July 22 Is Date For REA Phone Outside Bids

July 22 is the date set for accepting bids and for letting contracts for the outside equipment for the West Texas Rural Telephone Co-Op.

Leo Forrest, manager of the cooperative, said in all probability that the 900 sets needed for the system would either be ordered at that time or a date would be set for buying the instruments.

About $25,000 of the material needed for the 950-mile telephone network is now on hand. Some of the material will not be shipped until the fourth quarter of 1952, so there is no real hurry for accepting outside bids.

The contractor can, however, stake lines and install poles along the line. The co-op will furnish a listed amount of material. All materials will be furnished by the contractor and covered in the bid. Forrest said the supplemental plan for the telephone co-op of was notified of the approval by $387,000 has been approved. He telephone from Washington Thursday. This makes a total of $811,000 for construction of the tri-county telephone set-up.

THE DUDLEY GREENS and their daughter, Claudia, are shown standing in a 20-acre field of wheat at the west end of Norton street that averaged "better than 50 bushels per acre" according to Green. The crop is owned by Green and Scott. Green said if it hadn't been for the freeze, the field would have easily made 70 bushels per acre. The wheat is Number One and the moisture content was OK. Green said he had a potato and lettuce crop on the land last year and ran 12 registered heifers and a milk cow on the land during the winter. Staff Photo.

All Play, No Work For 'Mary and Willie' Waters

(Ed. Note -- This account of The Hereford Brand's "Good Neighbors", Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Waters, spending their week-long free vacation at Drowsy Water Ranch, was written at the request of The Brand by Mrs. Tom Howard.)

By Faye Howard
If you could have heard the snatches of song coming from the other section of the Flying WA cabin this week, you would have known there were two very happy people here at the Drowsy Water ranch. Mary and Willie Waters are having a real vacation. For one week, at least, they have all play and no work, not even a bed to make.

They came from Hereford by way of Raton, Colorado Springs, Denver and Berthoud Pass. All other sights were overshadowed by Berthoud Pass. For a driver unaccustomed to mountain driving, that pass can be a formidable task. Add a new Buick, some excitement about winning a contest and over 11,000 feet of altitude and perhaps you can understand some of the things that happened coming over the pass.

As I hear the story, the chauffeur of the Buick from Hereford had to stop to relax on the way over. "Miss Mary" stooped over to feel the snow beside the road and blacked out. As she fell, her hands hit the icy water from melted snow and shock quickly revived her.

Old-time mountain people here are inclined to hide a smile politely when drivers from the flat country start telling tales about Berthoud Pass. They say "Oh, Berthoud isn't bad. Have you been over Loveland?"

There are many other passes in Colorado which are higher than Berthoud, but at the Drowsy Water ranch all guests spend part of the first day telling Berthoud pass tales.

The Malones, the whole tribe, including Tony and family and Mrs. Maggie Malone, thought the Buick from Hereford would arrive Sunday. By Monday evening they had almost given up. Every body sat down to supper, suddenly the telephone rang. "Pop" Glessner, a neighbor down the road was calling to say "The Waters family in on the way up".
It is hard to get a connected story of the arrival. All the staff and other guests were excited about these special guests. Al Sweeney says there were tears in people's eyes after the arrival, but he doesn't say much about whose eyes. The Malones and the Waters agree that everyone on the ranch staff has taken a special interest in this vacation.

After supper, Mr. and Mrs. Waters and chauffeurs were taken to the Flying WA cabin. This is a big three-bedroom cabin complete with living room and screened porch. Later in the evening Drowsy Water guests went to the Hitching Post down on the highway where guests from local dude ranches meet for fun and frolic. Mary and Willie Waters were introduced around and made quite an impression. Opinions of ten heard are, "They're delightful people" and "You know, this contest is a fine thing".

Tuesday they did their first horseback riding. Sam Phillips from Pittsburgh says, "Willie rode like an old timer. It didn't make any difference to him which horse he got."

Tenderfeet are apt to be choosy about horses -- choosing the gentle nags. "Miss Mary" didn't care much for local trails. She said she was used to galloping along and this picking your way up a steep rocky mountain was no way to ride a horse.

To make it seem like Hereford week here, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tackitt Jr. and children, Richard and Carol came in for an overnight visit -- without coats.

Mr. and Mrs. Waters were among the few people who don't make an early visit to the trading post in Granby for warmer clothes.

The younger Mr. and Mrs. Waters left Tuesday to do other visiting, and we moved into their part of the Flying WA.

Wednesday we went sight-seeing and took pictures. I tried to get "Miss Mary" to go mountain climbing with me, but she claimed she was past the mountain climbing stage. They fished a little in Drowsy Water creek, where the water moves 81 feet a second, but didn't have much luck.
Experienced fishermen go down to the Colorado River about two miles away, but we decided against that. There is a pond on the ranch where Ronnie Malone, the very efficient first assistant junior manager took them later with better luck. According to Ronnie, "Miss Mary" is a little better fisherman, although both are good.

Thursday was "cook-out night". Tom and Cecil fried hamburgers on the outdoor grill while the rest of us ate. There is just one trouble with food up here. We eat too much. After supper, Don Mills the ranch's singing wrangler, brought out his guitar. There was no moon so we moved into the Big Flying Heart lodge by the fireplace. Even the squirmiest child was quite as we sat in the dark watching the fire.

Mary and Willie Waters left a little earlier than expected this morning. Some say it was because (Continued on page 6)

Gun, Assault Charges Filed On W. A. Carter

Two charges--one of unlawfully carrying a gun and the other for aggravated assault--were filed in county court on June 14 against William A. Carter of Amarillo.

Carter was charged on the first count in a complaint filed by City Patrolman J. C. Mays, who, with Chief Floyd Reeves, picked up Carter June 14.

The second charge was filed after a complaint was signed by Walter Kuper and alleged that Carter had--on or about June 13--carried a pistol and committed assault on Kuper, pointing the pistol at Kuper in a threatening manner, threatening to seriously injure him.

Kuper and Carter has been litigants in a suit to set aside a deed in district court. The case was closed March 31, 1952. The suit involved a right-of-way for a road.

Carter is free on a $500 bond.

Matched Roping Between Top Ropers June 29

A $2,200 matched roping event between Earl Brown of Adrian and Jamey Kenney of Carlsbad, N. M., will be held at the Hereford Riders arena on Sunday, June 29.

Each of the contestants will be given 10 calves apiece. Lowest average will take the $2,000 purse.

A $10 open jackpot affair will also be held for any roper who wishes to enter. Prize money will be split 50-30-20. Each will have one calf.

Sponsored by the Figure 2 Roping club, the event will get underway at 2:30 p. m. a week from today.

Remove Pin From Youth's Throat

FRIONA--A three-hour stint in the operating room was needed to remove a corage pin from the throat of 11-year-old Jimmy Kendrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Kendrick of Friona Thursday night.

The youth swallowed the long pin and was brought to the Farmer county hospital shortly thereafter--at 9 p. m. Dr. Messer and Dr. Paul Spring worked over the lad for three hours to remove the pin.

Study Of School Building Started

Members of the Hereford Rural High School district's board of trustees literally dumped the school building program into the lap of a 17-person citizen's committee Thursday evening with instructions to determine the needs, type of construction, location, and amount of money required to adequately take care of the enrollment.
"We want you to check these things carefully, to study the situation, and to report back to the school board with your findings and recommendations," Robert Veigel, president, told the group. "Your work will be strictly advisory, but will carry much weight with the board."

Mr. Veigel, along with Fred Baird, assessor-collector, George Graham, superintendent, and other board members said that the committee will have a free hand, uninfluenced by the board. They also offered the use of all material in the system to the group in making the study.
"Twice, the people have rejected bond issue proposals," Mr. Veigel continued. "Maybe we have been wrong and maybe we have made mistakes. Anyway, we are asking you as citizens to contribute your time toward helping study the situation and toward offering the kind of building the people of the community want and need."

The official board adjourned, leaving the committee to organize and make preliminary plans. J. C. McCracken was named chairman, Ed Reinauer, vice chairman, and Mrs. Elmer Patterson, secretary. The committee proposed scores of questions and appointed a committee to return the statistics to the next meeting, scheduled for Thursday, June 26. The group will make a tour of the local plant, also inspect new buildings on the South Plains and North Plains. Regular meetings and reports to the public were stressed as important by the group members. Fifteen of the 17 appointed on the committee attended the first meeting.

Members of the committee: Mrs. Homer Brumley, J. C. McCracken, L. J. Straufuss, Wayne Evans, Jimmie Gillentine, Mrs. Maurice Tannahill, Leo Forrest, Ed Reinauer, T. E. Seigler, J. E. Andrews, B. E. Roberson, Mrs. Elmer Patterson, Dr. R. R. Wills, Mrs. J. R. Allison, J. C. Morrison, Bob Wear, and Henry Sears.

Begin Spud Harvest Mon.

Processing operations on Deaf Smith county's first of the 1952 spud crop will start Monday morning at the Associated Growers.

Another Monday starter will be the Hereford Potato Growers, who will begin operations with spuds from the Spring Lake area. Howard Gault will begin his processing Tuesday morning, weather permitting.

The Hereford spud crop is hitting a market that is a little stronger than has been the case in the past few weeks. The Bliss Triumphs being grown and processed in this area are looking good and seem to be of fine quality.

Only the weather can hamper final plans for a big harvest of about 4,000 acres of local spuds. Either too much rain or an untimely hail storm would cramp the grower's optimism.

One other local processor, Fred Barrett Sons, started processing in their fields and packing in their sheds in Muleshoe on Friday for a three-day jump on local growers.

Fields to be packed and shipped from the Associated Growers shed include the Mark Coenig farm southeast of town, the Lester Moore place west of Hereford, and the Vern Pickens farm southeast of town.

A spokesman for Howard Gault said that although the market is a little stronger this week, they won't even guess at what it will be next week.

Gault will run full days from the time they start, weather permitting. They should pack about 20 cars a day.

Next week will be the beginning of the peak period for spud processing here with July 1-10 a high week with the second week of July seeing the peak of packing here.

City Golf Event Qualifying Set Back To July 3

Qualifying rounds for the annual Hereford city golf tournament have been extended to include the day of July 3, according to Earl Hendricks, president of the club.

The change in dates was made so members could accept an invitation extended by the Littlefield country club for about 40 local golfers to come down there as their guests on July 29 for a team match.

"As all golfers know," Hendricks said, "Littlefield knows how to entertain and play host as golfers. We need at least 40 golfers. Please sign up with Bud Posey by Tuesday, June 24."

Posey said lunch will be served the local golfers by the Littlefield hosts at 11 a. m. June 29 and the matches will start immediately thereafter.

Deaf Smith REA Recommends 50% Value Increase To School Bodies

A voluntary 50% "across the board" increase on property valuation of co-op lines passing through various school districts was offered by the board of directors of the Deaf Smith REA cooperative to representatives of 11 school districts at a meeting held this week.

All of the districts represented approved the boost in valuation for taxing purposes, Leo Forrest, manager of the co-op, said. They expressed a feeling of satisfaction with the adjusted figure. Purpose of the meeting, which was held Monday night, was to arrive at a unified evaluation for the same type of line in each school district throughout the area.

The co-op and the school men studied evaluations of seven other co-ops in the West Texas area and found that renditions of the past three years here were approximately the same as the other co-ops had been stating.

Seven school districts were represented. They were: Hereford, Farwell, Nazareth, Dimmitt, Bovina, Walcott, and Lazbuddie. Other districts with some REA line in them are Adrian, Arney, Hart and Vega.

Total valuation of the REA properties in each district have not been completed yet.

Wheat Harvest Is One-Fourth Over

Deaf Smith county's wheat harvest of an estimated 160,000 acres is from 25 percent to 35 percent completed after the first full week of operations, a survey of Hereford elevators has disclosed.

Yields on the 1952 crop have been running anywhere from 12-15 bushels per acre on dryland wheat and from 30-60 bushels per acre on the irrigated crop.

Dry, hot weather has hastening a great deal the harvesting operations throughout the county. It has also helped on the moisture, as the wheat coming in now is "getting pretty dry" an elevator man told the Brand.

The weight test of the wheat has been running from 60 pounds per bushel to as high as 65 pounds per bushel -- all number one wheat.

Quality of the wheat is exceptionally good, The Brand learned. For this early in the season, the flow of wheat coming in to local elevators has been surprising to most contacted.

High yields have been reported in spotty fashion. Irrigated yields have come in as high as 50 bushels on the Green and Scott land, 58 bushels and a reported 70 bushels on the John Paetzold place.

Throughout the area, the same story apparently is to be found. In Friona, Farmer county wheat has been found to be yielding about the same.

James Mabry, who farms seven miles south of Friona, got 41 bushels per acre off 40 acres of land he watered only once. Most of the dryland wheat will yield about 15 bushels.

Clearman Explains Grain Storage, Insect Problem

A program to keep grain within the prescribed standards set by the Pure Food and Drug Administration was outlined for Deaf Smith county farmers this week in a circular issued by County Agent, Hugh Clearman.

"Requirements of the Pure Food and Drug Administration on wheat as a human food are:

1. Wheat cannot have more than three weevil exit hole kernels in 100 grams of wheat (¼ pt.) Under the U. S. Grain Marketing Standards, wheat could have as high as 60 weevil cut kernels and still grade U. S. No. 1.
2. Wheat cannot have more than an occasional rat or mouse excrement pellet.
3. Wheat cannot have more than an occasional bird pellet.
4. Wheat cannot have an excessive amount of any kind of filth.

Clearman explains: "After finishing a good clean-up of granary and the premises surrounding the granary, spray bin surfaces at least two weeks prior to filling the bins with grain. Sprays for this procedure are known as residual sprays. Advice from the Food and Drug people indicates residual sprays for bin walls are acceptable as long as the quantity used is not so excessive that it contaminates the wheat that is stored.

"Base, methoxychlor and DDT residual sprays can be used as well as pyrethrum piperonyl butoxide spray. Concentration of the spray to use will be given under the directions for use listed on the container label and these instructions should be used very closely.

"Methoxychlor and DDT sprays should not be used in excess of 2½% concentration. Give special attention to the spraying of all cracks, crevices, corners, ledges and cross braces in the bins where stored grain insects may harbor."

On storage, Clearman says: "The key to good insect control, after bins have been sprayed thoroughly with a residual spray, is the storage of dry grain. Stored grain insects require water for life and grain under 12% moisture content will not be favorable to insect development.

"All farmers producing wheat should be advised of the new Food and Drug Administration program so that they will be able to prepare themselves against certain financial losses not heretofore a primary consideration in determining the market value of wheat. All farmers should know that soon all elevator operators will be forced to examine very carefully all deliveries of wheat by the farmer for signs of insect infestation and rodent contamination.

"Each granary should be fixed so that birds, rats and mice cannot get into them or proper control measures should be taken."

Onion Crops In Vicinity Look Good, Fields Could Use Rain

By Mrs. R. C. Childers

High winds are drying out young crops and soil where crops are not yet up. A shower would surely be appreciated and farmers could cease irrigating for a few days. Otherwise crops will have to be watered up.

The onion crops in this vicinity are looking good. Crops on the Jack Renfro and R. C. Childers farms have been sprayed by plane twice this season. The last spraying was done this week.

Mexican labor has hoed out the crops twice and have been fertilized again also recently.

So with all the extra work and expense, the onion harvest should be good. The early crop will be ready to harvest in a week or so.

A few grasshoppers and other insects can be seen on the lawns and flowers, but there have been no reports of crop damage from insects as yet.

Mrs. R. N. Cook writes that the tomato harvest is in full swing in the Nacogdoches area. She reports that they gathered 21 bushels of tomatoes from their six-acre truck patch. Tomatoes have to be picked two or three times a week, depending on the weather. The Cooks also have an acre or two of green peppers.

Mrs. Cooke writes that she feels like the summer should be over as she has already canned 170 quarts of fruits and vegetables this year. The Cookes are formerly of this community, moving to Nacogdoches the first of the year.

Patsy Jackson arrived in Nacogdoches at 12:30 last Sunday afternoon. She has been visiting in the Cookes home this week. She is expected home today. Patsy Childers will accompany her home. They are coming by bus.

Mrs. Joe Pitts reports that Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hargett have moved from Cotter, Ark., to Harrison, Ark. The Hargetts moved to Cotter from Hereford last May a year ago, and have been engaged in farming and ranching there. Mrs. Hargett was a member of the Cultural Home Demonstration club while living here, serving as secretary two years.

Mrs. C. S. Barclay and her infant son David were in Amarillo Thursday to Dr. Strite. David is under the medical care of Dr. Strite.

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Barclay completed their wheat harvest Thursday. The Earl DeHarts have completed theirs also. A plow is running in the DeHart field, turning the stubble under. The wheat turned out per acre is good this year. Most of it is averaging 30 bushels.

The Workers 4-H club participated in the county-wide bake sale held Saturday at Piggy Wiggly. This sale of baked goods was to raise money to send their delegate to College Station to the 4-H Roundup. Mrs. M. G. Caywood was in charge of the Workers 4-H club's pies and cakes.

Boots is the name of the new member in the R. C. Childers family. Boots is a brown and white Collie dog, about eight months old. She replaces Fellow who died about a month ago. He was seven years old when he died. He too was a pup when he came to live with the Childers but was somewhat younger than Boots, so he was just like one of the family. Fellow was a very devoted to Raymond Jr. He knew what time the school bus would arrive and was always there to greet his master. Fellow was a registered Collie. Boots is subject to registration.

Wheat In Bovina Area Yielding Near 20 Bu. On Dryland

Parmer county wheat -- mostly the early varieties so far -- is running anywhere from six to 20 bushels per acre on dryland and from 30-40 bushels per acre on irrigated land, according to estimates made this week by Gabe Anderson, manager of the Sherry Grain company at Bovina.

First load of wheat at the Sherry elevator was brought in June 12 by Bert Williams, who farms south of Farwell. He had a load of 8,260 pounds that contained 15% moisture.

"Nothing has been higher than 16% yet," Anderson said.

To date, about 25,000 bushels have been brought in. Anderson expects to get the yield from about 4,000 acres of irrigated wheat and about 25,000 acres of dryland in his elevator.

The heaviest part of the wheat harvest is expected to begin the middle of the week.

Texas Press In Blast At State For Publicity

Texas newspaper publishers expressed strong objection to the failure of state officials to publish accountings of receipts and disbursements of public tax monies at the 73rd Annual Meeting of the Texas Press Association in Houston, June 14.

Resolutions were passed calling attention to the fact that, even though required by law, such publications are seldom made by city, county and school board district officials. Resolutions pointed out that such "public notices" are required for the understanding, benefit, and criticism of the voters and tax-payers, and that the light of publicity could place a curb upon the "careless, wasteful extravagance and often corrupt handling of public funds."

In part, the resolutions read: WHEREAS, laws in other states recognize the need of such detailed publication of all expenditures of public monies, wherein said expenditures are listed in the local or regional newspaper, item by item, dollar by dollar; and that experience in other states proves that the cost of publication is more than justified by its enormous saving in the tax payers' money, THEREFORE, be it resolved that the Legislative Committee of this Texas Press

Association be called upon to study this particular phase of our state law and that said committee be empowered to suggest corrective measures for consideration by the State Legislature body."

J. C. Smyth, publisher of the Liberty Vindicator is chairman of the TPA Legislative Committee.

A second resolution passed by the convention urged the election of officials who will pledge themselves to call a halt to tax increases. A third called for revision of the state election code to "create a basis of equity between and among candidates contending for any one particular office." Another endorsed the efforts of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic fraternity, in their fight for freedom of information and the people's right to know.

Attempts by certain groups to place a curb on advertising for selfish purposes and the TPA's objection to false or misleading advertising also were cited by the Resolutions Committee. Canadian manufacturers of newsprint were condemned for their increase in the price of their product, and domestic producers were urged to maintain their present prices, in another resolution. The association also went on record as approving the work of Weekly Newspaper Representatives of New York City, a new organization formed for the handling of national advertising in the country's weekly newspapers.

Michael Colesanto, general manager of Weekly Newspaper Representatives, was a speaker for the Houston meeting.

William Rawland, publisher of the Cleburne Times-Review, was elected president of the Texas Press Association at the meeting. He replaces Brad Smith, West-laco News publisher. Smith will serve during the coming year as chairman of the Board of Directors, succeeding Frederick I. Mas-sengill, Jr., Terrell Daily Tribune. Arthur H. Kowert, Fredricksburg Standard, was named vice-president, and William E. Berger, publisher of the Hondo Anvil Herald, was elected secretary-treasurer.

Williams Sues Superior Oil

Joel T. Williams filed suit against the Superior Oil Co. in District court on June 20 to secure title and possession of mineral leasehold estate on property located in Deaf Smith county.

In his petition, Williams alleges that on or about June 6, 1952, he was still owner of the oil, gas and mineral leasehold estate in and under all of Labors 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, and 22, all of which are out of League No. Gregg county school land, Deaf Smith county.

According to the petition filed by Williams, he alleges that on or about June 6, the Superior Oil Co., unlawfully entered upon and dispossessed him of such mineral leasehold estate and "now unlawfully withholds him from possession thereof."

Williams seeks restoration of the title and possession and costs of the suit. His attorneys are Shank, Dedman and Payne of Dallas.

Texas Press In Blast At State For Publicity

Texas newspaper publishers expressed strong objection to the failure of state officials to publish accountings of receipts and disbursements of public tax monies at the 73rd Annual Meeting of the Texas Press Association in Houston, June 14.

Resolutions were passed calling attention to the fact that, even though required by law, such publications are seldom made by city, county and school board district officials. Resolutions pointed out that such public notices are required for the understanding, benefit and criticism of the voters and tax-payers, and that the light of publicity could place a curb upon the "careless, wasteful extravagance and often corrupt handling of public funds."

In part, the resolutions read: WHEREAS, laws in other states recognize the need of such detailed publication of all expenditures of public monies, wherein said expenditures are listed in the local or regional newspaper, item by item, dollar by dollar; and that experience in other states proves that the cost of publication is more than justified by its enormous saving in the tax payers' money; THEREFORE, be it resolved that the Legislative Committee of this Texas Press

Association be called upon to study this particular phase of our state law and that said committee be empowered to suggest corrective measures for consideration by the State Legislature body."

J. C. Smyth, publisher of the Liberty Vindicator is chairman of the TPA Legislative Committee.

A second resolution passed by the convention urged the election of officials who will pledge themselves to call a halt to tax increases. A third called for revision of the state election code to "create a basis of equity between and among candidates contending for any one particular office." Another endorsed the efforts of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic fraternity, in their fight for freedom of information and the people's right to know.

Attempts by certain groups to place a curb on advertising for selfish purposes and the TPA's objection to false or misleading advertising also were cited by the Resolutions Committee. Canadian manufacturers of newspapers were condemned for their increase in the price of their product, and domestic producers were urged to maintain their present prices, in another resolution. The association also went on record as approving the work of Weekly Newspaper Representatives of New York City, a new organization formed for the handling of national advertising in the country's weekly newspapers.

Michael Coleanto, general manager of Weekly Newspaper Representatives, was a speaker for the Houston meeting.

William Rawland, publisher of the Cleburne Times-Review, was elected president of the Texas Press Association at the meeting. He replaces Brad Smith, Westaco News, publisher. Smith will serve during the coming year as chairman of the Board of Directors, succeeding Frederick I. Masengill, Jr., Terrell Daily Tribune. Arthur H. Kowert, Fredricksburg Standard, was named vice-president, and William E. Berger, publisher of the Hondo Anvil Herald, was elected secretary-treasurer.

Everywhere the people are talking about the weather -- and meanwhile the school situation is getting no better. It got so bad, in fact, that the School Board selected a 17-person advisory committee to study possibilities of constructing a new building under the conditions, plans, needs and the answer to Hereford's school building problems. To say the least, these people are going to do a lot of research work before they make any recommendations. They also expect to check and compare the architect situation, which was a question in the last election. The board, although not legally bound by these recommendations, would probably run into a brick wall if they opposed basic findings of the citizen's committee. Creation of the committee, for this reason, speaks well for the school board. It indicates that they are really and truly trying to give the people what the people want. It is a democratic method. Furthermore, hats off to the citizen's committee members who are willing to sacrifice their time for the community -- and most of them are busy people.

We will probably hear a lot more from this group from time to time. Twice the people have turned down bond issues and the board insists that a new building is necessary. These folks are to decide whether it be a Junior high, high school or grade school, also where, how much, and why.

H. E. Miller is just back from down around Ft. Worth. Understood he and some friends caught 27 bass in an hour and a half. Big ones too. The signs must have been right. Understand Dub Reeves is in Colorado and writes back that he is getting his limit of trout every day. Having fished with Dubbs at Buffalo Lake, I will reserve my personal opinion of this story.

Thanks, folks, for the telephone calls and nice letters and personal words of happiness for the recent Brand recognition. Mary Kate Brotherton, now with the Amarillo News, and Mrs. Seth B. Holman were among those who sent nice letters. All in all, these things mean a lot more than the ribbons and plaques and cups. We care a lot more about what the folks at home think than about what judges in other states have to say. However, we are all mighty proud and promise that we will continue to do our best. The Brand staff, in general, is by far the best it has ever been since I came to Hereford in 1937 -- but we still make a lot of mistakes, and we ask your cooperation and consideration and tolerance just as you have always extended us. We need them more than ever now.

Beautiful Chrysanthemums May Be Grown In This Community

(Ed. note - This is the second of a series of articles being written on timely topics for the amateur gardener.)

Today, Mrs. W. Glenn Williams, member of the Bud-To-Blossom club, tells how to grow chrysanthemums in this locality beginning with the feeding of the plants now which will furnish your fall blossoms, and including getting the bed ready in summer and fall for spring planting.

HOW TO GROW CHRYSANTHEMUMS

Now is the time to give chrysanthemums a feeding of balanced fertilizer, four pounds to 100 sq. ft. and then water deeply.

Exhibition blooms cannot be grown on stunted plants and beds where they are grown should never be allowed to dry and bake. A mulch of peat moss or well rotted compost should be given the bed by July 1, to keep plants cool during the hot summer months.

Do not feed again until buds begin to form in August, then feed with four pounds of balanced fertilizer or liquid manure. Water well after each feeding or blooms will be malformed.

As soon as buds form in clusters, pinch off all except one to each cone, always leaving the center bud. Avoid leaving clusters of buds on too long as crooked stems may result.

There are two kinds of watering that should be practiced in growing mums. One is soil-watering and the other is spraying the foliage. Healthy, vigorous plants need lots of water but they do not like too wet soil and if the plants become water-logged they may turn yellow and may die. If the beds are spaded deeply and are well drained, there is no danger of the water standing around the roots.

Most varieties of chrysanthemums survive the winter weather in open ground, but each clump should be lifted and divided each spring and new shoots set in newly made beds. Woody old plants and weak shoots should be discarded. Some have better luck by buying newly rooted cuttings each year and planting about the first of May.

The planting season for chrysanthemums is well passed but soil beds should be gotten ready in the summer and fall.

Select a well drained location in full sun, or where the plants will get sun for half the day, and choose a place protected from the wind. The best results are obtained by making the bed in the summer or early fall as there is then no danger of getting too much fertilizer, and if the bed is made rich enough at first the plants will not require so much feeding during the growing season. A well drained, fibrous soil is best and the use of manure or peat at the rate of at least one quarter by volume is desired.

To make a bed of 100 sq. ft. add at least one cubic yard of animal manure, two pounds of iron sulphate, twenty pounds of super-phosphate, two bushel baskets of peat moss and spread all of this evenly over the bed. Spade under all at one time and water well. Let stand until planting time.

Chrysanthemums thrive best in slightly acid soil. Most of the soil here is alkaline and the iron sulphate and peat moss provide the acid. Superphosphate is valuable in starting growth and is helpful in producing early blooms. If 20 pounds are used the mums will bloom two weeks earlier and will have better foliage. They will also make stronger plants and be able better to resist disease and insects.

In the spring, along about May 1, re-spade the bed and set plants giving each plant about 1 sq. ft. of space. When the plants have six or eight leaves, pinch out the tops. A cone will form at the axil of each leaf and each plant should have four well-developed cones. All others that form should be pinched off.

Each plant is capable of producing four blooms, maximum size. If you want extremely large blossoms leave only two cones to a plant and one bud to each cone.

Set a stake by each plant and tie the plant to the stake as it grows in order to have straight stems. Go over plants regularly (Continued on Page 2)

Lawrence - Ricketts Wedding Vows July 13

Jackson-Carter Wedding Vows Repeated June 14

The marriage of Miss Carolyn Jackson and Lester Carter has been announced here. Mrs. Carter is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Vernon of this city and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Carter of Summerfield.

The marriage took place in the home of a Baptist minister in Clovis, N. M., on Saturday, June 14.

The bride wore pastel blue crepe dress with black accessories and she wore a corsage of pink carnations.

Open house was held in the home of his parents Sunday to honor the couple.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Carter are graduates of Hereford high school. After this week they will be at home in Odesa where he is employed.

The engagement of Miss Nelda Guy Lawrence and Forrest Ricketts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Ricketts, has been announced by her parents Mr. and Mrs. Guy Lawrence.

Miss Lawrence and Mr. Ricketts will be married on July 13 in the First Christian church.

Miss Lawrence is a graduate of Hereford high school and is employed by the Hereford Brand.

Mr. Ricketts graduated from Dimmitt high school and attended Wayland college and Texas Technological college, Lubbock. He is employed at Jones Brothers Service station.

The bride entered the church with her father, who gave her in marriage. Her gown of white organdy was molded with pale pink organdy blossoms that spilled over the long sleeves and bodice and across the top of the very full skirt which terminated in a half train.

The deep organdy collar formed a portrait neckline, flaring in the back and narrowing in the front. The veil was of pink mist illusion and tapered from the sides to finger-tip length in the back. It was caught to a bonnet brim of organdy.

The bridal bouquet was of white bridal roses, detachable for the going away costume, which topped a white Bible and was showered with stephanotis and white satin streamers.

The rehearsal dinner was held at the home of the bride's parents Wednesday evening. All out-of-town guests and members of the wedding party attended and the bride's and bridegroom's gifts to their attendants were presented.

The ceremony preceded an informal reception held in the church fellowship hall. The bride's table was laid with a linen cutwork cloth over pink and featured an "Anniversary Candle" which gave fragrant misty green illumination (The candle will burn at every anniversary through the years including the Golden Wedding). Flowers for the table repeated the pink and white theme of the wedding.

Miss Frances Young presided at the three-tiered wedding confection and Mrs. W. W. Wells poured punch. Adeline Koelzer assisted, guests signing the register.

When the couple left on a short wedding trip which will end in Washington, D. C. where the bridegroom is stationed, the

Springer - Wallace Vows Repeated Friday Night

At the flower-decked altar of the Immanuel Lutheran church, Miss Gwendol Springer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Springer, became the bride of Paul James Wallace of Pontiac, Mich., in ceremonies performed Friday evening at 7 o'clock.

Rev. Martin Hartenberger, pastor of the Trinity Lutheran church in Amarillo, officiated at the double-ring rites. Mr. Wallace is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Minto Wallace of Pontiac Mich.

The altar was arranged with a background of palms and fern trees offset by baskets of white gladioli. White tapers burned in seven branched candelabra and white gladioli flanked the altar cross. Pews were marked with bows of white satin ribbon intermingled with fern and flowers.

Preceding the ceremony, Wayne Evans, organist, played a medley of pre-nuptial selections and accompanied the vocalist, Mrs. Juane Hale of Canyon, who sang, "I Love Thee" and "Because". The organist continued his offerings with the traditional professional music from Wagner's "Lohengrin" with muted interpretation of "O Perfect Love" during the service, and with the Mendelssohn recessional.

Attendants Miss Leta Dene Springer attended her sister as maid of honor. She wore white organdy with cumberbund of applique-organdy and wide collar with off-shoulder cuff effect. The skirt was very full and worn with hoops.

Bridemaids were Marcy Koelzer of Colorado Springs, Jaunita Wallace of Pontiac, Mich., sister of the bridegroom, and Paula Sue Springer, sister of the bride.

The bridesmaid dresses were identical to that worn by the honor maid and all wore white nylon gloves and slender white bead chokers. They carried dainty white organdy umbrellas with pink rosebuds centering the top and pink rosebuds tied to the handles. The bridesmaids carried the open umbrellas over their shoulders and the honor maid's umbrella was closed.

Little Twyla Ann Springer, sister of the bride, carried a small upturned white organdy umbrella from which she scattered pink rose petals along the white-carpeted aisle.

Gerald Wallace of Pontiac, Mich., served his brother as best man and ushers were Franklin Springer, brother of the bride, David Wallace of Dallas, cousin of the bridegroom and Clyde Swartzell of Canyon.

The bride entered the church with her father, who gave her in marriage. Her gown of white organdy was molded with pale pink organdy blossoms that spilled over the long sleeves and bodice and across the top of the very full

Gardening Comes Natural To Mrs. Herbert Haseloff

Ed. Note - this is one of a series of articles being written about presidents of the various club of the city.)

Gardening comes natural to Mrs. Herbert Haseloff, for her mother has been a garden enthusiast and has worked with garden clubs in Vernon for years holding many state offices.

As a little girl she learned to like to grow flowers and one of the hardest things to part with when she moved to Hereford was her own flower garden at her home in Vernon. Her home there was new and the Haseloffs had landscaped the grounds and arranged the flower garden.

The Haseloffs live on East Fifteenth St. in Hereford and while she is always digging in the yard and planting, she has not had time to develop a garden yet.

Mrs. Haseloff was elected president of the Bud-To-Blossom club in May and when the club season opens in September she will assume her duties as president.

Mrs. Haseloff was born in Fort Smith, Ark. She is a graduate of Vernon high school and attended Knickerbocker of Dallas Art school. She was married in 1936 and lived in Vernon until moving to Hereford, and has been a member of a garden club since the time of her marriage.

As a child she liked to travel and for years she and her parents made extensive trips to different parts of the United States each summer.

One of her main art interests has been china painting and she has completed an eight place setting of Haviland China. She likes to work with oils, especially when working in Indian art. She collects all kinds of jewelry and can't resist buying whenever she finds something different.

Home-making is her chief interest now and her two children, Judith Raye, 9, and Robert Zerrell, 5, take up most of her time. She keeps up a certain amount of study and likes to study making flower arrangements for her home.

Mrs. Haseloff is a member of the Baptist church and takes active part in the women's organizations. She is president of the Fidelis Matrons class.

The Bud-To-Blossom club is the youngest garden club in the city but has already contributed to civic welfare and aided in beautification of the city. The club was responsible for one of the roadside markers sponsored by District 1, and has sponsored a flower show each year. Plans for their summer flower show have been post-poned until early fall.

One of their latest projects is building a library of gardening information and placing it accessible to amateur gardeners.

Mrs. Haseloff hopes the club will continue to grow in interest and that activities for beautification of the city and of individual premises will be increased. She says plans are being worked out to increase the membership for the coming year and is enthusiastic about projects being planned. She looks forward to bigger and better flower shows next year and thinks the number of out of town speakers will be increased.

"I can't see anything but a profitable year ahead if we will all work at it," she said.

To The People Of Deaf Smith Co.

In answer to rumors, published and unpublished, that I made a statement in an ad in the Hereford Brand two years ago, to the effect that I would not again be a candidate for public office, I am having the ad reprinted in full.

Please give this reprint your careful attention, and I am sure that you will agree with me that it was not my intention to convey the idea that I was planning to retire from office after this term.

On my record as a public official, I am asking you to elect me to the office of County Clerk, and if you feel that I have earned it, your support will be appreciated.

Sincerely yours,
 Robert L. Thompson

To The People Of Deaf Smith Co.

I want to extend my heartfelt thanks to my many friends who have paid me the high compliment of urging me to become a candidate for one of the two offices of Congressman or State Representative. It makes me glad to know that you have so much confidence in me.

After due and careful consideration, I have decided not to seek either of these offices, and I take this means of informing you of my intention, and of asking you to re-elect me to what will probably be the last term of the combined office of County and District Clerk. My plans after the next two years are indefinite, but I surely would like to be your clerk for this last term of the combined office.

Sincerely yours,
 Robert L. Thompson

LET'S COOK SOMETHING

It's Time For Those Cool Thirst - Quenching Treats

Hot summer days have arrived and it's time for those long, tall and cool thirst-quenchers. They satisfy every taste and every age and go a long way to help beat the heat.

Especially children call for cool drinks, but they like to have a few cookies along with their beverage which turns a hot dull afternoon into a gay tea-party, without fanfare of guests.

Mrs. Jack Grady has a recipe for party punch that every one enjoys, both old and young, and her recipe is featured in today's recipe column. She also gives you her recipe for Lemon Nut Refrigerator Cookies.

Perfect Party Punch
3 cups water
2 cups sugar

2 1/2 cups pineapple juice (1 No. 2 can)
1 quart ginger ale
5 cups orange juice
2 cups lemon juice
1 pint strawberries - frozen variety.

Blend the water and sugar together and add all the rest of ingredients together, adding the ice water last. Chill and it is ready to serve. Frozen juices are fine for this recipe.

Lemon Nut Refrigerator Cookies
1 cup shortening
1/2 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup white sugar
1 egg well beaten
2 tablespoons lemon juice and grated rind of one lemon.
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 and 1/4 cups flour

1/4 teaspoon soda
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup chopped nuts
Cream shortening and add sugar, egg and lemon juice. Sift flour and dry ingredients together and add to mixture. Mix well and add nuts. Form into a small roll, wrap in waxed paper and place in refrigerator. When thoroughly chilled slice in thin pieces and place on greased cookie sheet. Cook in 350-F oven until light brown.

These cookies may be kept indefinitely in the refrigerator and cooked when needed.
Here is a simple little cookie recipe that is easy to make and goes especially with that tea-party idea.
Scotch Poppies
1 cup brown sugar packed tight

1 cup oleo or butter
1 egg
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon lemon extract
1 cup nuts (chopped)
Cream shortening and sugar well and add the well-beaten egg. Add flavoring and work in the flour and nuts, being sure to beat thoroughly. Drop by teaspoonful on greased cookie sheets and bake in 350-F oven until light brown. These are crisp and crunchy and keep indefinitely.

CARD OF THANKS
We would like to take this method of expressing our appreciation to our friends and neighbors for their kindness and help during our recent bereavement.
We would like to thank them for the food, flowers, the cards and calls of sympathy, and other kindnesses.
May God bless each of you.

Vegetable Industry Will Look To This Area Soon

Possibilities outlined in the lead story in Thursday's Brand on the prospects of this irrigation-area in the lettuce industry are only a "drop in the bucket".

There is still more to come. The name Deaf Smith county is going to be heard wide and loud in the industry within the next few years.

As was stated in the story Thursday, several "firsts" for local vegetable growers are in the making and will come about this year. They will be only the first in a long line of precedents as this area sprouts its "wings" in the highly competitive vegetable field.

The natural advantages of this area in the vegetable industry are numerous. We have the rich land necessary, the favorable growing season, the proximity to eastern markets that give us a decided edge over the west coast.

Labor is the main problem, but with all the others, given the opportunity to right itself and seek its own level, labor also will fall into line and help this area reach its apex in the industry.

What more proof do we need for this area than the silent testimonials of lettuce men, potato men, from the "garden spots" of the nation, including Hereford and Deaf Smith county in their expansion plans?

They come here to pack a better product and to make money. They are not bound by any community feelings to establish themselves in this area.

If these men -- with their intimate knowledge of the industry -- feel this way about the area, what more do we need?

As was put so ably by the representative of a large California firm in Thursday's paper, Hereford will soon assume proportions of the nation's Number One growing area.

That day is conceivably within the immediate future. The next few years will tell the story. --W. W. K.

Now Is The Time To Plan Safety On Holiday Trip

The best Fourth of July present anyone can give his loved ones is to be alive on the fifth. With the increase in traffic deaths on our highways, that might not be so easy to promise for about 500 Americans this year.

With people planning their holiday trips, now is a good time to allow plenty of time for travel so you won't be increasing your chances of being one of the Fifth's fatalities.

Below is a reminder from the National Safety Council on safe holiday driving. Heeding it will pay dividends:

Ninety million Americans will go forth on the Fourth--for a holiday or a hollow day.

The National Safety Council estimates that there will be 40,000,000 passenger vehicles on U. S. streets and highways during the three-day weekend and that they will travel 5,000,000,000 miles--enough to circle the world 200,000 times!

The figures only emphasize the tremendous amount of travel to be expected during the holiday, the Council said. It emphasized that more cars on the road traveling more miles will inevitably mean more accidents--unless there is more caution than usual on the part of the motoring public.

An ominous note already has been sounded this year with the traffic death toll for Memorial Day setting a new record of 360 lives lost in traffic alone.

In an attempt to prevent a holiday of tragedy for hundreds of persons, the Council is conducting again this year a nationwide campaign for a safe Independence Day celebration.

Many national organization, government officials, police departments and local safety councils are cooperating in the effort.

Ned H. Dearborn, president of the Council, appealed to every citizen to do his part in preventing traffic tragedy over the Fourth.

"You as an individual can do something about it," he said, "because these tragedies result from things we can control--haste, selfishness, thoughtlessness, the desire to show off. Take it easy on the Fourth--be alive on the Fifth."

Make your holiday drive a safety drive, Mr. Dearborn urged, by obeying the following rules:

1. Make sure your car is in safe mechanical condition.
2. Start your trip in plenty of time, so you won't have to hurry.
3. Keep your speed down. Slow up here and show up there.
4. Pass other cars only if there is plenty of room.
5. Stay far enough behind other cars so that you can stop in an emergency.
6. Keep your temper, and be courteous and patient in heavy traffic.
7. Don't drive after drinking--even a little.
8. Stop and rest whenever over-tired or sleepy.

Opportunities In Rural Contest

Residents of Deaf Smith county communities would do well to seriously consider participation in the Farm Stockman rural community improvement contest during 1952 to win perhaps the $500 first prize -- or the other cash awards -- and the state recognition that goes with the honor.

A meeting on the contest will be held in the Dimmitt courthouse Monday at 10 a. m.

When it comes to community achievements, Deaf Smith county's rural areas definitely should prove themselves contenders.

Take into account the past achievements of several of our small communities and visualize what can be done on an organized program between now and March 1, 1953, deadline for the contest.

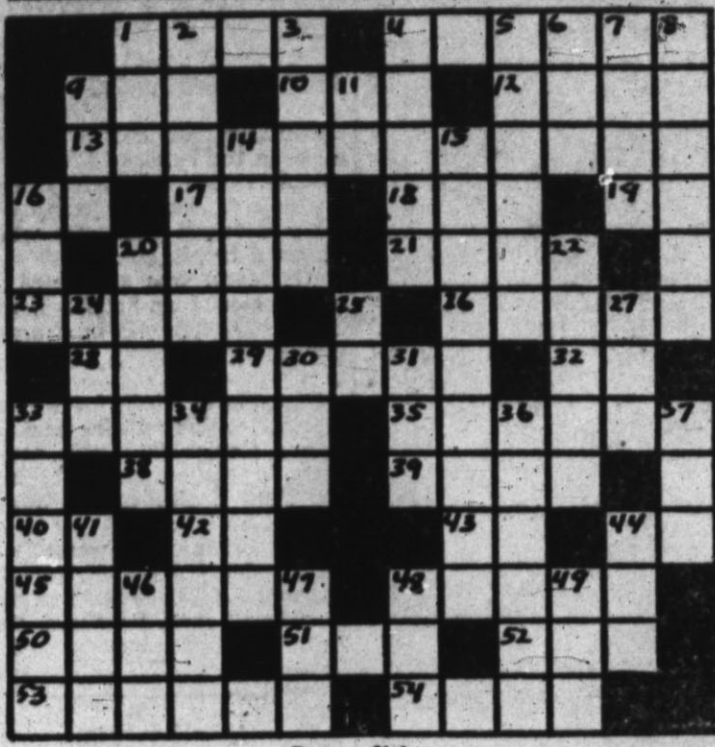

We have the interest in the communities here. We have the organizational ability to plan any community improvements.

Most of all, we have the residents who will stick to the job and carry it through to completion. Coupled with a strong community pride throughout the county, Deaf Smith county should produce a winner in this annual contest.

Representatives of our communities should attend the meeting and see what can be done.

You'll never get any place without a try. --W. W. K.

I'll Never Forget

I was living in the Panhandle of Texas in nineteen hundred and thirty five near the town of Hereford in Deaf Smith County. It was early in March. I was sitting in my little hut early one morning sipping my coffee. I felt very secure and was happy, then suddenly the sky was overcast. I opened my front door to peer out. Dark clouds were rolling by. A gust of wind hit my house tearing it to bits. I was high up in the air being tossed about. For three days I could not tell where I was, then one morning as the sun came up I found myself anchored on a fence row along with many other of my kin.

Mrs. John Johnson

There was a gentle breeze blowing. I was rocking to and fro with ease. When I heard someone talking, looking up I saw two farmers talking. Next they were carrying long handle forks and they came nearer and nearer. One of them struck a match. I saw a huge flame and as it rose higher and higher, I could hear screams for many of my friends were being cast into that fire. I thought I too was doomed, but try I would to escape. I kept rocking then I gave a big lurch and was free. I started toward the highway. One man ran after me but I crossed the highway in front of an on-coming motorist. I smiled for I was safe at least for the time being. As I went on my way I traveled many miles then darkness over taken me. I was weary and bumped into something that hit me a terrific blow and sat me down in a daze. When I came to I heard a great noise above me. I looked up and a train was passing overhead. I sat still until it had passed, then I pursued my journey. I met an old friend, a cowboy, Sam Hood. He said, "Bill it's nice to see you. Where are you going?" I told him I was only drifting. He said, "Come along with me." We traveled all day side by side. I said goodbye to my old friend for the wind caught me away. I fell asleep and was awakened next morning by the robbers singing, "Wake up Bill, it's Spring!" I sat up and rubbed my eyes. I was lying in front of an old deserted farm house. It was a low two-story house, originally white, but now gray and weather-beaten and slowly crumbling to ruin. The signs of its desertness was readily seen. The old roof was full of holes; the old stone wall had fallen down in many places. The old broken blinds swung back and forth with the gentle breeze; the old well under the apple tree was moss covered. The tall trees that once had formed an arched way over the patch led from the door step to the country road were but few. As I walked about viewing my surroundings, everything about me seemed young and happy, save the old house. The robbers were singing gaily as they sat in the apple tree.

It was so peaceful here I sat down on the ground outside the door step. I heard someone walking up the path to the door. I looked; it was a fellow traveler. He stood on the door step and looked about him then he entered and sank upon the floor. I watched him; he must have fallen asleep, then he awoke and came outside. I said, "Hello friend." He looked at me and said, "Hello Bill." He said, "As I entered this old house, I could hear my Mary singing, see my children playing as they did as of old. Then he told me that this had been his home long ago. He went on his way. It was late that afternoon when the wind said, "Come again with me." I carried me for days then I lay me down to sleep; when I woke the blue bonnets were standing over me. One said, "He's hurt." Another said, "His clothes are ragged."

SUNDAY'S CURRENT QUESTION

Readers Question Sincerity Of Stalin In Face-To-Face Talks

Do you think an American president should be willing to meet Stalin in any part of the world in the interests of world peace or do you think any such meeting would just be another sham like the Korean peace talks and the Russian behavior in the U. N.? Why do you feel this way?

RAY SIMPLE -- If you never try, you'll never know what can be accomplished. I think it will be a wasted effort. I feel this way due to the past performance of Russian diplomats.

MAJOR SCHROETER -- I think enough invitations have been extended to Stalin for face to face talks about peace and therefore think that no president should extend any further invitations. In fact I think that we should ignore the present Red propaganda and Chameleon peace offers totally and entirely and start bombing supply bases in Manchuria and break off the armistice talks in Korea. That will give Mr. Stalin an opportunity to seek, act or shut-up. If we can deliver the Atom bomb to Russia -- and we can -- I believe a war with the Reds would end in two years, because of internal revolution.

MRS. HOMER BRUMLEY -- I don't think that they would accomplish a thing.

REV. T. E. NEAL -- I think any proposed meeting between our president and Joe Stalin would be courting further insults from Moscow. The year-old peace farce called "Peace-Negotiations" in Korea illustrates what I mean. I think the only language Stalin and his leaders can understand is military might. Having no confidence in his integrity or his sincerity I see no reason for considering for one moment any proposal for any kind of conference with Mr. Stalin by our president. "What communion hath light with darkness?"

ROY FORD -- I think that anything honorable that will bring world peace should be tried. However Stalin hasn't given any indication of wanting world peace. I don't think he wants war however. He wants little fires burning all over the world then he comes in and picks up the remains. Unless he gives some more evidence that he is desirous of world peace such a meeting would be useless.

By Roberta Campbell

To all you folks who have been wonderin if we were goin to have blackeyed peas again this year the answer is yes if the weatherman doesn't interfere. They are already up to a good stand and we will let you know when they are ready to pick.

Of course we have to live but sometimes we think maybe the social side of this venture outweighs the financial side because we have become acquainted with so many friendly people that we might not have ever known otherwise.

We thought we had won a battle when we watered some cotton and got it up to a good stand but now we know we only started on because we got a perfect stand of careless weeds, too.

Everything we are associated with Mrs. Mary Bodkin we appreciate more her ability to enjoy people regardless of age. She has a nice sense of humor that gives her a great deal of pleasure in her greatgrandsons Roy and Larry Pettijohn who are still pre-school age. We don't know of more a congenial family relationship than exists between she and her daughter Mrs. Otto Olson, her granddaughter, Christine Pettijohn and the granddaughter-in-law Fannie Mae who is a part of the family group while Lloyd is in Japan.

The more we try to re-educate our pet lamb we raised on a battle at the house the more we are convinced that environment outweighs heredity.

Although we have been pennin him with the sheep for a week he still isn't convinced he isn't a pup.

The BOOTLEG Philosopher

Editors note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his farm near Bootleg is a little serious this week. It's probably the warmer weather we've been having.

Dear editor:

It's a long way from here at Bootleg to Korea and hasn't anybody asked me for my opinion but it seems to me the fien who have been supervisin the prisoners of war on Koje Island never did get around to learnin a few basic facts about human nature.

The way to run a prisoner of war camp is the same as the way to run your own affairs, your own business, or your own farm, or anthin else. The way to run it is like you think it ought to be run, not like somebody else thinks it ought to be run.

Take a man here at home. If he's always wonderin how the next business step he takes is gonna affect somebody else, he's whipped to start with. The fellow that won't decide how much he ought to donate to the Red Cross or the church or anything else, the one who hedges and tries to find out how much somebody else gave so he can stay in line, ain't near as self-satisfied or respected as the man who makes up his own mind on how much he can give and hauls off and gives it, regardless of what anybody else does, and if he over-shoots or under-shoots his neighbor, it doesn't matter a particle.

Now take those officials in charge of those prisoners of war camps over on Koje. Instead of runnin the things like they ought to run, they been leanin over backwards to run em so they won't offend the enemy, on the theory if they don't please the enemy the latter will take it out on American prisoners of war in their hands.

This is known as baloney. If the Communists want to do anything, they ain't never waited yet for an excuse. If there's anything they're good at, it's manufacturin excuses. We could furnish those prisoners of war with Turkish baths twice a day and air-conditioned loungin rooms and four-bit cigars, and if the Communists wanted to mistreat American prisoners, them cigars and other things wouldn't have any bearin on it.

If the army wants my advice, it's treat the prisoners as well as possible, but forget about what somebody else is gonna think, and keep em in line. I don't reckon you got much circulation in Korea though and I doubt if this reaches em.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

FRIONA -- Wednesday's hot weather pushed the per-family water use of Friona's 458 families to 331 gallons for the day, according to Roy Wilson, city manager.

The high use of water hasn't created a problem for Friona, though, as the city took care of that eventuality two years ago when a new well was put in.

A total of 4,013 gallons of water was pumped on Wednesday, Wilson said.

I asked them where I was. They replied, "Down in beautiful Texas." One of them said, "But you are a stranger here, where is your home?" I told them in the Panhandle of Texas. The blue bonnets and I became good friends. Then one day we were invited to a party. As we entered the spacious living room we were seated near the piano. I heard a soft voice saying, "Hello Bill!" I looked and there on the piano was a beautiful vase. In it was a baby tumbling weed. I nudged the blue bonnets, and said, "We do mix society, don't we?" The party was a success, but I was glad to be along with the blue bonnets again. I woke up one morning very ill. I went for a walk down town, window shopped, started home and was passing a service station, when someone called to me. I looked and to my surprise it was Mr. Hill from Hereford. He said, "My but I am glad to see you, Bill. We thought you were dead. We had not seen or heard from you since thirty-five." I related my story to him. He asked how I would like to have my old job back. I told him I would. He said, "Come along with me then."

I hated to leave the blue bonnets. They had been so wonderful to me but I was home sick and here was my cure. We talked as we drove along. Mr. Hill said, "Bill, you want recognize our town now. It has grown

Streu's Diary

June 20, 1952

DEAR DIARY:

Our sincere congratulations to the Hereford Brand and to its editor, Jimmie Gillentine and the entire Brand staff on their showing in the newspaper competition. We have always felt that the Brand was above the average paper for towns of our size, but had no idea that it was so very good. Of course, the prices Jim charges for advertising, he can afford to hire brainy personnel--especially when he charges for ads his advertisers don't run. But we'll forget all that, and help Jimmie feel proud.

Wish there was some kind of contest in the hardware field whereby a dealer could gain a comparison of his store with those of his competitors. I feel that Streu's would come out fairly well in such competition. I suppose that statement would come under the heading of bragging. But we are proud of our store, our stock, our knowledge of merchandise, and our ability to serve our customers.

Verily, the fishing fever is upon me -- I hate coming to work in the morning -- I look with disfavor upon friends and customers alike -- I fuss at my family -- I bully my employees -- and give traveling salesmen fits. Now, when a man gets in that shape, there are only two alternatives -- either shoot himself or go fishing. While I am sure that some people would favor the first alternative, I believe I had rather go fishing -- and will do so as soon as possible.

Speaking of fishing -- Walter has some new gadgets for fishermen, and has his stock of all kinds of fishing tackle in good shape -- even to trout flies and kindred items.

We are ready for the first good cherry crop in several years -- have on hand a number of cherry stoners. Of course, we have canning supplies such as cold pack canners, pressure cookers, preserving kettles, spoons, colanders, sieves, strainers, funnels, etc. etc.

Our harvest supplies are ready, with tarps, rope, water bags, water kegs, water cans, filler cans, bolts cotten, key stock, and a full line of tools. You can save time by shopping Streu's for your harvest needs.

IDIOTIC OBSERVATION: While Mother's Day gifts (from Streu's) averaged $10 per gift, Father's Day gifts (from Streu's) only averaged $3.79. Must be a reason, but darned if we can see it.

Steel Strike Spurs Munitions Cutbacks

THE steel strike has had a serious effect on the nation's economy. Some plants making war munitions reported curtailments were imminent because of a shortage of steel.

The Government and the CIO United Steelworkers sought to work out a plan, meanwhile, which would start enough steel flowing from the struck mills to prevent a crippling halt in weapons production.

A Cleveland firm reported it was forced to stop making mortar shells because of steel shortages and to lay off 500 employees.

The Oldsmobile division of General Motors planned to shut down its 3.5-inch rocket plant at Lansing, Mich., June 23 because of a shortage of seamless steel tubing.

In Detroit, the Ford Motor Co. also moved toward a shutdown of its rocket production.

Wave of Idleness

New idleness was reported because of the strike.

About 5,300 employees were out in five plants at Worcester, Mass.; about 1,000 opal miners were laid off in northwestern Arkansas and eastern Oklahoma as three big mines supplying coal to steel mills shut down; the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce predicted about 100,000 persons in that area whose work was dependent on steel would be idle if the strike continued much longer.

In Washington, some Senators spoke seriously of hitting the steel industry's profits, its officials' pay checks and its workers' bargaining rights, in a new effort to get the steel strike settled.

The House took up an extension of the Defense Production Act, which provides authority for economic controls, and efforts were made to hook some form of seizure law onto the bill.

Long Island Troubles

In New York there was also trouble on the labor front as 360 members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers struck the Long Island Railroad, causing a monster commuter traffic jam for two days.

The Long Island is the nation's busiest commuter line. Bumper-to-bumper traffic headed into Manhattan and created traffic headaches. In the commuter crush, scant attention was paid to the freight situation on the road. The strike caught some 3,000 empty and loaded freight cars in yards and on tracks of the line.

Chief issues in the dispute were working conditions under a new national wage agreement of last May 23, which neither the brotherhood nor the railroad agreed to. The union also said it had many grievances outside of the agreement. Wages were not an issue.

Medicine

Polio Control Experiment

In a few weeks, a team of scientists will move into some U.S. community where polio has stricken. In careful tests they will try to learn whether a blood substance known as gamma globulin is effective in controlling the disease.

Dr. Henry W. Krumm, of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, emphasizes that no cure has been found, but he says research findings of the past two years have established grounds for hope the malady may eventually be conquered.

Dr. Krumm points to these developments:

1. The finding that there are only three types of human polio virus, in contrast to theories that there might be many more—thus narrowing down the area of attack in seeking preventive vaccine.
  2. The finding that the polio virus can be made to "grow" on tissue other than the nervous system variety—thus expanding possibilities for producing a vaccine.
  3. The discovery that in monkeys and chimpanzees, at least, the polio virus first enters the bloodstream instead of heading directly for nerves, as has been previously believed.
- If that should be true in humans as well, a blood substance known as gamma globulin—if injected at the right time—might act as a preventive against infection by the polio virus.
- The best information now is that the polio virus probably enters the body through the mouth—that is, the polio bug enters the system through eating or drinking.

In Short

Cleared: by the Schuman Plan to unite Western Europe's coal and steel production under international control, its final parliamentary hurdle when the Italian chamber of deputies ratified the 50-year-treaty this week.

France, West Germany, The Netherlands, Belgium, and Luxembourg already have ratified the agreement.

Hazarded: by Gen. Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, that Russia could overrun Europe now if she wanted to, but because she recognizes U.S. superiority in atomic weapons and because she has a wholesome respect for U.S. military capacity, she has not made a military move against Europe.

POLITICS: Citizens for Taft

THE Presidential nomination campaign slumped into something of a lull this week, but the two major contenders for GOP standard bearer kept trying for additional delegates.

In Denver, Dwight Eisenhower invited three western delegations to visit him and talk things over. He met first with the Colorado delegation, which was safely in his camp to begin with. The Utah delegation, committed to vote solidly for Sen. Robert A. Taft, followed and then came delegates from Wyoming.

Hard Work Repaid

An old campaigner, Taft started his try early, announcing his campaign last October. The Ohioan and his staff have worked hard ever since—and no one harder than Taft himself. He has set something of a record for speech-making.

The hard work has paid off for the Taft forces. In this campaign, control of the Republican machinery seems firmly in their hands. The National Committee, which makes initial decisions as to which delegates are to be seated at the National Convention, is strongly pro-Taft. Taft also has a majority in more than 28 of the 53 GOP delegations which will go to Chicago. In addition, a strong Taft supporter, Gen. Douglas MacArthur, has been chosen keynote speaker at the Convention.

What the Taft forces reportedly are driving for is maximum strength on the first ballot. Thomas E. Coleman, the Taft forces' floor manager for the convention, says a first-ballot nomination is "entirely possible."

Two Taft Headquarters

There are two Taft headquarters going full blast. The one in Washington, the political headquarters, is called "The Taft Committee." The other, in New York, is named "Citizens for Taft."

Eisenhower also has headquarters in Washington and New York. A cousin of Taft's, David S. Ingalls, is chairman of the Taft committee in Washington. The New York headquarters is headed by Lt. Gen. Albert Wedemeyer.

Like Taft, his cousin Ingalls is an Ohioan, a lawyer and a Yale man. He has been in politics since the 1920's and helped Taft in his successful campaign for re-election to the Senate in 1950.

Coleman, an industrialist from Madison, Wis., is a key man in the Taft forces. He was Harold E. Stassen's campaign manager in 1948. He is currently in charge of Taft's campaign in the Midwest.

John D. M. Hamilton, former chairman of the Republican National Committee, is another key man in the Taft organization.

CONFIDENT CANDIDATE ... maximum strength on the first ballot.

Predict All-Out Battle

Eisenhower had indicated a reluctance to criticize Taft openly, but the retired general was mad about the Taft camp's tactics in Texas. He is reported to feel that Republicans must recruit voters from the Democratic party as they did in the Texas primary if one-party rule is ever to be ended in the South.

Taft backers generally welcome a genuine knock-down fight with Eisenhower. They believe the Ohioan is more adept at that kind of politics than Eisenhower.

NEHRU KEEPS INDIA ON NEUTRAL PATH

AS LONG as a man called Nehru is in the driver's seat, India is likely to tread the razor edge of neutrality in the East-West struggle.

Jawaharlal Nehru, prime minister of India, has taken pot shots at the United Nations, the Atlantic Pact and Communist imperialism to underline the implacable neutrality of his fledgling republic.

Last year, Nehru strongly opposed a U.S. resolution in the United Nations declaring Red China an aggressor and accused the United States of making serious mistakes in Korea and Asia.

"We Welcome Criticism"

In Washington, where Nehru's request for 2,000,000 tons of U.S. grain was up before Congress, the accusation didn't go over well. Critics denounced the Nehru statement and called India's foreign policy unrealistic and inconsistent—seeking compromise in Korea but stiffly rejecting any compromise of India's interests in Kashmir.

Nehru replied: "We welcome criticism and try to profit by it. We have not allowed this criticism to come in the way of our friendly feelings toward America."

Criticizes Reds

On Kashmir, the disputed princely state bordering Tibet and Red China's remote Sinkiang province over which India and Pakistan have been squabbling for more than three years, Nehru said India never had asked the United Nations to declare Pakistan an aggressor in Kashmir.

Turning to the Communists, Nehru asserts the "continual shouting of 'peace' has become so discordant and so loud that it sometimes sounds more like 'war'."

Nehru's goal, as he states it, is simple enough. "I should like," he says, "the countries of Asia to remain cool and not enter the arena of warfare, whatever happens. India must remain outside any war and restrict the area of warfare should a new conflict break out."

INDIA'S MIDDLE POSITION BETWEEN EAST AND WEST ... the razor edge of neutrality.

Communists Aim for Disunity in Allies

A LATE spring thaw seems to penetrate the Kremlin every year about this time. June is getting to be the traditional time for major shifts in Communist tactics.

It was June, 1950, when the Russians gave the signal that sent North Korean Communists crashing across the 38th Parallel in Korea. It was June, 1951, when Jacob Malik, Soviet delegate to the United Nations Security Council, declared Russia was in favor of an armistice in Korea and started the ball rolling on the truce talkathon.

Capital Scene

Adjournment Hopes

Unfinished business is stacked high, but Senate leaders cling to hopes that Congress will be able to adjourn before next month's political conventions anyway.

Such Senate veterans as McKellar (D-Tenn.) and McCarran (D-Nev.) think it can be done. But a dissent is entered by another old hand at law-making, Sen. George (D-Ga.), who says there is no possibility of getting all the appropriations bills passed in time for Congress to shut up shop before the Republican National Convention opens July 7.

Standing squarely in the way of adjournment are the money bills Congress has to pass to keep the Government going in the new fiscal year starting July 1.

St. Lawrence Project

The Senate continued debate this week on a bill to authorize the St. Lawrence Seaway and Power Project.

The Senate also turned this week to the tidelands oil case, working for enough votes to override President Truman's veto of a bill giving the states clear title to the submerged lands off their coasts.

Social Security Boosted

The House shouted approval of a bill boosting social security benefits by 300 million dollars, then plunged into debate on legislation extending economic controls, already passed by the Senate.

In the debate on extension of economic controls, a recommendation for abolishment of the Wage Stabilization Board was made.

Also ticketed for Senate action before adjournment was a new GI bill of rights for Korean war veterans and International agreements to bring West Germany into the defense setup against Communist aggression.

If Senate leaders intend to make good on their prediction that Congress can adjourn in time for the Chicago conventions, the lawmakers will have a rocky road to travel. All these measures, plus lesser measures will be crowded into the drive for adjournment.

Quotes

Earl Warren, governor of California, and GOP presidential aspirant: "I do not consider a Republican victory next fall as a certainty. Accusations, charges and recriminations between some Taft and Eisenhower supporters can weaken the structure of the party so much that it could lose the presidential election."

Alf M. Landon, 1936 Republican presidential nominee: "The coming national election is the most vitally important that we have ever faced. Today the question is whether the whole world shall become slaves to a ruthless barbaric totalitarian power. The American who shuts his eyes to that imminent danger is a picket asleep at his post."

(All Rights Reserved, AP Newsfeatures)

This June the Russians have come up with a major shakeup in their diplomatic service and coupled this with a new installment of charges that the United Nations in Korea have used germ warfare. In addition, they have suddenly renewed negotiations with the United States aimed at settling old lend lease accounts.

Objective: Discord

Diplomats analyzing the Gromyko appointment as ambassador to London and related Kremlin assignments—including transfer of Ambassador Georgi Zarubin from London to Washington—suggest that the Russians may regard the political situation in England as one of the weakest points of Allied unity and may make a supreme effort to split the United States and Britain.

This situation has been created by the attacks of the Aneurin Bevan faction of the Labor party on the British government's cooperation with the United States in the whole costly business of building up Western defenses and in the conduct of the Korean war.

In New York this week, the Soviet Union decided to air its germ warfare charges in the Security Council after failing to obtain any action in the U.N. Disarmament Commission.

The United States and other U.N. countries have repeatedly denied the germ warfare charges. They welcomed the opportunity to do so before the Security Council.

Critical Issues

While the Security Council was convening in New York, U. S. diplomats were meeting in Washington with British and French representatives to talk about problems dividing the three powers.

Heading the agenda were Korea, Indochina and Germany.

There has been growing criticism in Britain of the way the Korean war has been conducted, and the feeling has been voiced that if Britain had played a larger role it might have been conducted better.

British Defense Minister Lord Alexander, just back from a personal tour of Korea, was expected to take up matters like this with Defense Secretary Robert Lovett and other U. S. officials.

Jean LeTourneau, French minister for relations with the Indochinese states, sought to learn from State and Defense Department officers how much assistance the U. S. would give in case of a massive Chinese Communist attack on Indochina. France already has expressed a desire for increased American help in carrying on its billion-dollar-a-year war in Indochina.

How soon and under what conditions the Western powers should offer to meet with Russia to discuss German issues was one of the thorniest problems facing the West. The Russians have been pressing for talks but the Western powers have taken the position that the Reds must first agree to a nationwide political survey of Germany preparatory to conducting free, all-German elections. Recently, however, there have been indications the French and the British think a meeting of Big Four officials could be held anyway.

Secretary of State Dean Acheson headed meanwhile for London, where he is expected to review the whole range of these problems with the British and French foreign ministers.

Korea

While diplomats talked in Western capitals, the war went on in Korea. At Panmunjom, U. N. truce negotiators once again tired of Communist propaganda barrages and walked out of the armistice negotiations.

Maj. Gen. William K. Harrison, chief U. N. negotiator, made it clear the U. N. proposal for settling the truce blocking issue of prisoner exchange was final.

Sidelights

● In Los Angeles, a 64-year-old woman was awarded a divorce when she told the court her husband, also 64, always had plenty to say when they quarreled but turned off his hearing aid when the time came for her to speak her mind.

● In Northampton, Mass., state police unleashed bloodhounds to find a runaway youth. The dogs made straight from their kennels to a coal bin behind the police barracks to turn up the missing boy.

● In Cairo, Egypt, the birth of Saudi Arabia's 75-year-old King Ibn Saud's 64th child was formally announced this week.

FEDERAL FOOD AND DRUG ADMINISTRATION — IMPOSES — REGULATIONS ON MARKETING OF WHEAT

For the past few years the Food and Drug Administration has been carrying on a sanitation program in the flour mills that does not permit the use of weevil infested wheat to be used in the production of flour.

The Food and Drug Administration is now applying regulations which will insure that only sanitary wheat is sold for human consumption.

Although no definite tolerances for filth in wheat have been given, approximate tolerances have been released and any wheat showing evidence of filth in excess of these quotations will be subject to condemnation for human consumption.

The Approximate
Tolerances Are Shown Here

Penalties are severe if inspectors find Grain to be contaminated for then it may not be sold for human food but must be disposed of for animal feed. Discounts in price in such cases approximate 75 cents to $1.00 per bushel.

- (1.) Wheat can not have more than 3 weevil exit holes in 100 grams of wheat (1/4 pt. wheat or approximately 4200 kernels).
- (2.) Wheat can not have more than an occasional rat or mouse excrement pellet.
- (3.) Wheat can not have but an occasional bird excrement pellet.
- (4.) Wheat can not have any excessive amount of any kind of filth.

THE GRAIN DEALERS OF THIS TERRITORY

urge the cooperation of the Wheat Farmers in meeting these regulations.

Remember that wheat with a high moisture content is an invitation to weevil infestation, heat damage and musty wheat.

WHEAT HARVESTED SHOULD TEST 13% MOISTURE
OR LESS FOR SAFE KEEPING

These Regulations Apply To FARM STORED GRAIN Also,

Your Grain Dealers cannot accept grain if it does not conform to the requirements necessary to be fit for human consumption. In order to avoid severe penalties for contaminated grain, all farm storage bins must be made bird-proof and rodent-proof. Bins should be cleaned and treated for weevil infestation before grain is stored. Where grain cannot be turned it should not be stored when the moisture content is in excess of 12%.

Beauty at Home
By Lynn Carter

Q. How can eyebrow pencil be used to make the eyes appear larger?
A. At the outer tips of the eyes extend the line of the upper lid slightly toward the temple with your brow pencil, blend the color slightly into the skin.
Q. The skin and muscles of my arms seem somewhat flabby. How can I exercise to develop and tone them?
A. Clench the fists and bring them to the shoulders. Then thrust them out, forward, upward and sideward. Repeat at least 10 times vigorously. Rest, then repeat again.
Q. What is a good emergency treatment for a persistently shiny nose?
A. Try blotting up the shine with a piece of cotton squeezed out in cold water.
Q. What is a recommended lip-sticking technique?
A. Be sure your lips are dry. Make up each lip separately. Never make up the upper lip and then press the lips together to rouge the lower. Rather, use two strokes, beginning at the center, to outline the upper lip, and one long stroke to outline the lower lip. For a more finished look, add up-and-down strokes with grain of the lip. Then set your lipstick by blotting it with soft tissue.
Q. Do you advise the use of cream rouge on an oily type of skin?
A. It is better not. Use the dry compact rouge. Apply it after the face powder rather than before. Then blend on a little more powder over the rouge.
Q. How can I soften and add gloss to my dry hair?
A. A half cup of vinegar added to the last rinsing water, when shampooing, will do this.
Q. How can the girl with a very long face make up to minimize this?
A. She can apply darker foundation along the jawline to minicheekbones, to cut length of face. Break face still more by widening the eyebrows in a round line, instead of a high arch. Shape the lipstick in a full wide line, instead of a thin, narrow one.

Q. What can I do to combat the dryness of my skin?
A. You can give it vigorous massages, and this can be done better if the skin is lubricated with oil or cream, and once either is removed and the skin washed, the skin may be further invigorated with hot and cold rinsings. Dry face by brisk hand patting.
Q. What is a remedy for freely perspiring hands?
A. Wash your palms in cool water and put in a drop or two of good quality witch hazel into the palms.

A LITTLE, RUSTY... ENOUGH TO KNOW THAT HE ISN'T DOING THAT RADIO ANY GOOD.

HEY, TEX... WHEN WE WENT UP TO THE RADIO SHACK TO SEE IF THERE WAS ANY NEWS ABOUT BAD WEATHER, WE SAW THAT MAN, BLACKIE KIRK, SNEAKING IN THERE! WE WATCHED THROUGH THE WINDOW...

THE RADIO MAN WASN'T THERE, AND KIRK STARTED TO PULL OUT TUBES AND DISCONNECT WIRES!
