

Lawsuit response released Monday

By REED PARSELL
Managing Editor

A claim the voting procedure for local school board members is discriminatory against Hispanics has been denied by Kenneth Frels, a Houston attorney representing the Hereford Independent School District in a suit filed against it three weeks ago.

On Nov. 29, the local Texas Rural Legal Aid (TRLA) office filed against HISD a lawsuit claiming the current at-large voting procedures prevent Hispanics from having an adequate chance of being elected to the board of education. It was filed in the federal district court in Amarillo.

Frels' response, released Monday, also contends the matter does not fall under federal court jurisdiction. HISD operates under Texas laws, it says, and is therefore not subject to the several pieces of U.S. legislation listed in the suit. "Accordingly," the Frels document reads, "this action should be in all things dismissed."

Three defendants are listed in the suit, though the claim is intended to be extended to a class action including "all presently registered and all future registered Mexican-American voters and all others of the Mexican-American population" residing in HISD. The three defendants were Rinaldo Garcia, Oralia Guzman and Jesus Herrera, each described as a registered voter in HISD.

Defendants in the case are HISD superintendent Dr. Harrell Holder and the seven current members of the district's school board. They are Marilyn Culpepper, R.C. Hoelscher, Calvin Jones, Paul Mason, Tom Simons, Sallie Strain and Bill Townsend.

Frels' response, or the defendants' "original answer," was mailed to Amarillo's federal district court late last week from Houston. It contains nine points of defense. "All actions taken by the individual defendants with respect to the plaintiffs," the fourth defense reads, "were done in the good faith exercise of the power and authority vested in the defendants in their official capacities as school trustees or school officials."

The response also claims each defendant was immune from legal action since they were all "duly acting for an on behalf of the HISD." Furthermore, the defense document says plaintiffs would not be allowed to call for such action since they have passed opportunities to do so in the past.

The ninth, and by far the longest, defense is an examination of the 23 paragraphs listed in the suit along with the 12 points given under "Request for Relief." Many facts given in the lawsuit are supported, though most of the allegations are denied.

At an Aug. 9 school board meeting, a TRLA attorney from San Antonio claimed the implementation of single-member voting districts would give Hispanics a better chance of being elected to the now all-white body. The cur-

Beauty Not Alone

Her strawberry-blonde good looks are just one thing about Dana Cabbiness that earned her a place among 12 national finalists in the Miss Teenage America Program. She was also evaluated for personal and scholastic achievement and her knowledge of current events.

Cabbiness one of 12 finalists

By KIM THOGMARTIN
Staff Writer

Last August, more than 10,000 American girls between the ages of 13 and 18 entered the Miss Teenage America Program sponsored by Teen Magazine.

Dana Cabbiness of Hereford was one of the girls who sent an application after seeing the entry information listing a $20,000 scholarship as the top prize. "It was the scholarship that caught my eye," she said. "I wasn't really expecting to be chosen as a finalist, but I knew it couldn't hurt to enter."

After filling out a second questionnaire, Cabbiness was notified of her place among the top 40 finalists. "That alone was exciting," she said, "so I was really thrilled when I received mailgram telling me I was one of 12 finalists."

Cabbiness said the United States is divided into four regions for the contest and three girls are chosen from each region to travel to Los Angeles and Palm Springs for finals. This is the first time the contest will culminate in an actual pageant, to be broadcast on Jan. 14.

"I would like to represent the teens of this country," Cabbiness explained. "I would also welcome the opportunity to travel and speak, and do things that would help me develop poise and self-confidence."

All preliminary judging has been conducted through the mail except one telephone call, when Dana was asked to answer questions dealing with current events and her general awareness of the world and her role in it. The judges also spoke with her mother over the telephone.

One of the duties given to Miss Teenage America is to write a column each month for Teen Magazine. Cabbiness was asked to write a sample column during the course of the judging, and she chose to present her views on the importance of education. "If I win," she said, "I would use the column to address current events and problems that teenagers face today."

Miss Teenage America

During her week in California, the Hereford High School senior will be taking part in photo sessions, social activities with the other finalists and personal interviews with the judges.

"They have planned fun activities like swimming and horseback riding so we can just relax and get to know each other. They want to see us as we really are. I'm going to try hard to just be myself," Cabbiness explained.

The judging panel is made up of editors of the magazine along with nationally prominent representatives from the fields of education, fashion and beauty, business, the performing arts and past finalists in the Miss Teenage America Program.

The 12 young women will be judged on talent, scholastic excellence, general awareness, expression, individual achievement, appearance, personality and poise.

A student of vocal music the past seven years, Cabbiness plans to sing during the talent judging. Her vocal instructor is Susan Shaw of Hereford and she is often asked to perform vocally for civic clubs and at other community affairs.

Cabbiness entered the Miss Hereford Pageant the past two years and last summer was named second runner-up. She was also named the Lions's Club Sweetheart this year.

School activities include band, track and the cross country team, which she is captain. Cabbiness is also a twirler, student council representative and president of the National Honor Society.

"Mom and Dad are very excited and really supportive of me," she said. "The contest pays my expenses to California but they plan to make the trip as well." Her parents are Charles and Jackie Cabbiness.

As a finalist, Cabbiness said she is not worried about there being jealousy among the contestants. "I expect to make some lasting friendships while I am there."

"I am really excited about this trip. I haven't touched the ground since I learned I am a finalist."

"I think this is an important contest," she concluded. "I think we need someone to represent today's teenager."

Weather wrecks Dallas

By The Associated Press

One man died and more than 100 automobile wrecks were reported on icy Dallas-area roads as frigid air produced record low temperatures and put fuel company workers on overtime.

Temperatures were expected to warm some today, but snow and ice was still in the forecast for much of North and West Texas.

Lone Star Gas Co. began curtailing fuel allotments Monday for electric-power generating plants and low-priority industrial customers to meet residential demand, with the official start of winter still two days away.

A 20-year-old Lewisville man died in an accident on Lake Dallas Bridge in Denton about 2:40 a.m. Monday, police said.

By Monday night, 23 major accidents — those with injuries — were reported in the Dallas area.

Midland set a temperature record Monday morning with a low of 15 degrees and Del Rio set a record with a reading of 23 degrees. The previous Dec. 19 record in Midland was 19, set in 1945, and the previous low in Del Rio was 26 set in 1909 and tied 1929.

100-plus accidents occur

"The only thing between us and Canada is a few picket fences," said National Weather Service meteorologist Bill Alexander in Fort Worth. "This is the coldest type of air mass there is. This is a mid-winter air mass."

Alexander said cold air builds up over snow-covered fields in western Canada, becomes more heavy and dense as it chills and then is pulled south by gravity.

The bone-chilling cold — near zero in the Panhandle and in the teens across North Texas — burst water mains in several cities, forced Dallas authorities to activate reserve ambulance crews and even postponed a pre-trial hearing in Plainview for self-described mass murderer Henry Lee Lucas. Authorities could not get Lucas from his Georgetown jail cell to Plainview for the Monday hearing because ice covered a runway in the Central Texas town.

Temperatures were expected to get no higher than the upper 30s in some parts of North Texas, with highs in the teens predicted for other areas.

The National Weather Service said it was keeping travelers' advisories in effect Monday night because of snow and freezing drizzle.

Temperatures Monday night were in the single digits and teens in Northwest Texas, with 20s over North and Central Texas. South Texas had readings in the 30s, except for some lower 40s reported in the coastal areas and El Paso.

Snow continues to fall

Three-and-a-half inches of snow have been measured by KPAN radio since the first major snowstorm descended on the Panhandle and much of Texas last Thursday.

Although news director Chip Formby said KPAN's files do not show any low

No record temperatures yet temperature records being broken, northerly winds and readings as low as 4 degrees above zero made for a chilling weekend.

Saturday was the warmest day, with a low of 22 degrees and only a trace of snow. Sunday morning the mercury dipped to four degrees and the afternoon high was only six above zero. Lows Monday and today were 10 and 11 degrees.

Formby said the station does not record wind velocity, but Sunday's temperatures with a wind speed of only 10 miles per hour would have resulted in a wind chill index of well-below zero. Amarillo reported in index of minus 27 degrees when temperatures there dropped sharply on Saturday evening.

The normal mid-December low is 23 degrees with a normal high of 54, although Friday said below-zero records have been established in past years.

The outlook for today and Wednesday is cloudy and cold with a 20 percent chance of snow. Tonight the thermometer should drop around four degrees above zero, with a high Wednesday in the mid-20s with gusty winds.

Tuesday's Local Roundup

Four fires mar weekend

Four weekend fires were dealt with by the Hereford Volunteer Fire Department, one of them involving extensive damage.

At 10:40 p.m. Sunday, firemen went to 423 Lee, where a wood-burning stove had apparently sparked a blaze in the garage. The garage - separated from the house - had most of its roof burned off, according to Fire Marshall Jay Spain. Also damaged was a station wagon parked inside, which had much of its paint peel off and roof disintegrated.

Owner of the garage and automobile is Dewitt Olson. On Saturday shortly after noon, a pickup caught on fire near Main Street and Highway 60. The vehicle, owned by Custom Grinding, suffered minor damage to its hood. The blaze apparently began because of a broken fuel line.

Also on Sunday were an early-morning smoke scare south of town on Highway 385 and a 9:32 p.m. chimney fire at 124 Juniper, home of Robin Fortenberry.

Fisher reappointed to board

Wes Fisher was reappointed Monday night to the juvenile probation board by the Hereford City Commissioners.

Fisher is mayor of Hereford and chairs the commission meetings. Monday he reported about his trip last week to Washington, D.C., where a nuclear waste storage informational meeting was sponsored by the U.S. Department of Energy.

Also Monday, City Manager Dudley Bayne presented commissioners with a budget report covering seven months through November.

Live nativity affair axed

The live nativity which was to be staged tonight through Thursday evenings by the youth of Hereford's Church of the Nazarene has been cancelled.

Poor weather - specifically bitter cold - prompted axing of the first-time event.

Police report few incidents

Hereford Police reported comparatively few incidents and arrests were handled over the weekend.

Among the three arrests were one apiece of public intoxication and DWI. Incidents included three minor thefts, two domestic problems and one each of criminal trespass, possible minor theft and child neglect.

Early Saturday morning, Jose Alberto Mendoza managed to escape temporarily from the Deaf Smith County Jail. He was captured within 45 minutes by police, who had established a roadblock near Highway 60 and Holly Sugar Road and found Mendoza about 200 yards from that intersection.

MONDAY'S HIGH: 23 (normal: 51 record: 75 (1894))
OVERNIGHT LOW: 11 (normal: 24 record: -3 (1924))
OUTLOOK: Cloudy tonight, 20 percent chance of snow with low near 4. High Wednesday in mid-20s with cloudy skies, gusty winds and 20 percent chance of more snow.

Shuttle fire no danger to crew

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The small fire that broke out in the rear of the Shuttle Columbia as it returned to Earth Dec. 8 was quickly snuffed and posed no danger to the six-man crew, reports mission commander John Young.

Nor was the crew jeopardized by computer and navigation aid problems in the final hours of the flight, Young told a news conference Monday.

"No, we weren't in any problem," he said. "The people on the ground did a great job keeping us out of trouble."

He said the fire was doused by an automatic safety system and the astronauts didn't even know about it until the day after the landing.

Many questions at the two-hour post-flight conference were directed at the three problems, but the space men preferred to discuss the merits of the European-built spacelab and the 72 science and technology experiments conducted in that $1 billion workshop mounted in Columbia's cargo bay.

House investigates Rep. Wilson

AUSTIN (AP) — The House Ethics Committee, which has met behind closed doors to look at Rep. Ron Wilson's spending, has voted to conduct a public investigation of the case.

After a private meeting Monday, the panel voted 8-0 to approve a motion saying a committee investigator had found "substantial credible evidence" that Wilson had broken House rules.

The open-session meetings will begin Jan. 12 with a review of House records, according to committee member Jim Turner, D-Crockett.

Wilson, D-Houston, was not at the Monday meeting. An answering service said there was no one in Wilson's office when the Associated Press tried to contact him.

Bomber claims he's no threat

HOUSTON (AP) — A man convicted of planting bombs at a refinery as part of $15 million extortion plot argued that he has never been a menace to society and contended his 20-year prison term is punishment, not rehabilitation.

Theodore Duane McKinney, 46, was sentenced to 20 years in prison Monday for his part in a scheme to extort the money from the Gulf Oil Chemical Co. by placing five bombs at a plant east of Houston.

"I don't feel that I am now or have ever been a threat to society," McKinney said.

U.S. District Judge Gabrielle McDonald assessed sentences that totaled 100 years against McKinney, but ruled that the terms would run concurrently with a 20-year sentence on the first count of a federal indictment.

"It's not for rehabilitation," Ms. McDonald said. "It's simply for punishment."

Ms. McDonald pronounced the sentence despite testimony from a clinical psychologist, Dr. Floyd Lee Jennings, who said McKinney would be an excellent candidate for probation.

Greyhound to resume service

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Greyhound strikers grumbled about concessions even after they overwhelmingly voted to end a seven-week strike, as the company vowed to resume full service by Wednesday and Trailways said it will match the larger bus line's new discounts.

"I'm just glad it's over," said Harry Rosenblum, president of the Council of Greyhound Local Unions, a division of the Amalgamated Transit Union. He announced late Monday that the contract was approved 7,404 to 2,596 in nationwide balloting.

"I am not happy with it," Rosenblum said. "It was a game of hardball and they played harder ball than we did."

Some returning Greyhound workers said that only financial hardship made them ratify the three-year pact, which included a 7.8 percent cut in wages.

Leaders blamed for bombing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Much of the blame for the deaths of 241 U.S. servicemen in a terrorist truck-bombing in Lebanon falls on military commanders who failed to anticipate the likelihood of such an attack, a House Armed Services subcommittee concludes.

But a report issued Monday also faults virtually the entire military chain of command and specifically calls to account the "higher policy-making authority that adopted and continued a policy that placed military units in a deployment where protection was inevitably inadequate."

And on the broader issue of whether the Marines should remain in Lebanon, the report recommended "in the strongest terms" that the Reagan administration review its position to determine whether the presence of the troops, along with others from Great Britain, Italy and France "is justified."

Salvador police arrest captain

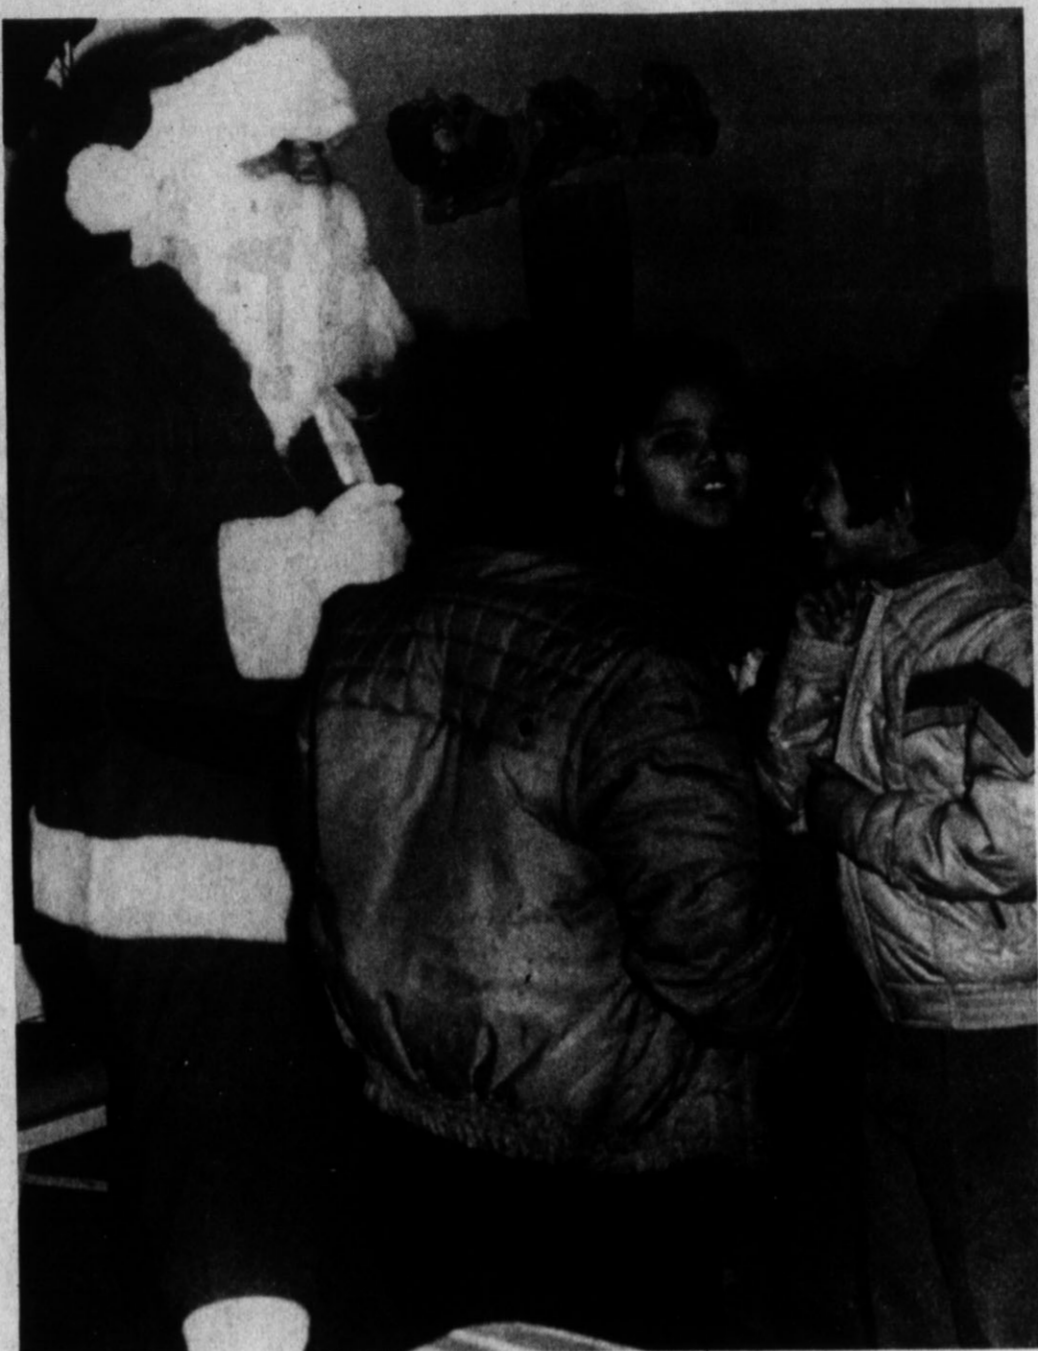

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Police arrested a Salvadoran army captain accused by subordinates of ordering the killing of two American land reform advisers in 1981, the captain's brother says.

Elsewhere in Central America, government troops battled an estimated 2,000 CIA-backed rebels in northern Nicaragua, and four Latin American foreign ministers planned to meet today in Panama City in another effort to bring peace to the troubled region.

The foreign ministers are from Mexico, Venezuela, Colombia and Panama, known as the Contadora group. They have met periodically since last Jan. 1, pressing for demilitarization of Central America and an end to outside outside involvement in the region's conflicts.

The Contadora group is seeking the withdrawal of several hundred U.S. military advisers from Honduras and El Salvador and several thousand Cuban advisers from Nicaragua.

National police in San Salvador arrested army Capt. Eduardo Alfonso Avila on Monday, brother Julio Enrique Avila told The Associated Press, claiming the arrest was made at the insistence of the FBI. U.S. Embassy and national police sources refused to confirm or deny the report.

The FBI was understaffed, overworked and in a hurry, took shortcuts. That is what paved the way to 20 months in hell.

When the FBI cleared Ray Donovan for the public office of Labor secretary, the bureau knew of allegations that he had made payoffs to corrupt union officials or worked for a company that did.

The Bureau had traced the allegations to their source, had found them to be unfounded — and so did not pass along those allegations to the Senate Labor Committee. That was a mistake, justified, as I say, only by the haste of the preconfirmation investigation.

Much later the senators who had confirmed Donovan were surprised and distressed to hear from clandestine sources of "mysterious lunches where envelopes traded hands, trips to the Super Bowl, double-dates with mobsters."

The allegations were raw meat for carnivorous media.

And thus began Ray Donovan's 20 months in hell.

Around Bergen, N.J., Ray Donovan had been known as a self-made millionaire in the construction business, political conservative, devout Roman Catholic, family man and highly effective fundraiser for Reagan.

When suddenly three dozen people came forward with information that he was a "a friend of gangsters," that his firm had "rigged bids for public projects" and other things...

The Bergen Record assigned its staff to start digging. For five months, research reporters poured over thousands of pages of transcripts, interviewed the "dozens" who had come forward, backtracked on one after another of the juicy rumors...

Had the witnesses lied? Was the FBI guilty of incompetence or coverup?

Donovan, legally cleared, remained under a shadow of doubt.

The media has more scalps on its belt than feathers in its hat.

But the exhaustive months of review of the record by The Record finds all those who volunteered allegations against Donovan have since recanted or been discredited. One after another each and all of the allegations of wrongdoing proved without foundation.

But nobody can run the gauntlet of malicious slander for 20 months and emerge unscathed.

My own profession, overreter to parrot the worst, has been exonerated only somewhat — by the Bergen, N.J., Record, which sorted fact from fiction and concluded that Secretary Donovan, his family and his friends were subjected to a cruel public keelhauling which they did not deserve.

But in the degree to which an experience like this deters honorable people from public office, we are all losers.

Arafat loyalists leaving Lebanon

By JEFFREY ULBRICH
Associated Press Writer

TRIPOLI, Lebanon (AP) — PLO chairman Yasser Arafat's besieged loyalists today began boarding five Greek passenger ships which, escorted by French warships, steamed into this northern Lebanese port city to carry them to remote Arab refugees.

The French ships stood guard outside the harbor as the evacuation operation began in a subdued atmosphere shortly before midday.

A few rifle shots were fired in the air as truckloads of the guerrilla loyalists, estimated to total 4,000, began streaming into the harbor for the evacuation from their last stronghold in Lebanon.

But it was a far cry from the tumultuous send-off that Arafat received from his leftist Lebanese allies 489 days ago, when he evacuated Beirut with about 8,000 guerrillas under U.S.-guaranteed safe passage from the Lebanese capital of Beirut, then besieged by Israeli troops.

The Ionian Glory, with the blue United Nations flag fluttering from her mast, was the first of the five Greek ships to enter the harbor, steaming in at 9:30 a.m. (2:30 a.m. EST). It was followed by the Odysseus Elytis, Naxos, Sandorini and Vergina, which was once named the Dan when it was owned by the Israeli Zim ship line.

There was no trace of the Israeli gunboats that harassed the city with six shelling attacks in the past 10 days. The United States on Monday told Israel that it "hopes and expects" the Israeli attacks would stop so the evacuation could get under way.

Lebanon's state radio in Beirut said the Israeli vessels were watching the operation from a distance, but had made no attempt to interfere.

Earlier in the morning, unidentified jets had streaked over the city as the convoy approached the harbor early today after a half-day trip from Cyprus. The planes drew heavy barrages of anti-aircraft fire from positions north of the harbor.

The explosions rattled across the city, sending residents diving for cover.

A Christian-controlled radio station in Beirut said Palestine Liberation Organization guerrillas fired at the jets because they thought they were Israelis, but stopped when Arafat's command headquarters said the planes were French, sent on routine reconnaissance in advance of the evacuation.

But the French Defense Ministry denied in a communique issued in Paris that any French planes had flown over Tripoli today.

The loyalists' departure comes a day before the deadline set by Syrian-backed PLO rebels besieging the city. They have accused Arafat of betraying the Palestinian cause by adopting what they feel is too soft an attitude toward Israel.

The dissidents, who had launched a month-long bloody offensive to oust

Arafat from northern Lebanon, had threatened to storm the city of half a million inhabitants if he stayed beyond Wednesday.

The French aircraft carrier Clemenceau and destroyer Armand escorted the five Greek ships from Larnaca, Cyprus, and the port was under heavy Lebanese police patrol when the ships arrived.

A half-dozen Lebanese army trucks piled high with suitcases were seen at the harbor as Arafat's second-in-command, Khalil Wazir, also known as Abu Jihad, inspected the evacuation preparations.

The exodus leaves Arafat without armed fighters in any Arab country bordering Israel. He plans to go to his political headquarters in Tunis, while the bulk of loyalist evacuees head for the Red Sea republic of North Yemen.

"We have to face many difficulties, we have to face many problems," Abu Jihad told reporters.

Meet Your Neighbor

By LINDA CAUDLE

Moving to a small town has been a new experience for Becky Fry, a native of Dallas, but for her husband, it's been like coming home—literally.

Stan Fry Jr., who grew up in Hereford, returned to his hometown in June to practice dentistry. His parents reside here and own Stan Fry Sheet Metal & Insulation.

Stan and Becky met at East Texas State University in Commerce, where he earned his undergraduate degree in biology and chemistry. He went on to Baylor College of Dentistry in Dallas, where he graduated in June.

Becky has a teaching certificate and was employed as an eighth and ninth grade vocational home economics instructor for four years.

"I taught a vocational course using commercial equipment," she stated, explaining that this experience led her to become interested in the catering business, which she is currently involved in on a small scale.

"Right now I'm just doing things like cakes and cookies for friends and close associates," she said. "By next Christmas I hope to branch out, and when the children get a little older I would like to do more catering."

Becky has joined Sweet 'n' Fancy Cake Decorating Club, where she is able to share recipes and learn more complicated decorating techniques.

She first became interested in cake decorating six or seven years ago after seeing a demonstration in one of her classes. Then, after a disappointing experience with her own wedding cake, she decided she could have done a better job herself and began making cakes for other people.

"I've catered luncheons and other events," noted Becky. "I like to do fun things, and I enjoy challenges."

"We like to entertain," she added. "Right now we are redecorating our home, converting the living room into a formal dining room. I really like having a formal table setting and serving special dinners."

Becky is not currently working outside of her home, but her hands are full taking care of two small daughters. "We love to spend time with our children," she smiled. Emily is almost 3 years old and Katherine is 7½ months old.

Becky takes the girls to Mother's Day Out once a week, and said that Emily especially enjoys being with all the other children.

Becky has joined Hereford Newcomers Club and Alpha Iota Mu Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority. "Both are really helping me get acquainted with others in the community," she commented.

The Frys belong to St. Anthony's Catholic Church, and Stan is a member of Lions Club.

The family enjoys eating out, traveling, seeing new places and taking pictures. They also like sailing, and Becky enjoys doing needlepoint and embroidery.

YOUR IRA IS ONE NEST EGG YOU SHOULDN'T SIT ON.

A little difference in the amount your IRA earns each year can make a large difference in the amount you retire with.

Happily, the same law that allows you to start an IRA also allows you to switch it with no tax penalty.

Which gives you the opportunity to seek better returns for your investment.

You could, for example, switch to the Oppenheimer Special Fund. Just compare the average annual return on your IRA with the 26.7% average annual return on the Oppenheimer Special Fund as shown above. If you had been able to put $2,000 a year into a Special Fund IRA, since its inception, it would have been worth $111,097 as of September 30, 1983.

And because at Oppenheimer we offer a choice of 12 different funds, you can switch among them when your goals, or economic conditions, change.

Sandies blow by Herd, 62-42

Using a press to great advantage, Hereford jumped to an 11-4 lead over the Amarillo Sandies here Monday night, but the taller visitors dashed the Whiteface upset hopes in the second and third quarters and left with a 62-42 victory in District 3-5A action.

The Sandies outscored Hereford by 22-8 in the second period and held a 30-19 halftime advantage. Amarillo increased the margin to 20 points going into the final period, and the herd could only match the visitors in the final stanza.

Amarillo's 6-7 junior center, Kevin Gleghorn, led the visitors with 13 points and 14 rebounds and the Sandies used a balanced scoring attack to record their seventh straight victory. Amarillo is 10-2 on the season and 4-0 in district play.

Hereford fell to 0-3 in district action and 4-8 on the season. Jeff Streun led Hereford scoring with just 9 points, while Mike Scott, Eric Walterscheid and Lee Brockman each had 6 points.

The Herd opened with a press that caused problems for the Sandies, and Hereford held an 11-4 lead with 21 seconds left in the first period. The Sandies cut that lead to 11-8 as the quarter ended, and the visitors used their superior size and depth to pull away in the next two quarters of play.

"We did a good job moving them out of their offense early," said Herd Coach Bobby Decker. "Their size intimidated us some, especially in the second quarter and we just couldn't match up with them."

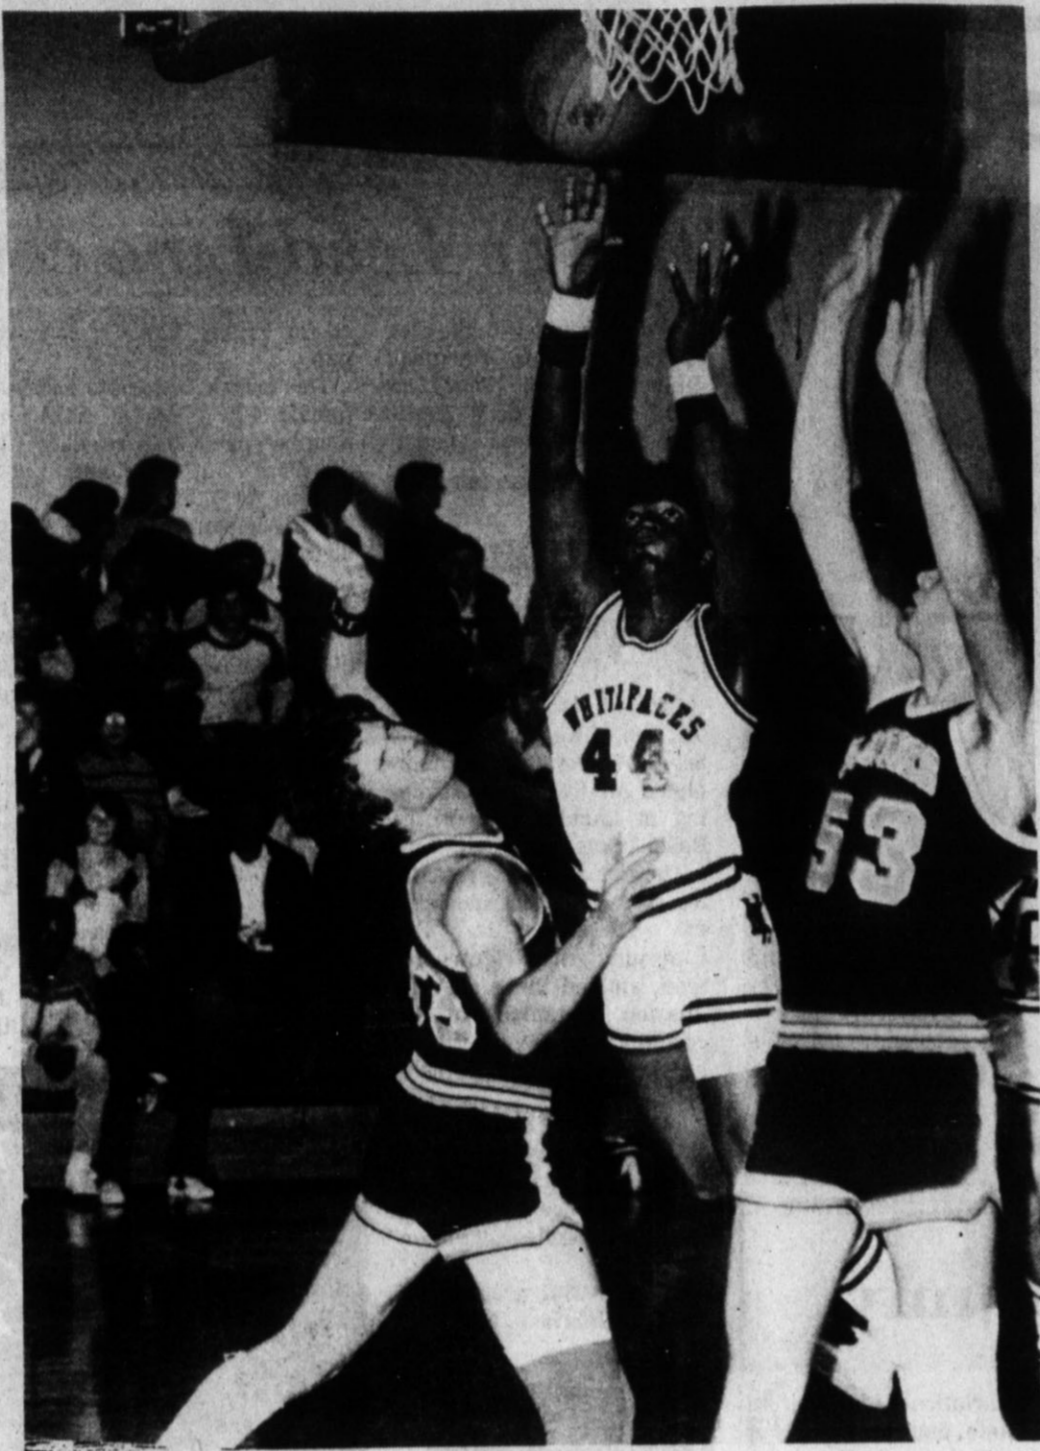

Decker said the Herd didn't hit enough of their shots from the field. "We were getting the shots, but they weren't going in and we sure weren't getting any second shots." Statistics show that Hereford had only two offensive rebounds in the first three quarters.

"We have no excuses. They flat outplayed us," said Decker. "Amarillo High is as good as anybody we've played this year."

Hereford's next action comes after Christmas when the Whitefaces travel to Borger for a tournament Dec. 29-30. District action resumes when Amarillo Tascosa comes here Jan. 3.

Hereford's junior varsity also lost to Amarillo Monday night, 63-58.

Green Bay fires Bart Starr

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Nine years of patience with the often lackluster performance of the Green Bay Packers ended abruptly with the firing of coach Bart Starr.

"As a record-breaking quarterback in the 1960s, he led the Green Bay Packers to National Football League championships under coach Vince Lombardi. But after taking over in 1974 as coach, he was able to get the club into the playoffs only one season.

"I haven't enjoyed enough victories here, so thus I am being relieved of my duties," Starr, 49, said Monday. "I have no regrets... I grew up here and became a man as a player." He said Starr's immediate coaching staff also was dismissed. The Packers were 8-8 this season. They finished 8-8 in 1981, their best win-loss record since 1978.

Whiteface girls lose 52-33 decision to AHS

By REED PARSELL
Three words uttered by coach Larry Sowers probably best summoned up the losing performance by his Hereford High School varsity girls basketball team Monday: "That was sad."

The humiliating 52-33 defeat to visiting Amarillo left the Whitefaces with an overall record of 5-5 and, more importantly, dropped their District 3-5A mark to 3-2. The Sandies, meanwhile, went to 9-4 and 4-1, with their only loss of the campaign suffered against Palo Duro, 11-1 and 5-0.

Hereford was coming off a good showing in the Friday and Saturday San Angelo Tournament, where it won twice before falling 52-50 in the finals to Wichita Falls-Rider.

"Maybe we were a little tired; I don't know," Sowers said. "We've got to play well to play with anybody. You give a team with that much talent a head of steam and they're hard to stop."

One of the most gifted Amarillo players was Becky Boxwell, who pumped in 20 points Monday night, including nine in the fourth quarter. Vernicia Thrash, meanwhile, netted seven of her 15 tallies in the first quarter.

"They kind of had us outnumbered a bit with size and quickness," Sowers admitted.

Hereford's only lead of the contest came midway through the first period when a bucket by junior Darla Alford put it on top 11-9. Amarillo started to nail down the victory, however, by scoring the game's next 10 points. HHS never got closer than four the rest of the way, trailing by as many as 23 in the second half.

Helping the Sandies achieve their convincing triumph was a six-minute scoreless streak by Hereford in the third period. Junior Carla Alford ended the spell with a free throw late in the third quarter, pulling the Whitefaces to within 19 at 22-41.

The score by quarters was 17-11, 28-17 and 41-24.

Darla Alford led HHS in scoring with 12 points, all of them coming in the first half. No other Whiteface was in double figures. As a team, the Hereford girls were 7-for-15 from the line, where Amarillo connected on 10 of 24.

"We couldn't buy an easy basket," Sowers commented.

Part of that, he said, may be due to Amarillo having "the best athletes in the district."

Saturday's loss to Rider came after HHS led most of the way, Sowers reported, including by nine points late in the third quarter. Turnovers cost the Whitefaces the championship, he claimed.

Varsity girls are idle until Friday, Dec. 30, when Muleshoe comes here for a 7:30 p.m. tipoff.

Adelia Rodriguez' 20 points paced the HHS junior varsity girls to a 52-50 win Monday.

Redskins' Joe Gibbs is 'Coach of Year'

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Gibbs, who guided the defending Super Bowl champion Washington Redskins back to the top of the National Football League standings in 1983, was named today The Associated Press Coach of the Year for the second successive season.

Gibbs becomes the first coach since Allie Sherman of the 1961-62 New York Giants to win the award outright two years in a row. Don Shula, now with Miami, was Coach of the Year with the Baltimore Colts in 1967 and 1968, sharing the honor with George Allen of the Los Angeles Rams the first year.

"I'm overwhelmed," Gibbs said when told of his selection. "It's a reflection on the whole team." The Redskins, who during the strike-shortened 1982 season shared the NFL's best record with the Los Angeles Raiders, each at 8-1, finished this year alone at the top with a 14-2 record.

Gibbs' record in his three seasons as Washington's head coach is 30-11, including losses in his first five games, in the Redskins 8-8 finish of 1981.

Gibbs received 33 of the 84 votes cast by a nationwide panel of sports writers.

49ers score 42-17 runaway victory over listless Cowboys

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Lawrence Pillers, who administered a killing blow to the Dallas Cowboys' Super Bowl hopes two years ago, drew first blood in another big San Francisco 49ers' victory.

The 49ers' defensive end grabbed a floating ball, knocked from Danny White's hand, for an interception just a minute and a half into the final game of the National Football League season Monday night.

Pillers ran 16 yards to the Dallas 4-yard line and Joe Montana came through with a touchdown pass, the first of his four in the game. The 49ers were on their way to a 42-17 runaway which gave them a record of 10-6 and the National Conference West title.

"Keena Turner was on a blitz and Danny didn't see him. When White got hit, the ball popped into some big hands, mine," the 250-pound Pillers said. "Somebody told me to run. It was a great feeling, but I realize I'm not a halfback."

Candlestick Park was rocking quickly with the cheers of 59,957 fans. The score was 21-3 after one period, with the 49ers adding touchdowns on Dana McLemore's 56-yard punt return and Freddie Solomon's 77-yard dash after taking a flat pass from Montana.

Many of the overjoyed fans also were in the stadium two years ago when the 49ers beat Dallas 28-27 in the National Conference championship game.

Pillers sacked White, the Dallas quarterback, in the closing seconds of the 1981 title game to force a fumble recovered by the 49ers' Jim Stuckey. Then the 49ers' Dwight Clark had made a spectacular touchdown catch with 51 seconds remaining.

Monday night's triumph, the 49ers' third straight over Dallas, set up the strong possibility of a Cowboys-49ers playoff game at Candlestick on Jan. 1. The Cowboys, 12-4, will be back if they beat the Los Angeles Rams, NFC West runners-up, in next Monday's wild-card game.

The 49ers may be without Clark, their leading receiver, in the playoffs. He left Monday night's game after twisting a knee, and Coach Bill Walsh said, "It might be a season-ending injury."

White of the Cowboys said, "We're back in the pack now, just another playoff team. We've got to be considered a longshot for the Super Bowl this time."

The Cowboys went into the game with no chance of improving their playoff position. But Coach Tom Landry said, "We wanted to look good because we looked so bad against Washington last week."

"We got our tails whipped in front of the whole world," said defensive end Harvey Martin. "No one wants to come out and play on this sorry field again, but there are no excuses. They scored 42 points."

Walsh said, "I'm extremely excited about winning the division."

Then, he couldn't resist a dig at local critics.

"Some people in the media had written us off completely. I sincerely hope we let them down," Walsh said.

White, who was intercepted three times in the 31-10 loss to Washington last week, allowed two Monday night and he lost two fumbles.

The 49ers' Stuckey said, "We're starting to come back to our championship form of two years ago. We decided that the defense would set the example, get off to a fast start and hit hard."

White passed for 277 yards and one TD, and he reached a season total of 3,980 yards before leaving the game. One of his last passes was intercepted by Eric Wright and returned 48 yards for a touchdown which made the score 35-17.

"It's not like they overpowered us. They just took advantage of our mistakes," White said. "There truly is a problem. We've been bad two weeks in a row now."

His touchdown pass, a 13-yarder to Tony Hill in the third period, gave him a club-record 29 this season. Just as in the loss to Washington, the Cowboys had very little rushing success. Tony Dorsett, held to 24 yards by the Redskins, managed only 32 against the 49ers.

"We're going to have to sit down and talk among ourselves," Dorsett said. "We've got a fine team and a fine record, but if we're going to win the championship we have to take the long way around."

Holtz resigns Arkansas post

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — With a quote from the Bible and without elaborating on his decision, former Arkansas head football coach Lou Holtz told reporters it was time for him to resign.

The day after Athletic Director Frank Broyles announced he had accepted Holtz's resignation, Holtz faced reporters in a crowded conference room Monday and read from a prepared statement.

He began with a quote from Ecclesiastes 2:16, which starts, "To every thing there is a season, and a time to every purpose under the heaven."

It's the appropriate time for him to leave, Holtz said.

"There are many different ways to resign and none of them are very easy, but hopefully this one will be done and reported in a positive manner. The reasons for my resignation are personal. I do not wish to delve into them at this time," he said.

Holtz had been head football coach of the Razorbacks for seven years. He said he had no immediate plans.

In a news conference that followed Holtz', Broyles said the search for a replacement would begin immediately.

Broyles declined to answer questions about Holtz's resignation. He said he wanted to dwell on the future and mentioned the names of five coaches who would be considered for the job.

Among them are former Razorbacks Fred Akers at Texas, Ken Hatfield at the Air Force Academy, Jimmy Johnson at Oklahoma State and Barry Switzer at Oklahoma.

"Coming home has an attraction for a lot of people," Broyles said. He also mentioned John Cooper of Tulsa as a coach who fit the criteria of an Arkansas head coach.

Broyles said he wants a proven, successful head coach with high regard for the values of intercollegiate athletics. The guidelines were established in 1976 when Holtz was hired to replace Broyles.

If a replacement isn't named by the end of the week, Broyles said, Assistant Lon Farrell will handle recruiting duties.

Holtz told reporters that he has made honest mistakes. "I'm sorry and I apologize," he said. "Anybody that does know me will realize that I've never intentionally offended anybody. I've bragged about this state in the past and I plan to do so in the future."

Arkansas finished 6-5 the past season, the first time that a Razorback team Holtz had coached did not get a bowl bid. Before this year, Holtz had a 54-16-2 record at Arkansas.

ticipating sportswriters and broadcasters on the national panel, while second-ranked Kentucky received 27 first place votes and 1,224 points in a result almost identical to the previous week's.

Kentucky trounced Wyoming 66-40 and Brigham Young 93-59 last week to raise its record to 5-0, the same as North Carolina.

Houston and Georgetown, each 7-1, stayed at No. 3 and 5, respectively, each cruising to easy victories last week. Meanwhile, DePaul, 7-0, which overcame scares in the Suntory Ball in Japan squeezing by Alabama 77-76 and Texas Tech 50-47, retained the No. 4 spot.

Two other clubs with 7-0 records, Boston College and Purdue, each climbed two notches to Nos. 6 and 7, with 810 and 710 points, respectively. Maryland, 5-1, advanced one place to No. 8.

The lone newcomer to the Top Twenty is No. 20 Michigan, 7-0, which beat Detroit 84-63 last Saturday. Last week's No. 18 team, Iowa, was idle but the 3-2 Hawkeyes became this week's only casualty as they dropped from the poll.

Entering this week's Top Ten by virtue of nationally televised upsets were UCLA and Louisville, each climbing six places to No. 9 and 10. The Bruins, 4-1, knocked off Memphis State 65-51 and the Cardinals, 4-2, beat last year's national champs North Carolina State 83-79.

Tied for sixth place last week, North Carolina State, 5-2, dropped to Nos. 13 and 16, respectively.

In the Second Ten, Louisiana State, 4-1, saw no action last week but dropped a notch to No. 11. St. John's 6-0, which had little trouble with Manhattan and Wagner, moved up a place to No. 12 as Georgia, 6-1, moved down two to No. 14.

Oregon State, 4-1, fell one slot to No. 15 despite beating Utah and Portland. Wake Forest and Texas El-Paso — both newcomers to the poll the previous week — each moved up two places to No. 17 and 18, respectively, while Michigan State, 5-1, fell two notches to No. 19.

Whip 'mayo' woe

DEAR POLLY — I would like to make my own mayonnaise, but my results have not been very successful. The egg yolk and oil seem to mix all right, but the finished product does not have the thick consistency of commercial mayonnaise. Is there some kind of thickener I should add? — JANET

DEAR JANET — If your mayonnaise does not thicken, I suspect you are using cold eggs directly from the refrigerator. All ingredients for making homemade mayonnaise should be at room temperature. You can warm the eggs quickly by running them under hot tap water for a few minutes. Thickeners like flour, cornstarch, etc., should not be used.

I'm sending you a copy of my newsletter, "Make It Yourself: Easy Recipes for Foods You Usually Buy," which has a recipe for a very easy mayonnaise made in the blender or food processor. The recipe also includes a number of variations for delightful concoctions like dill mayonnaise, caper and lemon mayonnaise and tartar sauce. Other readers who would like this newsletter should send $1 for each copy to POLLY'S POINTERS, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1216, Cincinnati, Ohio 45201. Be sure to include the title. — POLLY

WTSU to offer spring calligraphy workshop

Learning the art of lettering and designing posters, books, invitations and stationery has become a popular hobby for many people, and Dr. Anne Gregory, assistant professor of art at West Texas State University, is offering a course for persons interested in learning calligraphy.

The Calligraphy Workshop will meet each Monday and Wednesday evening from 7 to 9:50 p.m. during the spring semester in Room 185 in Mary Moody Northern Hall.

According to Gregory, there is no prerequisite for this course so any person may enroll for three hours of elective credit.

Gregory said this introductory course includes learning how to use the edged pen and master six alphabets along with making pens and tracing letters. Persons signing up for this course also will learn to apply gold leaf in the same method illuminators did in the Middle Ages and use the techniques and materials of the earliest manuscripts, as they make a book and design a verse on vellum.

Gregory has been using calligraphy in her graphic art work for more than 20 years and has studied with many major calligraphers in the United States.

For more information, contact the Department of Art at WTSU.

Registration for spring semester courses will be from 8:40 a.m. to 7:20 p.m. on Wednesday, Jan. 11, at the WTSU Activities Center. Students registering only in the calligraphy course may enroll during the first class meeting.

Ann Landers
Can't quit smoking

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am writing about the letter in your column from the 14-year-old who can't stop smoking. Chewing gum doesn't help. I have gone through five packs in one day. Mints don't help either. All the people I hang out with smoke. So do my parents. I really want to stop this filthy habit, but I don't know how. Any other suggestions? — Hooked In New Haven rarely cut my column. But maybe somebody dropped the last line, in which I made a suggestion that might be of value. Read the next letter, please:

DEAR ANN LANDERS: That 14-year-old girl who is unhappy with herself because she can't quit smoking prompted me to write.

The last line in your reply, "Go visit someone who is dying of lung cancer," really hit home. My mom passed away from lung cancer a few months ago. Words cannot describe the pain and agony she suffered. Nobody except those who have sat at the bedside of a loved one who is dying from this terrible disease can understand what it is like. It hurt to cough and Mom coughed all the time. Every time I left the hospital I cried. My eyes were swollen for weeks.

Anyone who wants to quit smoking should spend some time in the cancer ward of a hospital. It is a sure-fire way to get a person to throw those killers in the trash can for good. It worked for me. — Cured In Georgia

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I waited a long time before I decided to mail this letter. If there is really an Ann Landers, I hope she will print it.

I would like to answer those girls who keep asking the question, "Where are all the nice guys?" Well, I was a nice guy for a long time. I treated girls like ladies, and where did it get me? Nowhere. I can't count the times I was dumped for a guy who treated girls like dirt.

Not a day goes by that I don't see a girl clinging to dear life to a guy who abuses her verbally or physically. I have friends who are also nice guys and they see the same thing.

I have tried going to museums, art galleries and places you'd think respectable girls would be interested in. They are there all right, but always with a boyfriend. The woman I meet at church functions come on stronger than the ones I meet in bars. They seem so man-hungry and desperate—a real turn-off. The appealing girls are all married or engaged by the time they reach my age, which is 27.

To the girls who ask, "Where are the nice guys?" I say, "They are disappearing because they can't get anywhere." — Decent & Lonely

DEAR DECENT: I don't believe it. Hang in there and be a little more aggressive. There always will be a market for quality. You can bet on it.

There is a big difference between cold and cool. Ann Landers shows you how to play it cool without freezing people out in her booklet, "Teen-Age Sex—Ten Ways to Cool It." Send 50 cents and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

To hurricane losses

Coasts more vulnerable

HOUSTON (AP) — The exodus of Americans to the seashore has left the nation's coastline "more vulnerable now to losses from hurricanes than at any time since the inception of modern forecasting techniques," according to a congressional panel's report.

The Legislation and National Security subcommittee, chaired by Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Texas, studied hurricanes in general and took a specific interest in Hurricane Alicia, which caused more than $1 billion damage when it slammed into the Houston-Galveston area of the Texas Gulf Coast in August.

"I hope the findings of our review will increase the awareness of the risk posed by hurricanes," Brooks said. "Many people still do not fully appreciate the danger faced by many coastal communities."

While the subcommittee recommended a more intense cooperation between federal and local agencies dealing with hurricane planning, the findings of the panel were not very optimistic.

Statistics from the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration indicate 36.56 million people live along the Atlantic and Gulf coasts, a 34 percent jump from 1960. And 77.5 percent of them, or 28.36 million, never have experienced a hurricane.

Besides determining the coastline more vulnerable than ever because of a population shift there in the past 20 years, the panel exposed the shortcoming of weather forecasting, which is unable to predict the intensity of hurricanes and the time and point of landfall.

In addition, the panel found improvements in forecasting techniques "are at best uncertain" and that the 12 to 16 hours of warning time the National Weather Service is confident of giving is nowhere near the amount of time needed to evacuate a heavily populated coastal area.

"Rapid growth of population along the coast has strained the ability of some areas to evacuate in a timely manner when faced with a hurricane," the report said. The subcommittee also said the National Weather Service "does not expect a breakthrough which would dramatically increase the 12- to 16-hour lead time."

In Galveston, for example, where the nation's worst hurricane killed 6,000 people in 1900, a Government Accounting Office study indicated evacuations would have to begin 42 hours before a hurricane hit. "However, no way has yet been developed to predict accurately 42 hours in advance where a hurricane is going to land," the subcommittee report said.

Brooks says the difference between evacuation time and warning time "presents local officials with a tremendous set of problems."

"Should they order evacuation without any clear indication whether a storm is going to hit or should they hold off and risk a massive loss of life?"

Although the National Weather Service is using computer-simulated hurricane tracks to enhance its forecasting, the committee found the weather bureau's parent agency, the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, "has not received funding for completion of its program ... to areas which need and want them."

The committee warned that if money was taken from the Federal Emergency Management Agency — the federal office that handles emergency preparedness — that action would "detract from other planning efforts toward hurricane response."

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Flabby tummy, bad back

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm a 33-year-old woman with a slim figure except for my flabby waistline. I just can't seem to buckle down and exercise as I should. I've had back problems for about seven years and doctors told me to exercise and tighten my stomach muscles, which would improve my back.

Please give me some tips on exercising, with caution regarding my lower back. Also, how long and how much should I exercise before I can see results?

DEAR READER — Fortunately, the same exercises that you use to strengthen your abdomen to prevent backaches are the same ones you use to strengthen your abdomen and prevent that sagging middle. Nevertheless, I prefer all those who have or have had back problems review their exercise program with their own physician to be sure nothing harmful is done.

You don't need to exercise vigorously. Ten sit-ups done properly, followed by a rest and 10 more, are sufficient. Remember, in developing muscle strength it is more important that you do the exercises under tension than how many you do. You are interested in strengthening your abdominal muscles, not developing endurance. If you do them three days a week, that allows time for your muscles to strengthen between exercises.

Modified leg-lifts help, but you should do them with the knees bent, not straight, to help prevent a strain on your back. I have described these exercises in more detail in The Health Letter 17-12, Winning the Battle of the Bulge, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper.

per, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Voluntary contractions while standing or lying down help. Again tighten your abdominal muscles as much as you can. Hold the contraction for a few seconds. Relax and repeat. Two sets of 10 such exercises are adequate.

Of course if you have fat in your abdomen, or even gas, for that matter, you will need to reduce your abdomen for the best results. Strong muscles will not compress abdominal fat. Walking and endurance exercises help to eliminate excess body fat and a proper diet also is essential.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have been jogging two miles one to three times a week for about a year. Recently I increased things by jogging two miles non-stop three times a week. I'd like to enter a road race and am getting ready for it.

Since I increased my jogging the arch of my left foot has caused me some trouble. What can I do to strengthen it? Should I wear an arch support when jogging? Do you think I should enter the race? I am 54 years old.

DEAR READER — Forget the race this year and concentrate on your foot. I think you might seek professional consultation. You probably increased your exercise too much, too fast. You will need to settle your foot problem, then gradually increase your running so you will be in better condition next year.

Organization pleads for donors

HOUSTON (AP) — Health officials believe they can increase the number of organs available for transplant — and save the lives of more people, particularly children — by making the public more aware of the need for organs.

So the Houston-based Children's Liver Donor Fund, citing a critical need for organ donors, began a national drive Monday to encourage Americans to donate organs.

"The important message we need to bring out to the public is that the supply could be greater with greater awareness," heart transplant pioneer Dr. Michael DeBakey of the Baylor College of Medicine said at a news conference.

"We're here to plead for all organ donations and finances to help with transplant costs," Sharon Butler, director of the Children's Liver Donor Fund, said.

Health officials brought to the news conference several children in need of organ transplants and some who have undergone successful surgery. Among those in need of a liver is 2½-year-old Trine Engebretsen of Miami.

"I live every day with the knowledge she is dying," her mother, Mary Ann, said. Trine is among three Florida children awaiting a liver.

Liver transplant operations for children cost from $150,000 to $200,000, Ms. Butler said. "Very few insurance companies cover the costs. Most hospitals have to beg for the organ and for the money," she said.

DeBakey, however, said that from an economic standpoint, transplants are effective in easing the financial drain an ill person causes his family.

Dr. Barry Cahán, director of organ transplantation at the University of Texas Medical School, said that nationally there is a need for 10,000 kidneys, 5,000 livers and 10,000 hearts per year. "There's an enormous unmet need," he said. Cahán said liver transplants should begin at the Texas Medical Center in Houston, probably before June. Tests now are being made on animals, he said.

"The costs are enormous — a major impediment," he said.

According to Children's Liver Donor Fund, only about 2,500 people actually donate their organs. Ms. Butler said more children have died in the past 18 months of liver problems than from leukemia. She had no specific figure, but said the number of deaths exceeded 200.
