Arafat forces say they've retaken Baddawi camp

By FAROUK NASSAR
Associated Press Writer
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — PLO chairman Yasser Arafat's loyalists claimed they recaptured the Baddawi refugee camp today in a pre-dawn counterattack on Syrian-backed Palestinian rebels in northern Lebanon, Beirut radio stations reported.

The radio reports quoted an unnamed spokesman for the Palestine Liberation Organization as saying Syrians and PLO rebels fired a barrage of artillery and rockets on residential neighborhoods in the nearby port of Tripoli to avenge the loss of Baddawi. The camp had been Arafat's final stronghold in Lebanon until the rebels seized it Wednesday.

The claims could not be immediately verified. In southern Lebanon, meanwhile, the Israeli military command said today that an Israeli soldier was killed and six others wounded when a roadside bomb detonated next to a military convoy Thursday night.

The command said the bomb killed Cpl. Moshe Ben-Tsur, 20, at the southern entrance to the port city of Sidon. Reinforcements were brought in to search for the attackers.

In Beirut, one radio report said the rebels pounded the four Tripoli neighborhoods where Arafat's loyalists maintain positions with 50 shells a minute.

The neighborhoods included Zahrieh, where Arafat set up his new command headquarters after the fall of Baddawi to the rebels on Wednesday, the Christian-controlled Voice of Lebanon radio station reported.

The other three neighborhoods were Kubbeh, Mallouleh and Mina — all strongholds of the Islamic Unification militia which has supported Arafat in the 15-day-old PLO war, the station said.

The state radio said the loyalists' counterattack was mounted at 3 a.m. and within two hours Arafat's supporters regained control of Baddawi, on the northeastern outskirts of Tripoli.

The Voice of Lebanon said "suicide units" of Arafat's loyalists took the hills north and east of the camp and then moved into Baddawi and engaged the rebels in hand-to-hand combat.

In Beirut, a French army position was fired at Thursday by bazooka-armed assailants but sustained no casualties. The attack apparently was in retaliation for French air raids earlier in the day on Shiite Moslem guerrillas holed up in a barracks and a hotel in eastern Lebanon's Bekaa Valley.

Lebanese police said at least 39 people were killed and 150 wounded in the raids on camps of the pro-Iranian extremists, which were staged in reprisal for the recent suicide truck-bombing attacks on French, U.S. and Israeli peacekeeping troops.

The French raids came a day after Israeli jets pounded the same area, leaving 43 dead, and moments after a massive funeral procession in the city of Baalbek during which a Shiite Moslem guerrilla leader threatened more suicide attacks against the French, Americans and Israelis.

In Washington, U.S. officials said they knew in advance of the French strike, and a senior administration official said that if the terrorists weren't wiped out there "might well be" a need for the United States to carry out an attack of its own.

Honduran maneuvers start today

By ELOY O. AGUILAR
Associated Press Writer
TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP) — Nearly 1,000 U.S. Marines were ready to land today on an isolated beach in northern Honduras, kicking off two weeks of joint military maneuvers with Honduran forces.

The leftist Sandinista government in neighboring Nicaragua sees the maneuvers, coming on the heels of the invasion of Grenada, as the prelude to a U.S.-backed attack on Nicaragua.

Sandinista leaders are stepping up preparations for war, but the U.S. ambassador in Nicaragua said Thursday the fears of a U.S. invasion are "exaggerated."

Elsewhere in Central America, Costa Rica declared its "permanent ... unarmed" neutrality, and journalists who traveled to three towns in northern El Salvador were told army troops had killed more than 100 leftist sympathizers, including women and children. The army said the victims were "terrorists" and "subversives."

The amphibious landing by Marines, accompanied by a Honduran infantry battalion at Puerto Castillo on Honduras' Caribbean coast, is a highlight of the Big Pine II exercise that began in August and is expected to last into March.

After the landing, the combined forces planned to move through swampland to a point 12 miles inland.

In El Salvador, journalists who traveled to Copapayo, San Nicolas and La Escopeta, about 45 miles northeast of San Salvador, said they saw 20 bodies being buried and were given a list of 117 people, including women and children, who reportedly were killed.

Survivors said troops from the U.S.-trained Atlacatl battalion killed the victims.

An armed forces communique said the "terrorist casualties occurred when a column was surprised on the shores of the lake" by the battalion.

The communique also said army troops Thursday retook the town of El Tablo, 116 miles northeast of San Salvador in Morazan province, a longtime guerrilla stronghold. It said 13 soldiers were wounded in heavy fighting.

The rebels had seized the town Tuesday, scattering a defending force of about 200 government soldiers.

In Managua, the Nicaraguan capital, U.S. Ambassador Anthony Quainton

on Thursday dismissed the Sandinistas' fears of an invasion and said Nicaragua and Grenada "are completely different situations and countries."

In Costa Rica, Nicaragua's southern neighbor, President Luis Alberto Monge proclaimed the country's "active and unarmed neutrality."

Concerning baby deaths

Arguments postponed in hearing

By KRISTIN GAZLAY
Associated Press Writer
SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A state judge has postponed final arguments in a hearing concerning a contempt charge filed against a medical school dean by prosecutors investigating unexplained infant deaths.

The arguments had been set for Thursday night but Judge David Berchelmann, tied up with another trial, rescheduled them for Dec. 1. The contempt of grand jury charge contends that Dr. Marvin Dunn, dean at the University of Texas Health Science Center, did not fully comply with a subpoena seeking all papers related to the pediatric intensive care unit at Medical Center Hospital. A Bexar County grand jury has been investigating a string of suspicious infant deaths at the pediatrics unit between 1978 and early 1982.

Dunn, whose faculty staffs the hospital, took the stand during a five-hour hearing Wednesday and repeatedly denied that he "intentionally" withheld any documents from investigators.

District Attorney Sam Millsap has contended the dean purposely kept certain documents to protect the Health Science Center from civil liability in "possible future lawsuits."

Dunn's attorney, Gerald Goldstein, said Thursday that he was glad Berchelmann had reset the hearing. "I think he realized this is not the sort of thing you want to do at night on a rush, rush basis," Goldstein said. "This is very important to the community and, of course, to Dr. Dunn."

Chief Deputy District Attorney Nick Rothe, who has been heading the baby deaths investigation, was in conference and could not be reached for comment about the postponement.

A grand jury in Kerr County has indicted vocational nurse Gene Jones on one murder charge and seven counts of injury to a child.

Her murder trial has been set for Jan. 9 in Georgetown, where it was moved on a change of venue.

Local judge moonlights hypnotizing

By KIM THOGMARTIN
Staff Writer

During the day, Deaf Smith County Justice of the Peace O.K. Neal often finds himself passing judgment, literally, on a member of the community who has committed an act unacceptable to modern society. But at night, with anywhere from three to 10 persons a week, Neal is able to examine some of the causes of behavioral problems.

For the past 10 years, Neal has been studying and practicing the science of hypnosis. A trained hypnotic technician, he specializes in forensic, legal and self-improvement hypnosis. Hypnosis, according to Neal, is a method of setting aside the conscious mind and narrowing one's attention to one particular thing. "Everytime you 'daydream' enough that you become unaware of your surroundings, you have entered a state of hypnosis," he said.

Neal's attraction to hypnosis is the problem-solving potential of the science. "Many of my clients need help with weight loss, as well as with problems like smoking, bed wetting, loss of memory and migraine headaches. Through hypnosis, the person discovers feelings he has been suppressing. They're right there in his sub-conscious, but often the event or attitude is so unpleasant that the conscious mind won't allow it to come to the surface."

"Because it cannot come to the surface," Neal continued, "it must have an escape valve. And that release is usually in the form of strange behavior."

Neal explained that once the situation is taken out and examined, the person is able to look at it and decide if it is important enough to behave strangely about. "Many times they can just laugh at the problem and abandon the behavior after only one or two sessions," he said. "But if the problem is more serious I usually send them back to the medical professional who recommended they see me."

Neal often works with patients who stutter or stammer and his success rate is about 80 percent. "They are almost all centered around a traumatic event, and are often a suppressed sob trying to come out. The same is sometimes true for hiccups. There are some who disagree with this theory, but all I can say is that I have helped many people."

In cases such as hysteria, stuttering and migraine headaches and impotency, Neal will not treat the person unless he is under a doctor's care. "The physician must assure me there is no physical reason for the ailment," Neal explained.

Neal has very deep and personal feelings about the positive things hypnosis can do for problems with self image and self esteem. "The mind is a computer," he explained. "People come to me who have been programmed to believe they are stupid or worthless. Many times it is caused by parents who don't even realize they are doing it. Telling a person he is beautiful or valuable isn't enough, because the tapes in his head read differently."

"Consciously, the person may be trying to believe he is important, but subconsciously there is too much negative information at work. Unfortunately, the subconscious does not have the power to reason. It only remembers."

The beauty of hypnosis, Neal claimed, is that it can get the person started on the path to changing behavior from within. Undesirable actions cannot be abandoned until the mind has decided to tell the body to change.

Despite its value, Neal said hypnosis is not practiced as widely as it could be because of a lot of bad information going around. A person cannot be hypnotized against his will, and he is in complete control the entire time. Direct hypnotic suggestion cannot make a person do anything against his morals, religion or self-preservation.

Neal also said "you will not tell any secrets you don't want to tell, or do anything while in a trance, that you would not normally do in a relaxed situation."

Hypnosis has been recognized by Texas courts for six or seven years, a bit longer on the nation's east and west coasts. In Texas it Roswell, his home town. He is now a certified instructor of hypnosis with the Texas Forensic Hypnosis Society, a member of the Texas Society of Professional, Investigative and Analytical Hypnotists and a certified member of the International Society for Investigative and Forensic Hypnosis, to name just a few of the professional organizations he belongs to.

He also teaches the science and lists a number of dentists and medical doctors throughout the Panhandle as his students. The American Medical Association has recognized hypnosis since 1958. The practice has recently been getting a lot of attention from medical publications.

"Most people do not realize how negatively they think," Neal stresses. "Every thought, positive or negative, programs our computer, and this becomes our reality." It is his hope that those negative aspects of a person's reality can be changed.

O.K. NEAL

is only allowed as evidence from victims and witnesses. "A person can lie while under hypnosis, therefore testimony from a hypnotized defendant is not acceptable as evidence," Neal said.

Neal first studied hypnosis with Dr. Kenneth Husemueller of Eastern New Mexico University at

Diabetes may soon be controlled

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — Scientists may discover within a generation how to control or prevent diabetes, one of the nation's major killers, a medical research expert said at a conference at the University of Texas Medical Branch.

Dr. David Kipnis, chairman of the department of medicine at Washington University in St. Louis, said Thursday in an interview that medical researchers are on the brink of developing methods of curing diabetes completely and, perhaps, even developing inoculations that will prevent people from developing the disease.

"I think with a generation we will see diabetes completely controlled," Kipnis said.

Diabetes develops when the pancreas of a patient stops producing insulin, a hormone that is essential for the metabolism of sugars and carbohydrates. There are about 10 million diabetics in the U.S. and about 20 percent of these require regular doses of insulin to stay alive. Diabetes is the 3rd to 4th most common cause of death and is often the base cause of heart disease in the young.

Borders said to need local aid

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — If U.S. cities on the Mexico border want to diversify their economies, they should turn for help to local officials rather than to the federal government, a federal housing official says.

"U.S. officials at the local level have the destiny of these cities in their hands. It's not Washington. The decision of what kind of economy these cities should have rests at the local level," said Robert Duckworth, special assistant for community planning and development with the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Duckworth said that while federal officials can be "supportive" of the goals of border communities, they cannot determine which programs are needed to help the cities develop.

"Economic development, perhaps, will have to take a new path. The border may have to become more diversified," he said. "I can't tell you how to do this - it's a difficult area to resolve."

Gulf chief admits change late

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Gulf Oil Corp. Chairman James E. Lee admits his firm should have reorganized under Delaware's more protective corporate laws long before Mesa Petroleum Co. moved to influence the nation's fifth-largest oil company.

Lee, in an interview with The Associated Press, also warned the outcome of Gulf's current proxy battle with Mesa Chairman T. Boone Pickens could affect America's drive for energy independence and the future of other major corporations.

A special shareholders' meeting Dec. 2 in Pittsburgh will decide whether Gulf may incorporate its holding company under Delaware laws, a move which would help prevent Pickens' group from winning one or two seats on Gulf's board of directors next spring.

Pickens leads an investors' group holding 10.8 percent of Gulf's stock worth about $800 million. He is lobbying shareholders against Gulf's bid to eliminate certain voting rights available under its incorporation in Pennsylvania.

Defense bill nearing approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — An adjournment-bound Congress is being asked to approve a military spending bill that gives President Reagan more than $249 billion but sets back his plans to add to the nation's arsenal of lethal nerve gas.

Negotiators for the House and Senate emerged from two days of closed-door deliberations late Thursday with the measure, which compromised separate bills passed earlier this month by the two chambers.

Leaders planned to bring the legislation, known as a conference report, to the floor for final passage today as Congress drove toward completing its 1983 session.

Reagan's signature is expected, even though the measure is more than $11 billion smaller than his budget request. At the same time, it is $17 billion bigger than the comparable legislation last year.

Pop-singer Ritchie crash-lands

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — The nose wheel of a chartered plane carrying pop singer Lionel Richie and his band collapsed upon landing at Tucson International Airport Thursday night.

None of the 15 passengers and three crewmen aboard the four-engine Viscount was injured when the wheel collapsed upon touchdown at 7:24 p.m., airport security police said.

After the landing, Richie and his seven-piece band traveled from the airport to the Tucson Community Center and went on stage as scheduled for their sold-out concert.

The front-end section of the plane sustained extensive damage and the accident chewed up a portion of the runway, forcing closure of both main runways for about 1½ hours, said David Enz, chief of airport security. There was no fire.

Soviets may have new proposals

A top Kremlin spokesman says the Soviets will pull out of Geneva arms talks if Pershing 2 missiles are deployed in Europe, but West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl says Moscow "evidently has floated new proposals" for an accord.

"With the deployment of the new Pershings in Europe, the negotiations make no more sense and will be broken off," said Leonid M. Zamyatin, a chief foreign affairs spokesman for the Soviet Communist Party's Central Committee. He spoke at a news conference Thursday at the Soviet Embassy in the Netherlands.

The North Atlantic Treaty Alliance plans to deploy 464 U.S. cruise and 106 Pershing 2 missiles over the next five years to counter Soviet SS-20 missiles already aimed at western Europe.

The first shipment of cruise missiles arrived in Britain Monday. All 106 Pershing 2s are destined for West Germany, with the first to arrive next month.

In Bonn, Kohl said Thursday the Soviet Union has indicated a willingness to make new concessions at Geneva.

'The Day After'

Aides fear ABC program

By TERENCE HUNT, Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration is apprehensive about how Americans will react to a powerful television movie depicting nuclear war devastation. It says it is safer to be strong militarily while pursuing arms negotiations than to disarm or freeze atomic arsenals.

The film, ABC-TV's "The Day After," for broadcast Sunday, graphically shows the horrors of nuclear war and offers no hope for survivors. Anti-nuclear groups are using the movie as a focal point for fund-raising and membership drives.

One of President Reagan's political aides called the film "potentially the most emotionally powerful thing ever shown on American television."

Speaking anonymously, the aide expressed fears it could be politically damaging to Reagan, who has been criticized on occasion as being trigger-happy, or too quick to use military force when diplomacy might suffice.

Indeed, concern about Reagan's military posture is a key ingredient of the so-called "gender gap" — the tendency among women to have generally more negative feelings toward Reagan than men do.

"I am not saying we welcome this film," said David R. Gergen, the White House director of communications.

Robert Sims, a White House spokesman on national security matters, said the administration is gearing up to emphasize its efforts to prevent nuclear war.

"Anything that is as graphic and emotionally disturbing as that film is, which is likely to be seen by 75 million Americans or something like that, is not something that you would choose to ignore," Sims said.

Yet the administration purposely is taking a low key stance toward the film and plans only to respond to questions about nuclear war, rather than initiating a debate about it. "Why should we contribute to this hype of this commercial product," one official asked, speaking privately.

Sims said the most important question is how to prevent nuclear war. "We have a policy for doing that. In the context of the public attention this film may get, I'm sure we will want to re-explain that policy."

NASA announces its crews, missions

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — NASA will have the busiest year in its history in 1984.

The space agency announced Thursday it plans to fly 10 space shuttle missions during 1984, placing 50 astronauts into orbit and launching more than a dozen satellites.

The space shuttle plans for 1984 include the flight of six women astronauts, two more flights for Robert L. Crippen, the most flown of the shuttle astronauts, and at least two flights featuring spacewalks using a rocket belt that will enable astronauts fly like Buck Rogers.

Three husband-wife astronaut teams will fly, but none of the spouses will fly together. Mission plans also include one flight with two women on board.

Sally K. Ride and Kathryn Sullivan will fly together with Crippen and two other astronauts on Mission 41G, set for launch on Aug. 30. It will be the second flight for Ms. Ride, America's first woman in space.

Ms. Ride's husband, Steven Hawley, is scheduled for Mission 41D, set for launch on June 4.

Dr. Rhea Seddon will fly on Mission 41F on Aug. 9, while her husband, Robert L. Gibson will fly on 41B, set for launch in January. Dr. Anna Fisher will fly on 41H in September and her husband, Dr. William F. Fisher, will fly on 51C in December.

Mission 41B will include a spacewalk by Bruce McCandless who will test a rocket unit called the Manned Maneuvering Unit. If that test is successful, the unit will be used by George D. Nelson on Mission 41C to repair a broken satellite. The unit enables astronauts to fly in space unattached to the space shuttle.

The space agency also announced a stand-by crew that will be ready on short notice to fly any mission that is put into the schedule on short notice.

The missions, launch dates, cargo and crew members announced Thursday are:

Mission 41B — Jan. 29, 1984 — Communications satellites and Manned Maneuvering Unit test. Crew: Commander — Vance Brand; pilot — Robert L. Gibson. Mission Specialists — Bruce McCandless; Robert L. Stewart; Robert E. McNair.

Mission 41C — April 4, 1984 — Repair of the Solar Max Satellite using the MMU. Crew: Commander — Robert L. Crippen; pilot — Francis Scobee. Mission Specialists — George D. Nelson (MMU operator); James B. Van Hoften; Terry J. Hart.

Mission 41D — June 4, 1984 — Two satellites; Large Format Camera; OAST-1, a science package. Crew: Commander — Henry W. Hartfield; pilot — Michael L. Coats. Mission Specialists — Judith Resnik; Steven Hawley; Richard M. Mullane. Cargo Specialist — Charles D. Walker, an employee of McDonnell-Douglas.

Mission 41E — July 14, 1984 — Department of Defense Mission with a secret cargo. Crew: Commander — Thomas K. Mattingly; pilot — Loren J. Shriver. Mission Specialists — Ellison S. Onizuka; James F. Buchli, plus an unannounced DOD cargo specialist.

Mission 41F — Aug. 9, 1984 — Two satellites. Crew: Commander — Karol J. Bobko; pilot — Donald E. Williams. Mission Specialists — Rhea Seddon; Jeffrey A. Hoffman and S. David Griggs.

Mission 41G — Aug. 30, 1984 — OSTA-3 (science instruments); ERBS (Earth Radiation Budget Satellite) for earth and space measurements. Crew: Commander — Robert L. Crippen; pilot — Jon A. McBride. Mission Specialists — Kathryn Sullivan; Sally K. Ride and David D. Leestma.

Mission 41H — Sept. 29, 1984 — Either a DOD payload, or a Tracking and Data Relay Satellite. Crew: Commander — Fredrick Hawk; pilot — David M. Walker. Mission Specialists — Dr. Anna L. Fisher; Dale A. Gardner and Joseph P. Allen.

Mission 51A — Oct. 24, 1984 — Materials processing package, a satellite and a number of privately-financed experiment packages. Crew: Commander — Dan Brandenstein; pilot — Donald O. Creighton. Mission Specialists — Shannon W. Lucid; John M. Fabian and Steven R. Nagel.

Mission 51B — Nov. 22, 1984 — Spacelab, a manned module of experiments carried in the cargo bay. Crew: Commander Robert F. Overmeyer; pilot — Fredrick D. Gregory. Mission Specialists — Don Lind; Dr. Norman E. Thagard and Dr. William E. Thornton.

Mission 51C — Dec. 20, 1984 — A TDRS satellite. Crew: Commander — Joe Henry Engle; pilot — Richard O. Covey. Mission Specialists — James F. Buchli; John M. Lounge and Dr. William F. Fisher.

Mission 51D — Not announced.

Mission 51E — Not announced.

Mission 51F — March 29, 1985 — Spacelab. Crew: Commander — Charles Gordon Fullerton; pilot — S. David Griggs. Mission Specialists — Dr. F. Story Musgrave; Anthony W. England and Karl Henize.

The launch stand by crew will be Karol Bobko, commander; Ronald J. Grade, pilot; Richard M. Mullane, Robert L. Stewart and David C. Hilmers, mission specialists. They will fly a flight not now scheduled is planned.

The missions are identified by a code, such as 41B. The "4" designates the fiscal year of the flight — 1984. The "1" is the launch site — Kennedy Space Center. And the "B" indicates the sequence.

Senate approves bill, sends it on to House

By T. LEE HUGHES, Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ranchers hard-hit by drought moved a step closer to getting low-cost cattle feed as the Senate approved and sent to the House a bill containing a provision ordering the aid.

The House was expected to act today on the drought proposal, contained in a dairy and tobacco price support bill. The administration had been supporting the measure, but President Reagan's approval of the bill was in doubt because of recent White House concern that it is too expensive.

The drought provision would require Agriculture Secretary John R. Block to provide 83 million bushels of government-owned feed corn at reduced prices.

Approval of the provision by the Senate came after weeks of struggling between Texas congressmen and Block, who had opposed making the grain available.

The Agriculture Department had said that if applied nationwide such a relief program would be far too expensive.

Instead, the department announced it was reducing the interest rate on emergency loans to farmers and ranchers in counties declared disaster areas because of this year's drought.

However, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, who had the relief feed provision attached in the Senate, said livestock growers "need something a cow can eat, not another note at the bank."

The ranching country of West Texas has been one of the areas most seriously affected by the drought, which has led ranchers there to liquidate 60 to 70 percent of their herds.

Under the legislation, Block would be required to sell the three lowest grades of government-held corn at 75 percent of the government floor price for corn.

The corn would be made available to assist ranchers and farmers in maintaining breeding herds of livestock and poultry and their offspring.

Eligible to buy the corn would be livestock growers in counties throughout the country that have suffered from drought and related disasters and been declared disaster areas by the Agriculture Department.

However, the livestock growers would be required to pay the cost of transporting the corn to their ranches and farms.

This requirement produced sharp protests at a Senate-House conference committee earlier this week. Several congressmen complained that it discriminated against livestock growers in states where little or no grain is stored and where transportation costs would thus be much higher.

"They will be prejudiced against because of where they live," said Rep. Lindsay Thomas, D-Ga. However, the conference committee rejected language calling for the government to pay for the transportation costs.

Block has said that the grain is stored in 27 states, but that a majority of it is located in Texas, Iowa and Minnesota. About 21 million bushels of it is stored in the Texas Panhandle, according to officials.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Intolerance to milk

DEAR DR. LAMB - I developed an intolerance to milk when I was about 45 years old. This followed a severe case of food poisoning. My physician had never even heard of lactose intolerance.

Thanks to several of your columns over a period of about a year, I was able to diagnose my own problem. Since then, I've been able to keep it under control pretty well. It really helps to have a wife who prepares almost all of our food from scratch, since most prepared foods these days contain whey, which is loaded with lactose. A lot of bread you buy from the stores also contains whey.

Is there any known procedure for reimplanting lactase enzymes in the lining of the intestines?

DEAR READER - No there isn't. But I presume some day genetic engineering will make it possible to affect the genes that control such cellular activity.

About the best that can be offered at present is to add the enzymes that break down the double sugar in milk to the milk before you use it. LactAid is such a preparation. You can get it from the SugarLo Company.

P.O. Box 111, Pleasantville, NJ 08232. You add it to the milk and let it set in the refrigerator while the enzyme digests the lactose in the way lactase would in your intestines.

Many people who have gas, cramps and other digestive complaints find that they can't drink milk because they cannot digest lactose. The undigested milk sugar ferments in the intestines, causing the symptoms.

Lactose is in many foods you wouldn't think of as a source. Many candy bars contain a lot of lactose. It helps to read the labels. Some soybean milk substitutes do not contain any lactose and can be used. But while artificial milks made from coconut oil may not contain any lactose, they pose a problem in the amount of saturated fat they contain.

Donations being accepted for shop

Gifts and money to purchase gift items are still being accepted for the Veterans Administration Hospital gift shop in Amarillo, according to Beverly Jesko, hospital representative for the Department of Texas American Legion Auxiliary.

Each year the auxiliaries throughout the area set up the Christmas gift shop in the VA Hospital and allow veterans who are patients at the facility to select gifts for their families free of charge. The items are mailed to family members by the volunteers. Items are needed by Sunday so that the gifts can be sorted and prepared for the annual gift shop, which is set up on Dec. 4 and open to the patients on Dec. 5 and 6.

Non-breakable items are needed, as the gifts are mailed. Ms. Jesko suggests such things as blankets, towel sets, toys for children, sheets, pillowcases, purses, billfolds, socks, jewelry, or handmade craft items.

Approximately 105 veterans were served by the Christmas gift shop last year and at least that many are expected to participate this year.

The body's muscles make up about 40 percent of its weight.

Against Harvard

Yale could gain pride Saturday

By PETER S. HAWES AP Sports Writer
NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — To Coach Carm Cozza, whose 1-8 Yale football team is having its worst season in history, this week's game against Harvard is a chance to gain some pride and a little revenge over a team that started the Elis on their longest-ever losing streak.

But to Harvard Coach Joe Restic, whose Crimson are shooting for the Ivy League in the game Saturday, much more is involved in the 100th playing of The Game.

"This game will be remembered more than any game ever played on this continent," Restic claimed. "We're talking about 100 years of football — the color, the tradition. It'll all culminate that day."
Added Yale President A. Bartlett Giamatti, "It is probably the last great 19th Century pageant left in the country."
Yale and Harvard first met in 1875. Each team played under different rules then, and agreed to compromise for that game, which Harvard won, 4 goals to none.

Since then, World Wars and other events have interrupted the 108-year-old series. Yale has won 54 times, Harvard 37. There have been eight ties.
Despite its billing as THE GAME, the Elis' spotty performance this season may take the luster out of Saturday's contest. Until last week's upset of Princeton, Yale was riding a nine-game losing streak that began with last year's thumping by Harvard.

Harvard is tied with Penn and Dartmouth atop the league. If Harvard wins and the two schools — who play each other Saturday — tie, the Crimson will take the title alone.

But the Harvard-Yale game was meant for the unexpected.
Harvard, for example, carried a mediocre record into the 1979 game and stunned the Bulldogs with a 22-7 victory. Yale's first loss in an otherwise undefeated season.
And then there was the 29-29 deadlock in 1968, which alumni still call the Great Tie. Yale had the longest winning streak in the nation, 16 games, and with quarterback Brian Dowling and running back Calvin Hill was highly favored. Harvard also was undefeated that year and secured the tie with 16 points in 42 seconds late in the game.

Yale athletic director Frank Ryan, who says he tried not to orchestrate any activities that would distract from the game itself, has managed to raise ticket prices to $20 from their usual $10 and to squeeze almost 5,000 additional seats into the Yale Bowl.
Capacity of the stadium, usually 70,896, will be close to 75,000 and a sellout — bleacher seats go on sale Saturday, but all other tickets are gone — is expected.
Living past captains of Harvard and Yale teams have been invited to join the pre-game coin toss and both teams will be wearing special commemorative decals on their uniforms.

Huskies face WSU

James terms revenge 'garbage'

By The Associated Press
Washington Coach Don James says the revenge factor "is garbage" as his 15th-ranked Huskies prepare for a meeting with cross-state rival Washington State.

The game, for the second straight season, will determine the Pacific 10 Conference's Rose Bowl representative.

Last year, the Huskies needed to beat Washington State to win the Pac 10 title, but they lost 24-20. This year, they are in the same position, only they're two-touchdown favorites to beat the Cougars Saturday at Seattle and win their third trip to the Rose Bowl in four years.

"Last year's game is history," James said. "This year's game is played right out there Saturday afternoon. Any of our players that think differently are making a big mistake."

The Rose Bowl was among the few major bowls still unsettled going into Saturday's college football games. No. 4 Illinois will be the Big Ten representative, having clinched its conference title last week.

At 5-1 in the Pac 10 and 8-2 overall, the Huskies had to worry only about UCLA in its drive to the Rose Bowl on Jan. 2. If Washington loses and UCLA beats Southern Cal Saturday, the Bruins could face Illinois.

Whichever team fails to make it to the Rose Bowl apparently will go to the Aloha Bowl on Dec. 26 at Honolulu to face Penn State, although official bowl invitations cannot be extended until Saturday.

The other major bowl bids still up for grabs were the Sugar and Fiesta bowls, both on Jan. 2.

In the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans, No. 3 Auburn was set to face the winner of the Big Ten game between No. 10 Ohio State and No. 8 Michigan. The loser apparently will go to the Fiesta Bowl at Tempe, Ariz., against No. 17 Pittsburgh.

In Saturday's other games involving Top Ten teams, second-ranked and Cotton Bowl-hopeful Texas plays host to Baylor; sixth-ranked Southern Methodist, said to be going to the Sun Bowl against Alabama, plays Arkansas, and Utah is at No. 9 Brigham Young, which is going to the Holiday Bowl.

In the Second Ten, Minnesota is at No. 11 Iowa, which earned a Gator Bowl berth, reportedly against Florida; 13th-ranked Clemson, which is on probation, visits South Carolina; No. 14 West Virginia, which will be invited to the Hall of Fame Bowl against Kentucky, travels to Syracuse; Penn State is at Pitt; Holy Cross plays at Liberty Bowl-bound and 18th-ranked Boston College; No. 19 Missouri, BYU's Holiday Bowl opponent, meets Kansas, and 20th-rated Maryland, reportedly going to the Florida Citrus Bowl against Tennessee, is at North Carolina State.

Top-ranked Nebraska is idle as are Auburn, fifth-ranked Miami, Fla., No. 7 Georgia and 16th-rated Alabama. Georgia is headed for the Cotton Bowl.

OSU picked to win

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
It won't be for the Rose Bowl, but that doesn't mean there will be any letup when 10th-ranked Ohio State visits No. 8 Michigan Saturday.

"These are the games you come here to play," said Michigan center Tom Dixon. "It'll be intense, but it'll be a lot of fun. Let's face it, practice in the middle of the season isn't always very exciting. But I like preparing for these Ohio State games."

Ohio State Coach Earle Bruce was asked to pick the outcome, but had to demur.

"Oh, no, I can't pick a score," he said. "I'm not allowed to do that."
Bruce was told in midseason by the NCAA to stop selecting winners on his weekly TV show.

It's not illegal here. Michigan is a 2½-point favorite and the pick, with the winner going to the Sugar Bowl and the loser to the Fiesta, is... Ohio State 17-14.

Last week's record was 38-14 for a percentage of .731. On the year, it's 325-123-6-.726. Against the spread, last week the mark was 18-8-2-.692. For the season, it's 128-116-6-.525.

Here are some other selections:
Baylor at No. 2 Texas (favored by 13); Texas 24-10.

No. 4 Illinois at Northwestern (no line): Illinois 35-14.
No. 6 Southern Methodist (7) at Arkansas: SMU 24-14.
Utah at No. 9 Brigham Young (no line): BYU 42-17.
Minnesota at No. 11 Iowa (no line): Iowa 59-17.
No. 13 Clemson (7) at South Carolina: Clemson 28-14.
No. 14 West Virginia (8) at Syracuse: Syracuse 21-17.
Washington State at No. 15 Washington (13½): Washington 28-21.
Penn State at No. 17 Pitt (5): Penn State 21-14.
Holy Cross vs. No. 18 Boston College (14) at Foxboro, Mass.: Boston College 30-14.
No. 19 Missouri (17½) at Kansas: Missouri 28-14.
No. 20 Maryland (9) at North Carolina State: Maryland 35-21.

Judge says Royals must go to prison

By DOUG TUCKER AP Sports Writer

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — When he became the first active player in Major League history sent to jail on a drug charge, Willie Wilson's jaw muscles tightened into a knot that could be seen in the back of the courtroom.

When he became the second, Willie Aikens slumped slightly and began wringing his hands.

When he became the third, Jerry Martin's broad shoulders drooped. He took a deep breath and turned his head to his left and stared in the direction of an open window.

One by one Thursday morning, the three members of the 1983 Kansas City Royals stood before U.S. Magistrate J. Milton Sullivant and made baseball history. In a decision that apparently caught almost everyone by surprise, Sullivant sentenced each player to three months in prison for trying to buy cocaine.

Wilson, the 1982 American League batting champion, and Aikens, a power-hitting first baseman, also were fined $5,000.

Martin, an outfielder who was described by his attorney as being on the verge "of financial catastrophe," was fined $2,500.

Wilson, who issued a public apology last week and announced he would devote his time and money to a Royals-sponsored drug education program, reacted angrily outside the courtroom.

"They made a...example out of me," he said as he and his weeping wife, Kathy, walked to their car.

Wilson's attorney blamed the sentence on the news media.

"The judge did not sentence him because he needed a reason to sentence him, but because the courtroom was full of media," said David Russell.

The three, in a plea agreement with prosecutors, pleaded guilty last month to a misdemeanor charge of attempting to possess cocaine.

Sullivant ordered them sent to a minimum security prison in Fort Worth, Texas, to spend three months participating in its drug rehabilitation program. They will also be on two-year probation beginning with the end of their jail terms.

A fourth player snared in the investigation of drug trafficking in Kansas City, former All-Star pitcher Vida Blue, pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor charge of possession of three grams of cocaine. He, too, was to have been sentenced Thursday, but was granted a delay until Dec. 15 for reasons which the government declined to reveal.

Twelve persons — none connected with sports — have been indicted by a grand jury in connection with the investigation and will go to trial early next year.

Muhammad Ali

Moodiness consumes 'Greatest'

By WILL GRIMSLEY AP Special Correspondent

One day Muhammad Ali is standing on a soap box, beating his chest and declaring, "I am the greatest. I shall return." The next, he is isolating himself in his quarters in Los Angeles or Chicago, closing the blinds and refusing to communicate.

One day he is walking the corridors of the United Nations, proclaiming a children's crusade around the world to foster peace, or chatting amiably with some African potentate. Then he is in London, mumbling incoherently under his breath, provoking newsmen to say he is senile and brain soft from too many blows to the head.

But he never fades away. He is omnipresent. There is always a new venture out there to gain the public attention. He is never idle for long. He is never dull.

He remains — at age 41, a bit balloonish from inactivity, three years after being stopped in the 11th by Larry

"The government spends millions of dollars of the taxpayers' money every year to prosecute drug dealers," the judge told each man. "If there were no seekers of illegal drugs, there would be no sellers of illegal drugs."

Sullivant also noted the professional athlete's "special place in society," and said he hoped the sentences would prove a deterrent to would-be drug users.

He told Wilson, 28, that he was "a national hero" who occupied a "special place in our society."

Sullivant said the three carried the responsibility of setting a good example for young people.

"There are certain obligations and responsibilities you must live up to," he said. "The court regards this as a serious offense. There is an increasing awareness of the harm coming to our society from the proliferation and use of drugs."

All four players may still face disciplinary action by Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, who declined comment Thursday.

Holmes in Las Vegas — one of the most electrifying and captivating personalities in sports.

All he has to do is whistle or stick his head out the hotel door, and he automatically becomes a modern day piper, drawing crowds to his wake.

He continues to astound and amuse.

Like this week.

He sent out a personalized Mail-o-Gram and followed it up with an embossed RSVP invitation, personally signed, saying he's going to be in the Starlight Ballroom of the New York's Waldorf Astoria for an important announcement.

Who would dare ignore that?

The throng began assembling well in advance of the appointed hour, buzzing away: "What's the deal?" "What's he going to say?" "Think he'll be coming back?"

Twenty minutes late, the three-time world heavyweight champion, dapper in white shirt and dark pin-striped suit, hove into view in the corridor, entering like a king accompanied by his courtiers.

The crowd parted like the Red Sea.

"I shall return!" he whispered to a friend as he strode toward the dais. He held his head stiff and let his big brown eyes go side to side, scanning the scene. He walked slowly and laboriously took his seat on the platform, flanked by half a dozen Madison Avenue types.

"See?" someone was heard to whisper. "Just like they say, the champ ain't what he used to be. They say he can't put three words together without mumbling."

Little the guy knew. Ali was introduced, and he stepped to the microphone.

"All you thought I was going to announce I'm coming out of retirement," he began in strong, clear voice. "Well, I am. But I am going to fight hunger instead of people."

The crowd applauded. "Gee, he looks good," said a lady in the third row. "Look how smooth and unmarked his face is. What a great muscle tone he has."

"What better figure could they get?" Ali said modestly.

Rams to upset Redskins: Lowitt

An AP Sports Analysis By BRUCE LOWITT AP Sports Writer

The Washington Redskins and the Los Angeles Rams, each with a share of first place in their respective National Football Conference divisions, send strength against strength Sunday in Anaheim Stadium.

The Rams will throw Eric Dickerson, their extraordinary running back, against the Redskins' rushing defense, the best in the National Football League.

And the winner will be ... Vince Ferragamo. While the Washington rushing defense is the best, the pass defense is the worst, which means the Rams' quarterback should have a pleasant afternoon throwing as well as handing off. Take the L.A. RAMS plus 3 over Washington.

Like the Redskins, Denver will be facing a serious running threat. Curt Warner, Seattle's single-season rushing leader, is only 28 yards away from becoming the Seahawks' first 1,000-yard ground gainer and the first of the season in the American Football Conference. Seattle's pass defense is one of the league's shakiest, which should bolster John Elway's confidence and stats — but not the Broncos' record. Take Seattle plus 1 over DENVER.

Pittsburgh and Minnesota are headed in opposite directions, the Steelers winners of seven in a row, the Vikings losers of three straight. Few teams are worse at stopping the run than the Vikes, and the Steelers' offense is wrapped around Franco Harris and his fellow backs. Also, few teams get to the quarterback as often as do the Steelers. Take PITTSBURGH minus 7 over Minnesota.

In other games (home teams capitalized), take: MIAMI minus 9 over Baltimore

PHILADELPHIA minus 5 over N.Y. Giants

NEW ENGLAND minus 4½ over Cleveland

GREEN BAY minus 3½ over Detroit

San Francisco minus 3½ over ATLANTA

L.A. Raiders minus 2 over BUFFALO

San Diego minus 1 over ST. LOUIS

Chicago plus 1 over TAMPA BAY

N.Y. Jets plus 3 over NEW ORLEANS

Kansas City plus 9 over DAL-LAS

Houston plus 9½ over CINCINNATI

Last week's record against the spread: 6-8; for the season: 71-73-8.

A Pulse card in your pocket means you have quick, convenient access to your money at over 800 Pulse Automatic Teller Machine locations throughout the Southwest.

All you need is an account with us and we'll issue you a Pulse card and a personal identification code. Then, you can use your card at any of our Pulse locations or at airports, shopping malls, college campuses, hospital complexes, and, of course, at hundreds of other financial institutions.

And a Pulse Automatic Teller is so easy to use. Not all the machines look exactly alike, but your card works in all of them. Each machine basically operates the same way and each will give you instructions to assist you.

Put a Pulse in your pocket today. You'll save time and energy by having access to your money seven days a week, around the clock, around the Southwest.

Bazaar Set Tomorrow

Jerrye Jackson, left, and Lucy Fay Cocanougher look over several of the craft items which will be featured at the Hereford Garden Club's annual bazaar on Saturday. The event is scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. at Sugarland Mall. Also for sale will be casseroles, canned goods, pastries and baked items. Proceeds from the sale will be used for community projects.

The Newspaper BIBLE

ARE YOU ALSO WAITING FOR "THE RIGHT TIME?"

Felix, who knew Christians didn't go around starting riots, told the Jews to wait for the arrival of Lysias, the garrison commander, and then he would decide the case. He ordered Paul to prison but instructed the guards to treat him gently and not to forbid any of his friends from visiting him or bringing him gifts to make his stay more comfortable.

A few days later Felix came with Drusilla, his legal wife, a Jewess. Sending for Paul, they listened as he told them about faith in Christ Jesus. And as he reasoned with them about righteousness and self-control and the judgement to come, Felix was terrified. "Go away for now," he replied, "and when I have a more convenient time, I'll call for you again." He also hoped that Paul would bribe him, so he sent for him from time to time and talked with him.

Two years went by in this way; then Felix was succeeded by Porcius Festus. And because Felix wanted to gain favor with the Jews, he left Paul in chains.

Three days after Festus arrived in Caesarea to take over his new responsibilities, he left for Jerusalem, where the chief priests and other Jewish leaders got hold of him and gave him their story about Paul. They begged him to bring Paul to Jerusalem at once. (Their plan was to waylay and kill him.) But Festus replied that since Paul was at Caesarea and he himself was returning there soon, those with authority in this affair should return with him for the trial.

Oldest object

The portrait of George Washington by Gilbert Stuart, which hangs in the East Room of the White House, is the oldest possession there. Brought to the executive mansion in 1800, it was saved by Dolly Madison when she escaped Washington in the wake of British troops in the War of 1812.

POLLY'S POINTERS
Polly Fisher
No more lost keys

DEAR READERS - Can't find your house keys in your purse? Like to copy recipes from television cooking shows? Having trouble getting the kids' clothes sorted correctly? Read on. We've got help for you! - POLLY

DEAR POLLY - Locating your house or car keys in your purse can be a headache. Here's a solution. Fasten a pin-on drapery hook inside your purse on one end. Hang the keys on the hook. They will always be in sight and easy to find. - MRS. A.H.

DEAR POLLY - I keep an inexpensive tape recorder near my TV. When a recipe or address is given, I just push the right buttons. The item is recorded and I never need to rush around looking for a pen or paper and I don't fear that I'll copy it wrong. - ALICE

DEAR POLLY - I save money by buying generic macaroni and cheese dinners when a recipe calls for plain elbow macaroni. I save the cheese packet for making cheese sauce. Just follow the directions for a thin white sauce recipe, then add the cheese powder when the sauce begins to thicken. This is delicious over cooked broccoli and is much cheaper than prepared frozen broccoli in cheese sauce

Thanksgiving Day is an event celebrated by more than one nation, and aside from being a traditional family feast day, it is intended for those of us who are more inclined to dwell on our misfortunes than on our advantages, because we are naturally more conscious of them. For example, sickness is more likely to command our attention than a state of good health. Regardless of our circumstances, we must remind ourselves of all the good things that have happened to us, and also, of all the misfortunes that we have been spared; and we should do this every day of our lives, rather than wait for a special occasion such as this. By attending the Church of your choice you will learn to recognize and be grateful for your many blessings, and thereby be better able to cope with your problems, whatever they may be.

O Lord! that lends me life,

Lend me a heart

replete with thankfulness!

—William Shakespeare
