Rotarians Air Views on Labor, Housing Problems

Hereford's labor problem had another airing in a round-table discussion as a panel of members from the local Rotary club answered questions Friday put to them by Chamber of Commerce Secretary Tom McFarland and by club members from the floor.

Members of the panel were Grady Rogers, Francis Hardwick, Frank Bezner, Faust Collier, and Troyce Carmichael.

Questioning the members found differing views on admitting Mexican laborers to the municipal swimming pool and on how to provide for more housing to attract Mexican labor here.

McFarland wound up the discussion with the statement that vegetable men all agreed that this area could "go places" as a vegetable area, in growing them at the present time and possibly in processing and packing in the future.

"Everyone is watching us," he told the group. "The only thing to do is go ahead. We have to pamper what we've got."

"Keep 'em (Mexican laborers) coming—we've only scratched the surface."

On the discrimination side, of the discussion, Francis Hardwick told the group that "We've taught our children that they're different than other people. We can't change that overnight."

McFarland started off the discussion by asking Grady Rogers what he thought of opening the swimming pool to Mexicans. The Hereford druggist said he didn't think much of the idea.

"The city and the county as a whole," he said, "should build a pool at the camp itself."

A questioner from the floor asked if it would be possible to give a day a week at the pool to the Mexican laborers.

McFarland directed the question to Hardwick, who replied, "This is a ticklish situation. The Spanish-Americans are a great deal better than some of the 'white trash' that follows the harvest in some places. But, as for opening the pool to them—last year they wanted a barber shop and they got it. This year

Research Foundation Set Up Friday, Name Directors

A "Deaf Smith County Research Foundation" was approved Friday night by directors of the Hereford Chamber of Commerce and 10 directors were named in accordance with provisions of the resolution adopted creating the foundation.

The foundation, which will be entirely independent of the Hereford Chamber of Commerce, will raise money to carry on the research of the natural resources: climatic, soil, crops, grasses, and water, and to devise ways and means of supporting such research.

A meeting of the newly-elected directors will be held Tuesday, Aug. 14 at 8 p.m. At that time, officers for the newly-created foundation will be selected from among the 10 named.

Named to the board of directors are eight citizens of the county at large and two members from the Hereford Chamber of Commerce board of directors.

Directors are: Lyle Blanton, Jesse Stanford, Delbert Kinsey, David Rodgers, M. Reed Williams, Mrs. Tom Draper, Wayne Evans, and Hugh Clearman, appointed directors; and Jim Bob Allison and Robert Viegel, members from the Chamber of Commerce.

Dr. L. B. Barnett and C. C. Secretary Tom McFarland will be at the disposal of the foundation if needed, but they have no direct connection with the group.

Among the points covered in the resolution are the following, which are not printed in their entirety or in the original legal wording:

The committee selected shall select its own chairman and at the first meeting the members shall be divided into two classes of four each known as Class "A" and Class "B". Class "A" shall be those members serving for a term of one year. Class "B" shall be those members serving for a term of two years. Members shall draw lots to determine their class and their term of office, and annually thereafter, the board of directors of the Hereford Chamber of Commerce shall appoint four new members to serve for those members whose terms are expiring.

The secretary of the Chamber of Commerce shall be Ex-Officio secretary for the committee and his salary shall be paid by the Chamber of Commerce.

This committee will raise the funds for research but shall not commit the Hereford Chamber of Commerce to any indebtedness. All funds contributed to the committee shall not be construed to be a contribution to the Hereford C. of C.

State Board OK's Water District, Appoints Board

The State Board of Water Engineers approved the creation of the High Plains Water District Number One following a public hearing Thursday in Plainview and appointed a five-man board to call and supervise an election in the fall.

Tom McFarland and John Aiken, president and vice-president respectively of the Deaf Smith County Water User's association, hailed the board's action as the first step away from state control of water.

The people must still vote on the question of having a locally-controlled water district set up. Each of the towns and rural areas in the 21-county area covered by the underground reservoir will vote independently on the water district.

Tom McFarland is one of the five men named to the board by the state water group.

The important thing about the water district, Aiken commented, was that if a larger number of areas approve the creation of a district, the tax to be levied for its operation and organization would be lower—in the neighborhood of two or three cents per $100 evaluation.

The water board took its action under and by the action of the bill written by the High Plains Water Conservation and User's association. The board's action was taken as the preliminary measure in setting up the board under the bill, which the watermen wrote themselves to get away from state control of their water.

The board of directors of the proposed district will not have any power to regulate the number of wells, only the proper spacing. They cannot determine or set the amount of water any farmer can pump.

McFarland and Aiken urged the voters to approve the creation of a water district to forestall any further attempts to push state control measures through the legislature.

J. A. Pitman USO Drive Chairman

J. A. Pitman of Hereford today was named district chairman for the forthcoming fund campaign in Texas for the U. S. O.

Selection of Pitman was announced by Ben H. Wooten of Dallas, campaign chairman of the Texas United Defense Fund Committee, and Lawrence Hagy of Amarillo, chairman of Region One for the U. S. O. appeal.

Pitman's district includes Oldham, Potter, Deaf Smith, and Randall.

In announcing the selection, Hagy said:

"Only through U.S.O. can our individual counties maintain the home ties with our young men and women in military service. Each of us here in this region will want to do everything possible to make this appeal for funds for U.S.O. a success."

"We know from experiences of the past that U.S.O. means well-planned recreation and entertainment programs for our boys and girls, that it encourages the development and maintenance of spiritual values, that it develops wholesome community relationships, that it helps service men and women with their housing and personal problems and protects them from exploitation," Hagy said.

"U.S.O. clubs and lounges provide oases of comfort and recreation in the midst of military service and U.S.O. Camp Shows are great morale factors in Veterans' Hospitals and for soldiers overseas."

Hagy said that regardless of what happens in Korea, as long as Russia continues the cold war and millions of our youth are engaged in the defense of our freedom there will be a need for the familiar home-away-from-home services of the U.S.O. In making this statement, he urged that everyone in District 3 do his part in making the forthcoming financial campaign for the U.S.O. a success.

Fifty From Tucumcari Tour Irrigation Area

About 50 farmers and businessmen from the Tucumcari area were special guests on a conducted tour through the Hereford irrigation area last Thursday.

Under the sponsorship of the Tucumcari and Hereford Kiwanis clubs, the visitors were given the opportunity to observe how irrigation is put to use in this area for growing food, grains, and for pastures.

Following a noon luncheon at Hotel Jim Hill, the group was taken on the tour, which was led by County Agent Hugh Clearman.

First stop on the tour was the Earl Springer farm, just south of town. There the guests saw how Springer was making good grazing for 400 head of sheep and seven head of cattle on 70 acres of permanent pasture, divided up into 10 separate fields.

Guests were given an opportunity to question Clearman and Springer on all phases of his permanent pasture operation—watering, fertilizer, planting, grass mixtures, etc.

Across the road south of the Springer place, the guests were shown the W. T. Gunstenson place, where he was growing grain sorghum on land built up through a planting of Madrid Clover.

Gunstenson put Madrid clover on the land after the wheat, which was destroyed by greenbugs. On his first yield from the land built up by the Madrid clover his yield of Caprock was 120 bushels per acre and his Martin yield was 80 bushels per acre. If the land were kept in grain sorghum, he said, it would have yielded only about 30 bushels per acre.

On a patch just west of his grain sorghum, Gunstenson has from eight to 10 acres in Madrid clover and Sudan grass. He has grazed his cattle on it for three days and noticed no bloat.

"You can graze Madrid clover and build up your land," Gunstenson told the New Mexico farmers. "It pays off," he explained, "to put your land in clover and plow it under."

The good part of Madrid clover, also, he said, was that it doesn't seed until the second year, so there is no seed to contend with when the clover is plowed under after the first season.

From Gunstenson's place, the tour went west to the J. V. Nye and farm near Summerfield. There they saw a field of sugar beets that went through the

County HD Agent Gives Tips on Ironing Clothes

"We've talked about ironing shirts the efficient way, now here's helpful information on ironing a dress," says Argen Draper, County Home Demonstration agent for the extension service in Deaf Smith county. She says there's a general procedure to follow in ironing a dress, just as there is in ironing a man's shirt.

The cuffs and sleeves are first, then any ruffles. The collar comes next and then the shoulders and body part of the blouse. The skirt comes next in the procedure, and you finish by pressing again any parts that were mussed in handling. Hang at once on hangers to allow any moisture to dry out before storing away.

Good equipment and supplies will help to make this procedure efficient. A good iron, well-padded ironing board, press cloth, and your sleeve board or sleeve pad. A sit down type board will save that back ache and leg ache. Consider the sit down type the next board you buy.

The agent recommends ironing dresses on the wrong side with a smooth even pressure, setting the iron temperature control for the type of fabric you're ironing.

Finish ironing the waist band, hems and seams on the right side with a light pressure of the iron. If the fabric is dark cotton or rayon, finish on the right side with the press cloth to prevent shine. Pull seams straight and smooth and hold them at a slight tension to keep them straight during the ironing.

Note the point of the iron around the buttons. Place tiny rows of buttons face down on a soft pad and iron on the wrong side. Iron into gathers, close a

Boys Ranch Rodeo Over Labor Day

"LET 'ER BUCK" hollers Ray Schoonover as he comes out on "Temporary" while practicing for the 7th Annual Boys' Ranch Rodeo, to be held Sunday, Sept. 2nd, and Labor Day, Sept. 3rd, at the Ranch.

Many cowhands will be scratching leather, come Sunday, Sept. 2 and Labor Day, Sept. 3, the two big days of the Boys' Ranch Rodeo. Practice is in full swing for the Seventh Annual show, which will be held at the ranch, and the smell of liniment and iodine can be detected almost any hour.

The boys take their task seriously, for the Rodeo stock will be furnished by Buetler Brothers of Elk City, Okla. who have promised a bunch of ornery critters. The boys plan on showing the Buetler Brothers how to ride, starting at 2:30 each day. They will be assisted by the Amarillo Range Riders, who are sponsoring the show, as in the past.

Preparations have been going on for some time, and the boys have piped spring water into the 20-acre park for the benefit of those who bring their lunch, or buy sandwiches and pop on the grounds. The highway officials have promised completion of the highway from Channing, which means paved roads all the way to the ranch via Channing.

Good entertainment, easy accessibility, comfort, plenty of cold drinks and sandwiches are in store for patrons who attend the Boys' Ranch Rodeo over the Labor Day week-end.

OPS Affect Under New Defense Production Act is Explained

The Office of Price Stabilization is now operating under the Defense Production Act as recently amended and extended, and retains in effect most of the regulations issued by OPS before July 31. H. R. Gholson, district director, said in explaining the new law.

The major changes of most importance to the West Texas district, he said, are the elimination of the two price rollbacks on retail and wholesale beef prices, originally scheduled for this summer and fall, and elimination of the distribution quota system on cattle, sheep and hogs. The OPS retains the right of licensing livestock slaughterers.

The district director said that the amended law reads that "it is the intent of the Congress to provide authority necessary to promote national defense, to prevent inflation and preserve the value of the national currency, to assure that defense appropriations are not dissipated by excessive costs and prices, and to stabilize the cost of living for workers and other consumers and the cost of production for farmers and businessmen."

"The fight against the economic destruction of inflation must continue," Mr. Gholson said. "West Texas consumers, businessmen and farmers and ranchers can do their part to stop the inflation that is threatened by increased defense production and lower civilian supplies in coming months, by paying no more than ceiling prices, by careful buying, by buying only what they need, and by saving instead of spending."

Meanwhile, throughout the 69-county district, OPS enforcement investigators have launched a survey to determine how well retailers of apparel, furniture, housewares, radios and similar lines are complying with the filing requirements of the ceiling price regulations.

The survey is part of a nationwide survey ordered by Edward P. Morgan, OPS national director of enforcement. Emphasis of the survey is on the filing of price charts required by regulations.

On a nation-wide basis, the agency has found a wide variance in the degree of compliance with the price ceiling regulations covering consumer durable goods. Many of the charts filed by retailers have been returned for additional information or correction of errors. Those firms which were required to file but have not, or who have not filed correct pricing charts, are in violation if still operating.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Higgins and children and Miss Kathryn Davis spent a week vacationing in New Mexico and Colorado. They visited the cliff dwellings in Mesa Verde National Park, viewed the Spanish Trails Fiesta in Durango and visited the famous beaver dams around Vallecito Reservoir. Miss Davis is on a two weeks vacation from nurses training school at St. Anthony's School of Nursing in Amarillo.

JAY BOSTON, center, identifies some of the grasses in his permanent pasture for guests from Tucumcari on the Kiwanis agriculture tour of this area Thursday. The two men on either side of Boston are unidentified.—Brand Staff Photo.

worst fall of the year. Prior to their departure on the tour, Clearman told the group about these, and compared them with a field south of town that was allowed to grow normally.

Enroute from the Noland place the tour was shown a field where lettuce was planted after potatoes.

On the Lyle Blanton farm, the visitors were shown the difference anhydrous ammonia made in the growth of two fields of grain sorghums. One field of maize that had 230 pounds of anhydrous ammonia was compared with a field of Weslan that had only 30 pounds of ammonia.

From the grain sorghum field, the group was shown the Blanton permanent pasture where Blanton has 116 head grazing on 20 acres.

Blanton credited proper fertilization with his successes with permanent pasture. Fertilization and "watering religiously", rather, was the real answer, he said.

Fertilizing is important during the summer months because the pasture can go down fast otherwise, Blanton told the group.

Another Blanton experiment was revealed to the touring crowd in the presence of a light cream Charbray bull. The over-size bull is the product of a French bull being bred to a registered Brahma cow.

By breeding Angus cattle to this Charbray bull, Blanton hopes to produce a better beef animal. Through the big-boned characteristics of the Charbray, he hopes to breed a calf that will weight 900 pounds at nine months.

Last stop on the tour was the Jay Boston farm. Boston, Castro county's "outstanding farmer" for the past two years, had the choice permanent pasture of the tour to show the guests.

He explained the seeding and care of his pasture for the impressed guests. In explaining care of his pasture, Boston said his was "poorly-managed" because for planted too late. Best time for planting, he said, was around September.

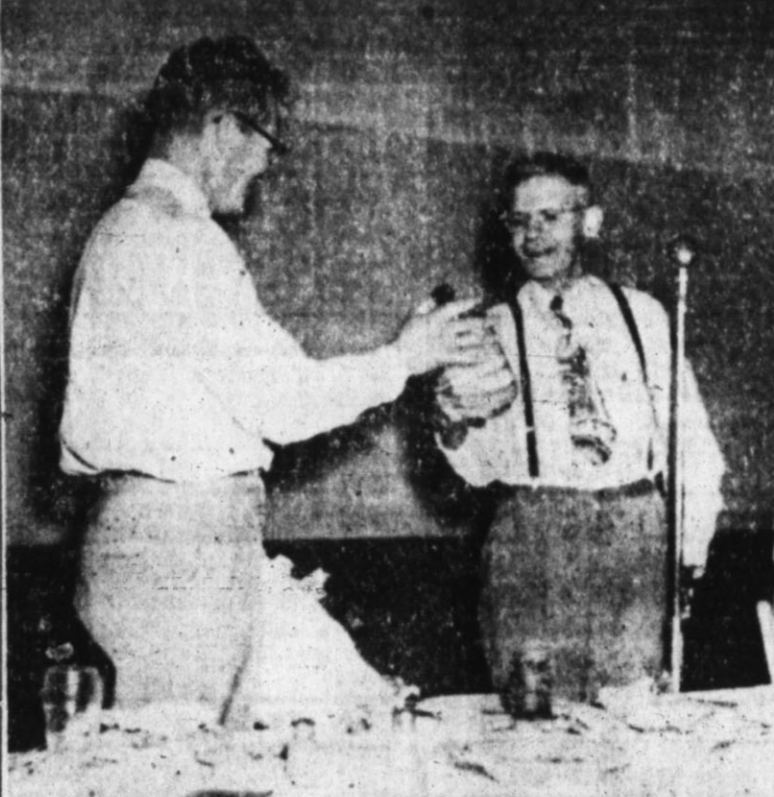

From Boston's place, the tour returned to Hereford.

Earlier in the day, the delegation from Tucumcari was met at the west city limits by local Kiwanians and escorted to Hotel Jim Hill, where they met with the Hereford Kiwanis club.

President Ball of the Tucumcari club presented Hereford Kiwanis President John Pool with a bottle of water from Conchas lake. Conchas lake water, said

President Ball, "takes up where Hadacol leaves off."

Guests were introduced at the meeting and entertainment was provided by a girls' trio comprised of three Tucumcari high school 1951 graduates. Raymon Childers presented piano music during the luncheon hour.

TUCUMCARI TASTES Hereford water, and it's mighty good. Quanah Wheat Proving Satisfactory in Tests

COLLEGE STATION — The characteristics of Quanah, a new disease-resistant hard red winter wheat of excellent quality, are given in a new Texas Agricultural Experiment Station bulletin.

This new variety was developed by Dr. I. M. Atkins, Denton station agronomist, who is a joint employee of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Dr. Atkins reports that the average yield of Quanah has equaled or exceeded that of the present commercial wheat varieties at Denton, Greenville, Temple, Comfort, Stephenville, Iowa Park and Chillicothe. Comanche and Westar have given better yields than Quanah in the drier section of Texas.

Quanah was developed from a complex cross of (Comanche x Honor-Forward) x (Mediterranean-Hope x Comanche). It has shown a high degree of resistance to common races of leaf and stem rust and to stinking smut. However, races of both leaf and stem rust are known which can attack Quanah.

Quanah is similar to Comanche in milling and baking characteristics. Tests show that it is satisfactory for the production of bakery flour.

Bulletin 734, "Quanah Wheat", is available from the Publications Office, College Station, Texas.

Rev. and Mrs. Russell Wingert and Anne are vacationing this month in Chicago, Cincinnati, and Virginia.

C & R-Jiggs Beat KC's, Win Over Summerfield

C & R-Jiggs turned the tables on the Knights of Columbus Thursday night to avenge their previous drubbing by the cellar-dwellers, downing the KC's 8-4. League-leading Hereford Hardware polished off Summerfield in the nightcap by a 9-1 margin.

Jerry Drennan handled the moundchore for the winners in the twilight contest. Ray Hardy was the backstop.

Kenny Walterscheid and Ed Dzuik hurled for the losers and V. Walterscheid and Jesko shared catching chores.

In the evening's windup, Dub Hair yielded only five hits good for a lone run to hurl his team to their 12th league win over one loss. His mates, meanwhile, picked up nine hits and as many runs off the slants of C. Clark.

Monday's schedule calls for Magnolia and Summerfield in the opener and C & R-Jiggs and Dawn in the nightcap.

A complete box score for the C & R-Jiggs-Knights of Columbus game was not available, but the Hereford Hardware — Summerfield box was as follows:

WSCS To Have Visitation Week

The Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist church met Wednesday at the church for the regular fellowship luncheon. Hostesses were Mesdames G. W. Newsom, Don Davidson, C. B. Williams, and J. W. Thomas.

Tables for the luncheon were decorated with an unbroken chain suggestive of a linked progressive visitation program which will get underway on Wednesday August 15. The varied colors of the chain links represented the different phases of the visitation program and toy automobiles here and there indicated the journey to be made.

The program will start from playing of the chimes, the church at three p.m. at the Mrs. S. L. Easley, president of the organization, conducted a business session in Ward hall after the luncheon. Home made aprons and home made soap were sold among the members.

The program was opened with the devotional lesson given by Mrs. E. W. Solomon entitled "They went everywhere telling the story of Jesus."

The main speaker for the afternoon was Mrs. E. L. Jacobsen of Adrian who painted a picture with wool scraps to tell the story of the W. S. C. S. from its beginning. When the picture was completed a complete unit of the work of the organization was shown.

Mrs. Floyd Ross gave a pep talk on the progressive visitation program explaining its purpose and goal.

Sixty members were present. Special guests were Mrs. E. L. Jacobsen, Adrian, Mrs. Edith Hughes, Lubbock and Miss Mildred Elliott of Alpine who is visiting her sister, Mrs. J. J. Durham.

GEHL!

The Gehl Row-Crop Attachment is a single unit . . . power driven. Has patented spiral gatherers (instead of chains). Really gets tangled and lodged corn. No annoying break-downs, and less tendency to knock off ears. All gears enclosed and running in oil.

Engine Drive or Power Take - Off Drive

The Main Unit consists of the cutter, feed rollers, wheels and draw bar. On this can be mounted any of the necessary attachments and either a power take-off or motor.

The Engine Drive. The guard has been removed here to show the VEE-BELT DRIVE. The single heavy vee-belt avoids the trouble with uneven stretch sometimes encountered with multiple vee-belt drives. There is a throw-out lever for the clutch and a speed reducer to bring the drive pulley speed down to the correct rate and to change the direction of rotation. You can see the trailer hitch projecting at the rear.

The Power Take-off Drive is mounted on the platform which would otherwise receive the engine. It runs in ball bearings, has a telescoping section for adjustment of length. An over-running or free-wheeling clutch allows the flywheel to run off its momentum when the power stops. It has high grade universal joints and is equipped with 1 3/8" spline connection which fits most tractors. For other size tractor connections use an adapter.

The size of the tractor, when using the power take-off, should be one capable of pulling a two 12"-bottom plow, providing the wagon is driven alongside. A larger two-plow tractor will pull it with the wagon trailing. However in both of these cases, the tractor limits the capacity of the machine. For full capacity we recommend a three-plow tractor.

Rotarians

they want the swimming pool.

What will they want next year?"
McFarland, referring to a question in The Sunday Brand's public opinion pool where a reader said that the white people could do the work, asked Troyce Carmichael if he could get white people in the fields.

Carmichael explained that when his potato crop was ready, the market was high but labor was short so he appealed to Amarillo for aid. He finally got a white crew, but they were unsatisfactory. They can't be depended on for this type of work, he commented.

He and McFarland further explained that a white person is built differently than a Mexican and their backs hurt when doing a type of work which demands constant bending. White workers they said in answering a question, were better at chopping cotton. "Where people can stand up to do their work," Carmichael said, "I'll take whites."

In answer to a directed question, Bezner said merchants should welcome Mexican labor into town to help harvest the crop. He said the laborers are all broke when they come to town. They make good money and spend it all here. Approximately $100,000 per day is circulated back through the merchants through the potato crop, he said.

(McFarland earlier had said he was misquoted in The Brand after the Lions club roundtable on the Mexican situation in regards to the amount of money paid labor here per day. According to the president of the Texas Citrus and vegetable Grower's association, the potato crop means about $100,000 per day to Hereford. That includes field and shed labor PLUS the income off the potatoes.)

Bezner went on to say that as this $100,000 is circulated among Hardwick volunteered his opinion do all in their power to have a place for these people—including recreation and housing. Some live in tents, he said, and some do not even have that much. "I don't know what the people here would do without help," he added. Bezner told the group that on his place there are about 50 Mexicans in a seven-room house. "You can imagine the living conditions."

Bezner concluded, "I do believe it's up to the city or community. We all reap a harvest off the labor and if we continue to use labor, we are going to have to spend some money with it."

In answer to a later question, Hardwick volunteered his opinion of how much of the labor money stays in Hereford. He asked the group if they had ever noticed the congestion at the post office on Monday mornings as laborers waited to buy money orders to send their money home.

"A week ago Monday," he said, "the post office here wrote more money orders than it ever had before in its history."

County Agent Hugh Clearman asked Faust Collier about the advantages or disadvantages of having the labor on the farm instead of in a central location.

Collier replied that we would get away from that sanitation problem if the labor were in decentralized housing facilities. He said that we have them here, many of them our own citizens. We've found out, he said, that we discriminate. "As Rotarians, we should be careful of how we stand," Collier cautioned. "Let's live and let live and be broad-minded about this thing."

McFarland asked Hardwick if we were fair in comparing the Mexican laborers as a whole with a few we've seen and in trying to form an opinion from dealing with a few.

Hardwick told the group that we had been teaching our children and had been taught ourselves that we were just a little better than other people. "Now that we have a need for them (laborers), we have to erase our teaching. That can't be done overnight."

Grady Rogers was asked by the C of C secretary what he thought this Mexican dollar from the vegetable channel has meant to Hereford in the last few years.

Rogers explained that some reap a nice benefit. His business, he said, has increased by at least 25% of maybe 35% during the months they are here.

"Everybody in the community reaps benefits from Mexican labor should be built by the community and not by the merchant," McFarland was asked how other communities that have Mexican labor deal with the swimming pool problem. He said Mexican Consul Joel Quinones said Brownfield, which has a similar problem, uses a shower and foot bath system and both peoples were allowed in the pool. Any white or Mexican who looked as though he were diseased or who had open sores was denied permission to enter the pool. In Hutchinson, Kans., McFarland explained, the Mexicans swim with the white folks, too.

The question was raised, "What did the Mexican Consul object to?" in Hereford's dealings with Mexican labor?
Senor Quinones objected to one place of business in Hereford, McFarland said, which openly discriminated against Mexicans. The swimming pool situation was also mentioned, he told the group. The consul told the Chamber of Commerce that perhaps 99% of the Mexicans would not go into the pool even if they are accepted there.

Troyce Carmichael said he feels the seat of the greatest evil with the Mexican laborers is that there is no housing.

"There are plenty of good Mexicans," Carmichael said, "who will not live at the camp. It's too noisy there and they can't sleep."

"When we get adequate housing and bathing facilities for them on the farm and move out of the mess where the labor agitators can work on them; when we get them out of the camp, then we'll get better Mexicans," Carmichael told the group.

Frank Bezner was asked if he thought city and county law enforcement officials were "too tough" on migrant labor.

"We have our laws," Bezner replied "and the Mexicans should abide by it. I don't think that the law goes out and tries to find them. When they (Mexicans) break the law, they should be picked up."

McFarland said Mexicans were the ones causing all the trouble among the Mexicans, rather than disagreements between whites and Mexicans.

"This farm housing deal is wonderful," McFarland states in explaining the housing problem.

In answer to a question on whether or not anything is being done on the farm housing problem, Francis Hardwick said that this one thing (housing on the farm) would come nearer being the solution than anything.

"The Chamber of Commerce is trying to get the county to take over the labor camp. If they succeed, the Texas Employment Commission will send a man to run it."

He told the group, that when he or any other business man gets a worker or workers to come to Hereford, he has to get his own housing for his help.

"In a way, it's the farmer's problem to look after his own help," Hardwick added.

"Labor is necessary, we're going to have to accept it," he continued. "We have to quit making excuses and quit passing the buck. We have to accept the Chamber of Commerce plan or think of a better one."

Clifford Cooper of Pasadena, Calif., has been a visitor for the past week in the Leroy Aven home.

Brorman - Paschel Vows Exchanged Wednesday

Arrangements of white gladioli and fern on the main altar and vases of white and orchid dahlias provided an appropriate setting for the marriage of Miss Katherine Brorman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Brorman, and Anthony Paschel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Paschel, Wednesday morning.

Father Dominic Kenny performed the double-ring ceremony in St. Anthony's Catholic church at 8:30 a.m. Mrs. Arhart Reinart, organist, gave the wedding music and accompanied the choir which sang "On This Day" and "Pams Angelicus". Edward Dzulk, soloist, sang "Veni Jesu."

Miss Mary Paschel, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor. She wore pale pink marquisette over taffeta featuring lace trimming and a bustle effect in the back. She carried a colonial nosegay of blue carnations. Bridesmaid was the bride's sister, Miss Ann Brorman, who wore a pastel blue dress identical to that worn by the honor maid, and carried a nosegay of pink carnations.

Anthony Brorman, brother of the bride, served as best man and Mr. Rorbach was groomsmen. Ushers were Vincent Walterscheid and Joe Brorman.

The bride wore a traditional wedding gown of white slipper satin fashioned with fitted bodice having a deep lace-trimmed yoke of illusion and leg o' mutton sleeves. The full skirt featured insets of lace at the hemline and extended into a cathedral train in the back. Her tiered veil of illusion was caught to a halo encrusted with seed pearls and she carried a white prayer book topped with the wedding bouquet of white fringed carnations showered with white satin streamers.

Following the wedding the wedding party was entertained at a breakfast given in the country home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brorman, and the wedding dinner was held in the home of the bride's parents.

After a brief wedding trip the couple will return to Vega to live where he is engaged in farming.

Miss Alma Faye Knox is Bride Of Ronny Durham in Home Rites

Miss Alma Faye Knox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Knox, became the bride of Ronny Durham, son of Mr. and Mrs. Byron Durham, in an 8 o'clock ceremony Sunday morning in the home of the bride's parents. The double-ring ceremony was performed by Leroy Carver, minister of the Whitharral Church of Christ, a classmate of the bridegroom at Eastern New Mexico university, Portales.

An altar background was arranged in front of a picture window for the service featuring tall baskets of white gladioli and white tapers in seven-branched candelabra.

Miss Thelma McMinn played a prelude of wedding music as the guests were arriving and accompanied Celine Brown who sang "Through the Years" and "Because". Billy Paul Knox, brother of the bride, lighted the candles.

Strains from Wagner's Bridal Chorus from "Lohengrin" marked the entrance of the bridal party. Miss Lynda Schultz of Stratford, Okla., was the bride's only attendant. She was attired in a pastel blue ballerina dress fashioned with strapless lace bodice with matching lace bolero, and a full, full skirt of net over taffeta. Her picture hat was of net matching the skirt and she carried a colonial nosegay of pink feathered, carnations and stephanotis tied with pink ribbon. Bill Braudt of Dallas served as best man.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a ballerina-length gown of white nylon lace over bridal satin. The fitted bodice was finished with a wide V-neckline edged with a ruffle of net and featured a deep puffed yoke which extended at the shoulders to form tiny puff sleeves. The yoke was also edged with a ruffle of net.

Her tiered veil of imported illusion fell to fingertip length from a tiara embellished with seed pearl and pearlized orange blossoms. Her only ornament was a double strand of pearls, the gift of the bridegroom, and she carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations and daisies surrounded by stephanotis, tied with wide satin ribbon and cascaded with love knots.

The bride's mother wore a navy sheer frock with a corsage of Peace roses. The bridegroom's mother wore pink lace with a corsage of white gladioli.

Reception Is Held
The wedding, which was attended by relatives and close friends, was followed by a reception for an approximate 100 guests. The hostess was assisted by Mesdames C. B. Thomas, Elmer Patterson, Coy Phillips, and Henry Hastings.

The table was laid with a handmade crocheted cloth over blue satin and centered with an epergne filled with pastel shaded sweet peas and fern. Mrs. Paul Creek of Portales served the tiered wedding cake and Miss Coline Brown served punch.

When the couple left on a wedding trip to points in New Mexico and Colorado, the bride was wearing navy linen with pink accessories. Her hat was of pink lace straw trimmed in navy.

Upon their return they will make their home in Portales, N. M. where he is a junior at ENMU. Both Mr. and Mrs. Durham are graduates of Hereford high school and she attended ENMU the past year. At present she is employed at the Southwestern Public Service company in Portales. Both participated in school activities and church interests of the city.

Garden Ceremony United Miss Seymore Sam Hershey Sat.

In a garden ceremony at the home of the bride's uncle, T. G. Seymore, in Lubbock, Miss Evelyn Elizabeth Seymore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Seymore of Winnipeg, Canada, was married to Sam R. Hershey, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Hershey, Saturday morning Aug. 11, at 7:30. Carl Spain, minister of the Lubbock Church of Christ, was the officiant for the double-ring ceremony.

A bower of gladioli and carnations provided the setting decorations against the natural garden background.

Attendants were Miss Bessie Kindrick of Lubbock and Donald Shipley of Hereford.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a gown of ice-blue Duchess Satin fashioned with fitted bodice and sweetheart neckline outlined with embroidery of sequins and seed pearls that extended in points across the front of the bodice. The long fitted sleeves came to points at the hand and the immense skirt which swept into a long train in the back, was shirred at the waistline and attached to the bodice with a slender cord. Her tiered veil of illusion was held by a satin cloche edged with seed pearl and sequin trim to match the bodice. Her flowers were white orchids carried on a white Bible, cascaded with white satin streamers and love knots. Her only ornament was a strand of pearls.

Miss Connie Gribble, vocalist, and Jack Bungess, organist, provided the wedding music.

The bride's mother wore a red silk shantung with white accessories and a blue carnation corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a gray sheer with navy accessories and a pink camelia.

Following the wedding a reception was held in the uncle's home, after which the couple left on a wedding trip to Corpus Christi.

For traveling, the bride donned a red silk shantung featuring a butterfly collar and slim skirt. After August 15 they will be at home at 1625 Broadway, Lubbock where he will be a senior student at Texas Technological college during the coming school term.

Miss Reba Dones, soloist, sang "Because" and "Through the Years" accompanied by Miss Thelma McMinn, who also played a prelude of wedding music and the traditional wedding marches. "I Love You Truly" was played softly as vows were exchanged.

She wore a bonneted white pique hat trimmed in navy velvet and carried a hand bouquet of white gladioli tied with white satin streamers.

MRS. TROY MOORE

Pies Still Lead List of Men's Favorite Desserts

Midsummer brings the urge to stay out of the kitchen as much as possible, hence the popularity of recipes that require little cooking time or perhaps none at all. There are many summer-time recipes which are effective and delicious, yet may leave the culinarian time for other pursuits that tend to be in more attractive places than a hot kitchen.

Pie continues to be the favorite dessert with men — summer or winter — and many of the lighter offerings for summer have that melt-in-your-mouth texture that is so delicious, that men really go for them.

Angel Pie has been a favorite with Mrs. Troy Moore's family for a long time. She serves it for dessert at the end of a meal and it makes wonderful party food. Here is her recipe:

Angel Pie
CRUST—Beat two egg whites until foamy, add 1/8 teaspoon salt, 1/8 teaspoon cream of tartar and beat until it stands in peaks. Add 1/2 cup sugar gradually and beat again. Add 1/2 cup chopped nuts and 1/2 teaspoon vanilla and spread in a greased pie plate, smoothing out the center to form a nest for filling. Bake very slowly (300-F) until slightly browned. Set aside to cool.

Filling
 1 cake Baker's Sweet Chocolate (1/4lb)
 3 tablespoons hot water

1 teaspoon vanilla
 1 cup whipping cream.
 Melt the chocolate and add the water, blending until smooth. Allow to become perfectly cold, add vanilla and fold in the stiffly whipped cream. Pour in meringue shell and chill in refrigerator.

Another wonderful summer concoction is Chocolate Chiffon Pie—A crumb crust is indicated for this but for those who prefer the baked crust, two or three crusts may be baked at a time and set aside for future use.

Chocolate Chiffon Pie
 3 squares grated chocolate
 1/2 cup hot double-strength coffee
 1 tablespoon gelatine
 1/4 cup cold water
 3 egg yolks
 1/2 cup sugar
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1 teaspoon salt
 1/2 cup sugar
 3 beaten egg whites

Melt chocolate in hot coffee, add gelatine softened in cold water and dissolve. Beat egg yolks light and add the 1/2 cup sugar, salt and vanilla, and blend well with chocolate and gelatine mixture. Allow to become cool and then fold in the beaten egg whites to which has been added the second 1/2 cup sugar. Pour in pie shell and chill in refrigerator. Top with whipped cream.

This also makes good party fare as well as a delight for the family.

Irrigation Area "Shows Off" To Best Advantage

The Deaf Smith irrigation area "showed off its Sunday best" to about 50 farmers and businessmen from the Tucumcari, N. M. area Thursday, and did it mightily convincingly.

Through an arrangement with the Tucumcari Kiwanis club and the Hereford Kiwanis club, the men were given a conducted tour of the area and shown firsthand the tremendous advances progressive farmers have made in this area with their underground water reservoir.

Visitors were shown the full range of crops turned into cash through the magic of irrigation—sugar beets, corn, grain sor-ghums, lettuce, potatoes, cotton, and grasses.

Special attention was given to irrigated pastures and clovers, for that proved to be the greatest thrill of the day for the visiting farmers.

The visit will no doubt be exchanged before too long, for the Tucumcari people were very appreciative guests.

Credit for this successful venture in neighborliness goes to County Agent Hugh Clearman and to the Hereford Kiwanis club which carried the ball after Clearman started it rolling.

We have much to gain in this area by sharing our knowledge of progressive farming practices. We will not only benefit directly, we will also gain indirectly by building up the entire Southwest.

One would only have had to been on the tour Thursday to realize what a tremendous thing we have here. Think of the good we can do by welcoming—or maybe even arranging—more tours of this nature.

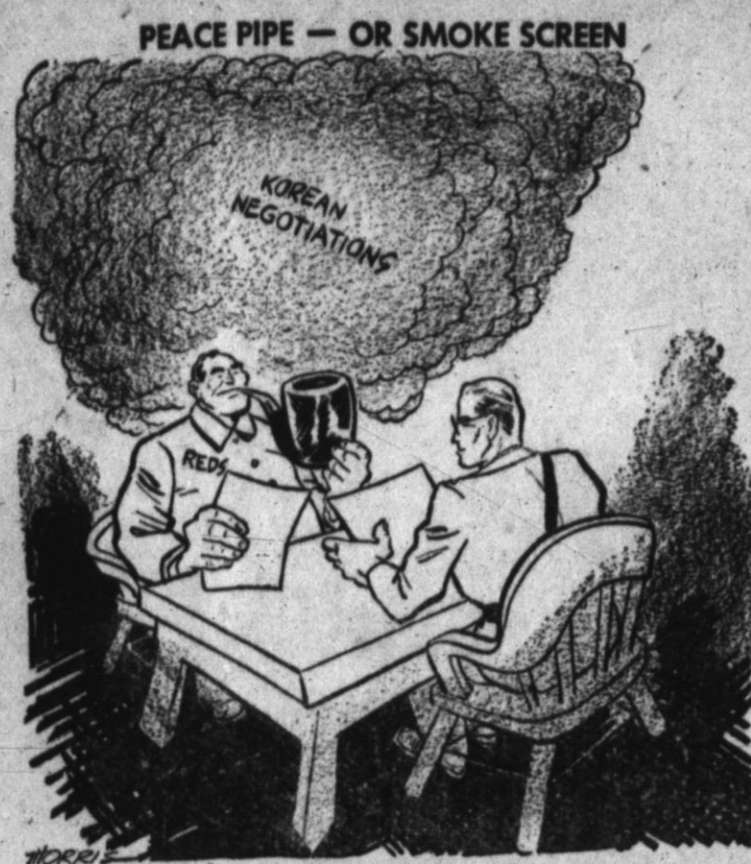

Our farmers in this area are not only working for their own betterment, they are also interested in aiding the progress of their entire industry through sharing the story of their successes and proffering their advice on the best farming procedures.

We had much to show men of the soil from the Tucumcari area, who are just beginning to benefit from their own irrigation project. We did it well.

Thursday's tour could have done nothing less than give them a favorable impression of farmers in this county making the very best use of what they have, and doing a bang-up job of it at that.

It was a wonderful experiment. It was carried out well from the beginning to end. Each person on the tour—regardless of how seasoned a farmer—carried something new away from this tour.

Each host from this area also carried away something—a deep sense of pride arising from the realization that he was an essential part of all the fine things being done with the land in Deaf Smith county.—W. W. K.

SUNDAY'S CURRENT QUESTION Views on Securing Industry in Hereford Expressed by Readers

Do you think Hereford should make a determined effort to secure small industry here?

E. W. CAWTHON—I certainly do because a community of this size any industry that we have here will help the community as a whole. It will bring in capital and with the facilities we have here such as railroads and truck lines small industry should do very good.

MRS. TOM McFARLAND—I think that it would be an awfully good thing for the town. I think that all small towns need small industry to make the town grow and to make people take more interest in things.

MRS. J. J. BOYDSTON—Yes, I do. I think that our population is growing and there is a need for something for these people to do.

DR. JOHN H. CHANNER—I certainly do. I believe that particular problem is the only thing that will solve the real problems that we have. It will make the town grow, something that we all want it to do, and will make more working people and a better payroll which is what we definitely need.

HUB HOMER—There's no doubt but what we should if we could. Getting it will mean a great deal to the town. It will mean payrolls that we don't have now.

CECIL GUSEMAN—Yes I do because we need it.

MRS. BILL WOLFE—I think that we should do something about encouraging industry here. I think that we should give information on the soil and get larger industries such as food packing plants interested enough to bring plants to Hereford.

GEORGE GRAHAM—A steady payroll such as an industry would provide would be a definite asset to our community, assuming that we have the facilities necessary to make industry thrive. As long as the industry would be one that would provide wholesome and profitable livelihood it should be encouraged.

The BOOTLEG Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his farm near Bootleg, has another idea to get out of work, if you ask us, his letter this week reveals.

Dear editor:
It was so hot here yesterday I was able to read only the front page of my newspaper, takes too much energy to turn a page in weather like this, and down toward the bottom of the page I noticed an article advising farmers to keep an eye on germ warfare.

That is, as I understand it, the next war will have some novel ideas in it, apart from shootin' at each other, and among these will be biological warfare, which I understand consists of the enemy spreading disease among livestock, or boll weevils in the cotton, or potato bugs in the potatoes, or corn borers in the corn, etc.

Now you take the ordinary farmer, he's gonna have a hard time discoverin' when war has been declared, as he's already afflicted by about all the insects there are. Why I've seen years when my crops was so infested, if I'd known about biological warfare, I'd figured the rest of the world had just declared war on me. Talk about wild rumors, we're gonna have plenty, but the thing has its brighter side.

For example, it's gonna be mighty handy to be able to tell your wife, no use tryin' to make a crop this year, the Russian airborne boll weevils will get it before a man has a chance to get started, or them Chinese beetles will sabotage me, sure as anything.

And I've been thinkin' what this country needs is an anti-insect belt, a buffer area, sort of like a radar network, to repel an invasion, to sort of protect the rest of the crops, and if suitable financial payments can be arranged, I will enlist my farm in such a plan. Will let it grow up in weeds and grass, so when foreign insects hit here, they'll starve to death before they can get on over into the real farm section. By strategically locatin' similar farms throughout the country, we might be able to whip the thing. Washington ought to get to work on this right away. Will be glad to lease my farm for a reasonable amount to the government, and meanwhile will bend every effort to get it in the proper run-down shape and will guarantee to keep it that way. When danger threatens American agriculture, you'll find me willin' to do my part.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Chinese Profiteer
AMERICAN truce negotiators in Korea have noted with interest that the Chinese Communists are using American jeeps. The American public has also wondered not only how the Communists were able to obtain American equipment, but why the Nationalist government was driven out of China.

The sub-rosa operations of the Chiang Kai-Shek family may be one of the answers. Another of their operations has just come to light—a move by a Chiang brother-in-law, with other wealthy Chinese to corner the soybean market at the expense of the American public.

The brother-in-law is T. L. Soong, brother of foreign minister T. V. Soong, who formerly handled much of the three and a half billion dollars worth of supplies which the United States sent to China during the war. The soybean pool netted a profit of $30,000,000 and shot up the cost to the American consumer $1 a bushel.

One of the strange things about the soybean manipulation was that its operators knew exactly the right time to buy up the world's soybean supply—a few weeks before the Communists invaded Korea.

Recently this column told how Eugene Soong, son of T. L. Soong, together with L. K. Kung, son of Dr. H. H. Kung, another brother-in-law, sold a huge quantity of precious tin to the Chinese Communists. As a result Secretary of Commerce Sawyer has now barred this group, together with three law partners of Ex-Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson, from getting export licenses to trade with any country for three years.

It was the father of Eugene Soong, T. L. Soong, who bought up half a million bushels of soybeans before the Korean war in May, 1950.

GOP Targets for '52

A frank outline of GOP campaign strategy for 1952 was presented to key Republican senators' assistants by A. B. Hermann, the energetic national committee executive director, in a private meeting the other night.

The tall, banjo-eyed Hermann, one-time big-league ballplayer, confessed: "We won senate seats last year wherever we took our gloves off. There were only two states we should have taken and didn't and that was because our nominees refused to punch hard—Missouri and Connecticut.

"Why," complained Hermann, "we had to bootleg speakers like McCarthy into Connecticut."

The "prime targets" in 1952, he said, were Scott Lucas in Illinois; Francis Myers in Pennsylvania; Elbert Thomas of Utah, and Millard Tydings of Maryland.

Turning to Frank Smith, assistant to Sen. John M. Butler, who defeated Tydings, Hermann continued: "We did a beautiful job in Maryland and Utah, Frank. I don't see why the Democrats yelled so much about the composite picture in your campaign, when, by comparison with the anti-Thomas newspaper in Utah, your publicity was like a country gentleman's."

He referred to the fact that in Utah, a supposed "congressional record" with statements attacking Thomas as a pro-Communist was circulated to all mailboxes in the last hours of the campaign—so late that Thomas had no opportunity to reply.

"We all know Senator Thomas was not a Communist," Hermann explained, "but these tactics were necessary to balance the pseudo-liberal newspapers which were for him."

Pointing to Dick Cardall, administrative aide to Sen. Arthur Watkins of Utah, Hermann continued: "There's the fellow who gets a lot of credit for that victory. Senator Bennett (the Republican who beat Thomas) is very much indebted to him."

The 1952 target areas, Hermann indicated, were to retain all Republican seats in the New England and Atlantic states, and pick up new senators in Arizona, New Mexico and Wyoming.

"We have Republican governors and some patronage strength to put on real scraps," he explained. "Also, we have a fighting chance of picking up seats in Maryland, Kentucky, West Virginia and strengthen our position in the south."

"On the other hand," he said, pointing to a map behind him, "we could lose four or five senators."

Oil and Gold

Ex-Sen. Sheridan Downey of California recently met radio correspondent Rudy Block in a Capitol corridor. Downey, who rose to political fame on an old-age pension scheme known as "ham and eggs," a number of years ago, is now lobbying at $3,000 a month for hide-lands oil.

"Well, Senator," said correspondent Block, as they shook hands. "I see it's from ham and eggs to oil and gold."

REAL "SNAKE BITE"

An air base employee who handles a deadly poison in his work has built up such a resistance to it that when he was bit on the leg by a rattlesnake one afternoon the man went his way unharmed. The Portales Tribune reports that the snake curled up and died.

HONESTY IS BEST POLICY

A Mission Times newsboy found an envelope containing four crisp new $100 bills and a $20 bill. With the help of his employer and his parents, the newsboy located the owner of the envelope. His reward, one of the $100 bills, is good proof that honesty pays.

PASS THE POTATOES OR ELSE

Husbands had better pass the potatoes when their loving spouse asks them to if they don't want to find themselves divorced. According to a report in the Stephenville Empire, a woman divorced her artist husband because he threw the potatoes in the floor and mashed them with his foot instead of passing them to her as she had asked him to do.

COMMISSIONED AT AGE OF TWO

Two-year-old William L. Swint Jr. received a letter commissioning him as a second lieutenant in the Army. A freak accident was the cause of the predicament. A clerk had mistakenly tacked the Jr. on the name. The letter was for the boy's father, reports the Hockley County Herald.

NO PLACE TO SLEEP

A Weslaco man had a good alibi when the fire department accused him of smoking in the dog house and catching it on fire—his wife was out of town so why would he be in the doghouse. He is worried, however, about where he will sleep when his wife gets back to town and finds out what has been happening while she has been gone.

PEEPING TOM?

A man was arrested last week as a "peeping tom" but was released when the police department couldn't find anything in the books to cover the situation. It seems he had been arrested at midnight looking out his car window with binoculars. He said that he had become ill and had pulled over to the curb—he did not explain the binoculars.

OUTDATED ORDINANCES

The Sun News tells of a city ordinance that requires railroad conductors to wire ahead if any passengers show signs of the sniffles or other symptoms of contagious diseases. If the city should decide to start using the ordinance again, all travelers with head cold had better steer clear of the city. Another ordinance permits the arrest of a householder who is unfortunate enough to have a damp basement.

FULL ICE BOX

A house wife bought a new electric refrigerator and gave the old icebox she had to a junkman who left it on his truck over the week-end. Two children playing house on the truck opened the icebox and found a small box wrapped in newspapers which contained $13,815. The woman's husband had cached the money in the icebox unknown to her, according to the Portales Tribune.

Some folks sure are gluttons for punishment.

With the thermometer simmerin' at 100 degrees or maybe a little more, and most of us in the fields wishin' for even a broom weed for shade, Miles Roberson leaves a nice air conditioned buildin' and a comfortable chair and goes out to dig post holes all afternoon.

The Texas Department of Public Safety has the newspapers and radio makin' an effort to discount rumors about the new motor vehicle law which will not go into effect until January 1.

The department plans an education program to begin in November to inform the car owners that they must either post bond, deposit satisfactory security or even in some instances become self-insurers but it still looks to us that for the majority it borders on compulsory insurance.

From the number of sacks bein' set up in the patch over at the M. H. Buss place in south Hereford there ought to be enough onions to cause a lot of weepin'. Mr. Buss and Mr. Geer, his father-in-law, have grown onions for several consecutive years and have all the figures on just what it costs to grow an acre.

Most of the time onions prove to be a good money crop, but the one year we had anything to do with them, we worked with 'em until we couldn't look a hamburger in the face for a long time afterward.

To all the folks who have been waitin' for blackeyed peas—they should be ready to pick by the time you read this so grab your aprons and baskets and come a runnin'.

Imagine a model town—set apart from the rest of the world by a 12-foot steel fence. Imagine in this town, approximately three miles square, a community of 10,400 people: men and women, boys and girls—working, playing, living on a mountain peak 7,300 feet above sea level. Add the stress and tension of secrecy, the danger of annihilation and a vague uneasiness as to the eventual outcome in case of success.

How would you build this town? How would you house these people? How would you furnish them with life's necessities? How, above all, would you keep them contented and happy?

LOS ALAMOS, New Mexico, birthplace of the atom bomb, is probably the only town in the world where these questions can be answered.

Established in the spring of 1943, Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory was originally America's topmost "Hush-Hush" project.

From the obscurity of "P. O. Box 1663, Santa Fe, N. M." behind which it was hidden during World War II, it has emerged as one of the most important installations in the atomic energy prison—as we swerved right in to a lane designated for visitors. Halting in front of the stone building I entered and asked about our passes, which had been previously arranged by my sister who holds a secretarial post under Atomic Energy Commission. The young man produced the passes from his file and asked for identification. I produced my driver's licence which, much to my embarrassment proved not to have been signed.

"That's alright," drawled the fellow. "I've got a Texas license myself and I don't think it's ever been signed."

Questioned on the subject, he proudly admitted that he was a Texan born and reared, then added, "There's an awful lot of Texans around this place."

He finally approved my identity from a credit card, but refused to allow Clara to enter until she secured her pass in person and provided identification. Fortunately, she had signed her driver's license, which was the only item of identification she had with her. Children under 12 years of age are admitted without passes.

ENTRANCE GATES to Los Alamos, N. M., birthplace of the atom bomb. Armed federal officers and F. B. I. stand guard over the only entrance to a city of 10,400 people. Passes are required on entering and leaving the premises which are entirely surrounded by a 12-foot fence. Radar and other precautions also help guard the city.

program of the United States. Approximately 30 scientists were originally secreted on the Pajarito Plateau of the Jemez Mountains. Secretaries, few and carefully chosen, were not allowed to tell their friends and relatives where they worked. The original idea was to experiment toward successful development of the atom bomb. How well this little group succeeded is now a matter of history—and another story.

In those days the few persons connected with the research project expected the Laboratory to be a small operation. Perhaps 100 people, they thought. By the end of the war, however, there were about 3,000 scientists, technicians and Laboratory personnel, surrounded by a bustling town of more than 7,000 people. Today approximately 10,400 people populate Los Alamos and the projected total calls for 12,500. The growth of the community presented problems by the thousand. Problems seldom ever faced before in the history of the world. How a few of these problems have been met and answered can perhaps be gleaned from the following personal visit of two days in Los Alamos.

A thrill of adventure tingled down my spine as we approached the gates of Los Alamos on the modern, two-lane highway. Armed men in Federal uniform stood guard over the little world—more secure than the average TYPICAL APARTMENT HOUSE Average rent runs from $60.95 to $87.43 on a two-bedroom apartment. Government built and owned, all housing is scheduled to amortize on a plan similar to F. H. A.—except the government retains ownership even after full payment.

THE LODGE, headquarters for official visitors and paying guests, when not filled, is government owned and operated by ZIA, Inc. This building was formerly Los Alamos Ranch for boys dormitory and stood 25 years before atom bomb laboratories were started at Los Alamos in 1943.

"We do not encourage visitors. We do not seek publicity," an official in the public information later told me. "You can only enter by knowing a friend or relative who will vouch for you—unless your business is official and approved."

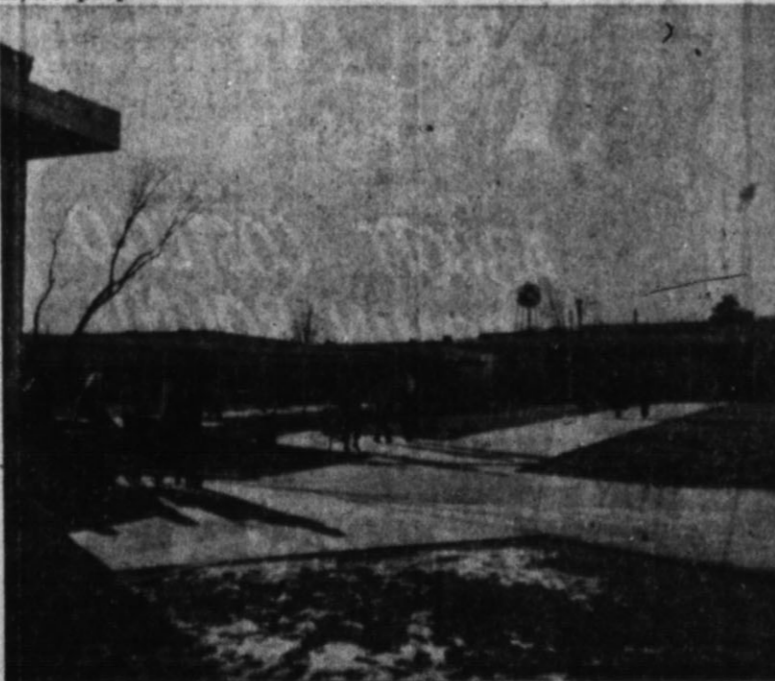

"When people do come in we treat them as nice as we can, but we do not encourage the practice."

Regarding this article, he said, "Your opinion is your own. Go as far as you like on living conditions. Interview anyone you wish. Pictures may be taken of any point not enclosed by fences."

Articles which make wire services and magazines must be cleared through the office for accuracy, but no strings were tied on publications the size of The Brand.

Leaving the entrance gate, we drove along a wide, paved highway surrounded by fenced enclosures and after approximately one mile entered the outskirts of the town. The word, "ZIA," appeared on most of the first buildings—and suddenly we coasted into a section literally lined with dormitories and apartment houses. As we followed this artery, we encountered traffic lights at intersections and noted that the wide, paved streets were carefully marked with signs. The north and south streets were labeled with street names, while the east-west streets were designated by numbers—much in the same fashion as Hereford. We observed and spoke about the Spanish type architecture and beautiful lawns, all uniform. Soon we discovered the community center and drove into a large Texas Service Station and Firestone Store which, we learned later, was personally opened by Harvey Firestone, Jr.

Los Alamos now has two shopping centers. They consume a very small portion of the space in the community and are not too easily located by strangers. The one fact that absolutely amazed me was the small number of stores required to serve 10,400 people. The field seemed fairly well covered in all forms of shopping needs—but the number of stores was limited. The town has only three grocery stores, two drug stores, two service stations, two garages, one hotel, one theatre, and one cafeteria, although both drug stores do a thriving business in sandwiches and similar foods. Other businesses I observed were two cleaning plants, and one each of the following: variety store, department store, furniture store, dress shop, jewelry store, sporting goods store, beauty shop, barber shop, bakery, furniture shop, bowling alley, men's store, radio station and a semi-weekly newspaper.

When you compare the small number of stores at Los Alamos with the number serving 4,000 people in Hereford, it is amazing. By the same standards, the Park Avenue Village shopping area could almost take care of this town. At least, the space required would not be more than twice that of the Village.

Business firms in Los Alamos bid for the concession and pay regular royalties. Trouble is beginning to brew over the community, due to outside activities of residents who operate small business in their homes. It is a No. 1 headache for officials and still remains to be solved.

Los Alamos is served by a dial system telephone exchange—and it was in this manner that I located my sister who gave directions to her apartment house. After making this contact, we found that she had reserved rooms for us at The Lodge. The rooms were exceptionally nice and the rates were reasonable. Because Los Alamos operates on Day Light Saving time, we missed lunch at the Lodge and ate at the cafeteria, which can handle approximately 800 guests and which remains open 20 hours each day.

The Lodge, incidentally, is the one remaining trace of the town's original aspect before a modern research replaced the 25-year-old Ranch School for boys. Originally a dormitory, the lodge has been remodeled and improved befitting the requirements of scientists, government officials, generals, admirals and other visiting officials. It is operated very much like a hotel, but is not particularly in business to make a profit. This is because it is maintained for "business guests" rather than social visitors. It is operated by ZIA and the sheets are all marked "Property of A. E. C." They do rent rooms, however, when occasion permits and they are not crowded with official guests.

I don't know about celebrities, but I do know that ordinary people carry their own bags into and out of the lodge. This seems most unusual, since the surroundings and accommodations border on being elaborate. Our room, in addition to attractive, comfortable furnishings, boasted a sliding panel under which was located a small apartment refrigerator.

Since it is readily apparent that no mention can be made regarding the atomic energy program, writing an article about Los Alamos is slightly difficult. Folks on the "Hill", as the town

Carlos Fallon's Family Story One of Adventure and History

Reviewed by Corinne Jennings

There are many varieties of Fallon in Carlos' family who originated in Ireland and went to Colombia in the 18th century. Carlos Fallon, now an American citizen and a successful lecturer proves to be also a good story teller in his book, "A Variety of Fallon."

Beginning the story in Colombia when the author was a small boy, he tells of their early life there, the family, their relatives, customs of the country, amusing incidents, an earthquake and much about the beauty of the country.

Upon the decision of the mother of Irish descent, who loves liberty and wants her family to vote by "ballot rather than by bullets", the family came to America. Unknown to the father she pulls strings to get him appointed as consul to America with New Orleans as headquarters.

To reach a port they sail down a river on a raft, one of the first to ever have accomplished the feat at the time. With many adventures and no serious mishaps they reach their destination.

Of the first night on the raft, Carlos, then still a small boy, recalls, "By this time the sun was low in the sky, so it was decided to pole the raft into the stream and beach it for the night on a sandbar near the other bank. In the tropics, when the sun gets low in the sky, you have to hustle because there is no long graduation still remains in service. The town also has a Baptist, Methodist and Catholic Church. Other faiths meet in scheduled places. Catholic, Jewish and Protestant faiths are well represented. Some retain resident ministers, while others meet with clergymen from nearby towns. (Continued to next Thursday)

ual period of twilight. When night falls it is, just as through somebody had suddenly turned out the lights."

"Morning is just the opposite. After a long period of quiet, the birds on top of the trees begin to sing and all of a sudden everything is bright; the dewdrops on the leaves shine like diamonds in the sun, and for a short two hours the jungle seems actually cheerful and friendly."

All through the story there are flash-backs of history, by letters, stories told by the father, mother and relatives, as to the early day

Fallons and the mother's people, giving the reader a lot of early South American history, in a light and entertaining manner.

In New Orleans, life is one constant adventure for the boys, at school and out of school where they meet and make many friends and learn a new way of life in a city of many facets.

When Carlos meets and falls in love with Maureen, he finds that her family talk to him in English and about him on the side in French, which he understands—unknown to them—so early in the romance he knows where he stands, but with a few difficulties, they work things out to the satisfaction of all concerned.

The Fallon brothers add a lot of excitement to the story and the boys cover a lot of ground in America, and their homeland as well as sailing in between.

A good, clean wholesome story it is recommended for both adults and boys and girls of high school age says Mrs. Boydston, librarian at Deaf Smith County Library.

Mrs. Roy Crutchfield and children and Mr. Hooker left Tuesday to go to San Antonio to visit Mrs. Crutchfield's brother who is to leave for overseas soon.

Mrs. George T. Brashear and Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Sanders of Corpus Christi returned to their home Tuesday after a week's visit here with relatives.

Barbara and Alfred Turner returned this week from Anson, Texas where they visited their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. McDuff.

LaPlata Program Ready for New Season

Judging from the past records, there is every reason to believe the LaPlata Study club will have a successful 1951-52 season. Mrs. J. M. Thomson, president, is confident that the enthusiasm and cooperation of the past will prevail in the coming year's work and that the club will go on to bigger and better achievements.

Wherever Mrs. Thomson has lived, she has taken active part in club work and she is looking forward to working with a wide-awake membership which will assume individual responsibilities.

She can boast of being a native Texan for she was born in nearby Olton. She attended Mary-Hardin Baylor college at Belton, receiving her degree there. At the time of her marriage, she was teaching in the Westway school and then the couple moved to Alvin where her husband was engaged in business.

Their liking for this section of the country drew them back to the Panhandle in 1946 and both are happy to call Hereford their permanent home. For the past four years Mrs. Thomson has been teacher of commercial studies in Hereford high school and secretary to Superintendent George Graham.

As a girl, Mrs. Thomson was interested in the study of music. Since she will not be teaching this year she hopes to begin where she left off and do some serious study in music. She is a member of the First Baptist church and is interested in the young people's work. At present she has a class of young married women.

Her genial disposition makes her a favorite with young people as well as old, and her past experience in group guidance will undoubtedly benefit her in LaPlata club leadership. During the war she served with the civil defense in a Look-Out group, assuming a regular post of duty.

Mrs. Thomson spends much time sewing, since she designs and makes most of her own clothes. She is affiliated with the Olton Chapter of the Order of Eastern Star and is a member of the Scottish Rite Ladies club. Someday she is going to travel. Trips to Canada, Old Mexico, and points of interest in the states have given her a desire to see the world and now her plans center around a trip to Hawaii.

Since 1947, Mrs. Thomson has been associated with the LaPlata club and has served it in many capacities. The club was organized and federated in 1933 and each year its year book outlines follow those recommended by the

MRS. J. M. THOMSON

General Federation of Women's Clubs featuring the number of required programs of the Texas Federation.

Among the club's projects each year is the annual Hobby Show, which will not be held in the Spring this year as previously scheduled, but will be held in the fall. Other annual projects include: a musical festival as a community service; welfare donations to Cancer Fund, Heart Fund, and Tuberculosis Bond and contributions to some needy family during the yule season. The club also acts as sponsor for the Tanda Camp Fire Girls.

A tip from...

GLAZED BROILERS

Broilers range from 1 to 2½ pounds. Small broilers are often served whole, 1 to a person. Larger ones are usually split or quartered.

BARBECUE SAUCE (for 4 small broilers)
Sauté in ½ cup olive oil until lightly browned,
2 medium-sized onions, finely chopped.

ADD—

- 1 cup tomato paste
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon basil
- ½ cup steak sauce
- ½ cup Worcestershire sauce
- 1 teaspoon dry mustard
- ½ cup strained honey

Allow to simmer 5 minutes, stirring constantly.

ADD ½ cup red wine (optional)
Allow sauce to come just to the boiling point.
Strain through a fine sieve.

Marinate the broilers in 2 cups of the sauce for an hour. Preheat the gas broiler. Place broilers on the broiling rack, skin side down, so that the bony side is about 3 inches from the flame. Allow the chicken to cook 12 to 20 minutes, turning frequently, and brushing both sides with the barbecue sauce throughout the cooking process.

ENJOY easier broiling... more leisure... and serve savory, full-flavor foods that will delight the entire family. With controlled flame cooking foods retain their natural flavor. Select a gas range—the choice of smart young moderns. Now is the ideal time to see the display of distinctive, new, fully automatic GAS ranges on display at your dealer's. You're sure to find one that exactly meets your cooking requirements. Every one offers outstanding top-of-range, oven and broiler facilities, plus a host of other advantages.

YAN-NA! PERFECT KING HAS FALLEN NEATLY INTO MY TRAP... AND THAT'S BETTER!

RUSTY RILEY by FRANK GODWIN

YOU SAY THE WHITE MARE YOU'RE THINKIN' OF WAS NAMED "REINA BLANCA," EH? THAT'S SPANISH FOR "WHITE QUEEN," AIN'T IT?...WHAT'S HER OWNER S'POSED TO HAVE DONE TO GET HIM RULED OFF THE TRACKS, SAM?

IT HAPPENED RIGHT ON THIS TRACK... 'BOUT THE ONLY SERIOUS COMPETITION THE WHITE MARE HAD WAS A BROWN STANDARD-BRED NAMED "POO-BAH" AND DRIVEN BY CORNY BOTTS...

POO-BAH AND REINA BLANCA WERE LEADING THE FIELD AT THE FAR TURN, NECK AN' NECK, WHEN THE LEFT FORK OF CORNY BOTTS' SULKY BROKE AND HE WAS HURT SO BAD HE HASN'T DRIVEN SINCE.

THE ASSOCIATION OFFICIALS GOT AN ANONYMOUS TIP THAT "CATFOOT" KENDALL, OWNER AN' DRIVER OF THE WHITE MARE, TAMPERED WITH CORNY'S SULKY... COME WITH ME A MINUTE ... I'LL SHOW YOU.

HERE'S THE VERY FORK, TEX... IT'S BEEN LAYIN' ON THIS JUNK HEAP FOR MONTHS... IF YOU LOOK CLOSE, YOU'LL SEE THE BREAK SHOWS THAT IT WAS SAWED ABOUT HALF THROUGH, SEE?

BY CRACKY, YOU'RE RIGHT! AND YOU SAY THE OFFICIALS WERE TIPPED OFF?

YEP... SOMEBODY WROTE 'EM A LETTER SUGGESTIN' THEY LOOK INTO "CATFOOT" KENDALL'S KIT BOX... AND, SURE NUFF, THEY FOUND A HACKSAW WITH FRESH STEEL FILINGS IN THE TEETH!

HM-M... PRETTY STRONG EVIDENCE... BUT IT AIN'T POSITIVE PROOF... WHAT DID KENDALL SAY?

OH, CATFOOT SWORE HE DIDN'T EVEN OWN A HACKSAW, BUT ANOTHER WITNESS SAID HE HEARD HIM SAY HE'D "TAKE CARE OF CORNY BOTTS," SO THEY RULED HIM OFF ALL ASSOCIATION TRACKS FOREVER... DURN SHAME, I SAY... I DON'T BELIEVE HE DID IT!

I SEE... WELL, THANKS, SAM... JUST A COUPLE MORE QUESTIONS... WHO WAS BOTTS DRIVIN' FOR?... AND HOW DID KENDALL GET THAT NICKNAME "CATFOOT"?

CORNY BOTTS DROVE FOR "GRASSY ACRES" STABLES... AS FOR KENDALL, HE GOT THAT MONICKER, "CATFOOT," 'CAUSE HE ALWAYS WORE REAL SOFT SHOES LIKE MOCCAGINGS.

THANKS AGAIN, SAM... I'LL BE SEEN' YOU.

IT DOESN'T SEEM LIKE SNOWFLAKE CAN BE THE HORSE SAM WAS TALKING ABOUT... HER DRIVER WAS "CATFOOT KENDALL," BUT QUEENIE'S NAME IS JONES!

WELL, I DUNNO, RUSTY... DRIVERS SOMETIMES TAKE A PROFESSIONAL NAME... TAKE A WALK OVER TO HIS SHACK AND HAVE A LOOK AT HIS SHOES.
