Clinton backers: no worries

AUSTIN (AP) - Controversy surrounding Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton is a stale rerun of past attacks that won't have any impact on voters, his top Texas supporters say.

"You've got the state of Arkansas with good, decent, average American people that have listened to all of this garbage for 10 years, and he hasn't had a problem," said Billy Goldberg, a former state Democratic chairman.

Goldberg, current chairman Bob Slagle and former chairman Calvin Guest all endorsed Clinton's presidential bid Thursday, shrugging off the controversy about Clinton's Vietnam draft status.

"It's a typical Republican hatchet distraction to take and distort, to get people's minds off of the issues," Goldberg said.

The three said Clinton remains the most electable of the five major Democratic candidates who are contesting Tuesday's New Hampshire primary.

But in that state, opinion polls showed Clinton slipping behind former Massachusetts Sen. Paul Tsongas after reports about Clinton seeking a 1969 draft deferment by agreeing to join the ROTC, then backing out of the reserve officers' training program and placing himself in the draft pool.

One rival, Iowa Sen. Tom Harkin, said a 22-year-old letter in which Clinton thanked an ROTC official for "saving me from the draft" would doom the Arkansas governor's candidacy. "It seals his fate," Harkin said.

Slagle blasted the national news media for ignoring serious issues and focusing on the draft controversy and accusations of marital infidelity that were published in a tabloid newspaper and denied by Clinton.

"Right now, Bill Clinton is being subjected to dirty tricks, a media feeding frenzy and the disgusting spectacle of a nation being served a menu of tabloid trash, street gossip and malicious rumor," Slagle said.

Both he and Guest said the draft controversy would blow over.

"Quite frankly, I don't hear a lot of negative thoughts," Guest said. "At age 23 (when Clinton wrote the letter), that was pretty well the consensus of all the people that were going to war, thinking about going to war, at that point in time."

Slagle said Clinton's proposals for providing national health care, reviving the economy and improving education make him a challenger who could beat Bush.

"Those (1969) were very divisive times. What has that got to do with the challenges facing American today?" Slagle asked.

"This issue has been hashed and rehashed in Arkansas," added Land Commissioner Garry Mauro, who chairs Clinton's presidential campaign in the state. "It was put behind him in Arkansas, and it's going to be put behind him in this national election."

Race is
in geography

ATLANTA (AP) - Logic dictates that Nebraska Sen. Bob Kerrey head West from New Hampshire. But he went to Georgia instead, campaigning with one of the New South's political dynamos, state Rep. "Able Mabel" Thomas.

As Kerrey told an audience why he should be president, Thomas was bragging about how she could help him get there. But, "I can't do much without any money and I don't have any right now," she said.

Campaign money is not yet flowing South, as the Democratic presidential campaigns are pouring most of their resources into New Hampshire.

The candidates are praying for a boost that will propel them into the next dozen state contests, where a total of 497 delegates can be collected before the biggest prize day of the season - Super Tuesday.

These dozen "window" states will winnow the field before March 10, when 11 mostly Southern states hold primaries or caucuses, and give the candidates lessons in regional politics.

"The New Hampshire winner is in the driver's seat," said Democratic strategist Thomas Donilon. "Everyone else has to carefully pick targets and try to get some victories."

Going into New Hampshire, most candidates have one or two of these targets in mind. Kerrey, for example, is strong in South Dakota and Colorado. Tom Harkin, an Iowa senator, is the early favorite in Minnesota and competitive in South Dakota. Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton has a head start in Georgia and South Carolina.

But David Carle, an aide to Illinois Sen. Paul Simon, said the Congressional Budget Office has estimated the savings to be negligible.

Coplen dedicated the song to Amy Solomon in memory of her brother, Kyle, who was killed in an accident in December, and in memory of long-time Hereford teacher Gene Brock.

Students may get 'checks'

WASHINGTON (AP) - Some educators and lawmakers fear that students will be denied the college educations they need to get good jobs under a measure that, ironically, is designed to help some 2 million jobless Americans.

The law that extended unemployment benefits for an extra 13 weeks last November included a provision requiring students over 21 to undergo credit checks when applying for federally guaranteed student loans.

Students would pay $25 for the credit checks, designed to weed out borrowers who are likely to default on the loans.

The provision drew little attention when the $2.7 billion jobless bill was passed, but it's now being attacked by those who say it will prevent thousands of low-income students from going to college or trade schools.

"The greatest irony is that many unemployed workers who are helped by one part of the law will now be ... denied the education and training they need to get a job," said Stephen J. Blair, president of the Career College Association.

Supporters hope the provision will prevent some costly loan defaults. But critics believe the credit reports will block students from qualifying for loans because most have low incomes with poor or inadequate credit histories.

The White House Office of Management and Budget estimates the government can save between $15 million and $25 million through the credit checks and another requirement that older students with poor credit histories have co-signers on federally guaranteed student loans.

But David Carle, an aide to Illinois Sen. Paul Simon, said the Congressional Budget Office has estimated the savings to be negligible.

Three organs replaced in operation

DALLAS (AP) - Doctors who made medical history with a triple transplant say the operation may yield new information about treating insulin-dependent diabetes by implanting a healthy pancreas.
 A 39-year-old woman was recovering from a nine-hour procedure in which surgeons transplanted a heart, kidney and pancreas.
 "If this pancreas continues to function and we are able to study that heart and show that the pancreas' functioning will prevent diabetic changes in the heart, then we know that pancreas transplantation is a viable type of transplant," said Dr. Richard M. Dickerman, leader of the kidney-pancreas transplant team at Methodist Medical Center.
 Whether or not pancreas transplantation will cure diabetes for 20 or 30 years is unknown, Dickerman said, but the woman is no longer considered a diabetic.

More than a dozen surgeons, anesthesiologists, scrub nurses and other hospital personnel took part in the nine-hour operation that began Wednesday night, Dickerman said Thursday.
 The patient, a woman from the Dallas suburb of Plano, was not identified. However, doctors said she was in stable condition in the hospital's intensive care unit and could go home in three weeks.
 "All signs for continued recovery are good," said John Carver, executive director of the medical center.
 Carver said the United Network for Organ Sharing had confirmed the transplant of those three organs to a single recipient was the first on record.
 The woman, who had diabetes, kidney failure and heart disease, had been waiting six weeks for a kidney and pancreas, Dickerman said. However, Dr. Lonnie L. Whiddon, who led the heart transplant team, believed her heart probably would not have stood up to the rigors of the operation.

 "He felt that her heart disease was so bad that she couldn't undergo the kidney-pancreas transplant, that her heart would not be able to tolerate that," Dickerman said.
 So doctors performed the simultaneous transplants when the organs all became available at once. The donor was a young man who died at the hospital after being involved in a traffic accident, the surgeons said.
 "We're indebted always to family members who agree to donate and give other patients chances for quality life," Whiddon said.
 "This particular family was just outstanding and their understanding of what was going on was wonderful," Dickerman added.
 Because all three organs came from the same donor, the chances of organ rejection are greatly reduced,

Morales asks high court to stop Texas Senate primary elections

WASHINGTON (AP) - Texas Attorney General Dan Morales has asked the U.S. Supreme Court to halt the state Senate primary next month, saying there is a "dark cloud" hanging over the election.
 In an emergency motion sent to the court today, the state asked Supreme Court Justice Antonin Scalia to halt the March 10 Senate primary. The request would not affect the other elections scheduled in Texas on that date.
 The delay is necessary, Morales said, because his attempts to overthrow the state Senate redistricting plan drawn up by federal judges in Austin have yet to be ruled upon.
 "A dark cloud hovers over the district court's purportedly self-crafted Senate redistricting plan," the emergency motion said. "Very real and substantial questions have been raised about the district court's jurisdiction."
 The state is fighting the judges' map on several fronts - the U.S. Supreme Court, a federal three-judge panel in Washington, D.C., and in federal court in Austin.
 Separately, the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans has ordered a committee of judges to investigate allegations that U.S.

District Judge James Nowlin of Austin acted in a partisan way when ordering a state Senate redistricting map.
 That plan is opposed by Democratic leaders, who charge that Nowlin - a Republican appointee - had Republican state Rep. George Pierce of San Antonio secretly make adjustments to the map.
 The state and minority groups, which favor a state Senate map drawn in a special session of the Legislature, contend that the Nowlin plan increases Republican representation at the expense of minorities.
 A spokesman for Morales said the stay of the election is imperative, especially because early voting opens next Wednesday.
 "We're just saying there's enough doubt raised which needs to be addressed, but to be fully addressed requires more time than we have between now and Wednesday," Gray McBride said Thursday.
 A spokeswoman for the Secretary of State's office said Thursday she could not estimate how much it would cost to hold the Senate election separately.
 "We haven't got a firm figure, but it would obviously be less than what it would be to run a full-scale primary, which would be in the neighborhood of $8 million," said spokeswoman Katie Davis.

 Although all 31 Senate seats are up for re-election, there will be only 10 contested races in the primary - removing the need for another statewide election.
 County elections officials would not have problems with a separate election even though names of Senate candidates have already been printed on the March 10 ballots, Ms. Davis said.
 They would just ignore any Senate results voters punched in, she said.

Company draws fire for policy on English

AUSTIN (AP) - State officials say that insurance companies should not be allowed to refuse to sell health insurance to people who cannot speak or write English.
 On Thursday, the Office of Public Insurance Counsel, two lawmakers and the Mexican American Legal Defense and Education Fund called for an investigation into the problem.
 "Not only do some health insurance companies turn you down if you are likely to get sick, but they'll turn you down if they don't like the way you talk or the way you read," said Amy Johnson, of the Office of Public Insurance Counsel.
 Representatives of several insurance companies oppose a proposal before the State Board of Insurance that would require insurers to print a toll-free assistance number in both English and Spanish on their policies.
 "An individual who cannot speak, understand or read English at a minimal level are (sic) considered ineligible for our coverage," wrote G. Scott Smith, president and chief executive of National Health Insurance of Grand Prairie.
 State Rep. Eddie Cavazos, D-Corpus Christi, and chairman of both the House Insurance Committee and the House Mexican-American Legislative Caucus, said the letter represented "David Duke marketing of racism."
 "Health insurance is supposed to be underwritten by whether you're a risk for health, not whether you speak English or Spanish," said Ms. Johnson.
 But Smith said in a statement, "We believe this is a communications issue, not a discrimination issue."
 D.J. Hundahl Jr., a Dallas attorney who represents several companies, said it would be deceptive if an insurance company printed material in Spanish, and did not have an employee who spoke Spanish to handle claims or questions by people who spoke only Spanish.
 "There are companies who deal with this and are equipped to deal with it, and they're taking care of those people," Hundahl said.
 "If you spoke Eskimo and I sent a notice to you in Eskimo and you called me and I spoke only English, what would you think?" he said.
 State Sen. Gonzalo Barrientos, D-Austin, said, "Health care and health insurance are necessities of human life that have no linguistic or educational limits."
 The Insurance Board next week will consider rules on whether to require insurance companies to print assistance telephone numbers in both English and Spanish.

Life!

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My ex-husband was a compulsive gambler and he made my life hell because of it. I went for counseling, which was a godsend. I'm writing this letter for everyone living with a person who is addicted to gambling.

First, recognize the signs. If your son, daughter, brother, sister or spouse is always broke, ask why. Don't take his or her word for it. Demand proof. Compulsive behavior usually requires that the person also be a liar.

Don't cover up for a gambler and don't make phony excuses. This means stop the flow of cash and force that person to be totally responsible for his or her own life.

I was subjected to a lot of pain that could have been avoided if my husband's family had not rescued him every time he got into trouble. Over the years, they arranged loans for him and when he couldn't pay up, they looked the other way while he stole money from them.

When you try to cover up for a person who is addicted to gambling you are doing him no favor. You are simply delaying the day of reckoning and putting him on a collision course with disaster. You must let him suffer the consequences of his addiction, even if it means jail.--Chicago Reader

DEAR READER: Thank you for a letter that gives me the perfect opportunity to once again mention Gamblers Anonymous.

This fellowship is for men and women of all ages and costs nothing to join. Just look in the phone book, find out when and where the next meeting is--and go. If your gambler refuses to go and you have decided to stay with him, YOU need help and you'll find it at Gamblers Anonymous, P.O. Box 17173, Los Angeles, Calif. 90017.

This self-help organization has chapters all over the world. It has succeeded when everything else has failed. I urge everyone who needs this kind of help to get it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I can't believe what happened this evening. I was sitting in a fast-food restaurant with my husband's cousin, "Ellen," and her baby. All of a sudden, Ellen opened her blouse, whipped out a breast and proceeded to nurse the little one. She did not cover herself with anything but just kept at it as if she were in the privacy of her own home.

I kept hoping the manager would see her and ask her to go to the ladies' room, but no such luck. Several women in the place raised their eyebrows and the men leered. I have never been so embarrassed in my life.

Ellen is no ignoramus. She is a college graduate, working on her Ph.D. I'm not a prude, Ann. I breast-fed my two children, but never in a public place. When I took my babies to the homes of family or friends, I always went into another room to nurse them.

Ellen has a strong personality and has been outspoken when it comes to women's rights. I try to avoid confronting her about anything, but I do believe she was out of line on this. What are your views, Ann?--Red-Faced in Tulsa

DEAR RED: I've been down this road before but am happy to travel it again.

Breast-feeding is best done in private. However, it can be done discreetly in a public place by putting a light blanket or scarf over the nursing child. If this is done, no one should be offended.

DEAR READERS: Oops--a belated credit. The author of the Stress Diet is Pamela Pettler.

Lonesome? Take charge of your life and turn it around. Write for Ann Landers' new booklet, "How to Make Friends and Stop Being Lonely." Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $4.15 (this includes postage and handling) to: Friends, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

Hispanics more at risk of suffering depression

EL PASO, Texas (AP) - Hispanics may be more at risk of suffering depression and less likely to get help than any other group, a visiting California psychiatrist said.

Depression strikes millions of Americans yearly and figures show that Hispanics in California are the most untreated of groups and mental health is at the low end of priorities, said Dr. Rodrigo Munoz, a clinical professor of psychiatry at the University of California-San Diego. Munoz said his recent stop Monday in El Paso was part of his quest to see nationwide community support for creation of psychiatric services for all people, geared specially toward treatment of anxiety and depression.

Hispanics, especially those from lower economic backgrounds, typically complain of physical symptoms such as headaches and stomach aches and don't recognize the underlying cause is depression, Munoz said.

Depression is a disorder lasting more than two weeks that is characterized by pessimism, discouragement, loss of appetite, guilt, difficulty in concentrating, even suicide, he said.

Anxiety affects three million people in the United States at any one time, Munoz said. It is characterized by panic attacks, sudden spells of shortness of breath, chest pain, nervousness.

"I think the solutions are complex, but if we stimulate Hispanics to think about their mental health and we treat them properly, we may catch up," Munoz said. "We need federal, state and local authorities to cooperate."

On March 27 and 28, Texas Tech School of Medicine in El Paso will sponsor a conference on research into border Mexican-American psychiatric concerns.

If you have felt any four of these symptoms nearly every day for two weeks or more, you may well be suffering from depression.

- Persistent sadness, anxiety or emptiness.
- Hopelessness or pessimism.
- Feeling guilty, worthless or helpless.
- Loss of interest in ordinary activities.
- Reduced sex drive.
- Sleeping too long or too little.
- Changes in appetite or weight.
- Feeling fatigued or "slowed down".
- Restlessness or irritability.
- Difficulty concentrating, making decisions or remembering.
- Frequent headaches, backaches, digestive trouble or other chronic pain that doesn't respond to treatment.

TOKYO (AP) - The Japanese media have called a halt to reports about Crown Prince Naruhito's search for a bride.

Public interest is high about his love life, or lack of it. But the imperial palace - angered by a magazine story suggesting Naruhito needed a new haircut - asked the Newspaper Publishers and Editors Association to consider the privacy of the women Naruhito may consider.

The association said the news blackout - which affects all major Japanese newspapers, news agencies and broadcasting companies - will last three months.

The 31-year-old crown prince has been under pressure to find a wife following the 1990 marriage of his younger brother, Prince Akishino.

Tips for planning reunion

The gathering of generations at a traditional family reunion can be a memorable experience, but careful preparation is the key to success.

Here are some helpful tips:

1. Share the work-Don't try to organize a reunion alone. Designate committees to carry out specific duties.
2. Determine the guest list-Try to include as many family members as you can locate. Don't forget to check old address books and ask relatives you're in contact with to help search for missing ones.
3. Decide on a date-A good rule of thumb is to begin planning a year ahead of the event. That way, everyone can set aside vacation time.
4. Select a location-Whether it's a city park or a seaside hotel, select a site that's the most convenient and affordable for the majority.
5. Choose activities-From baseball and board games to family skits and contests, entertaining activities will help your group mix and mingle.
6. Provide the food-To avoid last-minute chaos, decide ahead of time who is responsible for preparation, serving and clean-up, or consider having meals catered.
7. Invite the family-To catch people's attention, make the invitations exciting and informative. Include all items that must be provided by the families attending.
8. Cover expenses-Keep careful track of the costs involved, so everyone can pitch in their fair share.

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) - Kevin Kline's shortcut through a decrepit, gang-ridden neighborhood in "Grand Canyon" angered Inglewood officials, who want the movie's producer to apologize.

In the movie, Kline's character is threatened by a gang of hoodlums when his car breaks down in the Los Angeles suburb. A tow truck driver played by Danny Glover rescues him.

"They automatically assume that if somebody is stuck out there, they're going to be robbed, beaten or worse," Mark Sinaguglia, president of the Inglewood Chamber of Commerce, said Wednesday.

Andrea Jaffe, a spokeswoman for producer 20th Century Fox, did not return a telephone call Thursday seeking comment.

New devices being built for hearts

How do you mend a broken heart? If the problem is medical, not romantic, the solution may be somewhere between the lab and the work bench where DeBaKey Heart Center scientists and engineers are building better devices for broken hearts.

Dr. George P. Noon, professor of surgery at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston, said physicians seek heart-assist devices that will not tie patients to equipment or require costly monitoring in cardiac care units.

"We want a small, implantable device that can be used safely in patients who require temporary assistance until their hearts heal," Noon said.

"For longer term—a lifetime or until a donor organ becomes available for transplant—we want an enclosed device not adhered to an external power source that can be implanted, providing partial or total support of the cardiovascular system."

Either goal is a tall order. "We have been working since the 1960s to develop devices, but it is very slow and very difficult," Noon said. "We outline the criteria and engineers design what we want. But the devices do not work the same in animals as they do in the lab."

Working with NASA engineers, DeBaKey Heart Center scientists have developed a steady-flow pump that could provide temporary help for the heart's own pumping action.

Noon said the device "works well since it contains no valves where blood clots can form. But the device can damage blood cells making clinical trials for patients a long way off."

Heart Center researchers are also working on an electrically driven artificial heart as well as cable-driven and magnetically-driven centrifugal pumps to provide temporary assistance to the heart's left ventricle, the major blood-pumping chamber.

"The search continues," Noon said. "We hope one of the devices we are working on will be successful."

In the meantime, broken hearts are still being mended with a variety of heart-assist devices. "The difference is the amount of time each can be used and the amount of support each provides," Noon said.

Transplantation is currently the best long-term solution for mending medically broken hearts. "But, we will never have enough donor hearts available to treat all the patients who need one," Noon said. "We need something we can take off the shelf and implant."

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: I am besieged by the premenstrual syndrome. My sweet husband realized the relation between the onset of my periods and my absolutely out-of-control behavior. My gynecologist told me that it is common to see PMS suddenly occur or get worse around my age. I'm 36.

He started me on diuretics seven to 10 days before my period. This didn't help. The next step in his treatment is birth-control pills. I stopped using the pill 15 years ago when large blood clots appeared on my leg. They disappeared and I haven't had any since. He has told me if neither of these treatments worked that the alternative is a hysterectomy. I can't conceive of such a drastic action, although committing suicide to end the insanity also seems drastic—at least when I'm out of my PMS symptoms it seems drastic. Except for the week to 10 days of PMS, I have the happiest life imaginable.

What else is there? I have read everything I can find on PMS and there seems to be so much disagreement about every treatment that is suggested.

DEAR READER: Most women have some changes in mood in relation to their menstrual cycle, but in some women the changes are very marked, as you describe. When the changes are mild, some modification in lifestyle, or the use of diuretics will often suffice. But in severe cases, the problem is difficult to treat.

Other conditions are sometimes confused with PMS. Recently Dr. Attila Toth, director of the MacLeod Laboratory for Infertility at the New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center in Manhattan, found that some patients who complain of PMS actually had a pelvic infection that had not been recognized. Chlamydia, a sexually transmitted disease that may not cause enough symptoms to be recognized, is an example. It may affect the uterus, ovaries and tubes. According to Dr. Toth, appropriate treatment for pelvic infection in these cases may eliminate what was thought to be PMS.

It isn't the hysterectomy (removal of the uterus) but the ovariectomy (removal of the ovaries) that can eliminate real PMS. That is because it stops the cyclical hormone variations associated with PMS. It also causes an irreversible surgical menopause. Perhaps a better solution is to use medical means to stop ovarian function. That is why oral contraceptives have been used. Today Lupron, which is injected or Synarel as a nasal spray can stop the cyclical changes and also induces a menopause-like response. It can stop real PMS, and if that is not the answer, such a medical menopause is reversible. But I would not recommend this either except in women with serious problems that cannot be benefited by other less drastic means.

I have discussed other measures to manage PMS in my new Special Report 126, Update on Premenstrual Syndrome (PMS), which I'm sending you. Others who want this report can send $3 with a long, stamped (52 cents), self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/126, P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077.

There are other hormone treatments as well. That includes Parlodel (bromocriptine) which decreases the production of prolactin, the hormone that stimulates lactation.

Progesterone has its adherents and also its detractors, but it would be worth a try. In your case, your history of blood clots would contraindicate its use.

Diuretic therapy is a tried-and-true approach to eliminating the fluid retention that precedes menstruation and is part of PMS. And don't overlook the benefits of changes in lifestyle. That can help.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I have had leg cramps at night for some time. At one time I used Quinamm for relief. But I had to discontinue it because I was allergic to the drug. I have not been able to find anything else to help the situation and would appreciate your help.

DEAR READER: Quinamm is one of the quinine medications that have been used for years for leg cramps. Many people swear by their effectiveness, but how good they really are has been questioned. The original studies about their effectiveness were not properly designed research studies. As a result, it cannot be proved that the testimonials about their effectiveness were because of the medicine or for other reasons. However, these medicines are useful in leg cramps associated with certain neurological diseases.

Your doctor may want to investigate further the possible cause for your leg cramps. You can follow the suggestions I made in the first part of this column and in the special report on leg cramps. Vitamin E may help. Extra calcium may help. But a good stretching program before you go to bed, and keeping your legs warm and your toes up may be sufficient, depending on the cause.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I have had leg cramps at night for some time. At one time I used Quinamm for relief. But I had to discontinue it because I was

Fight allergies with air cleaners

Today's tight, air conditioned homes do a good job of keeping the hot air out, but they also can keep indoor air pollution in.

To remove pollen, spores, dust and other microscopic irritants from indoor air, many people are turning to high-efficiency media air cleaners. A central air cleaner works with your heating and cooling system to clean the air throughout your home automatically. High-efficiency media air cleaners can catch nearly 100 percent of large particles, such as pollen and spores, and a high percentage of microscopic dust, smoke and airborne particles.

High-efficiency media air cleaners use sophisticated, high-technology fibers to trap particles so small they can be seen only with an electron microscope. Media air cleaners use no electricity, generate no ozone, have no moving parts and create no noise.

A central, media or electronic air cleaner is a part of your home's heating and air conditioning system. Both must be installed by a qualified contractor and may cost several hundred dollars. Media type air cleaners cost about half as much as electronic models. Here are some questions you will want to ask your contractor before you decide to buy:

What is the efficiency of the air cleaner? Ordinary fiber-glass furnace filters and plastic electrostatic filters screen out about 15 percent of airborne particles. High-efficiency media air cleaners can remove up to 95 percent of even microscopic particles.

Does the air cleaner produce ozone? Electronic air cleaners produce some amount of ozone—more when they are dirty. If you are especially sensitive to ozone or live in a high ozone area, this is an additional reason to choose a non-electronic air cleaner.

How often must the air cleaner be serviced? A high-efficiency media air cleaner increases in effectiveness as it collects dust. Most makers suggest changing the cleaning media approximately once a year. Electronic air cleaners should be washed every 30-60 days to maintain their effectiveness. Ask your contractor how often the collection plates should be cleaned.

Does the air cleaner remove small particles as well as large? Pollen and spores are relatively large. But large particles make up less than one percent of all airborne contaminants. Allergies and breathing discomfort can be triggered by microscopic particles. A high-efficiency air cleaner should remove a significant percentage of all airborne particles, not just the largest ones.

How good is the warranty? Most air cleaners have at least a one-year warranty.

NEW YORK (AP) - Donald Trump has asked a court to bar ex-wife Ivana from talking about her life with him.

Trump lawyer Jay Goldberg asked an appeals court Thursday to reinstate a gag order that forbade Mrs. Trump from talking publicly about life with The Donald.

That gag order was part of a divorce contract the couple submitted to state Supreme Court Justice Phyllis Gangel-Jacob last year.

But the judge - acting on her own - removed it from the final decree, saying it infringed on Mrs. Trump's right to free speech.

NEW YORK (AP) - Tony Bennett, who has recorded 91 albums and won two Grammy Awards, says he has the "get-up-and-go of someone just starting."

Narcotics best for treating cancer pain

Most cancer pain can be controlled with just one medicine - morphine. It can be taken in pill form, including sustained-release varieties that eliminate the need for frequent pill popping, as well as in skin patches, suppositories and pumps that release an injection whenever the patient needs it.

Yet for reasons ranging from ignorance to irrational fear, this medicine is often not given in powerful enough doses to stop the pain.

"If there is any one major reason for undercontrol of cancer pain, it's underdosing of opioid analgesics," or morphine, said Dr. Michael Levy of the Fox Chase Cancer Center in Philadelphia.

The proper use of morphine is confused by myths. Perhaps the most powerful, both for doctors and patients, is the fear of addiction.

"You would be surprised how many physicians are concerned they will make the patient a drug addict," said Dr. Carol Warfield of Boston's Beth Israel Hospital. "They feel they should not use drugs that are addictive in any situation. It doesn't make any sense."

Pain experts say addiction should be the least of concerns for someone dying of cancer. It is extremely rare, anyway, occurring in perhaps 1 in 10,000 cases. If someone does become physically dependent, the feelings of headache, nausea and shakiness can be avoided by gradually withdrawing the drug over five to 10 days.

Morphine's side effects, another common concern among doctors, can also be dealt with. The most common are nausea and constipation, which can be treated with antiemetic drugs, high fiber diet and laxatives. While drowsiness is frequent when the pain medicine starts, it usually goes away over time.

Patients, too, often resist taking morphine because of fear of addiction and guilt about enjoying the effects of narcotics. Others don't want to complain or waste their brief time with their doctors talking about pain. Some also are reluctant to admit to increasing pain, because it means their disease is getting worse.

Doctors and nurses frequently worry that if they give patients enough morphine to ease their pain in the early stages of cancer, they will build up a tolerance to the drug, and it won't do them any good when the pain becomes severe. However, experts say that doctors can safely overcome tolerance by gradually increasing the doses as pain increases.

Another difficulty is choosing the right dose. The amount of medicine necessary to relieve pain is likely to vary dramatically from person to person.

"In some patients, two milligrams of morphine is too much. In others, 200 is not enough. You don't just give a dose and walk away. You adjust the dose for the desired balance between side effects and pain relief," said Berde.

Doctors are also worried about drawing the attention of drug agents if they write prescriptions of high doses of narcotics for people with cancer.

Several states now require triplicate forms for morphine prescriptions, and one form goes to the state drug enforcement agency. Surveys show that prescriptions for powerful pain killers drop 50 percent when these states take effect, and doctors substitute less effective medicines.

Double-team defense

Hereford's Ashley Noland (22) defends Tascosa's point guard while Michael Brown sneaks up behind. The A team lost this game Thursday in Whiteface Gym, but the B team won.

Frosh boys split with Tascosa

Hereford split a pair of freshmen boys' basketball games with Tascosa Thursday in Whiteface Gym. Hereford lost the A game 65-56, then won the B game 63-46.

The games were the Hereford teams' last except for their district tournament today and Saturday.

Hereford dominated the B game after a point in the third quarter. Tascosa had pulled to within 33-31 by outscoring Hereford 8-2 to start the third. Hereford responded with an 11-0 run to end the quarter with a 44-31 lead, then cruised through the fourth.

Hereford Coach Curtis Cotten cited several reasons for the easy win. "We executed our offense really well," he said. "A lot had to do with the press. It was really working tonight. Another thing we did was we ran the break tonight. We ran the break, executed on offense and played pretty good defense."

Raymond Alaniz led Hereford with 13 points. Homer Hamilton added 13, and Michael Marquez and Bubba Backus each had nine.

In the A game, Hereford took a quick lead in the first quarter and led 19-13 at the buzzer.

"We came out looking for the fast break and caught them off guard," Coach Robert Gamboa said.

The tide changed in the second quarter. The Rebels scored six points quickly, tying the game, and the half ended with a 29-29 tie.

Tascosa took command in the third. The quarter ended with the Rebels up 50-44, and they extended that to start the fourth. Hereford made a run in the final three minutes of the game and cut it to 59-52, but a Tascosa three-point shot put the lead back up to 10 with two minutes left.

Michael Brown led Hereford with 22 points, and Cody Curtis added 17.

The A team starts its district tournament at 8 p.m. today at Caprock High School in Amarillo. The B team, which earned a first-round bye in the B bracket, plays at 2 p.m. Saturday.

HMGA elects Brown president

Bill Brown was elected president of the Hereford Men's Golf Association when the group held a reorganizational meeting Thursday night at the KC Hall. Also elected were Wade Boren, vice president, and Paul Hamilton, secretary-treasurer.

Following the business meeting, a reception was held for Dave Kaesheimer, the new golf pro at Pitman Municipal Golf Course. The Hereford Women's Golf Association joined the reception and provided refreshments for the event. Marcy Hughes is president of the HWGA.

Kaesheimer expressed appreciation for the welcome he has received to Hereford and called on the two groups to work for the betterment of the city golf course.

Brown urged the men's golf association to be "the booster club" for the local golf course. The group discussed sponsorship of several tournaments, fund raisers, and a drive to increase membership.

Lady golfers plan scramble

The Hereford Ladies' Golf Association met Tuesday.

Plans were made for a golf scramble to include club members and their husbands. The scramble will be March 28 at Pitman Golf Course, starting at 1 p.m.

U.S. gold medal hopefuls Bowman, Eldredge falter

ALBERTVILLE, France (AP) - Christopher Bowman was no showman. Todd Eldredge's train of thought was derailed in mid-axel.

The two-time U.S. champs were chumps, they admitted, with the Olympic figure skating title up for grabs. As a result, the Americans' streak of gold medals in the event may be over at two - apologies to darkhorse Paul Wylie in third place.

"I'm sorry things didn't work out better," said Bowman, who knew his big chance was gone the moment his hand hit the ice on a triple axel.

Viktor Petrenko, a Ukrainian competing for the Unified Team, was the only one of the top medal favorites to perform well and can earn the gold with a solid performance in the free skate Saturday night.

While the top American men's skaters failed to live up to expectations, Austria and the U.S. hockey team continued to exceed theirs at the 16th Winter Olympics, and Germany moved into the medals lead.

Germans won three medals today for a total of 13 - one more than Austria, which has already matched its all-time best from Innsbruck in 1964. The Unified Team was next with 10, host France had seven and Norway six. The United States had three, including two golds.

The latest medal for the French team was a surprising gold in a sport long dominated by the old East bloc.

France won the women's 3 X 7.5-kilometer biathlon relay, a skiing-shooting combination through the woods of Les Saisies. Germany was second and the Unified Team, the pre-race favorite, third. The United States finished 15th, next to last.

Warriors' defense smothers Spurs

By TOM COYNE
AP Sports Writer

The Golden State Warriors showed the San Antonio Spurs they can play defense as well as score.

The Warriors lead the league in points scored (119 points a game) and points allowed (114). Against the Spurs, they couldn't score like they're accustomed to, so they turned up the defensive pressure and came away with a 109-94 victory Thursday night.

Golden State scored 40 points off 27 San Antonio turnovers. The Warriors, led by Tyrone Hill, also held David Robinson to 14 points, holding him without a shot for one 19-minute stretch and to nine shots overall.

"I know you can't stop David Robinson. You just try to contain him," Hill said. "I tried to front him, and the guys helped out. It worked out real good."

Robinson, who had two points and one missed shot in the second half, said he couldn't get going.

"I was touching the ball," Robinson said. "But they were doubling down, and I was kicking it back out. Offensively, I have to be more aggressive and take some shots."

The Spurs had 20 turnovers in the second half. Although the Warriors played tight defense, the Spurs didn't give them all the credit.

"We did it to ourselves," Spurs guard Rod Strickland said. "One of those nights where nothing went right. We got caught in between, in the middle of everything. They packed it in and sat on our guys inside."

Chris Mullin scored 25 points and Sarunas Marciulionis had 21 points and six steals. Hill had 17 points and Tim Hardaway and Billy Owens 16 each.

Willie Anderson and Terry Cummings each scored 18 points for San Antonio.

Heat 121, Hawks 119

Little-used John Morton hit two free throws with 3.3 seconds left as Miami equaled its team record of 24 wins and won its record 19th home game with a 121-119 victory over Atlanta.

Morton was fouled while pulling down an airball by Atlanta's Kevin Willis, who had 17 points and 20 rebounds.

Timberwolves 96, Pistons 93

Pooh Richardson's 3-pointer at the buzzer lifted Minnesota to a 96-93 victory.

With the game tied 93-93 with 14 seconds left, the Timberwolves worked the ball over to Richardson, who connected from the right side, a few feet from the Minnesota bench.

Richardson finished with 19 points and 13 assists, while Tony Campbell paced Minnesota with 28 points.

Joe Dumars had 25 for Detroit.

Bulls 106, Knicks 85

Horace Grant scored 13 of his 18 points in the first quarter and he finished with 11 rebounds and seven blocked shots.

The Bulls, who outshot New York 72 percent to 37 percent in the first period, never trailed after scoring the game's first eight points. They led 31-22 at the end of the quarter behind Grant's 6-for-7 shooting.

Michael Jordan and B.J. Armstrong scored 17 points each for the Bulls.

Patrick Ewing and Anthony Mason scored 14 points each for the Knicks, who won eight of their previous nine games. New York fell to 18-6 at home.

Bucks 127, Hornets 118

Dale Ellis scored 19 of his 30 points in the fourth quarter as Milwaukee won for the fifth time in six games. The win snapped the visiting Hornets' three-game winning streak.

Ellis hit his second 3-pointer of the fourth quarter to give the Bucks the lead for good, 108-105, with 4:57 left.

Jazz 97, Lakers 91

Karl Malone scored 35 points, including eight straight in 78 seconds to break a fourth-quarter tie, as Utah improved to 22-2 at home.

James Worthy's 3-pointer with 1:58 to play closed the Lakers to 94-89. After Malone hit one of two free throws with 28 seconds left, Sam Perkins made two free throws nine seconds later to bring Los Angeles within four.

John Stockton's two free throws with 18 seconds left accounted for the final margin.

Rebels win big despite new scandal

By CHRIS SHERIDAN
Associated Press Writer

Some things never change at UNLV - corruption allegations hover overhead and the team keeps destroying opponents.

A fresh scandal involving last year's team made news hours before the Runnin' Rebels took the court Thursday and put on another awesome basketball display, defeating San Jose State by 44 points, 83-39.

Elsewhere, Don MacLean broke Kareem Abdul-Jabbar's all-time UCLA scoring record as the No. 3 Bruins defeated Oregon State 72-62.

In other games, No. 7 Arizona crushed Washington State 94-72, No. 13 Southern Cal edged Oregon 69-68, No. 14 Tulane defeated No. 22 North Carolina Charlotte 76-68, New Mexico defeated No. 21 Texas-El Paso 68-56 and No. 24 Florida State edged Virginia 64-63.

UNLV's program, which has had a running battle with the NCAA for more than a decade, is now reportedly the target of a federal investigation into possible point-shaving.

The Las Vegas Review-Journal, quoting an unidentified federal official, reported that federal authorities were investigating ties between convicted sports fixer Richard Perry and the UNLV program, including rumors that some of the players from last season's team might have shaved points during the Rebels' unbeaten 1990-91 regular season or in their upset loss to Duke in the NCAA tournament semifinals.

UNLV coach Jerry Tarkanian said the story was "the lowest thing I've ever heard," and he predicted "in another month you won't hear another thing about it."

"I will guarantee that there is no basis to this," Tarkanian said. "That team destroyed everybody they played."

The 1991-92 Rebels did a little destroying of their own against San Jose State, scoring the first 16 points of the game and jumping out to a 50-13 halftime lead against the Spartans, (2-17 overall, 1-10 Big West).

J.R. Rider scored 19 points and Elmore Spencer added 18 as the Runnin' Rebels extended the nation's longest winning streak to 18 games. UNLV (21-2, 13-0) also has a

No. 3 UCLA 72, Oregon St. 62

In Corvallis, Ore., MacLean was relieved to finally break Abdul-Jabbar's school career scoring record.

"I don't think there was any question he was trying too hard lately to get the record," UCLA coach Jim Harrick said.

The 6-foot-10 senior pushed his career scoring total to 2,329, four more than Abdul-Jabbar had from 1967-69 when he was known as Lew Alcindor.

Southwest Outdoors

with Mel Phillips

Ol' Palo Duro Phil, that grumpy ol' groundhog who lives near Lighthouse Rock in Palo Duro Canyon, ventured forth last Sunday and failed to see his shadow. Old timers know that this means the winter of 1992 will last only another month and a half. Of course, if Phil sees his shadow, then winter will last a full six weeks more.

What happened to winter? Some weather guessers on TV blame El Nino in the Pacific Ocean. Enjoy the warm weather, because I have a feeling that pipes will freeze before spring really arrives.

One great benefit of mild weather is sneaking off to Lake Meredith and catching a mess of walleye without wearing four layers of clothes and two pairs of gloves. The prime time to catch this delicious fish is February through March.

Check out the face of the dam, main lake points and my favorite spot, a sunken point off Rattlesnake Island. Slowly--and I mean s-l-o-w-l-y--work a minnow from about 3 feet down to 25 feet deep. Walleye are notorious for changing depth depending upon barometric pressure, light conditions and other factors known only to water breathing animals.

Experts like professional walleye angler Stan Berry recommend a delay in setting the hook. Wait for that second tap or until the bait starts swimming off, then just sweep the rod while turning the reel handle. "Flippin' sticks" are out; that old fiberglass rod is perfect for walleye.

Bass fishermen need to unlock their drag settings and start using some six-to-eight-pound test Magna-Thin by DuPont. Lighter line means feeling more fish. Frequently retying knots and checking for line abrasions will get those fish in the boat.

An added benefit of light line fishing for walleye is the frequent excitement of a feisty smallmouth trying to steal a rod and reel.

Lake Meredith locals like Deputy Sheriff Mike Harber claim that the really good walleye and smallmouth fishing is done "at night when a blue northern blows through." It's very hard to verify this report because I am usually snipe hunting in a windmill tower during those weather conditions.

Mexico bass--El Paso native Billy Chapman Jr. has put together some of the best world-class fishing packages, and he reports that Lake El Santo is the hottest new lake in Mexico. If catching 20 bass--all weighing more than five pounds--per day sounds like fun, give Billy a toll-free call at 1-800-468-2347. His family has over 32 years of experience in the Mexican bass-fishing business, and they know how to take care of any border-crossing problems.

disrupted the Olympics today.

Thick fog delayed the start of the men's luge doubles but not the outcome, where favored Germany and Italy swept the medals. Stefan Krausse and Jan Behrendt edged teammates Yves Mankel and Thomas Rudolph by .186 seconds over two runs, and World Cup champions Hansjorg Raffl and Norbert Huber of Italy took the bronze.

Scott Hamilton and Brian Boitano, U.S. skaters who reached new Olympic heights to claim the gold in 1984 and 1988, left Bowman and Eldredge a mighty heritage to uphold. They weren't up to it Thursday night.

Eldredge, recovering from back problems that sidelined him from last month's nationals, muffed a relatively easy double axel near the end of his program. Before coming off the ice, he put an imaginary gun to his head, then hands around his neck.

The enigmatic Bowman, who skated with unexpected verve at the nationals, was done in by a botched triple axel-double toe loop combination and an evident lack of zest.

Wylie was 10th at Calgary four years ago. To earn a medal Saturday night, he'll have to hold off three-time world champion Kurt Browning of Canada. Another favorite who went sour, Browning fell early in his routine while doing a triple axel. European champion Petr Barna of Czechoslovakia is second.

The United States was still just halfway to its dismal 1988 total of six medals, but its hockey team - short on National Hockey League talent but not on toughness - passed a stern test with ease.

The Americans clinched the medals round for the first time since 1980, the year of miracle gold, and closed in on a top seeding by beating Finland 4-1.

AN INNOCENT MAN IN PRISON!

UNJUSTLY IMPRISONED, JOSEPH SHOULD HAVE BEEN EMBITTERED TOWARD THE FATE THAT SEEMED TO ENVELOP HIM, WHO COULD HAVE BLAMED HIM FOR DENOUNCING PHAROAH'S CRUELTY AND UNJUST SYSTEM OF IMPRISONMENT IN THOSE ANCIENT DUNGEONS? BUT JOSEPH WAS A MAN WHO TRUSTED GOD'S PURPOSE. HE DIDN'T WASTE TIME BEMOANING HIS DESTINY BUT TRIED IMMEDIATELY TO BETTER HIS CONDITION. (GENESIS 40: 22, 23) BECAUSE OF HIS FAITH IN GOD AND GOD'S PROMISES HE SOON BECAME THE HEAD OF THE PRISONERS EMERGING AS RULER OF EGYPT ACCOUNTABLE TO PHAROAH ONLY.

CLASSIFIED ADS

Classified advertising rates are based on 15 cents a word for first insertion ($3.00 minimum), and 11 cents for second publication and thereafter. Rates below are based on consecutive issues, no copy change, straight word ads.

TIMES	RATE	MIN
1 day per word	.15	3.00
2 days per word	.26	5.20
3 days per word	.37	7.40
4 days per word	.48	9.60
5 days per word	.59	11.80

If you run ads in five consecutive issues with NO changes, you get the same ad in the Reach 4 More free. The regular charge for that ad would be $4.00.

CLASSIFIED DISPLAY

Classified display rates apply to all other ads not set in solid-word lines-those with captions, bold or larger type, special paragraphing; all capital letters. Rates are $4.15 per column inch; $3.45 an inch for consecutive additional insertions.

LEGALS

Ad rates for legal notices are same as for classified display.

ERRORS

Every effort is made to avoid errors in word ads and legal notices. Advertisers should call attention to any errors immediately after the first insertion. We will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion. In case of errors by the publishers, an additional insertion will be published.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: With the increase in the number of stray animals, the chances of being bitten are also increased.

There are some precautions we should take to avoid being bitten by a dog. Children should be encouraged to avoid all stray dogs no matter how cute and lovable they seem to be.

Teach your child never to pet a dog that is eating or has just had a litter. Also, sick and injured animals may bite out of fear even if it's a neighbor's dog you've known for years.

Frightened or startled dogs are more likely to bite. If an animal approaches you or your child, stay calm and follow these simple rules:

Don't turn and run screaming. You'll never outrace a dog.

Don't turn your back. Look directly at the dog but avoid staring at its eyes — doing this only makes the dog more aggressive.

Back away slowly and talk quietly in soothing tones. If it remains calm, back into an area where you will be safe and call the animal-control agency immediately.

The signs of an aggressive dog are curled lips, growling, rising hair at the top of the neck and a straight, rigid tail.

We are the only ones who can make the streets safe for everyone by keeping our pets confined at home and not letting them roam freely. — A Reader

Please have your pet spayed or neutered to help prevent the huge population of unwanted animals that must be dealt with. — Heloise

CLEAN RESTAURANT

Dear Heloise: My sister taught me an important tip about unfamiliar restaurants while traveling (or any other time).

Before being seated, check the restrooms. If they are sparkling clean and well-supplied with paper and soap, presumably the entire establishment is well-managed.

If they are not up to your standards, probably the experience will be indifferent service and food. — Donna E. Lindsey, Lake Oswego, Ore.

DOG CARE

Dear Readers: From one dog-lover to another, I'd like to share some of my best hints on dog care. My pamphlet, Heloise's Guide to Dog Ownership, will give you some tips that work for me. Send $2 and a stamped (52 cents), self-addressed, legal-sized envelope to Heloise/Dog, PO Box 795001, San Antonio, TX 78279-5001.

SHOE-LOVING FERRET

Dear Heloise: I just have to tell you about my cute ferret, Sinne, who absolutely adores shoes and boots.

When I let him out of his cage for exercise, he dashes right toward the first pair of shoes he sees. One time he crawled into a boot and struggled for a while before he got out.

He usually gets in the shoe, and after a few minutes removes the innersole and places it next to the shoe. We have no idea why he is so fascinated with it, but now we make sure he doesn't get to our good shoes.

We gave him an old boot to play with and it keeps him occupied for hours. — R. Graves, San Antonio, Texas

Our ferrets Fannie and Freddie did the same thing! — Heloise

Make Valentine's Day treat for loved ones

Valentine's Day is a perfect time to splurge on the one(s) you love. It's a celebration of the heart. And how can you better say "I love you" than through food.

Even in the 90's, the way to a man's heart still is through his stomach. And for all you male cooks, women also love to be spoiled with something rich and sweet.

This year, make something romantically delicious to eat for your Valentine. The folks at National Oats Company have provided following recipes to help you set the mood for romance and celebrate your love for others.

MACADAMIA AND COCONUT CREAM CHEESECAKE

Crust:
1 1/2 cups oatmeal
1/2 cup chopped macadamia nuts

BOSTON (AP) - The pop group New Kids on the Block denied a former producer's charge that they do little of their own singing.

"It is a well-known fact that on our first tour in 1989, we used some musical and vocal backing tracks to enhance our live performance - as do many other well-known performers that emphasize movement and dance," the group said in a statement Thursday.

"However, for the past five tours our entire show has been totally live."

The New York Post quoted Greg McPherson, a University of Massachusetts music professor, as saying brothers Michael Johnson and Maurice Starr are the real voices in concerts and on albums.

(or pecans)
1/3 cup brown sugar
1/3 cup butter or margarine, melted

Filling:
1 1/2 cups flake coconut
1 cup whipping cream, scalded
4 (8 oz.) pkgs. cream cheese, softened

1 cup granulated sugar
4 eggs

Topping:
1 cup whipping cream
2 tablespoons powdered sugar
2 tablespoons coconut liqueur
1/2 cup toasted coconut flakes
Macadamia nuts (or pecans) for garnish

For crust, combine all ingredients in medium bowl. Press into bottom of 10-inch springform pan. Bake in a 350 degree oven 12 to 15 minutes, or till golden brown. Cool while preparing filling.

For filling, puree coconut and hot cream in blender or food processor till finely shredded, about 4 minutes. Set aside. In large mixer bowl, whip softened cream cheese, add sugar and eggs mixing till smooth. Gradually beat in coconut mixture and liqueur. Pour over baked crust. Cover top loosely with foil. Place a pan of water in oven on lowest oven rack. Bake cheesecake for 1 1/2 hours. Turn off oven and let cheesecake stand for 1 hour. Remove from oven and let stand at room temperature for 1 hour more. Chill.

For topping, whip cream, powdered sugar and remaining 2 tablespoons liqueur till stiff. Spread on chilled cheesecake. Sprinkle with toasted coconut. Garnish with nuts. Makes 12 servings.

FRANGELICO WHITE CHOCOLATE PARFAITS

Oatmeal Crunch:
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1 cup oatmeal
1/4 cup brown sugar
1/4 cup chopped filberts (hazelnuts)

or pecans
2 tablespoons Frangelico liqueur
White Chocolate Mousse:
4 oz. white chocolate, broken into pieces

1/4 cup butter
3 eggs, separated
1/3 cup powdered sugar
1/4 cup Frangelico liqueur
1 cup whipping cream
1/8 teaspoon cream of tartar

For oatmeal crunch, melt butter in 8-inch skillet over medium heat. Stir in remaining ingredients. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, 4 to 6 minutes, or till golden brown. Spread on ungreased cookie sheet to cool. Set aside.

For mousse, combine white chocolate and butter in small saucepan. Melt over low heat, stirring constantly. Set aside. In medium bowl, beat the egg yolks, sugar and liqueur till mixture is slightly thickened and pale yellow, about 5 minutes. Pour the mixture into the top of a double boiler and cook, whisking constantly, over simmering water till thick, about 3 minutes. Pour into large bowl. Whisk in the white chocolate mixture and stir till smooth and cool. In mixer bowl, beat cream till stiff. In a separate bowl with clean beaters, beat the egg whites and cream of tartar till stiff but not dry. Gently fold the egg whites into the chocolate mixture; then fold in whipped cream. Refrigerate covered till set, about 3 hours.

To serve, spoon 2 heaping tablespoons oatmeal crunch in bottom of 4 (8 oz.) parfait glasses, spoon 1/4 cup mousse mixture, sprinkle with 2 tablespoons oatmeal crunch. Repeat layers, ending with mousse. Garnish as desired. Makes 4 servings. (You can easily make 6 servings by using smaller glasses).

HUGHS AND KISSES PIZZA

1 cup oatmeal
1/2 cup all-purpose flour
1/4 cup unsweetened cocoa powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 cup butter or margarine, softened
1/2 cup peanut butter
1/3 cup granulated sugar
1/3 cup brown sugar

1 egg
2 tablespoons milk
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
3 dozen Hershey's Hugs and Kisses, unwrapped
2 ozs. vanilla flavored candy coating, cut into pieces
1 teaspoon oil

In medium bowl, combine oats, flour, cocoa and baking soda. Set aside. In large bowl, cream butter and sugar till light and fluffy. Add flavorings. Gradually add flour and oat mixture, mixing well. Gather dough into a ball and flatten slightly. Working with a third of the dough at a time, roll out 1/4-inch thick on lightly floured surface. Cut with floured cookie cutters. Place on baking sheets. Bake in 350 degree oven for 8 to 10 minutes, or till cookies begin to brown. Remove to racks to cool completely. Decorate by melting candy coating and drizzling with a spoon. Makes 3 to 4 dozen cookies.

VALENTINE DESSERTS

The phrase "facing the music," which entered into popular talk in 1785, derived from theater jargon. It originally characterized the difficulty an actor "faced" when stepping before footlights.
