A COMPOUND FRACTURE of the right leg, between the knee and ankle, was suffered by the driver of this sedan when it collided with a truck just at dusk about five miles south of Hereford on Highway 51 Friday night. The driver, Nelson Bailey, was able to direct rescue workers when they removed him from the wreckage. The truck was turned completely around by the impact. See picture on Page 5. (W. H. Patton Photo)

Car-Truck Collision Injures One Man

One man was injured, a car demolished and a truck damaged in a collision about five miles south of Hereford on Highway 51 about 8:30 p.m. Friday night.

James A. Honeycutt, Route 3, driver of the truck, has been charged by the Highway Patrol with making an improper left turn. Investigation of the collision is continuing.

Nelson Bailey, whose address is General Delivery, Hereford, is in the hospital, with a compound fracture of his right leg, which was broken between the knee and ankle.

The just at dusk accident occurred when Honeycutt, who was accompanied by his wife, started an angling left turn from the highway onto a side road. Both left hand wheels of the truck were off the pavement, and both right hand wheels still on the pavement.

When the collision occurred, the right windshield corner post of the truck bed, and peeled the top of the car back away from Bailey, probably saving his life. The force of the impact turned the truck completely around, and left it sitting on the edge of a draw.

Some 50 chickens, part of a load that Honeycutt was taking back to the farm where he is employed by J. W. Adrian, who owns the truck, were thrown out of the Insurance agents who sold hail insurance have been busier than a flea on a hot stove lid lately. One agent reports that there are claims on every hail insurance policy he sold, with some farmers having been hit as many as three different times.

Joe Easley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Easley, 711 North Miles Avenue, left Saturday for Amarillo where he will join a group of boys to go to Austin where they will attend Boys State beginning Monday. Boys State is being sponsored by the Texas American Legion.

Pilot Uninjured In Duster Crash

A crop-dusting plane broke four power lines then flipped over in a muddy field about four miles west and one mile south of Hereford early Friday morning, but the pilot escaped injury.

Ray Mould, 31, pilot of the Piper Cub, said that he had made one run across the field and then turned back into the sun for another run. He failed to see the power lines, which hit the propeller and windshield of the plane, snapping the lines.

Mould was able to take the plane on in for a landing, but the wheels sank into the mud and caused the plane to flip over on its back.

He was dusting a field of potatoes on the Joe Reinauer place for B. F. Cain.

Leo Forrest, manager of the Deaf Smith County Electric Cooperative, said that power was off in the area from 6:50 o'clock Friday morning until 10:37 o'clock, the length of time it took for the wires to be repaired and circuits put back in operation. Power was off from the area of the break to a point as far west as the irrigation area goes, which is three or four miles west of Westway.

Lying out in the muddy field, the plane looked like it might have made it's last flight. However, a crew from Val Air, Inc., which owns the plane, had it back in flying condition Friday afternoon, and the plane took off from the road, which was only a short distance south of the crash.

MUDDY BOOTS were about the only thing that Ray Mould, 31, pilot of this crop dusting plane, had to complain about after he crash-landed his plane Friday morning after hitting

Three Local Boys Working In Idaho

Three local college students left the first of this month for Idaho where they are employed by the United States Forestry Department for the summer. They are Ray Graham, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Graham; Dabney Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Purris Williams Sr.; and Bill Waites, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Waites.

The boys, all students at West Texas State College, will work in different camps but will do just about the same type of work. They work in preventing plant disease and also fire prevention.

This is Graham's and William's second year to go to Idaho, and Waites' first year.

Graham drove to Idaho June 1 and Purris Williams Jr., took Williams and Waites to Idaho June 3. Purris Williams Jr., returned to Hereford Friday.

Drunk Driving Charges Filed

Charges of driving while intoxicated were filed against R. C. Lemons Thursday in County Court following his arrest about 7:20 o'clock Monday night by Hereford police officers Joe Stephens and Clyde Barker.

Lemons, who was still being held in County Jail Saturday afternoon, had his bond set at $500 when he entered a plea of "not guilty" at his arraignment.

County Crop Losses May Hit 60 Per Cent

Subsoil Moisture Is Silver Lining

Deaf Smith County crops, most of which had already received some damage, took a further beating from rain and hail Thursday afternoon and Thursday night during a downpour which dumped as much as five inches of rain.

Lakes flooded, Tierra Blanca creek inundated part of the Hereford golf course and claimed one car, feed crops were washed out or beaten into the ground, nearly, if not all, cotton was ruined, and the toll of damage to the wheat brought losses there to an estimated 60 percent, and may go higher.

In addition, high lines of the Deaf Smith County Electric Cooperative received some damage, and an estimated 1,000 telephones in Hereford and the immediate vicinity were put out of commission, and some were still out Saturday.

REA linemen went to work as soon as the rain stopped Thursday night, working to repair a number of breaks. At one place about five miles southeast of Hereford, the linemen worked to the song of an irrigation motor, which was still pumping about 50 yards away, though the water was standing knee deep in the bar ditch, and sugar beets in the field behind them showed the effects of golf ball-size hail which had pelted the area during the afternoon.

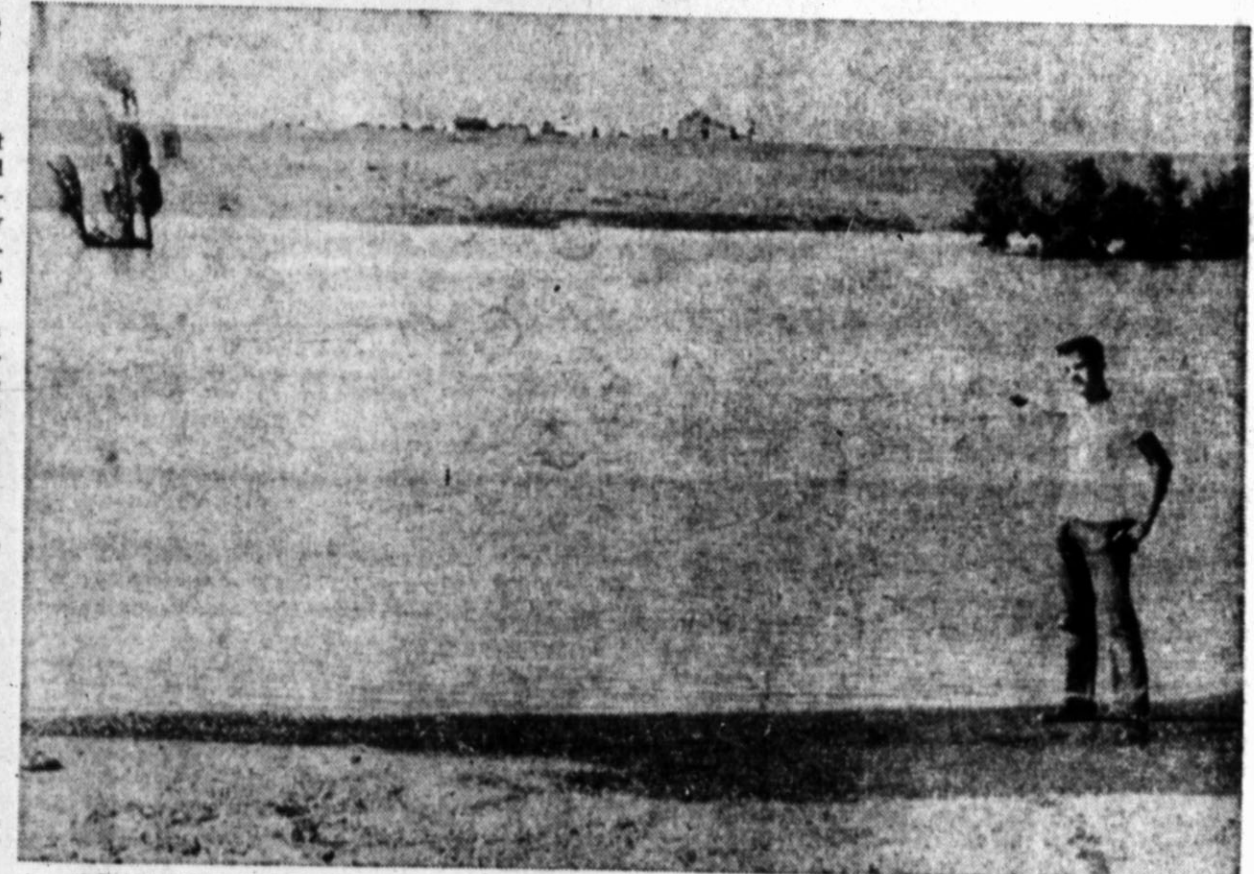

Lead-sheathed telephone cable, which developed minute cracks as the result of expansion and contraction during alternate periods of heat and cold, showed its weakness by allowing water to get into the lines, disrupting a considerable amount of local telephone service, according to Ray T. Bosley.

Nature's violence left many farms in serious condition.

In the Westway community, Mrs. Preach Merritt said that they "just had a cloudburst." A feed crop was washed away when a dam near the field broke. Leo Ohlig, who seems to have had more than his share of troubles during the past year, reported that his crops were a total loss from the hail.

Bernie Northcutt, 14 miles west and four miles north, had some five inches of moisture and lost approximately 50 percent of his wheat crop. His feed crop, which was covered, will have to be replanted for the third time.

Joe Wagener, also in the Westway community, figured he had a total loss, and no insurance, on some 80 acres of wheat located 2 1/2 miles northwest of the Westway store. Paul Rudd, 10 miles west and 1 1/2 miles north of Hereford, was estimating an 85 percent loss on his wheat, cotton and barley.

AQUALUNGS WERE NEEDED by golfers Friday if they wanted to play on No. 9 green at the Hereford Golf Course. Donald Bridges points to the general area in which the green lies. No. 7 green was partly under water, and it was estimated that several hundred dollars worth of work would have to be done on the course in cleaning it up, replacing washed-out foot bridges and making other repairs. (Staff Photo)

Twenty Area Men Register With Draft Board

Twenty young men from this area registered with Selective Service Board 18 during the month of May.

Those registering from Hereford were: David W. Goldston, Kenneth N. West, Bobby W. Frost, Kenneth A. Walterscheid, Ramiro Hinojosa, and some' hail he had lost quite a lot of cotton.

J. H. Dobbs, who farms wheat with Andrews on the Dobbs' farm, was figuring from 25 to 75 percent loss on their wheat 10 miles south of town.

Despite the terrific losses, most of the farmers were looking at the silver lining to the black clouds which have been over, for the rains seem certain to build up badly needed subsoil moisture, despite the heavy runoff caused by the manner in which the moisture came.

E. F. Vogler, who lives three miles west and seven miles south of Hereford, got all of his cotton too, and about two-thirds of his wheat. He received approximately two inches of moisture. Also south of town, Owen Andrews, who lives seven miles out, wasn't sure about the damage to his crops, but he felt that with 3 1/2 inches of rain

Johnny P. Gallagher, Donald H. Phifer, Nelson R. Pierce, Emory G. Brownlow and Phillip D. Sharp. Those registering from Farmer County were: Keith D. Battey, and Jerry Petersen.

Canyon registrants were: Carl R. Miller, Robert L. Cojeford, Huber G. Greiner, and Hugh F. Greiner. Castro County registrants were: Paul L. McVea, Arthur L. Shelton, Don N. Hardy, and Weldon H. Davis.

Tierra Blanca Takes New Resident's Car

A man who had just moved into Hereford got a welcome Thursday night the likes of which he will probably never get again, and certainly wouldn't want.

Bert Parker, new cook at Ike's Steak House, said that his wife and family were sitting in their car down in Veterans Park watching Tierra Blanca creek when it began to rise. Mrs. Parker, finding that she was stuck, walked out to a telephone and called her husband. She and the children came on back to town, and Parker went down to the car and stayed with it in an effort to get it out of the park.

About 2 o'clock Friday morning when the second headrise came, Parker said that water rose to within inches of the top of his windshield, and he was unable to open the doors or even open the windows, so he broke a window out with a hammer and escaped from the car, which overturned a short time later. The car had not been located Saturday afternoon, though Parker thought the car was in a deep hole in Tierra Blanca creek.

Backing Collision Causes $70 Damage

A backing collision causing approximately $70 damage occurred Friday morning about 9 o'clock in the 400 block on Main.

Mrs. Alice L. Thomas, 309 E. Grand Avenue, driving a 1949 Ford, was backing out from the curb and Felix D. Luna of Sonora, driving a 1940 Buick, was going north on Main. The left rear of the Ford collided with the right rear fender of the Buick.

Approximately $10 damage was done to the Ford and $60 damage was done to the Buick.

Mrs. Thomas was charged with failure to grant the right-of-way.

WTSC Exes Plan Meeting Thursday

A meeting of West Texas State College ex-students, which was originally scheduled for last Thursday night, has been reset for next Thursday at 7:30 o'clock in Veterans Park, according to Mrs. Elmer Patterson, association president.

Just as before, a family-style picnic for the exes and their families is scheduled, Mrs. Patterson added.

No formal program is planned, but officers for the coming year will be elected, and any other business which may come up will be taken care of.

All WTSC ex-students and their families are invited to attend the meeting.

An exhibition palmetto polo game and performance of the square dance group of the Hereford Riders Club will be held at Boys Ranch this afternoon, according to Walter Johnson, club president.

Riders Club members planned to leave Hereford at 8:30 o'clock this morning for the trip to the ranch. Members plan to eat a picnic lunch outside, then perform early in the afternoon.

Denice Barnard, Linda West Back From Music Camp At Portales

Denice Barnard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Barnard, 901 Miles Avenue, and Linda West, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wood, 309 East Sixth Street, returned Saturday night from Eastern New Mexico University at Portales, N. M., where they attended the seventh annual Sunshine Music Camp.

Williamson, president of West Minister Choir School at Princeton, N. J.

The camp, which lasted 10 days, is the fourth largest in the United States.

Mr. and Mrs. Barnard and Mr. and Mrs. West attended the music concert at the University Friday night.

DAMERON PARK was just one big wading pool Friday morning, in the opinion of several boys, who took the opportunity to wade, and even ride bicycles, out across the flooded park. Catching frogs, which seemed to appear like magic, was another pastime that the youngsters indulged in. A drain pipe at the other end of the park was running full all of Thursday night, and had drained by late Friday afternoon, undoubtedly to the chagrin of the boys, who would rather have had the water. (Staff Photo)

Atomic Defense Of Texas Cities Will Get Test

AUSTIN — The eyes of Texas will be on the three largest cities of this state June 14-15, a period in which Houston, Dallas and Fort Worth will get their biggest test, so far of atomic defenses.

The beginning of the test will come with a hypothetical bombing in the down-town areas of the three cities. There will be no actual explosions, although follow-up operations will be as realistic as possible.

On duty will be complete staffs of the three city Civil Defense units. Also on the job will be corresponding staffs of State Disaster Districts and the State Defense and Disaster Relief Council at Austin.

William L. McGill, State Co-ordinator of Civil Defense and Disaster Relief, said each of the Civil Defense Directors in the three Texas Cities have indicated that they are planning full-scale operations which will include varying degrees of public participation such as the soundings of warnings, taking shelter and evacuation. McGill added that no actual movement of materials, manpower and supplies will be involved in the test on a state level. However, requests for aid, damage and other messages will be carried through various channels of communications used in the state's civil defense system as a means of testing their efficiency.

"We want to make the exercise as realistic as possible," he noted. "As a result, we will simulate the use of only those resources known to be available at the time of and following—the hypothetical attack."

McGill also said that at least four values should be gained from the test:

1. The promotion of increased operational capability, more training and additional interest in civil defense at all levels.
 2. The testing of air raid warning systems and communications systems for capabilities and/or deficiencies.
 3. The testing of traffic control procedures for vehicles and pedestrians alike, in addition to education of the public in the need for seeking shelter and/or evacuating just before an attack.
 4. The co-ordination of operational procedures and standards at city, district and state levels.
- Dallas, Fort Worth and Houston have been selected among 42 in the United States and its territories as part of an International Test Exercise, "Operation Alert," by the Federal Civil Defense Administration.

SPORT SHOTS

By Harold V. Ratliff
Associated Press Sports Editor

Texas wound up its baseball season more prematurely than usual as the Longhorns took two drubblings from Oklahoma A&M in the NCAA playoffs but there still isn't a college baseball coach in the country who can touch the record of Bibb Augustus Falk.

The noted advocate of sarcastic repartee is well on the way to running up a record to equal or surpass his illustrious predecessor and teacher, Billy Disch.

In 12 years as coach of the Longhorns, the Bibber has won nine Southwest Conference championships and tied for two. He also has twice won the national collegiate championship and gone to the finals on another occasion. And in the years when he didn't go to the NCAA finals—two times, Texas passed up even playing in the NCAA—the Longhorns lost to the team that eventually won the championship.

Of course it will be a long time before Falk can equal the record set by the famed Billy Disch, who won 21 championships out of 26, but the years will take care of that unless Bibb loses his touch, which doesn't appear likely.

He's a great teacher and loved by his players although he tells them all the time they couldn't play in the Epworth League on the basis of their ability. Just to show you how these boys actually treasure the sarcastic attributes from their coach, one of the teams got together one year and presented Bibb with a cigarette lighter on which was inscribed: "From the Goons and the Mulletts." It was after Texas had gone to the finals of the 1953 NCAA.

Winning the conference championship in baseball is a tradition at Texas. There have been three coaches—Disch, Falk and Blair Cherry. Cherry handled the team two years while Falk was in the service and his record was almost perfect, too. He won one championship and tied for another.

So that makes the record of Texas in the 40 years of conference baseball read: 31 championships and 3 ties.

Falk, who was a great athlete at Texas then won fame as an outfielder in the major leagues, is taking the tradition quite seriously. He has won 236 games and lost only 70 in his 12 years.

Eggs-actly Told

BURLINGTON, Iowa —A motorist halted his car at an intersection here to lecture a woman who was crossing a street against a red traffic light.

The woman pedestrian retorted: "Look, mister. I've got a frustrated mother-in-law, a little boy that takes after his father, and I'm behind on my television payment—but I don't have to take a lot of drizzle from a complete stranger."

A startled bystander who witnessed the incident said the woman then swung the sack she was carrying, hitting the motorist in the face. The sack contained eggs—apparently about a dozen of them.

As the eggs splattered on the man's face, his suit and down the side of the car door, the woman proceeded to cross the street.

crave a record of winning three times more games than he lost?

Funny stories abound the colorful Falk. There was the time Bob Rock hit a double to win an important game but in rounding first he went outside the bag instead of inside and his spikes cut the base. Paying no attention to the act that Brock had won the ball game, Falk growled: "Ain't you 'er gonna learn to run the bases 'nt; look how you cut this bag."

Then there was the time Tom Jamblinton clouted a 365-foot home run over the center field fence to win another important game. How you like that one?" Hamilton asked Falk. "Wasn't you ever arm to pull the ball?" Falk snapped. "It's only 350 feet over the off field fence you know."

Disch always called Falk Augustus. He explained that Bibb sounded like a nickname and Uncle Billy never favored calling anybody by anything other than his real name.

Bibb isn't a nickname but Falk's name, but it just didn't sound like it to Uncle Billy.

MRS. ALTA HONEYCUTT, who was sitting in the right side of the truck, received more of a shaking up than anything else when this truck, driven by James A. Honeycutt, was involved in a collision with a car about 5 miles south of Hereford just at dusk Friday night.

Arrow indicates the approximate point of impact. Though the truck does not appear to be heavily damaged, the frame was badly bent. The truck belongs to J. W. Adrain, for whom Honeycutt was working. (W. H. Patton Photo)

Baptists Buy Red's Hall
DETROIT—A favorite meeting place for Detroit Communists has changed owners and philosophies. The three-story, red brick building frequented for years by various Red groups has been purchased by the A. C. Williams Memorial Missionary Baptist Church for $5,000.

The move was annoying to subversive organizations but proved even a harder blow to police, who will have to ferret out the new meeting grounds.

In its hey-day as a Communist conference hall, police cars were said to vie with subversives for choice parking spaces in front. The main doors served as a back-drop for FBI movies of persons entering and leaving.

Mr. Grain Producer

Will You Have Sufficient

STORAGE SPACE

For Your Crops!!!

If you want to sell your grain (particularly grain sorghum) for the highest prices you may need storage space.

The nation has more grain and oil seed crops in storage now than ever before - Texas storage facilities are full in most areas, so YOU will have to be responsible for finding space for your 1954 crops.

If you can't find commercial storage - and do not provide your own approved farm storage, you will have to sell the crop at harvest time when prices usually are lowest and lose the benefit of government support prices.

Conditions and price supports vary within the State by county. For instance, the support price on grain sorghum varies from $2.09 to $2.62 per 100 lbs.

You can store grain sorghum on your farm without loss of grain or quality if it is:

- Dry enough
- Stored in approved structures
 - (1) That are protected from outside moisture, insects, rodents, bugs and other hazards.
 - (2) That have adequate turning or drying equipment.
- Fumigated and ventilated.

You can contact county agricultural agents and county Agricultural Stabilization Conservation officials for more detailed recommendations on storage methods and requirements.

DON'T SELL SHORT

Check for available space from your local commercial elevator.

If space is not available from normal channels, check on cost and feasibility of providing your own "on-farm" storage.

Frozen fruit salads have lots of eye appeal and provide glamour and palatability to meals. These festive salads are versatile, too. They are ideal for party luncheons and you'll want to keep them in mind for serving when in need of a salad that can be made well in advance for serving as desired.

in 1942, prompted us to look back in our files to see whose recipe was used in the book. Here it is -- a recipe used by Mrs. H. A. Close for years and it is well worth keeping in your own files. It tastes better every time you make it.

- Frozen Pineapple-Cheese Salad
- 2 cups cream cheese
- 1 cup mayonnaise
- 1 small bottle stuffed olives sliced thin
- 1 cup cream (whipped)
- 1 cup maraschino cherries
- 1 can sliced pineapple (sliced thin)

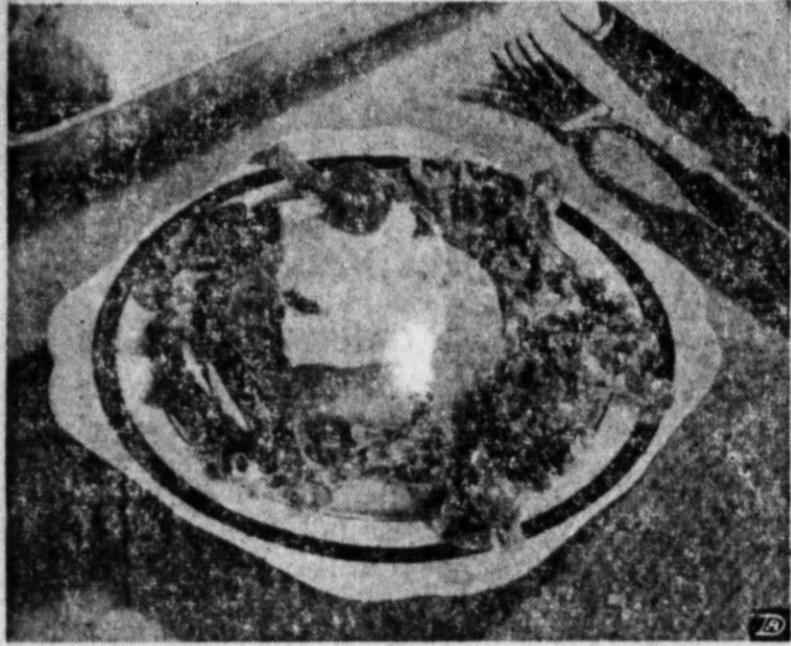

Mash cheese and blend in mayonnaise. Whip cream very stiff and fold in fruits and olives which have been well drained of juices. Pour in freezing trays and place in freezing compartment of refrigerator. Serve on crisp watercress or lettuce with or without salad dressing.

An attractive way to serve the salad is to pour it in cold trays and press the partitions for making ice cubes, into place and freeze in cubes. It is delicious served in slices of pineapple.

WHEN YOU THINK OF SHIRTS... THINK OF...

Lovely Peonies Require Minimum Of Attention

No one looks forward more to the spring and summer seasons than the gardener who specializes in one kind of flower. Dahlias, gladioli, delphiniums, peonies or any other of a dozen others—all have their loyal following. Some of these flowers may be set out in the spring, but if fall planting is preferable a certain amount of special care should accompany their spring growth.

Back in 1937 a group of Hereford women got together with one purpose in view—the beautification of their own premises, and of Hereford, through the cultivation of flowers, plants, shrubs and trees. The Hereford Garden Club was organized, and thus began a systematic study of what to plant for best results in this locality, what to do for the soil to get best results, how to plant, and the care each particular plant may need.

It took a great deal of experimenting, hard work and patience to even begin to get results—but now 17 years later these women have proved that beautiful flowers can be grown here—as beautiful as anywhere in the world, if the right cultivation and care is given.

The roses, peonies, poppies, blooming shrubs and all the other first of the season blossoms that make Hereford attractive now are a result of the persistence of the Hereford Garden Club members, but their efforts are more far-reaching than that—Hereford has become flower conscious and beauty minded and is well on its way to becoming the "Flower City of the Plains."

The beautiful peonies seen in such varied shades this year have created a desire to grow them among many who thought they would not do well here. Gardeners who are intrigued by the lovely flowers find that they are not hard to grow, that they are hardy and require a minimum of attention.

Mrs. John Jacobsen Jr., a past president of the Hereford Garden Club, specializes in this popular flower. She tells on this page how to plant and care for them.

Peonies
Peonies are an excellent hobby flower for gardeners with limited time to spend in the garden. If you are careful in selecting, you may have peonies in bloom for six weeks or more. They are marked "early," "midseason" and "late," and by buying some of each kind a much longer period of bloom is assured.
Peonies should be planted in late August or September in order to get well established before cold weather. Space 3 to 5 feet apart in well drained soil, making hole 18 x 18 inches. Apply one-fourth cup of plant food to the loose soil at the bottom of the hole and mix well. A shovel full of compost or manure will help, and if planted in southern exposure may bloom 4 to 10 days earlier.
It is important not to plant the eye of the peony too deep.

MRS. JOHN JACOBSEN JR., is shown with some of her peonies that have been blooming all spring. She likes to grow peonies because of the fascinating way they develop, as well as for their beautiful showy blossoms. (Staff Photo)

They will not bloom if you do. Place your shovel across the hole and plant the peony so the eyes are no more than an inch from the ground's surface. If your peonies have never bloomed, it would be wise to lift them. Firm the soil around the roots with your hands and run water into the shallow basin around the newly set peony. Pat the ground so it will hold shape as this will protect the plant over the first winter.
Peonies resent being moved or divided, and if not disturbed will grow more beautiful every year. If you decide to divide, be sure to have 3 to 5 good eyes in each division. Wash off the old plant and then cut apart, removing all broken or diseased parts.
After the peonies are established, apply a pound of bone meal to each plant after it blooms, working meal well into the soil. A light dressing of manure may be used in the late fall, but do not get it closer than six inches or it may rot the roots. Water well during the blooming season and water thoroughly once a week all during the summer.
Do not cultivate peonies in the spring or summer as this may cut off the eyes just under the ground. They need little cultivation at any time. Disbudding is recommended if larger blooms are desired. This is done by pinching out all except the central or largest bud of the cluster. In the late fall, when the plant has died down, cut off within two inches of the ground and destroy foliage by fire to kill any disease, for the foliage is a good (Continued on Page 2)

Marriage Of Dixie Neal, W. G. West Is Solemnized

The marriage of Miss Dixie Rae Neal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Neal, and William Glen West took place the afternoon of June 6 in the Avenue Baptist Church. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis West are parents of the bridegroom.

Rev. Bob Harris, pastor, officiated at the double-ring ceremony as the couple stood before the altar which was arranged with white gladioli and greenery and seven branched candelabra. Candle lighters were Clayton Earl Neal, brother of the bride, and Jobey Claborn, the bride's nephew.

Sandra Jo Caraway, pianist, presented a pre-nuptial concert including "Thine Alone," "Always," "I Love Thee" and "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life."

Nancy Patterson, soloist, sang "Indian Love Call" (Friml) and "O Promise Me," accompanied by Miss Caraway. During the ceremony the pianist softly played "The Wedding Prayer" with Miss Patterson giving the vocal version in benediction as the couple knelt on the satin kneeling bench.

Miss Patsy Jane Townsend, maid of honor, wore a pastel blue cotton frock made ballerina length with low neck and full skirt. Her accessories were in white and she carried yellow carnations. Doyle Guice served as best man. Ushers were Robert Lloyd of Friona and Kenneth West.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white imported organza, fashioned with straight bodice and full ballerina length skirt with overskirts of tulle. Her veil of illusion was fastened to a tiara matching the dress, and she wore a pearl necklace with bracelet and ear rings to match. The bridal bouquet was of White Finch rosebuds arranged with tufts of white satin, and white satin streamers.

Both the bride and bridegroom's mothers were dressed in navy featuring white accessories, and each wore a white carnation corsage.

Reception in West Home
Following the wedding a reception was held in the home of the bridegroom's parents. Assisting in the house party were Mrs. Doyle Guice and Mrs. Jack Bridges. Series Of Parties Planned For Norma McCullough

Hostesses in Hereford and Amarillo are planning a series of parties for Miss Norma McCullough, bride-elect of James Wayne Killian of Amarillo. The party series will close with the rehearsal dinner at which Miss McCullough's parents will be hosts, on July 3.

First of the series was a shower given Friday evening in the home of Mrs. J. R. Allison by a group of 12 hostesses.

Significant of love and romance, roses predominated in decorations throughout the house. The refreshment table revealed the bride-elect's chosen colors of blush pink and Nile green in representation of a young girl's day dream come to life.

The table was laid with a green satin cloth with pencil tapers forming a Cathedral spire diagonally across the table-end, gave background for a rose covered arch rising from a base of tiny scattered rosebuds. Bride and groom figurines, with the lady wearing a lace dress fashioned from the same material as the bride-elect's gown, stood on a wide pink satin ribbon path leading to the arch, gazing into a dainty lily pool where flower-flame lily pads floated. Fan shaped tea dainties were topped by rosebuds. Mrs. H. G. Conkwright and Mrs. J. W. Roberson Jr., poured. Appointments were in crystal. Decorative Wishing Well

For added interest there was a decorative wishing well featuring pink rosebuds and entwined greenery; where guests wrote wishes for the bride to be and dropped them into the well where all good wishes come true. There by the well, also stood a miniature bridal couple.

An informal musical program was presented during the calling hours by Mrs. Howard Scott and Dixie Young.

In the receiving line were Mrs. Allison; Mrs. Ralph McCullough, mother of the bride-elect; the honoree; Mrs. Guy W. Killian of Canyon, the prospective bridegroom's mother; his grandmother, Mrs. Joe B. Gray of Amarillo, Misses Mary Lou and Shirley McCullough and Miss Christine Cogswell. Hostesses included Mesdames J. R. Lipscomb, S. O. Wilson, Rex Tynes, J. H. Lomas, Phillip Miller, Joe Kendall, O. G. Hill, A. L. Manjeot, H. G. Conkwright, O. M. Language Handicap
DES MOINES — After lots of effort, Latin students at Callanan Junior High School here had to give up in their efforts to translate the song title, "Beer Barrel Polka," into the language of the ancient Romans. The difficulty was that the students could find no Latin word for beer, barrel or polka. Closest the young scholars could come was "Wine Cask Dance."

Steel Forms Speed Work
SAN FRANCISCO — Use of steel forms instead of conventional wood forms for concrete operations is a factor in putting construction of Chief Joseph Dam on the Columbia River far ahead of schedule. Power production is scheduled for 1938.

An example is a single steel form weighing 17 tons being used to hold the 25-foot openings of the penstocks through which the water will spill 15 feet down into the turbines. The 27 openings will be formed by the single steel frame.

Houston Family Planning Tour

Ted, who has just returned home from Boulder, Colo., where he attends the University of Colorado, is looking forward to seeing Venice, Italy but Jane, who graduated last month from Hereford High School and expects to enroll at the University of New Mexico in Albuquerque this fall, thinks she may get her biggest thrill in England where she will meet her pen-pal friend of Hereford, England, Miss Valerie Hodges, with whom she has corresponded for the past five years.

The tour will be concluded in Paris, France where a week will be given over to sight seeing. They will sail from there on the return trip to reach New York on August 10.

Little Effect On Total Runoff Shown By Soil Conservation

Cities and industries have been asking whether soil conservation being carried out by thousands of farmers and ranchers through soil conservation districts will reduce the amount of water available for municipal and industrial uses.

H. N. Smith, State Conservationist for Texas, says that for all practical purposes the answer seems to be "no."

The Soil Conservation Service has been studying this problem at the Blacklands Experimental Watersheds project near Riesel, since 1940. The studies include measurements of rainfall and runoff from two similar watersheds. They are still in progress.

Similar farming practices were being followed on both watersheds at the beginning of the study. Conservation practices were established on one of the watersheds in the spring of 1943. These practices included changing part of the cultivated area to grassland; the use of improved crop rotations; and the construction of terraces on land in cultivation. No change was made in the farming practices on the other watershed.

During the first five years rainfall was slightly above normal and the runoff - producing rainfall averaged 17.4 inches annually. The following five years, 1 through runoff-producing rainfall averaged only 4.8 inches yearly. The total rainfall during the drought period was two-thirds the amount for the normal five years, but most of it fell in such small amounts or at such a slow rate that it produced no runoff.

For the normal rainfall period there was almost no difference in the runoff from the untreated and treated watersheds, Smith reported. The annual average was 10.3 and 10.4 inches, respectively. During the drought period the average runoff from the untreated and treated watersheds was approximately 1.4 and 0.9 inches.

The fact that there was a difference of one-half inch in the annual runoff from these two watersheds during the drought years is not the significant point, said Smith. This minor difference in rate, even over a period of several years, would amount to so small a volume of water that it could not be considered in the planning of a dependable municipal water supply. The important point is that the TOTAL runoff from the untreated watershed during the five drought years was only about two-thirds of the average runoff for ONE year during the normal rainfall period.

Smith emphasized that because runoff during drought years may be very small, water supply reservoirs must have enough capacity to catch the water during years of normal to high runoff and store it for use during drought periods. A city cannot depend on the runoff during a drought to maintain its water supply. This is a fact which needs to be widely understood.

Although soil conservation practices on a watershed will not have a significant effect on water yield they can help greatly in protecting water supplies from loss of storage space by sedimentation. Conservation practices reduce erosion and the rate of reservoir sedimentation. By slowing down the rate at which reservoirs are filling with sediment, Smith said, more storage capacity will be maintained in which to store water for use during drought years.

MORE POWER FOR TEXAS PANHANDLE - Workmen in the Large Steam Turbine-Generator Department of General Electric Company, Schenectady, New York, are shown inspecting windings of a generator stator soon to be installed in the Moore County Steam Station of Southwestern Public Service Company at Sunray, Tex. Continuing industrial growth in the Northern Panhandle has resulted in increasing demand for electric power which will be met by the new turbine-generator and other additions to the generating system of Southwestern Public Service. When the new machine is placed in operation this spring, total capacity of the Southwestern system will be approximately 585,000 kilowatts. The new unit, rated 50,000 kilowatts, uses natural gas as fuel for boilers. The turbine operates with initial steam pressure of 850 pounds per square inch and temperature of 900 degrees F.

Highway Bridge To Open New Vistas

With completion of the new Highway 51 bridge across the Canadian River scheduled within the next 60 to 90 days Hereford, along with other towns on the route, can anticipate a sharp increase in traffic count along the north-south road.

Use of the road may, in fact, surprise everyone. Area vacation traffic into Colorado gateways will be heavy, pulling from the South Plains and from Eastern New Mexico with an estimated 90 miles saved from Hereford into Dalhart. Also to be considered in southbound traffic from Dalhart junctions into Ft. Worth, Dallas, Austin and San Antonio. Many people from Hereford are already taking advantage of the route through Jacksboro into Ft. Worth and Dallas and Dalhart traffic to these points will find the same advantages.

Long range use of U. S. 51 is based upon trans-continental travel from Canada into Mexico. In addition to being fast, the road will also be scenic, winding through the Black Hills of the Dakotas, down to this area and on into Big Bend National Park in Texas. Development along this line will not be rapid, due to other improvements needed before the trans-continental picture will be complete, but in many respects it does forecast the greatest possibilities of the highway.

Highway 51, from a military standpoint, is also a strategic artery. To predict that Highway 51 will someday surpass Highway 60 would indeed be optimistic, but the possibilities are definitely good in the location.

All in all, opening of the new bridge will mean much to Hereford. Primarily, it means that the community is now served by two trans-continental highways. Statistics and research indicate that tourist traffic alone will be profitable; other vistas are industry and expansion of Hereford's already flourishing vegetable and produce production.

Without question, two major highways strengthen Hereford's position in the parade of growth and progress of the nation. Just because a town has good highway arteries does not necessarily mean that it will succeed but, on the other hand, a town without adequate rail, air and highway facilities has very little chance in these modern times.

Common Sense Is Ideal Speedometer

In one of the dozen states which still permits a driver to travel at any speed so long as it is considered "reasonable and proper," a motorist recently faced a charge of speeding of 90 miles an hour. A state highway policeman had clocked him at that speed, yet the driver was freed by a judge who ruled that under good driving conditions, 90 miles an hour was "reasonable and proper" as defined in that state.

Common sense alone should tell all thinking Americans — lawmakers and judges included — that speeds of 90 miles an hour are obviously unsafe on public highways. Such speeds are, nevertheless, witnessed every day on the highways of any state, even in those which have clearly defined speed limits.

It is fortunate, indeed, that this was an extremely isolated case, but the court's anti-social ruling does help to center attention on the fact that even judges are included in the millions of misguided Americans who have been sold the false bill of goods that high speeds can be safe speeds.

If any one doubts that more drivers are traveling faster on highways everywhere, their skepticism can be quickly dispelled by official studies of the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads showing that average speeds are hitting record highs in every section. In the East, 28 percent of all traffic on rural roads exceeded 50 miles an hour during 1952; in the central and western sections, 54 percent exceeded that speed, which is considered relatively safer than faster paces under the best driving conditions. Compared with 1949, all drivers exceeding 50 mph increased seven percent, those going over 55 rose five percent, and drivers hitting more than 60 went up three percent. Percentages of drivers traveling faster than 55 and 60 increased even more sharply in the central and western regions.

Must drivers learn only the hard way that speed is the No. 1 killer? That the typical driver is not adjusted physically or emotionally to speeds in excess of a mile a minute?

Class Reunions

Two class reunions within the past two weeks present opportunity for a community program which might well rival Pioneer Day for interest and entertainment. The reunions might, in fact, well be incorporated with the annual Pioneer Days celebration each year.

Graduating classes of 1929 and 1934 gathered here recently to visit, talk over old times and renew acquaintances. A large number of persons attending were from this immediate area, while a few came from greater distances for the meetings.

Several communities are already sponsoring reunions of this type and they are meeting with enthusiastic acceptance. After the program continues for three or four years attendance generally includes more and more members from over the nation, according to experience in other areas. Actually, class reunions would well fit into the general Pioneer Days planning. They do require considerable work, persistence and much letter writing, all of which must be done by some member of the class who still resides in the community.

Practically every graduate looks forward to coming "back home" on just such an occasion. Too often, however, they make the trip to find few of their old classmates still on hand. The reunion idea would solve this problem and at the same time, afford an opportunity for former students to visit relatives, renew acquaintances and generally inspect the old home town. All in all, the idea has considerable merit. Like all similar projects, however, it will require considerable organization and untold hours of volunteer work.

QUESTION OF THE WEEK

Enforcement Of Garbage Can Lid Ordinance Universally Favored

Since garbage cans are breeding places for flies, do you think there should be strict enforcement of the city ordinance that such cans must have tight fitting lids?

DORIS NIXON
"Yes I do think that there should be strict enforcement of the city ordinance that garbage cans have tight fitting lids. Bacteria will not be as apt to spread as if the cans were just open."

J. W. THOMAS
"I surely do think that the city ordinance that all garbage must have tight fitting lids should be strictly enforced. The primary reason is that I believe this would stop some of the spreading of disease."

MRS. O. E. SHERMAN
"Of course, I live 2 1/4 miles out of town and I don't have much say but I think that there should be strict enforcement of the law. Not only to prevent disease and breeding places for flies but to keep the dogs from getting in the garbage cans and turning them over scattering the trash all over."

ANSEL MCDOWELL
"Yes, I do think that the city ordinance should be enforced and that all garbage cans should have tight fitting lids. There are a thousand good reasons why cans need lids and I believe that everyone knows them without mentioning them."

MRS. LEO PRICE
"I believe that all garbage cans should have tight fitting lids, although I don't have one on mine, I still think that they are very good things. I believe that it would stop a lot of breeding of flies and cut down on disease."

K. O. ROOKE
"Yes, I think that garbage cans should have tight fitting lids to keep flies and other insects out and stop the breeding of them and the spreading of disease."

EUGENIA KNOX
"Yes, I do think that all garbage cans should have tight fitting lids. As the question states they are a breeding place for flies and it would not only cut down on flies but it would just be safer all the way around. After all, flies are thought to carry polio and many other diseases and I just believe it would be a lot better if everyone had lids on their garbage cans."

We haven't worried about the possibility of having to go back to dry land farming until this year but after having our well at the house pumped dry for the third time we are beginning to wonder just what will happen when we no longer have an irrigation well where we can pump water for the sheep and fill a ten gallon can for use at the house. We didn't know a bunch of dogs, cats and chickens could get so thirsty.

Anybody want a pup? We still have a couple to give away to somebody who can give them a good drink.

By the way all of those who are wondering about the blackeyed peas — They are up to a good stand and should be ready along about the first of August if the weatherman doesn't get rough with us as he has with so many who have lost their crops recently. We put in a larger acreage to try to supply all of our old customers and new ones that come each year.

We'll let you know in plenty of time to get your bonnet and apron or basket.

Hope Mrs. Bill Morton up in South Dakota will read this and time her visit so as not to be disappointed this year as she was last.

Maybe we should apologize to Atha McIver for the story in last Sunday's paper which had her livin in a thistle filled lane. We don't know what happened to the rest of the story but she was living in Amarillo.

AUSTIN — Texas is moving to clean up its insurance "mess."

A study of reform proposals has been scheduled by the Texas Legislative Council, with a special committee of legislators in charge of the project. Other state agencies will participate.

A. W. Worthy, executive director of the council, said that Lieutenant Governor Ben Ramsey has written to all insurance companies operating in Texas, asking for their co-operation in the study.

Sixty insurance companies have failed in Texas since 1939, Worthy said. The council will look at the records of these companies to see why they went bankrupt.

Another aspect of the council's work will be to examine Texas' insurance laws and recommend changes "to assure a sound and stable insurance industry."

Yarborough's Charges
Ralph W. Yarborough, candidate for governor, charged that there had been "influence peddling" in connection with the insurance situation. Yarborough recommended:

"A complete investigation looking into retainers, bank accounts, expense accounts, income tax returns, and excessive personal expenditures of state government officials connected with insurance law administration in Texas."

Nearly everybody got into the insurance show. These included: Attorney General John Ben Shepperd, who recommended 29 changes in the state insurance laws, including state control over insurance company stock sales.

Chairman Garland A. Smith of the insurance commission, who denounced "blatant untruths and half truths" in a Time Magazine article. Smith said the magazine was "joining with jealous big Eastern insurance companies in trying to smear the Texas insurance industry."

Good Business
Dr. John R. Stockton of the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research says that a trade decline is over and recovery has started.

Business activity rose two percent from March to April in Texas, Dr. Stockton found, representing "a recovery of approximately half of the decline from January, 1953, and January, 1954."

This finding indicates, Dr. Stockton said, "that the decline in business, which has been under way since the spring of 1953, is approaching an end."

Lots of Roads
A construction program for 1955-1956, costing about $211 million, was announced by the state highway commission. It was the largest program ever approved in Texas.

The BOOTLEG Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm seems a little jittery this week, his letter reveals.

Dear editor:
I heard a man on the radio the other night, I think he was an expert, at least he claimed he was and he spoke with considerable authority, which doesn't necessarily mean anything as most radio news analysts speak that way anyway, and he was contending America is missin a real bet by not usin atomic energy for some other purposes besides bombs.

"Here we've got this tremendous source of power and we ought to be studying methods of using it in many other ways, for example as sources of energy for automobiles, tractors, other machinery, etc." he said.

I think this fellow is on dangerous ground. Now I'll admit I'd like to have a tractor you could buy a thimble-full of atomic energy for and run it for the next ten or fifteen years, but here's the point this expert is overlooking:

What if they installed some atomic engine on my tractor out here on Goothead Prairie and the thing worked fine. What I would want to know is, who's gonna guard the thing?

Personally, I certainly don't want the responsibility of keepin any atom secrets. My observation has been that even the top men in the country connected with atomic energy aren't up to keepin the thing secret. Oh, it's true the secret has been fairly safe with some politicians, but that's mostly because they didn't understand the principle of the atom anyway and couldn't have revealed it if they'd wanted to. The secret of what's on the back side of the moon is safe for the same reason.

But the last thing I want out here is some secret information I'd rather return to plowin with mules, ain't no secret connected with that system, ain't no investigation likely to develop about it, ain't no foreign agents interested in it.

In fact, if things keep goin like they are, the dumb people may turn out to be really smarter than the smart ones, as it looks like the smarter a man gets the more suspicion he arouses, and the safest place for a secret no doubt is in the mind of a man who can't understand it. Don't know why the experts haven't thought of this before. What they ought to do is divide the atom secret up into fifteen parts, pick out say fifteen Congressmen who can't understand even one-fifteen parts of it, make em memorize their parts, but don't tell em what order the memorized sections go together in, kill off the scientists who thought up the thing in the first place, and the secret will finally be safe and secure.

Meanwhile, keep those atom tractors away from my farm. I couldn't understand one anyway, but I don't want to have to go to Washington to prove it.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

There, the contenders are incumbent Allan Shivers; Ralph Yarborough, Austin attorney; and J. J. Holmes, Austin contractor.

Yarborough opened up with a speech in which he talked about "the need for integrity in state government and a sound program for the advancement of Texas."

Meanwhile, Austin political observers heard reports from the Rio Grande Valley that national CIO leaders are going all-out in an attempt to defeat Shivers. These reports said that the CIO has put up $250,000 to finance Yarborough and already has 300 paid workers in the field campaigning against Shivers.

Holmes, who is beginning to step up his pace in the race, says "I'm not mad at anybody. I just want to be Governor of Texas."

Shivers' Race

Shivers, returning from Korea, said that the thing for Texans to do is to keep our government at home, and not turn it over to outsiders.

At a press conference, the governor said he expected some opposition from Democrats who supported Adlai Stevenson last time.

Shivers pointed out that he led the fight for Eisenhower because the Republican nominee saw eye-to-eye with him on the tidelands issue, whereas Stevenson thought the tidelands ought to belong to the federal government.

Since the return of the tidelands to Texas a year ago, Shivers said, this state has collected from them about $32 million in mineral rights, and this money goes to the state school fund.

Lieutenant Governor

Opposing Ben Ramsey for lieutenant governor were State Representative George T. Hinson of Mineola and C. T. Johnson, Austin business man.

Hinson announced in favor of legislation which would require lobbyists to register with the state and force lawmakers to file a list of all the sources and the amount of their income.

Johnson plugged what he termed the need for "new men" to strengthen insurance laws for the protection of policyholders. Said Johnson: "It's interesting to see those who have been in a position for years and years to clean up the insurance mess suddenly get stirred up about it."

Campaigning for the re-election of Few Brewster, associate justice of the Texas Supreme Court, began with the appointment of Franklin Spears of San Antonio as campaign manager.

William B. Carsow, Austin Law-tended church at Floydada Sunday. Mrs. Markley's mother and aunt, Mrs. J. A. Noland, returned home with them.

Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Markley visited Mr. and Mrs. Luther Ellis Tuesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Worthan visited in the C. P. Worthan's home Tuesday afternoon and night.

yer, heads up a statewide campaign committee. Brewster is opposed by Robert B. Keenan of Gladewater and Alfred M. Scott of Austin.

I. N. Williams retired as associate justice of the Texas Court of Civil Appeals, and his place is being sought by Otto H. Atchley and Mat Davis.

Fourteen other judges on Texas civil appeals courts, up for re-election, are unopposed.

Executive Sessions
State executive committees of both the Democratic and Republican parties will meet here June 14 to prepare the July 24 primary ballot and select sites for the September state conventions.

Republicans will choose a state chairman to succeed Alvin Lane, who resigned. George Sandlin of Austin has been chosen Democratic chairman, replacing Wallace Savage, who resigned to run for Congress.

Park Visitors
Four million people will visit Texas' parks this summer, says Gordon K. Shearer, executive director of the state parks board.

The number will be a record, biggest year heretofore having been 1952, when park visitors numbered 3,803,147. Various improvements have added to the attractiveness of the parks, Sharr said.

More Milk
Texas' big dairy industry opened up a 30-day campaign, whooping it up about how much dairy products mean to the state's people.

Included in the program were guided tours through model dairy farms, speeches, menus on the newspaper food pages, exhibits, and advertising.

Formula for Grads
Note to June graduates: Do you want to succeed? If so, you must love work.

So says L. L. (Tex) Colbert, president of Chrysler Corporation, who addressed 1,300 in graduation exercises at the University of Texas.

Himself a Texas graduate — in 1925 — Colbert said, "I believe that for most Americans there is a deep moral satisfaction in turning out a good job."

Duval Jury
In Duval County "the oppressed may take new hope," said Attorney General John Ben Shepperd.

His comment was made upon the appointment of a new jury commission and grand jury panel in the violent South Texas domain.

Insurance Scandal
Looks like the big news this week will outshine the political spotlight. Scene of the drama: The 98th District Court room in Austin.

Stars in the show: Public Relations Man John Van Cronkhite; Maurice Acers, executive assistant to Governor Shivers; Attorney General John Ben Shepperd; State Insurance Board Chairman Garland Smith; and Chief Insurance Examiner L. W. Blanchard.

The five were ordered to appear for the trial in connection with the state's suit for a permanent injunction against the operation of Lloyd's of North America.

Fraud is the charge against Lloyd's of North America.

You can bet your bottom dollar that this case will echo and re-echo throughout the present political campaign.

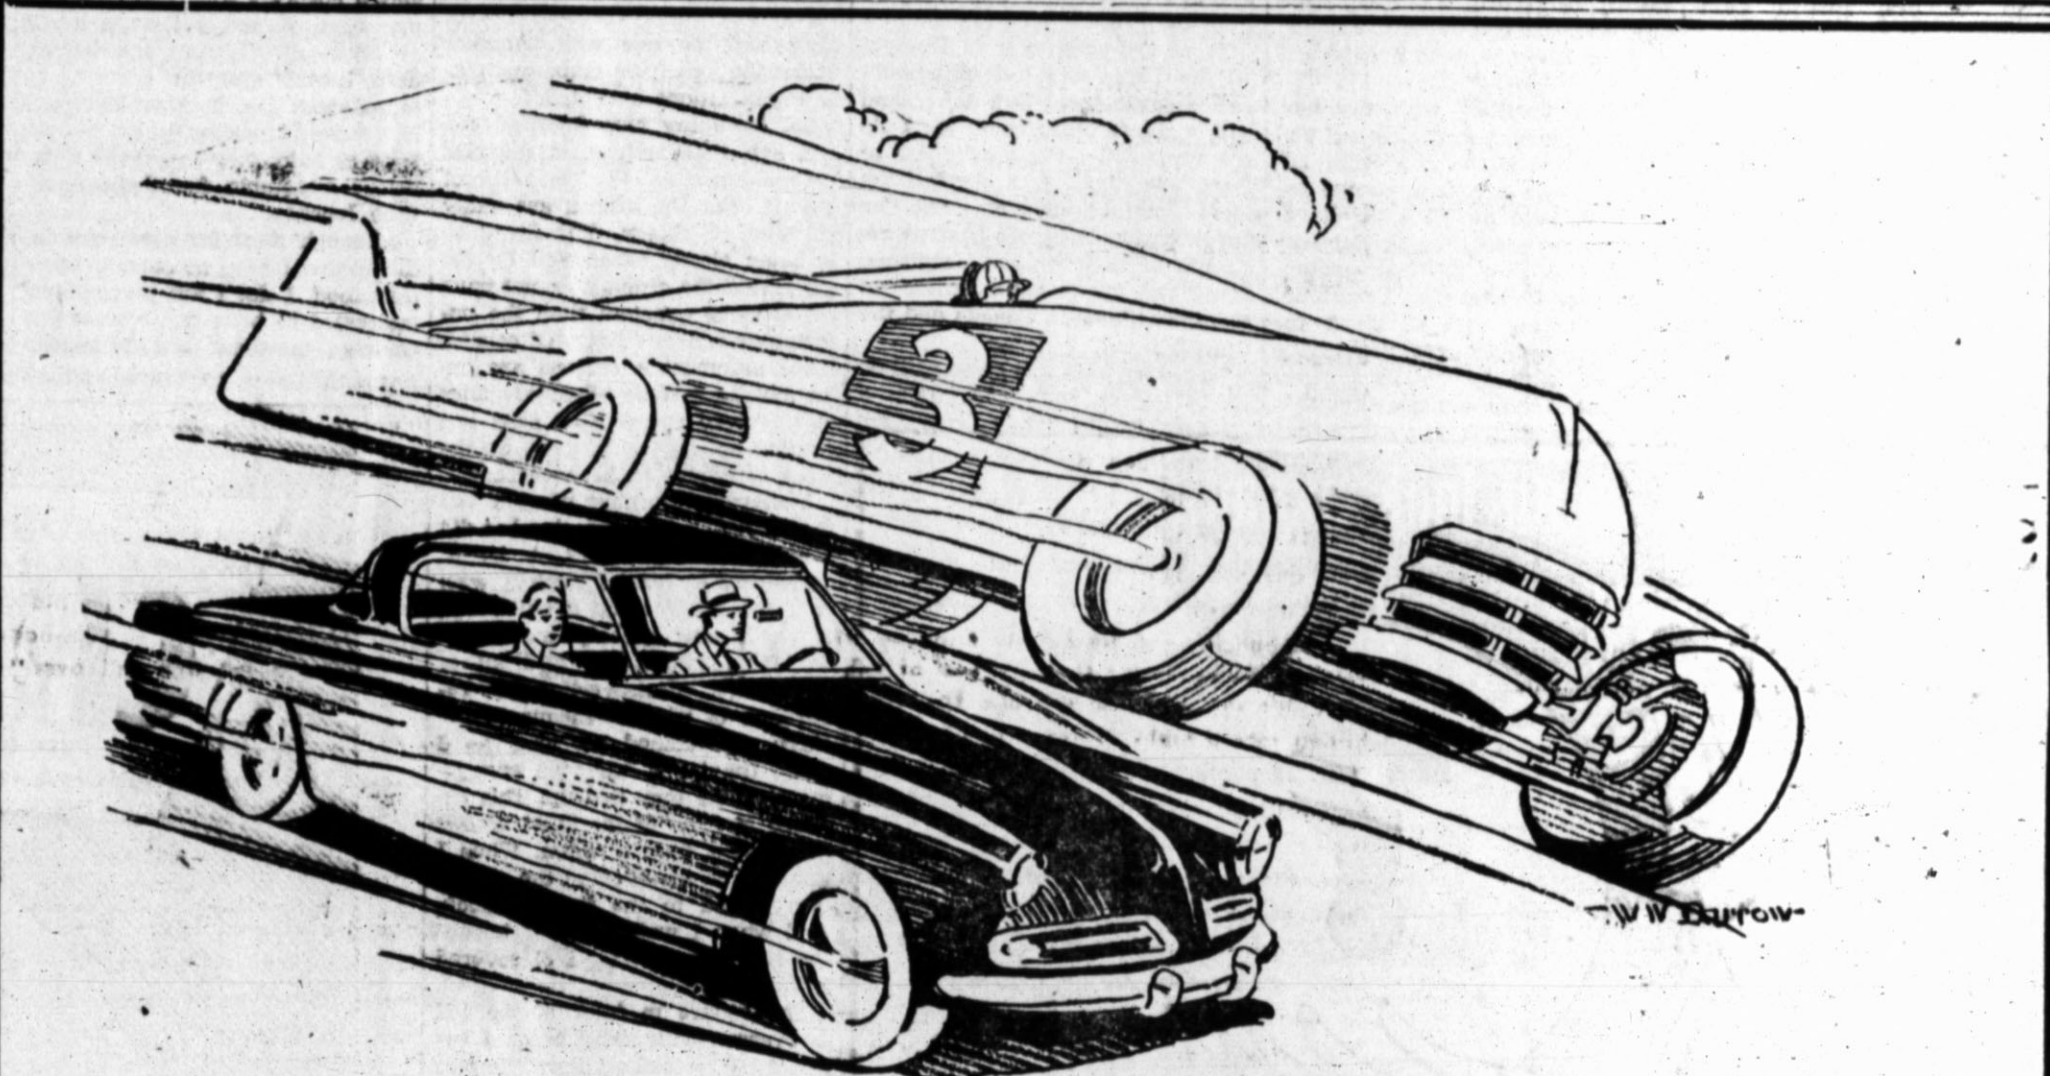

California has half a million acres of vineyards. Connecticut has about 23,000 acres in tobacco. The average Canadian ate 140 pounds of meat in 1953.

Weather Clear TRACK FAST Fatal!

When racing drivers are out for new speed records, they pray for a clear, fast track.

But those same conditions on the nation's highways produce different records—deadly records! Last year 80 per cent of fatal accidents, 26,280 occurred in clear weather on straight, dry roads. Only one answer—too much speed, too little control.

Highways are not raceways, but every road has its dread quota of "race track fringe" drivers. One highway safety authority says: "It is not a question of what is a safe speed—now it is what is a 'survival speed' for the average driver? It isn't up in the 65 miles an hour and plus range, where sustained momentum hypnotizes the senses, where impact is deadly. Now we must slow down to live!"

In the last four years average speeds have been creeping up until more than half of all rural driving, passenger cars and buses, are now exceeding fifty miles per hour with many of them doing well over sixty.

This high speed hysteria must be tamed. It has become a national emergency to be met by indignant public demand for more and stricter law enforcement. Let's stop this losing race with Death!

SLOW DOWN—LIVES ARE IN YOUR HANDS!

City Hall Bells, Food, DP Camp All Interesting

By Cecile B. Eubanks
(Editor's Note — Mrs. Eubanks is on an extended tour of Europe, and plans to visit the Near East and the Holy Land before returning to Hereford.)

Each and every European city or village I have visited has a tradition of its founding. And a visible emblem which is used everywhere possible. In Trieste, this is the halbar. The story, as I remember it, is that a Saint dropped the halbar at his martyrdom and it stuck in the ground, handle up, as a sign that there a city should be established. So the halbar is used everywhere possible. So is the name "excelsior." If you remember in King Arthur and Knights of the Round Table, his sword was named "Excelsior." Here it is vested with the same importance as the mythical sword.

Flower beds are planted in colors to bring the shape of the halbar into the green background. Green, sometimes is grass, sometimes plants. But always beautiful.

Peace or Castle is used in describing practically all imposing residences or public buildings. So this hotel is called Excelsior Palace Hotel. And in many ways it is much like my idea of a palace. Miramar is a Castle, (where American General McFadden lives) General Winters, British Commander also lives in a Castle.

The halbar as mentioned above is a much used emblem. It is used as label pins, emblems of position, etc. Even printed on each pat of butter. One morning it was missing on one of mine and I wondered in the dining room help was slipping. Or if they thought I had let too many days go by without paying my bill!

Joking aside, service here is something to write home about. It will be hard for me to get back to old routine when I get home.

No more breakfast served in bed. No more curtains pulled open when I ring. I will have to make and turn down my own bed at night and even turn on my bedside table lamp! To even contemplate drawing my own bath, shine my shoes, etc., makes me shudder! And how can I survive not having my bath-towels heated and wrapped around me when I get out of the tub Oh, Gosh I can't make up my mind if I ever want to go home or not!

And I have been "madam"ed and bowed to until I have begun to think I am a VIP. And a VIP really means something over here. It was borne in emphatically while my new banker friend showed me through the bank. Porters, doormen, elevator men, etc., snapped their heels and stood against the wall as if they had ramrods instead of spines. I'm wondering if my friend was a military or naval officer during the war. But maybe all this is only the European way of acknowledging financial and social position. It's nice when you're on the right end of the equation.

It is well that it rains a lot or I should never get anything told to anyone about things over here. But Trieste just can't be put aside until later as Paris and Rome have. Yes, and many other places worthy of record. Florence, Genova, Avignon and Neems, France. And the Rivas, both French and Italian.

Today, together with my new Italian friends, I was taken out and shown through the San Saba DP camp. There are four camps established here for DP's of all nations who come to the Trieste border and ask for political asylum. San Saba is average. I assume, and is taking care of about 400 such refugees. All ages. Some have escaped with money, but more to have not. I also assume that the AMG direct these camps. I am also under the impression that it is a United Nations effort to help helpless persons. Stateless persons.

The DP's are assigned living quarters at the camp, which was once the largest rice factory in Europe. The buildings are practically all stone, of course, as are most buildings in Italy. No marble stairways, floor etc., though. The rooms have been partitioned into various sizes to care for families or individuals. Only enough repair and painting badly. The DP's are working on it, but materials are scarce as every available penny-beg pardon, lire—is used for purchase of materials to care for the DP's themselves.

Practically every DP goes to school. These schools are largely taught by qualified DP's. Some of whom are highly educated persons and many professional persons.

Kindergarten and grade schools are provided for the children. Trade schools, or something resembling what we call trade schools, are maintained for adults. Many nationalities are represented. At this time, there are more Russians at San Saba than any other nationality. White Russians, whom I understand are refugees from the present government.

There are persons from Rumania, the Ukraine, Russia, Estonia and Yugoslavia at San Saba. And half a dozen other countries I do not remember. Practically all of them are studying a foreign (to them) language in preparation for the day when they can become residents of their chosen countries. Many will go to South American countries. Some to Canada and the United States.

All DP's are taught some skill or art at which they can make a living when they leave the camp, which is always months and for some years. The list of things taught at San Saba and the other camps, is so long I cannot remember them all.

Auto mechanics, radio manufacture, furniture manufacture, cabinet making, body repair and painting, radio repair, furniture repair and finishing, house painting and repair, electricity and all that goes with it, plumbing, house designing, photography, tailoring men's and women's suits, millinery, book keeping, house wiring, engineering blue prints, all commercial requisites, general sewing, shoemaking and repair, accounting.

In fact, you name it and I have no doubt it is taught at San Saba. Old shoes are taken apart and rebuilt. Automobiles are taken apart and reassembled. They are painted, the paint removed and done over. Leather is needed very much for this work. Money for paint. Fabrics are badly needed in the sewing and tailoring rooms. Old clothing is worked over by beginners. New materials are used by those more capable of handling it.

Woodwork and carving is also an important trade. One of the loveliest chess boards and chessmen I ever saw was made by hand at San Saba.

I saw a sign "Counsels of All Churches" on one wall. Another "Contributions from clubs and other organizations accepted."

So, from my own knowledge I can say that nothing is diverted for management. AMG is in direct charge. But the offices are sadly in need of repair. The furniture is being slowly assembled by the DP's. And the officials do not have much nicer quarters than the unfortunate refugees have. Of course, these unfortunate persons are going out as fast as other countries will receive them. New ones are coming across the borders. So the work continues to be necessary.

Yesterday morning when I left the hotel about 11 o'clock what did I see in the harbor? A U. S. destroyer. At least I think it was. It is too small to be a battleship, is easily and quickly maneuvered. It carries guns. And all of this means "destroyer" to me regardless of what it means to the Navy. I watched as long as I could (having a luncheon engagement) while they tied up. This expense in front of the hotel at last has a ship. Two of them. When I got back in the evening the second was lashed to the first to dock. And when I walked about toward the fishermen's wharf I discovered a third.

The square in front of the PX is overrun with water boys. I see the gateway leading down the pier is patrolled by a sailor as well as a soldier. When it gets too rainy they seek refuge in a tiny house built to shelter them. I wonder if it isn't called a "sentry box?" But every few minutes the lad with his gun walks back and forth a time or two.

Wonder if all the fleet I saw last at Napoli will be here? I may be wrong, but I feel that these people here are not too happy about our ships coming here. One person said, when I explained they were just cruising around, "I hope that's all."

Saturday I went with some Italian friends to Udine (pronounced something like "Woodeny.") We drove in one of those tiny cars. A Fiat. Can't tell much about them, just a fifty or sixty mile drive. It was very comfortable riding as four of us weighted it down and we didn't run very fast.

Udine is another old, old town. The village along the way looked as if they had been badly war-damaged and as if the inhabitants had a struggle to keep alive. Every inch of land suitable for growing food is used. Lettuce is plucked for market (some of it at least) when the leaves are not more than an inch long. Onions seem to have been pulled. Now and then one sees some on racks drying alongside the road. Maybe it is that they are for sale. The most exciting vegetable I have eaten in Italy is fennel. It looks much like an onion bulb but the leaves are feathery, more like a carrot. It tastes not a bit like either. Wish it could be introduced in U. S. Or if it already is grown there, wish it were on the market so I could include it in my salads. It is also delicious cut in sections similar to an orange divided in sections, dipped in egg and crumbs and deep fried.

Soinach is used here in a way different to the cooking methods we use. It is pureed, mixed with butter (melted), beaten eggs to which a bit of milk is added, and grated Parmesan cheese. I suppose one could substitute any kind of cheese. But this particular kind is very hard and lends itself to grating. It is then so fine as to be almost a powder and is added to soups, rice, salads, and, in fact almost everything. This mixture above is stirred carefully together and baked in a buttered dish. It gets a custardy solid and cut like pie when turned out on a plate or taken direct from the baking dish. I can't give the amounts of ingredients. But if other Hereford housewives cook with touch and taste as I do, they can make a delicious vegetable for those noon-time lunches.

Although these articles may indicate that I have no other interest than food, I do. I am particularly interested in bells and clocks. Especially in these old European towns. At Udine, for instance, there is a bell atop a great tall building, something corresponding to our City Hall. I think two bronze men stand with bronze clubs in their hands and on the hour raise them and "B-o-n-g-g" the m against the bell. It is a great booming sound that lingers but is musical for all that. I am told that it is a small replica of one in Venice. But, my goodness, these bronze men are several times life size.

There is also an interesting bell at Opichina, (pronounced Oo-pee-chee-na) a suburb of Trieste. It is high on a hill overlooking the city and is served by a sort of street car or bus run by electricity. I am a bit hazy about this detail as I have not ridden it as yet. It is called the Opichina tram. As the little city is so high, it is often visited by the "boro." In Texas, we would call it a norther. Whatever the name, it is a very high wind and once upon a time overturned the car and a folksong called "Opichina Tram" came of it. I am trying to get a recording of it. Even in Italian it sounds interesting.

In any case, when a party threatens to go flat the orchestra plunges into Opichina Tram and everyone comes alive. If I can't get this recording I shall have one of the elevator boys have a recording cut for me. One of Signor Navach's assistants who took me on a tour of the city offered to do it for me but at present is in the hospital.

He became ill the day he took me out and it is extremely unfortunate for him as his little six year old boy is just recovering from appendicitis.

Have not thought to inquire if there is any form of state medicine here. Shall try to find out tomorrow if it quits raining long enough for me to get out. I'm even learning to carry an umbrella over here. Incidentally, the rain and late summer is locally believed to be caused by the Americans releasing the atomic bomb. And who am I to challenge the statement?

When a longshoreman's strike tied up New York City harbor, one French ship once carried one container of 100 tons of roquefort cheese across the Atlantic five times.

Texans In Washington

By Tex Easley
AP Special Washington Service
Washington — The proposal of Sen. Case (RSD) that members of the House be elected to four-year rather than two-year terms draws opposition from Texarkana's Congressman Wright Patman.
Case, a former representative himself, says House members have to devote too much time and attention to campaigning — being up for re-election every other year. Senators are elected to six-year terms.
Patman, who has rounded out a quarter century service in the House and has had numerous heated re-election campaigns, disagrees. He says the security of a four-year term would be nice but wouldn't keep the representatives as sensitive to the will of the people.

"At the present time," he told his colleagues in the House, "I believe we have a fine balance in our Constitution as it affects the people who are privileged to assume the burdens of carrying on our successful democracy in a republic."
"In the Congress, in the one House where the most important laws are exclusively introduced, the elections are for two years and every member is elected by the people — not a one is ever appointed."
He referred to the fact that tax levying and appropriation bills can originate only in the House. They can be amended in the Senate, however.

First Lieut. Andrew McColpin, 24, of Corsicana is remaining here on Pentagon duty and leaving it up to friends to wage a campaign for his election to the state legislature. He's barred from active politics while still in the service.

He expects to finish his Army term late in July or August — after the first primary election.
McColpin attached to the legal department, assisted in the prosecution of Corp. Edward S. Dickenson of Crackers Neck, Va., who was court-martialed for collaborating with the Communist while a Korean war prisoner.

Austin's Congressman Homer Thornberry and family live here in a large, 85-year-old clapboard house in northwest Washington which they bought and renovated themselves into an attractive residence with a large beautiful backyard in the midst of tall apartment construction.

The house was the scene of a luncheon Mrs. Thornberry gave recently for some 30 wives of legislators who entered Congress simultaneously with her husband six years ago.

A local newspaper society columnist wrote of the affair, at which the guest speaker was Mrs. Peter Marshall, author of the best-seller, "A Man Called Peter," the story of the late Presbyterian minister who also served as Senate chaplain.

Turning to a description of the Thornberry's place, the columnist said:
"The Thornberry's comfortable Victorian home was 'haunted' when they bought it three years ago. Window panes had been shot out by B-B guns and a paint job was badly needed. But 'professional

BY LEE FALK & PHIL DAVIS

HONESTLY, MANDRAKE!
MY HAT BLEW INTO THE CEMETERY. I WENT AFTER
IT-- A SKELETON'S HAND
CAME OUT OF THE TOMB
AND GRABBED ME--
I RAN--

REALLY, NARDA! THAT'S THE WILDEST THING
I EVER HEARD. YOU
CAN'T EXPECT ME
TO BELIEVE IT.

I JUST COULDN'T CONVINCE
MANDRAKE! ANYHOW, I'M GOING BACK AFTER MY NEW HAT! OH, DEAR, IT'S ALMOST
TWILIGHT ALREADY. I WISH
I'D STARTED EARLIER!

THAT'S WHERE I LAST SAW MY HAT--
BUT THE TOMB'S ALL CLOSED-- DID
I IMAGINE IT ALL--?

I'M THE CARETAKER,
MISS. CAN I
HELP YOU?

MY HAT BLEW IN HERE
YESTERDAY-- I CAME BACK TO LOOK FOR IT.

I'LL SEE IF IT'S BEEN TURNED IN AT MY OFFICE. WAIT HERE.

SUDDENLY, A SWEET-SMELLING CLOTH IS CLAPPED OVER
NARDA'S FACE-- SHE BLACKS OUT--

IT'S GETTING SO
DARK--OOHH

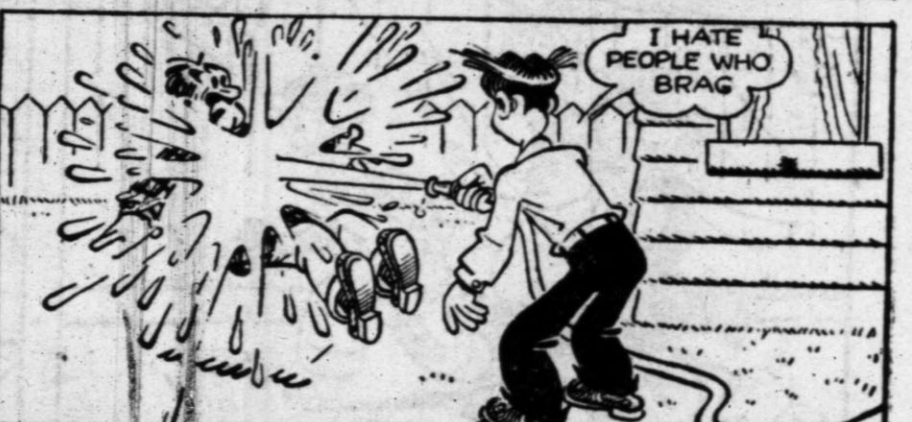

THE NIGHT DEEPENS-- ONLY THE SOUND OF CRICKETS IS HEARD IN THE DARK GRAVEYARD--

Portrait Of A Father

He holds you close but sets you free . . . Gives you counsel when the shadows of trouble fall . . . Understands when things go wrong—the sting of failure or whatever your plight . . . He is ready to help when your strength gives out, wherever you chance to be . . . Gives you his trust — and covets yours . . . And most of all his prayers reach out to share with other father's sons and daughters along the way, who need courage to try again when hopes grow dim . . . His own sorrows he keeps hidden from those he loves — — — And he gives to the world a standard portrait of true affection and great love.
