Laying It On The Line

Assistant Attorney General Linda Walden explained a request for County Commissioners Court Thursday during an 11 a.m. emergency meeting of the court.

More funds granted grand jury

To assist district attorney probe

By KIM THOGMARTIN
Staff Writer

As the assembled Deaf Smith County Grand Jury waited in a nearby room, the commissioners court moved on Thursday afternoon to appropriate up to $10,000 to assist the jury in its investigation of the criminal district attorney's office.

In their motion, approved unanimously, commissioners agreed to appropriate up to $10,000 but asked that county employees who have experience using microfilm be utilized for the work if possible.

The request for funds came from Linda Walden, assistant attorney general from Austin, who is serving as counsel to the grand jury at the request of foreman Terry Caviness. Walden met with county commissioners during an emergency session at 11 a.m., a meeting also attended by District Attorney Roland Saul, Sheriff Joe Brown and Hereford attorneys Schalan Atkinson and John Lesly.

An appropriation is requested to assist the grand jury in completing an investigation currently underway," read the written request from Walden and Caviness. "The grand jury has issued subpoenas on the Hereford State Bank and the First State Bank of Vega to make available records for production to the grand jury."

These records, including 25 accounts going back over three years, are voluminous, and must be analyzed by experts. Judge Pat Boone, sitting by assignment in the 22nd District Court, has ordered that these records be made available for microfilm copying.

Walden said that based on prior investigations, the attorney general's office estimated that "with the number of records involved, it will take three to six persons between 624 and 2,016 hours of time, depending on the volume of activity in the accounts, on a full-time basis to complete the microfilming."

According to the request, the records "are necessary to complete the investigation, and to make a fair and impartial decision as to whether or not any persons should be charged with a criminal offense."

In conclusion, it was pointed out that the grand jury term, already granted a 90-day extension, expires on March 31, "and it will take every bit of that time to collect and analyze those records. Time is of the essence. Therefore, we are requesting that you give a decision as soon as is fairly possible."

Walden did most of the talking in the early moments of the meeting, outlining assistance provided thus far by the attorney general and explaining the county's involvement in the investigation. "The attorney general provides these service free of charge to the county," she said. "But it is the county's case, and the attorney general's budget cannot handle the expense of paying people to microfilm the records."

Caviness also addressed the court, saying, "We in the grand jury feel like this cloud hanging over the district attorney's office won't go away unless we continue with the investigation. The district attorney cannot be exonerated unless we continue. The county needs this."

"The taxpayers need to say we are willing to do this. We need to get on with it, address the issue and get it behind us," he concluded.

"Is it your opinion that the financial investigation would finish this one way or the other?" Commissioner Bruce Coleman asked Walden.

"Let me make this crystal clear," answered Walden. "If there is wrongdoing, it will be found. If there is not, we will likewise find that out. There will be no indictment unless there is sufficient evidence."

James Voyles asked for time to investigate the possibilities of budgeting the money asked for, while the other commissioners asked that a specific dollar figure be given them to work with.

If the limit was set at $10,000 and we got three-fourths of the way through, we would be in a fix," explained Walden. "I hesitate to say, yes, we need $10,000 from the commissioners court. Until we see how much activity there is in the accounts we can't really give you a definite figure."

At that point other persons in attendance joined in the discussion. "Ten thousand dollars to me as a citizen is a nominal concern in light of what we spent last year defending the county in a civil matter," said Schalan Atkinson. "I'm here supporting the attorney general's office and grand jury so they can go on with their duties."

Atkinson has been singled out by both Saul and his former assistant and law partner, Jerry Smith, as having a personal interest in any investigations of misconduct in the district attorney's office.

"Schalan Atkinson and O.K. Neal have self righteously appointed themselves as my watchdog and have personally attacked me for over one year," Saul claimed on Feb. 16 after media coverage forced the continuance of the pending theft trial of Hereford farmer Robert Strain.

Atkinson later that day admitted to having knowledge of how a statement from Deputy Sheriff Harry Hardisty found its way to an

Wet election looks likely

According to county clerk

By REED PARSELL
Managing Editor

There will most likely be a wet-dry election this spring for Justice of the Peace Precinct 1, Deaf Smith County, Clerk David Ruland projected this morning.

He and his fellow office workers were in the process of re-checking the 1,759 signatures presented in support of most of the county allowing liquor sales. Thirty-five percent of the number of registered voters during the last gubernatorial election, which works out to 1,571 names, is required for an election to be held.

Though many of the petitions containing various signatures have been examined more than once, Ruland has encountered various complications during the verification process which have made this last look necessary, he explained.

When he quit at 11:30 p.m. Thursday, Ruland said, approximately one-third of the signatures had been re-checked. No duplications of signatures had been found, he claimed, though about 50 were determined ineligible due to unacceptable variations "we missed the first time around."

Thursday afternoon, Ruland phoned the Texas Secretary of State's office to clarify what the exact requirements are for signing petitions. He was told by John Steiner, a legal assistant in the elections division, that county clerks are to disallow names from a family for which one member filled out more than information about himself.

For example, should both spouses sign their names, addresses and voter certification numbers, but the man add so much as an "Ave." or "Dr." behind what his wife has written as her address, the signature of the woman is not to be counted.

Steiner also said that in cases where a person has signed twice or more, only one signature is to go toward the possible election. Ruland said several local people signed the petition again after learning they had done so incorrectly the first time.

Should enough signatures be verified, an election is to be called by the county commission at its next scheduled meeting, which is April 12. The election must follow within 20 to 30 days, placing it in early April, not late March as earlier reported.

The election drive was initiated by Art Reinauer, an area farmer who intends to operate a winery in Hereford. In order to do so, either the county or the involved precinct must be voted "wet." Reinauer has requested only liquor store sales be permitted, though all types of alcohol would be allowed to be sold.

Subcommittee chops aid

Proposed for Central America

By W. DALE NELSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House subcommittee is recommending deep cuts in President Reagan's proposals for military aid to Central America, seeking to shift the money into reconstruction and development efforts and bolstering Latin American economies.

The Western Hemisphere subcommittee of the Foreign Affairs Committee approved 5-1 on Thursday a bill that would eliminate further military assistance to El Salvador in the current fiscal year and place stringent conditions on later spending.

The bill would also force an end to joint exercises by U.S. and Honduran troops in Honduras, which critics claim have been used as a pretext to build military installations as part of the administration's effort to curb Marxist expansion in the region.

Rep. Michael Barnes, D-Md., chairman of the subcommittee, said he had "misgivings" about the restrictions on Salvadoran aid and would try to work out a compromise with administration supporters by the time the full committee meets next Tuesday.

Rep. Steven Solarz, D-N.Y., however, said the subcommittee action put the administration on notice that "you are not going to get the money you are talking about without being willing to accept the kind of conditions we are talking about."

The administration's overall request for military and economic aid to Central America is cut by $750 million, from $1.9 billion to $1.15 billion. However, $500 million of this is put into a fund for reconstruction and development of Central America and $125 million is shifted into economic support funds for Peru, Bolivia, Ecuador and the Eastern Caribbean.

This leaves a net reduction of $125 million.

The measure adopted by the Democrat-dominated panel would eliminate $179 million of proposed supplemental military aid for El Salvador in the current fiscal year and cut another supplemental request for $90 million in security-related economic support funds in half.

Meanwhile, Secretary of State George P. Shultz told the Senate Appropriations subcommittee on foreign operations that the United States must be willing as a "last resort" to suspend military aid to El Salvador if the Salvadoran regime fails to curb rightist death squads and corruption.

"In the end, they must know that we are willing to walk away," Shultz said.

The bill approved by the Foreign Affairs subcommittee bars most U.S. military assistance and sales to Guatemala, but the panel agreed to an amendment allowing the United States to provide equipment and training to the Guatemalan military for civil engineering and medical teams.

The measure bars resumption of military aid to Chile unless an elected military government is in power.

It places a similar condition on a request for $10 million in supplemental military aid for Panama.

Pact with Israel canceled

Syrian proposal favored

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — President Amin Gemayel will announce the cancellation of Lebanon's troop withdrawal pact with Israel and proclaim a Syrian-guaranteed ceasefire to halt Lebanon's civil war, a senior government official said today.

Cancellation of the withdrawal pact will be made in an address by Gemayel to the nation, probably early next week, following consultations with various Lebanese leaders, the official said. The official briefed reporters on the condition that he not be named.

He said Gemayel also is expected to call Lebanon's warring Moslem and Christian leaders to a reconciliation conference in Montreux, Switzerland, between March 8-10 to work out constitutional reforms that would give Moslems an equal share of power in the government, said the official.

He said a national coalition Cabinet would be named after the Montreux talks. The official briefed reporters on the outcome of Gemayel's two days of meetings in Damascus with Syrian President Hafez Assad, who supports Druse and Shiite Moslem rebels opposing Gemayel's government.

He said Gemayel and Assad agreed Lebanon should uphold its commitment that southern Lebanon would not be used for hostile activity against Israel despite the cancellation of the withdrawal accord.

Gemayel returned to his presidential palace this morning. He left Syria on Thursday evening, and airport and hotel sources said he spent the night on the Greek island of Rhodes. The visit to Syria was his first since assuming power in September 1982.

Syria has demanded cancellation of the Israeli-Lebanese accord that was reached with the help of the United States in May 1983.

The pact had granted Israel security privileges in southern Lebanon and had recognized Israel's sovereignty and legitimacy. It called for an Israeli withdrawal from Lebanon, but was made moot by Syria's refusal to withdraw its troops from Lebanon at the same time.

A spokesman for Assad described the talks as "positive and fruitful" and said there would be tangible results "within the next few days."

Opposition spokesmen said Druse leader Walid Jumblatt and Shiite leader Nabih Berri left Beirut for Damascus today for talks with Assad and Syria's foreign minister, Abdul-Halim Khaddam, on the agreements made between Gemayel and Assad.

Jumblatt earlier told reporters he was unwilling to join reconciliation talks unless Gemayel was put on trial for ordering artillery attacks on Druse and Shiite communities.

In Beirut, fighting flared through the night between government troops and Moslem militias along the "green line" dividing the

That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says looks are deceiving—the dollar bill looks just the same as it did 10 years ago.

A doctor's phone rang at 3 a.m. The woman at the other end asked, "What do you charge for a house call?" Sleepily, the doctor mumbled, "Twenty-five dollars."

"And how much for an office visit?"

"Twelve," muttered the doctor.

"All right," the lady said briskly, "I'll meet you at your office in twenty minutes."

If you want a quick supper tonight, you can take in the Key Club Chili Supper, 5 to 8 p.m., at the high school cafeteria and help a good cause at the same time. The Key Club is a high school organization sponsored by local Kiwanians.

Speaking of good causes, the annual Heart Ball is scheduled Saturday night at Hereford Country Club. Tickets are $37.50 each and include dining and dancing. It's another good opportunity to make a charitable contribution and enjoy it at the same time!

You can never be sure about public polls, since there are so many factors involved in a sample survey, but the quick, informal poll made by The Brand this week indicated a strong feeling against the sale of alcoholic beverages in the county.

As reported in the article, the poll was made by random phone calls, so there is no scientific basis for claiming that an election would follow the same pattern. The county clerk's office was still checking signatures on the election petitions Thursday, but it appears that voters will be making a decision on the wet-dry issue.

Two solemn-faced men went fishing in an old boat. For three hours neither moved a muscle. Then the one up front became a bit restless. "Darn it, Hal," grumbled his companion, "that's the second time you've shifted your feet in the last half hour. Did you come here to fish or dance?"

HHS has 15 participants

Fifteen Hereford students are among the 146 Panhandle public school students who are completing the spring sessions of the Gifted and Talented Institute at West Texas State University.

First through 12th graders are to exhibit their works and talents during a showcase for parents and other interested persons at 1 p.m. Saturday in the Virgil Henson Physical Activities Center Ballroom.

Students who took part in the spring session were enrolled in either "Let's Be Friends," which featured WTSU international students; "Adventures in Theatre," with reading, pantomime and puppetry; and archeology.

Mary Jane Reeves, coordinator of the institute, said a summer session has been set for June 17 through 23.

Hereford youngsters who participated in the Saturday sessions were Matt Albracht, Caroline Downing, Scott Edwards, Cameron David Gulley, Chad Guy Hutson, Nikki Lynn Hutson, Michelle Nicole Lance, Shawn Thomas Lance, Robin Price, Brenna Tietjen Reinauer, Brianna TyRahn Reinauer, Jill Reinauer, Lee Anne Reinauer, Randy Robbins and Tim Wagner.

Also from the Hereford area is Jeri Ann Parker of Dawn.

Chili supper slated tonight

Hereford High School's Key Club is conducting a chili supper tonight from 5 to 8 in the HHS cafeteria. Tickets are to cost $3, according to sponsor Gene Brock. All proceeds are to go toward some of the Key Club's various community projects.

Farmer seriously injured

Robert M. Diller, 46, a farmer in the Friona community, was seriously injured Wednesday evening in a farm accident near Friona. He was in the intensive care unit at St. Anthony's Hospital this morning, where a relative reported Diller was in "serious but stable condition."

Diller was working alone with a machine which mixes compost when the accident occurred. When he was found, Diller was rushed to Friona and then airlifted to Amarillo. A relative reported that one leg was amputated and Diller sustained serious cuts and abrasions and other possible injuries.

Judge won't reduce sentence

HOUSTON (AP) — A federal judge has refused to reduce the prison sentence of a former San Jacinto County sheriff convicted of using water torture to gain confessions from his prisoners, saying the punishment will serve as an example to others.

U.S. District Judge James DeAnda, after reviewing a psychiatric report, said Thursday that the 10-year prison term and $12,000 fine given James C. "Humpty" Parker in October will stand.

Parker, 47, was convicted of conspiring to deprive jail inmates of their civil rights and of two counts of torturing inmates to deprive them of liberty without due process of law.

The judge ordered Parker to undergo a 90-day examination at a Springfield, Mo., psychiatric facility.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Scott Woodward said Parker deserved the sentence DeAnda originally set.

Home school plan approved

AUSTIN (AP) — A Select Committee on Public Education subcommittee has approved a proposal that would force parents of misbehaving students to attend "parenting" courses.

Subcommittee Chairman Sen. Carl Parker said the idea is to "drag them up to the schoolhouse and teach them how to be parents."

The plan now goes to the full committee, which is looking at sweeping reforms in Texas public education.

Also Thursday, the subcommittee voted to recommend legalizing, under close monitoring, home education of children by their parents, and required education college courses in maintaining discipline.

The parenting course would be the recourse if parents break a "contractual agreement" they would sign with school districts. Parker said it's nothing more than an agreement to "meet their parental responsibilities."

Security tight for leader's visit

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The provisional president of El Salvador planned to address a conference on Central America tonight, but authorities would release little information about the dignitary's visit for security reasons.

Security officials refused to reveal when Alvaro Alfredo Magana would arrive in San Antonio, when he planned to leave or if any other matters were on his agenda.

Magana, who assumed power in April 1982, is not seeking another term in his country's upcoming elections.

He is scheduled to address a dinner audience at a downtown hotel on the topic of "Central American Perspective and Dialogue."

Visa denial 'troubles' officials

LOS ANGELES (AP) — U.S. Olympic organizers say they are "deeply troubled" over the timing of the U.S. State Department's "unfair" decision to deny a visa to the Soviet Union's attache and advance man for the Summer Games.

The State Department denied entry to Oleg Yermishkin on Thursday, the very day he was to have arrived in Los Angeles to begin preparing for the arrival of Soviet athletes.

"Frankly, we are puzzled by the length of time it took to make this decision," said Peter Ueberroth, president of the Los Angeles Olympic Organizing Committee, in a statement.

Ueberroth said the timing of the move was critical "because of the short time remaining — about 20 weeks — before the 1984 Olympic Games. We are deeply troubled by the timing of this denial, which appears to be inefficient and unfair."

Former child star Coogan dies

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Jackie Coogan, who shot to fame as a 4-year-old breaking windows for Charlie Chaplin in "The Kid," was a true professional and a "gutsy guy" with a "gargantuan appetite" for life, fellow actors said after his death at 69.

Coogan, who became the first major child movie star when "The Kid" came out in 1920 and who later charmed the TV generation as the eccentric Uncle Fester in "The Addams Family," suffered cardiac arrest and died Thursday at Santa Monica Hospital.

"He had a great lust for life," said actor-director John Astin, who worked with Coogan in "The Addams Family."

Hormuz closure thought harmful

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Iran's president said today that closure of the Strait of Hormuz would weaken Iran's enemies and that his nation fully prepared to halt traffic through the crucial oil route, Tehran Radio reported.

The president, Ali Khamenei, renewed Iran's threats to block the strait if attacks by Iraq undermine its ability to export oil or if foreign powers intervene on the side of Iraq.

President Reagan recently vowed to keep the strait open and U.S. warships have been stationed inside the Persian Gulf. Half of Japan's oil and 28 percent of that for Western Europe is carried through the strait, at the south end of the gulf.

Iraq, which has been combatting an intensive nine-day offensive by Iranian troops, on Thursday said it had sunk eight Iranian ships in the gulf as part of its blockade of Iranian oil ports.

Mexico to study oil market

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Energy Secretary Francisco Labastida Ochoa says Mexico would have to study the petroleum market "very carefully" before ordering any production increases, in the event the Iran-Iraq war cuts the Middle Eastern supply.

Asked if Mexico has the capacity to increase production if the Strait of Hormuz were blocked in the Persian Gulf, Labastida Ochoa replied: "Mexico has some capacity installed at this time that it is not using for production, but we would have to examine very carefully the market's behavior before taking a decision to elevate production."

Energy officials here have said repeatedly that Mexico, one of the world's largest oil exporters, will retain its current level of 1.5 million barrels daily throughout the year.

Labastida Ochoa said enough demand exists already for Mexico to sell selling 300,000 to 400,000 barrels more than it does.

Contractor charging $3,404

By DAVID GOELLER

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — While a defense contractor was charging the Pentagon $3,404 per man-hour to build missiles, some workers were lounging and others were making black boxes to pirate cable television movies, according to Senate critics of Pentagon waste and fraud.

The accusations were made Thursday by Republican Sens. William V. Roth Jr. of Delaware and Charles H. Percy of Illinois as Roth's Governmental Affairs Committee continued its probe of military contracts.

Percy said he is receiving mounting evidence from Defense Department sources that Hughes Aircraft Co. was paid "$3,404 per standard work hour for 93 Maverick missiles."

"We learned that hands-on machinists and laborers who did the work at Hughes' Tucson plant were typically paid between $4 and $14 an hour," Percy said. "Including

Police said eight people were killed and 24 wounded between Thursday afternoon and this morning.

In the month of February, a total of 497 Lebanese were killed and 911 wounded in civil warfare in Beirut and the hills around the capital, police said. Most of the victims are thought to be civilians, but the official report did not give a breakdown.

reasonable overhead and other costs, I could understand a contractor charging the Air Force $30 or $35 an hour for the work of employees like these. But $3,404?

"I realize, as Hughes has asserted, that these were developmental missiles built for testing purposes, so they may have required some special machining and reworking, adding to their cost," he said.

"But I cannot understand how each of these missiles could possibly have cost anywhere close to what they did, had this been an efficient operation," added Percy, who said he had "falsified time-cards" to support his argument.

Roth said a Pentagon audit determined that "plant employees were idle an average of 14 percent of the time, excluding lunch time, preparation for work and other normal work breaks."

"According to reports by government and company informants, employees had so much time on their hands that they were building HBO television receiver sets illegally on company equipment and apparently selling them," Roth said.

Percy said sources reported that "several Hughes employees, including at least one executive, may have these receivers at their homes. The materials and time to make this illegal device have been charged to the taxpayers."

Hal Watkins, a spokesman for Hughes, said that "we believe many of the allegations are untrue, exaggerations of the facts as we understand them or are based on misunderstandings of complex contractual data."

He said the company believes the $3,404 figure "is calculated improperly, and even if it weren't, it has no significance in the real world as a measure of costs."

Watkins said he could not comment on the time-card accusation without further information, but he acknowledged that an attempt had been made to build seven Home Box Office converters at the Tucson plant in September 1981.

"None was ever completed," he said. "Only two employees were involved, working during their own time primarily with components they purchased from local electronics stores. The units were confiscated and the employees and two supervisors were suspended without pay."

Regarding the idle-time accusation, Watkins said that a recent independent audit said the Hughes plant had 4 percent excess idle time, lower than 90 percent of the rest of the aerospace industry.

Thursday's hearing zeroed in on the Defense Contract Audit Agency, the Pentagon branch charged with reviewing contractor performance to ensure that the government is getting fair value for its money.

Except for Charles O. Starrett, director of the DCAA, a parade of witnesses contended that the agency isn't doing its job.

Rises from bankruptcy

Airline resumes service

GRAPEVINE, Texas (AP) — For the first time in nearly two years, Braniff Inc. is a functioning airline.

Braniff rejoined the highly competitive skies over Dallas-Fort Worth Thursday as a leaner, smaller carrier than its flamboyant predecessor.

Braniff International collapsed under a $1 billion debt on May 12, 1982. It took 22 months for what was once the nation's eighth largest airline to reorganize in federal bankruptcy court and resume service.

A Braniff 727 rolled out at about 7 a.m. with pilot Jack Murdock giving the "thumbs up" sign. Murdock, who flew the plane with 105 passengers to New Orleans, was one of several pilots who helped put together the $79-million deal with the Hyatt Corp that saved Braniff from liquidation.

"Only in America could something like this take place. Only the American economic system allows people a second chance," Braniff president William Slattery said. "It's been a long trek and a whole lot of effort."

Braniff staged a dawn champagne ribbon-cutting ceremony and then, as senior vice president Tom Lagow said, "became an airline instead of a media event."

It was an emotional sendoff for several hundred employees who filled a lounge, took pictures and home movies and delivered a rousing cheer for Hyatt Chairman Jay Pritzker after Flight 200 rolled down the runway and took off for Louisiana.

"Seeing those planes out there is really a thrill," said Pritzker. "We're looking forward to a very successful venture."

Pritzker, standing on the tarmac as some of Braniff's 30 Boeing 727-200 jets taxied by, said he expects Braniff to begin making a profit in the second half of its second year.

But the resurrected carrier faces tough competition from American Airlines and must win over the traveling public, some of whom were left stranded when Braniff suddenly recalled its fleet and shut down.

Many of the passengers boarding Braniff flights at the Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport said the novelty of the first day was a strong attraction.

"You don't see too many airlines come back a second time," said Joe Fox of Dallas, who was waiting to board a morning flight to New York. "It's like being a part of history."

Slattery said Braniff hopes to have its planes about 20 percent full of full-paying passengers during its initial weeks of service.

Braniff International and its more than 8,000 employees became the first victims of the Airline Deregulation Act of 1978, which cleared the way for more competition and fare wars. The carrier was also crippled by over-expansion, rising fuel costs, the recession and the air traffic controllers' strike.

Braniff's route system has flights from Dallas-Fort Worth to Austin, Texas; Chicago; Denver; Detroit; Houston; Kansas City, Mo.; Las Vegas, Nev.; Los Angeles; Miami; New Orleans; Newark, N.J.; New York; Oklahoma City; Philadelphia; San Antonio, Texas; San Francisco; Tulsa, Okla.; and Washington.

Of 'new' Braniff

Mood festive for flight

GRAPEVINE, Texas (AP) — Braniff employees, their relatives, reporters and photographers made up most of the 100 passengers who flew from Dallas-Fort Worth Airport to New Orleans on the inaugural flight of the "new" Braniff Airways.

"It feels wonderful," the pilot, Capt. Jack Murdock, said shortly after Flight 200 lifted off the runway at 7:19 a.m. Thursday, signaling a new beginning for the airline that filed for bankruptcy less than two years ago.

The 146-passenger Boeing 727 was 20 minutes behind schedule for its first flight under new management. But few of the passengers cared.

Airline officials said the plane took off late because of the large number of reporters and photographers who lined the aisles of the plane before flight but who did not make the trip. They had to be ushered off so the plane could leave.

Five flight attendants served breakfast of free champagne and pancakes, but had to weave through reporters and camera equipment clogging the aisles.

Minutes after takeoff, Flight 200 made a special trip over Love Field in Dallas, where the new Braniff is based.

As the red, white and blue airliner flew over the company's headquarters at 4,000 feet, Murdock dipped the big plane's wings in tribute to his colleagues on the ground.

Braniff ceased operations and filed for bankruptcy in mid-May of 1982, but was revived under the direction of Chicago-based Hyatt Corp., a hotel chain that agreed to put up $70 million to get the carrier in operation again.

Seated in the first row of Braniff's first flight was A.N. Pritzker, 68, the patriarch of the family that owns the Hyatt empire.

Murdock quickly turned over the flight duties to the co-pilot and ambled through the passenger compartment, signing autographs.

Early in negotiations, Pritzker had indicated the proposed deal made little sense to him.

"It's still a gamble," he said Thursday.

His son, Jay, now heads the family business and worked out the details of the Braniff deal.

Louisiana Gov. Edwin Edwards greeted Pritzker when the flight landed in New Orleans at 8:15 a.m.

"It's very good to know that after 150 years, we in the South are finally getting some money back out of the north," Edwards said.

REQUEST

Amarillo television station, although she refused to cite any names. The news story, based on Hardisty's remarks, is what brought about the continuance of the trial.

John Lesly, who has practiced law in Hereford since Oct. 1, said, "I think money is a valid concern." He asked Caviness if it would be possible to just examine a few key bank accounts rather than the 25 suggested. Walden attempted to answer that question but he cut her short, saying, "I asked Terry."

Caviness expressed reluctance at such a suggestion, and Walden concurred a few moments later when given the floor to answer another question.

Coleman, who chaired the meeting in the absence of County Judge Glen Nelson but asked to be considered simply as one of the commissioners during the meeting, closed the session by asking for time "to sit down with the financial people and see where the money could come from." Nelson was out of town attending a county judges conference.

"I appreciate Terry and the grand jury's work," Coleman added. "He has made a legitimate request which we certainly will not ignore."

Boone was present when the court re-convened at 2 p.m., with Coleman announcing that "we want him to give us some insight and advice on this matter."

Boone briefly explained the request as he saw it, saying "these matters are not the state's matters. They are generally a county budgetary expense." He said the state had already provided some assistance free of charge, but the "funds are just not there" to examine the needed financial records.

Boone did say he felt that any claims for payment should be approved" by the foreman of the grand jury and by me before they come before the commissioner's court" for payment.

"I'm glad to see you do it," Saul commented following the commissioner's motion. He later said, "I want them to look at anything they want to and put all these rumors to bed. As far as I'm concerned the sooner the better."

Smith, who attended only the afternoon meeting, said "I second that."

Afterwards, the extended grand jury met until after 6 p.m. and reportedly issued 13 subpoenas on witnesses. The jury was to hear witness testimony beginning at 9:00 this morning.

There are amoral people in the world.

These differ from the immoral who revel in their reellion against what's right and righteous.

Amoral people are without conscience, without sensitivity, without comprehension of rightness and wrongness.

The Soviet mentality tends to be that way.

To an amoral individual, to whom an objective justifies any means, can be diabolically cunning. And usually his adversaries are disadvantaged by their inability to anticipate him.

"No rational person would do such a thing," we are inclined to decree.

But this endows an irrational individual with a quality of conscience he does not possess.

In my personal experience I've had business dealings with only one such person: an individual to whom words such as "loyalty,"

"decency," "empathy," "compassion" are utterly without meaning.

These days you are reading and hearing about two such.

Monroe, Louisiana police are seeking to backtrack on the bloody trail of Henry Lucas and Otis Toole.

Lucas and Toole confess casually, indifferently, to killing people without cause.

They are accused of 59 killings, have confessed to more than 100 others.

While most of the victims were young women, sex does not appear to be the primary motive.

Lucas, a one-eyed drifter, murdered his own mother in 1960. He did time for that. He got out of prison in 1975 — and the day he got out he murdered two other women.

He murdered his own common-law mentally retarded wife.

He appears not to have the vaguest notion that what he did was wrong: he regrets only that he got caught.

The murders traceable to this pair are more horribly vicious than you would want me to describe.

Toole tells of the time he decapitated a six-year-old Florida boy utterly without feeling.

When the lawmen from 17 states from Florida to California — mostly Texas — have completed their audit, prosecutors will determine how best to prosecute.

It will be argued by some that they are more "sick" than "cruel" and should be hospitalized forever at whatever expense to you.

That is neither sensible nor scriptural.

Old Testament law carefully distinguishes between murder and killing. Should we not put these guys out of OUR misery?

Local Church Roundup

FIRST ASSEMBLY OF GOD

The Rev. David Morris recently became the new pastor of the First Assembly of God church located at 606 E. 15th St. He and his wife, Robin, attended Southwestern Assemblies of God College in Waxahachie, Texas. They have one child, 3-month-old daughter Angela.

Morris pastored the Assemblies of God church in Cement, Okla., prior to coming to Hereford. He has also held pastorates in Bokchito and Kingston, Okla.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN

The community is invited to attend an Ash Wednesday hymn service from 6:30 to 7 p.m. Wednesday, March 7, at the First Presbyterian Church, 610 N. Lee St.

SUMMERFIELD BAPTIST

"Years of the Beast," a feature length dramatic film, is to be shown at 6 p.m. Sunday at Summerfield Baptist Church. The film was originally scheduled last Sunday but was postponed due to the snow.

The public is invited to attend, according to the Rev. Dusty Stout, pastor. A fellowship will follow the presentation.

The film explores the end times through an action-packed story based on realistic characters, said Stout.

FIRST CHRISTIAN

Waulea Renegar from Clovis, N.M., is scheduled to speak to the women of the church at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday in the First Christian Church parlor. Her topic will be "Christian Womanhood." Coffee will be served beginning at 9:15 a.m.

Following her talk, Mrs. Renegar will join the group for a dutch-treat lunch at the

Rev. and Mrs. David Morris ...and daughter, Angela

Thompson House. Those wishing to participate should contact Nancy Wilcox or Suzzi Marquis.

The sanctuary choir has begun work on the Easter cantata, "Hosanna!" during rehearsals at 7:30 p.m. Wednesdays.

A new term begins Sunday morning in the School for Christian Living. Classes include "Facing Life's Detours," "Life Grows With Christ," "Jesus Christ for Today," "Life Ends With Christ" and "Power for Parents." There is also a choir class and a new young married's class. Those enrolled in the special Lenten emphasis program entitled "Give Me Tomorrow" are asked to be present in the parlor Sunday morning during the Sunday school hour (9:45 to 10:30 a.m.) for training in the Cornerstone Movement. Others who have not signed up, but are interested in attending, are also welcome.

AVENUE BAPTIST
The Avenue Baptist Church single-again share group will meet on Tuesdays at 7:30 p.m. at 427 Avenue C during the month of March. The single-again Sunday school class meets at 9:45 a.m. every Sunday.

Ann Landers Ready to stay straight

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have wanted to write you many times but I knew I would have to face the real ME in order to do it, and I didn't have the guts. Now I am sitting in jail on a work-release farm program and I need to know if you think there is any hope for me.

My problem started when I was 17 and in the service. I began to drink and smoke pot so I would be accepted. I am 31 now and this is the first time I have been without either dope or booze in 14 years. I have had at least eight car accidents and wrecked two bikes. I was sent to head doctors but never told them the truth. Many people tried to help me but I wouldn't let them. Thank God, I never killed anyone.

Now I am wondering why my life was spared. I believe in God and wonder if maybe He has some plan for me. I want more than anything to stay straight. Do you have any words of advice or encouragement that I might cling to? For the first time in my life I want to clean up my act.—Holland, Mich.

DEAR H.M.: You have already jumped the first hurdle — admitting you have a problem and wanting to do something about it. Now you need continuing support from caring folks who have shared our kind of misery.

Alcoholics Anonymous is the answer. I know you have seen this in my column before — maybe dozens of times — but like so many others who aren't ready for help, you ignored it. I urge you to check with a counselor or chaplain about the prison program. When you get out, join Alcoholics Anonymous. Your new friends are waiting to help you start a new life. Good luck.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please settle a debate that has been going on in our office regarding common courtesy.

When a person walks into an office and people are already engaged in their work, whose responsibility is it to say "Good morning?" Believe it or not, this has become a serious bone of contention among some highly sophisticated individuals.

Those of us who arrive a little early feel that the ones who come in later should say "Good morning." But the late arrivals feel that they should be greeted by the ones who are already there.

What is the correct procedure?—Stamford, Conn., Tizzy

DEAR TIZZY: Your question suggests there are other problems more serious than who says "Good Morning" first. Picky, picky, picky!

It is not engraved in stone, but I believe the person who comes in should say "Good morning." It is mannerly to make one's presence known with some sort of greeting.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've learned a valuable lesson

I want to share. A person who can make his opponent lose his temper can defeat him.

A guide commenting on a mountain range in South America made this statement: "This would have been our tallest if it hadn't blown its top."

The same is true of people who lose their cool. Please pass it on.—Charlie At Yale

DEAR CHARLIE: Thanks for the bit of wisdom out of ol' Eli.

Do you feel awkward, self-conscious — lonely? Welcome to the club. There's help for you in Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key to Popularity." Send 50 cents with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Today in History

Today is Friday, March 2nd, the 62nd day of 1984. There are 304 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On March 2nd, 1776, U.S. Marines fought their first battle, capturing a British fort in the Bahamas during the Revolutionary War.

On this date:

In 1836, Texas declared its independence from Mexico.

In 1917, Puerto Ricans were granted U.S. citizenship.

In 1951, the East beat the West, 111-104, in the first NBA All-Star Game.

And in 1980, former President Gerald Ford made himself available for the Republican presidential nomination, saying Ronald Reagan was "too conservative."

Ten years ago: Israel and Syria agreed to confer in the United States on a separation of their forces in the Golan Heights.

Five years ago: Vietnam rejected China's proposal to end their border war, calling the offer a "trick."

One year ago: Pope John Paul II began a Central American visit in Costa Rica, saying he was there to "share the pain" of a region that was "crying out" for an end to war and hate.

Today's Birthdays: Actor-producer Desi Arnaz is 67 years old. Actress Jennifer Jones is 65. House Republican leader Robert Michel is 61. And actor John Cullum is 54.

Thought for Today: "Tomorrow, tomorrow, not today; hear the lazy people say." — Christian Felix Weisse, German poet-dramatist (1726-1804).

Add to your list of people who really dig it: gardening buffs.

Think how much more hilarious they'd be if people who laugh behind your back got a front view.

All sweeping things under the rug will get you a bill for replacing lumpy rugs.

Democrats look for southern votes

Four of the five Democrats left in the shrinking presidential field converge on the South today, including a humbled Walter Mondale who is shunning his front-runner "burden" and promising a new, tougher style.

Mondale, New Hampshire winner Gary Hart, Ohio Sen. John Glenn and the Rev. Jesse Jackson all planned appearances in Atlanta tonight, where state Democrats are holding their annual Jefferson-Jackson Day fundraising dinner in advance of their March 13 "Super Tuesday" primary.

Only George McGovern of the five remaining major candidates was avoiding the South. The former South Dakota senator and 1972 standard bearer remains in Massachusetts, where he says that state's primary on the same day will "make or break" his presidential dreams.

Similar dreams vanished in the face of political reality Thursday for two Democratic hopefuls. South Carolina Sen. Ernest Hollings bowed out after gaining just 4 percent of the vote in New Hampshire; he was followed hours later by last-place finisher former Florida Gov. Reubin Askew. A day earlier California Sen. Alan Cranston quit.

A pessimist is a person who burns his bridges before he comes to them.

Sorry, Hank Aaron.

Hammerin Hank was just one of a number of individuals expressing an interest in being named the new commissioner of baseball.

After a 15-month search, baseball club owners have reportedly agreed to hire Peter V. Ueberroth to fill the position being vacated by Bowie Kuhn.

Ueberroth is presently the head of the Los Angeles Olympic Organizing Committee. Obviously, the club owners have decided they would rather have a shrewd businessman be their commissioner instead of an American hero.

It's hard to say exactly what the baseball commissioner's duties will entail, but Ueberroth will have a tough time matching Kuhn's tenure, as far as controversy goes.

Kuhn began his campaign in 1969 and during his reign he suspended and fined a number of ballplayers for various reasons.

One of his first suspensions was handed to former Detroit Tiger 31-game winner Denny McClain. Denny was suspended in 1970 for gambling on horse races, and again later for dousing a reporter with a bucket of ice water during a clubhouse interview.

Kuhn also negated transactions made by former Oakland A's owner Charlie Finley.

The most memorable occurred in 1974 when Mr. Finley tried to sell A's stars Vida Blue and Joe Rudi to the Boston Red Sox for $1 million apiece. Kuhn said the sales could not be made. His reason being that it "was not in the best interest of baseball."

In his latest days, Kuhn has served more a narcotics officer than a baseball commissioner. He has slapped year-long suspensions on Kansas City Royals' Willie Wilson, Willie Aikens (since traded to the Toronto Blue Jays), Jerry Martin, and Vida Blue. The latter two have since been cut by the Royals.

Los Angeles Dodger relief pitcher Steve Howe has also been suspended for the 1984 season for his love of cocaine.

Most of these players have or will appeal their suspensions to the commissioner's office. It will be interesting to see how Ueberroth deals with the appeals.

Too bad the owners didn't decide on Aaron. It could have been a good choice. Aaron knows the game more than Ueberroth - he's been involved with the players, managers, and fans for more than a quarter century.

Hank also has knowledge of the business aspect of the game as he has worked in the front office of the Milwaukee Brewers for the past several years.

Ueberroth's appeal lies in the fact that he could mean added bucks for the owners. He was an integral part in negotiating the zillion-dollar deal with the ABC Television Network for the right to carry the 1984 Summer Olympics.

The golf tournament is part of Spring Sports Weekend, sponsored by the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce. The golf tourney concludes today. ## To Indianapolis

Franchise may move

CHICAGO (AP) — Robert Irsay, owner of the Baltimore Colts, wants to brief fellow National Football League club owners on his plans for the team's future — plans that may involve moving the franchise to Indianapolis.

Irsay was to get his opportunity today at a special meeting.

The Colts owner has held talks concerning a possible franchise move, with Indianapolis and Phoenix, Ariz., most prominently mentioned. Indianapolis is now said to be the likely choice.

The Baltimore Sun reported in Friday's editions that Colts counsel and vice president Michael Chernoff and former Indianapolis Deputy Mayor David Frick had flown to Chicago with documents needing only Irsay's signature for the move to Indianapolis.

The newspaper quoted an unnamed source as saying, however, that Irsay's approval was by no means a foregone conclusion. Yet, the decision appeared to rest solely with him.

HHS in fifth place after first round of Hereford tourney

After one day of the two-day Hereford Invitational Golf Tournament, boys varsity coach Mike Fields' predictions were right on target.

Earlier in the week, Fields said Amarillo High was the favorite to win the tourney. He also said the HHS should finish in the upper half of the 12 competing teams.

HHS had finished in the lower half of recent tournaments in Odessa and Lubbock. But since the Whitefaces were playing on their home course, the coach said he would be disappointed if the boys did not improve.

At the end of Thursday's first 18 holes, AHS led the pack with a team score of 304.

Plainview was second with 319. Pampa and Monterey high schools were in third and fourth with scores of 323 and 326 respectively.

Hereford took the fifth slot, shooting 328.

Bo Kay and Greg Moore, both from AHS, shot the lowest first 18 hole. They each had a score of 74.

Mike Drake shot low score for HHS, scoring 79 for the first 18 holes. He was followed by Bobby Valdez's 81, Albert Valdez's 83, Matt Albracht's 85, and Dan King shot 102.

The teams take the four lowest individual totals to figure the team scores.

The tournament is to conclude this afternoon.

Girls' state basketball finals consists of undefeated teams

AUSTIN (AP) — Waco Richfield and Nazareth remained undefeated, defending Class 4A champion Levelland put on a record defensive performance and Glinda Taylor of Groesbeck had an eight-point play at the Girls' State Basketball Tournament on opening day.

Taylor's sudden scoring spurge centered around the ejection of coach Mike Fountain of Sour Lake Hardin-Jefferson from the game with three technical fouls.

The 34th annual tournament resumed today with semi-final games in 2A and 5A. All championship games are scheduled for Saturday.

Richfield extended its record to 32-0 with a 46-37 victory over Orange Little Cypress-Mauriceville, which sets up a championship match with Levelland, a 32-17 winner over Corpus Christi Calallen.

Abernathy defeated Van Vleck 46-32 in 3A to advance to the finals against Groesbeck, which walked Hardin-Jefferson 79-51.

Nazareth, winners of a record six tournament titles, raised its season record to 34-0 with a 59-32 victory over Priddy. The Swiftettes will play Petty West Lamar, which edged Moulton 38-36, for the Class A championship. Fountain was whistled for three technical fouls in the third quarter by official John Ferrara of San Antonio, which resulted in Fountain's automatic ejection from the game.

The last two technicals were assessed after Taylor had arched a two-point shot from the corner, with Groesbeck already comfortably ahead. She was fouled after the shot and made two free throws, then swished four more free throws on the technicals.

The Hardin-Jefferson superintendent was called on the public address, presumably to calm down Fountain. The coach walked off the court with 1 minute 33 seconds left in the third quarter, and his assistant took over.

Taylor, a 5-foot-7 senior, made 8 of 8 free throws and finished with 18 points, one behind team leader Bobbie Whitfield. Groesbeck had a 29-3 edge in free throws over Hardin-Jefferson, which lost four starters on fouls, including high scorers Lisa Turner — 16 — and Barbara Anderson — 12.

Richfield trailed Little Cypress 27-26 at the end of three quarters, but Martha Estelle pitched in eight points, allowing the Ramblers to pull away. Estelle had 14 points and Maggie Davis 17, with 14 rebounds, for Richfield.

Levelland, with scoring star Darla Isaacs in foul trouble, led Calallen only 19-17 going into the fourth quarter, but shutout the Wildcats 13-0 in the final eight minutes.

Isaacs, an all-tournament player in 1982 and 1983, returned with about five minutes to play and finished with a game high 13 points.

The 17 points for Calallen, which lost in the 4A championship to Levelland last year, was a record low for 4A, and the total of 49 points for both teams also was a new low in that division.

Holly Hodges scored 10 points for Calallen even though she could only limp around the court because of a month-old stress fracture below her right knee, which was heavily wrapped.

Nazareth appeared invincible in whipping Priddy, which lost starter Naidene Tiemann on fouls in the first minute of the third quarter. Tiemann had averaged 15 points a game but was scoreless against Nazareth's relentless full-court defense.

Leona Gerber had 13 points for Nazareth, and LaDawn Schmucker and Ramona Heiman each scored 12.

Moulton missed four field goal attempts.

College roundup

Wildcats capture conference title

By JOHN NELSON AP Sports Writer

Sam Bowie had 20 points, a career-high 19 rebounds and a lot to think about as Kentucky won its 35th regular-season Southeastern Conference basketball title.

Still smarting from a 63-58 loss Monday night at Tennessee, Coach Joe B. Hall had put his Wildcats through two days of strenuous workouts in preparation for Mississippi.

Kentucky responded with a 76-57 victory that boosted its record to 22-4, 13-4 in the league. And when Louisiana State lost to Vanderbilt, 76-68, the Wildcats had clinched the SEC title.

"Those last two practices have been like boot camp," Bowie said. "There was no room on the floor for boys, just men. You'd be playing defense and thinking if your man got by you, you might have to run a 'wall.' It does make you think."

Even in victory, Hall could not erase the memory of the game at Tennessee, where Kentucky has won just once in 12 years.

"I think that it was new for us to play with that kind of effort," Hall said. "It sort of trew our execution off. I think if we can pull our game up and get a little sharper, we'll be fine."

Hall vowed to keep up the pressure on his club until the season was over.

Kentucky outrebounded Mississippi 46-25 in totally dominating Ole Miss, which is in last place in the SEC.

In other games involving ranked teams, it was: No. 5 DePaul 65, South Carolina 56; No. 6 Oklahoma 79, Nebraska 70; Cal-Irvine 77, No. 7 Nevada-Las Vegas 74; Brigham Young 83, No. 8 Texas-El Paso 65; No. 9 Tulsa 126, Indiana State 102; No. 10 Illinois 73, Ohio State 58; UCLA 73, No. 13 Washington 59, and No. 18 Temple 69, Penn State 66.

Top Ten

DePaul, 23-2, completed what it called a "pay back" sweep with its victory over South Carolina, beating all 10 teams that beat the Blue Demons last year. Tyrone Corbin and Tony Jackson each had 12 points for DePaul, which led by 18 with less than six minutes left in the first half.

All-American Wayman Tisdale scored 31 points and enabled Oklahoma to become the first team to win 13 Big Eight Conference games since 1977-78. Oklahoma, 26-3 and 13-1 in league, scored the final seven points of the half to lead Nebraska 43-33 at intermission, and the Sooners scored the first 10 points of the second half.

Cal-Irvine used a stall in the final five minutes, tied the score 74-74 with 2:42 left on a layup by Bob Thornton and beat Nevada-Las Vegas on Tod Murphy's three-point play with three seconds left. Ben McDonald scored 21 points for the Anteaters in their Pacific Coast Athletic Association triumph. UNLV is 25-3 and 16-2 in the PCAA.

Devin Durant, the second leading scorer in the nation, hit 35 points, and Brigham Young held Texas-El Paso scoreless for six minutes late in the game to win the Western Athletic Conference game. Texas-El Paso is 24-3 and 12-3 in the WAC, while BYU has an 11-4 WAC record, and is 18-9 total.

Herb Robinson and Steve Harris led seven Tulsa players in double figures as the Hurricane beat Indiana State in the Missouri Valley Conference. Robinson had 28 points and 14 rebounds, and Harris added 24 points, including 16 of Tulsa's first 20 in the second half. Tulsa, 24-2 and 13-2 in the MVC, matched its season-high point total with its third straight 100-plus game.

Second Ten

Illinois moved back into a tie with Purdue for the Big Ten Conference lead by beating Ohio State behind the 26 points of Elrem Winters and 24 of Bruce Douglas. The Illini and Purdue each have 13-3 conference marks. Illinois is 21-4 overall.

UCLA, which had lost six of its last seven, held off an early second-half spurt by Washington and got 22 points from Ralph Jackson to score an upset over the Pacific 10 Conference leaders. Washington dropped to 20-6 and 13-3 in the conference.

Packing For A Trip

Louise Walker, county extension agent, and her daughter, Allison, wonder what they should take on a trip and how to get everything into the suitcase. Packing tips, as well as advice on using travel agencies, will be given at a seminar entitled "On the Road Again" at 10 a.m. Tuesday in the Heritage Room of the Library. The program is sponsored by the Deaf Smith County Extension Service and the Family Living Committee.

Travel seminar open

"With the last blizzard behind us (who says), maybe it would be fun to think about travel," remarked Louise Walker, county extension agent. "Come to 'On the Road Again,' a seminar sponsored by the Deaf Smith County Extension Service and the Family Living Committee."

The program, free of charge and open to the public, is scheduled at 10 a.m. Tuesday in the Heritage Room of the library.

Joan Coupe of the Hereford

Travel Agency will begin the program by discussing how to use a travel agency as one plans a trip.

Russ Nolan of Delta Air Lines in Amarillo will show a film entitled "Packing for Travel" in which both women's and men's suitcases are illustrated in giving useful packing techniques.

Becky Saunders, specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service in Amarillo, will use fashions from The Pants Cage in Sugarland Mall to illustrate selecting a wardrobe for travel.

For further information about the two-hour seminar, contact Walker at 364-3573.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic levels, race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

South of the Border

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The price of all brands of Mexican beer increased Thursday between 15 percent and 20 percent throughout the country, the beer producers announced.

The price was increased because of higher production and distribution costs to the manufacturers, they said.

Beer prices were raised between 30 percent and 40 percent in September 1983. Before the latest increase, the average cost of a bottle of Mexican beer here was about 35 cents.

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The Mexican government said it is concerned that the United States' plans to withdraw from UNESCO will cause severe limitations on the United Nations organization.

"The withdrawal of the United States signifies a grave loss for the organization, and at the same time, for the men of science and culture of that country," Foreign Minister Bernardo Sepulveda said in a letter to Secretary of State George P. Shultz. Parts of the text were contained in a Foreign Ministry release.

It said Mexico currently is talking with other member nations to find satisfactory solutions.

The Reagan administration announced last fall it would drop out this year from the U.N. Education, Scientific and Cultural Organization.

MEXICO CITY (AP) — President Miguel de la Madrid has assured the Mexican Congress that his trip to Colombia, Argentina, Brazil and Venezuela will be conducted with an eye towards keeping down the costs.

In a message to the Congress on Thursday, the president said the trip will be in keeping with the framework of his austerity program and will "avoid all waste."

De la Madrid's trip is scheduled for March 29 through April 7. It will be his first trip out of the country since he became president in December 1982, saying an austerity program was necessary to pull the country out of its worst economic recession in decades.

CUERNAVACA, Mexico (AP) — Actress Margot Kidder was slightly injured while rehearsing a scene with actor Burt Lancaster for the film "Little Treasure," which is in production here, film publicist John Langley said today.

Langley said reports that Lancaster hit Ms. Kidder during a fight in a bar are "completely untrue" and what happened is "not like anything that has been reported."

He said in a phone interview Ms. Kidder and Lancaster were rehearsing a "physical scene" Tuesday afternoon and she bumped her head against a post on the set, causing a small gash on her forehead.

"Margot has a temper, no one denies that, and she said a few words to Burt and then she went her trailer. But she was back on the set shortly," Langley. Cuernavaca is about 55 miles south of Mexico City.

In the film, Ms. Kidder plays a stripper who goes to Mexico to find her father, played by Lancaster, who she has not seen in about 25 years. She finds him and before he dies, the father tells about a treasure he has buried. The rest of the film is devoted to the search for the treasure.

Filming began Feb. 13 and is scheduled for completion in mid-April, Langley said. No release date has been set.

Accused man files suit

ODESSA, Texas (AP) — A pathologist has been sued for libel on grounds that he issued a "completely inaccurate and misleading" report that led to the indictment of a Fort Worth man for the 1977 murder of his wife.

Kenneth Wayne Roeder asked for $1.6 million in damages against Dr. Richard Cohen, 36, who formerly practiced in Odessa and now lives in Redding, Calif.

Roeder is scheduled to stand trial in four months for the Sept. 24, 1977 death of his wife, Sherri Gillen Roeder.

At the time of her death, Roeder told sheriff's deputies he and his wife were driving in west Odessa when she fell from the pickup into a ditch.

Deputies originally investigated the case as a traffic accident, but reopened the case in 1982. Roeder was indicted for murder in November, a charge apparently based partly on Cohen's report.

During a Feb. 12 hearing before District Judge R.L. McKim, Cohen testified he found evidence of a "nut-cracker" injury that may have resulted from the 23-year-old woman's head being slammed between a pickup door frame and the door.

"As a result of the libel ...

of the plaintiff has been charged by indictment with murder and has been held forth to the public as a murderer," the suit said.

Roeder's attorney, Michael McLeaish, said Wednesday that Cohen's November 1982 report "was outside the scope of his employment ... not based on the professional standards of conduct that he is bound to follow, is based on the wildest speculation and conjecture, and is completely inaccurate and misleading."

Cohen, who did not perform the initial autopsy, said he based his conclusions on photographs of the site where Mrs. Roeder's body apparently fell, photographs of the autopsy and the autopsy report.

Following the Feb. 12 hearing, McKim ordered Mrs. Roeder's body exhumed for a second autopsy. The exhumation is set for March 14, and Foster has said the state will bring pathologists from Houston and Amarillo to the new study of the dead woman's injuries.

Cohen was reached Thursday at his home by the Odessa American but declined to comment on the suit.

"I haven't been served, I have no idea and I have nothing else to say," Cohen said.

And waiting

Nation's oil reserve ready

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Deep under the Gulf Coast, in salt caverns as big as 10-story buildings, billions of gallons of crude oil lie in storage, awaiting a crisis.

If that crisis were to come in the form of an Iranian decision to pinch off the flow of oil from the Persian Gulf, the multibillion-dollar Strategic Petroleum Reserve could cushion the shock to the United States.

At last count, at the end of February, there were 387 million barrels of high-class crude bottled up in the reserve, which was started in 1975 by President Ford to counter what the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries called the "oil weapon."

That's enough to replace 90 days of imports at 1983's daily rate of 4.2 million barrels a day from all sources, according to Department of Energy estimates.

But many of those sources are nowhere near the volatile Persian Gulf, where Iran has repeatedly threatened to close the 50-mile-wide Strait of Hormuz, the bottleneck between the gulf and the Arabian Sea.

President Reagan has said the United States cannot allow the Strait of Hormuz to be closed. Last Sunday, the Navy destroyer Lawrence fired warning shots to make an Iranian patrol plane keep its distance, and warned an Iranian frigate by radio not to get any closer.

Tankers carry 7.5 million barrels of oil a day through the strait, but only about 500,000 barrels of that goes to the United States. A barrel is 42 gallons.

Oil shipped through the strait makes up 18 percent of the world's daily crude consumption.

As a gauge of how things have changed since the time when OPEC swung a big stick, withdrawals from the oil bank could cover almost 900 days of the U.S. imports that move from the strait — and about seven months of all imports from all OPEC members.

The top five oil exporters to the United States these days are Mexico at 807,000 barrels a day, Canada at 460,000, Venezuela 413,000, the United Kingdom 369,000, and Indonesia 336,000.

In a series of tests, the last one on Feb. 28, officials showed that the five operating storage facilities in the oil bank, with all pumps going, could extract about 3 million barrels a day. Guy King, a Strategic Petroleum Reserve spokesman, said that when the project is completed in 1991, with 750 million barrels banked, it will be possible to draw more than 4 million barrels a day.

The test was ordered by the inspector general to find out for sure that we could do it," King said. "We hope it laid to rest all those questions as to whether we can get the oil out."

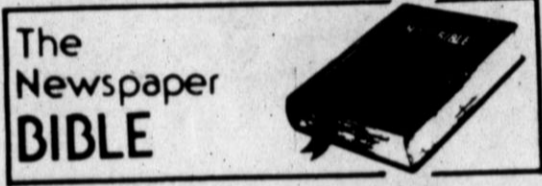

King referred to accusations by a House Government Operations energy subcommittee, headed by Rep. Mike Synar, D-Okl., that equipment was so poor the SPR ran the risk of being unable to get its oil back out of the salt caverns.

The subcommittee also charged that project officials had a poor accounting system and accused them of paying too little attention to fire protection and failing to monitor contractor performance.

In hearings last year before the subcommittee, project officials said problems had been corrected.

There are at least 350 of the mountain-size domes of salt, underground and out of sight, along the Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama coasts. The salt is so hard it feels like marble when pieces of it are handled, but like any rock salt it can be dissolved by water.

In the six domes chosen as

"DO THIS TO REMEMBER ME BY"

For this is what the Lord Himself has said about His Table, and I have passed it on to you before: That on the night when Judas betrayed Him, the Lord Jesus took bread.

And when He had given thanks to God for it, He broke it and gave it to His disciples and said, "Take this and eat it. This is My body, which is given for you. Do this to remember Me."

In the same way, He took the cup of wine after supper, saying, "This cup is the new agreement between God and you that has been established and set in motion by My blood. Do this in remembrance of Me whenever you drink it."

For every time you eat this bread and drink this cup you are re-telling the message of the Lord's death, that He has died for you. Do this until He comes again.

So if anyone eats this bread and drinks from this cup of the Lord in an unworthy manner, he is guilty of sin against the body and blood of the Lord.

That is why a man should examine himself carefully before eating the bread and drinking from the cup.

For if he eats the bread and drinks from the cup unworthily, not thinking about the body of Christ and what it means, he is eating and drinking God's judgment upon himself; for he is trifling with the death of Christ.

That is why many of you are weak and sick, and some have even died.

But if you carefully examine yourselves before eating you will not need to be judged and punished. Yet, when we are judged and punished by the Lord, it is so that we will not be condemned with the rest of the world.

So, dear brothers, when you gather for the Lord's Supper—the communion service—wait for each other.

If anyone is really hungry he should eat at home so that he won't bring punishment upon himself when you meet together.

I'll talk to you about the other matters after I arrive.

1 Corinthians 11:23-34

Spray away pen mark

DEAR POLLY — How can one get ballpoint pen ink out of clothing? I use a pen a lot and I seem to write on my clothes as often as I write on the paper. — F.

DEAR F. — Although many people already know this trick, it's such a simple, handy solution — and it works! — that I'm glad to repeat it every now and then. The way to remove ballpoint pen ink from washable clothing is to use hairspray! You can buy the cheapest brand available or use what you already have. Spray the ink spot with hairspray and immediately start washing it out under running water. The spray will dissolve the ink, causing it to run. The ink must be rinsed out rapidly to avoid a larger stain.

Repeat spraying and rinsing until all the ink is gone, then launder the garment as usual. Be sure you do this before washing the item; laundering with the stain in will only set it, making the stain virtually impossible to remove.

If you have any doubts as to the washability of the garment, test a hidden area with the hairspray and water to make sure no color change, shrinking or spotting will result. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — I recycle small pieces of soap by using them in my shaving mug. — NORVAL

DEAR POLLY — To save electricity, I place nightlights at the end of the hall, in the bathroom and other dim areas of the house. I turn them on in the late afternoon. Members of the family are less likely to be constantly snapping the overhead lights on and off when they have this gentle illumination. — GAYE

DEAR POLLY — A thick bath towel will soak up water and other liquid spills from shag and pile rugs far more quickly than other kinds of cloth.

To keep refrigerated items cold and fresh longer in the lunch box, fix the lunch the night before and place the entire lunch (box and all) into the refrigerator overnight. It will be cold by morning and the food will stay crisp and fresh until lunch. — MARGARET

The kids will love cashew drops and peanut-butter shortbread in the family cookie jar. Guests will flip over meringue-fudge tartlettes and almond-butter cakes. ### Too many cola calories

DEAR DR. LAMB — What can I do to get rid of my large stomach? I can't exercise because I'm scheduled for back surgery soon. Since I can't lose by dieting, I don't know what else to try.

Are there any adverse effects from drinking too much cola (a quart or more every day)? Would that account for being unable to lose weight even though I eat almost nothing?

DEAR READER — If you really are drinking that much cola, you are probably consuming more than 300 calories a day from that source alone. In a month, that is equivalent to the calories in almost three pounds of body fat. If you are trying to lose weight and must use soft drinks, you should shift to a low-calorie product.

When a person is restricting calories to lose weight, he should choose foods that not only have the least number of calories, but also provide the greatest number of vitamins, minerals and quality protein.

Of course, your cola consumption also provides a reasonable amount of caffeine each day, which doesn't help.

Keep in mind that carbonated beverages release gas which can contribute to distention. Gaseous distention is one reason a person's stomach appears large even though he might not be overweight.

If you have an acute back condition you might need to limit your exercise, but most chronic back problems are benefited by proper exercise. Your letter does not suggest you have an acute back condition at the moment. Your doctor actually might want you to exercise before surgery. Ask him what he wants you to do about exercises. Walking can help you use calories and is not that hard on your back.

The kinds of exercises I usually recommend for controlling the abdomen are included in The Health Letter 17-12, Winning the Battle of the Bulge, which I am sending you. But first I want you to discuss an exercise program with your doctor. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'd like to know if there is a hormone that will decrease my desire for sex. I'm 33 and my husband is 38. He's very interested in sex — only not with me. This is nothing new — it's been going on for the last 11 years of our 12-year marriage. We have a strong and healthy marriage otherwise. We get along very well and I'm sure he loves me.

But sex once every six to nine weeks isn't enough for me. I get so depressed and frustrated that my housework goes to pot and I really don't function well. Is there any hope?

DEAR READER — I think both of you should see a marriage counselor or get professional help. Your letter strongly suggests sex is an important part of your marriage to you. It also suggests your husband is not giving proper consideration to your needs in the marriage.

It's not a pill you need to decrease your sex drive — but some resolution of the fundamental problems within your marriage.

YOU LIVE YOUR FAITH WHEN YOU SHARE WITH OTHERS

There is no greater expression of faith than the translation of it into good deeds: the sharing of our blessings with those less fortunate than ourselves. However, the concept of sharing goes far beyond the mere distribution of our material wealth to the poor, it also includes the gift of your time, patience, understanding and friendship. Visit the old and the sick; talk to them, read to them, run errands for them, give a ride to someone who is in need of it. Remember that the finest gift of all is that of yourself, given quietly and without fanfare; and you will be better for it. Learn more about the true spirit of giving by attending your Church.

"He that hath pity upon the poor leqndeth unto the Lord; and that which he hath given will he pay him again."

— Proverbs 19:17

Those who bring sunshine to the lives of others cannot keep it from themselves.
— Sir James Matthew Barrie
