Vigils open prayer talks

By TOM RAUM Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — As House supporters of a proposed constitutional amendment to restore prayer to public school talked all night, Senate sponsors braced for a long, drawn out battle that could ultimately be decided by the narrowest of margins.

House sympathizers lent their support for the amendment by keeping the House in a rare, all-night session that continued into today.

In the Senate, sponsors searched hard for votes while opponents vowed delaying tactics that could stretch out debate until early June.

And President Reagan, who has made adoption of the prayer amendment a major campaign theme, prepared to renew his call for the amendment in an address in Columbus, Ohio, to the National Association of Evangelicals.

The House talkathon began shortly after noon on Monday. Speaker after speaker praised the effort to permit voluntary prayer in schools — often addressing a chamber empty of other members and watched by few spectators.

"The prayer amendment is needed to permit the American people to reaffirm that there is a standard of right or wrong higher than the state," said Rep. Chalmers P. Wylie, R-Ohio, one of several dozen participants in the marathon session.

Grand jury gathering today

By KIM THOGMARTIN Staff Writer

Deaf Smith County Grand Jurors were meeting today for the fourth time since adjourning last Thursday. They are reportedly questioning subpoenaed witnesses as their investigation of the criminal district attorney's office continues.

The jury was called together Thursday afternoon for the first time since Dec. 6. The delay was caused by court cases dealing with the jury's intention to examine financial records in their investigation of alleged mishandling of state funds by

Senators brace for battle

Another supporter, Rep. Lawrence Coughlin, R-Pa., noted that the motto "In God We Trust" was engraved above the speaker's chair in the chamber. "It's ironic that we open a day's session with prayer, and flatly prohibit prayer in schools," he said.

About 60 people gathered in a separate room in the Capitol for an all-night prayer vigil. Their hymns and prayers wafted through the corridors as congressmen spoke in the House chamber.

Outside, school prayer backers and supporters staged rival rallies in the rain on opposite sides of the Capitol Monday night.

Meanwhile on the other side of the Capitol, a smaller group — estimated by Capitol police at less than 100 — demonstrated against the prayer amendment.

Still, the rallies outside the Capitol and the round-the-clock speeches on the House floor were merely sideshows to the real event — debate which began on Monday in the Senate.

And in that chamber, leaders of the prayer amendment drive still appeared shy of the two-third votes needed to win Senate passage.

Backers of the prayer amendment are divided on whether the prayer should be a spoken one — as advocated by Reagan and Senate Majority Leader Howard H.

Baker — or silent. And those supporting a spoken prayer were in disagreement on the wording of that prayer, and on whether local school officials or students themselves should compose the words.

The administration-backed amendment before the Senate states: "Nothing in this Constitution shall be construed to prohibit individual or group prayer in public schools or other public institutions. No person shall be required to participate in prayer. Neither the United States nor any state shall compose the words of any prayer to be said in public schools."

Opening Senate debate on the proposal on Monday, Baker, R-Tenn., said Supreme Court decisions of 1962 and 1963 have "effectively banished God from the American classroom for the last 20 years."

He conceded winning two-thirds approval of the prayer amendment by both houses of Congress, and then ratification by the needed 38 states would be "a long, laborious process ... but it's worth the effort."

But Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., leader of the opposition, argued, "I don't care what the wording is, the government should not be in the business of conducting prayers in public schools."

Fourth time since Thursday

District Attorney Roland Saul.

On Thursday, Deaf Smith County Commissioners honored a request for financial assistance from Assistant Attorney General Linda Walden and jury foreman Terry Caviness. Commissioners appropriated up to $10,000 to pay for having records microfilmed at the Hereford State Bank and the First State Bank of Vega.

Walden, who is serving as special counsel to the jury at the request of Caviness, said 25 different accounts would need to be analyzed, going back over a three-year period.

Marie Maxwell of Hereford State Bank said today the microfilming has begun at the bank, with "four or five persons" working shifts to keep the one microfilming machine manned at least 12 hours a day.

President Roy Stevens at First State Bank of Vega said workers had not yet arrived, but "we expect them any day now."

Hereford City Commissioners Monday unanimously approved a 1984-1985 budget for $3.57 million which contains more than $865,000 in reserves.

For the third straight year, no tax rate change is to be made, with property owners still to pay 65 cents per $100 valuation. With a projected 93 percent collection rate, that would yield the city approximately $880,500.

Other sources of revenue include water revenue ($990,000), sales tax reimbursements ($555,800), trash fees ($301,100) and sewer revenue ($194,000). Among the projected expenses are $1,028,721 for water and sewer, $883,935 for police and $506,249 for streets.

For the first time since 1968, the city will be free of bonded indebtedness.

Zoning changes prove controversial

"Sounds like it's time to go back into debt," Mayor Wes Fisher said with a laugh.

The 1983-1984 budget, which ends April 30, was for about $3.27 million.

A hearing was also heard for general revenue sharing funds totaling $214,060. Commissioners upheld the request of city administrators the money be spent for "major improvements and expansion of the water system."

Meanwhile, two controversial requests for zoning changes and an appeal by Kids, Inc. for city assistance helped make Monday's commission meeting the longest of the year.

A fear of alcohol sales being allowed in town prompted opposition to Cal Garrett's request land near Plains

Avenue and Highway 385 be changed from "D-Restricted" to "E-Central Business." Deniz Pulliam said new businesses such as liquor stores or saloons would pose a threat to security of those attending the nearby Central Church of Christ. "It might never happen," he said, "but you open the door to that type of thing."

Sometime during the first part of April, a wet-dry election is apparently to be held for Justice of the Peace Precinct 1, which covers all of Hereford and most of the county. An adequate number of petition signatures have been verified by the county clerk's office for the vote, which is for packaged liquor stores only. Saloons would not be allowed. Emory Brownlow, Place 4 commissioner, said he thought Garrett was interested in operating an ice cream store. Since the landowner wants to make his product in addition to selling it, the zoning must be changed to "E" from "D," Brownlow said.

Fisher stressed speculation what might happen to the property was not pertinent to the commission's decision. He also said he understood the original plan for 25 Mile Avenue - part of Highway 385 - was for it to be "D" or "E," something the commissioners did not contest.

"My feeling is 385 ought to be 'E' from north to south," Brownlow then commented. A motion by R.W. "Bud"

Eades of Place 4 to table the matter until after the wet-dry election died due to lack of a second. Brownlow then moved commissioners approve the change recommended by the zoning commission. Eades and Place 2 Commissioner Melvin Jayroe were on the losing end of a 3-2 decision.

The other opposed zoning change was a request by Lynn Jones four lots at Fourth Street and Bennett Avenue be converted from "C-Multiple Family" to "D." He said he intended to use the space for offices.

Randall Marshall, who lives on West Fourth Street near the proposed change, gave three reasons why he thought the zoning change should not be granted. The surrounding neighborhood is residential with many Long screening call looked into

May have contributed to death

DALLAS (AP) — An emergency call for an ambulance that took several minutes because a nurse wanted to talk to a dying woman is being investigated by the Dallas Fire Department, officials said.

Television station KDFW broadcast Monday a tape of the emergency call Larry Boff, 40, made Jan. 5 when his stepmother, Lillian Boff, became ill. Mrs. Boff died before paramedics arrived, the station reported.

KDFW said it obtained the tape recording from the Dallas Fire Department under the Texas Open Records Act.

Fire Department Capt. Mike Jones told the station that the department was investigating the case. Registered nurses are hired by the fire department to screen emergency requests for ambulances. Jones told the station that screening calls normally takes about a minute.

Here are transcripts of calls to the emergency number made by Boff and his roommate:

Nurse: "And what is the problem there?"

Boff: "I don't know, if I knew I wouldn't be..."

Nurse: "Sir, would you answer my questions, please? What is the problem?"

Boff: "How old is this person?"

Boff: "She's 60 years old."

Nurse: "Where is she now?"

Boff: "She is in the bedroom right now."

Nurse: "Can I speak with her please?"

Boff: "No, you can't. She seems like she's incoherent."

Nurse: "Why is she incoherent?"

Boff: "How the hell do I know?"

Nurse: "Sir, don't curse me."

Boff: "Well, I don't care. You stupid-questions you're asking. Give me someone who knows what they're doing. Why don't you send an ambulance out here?"

Nurse: "Sir, we only come out on life-threatening emergencies."

Boff: "Well, this is a life-threatening emergency."

Nurse: "Hold on, sir. I'll let you speak with my super...uh, officer."

Supervisor: "Hello?"

Boff: "What do I have to do to get an ambulance out to this house?"

Supervisor: "You have to answer the nurse's questions."

Boff: "All right! What are they, before she dies will you please tell me what the hell you want?"

Supervisor: "Well, I tell you what, if you curse one more time I'm gonna hang up the phone."

Boff: "Well, I'll tell you what, what if this were your mother in there and can't breathe, what would you do?"

Supervisor: "You answer that nurse's questions and we'll get you some help."

Boff: "She's having difficulty in breathing she cannot talk."

Supervisor: "OK, she's back on the air. Don't you cuss her again."

Nurse: "OK, sir, I need to talk to her still."

Boff: "You can't. She is incoherent."

Nurse: "Let me talk to her sir."

Boff (to his roommate): "Please tell her she's incoherent and cannot talk. (to the nurse) She cannot talk at all."

Nurse: "Why?"

Boff: "Well, how am I supposed to know?"

Nurse: "Well give her the phone."

Boff (to his roommate): "Give her the phone in there. Give her the phone. I know she can't talk but they want to talk to her. But she can't talk. (to the nurse) Forget it. I'll call the main hospital around here, all right?"

Nurse: "OK. Bye-Bye."

Boff called the nearby Mesquite Hospital but was told it could not send an ambulance to his house in Dallas, the television station reported. With Mrs. Boff's condition worsening, Boff's roommate, Dennis Fleming placed a second call to the emergency number:

Nurse: "Are you the same man I was talking to earlier?"

Fleming: "No, that was my roommate."

Nurse: "Uh huh. Why can't

I talk to the lady?"

Fleming: "She cannot talk."

Nurse: "Why?"

Fleming: "She's in...she's just out of it. In fact, he's going in there now. He thinks she's dead."

Garcia seeks school spot

Jo Garcia has announced she is running for the District 2 seat on the Hereford Independent School District board of education, for which elections are slated April 7.

Her reason for running, according to a press release, is "the education of young people is so important. My children went to school in Hereford and my grandchildren will soon be in school here. I want to help the school system provide the quality education which all the youth of Hereford need."

The Lubbock native has lived in Hereford for 14 years and now operates a beauty salon. She is chairperson of the advisory committee to Hereford High School's cosmetology program. Other activities include being on the advisory board of Hereford Satellite Training Center and working with the Southwest Voter Registration and Education Act.

Parker gets five years

HOUSTON (AP) — Former San Jacinto County Sheriff James C. "Humpty" Parker, already sentenced to 10 years in prison for federal civil rights violations, has pleaded guilty to a charge he helped operate a "marijuana trap" in his county to ensnare unsuspecting motorists.

Parker, 47, pleaded guilty Monday to one count of violating motorists' civil rights. U.S. District Judge Robert O'Connor gave him a five-year prison term to run concurrently with the earlier sentence.

As part of the plea bargain, Parker agreed to testify against other defendants in cases stemming from the indictment and will drop a planned appeal of his earlier conviction.

Parker, who has been undergoing psychiatric examination at a government facility in Springfield, Mo. since his conviction late last year, will remain free on $150,000 bond for 30-45 days until he is assigned to a federal prison, attorney Thomas P. Taylor said.

"All things considered, it's going to be an end to it (prosecution) for Mr. Parker," Taylor said.

LULAC calls for foreign requirement

AUSTIN (AP) — The League of United Latin American Citizens says all high school students should be required to take foreign language in order to get into college, with Hispanics getting credit for Spanish.

President Johnny Mata of LULAC said Monday that the organization's executive committee, meeting over the weekend in Waco, recommended:

— A seven-member State Board of Education, which would be appointed.

— Extra pay for bilingual teachers, as well as science and math teachers.

— Mandatory bilingual education at the pre-kindergarten level.

— Two years of mandatory foreign language in high school.

Reagan acting to break deadlock

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, in a major arms control move, has decided to sidestep a dispute with the Soviet Union over how many Warsaw Pact troops are based in Central Europe.

Depending on the outcome of U.S. consultations with the NATO allies, the decision could break a deadlock in the 11-year-old talks to lower East-West tensions by cutting ground forces in the area where two world wars were fought.

The NATO allies claim there are at least 160,000 more men in the region than the Soviets and their partners have acknowledged. The dispute has prevented headway on an agreement to reduce the numbers to 700,000 on each side.

Officials said in interviews Monday that Reagan, choosing between two groups within the administration, decided to give the Soviets a chance to provide new data without admitting their previous information was false.

The Soviets and their allies claim they have about 800,000 men in East Germany, Poland and Czechoslovakia. NATO estimates its own forces in West Germany, Luxembourg, the Netherlands and Belgium at 790,000.

Fighting continues despite plan

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — President Amin Gemayel's government tried to implement a cease-fire today after completing a deal with Syria, but police said two people were killed and 16 wounded in clashes along the line between Beirut's Moslem and Christian sectors.

Government officials said the arrangement of a truce between the warring militias was Gemayel's top priority after his cancellation of Lebanon's troop withdrawal pact with Israel. The action was demanded by Syria as part of a deal to halt the Lebanese civil war.

Syrian-backed Druse and Moslem rebel groups have pledged to support a new cease-fire and cooperate in reconciliation talks in Switzerland next week in response to cancellation of the U.S.-mediated pact, signed last May 17.

Gemayel has selected Lausanne, Switzerland, as the site for the reconciliation talks, and officials said 200 rooms at a hotel there have been booked for the conferees and their aides. The conference is aimed at devising a new government power-sharing formula and a national coalition Cabinet with greater power for Moslems.

Judge reserves ruling for today

GRAND CENTRE, Alberta (AP) — An unarmed cruise missile, riding on a U.S. B-52 bomber, took off from North Dakota today for a test run over Canada's tundra and desolate prairies despite anti-nuclear protesters' efforts to stop it.

A federal court judge in Ottawa on Monday said he would rule today on the attempt to block the first test of the cruise missile's guidance system over northwestern Canada. But the scheduled 13-hour-long test flight was under way several hours before the courthouse opened.

The exercise does not call for the bomber to launch the missile or touch down. However, the flight plan calls for it to drop down to 1,000 feet near Primrose Lake Air Weapons Range in Alberta to test transmission of guidance data.

Cruise opponents said they would demonstrate today near Cold Lake military base, which is close to the weapons range.

Official at prison shot to death

LONDON (AP) — An assistant warden at the Maze prison in Northern Ireland was shot and killed outside his Belfast home today in front of his wife and 3-year-old daughter, police said.

The Maze is a sprawling prison outside Belfast where many top guerrilla suspects from feuding Roman Catholic and Protestant extremist groups are jailed.

A police spokesman identified said two gunmen approached on foot and fired several shots at the prison officer. "He died instantly," said the spokesman, who asked not to be identified.

The spokesman declined to identify the victim beyond saying he was one of a number of assistant wardens at the Maze.

The prison was the scene of a hunger strike in 1981 in which 10 Catholic guerrillas died in an unsuccessful bid to be accorded special treatment as political prisoners.

Iran gives envoys tour

By The Associated Press

Iran gave foreign diplomats a tour of a Tehran hospital to view fighters allegedly wounded by Iraqi chemical weapons and is prepared to bring a "criminal case" against Iraqi President Saddam Hussein, Iran's official news agency says.

Iran said it had "sufficient documents" to prove the weapons were supplied by Britain, the official Islamic Republic News Agency reported Monday. It said the documents would be submitted to international organizations.

Britain strongly denied it had supplied Iraq with chemical weapons, and U.S. intelligence sources who asked not to be identified said the Iraqis probably built the weapons themselves.

The use of poisonous gases was banned at the 1925 Geneva Protocol.

In Washington, State Department spokesman John Hughes said U.S. officials had concluded from "available evidence" such as independent news reports and "non-Iranian" sources that Iraq had used chemical weapons in its 3½-year-old war with Iran. He did not elaborate during a briefing Monday and refused to say where the United States thought Iraq had obtained the weapons.

Iraq has not responded to the latest charges of chemical warfare. But it has denied similar accusations in the past.

At the United Nations in New York, Iranian Ambassador Said Rajaie-Khorassani said Monday he would ask for a U.N. investigation of his country's chemical warfare allegations.

IRNA said the 65 diplomats and military attaches who visited Tehran's Labafi Nejad Hospital on Monday included ambassadors from North Korea and East Germany.

I saw a side of Roland and Sandra that has not yet been reported. There was sincere love, compassion, and concern between them and a woman who could give them nothing in return other than her friendship. They had put aside all of their personal and business problems and sought only to serve someone in need.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

A good friend of mine passed away Sunday morning. William Walker, 81, has been in and out of the hospital for several years, never giving up but trusting in the Lord. His wife was with him every step of the way through his battle with a heart attack, cancer and leukemia. They had no children but their home at 437 Barrett became the home of many Hereford youth.

Sunday morning, Roland Saul was called from our Sunday School class because Mr. Walker had passed away and his wife, Ollie Mae, needed Roland and Sandra Saul. Later in the day, I went to pay my respects and Roland and Sandra Saul were still there in the small two bedroom home.

I stayed several hours with them, and when I returned to my home, the Sauls stayed by Mrs. Walker's side to console her. Just this past week, Roland had taken our minister to visit William at his home. I went back to check on her Sunday night and she told me she didn't know what she would have done if it had not been for Roland and Sandra.

Christ officially allowed in holiday

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court's decision allowing Christ to be included in public Christmas observances has caused the widely divergent reaction that befits a ruling reached by the narrowest of margins.

Municipal and religious leaders nationwide swiftly praised or panned the court's 5-4 decision Monday that Pawtucket, R.I. — and communities nationwide — may include nativity scenes in officially sponsored holiday displays.

"It's a victory for religious tolerance," said Richmond, Va., lawyer James Knically for the Coalition of Religious Liberty.

"The nativity scene relates to both the national holiday and to the holy day, and you can't separate the two," exulted former Pawtucket mayor Dennis Lynch, who led the legal fight to restore his city's sponsorship of a nativity scene, often called a creche.

But Myron Hall of the Ecumenical Ministries of Oregon saw danger in the decision. "People are no longer able to distinguish between what is American and what is Christian," he said. "That, from a theological point of view, is not very good."

Rabbi Alexander Schindler, president of the Union of American Hebrew

Congregations, said, "The ruling is a defeat not only for church-state separation but for the very principle of religious freedom in our country, and thus for the cause of religion itself."

The court ruled that Pawtucket did not violate the constitutionally required separation of church and state when it included a scene depicting the Biblical version of Jesus Christ's birth among its annual Christmas decorations.

Two lower courts had struck down the city's 40-year tradition of displaying the creche.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, writing for the court's majority, said nativity scenes serve to celebrate the origin of "a national holiday" as much as they serve as religious symbols.

He said that nativity scenes — at least when included along with depictions of Santa Claus, reindeer, snowmen and the like — are no more unconstitutional than printing "In God We Trust" on U.S. currency, reciting "One Nation Under God" in the Pledge of Allegiance to the American flag, or displaying religious paintings in government museums.

"To forbid the use of this one passive symbol — the creche — would be a stilted over-reaction contrary to our history and to our holdings," Burger added.

Leading the court's dissenters, Justice William J. Brennan said, "Plainly, the city and its leaders understood that the inclusion of the creche in its display would serve the wholly religious purpose of keeping Christ in Christmas."

In other actions Monday, the court:

— Said it will decide whether the CIA may be forced to disclose the names of researchers who participated in a notorious program in the 1950s and 1960s in which unsuspecting people were given hallucinogenic drugs.

— Unanimously reinstated a federal law that treats men worse than women in granting certain Social Security retirement benefits. The justices said the law's gender-based provision is a "narrowly tailored" and socially beneficial one.

— Agreed to decide in a case from Ohio whether industrial polluters may evade the legal duty and costs of cleaning up their dumpsites by declaring bankruptcy.

Marshall further claimed most of the neighborhood's residents were against the proposed change. Many had signed a petition presented to the last meeting of the zoning commission, he said.

Jones, also at the commission gathering, maintained there were "five or six" other local lots where such zoning changes have been made.

Brownlow contended the proposal did not represent spot zoning. Place 1 Commissioner Ed Coplen, however, remarked, "It sure looks residential to me."

Texas 4-H'ers and adult leaders will have an opportunity to participate in the National 4-H Citizenship Short Course and Heritage Tour again this summer. A total of 80 youth and adult leaders can participate in the program.

The tour group will depart from Dallas on June 19. Delegates will tour historical points of interest enroute to Washington, D.C. The Heritage Tour takes four days and will be highlighted with the Citizenship Short Course at the national 4-H Center. There will be four more days of return travel studying American heritage, with the tour ending in Dallas, July 3.

Points of interest to be visited include the Kennedy Center, Arlington National Cemetery, the Capitol and Library of Congress, memorials to great Americans, Mount Vernon, Williamsburg, Monticello and the Museum of Atomic Energy.

The National 4-H Citizenship Short Course and Heritage Tour is designed to supplement the citizenship education and leadership development training young people receive through the home, school, church and other organizations.

Citizenship short courses for 4-H members of senior high school age are conducted at the National 4-H Center to supplement the ongoing citizenship training currently provided by local clubs.

Listening, sharing, receiving, caring and touring are all a part of the two-week personal learning experiences the 4-H'er and leaders will have. Citizenship topics relating to the individual's concept and responsibilities of citizenship are covered in assemblies and mini-courses at the National 4-H Center.

Foundation personnel, summer staff and guest speakers provide a broad spectrum of resources in the program. The nation's Capitol, the many branches of government, and memorials to great Americans enhance the daily citizenship learning experiences.

Citizenship short courses help young citizens in their personal development.

—Realize their potential as effective participants in our democratic system or government.

—Gain leadership training to help implement newly realized abilities, responsibilities and programs back home.

—Develop a better understanding and appreciation of their American heritage.

—Realize a new relationship and responsibility of the individual to self and others.

—Better understand the federal government and their relation to it.

—Gain an insight into the aspects of international citizenship.

4-H'ers and adult leaders interested in participating in the National 4-H Citizenship Short Course and Heritage Tour should contact the county Extension office for further details.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic levels, race, colors, sex, religion or national origin.

National network plans convention

NATIONAL NETWORK—Loretta Schwartz-Nobel, author of "Starving in the Shadow of Plenty" and Pulitzer Prize Winner, will be the keynote speaker at the sixth annual convention of the national Association for Church and Social Action (NCCSA) at the Benchmark Hotel in Memphis, Tenn., March 21-23, according to the Rev. Alex A. Chambers, D.D., of Mt. Olivet Cathedral, Memphis, president of NCCSA.

Dr. Theodore Jemison, head of the National Baptist Convention, also will be a featured speaker during the meeting.

Dr. Chambers heads the seven-year-old NCCSA network which combines existing urban religious and social action agencies into local chapters for more efficient care of the deserving poor unable to provide for themselves.

He said NCCSA has distributed millions of pounds of food, clothing and other useful commodities to America's needy. The network now covers 20 states and will be in all states and territories by the end of the year, the NCCSA president declared today.

Chambers said that the hotel will be convention headquarters but that all religious and welcoming ceremonies will be held at Mt. Olivet Cathedral.

The pastor explained that the NCCSA Washington, D.C. office solicits surplus foods and merchandise in bulk from businessmen and others who earn tax credits. NCCSA then distributes the donated items to local urban chapters based on need.

The network of volunteer workers is non-profit, ecumenical, interracial, intergenerational and non-political. It receives no federal taxpayers' funds. Overhead and national costs are paid by dues paid by local chapters. NCCSA serves thousands of hot meals daily, Chambers said.

"NCCSA does not leave the poor to fend for themselves," Chambers commented. "The local urban coalitions of welfare agencies try to serve every need to every segment of society—from housing and transportation for the elderly poor to training and counseling to disadvantaged youth working from a grassroots, realistic perspective."

The NCCSA national headquarters office is in the Harlem district of Manhattan (New York City). It generates, coordinates and supports the local chapters through research, initial financial assistance, planning and technical help.

Meet Your Neighbor

"There is no way to estimate how many lives we influence every day. Everyone influences others...either for good or bad. We've been blessed by so many, and we just hope that our lives have been a blessing to them," remarked Hester West Moore, who came to Hereford Jan. 11 with her husband, W. Ian Moore.

The couple decided to move to King's Manor Methodist Home after their pastor at First Methodist Church of Floydada recommended the facility.

"We didn't know a soul in the Home when we came here, but the people have made us feel welcome. They have been most kind and hospitable," the Moores agreed.

The residents of King's Manor hosted a reception for the couple on their 31st anniversary this past week.

Mrs. Moore is a native of Floydada, where the couple resided for about the past ten years. Her husband grew up in South Texas.

He started working on the farm while still in school and later moved to Lubbock. She went to Central China as a missionary nurse after graduating from Scarritt College in Nashville, Tenn., serving in that country about eight years and in the Philippines for four more years before returning to Floydada.

The couple was married in 1953 in Abilene and from there moved to Lubbock. Their home was about three blocks from Texas Tech University and they became one of the first families to host international students at Tech and help them feel welcome in a new country.

Mrs. Moore had previously been involved with similar activities in Abilene, entertaining internationals who were attending Hardin Simmons, Abilene Christian College and McMurry College.

"People had been so kind to me while I was overseas, and we tried to be hospitable to those who were temporarily in this country," she explained.

"One time in Abilene we heard a young seminarian interpret the Great Commission in a unique way...as you go into all the world, preach the Gospel rather than just go into all the world... That makes us all responsible, wherever we live. We decided then to do what we could for strangers in our midst," she said.

The Moores became acquainted with internationals not only at Tech, but also through Reece Air Force Base in Lubbock. She used to cook big pots of rice for their Oriental friends and helped interpret for them.

Mrs. Moore taught at Lubbock High School for a short time, and later on, a friend she had made in China contacted her and asked if her teenage daughter could come to the United States and live with the Moores while attending school.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Ian Moore

They agreed and this "adopted daughter" became the first Chinese student to ever attend Lubbock public schools, according to Mrs. Moore. She was in an honors English class, taught local students about Chinese customs, and was piano accompanist for the high school chorus.

After graduation, she attended Texas Tech and later transferred to the University of Wisconsin, where she earned a B.A. and M.A. in speech communications.

"It was a real eye opener to see the U.S. through the eyes of a Chinese teenager," stated Mrs. Moore.

Though the couple never had any children of their own, they kept about 28 foster children in their home through the years, as well as hosting international students and other sojourners.

They had only been married about four years when they began opening their home as foster parents.

"We didn't care what color skin the children had or who their parents were, and sometimes they brought blind or premature children to us since I was an R.N.," said Mrs. Moore.

In Lubbock and also in Floydada, where they moved after retiring, they befriended Vietnamese, Indians, Mexicans, Koreans, Australians, Turkish and many others from foreign lands.

"Whenever we heard of someone in town from another culture, we tried to make them feel welcome and invited them into our home," said Mrs. Moore.

In 1970 the couple retired. She had been a public health nurse at the Lubbock Health Department, and he had been employed at Holden-Dodson Plant Nursery. That day in May was one they will always remember, not just because of their retirement, but because it was on May 11 that the infamous Lubbock tornado struck that city, causing massive destruction.

They remember vividly "the strange stillness in the air and sickly greenish color of the sky, and then the awful sound of the wind" as the tornado approached. "I have no words in English or Chinese to describe it," said Mrs. Moore.

The couple had already purchased tickets to fly to the Orient, but they postponed the trip until June so that they could help with some of the cleanup.

Moore's pickup was used for transportation of supplies and they also helped man first aid stations. Though they had no basement or tornado shelter, the Moores were not hurt and their home suffered little damage though it was hit by a large tree.

Their trip to the Orient was a new experience for Moore, who had never been there.

NARFE Chapter donates to HSC

The local chapter of the National Association of Retired Federal Employees voted to make a contribution to the Hereford Senior Citizens building fund when members met Thursday afternoon in and Mrs. Moore had not returned since her missionary service.

After stopping in Hawaii, they met friends in the Philippines and were given a tour by one of the students they had hosted at Tech. They visited the World's Fair and other scenic spots in Japan, and then stopped in Hong Kong, seeing friends along the way.

"I was surprised how quickly my understanding of Chinese came back to me," stated Mrs. Moore. "Gradually I began to speak the language again."

"We enjoyed the trip very much."

The Moores have found that they can feel at home just about anywhere because, as Mrs. Moore affirmed, "There is no place we can go where we can get beyond God's loving care."

"We are trying to lean more and more on God's love as the days go by. That's what makes the difference in finding a place where one can be happy."

Board finalizes plans for meeting in Happy

Plans were finalized for the spring meeting to be held in Happy Monday, April 2. General co-chairmen are Chela Perez and Alta Mae Hartman of Happy. Program chairman is Lorene Frusto, Deanery vice-president, of Tulia. Credentials chairman is Dolores (Mrs. Tom) Wilhelm of Happy.

The Amarillo Diocesan fall convention, hosted by the Hereford Deanery, will be held at the De Falco Retreat Center, Amarillo, Nov. 7-8.

Supper was provided by Father Eupen, host pastor, and the women of the church.

Ann Landers

Fed up with hiccups

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband gets the hiccups more than anyone I know. It has interfered with our lovemaking several times, and I'm getting fed up.

Can you tell me what causes hiccups and how to get rid of them? Can a person give himself hiccups on purpose? These questions might sound stupid, but your response would mean a great deal to me.—Betty In Greenville, Miss.

DEAR BETTY: According to Jane E. Brody, who writes for The New York Times, severe and persistent hiccups can result from a calcium deficiency, an irritation of the stomach, tumors, gout, ulcers, a brain injury and infections of various kinds. Ninety-nine percent of hiccups need not worry about these things, however almost all hiccups are a normal part of everyday living.

Here's what happens: The phrenic nerves somehow lose their normal rhythm and hiccups result. The home remedies almost always "shock" those nerves into functioning normally.

I have never heard of a person who could bring on hiccups at will, but I am not saying it isn't possible.

A hiccup-stopper that always works for me is taking three sips of water—very slowly—then holding my breath as long as I can. After I do this four or five times the hiccups disappear.

Other remedies include swallowing dry bread or crushed ice, breathing in and out of a paper bag, blocking both ear passages with your thumbs, receiving a sudden thump on the back and ticking the nostrils with a feather. I don't recommend hanging by your ankles and munching on a wax candle—and neither did Jane Brody.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I often have wanted to write to you and somehow never got around to it, but the letter from the mother signed "Terrified In Iowa" has made me take pen in hand.

I, too, am a single parent who is trying to raise two children. Mine are also teenagers but they are daughters, not sons. Last year my younger one (then 15) rebelled because she thought I was too strict and announced she was going to go live with her father (same as "Iowa"). I was heartsick and terrified but called her bluff. She surprised me and made all her own arrangements at school for a transfer. Before I knew it she was gone.

I cried for days, felt like a failure and was truly depressed. She sent a few postcards saying she was OK and nothing more. Just before the school semester ended she phoned and asked if she could have her old room back. Of course, I was thrilled and said, "You bet."

When she walked through the door I thanked God for giving me the courage to let her go and for giving her the good sense to come back. I asked no questions and she volunteered very little information about what went on in her father's home. (He has another wife). My daughter now appreciates what she had here—a caring mother who refused to let her run wild. Please print this letter for all mothers who may be fighting the same battle.—Been There In Mass.

DEAR MASS.: I hope your splendid letter will serve as a guide for single parents who are walking in the shoes you just took off. Thanks for the lesson.

A no-nonsense approach to how to deal with life's most difficult and most rewarding arrangement. Ann Landers' booklet, "Marriage—What To Expect," will prepare you for better or for worse. Send your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611, enclosing 50 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Hereford's boys varsity tennis team captured first place in Friday and Saturday's Eight Team Tennis Tournament. The girls tied for third with Canyon.

Junior Blair Rogers won the boys singles crown defeated senior Donnie Anderson, also from Hereford, 6-2, 6-1.

The duo of junior Don Flood and senior Bart Bartlett placed third in boys doubles action. Senior Greg Reinart and sophomore Chuck Garcia took fifth in the same event.

In girls action, senior Vanessa Sims lost in the singles finals, 7-5, 6-3, to a Lubbock opponent. Junior Robin Hopper placed 13th.

Junior Connie Zinser and her partner, sophomore Natalie Sims, gained a third-place finish in girls double.

Sophomores Kristen Cassells and Penny Tubb were 13th. "I was very pleased with the guys. They pulled through when they had to," varsity coach Ruben Vargas said.

"Once Blair and Donnie got into the finals I felt real good about our chances of winning first place," Vargas said. "The girls played real well also. Vanessa upset the number two seed from Canyon. Zinser and Sims were a little disappointing. They lost a split set, 6-2, 2-6, 7-6, against Estacado. If they would have won that match, they would have got second place" in the girls doubles, Vargas explained.

"All in all, the tournament ran great. Our junior high surprised a lot of people and beat some high school kids."

HHS almost took first in the 400-meter relay but "was disqualified in the preliminary for handing off the baton out

College roundup

Tar Heels selected No. 1

By The Associated Press
North Carolina again was a unanimous choice for No. 1 and Georgetown's convincing victory over Syracuse in the Big East finale vaulted the Hoyas from fourth to second in the next-to-last Associated Press college basketball poll.

For the third straight week, North Carolina received all 62 first-place votes from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters. The Tar Heels had to go to double overtime Saturday before beating Duke 96-83.

Georgetown clinched the regular-season title in the Big East with an 88-71 romp over Syracuse, which was the only team to fall out of the rankings, dropping from No. 16. The only Top Twenty addition is Louisville, which is 18th after beating Memphis State, now 17th, on Saturday and clinching the top-seeded position in the Metro Conference tournament.

Kentucky remained as the third-ranked team, DePaul moved up a notch to No. 4 and Houston fell from second to fifth after falling 73-68 at Arkansas on Sunday, ending the Cougars' 39-game Southwest Conference winning streak.

The Razorbacks were unranked only five weeks ago, but after that they handed North Carolina its only loss in addition to beating Houston. Arkansas, now 24-5, jumped from 12th to eighth in this week's rankings.

The other Top 10 teams are Oklahoma, which remained No. 6; Illinois, which improved three places to No. 7; Texas-El Paso, one place lower at No. 9 and Nevada-Las Vegas, which fell only three places to No. 10 despite losing twice last week.

Revitalized Maryland, after dropping from the poll three weeks ago, has clawed its way back to No. 14. And Lefty Driesell won his 300th game as a Maryland coach, a 74-65 triumph over Virginia.

Little changed among the remaining teams in the second 10. Purdue remained No. 11, Tulsa slipped a notch to No. 12, Washington stayed No. 13 and Maryland jumped from 19th to 14th.

Temple climbed to No. 15, its highest rating of the season. Duke is No. 16, and Wake Forest No. 19. Oregon State stayed at No. 20.

To $40 million contract

Express signs Young

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Never has there been anything like the contract All American quarterback Steve Young now has with the Los Angeles Express of the United States Football League.

The agreement, which involves four seasons of football, will allow Young to earn $40 million over the next 43 years.

Young, who set or tied 13 NCAA passing and total offense records the past two years at Brigham Young, signed the mind-boggling contract Monday that overshadows any agreement ever signed by any athlete in any sport.

Young will receive in excess of $30 million in deferred payments from 1990 to 2027 — when he is 65 — through the income earned in graduated annuities.

"I hope to fix up my car and take my girlfriend out to dinner for the first time in four years," a grinning Young said at a press conference called to announce his signing.

Despite the probable effects of inflation, and the fact that $1 million deposited in a tax-free account today at 12 percent interest would grow to more than $93 million by 2024, the $40 million figure puts Young on a new plateau.

As a yardstick, President Reagan's annual salary is $200,000 a year plus a $50,000 expense account. Muhammad Ali earned approximately $50 million in 20 years of fighting. Donald Trump bought the USFL's New Jersey Generals for $10 million. The Metrodome in Minneapolis was built for $55 million.

The top total money contract in the National Football League now is that of San Diego quarterback Dan Fouts, who is receiving some $6 million over six years. The richest in the National Basketball Association belongs to Los Angeles' Earvin "Magic" Johnson, $25 million for 25 years. In baseball, it's the $21 million being paid over 10 years to the New York Yankees' Dave Winfield. In the National Hockey League, it's the $21 million, 21-year contract owned by Edmonton's Wayne Gretzky.

Young is the latest beneficiary of the bidding competition between the USFL, which in its second season, is seeking to establish credibility by signing stars, and the NFL.

The newer league has grabbed two big 1983 prizes — running back Mike Rozier, the Heisman Trophy winner from Nebraska, and Young, runner-up in the Heisman voting.

Young's contract with Los Angeles, a source told The Associated Press, will be worth $1 million a year for the first four years and includes a $2 1/2 million signing bonus. The complex agreement also includes a $100,000 annual endorsement policy with a savings and loan company in Salt Lake City, and a scholarship policy with BYU worth $183,000.

Young, who said he expects to be ready to play regularly for the Express in "a couple of weeks," insisted that money was not the deciding factor.

A great-great-grandson of Mormon pioneer leader Brigham Young, Steve is a member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, and attributed part of his decision to sign with Los Angeles to a desire to aid

BYU. He said a phone conversation with one of his "heroes," former Dallas Cowboys quarterback Roger Staubach, influenced him to pray and carefully weigh the decision.

Chet Simmons, the USFL Commissioner, issued a statement which said: "To say I'm delighted that a blue chip player like Steve Young is now with the Express and the USFL is an understatement. The signing ... underscores the determination of the Express ownership and management to field a top flight team. It is another major step in the league's effort to provide high quality, exciting and competitive football for its fans."

The largest professional sports contracts, according to unofficial figures:

Steven Young, Los Angeles Express	$40 million, 43 years.
Earvin Johnson, Los Angeles Lakers	$25 million, 25 years.
Dave Winfield, New York Yankees	$21 million, 10 years.
Wayne Gretzky, Edmonton Oilers	$21 million, 21 years.
Larry Bird, Boston Celtics	$15 million, 7 years.
Gary Carter, Montreal Expos	$15 million, 5 years.
Moses Malone, Philadelphia 76ers	$13.2 million, 6 years.
George Foster, New York Mets	$10 million, 5 years.

Against Houston

Lights go out on Gunslingers

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — When half the stadium lights flickered, dimmed and went out, Houston Gambler's head coach Jack Pardee got a little worried. He was even more distracted when his players went to their locker room to wait out the 48-minute power failure and found the door padlocked shut. No problem. They broke in.

"He was playing with the pain until we went into the locker room during the power failure," said San Antonio Coach Gil Steinke. "Then it swelled up and hurt too much."

By that time, most of the 10,023 fans had left, chilled by the 47-degree weather and bored by the 48-minute game delay, which came near the end of the third quarter. Houston, now 1-1, easily ran up a 21-7 halftime lead with the help of Kelly's two short touchdown runs and a 1-yard scoring dive into the end zone by running back Sam Harrell. San Antonio had taken an early 7-0 lead with 7:07 remaining in the first period when Neuheisel threw a 72-yard touchdown bomb to wide receiver Lonell Phea. But it wasn't the Gunslingers' night. Phea's knee was injured during San Antonio's next possession and he was carried from the stadium. He faced surgery today, and could be lost for the season. Houston padded its lead in the third quarter when Harrell celebrated the restoration of the light system.

Valley View Energy Proposed New Project

Valley View Energy Corporation, a Dallas based company, is proposing to construct a power plant that will generate 40 megawatts of electrical energy on a 300 acre site 5 miles northeast of Hereford on the south side of U.S. Highway 60. The site was recently purchased from the City of Hereford. The plant will use cattle manure from area feedlots and from existing stockpiles as fuel. Construction of the facility will employ up to 300 people during the two year construction period and will provide permanent employment for about 80 people once in operation. The construction permit (No. C-9371) is awaiting final approval from the Texas Air Control Board. Additional information is included in the legal notices section. This plant will produce electrical energy, provide new jobs, and reduce the amount of excess manure stockpile around the city.

Golfers finish in eighth place

She was followed by junior Laura Moore's 111. Seniors Julie Vick and Debra Schroeter added scores of 113 and 126 respectively. The girls play their second district round Friday when they travel to Plainview.

Today in History

Today is Tuesday, March 6, the 66th day of 1984. There are 300 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On March 6, 1965, the Defense Department announced that the first contingent of U.S. combat troops — 3,500 Marines — was being sent to fight Communist guerrillas in South Vietnam.

On this date:

In 1475, the Renaissance artist Michelangelo was born in Caprese, Italy. In 1836, the Alamo in San Antonio, Texas, fell to a Mexican force after a 13-day siege; Davy Crockett and the other defenders were killed.

In 1857, the Supreme Court said Dred Scott, a slave, could not sue for his freedom in a federal court.

In 1933, a nationwide bank holiday declared by President Franklin Roosevelt went into effect.

And in 1953, Georgi

Malenkov became Soviet premier following the death of Joseph Stalin.

Ten years ago: President Richard Nixon denied ever approving hush money or clemency for the Watergate defendants.

Five years ago: United Airlines said it was canceling more than 400 flights a week for the rest of the month because of a jet-fuel shortage it traced in large part to the crisis in Iran.

One year ago: The United States Football League kicked off its first season with five games.

Today's Birthdays: TV personality Ed McMahon is 61 years old. Former baseball slugger Willie Stargell is 43. Actor Ben Murphy is 42. Actor Rob Reiner is 39.

Thought for Today: "The ornament of a house is the friends who frequent it." — Ralph Waldo Emerson, American writer (1803-1882).

Panel proposes opening schools

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — If a recommendation by a subcommittee of the Select Committee on Public Education is approved, all Texas children aged 5 would have to go to kindergarten a full day, with the state picking up the tab.

The subcommittee made the unanimous recommendation Monday. The panel also proposed that Texas public schools offer full-day pre-kindergarten programs for 4-year-olds. But the panel said such attendance would be optional.

During the subcommittee's final meeting Monday, the group also approved a long list of other educational recommendations. These subjects will be taken up and debated in Dallas on March 14, when the full committee meets.

From there, the recommendations will be sent to the Legislature for consideration.

Monday's recommendation proposed that all students attend kindergarten at age 5 and that the state pay for the full day.

Under current law, students must enter school by age 7. The state pays only for half-time kindergarten, although the Austin school district already operates a full-day kindergarten program.

The subcommittee balked at requiring mandatory attendance for 4-year-olds.

"I'm willing to establish programs for parents who want them, but it has to be voluntary," said subcommittee chairman Jon Fleming of Fort Worth.

Panel members said they were emphasizing early childhood education because of expert testimony saying it increases a child's chances for success in school.

Committee member and former legislator Tony Bonilla of Corpus Christi argued that many leading educators now believe formal schooling should begin at age 4.

"The comment of the authorities in the field is that a great deal can be accomplished educationally with 4-year-old children," Bonilla said. "If we want to get out of the rut we're in, we need to do what the experts say, that learning can begin as early as age 4."

Two of the seven subcommittee members voted against this proposal, saying age 4 is too early for most children to start school.

Another Formal Opening

A ribbon-cutting ceremony Sunday afternoon formally introduced Hereford citizens to the Satellite Workshop Training Center at 218 N. 25 Mile Ave. An open house was held from 2 to 5 p.m., and the Hereford Hustlers conducted the ribbon-cutting ceremony about 2:30 p.m.

And statesmen

Hatter fits bill for cowboys

HOUSTON (AP) — Cowboy hats are the stuff of which fantasies are made. For a surprisingly few dollars, they can turn you into a Gene Autry, Dale Evans or even a Marlboro Man.

They're also practical. They come in long-wearing and serviceable materials with names such as "stabilized wool" that take rain real well, do a cool number on the sun and put an amazingly effective lid on escaping body heat.

But bottom-line, many cowboy hats fall into that nebulous category of non-essential articles of clothing that somehow, through design or color or crease, make a statement of some sort. Whether it's Ronald Reagan trying to be folksy, John Travolta looking slick or Loretta Lynn doing country, cowboy hats more often than not are aimed at conveying an image.

"They do have a playful quality to them," says Richard Wolf, local designer of cowboy hats for not only the three above, but also Vice President George Bush, former Houston Oilers coach Bum Phillips, singer Kenny Rogers, White House spokesman Larry Speakes, golfer Arnold Palmer, actor Yul Brynner, entertainer Jonathan Winters and, the genuine article himself, Gene Autry.

Those are just some of the SOMETIMES cowboys, too.

A lot of ALWAYS cowboys crowd into Wolf's downtown Gary's Hats and Boots daily. And the way hats sit on their heads, you'd swear they were born wearing them. Not a rhinestone in sight here, just a lot of everyday rancher-type headgear with names like the best-selling model among male customers, "the all-around" moderate back crease, flattish brim and best described as conservative.

Wolf wears one himself, black with a beautiful-but-obtrusive leather, silver and turquoise band.

Cowgirls have a favorite, too, "the tall deep Alpine, or TDA for short," with a gentle crease down the middle, a slight roll to the brim and a decidedly feminine look. They also tend to drift toward the more flamboyant colors: flamingo pink, fire engine red, bright blue. You name it and Wolf's probably got it somewhere among the more than 30 colors he offers.

"Women especially like to get their hats to match their outfits, and some of the men who only wear their hats once a year also pick out the high colors," Wolf says.

That time of year, of course, is when flocks of folks are heading for the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo. It is Wolf's busiest period, representing at least 20 percent of his annual business.

"It's non-stop," he says. "All the once-a-year cowboys come out plus, of course, all our regulars, for new boots or hats or just to freshen up the old ones."

How long Wolf or his staff spends with each customer varies widely, he says, "from five minutes if they know exactly what they want to an hour for a new customer who just can't decide."

The shop is walled on two sides with glass cases crammed with factory-fresh hats of every hue that would have done Hoss Cartwright proud: you know, with a big upside-down capital "U" sitting atop a four-inch dead-level brim.

Wolf and cohorts cut the brim down to whatever size you want and, as for shaping by steam machine, a third wall boasts an amazing array of styles, including "the Canadian bullrider" Wolf picked for Travolta's Urban Cowboy role.

"We wanted his hat to look like something a real cowboy would wear as opposed to a fashionable cowboy," Wolf says.

So does the ever-popular "RCA, or Rodeo, Cowboy Association" style, which covers such well-known heads as Reagan's, Bush's and Phillips'. A subdued beige in color, a practical felt in fabric and somewhat sedate in crease, this hat can only be called traditional.

But no feathers. Wolf says feathers — so "in" a few years ago the shop couldn't keep enough in stock — now are "out."

"We always get a large tourist crowd who come in from up North and still seem to go more for the 'rhinestone cowboy' type of hat," Wolf says. "For the most part, though, customers are now after the authentically western look as opposed to the drugstore cowboy look."

If all this is starting to sound expensive, relax. A nifty hat made of lacquered straw can be yours for a mere $24.95 and even the top-of-the-line 10x Beaver made mainly of beaver and rabbit fur is only $145. Not really high for you to live out your dreams a little.

In a way, that's really what Wolf and company specialize in.

Officers elected at club meeting

New club officers were elected when members of Garden Beautiful Club met Friday morning in the Energas Flame Room with Dorothy Noland presiding in the absence of President Helen Spinks.

Ms. Spinks was elected president; Dottie Darden, first vice-president; Inez Witherspoon, second vice-president; Phing Emmons, third vice-president; Rosalia Gilbreath, secretary; Dorothy Noland, treasurer; and Audine Dettmann, reporter.

Also, during the business session, Ms. Noland presented the treasurer's report.

An informative program was given by Louise Axe on "Container Gardening" with materials used from the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The speaker said that most varieties that do well when planted in the yard or garden will also do well in containers. Some varieties of selected vegetables which are ideally suited for these mini-gardens include tomatoes, peppers, eggplant, squash, leaf lettuce, green onions, green beans, radishes, parsley and cucumbers.

Mrs. Axe also stated that most any type of container can be used for growing vegetable plants, keeping in mind adequate drainage.

She also said that the easiest way to add fertilizer to plants growing in containers is by preparing a nutrient solution and pouring it over the soil mix. Plants should also be watered with the nutrient solution about once a day.

Refreshments were served by hostesses, Lovella Cowser and Bessie Story, to those present. They included Mmes. Axe, Darden, Dettmann, Emmons, Ina Mae Gilbreath, Camellia Jones, Marguerite Newell, Witherspoon and Bertha Hood.

The next program was scheduled for April 6, when the club will tour the Ranching Heritage Center in Lubbock.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Before plastic, what?

DEAR READERS - Plastic knives for cake cutters, molasses and white sugar for brown sugar users and plastic wrap for lovers of elegant flower arrangements are all helpful Pointers today. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY - I use a plastic knife for cutting cakes baked in reusable aluminum foil pans. They don't cut through as a regular knife often does. I have used one of these pans six times and it is not at all marked or cut. — RENEE

DEAR POLLY - You can easily make your own brown sugar as you need it by blending together one-half cup granulated sugar with two tablespoons molasses. This makes approximately one-half cup brown sugar. — BARBARA

DEAR POLLY - When you want to float a rose or any flower in a rose bowl, crush some plastic wrap in your hand and put it in the bowl with the flower before placing the flower on top. This makes the flower look as though it is floating on a bed of crystals. — MRS. C.L.

DEAR POLLY - Dusting rough cedar beams can be a real problem. Instead of dragging my heavy vacuum up the ladder, I use one of those small rechargeable car vacuums.
No more lint from a dustring and no more aching back from hauling up my heavy sweeper.

DEAR POLLY - Here's a recipe for making your own vanilla extract. Cut one vanilla bean into several pieces. Put it in a glass jar with one-third teaspoon sugar and three ounces vodka. Cover the jar tightly and let the vanilla bean steep one month. Shake it every day. It will then be ready to use. To make a larger quantity, you can double or triple the ingredients. — DELORIS

DEAR POLLY - For formulas for a wood paneling wash, furniture polish

Public Notice

To All Interested Persons

You are hereby notified of the opportunity to request a public hearing and/or submit written comment concerning construction permit applications No. C-9371 and No. PSD-TX-617 by Valley View Energy Corporation to construct its electrical generating station near Hereford, Deaf Smith County, Texas. The proposed location is approximately 5 miles northeast of Hereford immediately south of Texas State Highway 60. The proposed facility will emit the following air contaminants in amounts significant enough to require a Prevention of Significant Deterioration (PSD) permit review: sulfur dioxide, nitrogen oxides, carbon monoxide and particulate matter. In addition, the proposed facility will emit: volatile organic compounds. No other pollutant emission increase will result from this facility.

The Executive Director of the Texas Air Control Board has determined that the proposed facility will not violate any state or federal air quality regulations and will not have any significant adverse impact on soils, vegetation or visibility. He, therefore, has made the preliminary determination to issue these permits.

The degree of PSD increment predicted to be consumed by the proposed facility and other increment consuming sources in the area is as follows:

	Averaging Time	Maximum Increment Consumed (ug-m3)	Maximum Allowable Increment (ug-m3)
Sulfur Dioxide	3-hour	81.4	512
	24-hour	16.7	91
	Annual	2.8	20
Particulate Matter	24-hour	2.8	37
	Annual	1.2	19

A copy of the administrative record, including all materials submitted by the applicant and additional information, are available at the office of Mr. Gerald Hudson, P.E., Regional Director, Texas Air Control Board Region 2, at 5302 South Avenue Q, Lubbock, Texas 79412, telephone number (806) 744-0090, and at the Texas Air Control Board at 6330 Highway 290
East, Austin, Texas 78723. Interested parties may inspect these materials during regular business hours and submit written comments and/or request for hearing to the Executive Director of the Texas Air Control Board. Requests for hearing must be in writing and shall state the nature of the issues proposed to be raised in the hearing. Comments should be limited to the air pollution aspects of the proposed project and should not concern land use aspects which are beyond the jurisdiction of the Texas Air Control Board. All air pollution related comments received in writing by April 16, 1984, will be considered by the Board in making its final decision on these applications. All comments will be available for public inspection at the Texas Air Control Board Office in Austin.

Hart looks for Vermont victory

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer

Gary Hart is hoping to extend his string of victories today in Vermont's non-binding presidential primary while Walter Mondale, declaring
"We are fighting back," heads South in search of the comeback he urgently needs.

No delegates are at stake in the Vermont voting, which takes place at town meetings across the state.

"We expect to do as well there as we have in other New England states," said Hart aide William Shore.

A win for Hart would give him a clean sweep of northeastern New England and put him in a strong position for the March 13 "Super Tuesday" of primaries and caucuses, after stunning Mondale in the New Hampshire primary last week and repeating his feat
Sunday in the Maine caucuses.

A loss for Mondale, coupled with an expected Hart triumph this Saturday in Wyoming, would mean that the former vice president and one-time Democratic front-runner goes into next week's big, crucial round of delegate-selection contests with four straight losses.

Mondale kept up his new offensive against Hart on Monday, saying the two-term Colorado senator lacks compassion and that Hart's plan for a $10 per barrel tax on oil would be "a dagger in the heart of the American economy."

Mondale hit Hart on a new issue, saying he opposes proposed "access charges" that would be levied on telephones for the right to use long-distance lines and accusing Hart of failing to oppose them.

He also took on Hart's main theme of new leadership and new ideas for the future. "It's a question of who has that vision of the future and who has the skill and the guts, the guts to lead us there," Mondale said in Boston.

Mondale attributed his losses to Hart's attacks on him as representing old values and ideas.

Mondale campaigned in New Jersey Monday night before flying today to Orlando and Tampa, Fla., and then to Atlanta.

Hart, Mondale, Ohio Sen.
John Glenn and the Rev.
Jesse Jackson all focused on the South, where Alabama, Georgia and Florida all hold primaries next Tuesday.

Hart, taking up Mondale's challenge to face him in the southern primaries, began a three-day campaign swing through the region. His campaign has been boosted not only by the victories in New Hampshire and Maine, but by their spoils — campaign aides said the senator has been receiving $25,000 to $30,000 a day in contributions since New Hampshire.

Jackson headed to Michigan today after campaigning in Arkansas and Kentucky, states with mid-March caucuses where he blasted President Reagan for supporting a constitutional amendment allowing school prayer.

"Prayer in the schools is a non-issue to a religious person," Jackson said. "If you're really serious about praying, you can pray anywhere. God is not hard to hear."

Glenn, meanwhile, was spending his third straight day in Alabama before heading to Florida. In Birmingham, Glenn referred to Mondale's victory in the Iowa caucuses and Hart's later successes, saying, "The people of the South are not going to be stampeded by what's happened up North."

Glenn said he is "the only real moderate left" among the Democratic contenders.

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Sex after surgery

DEAR DR. LAMB - Four years ago I had a prostate gland operation. After surgery, sex was possible but the climax was disappointing.

Now at 72, I'm in good health, sex has improved and my prostate has not enlarged. My erections also have improved. The one remaining problem, however, is the orgasm. I have them, but I don't always recognize them as such, except for the release of tensions and the need to urinate afterward.

My wife is three years younger and satisfied with our sex life.

Evidently each man reacts differently after prostate surgery. I'm very interested in the sexual reactions of other men who have had this operation. Men my age don't seem to talk much about their sex lives, but sex has always been important to me.

DEAR READER - I included your letter in this column to encourage and reassure other men who have prostate surgery that in time, after the more common operation (transurethral resection), normal sexual activity can be resumed.

There is a change in the way ejaculation occurs. The sphincter at the outlet of the bladder, attached to the prostate gland, often is damaged. There is no way the center of the prostate gland can be reached outside without damaging this area. As a result, during an orgasm the ejaculate moves back into the bladder because the sphincter is open. The medical term for this is retrograde ejaculation. It occurs in almost all men who have had a prostate gland operation.

You will be interested in reading the Health Letter 15-6, Prostate Gland Problems, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio
City Station, New York, NY 10019.

I'm glad you have had a strong recovery and hope you continue to be in good health and enjoy your sex life.

SECLUDED VACATION HIDEAWAY

HOUSE DESIGN by Larry Farnsworth

*A-LINE CHARM *GREAT ROOM CONCEPT FOR SPACIOUSNESS *BEDROOMS AND BATHS, UP-STAIRS AND DOWN *BEDROOM BALCONY

Model C865--Our designers used every trick in the book when they created this plan. Into its 865 square feet of living area they have packed the sort of amenities you would expect to find in a house twice this size. The result--a vacation style home comfortable enough for year 'round good living.

Just look at the attractive A-line exterior with that width-of-the-house porch and balcony, just made for enjoying breathtaking views. Then step inside and see all the goodies included in this plan.

The open living room-dining area stretches across the entire front of the house and the kitchen similarly is open to the dining room, giving you a Great Room which is truly great, both for family togetherness and for entertaining, too.

An optional fireplace can be included to add to the living room's charm and the parallel kitchen arrangement offers the cook of the family all the work and storage space required to turn out excellent fare without having to feel separated from the rest of the family while mealtime preparations are underway. There is even a walk-in pantry, cleverly utilizing the under-the-stairs area.

In the center of the house is a conveniently located laundry alcove, just adjacent to the downstairs bath and across the hallway from the first floor bedroom. Note, too, how roomy that bedroom is and see its full wall of closet space.

Upstairs are two more bedrooms, both opening onto that balcony with a view and one of them large enough to serve as a dormitory or be divided with a folding wall to create two rooms out of one. There is a bath on this floor, too, and two depth-of-the-house storage closets under the eaves.

For living comfortably while enjoying nature's beauty, this delightful model is one of the best.

Model C865 has an optional basement available too.

Call 1(800)634-3401 if interested in House Plans...or send a post card with name, address and phone number to Farnsworth, P.O. Box 1841, Las Vegas, Nevada 89125.
