region drained by a creek or river. Most of the 150 districts now organized consist of one county. Then they petition the state board to let them organize a district.

Then the board holds a public hearing where landowners in this district give their ideas for or against the plan.

If the board checks the plans, they hold a referendum on the matter and if two thirds of the landowners who vote in the referendum favor it, the board goes ahead with organization of the district.

Deaf Smith farmers will get their first crack at the organizational procedure on August 23, when the representative will outline the plans. From there on, the decision is their own.

Clearman urged all farmers who were interested in soil conservation to attend the meeting and hear the pros and cons on the argument.

"Back in 1936, President Roosevelt, concerned about the seriousness of soil and water losses, called on the U. S. Department of Agriculture to work up a model act which the States could use to place the leadership in soil and water conservation work in the hands of the farmers and ranchmen themselves. It was up to each state to act on the idea and to draw up its own version of the act," he explained.

N. D. BARTLETT'S "GISMO," the technical name he bestowed on his newest labor saving invention, is being put to good use these days as the men run the cement foundation on the education building at the First Baptist Church. This contrivance is used to haul cement from the mixer to the forms. It eliminates wheel barrows, manpower and backaches according to Bartlett. The inspiration for this gadget Bartlett got from a manufactured machine, retailing at about $4,500. With about three weeks sporadic work, some brainpower and $900 in parts, he devised his own. Pictured above at work on the machine, left to right are Gene Modlin, N. D. Bartlett, W. R. Cummins and Raymond Hottel. Photo by Sap Dickerson.

Hereford Riders Plan To Attend Tucumcari's Sheriff's Posse Parade

Hereford Riders Club made plans to attend the annual Sheriff's Posse Parade and Rodeo which will be held in Tucumcari August 19, at a meeting held at the stockpens here at 2 o'clock. Uniforms for the occasion will be white shirts, blue ties and felt hats with other regulation attire.

Plans have been made to camp out and a picnic lunch will be served in a local park on Friday. Reports on the Top O' Texas Show at Pampa which the group attended and also assisted in a matched roping contest between Earl Brown of Adrian and Bill Bomar of Clovis was scheduled for August 28 at the roping arena at Veteran's Memorial Park. Other events including Jack-Pot roping will be added to the roping schedule.

Jeff Roberson and Lowell Sharp were named to a committee to have charge of the flag and other equipment belonging to the club.

Members attending the meeting were Messrs. and Mesdames Ky Lawrence, Pat Lawhon, Joe Kendall, T. W. Roberson, Lowell Sharp and Lee Hopson. Also J. B. Neill, Mrs. Jack Wright, Jackie Wright, Marie Sears, Nell Spradley, Jeff Roberson, Virginia Lyons, Virgie Lee Sparks, Cawthon Bryant, Forrest Minton, Mal Stewart, Jack Messer, Sylvester Slagle, Hugh Clearman and Archie Scott.

Volunteers Give $100

Hereford Volunteer Firemen voted to give $100 to the Hereford Junior Chamber of Commerce to buy playground equipment for Jaycee Park, Fire Chief Earl Phillips announced Friday.

The Fire department had a fire drill preceding the meeting in which they made the decision to give the money. They also voted to take Debs Knox into the department again. He recently moved back to Hereford from Tulla. The Fire School previously scheduled to commence last Thursday starts this Thursday.

Wreck Injures One North Of Dimmitt

A car-truck collision on Highway 51 six miles north of Dimmitt which occurred about noon Saturday put Reuben McGilvary in the Deaf Smith hospital for emergency treatment.

He was treated for cuts and shock and his doctor said he would be released Sunday.

The accident occurred as the car driven by McGilvary was traveling down the highway and the truck turned onto the paved road from a farm road.

Another passenger in the car, Homer Thomas, received a few cuts but was released from the hospital soon after his arrival. The driver of the truck, Ben Hawley of Spur, was taken to the Dimmitt hospital for treatment.

Both McGilvary and Thomas are employees of West Texas Gas Company.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hollabaugh spent Wednesday in Plainview on business.

Profound statement of the week: "What to do with the atomic bomb is a baffling problem for mankind," said a sidewalk sage leaning against the bank building and cleaning his nails with his pocket knife, "but that still hasn't changed the number one personal problem of how to make ends meet." Mighty practical philosophy to have overheard on Monday!

Troy Womble

Troy Womble, 51, met fifty years ago in a room destined later to become a saloon to organize this church. At the Golden Anniversary Celebration this year, he was honored as the founder.

Mr. Womble's wife died in 1917 and three years later he was married to Mrs. Ola Myers. Two sons were born to this family.

Interested in Farming
Although he had settled in what was primarily ranching country, Mr. Womble was more interested in farming than in ranching. He raised wheat and grain sorghums until irrigation and diversified farming became the Panhandle way. Then he, too, branched out, putting in irrigation wells and adding potato crops to the annual harvest.

But before machine powered irrigation wells were invented, Mr. Womble had been one of the men who helped erect the windmills that dotted the plains.

As he watched Hereford grow from a dug-out to a city of six thousand people, Mr. Womble had also taken part in the activities that helped that town grow. He had been a director of the First National Bank and had been president and director of the Consumers Fuel Association, a president and director of the Hereford Potato Growers Association, a stockholder and director of the Hereford State Bank, and for seven years he had served on the board of the National Farm Loan Association in Hereford.

He was a member of the Woodmen of the World, Modern Woodmen, the Oddfellows and was one of the few men who belong to the Rebekahs Lodge.

Stroke Stopped Activity
Until he suffered a stroke, almost two years ago, he had been active in his farming and civic activities. When his illness had confined him to his home, he liked to gather his children or his older acquaintances around and discuss the old times.

He is survived by his widow, three sons and five daughters, including Mrs. L. E. Hinrichsen of Hagerman, New Mexico; Mrs. D. C. Halsey, of Tulsa; Mrs. Carl Williams, Mrs. Robert Thompson and Miss Ethel Womble, all of Hereford; Baker Womble and Benny Womble of Hereford and Troy Miller Womble of Amarillo. There are 18 grand children and five great grandchildren.

Mr. Womble, who was one of eleven children, was the last surviving son and one of the last three children. Surviving him are two sisters, Mrs. L. R. Bradley and Mrs. Emil Meeks of Colorado.

Pallothers were life time friends and many of them were longtime neighbors who had farmed with him in the Dawn Community. They were Alfred May, Ernest May, Jim Robinson, John Patton, Herb Miller, Ernest Hardaman, Arthur Rodgers and Tom Draper.

Are Parking Meters Worthwhile?

Two years ago, amid controversy and strife, the City of Hereford installed parking meters. Reports last Tuesday, second anniversary of the occasion, showed that the meters have brought in $23,508.02, a figure which assures financial success of the venture.

While the meters drew wide comment, some criticism, and considerable enthusiasm in Hereford, they have also been carefully watched in other towns. Tucumcari, New Mexico, for instance, installed meters only to withdraw them after the trial period. Many other towns passed up the opportunity entirely.

Parking meters in Hereford, we would say, have been a success. Like most questions this one definitely has two sides. People naturally resent regimentation and lament loud and long when they receive a red ticket. Furthermore, the streets sometimes look barren and deserted.

In contrast to these objections is the fact that store owners and employees have been forced to move their own cars off Main Street, leaving ample room for customer parking. Strange, too, is the fact that rural customers frequently praise the parking meters, declaring that for one cent they are able to run in, make a purchase, and be on their way with a saving on gasoline and tires many times over the parking cost, which places them in front of their objective rather than two or four blocks distant.

Advocates on each side of the question can easily find plenty of support. The majority, however, we believe would object strenuously if the parking meters were removed.

making the contractor pay additional wages by importing union men from Amarillo for the job. The boss descended upon Hereford. He took with him one man who was a picket on the job. Steel workers on the job, men who are noted as strict adherents to the traditions of picket lines, refused to work as long as this ONE MAN was picketing the job. After several hours of argument, citizens decided to take things into their own hands. The labor boss was waited upon and told to get his man and leave town, or suffer the consequences. After looking at a hundred or so determined men, who had not waited upon his for a social call, the big boss decided that he had a toothache and would have to go back to Amarillo, taking his picket with him. The steel construction workers went back to work when the ONE MAN picket line was withdrawn.

Who was the most important man in the case? The Hereford man, who was willing to work for his friends and his neighbors, without paying tribute to a labor organizer, or the ONE MAN who was imported from Amarillo to deprive Hereford men from the jobs which belonged to them?

So far we have had no labor troubles in Canyon, but the Hereford men have set the pattern as to the only way to handle such cases. Force is the only language that these bosses understand.

Listening Post

Last week Texas newspapers headlined the fact that 150 "angry citizens" had broken up a strike on a hotel construction job in Hereford, high up in the Panhandle. A union organizer from Amarillo had posted a picket on the job, inspiring eight union steel workers to refrain from crossing the picket line.

There is nothing in the record to indicate that a single harsh word was spoken by the union agent, who agreed to leave after he had told local laborers that his sole reason for appearing in the town was to secure for them a union wage scale. Certainly there is nothing un-American about that.

I feel personally that the "town without a toothache" has no right to feel proud of the publicity it has received. It is my understanding that peaceful picketing is lawful in the United States. But Hereford evidently doesn't want pickets around.

Many of us feel that some of the picketing the United Auto Workers union has carried out goes far beyond the bounds of peaceful picketing. To be concise, it stinks. The refusal of 150 angry citizens to permit a union picket to operate peacefully on the streets of Hereford also stinks.

What the powers that be in Hereford are actually saying is that they intend to decide the wage scale in the town, even if it is low. When you take away from workers the right to band themselves together for the purpose of improving their wages and working conditions, you doom them to poverty, filth and malnutrition.

In Memory of Troy Womble

Last Wednesday saw the passing of Troy Womble, truly one of the pioneers of this area. Mr. Womble came to this country as a 'teen age' boy in 1891 and made his home here until he died, fifty-eight years later.

History also records that Mr. Womble made the trip here partially by rail—in a piano box to help cut expenses. He was an ambitious boy, led by ambitious parents who gave up their home to take chances in development of a new country.

During these intervening years, the country has been good to Troy Womble, who came to be considered a bulwark in his community. Greater still, though, are the things which Troy Womble has contributed to the community. He grew, as the years passed, to be a leader and an organizer. In addition to holding numerous offices and titles, Mr. Womble helped in the creation of Hereford's early churches, banks, schools, and even helped in getting the early newspapers established.

Like other leaders, it was necessary that Troy Womble make some enemies as he went through life, but even these people considered him a fair man and a community builder; and written on the other side of the ledger is score upon score of friends. The fact that Hereford and Deaf Smith County today bear little semblance of the country to which he first came will stand forever in tribute to Troy Womble and men of his ilk.

Greetings To All Fashion Slaves!

Fashion is always news and dress designers who make their living off human nature and feminine psychology are out to see that it stays news. They keep the daintily bedecked fashion reporters turning out reams of copy on cocktail hats, decollete necklines or razor straight skirts.

They have in other seasons fanned fashion into headline flames with talk of clothes, spool heels, bustles or stoles.

But for every one woman who buys and wears a cocktail hat occasionally there must be two thousand who buy and wear aprons daily and never yet have we seen banner headlines proclaiming "Christian Dior decrees wrap around aprons for milady's kitchen-time wear."

Too bad, too, because look what the cotton industry and the designers did for the popularity of feed sack fashions, a neat and practical innovation.

The answer seems to be in the pull of the dollar sign and the age old supply and demand economy. Fashion, in other words, gets sandwiched right in between two words: getting women to like what they must wear, and getting them to wear what the dress dictators say they must like.

There seems to be too little of the former and too much of the latter.

For example, during the war when material shortages were the controlling factor, it was knee length skirts, tailored suits and that sleek, uncluttered look. When the war was over, designers pulled a switch to bring the clothing market out of a slump, and overnight fashion summersaulted. Skirts plummeted to swing at the ankles, coats went full and belted, and hats grew broad and heavily ornamented.

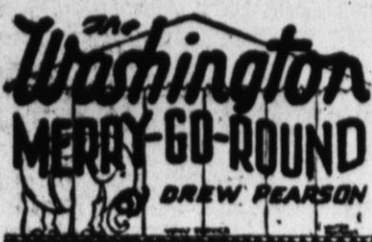

So whereas fashion may be spinach as Elizabeth Daves declares, it is also a sandwich affair and any woman who gets caught in the middle may be in for a tight squeeze.—P.R.

One Man Picket

We are mighty proud of those men over in Hereford who upheld the free American right to work, rather than bow to the rights of one man to tell the people of that community who could work for them on a community project.

Hereford is a rather small city, unorganized, with no trade unions. The progressive citizens got together and raised money to build a hotel. The contract was let, but the contractor was not told that he must import union hod carriers from Amarillo, where there is such a union. He was told to employ Hereford labor as much as possible.

An Amarillo labor leader saw an opportunity of getting bids from Hereford workmen. He

Summer Catastrophes

Summer is not a time when the American public likes to worry about world problems. Nor is summer a time when a newspaper columnist particularly likes to write about them.

For reasons unknown, however, fate has seen to it that some of the world's worst catastrophes were catalogued upon us at a time when our primary concern was baseball, beaches, and bathing beauties.

It was July, 1914, that the Serbs saw fit to assassinate Austrian Archduke Franz Ferdinand, thus precipitating World War I. It was the summer of 1938 that Hitler started his campaign to swallow Czechoslovakia. It was the following summer of 1939 that began World War II. And, perhaps even more significant, it was the summer of 1931 that began the European economic crisis that put Hitler into power.

There are certain similarities between that financial crisis of 1931 and the present British financial crisis. And, despite baseball and hot weather, it will pay us to watch them.

Between 1921 and 1931, the United States had poured several billion dollars into European reconstruction in the same general way we have poured money into Europe since V-E day. The money, of course, was advanced by private bankers, not the government; but since the bankers sold their bonds to the unsuspecting public, actually it was paid by the American people in the end.

Furthermore, much of our money went to Germany, which actually used it to pay reparations to France and England. So, in real fact, we were the main support of our allies, just as we are today through the Marshall plan.

Eventually, and all too slowly, even the bankers, after repeated warnings from the government, woke up to the fact that their long-term loans to central Europe were a poor risk. And in the spring of 1931, falling prices in the U.S.A., plus the continued crashing of the famed market, dried up the flow of funds across the Atlantic. Immediately the banks in Austria and Germany began to tremble.

It was the British in 1931—as in 1929—who first called upon the U.S.A. for aid. Their money, perhaps even more than ours, was invested in central Europe; so they asked for a moratorium on all reparations by Germany to them and all war-debt payments by them to us.

Then, as now, the secretary of the treasury, Andrew Mellon, crossed the Atlantic for conferences. Then, as now, the British urged that the United States save the day.

We did—for the time being. President Hoover declared a moratorium on all debt and reparations payments—for two years.

This, however, was only temporary. The economic crisis drifted—drifted and deepened. With depression comes political unrest. And one year later a fuhrer had raised his head in Germany. A few months after that, he had stepped into power.

All disarmament stopped. The league of nations began to disintegrate. It was now only a matter of time before war was inevitable.

There are a lot of differences between the first cracks in the world's economy in 1931 and the first cracks to show in 1948. But the main object lesson to be remembered is: Depression breeds unrest, and enough unrest breeds war.

Today England—and western Europe—is in just about the same boat—faces the following alternatives:

1. Do nothing and go broke.
2. Beg for more aid from the United States and become a poor pensioner.
3. Improve plants and production. This has not been done to any great extent with Marshall plan money, despite outmoded factories which make most European goods cost more than ours.
4. Negotiate tight, two-way barter deals, such as the British-Argentine trade pact; though these usually boomerang in the end.
5. Trade with Russia and the Iron curtain countries.

The latter alternative is the one which has recently tempted the British to the tune of a 1,000,000-ton wheat deal. It also contains dangerous potentialities for undermining the chief political objective of the Marshall plan—blocking Communism. For it is doubtful whether any member of congress would have voted a nickel into the Marshall plan kitty without the promise that it would check the westward march of Russian Communism.

British trade with Russia would strain western relations.

Chiang Kai-shek says now that he can defeat the Chinese Communists—with American help. He says as if we've heard that before.

Shaw Autobiography Has Humor, Honest Opinion, Food For Thought

By MARGARET BARRETT

George Bernard Shaw finally wrote his autobiography, and it is as typical Shavian as anything could be, which refutes all chances of its being a typical story of one's life. He calls it "Sixteen Self Sketches."

He figures it was really futile to write it, as ninety-nine and nine tenths per cent of his life is just like everybody else's, and the other one tenth per cent has already been manifested in his works. However, to make his enthusiastic followers happy, he wrote what might pass for an autobiography but contains nothing important except the things that have been overlooked or misunderstood. He devotes a few chapters to his family, not to reveal their deep-rooted influence over him but to make interesting or amusing reading. And he devotes a few chapters to airing the blunders of his biographers, in order to instruct them in how it should have been done.

Then there are the questions which are always asked celebrities and public figures—when did you first feel the urge to write? What was your first real success? What influence has your married life had over your views? What is the meaning of the world, in your opinion? — and others of the same ilk which Shaw felt obliged to answer for one reason—to prove they were silly questions.

HOMER FOX SAYS:

DID YOU KNOW...

I was chewing the fat with a bunch of old boys the other day—we meandered back through the years in baseball, reviewed the ball players, the location of the different ball grounds, and finally got around to the different fans that had supported the different ball clubs over a long period of years. A lot of them are gone for good, a lot of them have moved away, some have just plain quit, some are still going to games occasionally. Then "Wham!" all at once one name loomed up and stood out like a wart on a bald head, he has never missed a ball game for years if it was possible for him to get there—Frank Vance.

Back in 1910, Frank Vance stepped off the west bound Santa Fe train in Hereford, fresh from the oil fields of Pa. A tool dresser by trade, he came west to grow up with a new country and try his luck with what ever they had to offer a young man. He moved out northwest 18 or 20 miles and started working for Chas Donald and his D-Bar outfit.

Frank brought one thing to Texas with him and still has it "his love for baseball." At that time, and later when he was working for himself, he never failed to make it to town to see a ball game. If it was possible, and it had to be something pretty tough to make it impossible.

Those were horse and buggy days and if you think 18 or 20 miles is not a long way in a horse drawn outfit, just try it sometime! He would come in sometimes in a wagon, after a load of cake, sometimes maybe a single horse outfit, sometimes with a team to a hack and that was the fast rig. If you wanted to go northwest in those early days, you would start on the 25 Mile Avenue road, catch a gate some place north and start angling across some pasture, or you could go six miles west to Bob Mount's pasture and through a gate and start angling across the pasture, following some crooked track that some fellow made years before, maybe a 'cake wagon, most of the time these roads would meander from windmill to windmill. You had plenty of time over that 20 miles to "Day dream" build "air castles", live your life over forty times, listen to the cluck, cluck of the wagon wheels, take a nap and about the only thing that would disturb you, the team would stop now and then and you would have to bail out and open a gate. Frank Vance made that trip many times to see a ball game. If the cows didn't get milked that night they could just wait, sometimes he would make it back that night and sometimes he would stay over.

Later when he moved closer to town, he never missed a ball game. He remembers the Hereford-Vega games as the ones he enjoyed most through the years. It was always a nip and tuck affair, back when Claud and Dick Morris, Buck and Bose McNabb, Carl Shirley, Jack Robinson was a part of this hot Vega outfit.

It didn't matter whether there was a large or small crowd, you could always hear Frank up in our little bleachers encouraging the pitcher. His voice, while not too loud, was easy to hear. "Throw it in there kid, I am bettin on you." Down through the years this one old boy with love in his heart for baseball, never failed to be there, no matter if we had a good club or a sorry one.

In the hard and rough days, in the black duster days, Frank was always there talking it up. Sometimes the boys would pass the hat for a little help, maybe Frank would pass the hat himself and he would always dig down and go his part, maybe it would just be a lone dime, but in the hat it would go, and maybe he was saying that old dime for chill after the game, but to heck with the chill if it would help a little.

1910, '20, '30, '40 and in '48, Frank Vance is still a loyal base-

the BOOTLEG philosopher

(Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher probably is letting himself in for a lot of trouble in his letter this week, but it's his worry, not ours. Any woman reader who disagrees with him can take it up with him, not us.)

Dear editor: While talk of things tightenin down a little hasn't bothered me much, after you've been tighten-ed down on most of your life you get to where you don't notice it so much, it's like my cow, as long as she's confined all her life to Johnson grass she don't miss alfalfa, as far as she knows Johnson grass is all there is, and I notice people especially up north have been worryin a little over the fact people ain't spendin money as fast as they used to and business has fallen off a little.

Also, I notice the experts and the thinkers have been workin on the problem and there seems to be as many explanations as there are experts. One of em claims the fault lies in the fact we are undergoin a natural re-adjustment followin the war, another says big business is timid, another says the buyer is timid, another says the cost of livin is too high, another says wages are too low, and so forth. If you ask me, I think what the trouble is, is we got a woman in charge of the United States Treasury. I don't know anything about her personally, but my experience has been a woman likes to spend money, is free and easy with it as long as you hand it out to her, but once you put her in charge of the purse strings she clamps down like a vice and prosperity is over. Puddin a woman in charge of your money is an open invitation to shut the door on comfortable livin. I ain't never seen a banker so tight-fisted I hadn't rather hit him up for a loan than to ask my wife for some of her egg money.

SUNDAY'S CURRENT QUESTION

What suggestions do you have for the betterment of our school system, or what changes would you recommend?

Mrs. Elton Brooks: "I really haven't had much of a chance to study the American School system—I'm sure that when my little boy is of school age I'll have a lot to learn. I have made it a point to go to the plays presented by the high school students, and I have enjoyed them very much, but I think it would be nicer if they studied and presented more of the classics rather than comedies. In England, school was held year around except during the month of August. Then for two or three days out of the month there was what we called "teachers' rest periods" which were really wonderful. I think that was a very good arrangement—it gave the teachers something to look forward to, yet there wasn't that long summer vacation where the children get restless with no school schedule to follow. I am sure that having the children at home for three long months would be very hard on the mothers. I don't know whether or not we have school lunches in all the schools here or not—I think that's a very good idea. I also think that teaching foreign languages in school is very important, especially if one is looking forward to travelling. But the thing that amazes me most about the school system here is the comradeship between teachers and pupils. In England teaching school was just a business—and the pupils simply held their teachers in awe. The only teachers that showed any personal interest in their pupils at all were the science teachers and the games-mistress. The teacher-pupil relationship here is just wonderful."

Mrs. O. L. Bybee: "One of the most important needs in a school system is an advisor who co-ordinates the subjects a child takes in high school with what he plans to major in at college. Children don't realize the importance of their high school education, and are prone to take the subjects that sound the easiest. For the ones who plan to go to college, it is very important that they take subjects they will need later on, and someone working in an advisory capacity could help them do that. It is also important that high school credits be acceptable at colleges. I think that public speaking courses and classes in foreign languages should be taught in high schools, and I definitely believe in classes for children who need special attention."

Sam Nunnally: "The rapid growth in population of this area has caused a shortage of school facilities. My suggestion would be to leave the school situation in the hands of those in charge. They are doing a good job—they know their business and they know how to cope with it best."

George Graham: "Our most pressing need is more buildings to take care of the increasing population, and of course we need more teachers, and more building space. As soon as possible we will be forced to build a new High School building. Because our scholastic enumeration has risen from 802 to 1987 in the past three years, it is easy to see why I consider that the No. 1 problem. Sometimes I think we should have a better means of expressing our needs to the public—or perhaps we could take greater advantage of the means we have, so that they might be better informed. There is no better community to work with—the people have been most considerate and tolerant in trying to provide adequate facilities. The scholastic standing in Hereford has always been good, and in the future we hope to improve it."

Faust Collier: "I definitely think a foreign language should be taught in this school system, and preferably Spanish. If we are going to emphasize the Good Neighbor policy, we can't do it effectively unless we can speak their language. I understand that Spanish was once offered in the high school and I think it was a mistake to take it out of the curriculum."

Cooper Dedicates Jaycee Park

Approximately 150 persons were on hand Tuesday evening for the Jaycee Park dedication and United States Junior Chamber of Commerce president Cliff Cooper's speech.

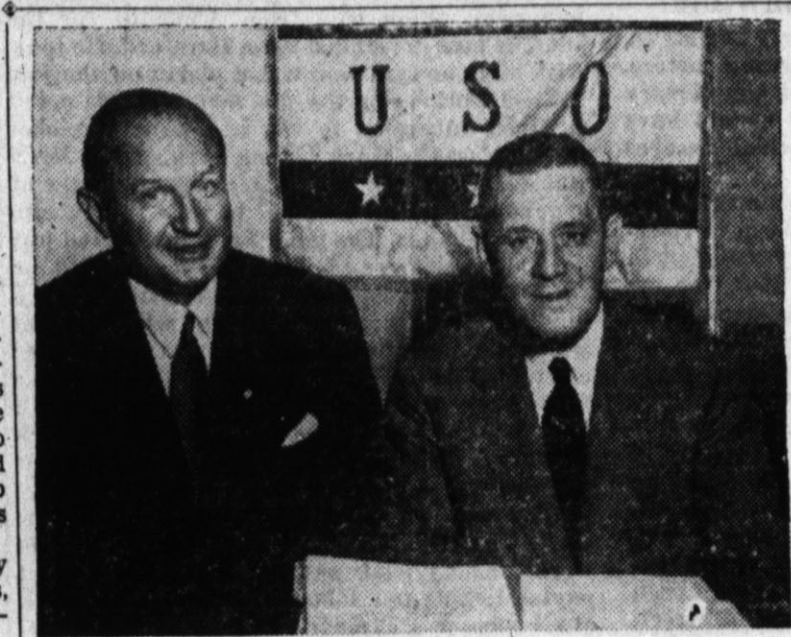

Cooper, speaking hurriedly to beat a threatening rain which came less than five minutes after the program was over, talked of the Jaycee program nationally, particularly the program they are inaugurating to bring attention to the Hoover Commission's report, reiterated previous praise Hereford Jaycees earned for their efforts at the National Convention in Colorado Springs and stated the Hereford club "is the best Jaycee club organized in the United States during the past two years."

Local president Paul Coneway introduced the special guests, City Commissioners Lyle Blanton and J. C. McCracken, Chamber of Commerce president and manager, Henry Sears and Pete Cowart, Mrs. John Jacobsen, president of B&PW, Jim St. Clair, vice-president of Region 2 in Texas of Levelland, and Charley Woodburn, vice-president from Region 1, of Amarillo. Delegations from Amarillo, Borger, Levelland and Pampa were also introduced.

Cooper was scheduled to arrive at the Amarillo airport Monday evening, but failed to arrive because of plane trouble. Several car loads of local Jaycees went up as a welcoming committee. President Coneway, Dub Reeves and S. A. Duckworth returned Tuesday and met the plane with Mr. and Mrs. Cooper aboard.

Duckworth, as vice-president of the local organization, presented an honorary membership in the Hereford Junior Chamber of Commerce to Cooper and a small gift to Mrs. Cooper at the conclusion of the dedication.

The Coopers left Hereford Thursday afternoon with a delegation of Tucumcari Jaycees. Following an appearance there and a swing through New Mexico the Coopers will return to Tulsa the first of the week.

Presently operating 170 clubs and other activities both here and abroad, it is expected that 242 will be in operation by 1950 with 25 of them being outside the United States. In addition, USO finances the Veteran's Hospital Camp Shows bringing live entertainment to hospitalized veterans. In conjunction with Community Chests and, in some places, independently, a national fund-raising campaign for $10,100,000 will be conducted by USO this coming Fall and Winter.

West Texas Gas Installs Nine Radio Stations

West Texas Gas Company announced today that it has recently completed the installation of nine fixed short wave radio stations along its more than 800 miles of transmission lines. The company has also equipped 30 trucks and automobiles with two-way radios. This radio net work, the first in this area to use frequency modulation equipment, together with more than 300 miles of company-owned telephone lines and long distance commercial lines provides as good a communication system as is available. R. F. Hinchey, president of West Texas Gas company, explained "Communication between all points of West Texas Gas Company's transmission lines is very essential and must be maintained at all times in order that it may render good natural gas service to the thousands of homes and businesses on duty at all nine fixed radio stations twenty-four hours a day, every day of the year. They will keep in contact with maintenance men making repairs along the transmission lines, and also dispatch pressure readings via radio when other communication systems are busy or out of order.

The nine fixed stations are located at Lubbock, Plainview and Midland, which are division nerve centers; at Odessa, which is near two sources of natural gas supply; at Turkey Creek Compressor Station in the Panhandle Gas Field, and at compressor stations near Canyon, Hereford, Littlefield and Tahoka.

Mrs. Burl Alexander and daughter, Sunya, and Mrs. Alexander's mother, Mrs. C. A. Tenry of Fort Worth, arrived Saturday for several days visit in the home of her husband's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Alexander. Sunday visitors will include a daughter and family of the Alexander's, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hudson and daughter Gerry Zan of Seagraves.

FFA Boys Leave On Five Day Trip

Young teen-age farmers, members of the Future Farmers of America club in Hereford, are leaving today for a five day trip to Craterville National Park in Oklahoma.

Traveling via truck, the fourteen members and their sponsor, William J. Stanford, will leave Hereford at 1:30 today and spend three days at the park swimming, horseback riding and playing softball.

"This is a just-for-fun camp, but if we see any points of interest for FFA members along the way, we'll stop and take them in," said the sponsor.

The boys will stay in the lodge at the park and take their meals in the cafeteria there. Expenses run three dollars a day for room and board and the boys are going to share expenses for the truck which is being provided by the father of one of the boys.

All these plans were drawn up at the called meeting of the Hereford chapter held at the high school Friday afternoon. Election of officers, originally scheduled was postponed until the first meeting in September, which will be held after school starts.

Boys who signed up to make the trip are Bedford Forrest, Joe Hacker, Johnny McBroom, Ray Williams, Dick Axe, Leon French, Bob Morgan, Raymond Cummings, James Henderson, Richard Pickens, Don Russell, Johnny Jesko, Stanley Slagle and James Alston.

COLLEGE STATION—Reports indicate there will be about a 25 per cent increase in the amount of nitrogen fertilizers for the coming year, a probably increase of 10 to 12 per cent in the production of potash materials and about 15 per cent increase in the production of phosphate materials.

This does not mean, says M. K. Thornton, extension agricultural chemist of Texas A&M College, that Texas farmers will get their proportionate share of these fertilizers. They can if they'll buy their fertilizer supplies early and hold them until needed, he adds.

There is limited storage space available in the factories and mixing plants and when this space is filled, the plants have to restrict operations. There is also a transportation problem—just so many box cars can be loaded each day—and when the peak shipping periods arrive every farmer cannot expect to get his share or what he needs when he wants it.

Thornton suggests that farmers get their fertilizers well in advance of the peak periods. This will spread the load over the entire year and will permit the manufacturers and distributors to maintain an even flow of fertilizers to the various sections of the state.

Fertilizer can be stored on the farm without deterioration, says Thornton. Keep the fertilizer dry and off the floor and it can be done by placing boards under the bags. This will permit air to circulate around the bags and will help take care of the necessary ventilation.

It is another case of where cooperation between the manufacturer, distributor and consumer can result in benefits to all parties concerned, says Thornton.

Canning Time And Back-To-School Sewing Makes August Busy Month

By DORIS MAHAFFEY

Canning time is here, and it is a busy time for the women and 4-H Club girls. Some of the fruits and vegetables are just beginning to be ready for canning, but already many shelves have been filled with jars of food that will look and taste good this winter.

Gail Albracht has some delicious looking jars of peaches, plums, and apricots to show for her work. With a bit of help now and then from little sister, Karen, Gail has already canned 29 quarts of fruit. She has also canned 14 quarts of dill pickles and prepared some peas to be frozen at the locker. Gail and Karen are members of the Happy Homes 4-H Club.

Mrs. Clarence Saulcy, of the Westway Home Demonstration Club has been busy canning too. Lately, she has canned 43 quarts of black-eyed peas, sweet pickles, and three varieties of beans.

It's about time to be thinking about back-to-school clothes, and Wilma June Wilcox, of the Dawn 4-H Club is doing more than just thinking. She has just finished making an attractive striped chambray dress. She did a good job of making her stripes match, too. Now she is beginning on a soft printed rayon blouse to wear with a gray gaberdine skirt she has just selected. 4-H Club girls know how to select pretty clothes as well as to make them. Wilma June is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Wilcox.

Little Nancy Parsons is doing a bit of thinking about back-to-school clothes. She is planning to make one of those skirts with several rows of elastic around the top that are so popular among the 4-H Club girls. Nancy has just completed her fourth apron and is planning to do some textile painting on it. She won first prize on an apron she entered in the County Dress Revue in May. Nancy belongs to the Worker's 4-H Club. All the 4-H Club girls are looking forward to the educational tour of Amarillo that they will make on August 16. Plans have been made for the group to visit a creamery, a meat packing house, a large hatchery, the Amarillo Air Terminal, and the Amarillo Children's Home. They will travel by chartered bus which will leave the court house at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning. About 50 girls and their leaders are planning to make the trip.

Texas Today

By DAVE CHEAVENS
Austin, Tex., (AP)—Rep. Frank Svadlenak of Thrall believes new state hospital buildings could be built without a dime of new taxes if Texas would sell off some of its spare real estate.

The eleemosynary system could be largely rebuilt, Svadlenak says, with proceeds from such sales. In the Austin area alone, the lawmaker figures a cash sale would bring about 18 million dollars.

Svadlenak, a former chairman of the house committee on revenue and taxation, first advanced the idea in a speech near the end of the 51st legislature's regular session. He enlarged upon it recently in a statement to the Associated Press.

He was referring specifically to the large acreage around the Austin

State Hospital, familiar to traveling Texans in its location on Guadalupe Street (the Dallas-Fort Worth highway) in north Austin. It is a gloomy group of buildings surrounded by vegetable gardens.

Svadlenak, a merchant who commutes between his home and Austin during sessions of the legislature, passes the state hospital ground frequently.

"For the life of me I can NOT see the wisdom of raising a head of cabbage, a couple of stalks of corn or one cauliflower on land worth from $150 to $500 per front foot. It just isn't good business," he said.

Svadlenak's idea is that the land should be sold and the hospital and similar in-town eleemosynary institutions be moved out into the country wherever possible.

When the institution here was first located on Guadalupe, it was on the far outskirts of town. Now it is surrounded by home and business property. Svadlenak gave this outline of his argument:

"1. The buildings are old and beyond modern repairs. The cost of modernizing these old structures would be as much or more than the cost of new modern construction.

"2. The land area occupied by the Austin hospital is too valuable for this purpose.

"3. The inhabitants of this institution should be moved into structures at least ten or twelve miles outside the corporate limits of any city, where they can enjoy the quiet of life and nature.

"4. Cash received for the sale of business and residential lots would finance a modern utopia for the insane. It would forego the passage of any new taxes upon the people, now overburdened by local, city, school, county, state and federal levies.

"5. The 478 acres in Austin would become private property and would bring to the city, schools and state many thousands of dollars of tax revenue not now received.

"6. Quiet country life is much more desirable for the sick rather than the hustle and bustle of the city."

Svadlenak said that while he was using the example of the Austin State Hospital, the state owned numerous other additional pieces of urban property that could be sold, with the proceeds to be used for building new and modern hospital buildings that would be a real credit to Texas. Svadlenak will come to the next session of the legislature prepared to push his NO-tax plan of building new hospitals.

"I make this statement," he said, "well aware of the new tax sentiment expressed by some of the leading state officials who favor such a move next January."

The next session's first job will be to provide for eleemosynary support and to work out some program for financing new buildings. Gov. Allan Shivers has said he would call special session if the voters do NOT adopt the annual session plan at the polls Nov. 8.

College Station—County agricultural agents report that farmers are beginning to figure on what they'll plant on the land to be taken out of cotton next year because of the acreage allotments. These same reports indicate that many are planning to plant legumes and soil building crops and others expect to put some of this cultivated land into pastures.

The Texas Extension Service has just released a new bulletin, B-188, Clovers for Texas Pastures, and it is available to you. Your local county agent can supply you with a copy and he can also give you other information that may be helpful in getting the new pasture started.

"Clover for Texas Pastures" was prepared by R. R. Lancaster, extension pasture specialist of Texas A&M College. He says every grassland needs a clover and every clover needs a grass. They just go together most everywhere, and it takes a variety of good grazing plants to make a real pasture.

The average person forms an opinion by adding to a small measure of information a dash of imagination and a large quantity of prejudice, shaking well with emotion.

Now is the time to make plans for sowing small grains for fall and winter grazing for the dairy herd. Plan to have at least one acre for each cow in the herd.

La mortalidad infantil de nuestra raza a alcanzado muy grandes proporciones en los ultimos dias y pensar que todo se debe al escuido inaudito de todos habitantes. Es necesario por lo tanto que se ponga un hasta aqui No esperemos a que el viento se de cuenta de la efemeridad de nuestro chiquitín y se sea obligado a reportarlo al puesto de auxilio, hagalo Ud. mismo. Mas vale no ser negligentes. La negligencia es lo que nos perjudica por completo y no hay quien pare la muerte cuando a las puertas de nuestra casa nos muestra su traidora mirada. La mayoria de las fatalidades se deben al descuido, las mocosas son el principal enemigo a quien debemos de combatir no permita que las plaguen porque significan la muerte segura de nuestros hijos. Combata el descuido y la negligencia y no deje de exterminar a las peores enemigas de nuestras vidas.
 MEXICO. "Mi sueño dorado es ver a mi patrie convertida en el lider de las naciones latino-americanas." me repitio varias veces un compatriota "Es por eso que no me atraen los vicios ni me arredra reprimir y reproachar a quienes se encuentran en las garras de los tales." Rompe la tadicion de los vicios no permitiendo a sus hijos participar en ellos, y Ud. como hijo ame a la reprension de su padre y guardela en su corazon y Felice lo que dice Salomon. "El que ama la reprension ama la sabiduria." Sea un temeroso de Dios y reprima sus malas companias si no puede dominarlas con sus sanos pensamientos.
 BUEN EJEMPLO—No mucho tiempo hace que me encuentre a un joven de muy gallarda figura en las puertas del Correo en esta ciudad. "Hola" me dijo sonriente y con muy atento ademán "Leel su simpatico periodico" recalco, "Le sirve en cuanto pueda, soy "Junior" y me gustaria ponerme al servicio de su inquebrantable Ideal." No tube menos que agradecer y tomar en cuenta que no me encontraba solo y que tambien otro joven mas, de esos que cuando lloran sonrien y cuando sonrien lloran, entregaba su vida en sacrificio vivo por la cause que nos inspira.

 Querido lector ahora es el tiempo en que Ud. puede entregar su vida y sus talentos a la sana vocacion de Dios, esto es "Benedicid a quienes os Maldicen" y "Servir a quienes os Aborrecen."

 Two weeks ago, Frank was working down near Hart, Hereford to play Hart that day and Frank quit work, drove to Hereford to see the game and it was played at Hart. Anytime you want to see him and there is a ball game on, just go on out there, whether it is day or night, and you will find him. If you didn't know, you wouldn't pick him for a rabid fan, big and rough, you only have to look at his beat up and calloused hands to know that he had done lots of hard work and still does. But underneath that 17 shirt he has on, is a heart as big as that old big hat he used to wear when he hauled cake for Charles Donald.

 Women handlin money ain't even satisfied to give you a simple no, they got to go into a long discussion of why you're triflin and no account for wantin a little spare money in your pocket when you go to town on Saturday. They'd deny you the necessities of life, cut you off from pipe tobacco, and then turn around and send off twice as much as you asked for to a hungry European.
 If you ask me, times is gonna be pretty difficult, money is gonna be hard to get hold of, as long as we got a woman runnin the United States Treasury. It just won't work. Surest Sign Of Autumn - - Falling Leaves And That Six Year Old Look and the happy group pictured today seem to have the matter well in hand—in imagination.

That six year old look, surest sign of autumn, is here again and approximately 185 Hereford youngsters will turn their thoughts to school for the first time on September 6.

January 4. Zell is a talented musician and loves to play the piano but she takes plenty of time out to romp with her dog Skip. Zell is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Crump.

Shower Honors Rosemary Phillips Bride-Elect Of Freeman Melton, Jr.

Miss Rosemary Phillips, bride-elect of Freeman Melton, Jr. of Wellington, was honored at a miscellaneous shower in the home of Mrs. Ellis Coombes Wednesday afternoon.

The house party included relatives who have arrived for the wedding and the hostesses who were Mesdames C. Ora Cockrell, Carl Williams, J. Wallace Robinson, Corinne Jennings, A. Petersen, R. G. Blue, L. Z. Oldham, Roberta Dyar, J. J. Clark, Cecil Williams, Wilma Carnahan and Mrs. Coombes.

The wedding will take place this afternoon at 5 o'clock in the First Christian Church. Rev. Roy Ford will officiate.

In the receiving line were Mrs.

Coombes, Mrs. Earl Phillips, the bride-elect's mother, the bride-to-be, Mrs. Freeman Melton, Sr., the prospective bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Paul Calet of Indianapolis, Ind., the bride-elect's aunt; and Mrs. Harmon Elliott and Mrs. Hamm of Wellington, both aunts of the bridegroom elect.

Margaret Phillips, sister of the bride, presided at the bride's book and Mrs. Wayne Phillips directed guests to rooms where the gifts were displayed.

The sweets table was laid with a white linen tea cloth with wide pink satin ribbons criss-crossed and caught with old fashioned pink and white nosegays. A large arrangement in the form of a nosegay centered the table. Appointments were in crystal and silver.

For the guests' entertainment, readings were given by June Dameron and Bettie Jo Carnahan and Miss Betty Murray and Miss Barbara Burney sang love-songs accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Coombes. Approximately 100 guests were received during the calling hours.

Picnic Supper Is Held

After the shower the hostesses and their families and members of the house party including the bride and bridegroom to be, enjoyed a supper party in the backyard at the Coombes residence.

At the upper left Pamela Clay is seeing what the yard stick has to say about whether she is big enough to go to school. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Clay and her birthday is on January 14. More than anything she loves to dress-up in long dresses and high heels and make-believe that she is a real grown-up lady.

Just beneath her is her cousin, Coleen Reeves, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Reeves. She is practicing up on sitting still or maybe she just wants to know how it feels to sit at a desk. She is familiar with her A B C's and already knows how to make each letter, for she and Pam have been playing school for months. She was six February 10.

In the center Zell Crump knows for certain that she is big enough for school. Those scales tell her so. In fact she has been ready for school since last

Hereford Couple Marry In Rectory

In an informal Sunday afternoon ceremony at St. Anthony's Rectory of Hereford, Miss Stella Guggemos, daughter of Mrs. Loretta Guggemos, became the bride of Ralph Shirley, son of Mrs. Nora Shirley of Hereford.

Only attendants for the double ring ceremony were Mrs. Leonard Wilhelm, sister of the bride, who served as bridesmaid, and Leonard Wilhelm, who was best man.

The bride wore a navy blue faille afternoon dress with pale pink accessories, and her corsage was of pink rose-buds. She carried a blue handkerchief given her by her mother. The bridesmaid was attired in a gray faille afternoon dress with black accessories, and she wore a corsage of blue carnations.

For a honeymoon, the couple will spend two weeks in Minnesota and points north, after which they will return to Hereford.

August Wedding Plans Revealed

Announcement of the approaching marriage of Miss Carrie Bell Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith of Dawn, to Carroll Vaughan, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Vaughn of Canyon, was made Friday at an announcement tea in the home of the bride-to-be's aunt, Mrs. Carl Wimberly, at Dawn.

Guests registered from three to four during the afternoon. Pink and white colors were used as the theme throughout. The table was laid with lace cloth with pink and white flowers in a crystal bowl centering the table. The couple will be married in the Dawn Baptist Church, Sunday. Both are sophomore students at West Texas State College and plan to complete work for their degrees.

At the upper right Patsy Wooddell seems to be imagining how it will be when she leaves for school September 6. She has been waiting since November 19 for that date and wants to hurry things along. She is a little anxious about "Queenie" the collie, and "Lightning," the turtle for they are going to be pretty lonely when Patsy and her sister Donna are both away. Patsy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Wooddell.

Beneath her is Lynn Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Thompson, who thinks she already knows what school will be like, and has her pencil box and everything ready. Artistically inclined, she loves to draw and then make her pictures bright with colored crayons. Best of all she loves her dolly and hopes the teacher will let her bring it to school. She was six on July 18.

Yvonne McClintock Wed Glen Russell In Lubbock

In a single-ring ceremony at the altar of St. John's Methodist Church in Lubbock, Miss Yvonne McClintock became the bride of Glenn Russell on Saturday evening at 9:30 p. m. July 6. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. McClintock of Santa Anna, Texas and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Russell of Hereford.

Miss Anna V. Moren, organist, provided the wedding music and accompanied Jonnie Margaret Price who sang "I Love You Truly". She also played the traditional wedding marches. Reverend Hubert Brotcher read the service and Dale Russell, Levelland and Glen Berry of Muleshoe lighted the candles. Miss Earline McClintock who served her sister as maid of honor wore a black taffeta frock set off by a white pique hat with black taffeta trim. Lloyd Russell of Hereford was his brother's best man. A friend of the family, Alfred Alhman, gave the bride in marriage. She wore a street length dress of white taffeta and a white off-the-face hat of matching material. Her flowers were fringed pink carnations. For something old she carried a white Irish linen handkerchief and her something new was a rhinestone bracelet and choker. The white Bible which she carried was borrowed from a friend and its blue ribbon streamers completed the traditional custom.

The bride attended Santa Anna High school and Mr. Russell is a graduate of Hereford High school. After a brief wedding trip the couple plan to reside at 1328 Twenty Seventh Street, Lubbock, where he is a student at Texas Technological College.

Those from Hereford attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Russell, Clifford, Marilyn and Lloyd Russell.

MRS. C. C. ACKER Vegetables And Fruit For August Salad Platter Or Individual Molds

Whether August temperatures are above or below normal, cool salads are as much a part of the seasonal scene as the low hum of the air conditioners or swimming parties to entertain the youngsters.

One idea particularly good for the homemaker is to get a part of the food intended for the day into the refrigerator early in the morning. It is ready for lunch or the evening meal and the culinary amateur need spend little time in the kitchen when the thermometer has climbed to a possible 90 degrees or more.

A delightful salad for this time of the year is a congealed vegetable salad and if there is any left over, it is just as good the next day.

Mrs. C. C. Acker has used this recipe for a number of years. She secured it from a friend in Oklahoma who catered to small parties and other informal social affairs.

Congealed Vegetable Salad 2 envelopes Knox gelatine 1/2 cup cold water 1 cup water 2 cups vinegar 2 cups sugar 2 small sticks cinnamon 1 cup shredded cabbage 1 small glass pimentos (cut fine) six small sweet pickles (chopped) 1/2 cup chopped nuts

Another salad that meets all hot weather specifications is Under the Sea Salad and it is as good as it looks. It makes a perfect cool conclusion to a summer dinner.

1 package lime jello 1 cup boiling water 1 cup pear juice 1 can diced pears 1/3 teaspoon ginger 1/2 teaspoon salt 1 package cream cheese few chopped Maraschino cherries

Dissolve the jello in boiling water and add fruit juice. Pour one-half of jello into a flat pyrex dish to congeal. When the remainder of the jello begins to thicken whip vigorously until it foams good. Add pears, cherries, ginger, salt and cheese which has been crumbled. Pour this mixture on top of congealed jello in pyrex dish and chill in refrigerator. When ready to serve top individual servings with a little mayonnaise and garnish with cherries.

Freckles---Badger of Childhood---Don't Bother with Rules

By PHYLLIS RADOVICH
There are tried and true methods of getting rid of warts, you know. A rooster feather, buried carefully by the dark of the moon beneath a tall oak tree is guaranteed to shrink those warts away practically within the month.

Or go, all by yourself, to the middle of the woods where there's a spunk water stump and just when it turns midnight back up against the stump and jam your hand in and say:

"Barley-corn, Barley corn, Injun meal shorts, Spunk-water, spunk-water, Swaller these warts."

And then walk away quick, eleven-steps, with your eyes shut and then turn around three times and walk home without speaking to anybody. That's Huckleberry Finn's way.

And if you have no imagination you can go to the doctor and get him to burn the warts away.

The Story Differs
But with freckles, the story is different; rooster feathers and spunk water and all the voodoo magic in Africa won't even pretend to erase those blots.

If there is one thing almost as peculiar to childhood as green apples, red wagons, first days at school and pigtails, it is freckles.

In fact, freckles are just plain peculiar, period. They aren't even limited to childhood.

Now Harold Close says that every child has freckles until he is twelve years old--it's just that some of them don't show. He may well speak with authority, for he still has freckles. Both Fred and Harold, Jr. used to have them, too; but even with all that experience, he stands alone; science refuses to collaborate.

Unknown Subject
However, there is surprisingly little information available on the subject of freckles, even though the Chicago Railroad Fair has just named their king and queen of freckles (Herbert Harris and Sally Brady) and the fact that freckles are almost as common as ears, or maybe more common. Nobody has but two ears.

On the other hand who will ever know how many freckles Roscoe Pinnell's boys have, or Virgil Cocanougher or Jackie Luck? How many do you have, for instance? Bet you don't even know.

Some people do. V. O. Hennen says once he had two on the end of his nose. Once! Johnny Pool says that two year old John Thomas has seven freckles on the right side of his nose.

What are they and where do they come from and who has them? Well, after spending a perplexing morning tumbling through the technical phrases in some medical books at the clinic, I found out that freckles are yellow-brownish "macules" commonly on the face, but also found on other portions of the body. They are most common among children, young adults, blondes and red heads.

Fewer In The West
They are variously regarded as "abnormal collections of basal cells containing large amounts of pigment," or "congenital birth marks or nevi."

In layman's language it turns out they are collections of pigment in the skin developed in response to sunlight.

Jeff Gilbreath says people in the west don't have them as much as people in the east. Out here, folks get tanned more, because they are out of doors more, he explains, and on tans, freckles often don't show.

His kids used to have freckles. He remembers Sam in particular, but he also remembers that he used to have more freckles than any of his children did.

If there were a Freckle Club around here the membership would be large. Raymond Wells, Louis Biggers, Keith Hodges, Jerry Luck and Jerry Malone would be members. In fact, if offices were given according to the number of spots these five would be on the Board of Directors.

Girls Even Have 'Em

The feminine of the species would be represented, too, and Janie Wombie, Agatha Malone, Marlene Gilliland, Linda Woods and Gayle Potter would be right down on the front row. Jackie Hooper would belong, so would his father. Red Merrill would represent the older group, which would also include such used-to-be-freckled as Wayne and David Phillips, Jiggs Hartman, Jack Gilliland, Bernard Roberson, Donald Roberson, J. C. Reese, and Jerry Reese, Charles Frye, Roger Corbett, Johnny Rodgers and Oren Russell.

I say "used to be freckled," but some of them still are. However, freckles have a tendency to come and go. They are definitely more prevalent during the summer than the winter, and also tend to decrease as age increases.

For some people, speckled as guinea hens, that's one relief they can look for in Old Age.

And they are. As nine year old Jerry Brooks says, "I've got freckles and don't mind them, but I kinda hope they go away some day."

Science would have you know that freckles are unimportant except as cosmetic blemishes and are not capable of malignant degeneration. You and Webster can figure that one out. In fact, they are generally conceded to be sassy, cute and pert, and examples like Virginia Lyons and Rosemary Phillips prove that point.

Less Alluring
Many people, particularly the girls who feel they are "less alluring to their beaux with the freckles on their nose," have gone in for bleaches and special dot-removing preparations.

Doctors inject a note of warning: Many of the lotions are strong poisons such as bi-chloride or mercury or ammoniated mercury and some people are more susceptible to mercury poisoning than others. It may be absorbed from the skin causing serious after effects.

Mercurial preparations are dangerous because persistent use may lead to the desposition of metallic mercury in the tissues with permanent gray pigmentation of the skin.

Cautious acids and electrodesiccation are inadvisable since they may result in scar formation.

Some freckles are so deep in the skin that corrosive application strong enough to remove them may injure the skin. Salicylic acid makes the skin peel and may cause a rash.

Just Lemon Juice

Deaf Smith County Library, with its catalogued beauty hints, has declared that lemon juice is as effective as anything else as a skin whitener or the following preparation, can be mixed at home for safe, nightly applications that may be effective in removing near-surface freckles. To arrive at this solution: take 3 drams of benzoic acid, 30 drops of tincture of benzoin, one dram of rose water and five ounces of 95 per cent pure grain alcohol.

That is, incidentally, about all the library could offer in the way of freckle information. The only other two things listed was "Freckles Comes Home," by Gene Straton Porter, and a short story called "Freckles Aren't Fatal."

They are far too popular to be fatal. Look how they collect in some families--the Homer Hammons for example, or J. D. Green-son and his brother. As J. D. says, "A lot of people have freckles under all that pancake make-up."

And the question will always remain: If freckles, could be bottled and sold would there be more, or would there be fewer around town?

Mrs. F. W. Weber, Jr. and her two daughters, Patricia Jean and Thelma June, visited last week in the home of Mrs. Weber's sister, Mrs. Don Heiser. They drove down from their home in Las Animas, Colorado and returned Tuesday.

Santa Fe Freight Traffic Heavier

Potatoes led the July car loadings at Santa Fe depot with 331 cars shipped from Deaf Smith County stations at Hereford and Dawn during last month. Wheat was runnerup with 139 cars so the area's bread and potato stronghold was out to prove its position during July.

In fact, the total number of cars forwarded, 457, proved the importance of the Deaf Smith plateau as an agrarian region. They ran the gamut of meat, mlo, alfalfa meal and vegetables.

Those basic menu standbys, meat, potatoes, onions and bread, got a market push from Hereford shipping last month with two cars of cattle, four of hogs, and seven of onions included in the list of forwardings.

Sixteen cars of mlo and three of alfalfa meal were the others. Construction, as usual, played one of the biggest roles in demand on cars received. Six cars of lumber, nine of cement, 43 of sand and gravel, ten of brick, and twelve of pipe accounted for most of the cars received.

The only commodity that topped them was wheat, and 72 cars of that grain were shipped in.

One car of feed, five of automobiles, one of gasoline and four of machinery took care of all but one of the remaining cars. That one is still a mystery. On Santa Fe files it is listed merely as "miscellaneous."

That brought the total to 169 received as against 457 forwarded. This tops June's record in both instances since 128 were received and 225 forwarded during the busy wheat harvest month.

Mrs. Leta Barnett left Saturday for Wichita Falls. She stopped here for a visit with her mother, Mrs. J. M. Boone, en route to her home from Colorado where she had spent ten days with her son James' family.

What every party-line telephone user knows...

EVERY PERSON WITH A PARTY-LINE telephone at home knows at least three things about the service.

He knows the line must be shared fairly to be useful to everyone—just as a street is shared by those on it.

He knows he appreciates courtesy from others on the line—such as not interrupting, and recognizing his emergency needs for the line now and then.

He knows whether party-line service meets his needs. About half our customers have always preferred party-line service, even before the war, when they could have had individual lines.

Today, out of each four families with telephones, about three have party-line telephones and one of them has asked for a different type of service.

We'd like to be able to give it to them. We are working toward that, and are making some progress despite the continuing heavy demand for telephones from those still without any service.

We have on file thousands of requests for some other type of service. Wherever local conditions permit, we are meeting these requests, and are keeping a careful record of all requests, to act on at the first opportunity.

BRING SACK LUNCH

Club Girls Schedule All-Day Trip Visit Amarillo On Chartered Buses

Deaf Smith 4-H girls are going to take a tour of dairy plants, children's homes, air fields and egg hatcheries in Amarillo Tuesday, a day long tour that will highlight the educational aspects of summertime work.

The Committee of Council is planning the tour for 8 p. m. Tuesday. Club members, sponsors are invited. The group will meet at the east entrance of the court house at 7:30 and the buses will leave a half hour later, said Doris Mahaffey, agent-in-training for the CHDA. Buses from Amarillo have been chartered for the trip, at a round fare of $1.880. Members from the north part of the county who wish to go straight into Amarillo may meet the others at the Borden Company, Seventh and Grant Street, at 9:30 a. m.

Meat Packing Plant Stop
Following the first hand study of dairy manufacturing, on this personally conducted tour, the girls will go to a meat packing plant where they will see meat being processed and dressed.

Next stop is at the airfield where sponsors have arranged for the girls to go through one of the large airplanes.

Lunch will be eaten on the ground at one of the city parks, so everyone who makes the trip is asked to take a paper sack. "With a heavy morning schedule, we will probably eat lunch rather late, so it will probably be wise for everyone who goes on the tour to eat a good breakfast," advised Miss Mahaffey. First interesting visit on dock- et in the afternoon is to the Childrens Home. This was especially selected because one of the 4-H clubs has been sending gifts to the children who live there.

Final Stop At Egg Hatchery
Final stop on the day's program will be at an egg hatchery which produces 80,000 eggs. This company sets the eggs and raises the chickens for one of the large grocery stores in Amarillo, and this stop was selected since poultry raising is one of the demonstrations getting particular attention this year in 4-H club work.

The trip has been so arranged that sponsors plan to be back in Hereford by 7 p. m.

"The stops at dairy, meat and egg plants were planned to give us all a better idea of what happens to the food that reaches our table," said Miss Mahaffey.

"The other two stops were included because we felt the girls would be especially interested in them, and we believe it is a good opportunity for them all."

Playoff Starts Sunday; VFW-Canyon Play Here

VFW plays Canyon this afternoon at 2:30 on the Veteran Park diamond. The winner plays the winner of the Vega-Hart game also being played Sunday for the championship of the Central Plains league.

Andy Anderson is slated to take the mound for Hereford with lefthander Martin McMurray starting for Canyon. Hereford defeated Canyon nearly two months ago 4-0. Anderson only allowed six hits and one walk while striking out 11 that Sunday. VFW has not faced McMurray's scouthpaw slants this year, however.

McMurray pitched a one-hitter against Umbarger recently. Canyon led Hart all the way Thursday in their makeup game for third place, after getting 3 runs off T. C. Ray in the first and winning 16-8.

McMurray pitched the last two innings after Canyon started Duane Lyons was hit for five runs in the seventh.

PERSONALS

Miss Mary Ellen Henslee will leave Monday for Tulsa, Oklahoma, where she will remain for the next week visiting her brother and his family, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Henslee, Jr. Following her visit there, she will return to Hereford. Miss Henslee has been attending West Texas State College in Canyon this summer working on her master's degree.

Mrs. Cornelia Patton, Dick Dye, Jack Marlatt all of Amarillo, were afternoon guests Sunday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Henslee.

Miss Mildred Morehead has as her guest this week end, her sister, Miss Ava Morehead, of Canadian. She will visit from Friday until Sunday here.

Mr. and Mrs. Odean Nixon returned Sunday from a week end trip to Rocky Ford, Colo., their former home.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Don Heiser on Tuesday were her father, A. H. Ordener and her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Engbrock all of Pueblo, Colo. Mr. Ordener and Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Engbrock were enroute home from El Campo, Texas, where Mrs. Ordener has been confined to the hospital. She underwent an emergency operation while visiting in El Campo, and remained there to recuperate.

PERSONALS

Mrs. E. W. Johnson and young Greggy, left Tuesday to visit relatives in Oklahoma.

Cracks Russian's World Speed Record

EUGENE STILES, 17, of Alameda, Calif., received a special invitation to Plymouth Motor Corp.'s Third International Model Plane contest at Detroit Aug. 22-29 from R. C. Somerville, general sales manager of Plymouth, after breaking world's model plane straight-line speed record. Stiles flew his plane 81 MPH, beating a 9-year-old Russian-held record by 15 MPH. Russian model plane fliers, who had monopolized records, still hold championships for endurance, altitude, and distance. Stiles is first American title-holder for straight-line speed.

qualified endorsement of such men as William J. Byran of Nebraska and T. A. L. Johnson of Ohio. The Brand predicted that the name Witherspoon, Gough and Dodson would "become a synonym for law in the Panhandle."

A mammoth beet, "perhaps the largest ever grown by anyone in Hereford or vicinity" was on display at the Brand office, and made front page news. Grown by Jacob Buttram, the beet was twenty-six inches long and eighteen inches thick.

The Assessor's report for 1904 was printed in this issue of the Brand, with the total values in the county set at $1,705,403. And the school trustees had set the opening date of school for September 5. "With a thoroughly united people and five trustees to look after the immediate interests of the school and encourage the teachers in their work, the intellectual welfare of the children will be carefully guarded this year," it was prophesied.

C. L. Tallmadge had brought fifty prospectors to Hereford during the week, and some "nice deals" were about to be consummated "had it not been for interference from some of our citizens." "We are reliably informed," editorialized the Brand, "that this country was given a black eye by some, while others took it upon themselves to give prices in such a way as completely destroy all chances to close the deals which were pending . . . We do not see how anyone who has the interest of our town and country at heart can afford to interfere with any move that will bring men and money to the country. Of course there is nothing criminal in telling prospectors, when they come here, that the lands will not produce anything and are worthless, etc., but it does seem that a man who is satisfied to live in a country would not care to sustain such an attitude. . . Mr. Tallmadge, we understand, is thinking seriously of passing Hereford up in the future, which means that our chances for the proposed railroads would be meager in the extreme. We believe those who are opposing the present immigration move towards this country are materially working not only against their own interest but the country at large."

Baylor Gets Rare Book For University Library

WACO, Texas—A volume described by librarian R. W. Severance as "one of the most unusual and rare books in existence" has been received by Baylor University as a gift from Harold Fisher of Dallas.

The volume is a portion of a medieval encyclopedia, "Speculum Majus," compiled in the thirteenth century by Vincentius Bellavacensis (Vincent de Beauvis, c1190-c1294). It was given as a memorial to Mr. Fisher's mother, Mrs. Mary E. Fisher who was a book collector and built up a fine private library of rare books.

Mr. Severance said the volume is one of the earliest books printed in Europe after invention of the movable type printing press by Johann Gutenberg in 1445. It came from the press of Johann Mentelin at Strassburg in 1473.

CULBERTSONS VISIT HERE

Major W. E. Culbertson, accompanied by his wife, Mrs. Culbertson's son and his wife, from Delava, Illinois, were here during the past week.

Mr. Culbertson is the owner of two farms out in the Rufus Overstreet neighborhood northwest of town. The Major makes it a practice to visit this section once each year. It is their intention to spend next winter out near Phoenix, Arizona. Last winter was spent in and near Safford, Arizona.

One of his proudest moments was when he was called recently to hold a revival for his grandfather's church at Sulphur Springs. His grandfather is Dr. Ster.

Don't place fruits that you want to ripen in the refrigerator. Soft fruits, such as plums and peaches, should be spread out to ripen. Store on shallow dishes to avoid bruising.

- The wide reputation of Limoges porcelain dates back to 1773 during the reign of Louis XIV. Since that time the city of Limoges has become famous as a center of the world's porcelain industry.
- Special Kaolin clay is ground and refined for use in this porcelain. It is refined until it has the whiteness of flour; thus we have a brilliant white china, as pure white under the hard glaze as on the surface.
- The glaze is absolutely non-absorbing to stains, such as ink, jelly, etc.
- This porcelain is backed by all the integrity and experience of the famous Raynaud factory which has produced fine china-ware for years, having produced china for the royal households of Europe during two world wars.

will be to assist the Army in its Enlisted Reserve Corps-recruiting campaign and to aid in locating Organized Reserve Corps units in the smaller cities and towns of Texas.
Harry S. Stevens, Austin, veteran member of the Jaycees, has been named State Chairman of the newly formed Armed Forces Committee.
Stevens said that "Although the Army conducted an intensive campaign during this last spring to re-enlist the veterans in the Enlisted Reserve Corps, they lost 11,000 veterans through not having sufficient personnel to carry out the campaign state-wide. The Jaycees, 130 organizations, over 15,000 strong, by appealing to each and every community in Texas should be able to save these Veterans for the Reserves and thence directly and in our National Security."
"Also there are many smaller towns and cities that could support, and would like to have, an Organized Reserve Corps unit. By our investigation of proper facilities for Army space and a survey of Reserve personnel available, we should be able to assist the Army in its decentralization program."
Stevens went on to say that "I understand that 90 per cent of the Organized Reserve Corps units are located in the larger cities of Texas, which can't support them. If they are not supported, Texas will lose these valuable Reserve units. We hope, by our efforts, not only to back up our Armed Forces Program, but help Texas remain in front."
"We in the Jaycees are great believers of a small, self contained mobile regular Army y

Minute And A Half Shave Is Too Fast

Bells, Tex., (AP)—In a minute and a half a fellow can get the slickest shave in Texas at the hands of two barbers at Happy's Barber Shop.

For the past three years, J. E. (Happy) Dopsion and C. H. Moore, a southpaw barber, have been giving their impatient customers clean shaves in less time than it takes to lather 'em up and lie them down in the chair. The barbering duo first began their quick work when customers complained that they "needed a shave in a hurry." And because Dopsion is right-handed and Moore is a southpaw, it works out fine when it comes to high-class barbering coordination.

Many men in Bells and the vicinity have become a customer to having a couple of straight razors whisking the stubble quickly from their chins, but a new comer is likely to get a wild look of concern in his eyes when two men with razors in hand bend over his lathered face.

And who gets paid for the shave? Well, it's all according to whose chair the bearded customer decides to sit in.
