GRASS ROOTS

The comments which have arisen from this column, have made the effort in writing it well worth while. As before stated, it takes a lot of doing to get ahead of the people in this area.

I was informed the other day that I was skidding my wheels by missing out on the opportunity to advertise the products for sale that I was blowing off about in my writing. Somewhere along the line of my short, but eventful, existence, I was taught not to talk unless I had the pot to cook it in. So to make a short story shorter, all of the practices I talk about involving seed, fertilizers, or chemicals, are available at the company shown in the sig cut below. How do I know??? Because I work here.

And the clouds gathered!!!!!! Let's hope this in an indication of more to come. At any rate, the moisture received has built a fire under the boys planning on grass seeding this spring. We have been forced to buy another grass seeder, which has started work already, and all indications are that all three of our seeders will be going constantly all spring. Perhaps you wonder why a grass seeder is so popular. The farmers who have seeded grass through regular drills, can give you a better picture of this than I. There is one way to drill grass, and a SEEDER IS THE ANSWER. I am looking forward to much comment and discussion on that statement.

Bob Lewis can tell you about the seeding of grasses on sloping land. Bob seeded a pasture last fall on land that would make the Chinese rice fields look like a pool table. Result—a nice return from grazing last fall. Pasture ready for production this spring already, and a piece of critical, sub-marginal land tied down and in production. Bob was the first in this area to use Intermediate Wheatgrass in a pasture mixture, and the results were such that this fine grass is going into all the mixtures from now on — at least until one of our progressive farmers come up with one to beat it.

Had a nice visit with M. L. Sylvester Sr. from Friona and John L. Spencer from Dimmitt last week. Always nicer to get the ideas from our neighbors, and I can manage to learn something every time. . . . These men are getting their fertility programs lined out, and are of the opinion that soil-building crops, along with morganic fertilizers for the yield booster, is the right path to follow. And we want to welcome Daniel J. Larsen from Monroe, Utah and J. R. Banks from the Littlefield area, to our Panhandle Fraternity.

I learned a lesson about machinery the other day. I overhauled one of the grass seeders and decided that the seeding mechanism on the small seed box could use a good oiling. All was fine except I didn't wipe the oil off. Result: Stopped up seed box. "Better to light a small candle everyday, than to work in darkness for five minutes."

Wayne Evans cornered me here in the office and announced that the pasture he seeded last fall wasn't satisfactory. I was greatly disheartened, until Wayne smiled a great big smile, and stated that the trouble was that he didn't plant enough of it. Wayne has some fantastic results to report on his grass seedings and always has time to visit.

Woodrow Ireland let me have it with both barrels about his Hubam Clover seeding. Seems that Woody made an early morning inspection of his ground where the clover was seeded—no clover. Woody picked me up late in the afternoon and we found a good stand. I can't take credit for having better eyes than Woody, because the truth of the matter is that the clover came up during the day. Keep the seedlings wet and they will come.

Any of you ever consider the possibility of planting grasses for seed production? A sure thing for a cash crop there.

The unemployment situation is due to get pretty rough around here next week. At least, that is about when they should finish the remodeling job at Close Drug. Ray Cowser, despite the fact that district court has been in session, has practically supervised the job with able assistance from H. E. Miller and Tom Alderson. Ed Teifel got the pay as contractor, of course, but without the three special kibitzers they never could have possibly installed that plate glass door.

Cliff Acker has also been helping on the project quite a bit, especially the tile installation. He figures that Harold will be in quite a mess when they start laying tile in front of the door—and estimates this well take place next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, along with his ic sale.

Verna Glenn who lived for many, many years in the Vega neck of the woods was visiting in Hereford this week. He has retired and moved to Amarillo. "I stay there, but can't say that I 'live' there," says Mr. Glenn. Says he made the trip down here especially to meet with Bob Higgins and George Muse and to find out how a fellow spends his time when he retires. Mr. Glenn says he can't even enjoy an ordinary West Texas sandstorm anymore.

"It just don't feel right sitting in the house," he declared. "Every time the sand and dust gets into the air, I get the yen to get back on a tractor. A man just hasn't lived until he plows with a tractor in a 50-mile-an-hour duststorm."

Richard Bush, the lettuce man, was in this week with some moral support and news that at least two additional lettuce handlers will be in Hereford field this year. He really came in to show me a brochure which he has prepared from clippings. He has generously included several Hereford Bull Columns, which he says are most valuable and almost uncanny in being correct. He wanted me to show them to a certain hardware man with a little "two-bit" mustache, but since I have decided to ignore this individual in the future I didn't bother.

The "Dogs vs. Flowers" season is now approaching. A lady called up this week to report that her neighbor had three dogs and 15 cats — and that she couldn't do a thing with her flowers. I tried to get her to call Mayor Dameron, but she insisted that she had rather rake me over the coals. She wouldn't tell her name and she wouldn't tell the neighbor's name, but I am sure she wasn't very happy. She thinks they should pass a law allowing only one dog and one cat to the family — and then only in cases where the owner has a high board fence. When she got through with the tirade she banged the phone in my ear. Really, ladies, I don't know what to do about these situations. I guess I would just call Mabel Barnhart at the City Offices (phone 222). Mabel straightens out a lot of these troubles and she will at least sympathize with you.

Seriously, though, this is a problem from both angles. People get mad and poison dogs—and this is truly a shame. Other folks let their dogs run wild and damage flower beds and gardens — and this isn't right. Does anyone have a sane, sensible solution to this problem? We had a dog once who collected newspapers. He was choosy, too. He wouldn't take anything but Hereford Brands. He followed the delivery boy around, grabbed up the newspapers and piled them up in my front yard. He never seemed to bother Amarillo papers. The morning before we parted company he collected and piled exactly 19 Sunday Brands on our front porch before 7:30 a. m. I always appreciated his sound judgment, but some of the neighbors felt that selling them a newspaper, then getting it back with my dog was unfair.

Old Shep is happily located out in the country now, but the kids still love him and miss him, and make special trips out to see him every few weeks. He is still their dog. Sometimes, I think this is the solution. Then, a few days later, my little six-year-old son comes in with tears streaming down his face, climbs into my lap, puts his arms around my neck and asks: "Daddy, how long will it be before my dog comes back to live with us?"

Hereford's other annual Spring question also arose this week. This is the "Barbers vs. Latin Americans" question. Norman Moore called up to report that several young Latin Americans had been denied the privilege of using the local barber shops. "What are they going to do?" demands Mr. Moore — and he poses an excellent question. There are arguments galore on each side. Last year a special barber shop was installed and things seemed to work out OK. Maybe this will again be the result in 1952. Working this out is definitely a Chamber of Commerce job, and it should be accomplished satisfactorily. Most businesses in Hereford welcome the Latin American trade, which is a big item to the prosperity and general welfare of the community.

Barber shops operate a personal service business, however, and feel that they don't want the additional volume. For the life of me, I can't see how anyone can make them offer this service against their will. Doctors and physicians seem to take the opposite view, however, and their business is also of the personal service class. On the other hand, a place literally swamped with Latin American trade for three months could easily drive away its regular customers — and fail to regain them during the long nine-month interval. It's a good, first class $64 Question. If I was ever proud of the Hereford Chamber of Commerce, it is now. I hereby pass the buck in its entirety to the C. of C., and most especially hope that the Retail Merchants Committee will see fit to join the directors in formulating satisfactory plans.

You'd think a guy who owned only one wee-tiny puppy, not one single cat, and who got his hair cut as seldom as once each six weeks wouldn't have troubles like these, but you would be wrong.

The Highway Safety Department is quite worried about the slow rate in which people are moving down the safety inspection lines. A total of 6,043 vehicles are eligible for inspection in Deaf Smith County and only 1,000 have passed the tests, reports indicated this week. This leaves around 5,000 vehicles between now and September.

There are always two ways to look at things. For instance, we are getting a lot of government these days, but think how bad it could be if we were getting as much as we are paying for.

Dale Tinnin, Bruce "Catfish" Woodell and Dub Reeves are back from "Possum Kingdom with a lot of fancy stories about catching 143 fish, mostly crappie. Bob Jennings and I still contend if they caught that many they would at least bring a few around, but the real news comes out of the fact that Dub used to be an army cook. Dale says Dubbs can break and fry eggs with his left hand, and that he makes biscuits out of Aunt Jemima hot cake mix. Maybe this will explain some things about army biscuits which have been bothering millions of GIs for a long time.

Here's a tip for you ladies who failed to get an Easter bonnet. Just wait until they have a sale, buy up a hat, put it on when your husband comes home, and tell him: "It didn't cost a thing. It was marked $20, but they had it on sale for $10 — so I bought it with the $10 I saved." Etiquette: Learning to yawn with your mouth closed. Golf: A nice walk spoiled. Minor Operation: One performed on someone else.

Grandstand Gropings

By Kent Snare

If the record past be any criterion the Yankees are relegated out as champs of the AL for this term . . . For why? On account the ever-loving scribes fingering them by the pre-season pronouncement as the predestined 1952 front-runners . . . With that dire predilection appended the Sox have gone down for five straight prior to this ground . . . The Yanks apparently have more of everything than is necessary especially considering how little some of the other ball clubs can field . . . From my far removed observation point, it seems to me, that the Yanks are unstitched thru the middle and a ball club is hinged on that center line, weak fringes will hurt a ball club but a trembling center stripe will get you killed . . . Specifically the Yanks are going to the starting tape without a center fielder, leave alone one comparable to DiMaggio, to whose superlative performance they have become acclimated and anything, but the best of middle gardeners, is going to look very futile in that south 80 they use back of second base in the Stadium . . . Personal, I think it should be mandatory to provide the occupant with a bicycle . . . And at shortstop, the invaluable Rizzuto is showing signs of strain, even his mitt is tattered to where it breaks into alibi print . . . At second, slick fielding Gerry Coleman, is Gyrene - bound on May 2 and Gil McDougald, even aided and abetted by the most valuable rookie award of the team, needs must have that assistance, if he is going to help hold up Rizzuto, who is approaching the age of necessity. If McDougald shakes hands with the too-prevalent sophomore jinx, then it will have to be Martin or Brown. Neither of which resembles Joe Gordon of his second-basing . . . When you top the mound, you can't be sure of what you behold . . . On black and white premise, the Yank pitching phalanx is tops, dig deeper and the gloom shows: one proven young pitcher, Tom Morgan; one maybe, Bob Kuzava and three must - still - do - it fingers, Reynolds, Raschl and Lopat . . . The latter three have been top producers for a long time and could do it again . . . But Reynolds wavered last year and the other twain could be over the hump . . . Whitey Ford's re-entry from service would help and no one knows what the rookie crop will produce, outside of Miller and Shaefer, who have the accoutrement sans experience . . . Sain seems tabbed for infrequent spot duty . . . That leaves us with the Ketcher, one Yogi Berra, who is alone back of the platter and who, this spring, has shown some signs of being brittle . . . Last year he was the best RBI producer on the club but he is in the loaded spot this year, Number 4, and may have more pressure than somewhat on him and not so many runners ahead . . . And I suspect that he will get low - curved to his heart's disgust this stanza . . . This is the same wide-eyed citizen who asked, "How can you hit and think at the same time?" . . . To hazard a bit on Case Stengel's rumbled outfield and considering all the wet wash hung out pertinent thereto, it may wind up with Mantle in right, Woodling in left and Noren in center . . . Jensen has been up and down this spring like the semaphore, hitting a ton one day and his hat size - 6 7/8 -

Before this new, one-man wire-tie baler was offered for sale it was fully tested from coast to coast under varied field conditions!

The New Holland "80" will bale up to 10 tons per hour—up to twice the capacity of other wire-tie balers! Not just a conversion of the famous "77" wire-tie, the Model "80" was designed from the ground up as a wire-tie baler. Its tying mechanism is fast and trouble-free. Pick-up and baling action are so gentle that the valuable leaves are saved. This means up to 50% more feed value . . . a better price for hay.

If you're in the market for a wire-tie baler, remember only the "80" gives you up to 10 tons an hour!

UP TO TWICE THE CAPACITY OF OTHER WIRE-TIE BALERS PLUS THESE EXCLUSIVES!

- Warning System—When wire in the drum runs out, an automatic warning lets you know in plenty of time to prevent making any bales.
- "Wet" or "Dry" Hay—Hydraulic bale tension control, an optional feature, automatically allows for variations in moisture content of hay.
- New Holland Twist—The Model "80" has its "twist" in an "S" line twist. Nest and sturdy, this wire-tie line set—will not pull loose or uncoil.
- Roll-Away Bale Chute—Standard equipment on the wire-tie "80", the roll-away bale chute flips bales far to the left out of the tractor's path.

Child Study Club Features Book Review At Annual Guest Night Event

"Guest Night" was observed by Thursday evening when members of the Child Study club entertained members of other Child Study clubs of the city in the home of Mrs. Richard Jowell.

Mrs. Merlin Kaul, president, introduced presidents of the guest clubs, who introduced members of their clubs.

Mrs. R. P. Conaway, honorary member of the Child Study club gave the history of the club since its organization in 1931 and told of its aid in organizing other child study clubs.

Mrs. Noah Elliston was the guest speaker of the evening. She reviewed "Mother of the Groom" by Harriette Fitts Ryan. This is the story of a mother's experiences in rearing an only son, from the time of his birth until his wedding day, giving a ludicrous account of the unimportance of a bridegroom's mother when the time comes for him to be married.

The refreshment table was appointed in crystal and carried out the club colors of blue and pink. The table was laid in brown organdy over pink and mixed springflowers with pink and blue predominating, were arranged in an Early American type centerpiece. Blue and pink satin streamers extended from the center arrangement to the table's edge.

Special guests included: Mesdames Elvin Wilson, T. E. Brisenidine, Florence Parker, Jim Bookout, Byron Durham, W. N. Rieger, I. E. Pendleton, Joe Dayenport, Howard Gore, W. D. Jones, J. H. Hinds, Spicer Gripp and Glenn Gripp.

City Receives No Bids For Proposed Well

The City of Hereford didn't receive a single bid on the drilling of the new water well scheduled for the city in Lake park at the letting meeting on Tuesday, according to Mayor W. E. Dameron.

Apparently the well - drillers have their hands full at the present time with many of them reporting as long as 60 days in arrears on work currently scheduled. The increasing number of new wells being dug and present wells being deepened adds to the backlog of well work.

Presumably the city is now free - after having complied with the legal requirements for advertising for bids - to "shop around" and seek the best qualified driller to put the new city well in.

Rainfall Here Measures Less Than 1/4 Inch

Welcome rains proved all too light to make much difference for Deaf Smith county farmers Friday and Saturday as less than one-fourth inch of moisture fell from heavily-overcast skies.

The city rain gauge registered .22 inch and the gauge at Clover airport registered "barely .25 inch."

Skies were still "promising" Saturday afternoon and farmers were still looking skyward for some real relief to the prolonged dry spell.

What rain did fall was general over the county both in coverage and in quantity.

Young Musicians Will Appear On Convention Programs

Fawayne Murphy of Dimmitt, also a voice student of Miss Swisher, will represent the Voco Club at the state convention of the Texas Federation of Music Clubs which will be held in Abilene April 17-18 and 19. He will appear on the fine arts program Saturday.

Gayle Gault and Dixie Young, piano students of Mrs. Glenn Snyder, will play "Concerto in F Major" (Williams) at the state convention also appearing on the Fine Arts program.

Mrs. A. O. Thompson and Miss Swisher will attend the music club convention as delegates from the Music Study club. Mrs. Thompson's name is on the ticket for election as state club auditor.

Mrs. Howard Gault and Mrs. Snyder will accompany the young pianists to Abilene.

Frank L. Lucas was born in Coleman county on February 9, 1894. He finished high school there. He later graduated from the Metropolitan School of Business in Dallas.

Following graduation, he entered the railroad industry, serving under his brother, the late John Lucas, who was for many years general freight and passenger agent for the Santa Fe at Plainview.

After serving one year at Plainview, he was sent to Hereford as freight clerk and in one year entered the armed forces in World War I. He served 11 months as sergeant in the Quartermaster Corps at Camp Travis in San Antonio.

Lucas was married to the former Miss Leah Crenshaw, who moved with him as his bride. In 1919, they returned to Hereford where he resumed his work with Lucas served 32 years in the employ of the Santa Fe company.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Lucas were members of the First Christian church in Hereford and were baptized in the same ceremony shortly after their arrival here. He remained a Christian to the day of his death.

Their only son, Frank L., followed in their footsteps and became a Christian at the age of 12.

Lucas was a charter member of the Hereford Rotary club and served as its secretary. He was also active in civic affairs.

His health broke in 1948 and he never fully recovered. He entered the hospital in his last illness and died April 1.

Easter Seal Campaign Brings Total Of $714

Deaf Smith county's Easter seal campaign has netted $713.17 to date, according to Bob Wear, chairman of the drive.

Wear said he was well pleased with the generous response to the drive and asked that any persons who have failed to send in their contributions do so as soon as possible.

This mark is the highest that has been received in this county for the Easter seal campaign. The local chapter now has about $500 on hand now to aid local crippled children as 60 per cent of the funds remain in the county, Wear said.

He reported that any person needing assistance for a crippled—or in some cases exceptional—child should contact him or D. C. Kinsey and local aid will be given.

"The money is here and we should use it," Wear commented.

Plan Softball Schedule Meet Monday Night

A general meeting of all softball team managers in the community for participation in the Hereford Softball league will be held Monday night at Veterans park at 8 p. m.

The meeting will follow the first softball game of the season between Hereford Hardware and Rocky's Service station.

Planning the schedule for the community-wide softball loop will be accomplished Monday. There will be six teams in the 1952 league.

Lay Shrub Beds At Lake Park

Shrub beds along the Main street boundary of Lake Park were laid out by the city's park engineer on Wednesday.

The beds along this end of the park will be planted before the underground watering system for the park is installed, Mayor W. E. Dameron said Wednesday, because there is a method to water this area available at the present time.

Planting of the shrub beds along the northern boundary of the park will have to wait until next year, however, because of the water system delay, which is caused by the lack of adequate pipe. The shrubbery will not be put in now and let their watering fall to chance, the mayor explained, because the shrubbery represents a good deal of money.

A row of hedge will be put along the north boundary of the park this year, though.

Bound and gagged the maiden was thrust into a gunny sack, unable to move or scream, she felt herself carried away, placed in a car and driven rapidly down the street. Ineffectively she struggled to release herself from the gag. Alas! she was bound too securely. Finally the car stopped. She was then carried into a building gasping for breath. The sack was taken from her head and the gag removed from her mouth, her captors saying: "There pretty bird, scream as long as you like, no one will hear you here." "Where am I?" she gasped. "You are in a 'Fly-by-Night' Garage" was the cold and cruel response. Alas! Alas! she moaned, "No one will look for me here, the people do not come this way. Please Mr. Villian, won't you take me to the HEREFORD MOTOR CO., INC." "Impossible!" he hissed, "that is the most popular garage in town, everybody goes there for their Motor Repairs, they have trained mechanics, precision tools, factory tested parts and their work is guaranteed. You would soon be discovered there." Then she sighed and said, "I suppose if I cannot be discovered, the proper thing for me to do is to faint!" and she fainted. Alas!

Washam - Shipley Wedding Thurs.

In a semi-formal ceremony solemnized Thursday at 5 p. m. in St. John's Methodist church, Lubbock, Miss Mary Washam, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Washam of Sweetwater, became the bride of Donald G. Shipley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charley Shipley of this city.

Rev. Hurbert Bratcher, pastor, read the vows for the double-ring ceremony.

The wedding party entered the church to stand before the altar banked with greenery providing a suitable background for Easter lilies and white gladioli in sunburst arrangements screened with fern. Cathedral tapers in seven candleabra gave candle-lighting for the ceremony, and the bridal aisle was marked by Easter lilies and white stock tied in large white satin ribbon bows.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Wayne L. Kelly, organist, played "Indian Love Call" and "The One Rose." She also accompanied Miss Ruth Thomas of Pecos who sang "It Had To Be You" and "I Love Thee" and played the traditional processional and recessional music and gave a muted interpretation of "Roses of Picardy" during the service. Miss Thomas sang "The Lord's Prayer" as the closing prayer of the ceremony.

As bridesmaids, Miss Nona Gray, Sweetwater, and Miss Berna Bartlett, San Angelo, wore yellow cotton taffeta sheath dresses with full yellow organza overskirts with matching linen shoes and mitts. They wore tiaras of yellow flowers in their hair and carried colonial bouquets of blue iris and yellow daisies.

Bonnye Thomas of Pecos was maid of honor. Her dress was identical to the bridesmaids' and her tiara was of roses to match her colonial bouquet of dark scarlet roses.

Carroll Ann Blow of Lubbock, wearing a white organza dress and carrying a yellow basket of flowers, served as flower girl and Jimmy Smith of Lubbock, cousin of the bride, carried the rings on a white satin pillow.

The bride entered with her father, who gave her in marriage. She wore a ballerina-length dress of white lace over satin with applique lace and seed pearls and the long fitted sleeves came to points at the hands. The tight bodice featured satin buttons down the front and the full skirt was attached with a cord at the waistline. Her finger-tip veil of illusion was caught to a Juliet cap of lace and satin with orange blossoms and seed pearl trim. She carried a white orchid on a white Bible showered with stephanotis.

For the wedding trip to points in Colorado, the bride chose a navy suit with navy and pink accessories. After April 15 the couple will be at home at 3304 First Place, Lubbock, where they will continue their studies at Texas Tech.

Reception At Church
Following the wedding a reception was held in the church parlors where Easter lilies, white stock and fern were used in decoration. The bridal bouquets centered the refreshment table. Assisting in serving were Carolyn Sue Jones of Sweetwater, Sheila Sohdahl, Lubbock, and Joyce Batye, Lubbock.

The bride graduated from Sweetwater high school and is a sophomore student at Texas Tech college, Lubbock. She is majoring in Applied Arts and is a member of San Souci sorority, Alpha Lambda Delta and Home Economics club.

Mr. Shipley is a graduate of Hereford high school and a junior student at Texas Tech. He is an agricultural education major and a member of Los Comaradas fraternity, Alpha Phi Omega and FHA and Aggie clubs.

Out-of-town wedding guests came from Hereford, Sweetwater, Amarillo, Abilene, San Angelo, Elmerst, Albuquerque, Dodson and Pecos.

Mid-Afternoon Vows Unite Miss Audrey Hood and Hershel Miller

Nuptial vows recited at mid-afternoon Sunday united Miss Audrey Hood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Hood, and Hershel E. Miller Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Miller. The wedding took place in the sanctuary of the First Methodist church with the pastor, Rev. Don Davidson, directing recitation of the vows.

The stained-glass windows at the western extremity of the church provided a beautiful background for the decorative arrangements which combined white calla lilies and palms with greenery. Candles in branched holders framed the kneeling space which was marked by white satin rope held by flower topped pedestals.

"Because" and "Yours Is My Heart Alone" were the vocal solo offerings of Miss Joanne Guest of Andrews during a brief pre-nuptial concert. She was accompanied by Mrs. William Stanford, organist, who also played "Indian Love Call" and "My Wonderful One."

Candles were lighted by little Jennifer Miller, niece of the bridegroom, and Ruth Ann Allison, assisted by the ushers. The little candlelighters wore iridescent taffeta frocks in orchid with net overskirts.

The bridal party entered the church as Mrs. Stanford played "Traumeri" with the bride and her father entering at the strains of the traditional march from Wagner's "Lohengrin." Mendelssohn's march was used as the recessional. Miss Guest sang "The Lord's Prayer" at the conclusion of the ceremony.

Attendants

Maid of honor for the bride was Miss Colline Brown and Miss Charlene Goodall of Andrews, Mrs. Jesse Click of Abilene, and Miss Doris Swain of Sundown, were bridesmaids. They wore duplicate frocks of net and lace over taffeta styled with bodices and full ballerina skirts. Each wore a short tulle veil that matched her dress, the first attendant to enter wearing pale orchid with each other attendant's dress accenting a deeper shade of orchid, and each carried a bouquet of varying shades of orchid carnations.

Gerald Moore, nephew of the bride, carried the rings in a lily which rested on a white satin heart-shaped pillow.

Jack Reynolds of Pampa was best man and groomsmen were Jesse Click of Abilene, Jimmy McAuley of Andrews and Louis LeGrand. Ushers were Jed Miller, Robert Miller, Jerry Jacobs of Texline and Allen E. Moore of Crosscreek, N. M.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a ballerina gown of slipper satin and chantilly lace. The fitted bodice featured a deep yoke of illusion edged in lace scallops and long lace sleeves fastened with tiny satin buttons. The small Peter Pan type collar was of lace and the full satin skirt fell beneath a short lace peplum. Her scalloped veil of bridal illusion cascaded from a braided halo of the same material encrusted with seed pearl and rhinestone trim. Her only ornaments were a pearl necklace and bracelet, the gift of the bridegroom. The bridal bouquet was

Public Asked To Prepare Iris For Show Now

Hereford Garden club members are busy with plans for their annual Spring Flower Show which has been scheduled for May 9 in Park Avenue Villas. Since the show will primarily be an iris show and since the general public is being urged to prepare entries for the show, the following suggestions are given for growers to prepare the flowers for entry in the show. This added care should be given the plants now, according to Mrs. J. P. Slaton, horticulturist for the club.

Add one cup of super-phosphate to a quart of steamed bone meal and sprinkle heavily around the plants. Work into the soil and water thoroughly. Keep down weeds in the bed and do not let the bed dry out again until the plants have finished flowering.

MRS. JACK BRADLEY

Congeaed Chicken Salad Fine Party Fare For Early Spring

Spring brings to the table fresh spring greens, asparagus tips and fragrant fruits, but at what other time of the year does the mention of chicken salad sound so good? Chicken is a thrifty choice of meats for it is not only in good supply but lower in cost. You may get freshly dressed chicken or the frozen variety, or you may take advantage of the new ready-to-serve poultry products now at your grocers.

Mrs. Jack Bradley gives you today's recipe for this department and it is one she has used over and over again for several years. Any congealed salad makes fine party food and occasionally Mrs. Bradley tries other chicken salad recipes, but she always comes back to this one which has become her favorite. Here it is:

- Congeaed Chicken Salad
 2 cups cooked chicken cut small
 1 cup chopped celery
 2 cups small green peas
 1/2 cup blanched almonds or pecans
 1/2 cup chopped olives
 3 hard boiled eggs
 3 tablespoons Knox gelatin
 3 tablespoons cold water

Soak gelatin in cold water a few minutes. Add 1 1/4 cups hot chicken broth and blend well. Pour gelatin mixture into one cup mayonaise in large bowl and mix in other ingredients. Mold in large or in individual molds and allow to congeal in refrigerator. Makes 14 generous servings.

The four-tiered wedding confection was topped with white wedding bells and lilies. Mrs. Allen E. Moore of Cloudcroft, N. M., sister of the bride, and her aunt, Mrs. Mary Seigler, poured, and Mrs. Jim Black served the cake.

The wedding orchid was used as her corsage.

Mrs. Miller is a graduate of Hereford high school and attended Hardin-Simmons university for one year, transferring to Texas Tech college, Lubbock, last fall. While at Hardin-Simmons,

Two-Part Program Presented For Les Meres Study Club

Members of Les Meres Study club held a meeting in the home of Mrs. Joe Davenport Monday evening. Mrs. Glenn Gripp served as co-hostess.

During the business session conducted by the president, Mrs. Spicer Gripp, plans were made for the club's annual Easter party honoring members' children. The party was held at the Joe Davenport home Thursday afternoon.

A two-part program was presented by Mrs. Monroe Parker and Mrs. Harold Meacham.

Mrs. Parker gave a paper on "No — Can You Say It And Mean It?" saying in part: "A good fast 'no' can work wonders if you mean it and make it stick, but used too often and unwisely it can become a thing of habit which the child often ignores. Explanations are necessary but sometimes cause children to want to argue the point and frequently a definite no or yes must be the answer."

Mrs. Meacham reviewed an article entitled, "The Doctor Who Keeps Your Child Healthy" in which the author tells how a pediatricist works to keep children healthy. She urged mothers to be reasonable in their demands upon doctors, thereby helping him in making a healthier, saner and better generation.

Members of the club present were: Mesdames Howard Gore, Glenn Gripp, Spicer Gripp, C. B. Hudson, Harold Meacham, Eugene Noel, Monroe Parker, W. N. Reiger, Elvin Wilson, R. N. Yarbrough, Gib Howard, T. E. Brisdine, I. E. Pendleton and the hostess.

Opportunities At Hand To Create Our Own Goodwill

Hereford residents and businessmen have a golden opportunity to show what kind of neighbors they are when the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce goodwill tour stops here on Thursday.

The Amarillo men—nine train carloads of them—are making Hereford one of their stops on a High Plains tour to create friendly relations among people of this area and, of course, to stimulate the desire to do business with the selfsame Amarillo merchants.

It's an excellent idea for any town to carry out a project like this. It's just plain good business. You can't condemn a man for putting forth an extra special public relations effort. That's what this is.

The Amarillo men come here with entertainment and will fetter Hereford businessmen during their stopover. It's a masterful stroke for them to get out in their "trade territory" and mingle with customers and possibly prospective customers.

This same type of undertaking—of creating that extra interest—could well be followed in various ways by the City of Hereford and her merchants. We have a vast trade territory which could be coming to Hereford just as well as some other place. What we need is a chance to "spread the good news."

One of the best chances to do that is coming up in the near future—during Pioneer Days.

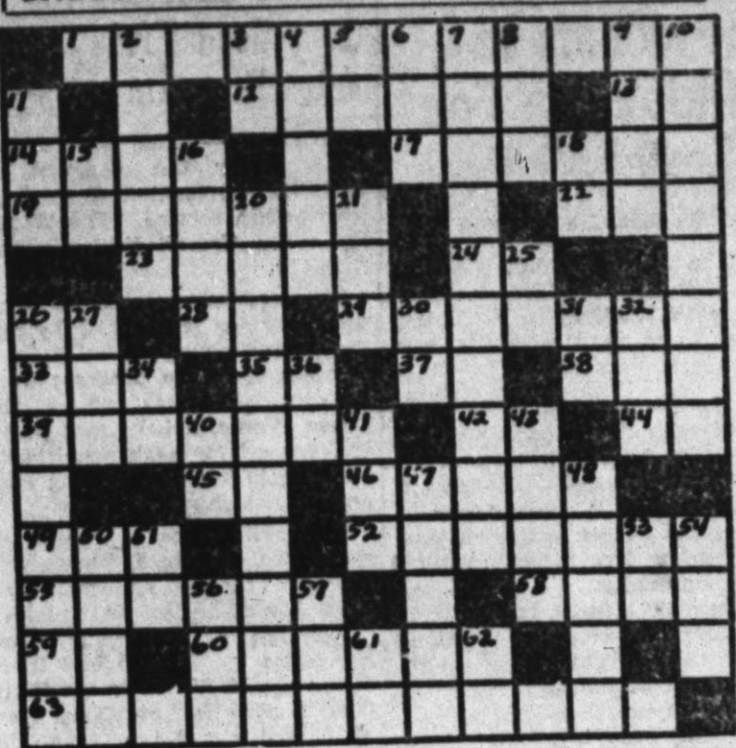

Preparations are being made to give the community and thousands of visitors the best entertainment available. Let's make this fact known by making visits to surrounding communities and creating goodwill and the desire for these people to come to Hereford.

Once they come to Hereford and deal with the people, they will want to return. Getting them here—the "goodwill" part of the job—will have been done. The rest will be up to the individual merchant with whom the person wants to deal.

As we said before, the Pioneer Day event will give Hereford its golden opportunity to "beat the drums."

We'll never have a better place to start.—W. W. K.

I'll Never Forget

By CLAUDE RUTIDGE

I remember one Sunday school picnic at the old Ford schoolhouse. Everyone was there and after dinner someone suggested that old Fred Williamson tune up his fiddle so they could dance. Someone else didn't like the idea of dancing at the schoolhouse so old Fred rounded up his bunch pretty quick and took off. He said that any place there was no music was no place for his bunch.

I was here before there ever was a town of Hereford. I remember when the railroad came through. It came into Amarillo and stopped for a long time before it came on to Hereford. That was in '98. They moved La Plata down here then. They moved the courthouse and the jail and all.

I remember when they sold the old courthouse to the Catholics and they moved it right across the street and remodeled it and put some stucco on it. Before it had just been an old frame building.

After they sold the courthouse they built the new one.

I was here when Carl Gilliland came here. He used to wear his hair clear down on his shoulders. I can remember when old Judge Slaton came here.

There has been a lot of changes since then. I remember one time seeing 40,000 head of cattle between here and Dimmitt. It was just open country between here and Dimmitt then and it was solid cattle all the way. They were waiting for cars to ship them out. Of course Hereford couldn't have all the cars so there was a lot of those cattle that had to be taken home and kept through the winter.

I remember that about that time Bovina was one of the largest cattle shipping centers around here.

On stormy nights it would keep all hands and the cook to keep the herd separated and if they ever got mixed up we never got them separated.

In that time the lawyers would fit themselves out with a wagon and would follow the court from county to county. They would pitch camp outside of town and stay until the court moved to the next county seat.

When I came here these were a lot of people moving away and so there were a lot of vacant houses and all you had to do was move in. If you didn't like the house you were in all you had to do was pick up and move to another.

Down east of Dimmitt one time there was a man found a two-story house and moved in and came to Dimmitt for groceries. He asked if anyone owned the house and one of the men told him a man there in Dimmitt did. He found the man and asked to live there. The man told him to go ahead and he could use the land there to plant a crop and if he wanted more land that all it would cost him to get it would be to put up the fence that he (the owner) would pay for the wire.

SUNDAY'S CURRENT QUESTION

Citizens Express Feelings On Federal Seizure Of Industry

Do you think government seizure of any non-utility private industry violates the spirit of industry's rights under our Constitution? Why?

RAY COWSERT—Yes. The way the President did it he certainly violated their rights.

DON DAVIDSON—It's a very dangerous step. I'm not surprised at it. It's the trend of government today. To me it seems to be the absence of government rather than the presence of government. In time of war, it would be justifiable, but certainly not in time of peace. If we are at war, we'd ought to get down to business. If we're going to seize industry, we'd ought to be doing more about the boys in Korea than we're doing. If rankest socialism were in saddle, they would be happy for a chance to do just what Truman has done.

JOE LOWRY—When a country is in a state of war they should be allowed to do anything but in peacetime I don't think they should seize private industry. Any step of government control is a step toward socialism and in peace time such government control would be socialist.

DON ZIMMERMAN—In a national emergency the government should have the right to take over any industry or any phase of national life that would be beneficial to the war effort. Whether it is necessary in this case I don't know. It depends on how much steel they have stockpiled. If there is a shortage certainly the government should have the right to operate it. I think they should do it in an emergency only and I don't think they should be tolerated in normal times.

PAUL HARVEY—I sure do. If we can't run our own businesses it's a poor country to live in. If in a state of emergency and it is jeopardizing the country I should think the government should have the right to seize it if it would keep production going. Where there is no more emergency than there is now I don't think the government has any right to seize any operations.

Three husky little girls doesn't seem to pose too much of a problem for one of our old ewes but being one of the triplet lambs and havin' to wait for a turn at the lunch counter which nature has provide with place settings for only two would be something like standin' in a bread line always afraid the supply would give out before you got to the front.

Congratulations to John David Bryant who won the bicycle recently in the contest for magazine subscriptions for Hereford Junior High's library fund.

We always read with interest the rules for the local Flower Shows but evidently our green thumb didn't grow long enough to include flowers because we doubt sometimes that we could even grow a prize old maid or a petunia.

Since one of our favorites is gladiola we could certainly learn a lot from Mrs. A. L. Manjeot.

We buried our old thirteen year old Joe Dog last week out under the tree back of the lot where Buster had made a grave for his puppy and his little white rabbit that ate too many blackeyed peas last cannin' season.

We talked our father into givin' Joe to us almost twelve years ago.

It must have been from our dad that we inherited a strong likin' for dogs because as long as he lived he always managed to keep at least one bird dog—usually a setter. We have often wondered how the Irish setter he had when he died knew where they had taken him because the next mornin' the dog was tyn' on the lawn in front of the undertaking parlor where he kept watch until the body was taken away for burial.

We are always suspicious of a man a dog doesn't like.

'America At Crossroads' In Principle Of Seizure

"America is at the crossroads," a steel company president told a nation-wide radio audience Wednesday night when giving industry's side of the steel dispute.

There are many facets of the current trouble to be considered. Most of them are technical and economic intricacies beyond the scope of the detached observer. To attempt an evaluation of these issues of the dispute would be futile for a person not familiar with all phases.

There is a side to the question, however, that can be judged without a working knowledge of the steel industry and its labor-price history. And that deals with the government's moral right to interfere in any private industry.

That is why "America is at the crossroads." Can the government tell industry HOW MUCH to pay and HOW MUCH to charge? Can the government impose closed shop restrictions on any industry?

Harry Truman seems to think it can.

Has our "democracy" progressed—or deteriorated—to the point where a man can't work in an industry unless he belongs to one certain union?

Is the government to act as mediator or as an interested party to disputes? Just where does the government's authority end? Mr. Truman has one thought on this matter. Many of our lawmakers have a different thought.

Surely, it would be disastrous if steel production were shut down while our boys were fighting Communism in Korea. It'd be downright treacherous! We should NEVER let that happen.

But, does the government have to resort to seizure to accomplish this purpose? After the seizure, President Truman called for an immediate series of conferences between labor and management. Could not that same purpose have been accomplished under the procedures allowed in the Taft-Hartley act? That act isn't infallible, but it would have allowed an 80-day "cooling off" period and the government could have ordered negotiations to continue.

But that act isn't popular with labor and the overwhelming labor-controlled vote. It is, however, the law of the land and not open to legal—and moral—question as was the seizure order.

Truman has placed the government of the U. S. in the position of condoning the labor union demand for a closed shop. The democratic government of the United States has—in effect and through its action or inaction—let the worker know that he has to accede to the union demand and join the union or not be able to work for a living in the steel industry. That's closed shop.

Is that democracy? No! It's "America at the crossroads."

Is the government playing square with the millions of persons on fixed incomes, on pensions? How can they be when they allow one segment—protected by a powerful union—to cross the line into added purchasing power. These union members with their added purchasing power will then compete in buying with fixed-income citizens.

"America is at the crossroads" if the government can tell industry—under the threat of seizure—that federal mediators' decisions should be accepted. "We are at the crossroads if the government will condone forced joining—which is all it is—of a labor union to hold a job.

If the power-hungry government can do this with immunity where will this all stop? Will the government eventually try to tell you whom to hire in your shop or on your farm? That's the same principle.

What the steel companies pay doesn't come out of this writer's pocket—directly—any more than it does anyone else's. We share in none of the profits and have no monetary "axe to grind."

We do, however, hold "stock" in a company far greater—the United States and the rights granted us under the Constitution. Or the rights granted free enterprise under that same Constitution. We're jealous of those rights and are loathe to see them distorted to serve the interests of selfish labor leaders seeking to put industry in their pocket and make all workers join their organization or be without a job.

The government has no more right to seize private industry any more that it has to seize leadership of a labor union and force the workers to produce as they force the companies to produce.

Both management and labor are represented by intelligent men who can solve their differences honorably over the conference table IF THEY WANT TO.

It is not the government's business to line up on either side in the argument. Harry Truman, who has put "America at the crossroads" with this controversial action, has put the government of the United States in a position from which it cannot back off.

Once again our government has yielded to the pressure of a powerful "lobby," completely disregarding the basic rights supposedly guaranteed under the Constitution.—W. W. K.

The BOOTLEG Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his farm near Bootleg is about half-way serious this week, we suspect.

Dear editor:

While it looks like one of the hardest things on earth to to nowadays is to find somebody who has a good enough record of his own to be investigate somebody else's record, I don't think the President ought to give up. There ought to be somebody.

Surely there is somebody left in this country who hasn't been in on a surplus ship deal, hasn't dealt with any Washington mystery men, hasn't sold oil to the enemy, hasn't become a millionaire two years after gettin' a government job, isn't gettin' a government pension he ain't entitled to, hasn't got a wife who's a stenographer to a big shot, hasn't borrowed from the RFC, hasn't helped somebody borrow from the RFC, hasn't cheated on his income tax, hasn't tried to help somebody who has, hasn't been fired from a tax collector job, hasn't been a character witness for a convict, hasn't beat his hotel bill, isn't behind on his house rent, hasn't had any lush war contracts, isn't afraid to give a financial statement, and who has the brains to recognize a suspicious situation when it arises.

Some people may be pessimistic but I still have faith in this country. I believe there are a lot of people with records clean enough to hold down this job, even to stand up to Congress, but I suspect they're hidin' out. Of course, I can't name any off-hand, as I ain't familiar with everybody in Washington, but surely there must be plenty around there. And if not, there are a lot of other places in the country where some honest man may be lurkin'.

Personally, I don't banker for the job myself. Investigatin' Congress just ain't no job with a future to it. And besides, my record won't stand up. I ain't been in on any big deals, but when I was a boy, while I didn't play marbles for keeps, I wasn't that good with my thumb, I did stake a few friends who were pretty good and later on we may have split the loot. My memory ain't clear on the matter. I got sort of a Congressional memory.

Maybe investigations are a poor way to make changes. Maybe votin is the answer. But who to vote for is something you'll have to answer for yourself.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Beauty at Home

By Lynn Carter

Q. How can I make the flesh on my arms more firm and attractive, and less soft and flabby?

A. Active sports are good, such as tennis and swimming. A good exercise is to stand with head and back against a wall, stomach pulled in, knees slightly bent, and feet together a few inches from the wall. Hold arms out at shoulder-level and swing them forward, upward, and back in ever-increasing circles. Relax and swing arms in opposite directions, beginning this time with a downward movement, coming forward, and moving back.

Q. What is a good perfume hint for use during the summer months?

A. Try spraying the perfume with an atomizer on your hair more than on the skin. The skin perspires freely, and the air evaporates the perfume with the perspiration.

Q. What is a good cleansing and softening treatment for the skin?

A. Coat the face and neck with a little olive oil, then rub briskly over this with some common table salt.

Q. Please suggest some good tips for nail polish application.

A. To make the nails look longer and more slender, apply pale polish to the entire nail.

To make them look shorter, apply dark polish, leaving the moons and tips white. For the older woman, or the older looking hand, light polishes are more becoming and call less attention to wrinkles and spots.

Q. How can a woman judge the length of hair she should wear?

A. This is strictly up to her good judgment. Short hair is becoming to both young and old. Shoulder-length bobs are most becoming with a young face, while for older women variations of the halo cut remain popular and are simple to set, easy to keep groomed, and are adaptable to wear with hats. Unless you are very young with practically perfect features, the sleek smooth chignon is less becoming than a softer hair style with waves or curls about the face.

Q. What is the best way to apply lipstick?

A. With a lipstick brush. Buy only a good brush with the right degree of strength and softness. Dip the brush into alcohol for cleaning and sanitation after use.

Q. What type of eyebrow pencil should one use?

A. A brown one, unless the brows are black. If brows are black, use a black pencil or a soft lead pencil. Apply only to the hairs of the brow, not directly to the skin unless the brow is extremely sparse and needs filling in. Never sharpen eyebrow pencil in a pencil sharpener, but use a razor or knife. Or try one of the new "automatic" pencils that can be refilled as needed.

Q. Will you suggest a tooth powder that will harden my gums?

A. Nothing is better for this than common baking soda, or salt.

That man planted all the old land and broke some sod and made one of the awfulest crops I ever saw. The twine bill to bind the crop was about $40. That man got it all bundled up and shocked and then traded the whole crop for a pony that wasn't worth $30.

I remember one time Alex Thompson and Happy Hawkins put a high plank fence around a ball park and were going to charge people to see the ball game. The first wind that came along scattered their boards all over the section.

I remember the dances that old Fred Williamson used to give at his house ever so often. He would have beef killed and would kill a hog and cook it and when the people arrived there was time for several long sets before sundown and then there would be time for several more after the sun came up. While part of the people danced the rest of them would go to eat. There would be great long tables loaded down with good food.

The first house built on the east side of Main street was a little frame building. A fellow by the name of Jones built it. He aimed to open up a meat market there but he traded his town property for a team of mules that were as wild as jackrabbits and were alike as two black-eyed peas.

He got him a little flat-bedded wagon and a helper and they hooked those mules up to teach them to pull that wagon. The helper would sit flat in the wagon and Jones would stand up behind him.

After they had them awhile they decided to come down through town. Just as they passed Stombogh's someone whistled real shrill and those mules laid their ears back and really did some running. When they crossed the railroad track that helper bounced way up in the air. You could have put a high chair under him.

Jones had on a clawhammer tail coat and until they went out of sight you could see the tails of that coat flapping and looking exactly like a pair of shears.

One time when I had thrown in with Glen Weir's family we all set down to a dinner and when I finished Mrs. Weir told me she knew I wasn't full so she got a great big bowl of applesauce and told me to eat—I thought she said all of it—so I pushed my plate aside and layed my ears back and started in. When I finished up the bowl of applesauce every one at the table was about to burst they were so tickled. That night it dawned on me that there was enough in that bowl to have fed the whole family for a week.

Where I was born back in Mississippi they thought if you came west God wouldn't know anything about you until you crossed the Mississippi river again. They thought it was sort of a heathen land.

I was kinda sickly and I had heard that if you came west you would either get better or worse right off. I slipped off from home and left my medicine there and headed west.

When I got to Memphis, Tenn., I told them I wanted a ticket for Texas. The man asked me what part of Texas and I told him I didn't care just so it was Texas. He made me a ticket for Hillsboro which he said he figured was about the middle of Texas.

I remember when we first got into Texas one of the fellows on the train looked out across the country and you couldn't see anything except land and he commented what a pretty ball ground that would make.

Streu's Diary

April 11, 1952

DEAR DIARY:

Just got in a fair shipment of RCA Victor "45" records — both singles and albums — including Luis Arcaez' Sweet and Swing album — Bell Sisters in Wheel of Fortune — and Frankie Carl's Top Pops. Also a new album of Modern Jazz Piano.

I hate to appear a kill-joy, but I hope it is still raining this time Sunday — just like it is today!! You girls can wear your Easter finery most any Sunday — but 'tis seldom we can get rain.

Merchandise keeps drifting in most every day — too many items to enumerate — but all in keeping with Streu's policy of having what you want when you want it. It is sometimes difficult to keep everything when real or manufactured shortages develop in certain lines.

Well, the Federal Government has taken over the tidelands — has taken over a big chunk of California land and water rights from hundreds of farmers — has taken over the steel industry — won't be long now until it assumes control over all underground water supplies — then gas and oil wells — then all utilities and railroads — and presently even the schools and churches. Wonder if they need any hardware stores in Mexico or

Canada? And all because a bunch of non-thinking fatheads didn't have time or sense enough to vote — serves us right.

Note where the Brand took off a bunch of high honors at the recent Press Conference — mentioned were editorial material and outstanding and unusual advertising — the unusual advertising I can understand — that's me — but as to the editorial superiority — the judges must have been in the class mentioned in the above paragraph. Truly justice is still blind!!

Presidential Timber Faces Crucial Time for Decision

GOV. ADLAI STEVENSON of Illinois approached the point of no return this week. The time was come for him to make a final decision on his availability for the Democratic presidential nomination.

It was also time for decision in Rocquencourt, outside Paris, where Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower prepared his resignation as Supreme Allied Commander with the effective date in May.

Backers of the general for the GOP presidential nomination plotted the next moves in their campaign to make him the next President of the United States with this in mind.

Illinois Holds Primary

Back in Illinois voters this week expressed presidential preferences, elected delegates to the nominating convention and nominated candidates for governor, other state offices and the U. S. House.

Sen. Taft swept to an impressive victory in the Illinois primary on a tide of votes that swamped the write-in effort for Gen. Eisenhower.

Taft ran far ahead of both Eisenhower and Harold E. Stassen in a race that never was in doubt from the start.

In the Democratic primary, Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee piled up a huge vote in his uncontested preferential race for president.

There had been expectations that write-in drives would develop strength for Eisenhower in the GOP race and for Stevenson on the Democratic ballot. A comparatively small percentage of Illinois voters appeared to have taken the trouble to write-in their votes, however.

Stevenson, whose name was on the Illinois ballot for renomination as the Democratic gubernatorial candidate, had publicly discouraged a write-in move on his behalf in the presidential campaign.

UPCOMING PRESIDENTIAL PRIMARIES
The time was of hand . . .

The possibility loomed that the 52-year-old Stevenson would be the most reluctant presidential candidate the Democrats have seen in 20 years.

His supporters said that once the Governor entered the race, Senators Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma and Richard Russell of Georgia would know they had a fight on their hands.

Stevenson has made it clear he wants to wind up the reorganization and cleanup of Illinois state government which he has directed.

Some Considerations

It can be said that the Illinois governor, who has had extensive experience in diplomacy as a State Department and United Nations official, would be eager to enter a battle for the presidency with Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio.

In that case he would be campaigning, if he got the Democratic nomination, primarily on the issue of full cooperation with other free nations.

On that issue, Stevenson would welcome a battle in the November election with Gen. Douglas MacArthur or Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois, mentioned as possible "darkhorse" Republican nominees.

Stevenson is not so keen, however, to engage Eisenhower on the international grounds because he apparently feels they think largely alike. There might be a clear-cut issue with Eisenhower on Far Eastern policies, however.

Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., of Massachusetts, Eisenhower's campaign manager, has promised the five-star general will attack the Administration's Far Eastern decisions if he is nominated. Stevenson has defended those policies.

The WORLD This WEEK

LABOR: Unrest Boils Over

STEELWORKERS this week quietly accepted President Truman's order for Government seizure of the steel industry.

Generally, there was little emotion on the part of the steelworkers as the nationwide strike set for Tuesday midnight was called off. Some said the seizure order was just what they expected.

In the meantime, the President's tough speech seizing the mills touched off a great court battle.

Steel firms blasted the drastic move as an attempt to confiscate private property and rushed into court to block it.

Midnight Hunt

Major firms sent lawyers on a midnight hunt last Tuesday for a judge with whom they could file an injunction charging the seizure was illegal.

While the squabble over the legality of the Government's seizure order raged, Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer, whom Truman made boss over the steel industry, ordered the U.S. flag flown over all steel plants and notices posted that they were Government property.

Steel firms based their objections to the Government's action on the Fourth and Fifth Amendments to the Constitution, which provide guarantees against illegal search and seizure and against depriving property without due process of law.

The steel dispute boiled down to these facts:

About 700,000 members of the CIO United Steelworkers over the country whose contracts with basic steel producers were expired were involved. Unaffected were 300,000 other union members whose contracts still were in effect.

Background of Dispute

Almost 100 steel companies from coast to coast were involved. Most of them were basic steel producing companies but a few companies which fabricate steel into finished products were included.

The background for the Union's demands goes back to last November when its leaders asked pay increases of 18 1/2 cents, union shop and other contract concessions. Negotiations produced no agreement. Neither did Federal mediation. Both sides agreed to submit the issues to the Wage Stabilization Board. The WSB recommended a pay raise of 17 1/2 cents but industry balked because it had no assurance of price relief. Negotiations based on the WSB recommendations went on in New York right up to the strike deadline this week. The industry offered a wage increase amounting to 16 cents but this was rejected by the Union.

THEY CALL IT STABILIZATION

The steel industry had estimated that price increases up to $12 a ton would be needed to cover the added cost of the pay increase and other benefits proposed by the WSB.

The steel problem, big as it was, was not the only headache on the labor front this week. A two-pronged communications strike faced across the country as CIO walkouts hit the Western Electric Co., installation and maintenance subsidiary of the Bell system in 43 states, and the telephone system itself in five states.

Coupled with a continuing AFL strike against the Western Union Telegraph system, the new walkouts made the communications snarl a three-way affair.

These communications squabbles all involved labor wage fights.

Optimism In Korea

IT WAS hard to pin down the exact source of this week's optimism around the conference tents at Panmunjon in the face of a dawdling deadlock in the Korean armistice negotiations.

The unofficial feeling at the advanced Allied camp at Munsan was that an armistice could be reached within three weeks. It appeared to arise mainly from statements made by Communists at Panmunjon that their delegates were seeking a compromise.

Red negotiators hinted they were ready to give in on Russia as "a neutral nation" if the Allies would permit the Communists to repair their airfields.

Later, an Allied negotiator flatly denied the U.N. Command would trade concessions with the Communists.

Maj. Gen. William K. Harrison called the Red nomination of Russia as a "neutral" inspection nation "strictly a phony issue. . . I am convinced it was raised only to bargain it against airfields."

Gen. Harrison added the Communists were trying to trade something for nothing.

Bradley on Korea

At the same time Gen. Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the U. S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, said in an address at Macon, Ga., he had great hope for a peaceful settlement of the Korean war. Bradley denounced as absurd the Red demand that Soviet Russia help police an armistice.

"We have been meeting Soviet equipment on the ground and in the air for more than 20 months," said the general. "If the Soviets had not provided modern equipment, the war in Korea would never have been possible."

Communist radios, meanwhile, promised immunity to all prisoners of war returned by the Allies in another apparently conciliatory gesture.

To protect exchanged prisoners from possible revenge by the Communists, the Allies have insisted that no prisoner be returned against his will. The Pyongyang Radio promised restoration of a "peaceful livelihood" to all prisoners including those who have renounced Communism.

Sudden Ending

The Communists believe denunciations of Communism by Red POW's have been obtained against the free will of the prisoners.

United Nations officials, who have viewed the Korean truce talks with caution from the start, were even more reticent this week to talk about chances for a settlement.

Some U.N. observers granted earlier this week that an end to the negotiations could come with startling suddenness, but Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway and most of his higher aides took the attitude, "We'll believe it when we see it."

South Africa

Resistance to Malan

Throughout the Union of South Africa this week, armed police stood by as non-white groups waged a campaign against Prime Minister Daniel Malan's racial laws.

Leaders of Negro, Asiatic and colored (mixed blood) organizations aimed their drive at crushing the government's policy of apartheid, or race segregation.

In Capetown, Durban, Fort Elizabeth and Johannesburg, non-whites demonstrated even though the government had the power to jail anyone urging social changes.

Violence Beneath Surface

Beneath the surface, violence simmered. Clashes between police and demonstrators threatened full-scale violence between South Africa's 9 1/2 million non-whites and the 2 1/2 million whites.

Tension has mounted since South Africa's highest court recently declared important racial laws invalid. Malan, who is pledged to keep voting power in the hands of the whites, said his government would defy the ruling and threatened to strip the court of its power to pass on parliament's acts.

The resistance movement got under way on the 30th anniversary of the first white settlers in South Africa. Leaders of the movement mapped plans to have volunteers ignore segregation laws.

Non-White Goals

That meant the passes blacks are required to carry were to be thrown away. Indians would cross forbidden provincial frontiers and coloreds would ignore separate entrances to public buildings.

Observers close to the situation said the campaign contained the seeds of a real race explosion. The main significance, they said, was in the fact the African National Congress (ANC), the Indian Congress (IC) and the coloreds' Franchise Action Council (FAC) came together virtually for the first time to fight for their political goals—Freedom to organize politically and vote, freedom to work and live where they wish, improved housing, better hospitals and more schools.

Floods

Missouri on the Rampage

As the Missouri River hit its highest crest in 42 years in South Dakota this week, thousands were left homeless. Rain and swift-melting snowdrifts added to the hazard.

Officials in Pierre, capital city of South Dakota, maintained an around-the-clock vigil on the river gauges while a "flood emergency" was declared at Sioux Falls.

Eastern North Dakota also had a flood threat from the Red River which was expected to hit a crest of 34 feet by week's end. The Red River flows north into Canada.

The most severe recent flood in this area was in 1943, when a stage of 19.6 feet was reached. In 1881 most of what is now the Pierre area was flooded, but no river depth figures are available. Weather bureau authorities in South Dakota thought this year's crest would end up between four and five feet above the 1943 peak.

Ice on the Missouri River was another headache. At Chamberlain, S. D., ice on the river smashed up against a 100-foot section of the Milwaukee Railroad bridge and knocked it down. Traffic on the line was cut while engineers predicted that repairs would not get started until the end of the week.

CONGRESSIONAL CAPERS

CAPITOL HILL inquisitors warmed up the griddle for another prospect this week. The subject this time was James P. McGranery, President Truman's nominee to replace the deposed J. Howard McGrath as U. S. Attorney General.

The Senate Judiciary Committee, headed by Sen. McCarran (D-Nev.), voted for a thorough investigation of McGranery's qualifications to fill the job. There's a chance the Philadelphia judge won't be able to go to work in Washington until next month at least since hearings in his case will not get going until after Congress returns from an Easter recess.

When McGrath left office this week he named Solicitor General Philip B. Perlman Acting Attorney General to run the Justice Department until Congress finishes its inquiry into McGranery's qualifications.

McGranery says he knows of no protest against McGranery's appointment, but adds he wants to see a "full FBI check" on the judge.

Amerasia Connections

One skeleton in McGranery's past that is bound to rattle when he goes before the probe is his connection with what Sen. Watkins (R-Utah) has called the "notorious Amerasia case." Amerasia was a magazine specializing in Far Eastern affairs. In 1945 Government agents found a quantity of confidential State Department documents in the magazine's office files. McGranery, then an assistant attorney general, was in charge of an espionage prosecution which eventually collapsed.

McGranery has won two previous Senate confirmations without trouble, first for his Justice Department post and later for the Federal bench. Newbold Morris, booted out as the Administration's corruption sleuth last week, breezed back on the Washington scene this week, reloaded for new hot spots at some Government officials.

Morris spoke on "My Mission to Washington" at a National Press Club luncheon Wednesday and appeared before the House Judiciary subcommittee headed by Rep. Chelf (D-Ky), which is investigating the Justice Department, on Thursday.

On the legislative front, President Truman's emergency wartime powers were extended.

In the Senate, the politically explosive civil rights issue came up for fresh attention when a Senate labor subcommittee, headed by Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.), conducted hearings on the proposal to create a Fair Employment Practices Commission with power to enforce its rulings in job discrimination cases.

Quotes

Anthony Eden, British Foreign Secretary: "The danger of war in Europe has certainly receded. The increasing strength of the West has brought increasing confidence and with it the prospect that tension may be lowered."

Alice Kinney, giving her recipe for longevity on her 90th birthday: "Don't get drunk—but a little sip of wine is the best medicine."

Sidelights

● In Long Buckby, Eng., firemen rushed up to Jack Goff's house, looked at the burning chimney, climbed up on the roof, stuck the hose nozzle down a chimney and cut loose. Screams promptly burst forth from the door. The firemen had put the hose down the wrong chimney drenching one of Goff's neighbors.

● In Philadelphia, Eisenhower boosters got set to parade an elephant sporting an "I-Like-Ike" banner, gave up the idea when they found the animal couldn't be hired for less than $260 a day.

● In London, a guitar player at a policeman's ball clutched the microphone and slid to the floor. The bull-fiddler grabbed the guitarist and hung them apart. Finally an electrician pulled the plug on the short-circuited mike. All three musicians are recovering from shock.

MOSCOW PEACE FEELERS

SINCE the end of World War II, the Soviet approach to world problems has been to alternate soft talk and threats.

The Russian note to the Big Three on March 10 proposing German unification and a peace treaty came as the opening gun in the Kremlin's latest peace offensive. Last week, Prime Minister Stalin answered four questions submitted by a group of U. S. newspaper and radio executives.

While the Soviet leader's answers to the queries contained nothing significantly new they lent substance to the belief that a major shift in Russian tactics—with "peaceful co-existence" of Communism and Capitalism as the keynote—was in the works.

Ambassador's Opinion

This week India's ambassador to Moscow, Sir Sarvapalli Radhakrishnan, held a half-hour conference with Stalin after which some diplomats in Moscow concluded the Soviet dictator believes all world problems are capable of settlement by discussion and negotiation.

Said the Indian ambassador: "There is no outstanding problem now dividing the world which could not be settled with discussion and negotiation. Every effort should be made to get the top people together."

At the International Economic Conference in Moscow, meanwhile, the Kremlin's current peace offensive was emphasized when delegates voted to bar political speeches or attacks on political systems.

Western observers said such a vote was unprecedented in Communist-sponsored conferences.

SIR RADHAKRISHNAN
Get the top people together

Russia's chamber of commerce president, M. V. Nesterov, said in an address to the conference, that the Soviet Union is "ready for a vast expansion of trade with all countries."

Western Reaction

In western capitals, officials generally have considered all these recent Soviet moves as propaganda designed to arouse false hopes of peaceful Communist intentions in the West and to undermine the western rearmament program.

FERGUSON SUIT AGAINST FORD SETTLED!

On April 9, 1952, the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York entered a final judgment, with the consent of all parties, which ended four years of litigation between Harry Ferguson, Inc. and Ford Motor Company and others. It was ordered and adjudged that:

1. The sum of $9,250,000 shall be paid to Harry Ferguson, Inc. as royalties on Patents Nos. 1,916,945; 2,118,180; 2,223,002 and 2,486,257.
2. Ford Motor Company shall not manufacture, after December 31, 1952, such tractors, and Dearborn Motors Corporation shall not sell any such tractors manufactured after December 31, 1952, as have
 - (a) a pump having a valve on its suction side, as for example in the present Ford 8N tractor, arranged to be automatically controlled in accordance with the draft of an implement, or
 - (b) a pump for a hydraulically operated draft control system for implement control and a power take-off shaft both driven by the lay shaft of the transmission, as for example in the present Ford 8N tractor, or
 - (c) a coupling mechanism on the upper portion of the center housing, of the form employed in Ford 8N tractors manufactured prior to November 22, 1949; and Ford Motor Company and Dearborn Motors Corporation must affix a notice on any long coupling pins, manufactured by them, to the effect that the pin is sold only for replacement on 8N tractors made by Ford prior to November 22, 1949.

This notice will continue to be affixed until October 25, 1966.

3. The Ford Motor Company and Dearborn Motors Corporation shall have a period of time, expiring not later than December 31, 1952 in which to make these changes.
4. All other claims and counter claims are dismissed and withdrawn on the merits.

A copy of the consent judgment is available to anyone interested in reading it.

This settlement between Harry Ferguson, Inc. and The Ford Motor Company resolves the issues. The inventions in their entirety with which this action was concerned will be found only in the Ferguson Tractor and in the Ferguson System in the future. It is fitting that farmers all over the world... and especially in the Americas... shall continue to look to Ferguson for fulfillment of all these inventions contribute to a greater and more prosperous agriculture. Better implements, better farming practices, more abundant production, and lower farming costs have resulted from the Ferguson System as employed in the Ferguson Tractor.

Now, indeed, the Ferguson with the one and only complete Ferguson System is the tractor that meets more of the needs of more of the farmers, more of the time. This can be proved to you at a demonstration on your own farm. Such a demonstration can be quickly arranged by telephone. Won't you call us about it?

Many of them wear house slippers, cool house frocks and sport shirts. They turn the speaker volume, "up" or "down" to suit their own personal taste. If one of the kids gets sleepy, he just cuddles up in the back seat and goes to sleep. If one starts cryin, he bothers no one but his own family—and you'd have that at home. Opening the Drive-In this year is an even greater pleasure for us, perhaps, because in 1952 we believe we are offering you the finest selection of pictures in our history. Many of them are new, being shown in Hereford for the first time.

Don't plan to visit the Drive-In—just Pick Up and Come On Out When the Urge Strikes You!

YOU'LL FIND A PARADE OF STARS . . . UNDER THE STARS . . . EVERY EVENING.

IT WAS SUCH A QUIET WEDDING . . . UNTIL THE STORK ARRIVED!

JOHNNY HAZARD

by FRANK ROSS

A FAR-RANGING TIGER HAS BLUNDERED INTO THE MAMMOTH PICTURES' LOCATION CAMP. AS THE TIGER LEAPS AT THE BABY ELEPHANT, JOHNNY GRABS A GUN AND FIRES, BUT CERISE "ACCIDENTALLY" TRIPS AND JOSTLES HIS AIM.

YOU SPOILED MY AIM! THAT WOUNDED TIGER IS THE MOST DANGEROUS THING ALIVE... AND HE'S LOOSE!

THAT SHOT... WHAT HAPPENED?

YOUR ALL-AMERICAN PIN-UP GIRL BUMPED ME...JUST ENOUGH TO LEAVE A CRAZY WOUNDED TIGER LOOSE IN THIS AREA!

I'M SORRY... I TRIPPED!

YEAH... SORRY YOU BROKE UP THAT TIGER'S DINNER!

(PUFF)...WHERE'S MAMMOTH... (PUFF)...WHERE'S THE LITTLE GUY...IS HE ALONE IN THAT JUNGLE?!

AFRAID HE IS, CLIX! EITHER THAT TIGER MIGHT GET HIM... OR ONE OF THEM FALLS INTO A TRAP WE SET!

THEN LET'S NOT STAND HERE LIKE FOOLS! LET'S GO IN THERE AFTER THAT DANGED OLD TIGER!

THE NATIVES CAN CHECK THAT AREA THERE! YOU AND I WILL GO LEFT HERE, CLIX!

CHECK! IF ANYTHING HAPPENED TO THE LITTLE HAY BAG I'LL...

TAKE IT EASY, CLIX... WE'LL GET THE LITTLE FELLA OUT OF... WHAT WAS THAT?!

THIS WAY... THAT TIGER'S ON MAMMOTH'S HEELS!

LET'S MAKE QUICK TRACKS! MOVE, HAZARD, MOVE!

T-THE TRAP!... MAMMOTH'S HEADING STRAIGHT FOR IT!

THE

BY LEE FALK & PHIL DAVIS

BILLIONS OF SOLDIER ANTS, MOVING IN A SOLID BAND, DEVOURING ALL BEFORE THEM. ADVANCE UPON THE CAMP! THE WOODS SEEM TO BE ALIVE WITH CRAZED ANIMALS...

LOTHAR! GET FLASHLIGHTS!

MANDRAKE, SOMETHING'S HAPPENED!

GOOD NIGHT! SOLDIER ANTS! HURRY! LET'S GET OUT OF HERE!

THEY DASH THROUGH THE INSECT HORDE AND HEAD FOR THE RIVER!

Oooh--THE PLACE WAS SWARMING WITH THEM!

HURRY! KEEP GOING!

THE ANT BAND MOVES LIKE A DEATH RAY ACROSS THE CAMP, EATING AND DESTROYING EVERYTHING IN ITS PATH, EVEN SOFT WOOD AND CLOTH!

IF THEY REACH THE COPTER, THEY'LL DESTROY HALF OF IT--THE INSULATION, CLOTH AND WOOD--AND RUIN IT!

THEM COMING CLOSE--US BETTER GO INTO WATER.

TRAPPED ON THE RIVER BANK--BETWEEN FLESH-EATING FISH AND THE "EVERYTHING-EATING" ANT HORDE!

WE CAN'T GO INTO THE RIVER! REMEMBER, THE PIRANHA!

THAT'S RIGHT!
