Soviets negotiating again

By THOMAS W. NETTER
Associated Press Writer
GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — Negotiations on reducing long-range nuclear missiles and bombers resumed today, the first superpower arms talks since the Soviet Union walked out of parallel medium-range missile talks last week.

Sides intending to cut long-range weapons

Although the Soviet Union suggested in a commentary Monday that new U.S. medium-range cruise and Pershing 2 missiles arriving in Western Europe may imperil the 17-month-old START talks, Western observers here did not foresee another break in negotiations.

place. The weapons have started arriving in Britain, West Germany and Italy.

NATO had said it would begin the deployment if no agreement was reached in Geneva.

The current round of START began Oct. 5 when a U.S. "build-down" offer to reduce each sides' long-range warheads by 5 percent a year was dismissed by the Soviets as a "cover" for building up U.S. forces.

Western sources in turn contend that Soviet proposals would increase their forces.

While the U.S. proposal would drop the number of warheads to a base of 5,000, Soviet proposals, the sources say, would allow them 11,400 warheads, or more than they have.

According to Western estimates, the Soviets have 8,800 long-range warheads and weapons and the United States has 10,000. Despite U.S. officials contend that Moscow, with 7,900 ground- and sea-launched warheads, holds an edge because 2,800 of the U.S. weapons are the slower, more vulnerable, air-launched cruise missiles.

West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl said Monday he had received a letter from Soviet President Yuri V. Andropov suggesting Moscow might reconsider its decision to halt the talks on medium-range missiles in Europe.

Kohl said the resumption of the strategic arms talks demonstrates Moscow's willingness to continue negotiations with the United States.

Last Wednesday, the Soviet negotiator to the medium-range missile talks, Yuli A. Kvitsinsky, met for 25 minutes with Paul H. Nitze, the American negotiator, then announced the talks were "discontinued," with no resumption date. The announcement came one day after formal approval by the West German Parliament of NATO's deployment plan.

Since then, Andropov has announced Soviet countermeasures to the U.S. missiles, including deploying new submarine-based nuclear weapons within striking distance of U.S. territory.

Five North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries — Britain, West Germany, Italy, Belgium and the Netherlands — are to deploy 572 cruise and Pershing 2 missiles to counter Soviet SS-20 missiles already in

Gamez keeps busy

By KIM THOGMARTIN
Staff Writer

Late Wednesday evening last week, Margaret Gamez rolled up her sleeves and surveyed the six dozen eggs, 28 pounds of powdered sugar, 15 pounds of flour and three cans of Crisco lining her kitchen counter.

Wedding cake for 350 persons was expected at St. Anthony's Catholic Church by 1:00 Friday afternoon, and that was just one of three orders Gamez had agreed to fill during the Thanksgiving week.

"The other two were small, though," Gamez said with a shrug. "Just enough to feed 100 people." Her cakes sometimes accommodate a guest list of 450 persons.

"Cake baking is still a hobby for me," Gamez said with a smile as she added the last of the pillars and stairways to the elaborate apricot and white creation on Friday afternoon. "I do it for my friends. I do not think of it as a business."

Gamez admitted it easily could become a business, if she were at home to answer the telephone all the time. For the past seven months, however, she has had other things to do.

When Gamez' husband, Isaias, died last spring, the crops were just going in to the ground. So she and four of her children, in accordance with his wishes, took over the 600-acre farming operation.

"The farm comes first now," she explained. "I love doing it. I am out there every day, and I have had a lot of help from the people in Hereford."

Gamez discovered a joy for cake decorating six years ago when she joined the "Sweet and Fancy" decorating club. The 20 or so members are all close friends, and she recommends their work when she gets a request she is too busy to take on.

Gamez has also attended classes in Lubbock, Amarillo and Albuquerque. "My husband never minded all the studying. He knew I loved to learn. He liked to eat the cake, too," she remembered with a laugh.

One of the most difficult things was learning to transport the cakes. Gamez does the decorating at home, then puts the layers together when she arrives at the scene of the party or reception. "At first, I carried icing and things to make repairs, but now I get the cakes there just fine," she said. "I pack them in styrofoam and cotton and drive slowly in town."

Gamez gets the usual requests for cake designs, things like trucks and tractors, guitars, violins, boots and balloons. The groom's cake for the Friday wedding featured a brown-haired young farmer atop a shiny red New Holland tractor. "Some I have instructions for, some I have to design myself," she said.

In between running the farm and other household duties, Gamez usually bakes the cakes one day and decorates them the next. A large order might require 18 recipes of a standard white cake. "I never freeze cakes ahead, I always deliver them fresh," Gamez claimed. "People can tell the difference in taste."

Gamez said it is not uncommon for her to work on a cake until midnight, arise at 5:30 a.m. to attend to duties on the farm, then dash back to the house to apply the finishing touches and get to town with the layers safely packed in the trunk of the car.

"I love to make cakes," Gamez said. "It makes me happy to see that I have made someone happy with what I have done for them."

Gamez checks to be sure that the lighted water fountain at the base of the bride's cake is working properly. "Well, that's it," she said as she takes a last look around the brightly decorated cafeteria of St. Anthony's school. "They will be here in one hour."

with Dr. Virginia Kellogg. She continues studying with Dr. Kellogg.

A five-year-veteran with the Lubbock Symphony, Rudd is one of 15 first violins, moving up each year she has performed with the symphony. She is now under contract with the Amarillo Symphony and also performs in Plainview, Roswell and San Angelo.

Her sister, Elizabeth, also performs with those orchestras while studying nursing at West Texas State University. Her brother Wesley, a 15-year-old student at La Plata Junior High, is a new member of the Plainview Symphony.

The 23-year-old musician is also in demand for private performances and often takes part in Easter and Christmas productions at churches in the area. She taught private lessons while at Tech and worked in the campus library.

Rebecca is a 1979 graduate of Hereford High School and the daughter of Homer and June Rudd. Also an accomplished pianist, she directs the children's choir at the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints

Local Roundup

Fire ravages residence

A major house fire, reported at 3:14 Monday afternoon, resulted in extensive damage at Tim Kearns' residence west of town, Fire Marshall Jay Spain reported this morning.

The blaze, fought for almost four hours by five units of the Hereford Voluntary Fire Department, apparently began in a television set. According to Spain, the TV was of the instant-on variety. He guessed there have been three fires in the last five years caused by instant-on television sets.

"Several, several thousand dollars" damage was done to the home, located three miles from Hereford on the Harrison highway, Spain said.

Church suffers damage

An estimated $1,150 damage was done over the weekend to property of Wesley United Methodist Church, 410 Irving, Hereford police reported this morning.

Several church bus windows were broken or cracked while the globes on two light poles were busted. Police also said the vandals urinated on the church and defecated on its west porch. Damage to the bus was an estimated $1,000.

Meanwhile, 17 golf clubs and their bag were stolen earlier this month from the 204 Cherokee residence of Alton K. Roark. Police reported the theft had an approximate $300 value.

There were two reports of prowlers since Friday. One was at 1:20 a.m. Saturday in the 400 block of Ranger. The other occurred in the 300 block of Lowton at 1 a.m. today.

Among the many incidents was one of assault, where a 6-months-pregnant wife was kicked in the stomach by her husband. There was also one case of assault of a child investigated.

Five people were arrested for public intoxication, three for shoplifting and one apiece for assault, DWI and simple assault. There were six reported minor, non-injury accidents.

Commissioners meet briefly

Deaf Smith County Commissioners held a comparatively short regular meeting Monday, with a few minor matters being brought to a vote while a couple of others were tabled.

A bid of a $460-per-month lease was accepted for microfilm equipment supplied by Border States Leasing, a subsidiary company of Comgraphics. The equipment, valued at $20,340 and to cost the county $33,000 over 72 payments, is for the courthouse records department.

Overtime pay for Terry L. Colston, investigator for the county's district attorney office, will no longer be allowed, commissioners decided Monday. Tabled were a discussion on a new gasoline tank for the sheriff's department and sheriff's fees for orders of sale.

Formby selected for hall

Of fame at Tech, his alma mater

By KIM THOGMARTIN
Staff Writer

A Hereford man who is recognized nationally for his leadership in the radio industry has been named to the Mass Communications Hall of Fame at Texas Tech University, his alma mater.

Clint Formby, president and partner of Hereford radio station KPAN and four other Texas stations, is the 13th member of the hall. He is to be installed Feb. 23 during Mass Communications Week at Texas Tech.

"I have enjoyed the part I have played in the growth of the communications department at Texas Tech," Formby said on Monday. The announcement was made last week by Dr. Billy I. Ross, chairman of the Texas Tech Mass Communications Department. A distinguished mass communications alumnus or friend of communications education at the university is selected annually for inclusion in the hall of fame.

"I think there is a great need for another school in the southwest to place big emphasis on communications," Formby said. "We need to do more training in the basic elements of writing and reporting the news."

CLINT FORMBY

Formby said there has been a tendency among colleges to focus on the advanced technology now available to the news media. "I am afraid we may get caught up in this high-tech emphasis, and forget the importance of intelligent communication between people," he explained.

"I hope that our hardware does not exceed our software," Formby concluded. "We do not want technology to become greater than the ability of the people who use it, and that is why our universities must work to meet the challenge."

A former president of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, Formby has also headed the Hereford Kiwanis Club, United Way and junior chamber of commerce. A 1949 graduate of Texas Tech, he came to Hereford in 1951.

On the national level, Formby is president-elect of the Associated Press Broadcasters Board and a member of the AP corporate board of directors.

Previously, Formby was on the radio board of directors for the National Association of Broadcasters and is a past president of the Texas Association of Broadcasters. He was named Hereford Citizen of the Year by the local Lions Club in 1977 and Panhandle Citizen of the Year by the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce.

Landing gear may have failed

MIDLAND, Texas (AP) — Investigators say the pilot of a twin-engine plane that crashed, killing eight people, might have pulled up the plane's landing gear after aborting a landing.

Warren V. Wandel, an inspector with the National Transportation Safety Board, said the landing gear on the airplane was not in a "normal" position for landing when the crash occurred.

Wandel said the landing gear was "fully up or in a transient position" before the 1:50 a.m. Saturday crash.

National Transportation Safety Board officials scheduled a news conference today to discuss the crash of the chartered plane which was carrying six employees of KOSA-TV in Odessa back from covering high school football playoffs in Wichita Falls and Fort Worth. Also killed were the plane's pilot and a seventh passenger.

The news conference had been scheduled for Monday but was delayed after investigators said they needed more time to complete their probe of the accident.

Construction thefts cause problems

HOUSTON (AP) — Despite extensive security measures, Houston construction companies are losing more to equipment thieves than they did a year ago.

Police statistics show 564 construction thefts in Houston through August, up from 419 last year, when thefts cost companies $2.26 million. FBI figures show Texas led the nation last year with 2,917 pieces of heavy machinery stolen.

Police and contractors are fighting the theft problems with the use of company identification numbers assigned to equipment. Other companies have electronically bugged their equipment.

Tribble & Stephens Co. of Houston connects a cable from an electronic device on earth movers to the construction trailer. When the cable is cut or tripped, an alarm sounds and police are called.

Cutting the power won't help the would-be thief because the devices have backup battery systems.

Greyhound bus strike continues

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A union leader asked for resumed bargaining after striking Greyhound workers turned down flat the bus company's latest pay-cut offer, but Greyhound promised only to announce "important plans" about its future.

Harry Rosenblum, acting president of the Amalgamated Council of Greyhound Local Unions, said Monday that 96 percent of union members voting turned down the contract offer, which called for a 7.8 percent salary cut.

The 9,181-325 vote "sent an unmistakable message to Greyhound," said Rosenblum, calling for a quick resumption of bargaining to end the walkout that began Nov. 2.

Greyhound Lines planned no comment until today, when John W. Teets, chairman of the parent Greyhound Corp., scheduled a news conference in Phoenix to "announce important plans regarding Greyhound Lines."

Meanwhile in the strike's latest violence, the windshield of a Greyhound bus in Texas was struck Monday night by a projectile which police believed was a bullet. No one was hurt.

"We're reasonably sure it was a gunshot, and we're sure it was aimed at the driver," said Detective Roger Bery in Abilene where the bus was leaving when the incident occurred at 8:15 p.m. Monday.

Phone companies plan new battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Telephone & Telegraph Co. and MCI Communications have selected the next battlefield in their war for long-distance phone calls — the nation's airports, bus stations, convention centers and hotel lobbies.

AT&T announced Monday it would soon start installing special "Card Caller" telephones and distributing new credit cards that would allow travelers to dispense with the hassle of punching in special codes or using an operator. More than 47 million of the new cards will be mailed free-of-charge in January to customers who now have a Bell System calling card, AT&T said.

The heavy plastic cards will be specially encoded, allowing customers to simply insert the card in the new phones to automatically bill their local number.

MCI, which operates the nation's second-largest long-distance network, immediately responded with an announcement of its own — it will begin installing special "card-reading" telephones next week tied to the MCI network that will accept MasterCard and Visa.

Europeans unhappy with spacelab

PARIS (AP) — After 10 years and almost $1 billion, disappointed European officials say their high-tech Spacelab built for the shuttle Columbia may have been a prestigious but costly mistake.

From Europe's American partners, there has been only praise for the 24½-foot-long aluminum-skinned drum bolted into Columbia's cargo bay. The shuttle was blasted into space from Cape Canaveral Monday.

Vice President George Bush lauded Spacelab as a symbol of European "unity and determination" and National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials touted the joint mission as "history's largest and most comprehensive international space project."

But European space officials here now say that the orbiting laboratory — built piecemeal by 46 contractors and assembled in Bremen, West Germany — is too expensive and too dependent on the U.S. shuttle to give them all they had desired from the multinational space project.

Six die in Bangladesh

DHAKA, Bangladesh (AP) — Soldiers and police enforced a curfew today after six people were reported killed in rioting against the martial law regime. The airport was closed, political meetings were banned and opposition leaders went into hiding.

Government officials said four people were killed by police gunfire Monday and opposition sources reported two additional deaths after tens of thousands of demonstrators massed outside the Dhaka government headquarters.

The government said security forces opened fire when rioters demolished part of the compound wall, attacked officers on duty and set fire to vehicles.

Paul Harvey News

Our nation is in debt more than a trillion dollars.

Just the interest on that debt is almost 100 billion dollars a year.

This administration, though pledged to reduce the size of government, is straight-jacketed by previous spending commitments.

So... Over the past three fiscal years our government's spending has increased more than $230 billion—to a this year total of $810 billion.

While our government's income has increased only $80 billion.

This year we will have put out more than we took in by $200 billion.

Is there no end to this?

During speaking engagements I sometimes enjoy including a question session. It hones my own awareness of which issues concern you most.

There are some questions to which I am forced to respond, "I don't know." I have no quick and easy panacea, for example, for our nation's worrisome budget deficit.

Over the past three years our government's spending has increased at an annual rate of 12 percent while our GNP has increased at an annual rate of 7½ percent.

Our spending has increased far faster than the economy which must pay for it.

Our politicians have promised to spend money which we just don't have! The cost of Medicare, for example, has been increasing 20 percent per year!

The answer is clearly not more taxes. Our taxes have been increasing 5 percent a year.

And any taxes siphon off money which corporations and individuals need for reinvestment.

That would be counterproductive to economic growth.

Is there no answer short of national bankruptcy?

Chairman Willard Butcher of Chase Manhattan Bank notes that this election year some politicians are going to be promising to spend more money which we don't have.

He says we will need to keep ourselves reminded "that's how we got into this mess."

Because Mr. Butcher is not running — for or from anything — he is daring to remind us that nearly two-thirds of all our federal spending now goes for Social Security, medical care and defense.

He says we can raise retirement age to 67 and save $20 billion a year.

For medical care, government has standardized medical service fees; that should help.

In military spending we will have to select the most effective weapons systems, discontinue overlapping, require competitive bidding.

There is one way to increase our government's income without raising taxes.

That is to leave Reaganomics in place—to demonstrate patience with supply-side economics—until prosperity itself enriches us and our national Treasury.

Closer Israel ties foreseen

By R. GREGORY NOKES

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senior U.S. and Israeli officials, while saying little about their discussions here, are predicting they will mark a new era of cooperation aimed at resolving the impasse in Lebanon and at stopping Syrian-inspired turmoil in the Middle East.

President Reagan was to meet today for a second time with Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir to continue Monday's talks, which both sides described as warm and friendly. Shamir also met separately for four hours with Secretary of State George P. Shultz.

The two sides agreed to establish two joint working groups that would meet overnight and report back in time for today's meetings. One group was instructed to focus on Lebanon with special emphasis on developing ideas on how to get Syria to withdraw its troops.

The second was told to concentrate on proposals for advancing American and Israeli military cooperation, which is a major subject of Shamir's visit here.

Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger and Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Arens planned a separate follow-up meeting on the military relationship today.

Meanwhile, the New York Times reported in today's editions that Reagan has approved steps to increase American military cooperation with Israel, including resumption of delivery of American-made cluster-bomb artillery shells.

Delivery of cluster bombs, which scatter grenade-like explosive charges over a wide area, was suspended in July 1982 after Israel invaded Lebanon.

In Monday's meetings, Israeli officials said Shamir stressed that Syria's aim is to dominate the Arab world, using Lebanon as a "test case." An Israeli official who insisted on anonymity said the United States and Israel "see the situation eye-to-eye."

A senior U.S. official said Syria "is going to have to take into account" closer U.S.-Israeli cooperation. The United States reportedly is asking Israel to show itself as a viable deterrent to what the official, who also insisted on anonymity, called the growing "Syrian strength and assertiveness."

Reflecting the current administration view, Larry Speakes, the White House spokesman, said after the Reagan-Shamir meeting that the two countries "are in close accord for policy regarding Lebanon, and we will continue to work closely for the goals we all seek in Lebanon."

The administration would like to find a way to bring the American Marines home from Lebanon before the 1984 election. But it needs to have some agreement for a withdrawal of all foreign forces — Israeli, Syrian and Palestinian — before that can happen.

Shamir told reporters he and Reagan had "very friendly and good talks" and voiced hope his three-day visit would "contribute to the deepening and strengthening of the friendly relations" between the two nations.

Astronauts look at plants

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL

Associated Press Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The scientists aboard Spacelab, not content with testing their own bodies to learn how humans adapt to space, turned today to a related question: How do plants know which way is up when there is no up?

Except for the usual minor hitches, the shuttle Columbia and the $1 billion European-built laboratory in its cargo hold were doing well after their Monday launch. And so were the six men aboard the orbiting spacecraft, with one fleeting exception.

Byron Lichtenberg, a biomedical engineer from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, was unable to complete a "hop and drop" test in which he jumped, then let elastic bands pull him to the Spacelab floor. Lichtenberg complained of "a little dizziness and disorientation" and Mission Control assured him that "you did the right thing to stop when you did."

The astronauts split into two teams for their round-the-clock, round-the-world experiments and about midnight EST — dawn in Europe — the red shift took over with West German scientist Ulf Merbold in the laboratory along with Robert Parker.

One of Merbold's first tasks was to photograph some dwarf sunflower seedlings, in various stages of growth, to observe the growth movements of the plants in weightlessness. On Earth, growing plant parts move in tiny spiral patterns, but scientists don't know why. The movement, called nutation, is affected by gravity and scientists want to see, through a series of time-lapse pictures, what happens when there is none.

Merbold and Parker continued the Spacelab mission of subjecting orbiting humans to tests to see what causes space sickness, at one point placing their heads into a rotating dome painted inside with dots of various sizes and colors.

subject's eye movements. The pictures will be analyzed when the shuttle returns home.

This first use of Spacelab, with 73 experiments scheduled before Columbia lands in California on Dec. 7, monopolized air-to-ground conversations. Little was heard from spacecraft commander John Young and pilot Brewster Shaw, who had to guide the spacecraft through a series of changes in position to satisfy requirements in five major scientific disciplines.

Life without children

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have been a reader for many years and enjoy your writing immensely. The column that gave me the most pleasure appeared on Jan. 3, 1977. Please run it again. The world could use a good laugh.—Isabelle S., N.Y. Fan

DEAR ISABELLE: Here it is. Thanks for asking. MUSINGS OF A GOOD FATHER ON A BAD DAY There's nothing sadder than the childless couple. It breaks your heart to see them stretched out, relaxing around swimming pools in Florida and California, sun-tanned and miserable on the decks of boats, trotting off to enjoy Europe like lonesome fools—with money to spend, time to enjoy themselves and nothing to worry about. Childless couples become so selfish and wrapped up in their own concerns, you feel sorry for them. They don't fight over kid's discipline. They miss all the fun of "doing without" for the child's sake. It's a pathetic sight. Everyone should have children. No one should be allowed to escape the wonderful experiences attached to each stage in the development of the young. The happy memories of those early years — saturated mattresses, waiting for sitters who don't show, midnight asthma attacks, rushing to the emergency room of the hospital to get the kid's head stitched up. Then comes the payoff — when the child grows from a little acorn into a real nut. What can equal the warm smile of a small lad with the sun glittering on $1,500 worth of braces — ruined by peanut brittle — or the frolicking, carefree voiced of 20 hysterical savages running amok at a birthday party? How sad now to have children to brighten your cocktail parties—massaging potato chips into the rug, wrestling the guests for the olives in their martinis. How empty is the home without challenging problems that make for a well-rounded life — and an early breakdown: the end-of-day report from mother, related like strategically placed blows to the temple, the tender, thoughtful discussions when the report card reveals that your senior son is a moron. Children are worth every moment of anxiety, every sacrifice. You know it the first time you take your son hunting. He didn't mean to shoot you in the leg. Remember how he cried? How sorry he was? So disappointed you weren't a deer. Those are the memories a man treasures. Think back to that night of romantic adventure, when your budding, beautiful daughter eloped with the village idiot. What childless couple ever share in such a wonderful growing experience? Could a woman without children equal the strength and heroism of your wife when she tried to fling herself out of the bedroom window? Only a father could have the courage to stand by—ready to jump after her. The childless couple lives in a vacuum. They try to fill their lonely lives with dinner dates, theater, golf, tennis, swimming, civic affairs and trips all over the world. See what the years have done. He looks boyish, unlined and rested. She is slim, well-groomed and youthful. It isn't natural. If they had kids, they'd look like the rest of us—tired, gray, wrinkled and haggard. In other words, normal.

4-H Around the County

By SUSAN N. RANEY
County Extension Agent
Skipping breakfast really does make a difference in how you perform at school or on the job. Studies show people who miss breakfast become more tired and less efficient in the morning than those who don't skip the meal. Breakfast is especially important for youngsters. In the national 4-H foods and nutrition program, girls and boys ages 9-19 learn-by-doing that a good breakfast can prevent physical and mental fatigue and can supply up to one-fourth of their daily nutritional needs. 4-H members say it doesn't really matter what you eat for breakfast as long as there is a balance of foods. Try selecting something from each of the four basic groups: milk and dairy products; meat, fish and eggs; breads and cereals; and fruits and vegetables. Young people can learn all about nutrition and food preparation in 4-H projects and activities supervised by the Extension Service and supported by the General Foods Corporation. The 4-H foods and nutrition program encourages the development of good food habits that last a lifetime. It provides opportunities for 4-H'ers' accomplishments in the program. General Foods donates four medals of honor in each county, one expense-paid trip per state to National 4-H Congress in Chicago each year, and six national scholarships of $1,000 each. Winners are chosen by the Extension Service and awards are arranged by the National 4-H Council. Anyone interested in learning about food, fitness, or fashion can join the 4F's 4-H club here in Hereford by calling the County Extension Office. The club has several educational programs monthly in all areas of food, nutrition and clothing. Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic levels, race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

A little difference in the amount your IRA earns each year can make a large difference in the amount you retire with. Happily, the same law that allows you to start an IRA also allows you to switch it with no tax penalty. Which gives you the opportunity to seek better returns for your investment. You could, for example, switch to the Oppenheimer Special Fund. Just compare the average annual return on your IRA with the 26.7% average annual return on the Oppenheimer Special Fund as shown above. If you had been able to put $2,000 a year into a Special Fund IRA, since its inception, it would have been worth $111,097** as of September 30, 1983. And because at Oppenheimer we offer a choice of 12 different funds, you can switch among them when your goals, or economic conditions, change. Oppenheimer INVESTING WITH WISDOM

McNaney wins jackpot for football contest

Jim McNaney, a Holly Sugar employee, captured the $100 jackpot prize in the Brand Football Contest by the margin of one point on the tiebreaker score.

Five of the 27 entrants for the season grant prizes missed six of the games, so the Hereford Bucks were determined by the tiebreaker score. Washington beat Philadelphia by 28-24 in that game, for a total of 52. McNaney guessed 48.

Claiming the second jackpot prize of $35 was Frank Cogdell, who missed six and had a tiebreaker total of 47. Third prize of $15 went to Cindy Baker who had six misses and a tiebreaker total of 46. Paula Gamez and Raymond Lueb also missed six but were not close enough on the tiebreaker.

The competition for the grand prizes was limited to all persons who had won a weekly prize during the season. There were 27 entrants in the contest.

Other grand prize contestants and games missed: (7) John Stagner, Opal Blakey, Nita Shepherd, S.T. Loerwald; (8) Teri Morgan, Patsy Hampton, Joy Stagner, Mel Charest, Tommie Hickman, Darla Duggan; (9) Wendell Burdine, Rick Castaneda; (10) John Streun, Sheree Rampley, David Freeman, Bill Sanders; (11) Dorothy Grasmick, Isaac Briones, Oscar Reyna; (12) Carolyn Schumacher; (13) Cal Jones; (14) Tim Homer.

At the same time, a regular weekly contest ended the season for all other readers. Tracy Shepherd and Earl Stagner missed only four games in this contest. Tracy took the $25 award by hitting the tiebreaker score on the nose, and Stagner won the $15 prize with a guess of 48 points. Christine Pretree won the $10 third prize after missing five games and coming closer to the tiebreaker total.

Others who missed five in the regular weekly contest included Larry Walterscheid and George Ochs. Missing six games were Jana Wartes, Hap Cavness, Curtis Ritchie, Scott Nunally, Pat Nunally, Jason Walterscheid, Jane Duggan, Robert Gamez, Bill Alexander, Lois Hillwig, Teresa Baker and Marie Cogdell.

Local merchants and institutions sponsored the 13-week grid contest. The sponsors: Deaf Smith REC, First National Bank, Hereford Cattle Commission, McCaslin Lumber, Charlie's Tire Inc., First Printing Co., Stevens Chevy-Olds, Troy's Sweet Shop, Hereford Ford-Lincoln-Mercury, Suits Auto Supply;

Butch White cops grid panel crown

Butch White rules the roost as the Brand's top football prognosticator, finishing 10 games ahead of Helen Higgins in this season's Fearless Forecaster panel.

White posted a 29-6 record for the final week and wound up with a sparkling 72.2 percentage mark in picking the winners from 26 games a week. White's season record was 244 right and 94 wrong. Higgins finishes with a 234-104 record and a 69.2 percentage.

In the battle to stay out of the cellar-dwelling position among the four panelists, Speedy Nieman barely escaped a strong finish by Mike Carr. Nieman finished one game ahead of Carr with a 230-106 mark. Carr was 20-6 the final week and had posted a 24-2 score the previous week. Nieman was 19-7 the final week while Higgins slipped to 16-10.

White had held a lead through most of the 13-week contest. The panelists selected winners from the same weekly contest sponsored for all readers.

Studley thinks job chances 'slim, none'

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Oilers have proven that they are very likely the worst team in the National Football League and unless a sharp turnaround occurs, they will get the No. 1 pick in the 1984 draft.

But interim Coach Chuck Studley doesn't think he'll be around to reap the rewards of being the worst team in the league.

"I felt this game was pivotal," Studley said Monday in discussing Sunday's 33-24 loss to Tampa Bay, 2-11. "I'm just speculating. I won't be a part of the decision. But I think since we lost my chances going in were slim and none. Now there is just one choice.

"If we win the next three games, it might shed new light on the situation, beating two contenders."

It would be an unlikely scenario for a team that has played with unmatched ineptness throughout most of the season.

Studley replaced Ed Biles Oct. 10 after an 0-6 start and the Oilers lost four more games under Studley before breaking a 17-game losing streak with a 27-17 victory over Detroit Nov. 13.

But two embarrassing losses have followed, leaving the Oilers with a 1-12 record and a good chance of going 1-15 with home games remaining against Miami Sunday, Cleveland on Dec. 11 and a season-ending trip to Baltimore Dec. 18.

Studley said he couldn't understand a team playing so well against Detroit and then reverting to its bad habits.

"Obviously, if a team demonstrates that it can perform like that (against Detroit) then it sets a standard, something to strive for," Studley said. "But we haven't repeated that and I find that difficult to analyze and accept."

Studley said despite the Oilers' plight, he doesn't expect a drop in intensity.

"I don't expect that and I'll do all that is possible to avoid that scenario," Studley said. "I think it's important how we finish, not for my situation because that's probably already determined, but for the pride of the players and coaches."

Studley said second-year quarterback Oliver Luck, although intercepted three times, showed poise in overcoming his miscues.

But the Oilers could muster only 257 yards against a piecemeal Tampa Bay defense that had been weakened by injuries.

"The thing I reflected about Tampa Bay is they had a lot of injuries," Studley said. "They are playing rookies, others are playing out of position and yet we still had trouble with them on defense."

The Oilers announced late Monday that wide receiver Mike Renfro had been placed on the team's injured reserve list and would be lost for the season with a knee injury suffered against Tampa Bay.

It was Renfro's second trip to the injury list this season.

Marino-Duper combo sparks Dolphin victory

By FRED GOODALL AP Sports Writer

MIAMI (AP) — The redhot passing combination of Dan Marino to Mark Duper is setting the National Football League on fire and blazing the trail the Miami Dolphins are traveling toward the playoffs.

The Cincinnati Bengals are but the latest victims of the dynamic duo's destruction, yielding a pair of touchdowns to the tandem Monday night during a 38-14 loss to the defending American Conference champions.

"They've got my vote for the Pro Bowl," Bengals wide receiver Cris Collinsworth said of Marino and Duper. "We've been around the league now, and those guys are in a special class at their positions."

Marino, the AFC's passing efficiency leader, threw for 217 yards and three TDs as the 9-4 Dolphins took a two-game lead over Buffalo in the Eastern Division and moved to within a game of wrapping up the title.

Duper, who caught scoring passes of 7 and 15 yards, had five catches for 84 yards, allowing him to maintain a pace that would give him a 1,000-yard receiving season — the first in Dolphin history.

"They're the best defense I ever played against," said Duper, a second-year pro who moved into the starting lineup eight weeks ago. "They really punish you after you catch the ball. Half of my body was numb."

Marino, meanwhile, boosted his record as a starter to 6-2 and a victory over Houston next Sunday will clinch the division crown and send the Dolphins into the playoffs.

"You have to say Marino really kept his cool. He was able to move around and find his receivers," said Miami Coach Don Shula, who earlier in the day signed a new, multi-year contract to remain with the team he's guided to four Super Bowl appearances.

"It's been a good day," Shula added. "First the announcement, and to have that precede an effort like this would have to make you feel pretty proud."

The loss all but eliminated the 5-8 Bengals from the playoff picture, and Coach Forrest Gregg and players agreed they were their own worst enemy Monday night.

Cincinnati, which trailed 17-14 at halftime, lost two fumbles and quarterback Ken Anderson threw two interceptions, one that led to Marino's 3-yard, fourth-quarter touchdown toss to tight end Dan Johnson.

Gregg said errors were the key to the contest, played before an Orange Bowl sellout of 74,506.

"It gets down to this: you can't turn the ball over four times against a team as good as the Dolphins and expect to win," the Cincinnati coach said.

Kentucky ranked No. 1

By The Associated Press Kentucky climbed past preseason choice North Carolina in the first weekly Associated Press college basketball rankings of the 1983-84 campaign.

The Wildcats had a scant two-point edge for the No. 1 spot in the results announced

Monday as both schools attracted 24 first-place votes from the nationwide panel of 51 sports writers and broadcasters.

Kentucky, a 65-44 winner in its opening game over previously sixth-ranked Louisville, received 988 points. North Carolina, which drew 986 points, opened the season with an unimpressive 64-57 opening win over unranked Missouri, and defeated Tennessee-Chattanooga 85-63 Monday night after the rankings had been announced.

Both teams played their season-openers Saturday. Kentucky routed No. 6 Louisville 65-44, while North Carolina downed unranked Missouri 64-57.

The setback dropped Louisville from the Top Twenty.

Georgetown, fourth in the preseason, drew the only other three No. 1 votes for 868 points, good for the third spot. The Hoyas opened with two victories over Hawaii-Hilo over the weekend.

Memphis State, 2-0, advanced one place to fourth with 819 points. Iowa, 1-0 and No. 7 in the preseason, took over the No. 5 spot with 706 points. Maryland, 1-0, advanced two spots to sixth with 612 points.

Defending NCAA champion North Carolina State, unranked in the preseason, is back among the elite — No. 7 — with 602 points after winning its first four games. After upsetting Houston, No. 3 in the preseason, in the Hall of Fame Game Nov. 19, the Wolfpack swept past Alaska-Anchorage, Santa Clara and Arkansas, rated No. 14 in the preseason, to win the Great Alaska Shootout title over the weekend.

Houston, which beat Kansas Saturday, fell to the No. 8 spot with 589 points. No. 9 UCLA and No. 10 Oregon State remained in the same place.

Tar Heels romp despite late starters; LSU, Boston triumph

By The Associated Press
Sam Perkins and Kenny Smith, key operatives for No. 2 North Carolina's attack, were late for the team's pregame meal and, consequently, were not in the starting lineup for their game against Tennessee-Chatanooga.

But Michael Jordan had a strong game with 28 points and Perkins came off the bench to add 16 as the Tar Heels broke open a close game early in the second half and ate up their visitors 85-63 Monday night.

North Carolina Coach Dean Smith, who won his 498th career game, disciplined Perkins and Smith for being five minutes late to the meal as Dave Popson started ahead of Perkins and Steve Hale replaced Jordan.

The Tar Heels, 2-0, led 33-30 at halftime before Tennessee-Chatanooga, the Southern Conference champions, surged ahead early in the second half. That's when North Carolina used a 14-2 streak to get out of trouble.

Brad Daugherty added 16 points for the Tar Heels, who had dropped from No. 1 to second behind Kentucky in the Associated Press poll released earlier in the day.

Only two other Top Twenty teams played Monday — 12th-ranked Louisiana State beat North Carolina-Wilmington 94-59 and No. 15 Boston College routed Stonehill 97-63.

Jordan said he felt slightly miffed that Moccasin defenders were talking to him during the game in an attempt to distract him.

"I got me angry and it gave me extra incentive," Jordan said. "I concentrated on executing the defense a lot harder."

Despite the loss, Tennessee-Chatanooga Coach Murray Arnold saw some bright spots for his 1-1 team.

"I saw some pretty nice things I feel we can build on," Arnold said. "Before we came in here, I felt North Carolina was No. 1 in the country and I still feel that way."

"If we leave here tonight as a better team, then our time was well-invested," he said.

Jerry Reynolds scored 14 points and four other Louisiana State players were in double figures for the Tigers. Derrick Taylor and reserve Nikita Wilson each had 12 points as LSU, 2-0, scored the first eight points of the game and was ahead 39-21 at halftime.

Senior forward Jay Murphy, who underwent arthroscopic knee surgery three weeks ago, scored 17 of his 22 points in the first half to help Boston College win its season opener. Junior guard Michael Adams scored 17 of his 19 points in the first half as the Eagles raced to a 57-30 lead at intermission.

Kenneth Perkins had 17 points and Tom Sewell 13 as Lamar extended the nation's longest homecourt winning streak to 69 games with a 78-57 triumph over St. Mary's of Texas.

Robert Morris College, which has reached the NCAA tournament the past two seasons, opened its season with an 86-63 victory over Lock Haven as Forest Grant scored 20 points. It was the Colonials' 22nd straight victory game at home.

Delaney Rudd hit for a game-high 18 points as Wake Forest started its season by breezing to a 74-59 victory over Furman.

Charles Barkley, an all-Southeastern Conference junior recovering from back injuries, played only 2½ minutes early in the second half but helped rally Auburn past Columbus College 58-54. Barkley scored just two points but blocked two shots during a streak in which Auburn scored 10 straight points to overcome a one-point halftime deficit.

Buck Johnson hit 27 points as Alabama downed Cincinnati 83-64.

Senior forward Art Aaron's 21 points paced Northwestern past Bradley 63-42. The game was the first for Northwestern in the Welsh-Ryan Arena at newly remodeled McGraw Hall.

Ron Tarpley scored 17 points and Leslie Rockmore had 16 as Michigan raced to a 15-3 lead and cruised to a 71-55 triumph over North Carolina A&T.

Reserve guard J.J. Crawl tallied 14 points to help West Virginia past Indiana, Pa., 73-46 in a sloppy game.

Fred Lee hit 10 of 13 shots from the floor and finished with 27 points, leading Rider over James Madison 76-68.

John Dixon and Al Young keyed a 15-point spree in the first half that carried Virginia Tech over Towson State 93-53. The winning Hokies hit 37 of 52 shots from the floor.

Freshman Bruce Dalrymple made his college debut by scoring 21 points and grabbing 17 rebounds as Georgia Tech downed Alabama A&M 95-75.

Junior guard Vernon Moore hit an eight-foot jump shot over three defenders with two seconds left to lift Creighton past Southern 57-55.

LaSalle guard Steve Black scored eight of his 23 points in the final eight minutes as the Explorers topped Monmouth 75-60.

Guard Terrence Stansbury stole a pass and scored on a breakaway dunk with just over a minute remaining to give Temple the lead, and he then blocked a last-second shot as the Owls held off Drexel 61-60.

Karl Racine scored 18 points, including eight-for-eight from the free throw line in the final three minutes, to lead Pennsylvania over Davidson 69-59.

Sophomore guard Kevin McAdoo, cousin of National Basketball Association star

Bob McAdoo, scored four points in the final minute of overtime to help Detroit beat Grand Valley State 70-65.

James Stern scored seven points in the final 1:14 of the game as Baylor held off Tarleton State 64-57 and Ken Harvey had 18 points in Mississippi State's 47-40 victory over Birmingham Southern.

In upsets, Aniset Lavodrama scored 17 points to help Houston Baptist over Oklahoma State 75-65 and Ron Fleming sank two free throws with 10 seconds left in overtime to give Northern Kentucky a 61-59 victory over Evansville.

Mike Huffman had 15 points as Virginia Military Institute, which went 2-25 last year, opened its season by beating Emory & Henry 75-48.

Huskers, Horns still atop poll

By The Associated Press
Nebraska finished its regular season just where it started — as the No. 1 college football team in the nation — while runnerup Texas managed to inch a little closer to the top-ranked Cornhuskers in the Associated Press poll.

Nebraska, bidding to become the first team to be ranked No. 1 in the preseason poll and to hold that ranking through the end of the post-season, received 52 of 55 first-place ballots Monday.

The 12-0 Cornhuskers wrapped up their regular season by beating Oklahoma 28-21 Saturday and got 1,097 of a possible 1,100 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and sportscasters in the next-to-last regular-season poll.

Texas, 11-0 and the only other unbeaten-untied major college team in the country, remained second for the 11th consecutive week. The Longhorns crushed Texas A&M 45-13 and got three first-place votes and 1,048 points.

Last week, Nebraska led Texas 58-1 in first-place ballots and 1,179-1,118 in points.

The rest of the Top Ten remained the same as last week with Auburn, Illinois and Miami holding onto the 3-4-5 positions with 973, 910 and 885 points, respectively. Auburn, 9-1, winds up Saturday against No. 19 Alabama, while Illinois and Miami have completed 10-1 regular seasons.

Southern Methodist, Georgia, Michigan, Brigham Young and Iowa complete the Top Ten.

SMU beat Houston 32-14, Georgia edged Georgia Tech 27-24, while the others finished the season earlier. The points were 824 for SMU, 732 for Georgia, 694 for Michigan, 649 for BYU and 586 for Iowa.

The 10 teams that were in the Second Ten remained there, although there was some shuffling.

This week's Second Ten are: Clemson, Florida, Boston College, Ohio State, Pittsburgh, Maryland, Air Force, West Virginia, Alabama and East Carolina.

Last week it was Florida, Clemson, Alabama, Ohio State, Boston College, Pitt, Maryland, Air Force, West Virginia and East Carolina.

In the only game involving members of the Second Ten, Boston College defeated Alabama 20-13.

MEXICO CITY (AP) — New 2,000-peso bank notes entered circulation Monday as part of a government program to change Mexican currency to keep pace with monetary devaluations and near 100 percent inflation.

The new bank note carries an engraving of the late Education Minister Justo Sierra Mendez, commemorating the 100th anniversary of his birth.

Officials said the 2,000-peso note, worth $12.70 at the present exchange rate of 157.42 pesos to the dollar, gradually will replace 1,000-peso notes in circulation.

Mexico also is issuing new 200-peso coins, and says it will eliminate some smaller denomination coins and bills. The smallest coin minted now is 20 centavos — worth about one-eighth of a U.S. penny and still good for making coin telephone calls in Mexico City.

Mexican bank notes also are available in denominations of 50, 100, 500, 5,000 and 10,000 pesos.

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The Mexican capital has a housing shortage of 800,000 units and even with a massive investment the housing problem probably cannot be solved, a city official says.

Mexico City Planning Director Javier Caraveo Aguero said the city of more than 15 million has little chance of meeting its growing need for low-cost housing.

"Let's say that the 800,000 housing units now needed could be built in 50 years," Caraveo Aguero said. "By that time the population would have grown and housing needs would have again increased, so there still would remain a shortage."

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexican citrus growers lost more than $3 million in revenue this year because of U.S. restrictions on imports of Mexican lemons, oranges, grapefruits and tangerines, an industry official said.

Cesar Buenrostro, director of the National Fruit Growers Commission, said citrus growers were unable to export 60,000 tons on fruit this year after U.S. officials limited exports. The U.S. decision was based on the appearance of a bacterial disease that officials feared could spread to U.S. farm crops.

Storm may dump more snow on Midwest

While Midwesterners dug out from a record blizzard and a trickle of travel resumed, forecasters warned that a new sister storm threatened to dump more icy inches on the Great Plains today as the fierce weather's death toll rose to 68.

Snow from the new storm began falling in Utah early today and the National Weather Service said up to 4 more inches could top the 1 to 2 feet that paralyzed the nation's midsection Monday. Travelers' advisories were in effect today for much of Wyoming, northern Utah and eastern Colorado.

As the western Plains braced for another, though milder, onslaught, the storm that left 9-foot drifts in some areas and brought the Midwest to a halt was still packing a wallop further east.

Snow continued to fall today in Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan, with up to 6 new inches expected before it ended. Freezing rain and sleet left a slippery sheen over northern New England.

The Nebraska State Patrol advised the hundreds of stranded travelers — many of whom bunked on church pews and armory floors Sunday night — to stay off the roads another day. Although Interstate 80 was cleared of 8-foot drifts and reopened

Monday afternoon, "we're telling everybody that it's still ice- and snow-packed, that there is still snow and blowing snow, and that travel is not recommended," said a patrol spokesman in Lincoln.

"I can see drifts from the office here, and it looks like they're six or seven feet deep," said Greeley County, Neb., Deputy Bill Callister. "There's nothing moving here in town."

"You're just asking for it by being out," said Bill Brennan of Grand Island, Neb. "There's cars strewn all over the place."

Ranchers in western Nebraska labored to get food to livestock herds that were caught on the range during the storm. The Nebraska Livestock Feeders Association canceled its convention, which was to have run Monday through Wednesday in Kearney, because so many cattlemen would be tied up trying to save their animals, spokesman Rex Messersmith said.

Monday's dig-out brought tales of triumph as well as tragedy.

A physician hitched a ride on a snowplow to deliver a healthy baby boy at a home in Limon, Colo., which was isolated by the storm. Danny Ray Brown and his mother, Mrs. Leonard Brown, were both in good condition Monday after Dr. Thomas Jeffers' house call.

A seriously ill Colorado toddler was rescued from his family's snowbound farm after a radioed plea for help was heard 1,000 miles away in Oregon. Two-year-old Bryan Kester was taken to the hospital through 18 miles of swirling snow.

Newlyweds Dwayne and Paul Simmons of Oklahoma City returned to their snowbound car Monday after spending the first night of their honeymoon on the floor of a National Guard armory in Garden City, Kan. But sympathetic emergency workers helped the couple salvage some romance — they were the only stranded travelers given a private room, a makeshift bridal suite in an armory office.

Malamen. The two were at the annual Christmas Tree Lighting Ceremony.

Woodford named campaign manager

Suzi Woodford, a former Hereford resident now living in Austin, will this week assume the duties of campaign manager for Brad Wiewel, who has announced his intention to seek the Texas House of Representatives seat vacated by Gonzalo Barrientos.

Woodford, who was elected Democratic chairman of Deaf Smith County in May 1982, moved to Austin following the November 1982 election.

She worked as a research assistant for the Public Servant Standards of Conduct Advisory Committee in Austin until Aug. 1, at which time she became administrative assistant for Common Cause of Texas.

Wiewel is state issues Chairman for Common Cause of Texas and president-elect of the Austin Young Lawyers Association.

Woodford is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L.H. Woodford of Hereford. She is a graduate of Hereford High School and Texas Tech University.

Drivers deliver nation's weapons

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The government calls them couriers. Cbers use the handle "suicide jockeys." Their cargo is earmarked for distant targets, but they end up near hamlets such as Bunceton, Mo., and Rock, Kan.

The elite cadre of heavily armed, well-trained drivers who deliver America's nuclear weapons in $800,000 "rolling vaults" are the key to the nation's most secure truck line.

The armored trucks cover some 8 million miles annually, toting missile warheads, nuclear weapons and components to some 125 sites in the 48 contiguous states.

Most shipments begin at Pantex, the Amarillo, Texas, plant that is the genesis for America's nuclear weapons. From there the shipments fan out in Safe Secure Trailers (SSTs) or Safe Secure Railcars (SSRs) to military installations and the nation's nuclear testing ground, 70 miles northwest of Las Vegas.

The rigs are driven by truckers who have a "Q" clearance, the highest security designation given by the FBI. The trucks are accompanied by escort vehicles containing armed couriers.

Their every move is monitored electronically by the Department of Energy's Safeguards and Security division at Kirtland Air Force Base, Albuquerque, N.M. All of America's nuclear weapons are produced, tested and transported under the direction of the DOE.

"We know where they are, what they're doing every moment," DOE spokesman David Jackson said of the special shipments. "And we're prepared to respond to any problem."

The DOE spent $27.3 million last year hauling what Jackson refers to as "the most uptight cargo in the world."

Some 130 of the 230 employees in the DOE's Transportation Safeguards Division are drivers who haul the world's deadliest cargo for a salary averaging $25,000 annually.

"If you don't like driving trucks our way — hauling atomic bombs around, shooting guns, strenuous training and keeping in shape — you need not apply," Jackson said.

From the outside, the SSTs resemble a normal 18-wheeler. That's where the similarity ends.

"The tractor is armored and bullet-proof," said Jackson. "It has sophisticated communications equipment that allows us to keep track of a shipment at all times. And the trailer has a number of systems that deny entry. Unless you have the combination and do everything right, you don't get in. There are systems to disable the truck so it can't be moved.

"The trucks are so sturdy that in the event of a really severe accident, such as rolling down a cliff, the interior cargo would be well-protected," Jackson said. "The weapons are tied down in special containers and can't be armed. A nuclear detonation is virtually impossible."

The containers are designed for "worst-case" catastrophes and must pass a punishing series of tests such as fire, immersion and free fall. The cargo must emerge tied down and in place after simulated 60 mph head-on crashes.

There has never been a hijack attempt, although there have been some accidents.

"If you drive 8 million miles a year, you're going to have blowouts, breakdowns, drunken drivers plowing into you," added Jackson. "But we've never had an accident in which the contents posed a threat to the drivers or the public."

"Any nuclear device contains conventional high explosives and it's unlikely these would go in an accident. If under the most incredible circumstances you could imagine you had an accident in which you had an explosion, there still would be no nuclear detonation."

Jackson said the DOE cargo is safer than many trucks carrying propane or toxic chemicals.

The first SSTs were developed in the early 1970s in response to worldwide terrorism threats.

Schedules, destinations and routes are not announced in advance. Even local police departments are not aware of shipments, although state police officials are informed.

Couriers are trained in the use of .357 magnums, M-16 rifles, submachine guns, grenade launchers, shotguns and sniper rifles with infrared scopes for night action.

Driver training includes surprises such as a helicopter attack, light-armored-vehicle assault, anti-tank rockets and blockades. Physical training includes hand-to-hand combat.

Jackson said the drivers "don't consider themselves people who take inordinate risks. They have the potential for getting in harm's way, but they have the training to do their job. We've never had trouble getting volunteers."

Controversial medical examiner responds

HOUSTON (AP) — Harris County Medical Examiner Dr. Joseph Jachimczyk, criticized for some of his past rulings, has reacted strongly to detractors who have questioned his abilities and those of his staff.

"I'm not going to stand for this, demoralizing my staff, casting aspersions on my staff and my professional integrity," Jachimczyk said. "My rulings are controversial because you are never going to please everybody or anybody."

Two of the medical examiner's rulings in child abuse cases prompted unfavorable publicity recently from the CBS-TV program "60 Minutes."

Jachimczyk also drew fire when he was forced to change his murder-suicide determination of a much-publicized 1979 triple slaying in Houston's fashionable River Oaks neighborhood.

"There appears to be a basic insensitivity to the seriousness and magnitude of this issue," says attorney

Greg Waddill, a board member of the Harris County Child Protective Services and president of the Greater Houston Committee to Prevent Child Abuse.

In the child abuse criticisms, the medical examiner notes that 20 years ago he was the first coroner in Texas to make a diagnosis of child abuse. And he argues that protective officials should note injuries to children and should remove the children if a possible danger exists.

"That's what they should do but they don't," he says. "When they have proof positive of clinical child abuse, they expect us to find and confirm their findings. When we don't, that's when problems arise."

"I came with an open mind. I knew, realistically, that I could build something in my image, so to speak, professionally," Jachimczyk said.

"I didn't expect it to be easy. In 1982, the medical examiner's office handled 7,842 cases.

"I Believe in Spending My Money in Hereford."

Elmer Combs-Salesman

After reading an article in the Nov. 23 issue of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal concerning a former Hereford resident's decision to resign his position from a prominent board, because of out-of-state money making operations, Emmett Milburn of Milburn's Motors decided to use this space in the Brand to make Hereford residents aware of similar operations which are occurring in our own town.

Area cities are stealing Hereford's business!

"In the past, Amarillo, Lubbock, and Clovis have stocked merchandise for local businesses in Hereford, which has in turn rail-roaded profits into other cities, counties, and states. Even though this gives the consumer a wider variety, it hurts our economy. This town has no room for freeloaders (business owned or stocked by companies outside Deaf Smith county). These people were not here to do any of the plowing, yet they intend to be here to reap the harvest."

With over 51 years in business in Hereford, Milburn believes that the pioneers of this city promoted it in its progress, both in agriculture and industry, and without their promotions Hereford wouldn't exist today. "Hereford residents owe it not only to the city, but to themselves, and to the future generations to SHOP HEREFORD FIRST."

To stand trial

Osteopath ruled competent

PUEBLO, Colo. (AP) — A former Pueblo osteopath, Dr. Lewis H. Guenther, on Monday was deemed mentally competent to stand trial on felony charges of theft and Medicaid fraud.

District Judge Thomas Phelps scheduled Feb. 28 as the starting date for the trial, although Guenther's attorneys have filed a motion seeking to block prosecution of the case. The motion asks that District Attorney Gus Sandstrom be precluded from presenting key evidence concerning regulations of the Colorado Department of Social Services, upon which the criminal charges are based.

The motion contends the regulations are invalid because they weren't reviewed by the State Legislature's Legal Services Committee as required by law.

That was the same defense argument used to win dismissal of two unrelated welfare fraud cases in District Court here earlier this year.

Arguments on the motion in the Guenther case are scheduled to be heard at 1:30 p.m. Dec. 20.

Phelps' competency ruling Monday was made after a letter from a Texas psychiatrist, Dr. Victor J. Weiss, was presented to the court. Weiss contended that Guenther now is capable of assisting his lawyers in his own defense.

Guenther, who now practices optometry in Texas, originally was charged in May 1982 with one count of theft over $10,000, 12 counts of submitting false Medicaid claims and a count of illegally dispensing a narcotic drug while a practicing osteopath. He was also accused of filing false Medicaid claims from his weight-control clinics in Pueblo and Walsenburg.

He was to have stood trial last year, but that trial was vacated pending a determination of his competency. At that time, Weiss declared him mentally incompetent, saying Guenther suffered from "rather severe psychotic depression."

In the letter read Monday, the Texas psychiatrist said he had re-examined Guenther on Nov. 2 and now finds him competent to stand trial.

Guenther is still on anti-depressant medication, Weiss said, but during the past few months he has been able to function as an optometrist in Brownsville, Texas and in Houston.

The federal government also filed a $447,000 civil lawsuit against Guenther in connection with his allegedly false Medicaid payment claims while operating the now-defunct clinics.

That suit was settled just before it was scheduled to go to trial in U.S. District Court in Denver last May, however, when the defendant agreed to pay the government $200,000 of its claim against him.

Reagan signs bill killing his satellite program

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan signed a bill Monday that kills his plan to sell U.S. weather satellites to private industry.

Reagan was forced to sign the provision or veto the bill to which it was attached, an appropriations measure for the departments of State, Justice and Commerce. It prohibits the government from spending money to solicit bids or carry out the sale of the satellite systems.

Critics had labelled the plan a "harebrained scheme" and likened it to selling the FBI to private security companies. Supporters contended private corporations would run the satellite systems more efficiently.

The sale was first proposed during the Carter administration by the Communications Satellite Corp., the government corporation known as Comsat.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—Some former legislators commented earlier this month that the time may be ripe for reform in state government, and various officials pressed forward last week with investigations of three public officials.

The headline grabber, the pre-trial testimony in the felony commercial bribery case against Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox, centered around a Houston lawyer's contention that Mattox threatened "war" unless the law firm stopped trying to question Mattox's sister in an unrelated civil case.

The senior partner of the Fulbright and Jaworski firm, J. Wiley Caldwell, also testified two of Mattox's top aides warned him the firm's municipal bond business was "in trouble" because of Mattox's dispute with the firm.

Tape recordings of telephone conversations between Mattox and Caldwell also revealed attempts by Mattox to suppress the allegations of Caldwell's legal partner, Tom McDade.

"I just wanted to make sure that we didn't let a cat out of the bag here if we could help it," Mattox said on the tape.

House Ethics Probe
Meanwhile, the Texas House Ethics Committee voted last week to continue to investigate the possible misuse of state funds by Houston Rep. Ron Wilson, a leader of that chamber's Black Caucus.

The panel decided to request or subpoena persons to furnish needed records or other information.

The committee is probing Wilson's collection of almost $17,000 in per diem expenses for approximately 13 months in '81 and '82, and records of telephone calls charged to the state on his credit card.

The phone records show some calls were charged from out-of-state towns on the same dates he collected expenses for state work in Austin.

DWI Videotape
The same Travis County grand jury which indicted Mattox has gone over the head of its county attorney to review the dismissed DWI charge of a Terrell legislator.

The grand jury requested to see the videotape taken of Rep. Gordon Arnold, Jr. when he was arrested earlier this month.

Arnold was also charged with criminal mischief for kicking out the police car radio, to which he pleaded no contest.

The county attorney, Margaret Moore, said the videotape which showed Arnold performing vari-

MARSHALL, Texas (AP)

— A group of former employees say they have reached an agreement to buy an insulated cable plant Aluminum Co. of America shut down this fall when the workers refused to accept reductions in wage and benefits.

"We said we would try to find a buyer ... and we are pleased that it was the employee group," Alcoa spokesman Hal Reagan said Monday night. "We feel very pleased that it (the buyer) is the people who used to run the plant."

Reagan declined to disclose details of the sale.

About 500 people were put out of work when the 13-year-old Marshall facility, one of three Alcoa plants in Texas, was closed October 15.

Joe Dudas, one of two former supervisors at the plant who led the negotiations, said the new company, Conductor Products Inc., will employ no more than 200 people and will pay its workers less than Alcoa had proposed.

"They (the wages) will be lower than what the company was offering, I'm sure," Dudas said in a telephone interview from his Longview home. Dudas said he did not know how many employees were involved in the buy-out group and also declined to disclose any details of the agreement.

Dudas, the plant's former technical manager, and quality assurance manager Bob Zukowski ironed out the deal during two days of negotiations last week in Houston, Reagan said.

"The major obstacles have been overcome but there are a raft of details still to be worked out," Reagan said.

The plant should resume operations early next year, Reagan said.

"We expect to have a closing on this plant and the employees have it in production sometime during the first quarter of 1984," he said. "We anticipate the remaining details (in the agreement) to be worked out by the first of the year."

Senator Bill Sarpalius Reports

Highway Needs

AUSTIN — I was part of a delegation from Sherman County which went before the Texas Highway Commission just before Thanksgiving to seek reinstatement of a building project which would complete the 4-lane highway between Stratford and Amarillo.

While I asked the commissioners to get the project rolling again because of the safety factors involved and the convenience to our motorists, I also had the opportunity to inform them of just how much our area means to the rest of Texas. What I pointed out to them was that the entire Panhandle was affected by the highway system because of the immense role our area plays in the state's agricultural picture.

Indeed, the counties of the Panhandle produce almost 10 percent of the entire nation's agriculture products. While we have only 3.2 percent of the state's population, when it comes to agriculture we are leading contributors to feeding the population and helping the state's economy to remain strong.

Almost 50 percent of the irrigated farmland in Texas is in the Panhandle. Almost 20 percent of all the cattle and calves in the state are in the Panhandle. We provide more than 80 percent of all the cattle marketed from feedlots.

Grain production is a mainstay in the Panhandle. We produce 37 percent of the state's wheat, 60 percent of the corn, 23 percent of milo, 19 percent of soybeans and 75 percent of the sunflowers.

Cotton, 65 percent of which is exported through Texas Gulf ports, is grown in abundance. We account for 23 percent of the state's production.

Vegetables are strong market products. We produce almost 100 percent of the sugar beets in the state, 55 percent of the potatoes, 11 percent of the lettuce and carrots and more than 7 percent of the onions.

These figures are significant when dealing with highway construction because, while we don't have the population explosion of other areas of the state, we are the state's food lifeline. We need a fast, reliable and convenient way to get our products to other areas and to the Gulf for exporting.

We are fighting to make sure that our highways are not shuttled aside, because they go much further than movement of people from place to place. In the Panhandle they move the economy. When almost half of the traffic on a 2-lane stretch of U.S. 287 is truck traffic and that traffic is heavy and constant, then it is easy to conclude that the movement is products that fuel our economy.

Just because we are many miles from that highway artery, all of us in the Panhandle are affected, because what goes over the highways determines our jobs, our productivity and our future.

Ship to remain off coast

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon will keep the USS New Jersey off the coast of Lebanon indefinitely because the Joint Chiefs of Staff believe the battleship provides an important military and psychological presence in the region, The Washington Post reported in today's editions.

Quoting unnamed Defense Department officials, the Post said the Pentagon considers the battleship's presence important to the safety of 1,800 Marines in Beirut.

The World War II battleship has 16-inch guns that can shell targets in Lebanon that U.S. warplanes could not reach without the risk of being exposed to hostile fire.

Intelligence reports indicate that Shiite Moslem troops have great respect for the New Jersey's firepower. "They think of them the way we think of the atom bomb," one official told the Post.

The presence of the New Jersey was credited by Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger and other administration officials with helping to bring about the September cease-fire among Lebanon's warring factions.

'Oils' fix potpourri

DEAR POLLY — Can you tell me how to enhance and preserve the fragrance of dry rose petals? I would like to make a potpourri and have heard that one can add something to the flower petals to make the scent last longer. — MRS. E.H.P.

DEAR MRS. E.H.P. — Although the dried petals will hold their fragrance for some time, it does eventually fade and disappear unless you have added a "fixative" to your potpourri. Essential oils make good fixatives. Rose oil, musk oil, sandalwood oil and citrus oil can all be used to prolong the fragrance of the flowers and add their own long-lasting fragrances as well. Look for these essential oils at pharmacies and cosmetic and perfume counters. You can also mix in thin slivers of citrus peel dried in the oven. The citrus oil in the peel will act as a fixative and the citrus aroma blends well with many fragrances.

I'm sending you a copy of my newsletter, "Polly's Gift Ideas," which has complete directions for making a potpourri. Other readers who would like a copy of this newsletter should send $1 for each copy to POLLY'S POINTERS, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1216, Cincinnati, Ohio 45201. Be sure to include the title. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Anyone with kids in school will appreciate this suggestion. I use clear adhesive plastic to cover my children's schoolbooks, folders and other supplies. This protects them and they can be wiped clean with a damp cloth. — MRS. D.J.

POLLY'S NOTE — Since these plastics can sometimes be hard to remove, you may not want to use them on school-owned textbooks without asking the teacher's permission first. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Many times I buy or make things to put in my freezer, then forget about them. I now keep a list handy inside a cupboard door on which I list everything in the freezer. I can see at a glance if I have a pie, roast, or pizza without having to look. You must remember to cross out the things you have used and add to the list when you add to the freezer. This only takes a little time. — MRS. G.U.

BEYOND AND BACK...REALLY!

"Brothers -- you sons of Abraham, and also all of you Gentiles here who reverence God -- this salvation is for all of us!

"The Jews in Jerusalem and their leaders fulfilled prophecy by killing Jesus; for they didn't recognize Him, or realize that He is the one the prophets had written about, though they heard the prophets' words read every Sabbath. They found no just cause to execute Him, but asked Pilate to have Him killed anyway. When they had fulfilled all the prophecies concerning His death, He was taken from the cross and placed in a tomb. But God brought Him back to life again! And He was seen many times during the next few days by the men who had accompanied Him to Jerusalem from Galilee -- these men have constantly testified to this public in witness.

"And now Barnabas and I are here to bring you this Good News -- that God's promise to our ancestors has come true in our own time, in that God brought Jesus back to life again. This is what the second Psalm is talking about when it says concerning Jesus, 'Today I have honored You as My Son.' For God had promised to bring Him back to life again, no more to die. This is stated in the Scripture that says, 'I will do for You the wonderful thing I promised David.'

"In another Psalm He explained more fully, saying 'God will not let His Holy One decay.' This was not a reference to David, for after David had served his generation according to the will of God, he died and was buried, and his body decayed. No, it was a reference to another -- Someone God brought back to life, whose body was not touched at all by the ravages of death."
Acts 13:26-37

Trial delayed indefinitely

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — The trial of Ronald Floyd White, accused of burying a man alive in an extortion attempt, has been delayed indefinitely because the defendant became ill and had to be hospitalized.

Testimony got under way Monday in the trial of White, accused of leaving Michael Baucom, 22, of Santa Fe, Texas, buried in a makeshift coffin for four days in September 1982. Baucom was freed by rescuers.

White is accused of trying to extort $75,000 from Baucom's father, a Santa Fe businessman.

White, 38, became ill after leaving State District Judge I. Allan Lerner's courtroom for a mid-morning break.

The defendant was examined by emergency medical technicians and then transferred to John Sealy Hospital where Dr. Michael Ainsworth said White needed to be hospitalized because of hypertension.

The hospital said White was in good condition.

White's attorney, Elmo Schwab, had said prior to the start of the trial that his client was innocent.

"I'm saying he's not guilty because he's insane," Schwab said. "At the time that this alleged crime took place, he was insane. He didn't do it, but also he was insane. The man needs mental help."

A jury found in January that White was competent to stand trial.

White underwent psychological testing at John Sealy Hospital in Galveston in November and December of 1982, Schwab said.

White is also charged in Montgomery and Live Oak counties with abducting two other men whose vehicles he allegedly commandeered while fleeing police.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Kick the habit now

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 36-year-old pilot and have been smoking more than 20 packs of cigarettes for the last 20 years. Six months ago I successfully quit the habit, spurred on by the fear of failing my flight physical.

Since I quit the chronic cough has disappeared, my pulse at rest has dropped from 90 to 70 and my endurance at racquetball and other sports has increased.

My question is: How long does it take for lung function and capacity to return to normal after 20 years of cigarette smoking? I live at 7,000 feet and regularly fly or climb to 14,000 feet without supplemental oxygen.

DEAR READER — Congratulations on kicking a dangerous drug addiction. Those fortunate enough to stop the addiction often have the improvements you mention. Nicotine stimulates the release of adrenaline, which in turn affects the heart rate. That is one reason cigarette smokers usually do not have as good endurance capacity as nonsmokers.

Carbon monoxide from smoking combines with the hemoglobin in your red blood cells and diminishes the oxygen carrying capacity of your blood. This also decreases endurance and may be a significant factor in the increase in heart attacks and strokes. Filtered, low-tar, low-nicotine cigarettes still produce lots of carbon monoxide.

The increased risk of heart attacks and strokes diminish soon after quitting cigarettes. That may be because the carbon monoxide is quickly released from the blood. But it could take 10 to 15 years to reach the maximum benefits for the lungs. And some changes are irreversible. I have discussed the effects of smoking on various systems such as the lungs and vision in The Health Letter 19-6, The Tobacco Problem, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Our family enjoys eating red beets. Yesterday I read an article that said a lot of natural nitrates are found in celery, radishes, beets, lettuce, broccoli, cabbage and spinach. I like all of these vegetables and am wondering if, because of the nitrates, it is safe to eat any or all of these vegetables in large quantities.

DEAR READER — The danger is that nitrates may be converted to nitrites and the nitrites may be converted to nitrosamines, which in turn may increase the risk of cancer.

But your own body produces lots of nitrates and nitrites. The bacteria in your colon produces them. They pass into your bloodstream and into your saliva. You probably get more nitrates from your saliva than you would from any food. In fact, the amount from your food in comparison to that produced by your body is like "spitting in the ocean." In other words, it is a lot of concern about almost nothing.

The nitrate in food is usually not converted to nitrites. But if foods such as spinach are stored under conditions that permit bacterial growth, the bacteria may produce nitrites. This can cause "spinach sickness," particularly in young infants. Leftover foods containing nitrates should not be used.

20 deaths reported on roads

AUSTIN (AP) — At least 20 travelers died on the state's rural roads during the Thanksgiving holidays, but officials say they won't know the full extent of carnage for another week.

Reports of traffic fatalities in metropolitan areas won't be compiled until next week at the earliest, said Department of Public Safety spokesman David Wells.

The number of fatalities is normally "pretty well evenly split" between rural and urban areas, Wells said.

"Twenty is just an interim number -- the number we've come up with from the accidents that troopers have investigated," Wells said. "But the cities don't have to notify us for another week."

The DPS keeps a running count of traffic fatalities on the four holiday weekends with the most accidents -- Christmas, New Year's, July 4th and Labor Day.
