MR. AND MRS. W. A. WATERS

W. A. Waters Are 'Good Neighbors'

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Waters, who live at 203 Higgins street in Hereford, have been selected as The Brand's "Good Neighbor" family, the contest judges announced Saturday afternoon.

Neither Mr. or Mrs. Waters have been informed of the judges' decision previously. This announcement of the contest winner is the first time the lucky family has been identified.

The Waters family will be given a week-long FREE vacation at Drowsy Water Ranch, Granby, Colo., during the week of June 15-21. All their expenses will be paid while they are at Drowsy Water Ranch.

Essie Cardwell Candidate For District Clerk

ESSIE CARDWELL

Essie Cardwell filed for the office of District Clerk on June 2 and authorized the following statement to appear in The Brand on June 8 in behalf of her candidacy:

"By this means I wish to notify the voters of Deaf Smith County that I am a candidate for nomination for the office of District Clerk.

"I have been a resident of Deaf Smith County practically all the time since 1906 when I came here with my parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Bourn, from Denton county, Texas.

"Besides having a high school education, I graduated from St. Joseph's college in Sherman, Tex.

"In 1937 I was employed in the Hereford office of the West Texas Gas company whose headquarters are in Lubbock. This position I have held until May 1, of this year.

"During the many years I have lived in Deaf Smith county, I have taken an active part in community life. I am a charter member of the Bay View club and a member of the First Christian church.

"It has been a pleasure to me to have a part in helping Hereford grow from the small cowtown to the flourishing little city it now is.

"I believe my educational background added to my past years of office experience will fit me for the position of District Clerk.

"I hereby solicit your support and, if elected, I promise to perform its duties faithfully and efficiently."

Essie B. Cardwell

In addition, they will be given the use of a 1952 Buick automobile in which to make the trip to Granby.

While at Granby, The Brand's "Good Neighbors" will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Malone, former Hereford residents who now own Drowsy Water Ranch.

Mr. and Mrs. Waters were selected from a field of 29 entrants by two impartial judges. Selection was completed Saturday at 10 a.m.

While the winners were not chosen by the number or length of nominations, Mr. and Mrs. Waters were selected as "Good Neighbor" candidate by two Hereford Brand subscribers—Mrs. Loyd Ragland and Mrs. P. H. Luck.

Determining factor in the decision of the judges, they said, was the fact that Mrs. Waters, who is a nurse, gave freely and unselfishly of her professional time at no charge to her neighbors.

Both letters of nomination were written by persons who had come to know, first-hand, the kindness displayed in everyday living by both members of this household.

The judges admitted that the task of selecting a winner out of a field of 29 really "good neighbors" was a difficult task, indeed. Their final choice, however, was prompted by the area of activity. Several of the nominees displayed extraordinary effort in one or two different phases of community living, but the judges felt that Mr. and Mrs. Waters best exemplified the all-around "Good Neighbor."

As was mentioned previously, neither Mr. or Mrs. Waters are aware of the week-long care-free vacation ahead of them. This announcement was intended to be a complete surprise to this "Good Neighbor" family.

With the secrecy needed, it was impossible to get detailed information from the couple on their past life. We will, however, have a complete interview with the family and get their reaction to the surprise for Thursday's Brand.

Mr. and Mrs. Waters have lived in Deaf Smith county since 1934, according to the information contained on the entry blanks. They have no children here.

Mrs. Ragland, in her nomination, ended with: "They are fine people and would be deserving of a good vacation."

Mrs. Luck commented: "Neighbors like these are hard to find."

Thus the selection of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Waters of Hereford concludes a month-long search to find the most deserving family in Deaf Smith, Farmer, Castro or Oldham counties. They will be treated like kings at The Brand's expense for one glorious week at one of Colorado's most famous and most beautiful guest ranches.

The families who have been nominated in the contest are: the Bob Wilsons, the Nolle Ellistons, the Emmet Days, the U. V. Pierces, the Robert Lemons, the Matt Gillilands, the S. J. Barclays, the L. L. Nortons, the Ralph Smiths, the Roy Lillys, the W. Waters, Mrs. J. P. Slaton, the T. J. Presleys, the Joe G. Evans, the Harold Carpenters, the Sank Rameys, Rev. Raymond Gillis, the Ralph Greathouses, the E. A. Hammonds, the V. C. Williards, the C. C. Graefs, the J. D. Carpenters, the Bill Warrens, the R. E. (Bud) Curtsingers, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Nelson, Mrs. Reber Howton, the Carl Wimberleys, Mr. and Mrs. Walter London Sr., the E. L. Stranges.

Seeks Payment Of Note In District Court

John P. Gallagher filed suit in district court on June 4 to recover the balance of a note from J. O. Crawford, Roy D. Hawthorne, and H. D. Crawford.

The petition filed by Gallagher alleges that the defendants signed a promissory note on November 17, 1948 for $7,500. The note, signed for a year, bore 8% interest.

Gallagher charges that on September 22, 1950, when payments ceased on the loan, the principal due was $836.95 plus interest at 10%.

When the note was signed, a chattel mortgage on well-drilling equipment was given the plaintiff. He seeks foreclosure on the equipment and judgment for payment of the principal, interest and attorney fees.

Estimated value of the well-drilling equipment secured by the mortgages is about $600, the petition states.

Attorneys for Gallagher are Cowsert and Bybee and Gib Howard.

Buy Ambulance For Dimmitt

The Gilliland Funeral Home purchased an ambulance to be kept in Dimmitt for use by the Dimmitt people.

The ambulance will be kept by one of the Dimmitt firemen and the Dimmitt Fire Department will control use of the vehicle.

This is the second Gilliland Funeral Home ambulance that has been put in Dimmitt. The other one was used until Dimmitt put in a funeral home and then sold.

Check Charge

Richard Rochester pled guilty in county court on June 5 to a charge of swindling with worthless check on March 15, 1952.

He was fined $1 and sentenced to seven days in the county jail.

Woodford Is Scout Camp Crew Leader

Tom Woodford, 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lisle Woodford, left June 1 for Philmont Scout Ranch where for one week he attended the National Camping Scout school. He will serve as crew leader and guide at Philmont until September 1.

An Eagle Scout, Tom has always been enthusiastic about Scout work, and caught the inspiration of greater Scouting service when he attended a junior leader course at Philmont in 1950.

The Camp comprises 127,000 acres, with six base camps and a dozen or so trail camps. The crew leaders visit all the bases and camps as they guide camp activities.

Staff members at Philmont are in the main, all adults, but Tom was able to get the work because of his outstanding record as a Boy Scout. He is junior assistant Scout Master of Troup 51 and was senior patrol leader of Troup 50 and Troup 51. He was senior crew leader of the Explorer's Post and last summer he served on the staff of Council Camp at Don Harrington camp, Texas.

All of Tom's interests have not been confined to Scout work, however. He is a junior in Hereford high school and lettered in basketball the past year. He is also active in other forms of high school athletics. He was a member of the high school speech department and took part in school dramatics, and is a member of the boys Hi-Y club.

Last year, he was chosen as one of the sophomore class favorites. He is also active in the youth work of the First Christian church.

REA Calls Meeting Of School Groups

A meeting of all school taxing bodies in the tri-county area served by the Deaf Smith County Electric Co-op has been called for Monday, June 14, at the REA building, according to Leo Forrest, manager of the co-op.

Purpose of the meeting, he explained, will be to strive for uniform taxation by the 10 school districts in the three counties on REA lines and poles.

At the present time, Forrest said, there is no such uniformity in evaluations of REA property coursing through the individual districts.

Forrest also told The Brand that a new loan for REA system extension and expansion amounting to $465,000 was approved by Washington Wednesday.

Half the money will be used for work order extensions and the other half will go for installation of a new 7,500 KVA substation north of the present sub-station on Highway 80 east of Hereford.

Included in this system expansion work along with the new sub-station (which will cost about $80,000 exclusive of labor) will be the erecting of nine miles of transmission wire to the new station, 11 miles of the line and 38 miles of rephasing from single phase to three-phase lines.

Forrest said that in 1947, the local co-op charted a five-year program with a system survey made to estimate what the load on the system would be in 1952. During August, 1951, that load was surpassed and sub-stations in the irrigation area were overloaded by 25%.

When Forrest went to Washington recently on telephone co-op business, he was told he could make an additional application for the new sub-station east of town. Originally, the application (for about half the final amount okayed Wednesday) was for work order extensions.

Forrest said that with the new system expansion work, it will be possible to add about 101 new consumers in the fringe areas of Deaf Smith county and Farmer county. Castro county is almost 100% electrified.

When the "fringe area" consumers are hooked up to the system, membership in the co-op will be between 2,500 and 2,600 members, Forrest explained.

The REA manager said that there is a well for each 1 1/2 miles of single phase line on the average with two well lines also of line.

The entire operation is based on a two-year program, Forrest said. After that two years, the co-op will be able to take on more irrigation wells.

In other co-op business, the West Texas Rural Telephone co-operative signed a contract with the Graybar Electric Company of Dallas for North Electric equipment for the new rural telephone system.

First unit in the system—which the manufacturers recommended to be put at either end of the system—Dawn or Farwell—will be delivered in 180 days.

The Graybar people had the lowest bid submitted to the co-op and also the earliest delivery date. The board of directors of the co-op will decide at which end of the line the first central office equipment will be placed at their next meeting.

Cut-over date for the new telephone network will be in about 300 days, according to Graybar delivery schedules.

Officers of the WTRTC are: E. C. Reinsauer, president; J. C. Morrison, vice-president; G. H. Webb, Hart, secretary-treasurer. Members of the board are: Joe Warren, Nazareth; Alfred May, Dawn; Floyd Schlenker, Rhea; and Harold W. Carpenter, Oklahoma Lane.

Chamber of Commerce In Survey Of Members' Ideas On Programs

A drive to secure member-ideas for future programs of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce was launched this week with the mailing of work program suggestion cards by Cecil Massey, C of C manager.

Massey said this was the best way he knew to assure a sound program for future growth that would have the solid backing of the membership and represent what the individual members believed to be among the points needing greatest stress by the Chamber of Commerce.

Work programs are used by most other Chambers, Massey said. They will be the basis of long-range action to be undertaken by the business and agriculture groups.

The suggestion card includes the member's idea for immediate programs as well as long range programs.

Results of the survey will be compiled as soon as possible and presented to the board of directors, which in turn will prepare the suggestions for possible action.

Massey said fields of programming which could be explored through this type of long range setup could include:

Agriculture, industry, publicity, trade development, highways, education, organizational activities, research and survey and civic improvement.

Members are asked to return the blanks as soon as possible.

HR Charter To Austin Tuesday

Hereford's Home Rule charter is ready for its final drafting, according to Ray Cowsert, chairman of the 15-member Home Rule committee appointed by citizen action this spring.

The full committee heard the charter proposal at a meeting Friday night in city hall. Cowsert said the charter would be ready to send to Austin and the Texas League Of Municipalities by Tuesday.

The league will make a minute inspection of the charter and make any suggestions they feel would better the Hereford charter.

After about a week or 10 days, the charter will come back and then a date for the election will be set, Cowsert told The Brand.

Lindsey Charged With Assault

Henry W. Lindsey was charged in county court on June 5 with aggravated assault on the person of Dorothy Lindsey.

The alleged action occurred on June 4, according to the complaint signed by Dorothy Lindsey.

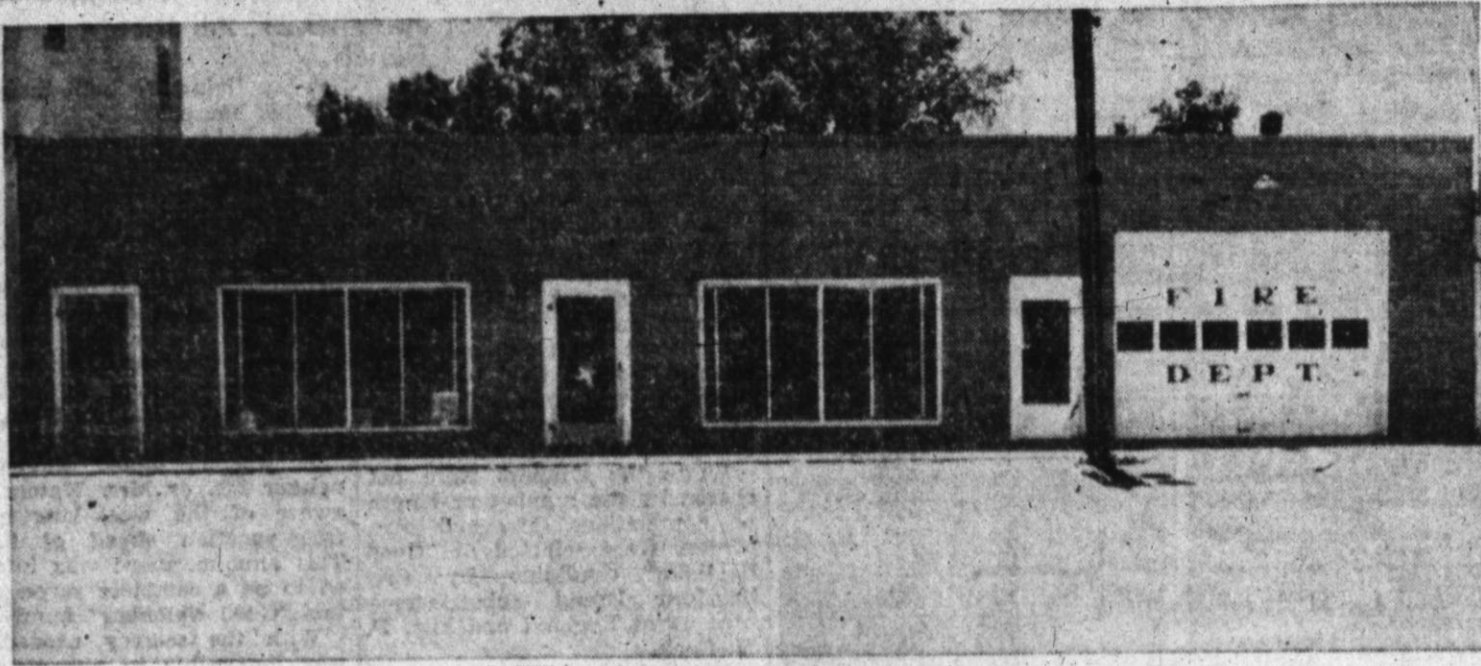

Lindsey had a hearing before County Judge Leonard Foster on Friday when he pled not guilty to the charge. His trial is set for the July 7 term of court.

Lindsey is free on a $500 appearance bond.

GRASS ROOTS

There have been a lot of inquiries around the warehouse here of late concerning potatoes. There are those in other areas who seem to think that a potato packing house would surely have potatoes, but I fear this is far from correct. Believe me if it were so I would be the first to snag on to a sack of them and head for the woods. However the crop should be coming in the last part of June and if I'm any judge of "Spuds" (which I ain't) the crop should be good and the price right. Although I am not any judge of potatoes while growing in the field there are those around me here who are, and they say that the prospects are fine for a good crop this year. I heard over the radio this morning that the government has lifted the ceiling on the potato market so everyone should be feeling better about that angle. I don't know enough about that kind of business to expound to any length on it, but it does please me to see that in a few cases private enterprise is still getting by on a breath at a time. I refuse to get started on any political tirades for two reasons: First and most important I'm not smart enough and secondly I'm afraid that someone might accuse me of going along with Ullin Streu. If that doesn't get a rise out of Ullin nothing will.

Howard and I spent a very enjoyable afternoon this week with Mr. Pringle of the Triplett and Pringle Cattle Company in Bovina. We were interested in seeing their livestock farm and finding out first hand just what results they were getting from their Vetch and Rye grazing program. All that has been said about their operation is true. It is hard to believe the number of cattle that they run on that place and the gains that they make off Vetch and Rye. Mr. Pringle pointed out a group to us that had made a gain of 2.2 lbs. a day for thirty days. That is really putting it off. I am happy to report that there will be a large acreage of Vetch and Rye planted in this area and want to add again in this column that those of you who want a fine crop for this fall, winter, and next spring's grazing will certainly be doing yourself a favor by this seeding.

There is a lot of chemical moving out of the warehouse now. There are a few don'ts about spraying that I think would be well to mention here. Although the Texas Herbicide law doesn't affect some of the counties in the High Plains area many of the sprays you use will knock your neighbors cotton in the head just the same as if the law were existent. 2-4-D is not volatile and unless sprayed directly onto the plant will not damage it. By using this chemical you can knock the weeds and eliminate the damage to the neighbor's cotton field. Strange that cotton is the one plant most susceptible to 2-4-D damage, but that is the way it is. Now is the time to start your control work on bindweed. 2-4-D spray will keep the plants burned back and will not let them make seed. That is the first step. After that it will be a series of spraying until all the plants are eventually starved out. Remember that every time you pull your implements through a bindweed patch you are spreading it out that much more.

I have been running into a little criticism lately concerning my irrigated pasture recommendations. Seems I sold the pastures a little short and the customers didn't buy enough cattle to stock them. I even hear once in a while about some of the men taking in cattle. I can see where that is a good deal for the men who own the cattle and also the men who own the pasture. If I had a small acreage of land near town here somewhere I believe that I would put it all in pasture, take in cattle on the gain and go fishing. If you doubt that, this will make money ask some of the boys that are doing it.

Ran my neck out the other day on the comparative feed value of Vetch versus alfalfa hay. I have made the statement several times that Vetch was equal to alfalfa in feeding value without the danger of bloat. After I had my hand called several times I went to the library and checked out Morrisons Feeds and Feeding and find that Hairy Vetch tops alfalfa on Total Digestible Nutrients and also Digestible Protein. Stop the argument boys. I still have the book here and it's not due in until June 19.

Frio Baptist Church Revival Services Underway This Week

By Mrs. Owen Andrews
Revival services at the Frio Baptist church are underway this week. Rev. O'Neil, the visiting preacher, was ill and in the hospital at Hereford until Wednesday. He is from Plainville, Kans., where he is pastor of the First Baptist church. Rev. and Mrs. Wilson have been visiting around in the community this week, taking dinner in different homes and visiting others in the afternoons.

Wade Thompson and Lester Irwin are leading song services and arranging special numbers for evening services.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Simpson and Nelle recently visited an uncle, Joe Landon, and family at Stanley, N. M., and then went on to near Trinidad, Colo., where they visited the locality where Robert lived as a child.

On their return trip, they spent two nights with Mrs. Simpson's sister, Mrs. Floyd Hudson and Mrs. Vernon Leverett, and their families, both at Dumas.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Thompson from the hospital at Amarillo on brought their baby, Gall, home Friday of last week. She had been seriously ill.

Mrs. Fred Axe entertained at a shower honoring Mrs. Gwyndolyn Springer, bride-elect of Paul Wallace.

Mrs. H. F. Benson gave a reading and Mrs. Axe read a musical story, with Mrs. Owen Andrews playing accordion accompaniment.

Cakes with flower decorations and the words "Paul and Gwyndolyn" were cut by the honoree and served with fruit punch. Guests were: Mesdames Joe Benson, and daughter, Susan; Mrs. Glenn Ratcliff and Mrs. W. S. Dixon, all of Dimmitt; Mrs. Earl Springer, Misses Leta Dene, Sue and Twila Springer from Hereford; Mrs. H. F. Benson, Mrs. T. L. Sparkman, Jr., Mrs. A. T. Jones, and Mrs. Owen Andrews.

The wedding is to take place June 20 at the Hereford Lutheran church. The couple will live in Arlington, Va.

Gwyndolyn lived in this community until she reached high school age. The family then moved to Hereford. She has been living in Colorado Springs for the last two or three years.

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Benson and daughters visited Mrs. Benson's relatives in Pampa during the Mabley home were Mrs. Mabley's week end.

New $125,000 Cotton Gin Being Erected At Bovina

Bovina has added another rung to its ladder of growth with the current building of gin at the east edge of town destined to be one of the finest and fastest in the vicinity.

Construction cost of the unit with its high-speed equipment is estimated at a minimum of $125,000.

Owners of the new gin are Morrison and Ely. Mr. Morrison has been district manager with Planters Gin Company at Sweetwater. Mr. Ely has been in the gin business in Snyder since 1907. Maximum capacity of the new unit—the first in Bovina—will be eight bales per hour. Most other gins in the area have a six bale per hour maximum capacity.

Bovina has been with out a gin since 1940 when the Hubert Davidson Gin company was moved from the community. That unit was built in 1929.

Morrison and Ely are certain there will be a great demand for their ginning during the coming year. Cotton acreage in the Bovina trade territory has increased from 3-4000 acres in 1952 to 17,000 acres in 1952. Five thousand acres will be planted in the Pleasant Hill community.

To prove to Morrison and Ely that they were in complete accord as to the need of for a gin and that they intended to support it when it was installed, residents of Bovina and farmers in the surrounding areas participated in a survey showing just how much cotton was going in this year.

The survey was conducted in April of this year by the Bovina Chamber of Commerce under the direction of O. W. Rhinehart, local insurance man. Of 450 questionnaires sent out, 112 farmers replied that they were planting cotton totaling the amount stated above. Of this, 14,000 acres is on irrigated land.

After the farmers and businessmen did their part in the survey, to induce the gin operators to locate in Bovina, the city itself made another gesture to assure Morrison and Ely of their complete cooperation. The city extended the water mains to the city limits for use of the new gin. This was part of a community-wide water expansion system.

Members of the Bovina Chamber of Commerce, which secured the gin for Bovina, are: A. M. Wilson, president, and E. D. Bedford Caldwell, secretary. They were named to their posts in February.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Snyder have returned from a two weeks visit with relatives in Illinois. They visited her mother, Mrs. Jennie Gibson, and a sister and brother of Mrs. Snyder.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter P. Heinzman and son Homer of Las Cruces, N. M., are visiting here with their son, Lester, who is assistant pastor and youth director at the First Christian church this summer.

Fancher-McMillan Wedding Vows Are Repeated Saturday

Announcement has been made here of the marriage of Miss Jennie Fancher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Fancher of Amarillo, and Pfc. Bill McMillan, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. McMillan of Hereford.

The wedding took place Saturday in Clovis at the parsonage of Rev. Ray Stewart, pastor of the Assembly of God church, who performed the single ring ceremony.

MRS. McMILLAN

PFC McMILLAN

Attendants were Miss Hazel Jordan of Amarillo and LeGrand Morton of Hereford.

The bride wore an orchid linen suit with luggage tan accessories and a corsage of white carnations. Following the wedding the couple returned to Amarillo where a reception for close friends and relatives was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents.

Others attending the wedding were her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Fancher, Amarillo, and sister, Miss Peggy Fancher, also of Amarillo; Norma Jean McMillan, Lorraine Morton and Lynn Smith.

Pfc. McMillan will leave for Fort Sill, Okla., for reassignment on June 12. He has served in the Army 14 months and since September 1, has been in Korea.

CONG. ROGERS SAYS

Last Ditch Fight On Tidelands Vowed If Truman Veto Sustained

THE TIDELANDS VETO: The veto of the tidelands bill by the President came as no surprise. The message reached the Senate at two o'clock on May 29. At the time, I was sitting in the Senate Chamber along with Congressmen Poage, Ikard, Pickett, and Teague. We received some of the first copies of the message after it was delivered to the Senate. The reason that the message went back to the Senate rather than the House of Representatives is because the bill that was finally passed was a Senate bill, S. J. Res. 20.

The Senate will vote on the question of overriding the veto sometime between June 5 and June 10 under present plans. Should the Senate override the veto, the matter will then come to the House of Representatives, where there is no question about overriding the veto. That is, if the Senate overrides the veto, the tidelands question will finally be settled right.

Should the Senate fail to override the veto, the matter will not come back to the House of Representatives, and the tidelands legislation will have suffered another setback. I say "another setback" for the reason that a failure on the part of the Senate to override the veto does not mean that the issue is settled.

This fight will never be relaxed until this matter is settled right and these lands returned to their rightful owners. Much has been said about the present President of the United States being set in his ways and obstinate. Some say this is a basic Missouri trait. Be that as it may, I can tell the President of the United States and all other interested parties that they don't know the meaning of the phrase "set in their ways" or the word "obstinate" until they try to run over a bunch of Texans. That is exactly what they have done and they can get ready to take their medicine. If they think for one minute that we as Texans have ever entertained the idea of submitting to this flagrant and rank misuse of property rights and this legalized larceny on the part of the Federal Government; they are in for the saddest awakening of their questionable careers.

The President's veto message clearly exhibits that the INFAMOUS GREED that prompted this attempted theft in the first instance is still the only grounds upon which they stand in their sordid attempt to justify an act that has no parallel in the criminal annals of this nation. The tidelands steal that began with the reversal of position by Harold Ickes will go down in the history of this country as the greatest crime that was ever perpetrated by a government upon its patriotic and law-abiding citizenry. Nothing can ever erase the Black mark caused by the warped philosophy that prompted centralized government soundbites to make this raid. It can, however, be dimmed by a full restoration of the property stolen, the acknowledgement that a wrong has been committed, a confession by these wrong-doers that they have violated the spirit and the word of the Constitution and the written law of this great land, and a humble request by each of them that they be allowed to rededicate their lives to the basic philosophy of truth, honesty and Americanism.

The House of Representatives stands ready, able, and willing to meet its responsibilities to the people of the coastal states who have been subjected to this unethical and ignominious treatment at the hands of the Federal Government. I only hope and pray that the Senate of the United States will permit the light of Truth to shine upon its chambers and measure up to the glorious traditions of fairness and justice so necessary for the survival of our union.

In my newsletter of last week I told you of some incidents concerning the tidelands question that indicate the complete lack of knowledge of the true issues involved. The President's veto message reflects either a total lack of knowledge of the basic principles involved or a deliberate attempt to write around these basic principles and to justify an admitted wrong by question-begging tactics. That the entire tidelands steal was prompted and prosecuted by greed is revealed in the following paragraph contained in the veto message:

"Until recent years little or no attention was paid to the question of who owned these lands under the open sea since they were for all practical purposes, without value. But about twenty years ago oil began to be produced in substantial quantities from the submerged lands off the coast of California. Then for the first time, the legal question of ownership became important and was given serious consideration."

Yes, the Federal Government never had title to these lands, never claimed title to these lands, and in fact denied that the Federal Government had title to these, until long after potential oil development became apparent. The states were permitted to make leases on these lands that were not questioned by the Federal Government, and all of the written law fully supported the state ownership. It was when the vast riches in these lands began to be realized, long after the first oil production, that the scheming and conniving minds of a small group of men, prompted by greed and spurred on by a lust for power, conceived the trickery and the chicanery that finally resulted in the Supreme Court of the United States pulling out of the hat and unheard of theory of real property law and sovereign power that cast a cloud upon the title to every piece of privately owned property in the United States and its possessions.

"For the love of money is the root of all evil; which while some coveted after, they have erred from the faith, and pierced themselves through with many sorrows."

Trap Shooting Honors For Local Marksman

By Nelda Guy Lawrence
When you talk about hobbies, you have to give wide berth to R. J. Cramer of Hereford for his unusual—and exacting—hobby, competition in championship trap shoots.

In 25 years of trap shooting for diversion, Cramer has a total of 35 trophies of various kinds to show for his effort.

Cramer has just returned from the Southwestern Zone shoot in Oklahoma where he copped second place in the shoot by breaking 97 out of 100 birds.

This second place win wasn't anything to talk about, Cramer felt, because he won the same shoot last year.

Cramer also took second place at the state shoot this year with a 98 out of 100 the first day and 97 out of 100 the second day and a 95 on the third day.

"I lacked only one breaking enough," Cramer lamented. "The man who won only made 96."

Cramer doesn't advise anyone to take up trap shooting if they are hunting an inexpensive hobby, for special stocks fitted to the individual shooter run about $120 to $125.

Both of the Cramer boys have picked up trap shooting. They started when they were about 12 or 13 years old.

One of the boys, Jimmie, is the 1951 Junior Champ runner-up in Texas. Cramer says the boys aren't as enthusiastic about shooting now that they have to pay for their own ammunition.

Cramer started trap shooting because he liked to shoot and it required great skill to be a trap shooter.

In 1926 many of the people who were following trap shooting switched over to skeet shooting which is very similar except that it doesn't require the skill that trap shooting does.

About 200 people generally enter the State shoot each year, Cramer commented and then the winner of the State shoot competes in the Grand American handicap in August.

The winner of this shoot is truly the champion trap shooter in America.

Buse Graduates From Academy For Non-Coms

MUNICH, GERMANY—Cpl. Calvin O. Buse, whose wife, Katherine Lee, and daughter live at 296 H St. Hereford, recently graduated from the Seventh Army's Non-Commissioned Officers Academy at Munich, Germany.

The six-week course emphasized the use of weapons, Army administration, tactics, supply, physical fitness and organization. Students were carefully selected by their organization commanders before attending the school.

Corporal Buse has been serving as a gunner in the 63rd Antiaircraft Artillery Battalion since his arrival in Germany last August.

He entered the Army in March 1951.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Buse live at 210 Calappa st., Hereford.

J. D. Sanders In Navy Rate Boost

Among the men advanced to their present rates while serving aboard the oiler USS Guadalupe, en route home to the United States after nine months of battle in Korean waters, was J. D. Sanders, electrician's mate, second class, USN, of Hereford, and husband of Mrs. Ruth Arden Sanders, formerly of Salt Lake City, Utah.

Sanders, who entered the Naval service July 2, 1949, received his recruit training at the U. S. Naval Training Center, San Diego, Calif.

Before entering the Navy, Sanders attended Hereford high school and was employed by Nipper Electric Co.

The advancements in rate were made at a meritorious malt aboard the Guadalupe. It is necessary to pass a competitive fleet-wide examination in order to achieve the advancement.

Chamber To Meet With Lubbock On Water Problem

Two representatives from the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce will go to Lubbock Wednesday night for a joint meeting between the Lubbock City Commissioners and representatives of High Plains teams interested in preserving underground water.

Cecil Massey, local C of C manager, told The Brand that the Chamber of Commerce for Muleshoe-Lubbock has acquired large underground water rights in Bailey county—visited the Hereford Chamber and asked their help to dissuade the Lubbock commission from using the underground water.

According to speculation at this time, Massey said, it is believed that plans are in the mill to have an industrial alcohol plant move to Lubbock. This plant would use 10 million gallons of water per day, in addition to the 12 million consumed by the city of Lubbock.

The Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce, with backing from others on the High Plains, hope to convince the Lubbock commissioners that taking irrigation water for industrial use would kill the most profitable industry here—namely agriculture.

Twenty-five Chamber of Commerce representatives from the High Plains and 25 Lubbock commissioners will meet.

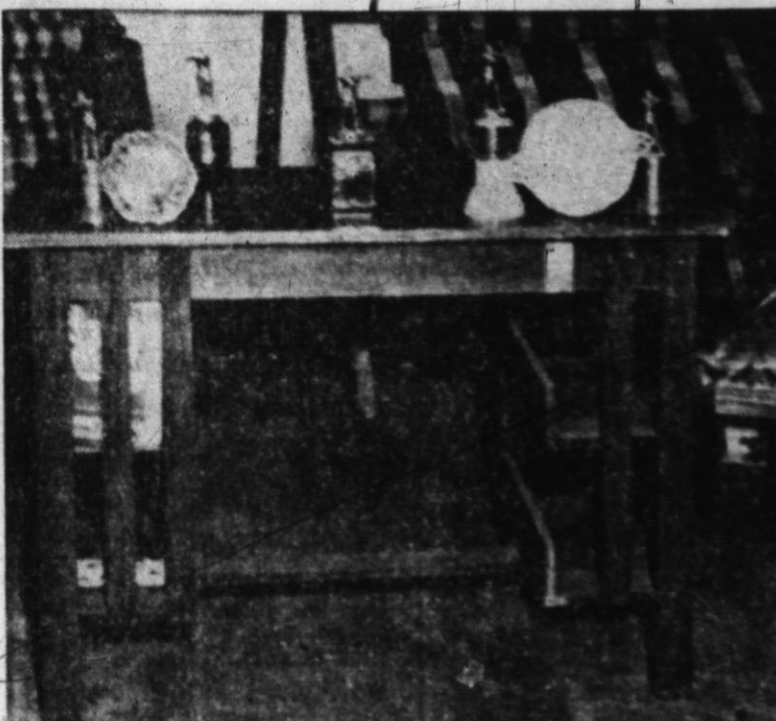

North Hereford HD Club Meets

North Hereford Home Demonstration club met in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Russell Thursday afternoon.

FFA Area Speech Winner, Talks To Rotarians

The road by the Bradley Grain Company is being widened by the county from 60 feet to 100 feet, according to M. T. Rutter, county commissioner.

Most of the dirt work on the widening of the road has been completed by the county, which is doing the job at odd times.

As soon as the road bed is completed plans are being made to gravel the road.

HUNTER
Bill Hunter, son of Sam Hunter of Dimmitt, and grandson of Bill Hunter of Hereford, was the guest speaker at the Friday meeting of the Hereford Rotary club.

Hunter, 17, was winner of the area FFA speaking contest held in Canyon in May. He won over a field of seven contestants. The area is made up of 12 districts.

Topic of Hunter's talk was "Let Us Wage the Peace", a 10-minute speech on the Marshall Plan, the same he used in winning the FFA honors.

The youth is a 1952 graduate of Dimmitt high school.

May 30, will represent the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce in the Clovis Pioneer Days parade Wednesday, June 11, at 6 p.m. The C of C here had previously promised Clovis that the local first prize entry would represent the area in the Clovis celebration.

New City Hall Pride Of Bovina

Among the new homes and buildings residents of Bovina prize most highly is numbered the brand new city hall-fire station completed the early part of May.

The 30 x 60-foot brick structure was built at a cost of $12,000 secured through a bond issue by the citizens last fall.

Construction of the one-story building was done by A. G. White, Bovina contractor.

Housed in the new building are the city offices, the fire station and the insurance offices of O. L. Rhinehart.

The overall structure is made up of three 20x30-foot units.

Funds for the construction were raised through the bond issue which also provided for increasing the capacity of the city water system-across Highway 60 into the new residential addition-for 12 more blocks.

Jordan were:

Mrs. Floyd Schlenker, Mrs. J. C. Wilkerson, Mrs. G. L. Hough, program;

Mrs. C. W. Dixon, Mrs. Bert Chitwood, Mrs. J. A. Lamb, Mrs. John Binger and Mrs. N. Jarrel, finance;

Mrs. Ray Slagle, Lions chairman;

Mrs. Charles Russell, pressbook chairman; and Mrs. Wesley Hardesty, federation counsellor.

The meeting was a covered dish luncheon. It was opened with a prayer by Mrs. Russell Pogue.

The program followed the luncheon. Hostesses were: Mesdames J. A. Lamb, Roy Slagle, L. F. Lillard, J. C. Wilkerson, G. L. Hough and Wesley Hardesty.

There were 28 members and one guest -- Mrs. Mary V. Heitzman of San Jose, Calif., and an associate member, Mrs. Russell Pogue present.

By JIMMIE GILLENLINE

Did you ever get up at 5 o'clock on a cold morning, slide into some stiff overalls, wash your face in cold water and straggle out to the barn to milk "Old Bossy"?

Those days are gone forever. It is all handled in a different manner now. The time when any kid or hired hand could do the milking is a thing of the past. The milkman is a fair chemist, an electrician and a student of no mean ability. He talks about "low bug count", about market conditions, scientific feeding--and when school is out he usually goes on "surplus". Surplus means that he only gets around half price for about one-third of his milk.

I went out and had dinner with the Bill McIvers west of town this week and I found out that this cow milking business has changed, but plenty. Back when I used to milk a couple of cows each morning and evening, you always did the milking and then ate when you got through. Now you eat pretty well on schedule, chiefly because you have to keep the cows on a milking schedule. After the barter, the etoin shrdluet ter supper Bill strolled out to the modern Grade A barn and started things going. First he turned on the radio and pretty soon his first batch of cows wandered up to get into the barn.

Bill says he has been using a radio for several years now -- even before the milking machine was installed.

"Heck, I don't know whether they give more milk or not," he says, "but it sure makes them happier, especially the nervous ones."

Furthermore, Bill says there isn't much question but what the "high-brow music on Mondays" is a lot better milking music than hillbilly stuff and swing.

Everything in the barn looks as if it had just been whitewashed and disinfected. The floors were unquestionably washed down that afternoon, and Bill says his procedure is nothing unusual. He says that it's just part of running a dairy farm nowadays. He has a little office out front and the first thing you see is a columnist pad. Bill can tell you just how much milk old Bossy gave, in May, right down to the half-pint.

Like many other dairymen in this district, Bill has joined an artificial insemination pool. He says he thinks this a very good deal since it affords breeding from good stock at a moderate price. A standard price of $7.50 is charged and the association handles the entire deal.

I had read about these developments from time to time, but seeing them in actual practice, right here at home was quite a shock. I guess I sub-consciously figured they were pretty good theory and would be confined to classwork at A. and M. College. I am sure most everyone had read about cows giving more milk with music, but who in heck would ever figure they really did it around Hereford?

It would seem to me that the dairy business has changed more than any other single business during the past 10 years. Lots and lots of people are selling out and quitting it, too. They say it's still a life of hard work and headaches.

Mrs. Phil Radovich dropped in the other day to say that she thought of me while on her trip to Florida a few months ago. I couldn't figure the trend of her thinking, but she said that her party stopped in a nice little restaurant for coffee, and the restaurant had on display a cup. The sign on the display said: "This is the cup Harry Truman drank from when he stopped here." She says it has never been washed since Harry so lifted it to his lips.

You'd think with all these modern chemicals and purifiers, that they would go right ahead and wash it with the other dishes. Guess some people are just naturally over-cautious.

Cecil Massey is also burned up a little bit. Cecil came here from Canyon a few months ago and the other night when fire departments from over the area answered the Fraser Mill alarm, the Canyon fire chief called Cecil around 2:30 in the morning and said, "Cecil, we answered the call and got here in time to save the lot." Cecil says it wasn't a bit funny that early in the morning.

Gaylord Newell says he read this column Thursday -- and that I am slipping. He says I am pitching out too many bouquets. I agree about the slipping part. I am on the verge of taking up golf. That's all there is left. I foolishly went fishing with Dub Reeves Thursday and people all around us were pulling out channel cat by the dozen. Dub and I got a round zero each. Orpha Click got there after we did, fished an hour or so and started for home. He stopped his boat alongside ours long enough to show us seven fine looking fish -- each about 22 inches long. G. P. Owen even came in with four nice ones. It's bad enough when no one else is catching them, but it sure looks bad when everyone else is hauling them in and we come out empty handed.

Speaking of golf, Arthur Tiedel's small son saw Urlin Streu and Jim Posey get into their pickup with the golf bags loaded in the back. "Look Daddy", he said, "those men are going out to hunt golf balls". Probably more truth than he realized.

Lots and lots of people figure that Bob Taft will be the Re-

REV. AND MRS. E. T. NEAL, new Methodist pastor and his wife, are shown above just after they moved into their home in Hereford. The Neals came to Hereford from Levelland. Staff Photo.

Charges Filed In Accident Thursday

Charges of failing to yield the right of way were filed against Donald Eugene Cavanar Thursday afternoon following an accident on East Highway 60.

Cavanar who was driving a Chevrolet truck was going west on Highway 60 when he ran into the back of a 1950 Nash driven by Elmer Patterson, Police Chief Floyd Reeves said. Patterson was also going west on Highway 60. Damage to the Patterson car was estimated at $25 by Reeves.

publican nominee and many, many others think that Truman will, if this happens, allow himself to be "drafted". This would result in a choice between Truman and Taft. I hope they are wrong, but they might be right. Wouldn't that be an awful choice to have to make? It shouldn't happen to a dog.

Mrs. Colby Conkwright accompanied her mother, Mrs. J. J. Flanery, to Amarillo on Thursday where she joined friends for the return trip to her home in Sherman. Mrs. Flanery had spent a week here in the Conkwright's home.

Mary Jo Mathies - James Bowen Married Sunday

An afternoon ceremony on Sunday, June 1, at 2 o'clock in the chapel of the Polk Street Methodist church in Amarillo, united Miss Mary Jo Mathies, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Mathies, and James M. Bowen, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Bowen of Muleshoe. Dr. Eugene Slater, pastor, read the double-ring service.

Vows were exchanged before an altar arrangement of baskets of white gladioli and stock, flanked by seven-branched candelabra holding wedding tapers.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. H. D. Reed, a friend of the family when they lived in Hereford, played "Always" by Berlin; "Somewhere a Voice is Calling" (Tate) and "Indian Love Call" by Friml. Mrs. Reed also played the traditional processional and recessional wedding marches.

Mrs. Billie Cope served as the bride's attendant and Hiram Jordan of Lubbock was best man.

Mrs. Cope wore yellow organdy over satin made with fitted bodice and full ballerina length skirt. Her mitts matched her dress in color and she wore a bandeau of orchid satin and flowers in her hair. Her flowers were yellow roses and orchid stock.

Ushers were Bill Cunningham and Edward Smith, both of Lubbock.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a white imported Swiss organdy frock over bridal satin. The full ballerina length skirt was edged in wide scallops and artistically caught up in the scallops were white daisies. The accent of daisies was repeated in the Peter Pan collar and short sleeves of the fitted bodice. She wore white organdy mitts and her bouquet was three Cymbidium orchids centered in stephanotis and looped pearls.

Her fingertip veil of illusion was caught to a white satin tiara studded with simulated pearls, and she wore heirloom pearls belonging to her mother.

The bride's mother wore mauve lace over taffeta and Mrs. Brown, the bridegroom's mother, wore navy silk with yellow trim. Both wore yellow rosebud corsages.

Reception Is Held
Following the wedding ceremony a reception was held in the church parlors. The bride's table was centered with an arrangement of white stock and yellow roses and the three-tiered wedding confection was decorated with tiny yellow hearts and wedding bells of spun sugar.

Assisting at the refreshment table were Mildred Long, Mrs. Robbie Mauzer and Mrs. Jack Marshal.

When the bride and bridegroom left on a wedding trip to New Mexico and Arizona points, she was wearing a silk pongee print made with bolero, and a natural color straw hat. The orchids were lifted from the wedding bouquet for her corsage. After June 10, the couple will reside at 1218 W. 11th Street, Amarillo.

Mrs. Bowen is a graduate of Hereford high school and attended college in Los Angeles. She is a member of the Gamma Kappa chapter in Amarillo and was recently elected secretary of the Amarillo Insurance Women's club. Mr. Bowen is a graduate of Texas Technological college, Lubbock and while there he was a member of Las Camarades club. He served two years with the armed forces in the Pacific Theater of War and is now employed with the Southwestern Investment company in Amarillo.

Out of town guests included Mrs. T. S. Mathies of Reseda, Calif.; Mrs. W. H. Dowell, Reseda, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Bowen and Armilda, Dorothy Carlson, and Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Bowen of Lamar, Colo.; Mrs. Ly-

Former Resident Recognized As Accomplished Artist At 82 Years

An 82 year-old former Hereford resident, Mrs. Ida Rayzor, has won recognition as an artist and at the same time realized a life-long ambition. A group of her paintings have been displayed at the Moore Memorial Public Library recently in Texas City. She has received a number of first place awards at the Tri-State Fair in Amarillo and while she does not paint to sell, she has sold many pieces and takes many orders for special work.

Mrs. Rayzor lives with her daughter, Mrs. Edith Canant, in Texas City and may be found at almost any time busy with her oils or charcoal. A sturdy pioneer, left to support a large family of children when her husband died, in 1911, she will never be idle for leading a busy life has become too great a pattern of living.

The Rayzors came to Hereford in 1900 and he became one of Hereford's first real estate dealers. He was killed when a sand pit caved in in 1911. After his death Mrs. Rayzor taught in the public schools of Deaf Smith county and later on the North Plains.

In Texas City they call her "Grandma Moses of Texas" and altho she began painting earlier in life than did "Grandma Moses" she calls on childhood memories for many of her scenes and has had little or no schooling in art. Her paintings are the culmination of a strong desire to put on canvas the beauty she saw that, because of necessity, had been suppressed.

About 20 years ago, while teaching in Perryton, she began to experiment with water colors in the school. An art teacher there helped her with charcoal work and a few years later she attended an art workshop in Canyon which makes up all the instruction she has received.

Like "Grandma Moses" her philosophy of life is linked with the busy life she has led. She believes everyone should keep busy if they want to live long and be happy. Certainly her life is an example for others to see what can be done without outside help if the inner urge is great enough.

Mrs. Rayzor comes back to Hereford occasionally to visit her daughter, Mrs. Charles Newell, and family. On those occasions she takes great pleasure in hobnobbing with old friends who were also pioneers of Deaf Smith county.

Couple Will Make Home In Hereford

Mr. and Mrs. Delton Grayson, who were married Wednesday in Clovis, will make their home in Hereford following the wedding trip.

The wedding took place Wednesday in the parsonage home of Rev. W. E. King with Rev. King, pastor, officiating, for the ceremony.

Mrs. Grayson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Roberson of Dodson and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Grayson of Lubbock.

Mrs. Grayson is employed at Park Avenue Beauty Center. Mr. Grayson, who has been residing in Amarillo, will be employed in Hereford.

MR. AND MRS. BILL KELLY

Nancy Cagle, Bill Kelly Exchange Vows On June 1

Before an altar flanked with palms, fern trees and flowers, Miss Nancy Ann Cagle became the bride of Bill Kelly in the First Baptist church Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Parents of the couple are Rev. and Mrs. R. H. Cagle, and Mr. and Mrs. William Troy Kelly.

The bride's father, pastor of the church, read the double-ring ceremony before large arrangements of white gladioli and Maroon daisies placed at either side of a wrought iron screen garlanded with fernery. Cathedral tapers burning in seven-branched candelabra gave illumination for the nuptial scene. Candelighters were Bryce Kelly and Bert Cagle.

Mrs. Bob Lawrence, organist, and Sam Allen of Plainview, vocalist, presented the wedding music. Mrs. Lawrence played a medley of musical selections preceding the ceremony which included: "Because," "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," "I Love Thee," "Indian Love Call" and "Always". Mr. Allen sang, "I Love You Truly" and "O Promise Me" in the wedding prelude and offered "The Wedding Prayer" in conclusion of the ceremony.

"Through the Years" was played softly as background music for the ceremony.

Mrs. Ladell Pugh of Amarillo, sister of the bridegroom, matron of honor, and Ray Graham, best man, were honor attendants. Bridesmaids were Donna Jean Stagner, and Rose Landers of Bryan.

The feminine attendants wore identical dresses of taffeta in shades of orchid fashioned with lace boleros and floor length bouffant skirts. Their headdress was a halo of net and rosebuds and each carried an arm bouquet of white daisies. Little Linda Pugh, wearing orchid net and organdy, scattered rose petals along the bridal aisle.

Ushers were Dwaine Walker, Harold Morton, Randolph Thomas and Ladell Pugh of Amarillo.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father who gave her in marriage before directing the vows. She was in a picture in a gown of nylon faille and Chantilly lace, designed princess effect with lace bolero buttoned up.

Mrs. Vivian Major, W. C. Hromas Installed By OES

Impressive ceremonies in formal installation rites marked the annual installation service for new officers of the Order of Eastern Star at a meeting held at the Masonic hall Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Effie Melton, retiring worthy matron, opened the chapter and introduced the installing officers.

Taking their stations were Mrs. Gladys Manjeot, installing worthy matron; Mrs. Bessie Hill, installing marshal; Mrs. Myrtle Witherspoon, installing secretary; Mrs. Brucie Rose, installing organist; and Mrs. Audrey Thompson, installing chaplain.

Officers installed for the coming year were:

Mrs. Vivian Major, worthy matron; W. C. Hromas, worthy patron; Mrs. Bessie Jones, associate matron; W. L. Jones, associate patron; Mrs. Nell Culpepper, secretary; Mrs. Belle Hromas, treasurer; Mrs. Lois Moore, chaplain; Mrs. Alta Caraway, marshal; Mrs. Katherine Moore, organist; Mrs. Grace Thomas, Ada; Mrs. Johnny Sanders, Ruth; Mrs. Dorothy Noland, Esther; Hester McLallen, Martha; Earline Walton, Electra; Mrs. Irene Holt, warder; and S. B. McLallen, sentinel.

Following the installation ceremony Mrs. Major gave greetings to the chapter and announced her colors of spice pink and gold and her flower the Peace Rose. Her motto for the year will be "Serve with Gladness."

Mrs. Belle Hromas, grand officer, was presented in the East and as her family. Mrs. Major presented her brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Hardy Benson.

The installing officers presented Mrs. Major with a costume pin with O. E. S. emblem as the center, and Mrs. Major presented Mrs. Melton with a past-worthy matrons jewel pin and Mrs. Opal Roberson presented the retiring worthy matron with a gift from her officers.

W. C. Hromas presented the retiring worthy patron, John Patton, with a gift from his assisting officers.

After the service a reception was held in Fellowship Hall. The table was laid with a drawn-work cloth and centered with an arrangement of flowers in the worthy matron's colors featuring Peace roses. Mrs. Bessie Hill presided.

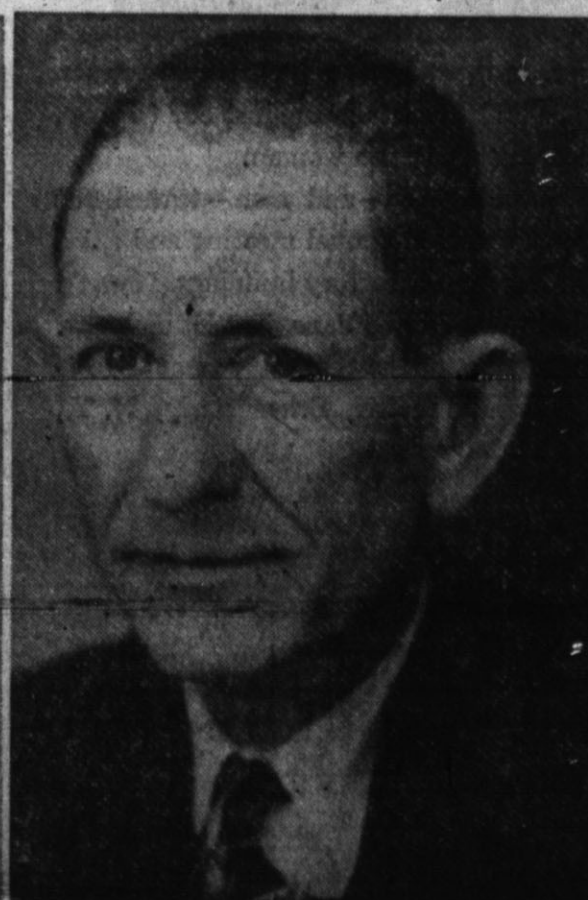

Serving as official hostess for the social hour were Mesdames Evelyn Ford, Edna Gault and Tina Lee Roberson.

W. F. CODGILL, who farms five miles southeast of Friona, is mighty proud of his 15 acre crop of winter oats shown in the above picture. The oats is expected to yield about 125 bushels per acre, Codgill says. In planting, Codgill tried to seed about a bushel per acre. This is the first field of oats he has planted for several years. The Codgills have a 280-acre farm which they irrigate with one eight-inch well. Shown standing with Codgill is his grandson, Walter Haus, right. Staff Photo.

LET'S COOK SOMETHING

Lemon Chess Pie Could Be Anybody's Favorite Dessert

When friends kept telling us about Mrs. Maurice Tannahill being such a good cook, we persuaded her to give us one of her favorite recipes for this column. A taste of her lemon chess pie always brings forth requests for the recipe and it is her family's favorite pie. She used to eat at the Blasengame Dinner House in Plainview quite often and one day she asked Mrs. Blasengame, who supervises all the cooking, for the recipe -- Here it is:

Lemon Chess Pie
 6 eggs beaten light
 2 scant cups sugar
 juice of two lemons (strained)
 3 tablespoons melted butter
 1 pastry crust in 9-inch pan
 Beat eggs and add sugar and beat well. Add lemon juice and melted butter and beat all until it becomes a thin liquid. (Mrs. Tannahill uses an electric mixer) Pour in uncooked crust and place in 375-F oven. Cook 5 minutes and lower temperature to 325 degrees, and continue cooking 25 minutes.

The flavor depends largely on the baking process so be sure to follow direction carefully. Do not overcook.

Remove from oven while center is still "shaky". It will congeal while cooling. This makes a very large pie.

CARD OF THANKS

To those who were so kind to us during our recent loss of our wife and mother, Mrs. L. E. Cox, we would like to take this means of expressing our appreciation.

We would like to thank those who brought food and sent flowers and cards and words of comfort.

May God bless you every one.

 Mr. and Mrs. Fred Miller

Mr. and Mrs. Ray McCullough and daughters, Shirley and Mary

the front with lace covered buttons, and featuring bracelet length sleeves. The full skirt which terminated in a chapel length train, was accented with lace trim. Her finger-length veil was of imported illusion and fell in circular tiers from a double-brim halo embellished with seed pearls. She carried a bride's Bible topped with a white orchid showered with stephanotis and white satin streamers caught with love knots and stephanotis. Her only ornaments were a single strand of pearls with earrings to match, which was the bridegroom's gift to his bride.

Mrs. Cagle, the bride's mother, wore navy lace with powder blue accessories and a corsage of matching blue Esther Reed daisies. Mrs. Kelly, the bridegroom's mother, wore a navy nylon sheer dress with pink accessories and corsage to match.

Reception in Church Parlors
 The church parlors, scene for the reception, was decorated throughout with groups of flowers and the rectangular bride's table was laid with a white floor-length cloth embossed in gold. The double-ring wedding cake was graced with tiny roses and cupids and linked by a miniature bridal couple. Appointments were in crystal and silver. Gayle Foster of Olton, served the cake, Patsy Wiltshire presided at the punch bowl and Mrs. Ronny Durham of Portales, N. M. registered the guests. Those assisting in the house party were Mary Brown, Booker; Dixie Young, Sue Seath, Barbara Winget, Gayle Roberson, Mrs. Virgil Young and Mrs. Dwaine Walker.

For a wedding trip to points in New Mexico and Colorado, the bride wore a navy blue suit with white blouse and navy accessories with the orchid from the wedding bouquet as a corsage. After June 7, the couple will be at home on a ranch near Buena Vista, Colo.

Mrs. Kelly is a graduate of Hereford high school and attended Hardin-Simmons university at Abilene. Mr. Kelly is also a graduate of Hereford high school and is associated with his father in ranching in Colorado.

Among the out-of-town guests at the wedding were: Mrs. G. M. King and Mrs. C. M. King of Lovington, N. M., grandmother and aunt of the bride; Miss Eunice King of Sherman, aunt of the bride who made the wedding confection; Mr. and Mrs. Dean Click of Seminole, Mrs. R. L. Baker of Greenwood, Miss.; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cagle and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Doc Anthony, Mr. and Mrs. John Bass, Mrs. McClellan and Misses Sallie and Oma Kelly, all of Amarillo; and Mr. and Mrs. Van Kennedy of Clarendon.

the Gaddie of Florence, Colo.; and the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Bowen of Muleshoe.

Guests from Hereford attending the wedding included: Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Lookingbill, Mr. and Mrs. John Winkler, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Miller, Mrs. Jack Marshall and Mrs. Hazel Sparks.

Mary Lou and Hardy Benson Jr., both of Dallas, were guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hardy Benson Sr., Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Roberson left Thursday for a short visit with Mrs. W. E. Hicks and others in Garden City, Kan.

Why are women's purses bigger than men's?

Remember all those cartoons you've seen of a wife going through her sleeping husband's trouser pockets? They may give you a clue why some women's purses are bigger.

But we're inclined to think that there are other and better reasons why more women than men own stock in so many of America's largest companies.

For one thing, women are practical, thrifty, and inclined to do something sensible about their future finances and those of the family. Forgive us, mister, but the facts speak for themselves:

Women have outnumbered men share owners of telephone stock since 1900. The big food companies have a predominance of women share owners. Ditto the country's largest auto maker. And, at last count, 116,800 women owned shares in General Electric as against 83,000 men.

Big business, as it turns out, is a woman. About 2,100 of these women—and men—turned out this spring to attend the G-E annual meeting and eat a box lunch in one of our largest factory buildings. If you'd like a report of what was said and done, just let us know. A card asking for "Report of the Sixtieth Annual Meeting," Dept. 6B, General Electric, Schenectady, N. Y., will do the trick.

You can put your confidence in—

Census Book Is Ready For Sale

DALLAS-- A little red book that will mean a lot to Texans is hot off the government printing press and an order at the U. S. Department of Commerce office, 4114 Commerce Street.

It's the long awaited 1950 Census totals for the number of inhabitants in Texas. According to Commerce Director Ernest Tull, the report presents the official nose count on the number of inhabitants of the state, its counties, and minor civil divisions (townships to you). In addition, separate figures are also presented for urban places, wards of cities of 5,000 or more, and other areas of the state. Oh yes, the Texas census book sells for 30 cents. It will be a "best seller" until 1960. That's when the next census will appear.

WCS Holds Luncheon

Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist church held its regular monthly Fellowship luncheon at the church Wednesday. Hostesses for the luncheon were: Mesdames T. A. Alderson, C. A. Hare, C. M. Hicks and W. F. Gillis.

Mrs. J. W. Whelan was in charge of the program for the afternoon session. She presented a panel discussion of "Children Our Concern" with Susanne Lindley and Necla Gilliland taking parts. They told of unknown children, migrant children, education and recreation for children.

Mrs. C. E. Elliott told about "The Whitehouse Conference for Children" and Mrs. Whelan gave the poem "The Children's Cry". Mrs. D. H. Bryant gave the concluding prayer. Special guests were the new pastor, T. E. Neal, and Mrs. Neal.

Cpl. George Hamilton left Friday for Fort Sill, Okla. where he will receive his reassignment. He has been visiting for the past month in the home of his parents Mr. and Mrs. Homer Hamilton.

OPS Food Price Raise Order Is For All Stores

Markup increases allowed in food stores last week by the Office of Price Stabilization apply to all types of stores, whether they are independents, chain units, or supermarkets, food price officials of the district OPS said today.

At the same time, regional OPS food officials issued a statement commending those individual food stores and those associations of food stores which have announced that they will not raise existing prices as allowed under the new amendments to the grocery regulations.

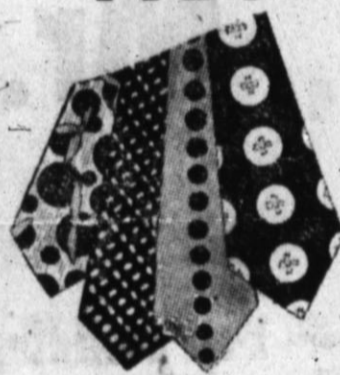

"Naturally, none of our regulations require firms to sell as high as the ceiling prices set for any commodities", pointed out Frank C. Tomlinson, OPS Regional Foods Branch Chief. "The ceiling prices are exactly what the name implies -- the highest price at which the commodity may be sold."

"On the other hand, those who prices as high as a new ceiling state they will not have to raise are indicating they are taking very seriously the problems we have in fighting inflation and it is cheering to see that numerous firms and trade associations are cooperating voluntarily in our inflation control program."

Tomlinson explained that the OPS because of the fact that the markup increases were allowed by OPS because the agency, by actual surveys made in food stores, had found that its earlier regulations had in some cases discriminated against some retailers by not allowing them as much margin for markup as had been practiced historically in those and had for that reason placed some stores in a "squeeze".

Foods affected by wider markup allowances include canned vegetables, such as beans, tomatoes, and corn-canned fruits, such as peaches, pineapple, and fruit salads, and breakfast cereals.

Ike Takes on the Mantle of Battle

The WORLD This WEEK

Steel Seizure Is Declared Illegal

Eisenhower Sheds Army Khaki, Strides Boldly Into Politics

DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER, at 61 and after 37 years in the Army, was home to run for the Presidency. The days of aloofness from domestic political brawls were over. The time had come to face the cold facts of political life.

Eisenhower strode into the political arena vigorously. At his homecoming at Abilene, Kans., Wednesday, he delivered his first major address. Next day he held a full-dress press conference.

He issued something of a GOP call to arms in the anxiously-awaited Abilene speech, by asserting that "political health is endangered if one party, by whatever means, becomes entrenched permanently or too long in power."

The almost inevitable consequence, said Eisenhower, is "graft and incompetence."

"Obviously this is something that applies today: One party has been in power too long in this country."

CANDIDATE EISENHOWER AND WIFE
His campaign lieutenant were not worried.

Domestic Hits

In his comments on domestic issues, Eisenhower listed four "threats to free government." They were, he said, "disunity, inflation, excessive taxation and bureaucracy."

"Only aroused citizens can end these evils that increasingly threaten the freedom of our country," he said.

Eisenhower asserted America had "soberly and with great courage" accepted the challenge of the "announced and implacable hostility of the powerful Communist dictatorship which is a global threat."

Wants Clarification

Success, he said, depends on "the unlightened support of our citizens," and he added that "we should be told clearly and plainly the goals toward which we strive."

"We are entitled to reasonable estimates of how much of our substance will be required in these great efforts and for how long," he said.

Eisenhower called for an end to what he called the "mystery" surrounding U.S. foreign relations and, in a reference to the Roosevelt era, declared:

"Americans instinctively dread the kind of secrecy that surrounded Yalta."

Hits Centralization

Eisenhower hit hard at what he termed "the gradual absorption by the central government of functions that belong to local communities and individuals."

A primary need, said Eisenhower, is to promote the efficiency of the Government within the framework of the Constitution and to curb the spread of Government functions.

"Inflation," he said, "is one of the most telling arguments against too much centralized power in Government."

Eisenhower devoted a good part of his address to economics and called for "firm action to bring the Federal budget under control."

"Today," he said, "staggering Federal expenditures for civil and military purposes have soared to heights beyond the comprehension of ordinary citizens."

"Because necessary expenditures are so great it becomes doubly necessary to see that waste, duplication and extravagance are eliminated. These are the engines that propel the budget from a reasonable ceiling to fantastic heights."

After the Abilene address it was clear, Eisenhower had hit the beach in his campaign for the White House by declaring war against the Democratic party.

In California and South Dakota, meanwhile, voters went to the polls in the last two primaries of the campaign.

In South Dakota both Eisenhower and Taft were entered. Neither was entered in California.

The South Dakota election failed to give either GOP candidate the sweep their supporters were hoping for. At stake were 14 Republican and eight Democratic presidential nominating votes. In the Democratic camp, Sen. Estes Kefauver did it again, scoring a triumph over Minnesota's Sen. Hubert Humphrey.

In California, Gov. Earl Warren and Kefauver captured the state's big delegations to the national conventions with better than 2 to 1 margins. Warren won all 70 GOP delegates by defeating a pro-Taft slate technically pledged to Rep. Thomas H. Werdel.

The final outcome in the Taft-Eisenhower struggle for delegates could depend on what happens in contests between rival delegate slates in several southern states involving some 80 seats.

A CRUELY fashioned banner hung from two poles inside Compound 605 on Koje Island. It read: "We Will Never Take Down Our Banner."

The banner now belongs to 40 U. S. infantrymen who went into the compound and took it down.

In other compounds on Koje, Communist control over the island's 80,000 POWs got a jolt this week when big Patton tanks and U. S. soldiers with bared bayonets moved in to remove flags and insulting slogans.

Gradual Crackdown

Brig. Gen. Haydon Boatner, the new commander on Koje, continued his gradual crackdown on the Reds, using security forces bolstered by two American combat-tested infantry regiments and Dutch, Greek, British, Canadian and South Korean troops. The biggest job at hand for Boatner and his beefed-up forces was to break up the Red prisoners into smaller groups.

New compounds were constructed in the island's east and central valleys to house a maximum of 500 POWs each. Each new compound is about 75 yards square as compared with the old ones which are roughly 100 by 300 yards.

U. S. Army engineers worked around the clock to construct the new compounds.

Back at Panmunjom, calm, quiet Maj. Gen. William K. Harrison, chief United Nations delegate, resubmitted the U.N.'s April 28 package proposal to solve unsettled issues: (1) The Allies would drop their demand for a ban on rebuilding air fields in North Korea during an armistice; (2) The Reds would drop their nomination of Russia as an armistice inspector; and (3) the Reds would accept voluntary repatriation of prisoners of war.

Harrison reminded blustery Gen. Nam Il, chief Red delegate, that the Communists had agreed to Allied prisoner screening that showed only 70,000 of 169,000 Allied held POWs willing to return to Red control. He again proposed a recreening of prisoners "under the eyes of your own Communist observers."

But, Harrison told Nam, "you shrank back, for that path led to truth, your enemy."

Political Crisis

In the provisional South Korean capital of Pusan, meanwhile, United Nations officials were concerned that a South Korean political crisis might interfere with the military situation.

President Syngman Rhee threw the South Korean political picture out of kilter May 24 when he proclaimed martial law around Pusan. Later 12 national assemblies were arrested.

The legislative body was due to elect a president late this month. U.N. sources expressed the opinion that Rhee's allegations of a Red plot were merely window dressing so he could control election of a president.

The Korean national assembly ceased to function when 52 pro-Rhee assemblymen withdrew, saying they "could not continue" to work with legislators they considered "corrupt."

Britain joined the United States in protesting to Rhee over the political developments in Pusan. President Truman already had sent a note to Rhee calling the political furor in Pusan "shocking." Ambassador John J. Muccio hurried back to Pusan from a shortened vacation in the U.S. with additional views of the President.

Apparently as a result of the double-barreled protests from the U.S. and Britain, Rhee softened his policy and toned down threats to dissolve the national assembly.

Steelworkers Walk Out After High Court Seizure Decision

THE BIG WALKOUT
Workers leaving Bethlehem plant moments after seizure decision.

JAMES WALLS, a laborer in Jones and Laughlin's big Pittsburgh steel mill, showed up for work on time, but even before he got close enough to read the sign on the gate, he knew what it said. The strike was on.

Walls threw his lunch pail to the ground. "This is the second time this has happened to me in a month," he said. "I'm disgusted."

For other steelworkers, it was much the same. Leon Hart, a rigger at J. and L., was buying groceries when he heard the news. He cancelled his order.

"All I can say now is I'm not going to buy any groceries," Hart said.

Quick Shutdown

Within minutes after the Supreme Court, in a 6 to 3 decision, slapped down the President's seizure of the nation's steel mills, the vast industry was on the road to being shut down tight. The walkout was costing the country and its crucial defense effort 300,000 tons of steel daily.

In Congress, reaction was favorable on the whole. The legislative power had been upheld, the executive power limited. For a time, everybody seemed to be waiting for the next man to make a move.

President Truman had three choices: (1) Sit tight a while to see what the industry and union could accomplish on their own, (2) invoke the Taft-Hartley law's 80-day court injunction provisions against a continued strike, or (3) ask Congress for special legislation to deal with the situation. Congress was afflicted with election year jitters to begin with and reluctant to approve enlargement of executive powers.

Steel industry officials announced plans to sit down with the union to try to reach a fair settlement of the long drawn out steel labor dispute, but it took time to arrange a definite get-together.

The White House called industry and union officials to a meeting Thursday.

Charles M. White, president of Republic Steel Corp., declared in a statement that a prolonged strike was in the offing but that it would be "far better than the further intrusion of Government into private rights."

In the momentous Supreme Court decision, Justice Hugo Black held for the majority that Truman had no power to seize the steel mills either as commander-in-chief of the armed forces or under any powers implied by the Constitution.

Chief Justice Vinson and Justices

Reed and Minton sided with the President. In his dissenting opinion, the chief justice said the chief executive should not be compelled to wait for Congressional action to head off a threatened national disaster.

Specifically, the court majority upheld the decision by U. S. District Judge David A. Pine that the President's seizure was illegal in that neither an act of Congress nor the general powers of the Presidency sanctioned it.

In a concurring opinion, Justice W. O. Douglas stated: "America pays a price for our system of checks and balances, for the distribution of power among the three branches of Government. It is a price that today may seem exorbitant to many. Today a kindly president uses the seizure power to effect a wage increase and to keep the steel furnaces in production. Yet tomorrow another president might use the same power to prevent a wage increase, to curb trade unionists, to regiment labor as oppressively as industry thinks it has been regimented by this seizure."

"Stalemates may occur," Justice Douglas continued, "when emergencies mount, and the nation suffers for lack of harmonious, reciprocal action between the White House and Capitol Hill. That is a risk inherent in our system of separation of powers."

South Africa

Civil War Threatens

The smoldering constitutional crisis in South Africa threatened this week to flame into civil war.

Pro-British Natal, the newest South African storm center, formally warned it might quit the union because it considered the nationalist government of Prime Minister Daniel F. Malan has violated the constitution.

Responsible government and anti-government leaders agreed the break-away action could lead to civil conflict.

Like anti-government forces throughout South Africa, the people of Natal believe the nationalists have broken both the spirit and the letter of the constitution by giving parliament the veto power over constitutional decisions of the union's high court.

The provincial council of Natal, which is like an American state legislature, passed a resolution for submission to Malan which calls for a new national convention to reaffirm the constitution of 1910.

One big question was, could Natal stand on its own feet as an independent state if it walked out of the union? Many think Britain would sponsor an Independent Natal, giving it immediate dominion status and investing a lot of money there.

A bigger question was whether Malan would allow it.

Sidelights

● In Englewood, Calif., robbers tied up a night watchman in the office of Englewood Park cemetery, worked four hours to open a safe, fled with $700. The safecrackers went through a lot of unnecessary labor—the combination of the safe was written on the wall above it.

● In Baltimore, a seven-year-old girl used a dentist for $3,000 because the last time she visited him to have a tooth pulled, he "slapped her posterior with great force and violence." The girl alleged the spanking had put the child "in great fear of all dentists."

● In Los Angeles, a television trade magazine reported 852 major crimes, including 167 murders, were served up to some million children who tuned in to local TV programs last week.

Quotes

Dean Acheson, Secretary of State, in an address on the West German peace contract and the European Defense Community agreement: "The arrangements we have entered into threaten no one. They are wholly peaceful in purpose. They constitute an alliance for peace."

Bertrand Russell, 80-year-old British mathematician and philosopher: "When there is a tense situation, as there is today, anybody making a mistake can bring a war on, and you can't hope that people will go on year after year not making a mistake. The odds are 6 to 4 another world war will occur."

PATTERN FOR DISCORD

WEST GERMAN BORDER GUARDS MANEUVER
While the parliaments debate—trouble.

COMMUNISTS all over the world have sprung into organized action. The objective: To drive a wedge between cooperating nations of the West.

Lenin's advice apparently still holds water in the Kremlin. Communists are following closely his dictum: "The most powerful enemy can be conquered only by thoroughly, carefully, attentively and skillfully taking advantage of every rift and every antagonism of interest."

The newly-launched Communist campaign of tension and unrest may make the next few months the most critical for the Western world since World War II.

Specific Targets

The Reds specifically are out to prevent ratification of the West German peace contract, signed last week in Bonn, and the European Defense Community agreement.

The Soviet Union and the Communists are not the only obstacles—Within the Atlantic Alliance nations and within Germany itself there will be bitter fights against ratification. In addition, what happens in Korea and in the U.S. presidential campaign will have a strong effect on the treaties.

Russia will make plenty of trouble while the parliaments debate.

The Red-inspired unrest in Germany will offer ammunition to the opponents of West German Chancellor

Capitol Log

Action on the Hill

Administration lieutenants stood ready on Capitol Hill waiting for the formal White House action. When it came, they hurried to the Senate floor and submitted copies of the West German peace contract and the European Defense Community agreement.

President Truman asked the fastest possible approval of the pact, one of which Secretary of State Dean Acheson signed for the U. S. The European Defense Community treaty signing was witnessed by Acheson.

Quick Approval Predicted

Some Senators predicted quick approval. The documents which required Senate approval were:

1. The peace contract by which the United States, Britain and France would give West Germany virtual independence, thereby laying the foundation for German rearmament and participation in the defense forces and international councils of West Europe as an equal.
2. An amendment to the North Atlantic Treaty, extending the guarantee of that pact (an attack on one will be considered an attack on all) to the projected European Defense Community.

In other Senate action, the Administration strove mightily—but without much hope—to head off tight curbs on the powers of the Wage Stabilization Board (WSB).

The issue overshadowed all others in debate on a measure to continue the Wage-Price Controls law.

This measure, properly known as the Defense Production Act, provided the basis for the Government's rent and credit controls, the rationing of scarce materials to industry, and disputed provisions for embargoes on imports of dairy products, rice and peanuts.

The Senate bill sought to strip the Wage Stabilization Board of powers it gained through Presidential order to deal with labor disputes in essential industries. The measure also sought to forbid the WSB to make recommendations concerning union shop agreements or fringe benefits for workers, as it did in the case of the steel labor dispute.

How Can I?

By Anne Ashley

Q. How can I give a slight scent to my handkerchiefs?

A. The smell of the iron can be eliminated, and a delicate scent of violet added to the handkerchiefs by placing some pieces oforris root in a muslin bag and putting this into the water in which the handkerchiefs are boiled.

Q. How can I remove grease spots from a rug?

A. They should be removed immediately after they are discovered. Cover the spot with blotting paper and apply a hot iron. Then cover with magnesia, let remain for about twenty-four hours, and brush off.

Q. How can I soften the cuticle around my fingernails?

A. Ordinary butter is excellent for this purpose.

Q. How can I remove an annoying squeak from my black shoes?

A. If the shoes are black use the following remedy: Place the shoes in a basin and pour in enough linseed oil to cover the soles. Allow to stand until the following day, and the squeak will have disappeared.

Q. How should I wash silks?

A. To make the silks last longer, avoid applying soap directly to them when washing. Use soapy water and squeeze gently to wash out the dirt. Rinse several times in tepid water.

T. J. Clay, 507 East Third, 1952 Steudebaker 4-door sedan, May 28.

Q. How can I drill a hole into the bottom side of a heavy china vase which I wish to convert into a lamp?

A. Use an ordinary twist-drill. The drill should be sharp and have a low pitch. The china should be kept wet with turpentine.

Q. How can I wash straw matting?

A. Wash the matting with a cloth dampened in hot water, using a handful of salt to a bucket of hot water. Wash only a small space at a time and wipe dry at once. This also prevents it from turning yellow.

Q. How can I remove mustard stains from linens?

A. Boil the linens in water, in which has been dissolved 1 teaspoon baking soda to each quart of water. Boil until the stain has disappeared, and then follow with the usual laundering.

Q. How can I remove tarnish from brass?

A. Rub well with vinegar and salt; then wash in soap and water and apply any good silver polish.

Q. How can I make a good sandwich filling?

A. A delicious sandwich filling can be made by adding to one cup of chopped ham enough vinegar to moisten, and then one tablespoon of peanut butter. Use celery salt and pepper as seasoning. Mix well before spreading between slices of bread.

Eisenhower Speech Answer To 'What Does Ike Like?'

Dwight D. Eisenhower, plain American citizen, at last has spoken out on important issues of the day.

Ike's first campaign speech—on Wednesday in his hometown of Abilene, Kans.—was a welcome event for millions of Americans who—REGARDLESS OF PARTY AFFILIATIONS—are crying for a return to good, clean government unfettered by the parasitic grapevine called the "spoils system" in good political circles.

Eisenhower stuck to his guns and honorably refused—as well as any man daily besieged with leading questions could do—to make political capital out of his position as number one military man in our European set-up.

He waited until he shed his uniform before he made the speech America has waited for so long.

In his 28-minute speech of Wednesday, it would have been impossible for him to outline in detail what he stood for, but he did an admirable job of covering his overall philosophy in one speech. The remainder of his talks will be designed to broaden the wedges he has made with the Wednesday speech.

What we heard sounded fine. His beliefs carry the check-rein many of the Republican party seeks on military and domestic spending, but still giving us full value for every dollar.

He appealed to the internationally-minded in his belief that we should not desert our friends and thus cut our own throats.

His speech was a masterpiece of fusion that is the answer to the ringing questions in the minds of millions. He will blend the desires of independents, progressive Republicans and also the free-enterprise, Constitutional Democrats.

For all parties, he held out the hope for de-centralization of government, restoration of powers to the states, and just rewards for just labors and efforts. Ike offers a free enterprise system that will be truly "free."

To labor and management, he offered amicability based on good, common mutual understanding.

To a waiting world, he offered a bright hope for peace and international understanding.

Eisenhower doesn't have to run on any particular political ticket to appeal to a large number of our voters. There are millions of Americans who are going to disregard party in one of the biggest votes for a MAN in the history of the nation.

Ike said that one party could be in power too long. He said the present administration has been in power too long. Surely, the present SYSTEM—government by cronies, to the victor belongs the spoils, etc.—is long due for a change.

If Eisenhower—as leader of the Republican party—can give the American people that change—an administration honorable in the eyes of the nation and the world—then he is the man regardless of what "party" he belongs to.

He'll be the greatest man in the AMERICAN party and that is the only thing Americans should give a hoot about.

To Robert Taft—Mr. Republican, as he is called—the return of Eisenhower and the forthright convictions he has expressed should be the handwriting on the wall.

Taft is another of those political misrepresentatives whom Ike is battling. If Taft is the kind of a man who will accept the shenanigans of the Republican party from the Texas GOP convention—the "victory at any price" type of politician—then the American people don't want—shouldn't want—any part of him.

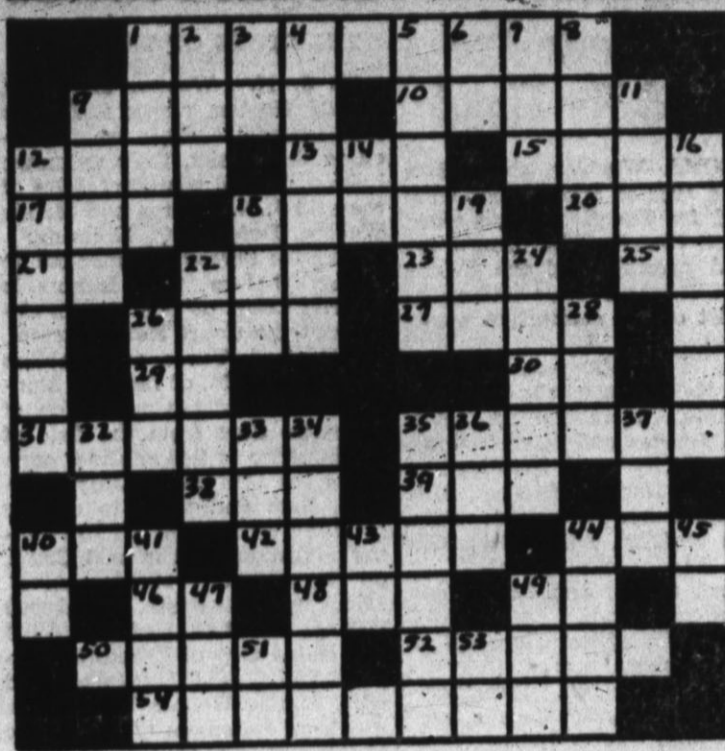

That's what we're trying to get rid of.

Now that Eisenhower is no longer morally obligated to silence, Mr. Taft had better seek higher ground. He's going to have to share the bench. No longer can he ride roughshod over the people of the nation.

To use Ike's words when he was informed of the whopping Minnesota "write-in" vote he received:

"By Golly, it's beginning to look serious!"—W. W. K.

SUNDAY'S CURRENT QUESTION

Readers Express Opinions On Speech-Making By The Military

Eisenhower and MacArthur are two examples of military leaders in the public eye who have taken different views on how much a military man still drawing money from the U. S. Government, should speak out on controversial issues for the record. Where do your sympathies lie—with MacArthur, who expresses himself on important matters of the day while drawing pay, or with Eisenhower, who shed his uniform before he made his blast in Abilene on Wednesday?

FRITZ HOFFMAN—I still like Ike.

J. H. BROOKS—I think a fellow ought to be able to express himself if he is in uniform. It's a free country with a free press and free speech. I admire him for it. If a man is running for the presidency though he might ought to keep his big fat mouth shut till he gets out of uniform.

ROCKY LEE—I'm for Eisenhower all the way. I think MacArthur, the sensationalist, was trying to play on the emotions of the people.

BOB LAMM—I think Eisenhower is right on this particular subject, because a general with military powers should be taking orders from his superior instead of trying to create policy for the government.

ELLEN CARTER—With Eisenhower because he did have the courage to resign before he spoke out against the measures he opposed.

URLIN STREU—MacArthur's speech, while controversial, was not political, consequently, I think he was well within his rights in making the speech at the time he made it. Inasmuch as Eisenhower's speech was a validly political, he acted quite properly in withholding it until he was no longer in uniform.

'Tater Peelin's

By Roberta Campbell

A cloud seedin' program in Deaf Smith county is entirely unnecessary.

All we ever need to do is have the Hereford Riders schedule a rodeo but we would like to pass on a suggestion from one of the contestants who thinks the chutes should be at the south end of the arena. Then spectators on the east side wouldn't have to reel out their necks through both fences in order to see anything.

We encountered Mrs. Frank Terrell on her way to the library not so long ago with her first little offerin', as she expressed it, of the old fashioned kind of red roses that bloom only once each year. They always remind us of that last week of school when we used to carry a bouquet for the teacher's desk and maybe another for some girl graduate on the night diplomas were given.

Mrs. Walter Hodges was introduced to us this past week and she seemed a little disappointed that we were older than she had imagined us to be from our writin'.

However, we will forgive her for that because she says the only thing wrong with our little column is that we just don't peel enough taters.

Thank you, Mrs. Hodges and by the way when can we look for something more tangible than peelin's.

I'll Never Forget

I came to Wise county in 1861 and I lived in Oklahoma for seven years. I moved to Hereford in 1921.

When I moved to Decatur it was just an old barn. There wasn't a thing to eat or buy there then. It was during the Civil War.

I came to Hereford in 1920. There was scarcely anything north of Mothers park then but two or three houses on B street.

I worked at first one thing and then another.

Hereford wasn't anything much then just a cow ranch when I came here. There was some farming done here then but not too much.

The churches were all built. The Methodist church was finished when I came here and the Baptist church was built since I came here.

THORNTON WILLIAMSON

There was mighty little business district compared to what there is now.

I saw a fellow scare a mule one time and the mule ran over Mr. Oberthier. I thought he was dead but he came to all right.

I worked out there for Mr. Brumley at the hog house and worked on the farm some.

I bought the lots where I am now and sold part of them. I gave $550 for 20 lots and sold six of them later for $3100.

I was way out in the country when I bought these lots.

When I came here there was more wild deer than there was cattle. I've seen as many as 14 deer in a bunch and about 100 wild turkeys in a bunch.

In Wise county about 90% of the houses were built out of logs and the cracks were chinked with pieces of wood daubed in red clay.

They built an arbor in front of the schoolhouse. I know I helped to build it. The seats were just split logs.

I used to kill turkey for Mr. Hawkins. One time there was a little boy at Hawkins and he called Mrs. Hawkins, "Auntie Hawkiesie." One day he said "Auntie Hawkiesie, when I get to be a man there's one thing that will never come in my house." She asked him what it was and he told her "Oats!"

SWIMMING POOL OPENED LAST WEEK
The Levelland swimming pool opened last week in City park. This is the second year of operation for the municipal pool. There will be swimming classes conducted at the pool this year.

The BOOTLEG Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his farm near Bootleg won't get anywhere with his idea this week, mainly because all farmers aren't as lazy as he is.

Dear editor:
The onswamp of civilization, I noticed from a copy of The Brand I pulled off my face after a gust of wind wrapped it around my head yesterday as I came up the lane toward my house out here, has now reached the point where bacteriological warfare is getting more and more possible, and there is a general hue and cry against the iedd.

Germ warfare is devastation, and it throws the whole conception of war out of joint. Trainin to perfection on how to fire a bazooka is poor defense against an attack of athletes foot at the hands of enemy-trained bacteria. Knowin how to trigger an atom bomb is no defense against a stealthy attack of cold germs.

This germ warfare idea will put a crick in civilization quicker than all previous warfare from musketry to precision hydrogen bombin, and it ought to be headed off.

Furthermore, I believe I've got an idea that will do it. Instead of workin on the idea of plantin germs in enemy territory, why don't they try Johnson grass? High altitude bombin of enemy country with some of my pedigreed Johnson grass seed will, in the long run, slow down the enemy's production capacity more thoroughly and effectively than all the gunpowder and germs modern man has perfected, and it'll do it in a humane sort of way. You get Johnson grass started behind the Iron Curtain and it'll guarantee peace for a thousand years from that direction. We've never started a war out in this community, and I attribute it to the fact a day spent fightin that stuff, you ain't got much ambition to start a war.

Of course, we wouldn't want to horn in on all the production effort in this new type of war. No doubt there are other areas which would like to contribute auxiliary weapons, like bitter weeds, ivyines, cockleburrs, stink weeds, skunk cabbage, prickly pears, mesquite, crab grass, Jimson weed, bindweed, pigweed, tumble weeds, ragweed, etc.

You get a program of warfare like this started and I believe mankind will be so busy survivin the grass and weeds his weapons will rust.

Why I can gather enough Johnson grass seed alone from my farm out here to subjugate North Korea in less time than it takes to sign a truce. Let's get the planes loaded. Johnson grass to the enemy.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

National Foundation Lists 1952 Polio Precautions

With "polio weather" here for many sections of the country, we begin to think about precautionary measures and educational steps we can take to lessen the dangers of this disease.

Steps have been taken by the federal government in conjunction with the National Foundation For Infantile Paralysis to put the importance of polio precautions before the people of the nation.

In a statement prepared for release to weekly newspapers, the foundation describes the project this way:

Branches of the federal government are cooperating with the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis in assuring widespread distribution of 35,000,000 copies of the 1952 "Polio Pledge" for parents prepared by the March of Dimes organization.

Earl James McGrath, United States Commissioner of Education, as well as the United States Post Office Department, have endorsed this annual project to alert American children and parents to safeguards which may lessen the possibility of contracting paralytic polio.

Mr. McGrath, endorsing the Pledge's distribution through all the schools of the nation, said, "The 1952 message about polio precautions, entitled "Polio Pledge," has been made available to all the schools in the country. I recommend that administrators and teachers give all possible help to the National Foundation and its Chapters in this school and community health program."

The Pledge, in poster form, will be displayed through October 31 in the nation's 44,500 Post Offices.

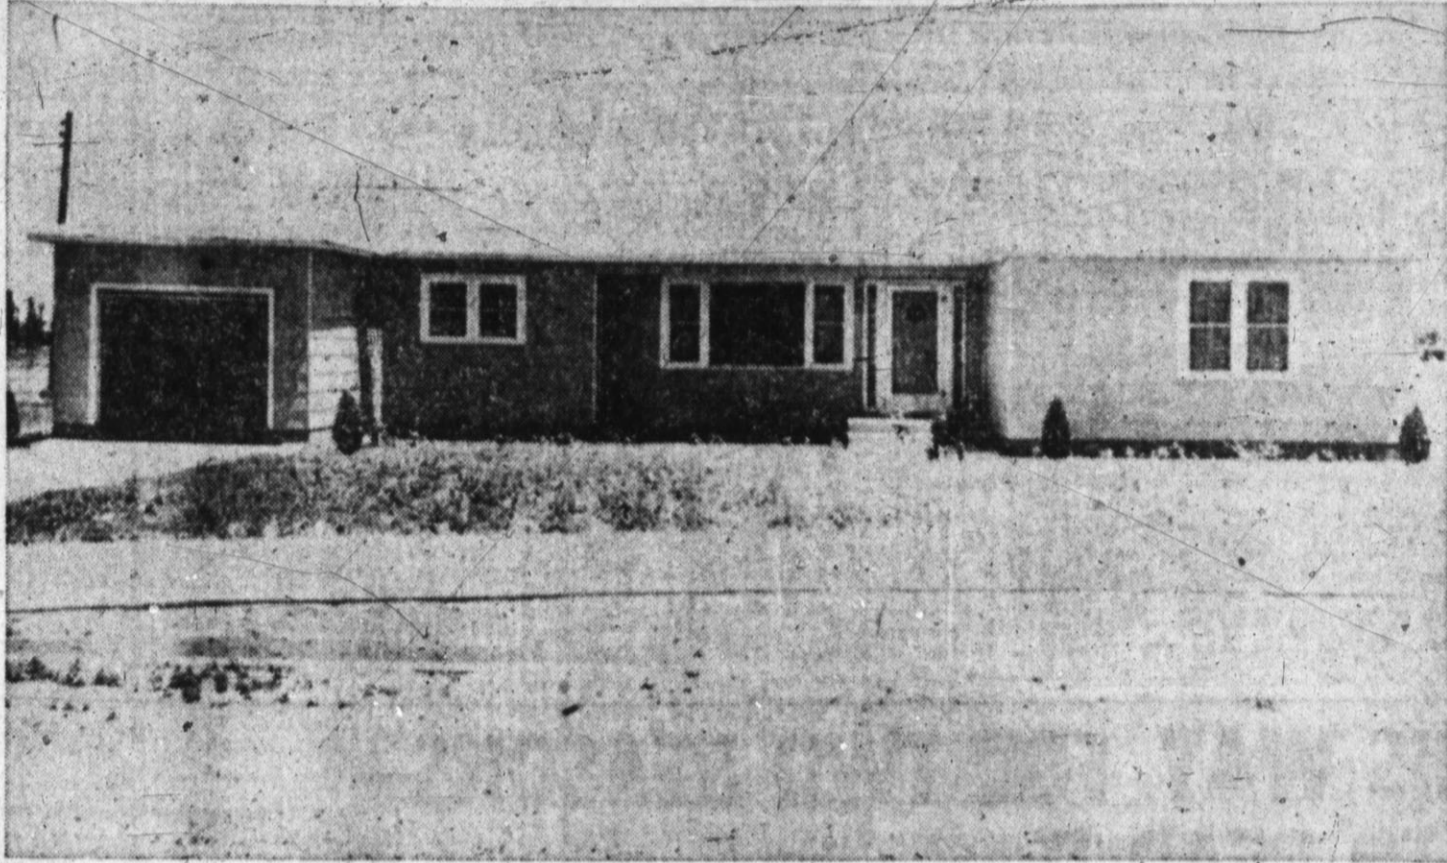

This March of Dimes project to safeguard children from the menace of polio was inaugurated in 1945 with a printing of 320,000 copies entitled "When Polio Strikes."

Two years later, in 1947, more than 29,000,000 leaflets called "A Message to Parents," were distributed through the schools in both English and Spanish edition.

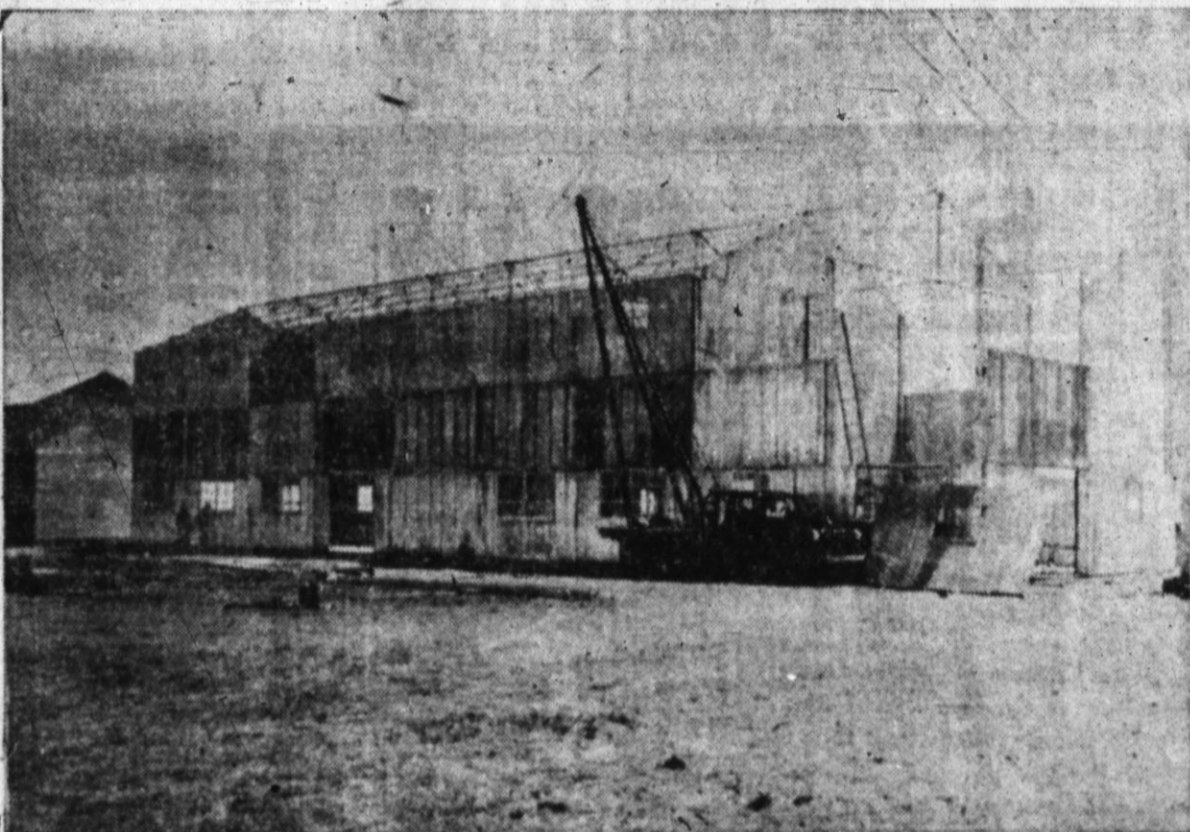

In 1951, so popular was the project, that the original printing was exhausted. Re-orders from schools both in the United States and Puerto Rico boosted the total to 32,500,000. This growth was paralleled not only the population growth of public, private and parochial schools, but the increasing recognition of the publication's value by administrators and teachers.

Here, in abbreviated form, are the essential precautions listed in the 1952 "Polio Pledge."

- (1) Avoid fatigue from work or play.
- (2) Don't get chilled. Don't swim too long in cold water nor sit around in wet clothes.
- (3) Don't mix unnecessarily with new groups. Don't take children out of camp where there is good health supervision.
- (4) Watch closely for signs of illness... headache, fever, sore muscles, stiff neck or back, trouble in breathing or swallowing.
- (5) Put a sick person to bed at once, away from others, and call your doctor. Follow his advice.
- (6) Contact your local March of Dimes Chapter for whatever assistance or financial help you may need.

FRIONA'S NEWEST GIN, being erected one mile south of the Hub, is going up rapidly, as this picture shows. Owners of the new gin are Mills and Fleming. The new unit will be ready for the 1952 cotton crop. Saturday's hail caused a good deal of damage to the cotton crop and farmers are planting their crop over and others are putting in a maize crop. Streu's Diary

June 6, 1952

DEAR DIARY:

Only a week to go until Father's Day -- and Streu's is loaded with hundreds of gifts that were especially made for the OLD BOY. It is absolutely impossible to shop Streu's without finding just the right gift for Father.

If Father is a fisherman, Walter can really fix up a deal from his complete line of fishing tackle--if Dad is a fixer, you can't miss with carpenter or mechanic's tools--and tool boxes--if he is a wood worker, our complete line of Delta Homecraft power tools is the answer -- or mayhaps Pop is a gardener -- if so, we would suggest a Reo electric or gas Power Mower -- or a Sunbeam Hedge Trimmer -- or one of the new Sunbeam creeping sprinklers that will shut itself off when finished.

For the traveler or picnicker (you spell it) we have Scotch coolers (for cokes, that it), thermic jugs and bottles, sleeping bags and air mattresses, binoculars and a host of kindred items like Coleman camp stoves and lanterns and high powered electric lanterns and portable radios and, and -- and!!!!

Nope, you just can't miss if you select your Father's Day gift from Streu's -- you see, we know just what Dad wants on account of being one of them.

Would write a line or two regarding the current political situation, only I'm rather badly confused (which is probably just what the big boys intend) and besides, I am fresh out of time -- don't want to get into another of those 'good neighbor' feuds with Mister. Giltentine!!

BE SURE TO SHOP STREU'S FOR FATHER'S DAY!!!

Oops, almost forgot -- just received a huge shipment of Fiesta pottery, including all the new colors.

A Movie You'll Love with ALL Your HEART!

DEAR FRIENDS:
 All my life as a theatre manager, I've looked forward to the times I can offer to my patrons a picture as wholesome, warm-hearted and truly WONDERFUL as "ROOM FOR ONE MORE."
 We all feel troubled during these insecure times. Sad events happen all around us every day, leaving us depressed and unhappy—and frankly, I think fiction is too often drawn from the ugly side of life.
 But, now, along comes a movie so richly endowed with the good things of life, I can't resist adding this personal message to our regular advertising.
 Believe me, "ROOM FOR ONE MORE" will fill your heart brimful with laughter and happy thoughts. It will make you feel GOOD ALL OVER for weeks afterwards.
 Please see it—with your loved ones—and your smiles as you leave the theatre will convince me that a movie has made our community a happier place in which to live.
 Your Theatre Manager.

Beauty at Home

By Lynn Carter

Q. What is a good way to relieve tired, burning feet?
A. Use a hot-cold foot spray. Spray your feet with moderately hot water for two minutes, then change to cold water for a minute or two. Or soak your feet in a basin, alternating hot and cold water. A tablespoon of Epsom salts added to the water has soothing qualities and will often help soften calluses and rough skin.

Q. I have a rather heavy lower lip. How should I use lipstick?
A. An optical illusion can be created by using a lighter, brighter shade of color on the upper lip. This makes it appear fuller and calls attention away from the heavy lower lip.

Q. What is the best way to apply eyeshadow?
A. First anoint the lids with a little eye cream, then dot them with shadow, blending this upward and outward from the center of the lash-margin. If you have applied too much, keep blending it until it really is a "shadow."

Q. How can I make an effective facial pack with eggs?
A. Try this: Wash the skin well with soap and water, rinse and dry. Then take an old linen handkerchief and cut holes in it for eyes, nose and lips. Whip up the white of an egg, soak the linen with this and pat it on the face, drawing it tightly over all areas. Put some of the white on your nose, too. Leave on for about an hour, then remove with warm water and take chilled witch hazel and give the skin a smart spanking all over.

Q. What can I do about my rouge application to avoid any heaviness or age in my face?
A. Be sure not to extend your rouge below the level of your nostrils. This would add age and heaviness to the face.

Q. What is a good exercise for slimmer hips and thighs?
A. The standing-squatting exercise. Merely stand erect, then squat to a seating position, keeping the spine erect. Rise to a standing position, and do this exercise in rapid rhythm at least 30 times.

Q. What hairdress is good if one has a very high forehead?
A. Bangs or soft curls are the best possible disguise for a high forehead, but a softswirl is also good if the face is narrow or square.

YOUR BARN AND JOSH GREEN'S WAS DELIBERATELY BURNED TO COVER THE THEFT OF THOSE OLD CARS!
BY JINGO, KING! IF WHAT YOU SAID ABOUT THEIR VALUE IS RIGHT, I CAN UNDERSTAND ALL OF THIS!

PEERING INTO THE INFERNO OF HALE'S BARN, KING OBSERVES THAT THE STALL WHICH CONTAINED AN ANTIQUE CAR IS EMPTY!

BUT, KING... HE DIDN'T STEAL MY OLD CAR!

OH, YES, HE DID, JOSH! THE TWISTED WRECKAGE IN YOUR BARN IS A JUNK MODEL "A"!

BY CRACKIE! THERE WAS A WRECKED MODEL "A" IN TH' DITCH NEAR MY PASTURE!

THIS WAS A HURRY-UP JOB... THE THIEF DIDN'T HAVE TIME TO FIND ANOTHER SUBSTITUTE JUNKER!

LET'S LOCATE THOSE CARS FIRST... HE'D HAVE TO TOW THEM, SO THE HIDING PLACE WON'T BE FAR AWAY!

YEP! HE MUST'VE HAULED MINE OUT THROUGH TH' MEADOW, OR WE'D HAVE SEEN HIM FROM TH' HOUSE!

T-THOSE LIGHTS IN HALE'S FIELD. THEY'RE TRACKIN' TH' CARS... I-I'VE GOTTA STOP 'EM!

MANDRAKE THE MAGICIAN

BY LEE FALK & PHIL DAVIS

IN TABOOLAND, MANDRAKE SPEAKS TO THE BARBARIC HIGH PRIEST THROUGH AN INTERPRETER.

I WILL NOT TELL WHERE SHE IS, AND DO NOT BELIEVE HE CAN DO WHAT HE SAYS!

TELL HIM HE MUST SAY WHERE NARDA IS, OR I WILL TURN HIM INTO A-- MONKEY!

HE SAYS TELL HIM WHERE NARDA IS, OR HE WILL TURN YOU INTO A MONKEY.

MANDRAKE GESTURES HYPNOTICALLY, AND--

gulp--WHAT SHALL I TELL HIM NOW?

TELL HIM-- SHE IS AT TOP OF TEMPLE--WITH WHITE GODDESS! TELL HIM-- TO TURN ME-- BACK!

HURRY, LOTHAR--!

STRIKE!

MANDRAKE GESTURES AND-- THE WARRIOR SEEMS TO WHIRL INTO THE AIR, AND STAY THERE!

THE WHITE GODDESS! WOW-- SHE'S A WILDCAT! LOTHAR-- WHERE ARE YOU?

HOW DARE YOU TOUCH ME?
