Chill supper scheduled

The local American Red Cross chapter has scheduled its annual chili supper from 5 to 7 p.m. Saturday at the Hereford Community Center.

Highlighting the event will be the naming of "Volunteers of the Year" at 6 p.m. Entertainment will be provided by Frances Parker pianist.

The public is invited to enjoy a meal of chili, beans and dessert. Tickets may be purchased at the door for $2.75 per person. Proceeds are to be used for disaster relief.

Bank wins some relief

Hereford State Bank won at least some temporary relief last week from a grand jury subpoena for financial transactions of several people and firms involved in the investigation of the district attorney's office.

Pat Boone, 154th District judge, modified the subpoena during a hearing last Friday, ordering that the "execution of the subpoena be abated until such time that funds are made available to pay the reasonable costs incurred by the bank."

The judge also ordered the deletion of several words in the terminology of records to be produced. He said the words "but not limited to" should be stricken from the subpoena, thus making the description more specific.

"We are perfectly willing to produce specific copies of transactions ordered by the court," said Craig Smith, bank president. "But producing three years of transactions on several accounts from our original microfilm seems impractical and inappropriate."

Smith said the time and cost would be meaningful, not to mention the question of privacy of other accounts on the microfilm. Should the bank turn over the film, Smith said it would also be in the position of losing access to data which other customers might need, especially with tax time approaching.

It was reported Tuesday that the judge denied the motion to quash the subpoenas, but the modification ruling was not explained in the Brand article.

Devers to participate

Bill Devers, conductor of Hereford Chamber Singers, is one of eight choir leaders in the Panhandle slated to be part of a male chorus festival, which starts at 8 p.m. Saturday.

Luboff is one of four visiting professors in literature and conducting of choral music at WTSU made possible with grants supplied by the Meadows Foundation of Dallas. His visit was to have begun Wednesday.

Saturday's concert program is to include "Salve Regina" by Kaj-Erik Gustafsson, "Brothers, Sing On" by Grieg-McKinney, "Feasting I Watch" by Edward Elgar, "Tanz Chor" by Max Reger, "Kantate" by Franz Schubert and three offerings by Hugo Alfvén. There is to be no admission charge.

American woman shot in El Salvador

By ISAAC A. LEVI
Associated Press Writer

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — An American woman was shot to death, probably by leftist rebels, as she was riding with her husband and children on a highway in eastern El Salvador, a U.S. Embassy spokesman says.

The Americans were heading east on the Pan-American Highway toward the Honduran border early Thursday when rebels

Highway murder probably done by leftist rebels ordered them to stop, according to the spokesman, Gregory Lagana.

The woman's husband kept driving and "several shots were fired from the surrounding hills," Lagana said. One of the shots struck the victim on the right side of her chest, he said.

The family was traveling with a Salvadoran customs agent, Lagana said. The family's destination was Costa Rica where "apparently they were going to live," he said.

He said the other people in the vehicle were not hurt. Lagana said he was "pretty sure" leftist rebels killed the woman, whom he identified as Linda Louise Cancel, 23, of Culver City, Calif.

The rebels have been waging a civil war against the U.S.-backed government for four years.

The embassy spokesman identified the border guard as Modesto Perdomo Osorio, and said the agent had accompanied the family since they crossed the border from Guatemala on Wednesday.

Lagana said Ms. Cancel was riding with her common-law husband, Curtis Hendersen Lewenz, 35, and two children — Lila Reveti Cancel Lewenz, the 18-month-old child of Ms. Cancel and Lewenz, and Christopher Len MacDonal, Ms. Cancel's 5-year-old child by a former marriage.

The family was traveling with many of their belongings in a converted schoolbus with Alabama license plates, Lagana said.

Lagana said travelers may hire a customs officer to accompany them for a $20 fee so they will not have to make complete inventories at the border with Honduras.

Two U.S. consular officers flew by helicopter to give assistance when the embassy heard of the incident and brought the body and the family back to San Salvador.

He said Ms. Cancel's body will be sent back to the United States, probably today.

Lagana said that since last year the State Department has been warning Americans it is dangerous to travel in El Salvador, especially in eastern regions where guerrillas have strongholds.

The embassy quoted witnesses interviewed by the consular officers as saying the family and the Salvadoran guard were traveling along the road "when a yellow Toyota vehicle pulled up from behind and the occupants signalled to the family to stop."

Lagana said, "The guard told Mr. Lewenz he should stop but apparently he decided to keep on going until they arrived at a spot where two men — both armed — were standing by the side of the road."

"By then the traffic was slowed down and some vehicles were pulling off to one side of the road. But Lewenz kept on going and sped up. The guard did not speak English and I do not know if Lewenz understood Spanish well.

"But that is when ...

several shots were fired from the surrounding hills, one of them hitting" Ms. Cancel on the right side, Lagana said.

Lagana said Ms. Cancel died soon after she was hit and Lewenz kept driving 23 miles to El Amatillo, on the Honduran border.

The first report of Ms. Cancel's death came from the Rev. Jose Luis Calderon, a Roman Catholic priest at Santa Rosa de Lima, who said he gave her last rites at El Amatillo. The priest said the shooting occurred between El Divisadero and Santa Rosa de Lima, 127 miles east of San Salvador.

The priest, speaking in a telephone interview from Santa Rosa de Lima, said he saw the body of a Salvadoran but did not give other details.

The family was attacked "apparently by terrorists," the priest said. "That is what they (the customs officials) told us" He said the woman was dead when he arrived.

Realtor files for commission post

Adopting a campaign pledge of "Progress Through Sound Leadership," local realtor B. Lynn Jones has filed for the Precinct 3 post of Deaf Smith County Commissioner being vacated by Bruce Coleman.

He plans to run as a Democrat in the May 5 primary elections.

Jones, 46, moved to Hereford in 1948 and has lived in Precinct 3 the past eight years. He owns Century 21 Jones Realty as well as B.L. Jones General Contracting.

A veteran of the U.S. Army, Jones studied at Texas Tech, Amarillo College and Southern Colorado State in the fields of business and finance. He was employed for nine years by General Motors acceptance Corporation in Colorado as a credit supervisor before returning to Hereford in 1972.

A broker with the Hereford Board of Realtors the past six years, he is also a member of the National Association of Realtors and the Texas Association of Realtors. A member of the First Christian Church, Elaine is office manager of the Century 21 business.

"My comprehensive experience in business and community affairs, together with my familiarity with the entire county, and a keen interest in local, state and national government," he said Thursday, "will enable me to provide sound leadership for the county residents in Precinct 3.

"All segments of the precinct will be represented fairly," he continued. A good working relationship with county employees is high on my list of priorities, as are prudent decisions on how to spend tax dollars. I will be more concerned with long-range solutions rather than stop-gap measures. Kiwanis head gives hand

"I have the time of my life when I come to Hereford," the president of Kiwanis International told the local Kiwanis Club Thursday.

Aubrey Irby of Tyler was in Hereford to help organize a new club at the Hereford Senior Citizens Center and address a noon gathering that was attended by Kiwanis members from Canyon, Amarillo, Dimmitt and Tulia. Local members and visitors were also there.

Other club leaders who spoke briefly included Bud Eades of Hereford, lieutenant governor of Division 33; Lt. Gov.-elect Sam Reeves of Amarillo; District Governor Marvin Sapaugh of Clyde; and Past Governor Dean Herring of Hereford.

"Tremendous things are happening in the Kiwanis organization," Irby told the large Thursday gathering. "We can do a lot of good under the banner of Kiwanis."

On Thursday morning the Golden Kiwanis Club of Hereford was organized at the HSCC with 26 men signing up. Irby said he asked Noon Kiwanis Club member I.M. Atkins to serve as president of the new club, should the members elect him.

"Seek the Widening Path" is the Kiwanis International motto this year, and Irby challenged members to "aggressively go out and serve in a better way than before."

"Too seldom do we seek out greater avenues of service," Irby pointed out. "Our major emphasis is to enrich the world of the handicapped. One of the greatest joys of my year so far has been to serve food at an adult rehabilitation center in Detroit."

Special entertainment was provided by Johnny Ray Watson, a local gospel singer and Kiwanis member who is moving to Austin this weekend.

Presidential Talk

A visit to Hereford included addressing a larger-than-usual gathering of Kiwanis members at a noon luncheon and business meeting for Kiwanis International President Aubrey Irby of Tyler. He was also in town to organize a new Kiwanis organization at the Hereford Senior Citizens Center.

In top of drug vial

Doctor says nurse could not explain holes

GEORGETOWN, Texas (AP) — Dr. Kathleen Holland says nurse Genevieve Jones ran out of explanations when the doctor found two holes in a vial of the drug allegedly by the nurse to kill a baby.

The Kerrville pediatrician told jurors Thursday that her nurse was "cooly defensive" when confronted with the holes in the bottle's stopper.

The nurse wanted to throw the bottle away, the doctor testified. By that time, 10 days after the Sept. 17, 1982, death of 15-month-old Chelsea McClellan, the Kerrville medical community was asking questions.

intensive care. No major problems were discovered. "I was confused," the doctor recalled. "I had a history of a child who had a history of stopping breathing and who had a seizure in my office. The tests and what had happened didn't fit together."

Prior to Chelsea's next visit, Ms. Jones ordered drugs for the office — including Anectine, a brand-name version of the muscle relaxant she is accused of using to kill the girl.

The symptoms were similar to the Aug. 24 reaction. Medical experts have testified here that the symptoms also were similar to those caused by Anectine.

"When she left Sid Peterson Hospital she looked quite stable, very pink. I felt very comfortable," she testified. Chelsea suffered cardiac arrest on the way to San Antonio. She died in a Comfort hospital.

A week later, Kerrville hospital officials began asking questions. Ms. Jones asked her boss what was going on. The doctor said she told her that Dr. Duan Packard, the hospital's chief of staff, "was concerned with my approach to pediatrics and treatment choices."

Two days later, Ms. Jones told the doctor she found the missing Anectine. Ms. Holland said Ms. Jones said: "There's only one problem. The cap has been popped. But I've checked it and it's all there. There are no holes in the stopper."

Ann Landers

Renting room from ex

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I need an unbiased opinion from someone who doesn't know my wife or me personally.

"Nellie" and I were married 30 days after her divorce last May. Our marriage seemed to be made in heaven for the first couple of months. But then we began to have arguments over little things. Soon we were arguing about big things. After awhile it seemed like we were arguing about everything.

Last week I came home and found a note from Nellie saying she was renting a room in her ex-husband's apartment for a few weeks until she can get her head together.

I was plenty steamed and phoned her right away. Nellie insisted that we needed some space between us. Also, she said her ex was gone a lot and she saw very little of him.

"The rent is cheap here," she explained, "and I need to live away for a few months while we go for joint counseling."

I don't have enough paper to give you all my thoughts on this subject, but for openers I don't like Nellie in that guy's apartment. She says I don't trust her and a marriage without trust is doomed to fail.

Am I unreasonable to insist that my wife get out of there pronto?—Roger in Carbon-dale, Ill.

DEAR CARBONDALE: Nellie should haul her carcass out of her ex-husband's apartment immediately. She doesn't belong there.

Are there any relatives she can live with temporarily? If not, she should consult the classified section of your newspaper and find a room. Good luck with the joint counseling. It's a splendid idea, provided both of you are determined to make your marriage work.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I married young and had three children within five years. They are terrific teenagers and we are proud of them.

When our kids were toddlers, my husband's brother married. He and his wife felt sorry for us—tied down and short of money because of the kids. They loved to travel and said we were chumps to have chosen family life.

Starting four years ago, with both in their late 30s, they changed their minds—and had two kids. You'd think they invented parenthood.

When ours were growing up, they were never invited over and we were treated like strangers. Now we are bombarded with invitations to Easter egg hunts, nursery school affairs, birthday parties, tiny-tot soccer games—you name it. Our kids played soccer for eight years and nobody ever showed up but us.

How do we handle this? They really are persistent.—St. Louis Gargoyles

DEAR S.L. — If you have no interest, stay home. You owe them zip.

If you feel you're drinking less these days, maybe it's because the local spa is using thicker shot glasses.

Jody Blackwell gives program

Jody Blackwell presented a program entitled "Personal Inward Beauty, Not Physical" when members of Xi Epsilon Alpha Sorority met recently in the home of Ms. Blackwell.

During the business session, minutes were read and approved and it was announced that Brenda Thomas will serve as recording secretary in the absence of Oleta Tisdale.

Members decided to support Myasthenia Gravis, Erythematous Lupus and Stanford Kidney Research Foundation in the International Endowment Fund.

Thank you's to secret sisters were received from Suzanne Rose and Illajean Brinkman. Appreciation was also expressed to Ms. Blackwell for serving as hostess. Congratulations were extended to Debbie Walker for her American Certification.

Ms. Walker stated that the entry forms for the volleyball tournament were in the mail. A discussion as to whether to award teeshirts or badges was held.

President Illajean Brinkman welcomed guest, Carol Kelly, a possible transferee from McAllen and the social committee reported that Ms. Waddell would check on the Cowgirl Hall of Fame for a social and possibly the dinner theatre.

Suzanne Rose reported that the next meeting would be held at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 7 in the Southwestern Public Service Reddy Room with Sharon Bodner giving the program and Phyllis Neill and Ms. Blackwell serving as hostesses.

The Valentine Dance was scheduled from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m. Feb. 11 with refreshments being served at 8 p.m. and the Sweetheart Tea will be held from 2:30 to 4 p.m. Jan. 29 in the First Baptist Church parlor. Money for the dance will need to be turned in by Feb. 7 and the chapter will be responsible for the relish trays.

Hostesses for this meeting included Ms. Waddell and Ms. Rose.

Those present included Mmes. Waddell, Gauthreaux, Walker, Brinkman, Neill, Blackwell, Bodner, and Brenda Thomas, Carol Kelly, Opal Glenn and Linda Brown.

Double Winners

La Plata Junior High's eighth-grade basketball team shows off its first-place trophy it received for winning the Canyon Tournament Thursday. The championship game was a make-up contest because bad weather postponed the Canyon finals two weeks ago. Coach Mike Field's squad also won the Hereford tournament in December.

La Plata eighth graders win tournament and district game

La Plata's eighth grade boys basketball team doubled its pleasure with a 61-44 win over Plainview Red Thursday.

The game counted as a district game and as the championship finals for the Canyon Tournament. The final game of the Canyon Tournament was postponed due to inclement weather conditions two weeks ago.

So La Plata and Plainview's coaches decided to save a trip to Canyon and have the championship decided when La Plata hosted Plainview as part of a regular district game. "The kids played the best game of the year," an excited coach Mike Fields said after the victory. "We had people coming off the bench to do a good job when we got into foul trouble."

La Plata started the championship game quickly and never trailed in the contest. Trent Bowling opened with a bucket, Kevin Hanson hit one of two free throws, Bowling added another basket, and then Derral Page hit, and the Mavericks were up 7-0, and never to be caught. The Bull Pups fought back to trail by just three at halftime, 25-22.

But the Mavericks began blasting the offensive boards in the second half. They stretched their lead to 14 points late in the fourth period when Raymond Romo converted a steal for a bucket to make the score 43-29 going into the final stanza.

Plainview gave up the ball on steals throughout the fourth period and the game concluded, 61-44.

Leading scorers for La Plata were Bowling with 16 points, Romo threw in 10, Page had nine and Hanson netted eight points.

The win lifts the eighth-grade season record to 10-3, and the boys are 5-3 in the district.

The Mavericks' seventh-grade A team lost its match against Plainview, 32-26. Jason Scott led La Plata scorers with seven points. The seventh-grade record stands at 3-5 in the district and 6-9 overall.

The shortest reign of any major boxing champion lasted 33 days. Tony Canzoneri held the world junior welterweight title from May 21 to June 23, 1933.

Grimsley's Sports World's last column

Grimsley throws in the towel after 41 years

EDITOR'S NOTE: Will Grimsley is retiring after a half-century of covering the biggest stories in sports, the last 41 years with The Associated Press. This is the final edition of his column, Grimsley's Sports World.

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
They say that sometimes just before a man dies, his whole life flashes before his eyes.

This old horse ain't ready to check it in just yet, but his vehicle is — this word-worn conveyance of fractured prose, dangling participles and split infinitives. It's back to the barn, with an occasional romp on the open road.

How do you squeeze into one column 50 years of memories — 32 World Series, XV Super ovals, 13 Olympics, 25 Kentucky Derbies, as many Wimbledon and Masters and almost as many Indy 500s, plus ring wars from Joe Louis to Smokin' Joe's kid, Marvis, golf from Bob Jones to Jack Nicklaus and tennis from Big Bill Tilden to John McEnroe?

Well, if they can engrave the Lord's Prayer on the head of a pin, we can try.

Who could forget the great Babe Ruth holding up an exhibition game to answer a lot of stupid questions by a fuzz-faced rookie reporter in 1935? "Who's your favorite actress?" "What's your favorite cereal?" "Hobby?" The answers were Janet Gaynor, Post Toasties and fishing and hunting.

Or crusty old Joe McCarthy, the Yankee manager, at the same time telling the reporter: "You don't know much about baseball, do you, kid? Have a seat. Get out your pencil. I'll ask and answer the questions."

Later, watching the great Babe Didrikson Zaharias, the world's greatest woman athlete of all time, wan and drawn from terminal cancer, winning her third U.S. Open golf championship in 1954, paving the way for such later stars as Billie Jean King, Janet Guthrie, Peggy Fleming and Chris Evert Lloyd. The Babe died shortly afterward.

Then, there's the end of the greatest winning streak in golf history — in Memphis, fall of 1945, Lord Byron Nelson, beaten out by an amateur, Fred Haas, after 19 tour victories, 11 in a row, with the lowest scoring average ever. Highly nervous, he lost his lunch before the final round.

Jackie Robinson, standing in the catacombs of Cincinnati's Riverfront Stadium during the 1972 World Series, being asked for an autograph by a wide-eyed tyke. "Son, I can't even see the ball," the half-blind former Dodger replied, but he laboriously scrawled his name anyway. It was his last public appearance. A couple of weeks later he died. Sports' Martin Luther King. He broke the racial barrier.

The Soviet Union's first Olympics at Helsinki, 1952. Americans were dazed when the hammer-and-sickle Soviet rowers invited their Yankee counterparts behind the Iron Curtain to their quarters for lunch. It unfroze the cold war.

Oct. 8, 1956. Don Larsen of the Yankees hurls the first perfect game in World Series history. It looked so easy, it tended to boredom. Some people got up and left the stadium before it ended. The tragedy of Bobby Jones. He had conquered the golf world by the time he was 28. He originated and hosted the Masters before a lingering illness took its toll. He set a gentlemanly standard for the game.

Dwight Eisenhower, the general who helped save democracy and later was president, playing a golf exhibition in Merion, Pa., for the Blood Fund. "Where can I get some practice balls?" a flustered Ike asked. Nobody heard. Everybody was over at another area watching Arnold Palmer.

The black power salute by medalists John Carlos and Tommie Smith in the 1968 Olympics in Mexico City, followed by a threatened walkout of black athletes — their way of marching on Montgomery. America's greatest Olympian, the late Jesse Owens, who had been spurned by Hitler after winning four gold medals in the 1936 Olympics, cooled the passions.

A black man himself, a great patriot, Owens scoffed at the suggestion that nationalism should be erased from the Games. "You might as well hold the Olympics in somebody's backyard," he said.

The Munich horror of 1972 — a 24-hour vigil while world leaders sought to compromise with terrorists who invaded the Olympic Village. Hope exploded in a burst of rifle fire and exploding grenades that left 11 Israelis and the five terrorists dead. The event emphasized the Olympics as a political and ideological battleground.

Citation's 32-length triumph in the Belmont in 1948 to complete horse racing's Triple Crown. We sneaked a look over the shoulder of a famed writer who froze with these words in the typewriter: "Citation, by Fantasy out of All-Reason..." "Reggie! Reggie! Reggie!" A yell for each home run by Reggie Jackson in the final game of the 1977

World Series, won by the Yankees over the Dodgers. Never a more electrifying moment.

If there was one, it was the "Thrilla in Manila," the knockdown, dragout war between Muhammad Ali and Smokin' Joe Frazier, maybe the greatest heavyweight fight of all time. "It felt like death," said Ali, the winner. It was the greatest moment for both. Both should have quit there.

Sports are a microcosm of society — big business, hype, kids' games, good guys, bad guys, the misfits and the born-again with a wide range between. As a group, tennis players are the most spoiled (except the Aussies), golfers the classiest, superb role models in Palmer, Nicklaus and Watson.

Overall, the men and women who perform in the nation's play pen are a marvelous breed, honed by disappointment, disillusionment and discipline.

They've given us a lot of excitement, some laughter and anguish. We wouldn't have swapped this life for the world.

May be a deduction

Rules on home offices are stricter

By Robert Metz
(11th of 14 articles)

Many taxpayers may have overlooked a major tax deduction that has arrived unexpectedly on the keyboard of a personal computer. Lots of people are now earning income at home on personal computers and this may lead to a deduction for a home office.

This is not an automatic means to tax savings. The deduction itself is carefully limited to rule out, for example, individuals who work at home for their own personal convenience and in doing so shun space set aside for them at the offices where they are employed.

To prevent a major revenue drain, the Internal Revenue Service has limited the home office deduction to employees who have no such choice. In many other respects, home office rules are now stricter than they've been since the deduction was first allowed.

Even so, many individuals who are unable to go to an office are finding that they can continue their employment, connected to their jobs through the umbilical cord of a personal computer. And when they do meet the strict rules for home offices, they win their deduction.

Here's an example of a legitimate home office deduction that works with or without a computer link. Let's say a taxpayer left to have a baby. With a baby at home, she can no longer commute to work.

Let's say that through direct employment or through a free-lance arrangement she does, say, secretarial work with or without a computer. If she sets aside space for this work, she'll probably be able to qualify for a deduction for her home office.

There are, of course, numerous other home office examples. And they'll no doubt proliferate as computer use becomes more widespread.

Jack Nilles, of the University of Southern California, is also an author. He monitors computer trends. By 1990, he believes several million computer users will be working at least part of the time at home.

Just remember that if you use space in your home as an off-premises employee or as a free-lancer, you should check the rules to see if you can qualify. Once again, the computer is not the only route to a deduction for a home office. Here, then, are the rules.

If you use part of your home regularly and exclusively for business purposes, you can probably deduct a part of the operating and depreciation expenses incurred in running your home. To qualify a part of your home it must either be your principal place of any business, or it must be used by patients, clients or customers who meet with you in the normal course of your trade or business.

Remember the caveat: The IRS says that if the regular and exclusive business use is for your work as an employee, use must be for the convenience of your employer and not simply helpful in your job.

TAX TIP: Recently, the IRS relaxed its strict rule that the office area must be a separate room or a divided area of a room. Although the IRS will look very closely at this, you may now claim a deduction for an undivided area of a room. The space must, however, be used solely for business purposes; you may not claim your den if you use it both for work and more general personal use.

TAX TIP: A taxpayer can have more than one principal place of business. Thus, an employed taxpayer who also operates a free-lance business at home may be able to qualify for home office deductions.

TAX TRAP: If you do deduct expenses for a home office, you will come under special rules when you sell your home. If you defer the capital gains tax on your profit by replacing your home with one of equal or greater value, you must reduce your capital gains exclusion by that portion of the home claimed as office. This could be substantial.

TAX TIP: If you have a home office that you use for a free-lance business, you may want to lease a computer instead of buying one outright. Assuming that you use the computer exclusively for your business in the home, the full lease expense would be deductible.

TAX TIP: Those who buy computers outright should be aware that they change with breathtaking rapidity. Even so, most microcomputers are subject to depreciation over five years, under the asset cost recovery system. Those who own such computers can take a 15 percent write-off the first year — even if you received the computer for Christmas. In the second year the depreciation rate is 22 percent and in the third, fourth and fifth years, the rate is 21 percent. The taxpayer can also use a 10 percent investment tax credit but this will reduce his depreciation base by as much as 5 percent.

WOMAN IS MAN'S CROWN OF GLORY

I am so glad, dear brothers, that you have been remembering and doing everything I taught you.

But there is one matter I want to remind you about: that a wife is responsible to her husband, her husband is responsible to Christ, and Christ is responsible to God.

That is why, if a man refuses to remove his hat while praying or preaching, he dishonors Christ.

And that is why a woman who publicly prays or prophesies without a covering on her head dishonors her husband [for her covering is a sign of her subjection to him].

Yes, if she refuses to wear a head covering, then she should cut off all her hair. And if it is shameful for a woman to have her head shaved, then she should wear a covering.

But a man should not wear anything on his head [when worshipping, for his hat is a sign of subjection to men]. God's glory is man made in His image, and man's glory is the woman.

The first man didn't come from woman, but the first woman came out of man.

And Adam, the first man, was not made for Eve's benefit, but Eve was made for Adam.

So a woman should wear a covering on her head as a sign that she is under man's authority, a fact for all the angels to notice and rejoice in.

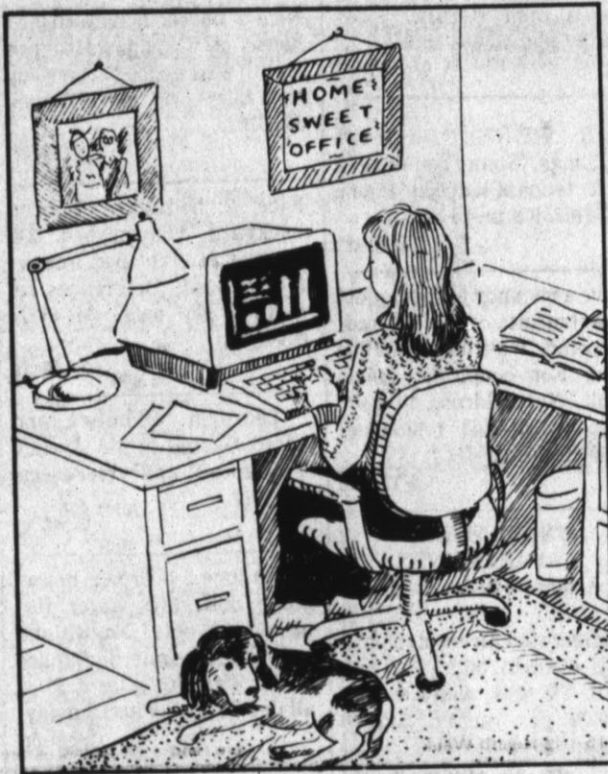

But remember that in God's plan men and women need each other.

For although the first woman came out of man, all men have been born from women ever since, and both men and women come from God their Creator. What do you yourselves really think about this? Is it right for a woman to pray in public without covering her head?

Doesn't even instinct itself teach us that women's heads should be covered? For women are proud of their long hair, while a man with long hair tends to be ashamed.

But if anyone wants to argue about this, all I can say is that we never teach anything else than this — that a woman should wear a covering when prophesying or praying publicly in the church, and all the churches feel the same way about it.

Bulgarian history

Bulgaria was settled by Slavs in the sixth century. Turkic Bulgars arrived in the seventh century, merged with the Slavs, became Christians by the ninth century and set up powerful empires in the 10th and 12th centuries. The Ottomans prevailed in 1336 and remained for 500 years.

Our theater critic, ordered to cover a play that's sure to close on opening night, says he's a member of the "bomb" squad.

South of the Border

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A Mexican customs official in Ciudad Juarez says he does not have the facilities to check metal imported from the United States for radioactivity, the newspaper Excelsior reported Wednesday.

Radioactivity in Mexican construction steel turned back at El Paso, Texas, has been traced to scrap metal from a junkyard in Ciudad Juarez, across the border from El Paso.

Raul Ortiz, in charge of radiation security for the Mexico's National Nuclear Commission, said the Fenix Junkyard on the outskirts of Ciudad Juarez was closed, Excelsior said. It also quoted him as saying that investigators will check other scrapyards for radioactive material.

Sergio Trujillo, manager of the Aceros de Chihuahua steel mill, said the scrap metal came from the United States. Cobalt 60, the radioactive material detected, is not used in Mexico because of its high cost, he said.

Ricardo Rosaldo, local customs administrator, said he had neither the trained staff nor the equipment to detect radioactivity in metal imported from the United States, Excelsior said.

Five truckloads of contaminated construction steel were stopped at El Paso and sent back to Mexico last week. Officials in New Mexico and Arizona were continuing a search for the contaminated steel and feared some may have been used in buildings.

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Zoo veterinarians have confirmed the sex of a panda born six months ago, zoo administrator Maria Elena de Hoyo said Tuesday. The panda baby is a boy, she said.

The panda's sexual identity was confirmed by wary veterinarians after an inspection Monday, Ms. de Hoyo told reporters.

He was born last June 22, the third offspring of Ying Ying and Pe-Pe, two nine-year-old pandas donated by the Chinese government to Mexico in 1976.

Ms. de Hoyo said it is difficult to identify the sex of pandas until long after birth. Zoo veterinarians falsely identified the baby's sister, Tohui, when she was born on July 21, 1981. A year later, red-faced zoo officials admitted she was a female.

Ms. de Hoyo Tuesday said the public would be allowed to view the infant panda at the Chapultepec Zoo later this week. Veterinarians ordered him into isolation a month ago after he began to show strains under the constant ogling of Christmas vacation zoo visitors.

Tohui was the first panda born in captivity outside

China to survive.

Ying Ying and Pe-Pe had their first offspring in 1980, but Ying Ying accidentally crushed it eight days after it was born.

The new baby, which is still unnamed because its sex was not known, now weighs 44 pounds and is three feet long, Ms. de Hoyo said.

Between airline, pilots

Talks break off

HOUSTON (AP) — Continental Airlines made striking pilots a "definitive" contract offer but walked away from the bargaining table for a second time in two months after the union demanded that pilots who were hired during the walkout be replaced by strikers, officials say.

A federal bankruptcy judge had ordered representatives of the Air Line Pilots Association and the carrier to try to end the strike by Jan. 30, the date set aside to hear arguments on Continental's motion to reject labor contracts.

The two groups met for two hours in Los Angeles on Thursday before negotiations broke down. Contract talks ended abruptly last month over the same issue.

"Although we cannot and will not agree to a contract that would displace working pilots, we had hoped that the innovative methods we suggested to bring back striking pilots would help break the impasse that caused this breakdown in negotiations," Continental Chairman Frank Lorenzo said in the release.

ALPA members were unavailable for comments and failed to return telephone calls Thursday night.

Meanwhile, negotiations between Continental and the striking Union of Flight Attendants continued in Houston.

Pilots and flight attendants walked off their jobs Oct. 1 after Continental filed for protection from creditors under federal bankruptcy laws, then slashed its route structure, laid off many employees and cut pay sharply for workers kept on the job.

Strikers claimed the carrier, once the nation's eighth largest, was trying to void union contracts by claiming it was going broke. U.S. Bankruptcy Judge R.F. Wheelock of Houston disagreed, ruling last week that the company officials had no choice but to file for Chapter 11 protection in order to keep its planes in the air.

According to the release, Continental presented ALPA with a "definitive contract proposal," as ordered by Wheelock, during a two-hour session and recommended "a number of innovative methods" to get striking pilots back to work without displacing any employees hired during the strike.

The proposal included work-sharing programs, part-time employment, liberal policy that would allow pilots who do not need to work to take extended leaves of absence and the creation of a fund for extra jobs by allocating money that otherwise would be spent on legal fees, the release said.

The company said the pilots' back-to-work demand for replacing current pilots would violate a U.S. Supreme Court decision, as well as re-furlough many pilots who had returned to active duty and demote all pilots who had been promoted during the strike.

"Continental Airlines has a duty to try and balance our moral obligation to the active pilots who have helped steer this company on the road to recovery with our obligation to try to reach an agreement that would facilitate a return to work for those pilots who have been on strike for 120 days," Lorenzo said.

Today in History

Today is Friday, Jan. 27, the 27th day of 1984. There are 339 days left in the year.
Today's highlight in history:

On Jan. 27, 1973, the Vietnam peace accords were signed in Paris, bringing to an end the longest foreign war in U.S. history.

On this date:
In 1756, composer Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart was born in Salzburg, Austria.

In 1880, Thomas Edison received a patent for his electric incandescent light.

In 1944, the siege of Leningrad by the Nazis was ended.

And in 1967, astronauts Gus Grissom, Edward White and Roger Chaffee were killed in a flash fire aboard their Apollo I spacecraft at Cape Kennedy.

Ten years ago: U.S. Sen. Henry Jackson said gasoline rationing probably would be necessary between April and June unless the Arab oil embargo was lifted.

Five years ago: Ayatollah Khomeini, in exile in France, indicated he was ready to open negotiations with Iranian Prime Minister Shahpour Bakhtiar on settling Iran's political crisis.

One year ago: General Motors announced it was calling back more than 21,000 laid-off workers and reopening a plant in Framingham, Mass.

Today's birthdays: Retired Adm. Hyman Rickover is 84 years old. Publisher William Randolph Hearst Jr. is 76. Orchestra leader Skitch Henderson is 66. And actress Donna Reed is 63.

Thought for today: "My experience in government is that when things are non-controversial and beautifully coordinated, there is not much going on." — President John F. Kennedy (1917-1963).

YOU LIVE YOUR FAITH WHEN YOU SHARE WITH OTHERS

There is no greater expression of faith than the translation of it into good deeds; the sharing of our blessings with those less fortunate than ourselves. However, the concept of sharing goes far beyond the mere distribution of our material wealth to the poor; it also includes the gift of your time, patience, understanding and friendship. Visit the old and the sick; talk to them, read to them, run errands for them, give a ride to someone who is in need of it. Remember that the finest gift of all is that of yourself, given quietly and without fanfare; and you will be the better for it. Learn more about the true spirit of giving by attending your Church.

"He that hath pity upon the poor lendeth unto the Lord; and that which he hath given will he pay him again."

— Proverbs 19:17

Those who bring sunshine to the lives of others cannot keep it from themselves.

— Sir James Matthew Barrie
