Housing Costs, Loan Rates Boost Inflation

By ROBERT FURLOW
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Housing costs, boosted by record home-loan rates, sent the nation's inflation up at an annual rate of 8.8 percent in June, the government reported today. June's 0.7 percent inflation increase marked the fourth consecutive month of what economists have been calling "single-digit territory" — below 10 percent on an annualized basis. If prices rose at the June rate for 12 straight months, the annual inflation rate would be 8.8 percent.

The improvement from last year's 12.4 percent annual rate has been due largely to lower-than-expected energy and food prices, and both increased only moderately again in June.

But a big increase in housing costs, which had begun showing up in May, came on strong in June, according to the Department of Labor's Consumer Price Index. The housing component of the index rose 1.1 percent in June, accounting for about three-fourths of the overall inflation increase, the Labor Department report said.

Home-ownership costs rose even more — about 1.5 percent — but that increase was softened in the overall housing figure by a slim 0.4 percent rise in rental costs, the smallest in more than a year.

All the figures are adjusted for normal seasonal variations in prices.

The CPI is the most widely publicized inflation index, but it has been criticized for the heavy weight it gives to housing costs, particularly mortgage costs. Although mortgage rates have clearly risen rapidly in recent months, reaching an average of 16.75 percent in early June, critics point out that relatively few

Chrysler's Profit Status Improving

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp., which reported its first quarterly profit in more than two years, may be "out of intensive care," but industry experts and the automaker's chairman agree the patient could suffer a relapse of red ink in coming months.

Chrysler announced a $11.6 million profit Wednesday for the April-through-June period, amounting to 6 cents a share of common stock. The report was a sharp turnaround from last year's second quarter, when the company lost $536.1 million, or $8.13 a share.

But analysts and Chrysler Chairman Lee Iacocca said the automaker needs an improved economic climate with lower interest rates to avert a return to losses for the third quarter.

The company's last profit was $43.1 million in the fourth quarter of 1978. Since then the automaker has lost more than $3.3 billion and was on the verge of bankruptcy last year until it was bailed out by $1.2 billion in federal loan guarantees.

was based on net sales of $3.1 billion, against $2.1 billion during the same 1980 quarter, an increase of 46 percent.

David Eisenberg, senior research analyst for Sanford C. Bernstein & Co., a New York-based investment research and management firm, said the second-quarter results means Chrysler is "out of intensive care, ...they're in the outpatient clinic now."

"I'm impressed, and I'm delighted," he said. "They're moving in the right direction. If economic conditions improve, of course they'll survive."

Iacocca said in a luncheon speech at the National Press Club in Washington his company "is now on the leading edge of the industry's recovery. Chrysler has fought its way back to profitability."

The automaker is not expected to make a profit for the year as a whole. In January, during negotiations over the latest round of loan guarantees, the company told the government it expected to

Congress Back On Tax-Cut Schedule

WASHINGTON (AP) — With Senate Republicans dropping efforts to reduce taxes on the oil industry, Congress is back on schedule to complete action on a multiyear tax cut before the August recess.

However, the lawmakers may have to delay the recess by a week to ensure that the first phase of the largest tax cut in the nation's history would be felt in paychecks received after Oct. 1, as President Reagan requested.

A major impediment to finishing the tax bill was removed Wednesday night when Senate Republicans gave in to liberal Democrats and dropped an effort to give an estimated $40 billion in tax relief to the oil industry over the next decade.

In return, the Republicans won agreement to increase to about $6.35 billion the five-year value of oil tax breaks already in the bill, which was approved by the Senate Finance Committee. That relief includes a $2,500-per-year tax credit for owners of oil lands and cutting in half the "windfall profits" tax on domestic oil discovered after 1978.

The agreement also apparently ended a "bidding war" that has been fought for several days by Democratic and Republican leaders to win votes from conservative oil-state lawmakers. The agreement prohibits Senate consideration of any other oil tax reductions in an overall tax-cut bill.

Although some major disputes remain, differences between the House and Senate versions of the tax bill have been narrowed considerably over the past several weeks.

Reagan still insists on a three-year, 25 percent, across-the-board cut in personal tax rates, with the same reduction going to taxpayers at all income levels. That is in the Senate bill.

American Officials Now Embarrassed By Begin

WASHINGTON (AP) — Embarrassed by Israeli bombing of Palestinian neighborhoods in Lebanon, American officials are becoming increasingly exasperated with Prime Minister Menachem Begin, calling him a major obstacle to peace in the Middle East.

A growing crisis of confidence in U.S.-Israeli relations was marked Wednesday by unusually strident criticism of Begin by Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger and Deputy Secretary of State William P. Clark.

But even though the White House said Weinberger was speaking for the administration, President Reagan indicated sympathy for the Israeli cause.

Israeli officials, meanwhile, defended Begin's actions, declaring that Palestinian forces have been receiving weaponry of "the most sophisticated kind" in recent months.

The harshest criticism of Begin came from Clark, Reagan's longtime friend, who was quoted as telling reporters during a closed breakfast meeting that the U.S. attitude toward the Jewish leader is one of "disappointment and maybe some embarrassment."

commitment is not to Mr. Begin but to the nation he represents." The Begin government is pressing the administration to release F-16 jets ordered held back by Reagan, first because the Israelis used American-made warplanes in the June 7 bombing of an Iraqi nuclear reactor and later because of the fighting in Lebanon.

"Israel is simply not our only friend in the area," Clark was quoted as saying Wednesday. "You just don't ship gasoline to a fire. We have something of a crisis on our hands." Weinberger, speaking on ABC's "Good Morning America," said presidential envoy Philip Habib was on the verge of a breakthrough in his marathon shuttle negotiations with several nations in the region when Israel launched air strikes against Palestine Liberation Organization targets in civilian neighborhoods of Beirut.

Hereford Men Attend Housing Fund Meeting

A meeting in Amarillo Wednesday to discuss the possibilities of forming a regional housing financing corporation drew 10 interested Hereford citizens.

Purpose of the session, hosted by Kidder, Peabody & Co., was to explain how housing could be provided for low and moderate income families who are not in a position to buy a house.

Federal legislation permits the funding of housing developments through the use of tax-exempt bonds. The only mandated requirement is that 20 percent of the units must be rented only to persons with incomes at or below 80 percent of the median area income. There is no rent subsidy involved.

Bob Davis and Bill

Carpenter, bond counseling representatives of Kidder, Peabody & Co., explained that a regional housing authority would be needed in order to provide bonds in sufficient amount to interest purchasers.

The possibility of including most of the area covered by the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission was presented. Amarillo, which already has a housing development program, would probably not be included in such a plan.

Panhandle counties interested in the project must have their commissioner's court pass a resolution as a sponsoring governmental unit. It was explained, however, that a county or city incurs no liability with the resolution.

Interested citizens who attended the meeting are scheduled to check with county officials about the possibility of joining the proposed Housing Finance Corporation.

Attending the meeting from Hereford were Glen Nelson, county judge; Bartley Dowell, mayor; Ed Coplen and Bud Eades, city commissioners; Mike Carr, executive vice president of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce; Wayne Sims, Craig Smith and Dwight Turner, representatives of local financial institutions; Realtor Melvin Jayroe, and Brand publisher O.G. Nieman.

Hospital Tentatively Gets Accreditation Nod

By DEBE GRAVES
Staff Writer

"In general it was so much better than two years ago," said Frank Zinser at the Deaf Smith General Hospital board meeting held at noon on Tuesday. Zinser was referring to the recent inspection of the hospital by the Joint Commission of American Hospitals. It is necessary for hospitals to be inspected by the JCAH examiners every two years to remain accredited.

Jim Bullard, hospital administrator, said that although the inspection went favorably, it will be about three months before the hospital receives the official report from Chicago.

The inspection took place on the July 10, the same day a local youth was rescued from an abandoned well, and the examiners did commend the "universal effort" put forth to save the child.

Giving the Medical report at the board meeting was Dr. C.F. Rush, Dr. Rush commented that new patient education films have been shown to patients without the doctors having first reviewed them. Rush said that the physicians feel the need to review the films so that any "unclear" areas can be clarified by the person presenting the videotapes to the patient.

Bullard presented the operating report for the month of June. Although the census was up for the month, operation costs were higher due to restocking supplies and the fee charged by the joint commission, according to Bullard.

Daily census for the month of June was 50, a rise from the census of 34 in June of 1980.

Bullard also reported, "We will be able to make the bond retirement payment which is due in August without any problem. Collections look good, and we feel optimistic about going through most of the year without taking out a short-term note as has been done in previous years."

Bullard pointed out that next year will be the last year of bond indebtedness for the hospital, and he presented a proposed budget for 1982 to be reviewed in the next few weeks.

Bad debt and indigent write-offs were approved to bring the figure to $29,018.58 for the fiscal year-to-date.

A proposed contract was issued to board members to review in the event that Dr. David Baddour, Urologist, decides to move to Hereford. According to Dr. Rush, Dr. Baddour visited the hospital two weeks ago.

Minutes of the June meeting were approved.

Board members Warner Lawson and Ed Reinauer were absent from the meeting. Those present were Zinser, Deward Roberson, Jerry Smith, Dr. Rush, Dr. Gerald Payne, Bullard, and Eve Boozer.

Feds Refuse Help In Medfly Crisis

LOS GATOS, Calif. (AP) —

As officials moved to meet the demands of Southern states by watching for Mediterranean fruit flies throughout California, the federal government refused to declare fly-infested counties a disaster area.

"We pay more taxes than any other state, and controlling the medfly is a matter for the whole country," an unhappy Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. said Wednesday after the Reagan administration rejected his request for a disaster declaration in three California counties.

A declaration would have made farmers eligible for low-interest loans. The federal government already has offered to help pay for aerial pesticide spraying, expected to cost $6 million.

Meanwhile, the second round of airborne attacks on the crop-ravaging pest began today. Three helicopters took off just after midnight to spray sticky bait laced with the pesticide malathion over parts of Palo Alto, Mountain View, Los Altos and Los Altos Hills before dawn.

At least six aerial applications were planned over the 227-square-mile "core" infestation zone, project director Jerry Scribner said. The first round of spraying ended Monday.

Medfly larvae have been found in 158 places in the spray zone, but the flies haven't invaded any of the state's large commercial farms outside the three counties. A sharp drop in the number of flies found in traps was reported after the initial spraying, officials said.

California officials plan to increase monitoring of the pest by setting five fly traps per square mile throughout California by Friday, said Gordon Snow, special assistant to state Food and Agriculture Director Richard Rominger.

The increased monitoring would meet a key demand of five Southern states attempting to impose a quarantine broader than that ordered by (See MEDFLY, Page 2)

Gutierrez Trial Set To Begin on Monday

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — Attorneys who were unable to select a jury in the first attempt to try two Dumas, Texas, brothers accused of killing an Amarillo police officer have cleared the way for the capital murder trial to begin with selection of the final alternate juror.

However, State District Judge Ed Harris of Galveston, citing pressing legal matters before his own court, said testimony in the trial of 24-year-old Victor Gutierrez and 20-year-old Guadalupe Gutierrez will not begin until Monday. The trial was moved to Galveston because lawyers were unable to seat a single juror in Amarillo despite five and a half days of questioning.

The Gutierrez brothers are accused of killing 28-year-old Berry Joe McGuire, who was shot three times in the abdomen after he stopped a vehicle for a routine traffic violation.

A third brother, Ernesto Gutierrez, 17, and Urbano Flores of Mexico also have been charged in the slaying.

Two Killed In Collision

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) — A tractor-trailer rig ran into two horses in the middle of a state highway west of town early Wednesday, then crashed into a house, killing the truck driver and a woman asleep in her home, authorities said.

Witnesses said the front of the brick structure was torn away, exposing a cross-section of the house and scattering bricks and rubble 150 feet.

Johnny Green, 38, the driver, and Zaida Floy Mauboules, 66, both of Beaumont, were pronounced dead at the scene, the Department of Public Safety said.

"I've never in my life seen anything like this," said Melvin Mauboules, of Sour Lake, son of the dead woman.

Louise Mullin said she was asleep in her house next to Mrs. Mauboules' about 4:30 a.m. when she was awakened by the sound of a brick crashing through a window.

She said she looked out and saw the truck in her back yard, about 10 feet away from her house.

"They said if the truck had been loaded, it would have got this house, too," she said.

Cause Of Blast That Hurt Seven Unknown

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — Federal authorities seized 5,000 pounds of marijuana Wednesday from a sailboat they said had alerted their attention six weeks ago because it had a false water line mark painted on its hull.

The "Fantasy," a 43-foot boat, was seized about 7:15 p.m., said Vic Maria, special agent in charge for the Drug Enforcement Agency.

The three-man crew was arrested, but no charges have been filed, he said.

Maria said agents noticed the sailboat's bogus water line mark — which falsely indicated the weight of the cargo — and sophisticated radio equipment when the boat was last in Galveston more than a month ago.

"This morning we were out bright and early checking the area," Maria said. He said the Coast Guard had reported a boat similar to the one under surveillance.

Agents said the marijuana may have been obtained in Jamaica because a case of Jamaican rum was found on board.

5,000 Pounds Of Marijuana Seized

HOUSTON (AP) — Officials at a Diamond Shamrock Corp. plant are searching for the cause of an explosion that ripped through a herbicide unit tank here Wednesday, injuring seven workers.

The blast occurred when a tank in a unit producing Dacthal apparently ruptured, but officials do not know what made the container split, Assistant Plant Manager Howard Peters said.

Peters said all of the injured were operators at the plant.

The tank blew up about 2:15 p.m., Plant Manager Mike Schwendeman said, shortly after a shift change at the Houston Ship Channel plant.

"I felt the explosion and heard it," Schwendeman said. "I was there about 30 seconds after the explosion. When I got to the scene everybody was scurrying about trying to control the situation."

Swendeman made no dollar estimate of the damage, but called it "extensive."

Four men were flown to Hermann Hospital after being badly burned by chemicals in the accident.

Court Won't Grant SBT Rate Increase

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Texas Supreme Court agreed Wednesday that Southwestern Bell Telephone is not entitled to charge higher rates while it appeals a Public Utility Commission order granting it a $114.3 million rate increase.

Bell was turned down by an Austin district judge and the 3rd Court of Civil Appeals here when it sought an injunction blocking enforcement of the PUC's Feb. 28 rate order.

The telephone company had sought rate increases totaling $326.3 million and unilaterally put into effect temporary increases amounting to $152.8 million a year while it awaited the PUC decision.

The PUC's order halted the unilateral increase and required Bell to refund the difference between the increase and the rates finally approved by the PUC.

Bell's requested injunction would have let the unilateral increase remain in force while it appealed the PUC rate order to the courts. It said there was no way it ever would recover the money if the courts found it was right and the PUC was wrong.

The court of civil appeals said a court that finds rates are inadequate may send the case back to the PUC for further proceedings.

In upholding the appeals court's denial of an injunction, the Supreme Court specifically avoided addressing the question of the whether the PUC could retroactively adjust rates.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor,
As a former resident of Hereford I have always known there are many, many good people there, and especially young people. So many times we never hear about these good young people. I want the people of Hereford and the surrounding area to know about a certain young man in Hereford.

On July 13, after spending the weekend at the Lazbuddie Reunion, and the night in Dimmitt, I was on my way home to Dalhart, Southeast of Hereford my car suddenly got hot.

I turned off the air conditioner and slowed down, hoping to get on into town. When steam started coming off my motor I stopped. Several cars, trucks, and pick-ups passed me.

Then, a young man driving went ahead of me, turned around and came back. He found my radiator hose had burst, but luckily the burst place was near enough to the connection that he could cut the end off and re-clamp it.

My clamp would not work, so he went to his pick-up and got a new clamp. After doing all this, working over a very hot motor, he went to a nearby farm house, borrowed a bucket, and brought water back to fill the radiator.

He worked at least 45 minutes, and probably an hour. I tried to pay him, but there was no way I could. All I could do was thank him, and say "God Bless You."

That young man's name is G. Don Berryman, and I hope that is correct.

I just want his family and friends and everyone to know how I appreciate what he did. Thank you, G. Don

Sincerely
Mary (Mrs. Otto) Gilliland

Hereford Native's Firm Named To Prestigious List

ARLINGTON, Texas — Graham Associates, Inc. has been named to the ENGINEERING NEWS RECORD list of the "Top 500 Design Firms" in the United States. This list is compiled according to gross annual billings for the previous year.

Graham's presence on the prestigious listing is a first for the nine-year-old firm which Bill London, a 1945 graduate of Hereford High School, serves as executive vice president.

In the category of Consulting Engineers, GAI was ranked 135th nationwide, 16th in the State of Texas and 417th in the overall listing which also includes architectural, engineering and construction management firms in additional categories.

Firms specializing only in Consulting Engineering accounted for 29 percent of the total dollar billings, with the remainder of the billings shared by combination architectural-engineering and other categories.

According to the ENR report, architectural and engineering groups registered a solid 20 percent increase in design billings in 1980. Combined, the firms earned more than $6.1 billion for domestic design work last year and added another $1.1 billion from international assignments.

"Our inclusion in the Top 500 represents a significant milestone for GAI and is a direct result of our growing staff's contributions. Within our profession, this is comparable to inclusion on the 'Fortune 500' list, and we are gratified to be ranked," said London, who was born in Hereford in 1928.

Graham Associates' ranking is a special tribute to London's efforts. Since joining GAI in 1978, he has been responsible for both the company's present and future public and private client development.

London received a bachelor's degree in civil engineering from Texas A&M University in 1949.

Graham Associates has its headquarters in Arlington and has in the past 18 months opened offices in Dallas, Fort Worth and Houston. They provide civil engineering and planning services to public and private clients throughout the Southwest.

scheduled for a final vote in the Ways and Means Committee today, is built around an average 15 percent cut in rates over two years, with a greater share of relief targeted on those with annual incomes under $50,000.

But House tax-writers moved a step closer to what Reagan wants when they agreed Tuesday to allow a third-year reduction if the president meets his forecasts for cutting inflation, interest rates and the federal deficit.

Reagan, though, is showing no inclination toward compromise. "By holding the people's tax reduction hostage to future economic events, we'll be removing the certainty they need to begin saving or investing more of their money," he told out-of-town newspaper editors Wednesday. "The trigger will do far more to preclude a third-year tax cut than promote one."

Whether the final tax-cut is the Senate's version or the House's measure, the oil industry will come out a winner. The House bill, as approved Wednesday by the Ways and Means Committee, includes about $6.4 billion in special breaks for producers and royalty-owners.

The Senate version would be of greater benefit to the giant oil companies while the House bill favors smaller operators.

not really be described as moderate at this point," Weinberger said of Begin. "It is essential there be some moderation and some general realization of how volatile the region is and how quickly individual acts of violence or individual acts of aggression or retaliation, or whatever, can lead to something much more violent."

Reagan appeared more tolerant of the Israeli actions. "Remember...that they are subject to repeated rocket attacks on civilian quarters themselves," the president told reporters as he returned to the White House from horseback riding in nearby Virginia. "We want an end to the violence on both sides."

Reagan refused to comment on Weinberger's statement that the Begin government has become an obstacle to peace, but the comments of Clark, Weinberger and other officials suggested the administration is holding Begin responsible for the latest escalation of fighting.

the federal government on 200 fruits and vegetables that can act as hosts to the medfly.

The federal government's quarantine forbids shipment of unfumigated host fruits and vegetables from the quarantined area.

The Southern states — Texas, Florida, South Carolina, Mississippi and Alabama — also want California to certify that crops come from areas where the traps were in place for 30 days.

That could doom much of the crop, which is at the height of harvest season, Snow said. Only about 1 percent of potential medfly host crops in the state are in the infestation zone.

The Supreme Court has given the Southern states until Friday to answer California's request for an order prohibiting their quarantines, which have resulted in rejection of several truckloads of produce. A federal judge in Dallas already has halted Texas' blockade pending a hearing Saturday.

State and federal officials reported progress in the fly battle.

"At this point, the situation has stabilized with the eradication measures under way," Bob Blair, federal Emergency Management Agency spokesman, said Wednesday. "There are no signs that the infestation is spreading out of control."

Medfly project officials said it will be at least a month before the success or failure of the spraying will be known. That will be determined by checking traps.

Scribner said the state is starting to crack down on people who try to sneak fruit out of the 2,082-square-mile quarantine zone covering all of Santa Clara, Alameda and San Mateo counties.

President Reagan has demonstrated that his administration will not tolerate even a shadow of impropriety.

When Max Hugel of the CIA was accused of engaging in questionable stock market activity seven years ago — he said the accusation was "unfounded, unproved and untrue" — but he resigned anyway.

Had he not resigned, he'd have been fired.

Mister Clean is a tough boss.

Any of us who has sought to staff even a small office with a handful of people who are flawless empathizes with a president who must fill hundreds of policy-making positions with "perfect people."

And I have no information that Max Hugel is imperfect. All I know for sure is that it was summer doldrum time for the Washington, D.C., news corps when they sank their teeth in Hugel's trousers — and they were not about to let go.

Innocent may be proved entirely innocent of any wrongdoing — as Bert Lance was after he had been hounded out of Washington.

But this administration will not let itself be fettered by cronyism at the price of public confidence.

The accusation impugning the integrity of Max Hugel involves the time when he was president of an electronics company and later for a computer company.

The SEC has very rigid rules relating to "insiders" using inside information to mislead investors, to manipulate stock market prices.

Several persons — not including Max Hugel — were indicted in 1977, pleaded not guilty, were fined or placed on probation.

It appears that two of those who were implicated did not like the idea of Hugel getting off the hook and that it was they who blew the whistle on him.

Subsequent investigation and/or prosecution may clear Hugel of any illegal practice — but that will be too late to rescue his public career.

President Reagan says he is "distressed that once again we seem to be taking an accusation as a conviction." But he accepted the resignation, understanding that "Hugel did not want to cause any trouble to the administration."

There is hypocrisy in the public insistence on leaders who are more circumspect than we are.

There is hypocrisy within the news media — eager to focus its x-ray eyes on others — while demanding special immunity to scrutiny for itself.

But if President Reagan is effectively to pursue his important objectives, he cannot be distracted by comparatively insignificant sidefights.

Given the situation, however it discriminates, Mister Clean did what he had to do.

lose up to $253 million in 1981.

For the first six months of the year, the automaker's losses stand at $286.8 million — the $298.4 million first-quarter loss minus the second-quarter profit. That is well within range of Chrysler's projection if the company can limit its losses in the third quarter and move back into the black in the fourth.

Chrysler was the second U.S. automaker to report its second-quarter results. Last week, American Motors Corp. announced a loss of $19.9 million in the quarter.

By the end of the month, General Motors Corp. is expected to report a profit of $450 million to $550 million, while analysts believe Ford Motor Co. may break even.

Prices for fuels and other utilities rose 0.9 percent in June, giving homeowners further problems as charges for electricity and water and sewage services rose substantially, the report said.

Energy prices rose 0.7 percent.

The unadjusted CPI rose to 271.3 in June, meaning that goods that cost $10 in 1967 would have cost $27.13 last month.

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

You have to understand about Doris. We've never been too crazy about her. She's the type of woman who, if you said you were going to give birth to a Savior next week, would say, "Me, too!"

For the last five years, we've invited Doris to go into town and have lunch with us. We need her. She is the only woman we know who can remember where we parked the car.

The rest of us have tried it with no success. We have tried writing it down. We have tried to memorize it through word association. We have even assigned the level to one to remember, the color to another and the direction to another. But it's no use. We end up wandering around and around until we faint from exhaustion or emissions.

We have come to the conclusion that finding your car is a gift. You either have it or you don't. Doris has it. We first discovered it one day when we were wandering through a garage in absolute panic. Helen said, "Can't any of you remember anything about the level we parked on?"

Grace said, "Of course. We were facing a lot of signs that said, 'DO NOT ENTER!'"

"But what color was it," I asked.

"Red. All the signs were in red."

"Not the signs. The level."

"If we could just find the car door I scraped while opening mine, we're parked right next to it," said Helen.

"Frankly," I said, "I think the car has moved. Did you put the emergency brake on, Grace?"

"I thought you put it on," she said.

"Why would I put it on? You're driving."

"Oh," she snapped. "You could have fooled me."

We had just decided to go to a movie and wait until all the cars cleared out and take the one that was left when we ran into Doris.

"Looking for your car?" she chided. "It's in Section A on the Red Level, East concourse, Stall CRE-CZI, the third from the end, parked next to a Japanese import with a Japanese dog in the window that baws when the brakes go on."

"How did you know all that?" we asked.

"I saw you when you drove in."

Doris is a bore, she's uncouth, she brags about her kids, she borrows money for lunch, she never pays full price for anything you have just bought, and she's never ready when you drop by for her, but we wouldn't leave home without her.

"Nothing prevents our being natural so much as the desire to appear so." La Rochefoucauld

Holocaust; Raw Simplicity

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — One reason the television documentary "Return to Auschwitz" works so well is its raw simplicity. The Holocaust, often depicted by nearly incomprehensible mass murder statistics, comes across clearly on ABC Friday night through the eyes of one survivor.

There isn't a single frame of historical newsreel footage from the Nazi concentration camp: no surreal pictures of strewn bodies, walking skeletons or hollow eyes. It's just one woman, making the pilgrimage back to Auschwitz 34 years later, walking through a desolate camp, unlocking hidden memories.

Yet we still see it graphically because Kitty Felix Hart, prisoner 39934, paints such stark word pictures that they will overwhelm you; they overwhelmed her.

Peter Morley, the British director and co-producer of the one-hour program (9 p.m. EDT, Friday), was so concerned about the "emotional risks" on Mrs. Hart that he almost abandoned the project, which was filmed in 1978.

His Yorkshire Productions, searching for untold stories for TV, learned about Mrs. Hart, a Polish Jew whose father planned for her survival by giving her false identification papers and sending her into Germany while Hitler's troops were marching into Poland.

Mrs. Hart, then Kitty Felix, worked in a German factory for a year until her identity was discovered. She was tried, convicted, went through a mock execution then had her sentence commuted to life imprisonment in Auschwitz.

When she arrived in Auschwitz in 1944 she was 16 years old.

Mrs. Hart, an X-ray technician who has lived in Birmingham, England, since 1946, was determined to make the journey, despite her fears. "I needed to go back to confirm the truth in my mind. Did I imagine it? Was it really true?"

And she had another motive: "In a few years there would be no one left to tell this story. Too many people are already spreading lies that it never happened."

Morley rejected the idea of having a reporter accompany her through the camp. He felt that would be an intrusion. "Then I ran into some luck when Kitty told me she had two sons and they wanted to go back with her."

The result is a remarkable passage into history and Mrs. Hart's memories as they come floating out in torrents during her walk through Auschwitz with her son David, a doctor now living in Canada.

In one sequence, they uncover bone fragments and ashes. "I can't cry anymore. It's beyond tears," Mrs. Hart tells David. "It's all a graveyard. Ashes, body remains. They represent a small proportion of the 4 million. Perhaps it's your grandparents, David."

Medical Practices Act; Great Eyedrop War Of '81

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The legislative fight over the Medical Practices Act has become the great eyedrop war of 1981.

Speaker Bill Clayton wants his optometrist to be allowed to use diagnostic drugs on him, and Clayton wants the act tied up in House committee until he gets his way.

Chairman Charles Evans, D-Hurst, refused Tuesday to let the Government Organization Committee vote on a proposed Medical Practices Act that, in effect, would prohibit optometrists from dispensing diagnostic drugs.

Unless legislators approve a Medical Practices Act during the current special session, the state would have no control over doctors after Aug. 31, when the current law expires.

Physicians and osteopaths apparently have worked out their differences, leaving the optometrist-ophthalmologist skirmish as the major stumbling block.

The Texas Medical Association does not think optometrists — who are not physicians — should be allowed to handle drugs.

Clayton, whose optometrist also is his campaign finance manager, thinks they should. While the speaker negotiated with the TMA on Tuesday, Evans ran interference in committee.

Rep. Gary Thompson, D-Abilene, said the decision on eyedrops should be left to the full House, where each member will "at some time have to pull up his socks and vote ... or we are going to have a second special session."

Rep. Arnold Gonzales, D-Corpus Christi, said Clayton is stalling because he doesn't have enough House votes to get his way.

"If he did he would let it out. He doesn't have the votes on the floor or on the committee," Gonzales said.

Clayton and the TMA resumed their talks Tuesday.

Black Market Will Benefit From Alien Amnesty Plan

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Immigration and Naturalization Service officials say the Reagan Administration's proposal to grant resident status to thousands of illegal aliens could prompt the sale of phony black market "amnesty kits."

INS officials here fear that the bogus documents, selling for as much as $2,000 each, may begin appearing because of recent proposals to grant permanent citizenship to some illegal aliens, Richard E. Norton, deputy director of the San Antonio INS district, said Wednesday.

Norton said the INS received reports of widespread circulation of the kits in 1977, shortly after former President Jimmy Carter proposed an amnesty program for aliens who had been in the United States for the previous seven years.

proposals to grant citizenship to aliens who have resided in this country for periods of five to 10 years.

Proposals also have been made to grant temporary work permits to certain other aliens until they become eligible for permanent resident status.

Norton said any law enacted probably would affect several million aliens.

"People have been anticipating amnesty for four years," Norton said. "People have been programmed that amnesty is imminent. I'm afraid we're going to see a repeat of what we saw in 1977. "These people will regard amnesty as a godsend," he said.

"People who have nothing to eat and mouths to feed hear this and cock their ears," said Richard Casillas, director of the INS district.

"I'll bet you somebody is thinking about it (selling amnesty kits) already."

contain phony documents — could flourish even if Congress fails to approve the proposals, because publicity surrounding the plans might trigger rumors among aliens, Norton said.

Radio and television reports mentioned the current proposals last Friday, and by that afternoon a woman came to the INS office inquiring about amnesty, he said.

"She said she had come on behalf of an illegal alien who had been in this country for five years," Norton said. "She wanted to know where the papers were to fill out to become a permanent citizen."

He said the kits vary, depending on the needs of a particular alien, but the basic kit might include fake rent and utility receipts indicating the alien had resided in this country for the period necessary to qualify for permanent status.

But the underground vendors also could add items such as birth certificates and school records if additional documentation is needed, he said.

Casillas said black marketeers can treat phony documents to make them appear old.

"Paper can age in the sun real fast, especially if it's dampened first," Casillas said.

Norton said during the Carter Administration that Mexican border cities were "hotbeds" of bogus amnesty kit activity, but that there also were reports of widespread activity in major centers of Mexican population in the United States, such as San Antonio, Dallas, Houston, Los Angeles and Chicago.

"Within two weeks of the (1977) proposal, our weekly intelligence summaries indicated these rings had popped up all along the border," Norton said.

Black marketeers who prepare, and aliens who use, the fake documents in an attempt to gain citizenship could be charged with offenses punishable by up to five years in prison and fines up to $10,000 the INS officials said.

In most cases, the forged documents would not work anyway because INS agents are trained to spot bogus papers, Norton said.

JULIAN BOND Reagan meets the NAACP

Margaret Bush Wilson is an attractive lawyer from St. Louis. She is also chairman of the board of directors of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. It was in that capacity that she introduced President Reagan to the late-June convention of the NAACP in Denver.

Mrs. Wilson thus became one of the several thousand toastmasters and toastmistresses, masters and mistresses of ceremonies, presidents of civic and social organizations and others who have introduced Ronald Reagan to an audience during his more than two decades on the aluminum-pea-and-glutinous-potato circuit.

Someone on Reagan's staff lost his invitation to last year's NAACP convention and thereby denied Mrs. Wilson the opportunity of giving a lengthy introduction to the Republican presidential candidate.

So, she decided that the president deserved more than the standard nine-word preface — "ladies and gentlemen, the president of the United States" — to his first speech before a black audience since his inauguration.

What Mrs. Wilson said instead must not have bothered the president; he embraced her like a sister before he left the platform to mild applause.

But it did upset editorial writers from the Atlanta Journal and the Washington Post who scolded Mrs. Wilson for violating some unknown protocol of presidential introductions.

They were upset, apparently, because Mrs. Wilson took pains to stress that the organization's invitation to the president in no way constituted an endorsement of his politics. "The NAACP," she said, "does not necessarily subscribe to the views which are about to be expressed."

In addition, some Reagan insiders complained that the NAACP was "hostile" to the president — presumably because the conventioners gave him what Time magazine called "tepid" applause.

"Do you take this man; to have and to hold, in sickness and in health, for richer or poorer, for better or worse, in housekeeping and truckdriving?"

Well, these aren't the exact vows she pledged when they married 11 years ago, but it could have been because Mrs. Mitchell Bell now helps her husband with his excavation business by driving the dump truck.

When asked how a home-loving person like herself became involved in driving something besides the family station-wagon she responded, "Mitchell grew up working in this business, and when we went into business for ourselves last year he needed help, so I applied for the job."

To qualify for the job, Mrs. Bell obtained a chauffeur's license, and she doesn't limit herself to driving the truck, "We do yards, dig basements, overall dirt work, dig graves for two cemeteries, and build sheet metal storage buildings, along with doing air hammer work," she explained. "Of all of that, there is not much I can't do other than operate the air compressor for the hammer."

Mrs. Bell moved to Hereford with her parents 20 years ago and attended Hereford High School. When she isn't shoveling dirt, or working with concrete, she enjoys working in her own yard, latch-hook crafts, and reading medical books.

Bell also attended Hereford High School and graduated from West Texas State University in 1971 with a bachelor of business administration degree. His interests include woodwork, reading, and the family sports, which are water and snow skiing.

The couple have a son, Cameron, 7, who will be attending Aikman Elementary this year as a second grader. In family tradition, Cameron wants to be a truck driver when he grows up but he wants to haul cattle.

Along with helping run the family business, bookkeeping, and keeping up with the family pets, (a chihuahua, bob-tail cat, dachshund, and chinese pug), Mrs. Bell manages to make fantastic treats for her family. Here is her recipe for one of their favorite snacks.

Doris Wilson was appointed chairman for planning the float and Essie Martin and Edith Richardson were asked to work on the committee.

It was also announced that at the auxiliaries second meeting, Aug. 17, Billie Rhoades from Amarillo will be present to give a school of instruction on parliamentary procedure.

The Ladies Auxiliary will meet again on Aug. 3 at which time they will have a covered dish supper at 7:30 p.m. preceding the meeting.

Members present Monday were Doris Coffin, Rose Goheen, Erma Murphey, Bessie Saulcy, Helen Sowell, Doris Wilson and Marie Goheen.

Miss Hereford Contestants Attend Swimming Party, Discuss Talent

Sixteen Miss Hereford Contestants attended a swimming party at the home of Bill Thompson, West Park Avenue, Monday evening. The swimming party was hosted by Christi Crofford, a Miss Hereford Contestant herself.

Following the swimming party the girls went to the home of Carolyn Hays for hot dogs and ice cream.

Members of the steering committee were present for this event.

While at the home of Mrs. Hays, the girls discussed their talent for the show, wrote thank-you notes and filled out personal information sheets.

The girls will meet again together at their first rehearsal Aug. 8 at 6 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

Close cousins from the flower and vegetable gardens are the sweet potato and the morning glory.

HELLO DOLLIES

- 1/2 cup margarine
- 1 1/2 cup graham cracker crumbs
- 1 can Eagle Brand milk
- 1 6 oz. package chocolate chips
- 1 3/2 oz. can flaked coconut
- 1 cup chopped pecans

In 13" by 9" baking pan melt butter, sprinkle crumbs over butter, pour Eagle Brand milk over evenly over crumbs. Top evenly with remaining ingredients. Press down gently. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes, or until lightly brown. Cool thoroughly before cutting. Store loosely covered at room temperature.

Because large windows increase the possibility of heat loss in winter and heat gain in summer, some experts suggest future homes be built with slitlike windows similar to those in medieval castles.

Closed Coast Helped Harvest

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Texas shrimpers say it appears they got everything they bargained for in their fight to close the states' coastal waters to shrimping for 45 days in an effort to improve the harvest.

Although it has been less than a week since officials lifted the May 22 to July 15 shrimping ban in Texas waters, South Texas shrimpers already are calling the closure a success.

"The shrimp are larger and we're real happy about that," said Walter Zimmerman, president of the Brownsville-Port Isabel Shrimpers Association. "We're real happy with the closing."

Texas shrimpers pushed for the 45-day ban in hopes it would improve the size and quantity of the shrimp harvest. Shrimpers in other states objected to the ban and Louisiana filed suit to stop the closure.

Ann Landers Feeling Trapped

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am sick and tired of hearing about how all those people who live in Florida are victimized at vacation time by the "snow birds." I am one Long Islander who is very happy with the four seasons. Snow at Christmas suits me just fine. The condo owners keep Florida.

How about printing the other side of the story? Every summer since my Florida-based in-laws have retired, they come to spend the summer with us. They don't say so, but we know that in July and August Florida is like an oven.

My husband and I are both career people. We have limited vacation time, which we would like to spend ALONE. We have been married four years and have not had even one summer by ourselves. I might add that my husband is an only child and feels guilty about hurting his parents' feelings.

My in-laws are not frail or elderly. They are in their 50s and in excellent health. To put it in plain language, I am tired of playing "Howard Johnson" so they can enjoy the winter in Florida and the summer on Long Island. Is there any hope — or am I stuck for life?— No Name, Just Feeling Trapped

DEAR FEELING: Can you stand them for two weeks? That seems fair to me. It would be lovely if your husband would write or phone and tell them WHICH two weeks you would like them to come. Two extra people in a house (or apartment) is additional work, no matter how unobtrusive they try to be.

If your husband won't make the call or write the letter, it's up to you, Lovey. And I hope it gets done soon because the set-up sounds like it's already an established pattern. If you don't alter it soon, it could go on forever.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I read, your column all the time, and I know that you have access to medical information.

A few years ago I got very bummed-out one night and tried to end it all. I slashed my wrists and lay down expecting not to wake up. Well, I didn't succeed and now I have some very ugly scars on my wrists. I am very self-conscious about them. I tried again with pills a year later and that didn't work either.

I know I have problems and am seeking therapy for my head, so please don't tell me to do what I'm already doing. What I am asking is if there is any kind of plastic surgery or skin grafting that can remove these ugly reminders of what I did to myself? When people see the hideous scars they know I have attempted suicide, and it is very embarrassing. (I am in my mid-20s). Please give me an answer.—Vulnerable In Ohio

DEAR OHIO: Yes, plastic surgery can help. It may not remove the scars completely, but a good job will certainly make them less noticeable. Ask your therapist to recommend a doctor or call your county medical society. (It's in the phone book.)

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I love fresh coconut, but every time I try to crack one open I nearly break a finger or lose a thumb. There's got to be an easier way. What is it?—Dumbo In Hawaii

Ann Landers discusses teenage drinking—its myths, its realities. Learn the facts by reading "Booze and You—For Teen-Agers Only," by Ann Landers. Send 50 cents and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Free Genealogical Workshop Scheduled

A free genealogical workshop and sale of historical publications will be presented by the South Plains Genealogical Society, August 7 and 8 in the Municipal Garden & Arts Center, 4215 University Avenue, Lubbock. Hours for the two-day event are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Friday and 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday.

Books, quarterlies, maps and other resource materials will be provided for research by the genealogical organization and its members. No formal program is planned so that researchers may use the opportunity to browse through source books, many of which are not available in local libraries. SPGS members will serve as assistants.

Free classes for beginning researchers are scheduled as follows: Friday, 9:30 a.m., 1:30 p.m. and 7 p.m.; Saturday, 9:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. Used books and periodicals relating to history and genealogy will be for sale.

Among these are the national Genealogical Society quarterlies, Georgia genealogical quarterlies, Frontier Times, historical novels and many other publications. Donations of such materials to the South Plains Genealogical Society for this sale are most welcome. Persons wishing to sell their own books may do so with the Garden & Arts Center and the Genealogical Society each receiving a 10 percent commission. Proceeds from this sale will be used to purchase books for the Genealogy Department of Mahon Library, Lubbock. Lunch will not be available at the Workshop this year but researchers may bring their own sack lunches

Haze Expected to Clear At Baseball Negotiations Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Like the scenes Alice viewed through the looking glass, efforts to end the major league baseball strike have gotten more curious by the day. But the haze was likely to clear somewhat today, with the players expected to end a 3½-day-old news blackout. Negotiations were to resume at 9:30 a.m. EDT at the headquarters of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service. Labor Secretary Raymond Donovan was to be back for a fourth day at the talks, although his involvement may have been nearing an end. Kenneth Moffett, acting head of the federal mediation agency, made a surprise announcement Wednesday evening that the players' negotiators and the executive board of the owners' Player Relations Committee had met secretly and face to face for 1½ hours, at Donovan's request. It marked the first time in the strike that players and owners themselves had met to bargain. Management is usually represented by PRC director Raymond Grebey, National League President Chub Feeney, American League President Lee MacPhail, and lawyers for the leagues and the committee. The mediator and spokesmen for the PRC and the Major League Players Association refused to comment on what went on at the secret session, observing the blackout imposed Monday at Donovan's urging. But Wednesday night, Doug DeCinces, the AL player representative, said the players would end the news blackout at noon EDT today. The players, he said, were prepared to honor the blackout until Donovan left the talks.

Hereford's Bronco League All Stars headed out to the Fort Worth area this morning, where they will play in a sectional tournament in Everman beginning at 9 p.m. Friday. The stars came back to take a twinbill from El

Stabler No-Show at Oilers Camp

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Oiler quarterback Ken Stabler missed the closing of the Oilers' 1980 training camp under Bum Phillips and the opening of the 1981 camp under new coach Ed Biles — but with different results.

Stabler was not fined for skipping the final Oiler practice a year ago, but his tardiness will cost him $500 daily as the Biles era begins.

Stabler, along with disgruntled running back Rob Carpenter and cornerback Greg Sterrick, were no-shows at 6 p.m. Wednesday, the deadline for all Oiler veterans to be in camp on the Angelo State University campus.

Carpenter, who has demanded throughout the off-season to be traded, and Sterrick, who had business in Houston, also will be fined $500 daily. Starting safety Mike Reinfeldt also failed to report, but is not being fined because he is a free agent.

Biles, with a reputation for stricter discipline than his predecessor, said he was disappointed with the no-shows but tried to downplay the issue.

"I suppose it's part of professional football nowadays," said Biles, beginning his first training camp as head coach.

Biles said he had not anticipated Stabler being a no-show and was surprised when the quarterback's agent, Henry Pitts, phoned Wednesday to say Stabler had last-minute business to attend to.

"It's an irritation, but I wouldn't call it a major disruption," Biles said in a telephone interview. "Obviously, it means we can work that much more with Gifford (number two quarterback Nielsen)."

After missing the Oilers' final workout a year ago, Stabler led the Oilers to an the bracket finals to be held Oct. 24 near Dallas.

Gamez finished second in the pro division behind Mike Haigood to earn 75 points and pull within 30 points of season leader Richard Ford. Haigood got 100 points for his win, and is just five points behind Gamez in the standings. Unofficial totals show Ford with 410 points, Gamez with 380, and Haigood with 375.

Plainview Defeats Ruthers

BROWNFIELD - Plainview took advantage of 12 Hereford errors to eliminate the Hereford 13 year-old Babe Ruth All Stars from the State Babe Ruth Tournament 21-16 here last night.

Hereford outhit their opponents 16-12 during the contest, but a bevy of errors allowed the Plainview stars to earn the win and stay alive in the double-elimination tournament. Hereford closes out the tournament at 1-2 after an earlier loss to Graham and a win over Brownfield.

Rodney Torres took the loss on the mound for Hereford, while Reid Horan was the winner for Plainview. Plainview stranded 13 runners in the game, while Hereford left 10 on base.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Effects of weight gain

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am a 52-year-old active woman, 5 feet 6 and weigh 124 pounds. I had a physical exam last year and at the time I weighed 132. My triglycerides were 210 and my cholesterol was 259. I went on a non-fat diet and lost 13 pounds. My cholesterol went down to 190 and my triglycerides to 103. It was hard to stop losing weight so I started eating normally. In four months I gained five pounds and my cholesterol was 212 and triglycerides 174. If my weight stays the same will my tests stay the same? Or will my tests go up every time I gain a pound or two?

DEAR DR. LAMB - Your story certainly emphasizes the value of a diet in people who have elevated cholesterol and triglyceride levels. It also points out why I recommend that you should individualize, not generalize. What works for one will not work for another. It is important to do whatever is necessary to induce the desired improvement in each individual. High on the list is eliminating any excess body fat that may be present. In my experience if a person stays overweight the other dietary manipulations are not nearly as helpful - if they help at all. So step one is to get rid of excess body fat. Not just part of it but as much as you need to in order to obtain the desired improvement. Now, your values are not all that bad. But we do know that within reason the lower the cholesterol levels the less likely you are to have fatty-cholesterol changes in your arteries. And tests fluctuate some just from the procedure and other factors unrelated to weight gain. Nevertheless, I think you would be wise to stabilize your weight at an optimal level and adjust your diet and exercise to keep it there. A small-weight-gain-can-have rather significant effects on cholesterol, triglycerides and even blood pressure.

DEAR DR. LAMB - Would you please straighten me out on some ideas expressed by a "Health Food" store owner? He claims that frozen orange juice contains no potassium and that cheese purchased from a regular grocery store is made with lard. I disagree. Which of us is correct? What is your opinion of food purchased in regular grocery stores versus "Health Food" stores?

DEAR DR. LAMB - I have been wondering for years why I never see any articles by doctors regarding the huge amounts of fat Americans are forced to buy when purchasing beef and chicken. In former times you could buy a small frying chicken and it would have no fat. Now there is very little meat on a small chicken - it is mostly fat, skin and bone. We used to consider chicken breast as lean meat but no longer.

DEAR READER - Frozen orange juice contains almost the same amount of potassium as natural fresh orange juice, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture Handbook number 8. And cheese found in grocery stores is made with milk and milk products, not lard. There are some very good products that can be obtained from a number of "Health Food" stores. There are also a lot of terrible products that are misrepresented to the public by some stores. This includes natural coconut oil that is loaded with saturated fats. Most grocery stores carry good food products that are healthy. So-called health food stores are often a very poor place to get health or medical information, as your experience indicates.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I would like some advice on diabetes. I have a friend who has diabetes. He has tried to be careful with his eating and the medicine he takes by mouth but the blood sugar seems to stay high. What foods should he avoid to keep the blood sugar down? We know sweets are not allowed. What about potatoes, bread, salt and fruit?

DEAR READER - Your body can convert some of the amino acids in protein to glucose sugar. In this way a diabetic can still have a high blood-sugar even if carbohydrates have been limited in the diet. A lot depends upon how severe the diabetes is. All carbohydrates can be used to form glucose. Starch in potatoes or bread is broken down to glucose before it is absorbed into your bloodstream. Your friend should review his problem with his doctor. The first step is to limit calories to the point that an ideal body weight can be achieved and that there are no unwanted body fat deposits. If the diabetes cannot be controlled after that with a sensible diet, he may need insulin rather than oral diabetic pills.

Incidentally, there have been some steps in the right direction in changing the rules for grading meat in relation to fat content. There are things you can do to minimize the fat intake. And some cuts are leaner than others. The separable lean of round steak is a good benchmark for a lean cut of meat.

This is a serious consideration even for doctors and their families as they have to buy this fat meat. Why doesn't the Food and Drug Administration do something about this serious problem - the way beef and chickens are raised for the public? I am certain it would be better for our health if we were able to buy lean meat rather than fat.

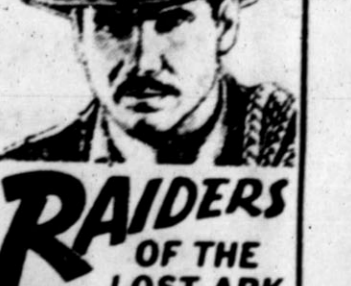

DEAR READER - Perhaps you have been reading the wrong articles. Many doctors have commented on this problem and I have discussed it several times in this column. The American Heart Association, based on scientific studies done by doctors, has recommended that people use lean meats and eliminate fat. You are absolutely right about the difference in beef and poultry today compared to previous times. The same applies to pork. Before meat production became mechanized with feed lots and battery fed poultry, birds and beasts were more active on the farm and developed more muscle. The meat was not as tender and was more difficult to prepare in some ways, but it didn't overload the diet with excessive fat. Of course, our forefathers who subsisted on wild game ate far less fat and were healthier because of it.

Incidentally, there have been some steps in the right direction in changing the rules for grading meat in relation to fat content. There are things you can do to minimize the fat intake. And some cuts are leaner than others. The separable lean of round steak is a good benchmark for a lean cut of meat.
