Mrs. A. Petersen, selective service clerk, gave The Brand a copy of an interesting advertisement from the Dickson County (Tenn.) Herald, as follows: "Wanted: One Draft Board Member. He must sign two or more Wavers of Pay or compensation; he must be prepared to take plenty of cussing with a smile, both publicly and privately; he must not have too much sense, because, if he does, he will not take the job. All compensation paid for duties in this position is exempt from income taxes for the reason this position pays no salary, wages or compensation. Reasons for taking job—somebody has to do it under the present law and whoever does it has the satisfaction of knowing that he is doing his patriotic duty, and the further satisfaction of knowing that all registered with his board will be treated alike under like conditions." — such is the life of a draft board member.

Bill Phillips of the Hereford State Bank, a major in the reserves, has received six-months delay in his orders to report for active duty.

Lt. Donald O. Conklin, age 27, who was born and reared in Hereford, crashed to his death Thursday 18 miles northwest of Lubbock in a training plane in which Lt. Louis C. Gelbrich of Burns, Ore., was also killed.

Military funeral services for Lt. Conklin were conducted at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the First Presbyterian Church in Lubbock with Dr. Jack Lewis, pastor, officiating. He was assisted by Chaplain Morris Holt of the Reese Air Force Base.

The body was brought to Hereford by Rix Funeral Home of Lubbock for burial at West Park cemetery where a flight escort gave an aerial salute.

Conklin was serving as an instructor at Reese AFB.

He was married to Miss Susie Blackwell at Lubbock about two years ago.

A farmer who saw the crash said the plane went into a spin at about 1000 to 1500 feet.

Survivors include his wife of Lubbock, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arch Conklin of Charleston, Ark.; three brothers, Ben of Hereford, Delbert of Charleston, and Harold of Ft. Riley, Kan., and a sister, Julia Conklin of Charleston. His maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hershey of Hereford.

Prior to his moving to Hereford in August as manager of KPAN, Boles served as assistant manager of KICA in Clovis for five years.

Gold Mines to Dental Decay Are Topics C of C Letters

The Hereford Chamber of Commerce office continues to receive inquiries from distant places in regard to Hereford, Deaf Smith County, and the area. This week letters varied from gold mines to dental decay. Vancouver, B. C., Canada, is the source of the most distant recent letter.

Mrs. R. Borleske of Vancouver writes: "The fame of your county is widespread, and if I may impose on your well-known good nature, may I ask for a little information?"

"I have a 15-year-old son whose teeth have started to decay at an alarming rate. There is something lacking in his diet, but we can't seem to rectify it. I would like to send him to your county for some time to see if this would strengthen his teeth.

"As I have no idea how to go about doing this, I am appealing to you to help me . . ."

"P.S. My son is an American citizen, so there would be no difficulty there."

Another letter comes from Klamath Falls, Oregon, stating "I am trying to find out if there was a gold mine near Clovis called the 'Adam's Mine' many years ago, and if there is a canyon that extends from Texas into New Mexico near Clovis called the Yellow House Canyon."

Safflower Meeting Is Called; Seed Available

Safflower seed will be available to everyone who wants to plant the crop here. It was announced yesterday by Alton Fraser, Farmers and other persons interested are invited to attend a safflower meeting on Thursday night at 8 o'clock in the district courtroom when Albert M. Lane, president of the Western Solvents, Inc., of Longmont, Colo., will be here to show color slides, explain the growing of the crop, and answer questions pertaining to it.

Fraser said the first and second shipments of safflower seed here have been sold or are promised, and a long list of farmers are now waiting for the arrival of additional shipments which the president of Western Solvents has promised will be available by May 1, early enough for planting the crop here.

Farmers have been especially interested in safflower here because of the failure of the wheat crop and the fact the authorities say the crop can be planted, cultivated, and harvested with the same equipment used for wheat and grain sorghums. As yet, they have not found insects which bother safflower. The new crop is raised primarily ly for its oil which is an edible vegetable oil. When used in the place of linseed oil in white paint, the paint will not turn yellow, authorities report. After the oil is extracted from the seed, a high-protein feed remains.

BABY TWO WEEKS OLD WEIGHS LESS THAN TWO POUNDS

Little Blazita Jackson, a six-months baby, now weighs 1 pound, 15 1/2 ounces, and is gaining weight, according to Mrs. Maxine Bone, RN, of Deaf Smith County hospital where the tiny baby has been in an incubator since her premature birth on April 6 to Mr. and Mrs. Santiago H. Jackson, employees on the Raymond Pachtold farm.

At birth Blazita weighed 2 pounds, 3 ounces, and at one time she weighed only 1 pound and 15 ounces. Nurses first fed the baby with a medicine dropper, but she is now able to nurse from a special nipple. Blazita gets her special formula every three hours and water in between feedings.

Although her legs are about the size of a grown person's fingers, her features are fully developed.

Local farmers will be especially interested to learn from Lane the varieties suited for dry land farming and those for irrigated as the crop can be grown on dry or irrigated land. Their interest has already been manifested in the long list of those who want to obtain the seed, Fraser said, the farmers are invited to attend the meeting whether or not they are considering the crop for this season.

While on business in Colorado this week, Fraser happened to be at Dove Creek where he learned that Lane was conducting a similar meeting. He attended the meeting and reported the farmers there very enthusiastic about the program, as evidenced by their asking questions during the showing of slides, the discussion, and the question and answer period which followed. Lane will give details of planting, growing, cultivating, harvesting, and marketing the new oilseed crop.

REA Annual Meeting April 30; To Vote on By-Law Changes

The 13th annual meeting of the members of the Deaf Smith County Rural Electric Cooperative will be held April 30 beginning at 10 a.m.

Site of the meeting will be one of the Commodity Credit buildings located on the south side of the Santa Fe railroad tracks on South Lawton street, two blocks east of the depot.

Principal speaker for the event will be Tom E. Craddock, manager of the B-K Electric Cooperative at Seymour, Texas, who is also secretary-treasurer of the National Rural Electric Cooperative association.

In addition to election of directors and the transaction of other business, members will vote on changing the election procedure of the cooperative's seven directors.

At the present time, all seven directors are elected annually for a one-year term. At a meeting held April 3, the board of directors voted to recommend a change in the constitution and by-laws to permit staggering the terms of the directors. Two directors would be elected for a one-year term, two for a two-year term, and three for a three-year term.

Another recommended change to be voted upon by the membership deals with naming a director to fill any vacancy by a majority vote of the remaining members of the board.

Registration of members and guests will begin at 10 a.m. The meeting will be called to order at 11:30 a.m. by President T. E. Seigler Jr. Bob Wear, minister of the Church of Christ, will give the invocation.

An address of welcome will be given by Bruce Wooddell, president of the Hereford Chamber of Commerce. Following the address, by Wooddell, the group will attend a free barbecue in an adjoining building.

Prior to the meeting, during the lunch period, and after the meeting, the members will have a chance to view and examine the latest in electrical appliances for the home and shop at the appliance shop that will be held in the same building where the barbecue lunch will be served.

Craddock's speech will be given after the afternoon business session.

Although this is primarily a meeting of the members of the electric cooperative, the telephone cooperative is so closely related that time will be provided for a short question and answer session regarding telephones.

A major attraction at the close of the meeting will be the drawing for attendance prizes. As each member registers he or she will be given a ticket and the holder of the winning tickets must be present to be eligible for a prize. Following is a list of donors to date:

Texas Cotton Farmers Are Facing Critical Condition for Stand

Lubbock, Tex. April (Special) Cotton farmers in Texas face a critical condition this year in getting a good stand of cotton producing a large crop.

Normally the West Texas cotton farmer likes to start the season with an average of one plant every three inches in the row. He may want to thin this stand or leave it, depending on several factors.

A plant every three inches in the row provides some 60,000 plants per acre. To get this stand requires the planting of about 16 lbs. of the fuzzy seed with high germination. If the farmer plants one-half bushel of cotton seed with a germination of 60%, he will be putting into each acre some 33,400 seed which can be expected to produce plants. But he begins with about 40% less plants than he should have. Insects, weather and cultivation may further eliminate plants during the growing season, so the farmer cannot expect the maximum yield.

Area seed testing laboratories are finding that the majority of cotton seed samples submitted for germination tests are below the usual average visibility considered satisfactory. Good cotton seed should germinate above 80%, while much of the 1950 seed germinates below 60%.

Two major factors contributing to this situation are first, the trend toward machine harvesting, and second, the early 1950 freeze which killed the plants and prevented many seeds from maturing.

Machine harvesting results in a high percentage of immature seed of no value for planting. Proper cleaning and grading out of these undesirable seed is necessary for good planting seed.

Many of the seed of the 1950 crop which were frozen appear to be good but may not germinate. Under normal fall weather conditions many of these seed would have matured.

These factors have led to the present cotton seed problem. The large acreage of cotton expected to be planted in 1951 heightens the problem. Reports from the Texas Tech branch laboratory of the State Seed Testing Division and the Seed Testing Laboratory of the Lubbock Grain Exchange indicate that some 2,500 seed samples were tested since Jan. 1, 1951.

The range in germination was from below 10% to over 90%, with the average just under 60%.

The grain sorghums—berari, kafir, millet, cau and sudan grass seed—have generally shown a normal germination. Small grains alfalfa, clover and grass seed tested by the laboratories have shown normal germination percentage.

Farmers should heed the warning of these figures. The seed germination percentage should be known, and the amount of seed planted per acre must be increased. Otherwise, farmers can expect only a partial stand of cotton to start the season.

Every precaution should be taken by the farmer so that he can start the season with as nearly a perfect stand as possible.

Farmers can secure germination tests on their cotton seed by taking representative samples to the seed testing laboratory in room 116 of the Agriculture building at Texas Tech College where the branch laboratory is located, or the Lubbock Grain Exchange Laboratory in Lubbock.

The State Laboratory makes this test free, but due to the many samples, there is about a week's delay in getting the samples into the germinator. The Lubbock Grain Exchange Laboratory makes a nominal charge for each test since it operates on a commercial basis, but it can start the germination tests immediately. A minimum of 10 days is required to determine the percentage of germination of a sample after it has been placed in the germinator.

Covered Bridges Play Unique and Historical Part in New England

By Corinne Jennings

There is a move in the New England states toward making a law to preserve old covered bridges and after reading "The Covered Bridge" by Herman Petersen one realizes their historical value as well as their uniqueness contributed for local color.

In the beginning of the story Michael O'Day drives across a covered bridge owned by the little town just when a dam above it breaks and washes the bridge out, throwing him with his horse and buggy into the swollen and ice choked stream. He nearly loses his life.

From that time forward covered bridges play an important part in his life, because his ambitious wife, Zoann sees to that. She thinks it all for his good, that she does, and in looking forward to a son, she thinks of what a covered bridge of their own would do.

Through subtle planning she wins her cause for one to join two plots of land which they own. The day it is finished the son is born. Forever after it plays a big part in his life and in the dreams and schemes his mother has for him.

All this takes place in New York state following the Civil War years and because of land obtained through Zoann's cleverness, for her son and the bridge which joined them, a terrific feud is begun which lasts to the bitter end.

Zoan is beautiful, strong and likeable and the ambitions to build a kingdom for her son gave her a great satisfaction as well, because she was a good business woman often seeing ahead better than her more gentle husband who loved the soil and wanted only that for his son.

But her father-in-law was a more vigorous and determined man, and he liked the way Zoann went about things and encouraged her as well as often backed her in her ventures toward enlarging their holdings.

The feud encompasses the whole village, one is destroyed and another one begun on the O'Day property and even bloodshed does not end the trouble. That is finally accomplished when Diane enters upon the scene.

Diane is as beautiful and as strong in her way as Zoann and because of the son, Marsh, she finds Zoann's most vulnerable spot, and only in compromise do the two women settle their differences and peace at last comes to the valley.

The story is a fast moving historical one which will hold the reader's interest to the end.

Other new historical novels to be found in the library according to Mrs. J. J. Boydston, librarian, are: "Kentucky Stand" by Wheelright; "Grand Portage" by O'Meara; "Fire in the Water" by Curry; "Come Home at Even" by Cannon; "Cry Above the Wind" by Bartlett; "The Cain Mutiny" by Wouk and "The Raid" by Brick.

Consumer Buying Is Discussed for Club

Mrs. D. Y. Edwards was hostess to the Progressive Home Demonstration club Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Calvin Edwards assisting.

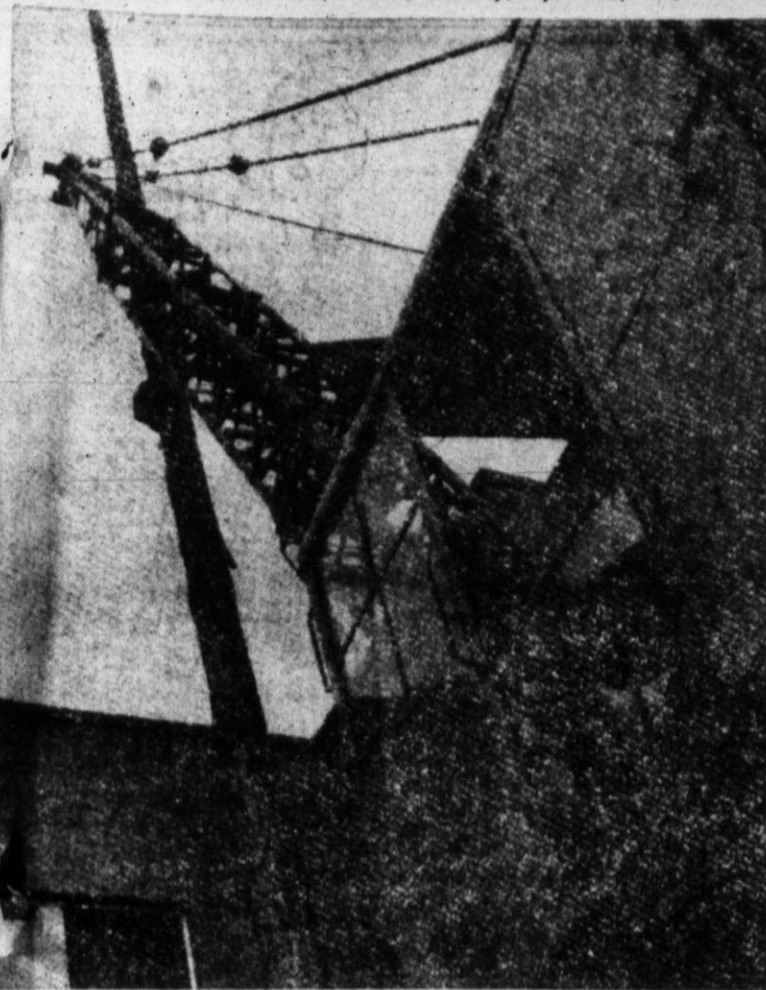

Using as her subject, "The Consumers Buying Guide", Mrs. Pete Carmichael gave a talk on marketing, discussing sheets, shirts, toothpaste, metal polish, pressure cookers, clothes dryers, and washing machines.

Mrs. V. E. Dodson explained in detail the organization of Red Cross classes now in progress.

During the business session, arrangements were made for the Barnhart sale, April 19, when the club ladies served lunch. The club voted to discontinue meetings in the months of July and August.

Refreshments were served to Mesdames C. C. Billingslea, E. O. Billingslea, C. G. Bowman, Pete Carmichael, V. E. Dodson, Bill Gentry, T. J. Parson, Frank Walterschied, and Miss Augustine Gregory.

The next club meeting will be May 1 in the home of Mrs. Frank Walterschied. On May 15 there will be a farm safety program in the home of Mrs. Pete Carmichael. Mrs. T. J. Parsons will obtain a speaker.

Simpson "Milking Parlor" Formal Opening Sunday

The formal opening of the "milking parlor" on the M. L. Simpson farm 11 miles south of Hereford on Highway 51 and five miles east, will be held on Sunday from 1 to 3:30 p.m.

Constructed at an approximate cost of $5,000, the "milking parlor" is designed to make the task of milking easier and at the same time more efficient.

The ramp on which the cows stand are so constructed so that the operator of the three milking machines in use need not stoop any time during the milking operation.

There are four stalls in the barn, which are built lengthwise with the building. Three milking machines are used in milking the 40-cow herd.

Simpson and his two sons, M. L. Jr. and W. H. Simpson, operate the dairy. The Simpsons made their own feed mixing outfit to use in their new barn.

The cows enter the barn from a ramp at one end and move through the barn to the exit ramp on the other end of the barn.

The Simpsons sell their milk to the Borden company. Officials of that firm say the Simpson "milking parlor" is the "best equipped dairy in their territory."

Refreshments will be served all during the open house at the Simpson farm.

You'll be happier with a HOOVER E. B. BLACK FURNITURE

By JIMMIE GILLENINE

Friday was one of the nicest three days you ever saw. It started out as a nice spring morning with plenty of sunshine; about noon that old 1935-type duster blew up in from the west and you couldn't see Pittman elevator from the front door of The Brand office. When I came back from lunch, it was beginning to sprinkle rain. Thirty minutes later the sun was shining and Hereford was once again wrapped in the throes of a beautiful spring day. You never can tell about the weather in this country.

I notice where the school evaluation group rapped Hereford's building set-up pretty hard. In fact, the report sounded a lot like the report and recommendations of the School Board prior to the recent bond election. No doubt the building facilities are in bad shape. I hope people are not letting personalities influence their better judgment on this question. Such an action would be like "cutting off your nose to spite your face". Maybe the board will advance a new plan as soon as they have time to survey conditions thoroughly and get their feet on the ground.

Wally Knief had a terrible time. Some of his relatives were slated to come in from Iowa Friday night and he was moaning the blues when he started home to lunch. "What will they think about this country, especially after all the things I have told them?" he moaned. By 2:00 o'clock, however, he was all smiles.

Everywhere, people are still talking about MacArthur's speech. It was a wonderful, wonderful talk. I think the most striking phrase was "There is no substitute for victory in war." This one sentence tells the whole story. Appeasement and treaties have gotten us nowhere in this or any other war. With Russia they will achieve even less. It is the same manner in which they took Hitler to his first defeat. MacArthur has, no doubt, plenty of faults, but his reasoning and logic was simple, straight to the point and sincere.

Harold Ciose says maybe this will put things out before the people. He feels, along with a lot of other Americans, that too much is being covered up. Harold is right, too. Understand that England once again got news of the MacArthur switch before the people of the United States. Why can't the boys in Washington let us in on what we are doing? They never got a unified effort in World War II until they dropped a similar "cover up" policy.

"It makes my blood boil to GUESS WHO?

Sugar Beet Acreage Here Is Only Half That of 1950

hear someone say: "The American people can't take it!" declared Harold. We can take more than any other nation in history. We might not like it, but we can take it. We'll do alright, too— if they will just tell us what is going on." Harold got so excited at this point that he turned over his cup of coffee, then started pacing the floor.

I am sure you haven't guessed the above picture and maybe you won't believe it, but the cute little rascal is none other than Alex Thompson. It came from an old print which Aunt Jennie had put away. The back side carries the words, "Little Alex". I guess everyone has to be a baby some time, but Alex is one fellow I would have never suspected; furthermore, he didn't take this picture, a present day situation unheard of around the Thompson household.

Does anyone else have one of these kid pictures around the house? I sure would like to have some more. I would like the men won't bring them in so I am appealing to the ladies. Please, please, bring in a few.

Rev. Don Davidson dropped in to allow his two cents worth about MacArthur. He likes the general. He got wound up on national and international politics and was laying it off in sonorous tones, using his right hand like a piston for emphasis—then he suddenly stopped, grabbed his hat and said: "Goodnight! I was supposed to be home 10 minutes ago so my wife could keep an appointment." He rushed out like a shot and everyone was grinning and I couldn't help wondering how much we men kid ourselves about being the stronger sex. Anyway, Don did just what I have done lots of times; at the mere thought of an irate wife, I dropped everything and tore out for home in a high lope.

Was talking with Mrs. Lela Jowell over at Penneys. She says she was interested in the column about Orr's tailor shop, because that's where she practically grew up. Mr. Orr was her father. She says they had a tailor shop, a barber shop and a beauty shop, all rolled into Farmers here are planning to plant only half as many sugar beets this year as were raised here last year, according to Odean Nixon, field representative of the American Crystal Sugar Refining Company of Rocky Ford, Colo. The company has contracted 1600 acres thus far as compared to 3256 acres last year.

Thirty farmers over the area have signed contracts, many of them already have a large part of their acreage planted, while others will be planting throughout the month of May.

George Paetzold has a stand on 30 acres which he planted around March 15. Nixon said this is the earliest any farmer has planted here. Early planting should result in greater tonnage and higher sugar content, he pointed out.

On the John Paetzold farm 150 to 200 acres are already planted. Among the other farmers who have beets planted are J. B. Noland, who has planted 57 of the approximately 130 acres he plans to raise; A. J. Peters 35 acres; Edward Paetzold, 30 acres; Mack Noland is now planting a 50-acre patch.

Nixon believes increased interest in cotton, castor beans, and potatoes, in addition to the fact a blight kept sugar beets from yielding the expected sugar content last fall, have contributed to the reduced acreage here.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Beyer of Wichita, Kans., left Wednesday after spending several days here in the home of his brother, J. E. Beyer. The Beyers were en route home from California.

LaPlata Club Plans 1951 Spring Musical Festival

The LaPlata Study club made plans for the annual spring musical festival at the meeting held Tuesday evening in the home of Mrs. Urdin Streu with Mrs. Walk Boston as hostess.

The festival will be held at four homes this year and will begin at 7:45 on the evening of May 1. As their contribution to National Music Week, the club will sponsor programs given by teenagers this year, including the high school sextet, vocal and piano music, brass selections, and readings.

Homes on the scheduled tour are those of Homer Brumleys, Jimmie Allreds, Norman Grays, and J. R. Allison. Following the custom of preceding years, invitations will be extended by the home owners and by members of the club who will serve as hostesses in the homes. Programs will be given simultaneously and the entertainers will progress from home to home during the evening.

peat it twice here in Dallas, and will present it at The Shamrock Hotel in Houston next week.

After experience as literary critic and feature story writer on Chicago newspapers, she returned to Texas for her career on the lecture platform, radio and writing. 25th Anniversary Tea Marks Summerfield Study Club Date

Observance of the 25th anniversary of the organization of the Summerfield Study Club was held in the home of Mrs. B. E. Roberson in Hereford Thursday afternoon, when the entire club membership took active part in reviewing the history of the club since its founding.

For the many new members, the historical information was highly revealing, showing how the club has grown into a federated organization of high standing functioning as a civic group for the improvement of the community as well as self improvement.

Mrs. L. H. Lookingbill, chairman of the year book committee, and her assistants, Mrs. J. B. Noland and Mrs. J. M. Wright, conducted a Break-the-Bank program using the historical background and the club constitution as a basis for questions and answers.

"Our Proud Heritage" "Our Proud Heritage" is the theme of the club's history of activities of the past 25 years. Organization of the club was completed in the home of Mrs. L. H. Lookingbill in 1926 with 20 charter members. First officers were Mrs. Lee Curry, president, to whom goes a great deal of the organization credit; Mrs. L. L. Cannon, vice-president and Mrs. Ray Johnson, secretary-treasurer.

The first few years the club worked as a Home Demonstration club with only one study program a month. But that type of work did not meet the demands of the women and in 1935 the club was federated with the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs and so diligently did they work and plan that they received the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs prize for the 1936-37 yearbooks. The study that year was "Adventures in Reading".

Since federation the club has contributed officers and department chairmen to county and district federation boards and has been represented in district and state meetings. In the absence of a Parent-Teachers organization, the club has assumed that responsibility for the Summerfield school. Civic projects have included: contributions annual to the school, Church, Red Cross, infantile paralysis fund, cancer fund and Deaf Smith County Library. The club has sponsored the school cafeteria, donated canned food for the needy and cheer baskets for the shut-ins. An Easter Egg hunt has been sponsored each year for pre-school and school age children and a Youth Center has been maintained. Five scrap books on the files tell the story of the club's objectives and achievements.

Branching out from the self improvement idea, the club has become a nucleus for the interests of the community. Their latest project has been to convert the school building, since consolidation, into a Community House where any and all groups may gather. The women have done most of the work themselves in this enterprise even to clearing the grounds and beautifying the exterior. The interior is being redone and is now in the final stages of decoration. The club staged a play last week to provide funds for the remainder of the decoration.

At the anniversary tea the club voted to sponsor a new project, a home-coming day in August. Voting to make the home-coming affair an annual event, members laid plans for this year's affair to be held the last Sunday in August with a church service in the morning followed by a basket dinner in the community house. They plan for all old-timers to give an account of themselves on that day.

Decorations for the tea at the Roberson home carried out the club colors of red and white in appointments and spring flowers. An ice course was served from a lovely table featuring the birthday cake done in white and red.

Members present were Mesdames Stan Barrett, L. L. Cannon, Lee Curry, Earl Gunther, Ray Johnson, Earl Lance, K. W. Neill, Chas. Noland, J. B. Noland, Glen Olson, C. R. Waiser, D. C. Waiser, Guy Waiser, J. M. Wright, George DeLozier, Jack Streu, J. R. Euler, L. J. Councilman and the hostess.

MRS. F. P. LYONS Lamb Recipes Show How To Prepare Little - Used Cuts

Lambs are composed of more than legs and chops, contrary to what many housewives think. How to use to an advantage what little lamb there is on the market is worth looking into if your family eats lamb, and knowing how to deal with cuts other than the costly leg and chops, enables the housewife to get the most out of lamb when, as now, prices are high.

All members of Mrs. F. P. Lyons family like lamb and she prepares it in many different ways. They buy a whole lamb, have it cut in roasts and chops and use the remainder of the meat in stews, patties or in meat loaves. It can be kept indefinitely in a locker or deep freeze.

Her recipes have been worked out over a period of years in her own kitchen until they just about spell perfection as far as her family is concerned, and that's about the best test of foods.

Today we give you two of her recipes featuring treatments of shoulder, breasts, shanks, neck steaks and even the ribs which make good stew.

Broiled Lamb Patties
1 1/2 lbs. ground lamb
2 tablespoons grated onion
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
Mix well and form into patties.

Circle with a strip of bacon and place on broiler grill 3 inches from the flame. Brown on one side and turn. Let brown and serve immediately with new potatoes and green peas and a tossed green salad.

- Delicious Lamb Stew

2 tablespoons fat

1 clove garlic (crushed)

later use.) Lower heat under skillet and add the garlic to lamb in skillet. Sprinkle the oil over lamb and cook gently until all flour has been absorbed. Stir in water and tomato paste and bring to a boil. Pour in a 3 quart casserole and place 1 piece of celery, 1 carrot, 2 sliced-onions, 1 bay leaf and a few sprigs of parsley on top. Cover and bake in oven for 30 minutes. Remove from oven and lift off the celery, carrot, onions, bay leaf and parsley. (These are for flavor only and you will not need them any more.)

Place the fat reserved from searing lamb in skillet and saute the drained mushrooms. Remove them from skillet and put the carrots and onions in the skillet, sprinkling the sugar over them to glaze. Cook only long enough for vegetables to glisten. Add the mushrooms, glazed vegetables and potatoes to stew mixture in casserole, cover and bake 1 hour or until meat and vegetables are tender. Just before serving add the cooked peas.

Hot biscuits, cornbread or hot rolls and a green salad just about makes a complete meal.

Good and Bad Points of School Told by Committee

The 26 superintendents, principals and classroom teachers, who evaluated the Hereford school system Monday through Wednesday praised the local school for its excellent teacher-pupil relationship, its school spirit, and the manner in which the school operates, and recommendations for improvement with the need for more adequate building facilities topping the list.

The system-wide evaluation was made in accordance with requirements of the Southern Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges.

In the report to the public Wednesday afternoon, Dr. J. L. Russell, who served as master of ceremonies, said, "Schools will be as poor as the people permit or as good as they demand. It is possible for the minority of the people on a community to run the school if they are organized. There must be more interest from lay people in the United States or we are in danger of losing freedom." Ben Hillis, Friona elementary school principal, speaking for the committee evaluating the children, recommended the Hereford schools for having courteous children, fine relationship between the pupils and teacher, evidence of group concern, and special attention of teachers to individual problems. He approved of the eligibility and enrollment records of the school, the age range in grades, size classes maintained and measures taken for health and safety.

Hillis' committee recommended:

1. An attendance officer to take care of the attendance work now done by the principal.
2. A special teacher to work with handicapped children, especially those with speech difficulties.
3. School nurse and a sick room.

Speaking for the committee who evaluated the teacher, community, home and school, O. D. Lowry, Junior High principal at Claymore, pointed to the "adequate air of congeniality in the systems." Stating the teachers are above average, he pointed to their emotional stability, sense of humor, appearance, cooperation, and refinement. Lowry said that while there are some teachers here with no degrees, there are many who have recently attended schools to refresh their education. He concluded his remarks by saying, "A more concentrated effort should be made to inform patrons of the needs of the plant." "We were very favorably impressed by the business-like, yet relaxed, attitude of the teachers and pupils," remarked Neville Bremer, principal of Horace Mann school in Amarillo, who was head of the committee evaluating the program of school life. "We think the job of instructing in this school is average or better, but we feel you could improve on:

1. There is a definite need for more in the way of music and art in the elementary schools.
2. There is a lack of playground and space at Central school -- a difficult problem.
3. Need more detailed program of physical education.
4. Need more opportunities offered for child participation in democracy.

5. Library facilities in the elementary schools are inadequate, but junior high has a good beginning.

"We feel the junior high teachers and pupils are making the most of an undesirable housing situation. The committee was favorably impressed with the after school play program being conducted in the elementary schools," Bremer concluded.

High School Report
After commending the city of Hereford, the faculty, and the fine school spirit of the student body, Joe C. Hutchinson, Littlefield superintendent, recommended for the high school:

1. The school give further study to a more complete outline of each course.
 2. A more emphasis to languages -- offer at least two in addition to English.
 3. Make greater use of aids -- charts, maps, etc.
 5. Provide, if possible, manual training mechanical drawing, remedial English, remedial math, journalism, art, typing II, speech class to include drama and radio.
 6. When possible, use the 6-3-3 plan of organization -- first six grades in elementary school, 7, 8, and 9 in junior high, and 10, 11, and 12 in high school.
 7. Need a school nurse.
 8. Obtain more modern equipment especially in home economics, science, and vocational agriculture. "Your child goes through school one time only. You need your public school as modern as your home in every respect," the committee emphasized.
 9. Revise student handbook.
 10. Counseling of students emphasizing guidance.
- Summarizing the findings of the committee which studied guidance and student activities, J. E. Miller, Canyon, High School principal praised:
1. The democratic manner in which the students accept responsibility in the successful operation of the activity program.
 2. The wholesome attitude of the school body.
 3. The business-like procedure in which school finances are handled -- each organization turning its money into the superintendent's office where funds are disbursed by check. Briefly, the committee recommended:

1. A better school newspaper—an organized class of journalism and a press club to give a more adequate plan of school news.
2. Music activity needs to be increased to include more of the students of the high school. Boys and girls need to participate in music whether or not they win a contest.
3. Investigate the formation of cliques in the high school—if there are cliques, it would undermine the democratic ideals of the school.
4. Give qualified person opportunity to work on counseling and guidance.

W. V. Swinburn, Tulla superintendent, after commending the school board for securing a competent administrator, the board and the superintendent for putting the business affairs in capable hands, the school for its adequate transportation system, good relationship between the administration, teachers, and material and cooperative librarians. "Both Shirley and Central schools need additional reference material," they pointed out, "and all classrooms need recreational reading material." In addition to recommendations already published, the committee observed lack of flag poles and lack of flags of the country and the state except at the high school. Among his concluding remarks, Reeves said, "Something that impressed each of us who visited Junior High was the good job being done in the conditions in which they are housed—the kids might feel like running their hands through the wall, but they don't do it." In addition to the committee members already named, others were Dr. Ruth Lowes of West Texas State, who served as coordinator; E. L. Hammit, Amarillo Senior High; Mrs. W. V. Swinburn, Tulla; W. R. Wilson, West Texas State; Miss Gladys Armstrong, area homemaking supervisor, Canyon; Cunningham, band and choral director, Friona; O. T. Ryan, area vocational agriculture supervisor, Lubbock; J. E. Jones, Olton school superintendent; H. F. Railsback, Dalhart school superintendent; Mrs. Condron, Throckmorton librarian; O. W. Marcom, Levelland superintendent; Bob Welby, Amarillo assistant superintendent; Mrs. Clementine Morgan, Panhandle; Mrs. Walter Travis, Dumas; Mrs. Helen Richardson, Dimmitt; Mrs. J. J. DeShazo, Muleshoe; Miss Mae Simmons, Canyon; Mrs. John E. Johnson, Dumas.

Supt. George Graham announced that copies of the evaluation committee's report will be available to the public when Dr. Russell sends the final report to the school.

Becky Cox, 22-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Cox of Phillips, is spending a week here with her grandmother, Mrs. C. B. Williams. Mr. and Mrs. Cox recently moved from Pampa to Phillips where he has accepted a laboratory position. Mrs. Cox is the former Marie Williams of Hereford.

Junior Trainmen Visit Clovis and Inspect Train

Two dens of Cub Scouts, Den 4, Pack 50, led by Mrs. Homer Brumley and Den 5, Pack 52, led by Mrs. C. L. Morris, went to Clovis by train April 4 in connection with their study of railroads this month.

Both groups became "Junior Trainmen" upon arrival at the local Santa Fe depot where they were presented junior trainmen uniforms, booklets on trains, and cardboard train models to assemble. The junior trainmen, their den mothers, and little brothers and sisters, who accompanied them, were given the privilege of riding in the lounge car to Clovis where they were met by the Santa Fe safety man and a special Santa Fe officer.

The dens spread their lunch separately in the park where they visited the zoo.

Returning to the railroad yards at Clovis, the groups were conducted through the shops, roundhouse, and power plants where the highlight of the tour or the cubs was a ride on the turntable in the roundhouse.

Some of the cubs had ridden the train before, but many of them had not—however the trip for the Junior Trainmen was a big thrill for all of them. Mrs. Brumley said.

Cooperation Pays Off, Disaster Unit Show

The item itself may not have created much attention, but the significance of the achievement couldn't escape leaving its mark on those who know the wonders of cooperation in a small town.

We are talking about the new emergency unit being made by the city firemen for the use of this entire area in the event of disaster or tragedy.

The cost of this unit wasn't assessed to the persons who will get the benefits of the new equipment—it was paid for by the men who volunteer their services for fire duty, the Hereford firemen.

This type of cooperation is not uncommon, residents of Hereford and Deaf Smith county have found out through the years, but it is very rarely that their efforts are recognized for their usefulness in general.

Hereford and Deaf Smith county will not have a makeshift emergency unit responding to their calls for aid. The equipment being used by the firemen will measure up to anything put on the market as far as quality is concerned.

Praise should go to, to the Hereford Kiwanis club for spearheading a fund drive to buy a new rescuator for the disaster unit. Their efforts could not have borne fruit, however, were it not for the whole-hearted cooperation of the populace which patronized the movie they presented.

Starting from an idea, it can be seen how a dream like Fire Chief Earl Phillips must have had of the emergency unit can materialize with the cooperation of the people of our community.

Deaf Smith county has, for many years, had a rescuator at the hospital—an earlier project of the Lions club—but this is the first time such a mobile unit has been available.

Aid came from other sources, also. The Deaf Smith county hospital generously donated their old 1500-watt light plant to the firemen for mounting on their disaster unit.

The great praise still must go to the firemen, however, for their determination—even to the point of financing it themselves—that the citizens of this community should not be lacking the proper life-saving equipment.

We will all live in the hope that this fine equipment will never have to be used, but it is a comforting thought, indeed, to know that the equipment—as well as the ability to handle it properly—is at our disposal night and day.—W. W. K.

No End of Roses

HERE ARE a few facts not brought out during the crime committee probe of the glamor girl of the underworld, Virginia Hill: Miss Hill first broke into prominence among the gangsters when she lived in the Chicago boarding-house where Chicago's Joe Epstein, then a student of accountancy, also lived. Virginia, a restaurant waitress at that time, frequently brought coffee and cakes to the hungry Epstein. Later, when Epstein got out of school, he became an accountant for the underworld, also began helping Miss Hill.

She became a runner for the underworld, carrying money between racketeers in different cities. This was a precarious job. But Virginia was smart enough to keep an intimate diary locked in a vault with a record of the various financial transactions, and instructions that the files were to be made public if anything happened to her.

Members on the lam trusted their money to her—a doubly dangerous assignment, for not only was it illegal, but it put Miss Hill's life in jeopardy inside the underworld.

The underworld, which lives by a code of its own, knew every time Virginia had a large chunk of cash. The mobsters also knew that if they robbed her, she couldn't report it to the cops. At least half a dozen times, therefore, Virginia was beaten black and blue, and her apartment ransacked in attempts by the underworld to steal loot from itself.

Some televisioners thought Virginia Hill's life was a bed of roses. But it wasn't.

Railroad Strike Impasse

Only one issue has been holding up settlement of the long, bitter railroad strike—namely, the role of Presidential Assistant John Steelman as mediator. The railroads want the likable ex-Alabama college professor to arbitrate future differences, but the railroad brotherhoods want someone else.

One reason that labor won't accept Steelman is a secret memo that was intercepted from S. H. Pulliam to E. B. Bryant, who is handling the strike negotiations for the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad. This secret memo declares: "The rules will be Steelman's interpretations which are pretty much the same as the railroads'."

Forrestal's Diary

The defense department has recently been urged to release the private diary of the late Secretary of Defense James Forrestal, and to that end an edited version was sent to the joint chiefs of staff for approval. However, they dropped it like a hot potato.

Some of the hot spots that caused the joint chiefs of staff to keep the diary suppressed are: Forrestal told how he came close to firing then Secretary of the Air Force Symington in the spring of 1948 for an unauthorized, "pro-air force" speech on the west coast.

Forrestal also complained of his troubles getting the three services to agree on war strategy and a defense budget. Twice he appealed General Marshall to support increases in the military budget. The first time Marshall was secretary of state and favored priorities for foreign aid instead. The second time Marshall urged that the extra money be spent for universal military training.

Forrestal also wrote bitterly of his distrust of the French and British. The diary has now gone back to the custody of the President's naval aide, Rear Adm. Robert L. Denison.

Wherry Is Willing

Genial Senator Wherry of Nebraska secretly tried to launch a Wherry-for-President boom the other day. But it has boomeranged. Wherry arranged to send a form letter to GOP national committee members recommending himself "as the party's presidential candidate." The letter went out under the signature of Republican state chairman David Martin of Kearney, Nebraska—supposedly without Wherry's knowledge, but actually upon Wherry's orders.

The letter also included a copy of a speech plugging Wherry, which was delivered at the Nebraska GOP convention by delegate George Tunison. What the letter neglected to mention, however, is that Tunison is Wherry's campaign manager.

Slow Arms Shipments

Britain's new foreign minister, Herbert Morrison, has complained to the American embassy that U.S. arms are slow in arriving.

Morrison told Ambassador Walter Gifford, former head of American Telephone and Telegraph, that shipments are so far behind it is jeopardizing British plans.

Morrison also apologized that his first official contact since taking over as foreign minister had to do with a complaint.

'Tater Peelin's

By Roberta Campbell

All right folks, you can begin to look for rain. Every year but once since we put in a well it has rained pretty soon after we have started our pump and we have just put down our irrigation shovel to write this.

Mrs. Al Werner passed on to us an idea two or three years ago that some one had advanced about green bugs and we've turned it over in our heads several times lately.

The theory was that we didn't have green bugs in this locality until we began growin' alfalfa which furnishes ideal winter quarters for them so they can move back into the wheat and barley later.

Alfalfa is alive with them now but we didn't think to look for them last winter.

We've never seen wheat succumb to as many different enemies as it has this year—a condition which seems to be general where we traveled last week end along 287 to Fort Worth and back up through Seymour and Crowell.

A few good patches—probably summer fallow—were still holdin' on around these last two towns but more of it looked like it would have to be cut with scissors.

History does repeat itself. Revis Kerr is back in the hardware business right in the same old building at 137 Main where he was when we came here. Course John David Bryant has grown up considerably since he ran off from his mother and came down to the store where Cavathorn was workin' at that time.

SUNDAY'S CURRENT QUESTION Poll Shows People in Favor of Compulsory Vehicle Inspection

Do you believe it should be compulsory for automobile owners to have their cars inspected annually as a safety precaution?

Mrs. M. T. Rutter—If the people hired to do the inspection didn't use it as a graft to make big profits on, I think it would be well. It could help cut down accidents—it certainly wouldn't do any harm.

Mrs. Troy Moore—if it is anything for the prevention of our accidents, it would be a good thing. Anything that could help some of these accidents we have would be good.

Elmer Gallehon—I think it would be a good idea. It probably would cut down on accidents. About twice a year I take mine to the garage and tell them to check everything that can be checked for safety.

Mrs. Jimmie Allred—I surely think that would be a good idea. I think it would cause less wrecks and be a safety precaution.

Gerald Banner—I think it would be a very good idea. It might save some of these accidents. It would also save on your car—if it is in good shape, it would last longer. If your wheels are aligned and brakes working properly, it saves on your tires.

D. R. Carmichael—Yes, I think a lot of folks would have brakes that don't have them now. Some folks have lights that you can hardly tell they have a light. I don't think that sort of car should be allowed on the road.

Mrs. Paul Mathers—Yes, I do. Any number of people who drive cars and have their license aren't always aware of deficiencies in their brakes and other mechanical parts. I know most women don't understand about such things. I think a number of accidents could be avoided if brakes were working properly and if they were kept checked.

Louisa's Letter

Dear Louisa: I recently moved to a new town and I have done everything I know to meet the people and become a part of the community life. I had no trouble in doing this as the people here are very friendly.

My only trouble now is that I am involved in too many things. In fact, I feel that I am neglecting my home and children to do a great many unnecessary things. I am called on to canvass for one organization, fix flowers for another, talk to another, get up refreshments for a S. S. picnic, correct papers for a contest, etc., etc.

I don't want these people to think I am a flash in the pan and run out when the work is to be done but I simply have to slow down. How can I cut out one without cutting out all? NEWCOMER-DEL.

The BOOTLEG Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his farm near Bootleg puts in his two-bits worth on the current argument, which may be over-estimated on its value.

I found a copy of the Amarillo Daily which some town bird had dumped out along with his trash in a roadside ditch out here last night. I've been tryin' to get some of my neighbors to get together and us all haul a load of trash and maybe a few dead hens for good measure into town some night and dump it there, just to let the folks know how it feels, but don't suppose we'll ever get around to it.

At any rate, I took the paper home and got out of earshot of my wife and read some more about the Truman-MacArthur controversy.

I'm frank to say I can't make heads or tails of it, that is, I've heard lots of opinions expressed, by both the open-minded and the Democrats and Republicans also, but I can't put my finger on the right answer. My nephew, ew, who fought in the last war, at least he served anyway, said it didn't make any difference whether MacArthur was right or wrong, he just wasn't supposed to say so. "Thunder, I was right lots of times when I was in the army," he said, "but I always got K.P. for sayin' so."

Here we've just emerged victorious from the worst war in history, only to wind up in worse danger than before, and if there's anybody who knows what's gonna happen next and what to do about it, he hasn't been pointed out to me. Has he to you? As I see it, there ain't nobody much who knows what to do about Korea, what to do about China, what to do about Russia, what to do about Europe, what to do about Argentina, what to do about Washington, and I know blame well there ain't nobody who knows what to do about my Johnson grass out here at Bootleg, except maybe me, and I don't mind sayin' I don't intend to do it.

that you will be a divorced woman with juvenile delinquents on your hands if you keep on as you have started.

Probably all the club work you are doing is worthwhile but a woman's first responsibility is her family and they should come first. You will have a great deal of time to do community work when your children are older and many women, at that time, fill the void left by their children leaving home, doing community work.

Remember too that most people have a tendency to work a "willing horse to death", so don't feel that you have to accept every assignment that is given you.

Just to explain your situation to your friends and tell them that you will work with the P.T.A. this year and the Garden Club next or vice versa, but

My little son will be in the second grade next year. He seems to me to have an amazing fund of general knowledge and I was much surprised when his teacher wrote on his report card that he was "slow to learn". Do you think she could be right? MOTHER-N.Y.

Answer: Most of us think our children are brighter than they are but, on the other hand, teachers often make mistakes. One of the great Einstein's teachers rated him as "mentally slow" and "adrift, in foolish dreams" so I shouldn't let one teacher's opinion worry me. Some children find it hard to learn to read — their eyes may be at fault—but are exceptionally smart in other ways. Perhaps his teacher did not make school interesting enough for him to exert himself. LOUISA

Politicians Owe People Less Fog, More Facts

America is the land of plenty, opportunity, and freedom. Thanks to the politicians, America is fast becoming the land of confusion, too.

In these trying times, there is enough weighing on the mind of the average citizen who is so far away from the world scene. Our only liaison between our role as one of the 150,000,000 and world events and international politics is our leaders—elected and appointed.

With such widely conflicting views professed by these leaders, what is Mr. Average Citizen to believe? The peace of the world may depend upon how we use our vote in the future, but how are we to know what is right in the midst of the foggy wrangling going on between our leaders?

What the American people need is less beating around the bush and more straight-from-the-shoulder talk.

It is hard to blame people for being skeptical when their leaders have given them so little on which to hinge their devotion, faith, and respect.

Those who would detract from the SINCERE efforts of our leaders are at fault just as much as anyone else for the confusion reigning among Americans.

A man or a party who would strengthen his own position at the cost of the best American interests is no better than the enemy we are fighting.

The complete story of who is right and who is wrong is not going to be evaluated with unerring accuracy by us or citizens like us, all the time. Eut, given the TRUE FACTS BY BOTH SIDES, we can at least make an intelligent appraisal of our country's contribution to lasting world peace.

Seeing that we get more facts and less mud-slinging and baloney is the smallest consideration politicians from both parties can extend to us.—W. W. K.

running stop signs, too much speed on the highway, allowing incompetent persons to operate motor vehicles.

THOSE are the real causes of the greatest majority of your accidents. Mechanical defects account for their share, but that is not the sole problem.

The motor vehicle inspection proposal, if made into law, should have the support of all of us who are eager to find ANY way to beat the accident plague.—W. W. K.

Human Element In Accidents Also

Both houses of the Texas legislature have approved a bill designed to promote street and highway safety by making periodic inspections of motor vehicles.

In theory, the proposal would eliminate many accidents caused by defective vehicles. In that respect, it is a sound proposal, but in many respects it's chasing down a blind alley if its main purpose is the reduction of accidents.

The loose nut behind the wheel, not mechanical failure, is responsible for the majority of the accidents. Ask any law enforcement officer if you have a doubt.

Is mechanical failure responsible for high speeds? For taking a chance? Reckless driving? Drunken driving? Failure to obey traffic signs or regulations?

While compulsory inspection of brakes, lights, horn, and steering apparatus is another good step towards eliminating any situations that might prove hazardous, it can never do the whole job.

Unfortunately, there is no substitute for good enforcement and stiff penalties for violations of safety regulations.

This is not an accusation, because good law enforcement is impossible without wholehearted support of the people. Strangely, that has been missing all too often.

If we are really serious about law enforcement and combating accidents, we should see that more penalties are doted out for such violations as reckless driving,

The reappointment of all presently qualified notaries of Deaf Smith county will be made by Secretary of State Shepperd by May 20, and each reappointed notary must qualify with the county clerk on June 1, file oath and bond and pay the statutory filing fee to the clerk in order to serve as a qualified notary
