Pullback beginning this weekend

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan is ordering U.S. Marines to begin their pullback from Beirut to Navy ships off the Lebanese coast this weekend, though a contingent of 500 American military personnel will remain, a senior White House official says.

The president was expected to receive a report today from Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger outlining the timetable for removing Marines from Beirut, and to approve it almost immediately.

The withdrawal of the Marines, who were sent to Beirut 17 months ago as part of a multinational peacekeeping force, will be completed 30 days from today, according to the official, who briefed reporters Thursday with the stipulation that he remain anonymous.

Though 500 military personnel to remain on land

In fact, the initial phase of the redeployment is already under way with the moving of some equipment from the Beirut airport to the ships to which the Marines are assigned.

Meanwhile, Beirut radio reported that President Amin Gemayel of Lebanon has agreed to renounce his government's May 1983 troop-withdrawal agreement with Israel, and to endorse an eight-point Saudi plan that will allow him to remain in office.

While revealing the timetable to reporters, the White House official was adamant in rejecting the notion that the redeployment, or the Saudi diplomacy in the region, signal a failure of U.S. policies in the Middle East.

"Look at what is happening here in the framework of two years of effort," he said. "There have surely been setbacks, bad ones, but I think we have to recognize that there have been substantial gains."

As an example, he cited the exodus of the Palestine Liberation Organization from Lebanon. "It was not until the multinational force went in that the United States was able to broker the departure of 5,000 (Palestinians) from Beirut," he said.

"The striking outcome is that there is even more deeply felt today an awareness of the imperative of solving the Palestinian problem and a recognition that only the United States can advance all the parties toward a solution," he said. He also said the Lebanese government has shown it is willing to take risks in an effort to establish a representative government that would include all of its various factions.

Maintaining he was "very puzzled" by any assertion of waning U.S. influence in the area, the official said that the United States "is acknowledged by the states in the area as central to the peace process."

The official insisted there was no reason for Secretary of State George P. Shultz to cancel his planned vacation in the Bahamas because of the Lebanese situation. Shultz left Thursday.

The 500 military personnel staying behind include about 200 Marines who will guard the U.S. Embassy, about 150 Army trainers and others who were described only as managerial personnel.

Minutes before jury selection was set to begin, 22nd District Judge David Wesley Gulley on Thursday granted a continuance of the pending theft trial of Hereford farmer Robert Strain.

That action resulted from news coverage, aired Tuesday night by an Amarillo television station, which focused on 22nd District Attorney Roland Saul's alleged involvement in the Strain case. Defense attorney Travis Shelton filed the motion for continuance at 11:43 a.m. and the hearing was convened at 12:54 p.m. by Judge Gulley.

Strain was to have been tried this week on theft charges stemming from a raid made on his barn last August. The discovery reportedly put an end to a multi-county fencing operation that Strain was allegedly running from his farm northeast of Hereford. Two Lubbock men last month pleaded guilty to theft charges made in connection with the case.

The KFDD-Channel 10 news story was based on two documents: a notarized affidavit prepared by Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Deputy Harry Hardisty and an officer's report written by Deputy Luis Liscano detailing his work on a burglary case involving White's Auto Store and La Plata Junior High School. The investigation of that Liscano case led to the search of an auto owned by Joe Angel Martinez and the home of his father, Daniel Martinez, an employee of Strain who was living in one of Strain's farm houses.

Among other things, Hardisty claimed Saul knew that stolen merchandise was stored in Strain's barn at least 18 months prior to the arrest and failed to act upon that knowledge.

Channel 10 anchorman Mark Robertson-Baker, present for the hearing on Thursday, said the station obtained the papers from "an unnamed outside source." Hardisty last month gave the sworn affidavit and report to Deaf Smith County Justice of the Peace O.K. Neal, who said he intended to turn them over to the Texas Prosecutor's Coordinating Council in Austin.

That body is investigating alleged misconduct on the part of the district attorney's office.

Also investigating is the Deaf Smith County Grand Jury, which has had help from an assistant attorney general.

Hardisty was called to testify during the course of the continuance hearing. Also called were Liscano and Daniel Martinez, who no longer works for Strain and lives in Amarillo. Saul asked permission to question the men because "I want to find out if there has been a purposeful interference with the trial of this case."

Gulley was of the opinion that a continuance hearing did not provide the forum for making such a determination, but did allow Saul to call the three witnesses. Shelton also questioned the men. In the course of questioning, conflicting testimonies were given as to the events of an unspecified night in March, 1982, when the Martinez house was searched and officers failed to turn up any stolen goods.

Hardisty, introduced the jury panel on Tuesday as a bailiff of the court, said under oath he was aware of the Tuesday night story but did not release the documents to the television station.

He also said he took part in the search at the Martinez home along with Saul, David Martinez, then an assistant to Saul, Special Investigator Terry Colston, Liscano and "several city officers."

According to Liscano's report, the men next went to the barn owned by Strain, where they "walked around it and tried to look in the windows but couldn't see inside." Hardisty said the group proceeded to the Strain residence, found no one at home and left the property.

Hardisty said the men went to Strain's barn because they had been told by Daniel Martinez that the items they were looking for were stored in the barn. He claimed he specifically heard Liscano say that information had come from Martinez. However, both Liscano and Martinez later testified to the contrary.

"Daniel Martinez did not ever tell me there were items of stolen property in Strain's barn," Liscano said when he took the witness stand. "And I never told Harry (Hardisty) that."

"Did you have a conversation with Deputy Hardisty prior to this hearing?" Saul asked Liscano.

"Yes," he replied. Liscano also responded affirmatively when Saul asked if that conversation pertained to the hearing. He also said Hardisty attempted to influence how he might testify during that hearing, a confrontation which took place right before noon in Liscano's office.

Liscano said Daniel Martinez was at home the night the search was conducted, but later reversed that statement. When questioned further, he said, "I can't really remember; it's been a long time ago."

Closing testimony came from Daniel Martinez, who said he was there on the night of the search but did not tell anyone that the stolen items could be found in Strain's barn. He also said his employment with Strain ended soon after and he had in fact been planning to leave before that night.

Voting to go as proposed

School board elections are to go on as proposed in an as yet unapproved lawsuit settlement, Federal Court Judge Mary Lou Robinson has ordered.

That information was disclosed by Dr. Harrell Holder, Hereford Independent School District superintendent, Thursday night at a board of education meeting. In other matters, board members heard a lengthy report on House Bill 246, approved several administrative contracts and okayed bids to be issued for completing the Bluebonnet Intermediate School's air conditioning system.

On Jan. 25, the HISD school governing body approved a proposed solution to a lawsuit filed against it Nov. 29. The suit claimed the then exclusively at-large voting procedures for school board positions made it unfairly difficult for Hispanics to be elected. The settlement suggests there be five single-member voting districts along with two at-large.

With Robinson's order, relayed to Holder by HISD Attorney Kelly Frels of Houston, the elections are to be held Saturday, April 7. The two at-large spots, along with District 2, are to be decided. Those whose terms expire this spring are R.C. Hoelscher, Bill Townsend and Tom Simons, with the former two having already announced they are seeking reelection through the at-large route. John Walch, assistant superintendent for instruction, initiated the hour-and-a-half discussion on House Bill 246. The state legislative proposal would change several aspects of kindergarten through 12th grade education, affecting athletics and graduation requirements, among other things. Holder said 90-95 percent of the bill would likely be upheld, as lengthy hearings were conducted last summer.

The legislation will be described in more detail to area teachers and administrators next Friday during an in-service presentation for nine school districts. Dr. Tom Anderson, deputy commissioner for planning research and curriculum of the Texas Education Agency, is to address H.B. 246 during two sessions in the Stanton Junior High School auditorium.

Seventeen HISD administrators had contracts approved Thursday night following a two-hour-plus closed session. They included Directors Ophelia Echevarria, bilingual; Kenneth Helms, vocational; Marjorie Lasiter, special education; Mal Manchee, program development; Ed McCreary, federal programs; and Jerry Taylor, athletics. Walch and Larry Wartes, assistant superintendent, were also rehired.

All nine principals in the district had their contracts extended. They consist of Gary Billingsley, Northwest Primary; Howard Birdwell, Bluebonnet; John Dominguez, Shirley Intermediate; Bill McCarter, Hereford High; John Poindexter, Aikman Primary; Robert Ray, West Central Intermediate; Terry Russell, Stanton; Raymond Schroeder, La Plata Junior High; and Phillip Shook, Tierra Blanca Primary.

In other personnel matters, board members approved the resignations of two high school instructors: Robert Cox and Frank W. Tindell. Leaves of absence were granted for Sharon Johnson and Guadalupe Villarreal. The three to be hired by HISD this month are Christina Chavez at Shirley, Linda S. Cox at the alternative school and Paul Sample at Stanton.

Holder, in requesting bids be let for Bluebonnet air conditioning, estimated the project would cost between $12,000 and $14,000. The intermediate school now has 45 percent of its space cooled by an evaporative system, which would be expanded to service the entire building. The effectiveness of such a move, he said, would be evaluated to determine whether other HISD schools would receive similar work. Wartes assured board members and onlookers local contractors would be sought for the Bluebonnet project.

The assistant superintendent, during his report on enrollment, said there are 59 fewer students at HHS than there were at this time last year. Overall, HISD enrollment dropped below 1983-1984 levels for the first time this school year. As of Tuesday, 4,742 children roamed the nine schools' halls, a drop of 39 from Valentine's Day in 1983.

Wartes believed 13 percent has been the highest recent absentee rate in HISD. Sickness has resulted in other Texas school districts encountering classrooms as high as one-fourth empty, he said.

Two diesel buses, ordered last spring, finally arrived Thursday, he confirmed. Though they cost about $8,000 apiece more than gasoline-powered vehicles, Wartes said, the diesel buses should eventually save HISD money. They average nine to 10 miles per gallon on rural routes, he explained, doubling what gasoline motors achieve.

A recent "audit" of HISD cafeterias proved quite successful, Wartes claimed. The entire meal program was inspected, including free-lunch confirmations, room regulations and quantity and quality of food served.

The assistant superintendent also reported 88 percent of HISD taxes have already been collected. That is "excellent," he explained, since

Legal experts blamed for delay

By KIM THOGMARTIN

A local dispute between members of the legal community has led to the continuance of a theft trial pending since Robert Strain was indicted on Sept. 1 by the Deaf Smith County Grand Jury.

"I am extremely upset," District Attorney Roland Saul maintained in a written statement Thursday after 22nd District Judge David Wesley Gulley granted a motion for continuance filed by Strain's defense attorney. "We have spent well over a month preparing for this trial."

Saul pointed out 44 witnesses were subpoenaed and were standing by, ready to testify. Some had been forced to cancel vacations and other trips because of the trial.

"Schalan Atkinson and O.K. Neal have self-righteously appointed themselves as my watchdog and have personally attacked me for over one year, but, it has now gone too far," Saul continued.

"This affidavit, which Harry Hardisty gave to O.K. Neal and which has been proven false was released to the news media apparently at a time calculated to coincide with the trial of this cause and to influence the proceedings and to obstruct justice. Because of that, the judge had no choice but to continue the case and I feel that this is extremely detrimental to the State.

"I allege that Schalan Atkinson, a member of this jury panel, and O.K. Neal have engaged in illegal and unethical conduct and have also interfered with the trial of this case and to insure that this matter is handled fairly I intend to ask for a special prosecutor to investigate this matter as soon as is possible and make a full report to the Grand Jury and to the State Bar of Texas and the Judicial Qualification Commission."

Thursday was not the first time Saul singled out Atkinson and Neal as one cause of his problems. After a suit was filed against Saul on Dec. 30 by the State Bar of Texas, asking that Saul be "reprimanded, suspended or disbarred," Saul calmed actions by Atkinson and Neal were politically motivated and that Atkinson has an interest in becoming the district attorney.

Atkinson and Neal reportedly testified before the District 13 Grievance Committee and the Deaf Smith County Grand Jury during their respective pro-

Bond sales reported

U.S. Savings Bond sales in Deaf Smith County during November totaled $6,532, bringing the 11-month 1983 figure to $94,083.

That means with one month to go, Deaf Smith had reached 111 percent of its 1983 goal of $85,000 for bond sales.

District 1, in which Deaf Smith is one of 18 county members, moved passed its 1983 goal of $5,605,000 in November. It had posted sales of $5,739,004 as of Dec. 1, $503,741 of which came in November.

Sales of the bonds during the period of January through November of last year in Texas amounted to $246,681,983, an increase of 27.6 percent over the same period in 1982. The sales represent 109.8 percent of the state's 1983 assigned dollar goal of $224,700,000.

Nationally, January through 1983 sales of Series EE Bonds were approximately $3.5 billion, up 21 percent from the previous year. One hundred two percent of the U.S. goal had been reached.

MSAWPA meeting scheduled

A second meeting to explain the new Migrant and Seasonal Agricultural Worker Protection Act is scheduled next week by Texas Employment Commission.

Darrel E. Krenke, a compliance officer with the Department of Labor in Lubbock, is to discuss how the act affects recruitings, hiring and transporting of migrant workers and bookkeeping procedures. The meeting is set for 2 p.m. Thursday in the east banquet room of Hereford Community Center.

Lester Rape of the local TEC office said crew leaders, shed operators, growers and other labor contractors are invited to attend.

The act went into effect last April, replacing the Farm Labor Registration Act. The first explanatory meeting was conducted in Hereford by the Labor Department shortly after the law came into effect.

Breakfast slated Feb. 29

The bimonthly Fun Breakfast is to be held Wednesday, Feb. 29, it was announced Thursday by Mike Carr, executive vice president of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce.

The event had tentatively been set earlier this month, according to Carr, "but we decided to have a Leap Year Breakfast."

Carr promised "a lot of surprises" for the unique date of the breakfast. He said it will be cosponsored by Edward D. Jones & Company, an investment firm represented in Hereford by Ike Stevens.

New diabetes drug tested

HOUSTON (AP) — An experimental drug believed to prevent cell destruction that causes blindness and kidney disease in diabetics could be the "first step forward" in controlling the disorder since insulin, doctors say.

The first human studies of the drug sorbinil began recently at 12 hospitals around the country, including the Hermann Hospital Eye Center in Houston.

Researchers hope to enroll as many as 100 study subjects. All must be diabetics between 18 and 40 years of age who have had the disease 3 to 10 years and are on insulin therapy.

John Walsh, clinical research coordinator of the study, said the drug represents "a totally new approach — the next big step, it if works."

Death mask will go to Mexico

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — The death mask of Pancho Villa, displayed for years at a private school in this West Texas city, will be given a final resting place later this month in Mexico among other historic relics of the Mexican Revolution, officials say.

The mask, a clay likeness of the northern Mexico revolutionary general, was made soon after Villa was assassinated in Parral, Chihuahua, Mexico, in 1923.

It later inherited special historical significance because grave robbers dug up Villa's grave and removed his head. For half a century, the mask has been displayed and closely guarded at the private Radford School in El Paso.

On Feb. 26, however, it will be turned over to Mexican officials, who will house it at a Chihuahua City museum that contains Villa and other revolution memorabilia, said Josefina Salas-Parra, Radford School director.

Hispanics threaten boycott

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Members of the League of United Latin American Citizens, which has threatened to boycott the Summer Olympics if ABC-TV does not hire more Hispanic announcers, will meet with network executives to discuss the issue.

LULAC President Mario Obledo of Sacramento, Calif., said Thursday a March 7 meeting has been scheduled in Los Angeles to "talk about why we're threatening a boycott."

Obledo announced last month that LULAC, the nation's largest Hispanic organization with more than 100,000 members, would sponsor a boycott of the Summer Olympics in Los Angeles if ABC, which will broadcast the Games, does not hire more Hispanic announcers.

LULAC also is requesting that the network promise to buy more goods and services from Hispanics in Los Angeles during the Olympics, Obledo said.

Postal Service turns profit again

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Postal Service made money for the second straight year in 1983, the first year it did not get its usual subsidy from Congress, Postmaster General William F. Bolger says in the agency's annual report.

Bolger told the Postal Service's Board of Governors that the agency "has firmly established its financial credentials as an efficient public agency that is making significant contributions to our national life and economy."

He said the $616 million in income for 1983 marked the third year in the past five that the Postal Service operated in the black. "A stronger economy that boosted volume to 119.4 billion pieces of mail and continued productivity gains made major contributions to 1983's positive results," the postmaster general said in the report issued this week.

Bolger, who had told a congressional committee last year that a surplus would be achieved for the year, said the result of the Postal Service's ability to live within its income means "stretching the interval between rate increases."

Three miners found dead

COMMODORE, Pa. (AP) — Rescue workers found the bodies today of three miners who had been trapped by an underground coal mine explosion, the company announced.

The announcement was made at a press conference by Barry Novotny, mine manager for administration for Greenwich Collieries No. 1. The bodies remained inside the mine at the site of the accident, he said.

Searchers found the three about 4:15 a.m., and the families were notified about 30 minutes later, Novotny said. The bodies of the deceased remained inside the mine and would not be removed until "we complete the ventilation" of deadly gases, Novotny said.

Tenant threatens to bomb hotel

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — A man who runs a gem shop in the basement of the Hyatt Hotel wired himself to high explosives and threatened to blow up the 400-room building today, police said, forcing tennis star Ivan Lendl and hundreds of other guests to evacuate.

John Hay, 74, was still holding out tonight, seven hours after the start of the siege, and police said they were prepared for a long wait.

Hay told police he had no close relatives and had nothing to lose after spending more than $250,000 in legal fees trying to renew his lease in the hotel, which is in the Kings Cross entertainment district.

He reportedly had wired himself to two cases of gelignite, a powerful explosive used for blasting. Police said they were taking the threat very seriously as Hay was a former opal miner and was experienced with explosives.

Mexico invites foreign investors

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexico will open the door to more foreign investment as a way to increase export earnings and help improve the ailing economy, the government announced Thursday.

Adolfo Hegewisch Fernandez, undersecretary for foreign investments, presented a list of 34 areas in which the government will permit overseas investors to hold a majority share of Mexican companies.

The list of high-priority manufacturing and service areas may be expanded later, Hegewisch said.

Under Mexican commerce laws, foreigners generally can own not more than 49 percent of Mexican companies.

Strain, represents to the court that there is absolutely no truth in any statement or allegation or insinuation that he, Robert Strain, was involved in any kind of conspiracy or 'cover-up' with the criminal district attorney or any other person," the motion for continuance read.

In closing arguments, Shelton said he believed Strain's right to a fair trial would be denied without the continuance. "These news releases are calculated to prejudice the jury panel, and it is the belief of the defendant that in the interest of justice, this case should be continued for a reasonable period of time to allow these malicious rumors to either die down or result in specific charges which the defendant can defend against."

Saul, in his closing remarks, said, "The State is most anxious to try this case. We had some 44 witnesses ready to testify.

"But I now believe that someone has willfully and maliciously tried to interfere with this case. Because a bailiff was involved in these statements, if we tried the case there's a good chance that the case would be reversed on appeal," he pointed out.

"As much as we hate to, we would have to agree that the court should grant the continuance," Saul concluded.

Gulley announced his decision without delay, listing six reasons why he felt the trial should not be held as planned. His first consideration was members of the prospective jury may have watched the news, which included a statement by hardisty, who had already been introduced as a bailiff of the court.

Gulley also listed the subject matter of the news, and the day on which it ran, the unexpected length of a driving while intoxicated trial which began on Tuesday and concluded Thursday just before noon, the reasonably expected length of the Strain trial and the fact that he (Gulley) has other judicial duties next week in Oldham County.

Finally, he pointed out an apparent need for a special setting for the Strain trial. "This should be tried as the only case in the setting," he said, meaning there should be no other cases on the docket when a new jury is impaneled.

Gulley also expressed his wishes to bring the case to trial as soon as possible, although he was not able to set a new date at the conclusion of the hearing on Thursday.

The impaneled jury members filed into the courtroom at 2 p.m. as planned, at which time Gulley briefly outlined the outcome of the hearing and excused the jury.

Iraq and Iran battle today

By ALEX EFTY Associated Press Writer

Iran claimed its forces killed 1,100 Iraqi troops in a fierce, three-hour battle today and seized 24 square miles of territory as it continued a massive new offensive.

Tehran radio said a total of 2,100 Iraqi troops have been killed in the two days of fighting, which reportedly included hand-to-hand combat this morning, and that Iran's forces were in "complete control" of the captured territory.

A senior U.S. official in Washington said as many as 500,000 troops were massing around the combat zone, a 100-mile stretch of the border between the two Persian Gulf nations.

An Iraqi military communique Thursday claimed its army had "crushed" the assault with a counterattack that routed the Iranians and inflicted heavy casualties.

Iraq provided little new information about the fighting today, but its official news agency quoted military officials as saying an Iranian air raid killed 14 civilians and wounded 12 in a residential area of Ali al-Gharbi, which is in the combat zone.

Foreign journalists and neutral observers are not permitted near the battle zone by either side and none of the claims could be independently confirmed. Iran launched its latest offensive in the 3½-year war with Iraq about midnight Wednesday, both sides reported.

Iranian troops struck along the center of the more than 700-mile border, at the point closest to the Baghdad, the Iraqi capital. Iraq has extensive fortifications in the area because Baghdad is only 100 miles to the west.

Twelve hours after the assault began, Iran claimed its troops had breached Iraqi lines and had killed or wounded at least 1,200 Iraqi soldiers.

Tehran Radio said today that, "Following the operations and victories of the combatants of Islam (Iranians) last night, these forces are at present in complete control of the situation and the liberated areas."

"The heights and the predetermined objectives of the Changleh area south of Mehran are all in the hands of the Islamic combatants, and the areas behind these heights are within the range of vision and domination of the Islamic combatants," the government radio said in a broadcast monitored in Cyprus.

It quoted correspondents of the Iranian news agency IRNA as saying that after three hours of fighting today, including hand-to-hand combat, Iranian troops had liberated the Chagha-Askar and Abbas Zim heights. A large number of Iraqis were killed, wounded or captured, the radio said.

A series of Iranian military communiqués reported by IRNA Thursday said the advancing troops penetrated border fortifications southeast of Mehran, Iran, and regained Iranian territory that had been under Iraqi occupation since the beginning of the war. They crossed the border in the vicinity of the Iraqi town of Badrah, IRNA said.

The Iranian communiqués said Iraq mounted six successive counterattacks throughout the day, but these were beaten back with heavy losses every time.

Associated Press correspondent Mohammed Salam, reporting from Baghdad, said Iraqi military communiqués read over Baghdad radio Thursday denied the Iranian claims of success.

Following murder conviction

Baby killer faces charges

By KEN HERMAN Associated Press Writer

GEORGETOWN, Texas (AP) — Convicted baby-killer Gene Jones is headed to prison for a 99-year sentence, but prosecutors are not done with the nurse who used a syringe as a weapon.

"Now it's act two, scene one. We've got another trial to go," said Bexar County Assistant District Attorney Nick Rothe, referring to another charge against Ms. Jones.

Jurors on Thursday set a 99-year prison term for Ms. Jones in the Sept. 17, 1982, death of Chelsea McClellan. The 15-month-old girl died after two injections from the nurse at a Kerrville clinic.

"That's part of why I felt Gene was so dangerous," said juror Ann Bradley. "She can fit into our medical institutions and so smoothly accomplish those deeds."

Prosecutors convinced jurors that the shots carried succinylcholine, a muscle paralyzing drug.

Ms. Jones' next trial probably will involve a San Antonio case in which she is charged with injuring a month-old boy in Medical Center Hospital. Rolando Santos almost bled to death after an injection of heparin, a blood-thinning drug, according to prosecutors.

Rolando was a patient at the hospital's pediatric intensive care unit, where he was admitted in January 1982 with pneumonia.

The San Antonio trial is set for Feb. 27, but Bexar County District Attorney Sam Millsap said Thursday it probably would be postponed until the late spring.

Bexar County prosecutors are investigating a string of suspicious infant deaths at Medical Center from 1978 to early 1982, the period when Ms. Jones worked there.

The nurse, who cried when convicted here Wednesday, also faces charges of injuring seven children, including Chelsea, at Dr. Kathleen Holland's Kerrville office. Ms. Jones only worked there three weeks.

Ms. Jones' motive was a need to prove there were enough sick children to justify building a pediatric intensive care unit in Kerrville, prosecutors say.

Kerr County District Attorney Ron Sutton, who plans to assist the prosecution in the Santos case, said he has not decided whether the seven Kerr County charges would be tried.

"I've got to look at today's punishment and decide whether it's worth the time and expense," he said after the 99-year sentence was announced. "That's something that I'll have to think about."

Jurors took only about an hour Thursday to set the maximum sentence in the Kerrville case. Under Texas law, a 99-year term is equivalent to a life sentence. Inmates serving 99 years or life are eligible for parole in about 20 years.

Ms. Jones appeared dazed as she stood while the jurors were polled on their punishment decision.

Sutton was pleased with the punishment.

"The 99-year sentence is psychologically more effective than life. Ninety-nine has a certain ring to it; life doesn't," he said.

The sentence did not shock the defense.

Gemayel accepts peace plan

By FAROUK NASSAR Associated Press Writer

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — President Amin Gemayel has agreed to scrap his security pact with Israel, as part of a Lebanese peace plan, Lebanon's foreign minister said today. Gemayel's foes answered the offer with rocket barrages against his Christian east Beirut enclave.

President Reagan, meanwhile, ordered U.S. Marines to begin pulling out of Beirut this weekend.

Before Foreign Minister Elie Salem announced Gemayel's acceptance of the eight-point, Saudi-sponsored peace proposals, the Lebanese opposition had already rejected the plan.

Central American envoy resigns key position

By JAMES GERSTENZANG AP White House Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard B. Stone, who became a key figure in the Reagan administration's Central American efforts, is stepping down from his job as President Reagan's special envoy to the troubled region.

Stone was said to be seeking a new job in the administration, after becoming involved in "personality differences" with at least one other key figure in the administration.

His resignation was said to have involved no policy differences with Reagan or with Langhorne Motley, the assistant secretary of state for Latin America, though The Washington Post is saying in today's editions that Stone's decision evolved from disputes with Motley.

Stone, 55, a former Democratic senator from Florida who lost his reelection bid in 1980, made frequent trips to Central America as Reagan's representative, assigned to the task of trying to stem the civil war in El Salvador where leftist guerrillas are fighting the U.S.-backed government.

Stone also went to Nicaragua to confer with the leftist government there.

Administration officials Thursday had no on-the-record comment about Stone's resignation.

The Post said Stone is resigning March 1 and that he wrote the president last week of his intentions.

Stone was said to be remaining in favor in the administration, and administration officials were said to be hoping that a position could be found for him that would involve a broader area than Central America.

Stone, appointed last June, has been Reagan's only special envoy to Central America. However, there have been a number of turnovers among Central American policy makers.

Thomas R. Pickering, a career diplomat, was appointed to replace Deane R. Hinton as ambassador to El Salvador. Motley, an Alaskan businessman replaced Thomas O. Enders. Secretary of State George P. Shultz praised both Enders and Hinton, but critics portrayed Enders as insufficiently tough in his conduct of Central America policy.

In addition, Reagan, seeking to build public support for his policy and develop a long-range plan for the region, brought former Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and several other well-known political, academic and business figures into the discussion of the region by creating a National Bipartisan Commission on Central America.

The Post said that when Stone took the post, he was viewed in the State Department as an instrument of White House policy sent by then-national security affairs adviser William F. Clark.

His job increasingly overlapped with those of other officials, including Motley, the Post said.

"Making decisions and coordinating policy was not his strong point," one official was quoted as saying. "He doesn't read anything he's sent, as far as I can tell."

The Post quoted another official as saying that Stone began learning about meetings to which he had not been invited, decisions on which he had not been consulted and problems about which he had not been told.

bes of alleged misconduct on the part of Saul as district attorney.

On Wednesday, Atkinson, as a prospective juror in the Strain case, addressed a letter to A.J. Robinson, an Amarillo attorney who serves as chairman of the District 13 grievance committee.

"Recently I became aware that Roland Saul was informed by the attorney general's office that he, Roland Saul, was being investigated by a grand jury with regard to his possible connection to the Robert Strain cases pending in this county," the letter reads. "He, nevertheless, has in writing refused to withdraw himself as prosecutor. I learned of this from Linda Walden, assistant attorney general.

"Yesterday, when I appeared for jury duty, I was advised as a prospective juror that one of the cases on the docket for trial this week involves the defendant, Robert Strain. During my appearance as a juror it was confirmed to me that Mr. Saul and his staff are continuing to prosecute these statements."

Atkinson explained to Robinson in the letter that she believes Saul has violated at least two state bar rules by failing to withdraw himself from the cases. She also claims that she would be in violation of state bar rules should she fail to report such information.

Atkinson said she had delivered copies of the letter to Gulley and to Saul.

"We cannot avoid the fact that he is being investigated," Atkinson said after the hearing on Thursday. "Until that matter is cleared up, he needs to remove himself as a prosecutor in this case."

Documents prepared by Deaf Smith County Deputy Sheriff Harry Hardisty for Justice of the Peace Neal, who planned to give them to the Texas Prosecutor's Coordinating Council, ended up in the hands of Amarillo television station KFDA.

It was Channel 10's Tuesday story, based on information contained in those papers, that led Strain to file for a continuance. Asked if she was the one who gave the affidavit and officer's report to KFDA, Atkinson replied, "I did not."

When asked if she had any idea who did release the documents, she said "yes." Atkinson refused, however, to name that person or persons.

"I am not suggesting to you that Mr. Saul is guilty of anything," she explained. "I'm just saying that while this investigation is underway he should remove himself as prosecutor in this case."

Atkinson this morning said she has no interest in becoming the criminal district attorney of Deaf Smith County.

Ann Landers

Gift of a good name

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A while back you printed a letter expressing the thought that the most treasured thing you can give a child is a good name. I found it very moving and meant to cut it out, but somehow it got away from me.

Now a distant relative whose last name is the same as ours has done something that has brought shame on all of us.

I want our sons to realize the importance of keeping our name untarnished. Will you please hunt up that poem and run it again? I promise to clip it this time.—A Mother In Ohio gave you and another you may claim, But remember, when you're tempted, to be careful of his name.

It was fair the day you got it, and a worthy name to bear. When he took it from his father, there was no dishonor there.

Through the years he proudly wore it, to his father he was true, And that name was clean and spotless when he passed it on to you.

Oh, there's much that he has given that he values not at all. He has watched you break your playthings int he days when you were small.

You have lost the knife he gave you and you've scattered many a game, But you'll never hurt your father if you're careful with his name.

It is yours to wear forever, yours to wear the while you live.

Yours, perhaps, some distant morning, another boy to give. And you'll smile as did your father — with a smile that all can share,

If a clean name and a good name you are giving him to wear.

Here's another letter about names:

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I just read the letter from "New York Observer" who doesn't like nicknames, yet his friends insist on calling him what THEY like in spite of the fact that he has asked them repeatedly to call him Robert. He made a point that this is an American custom. Europeans and the British are more reserved. They don't have a tendency to get so chummy.

I have the same problem. My name is Cathy. It is not an abbreviation for Catherine or Kathleen. It is just plain Cathy. I can't tell you how many people insist on calling me one of the other names. It drives me up the wall.

Most people have strong feelings about their name. It is the one thing they can call their own. Please emphasize the importance of respecting this most personal of possessions. Maybe they will listen to you.—Cathy In California

DEAR CATHY: Don't bet the rent. What you call "chummy" is all-American informality. No disrespect is intended. Americans hang looser than most folks.

Drought, freeze impact food prices

COLLEGE STATION — For most consumers far from the farm and ranch, the impact of the 1983 summer drought and winter freeze will be measured at the grocery store.

"Since the impact on food prices may come later than consumers expect, planning ahead can save dollars this year," says Dr. Dymple Cooksey, a foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service.

The drought will affect consumers almost exclusively through meats and poultry, especially beef, she says. Higher feed costs and shrinking margins for producers will probably mean some reduction in meat supplies, and higher meat prices in the last half of 1984 and into 1985.

In the meantime, beef supplies and prices remain steady and attractive, because producers responded to reduced returns by sending more animals for processing last fall and winter, explains Cooksey.

Economists expect this picture to continue for the next few months, but supplies will tighten by summer. "Now is an excellent time for consumers to purchase and freeze beef," she says.

A similar situation exists with pork, adds the specialist.

The winter freeze has taken its toll on citrus and fresh vegetable prices, says Cooksey. According to the United States Department of Agriculture, prices have moved up this month, even on commodities from areas not affected by the freeze.

The produce supply may be seriously disrupted for another month, since the tomato crop was wiped out in Florida and Texas and other Food prices will probably rise in 1984, but not all of that increase should be blamed on the weather, says the specialist. In any given year, food prices respond to many factors including inflation, domestic and foreign demand and stocks on hand, she notes.

"Consumers should remember that farm prices are usually not the major component in the food price picture, especially since processing and marketing costs make up about 70 percent of retail prices," explains Cooksey.

Students face more class time

AUSTIN (AP)—A committee of school administrators has recommended that spring sport athletes spend more time at their desks and less on the playing field.

The University Interscholastic League Loss of School Time Committee also stated Thursday that it would be "unethical" for a coach to force a student to specialize in one sport.

The committee recommended that spring sport athletes should not miss more than five days of school to play a single sport, such as baseball, prior to district championship competition.

"We're playing too dang much baseball when we ought to be in school," said John Townley, superintendent at Irving.

In addition to baseball, the proposal would apply to track, tennis, swimming and golf, but an athlete doubling up in sports could miss five days for each.

The five-day limitation also would cover speech, journalism, drama and academic events.

Varsity football teams, just as they do now, would play one game a week, and there could be no more than two varsity basketball or volleyball games a week, except for tournaments, which is the current practice.

J.C. McClesky, chairman of the UIL committee, said the proposals would be subject to approval by the athletic committee, which meets May 30, and the UIL Legislative Council, which meets in October. Some also might require a statewide vote by school administrators.

"If your ideas don't come through (here), it's not a lost cause," McClesky told spectators.

On the proposed provision to make it unethical for coaches to force an athlete to concentrate on one sport, Townley said, "I, for one, would like the boy to make his own decision. I don't think we will stop all the abuses, but it might have some deterrent on coaches who say, 'Mine is the only sport in this school.'"

It also would be a violation for coaches to "force students to enroll in athletic classes or conditioning programs during the off-season and summer months."

McClesky said violations by coaches could lead to probation or suspension for the school.

The committee recommended starting baseball season a week later in March and extending it two weeks later into June to avoid having playoff games during spring final exams. To make up time, baseball playoffs would be single games rather than a best two out-of-three series.

Individual and team tennis would be held at the same time, and in another proposed change, district champions in golf would be decided later, at the same time as baseball.

The committee recommended that no UIL events should be held on nights before final exams.

The committee rejected Sunday competition, even in the playoffs when a contest has been postponed by bad weather.

Another proposal would prohibit students from missing class for any scrimmage.

McClesky said the recommendations considered Thursday ranged "from the sublime to the ridiculous, maybe," but he added, "We're delivering a message that the UIL is trying to clean its own house."

On a barnstorming tour in the late 19th century, John L. Sullivan offered $1,000 to any man who could stay four rounds with him. Fifth men tried and only one succeeded.

LA QUINTA, Calif. (AP)—Jimmy Connors breezed past Bob Lutz 6-1, 6-2 in the third round of the $255,000 Congoleum Classic men's tennis tournament.

Yannick Noah of France also was a convincing winner, eliminating Brian Teacher 6-3, 6-3.

Tennis coach

Robert Cox resigns

By STAN GODEK
Sports Editor
Hereford High School varsity tennis coach Robert Cox is resigning from all coaching and teaching duties with the Hereford Independent School District, effective Monday.

ROBERT COX

His resignation was accepted Thursday night by the HISD Board of Education.

Cox has served as social studies teacher and tennis coach since the 1979-80 school year, according to the HISD superintendent's office.

"What we are going to do is we are not going to name a head (tennis) coach or an interim coach at this time. We will utilize the coaches we have available and make a decision at a later date, preferably, early summer," Hereford Athletic Director Jerry Taylor said Thursday afternoon.

Cox left with the boys and girls varsity tennis teams for the San Angelo Invitational Tennis Tournament earlier Thursday and was not available for comment. Cox reportedly announced his resignation Feb. 1 to accept a job for a Texas school textbook company, according to Taylor.

Ruben "Pudgy" Vargas will coach the high school team until a more definite arrangement can be worked out, Taylor said. Vargas has been an assistant with the team for the past few seasons.

The Athletic Department also has employed the services of Janet McWhorter, a teacher at Tierra Blanca Primary School. She is to work with both the high school and junior high tennis teams.

Taylor said Cox served well during his tenure at HHS. "He is a fine coach. Cox has a vast knowledge about the game of tennis. I think he has improved the tennis program considerably since he's been here at Hereford. And I'm hopeful that we can continue to improve it."

There will be no changes at the junior high head coaching level. Rocky Rodriguez will continue his duties there.

"Both Rodriguez and Vargas have been working with the high school youths the past few years, so I really do not think we will see a dropoff in the tennis program," Taylor emphasized.

"I see no reason for anyone to let up."

Though Cox's resignation came with relatively short notice, Taylor said, as he understood the situation, if

"I think he has improved the tennis program considerably..."
Athletic Director Jerry Taylor

Cox were to accept his new job, he would have to do so "in a hurry."

"We did not want to hold back him or his family. If we thought it would be detrimental" to let Cox go on such a short notice, "we would not have felt so free to let him go," Taylor concluded.

Kings upset Jazz, 121-99

By The Associated Press
The surprising Utah Jazz are having such a good season that even their most lopsided defeat could upset Coach Frank Layden.

"These things happen," Layden said Thursday night following a 121-99 whipping at the hands of the Kings in Kansas City. "The first time we came in here this year I said that we would split with them, and here we are — they've won two here and we won two from them in our place."

In other National Basketball Association games, the Boston Celtics downed the Golden State Warriors 125-115, the New York Knicks defeated the Indiana Pacers 100-94, the Denver Nuggets trounced the Atlanta Hawks 117-102 and the Houston Rockets beat the San Diego Clippers 111-100. Denver and Houston both snapped six-game losing streaks.

Eddie Johnson and Larry Drew helped Kansas City score 41 points in the third quarter after the Kings led 52-42 at halftime. They shot 77 percent from the floor and 100 percent from the foul line to take a 93-75 advantage into the fourth period. The Jazz, leading the Midwest Division with a 32-20 mark, had not lost a game by more than 15 points all season.

Johnson finished with 27 points, while Drew had 20 and Joe C. Meriweather added 18. Adrian Dantley led the Jazz with 26 and Darrell Griffith had 22.

Celtics 125, Warriors 115
Robert Parish scored 28 points and Larry Bird had 17 assists as Boston took a 7½-game lead in the Atlantic Division over Philadelphia and New York. Cedric Maxwell scored 24 for Boston, while Bird added 16 points and nine rebounds. Purvis Short led Golden State with 29 points and Joe Barry Carroll had 22.

The game was tied 94-94 going into the final period after both, after the Celtics fell behind for the last time 102-100 with 9:03 left, they took control with a 16-4 streak over the next six minutes.

Knicks 100, Pacers 94
Bernard King scored 17 of his game-high 34 points in the fourth quarter to help the Knicks to their fourth straight victory and 10th in their last 11 games. The Pacers are 2-22 on the road. Trailing 81-72 early in the fourth period, New York caught up on two baskets by King and a three-point play by Bill Cartwright to make it 83-83 with 5:46 left. Steve Stipanovich led the Pacers with 16 points.

Nuggets 117, Hawks 102
Alex English scored 36 points and Kiki Vandeweghe added 30 as Denver rallied from a 17-point deficit in the first half. The Nuggets used a strong third-period performance to hand the Hawks their fifth straight loss, all on the road, where Atlanta is 5-22 this season. Denver trailed 60-43 in the second quarter and 64-54 at the half, but outscored the visitors 31-13 in the decisive third quarter. English fueled a 12-0 surge that gave Denver a 73-72 lead and later the Nuggets scored the last 10 points of the third period. Atlanta got 32 points from Dominique Wilkins.

Rockets 111, Clippers 100
Caldwell Jones scored 23 points and Elvin Hayes came off the bench to add a season-high 22 for Houston. The Clippers led 62-57 at halftime, but scored just 38 points in the final two periods and suffered their third straight loss and eighth in 10 games since the All-Star break. Allen Leavell scored nine of his 17 points in the final period to help Houston pull away. James Donaldson led San Diego with 18.

Illinois burned by Turner

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer

The Illinois basketball team knew it would be Eric Turner taking the last shot for Michigan. The problem was, the Illini couldn't do anything about it.

"We would have liked to double-team Turner and we discussed it at the timeout, but we just didn't get it done," said Illinois Coach Lou Henson after Thursday night's 62-60 upset by the Wolverines.

Turner, Michigan's best clutch player, scored 22 points and hit a baseline jumper with two seconds remaining to lead Michigan's triumph over the nation's seventh-ranked team.

"I was trying hard to get open at the end," Turner said. "I wanted the ball — if not to shoot, then to pass to the open man. But, really, I wanted to be the one to shoot at the end. I didn't shoot with a lack of confidence."

The upset was one of three in college basketball, as No. 11 Purdue was beaten by Michigan State 63-53 and No. 15 Washington lost to Oregon State 64-52. In other action, fourth-ranked Houston beat Texas Tech 78-53; No. 5 Nevada-Las Vegas whipped Pacific 92-52; No. 12 Tulsa took an 82-60 victory over Creighton; 17th-ranked Indiana stopped Iowa 49-45 and 20th-ranked Temple routed Rhode Island 85-68.

Top Ten
Before his winning shot, Turner had pulled the Wolverines into a 60-60 tie with a jumper from the left corner with 1:20 remaining.

"I didn't know when it left my hand if it was going in," Turner said of his game-winner. "It felt like a good release, but I still wasn't sure until it went in."

Efrem Winters was high for Illinois with 16 points. Michael Young helped Houston overcome a sluggish start with 20 points, and Akeem Olajuwon added 14 to lead the Cougars over Texas Tech. The Cougars extended their record of consecutive Southwest Conference victories to 36 and ran their conference mark this season to 12-0.

"We worked hard all week in practice, but when we came out we weren't mentally sharp," Houston Coach Guy Lewis said. "It was tough the first half, no question about it. But the second half, our offense got untracked and we played with better instinct."

Richie Adams collected 18 points and 11 rebounds as Nevada-Las Vegas rolled past Pacific with a tough defense. Adams, the Rebels' center, was the top scorer in a well-distributed offensive attack. Eleven of the 12 players used by UNLV scored.

Hereford Panhellenic Association to meet

The Hereford Panhellenic Association will hold its annual business meeting Monday at 7 p.m. in the Flame Room. At this meeting, 1984 officers will be installed and planning will begin for the March and June parties held each year for senior girls interested in going through Rush in the fall.

The Hereford Panhellenic Association was organized in 1977 to help educate Hereford's college bound girls about sororities and to help them join the sorority of their choice through the recommendation of local women.

Approximately 50 local women belong to the Hereford Panhellenic Association, representing 14 national Greek letter sororities from 11 colleges and universities in four states.

Anyone holding membership in a Greek letter sorority who has not affiliated with Hereford Panhellenic Association is welcome to attend Monday's meeting. Contact Rhonda Nieman for more information.

Valentine party held in Fellowship Hall

The Adult Five Sunday School Department had a Valentine party Tuesday evening in the Fellowship Hall of First Baptist Church with approximately 60 members in attendance.

Charles and Wanda Hoover and Neil and Dona McNutt served as chairmen and host couples for the party which depicted a Valentine's Day theme. Posters displaying old snapshots of their families were brought and displayed. Herschel and Ruth Black led the group in singing some old-time favorites and McNutt showed colored slides of the department's last social.

A catered meal of barbecue and all the trimmings and cherry cobbler were served.

Class instructors in the department are Cuby Kitchens, Ruth McBride and Marlene Watson.

Free blood pressure clinic set Saturday

The local chapter of the American Red Cross will sponsor a free blood pressure clinic from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday in Sugarland Mall.

Local nursing volunteers will conduct the clinic under the supervision of Tillie

Miller from the Texas Department of Public Health.

High blood pressure usually has no symptoms so regular blood pressure checks are essential, stressed Betty Henson, Red Cross executive director.

Messenger Club sets meeting

Members of Messenger Extension Club will meet Feb. 23 in Garcia Club house with Mrs. Bill Page serving as hostess. Ms. Page will also provide the program concerning nature pictures.

Each member is asked to bring a covered dish to the business meeting and luncheon. Visitors are welcome to attend.

Selection has been made for drapery material for the club house and invitations for the April 14 political rally are being processed.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

Contributions are still being accepted for the memorial Bible project. These Bibles will be placed in the sanctuary for use during the worship services.

The Bibles are the Revised Standard Version and the cost is $3.50. Each Bible will have space provided for the name of the person being memorialized.

This summer there are several programs for the children's department and in addition to Vacation Bible School scheduled June 18-22, there will be a day camp for children in grades first through third. The day camp will be held each Tuesday beginning July 10 and ending July 31.

For the fourth and fifth graders there will be a pre-teen camp scheduled with an overnight camp Aug. 3-4.

TEMPLE BAPTIST CHURCH

A planning meeting for Vacation Bible School has been scheduled at 5 p.m. March 4.

A guest speaker from Giddens will be at the morning worship service Sunday at 11 a.m.

Public invited to meeting

Dr. Garry Nall, Ph.D., department of history at West Texas State University, will be the guest speaker at the Friends of the Library annual business meeting slated from 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday at the Deaf Smith County Library.

Dr. Nall will be speaker for "heirs of No Man's Land" concerning the Dust Bowl Days. He is a specialist in agricultural history and author of "The Struggle to Save the Land" which is the story of the soil conservation service.

During his talk, he will hold an open discussion on whether the Dust Bowl Days could ever happen again in the Panhandle.

This event is free of charge and open to the public.

Separate circuit needed for ovens

COLLEGE STATION — Power surges from other kitchen appliances can damage a microwave oven and result in costly repair bills, says a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service home economist.

A microwave oven should have its own 15 amp circuit, especially if it has touch controls rather than a mechanical dial control, says Bonnie L. Piernot, a specialist in family resource management.

Microwave oven manufacturers subscribe to the Underwriter's Laboratory standard that each major appliance should have its own electrical line. "But most houses are not wired that way, and many consumers have counter-top ovens that are simply plugged into the most convenient outlet," she says.

A microwave oven with touch control number pads has a micro-processor which is susceptible to the rapid rise and drop in electrical power caused by appliances like an ice-maker refrigerator or air conditioner. This power surge can damage the micro-processor's electronic circuit board, causing the oven control unit to fail, cautions Piernot.

A warranty typically covers the control unit for two years. After that, the unit will cost $125-200 plus labor, says the specialist. While the magnetron tube in a microwave usually carries a 5-10 year warranty, the control unit is covered for only two years.

Check the amperage on the circuit you are now using to make sure it is sufficient to handle a microwave oven and other appliances at the same time, advises Piernot.

If you have doubts about the circuit's adequacy, and don't want to install a separate one for the microwave alone, consider re-arranging the appliances in your kitchen, she says.

Use your circuit-breakers to determine which outlets are on different circuits in your kitchen. Then arrange the appliances so the microwave oven is not on the same circuit with other power-intensive appliances.

Avoid placing a frost-free refrigerator, toaster and toaster-oven on the same circuit as the microwave, suggests Piernot. But lights or low-power appliances like an electric can opener or mixer could be placed on the same circuit with little risk.

Placing the microwave on a different circuit from other appliances can have another advantage, says the home economist. "When several appliances are on the same circuit, you may not get full power on your microwave, even on the high setting."

Paying attention to how the microwave fits into the demands on your home's electrical power system can help get maximum performance and extend the use life of the appliance as well as save on repair bills later, says Piernot.

The Newspaper BIBLE

No one can really know what anyone else is thinking, or what he is really like, except that person himself. And no one can know God's thoughts except God's own Spirit.

And God has actually given us His Spirit (not the world's spirit) to tell us about the wonderful free gifts of grace and blessing that God has given us.

In telling you about these gifts we have even used the very words given us by the Holy Spirit, not words that we as men might choose. So we use the Holy Spirit's words to explain the Holy Spirit's facts.

But the man who isn't a Christian can't understand and can't accept these thoughts from God, which the Holy Spirit teaches us. They sound foolish to him, because only those who have the Holy Spirit within them can understand what the Holy Spirit means. Others just can't take it in.

But the spiritual man has insight into everything and that bothers and baffles the man of the world, who can't understand him at all.

How could he? For certainly he has never been one to know the Lord's thoughts, or to discuss them with Him, or to move the hands of God by prayer. But, strange as it seems, we Christians actually do have within us a portion of the very thoughts and mind of Christ.

Defense arguments may merit court review

DALLAS (AP) — Arguments that police went too far, too fast in investigating Lenell Geter may be falling on a sympathetic ear as the judge in the case said he believes the issue probably merits U.S. Supreme Court review.

State District Judge John Ovard has listened to police officers recount how they learned of the black engineer from an elderly white woman frightened by blacks and how they placed his photo in numerous lineups during a pre-trial hearing, which enters its fifth day today.

Few laws limit police activities before arrests are made, attorneys in the case say. Defense attorneys contend the police went too far, and the case should be dismissed by Ovard.

"I think this case can be the basis of an issue of what type of probable cause is necessary to make a citizen a suspect," Ovard said during a break in the hearing Thursday.

"This is a unique enough set of facts that that's (a Supreme Court ruling) the potential," the judge said.

Geter, 26, was convicted and sentenced to life in prison for the Aug. 23, 1982 robbery of a Balch Springs fast-food restaurant. He was released after nearly 16 months in prison when he was granted a new trial last December.

Dallas County District Attorney Henry Wade agreed to the scheduled April 9 trial, conceding that news reports of the case had raised doubts about the validity of the conviction.

Ovard said he would finish hearing testimony Saturday morning, but may not have a ruling on the defense's controversial motion to dismiss charges against Geter "in the interest of justice."

Ovard said the case could result in a landmark ruling, such as the Miranda ruling requiring police to inform suspects of their rights, clarifying what information police must obtain before a citizen can be considered a criminal suspect.

"The present set of laws does not deal with police procedure before arrest," said defense attorney George Hairston, an NAACP lawyer from New York. "All the law deals with is a proper arrest and thereafter. This would take it back further in time."

Assistant District Attorney Norman Kinne acknowledged that Greenville Police Lt. James Fortenberry, who set in motion the chain of suspicion that linked Geter to several Dallas-area robberies, had very little information linking Geter to any of the robberies.

If Geter was the armed robber, the prosecutor said, "I think it's an amazing piece of luck" that he was arrested.

But Kinne defended the detective's right to show a picture of a citizen to robbery victims. "I don't think anybody would like to have his photograph in a lineup. But that fact is if you or I fit the description — there is nothing to prevent the police from doing that," he said.

Fortenberry testified a 68-year-old woman, frightened by the black man sitting in a park in front of her house, led him to Geter.

Fortenberry and Plano police officer Gary Cochran learned Geter's name from his South Carolina license plate, obtained his photograph from his Texas Department of Public Safety drivers license records and staked out his apartment because they believed he fit a general description of a suspect in numerous Dallas-area robberies.

The description was of a thin black male in his 20s with short hair, a thin moustache, between 5-foot-7 and 6-foot-1, with no scars or distinguishing characteristics and carrying an athletic bag.

During testimony Thursday, Cochran said he never attempted to find out if Geter, who had no criminal record, was at work at the time of three Plano robberies he was investigating.

"Did you ever do any investigation of the backgrounds of the people you were exhibiting as possible robbery suspects?" asked Sigel.

"No, sir."

Cochran said he showed photos of Geter and Anthony Williams, Geter's roommate and E-Systems colleague who was acquitted of a similar robbery, to victims of the three Plano robberies and no identifications were made.

Hospital says

Reaction not fatal

HOUSTON (AP) — The reaction of David, the "bubble boy," to an operation intended to give him immunity to disease is serious but not expected to prove fatal, his doctor says.

The 12-year-old, who received a bone marrow transplant in October in an attempt to rouse his dormant immune system, is suffering from a condition known as graft-vs.-host disease, officials have said.

A spokeswoman quoted Dr. William Shearer, the Baylor College of Medicine physician who is in charge of David's case, as saying Thursday that the boy's condition is "not fatal, but it is serious."

The boy has persistent internal bleeding and requires daily transfusions of blood, Baylor spokeswoman Susannah Moore Griffin said. The transfusions are irradiated to kill any germs they might contain.

"The graft-versus-host reaction is serious," Mrs. Griffin said. She said David is receiving a powerful medication — corticosteroids — to combat the disease.

"If it was mild he would not be receiving the steroids," she said of the GVH disease. "But it's not considered fatal. He is in serious, but stable condition."

She said the boy is being fed liquid nutrients through a needle to avoid stressing his stomach and intestines with solid food. A stomach ulcer that was found earlier has stopped bleeding, Mrs. Griffin said. She said the boy continues to experience diarrhea, but no vomiting, and he continues to have a fever.

Despite the list of problems, she quoted Shearer as saying David "is feeling better."

David, the oldest living victim of natural severe combined immune deficiency, received a transplant of specially treated bone marrow Oct. 20. He experienced vomiting and diarrhea and was removed Feb. 7 from a sterile plastic bubble where he had lived since birth.

Since then, the boy developed gastro-intestinal bleeding and symptoms of graft-versus-host disease, an indication that cells from the bone marrow transplant may be attacking his body.

Mrs. Griffin said David will continue to receive doses of corticosteroids for several weeks to combat inflammation caused by the GVH disease.

In the operation, doctors injected 1-2.3 ounces of treated bone marrow into David's bloodstream in hopes that the marrow would take root in his inactive bone marrow.

The transplanted marrow, from David's sister, was treated with monoclonal antibodies to kill the mature lymphocytes. This was done because the marrow was not an exact match and it was thought the procedure would prevent GVH, a disease in which the lymphocytes regard the host-body as foreign matter and attacks it. Doctors hoped that the transplanted marrow would develop lymphocytes that were compatible with David's body. Such lymphocytes would provide him with immunity to disease.

Mrs. Griffin said David now has a normal level of lymphocytes, but it is not known if these come from the transplanted bone marrow or if, in some manner, the transplant had awakened David's dormant lymphocyte system.

A Boston doctor said on Wednesday that the corticosteroid treatment being used on David is generally reserved for fairly severe cases of GVH.

"The acute form (of GVH) is staged from zero to four," said Dr. Joel Rappaport, clinical director of the bone marrow transplant program at Boston's Brigham and Women's Hospital. "The higher the stage, the more serious the problem."

Mrs. Griffin would not say the stage of David's GVH, but she quoted Shearer as saying that it was "neither fatal nor light."

Until Feb. 7, David — whose last name is kept secret — had never lived outside a sterile plastic bubble that was filled with sterile, filtered air. For more than 12 years, the boy lived without touching bare human skin and saw the world only through the clear plastic of his home.

Doctors said even a cold could have killed the boy because of his lack of immunity.

When he developed diarrhea and vomiting, doctors decided there was more danger in leaving David in the bubble than in removing him. He was placed in a renovated two-room suite at Texas Children's Hospital that is kept as germ-free as possible.

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

A short-distance run

DEAR DR. LAMB — Can you settle an argument for me? Is it true that it's better to run less distance, faster, than it is to run a long distance, slower? I run three miles in about 10 minutes. My husband and friends say it's not doing me any good unless I push myself and go faster.

DEAR READER — Perhaps you should ask your husband what it is he thinks you should achieve with your exercise. What one should do for exercise depends entirely upon the goal.

I would have to disagree with him emphatically about the running program not doing you any good. Even walking is very beneficial for most people. If you are running to use calories, and the speed at which you now run enables you to run a longer distance, you will use more calories at your current speed, rather than by going faster for a shorter distance.

As you lose the calories, you will lose body fat. In fact, many overweight people find that running is too strenuous and are able to walk much greater distances than run. Because of this, walking may enable them to eliminate more calories than a short-duration running program. Running at your speed, you use about one and one-half times as many calories per mile than you would from walking.

Your heart and lung capacity will benefit from the present running program. Of course, if you wanted to train for competitive racing, you would need to increase your efforts. The mistake most people make with jogging is trying to run too fast. Exercising for a longer period of time is usually more beneficial than short spurts of intense physical activity.

There are many myths about exercise. I've discussed a number of them in The Health Letter 15-12, Exercise Wise, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — A pipe-smoking friend of mine defends his habit by claiming it's not as harmful as cigarette smoking. Is this true? Also, lately I have been reading much about "second-hand smoking." Is my concern valid?

DEAR READER — It certainly is. Pipe smoking is usually not as harmful as cigarette smoking because most pipe smokers do not inhale their smoke. But if they smoke frequently the polluted air affects their lungs. It depends a lot on how they smoke.

Pipe smoke, as well as cigar smoke, emits more toxic smoke than cigarettes. That means the second-hand smoke is worse. The non-smoker is apt to have even more side-effects from exposure to a cigar-smoking or pipe-smoking companion.

Pipe smoke and cigar smoke in a closed room can quickly cause carbon monoxide levels to exceed those normally permitted for industrial safety.

Many former cigarette smokers switch to pipes or cigars. They often inhale and then they are worse off than they were when smoking cigarettes.

The root of the marsh mallow plant was once used in the candy that we call marshmallows.

Unity urged

Mondale, Glenn trade accusations

Walter F. Mondale and Sen. John Glenn are all but calling each other liars in an increasingly bitter Democratic presidential campaign that has party chairman Charles T. Manatt cautioning all eight contenders about giving "comfort to our foes" the Republicans.

"Personalized attacks or criticisms that could inhibit our ability to win in November should be avoided," Manatt said in an unusual open letter Thursday, the same day Glenn charged it was "untrue" for Mondale to deny lobbying for natural gas pipeline legislation in 1981.

Mondale dismissed the charge as "desperation," and said the Ohio senator had "said three or four things that are absolutely false."

Mondale said he had "never lobbied in my life," adding he was "always opposed" to a provision that would have permitted pipeline companies to begin charging consumers before the line was finished.

The pipeline dispute flared while a new poll indicated that Glenn is continuing to slip while the Rev. Jesse Jackson rises, and Sen. Gary Hart, in a renewed attack on the front-running Mondale, said "traditional leadership" will lead the party to defeat in November.

"The traditional Democratic leadership will not suffice. It will not suffice to win this election, and it will not suffice to govern this country," he said.

With only four days remaining until Iowans go to their caucuses, former Florida Gov. Reubin Askew was in Cedar Rapids, calling for the United States and its NATO allies to agree on merging a variety of stalled arms control talks with the Soviet Union as a "signal for peace."

Former Sen. George McGovern, looking for a last-minute surge to boost his showing in the state, conceded that Mondale was the front-runner but insisted, "I think the nomination is still open."

There was evidence of fresh difficulty in the campaign of Sen. Ernest Hollings. He withdrew from the New York primary in April, and a spokesman, Jim Armenakis, said Mondale has the state

"locked up."

Sen. Alan Cranston, campaigning in New Hampshire, also agreed Mondale deserved the front-runner's label, but, in a line that echoed party chairman Manatt's concern, declared, "The only American who finds the Mondale-Glenn debate useful is Ronald Reagan."

Manatt's concern was plain from his letter, in which he reminded all eight Democratic contenders that the party's mission was to defeat Reagan, regain control of the Senate and pad the party's majority in the House of Representatives. "We can't afford rhetoric that might eventually give comfort to our foes," he said.

Manatt's letter made no mention of the pipeline, and Mondale has been under escalating attack from Hart, Askew and Cranston in recent days, as well as Glenn.

The Ohio senator told a news conference in Washington that despite his denials, Mondale had lobbied in 1981 on behalf of legislation that pipeline companies wanted to permit them to bill consumers for the cost of a natural gas pipeline before it was completed.

Mondale's denial of lobbying "is untrue," Glenn said. "In the halls of Congress, it was no secret that Fritz Mondale and others were associated with the pipeline project — an association that would help influence members of Congress by letting them know the former vice president was 'on board.'"

Mondale was a paid consultant in 1981 to one of the companies involved in building the pipeline, but says the money was for consulting and not lobbying on the bill.

But Glenn also cited a 1982 newspaper interview in the Minneapolis Tribune in which he said Mondale was quoted as saying he favored the "pre-billing" provision. "Fritz can't have it both ways," Glenn said. "He can't have been for pre-billing back then and tell the voters today he was 'always against.'"

Mondale said he did not recall the interview, but said Glenn's charges were "quite offensive and unacceptable." When he got around to talking about his own prospects, Mondale sounded bullish about Iowa, telling one campaign crowd, "You know it smells like victory in this room."

Glenn is hoping to finish second to Mondale in Iowa, but nationally, a new Gallup poll showed Mondale with support from 49 percent of the Democrats polled, compared with 14 percent to Jackson and 13 for Glenn.

The previous survey showed Mondale at 47 percent, Glenn at 16 percent and Jackson at 9 percent.

Lawyer says

Decision clear-cut

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — A severely brain-damaged boy was unplugged from the respirator that kept him alive all his 14 months and died with a court's permission as his parents "held him, rubbed him, patted him and kissed him the whole time," an attorney said.

Mark and Laura Barry saw no alternative to removing the artificial life support from their son, Andrew James, who was born 90 percent brain dead, Anthony Marchese, the family's lawyer, said Thursday.

"We are not talking about a child that was slightly handicapped, we're talking about a child whose brain was 90 percent absent," Marchese said.

The boy died in his mother's arms Wednesday, 40 minutes after technicians at Humana Women's Hospital in Tampa removed the respirator. The child's father, a doctor, a nurse and two lawyers stood by tearfully.

"Mama and daddy just held him, rubbed him, patted him and kissed him the whole time," Leroy Merkle Jr., a lawyer appointed guardian for the baby, said Wednesday.

When Andrew was born Dec. 25, 1982, a twin was stillborn, and the twin's bleeding cut off oxygen to Andrew's brain, Marchese said. Andrew was blind, had no memory or speech and could not sense or feel or touch, he said.

Doctors put Andrew on a respirator within hours of his birth.

"We need to start with it there, and look at the facts of what this child's condition was — then you see that there would be no opposition" to allowing him to die, Marchese said.

The 2nd District Court of Appeal ruled Jan. 27 that Andrew had the right to die, upholding a state court ruling.

Doctors testified they would not have attached the child to the respirator in the first place had they realized the severity of his birth defect. But once they did, they were concerned about the legality of turning the machine off and insisted on a court order.

Smear-free painting

DEAR READERS — Painting window trim? Washing the car? Making stuffed eggs to go? Have we got a Pointer for you? — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Before painting around window panes, take a cotton swab dipped in oil or petroleum jelly and run it around the edge of the glass. Any paint smears will wipe off with a cloth. — PAT

DEAR POLLY — Use a sponge mop to wash your car. Put about six inches of water in a basin with some mild detergent. Dip in your mop and wash. It's easy to clean the roof and all places under the auto that are hard to reach otherwise. Rinse with a garden hose. — FRED

DEAR POLLY — When I take stuffed eggs to a pot-luck supper, I always carry them in the plastic egg carton the eggs came in. After the eggs are stuffed, I place one-half egg in each holder of the washed carton. This makes the eggs easy to carry and they arrive in perfect condition. They can be served right from the carton, so you have no container to bring home. — LAURA

DEAR POLLY — My son is in the Army and is stationed in Germany. The addresses are so long that I ordered return-address labels for him, and I kept some for myself. When sending a letter to him, I just paste an address label on the envelope. I know the address is always correct. When his rank changed, it was easy to add that, also. I thought this would help others with family or friends in the service. — BERNIE

DEAR BERNIE — That's an all-around good idea that makes life easier for you and him! In fact, when friends and relatives ask for his address, you could just give them one or more of these address labels. I'll bet they'd be more likely to write him with such a convenient label handy, and the serviceman or woman would certainly appreciate hearing more often from friends. Enjoy your Pointer of the Week award, an autographed copy of Polly's Pointers: 1,081 Helpful Household Hints for Making Everything Last Longer. — POLLY

For Oscar gold

Box office winners, losers compete

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Both box office winners and losers showed up on this year's list of Oscar nominees, which contains several surprises along with the expected "Terms of Endearment" sweep.

A mother-daughter drama with more than a few comic touches, "Terms of Endearment" reeled in 11 Academy Award nominations Thursday, more than any other film. They included best picture and, for James L. Brooks, a TV sitcom veteran in his first directorial outing on a feature film, best director and adaptation screenplay.

"I'm drinking flat champagne," a happy-sounding Brooks said in a telephone interview from London. "None of us saw this coming."

The film's stars, Shirley MacLaine and Debra Winger, are both up for leading actress honors, and Jack Nicholson and John Lithgow are squared off in the supporting actor category.

"The Right Stuff," the $28 million epic about the first U.S. astronauts, took eight nominations, answering the prayers of its creators who hope the attention will draw the audience the film until now has lacked.

Released in October by the Ladd Co. and Warner Bros., the film's gross to date is only $15.7 million, compared with the $72.7 million "Terms of Endearment" has drawn since December.

"I hope it means a great deal," Ladd Co. President Alan Ladd Jr. said of the nominations, which will be widely publicized in newspaper ads planned to support the film's expansion this weekend from 87 to nearly 600 theaters.

"The Right Stuff" had been expected to score big in the Oscars, but not Ingmar Bergman's "Fanny & Alexander," which the veteran Swedish filmmaker says will be his last feature. The elaborate period piece, which took third place in total nominations with six, was well-received by the critics, but foreign-language films rarely score multiple nominations.

"Fanny & Alexander" is currently playing in only 31 theaters nationwide, and the film's domestic gross stands at $5.6 million.

Notably absent from the list of contenders was Barbra Streisand, who was unable to muster a single nod for producing, directing, co-writing and starring in "Yentl."

The film did, however, get five nominations from the motion picture academy's 4,000 voting members, including three for its music. "The Dresser," "Silkwood" and "Tender Mercies" won five nominations each. "Return of the Jedi," the conclusion of the "Star Wars" trilogy which has scaled the upper reaches of the box-office galaxy, scored in only four production categories.

Besides "Terms of Endearment," nominees for best motion picture of 1983 were: "The Big Chill," "The Dresser," "The Right Stuff" and "Tender Mercies."

For best actress, Miss MacLaine and Miss Winger are up against Jane Alexander for "Testament," Meryl Streep for "Silkwood" and Julie Walters for "Educating Rita."

"The Dresser," about an aging thespian and his trusty manservant, supplied two of the four best actor nominees who hail from Great Britain: Albert Finney and Tom Courtenay. The other two Englishmen are Michael Caine for "Educating Rita" and Tom Conti for "Reuben, Reuben." Robert Duvall, the country singer of "Tender Mercies," was the only American nominated.

The best supporting actress contenders are Cher, "Silkwood"; Glenn Close, "The Big Chill"; Linda Hunt, "The Year of Living Dangerously"; Amy Irving, "Yentl"; Alfre Woodard, "Cross Creek."

Besides Nicholson and Lithgow, the nominees for supporting actor are Charles Durning, "To Be or Not to Be"; Sam Shepard, "The Right Stuff"; Rip Torn, "Cross Creek."

Alongside Brooks and Bergman on the director list are Australian Bruce Beresford for "Tender Mercies"; Britain's Peter Yates for "The Dresser"; and Mike Nichols for "Silkwood."

For best foreign-language film, "Fanny & Alexander" is up against Spain's "Carmen," France's "Entre Nous," Hungary's "Job's Revolt" and Algeria's "Le Bal."

"Yentl" and "Flashdance" dominated the best song category with two nominations each: "Papa, Can You Hear Me?" and "The Way He Makes Me Feel" from "Yentl," and "Flashdance... What a Feeling" and "Maniac" from "Flashdance." The other song nomination went to "Over You" from "Tender Mercies."

Three Britons who turned their own stage plays into screenplays won screenplay adaption nominations: Harold Pinter, "Betrayal"; Ronald Harwood, "The Dresser"; and Willy Russell, "Educating Rita." Julius J. Epstein, a Hollywood veteran who wrote "Casablanca," was nominated for "Reuben, Reuben," and Brooks rounded out the list.

Best original screenplay nominees are Lawrence Kasdan and Barbara Benedek, "The Big Chill"; Ingmar Bergman, "Fanny & Alexander"; Nora Ephron and Alice Arlen, "Silkwood"; Horton Foote, "Tender Mercies"; Lawrence Lasker and

Walter F. Parkes, "WarGames."

The 56th annual Academy Awards will be held

April 9 at the Los Angeles Music Center. Johnny Carson returns as emcee for the live ABC telecast.

Duck uncertain of its future

FOSTER CITY, Calif. (AP) — A left-leaning Siberian duck that can't seem to make up its mind whether to defect has slipped into town again, and analysts think it may be making rendezvous with a Canadian bird.

Then again, the duck — technically a smew, which is a type of Eurasian merganser — may just be extremely and permanently lost.

Smews spend warm months in the Siberian arctic, then migrate south to Japan. Experts say this one, which for the past three years has visited Foster City's Central Lake, is the first ever spotted on the West Coast.

What is it doing here, a few miles south of San Francisco and 4,000 miles from home?

"We think birds migrate by landmarks," said Audubon Society member Donna Kir-sacko. "A landmark will tell them: OK, turn right. Well, this guy turned left."

Badly off course on that fateful trip three years ago, the smew apparently joined a flock of goldeneye ducks headed toward California from Canada. Could it be love that keeps him coming back?

"I wouldn't be surprised that he might mate with one of the goldeneyes," offered Audubon member Nick Coiro. Perhaps a permanently warped sense of direction.

"He flew (here) in the wrong direction, so he probably returns in the wrong direction," said Frank Collins. "He'll keep migrating here until he grows old."

Like other Soviet emigres, the smew has become a real celebrity, and bird watchers are flocking from all over to gaze at it.

"He's special," said Audubon member Betty Grose. "Seeing him is like finding a beautiful treasure chest."

Chief executive faces eviction

ARCOLA, Texas (AP) — It's not easy being chief executive of this little city. In the past, Arcola officials have held bake sales to pay the bills. Now, they face possible eviction from city hall by their landlord — the mayor's brother-in-law.

Buster Tripp, who owns the building, says it's not a matter of being uncivically minded, but he does want what he claims amounts to about $4,000 in back rent.

True, said Mike Saenz, mayor of the city of 700 people located 10 miles south of Houston. Arcola has not paid rent since last July because Tripp had agreed to let the city renovate the building and deduct the expenses from the $450 monthly rent.

But Tripp — whose sister, Sue, is not only the mayor's wife but Arcola's city secretary — said Wednesday the city has not provided him receipts showing how much was spent on the renovation.

"If I owe them money, I'll pay it," Tripp said. "If they owe me money, I want it paid or I'll lock the building up."

"No hard feelings to the city or anyone else," he added.

Antarctica temperatures can drop to minus 127 degrees Fahrenheit, or about 10 degrees warmer than the bus stop at 6 a.m.

If the property offered for sale is at a price too good to be true, it's wise to read the agreement between the liens.

FAITH WILL PREPARE YOUR CHILDREN FOR TOMORROW

our children need to learn faith in God, as well as the basic skills of life. As the opening of the school season draws near, remember that it is also time to begin or resume their spiritual education; to fortify them for the time when you may no longer be on hand to guide and protect them. That a large segment of our young people have never learned goodness for its own sake is tragically evident in the almost daily accounts of juvenile wrongdoing. Children are not born with this knowledge; they must be taught it. Enroll your children in Sunday school, and set your own good example for them by the way you conduct your life, and by attending your Church.

"Train up a child in the way he should go; and when he is old, he will not depart from it."
— Proverbs 22:6

"This education forms the common mind: Just as the twig is bent the tree's inclined."
— Alexander Pope
