Bad Check Artists Use Slick Method

Two hot check artists, definitely of questionable identity, were being held in the Canyon jail today following the passing of a series of bad checks in Hereford Wednesday. Two of their accomplices and a baby, however, had not been apprehended.

In custody are Bill Young, 27, and Bessie Hager, 46. Such, at least, is what the police think, after sifting through a dozen aliases given by the couple.

Use Slick Methods Almost as confusing as the long string of aliases was the slick method used by the check artists. Their first act, upon arriving in Hereford, was to deposit $27 in the bank—just in case a merchant called to check the account.

Around Town

Smiles wreathed the faces of farmers and merchants this week following rains which totaled 1.72 in Hereford. General over this immediate area, moisture reports ranged from one to three inches, averaging out around 1.50 inches.

The rainfall also forecast a busy week coming up. Many farmers will be planting wheat, while others will resume harvest activity in grain sorghum and lettuce fields.

Lettuce Growers Squirm As Prices Hit $7 Peak

Eager lettuce growers this week fidgeted and squirmed as they kept one eye on their fields and the other on price bulletins.

Last weekend Hereford lettuce, still in nation-wide demand due to exceptional quality this year, was bringing $4.50 to $5 a crate. Then it rained. As the supply dwindled, the demand increased—and scores of buyers were offering $7 a crate.

If the buyers were anxious, certainly they had nothing on the grower. Unable to carry heavy equipment into the fields and collect the bonus dollars, lettuce producers sat, twiddled their thumbs, and talked about how wonderful the rains will be on

Harvest From Highway

One combination beat the rap however, and delivered lettuce right down the line Thursday. The Chas. Huston company pulled its heavy loading equipment out onto the Farm-To-Market road south of town, approximately two miles, and parked on the pavement adjoining the lettuce field owned by Bill Kendall and H. E. Danforth.

If no further moisture falls, most lettuce handlers were predicting that the deal will be running full-till again Monday or Tuesday. Prices may not hold to the $7 and $8 mark, but they are expected to continue good, and will likely ment as they came and went to processing plants.

Just how clean the heads proved can only be answered by the packers and the consumers. Men operating the loader, said that they were in good condition.

Packers and growers in general indicated some alarm, however, recalling the invasion of muddy fields in 1953, which resulted in shipping of mud-laden lettuce that resulted in consumer disapproval.

It is getting close to election time again. County Clerk Ralph Smith announced Saturday that Absentee voting will begin Wednesday, Oct. 13. Regular election day will be Nov. 2. The ballot will be a big rasal, says Ralph: 16 inches wide by approximately 30 inches long. It has five columns: Democrat, Republican, Independent, Progressive and Write-In parties, also 11 proposed constitutional amendments.

Merchants should also remember to collect some extra change for Tuesday operations, since both banks will be closed in observance of Columbus Day.

Folks who know Nancy Patterson will be happy to learn that she has been selected as a member of "Jazzabellies," West Texas College quartet which specializes in popular numbers. DRASTIC SITUATIONS call for drastic methods. When muddy fields prevented ordinary operation of loaders Thursday, the price of lettuce soared to $7 per crate. Final result was the above loader which operated on the Farm-To-Market

Gunshot Damage To Cable Cut Frio Exchange Out 60 Hours

If it didn't take any longer to repair a telephone cable than it does to shoot it full of holes, the 50 subscribers put out of service on the Frio Exchange recently by one shot gun blast, would not have been so greatly inconvenienced.

Some time before the time, the rain started Wednesday some irresponsible person, probably out of a dare, fired a shot at the lead cable with 12 pellets from a shot gun, five of which made holes through to the 26 pairs of wires which serve people on the Frio Exchange and those west.

Water Soaks Through
When the rain started water soaked through the holes into the cable and those who needed their telephones, more than ever, because of muddy roads, found themselves completely without service.

Locating troubles in the lines is not always easy and, in this instance, it required putting an ohmmeter on the wires to spot the best shorted pair. Then a buzzer was attached to the cable and an amplifier run along the wires until the break was located.

Bill Hampton who was assisted by Ogle Riddle in making the repairs, said they had to walk two miles through the mud before the trouble was finally located east of Frio School.

Even then the cable could not be opened until the rain stopped as more water on the wires would have multiplied their troubles.

Use Drying Powder
Temporary repairs were completed on Thursday by first putting a drying powder into the cable to absorb moisture. The wires were then wrapped with slicker cloth and friction tape to keep them dry until a splicer can solder a sleeve over the break early this week.

Service was not restored to subscribers until Friday morning, when wires had dried out enough to function again.

Half a hundred telephones and 126 communications to Hereford were cut off during the 60 hours before service was resumed.

He has reasonable prospects of conducting successful farming operations and be unable to obtain the necessary credit on reasonable terms and conditions from private and cooperative sources.

Non-profit associations such as incorporated water associations, mutual water and drainage companies, irrigation and drainage districts, and soil conservation districts are eligible for a loan when they are unable to obtain adequate credit elsewhere and meet certain other conditions: For example, associations to be eligible must be primarily engaged in extending to their members services directly related to soil conservation, water conservation and use, or drainage of farm land.

To Be Short Term
The loans will be scheduled for repayment within the shortest period consistent with the ability of the borrower to repay. No loan will be scheduled for repayment over a period which exceeds the useful life of the improvement or the security, whichever is less. In no case will the repayment period on loans be longer than 20 years. Loans to associations will be repaid on the same basis as individuals but in exceptional cases the term may be extended over periods up to 40 years. Each borrower will be required to refinance the unpaid balance of a loan when he is able to obtain a loan at reasonable rates and terms from other sources.

Individuals can borrow amounts up to $25,000. It is expected that the average loan to a farmer will be less than $5,000. Water facility loans last year averaged $4,500. Loans to associations have a ceiling of $250,000. All loans will be secured by the best lien obtainable on chattels or real estate to the extent necessary to adequately protect the Government's investment.

Other Services Aid
Applicants will obtain whatever technical assistance they need from the Soil Conservation Service, Extension Service, other agencies, individuals and firms. Technical assistance of this sort from the Farmers Home Administration will be limited to a review of the engineering and economic soundness of the improvements to be financed. The Farmers Home Administration will also take whatever steps are necessary to make sure that loans are used for authorized purposes and that the construction carried on with loan funds meets required standards.

When necessary, farmers who use loan funds to finance major land adjustments and extensive reorganization of their farm business will receive assistance from the county supervisors of the Farmers Home Administration in the development and execution of sound farm and home plans.

Closed Over Weekend
The FHA office in Hereford will remain closed Wednesday afternoon, Thursday and Friday, Mr.

The book deals with the side-lights of New England, lesser known things of history, places and incidents. "The Green" a public property located in the center of the town, is steeped in history and natives feel that it belongs to everybody as so much of the town's early history took place there.

Mrs. Dishman supplemented the book with her experiences while traveling through New England, and with pictures from magazines and post cards.

Texans In Washington

By Tex Easley
AP Special Washington Service
WASHINGTON. — There's a good sprinkling of Texans on the federal bench here, and with the opening of fall term of courts their work is getting under way with full speed.

Associate Justice Tom Clark, one-time Dallas lawyer, sits down with the other members of the nation's highest tribunal to open the new Supreme Court term on October 4.

Chief Justice Tom Clark, one-time Texas member of the nation's highest tribunal to open the new Supreme Court term on October 4.

Chief Justice Marvin Jones of the U. S. Court of Claims, for many years the Panhandle's congressman, raps the gavel to open his own court's fall term on the same day.

Both Clark and Jones, however, were on the latter part of September. Back from brief vacation trips they were reviewing documents and getting things lined up for the long months of work ahead.

Besides Judge Jones, three other former Texas members of Congress are federal jurists here in the District of Columbia. Judges Eugene Black and Luther A. Johnson serve on the U. S. Tax Court. Judge Eugene Worley is on the U. S. Court of Customs and Patent Appeals.

Still another Texan serving on a federal tribunal is former Lt. Gov. Edgar Witt of Waco, chairman of the Indian Claims Commission. Although not a part of the judiciary, the commission hearings conducted by Chairman Witt take on all the outward aspects of a regular federal court. Only legal technicalities sometimes determine whether cases go before the commission or Judge Jones' Claims Court.

Senior in service in the federal courts among all the Texans here is Judge Black, who was appointed to the Tax Court in November of 1929 by the then President Herbert Hoover after serving in the House from East Texas' first district from March 4, 1915 to March 3, 1929. He was succeeded in Congress by Rep. Wright Patman of Texas.

Born July 2, 1879, near Blossom in Lamar County, Tex., Judge Black taught school in that area

Miss Carolyn Jennings Bride Of Carol H. Miller In El Paso Rites

In a candlelight ceremony, held in the First Christian Church of El Paso on Saturday evening, October, at 7:30 o'clock, Miss Carolyn Faye Jennings, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl A. Jennings, 8205 Woelms Way, became the bride of Mr. Carol Herbert Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert H. Miller of Hereford.

The couple exchanged vows in a double-ring ceremony read by the Rev. D. W. McElroy, pastor, before an altar flanked with palms and white chrysanthemums flanked by floor candelabra holding white wedding tapers. The ledge in front of the velvet-draped window behind the altar, held a spreading bouquet of white chrysanthemums, and pews held lighted tapers along the path to the altar.

Wedding music was provided by Mrs. James Taylor, organist, and Freeman Harris, vocalist, sang "Through the Years," and "Because" preceding the ceremony. Following the vows, he sang "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her wedding gown was of imported Chantilly lace and tulle over satin. The fitted bodice of lace had long tapering sleeves and a rounded neckline framed with deep stand-out scallops of lace. The lace overskirt fell in tiers from the fitted waist and the wide satin under-skirt ended in a chapel train. Pearls set in a halo of ruffled tulle held the fingertip veil of illusion and the bride's bouquet was a single white orchid surrounded by white carnations circled in white lace and having white satin streamers. Her only jewelry was a strand of pearls and the gift of the bridegroom, and for something new she carried a linen and lace handkerchief from England. Her borrowed item was a lucky sixpence.

"As maid-of-honor, Miss Carol Poynter wore a bluish pink gown with bodice of lace and waltz length tulle skirt. Her headdress of ruffled tulle was embellished with pink flowers and her bouquet was of pale rosea irations.

Bridesmaid Sue Snider was gowned in an orchid version of the honor maid's dress. She wore a matching headdress and carried a bouquet of orchid carnations.

Anice Fehlan, flower-girl, wore a yellow frock styled to match dresses of the other attendants, and scattered rose petals in the bride's path from a small basket tied with yellow ribbon.

Pat Miller, the bridegroom's brother, was best man, William Wadley acted as usher.

The bride's mother wore a rose lace dress with matching hat and a corsage of white camellias. Mrs. Miller wore a mauve-pink dress with black velvet accessories and a white camellia corsage.

The reception which followed the wedding, was held in Fellowship Hall of the church. Assisting with courtesies were Mesdames John Hedrick and B. Griffin.

For the trip to Floydada where the bridegroom is employed by the U. S. Soil Conservation Service, the bride wore a two-piece beige suit featuring brown and winter white accessories. Her corsage was the orchid detached from the wedding bouquet.

Mrs. Miller, prior to her marriage was complimented with several social affairs. Following the rehearsal the wedding party was entertained at a dinner given in the banquet hall of the Wyoming Inn with the bridegroom's parents as hosts.

Guests from Hereford attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Miller, Pat, Audri and Jan David Miller and Miss Bertha Frye. Also attending was Mrs. Louie Wedel and son Karl of Tucumcari, N. M.

Beauty At Home

By Lynn Carter

Q. How should a "square-faced" girl dress her hair?
A. A slanting part is good for this type. Avoid all square effects such as hair that hangs down below the ears and has a chopped-off, square appearance. Hair may be built up some on top and in such a way as not to be too narrow.

Q. What kind of after-shampoo rinse will rid my hair of all soap?
A. A tablespoon of vinegar in the rinse water will be a big help.

Q. Please suggest a good, general-purpose facial mask I can make.
A. A very beneficial one is made of honey, oatmeal and milk. Equal parts of the first two, mixed with enough milk to form a paste.

Q. How can I exercise to strengthen the arches of my feet?
A. Sit on a chair with right knee crossed over left. Point your right toe toward floor and hold for five slow counts. Relax, and repeat several times. Then, the same exercise with other foot.

Q. What can I do to rid myself of body odor?
A. Very good for this are salt baths. Throw several handfuls of sea salt into a tub of tepid water, and relax in this for at least ten minutes. Use a rough washcloth, then rub dry.

Q. How can I soften and whiten the skin on my face and hands?
A. After washing well with pure white soap and warm water, wash again in warm buttermilk or sour milk. Wipe off lightly.

Q. What kind of water should I use for cleansing my very oily skin?
A. Since hard water irritates the skin, best results follow the use of soft water, preferably rain water, to which tincture of benzoin or a level teaspoon of borax has been added, a good mild soap, and a complexion brush.

Q. What causes the white spots on my fingernails, which spoil the appearance of my hands?
A. So far as I know, no one can answer this. It is possible you need more calcium and vitamin D. Drink a quart of milk a day, and try to get some extra doses of sunshine.

Q. How can I give myself a good "emergency" dry shampoo?
A. Mix one cup cornmeal, and one teaspoon of salt. Shake this through the hair, then brush it out well with a stiff-bristled brush. It takes a lot of brushing, but the surplus oil and grime will be removed. Wipe the brush on a clean towel after very twenty or so strokes.

Q. Please suggest a treatment for removing or reducing puffs under my eyes.
A. You can make an eye compress of a strip of absorbent cotton, dipped in cold water, pressed almost dry, iced, and then sprinkled with eye lotion or very mild skin freshener. Press this gently over the closed eyes and puffs, lie down, and relax.

Individual members of the Tax Court frequently go to various cities throughout the country to conduct hearings on tax cases. Judge Black intends to conduct such a hearing, starting Oct. 25, in Houston. It will last about two weeks.

Judge Johnson will conduct a similar hearing in Boston in November.

He was in the House from Jan. 3, 1941 to April 3, 1950, when he resigned to assume the judgeship.

Judge Jones, born Feb. 26, 1886, near Valley View in Cooke County, Tex., practiced law in Amarillo, 1917, and resigned Nov. 20, 1940, to go on the Court of Claims. He was on leave from the court during World War II and served as War Food Administrator. He recently returned from a visit to Amarillo to see his 98-year-old mother.

'Flying Grandma' Is Visitor Here

Mrs. Oscar Vaughn, a former resident of Hereford, says she hasn't really "soled" a plane yet, but she has ambitions in that direction. She has had some flying lessons from her son-in-law, George McConnell, with whom she makes her home in Del City, where folks call her the "Flying Grandmother."

The fact that Mrs. Vaughn is 80 years old seems to stimulate her desire to fly. She says she doesn't want to wait around until she is too old.

Her son-in-law, also a former Hereford resident, operates his own plane and she often takes trips with him, which account for her flying lessons and the entries in her log.

Mrs. Vaughn is in Hereford to look after business interests and, while here, is visiting in the home of Mrs. R. A. Fullwood and with other old-time friends.

CAR DEMOLISHED! The above 1952 Mercury was demolished around noon Saturday, when it collided with a large Diamond-T truck about six miles north on Highway 51. Mrs. Jackie Hagar, driver of the car was hospitalized for emergency treatment of shock and minor cuts. Billy Wall, driver of the truck, was apparently unhurt by the impact. The truck also escaped without serious damage. [W. H. Patton Photo].

The collision took place when Roberson was going to make a left turn. Evans went around him while he was making his left turn. Evans, right front and rear fenders collided with Roberson's left fender. Roberson was charged with improper signaling while Evans was fined with improper passing.

Wears White Lace
Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of Chantilly type lace and net over slipper satin, designed with a V neckline dramatized with a stand-up collar. The lace bodice had long tapering sleeves and fastened with tiny satin buttons in front. The full skirt of nylon net was appliqued with a floral lace motif and featured a detachable scalloped overskirt of peplum in front into a cathedral train in the back. Her tiered fingertip veil of illusion fell from a lace half-hat accented with seed pearl trim.

She carried a bouquet of white Finch rosebuds and stephanotis net. She also carried a crystal rosary, the gift of the bridegroom, and her great-grandmother's handkerchief.

The bride's mother wore a navy faille dress and the bridegroom's mother wore black crepe. Both wore white carnation corsages.

Mrs. Colby Conkwright was named president of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist Church Wednesday afternoon at a meeting held at the church. Mrs. S. M. Dunnam was chosen as vice-president and Mrs. Leroy Aven will serve as secretary. Mrs. Grant Hanna was named "Methodist Woman of the Month." A devotional program was presented by Mrs. W. J. # Imaginary Tour Of Uruguay Entertains LaPlata Club

Continuing a tour of South American countries as a part of the study course "The Good Neighbor Tour" members of the LaPlata Study Club heard a dissertation given by Mrs. Urline Streu at a meeting of the club held Tuesday night with Mrs. H. H. Caraway.

Subject of the program was "A Great Social Experiment" with the speaker reading an imaginary letter from Uruguay in which some of the history and points of interest were revealed.

Postmarked at Montevideo, the letter mentioned cattle raising as the oldest and best industry and stock raising as the basis for all industry in Uruguay with the United States considered her best market. The people were described as highly literate with government supported schools and representative democratic government. The unique plan of education provides free schooling from the grammar schools through the Universities with all text books provided by the government.

"As Uruguay boasts many famous resorts, it is sometimes called the social laboratory for the Americas. The climate is ideal for the year round and all employees are required by law to take a paid vacation every year," Mrs. Streu concluded.

A business session was held when members voted to contribute to the Future Homemakers group in Hereford High School and their foreign student fund, as a club project. Mrs. F. C. Glendenning was welcomed into the club as a new member.

Those in attendance were Mesdames F. L. Alexander, Leroy Aven, Homer Brunley, Dalton Criswell, Emil Dettman, Clint Formby, F. C. Glendenning, J. R. Johnson, Lynn Kester, W. J. ## Texas Indians-Palo Duro Canyon Topics For Bay View Club Lesson

Mrs. Ansel McDowell was hostess for the Bay View Club meeting Thursday afternoon at the Tynes Party House.

Mrs. Lee Benefield, president, opened the session with a short business session when reports were heard and plans were discussed for the next meeting which will be in the form of a tour of the Historical Museum in Canyon. Mrs. C. F. Hardwick is chairman of the trip arrangements.

Mrs. Benefield announced unusual features of the next General Federation Convention which will be held in Philadelphia in May 1955, and which will be concluded with a session in Geneva Switzerland, and will be followed by a guided tour of several European countries.

Mrs. D. H. Alexander was program chairman for the afternoon and gave a review of "Indians in Texas." She traced the history of the Indians in Texas to 1492 when Columbus found them, and to the Franciscan Fathers who found forty Indian tribes in Texas in 1690. She told of the Caddo Indians from whose Tejas tribe Texas gets her name, and mentioned the Comanches, Navajos and other tribes, and the Alabamas-Cooshata tribes which make up Texas' only reservation. She compared the life and mannerisms of the Indians of early days with those of today and told of government appropriations made since 1918. In conclusion she stated that the Indians have preserved their national integrity even though uprooted time and time again, and gave a brief survey of their home life, religion, schooling and opportunities.

Mrs. J. W. Spradley gave The History of Palo Duro Canyon. She described the Canyon as the Indians found it and told the meaning of the name which is "hard wood" from the trees they found. She compared its beauty and size with The Grand Canyon and the Garden of the Gods in Colorado. It is 130 miles in length, 300 miles across its widest point and 2,000 feet deep in some places.

She said in part "When Coronado first visited the Canyon he found 11 villages of Indians there and Mrs. Charles Goodnight was the first white woman to make her home in the Canyon. In 1937 the Canyon was made into a national state park and Pete Cowart, formerly of Hereford, took over the management of the Park last May.

Further improvements will be made as rapidly as they can be financed.

Woolens

Shrunken woolens can be restored if clean soapsuds instead of clear water is used as the last wash. Squeeze the woolens with the hands instead of rubbing them. Soda in the wash water will cause shrinking.

Colored Furs

To clean colored furs take equal parts of cornmeal and salt and heat it in a deep vessel until warm to the touch. Rub this well into the fur, then brush thoroughly.

The Rolling Pin

Never operate the rolling pin backwards and forwards when making pastry. Roll it forward only and then lift it.

Hot Food

To keep food hot, cover securely with the lid of a tin pan and place the vessel over a basin of hot water. When the vegetables are cooked, drain and cover securely, then wrap well in paper and set in oven without fire. They will keep steaming hot for a long time.

Headache
A severe headache can be treated effectively by hot water application, followed by applying a menthol ointment of some kind and then a vigorous massage.

Gold Lace

Gold lace can be cleaned satisfactorily by rubbing it thoroughly with spirits of wine.

Tooth Powder

A fragrant tooth powder can be made by mixing five ounces of arca-nut charcoal, two ounces of cuttle-fish bone, one ounce of arca-nuts, raw and powdered. Strain through a fine sieve.

Mixing Cake

An earthen bowl is best for mixing cake. It should be warmed before the ingredients are put into it, as the warm surface aids in mixing the ingredients.

Cellar Steps

If the cellar steps are dark, and most of them are, paint the top and the bottom white to avoid uncertainty, and perhaps a bad fall.

Let's Cook Something

A FAVORITE RECIPE
From the personal files of Mrs. Lloyd Manjeot
Italian dishes are becoming more and more popular in the United States as Americans learn more how to prepare them. Chicken barbecue sounds as American as the Fourth of July and most every American housewife has her own favorite methods for barbecuing the birds, however, if you are in search of something different here are some recipes guaranteed to qualify as conversation pieces. When we began to think of October menus, Italian dishes came to mind because they are so well suited to cool, crisp days and nights and the approaching holiday season when friends and families gather together for fun and food. And because the proof of the pudding is always in the eating, we chose the recipes for today which originated in Italy, but have been used successfully in this country for many years. The recipes were secured for this column by Mrs. A. L. Manjeot from her son's wife, Mrs. Lloyd Manjeot of Fort Lee, Va., whose mother Mrs. Fanto DeGennaro, brought them from the old country.

Chicken Cacciatore
2 small fryers or 1 large baker
1 cup olive oil
Fry cut-up chicken in oil, which has been heated in skillet, and when brown on both sides, lift from oil and place in deep pan for baking.

To the remaining oil in skillet, add:
2 cloves of garlic, chopped

1 tablespoon salt
1/2 teaspoon black pepper
3/4 teaspoon oregano (spice)
1 cup cooking wine (dark)
1 number 2 can Italian tomatoes (1/2 cup apple vinegar added to 1/2 cup water may be substituted)
Blend all these ingredients together and pour over chicken. Cover and place in moderate oven (375-F degrees) and bake 1 hour.

As for food and drink with the chicken, much depends on the tastes of the family or guests. A tossed green salad, scalloped potatoes or corn on the cob, pickles, buttered rolls and a dessert. Coffee of course.

Italian Spaghetti
Boil enough spaghetti in salted water 7 minutes and drain, to make as many servings as you desire.

Italian Sauce for Spaghetti
Place in sauce pan 1/2 cup of olive oil and add:
1 small onion (diced)
1 clove garlic (chopped)
Cook slowly for 15 minutes and then add:

1 tablespoon parsley (chopped)
3-basil leaves
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon black pepper
1 number 3 can Italian style tomatoes
1 small can tomato paste
Simmer all together for 1 hour, being careful not to allow to stick, and stir often. Pour over individual mounds of the cooked spaghetti and serve with a fruit salad and a favorite dessert.

Italian Meatballs
Mix together thoroughly:
1/2 pound chopped round steak

1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup bread crumbs
1 well beaten egg
3-tablespoons grated cheese (sharp)
2 tablespoons parsley (chopped)
Salt and pepper to taste
Shape into small (tiny) meatballs and brown in olive oil in skillet. Place in deep pan, cover with Italian Sauce (made by recipe given above) and simmer for 30 minutes.

More than seven million dollars in parking meter fees were collected in New York State communities in 1953.

Half of the 21,000 Americans killed by accidental falls each year are more than 75 years old.

In 1953, New York State's 3,525,448 passenger automobile owners paid $55,669,353.04 in registration fees.

Q. How can I prevent breaking of fish when baking it?
A. When it is desired that baked fish be particularly nice, try slipping two strips of clean muslin under the fish before laying it in the pan. The muslin acts as handles when removing the fish and will prevent breakage.

How Can I?

By Anna Ashby

Q. How can I make a topic for ferns?
A. Try using the leftover coffee grounds. Pour a little fresh water through the grounds to weaken the coffee slightly, then pour around the ferns. Do this about once a week.

Q. How can I stimulate the growth of thin eyebrows?
A. By applying warm olive oil or Vaseline jelly every night before retiring. Or, dip the finger tips in lanolin and massage the brows every night.

Q. How can I keep meringue from falling?
A. By adding one-fourth teaspoon of baking powder to it.

Q. How can I relieve tired eyes?
A. Mix a solution of salt water, as hot as can be borne. Wring a clean cloth in this solution and place it over the eyes. Repeat as often as the cloth becomes cool.

Q. How can I make stuffed dates or prunes?
A. First wash, dry and stone the fruit, then cut almost in half, and fill with a half marshmallow, blanched almond or chopped nuts and raisins. Roll in sugar.

Q. How can I make a floor polish?
A. Equal parts of melted candle grease and turpentine make a good floor polish.

Q. How can I remove old varnish from furniture that is to be refinished?
A. Put three tablespoonfuls of cooking soda in a quart of water and apply generously with a rough cloth. Sandpaper will then remove the varnish very easily.

Q. How can I keep dust from getting into pictures?
A. Examine the backs to see that there are no breaks in the paper that covers them. Unless paper is pasted over the back of the frame, dust is sure to enter and mar the picture.

Hereford's Roving Reporter Finds Norwegian Life Hinges Upon Ocean

By Cecile B. Eubanks

Somewhere along the Norwegian coast, on board S. S. Sanct Swithin, above the Arctic Circle and steaming steadily north. Sept. 1954. My gracious! The waters that have run under bridges, ships and lanes since I left Hereford! The Atlantic, Mediterranean, Adriatic, Irish Sea. Half a dozen others that I can identify only after consulting a map. And now—the North Sea.

Of rivers there are, among numerous others whose names would be familiar to you all, in Italy, the Po. The fabled Rhine in Germany with its castles and many legends. The Thames in England along which history was written with sword and fire—and the leadman's axe. France's Seine which has been painted in undying colors by generations of artists. The Shannon, Ireland's silver ribbon which threads its way through an Emerald Isle. The Clyde, lifeblood of Scotland.

Belgium: San Marino, Luxembourg one their existence to waterways. Rivers and canals. — Waterfalls, lakes, snow and ice laced and abetted by the Alps, Lake Switzerland and Austria the new province of Europe.

New York, Genoa, Trieste, Naples and all the other great ports of the world were born of water transportation. We all know it. But how many are actively conscious of it?

Suns (take note this is not Kate Smith's moon. I'm sure she has a copyright on that) come over the mountains and set seas afire. Just as they have since God said, "There be light."

Como, Killarney, Geneva, The English Lakes. All are romance burns. All are shimmering lakes in which moons lay silvery paths.

The Aegean Sea is as old as history. Lord Byron lives in the hearts of the people of Greece today because he crossed the sea and made legends about their country. Bobby Burns, to hear the citizens of Ayr, will fishes the streams of his beloved Ayrshire. And I am sure I saw Rob Roy's reflection peering over my shoulder into the mirror of a Scottish Loch.

Steaming along a winding inland passage on a quiet sea or rocking in white-crested waves one forgets that for aeons of time others have sought far-away places. And mostly by sea: You feel that you are here in discovering this exhilarating adventure—the sea.

But here in Norway, perhaps more than anywhere else I have seen, life depends upon the waters that wash the shores. Not alone in the commerce carried on by Merchant Marine, but more directly. For most of the food here comes from the sea or across the sea. And love of the sea is in the blood of all born within the gentle lap or thunder of waves.

In Trieste I talked with a lad who was fishing from the pier. He couldn't believe that I was telling the truth when I told him I had only recently known the sea. When, at last he was convinced, he looked at me pityingly and asked quite simply, "How CAN you live away from the sea?"

In a Norwegian fishing village a young and golden goddess, who might have just arisen from the sea, looked across the vast restless water, her blue eyes filled with a vision denied me. When at last she turned to me she said, "I'd die away from the sea." And I believed it.

An American born of Norwegian parents in Alaska some 40 years ago, now living in French Morocco, also had his life shaped by the sea. Crinkles rayed out from his eyes as he smiled, "I've lived in Alaska, California, China, Japan and now Casablanca—always, I've lived near the sea." He, too, looked toward distant horizons as he added softly, "I always shall."

I wondered if he did not feel as keenly the pull of the sea as did some long-ago ancestor who sailed some of this feeling of oneness with the sea seems to have seeped into me. I steer away from the knowledge that in a few days I shall start overland back south of the Arctic Circle. It is the "Overland" that worries me. I keep wondering if in some manner I can possibly stretch my travel allowance to cover a year or two wandering around the world on a cargo boat.

But whether or not that dream materializes I am enjoying every minute aboard ship now. To take the coastal trip here under a midnight sun sounds very exciting. But I'm practical—when I have to be I put off booking passage so long I could not get a stateroom for the regular cruises and was doubtful about even the coastwise boats such as I am now traveling on. I could not depend on a cancellation and did not want to wait around to find out if one would come along. So I went to the British Isles thinking I could get over to Bergen, Norway, where these trips start, from Aberdeen, Scotland by boat. But no soap. I mean no stateroom. The only way I could reach the port of my desire was to go back to Southern Scotland to Prestwick and fly from there to Oslo. This took me from the west of Scotland to the eastern part of Norway. Then I had to back track to the west coast to Bergen. Not exactly back track, for the overland trip from Oslo was new territory to me and interesting every foot of the way.

I asked one of the passengers aboard the Sanct Swithin (an American from St. Louis) if the Island Passage to Alaska was anything like this trip, as she made that voyage last year. She thought for a moment and said, "Yes, but I hadn't thought about it." In the name of all that's reasonable, how could she fail to note a similarity? But then she didn't travel, as I am doing: to experience new countries and new peoples of those countries. It seems her social life is so strenuous she needs to rest!

It was 10 p.m. when we sailed from Bergen but I met a few fellow passengers before I sought my bed.

And I didn't miss the midnight sun! I sleep some hours out of every 24 and prefer them in a darkened room. And that isn't sour grapes. How could I have watched a sun 24 hours a day?

Some years early September may not be so pleasurable north of the Arctic Circle. But this year of 1954, it is very satisfying. Not cold. And the sun obliged about 18 hours a day. A very fortunate state of affairs and very unusual. I was told by several of the ship's personnel. The valleys were still green. The countryside which was always visible on one side of the ship or the other flamed with scarlet and gold against a background of snow-topped peaks. The shadows on the mountains held more pink, deeper blues and soft purples than in a summer sun. Not that I could see all these colors in shadows. I was told about a Welch artist a few minutes ago when we rounded the North Cape, some 1000 miles from the North Pole. He is quite famous as a portrait painter, having one of his oils hung in the National Gallery in London. We got quite chummy the morning we crossed the Arctic Circle. We were the only passengers who were awake and on deck at 8 o'clock in the morning.

We both felt that a red ribbon should have been cut by the prow (?) of the ship, as we crossed.

We made stops every whitestitch throughout the voyage. Sometimes stopping for an excursion ashore but more often to take on passengers or freight. Now and then we couldn't dock because of shallow water and our new passengers would come aboard from a row boat. I always found the process interesting.

Every few hours, it seemed, we passed glaciers. They were blue or green glass under a sparkling sun. One was called "Swartisen." Black Ice, to you. Why? I don't know. It didn't look black to me. It looked as if a deep freeze had caught a waterfall and froze it before it could plunge over the cliff. A few minutes further along we saw a river of sand. It seemed to race down the mountainside as fluid as water. It was the only sand we saw and was explained as being a deposit of the glacier age. Had seemingly been there forever and would continue to be there from now on.

Tiny valleys between towering mountains lie green and peaceful in the sunshine. Each has its white-spired church and small cluster of fishermen's cottages. The churches of Norway do not dominate the scene, but are an integral part of life.

The National Church of Norway and Sweden is the Lutheran. Only a few Catholic churches remain here since the Reformation. The Reformation was brought about by Henry VIII of England because he wanted to—and did—divorce his Spanish wife, Kathrine of Aragon. Kathrine, by the way was the daughter of Isabella of Spain who financed Columbus' sea voyage which resulted in his discovery of America. However, as I was reminded in Norway, it was a Norwegian who FIRST discovered our continent.

But the religious practices of the world were changed and moulded by an extreme egoist. And, of course, this Reformation was spread across seas. Always the sea! Every phase of life has been influenced by it.

Norway has a splendid school system and I find that in primary schools (equivalent to our grade school) it is compulsory to study English two years. And three years more in the secondary schools, which correspond with our high schools. So it is that in one needs information in Norway and can speak nothing but English it is only necessary to ask some young person. And many of the older ones also can help you. And all are happy to be able to do so.

Some of the little hamlets in the far reaches from the cities would be isolated except for the sea-borne vessels which ply the waters. Of course, in winter snow makes it possible for social gatherings and winter sports. Snow is nature's perfect highway in the north. Everybody seems happy and contented all along the coast. Children play among piles of dried fish stacked like cordwood waiting to be taken across the seas to all the world. Cod fish hang from lines as do our clothes, to dry. One of these split and flattened dried cod fish caused much hilarity aboard ship where it takes so little to amuse.

One of the arranged excursions ashore consisted of a 50 miles (or so) automobile trip between ports. Every one in first class went along but a young Norwegian and me. I can go by automobile when I get home—but not by sea. He couldn't reconcile paying additional money to see something he saw every day.

When we touched at the port where we met the returning excursionists one of the favorite passengers brought me a big dried fish, shaped like a palm leaf fan. It was wrapped in celophane and tied with red ribbons! I would rather it be flowers or candy but perhaps that wouldn't have been funny for everybody. And when a Brigadier General (or Brigadier something) who lives in the Tower of London thinks enough of me to bring me even a fish I am pleased! And he had heard me moan about the Smorgasbord breakfasts they served aboard, especially so much fish. Only about 15 kinds of fish were spread out from which to choose—one or all! That fish held place of honor at our table a long, long time. Too long, I begged the waiter to take it to the cook. It was back in its place the next meal.

Like the Albatross in the Ancient Mariner, it seemed with me always. At last, in desperation I sought the officer who had charge of cuisine and begged him to dispose of it. You see I couldn't bear to throw it overboard. There are too many persons in the world to whom that fish would have been manna from heaven. And I didn't think at the time to take it below and give it to some child in third class. Just as well as this ship's officer possessed a typewriter. This one I'm writing on! It doesn't write very good English as there are three more letters in the Norwegian alphabet than in ours. And some of the other keys are in the wrong places. Hope the Brand has a cryptologist so this can be deciphered.

At Ornes we went ashore and visited a shrimp cannery. A cleaner place for handling food I have never seen. Everything was done by hand. From dunking the little shell-fish, fresh from the sea, into a steaming copper cauldron to the final sealing of the can. The tiny shrimp—smallest I have ever seen—were laded from the boiling bath into shallow enameled pans and placed in front of some 20 girls seated at a long table. There the delicately flavored morsels were ruthlessly despoiled of their shells one by one. Then dropped into another white pan to bluish pinkly in their nudity.

By hand a few were dropped loosely in individual tins, weighed, removed and wrapped in paper, then pressed gently into another can in which to be finally processed. Then, of course, sent to the sea for final transportation abroad.

Let me say here that if you want to serve an out-of-this-world shrimp cocktail at your next important dinner or Smorgasbord (they do not recognize our spelling of this word over here) secure "Frioror" brand, packed at Ornes, Norway. You'll never find better.

I hope some enterprising grocer in Hereford will stock them. There is no comparison between them and our domestic brands.

The same difference in flavor is in the Sardines. I do not care much for them, but over here I ate a whole can and begged for more! There is much the same difference that there is between American made coffee and that coffee brewed in the British Isles. Can one say more?

"Frioror" means "Cold North." But it has not been cold since I left Scotland. It has snowed several times up above the Arctic Circle before I arrived here but has melted away. The people hasten to tell you that certain snow on the mountain tops is "new."

They say it as if hopeful that it will snow in earnest soon. Their greatest delight lies in their winter sports: skating, sleighing and skiing.

After seeing the wrecks of German ships along the beaches far back in the fjords and remembering that this country was occupied, many persons killed and imprisoned during the war, it is difficult to understand how they take everything in their stride. Everyone is looking to the future instead of the past. Must possess remarkable resilience to have so soon recovered from the brutalities of invasion. Their strongly, boldly boned bodies are among the most beautiful in the world. Their legs sturdy and well muscled, shoulders broad and accustomed to carrying loads; their carriage supreme. Even the small children have tiny haversacks strapped to their backs and carry their portion of the load when on holiday. I haven't seen a spindly shank on man, woman or child in Norway.

I have heard it said that a man is what he eats. Must be something in that. Over here when you sit at table for a meal (which is really but once a day—at noon, as all other meals are of the help yourself variety) a huge glass of milk is placed before you, and here I drink milk. It is safe to do so.

My first breakfast in Norway—which was at Oslo in the hotel in which I stayed—was a shock. Everything cold you ever heard of except frozen sherbets, ice creams etc., were spread on an immense table. I counted 8 kinds of fish, including pickled herring with onions, 5 kinds of cheese, to which you help yourself with a knife that shaves it razor-bare tain if you wish, pickled cucumbers, beets cauliflower, onions etc., etc. An immense plate of fresh carrot sticks, grated carrots, sliced cucumbers and wedges of tomatoes centered the table. Nine kinds of cold sliced meats, including boiled ham. Six kinds of breads. Butter that would take the prize at any butter fair. Preserves of various kinds, but the one I liked best was a tiny red berry that tastes a little like cranberry but more delicate in flavor. They call it a name that sounds like "Teet" a but was translated for me into "whortleberry." And dozens of things I can't remember. Oh yes! Dotted eggs, each dressed up so as to look as if attending a party. And everything looked just as festive. Each dish a work of decorator's art.

I sat at a table and waited for service not noticing this immense table which ran along one side of the room just around a little partition.

A headwaitress, receptionist, Mistress of Ceremonies or what have you, came and requested me to make my selection. This was the first I had seen of this banquet spread. When I returned to my table I forgot that food is in stomach for three hours and on the hips for life. A waitress was pouring coffee. Good coffee. The first good coffee I'd had in six months. A water-pitcher sized jug of cream was at my elbow and a waiter at the other offering a half-bushel sized basket of hot, soft boiled eggs. Each stamped "Denmark." So again I am eating imported eggs. Of course, in addition to this I was offered all kinds of cereals, both hot and cold. This kind of eating loses its novelty when the same is offered at the evening meal. Here the only really hot meal served to the Norwegians is at noon. For breakfast they usually eat open-faced sandwiches.

With all this food is it any wonder my clothes are all bulging at the seams?

But the food supply wasn't like this during war times. Nothing was like this then. Practically all of the students were arrested and

NAGO ALANIZ GOES ON TRIAL -- South Texas attorney Nago Alaniz, 42, is shown seated in district court in Waco, Tex., as his trial started. Behind him is defense attorney Percy Foreman. Alaniz is charged on a three-count indictment in the ambush slaying of Jacob Floyd, Jr., at Alice, Texas, Sept. 8, 1952. The father of the slain youth blamed politics for the ambush which he said was intended for him. The elder Floyd is a south Texas political leader. (AP Photo).

In other countries with Socialized medicine. I went into this a little more closely in an interview with a surgeon's wife who lives in England. There the doctors do not like state medicine as it makes it slow going financially for them. The people like it, though. And it is certainly a big thing for the old pensioners and the very poor.

We have turned south toward Kirkness, where the ship starts her return voyage to Bergen. Two American girls who live in Germany and work for the U. S. Army are aboard and they and I are the only passengers leaving the ship. We go overland to Lakslev the first day. Spend the night there and on next day to Olderdalen.

A bus runs daily from Kirkness, spends the night at Lakslev and returns next day. Just as one goes from Lakslev to Olderdalen and returns next day. Then from Olderdalen to Narvik etc.

I am told Lakslev was about 160,000 people before the war. It was ready for delivery into Russian hands but the Germans got there first. Not much left now although some rebuilding has occurred.

Always I have unusual experiences when I get into a small place at night and have to scramble around to get a hotel. Even in cities. They're always having congresses, committee meetings, or conventions or almost any other thing to keep the hotels always filled. But I have never yet had to sleep in the streets. I did talk to one boy on the way to Bergen from Oslo who said he did. He was very nice to me. I did have an hotel reservation there so he walked with me to the very door, having sent the luggage on ahead. It was night and the city was lighted up and the harbor a thing of beauty, the colored lights reflecting back along the rippling water so they looked like pillars of light. Wavering reds and greens, yellows and blues, lilac and rose. So beautiful it made one's breath catch tight in the throat. The city, which spreads fan-wise from the harbor was also lighted and fountains were playing lights, lights everywhere making the place like a fairy land. People were strolling leisurely along the water side and a band was playing somewhere in the distance. Am I glad I didn't take the taxi to the hotel!

One thing I forgot to mention which might be of interest. I did not regret not seeing the midnight sun. We had light from about 3 a.m. until 10 p.m. And one night my young Norwegian friend and I went ashore and walked about for nearly an hour while the boat was taking on and discharging the cargo. It was odd to see so much activity at 1 or 2 o'clock in the morning. And to make that little fishing village above the Arctic Circle memorable above all others to me, the Northern Lights put on a display that was almost unbelievable. I thought I was being kidded when told what it was. But you can't out-argue a Norwegian about Northern Lights! This light was an odd green and at first looked like sky-writing in color.

A little the look of what spun glass would be with a green light shining through it. It reached across the sky almost like a rainbow, but was not flat like a rainbow coloring. It seemed to be low, standing up in a sort of halo. Then the colors changed and changed and changed. We watched about 20 minutes then it faded away as sky-writing smoke fades. We almost missed the boat. They whistled three times before we made it on the run. One of the ship's officers just came by and told me we were almost ready to dock at Kirkness and that I'd better begin getting my things together. I use one of the small tables in the dining room to hold the typewriter and he had heard me pecking away when I should have been in my cabin getting packed. If the opportunity presents itself I shall try to write my adventures, if you can call them that, from Kirkness to Stockholm, my next real stop of any importance. Most of three days travel will be through Lapland and I expect to have something to write about. So long now.

Christian Woman's Fellowship of the First Christian Church held the regular luncheon meeting at the church Wednesday with Mrs. Glenn Williams, president, presiding. All circles of the group joined in the session with Mesdames Earl Phillips, A. M. Jones and Miss Frances Dameron serving as the hostess committee.

Mrs. Paul Corbett gave the worship program relating to the theme for the day "Why Don't They Come?" Mrs. S. O. Wilson was leader of the program on the general theme, assisted by Mesdames Quenton West, Robert Veigel, Jack Winget, C. R. Smith, Walter London Jr., John Robinson and Bill Lenderman. Those taking parts on the program represented the different women who cannot or do not attend the Fellowship meetings, giving reasons why and discussing ways in which the group as a whole can make it possible for some to attend the meetings.

at in concentration camps. I have talked with two young men who were just entering university when Norway was invaded. Both made a statement that seems strange, but makes sense. And it is "Luckily, I had TB and they let me go." One went on and said that the Germans had been scared of tuberculosis and avoided contact with it whenever possible. One of them had been a bed patient in the hospital and had not even been arrested. The other was held three weeks as a prisoner then turned loose.

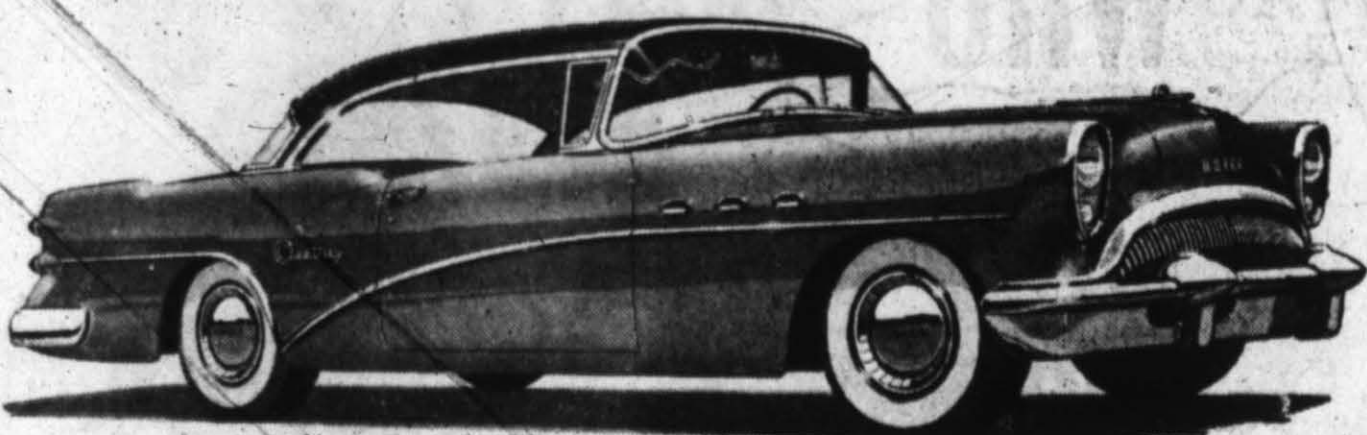

I inquired around a bit and found there is quite a lot of TB here, but less than formerly. It is attributed to the dampness and seems plausible. Certainly was a surprise to me as the only person I have seen who is not a picture of health was the young man who was so ill he was not arrested by the invading army.

There is some kind of socialized medicine here but have not inquired too closely into it as the present form will be obsolete within the year and all medicine, medical care and hospitalization will be taken care of by the state. Am not sure, nor are the workers. I have questioned, about how it will work. Think perhaps there will be a percentage of salary deducted from pay checks. But even now it does not seem such a round-about way of getting drugs etc., as it is

Irrigation Loans Can Be Important

For a period of something like 40 days producers of this area have been seriously attempting to discover just what the proposed "Irrigation Farm Loans", cited during August in Department of Agriculture releases will mean to the people.

To date, two things are definite; There will be some loans, and these loans will be handled through Farm Home Administration. The alphabet boys in charge of FHA, ASP and SCS, like other people, are anxious to know the type of loans available. Congressman Walter Rogers also appears to be in the same boat, if we are to judge by lack of information appearing in speeches he has made in Childress and other Panhandle towns.

Actually, the loan program can prove invaluable in several ways — provided it is handled on the proper basis. What producers want over this entire irrigation belt is a long term loan program for installation of modern improvements such as concrete flumes, underground concrete distribution systems and modern storage facilities. They want a program which will operate on the same basis as the farm grain storage loan set-up, being repaid along the same lines.

Coming through FHA, however, most farmers are skeptical. They fear that it may appear as a relief-type measure, available only to producers who cannot secure finance from other sources. A program of this type may be all right, but it fails by 95 percent in meeting with the type of irrigation loan program which would best serve the irrigation section.

Panhandle underground water sources have been tapped heavily during the drought. It is also a fact that much of the water has been lost through evaporation and waste. Modern type systems cure these two objections to a large measure. A program like the "farm storage loans" would make such money-saving, water conserving methods available to every producer on the high plains.

If this is the type program planned, well and good. If not, then why should one not be presented? It is well and good to help the fellow who can't get finances from any other source. Thinking a little bit ahead, however, it might even be better to help the successful, hard-working man who can still secure limited credit. A few loans of this type might go a long way toward eliminating many of the FHA loans in future years. Furthermore, they would contribute tremendously toward conservation of the important natural resource of underground water.

Comic Books?

The current "Question of the Week" is based upon possible control of the so-called "comic books" and, we admit, will furnish opinions which we are anxious to see.

Frankly, we are doubtful if the state or the F.B.I. can "legislate out" this type of evil. It has been attempted from the earliest biblical times against immorality, and, in more recent years against alcohol. Enforcement failed, chiefly because the laws did not have the support of the people. Laws against theft and against murder have stood up down through the years, because they represent the desires of the masses.

If people became aroused to the extent that they would observe and help enforce any laws regarding the circulation of comic books, it stands to reason that they would enforce such edicts in their homes without the law, rendering it unnecessary in the first place. It is also possible that such restrictions could easily result in the parent helping his children to evade the law, thus cultivating disregard for all laws.

Some of the "comic books" unquestionably contribute to delinquency, while others are wholesome and good. To us, the best possible solution to the question would appear to be a self-imposed regulation by the publishers. This method certainly did much to clean up the moving picture business a few years back. In case the publishers continue through greed, to circulate these questionable books, it is up to the citizens of the country, as mothers and fathers, to enforce some restrictions of their own. Nothing will stop the publication of certain types of literature as quick as will diminishing sales on the news stands.

Airport Activities

Activity in the direction of securing a landing field for this area comes as a pleasant surprise to most residents, both urban and rural.

Need for an airport is the weakest single link this area maintains today in the relation with the rest of the world. Owners of planes each day commute between Hereford and Friona to take advantage of the field provided in that progressive city. Previous location of an acceptable airport would have already provided feeder connections with several lines, such as may be observed in Clovis, Plainview and other comparable cities.

While the Chamber of Commerce is to be commended for starting the move, it is also well to remember that they cannot accomplish the location of an airport without the help of the citizenship. County or city sponsorship will be required, along with federal cooperation, and the movement will require area-wide support if the airport becomes a reality.

LaPlatta, once the county seat of this area, disappeared from the face of the map when the Santa Fe came into Hereford. This happened despite the fact that some people said such predictions were crazy. The future of this community can easily follow that of LaPlatta if, in years to come, air freight and air travel completely bypass Hereford. And, by-pass, they will of no effort is made to meet the progress and advancement of the requirements of civilization.

QUESTION OF THE WEEK:

So-Called 'Comic Books' Present Serious Problem To Local Parents

These days you hear frequent uprisings against circulation of so-called "comic books" as contributing toward juvenile delinquency. The movements are often supported with drives to pass state and federal laws prohibiting their circulation. What do you think of the circulation of such literature? If it is to be curbed do you think it should come from the parents, or through the police?

MRS. O. L. BYBEE

"Since I have three boys this question is difficult to answer. But I believe that there are "comic books" that the children shouldn't be allowed to read, just as there are television programs that they shouldn't be allowed to see. Some I don't see anything wrong in. You know though, the ones you try to curb from them are the ones they are determined to read. So I really don't know how to prevent it."

LYNN KESTER

"I believe there are so called "comic books" that children shouldn't read, alright. But I do believe the parents could curb their children from reading them if they just put their minds to it. If they quit buying such books there would be no demand for them. Therefore they would finally quit publishing such literature. I believe that would settle the situation."

MRS. EARL NEEDHAM

"Well, my opinion is just like any good citizen's would be. I believe they should be prohibited to be sold in stores, newsstands or anywhere else. I believe everyone should work together in trying to curb them."

LEO BOX, CHIEF OF POLICE

"I think these "comic books" definitely play a big part in all of our Juvenils Delinquency. I believe the City of Hereford ought to work together to destroy the circulation of such books; not only "comic books", but all this filthy literature that appears on the newsstands. The study of juvenile Delinquency shows that this sort of literature is one of the main excuses of teenage victims. There are many other things such as movies and television, which were mentioned, too. I just believe it ought to be stopped."

'Tater Peelin's

Roberta Campbell

Looks as if this man, Bob Wear, who has become very well known as a public speaker in this area during the eight years he has been in Hereford is also going places editorially. His television program "The Abundant Life" which has been on KGNC-TV each Saturday night for several months is now being carried on the editorial page of the Amarillo Daily News each day.

Sometimes we feel so outdated and defeated. We knew that dried mint leaves and onion flakes were on the market, but we didn't know until we picked up a recipe folder in the grocery that sweet pepper flakes are now for sale in food stores.

If there is a place to get first hand information on irrigated grasses it is at the Certified Seed Farm west of Summerfield. George Warner can tell you just about anything concerning improved pasture grasses and the several varieties being grown for seed would certainly make an old cows mouth water.

Those who missed the Farm Tour Tuesday sponsored by the Soil Conservation boys under the direction of Jim Wiman, lost out on a very interesting and informative trip on some unusual conservation practices used by Tatt McGee, Gram Hanna, Wiley Roberson, and J. E. Stengel.

Getting back to food, some folks would think that because we raise so many blackeyed peas we have them every day but actually we have never been able to get our 13 year old hamburger eater to try them. As we see it, there isn't anything much better than peas cooked with salt pork and finished off with a baked oyster pie.

Panhandle Paragraphs

THE DOGGONDEST WILL

Real estate dealer Henry S. Raymond, of Cambridge, Mass., who died September 13, left the doggondest will.

In addition to leaving his property to a bird and squirrel Sanctuary, he also left $15,000 for acre of abandoned cats, and $2,000 for horses. If no needy horses are around, the fund can be used "for mules, donkeys, cows, calves, sheep, goats and cats."

But, said the will emphatically, "positively no dogs" will get a penny.

—The Dalhart Texan.

WAITRESS TROUBLE

Zane Davis and Alma Davis pleaded guilty to charges of theft under $50 in county criminal court Saturday, September 25, and each was fined $25 and costs of $22.25. The two are not husband and wife and are no kin, County Attorney F. P. Dove said.

They were cook and waitress at Wall's Cafe, Groom, and are alleged to have taken two rings from Mrs. Lillian Lemings, also a waitress at the cafe. Mrs. Lemings told officers they were her engagement and wedding rings.

Had the theft been booked for more than $50, charges would have been filed in justice of peace criminal court.

The couple was taken in custody at Canyon, taken to Panhandle and pleaded guilty and were put in jail awaiting payment of fine.

—The Panhandle Herald.

OLTON'S NEW HIGH SCHOOL

Olton's new high school building was dedicated in formal ceremonies September 28.

Open house was held in classrooms in all three school buildings from 7 to 8 o'clock. Teachers were on hand in their individual rooms to greet visitors.

Superintendent Carl Macon stated that a special program was planned with a number of out-of-town guests present. Dedicatory address was given by L. P. Sturgeon, assistant commissioner of education for Texas.

—The Olton Enterprise.

BABY IS SCALDED

The baby sustained second and third degree burns over a ter treatment for a week in the hospital for severe burns which it received when a quantity of boiling water was upset by the baby upon himself.

The baby sustained second and third degree burns over a large part of his body as the result of the boiling water.

RADIOACTIVE DUST

Radioactive dust presumably borne by winds from the explosion of a Russian nuclear weapon has been detected here by monitoring instruments at the Armour Research Foundation of the Illinois Institute of Technology.

Dr. Leonard Reiffel said the detonation has stepped up Chicago's "radiation content" to approximately 700 counts per minute.

However, Reiffel said the present count is much less than that given off by a luminous dial wrist watch.

The BOOTLEG Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm out west is on a risky ground this week, but it's his worry, not ours.

Dear editor:

I was out here wandering around over my farm yesterday afternoon enjoyin' the October weather, there's no time of the year better than October, although I haven't got anything against the other eleven months either, when I discovered a copy of a newspaper which was half covered up with dirt and the termites had eaten part of and then abandoned, I imagine when they got to the editorial page, and I shook it out and sat down and looked it over.

Over on a page that was still intact I ran into an article that confirmed an opinion I've had for a long time, that women don't belong in politics. It's not that they don't have a right to be, it's just that they foul things up when they get in.

Accordin' to this article, about a year ago up in a town in Mississippi they elected an all-woman city council, and the reporter was giving a summary of their accomplishments and what they considered a full year of devotion to duty was to get rid of all the weeds in the town, and I guess you know how they did it; they had the men do it.

This is typical of women in politics. They buy an office a year and they wind up a weedless town and a lot of tired men.

You let this thing spread, let more women get in more important offices and they'll start spreadin' their anti-weed campaign out into the country and America will wind up clean as a city park and the men too tired out to fight off an invader.

Personally, I'd rather have a few weeds about the place and stay rested up. I don't know of anything in the Constitution that says a man ought to spend his life hoeing weeds and Johnson grass, and I for one would like to sound a note of alarm when you hear of women threatening to go into politics. If it comes down to a choice between cleanin' up all the weeds on my farm and keeping women out of political office, I'll choose the latter, even if I have to run for office myself to do it, although my ambitions to hold office are about like my ambitions to get rich if it takes work to accomplish it.

Yours faithfully

J. A.

By Vern Sanford
Texas Press Association
AUSTIN, Tex. — Secretary of State C. E. Fulgham has certified names for the state's November election ballot with two contests arising over who'll be on the fall marker sheets.

Not certified by Fulgham was Gerald Weatherly of Rio Grande City. Attempting to file as an independent candidate for district attorney in the Duval-Jim Wells-Starr County empire of boss George Parr, Weatherly was turned down by Fulgham, who said his petition for a place on the ballot contained numerous inaccuracies.

Other contest was between Eugene C. Williams and Adrian Spears for the Democratic nominees for judge of the Thirty-seventh District Court in Bexar County. It is due for a quick hearing by the Supreme Court.

Williams was certified by Fulgham, but a San Antonio court later ordered Williams' name off the ballot in favor of Spears. Spears was the choice of a Bexar County district delegation that failed to get seated at the state Mineral Wells Convention.

Attorney General John Ben Shepperd answered the question and also poked some light into a current insurance feud by ruling that the state employs the Liquidator. Renne Allred, chief counsel for Liquidator J. D. Wheeler, had refused to vacate his post upon an order from the Board. Allred claimed that he was responsible to the courts which appointed him as counsel.

Shepperd's ruling was expected to have some bearing on the controversy which has already seen the Insurance Board halt Allred's $1,000 per month salary.

Water Conservation

Two plans calling for state financing of water conservation dams in Texas are due to be presented to the legislature in January.

Rep. Harold B. Parish of Portland announced he will sponsor a constitutional amendment calling for a state bond issue and a state tax to finance building of dams by local governments.

Sen. Dorsey B. Hardeman of San Angelo said he will recommend a constitutional amendment aimed at the same purpose.

Texas' employees will total record numbers by mid-October if expectations hold true, the Texas Employment Commission reports.

A tribute to state volunteer workers caring for 24,000 patients and pupils in Texas state hospitals has come from James A. Bethea, director of the hospital and special school system.

Consumers Spending

Consumers' spending over the state in August averaged above seasonal expectations with some goods establishing definite sales jumps.

The Bureau of Business Research at the University of Texas also noted that sales of older automobiles had improved while new car sales continued slow.

Expenditures for vacations and travel swung to new heights, the Bureau said.

Garden Clubs

A "Don't be a litterbug" campaign to keep highways and roadside parks clean has drawn a commendation for the Texas Garden Clubs from the Texas Highway Commission.

In adopting a resolution commending the organization for the cleanliness drive, the Department stated that "expressions of praise from tourists and motorists" for attractive state road-sides resulted from the club effort.

Fire Losses

Texas will lose 8,000 homes to fire during 1954, an insurance industry official has estimated.

Norris W. Parker, manager of the Texas Industry Advisory Association, said fire ruins 20 Texas homes per day.

Other losses during the first nine months of 1954 averaged one school every three days, one church every six days, a hotel every two and a half days and a hospital
