Hereford Official 1950 Population 5207 Persons

Hereford is over the 5000 mark in population!

According to final figures released on October 26 by the U.S. Department of Commerce, Bureau of the Census, Washington, D. C., Hereford has an official population of 5207 persons.

This new figure compares with a previously announced 1950 census count of 4808 persons.

Deaf Smith county is listed as having 9111 persons in the 1950 census as compared with 6056 in the county in 1940.

The county registered a 50.4% population increase during the past 10 years.

The city of Hereford has jumped from 2584 persons in 1940 to the 5207 official listed at the present time.

No reason for the 399 person increase in the size of Hereford was given in the table sent out by the Bureau of the Census.

First knowledge of the increase came from a story appearing in the Amarillo Daily News mail edition Saturday morning listing Hereford as having a population of 5207.

The Brand checked with Mayor W. E. Dameron Saturday to see if any official confirmation of the increase in population had been reported to him. He had no report in his office.

The Brand then made a telephone check with Fred Tripp, of the Amarillo Globe-News regional staff who wrote the story of the new population figures. The release he received from the Bureau of the Census was dated October 26 and contained all the Panhandle populations.

Under the new population figure, Hereford could look forward to several advantages by being in the 5000-person class.

Other population figures show Friona with a 1950 population of 1202 persons, and Parmer county with 5787. Dimmitt has a 1950 population figure of 1461 and Castro county has a 5417 total.

$125,570 For Two-Year Rental of 1299.7 Acres

Two lease contracts covering 1299.7 acres of Deaf Smith county irrigated farm land and rentals totalling $125,570 for a two-year period were filed in the office of County Clerk Robert L. Thompson on Friday, Oct. 26.

Both leases were granted, either wholly or in partnership, to Charles E. Huston, El Centro, Calif., vegetable grower. Mr. Huston was not in town and could not be contacted as to his plans for the two sections of land.

The two leases take effect on January 1, 1952 and continue in effect until December 31, 1953. Both carry option to purchase.

One contract, completed October 25, is for the two-year rental at $60,350 of 647.5 acres of land—the whole of Section 175 in Block M-7 in Deaf Smith county and 7.5 acres of Section 1, Block H.

Huston leased the land from F. L. Alexander with an option to purchase the land on November 30, 1952 for $98,867.90 or on November 25, 1953, for $88,450.80.

The first year's rental of the section is $25,350.

The land leased by Huston under this contract is located six miles west and one mile south of Hereford, just off the Harrison highway.

A second contract filed in the county clerk's office Friday was for the leasing of 652.2 acres of land for a two-year period by Charles E. Huston and Leo J. Storm. The lessors are E. A. Goetsch and W. H. Goetsch.

The price of the two year lease under the agreement, which was signed on October 24, was $65,220 cash. Rental period is from January 1, 1952 to December 31, 1953.

Location of the land covered in this contract is 12 miles north of Hereford and one mile west. The legal description is Section 85, Block K-4.

This contract carries an option to purchase the land at $125 per acre on January 1, 1954.

W. J. McMinn Funeral Rites Here Monday

Burial services will be held here at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon in West Park cemetery for W. J. McMinn, 77, former Deaf Smith county resident, who died in an Abilene hospital Friday morning.

Mr. McMinn had been in poor health for some time and had been in the hospital since suffering a stroke two weeks ago. Funeral services were conducted Saturday afternoon at the University Baptist church in Abilene.

Mr. McMinn and his family moved to Abilene in 1921 and he has served as treasurer of the University Baptist church for 30 years.

Besides his wife the deceased leaves three children, Frank of Texarkana, Ollie of Abilene; and Mrs. Earl Copelan also of Abilene. One sister, Mrs. J. F. Ward of Hereford and a score of nephews and nieces in Hereford and Summerfield.

Two Veterans Groups To Meet Tuesday Night

The annual joint meeting of the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars will be held Tuesday, Oct. 30 in the clubhouse at Veterans Park, beginning at 8:30 p.m.

Annual reports will be presented before the combined memberships by L. C. Thomas, secretary-treasurer, and election of one board member will be taken up. The three-year term of one director, Earl Wood, is up for election.

Members of the joint board are: Wood, Cecil Parker, and Charles Crowell.

Speaker for the evening will be Joe Smith. His topic will be "Ancient Wars."

Taxi Permit is Available Here

A new award for a taxi cab permit in Hereford will be made next week, according to Mayor W. E. Dameron.

A permit, issued to Gene Brownlow, to operate a taxi service under the name of Safeway Cab was revoked by the city commission at a meeting on October 23 following filing of bootlegging charges against Brownlow.

Mayor Dameron said the field is "wide open" for anyone wishing to secure the permit. "The city," Mayor Dameron explained, "is interested in seeing that the public is protected and is definitely interested in seeing that the permit goes to someone interested in giving safe, courteous and efficient service with good cabs and good drivers."

The lettuce market hit a new high here for the season—$6 for the four-dozen size. The market crept to the new mark from a steady last week of $5-$5.25 per crate. The cool weather is ideal for the crop, lettuce men say, if there are not too many hard freezes.

Monday, Nov. 5 Change For Home Mail Delivery

Monday, Nov. 5, has been designated as the day once-a-day home mail delivery will be inaugurated to some additional 150 families in Hereford's newer additions, according to Postmaster Jim Lipscomb.

This date has been set pending the installation of street signs in Blevins addition by the City of Hereford, the postmaster said. He has been assured, he informed The Brand, that temporary signs would be placed in the addition so that home delivery can be executed as planned.

Coinciding with the extension of home delivery will be the revision of rural route one and the inclusion of several new (an estimated 60 or 70) patrons for rural free delivery to their door.

The rural route, which has served city residences for some time, will be re-routed, in many cases, to deliver the mail in front of the homes instead of at central corner delivery points.

New mail service altogether will be added in the Mabry addition. This will bring the city delivery to three full routes and one auxiliary route, plus delivery to city residents on rural route one.

The flurry for letter boxes to handle the new mail delivery has exhausted the supply in Hereford stores and also in Am- (Continued on page 3)

Grandstand Gropings

By Kent Snare

After all the reams of persiflage and umbrage printed and all the words bated and aimed about the recent Blair Cherry article in "Satevepost" I have no sagacious comment to ascribe but I heartily endorse one portion of his comment. My endorsement is predicated on a personal eyeball version of the Tennessee Texas game mentioned in the Cherry paragraph which follows, "Quote", "That's the story of 1950 for me. We encountered a Tennessee team on New Year's Day that blocked and tackled harder than we did, and did it longer. As much as I would have liked to add a Cotton Bowl trophy to the Sugar and Orange gimcracks my teams had collected for Texas, there were no alibis and few regrets. I had a hard time realizing that for the first time in over 25 years I wasn't a football coach." "Unquote". Like always, it's your money. That's the way she was "writ". My endorsement was for the blocking and tackling only with an additional nod for the lack of comment on the merits of the "T" over some other system—General Neyland, the engineer of those Tennessee requisites, blocking and tackling, coyly disclosed the other day another coaching theory of his, that may or may not have surprised those unfortunate coaches who have opposed his teams. The good General opined that you had more opportunities to score from defense than from offense, particularly if you aggressively created some of the openings. He stated that it was possible to score offensively by only three methods, running, passing and kicking, whereas on defense it was possible to score via a fumble, a pass interception, a punt return, a safety or a blocked kick. That's five scoring avenues on defense and if you have ever seen Tennessee's guards in action you know that consternation to the enemy is their prime objective and that they work for a fumble constantly—I won't have much opportunity to view any football this week-end if I meet the deadline set by the Whipcracker of this Gazette, so I will have to concentrate on by-gones since I can't qualify as a football prophet after the mishanter of last week's attempt—I had my little parley about the arblers in the Frionafraes last week and an episode ament of same came to mind, to wit: The following sequence of events is sworn to as having taken place at the very beginning of a ballgame in the deep south on sunny day. First, the pitcher smacked the batter on top of the head with a high sailing pitch and the ball plopped gently into the first baseman's mitt. The enraged batter flung his bat cross the knees, and the two men rushed at each other, fists flying, out on the pop-fly, and the first baseman threw the ball at him, hitting him below and between the kidneys. Then the umpire punched the first baseman in the nose, separated the pitcher from the batter, and made his ruling: "Nothing counts, we start all over, batter up, play ball"—And if you don't like that one, maybe you won't like this kibbled one either—All football players are not like this one. The professor was examining the next husky prospect, and after asking a few simple and innocent questions

The umpire turned his back on field, refusing to rule the batter which were answered correctly, he shot out with, "If Texas is the biggest state in the union, how old am I?" The husky youngster paused before replying, "48" he answered finally. Up went the professor's eyebrows. Right," he exclaimed in surprise. "How did you figure that out?" "Oh, it's a simple problem in arithmetic," replied the lad. "I've got a friend who is only half-crazy and he's "24" — Well that's for now, join you next week to view Floyd-dada's fall — "See, Pally"— no punch lines for ruination.

Board Discusses C of C Revision

A proposed plan of re-organization of the Hereford Chamber of Commerce which would include the entire county in its membership is being discussed and considered by the board of directors of the C of C, according to Tom McFarland, secretary-manager.

The new step, if taken, would broaden the scope and size of the Hereford Chamber of Commerce, allowing a fuller use of the organization for the benefit of the entire county.

Cards will be mailed to current members of the Hereford C of C this week, McFarland explained. The members will be given the opportunity to suggest a new name for the new corporation.

Potential membership of the new organization, if made into a county-wide undertaking, would be in the neighborhood of 2500 members. Current membership in the local chamber of commerce is around 300, McFarland told The Brand.

The regular monthly luncheon meeting of the Chamber of Commerce will be held tomorrow (Monday) at Hotel Jim Hill. This and other important regular business will be taken up during the session.

Three Accidents Bring Damage of $2700 This Week

There were no injuries in three automobile accidents this week but total damage for the three was estimated at $2700.

The first accident occurred Monday morning at 7:45 six miles east of Friona when a 1950 Studebaker Champion, driven by George L. O'Neal of Dallas went off the road and rolled three times. Highway Patrolman Dumas, who investigated the accident, said that O'Neal apparently went to sleep and lost control of the car. The car was a total loss.

Monday afternoon about 5 p.m. a Reo truck driven by John F. Cheatham, backed off a railroad embankment and overturned. Damage to the truck was estimated at $300.

The third accident involving two cars took place about noon on Tuesday at Dawn. A 1950 Ford driven by William J. Frank Jr. of Fort Worth, was going west on highway 60 when it was hit from the rear by a car driven by Benjamin Atchley of Summerfield. Atchley was also traveling west.

Damage to the Frank car was estimated at $800 and $450 to the Chevrolet.

a dinner to be served in the Jim Hill hotel for the Bishop, clergy, and special guests.

Thomas Condron S. A., will speak on behalf of the Graymoor Garrison from New York City. Mayor Dameron will represent the city of Hereford at the festivities at Hotel Jim Hill. Also on the program will be Fr. Dominic, St. Anthony's pastor. Fr. Dominic will act as toastmaster at the banquet. Frank Bezner, chairman of the building committee, will also speak at the luncheon.

The new church, with a 650-700 seating capacity, was first begun with groundbreaking ceremonies May 7, 1950. The buff stone modified mission-style building seats from 650 to 700 persons.

O. R. Walker of Lubbock was the architect. C. M. Hicks of Hereford was the contractor.

Modern features incorporated into the design of the church include radiant heat, with heating pipe laid in the floor of the church and the balcony; air conditioning; and wrought iron work in the communion railing.

The only old thing built into the new church is the rose window at the front of the church, which was brought from the old church for sentimental reasons.

Built on the corner of Harrison highway and Highway 51, the new edifice is the first step in what will eventually be a parochial center on the corner block purchased by the parish. Future plans include the erection of a school and hall. Steel is already on hand for that purpose. Construction of future buildings will be along the same architectural lines.

Also featured in the new church are wooden statues carved by the Santa Fe Art Studio. St. Anthony's parish has a membership of 128 families and maintains a parochial school with a membership of 130 students. The school is served by five sisters of St. Francis.

Priests at the parish are: Father Dominic, S. A. pastor; Fr. Nathaniel Madden, S. A. assistant and radio program director; Fr. Coleman Gallagher, S. A. youth worker and in charge of the hospital; and Fr. Raymond S. Gillis, S. A., in charge of San Jose church at the labor camp and a school for Spanish-speaking

All mail addressed to the post office box WILL BE DEPOSITED IN THE BOX Carriers who have mail addressed to a home address where there is no letter box will have to bring the letter back to the post office where it will be deposited in the correct box.

This will cause a one-day delay in the delivery of mail, Lipscomb explained.

All three city regular carriers will have part of the load from the new extensions. Billy Wells, carrier on the west side of town, will have the Texas avenue addition. Leon McCutchen, who has the north side of town, will deliver on H. I. J., and possibly Star streets. Baxter London, who delivers the east side of town, will have the Blevins addition extension.

Two deliveries per day will continue in the business section—the auxiliary route. The business route will also have a loop into the residential section for the present.

Glenn Bell carries the business district.

Ike McCutchen will continue delivering the parcel post, according to Lipscomb.

"America Spending Itself Into Socialism": Hagy

"America is spending itself into Socialism" was the warning left with Hereford Rotarians Friday noon by Lawrence Hagy, former mayor of Amarillo, who addressed members of the local club.

Hagy, who has traveled extensively and only recently returned from Europe on a government assignment, gave grave forebodings if present American spending policy is continued.

The Marshall Plan was described by Hagy as a "good thing, that kept Italy and France from going communistic, but, like everything else, you can get too much of it. This is a good time to quit the Marshall Plan", he stated.

He recounted, country by country, how the European nations are bringing themselves out of the recent world war and how they have used ECA funds to do so.

The United States is now the world's number one nation, but we can spend ourselves into Socialism. "Let's conserve what we have," he asked the group.

Hagy mentioned that fact that the Roman Empire—and more recently the once-great British Empire—maintained themselves by taxing the rest of the nations in their empire. America, he said, is doing it just the opposite—Taxing itself to support the rest of the nations in our "sphere".

The speaker dealt rather fully with the case of Britain, which he said had fallen from the top nation in the world to a fifth-rate power.

England, he said, has had two and one-half times more Marshall Plan aid and has shown less post-war progress than any nation in the world.

He stressed the fact that Britain has suffered for six years under the yoke of Labor government.

Cautioning that American can go too far in the realm of socialistic programs, he cautioned, "I hope we don't take any fly-by-night socialistic schemes that were tried and failed in Britain with the loss of a lot of money."

Britons are on a stricter diet now than they were during World War II. They can be taxed as much as $2.73 out of each pound sterling ($2.80).

Hagy was heartened by the outcome of the British elections which returned Winston Churchill to power. "They can never shove all the socialistic schemes aside, however. Once the nationalize an industry, it's hard to put it back in the hands of the people," Hagy said.

He cited some examples where nationalization had cut the efficiency of industry and taken the incentive away from the common worker.

Railroads now have two men for every one needed before nationalization, he said. A man only mines one-third the coal under the nationalization program as he did pre-war. The British have gone too far into this socialism, he opined.

Taking his hat off to the national fortune of the Britons, Hagy said he has confidence in the people. "They have the stuff in them and they're going to make a comeback."

Unlike America, Britain didn't let her army fall to pieces following World War II, so they are in good position as far as national defense goes.

British foreign policy—or lack of it—brought them into the Iranian crisis. Iran, with its tremendous oil reserves and most modern refinery in the world—Abadan—is lost to the British at the present due to their unwillingness to barter and renegotiate their contracts as did other world powers.

The Iranian oil fields are something the Russians would like to get their hands on, but never will, Hagy said. They have no pipeline, tank cars, or waterways to move the oil if they did get it.

Iranian oil is the most valuable thing in the Near East, he told the Rotarians. As a sidelight, Hagy mentioned that Texas oil production—one-fourth of the world production and one-half the United States production—is being called upon to fill the breach with the shutdown of the Iranian oil fields.

Back to England's internal troubles, Hagy said the government was not very well run for the past six years. There is no war talk there, but the people are quietly preparing for defense of their country.

Many feel that if war comes, America will start it because of vast outlays for arms and the fact that Britons believe she will probably want to use them.

The British people "are not getting fed enough to carry on," he pointed out, and their incentive to work is gone. All their previous sacrifice and privation notwithstanding, the British people still feel that they must sacrifice. They still retain their national pride, regardless of the austerity under which they live.

From England, Hagy went to The Hague, where he was an American delegate to an international petroleum conference. Hagy accompanied Brig. Gen. Ernest O. Thompson to the meetings. "The people of Texas should be extremely proud of a man like General Thompson," he said. "He was the most sought-after man at the conference."

Holland "was wonderful" in Hagy's opinion. Prices in that country were the cheapest he encountered during his trip. When the people—at the outset of World War II—opened the dikes and flooded their land to make it useless to the Nazis, they damaged their land with salt water. The land is now revitalized and the Dutch use every foot of land in their small country.

In France, Hagy found a little different atmosphere. High prices reigned supreme and the people found little inclination for work, preferring to spend their time in the sidewalk cafes instead.

France is a "decadent nation" he stated, and the people are "killing the goose that laid the Formation of a state Highway 60 organization with support of Hereford businessmen was sought by two residents of Pampano—Howard Buckingham and W. H. Brymer—who visited with several citizens here Thursday.

In their meeting with local interests, the men reminded them that Highway 60 is now paved across the nation—from Newport News, Va., to the West coast.

They pointed out the advisability of forming a Texas State Highway 60 association to work along with proposed state groups along the trans-continental route of the highway.

Several advantages of Highway 60 over Highway 66 were pointed out by the two men: Highway 60 is primarily a year-round route, which snow does not usually close during some months of the winter; Highway 60 is a much better highway; is straighter, and a quicker route for cross-country travelling.

"It is the intention of each state," says Camber of Commerce Secretary-Manager Tom McFarland, "to organize themselves, forming a national Highway 60 association for the purpose of promoting and publicizing this new all-weather trans-continental route."

Further information regarding the movement will be forthcoming at a later date.

Coffin Happy With Cabbage, $90 Market

Leon Coffin, farmer living five miles north and a half mile east of Hereford, is riding high on the wave of a good cabbage crop. Barring a freeze for 20 days, Coffin expects to make from 12-14 tons of cabbage per acre from each of the 25 acres he has planted.

The reason for Coffin's jubilation is the fact that he has what he called a "hot" market, which will bring him $90 per ton for his crop. Cabbage has usually been selling for $35 per ton.

Coffin has the only cabbage acreage in Deaf Smith county. Cabbage has lost out, he says, because of the increased tendency to plant cotton. If the weather smiles on Coffin, he could make as much as $27,000 from his 25-acre cabbage crop.

G. W. Brumleys Celebrate Golden Wedding Anniversary on Sunday

"Staying married is something young people of today need to think about," is the opinion of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Brumley who celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Sunday, Oct. 21, in their new home on Texas avenue.

Mrs. Brumley recalled that it took just one look at the handsome young man with black curly hair and blue gray eyes for her to make up her mind about him. "And that's the same man I'm married to today," she added.

Her sister married his brother the day she met that handsome young man, and when her sister wouldn't leave home without Mary Caroline, she went along and stayed three months. A few months later, Miss Mary Caroline Roselle of McCracken, Mo., 27, and George Brumley of Christian county drove to a country preacher's home and exchanged those long-ago vows so vividly recalled by the couple Sunday.

Life for G. W. Brumley has been a mixture of ups and downs since he ran away from home at 13 and literally pitched his tent in the hills of Christian county, Mo., where he was born. Things were pretty rough but the things that stand out most in his memory are the many kindnesses of people, for instance the banker who couldn't make him a loan on his crop because he was only 16, but who gave him a personal loan. It was during these hard years in Missouri that he began to measure other people's corn by his own half bush.

Miss Jolene Curtsinger, Bruce Wiggins Married at Portales

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Curtsinger have announced the marriage of their daughter, Betty Jolene, to Bruce D. Wiggins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Wiggins.

The simple ceremony was read Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 24, in the First Baptist church of Portales, N. M. with the pastor, Rev. T. A. Doyle, reading the marriage service.

The couple was attended by Miss Kathleen Brunson and J. T. Cornelius.

The bride wore an aqua woolen suit with pink nylon blouse and a corsage of pink carnations. Her hat was black with velvet trim and accessories were in black.

The Central Church of Christ in Amarillo was the scene of the double ring ceremony. Minister James W. Reynolds of Pueblo, Colo., uncle of the bride, officiated.

Mr. Reynolds gave his daughter in marriage. She was attended by Miss Pat Greer as maid of honor wearing pink satin made with full skirt and lace bolero.

and Misses Marie Edwards and Betty Boger as bridesmaids wearing turquoise satin frocks made identical with the honor maid's. All carried bouquets of pink chrysanthemums tied with ribbon contrasting with their dresses.

The trio, comprised of Fern Carver, Marian Taylor, and Dusky Broadus, all of Amarillo, sang "Always," as candles were being lighted and gave a vocal and hummed version of the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin as the bridal party entered. "O Perfect Love" was hummed as the recessional.

Floral arrangements for the service featured pink chrysanthemums and white gladioli backed by palms and tall candelabra holding white cathedral tapers. Candles garlanded with flowers and ribbons, burned in

Sweet Potatoes Good Source Of Energy, Tasty Also

Sweet potatoes, one of America's native foods, are high in food energy (1/3 more than Irish potatoes) rich in valuable minerals and a source of vitamin A. So besides just being good to eat, they are good for you, one potato gives twice the daily need for Vitamin A.

To get the best advantage of all its vitamins the sweet potato should be cooked in its jacket, but there are as many ways of preparing the vegetable as there are types of food itself. Candied sweet potatoes has grown to be a Thanksgiving tradition in many households, perhaps because the method is so easy to prepare them this way, but other methods of preparation are running a close second to those originated in this country's earliest years.

Mrs. H. M. Benefield offers a delicious sweet potato pie recipe that she has used for many years a favorite with her family.

Sweet Potato Pie
2 cups cooked sweet potatoes
1/4 cup sugar, half white and half brown

1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon cloves or nutmeg
1 and 2/3 cup light cream
2 well beaten eggs.

Mash potatoes until creamy and smooth and add all the rest of the ingredients blending well. Pour in unbaked pie crust and bake in 425 oven for 40 minutes or until done. Serve with whipped cream if desired.

Sweet Potato Balls

Boil sweet potatoes until tender and run through ricer or mash until creamy. To every cup of mashed potatoes allow 1 tablespoon butter and 1/2 teaspoon salt. Add a little cream or orange juice and form into balls placing a marshmallow in the center of each ball. Chill for an hour or two after shaping.

Dilute a beaten egg with 2 tablespoons water and dip the balls in the egg mixture, then in crushed corn flakes just before frying. Fry in deep fat or they may be placed in a buttered baking dish and baked in a 350-F oven, turning often so they will brown evenly.

Concord grapes are also among the gastronomical riches of autumn and Mrs. Benefield also gives you her prize recipe for Grape Juice pudding. This makes lovely party food as well as tempting family fare.

Grape Juice Pudding
2 cups Concord grape juice
1/4 cup instant tapioca
Boil together 20 minutes and remove from fire. Add:

1 cup sugar
1 flat can grated pineapple
1 cup pecans
1 orange rind, grated

Stir all together well and place in refrigerator several hours or over night. Requires no cooking. When ready to serve remove from refrigerator and top individual servings with whipped cream.

hel and when asked how he managed to surmount the adversities that kept following his footsteps, he replied "I guess it was hard work, faith in God and a determination never to give up".

When their young son Bonnie was six weeks old, Mr. and Mrs. Brumley loaded up the covered wagon and moved to Muskogee, Okla. From there they moved to Ponca City, where they found the country wild and the Indians friendly. That winter he shucked corn for the Indians and they lived in a tent among them.

Later they leased a small farm near Bearden, Okla. and put up a long cabin. Then misfortunes came fast and furious to be climaxed by the serious illness of Mrs. Brumley. "Nobody can be kinder than an Indian," Mr. Brumley said as they recalled that the only wagon for miles around belonged to an old Indian and there was no time for delay. It took all day to drive the 18 miles into town where the kindly old doctor performed the operation on a cook table.

Finally, when Mrs. Brumley had to have hospital care, they moved back to Springfield, Mo., and he worked for five dollars a week in a grocery store. When they had saved $80 they opened a grocery store of their own but he sold everything the first day and had to close until he could stock up again. Soon he had a nice business, but when the doctor suggested that they go west for Mrs. Brumley's health he decided to go to Tucumcari, N. M. On May 31, 1906, they filed on a claim 22 miles southeast of Tucumcari and lived in a dugout for three years until the centipedes drove them out. They still own the 160 acres.

The thrill of returned health came before long. "In no time I could tell Cal was going to be all right. We hadn't been there three months until she was twisting rabbits out of a hole as quick as anybody," he remembered. It was while they were in New Mexico that he thought he had killed her. She was holding a post while he was driving it into the ground and the axe flew off the handle and struck her in the head. She still has those scars. There wasn't a soul for miles around but he brought her back to consciousness and treated the wound himself. Three of her children were born in New Mexico without the assistance of a doctor, for there was none available.

The Town of Tucumcari was so tough that even the men stayed in groups for safety, and Mr. and Mrs. Brumley decided they didn't want to rear their family in such surroundings, so in 1911 they moved to Hereford.

After peddling fruit and doing a little bit of every thing, he started a hog business. He was the first to establish a hog market here and made a big thing of it. He shipped the first carload of hogs ever shipped out of the Panhandle and ran checks and drafts through the First State bank amounting to 18 million dollars. When the market went to pieces, it caught with cars loaded and many would have given up then but, before too long he had a thriving garage business going with the Chevrolet agency. At one time, he had the Bull barn full of used cars and came near losing a fortune when it caught fire. Fire also wiped out a wholesale oil business he was operating.

He operated the garage business for 15 years and it was during that time that he acquired large ranch interests. With 20,000 bushels of wheat just harvested, fire swept through the granaries and again his head was bowed.

He has had many interests, business interests, fraternal interests, civic, and religious interests, but he has always been a rancher at heart. He always had a few cattle someplace. Now as he views his large ranch holdings and herds of cattle that graze his pastures, it isn't the fact that the hard days are over that counts, its the way he never gave up, the way he overcame each misfortune. Now he could retire but he hoots at the idea, "I always did hate a quitter" he said.

He is still active in other fields. He helped organize the Security State bank of Farwell and is still a controlling stockholder. He was instrumental in organizing the Hereford State bank and is a director of that bank. He is a director of the Texas State Life Insurance company, Dallas, and is also a director in the Hereford National Farm and Loan Association.

Mr. and Mrs. Brumley are both members of the First Baptist church and he has served as deacon for the past 20 years.

Both are young in heart and the radiance of happiness brought by the years together shines in their smiles. They are the parents of seven children, 14 grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

Double Surprise for a lot of folks

EVERY time we publish the price of a Buick, it seems to surprise a lot of people, because they come in and tell us so.

They just can't believe that so little money buys such a lot of car—but it's true.

And that brings us to the second surprise—which is how much power and performance—how much comfort and room—what a long list of standout engineering features you get for the price.

Take power. You'll find that no other car at the price of the Buick SPECIAL pictured here delivers the horsepower you get from its high-compression, valve-in-head Fireball Engine.

Take comfort. The best thing to do is try the depth of its seats—their width—and the headroom you get in this Buick SPECIAL, and judge for yourself.

Take the ride. This Buick has big soft coil springs on every wheel, plus the solid firmness of a torque-tube keel—and the way this combination smoothes the bumps is something that's hard to match in cars costing a thousand dollars more.

Take the way it steers. Buick engineers have given this light-handling beauty a special "front-end geometry" that almost does the steering for you—even brings the front wheels back to a straight line when you come out of a turn.

And you can add to all this Dynaflo Drive—that puts magic smoothness into every mile you drive—and practically repays its extra cost by the way it protects the whole driving mechanism, and by the dollars it adds to trade-in value.

So if you have been hoping, some day, to own a Buick—what's holding you back? If you can afford any new car—better come in and see us now.

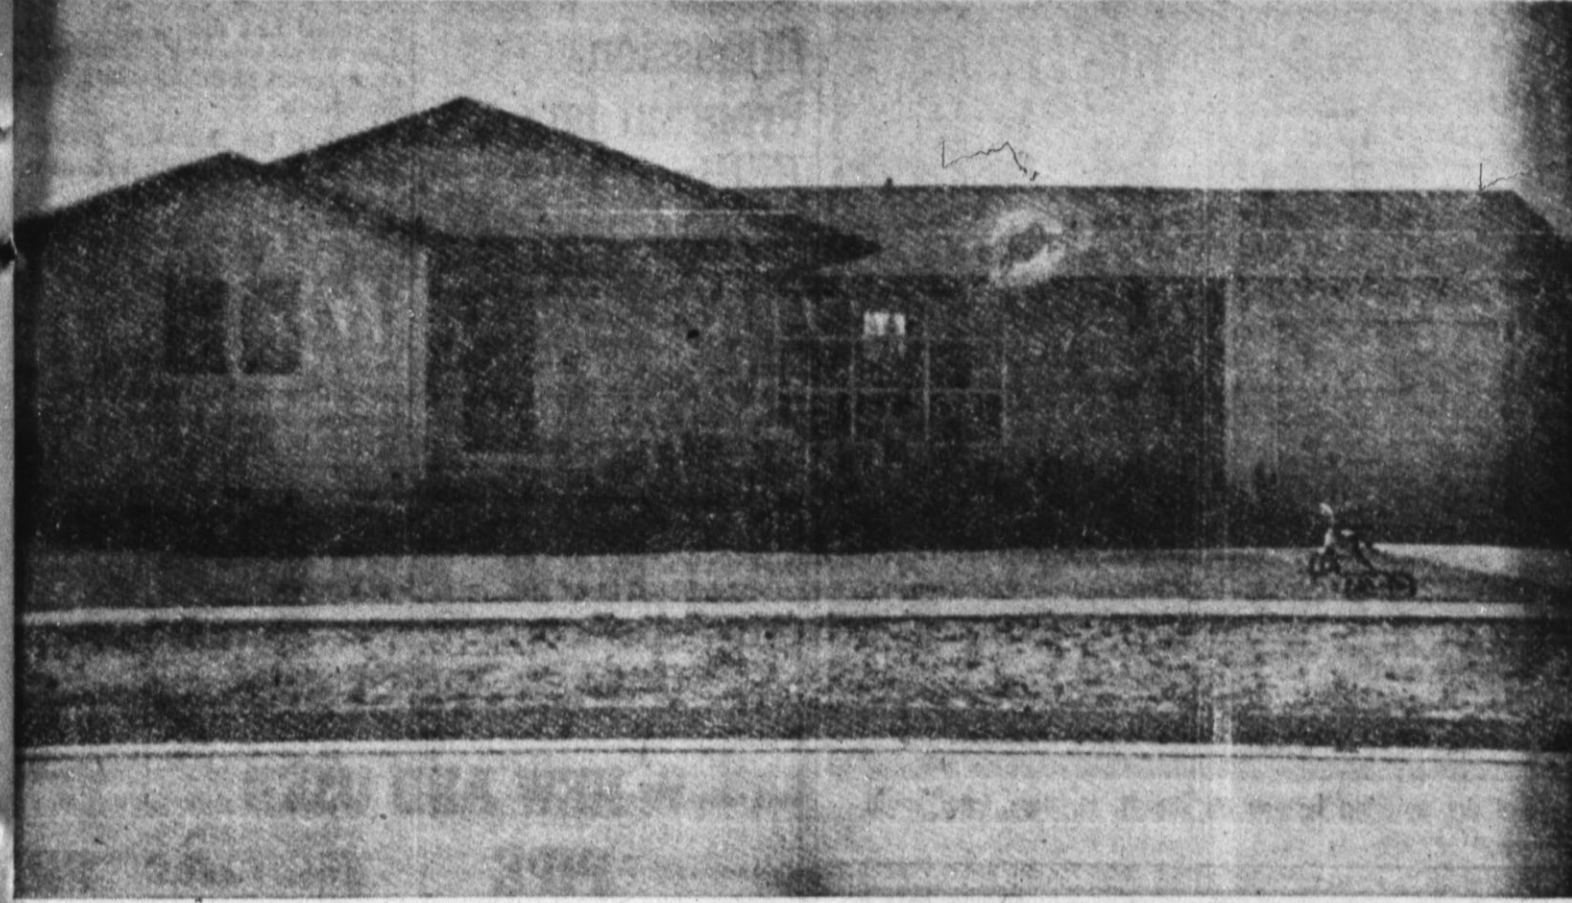

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice. Standard on ROADMASTER, optional at extra cost on other Buicks.

Tune in HENRY J. TAYLOR, ABC Network, every Monday evening.

The piano quartet representing Mrs. J. H. Hinds studio, and presented on the luncheon program at the Seventh District, Texas Federation of Music Clubs held here recently, was given an "outstanding" rating by Mrs. Larry Hansen of Borger, chairman of the junior division of the district. Those making up the quartet of players were Virginia Sigle and Don Glenn of Dimmitt, and Joe Bill Wills and Nancy Crawford of Hereford.

the church windows and marked the pews reserved for relatives. The bride was dressed in traditional off-white satin designed with fitted bodice of lace and deep net yoke and long pointed sleeves. Her full skirt was glamorized by a wide band of lace at the hemline extending the length of the long train in the back. Her veil of imported illusion fell in three tiers of scallops and was held in place by a band of orange blossoms. Her something old was her grandmother's wedding band and she wore a single strand of pearls, the gift of the bridegroom. The bridal bouquet was a single white orchid surrounded with lilies of the valley. The bride's mother wore pink lace over mauve and the bridegroom's mother wore navy lace. Both wore double gardenia corsages.

Reception in Church Parlor
 A reception in the church parlor followed the ceremony. Included in the house party were Miss Ida Miller, Mrs. Otis Griffith and Mrs. James W. Reynolds.

When the couple left on a short wedding trip to Ruidoso, N. M., the bride wore a gray gabardine suit with black kid shoes and bag and purple hat and gloves. After the trip, they will make their home in Amarillo at 1401-A Twelfth St.

to my mother, began an explanation of why I was late, paying no attention to the innocent little brother standing nearby. Possum, to my consternation, snorted, squealed, put his head down between his stiffened legs, and went into a spectacular pitching dance.

I think I rode the first leap as I felt the saddle hit me once, hard, but must have been in mid-air as the second jump caught me square and hurled me over a small mesquite tree just outside the corral. Why I was unhurt only a good providence could tell. Possum bucked and ran, pigeonwinged, corkscrewed and put on every stunt known to horses to unseat riders, broke every girth, ran the whole circle of the horse pasture fence and finally came back to us without saddle, blanket or bridle but still clutching a corn cob that the young brother had slipped under his tail. We didn't know why Possum came back to us unless he felt that he had wronged an "innocent party" or hadn't taken a revenge on the guilty one. Anyhow, he obediently turned toward the stable when the small brother mounted him. Pausing at the water trough for a drink, Cliff couldn't resist the temptation to jab two sharp little thumbs into his shoulder while his head was down. Possum was almost too tired to exert himself again but he did and Cliff sailed over his head and landed in the water. It was too dark to see but we heard the splash and later a very wet little boy came in to supper, slightly crestfallen but still up to mischief.

Our lives were full of adventure. There were social affairs well worth the 10 to 50 miles we travelled to attend—ranch dances, roundups, brandings, antelope hunts in which we girls rode and turned the herds toward the men with their rifles, and wolf chases with dogs.

Our two famous deer hounds, Pompey and Caesar, qualified as expert wolfhounds and even forgot their dignity and high estate to the point of chasing pale cats when aided and abetted by the small brothers. It was no uncommon sight to see two little boys returning from the skunk hunt as naked as the two hounds with them and nearly as sick. The boys had buried their garments to rid them of the stench but the poor dogs had no help but time and air.

Winters were long and cold and snow often kept us in for days but we turned even big blizzards into festivities. The lakes froze over and formed gorgeous skating rinks and we had many gatherings by the side of the big one in front of our house. It held water the year around and occasionally froze over when there was no wind and the surface was as smooth as glass and quite as slippery.

We skated, slid and danced, had bonfires on the banks (the bonfires were made of cow chips augmented by a few cedar posts), made coffee, broiled bacon, even cooked chicken stews, told tales, held hands and made love in the good old fashioned ways.

Thaws had a way of coming suddenly and unexpectedly. They were usually welcome to the beasts. Once an older brother and I hitched a team to a sled, wrapped up with blankets, heated irons to keep our feet warm and "went to town."

We made good time with our improvised sleigh, transacted our business, got the mail, bought groceries, visited with friends (there were always friends) loitered about, and when we started home, to our dismay the snow had almost disappeared. By leaving the road and traveling on the grass we encountered scattered patches of snow enough to make sledding possible if not comfortable but one of these patches was slick enough to throw sled and passengers into the horses' heels. They promptly ran away (horses always ran away, it seemed), broke loose from me and the loaded sled but Percy held on to the lines and became a human sled himself, sliding feet first, held upright by the taut lines still attached to the fleeing horses. He said he thought the prairie was afire.

We were not lacking in means of entertaining ourselves within the family. We could assemble a whole band, piano, violin, guitar, mandolin and banjo and could muster a square dance and caller with a game of dominoes or checkers on the side. We were remarkably healthy and had few illnesses save a few broken bones received in handling wild horses.

One epidemic of smallpox caught and shook us terribly though. Some neighbors brought our mail, fed our cattle and branded our calves but talked to us only from a great distance. We were not very ill, any of us, but we felt ourselves outcasts. An elder sister and a caller on Sunday afternoon during that time. He was an elderly beau who was rather more than slightly deaf. She wasn't answering doorbells so a small brother (there was always a pestiferous small brother about) took over, explaining in a low voice that he'd better ride on out of danger and ended with shouting, "WE'VE GOT SMALL-POXI!"

The would-be Romeo stood in stunned silence for an instant. Then when the full significance burst on him he lent wings to his feet and leapt into his buggy, gathered up the reins, cracked his whip and started to drive away but alas—his horses were still tied to the hitching post. So died a romance a-borning.

But even smallpox couldn't last forever and pretty soon everybody was well and happy and eager to be up and out. A general fumigating and cleaning took place and we began to seek outside companionship.

One episode that stands out pre-eminently in my mind is the barn dance we gave. A visit of our parents to the two married sisters living in Hale county necessitated their starting early in the morning. They had not reached the front gate (which was, by the way, five miles from the house), when the three brothers left their plows, two mounting and riding in different directions to invite all and sundry to a dance that night at the White Tower ranch while the third brother reared the barn. The largest wheat bin was cleared and swept, sacks of grain laid against the walls for seats, a few chairs borrowed from the house for the fiddlers, lanterns hung from the rafters and we were ready to dance. And you can take it from me, no modern dance floor could excel that smooth crackless one laid down by our father to hold wheat and rubbed and oiled for years by the rich grain.

Entrance was a little unconventional and called for some athletic prowess. One climbed a ladder half a dozen rungs, crawled through a trap door and down the same distance inside. We had been left in the charge of a dignified older schoolteacher sister who was home for the summer vacation and much to our surprise she fell in with our plans and cooperated to the extent of making pies. The pies she did make—rhubarb, grape custard, chocolate, and coconut pies. And one fearful concoction she called buttermilk pie, wagons for small children for there were no baby sitters then. One couple couldn't dance as they had run over a pole cat on the way but they sat on the tank dam all evening listening to the music. The caller who was expected didn't appear so one brother had to double as first fiddler and caller assisted by a guest or two.

Guests began arriving before dark, some with beds in their hands. Dancing was spirited and fast even in those days, a square, then a waltz, polka, and schottische, etc. until midnight when we repaired to the house. Pies and hot coffee were served from a long work bench set up in the yard. The light streamed from the kitchen door across the improvised table, a big moon rolled overhead and pearly the dew drenched grass and we were young. Many of those who were

Beauty at Home

By Lynn Carter

Q. How can I put a glow back into a jaded complexion?

A. With a quick beauty pick-up mask. Lie down and elevate the feet so the blood rushes to the head. Soak cotton pads in witch hazel and place them over the eyes. Rest for 15 minutes to a half-hour. Women with oily skins can use a mask twice or three times a week. Women with dry skins should not mask more than once weekly.

Q. What exercise will help fill out an extremely thin face?

A. Try a blowing exercise for 10 minutes each day. Draw a deep breath, close your mouth and blow. Send the air into your right cheek, your left cheek, your upper lip, and your lower lip.

Q. Please repeat your recipe for making a liquid soap shampoo.

A. Merely shave a cake of pure castile soap into a pint of water, and melt over a low flame. After thoroughly dissolved, strain through cheesecloth, pour into a jar, and seal tightly.

Q. How can I soften the appearance of a too-long face?

A. Curve the eyebrows slightly to correct the length and angularity of the face. Rouge should be placed from cheekbone down the outside of the face. The complexion must be soft and fluffy at the sides, and low in the back.

Q. What can I do about trimming down heavy ankles?

A. Try the wringing exercise. Put your hand around one ankle at a time and knead the flesh firmly. Or, using both hands, wring as you would washing. The old marble game is good, too. Spread marbles on the floor and pick them up with your toes. This is very good.

Q. What is a good way to erase smudges on the suede shoes?

A. One ingenious method is the use of carbon paper. Black carbon paper for black suede, and blue carbon for blue suede shoes.

Q. I have a diamond-shaped face—wide cheekbones, with jaw and forehead narrow. What type of eyeglasses should I wear to flatter my face-type?

A. You'll probably find lenses with a straight upper edge and wide lower edge most flattering, because they detract from the slight sharpness of the chin. Glasses should have a straight bridge.

Q. What is a good, simple, but effective treatment for oily skin?

A. Equal parts cologne water, witch hazel, and rosewater sponged on the face is good. And cutting down on fatty foods, too.

Q. How can I remedy whiteheads on my skin?

A. Try applying a thick paste of fuller's earth and witch hazel. Wrap some gauze over the face to keep this mask in place. After a while, wash off with cool, then cold, water.

"Brotherhood" Is Club Subject

"Brotherhood" was the theme for the program held by the Pioneer Study Club in the home of Mrs. John Patton Tuesday afternoon.

"Built around the theme 'Brotherhood Lays the Foundation for a New Road' and the scriptural quotation 'Am I My Brothers Keeper?' the program opened with Mrs. Wirt Phillips, leader, outlining some of the motives of philanthropists and dwelling mainly on John D. Rockefeller and some of the influences that motivated his life.

Mrs. Frank Terrell told of 'The Rockefeller Foundation Story' describing John D. Rockefeller's climb to king in the oil industry and mentioning many of his gifts to worthwhile causes.

Roll call centered around persons influencing lives of members.

During the business session she said.

Mrs. C. D. Kelton's subject was 'Accidents in the Home'. She said that 20 out of every 100 fatal accidents occur in the home, and urged members to remember that accidents do not just happen — they are caused.

Mrs. LeGrand pointed out that traffic accidents are not decreasing and that the horror of traffic accidents is not enough to persuade people to take every precaution.

"Safety" Is Subject For Lone Star Club

Using the "Woman's Home Companion" planned program plans as a basis for her discussion Mrs. Louie LeGrand presented an article on "Safety" at the Lone Star Study club meeting Tuesday afternoon.
