Herd Scrimmages Tonight

CLOVIS — The highly-touted Hereford Whitefaces will get a good indication of just how they are when they tangle with the Clovis Wildcats in an 8:30 p.m. (CDT) scrimmage here tonight.

The 'Faces, picked by many to be the big kid on the block in District 4-5A this year, will find themselves nose-to-nose with the perennial New Mexico powerhouse 'Cats, a team which had an 11-2 record in 1980 before falling to Albuquerque Eldorado 14-11 in the state 4A finals.

Hereford head coach Don Cumpton is relying on a full stable of seasoned offensive backs and improved overall team speed to head the Whiteface charge to the loop throneroom this year after an 8-2 record last year, one game shy of district champ Plainview, which fell 10-9 to Amarillo High in bi-district play a year ago.

Cumpton said. "We've got a whole lot of experience there, and we're going to try to take advantage of it."

And, while the Whitefaces will be smaller this year, especially in the line which lost behemoths John Josseland and Burt Wofford to graduation last year, Cumpton feels that a big gain in speed will help offset those woes for the Herd.

"Our offensive line averages 6-0, 195, which is not real big, but not real small either," Cumpton said. "But, we're quicker this year, which should help us."

In the Wildcats, Hereford will be facing a team which has been no stranger to the playoffs under coach Eric Roanhaus. The 'Cats have three offensive and three defensive starters back, and are counting on nine other lettermen to help fill the gaps this year.

Leading the Wildcats is honorable-mention all-state quarterback Joe Newton (5-9, 175, Sr.), who will be aiming aerials at the other two returnning offensive starters, split end Todd Crawford, (5-9, 160, Sr.) and flanker Jeff Burch (6-1, 180, Sr.)

Newton carried the ball 108 times last season for 731 yards, a 6.4 average. He also passed for 209 yards and two touchdowns.

Defensive veterans for Clovis include linebacker Mark Gongaward and ends Paul Anderson (6-1, 188, Sr.) and Brad Rose (6-4, 198, Sr.).

Anderson also doubles as a fullback in the Wildcats' Veer offense.

Clovis opens the '81 season in Amarillo against pre-season District 3-5A favorite Palo Duro a week from tonight. The Whitefaces square off against Pampa in Pampa eight days from now as they seek to avenge a 20-7 loss to the Harvesters a year ago.

The Hereford junior varsity and sophomore teams are also involved in scrimmage action today, facing squads from Amarillo High this afternoon.

The Whiteface Booster Club will show highlights of the Hereford - Clovis scrimmage at their meeting next Tuesday night. The meeting begins at 7:30 p.m. in the HHS auditorium.

Defense Spending Cut Likely Say Officials

By MAUREEN SANTINI
Associated Press Writer
SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — President Reagan is likely to cut his planned increase in defense spending at least slightly in the push to balance the federal budget by 1984, top administration officials say.

Reagan's budget and defense advisers, key figures in an internal administration debate on whether to cut at all, now are trying to decide just how much the Pentagon should give up.

Budget director David A. Stockman denied Wednesday he has proposed cutting as much as $20 billion to $40 billion from the defense budget in 1983 and 1984, and other administration sources were quoted as saying the final figure might be only a fraction of that.

Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger said the Pentagon can rearm America with less money than it has sought, if essential to overall economic goals.

White House counselor Edwin Meese III, who met with Stockman and Weinberger for 4½ hours Wednesday, said afterward there isn't enough money to pay for all the defense proposals, "so you have to make some decisions among them."

Whatever they decide to cut, Meese reiterated that new strategic weapons systems won't be affected.

Weinberger met later Wednesday with Reagan at the president's mountaintop ranch and gave him new options on the MX missile — reportedly either a smaller version of the land-based system approved by Jimmy Carter or a delay in the system altogether for at least the next few years. Meese, who also attended that meeting, said Reagan's decision is two to four weeks away.

At any rate, Meese said, the MX is not expected to have any serious impact on the 1983 and 1984 defense budgets, which won't be resolved until after Reagan returns to Washington on Sept. 3.

Both Weinberger and Meese said it may not be necessary to meet Reagan's goal of increasing military spending 7 percent a year after adjusting for inflation.

Following Missile Firing

Administration Withholds Response on Incident

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration withheld a response today to North Korea's apparent firing of a surface-to-air missile in the vicinity of a high-altitude U.S. spy plane.

President Reagan was described as "concerned" about Wednesday's incident, which came a week after U.S. jets shot down two attacking Libyan planes during Navy maneuvers in disputed Mediterranean waters off the coast of Libya.

In Seoul, the U.N. military command called today for a meeting of the Military Armistice Command that oversees the truce between North and South Korea. It was not known, however, if the missile incident would be the subject.

The missile missed by miles, and the Reagan administration stopped short of flatly accusing the North Koreans of shooting at the Air Force SR-71 "Blackbird" reconnaissance plane.

The Pentagon and the State Department were evaluating the circumstances to determine how the United States should respond.

In Santa Barbara, Calif., deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes said "the missile was so far away we are still treating it as an apparent incident." He did not elaborate.

Details of the incident were sketchy a day later. It remained unclear early today whether the missile was aimed at the U.S. plane and exactly where it originated, government sources said.

The Pentagon said the plane was on a "routine mission" in South Korean and international air space when the crew "reported sighting a contrail and subsequent air burst several miles distant."

There were no injuries to American crewmen, and the plane landed safely, officials said.

"If a missile was launched, it could have originated from any one of a number of missile sites in North Korea," the Pentagon statement said. State Department spokesman Rush Taylor issued a similarly worded statement that substituted the words "north of the demilitarized zone" for "in North Korea."

Taylor said the possibly of a U.S. response was "currently being evaluated."

The Pentagon refused to say how near the plane was to North Korea or to the demilitarized zone. It said there have been no similar incidents in the past and that no other aircraft was involved.

Speakes, asked in Santa Barbara whether the plane had been spying on North Korea, replied, "We don't comment on that."

U.N. Military Command Calling For Truce Meeting at Panmunjom

By EDWIN Q. WHITE
Associated Press Writer
SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — The U.N. military command called today for a meeting of the Military Armistice Command that oversees the truce between North and South Korea. As usual, no reason was given, and it was not known if the subject would be the reported firing of a missile from North Korea in the vicinity of an American spy plane.

The command said only that North Korea had not yet replied to the request for a meeting Saturday at Panmunjom, the truce village in the demilitarized zone dividing South and North Korea.

A Pentagon announcement in Washington said a missile apparently launched from North Korea exploded in the vicinity of a U.S. Air Force reconnaissance plane Wednesday. It said the missile missed the high-altitude jet by several miles.

The South Korean Defense Ministry, meanwhile, denounced what it called an attack on the American plane as a serious military provocation.

The report from Washington said the SR-71 aircraft, known as the "Blackbird," was flying a routine mission in South Korean and international air space. It said the incident posed no threat to the plane, which later landed safely.

While not directly accusing the North Koreans of firing at the plane, the Pentagon said that if a missile was launched it could have come from any of a number of launching sites in North Korea.

Activities of the SR-71 aircraft normally are not acknowledged publicly here. The Washington account said it was known that the plane has been used in past years to (See MEETING, Page 2)

Japanese Drug May Stem Heart Disease

By DANIEL Q. HANEY
Associated Press Writer

BOSTON (AP) — High levels of cholesterol in the blood, which doctors say contribute to the deaths of hundreds of thousands of Americans yearly, may someday be controlled with a new medicine developed in Japan, researchers report.

So far, the experimental drug, called compactin, has been successfully tested on people who have an inherited disorder that produces high blood cholesterol and leads to premature heart disease.

Even though much more research remains to be done, doctors say the medicine may someday be useful for the millions of otherwise healthy people who have too much cholesterol in their blood.

Two experts who reviewed the Japanese research, said the discovery of the new drug "assumes great importance."

The study was directed by Dr. Hiroshi Mabuchi at Kanazawa University School of Medicine in Japan and published in today's New England Journal of Medicine.

The doctors gave compactin to seven people with a condition called hypercholesterolemia. Such victims often have two or three times the usual levels of cholesterol in their blood. They are five times more likely than normal to have heart disease, which often appears when they are in their 40s.

The medicine lowered their blood levels of a form of cholesterol called low-density lipoprotein, or LDL, by 29 percent.

LDL causes fatty deposits on the blood vessels and makes them narrow and clog. This condition, called hardening of the arteries or atherosclerosis, contributes directly to the heart attacks and strokes that kill 800,000 Americans each year.

In an accompanying editorial, Drs. Michael S. Brown and Joseph L. Goldstein of the University of Texas Health Science Center wrote that compactin may help more than those with the genetic defect.

The drug, they said, "offers hope to the large number of patients whose plasma LDL levels are in the upper range for the population and who are predisposed to atherosclerosis yet do not (See DRUG, Page 2)

Incorrect Command Frees Voyager's Stuck Camera

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — An electronic swat sent from a billion miles away freed the stuck camera platform on Voyager 2, and scientists were trying to find out today if the ship can get back to the business of looking at distant worlds.

A weary flight engineer accidentally sent an incorrect computer command to Voyager late Wednesday, telling it to move its jammed platform with a forward rotation 10 times greater than previous orders designed to free the platform. The mistake did the trick, freeing a vital camera platform that had been stuck for nearly a day.

"We are not permanently stuck," project manager Esker Davis said with relief late Wednesday. "I feel better."

Davis said Voyager's two exploratory cameras and three other instruments still needed to be checked out and are not considered operational yet. He said he couldn't predict when the 225-pound package mounted on a 7½-foot boom might be put back to work.

The camera platform had been unable to move from side to side, although it could still swivel up and down. The devices on the platform were working well; they just couldn't be aimed at what scientists wanted to see.

Seven of Voyager's 11 scientific instruments continued to perform exactly as planned, Davis said.

Troubleshooters were still analyzing what happened on the far side of Saturn at 11:30 p.m. PDT Tuesday to jam the crucial camera-aiming system. And they weren't sure the problem was permanently solved.

Voyager 2, meanwhile, was racing away from its spectacular tour of Saturn's churning clouds, glittering rings and icy moons.

The next leg of a journey that began four years ago takes it across another 1.7 billion miles of space for a visit to Uranus in 1986 and a dash past Neptune in 1989.

While engineers worked on the jammed platform Wednesday, scientists at Jet Propulsion Laboratory were reveling in the new information and pictures of Saturn relayed to them by Voyager 2.

Photography team leader Brad Smith described the close approach with Saturn as "something like roughly 99 percent successful." He said the ship accomplished most of its crucial chores before the malfunction left its cameras staring uselessly at empty space.

A new puzzle for scientists was a strangely kinky ring apparently discovered by yet another lucky accident moments before the camera problems began and possibly even related to them.

The narrow ring, which seems creased and kinked like a bit of wire that's been unwound after being wadded up, was spotted as Voyager passed behind Saturn, said scientist Richard Terrile.

The narrow ring was discovered in the Encke Division, a gap in the bright A-ring, even though "we didn't have any pictures of the Encke Division scheduled."

Storm Drops .38 Inch Here

Another thunderstorm rumbled across Deaf Smith County early this morning and spot checks around the area showed moisture recordings ranging from two-tenths to seven-tenths of an inch.

At KPAN Radio, the official weather station, a reading of .38 was reported. That brought the monthly total to 7.21 inches, far above the August average of 2.33 inches.

Reports of .7 of an inch were received from near Walcott, Easter, and just west of Dawn. One farmer near Dawn also reported .6 of an inch. Shirley Garrison, near Easter, recorded .7, as did John Frank Martin in the Walcott area.

Clint Homfeld, 47 miles northwest of Hereford, measured .4 of an inch, and two reports in the Simms area showed .3 of an inch. H.L. Hershey, 13 miles northeast of town, reported just .2 of an inch.

The forecast for today and tonight was for a 20 percent chance of more rain. All the moisture this month has some cotton farmers concerned about their crops and wheat planting may be delayed, but otherwise the moisture is apparently great (See RAIN, Page 2)

Bangladesh Wants U.N. Presidency

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Bangladesh, an impoverished Asian nation recently beset by political violence, is waging a vigorous campaign for the presidency of the U.N. General Assembly.

Bangladeshi diplomats view the largely ceremonial post as a means of undoing some of the damage done to their country's image abroad by the assassination last May of President Ziaur Rahman.

It would also enhance the prestige at home of Acting President Abdus Sattar, who succeeded Rahman and is the leading candidate in a presidential election in October.

The 36th session of the General Assembly convenes on Sept. 15, and the Bangladeshis believe their ambassador to the United Nations, Khwaja Mohammed Kaiser, has a good chance of clinching the presidency on the first ballot.

The campaign to succeed Baron Ruediger von Wechmar of West Germany is shaping up as a three-man race with Kaiser challenged by veteran Iraqi diplomat Ismat Kittani and Am- (See PUSH, Page 2)

HISD Figures Broken Down

Enrollment in the Hereford Independent School District was 4,920 students on Tuesday, and this was a loss of 151 students from the same day a year ago.

Enrollment statistics released by the school administrative office reveal that enrollment was up in elementary schools, but only by 11 students. All the losses were in junior high, high school, kindergarten and special education.

Enrollment of the district's six elementary schools showed a total of 2,298, compared to 2,285 a year ago. Northwest (grades 1-3) leads the way larger, but the sophomore class was smaller.

West Central (4-6) with 413; Bluebonnet (4-6) with 382; Aikman (1-3) with 367; Shirley (4-6) with 357; and Tierra Blanca (1-3) with 324.

Average pupils - to - teacher ration was 23.67 for the entire elementary system. Actual numbers ranged from about 21 to 28 students per classroom.

La Plata Junior High had 579 students on Tuesday, and Stanton tabbed 568. Junior high enrollment was down 88 from a year ago.

High school enrollment was 1,958 - down 58 from a year ago. The senior class was 453 pupils, followed by

Armco Announces $671 Million In Facilities

HOUSTON (AP) — Armco plans to invest $671 million to expand its Ambridge, Pa. plant and open new oil pipe facilities in Ashland, Ky. and Gulfport, Miss., company officials announced Wednesday.

The facilities would be operating by the end of 1984, according to Chief Executive Officer Harry Holiday. He said the project reflects Armco's belief that increased oil and natural gas exploration will up the demand for seamless pipe.

"It is already booming, as we all know," Holiday said. "The demand already exceeds the capability of existing American mills. Imports are making the difference between supply and demand."

"The seamless tubular market is far too good, and far too important for America's energy independence, for us to surrender any bigger chunk of it to foreign suppliers," he said.

The new facilities will double Armco's seamless pipe producing capacity, with an additional 450,000 annually, Holiday said. The Ambridge plant currently manufactures 300,000 tons of pipe a year, he said.

Man Gets Brief Term, Probation In Robbery

HOUSTON (AP) — A Louisiana man who forced a Freeport couple to drive to Houston and withdraw $50,000 from a bank faced a nine month jail term and 10 years probation today.

Sterling J. Robichaux, 39, was given the sentence Wednesday by State District Judge Sam Robertson after he pleaded guilty to charges of aggravated robbery and false imprisonment.

Defense attorney Roy Beene said his client received a sentence consistent with his spotless previous record and psychiatrists' statements that he was suffering drug-induced psychosis at the time of the crime.

Police Strategic Weapons and Tactics team members broke up the incident in front of a downtown Houston bank.

Judge Robertson sentenced Robichaux by deferred adjudication, meaning that if he successfully completes probation, he will have no record of the charges. If he is unsuccessful, he could be sentenced to 99 years in prison.

G.B. Maness, 56, and his wife, Maria, 52, said they did not believe the defense's claim that Robichaux was under the influence of prescription diet pills when the incident occurred.

"We were so shook up we felt like we didn't want to have any more to do with him," Maness said.

ERA Missionaries Knocking On Mormons' Doors in Utah

By MICHAEL WHITE
Associated Press Writer
SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — "Missionaries" for the Equal Rights Amendment are knocking on doors of Mormon

homes in Utah, trying to spread a gospel of equality in a state considered a stronghold of opposition to women's rights.

The project is aimed specifically at changing Mormon minds. It's even modeled on the Mormon practice of sending young missionaries throughout the world seeking converts.

"A lot of them will agree with us on every point," said Becky Fenstermaker, coordinator of the National Organization for Women's ERA Missionary Project, "but when it comes down to the ERA, we get, 'No. I will follow the prophet.'"

The "prophet" is Spencer W. Kimball, president of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. Ms. Fenstermaker, herself a Mormon, said that because faithful Mormons so revere Kimball, many support the official church stand against ratification of the ERA. Kimball has said passage of the proposed constitutional amendment would threaten family values.

"Utah women need to learn what the women's movement is all about, so part of the effort is educational," said Sonia Johnson, a feminist Mormon who was excommunicated for criticizing church leaders for their attitudes on women's rights. She is national chairwoman of Mormons for ERA, a group that coordinates with NOW efforts in Utah.

"It's to keep drawing national attention to the fact that Utah is impossible to ratify because of the influence of the Mormon Church," she said.

The deadline for passage of the ERA — which would ban discrimination based on sex — is June 30, 1982. Thirty-five of the required 38 states have ratified it, but five have since rescinded ratification. The U.S. Justice Department has said it's up to Congress to whether the rescissions are legal.

Politically, the ERA is dead in Utah. The Utah Legislature voted down ratification in 1973 and in 1975. And the 1979 Legislature overwhelmingly passed a resolution encouraging future lawmakers never to consider it again.

But it remains an emotionally charged religious issue for most Mormons, who consider the church's opposition a call to arms. Mormons have worked against ratification of the ERA in Virginia, Florida and Missouri. And ERA proponents claim hundreds of thousands of Mormon dollars have been funneled into the lobbying effort.

The church takes the stand that it merely encourages members who are willing to organize against the amendment.

Each day, 13 missionaries, volunteers from around the country who usually serve two-week stints, go into neighborhoods of Salt Lake City and its suburbs. They distribute literature and seek signatures for a petition asking President Reagan to support the ERA.

Mormons are also asked to sign a postcard that will be sent to Kimball, asking him to reverse the church's opposition.

Ms. Fenstermaker said about 30 percent of those contacted sign the petition and about 17 percent sign postcards to Kimball.

Church spokesman Jerry Cahill said the postcard campaign won't change the official church position on the ERA, but he said members are free to support the proposed amendment if they wish.

"Church membership has neither been threatened nor denied because of agreement with the proposed amendment," he said. "There is a fundamental difference between speaking in favor of the ERA on the basis of its merits on the one hand, and on the other of ridiculing the church and to harm the institution and frustrate its work."

Ms. Fenstermaker said the reaction to ERA missionaries is usually polite but negative. Sometimes, she said, the missionaries inspire anger and abuse.

During a parade last month celebrating the Mormons' arrival in Utah, some spectators heckled, threw fruit and spat on ERA missionaries, said Peggy Norman, an Oregon teacher and an ERA missionary.

Some people used cigarettes to pop the balloons the ERA missionaries were distributing, she said.

"People seemed to be just unable to control their anger. It wasn't a pleasant experience," Ms. Norman said. "...I think it was the first time I saw the mask of politeness slip."

Despite the parade incident, Ms. Fenstermaker said, morale among the ERA missionaries remains high. She said she has more volunteers than she can accept — since the effort began last fall, 102 people have served, some of them more than once.

The missionary force is limited to 13 at a time only because that's as many as Ms. Fenstermaker can fit in her office. Every two weeks, a new group of 13 arrives. They spend their first two days in Utah reviewing the complexities of the ERA and studying ways to persuade Mormons to accept the amendment.

NOW leaders, she said, have been pleased with the results, and new groups are being organized to lobby in Idaho, Hawaii and possibly California.

"Sometimes it can be kind of disappointing for the missionaries because you may have a real strong Mormon neighborhood and you have to work like crazy to get any kind of positive response," Ms. Fenstermaker said.

"But they seem to go home feeling they have made a small dent. It will take a lot of small dents, but we feel we can do it."

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

I would like to compliment the Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Department for the courtesy shown me in my time of need. Traveling to Friona, I had car trouble a few miles west of Hereford. Being midnight and a lady alone, I began to panic as the situation was quite fearsome. Some travelers headed toward Clovis were kind enough to stop and offer their help. They turned back toward Hereford and there contacted the sheriff's department. Soon help arrived and I must say I was treated with all respect and kindness. My only regret is that I failed to ask the names of the officers; but I do offer my heartfelt thanks and appreciation.

Sincerely,
Marilyn McDonald

State Mental Hospital Chiefs Named

AUSTIN — Appointment of superintendents for three state mental hospitals was approved today by the Texas Board of Mental Health and Mental Retardation.

They are Albert Keene Smith of Edwardsville, Ill., to Big Spring State Hospital; Jimmie Russell Clemons,

M.D., deputy commissioner for mental health services, Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation, to Terrell State Hospital, and Richard Marvin Bruner, assistant superintendent of Wichita Falls State Hospital to the superintendency of that facility.

Smith and Bruner hold master's degrees in hospital administration. They are the first nonmedical hospital administrators to be named to head a Texas state mental hospital.

A new law was adopted by the Texas legislature two years ago to permit persons other than licensed physicians to serve as state mental hospital superintendents. The Big Spring and Wichita Falls vacancies are the first that permit the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation to utilize provisions of the new statute.

The 57-year-old Smith currently is serving as administrator of the Alton, Ill., Mental Health Center, a facility of the Illinois Department of Mental Health and Developmental Disabilities. He is expected to take over his new duties Oct. 15.

Wallace Hunter, M.D., has been serving as acting superintendent of Big Spring State Hospital since the resignation of Grace Renee Ferguson, M.D., several months ago.

Bruner has been assistant superintendent for administration of Wichita Falls State Hospital since May 1976, soon after receiving his master's degree in hospital administration from Trinity University, San Antonio. He will succeed Mark Huff, Sr., M.D., who retires Aug. 31.

Dr. Clemons was the clinical director at Terrell State Hospital for three years before becoming deputy commissioner for mental health services in 1978. He succeeds Luis M. Cowley, M.D., who retired as superintendent of the facility last May.

Meese suggested, as deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes had a day earlier, that the defense spending increase may fall short of 7 percent.

"Seven percent was only a rough target for planning purposes," he said. "It was never an absolute figure."

Administration sources in Washington said some reduction in the growth of defense spending is needed for Reagan to balance the budget by 1984.

Cholesterol is an essential chemical that is used to make cell membranes and hormones. However, it is dangerous when too much circulates in the blood.

Some experts believe that high blood cholesterol is aggravated by eating foods such as meat and cream that are high in fat and cholesterol. However, the body produces far more cholesterol naturally than is taken in by eating.

The Texas doctors say it may not be necessary for people to give up their cholesterol-rich food if compactin proves to be effective.

"Inhibition of cholesterol synthesis with compactin... should stimulate their production of LDL receptors and reduce their LDL levels despite continued consumption of a diet rich in cholesterol," they wrote.

The doctors believe that compactin inhibits the body's production of cholesterol. And at the same time, it increases the numbers of LDL receptors — molecules that transport the remaining cholesterol into the cells.

"The president was concerned about it obviously," said Meese, who attended the meeting with Weinberger. "But there weren't really enough details yet from the Defense Department. They were still evaluating the situation."

Asked if the United States considered the incident a provocation and was thinking about responding, Meese said, "I think that's up to the Defense Department to evaluate the situation, which they are doing."

"No one was hurt and our plane was not endangered," Meese said.

bassador Tommy Koh of Singapore.

Syrian Foreign Minister Abdul Halim Khaddam also is mentioned but is not considered among the front-runners.

Unless a deal is struck in the diplomatic equivalent of the "smoke-filled back room," the assembly will be faced with its first contested presidential election in 19 years.

The presidency is Asia's this year under a system of rotating it among the regions of the world each year. The regional groups usually decide in advance on a single candidate. But that isn't happening this year.

Both Koh and Kaiser are reported acceptable to the United States. It is hoping that one of them drops out of the race to prevent the chair going to Iraq, a country involved in a shooting war — with Iran — and a hardline opponent of Washington's Israeli allies.

Kaiser's supporters expect Koh to withdraw before the assembly session begins.

They reason that the Singapore diplomat already has his hands full as president of the U.N. Law of the Sea Conference, which is attempting to wind up seven years of negotiations on an international convention governing the oceans and deep seabed.

But assembly sources say the articulate, energetic 43-year-old Koh continues to wage a vigorous campaign.

Kaiser, low-keyed and 63, has been Bangladesh's chief U.N. delegate since 1976. Before his country won its independence in 1971, he was Pakistan's consul-general in New York and deputy chief of mission at the Pakistani embassy in Washington.

The handsome, debonair Kittani, 52, is a former assistant secretary-general of the United Nations and a graduate of Knox College, Galesburg, Ill. He now is an undersecretary in the Iraqi Foreign Ministry. He would be the first Middle Eastern Arab to hold the assembly presidency since Charles Malik of Lebanon in 1958.

Mine Closing May Wreck Idaho City

KELLOGG, Idaho (AP) — Idaho's panhandle has been devastated by news that the state's largest mine is shutting down, threatening up to 10,000 jobs and foreshadowing economic disaster for this lively mining town.

Gulf Chemical & Resource Co. of Houston, owner of the century-old lead mine, said Tuesday the Bunker Hill Mining Co. — the second largest industrial employer in the state — had lost $8 million in the first half of 1981 and depressed prices for lead made the foreseeable future bleak. The mine is to be shut by the end of the year.

"It kills Kellogg," said Ben Harrison, secretary of the Spokane Stock Exchange in Spokane, Wash., where Bunker Hill stock is traded. "Bunker Hill is Kellogg. If they shut it down, that's it."

said Wendell Brainerd, managing editor of the Kellogg Evening News.

Idaho officials estimate closing the mine will cost the state as much as $10 million in annual revenue.

On Wednesday, Idaho Gov. John Evans flew to Kellogg to meet with company, union and community leaders. Calling the shutdown "cold-hearted," he vowed to find alternatives for the thousands of employees who will lose their jobs.

Some Kellogg residents held out hope the mine would be purchased by another company and put back in business. But Bunker Hill employees note the mine has been up for sale for two years, and there have been no takers.

Health Education, Heart Group's Goal

The Mission of the American Heart Association, Texas Affiliate Inc., is clearly the prevention of premature death and disability from Cardiovascular Diseases.

The Goal by which the Heart Association will accomplish its mission is to develop and deliver an approach to heart health education that will result in an improved quality of life for Texas populace by the year 2000. Heart and blood vessel diseases kill more Americans every year than all the other diseases combined. Many cardiovascular diseases have their origin at an early age, probably in childhood. Certainly, life's long health habits have their roots in childhood, with learning taking place both in the home and school. It is vital that we support a comprehensive approach to health educational programming in the school. The American Heart Association has developed a cookbook entitled "Children's Help Your Heart Cookbook."

Nutrition is the food you eat and how your body uses it. Good nutrition comes from eating wide varieties of foods. The American Heart Association offers these recipes for your pleasure and to help your heart be healthy through low cholesterol cooking. This cookbook can be secured by sending $1.00 to The American Heart Association, 2404 West 7th, Amarillo, Texas 79106. Heart health education programming has been designated to meet student needs in several areas: knowledges, attitudes, and behavior. Materials have been developed which promote decision making skills and which hopefully will lead to more responsible lifestyle choices.

The Heart association program has been divided into four levels. Kindergarten, second, third and fifth grades, sixth and eighth grades, and ninth and twelfth grades. There are materials appropriate for several levels, the teacher is the best judge of what is usable for his/her class.

The American Heart Association would like to invite you to become involved with our program through your work as a Heart Association Volunteer or through your work with young people. We are aiming at one overall goal says Ralph Detten to reduce the premature death and disability due to cardiovascular diseases. What better place to begin than with the young people in our community.

Lapidary Club Plans Trip

The Deaf Smith County Lapidary Club met Monday evening at the Flame Room to discuss plans for their trip to the Oklahoma Panhandle in mid-October.

Joe Williams, president, conducted the business session. He expressed the group's appreciation to the public for their interest in the club's display at the recent Town and Country Jubilee.

The door prize, brought by the Roy Martin's, was won by Mrs. Ora Morgan.

Garth Thomas introduced a film on trailer safety.

The September meeting was changed to the 21st instead of the 28th so the members could attend a film showing at the library at 7 p.m. The film is titled - This is the Land, and will be open to the public. It will be shown in the Heritage Room at the Library. The club will then conduct their business meeting afterwards in the Bi-Centennial Room. Thirty members were present.

Films available on a loan basis from the region one office pertaining to the youth focuses, are "The Tin Woodman," "The Man In Search Of A Heart," "Happy Holly Heart". Coloring books are available to the pre-school and elementary schools. High school films are exercise film and film on what smoking will do to the cardiovascular system, says Mr. Detten.

The local Heart Association has someone to show the films in the schools if anyone is interested.

TROY SCHUDER
...hard at work!

Now You're Cookin'

By DEBE GRAVES
Staff Writer

When you enter Troy's Sweet Shop one of the first things you notice, besides the aroma of fresh donuts, is a sign that says, "Welcome to the friendliest place in town." The staff and customers alike do their darndest to live up to that proclamation. Amid jokes, laughter, the sharing of tables and much ribbing, Troy Schuder gets a lot of work done and has great fun doing it.

"I really do love this job. We have a real good bunch of customers and I have fun visiting and joking with them," says Schuder, who believes that Hereford people are basically friendly and look for this type of atmosphere in the businesses they support.

Raised in Millersview, in South Texas, Schuder moved to Hereford 14 years ago after operating a spudnut business in Dimmitt for seven years.

To prepare the 150-170 dozen donuts the shop sells each day Schuder goes to work at 4 a.m. each day. He and his employees mix the dough fresh, roll it out by hand, cut it and fry 30 donuts at a time in grease heated to a searing 375 degrees.

After a workout like that most of us wouldn't want to eat a donut for anything, but not Schuder. "I eat two every morning, the cake donuts are my favorites," he says.

For those of you who see him and wonder how he keeps his slender build and for the worried wives, who cannot get their husbands to diet, rest assured Schuder claims, "There aren't any calories in the donuts, we cut them out of the center!"

Calories or not the business serves as a meeting place for coffee drinkers and non-dieters from 5 a.m. until 6 p.m. every day of the week except Sunday.

Schuder and his wife, Betty, who was raised in Hereford, have a son, Kyle, who is a senior at Hereford High School this year, and a daughter, Troyce, who is a freshman at La Plata Junior High School this year. The family are members of Temple Baptist Church and enjoy yard work and camping and fishing trips together.

We surprised Troy recently when we appeared unannounced to interview him. Several of his regular patrons had requested we see if we could get his donut recipes out of him. Troy took it all in the good fun it was intended to be, and even has offered to give one free donut to persons presenting a copy of this article to him.

He did share a donut recipe with us, though the enormous quantities of ingredients he must use precludes him from sharing the exact recipe he uses at the sweet shop.

After trying this recipe, good as it is, don't be disappointed if your family still hungers after a good-ole Troy's donut occasionally, after all, he does have 21 years experience in turning out delicious donuts. One customer has even given his wife orders to bury him with a Troy's donut in his mouth!

At Wits End

I've missed it again.

The sale of bathing suits.

For 30 years, I've never been able to figure out when bathing suits are being sold. If I go in January, I am told, "Are you crazy? It's 30 degrees outside. Who is going to buy a bathing suit in this weather?"

If I go in May, June, July or August, the racks are filled with turtleneck sweaters, double-knit wool slacks and fur coats and a salesperson says, "We had two or three a few weeks ago, but we've sent them back to the warehouse. We're into winter now."

I've figured out the retail bathing-suit season runs about two hours and 15 minutes.

Retail stores and shop personnel have always lived by a calendar that few of us can imagine.

It's like they're out of sync with the rest of the world. In October, they celebrate Christmas; in November, they stage the after-Christmas sales; in December, they bring out the spring cruise stuff for vacations.

In January, the aisles are lined with dogwood and white shoes; in February, it's Spring Bride Month.

In March, the new bathing suits are unfurled; in April, it's end-of-the-year sale; in May, it's the Autumn Harvest Bonanza and in June, it's back-to-school sale. July is always fur coat extravaganza.

In August, get ready for winter woolens and leather boots. In September, it's Holiday Entertaining, and in October, it's camping equipment.

The stores are rigged so that whatever season you enter them, you emerge from the wrong time capsule. Anyone who has ever tried on a winter coat wearing white sandals or a beach hat with snow on your parka knows what I'm talking about.

In the last store I visited, a salesperson guided me to the end of a rack with exactly six bathing suits swinging from it. I chose one and asked where I could try it on. As she opened the curtain, I heard her humming "Jingle Bells."

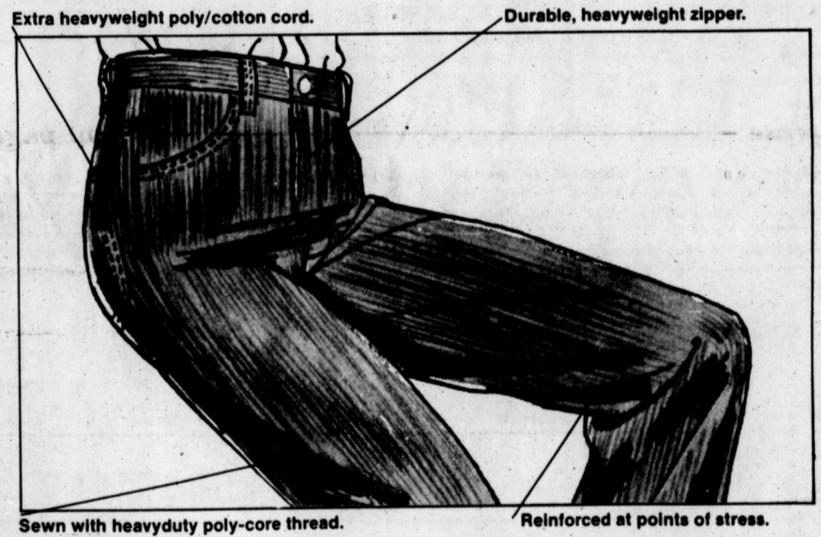

She must have thought I was crazy...swimming so close to Christmas.

Armco Announces $671 Million In Facilities

HOUSTON (AP) — Armco plans to invest $671 million to expand its Ambridge, Pa. plant and open new oil pipe facilities in Ashland, Ky. and Gulfport, Miss., company officials announced Wednesday.

The facilities would be operating by the end of 1984, according to Chief Executive Officer Harry Holiday. He said the project reflects Armco's belief that increased oil and natural gas exploration will up the demand for seamless pipe.

"It is already booming, as we all know," Holiday said. "The demand already exceeds the capability of existing American mills. Imports are making the difference between supply and demand."

"The seamless tubular market is far too good, and far too important for America's energy independence, for us to surrender any bigger chunk of it to foreign suppliers," he said.

The new facilities will double Armco's seamless pipe producing capacity, with an additional 450,000 annually, Holiday said. The Ambridge plant currently manufactures 300,000 tons of pipe a year, he said.

Man Gets Brief Term, Probation In Robbery

HOUSTON (AP) — A Louisiana man who forced a Freeport couple to drive to Houston and withdraw $50,000 from a bank faced a nine month jail term and 10 years probation today.

Sterling J. Robichaux, 39, was given the sentence Wednesday by State District Judge Sam Robertson after he pleaded guilty to charges of aggravated robbery and false imprisonment.

Defense attorney Roy Beene said his client received a sentence consistent with his spotless previous record and psychiatrists' statements that he was suffering drug-induced psychosis at the time of the crime.

Police Strategic Weapons and Tactics team members broke up the incident in front of a downtown Houston bank.

Judge Robertson sentenced Robichaux by deferred adjudication, meaning that if he successfully completes probation, he will have no record of the charges. If he is unsuccessful, he could be sentenced to 99 years in prison.

G.B. Maness, 56, and his wife, Maria, 52, said they did not believe the defense's claim that Robichaux was under the influence of prescription diet pills when the incident occurred.

"We were so shook up we felt like we didn't want to have any more to do with him," Maness said.

ERA Missionaries Knocking On Mormons' Doors in Utah

By MICHAEL WHITE
Associated Press Writer
SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — "Missionaries" for the Equal Rights Amendment are knocking on doors of Mormon

homes in Utah, trying to spread a gospel of equality in a state considered a stronghold of opposition to women's rights.

The project is aimed specifically at changing Mormon minds. It's even modeled on the Mormon practice of sending young missionaries throughout the world seeking converts.

"A lot of them will agree with us on every point," said Becky Fenstermaker, coordinator of the National Organization for Women's ERA Missionary Project, "but when it comes down to the ERA, we get, 'No. I will follow the prophet.'"

The "prophet" is Spencer W. Kimball, president of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. Ms. Fenstermaker, herself a Mormon, said that because faithful Mormons so revere Kimball, many support the official church stand against ratification of the ERA. Kimball has said passage of the proposed constitutional amendment would threaten family values.

"Utah women need to learn what the women's movement is all about, so part of the effort is educational," said Sonia Johnson, a feminist Mormon who was excommunicated for criticizing church leaders for their attitudes on women's rights. She is national chairwoman of Mormons for ERA, a group that coordinates with NOW efforts in Utah.

"It's to keep drawing national attention to the fact that Utah is impossible to ratify because of the influence of the Mormon Church," she said.

The deadline for passage of the ERA — which would ban discrimination based on sex — is June 30, 1982. Thirty-five of the required 38 states have ratified it, but five have since rescinded ratification. The U.S. Justice Department has said it's up to Congress to whether the rescissions are legal.

Politically, the ERA is dead in Utah. The Utah Legislature voted down ratification in 1973 and in 1975. And the 1979 Legislature overwhelmingly passed a resolution encouraging future lawmakers never to consider it again.

But it remains an emotionally charged religious issue for most Mormons, who consider the church's opposition a call to arms. Mormons have worked against ratification of the ERA in Virginia, Florida and Missouri. And ERA proponents claim hundreds of thousands of Mormon dollars have been funneled into the lobbying effort.

The church takes the stand that it merely encourages members who are willing to organize against the amendment.

Each day, 13 missionaries, volunteers from around the country who usually serve two-week stints, go into neighborhoods of Salt Lake City and its suburbs. They distribute literature and seek signatures for a petition asking President Reagan to support the ERA.

Mormons are also asked to sign a postcard that will be sent to Kimball, asking him to reverse the church's opposition.

Ms. Fenstermaker said about 30 percent of those contacted sign the petition and about 17 percent sign postcards to Kimball.

Church spokesman Jerry Cahill said the postcard campaign won't change the official church position on the ERA, but he said members are free to support the proposed amendment if they wish.

"Church membership has

Ms. Fenstermaker said the reaction to ERA missionaries is usually polite but negative. Sometimes, she said, the missionaries inspire anger and abuse.

During a parade last month celebrating the Mormons' arrival in Utah, some spectators heckled, threw fruit and spat on ERA missionaries, said Peggy Norman, an Oregon teacher and an ERA missionary.

Some people used cigarettes to pop the balloons the ERA missionaries were distributing, she said.

"People seemed to be just unable to control their anger. It wasn't a pleasant experience," Ms. Norman said. "...I think it was the first time I saw the mask of politeness slip."

Despite the parade incident, Ms. Fenstermaker said, morale among the ERA missionaries remains high. She said she has more volunteers than she can accept — since the effort began last fall, 102 people have served, some of them more than once.

The missionary force is limited to 13 at a time only because that's as many as Ms. Fenstermaker can fit in her office. Every two weeks, a new group of 13 arrives. They spend their first two days in Utah reviewing the complexities of the ERA and studying ways to persuade Mormons to accept the amendment.

NOW leaders, she said, have been pleased with the results, and new groups are being organized to lobby in Idaho, Hawaii and possibly California.

"Sometimes it can be kind of disappointing for the missionaries because you may have a real strong Mormon neighborhood and you have to work like crazy to get any kind of positive response," Ms. Fenstermaker said.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

I would like to compliment the Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Department for the courtesy shown me in my time of need. Traveling to Friona, I had car trouble a few miles west of Hereford. Being midnight and a lady alone, I began to panic as the situation was quite fearsome. Some travelers headed toward Clovis were kind enough to stop and offer their help. They turned back toward Hereford and there contacted the sheriff's department. Soon help arrived and I must say I was treated with all respect and kindness. My only regret is that I failed to ask the names of the officers; but I do offer my heartfelt thanks and appreciation.

Sincerely,
Marilyn McDonald

State Mental Hospital Chiefs Named

AUSTIN — Appointment of superintendents for three state mental hospitals was approved today by the Texas Board of Mental Health and Mental Retardation.

They are Albert Keene Smith of Edwardsville, Ill., to Big Spring State Hospital; Jimmie Russell Clemons,

M.D., deputy commissioner for mental health services, Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation, to Terrell State Hospital, and Richard Marvin Bruner, assistant superintendent of Wichita Falls State Hospital to the superintendency of that facility.

Smith and Bruner hold master's degrees in hospital administration. They are the first nonmedical hospital administrators to be named to head a Texas state mental hospital.

A new law was adopted by the Texas legislature two years ago to permit persons other than licensed physicians to serve as state mental hospital superintendents. The Big Spring and Wichita Falls vacancies are the first that permit the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation to utilize provisions of the new statute.

The 57-year-old Smith currently is serving as administrator of the Alton, Ill., Mental Health Center, a facility of the Illinois Department of Mental Health and Developmental Disabilities. He is expected to take over his new duties Oct. 15.

Wallace Hunter, M.D., has been serving as acting superintendent of Big Spring State Hospital since the resignation of Grace Renee Ferguson, M.D., several months ago.

Bruner has been assistant superintendent for administration of Wichita Falls State Hospital since May 1976, soon after receiving his master's degree in hospital administration from Trinity University, San Antonio. He will succeed Mark Huff, Sr., M.D., who retires Aug. 31.

Dr. Clemons was the clinical director at Terrell State Hospital for three years before becoming deputy commissioner for mental health services in 1978. He succeeds Luis M. Cowley, M.D., who retired as superintendent of the facility last May.

comes out. And we have to get a lot of output from this very quickly."

Meese suggested, as deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes had a day earlier, that the defense spending increase may fall short of 7 percent.

"Seven percent was only a rough target for planning purposes," he said. "It was never an absolute figure."

Administration sources in Washington said some reduction in the growth of defense spending is needed for Reagan to balance the budget by 1984.

The U.N. command charged on Aug. 21 that two North Korean MIG-21s had flown over Paengnyong, a U.N.-controlled island about 125 miles west of Seoul, but fled when South Korean planes scrambled to intercept them.

have familial hypercholesterolemia."

Cholesterol is an essential chemical that is used to make cell membranes and hormones. However, it is dangerous when too much circulates in the blood.

Some experts believe that high blood cholesterol is aggravated by eating foods such as meat and cream that are high in fat and cholesterol. However, the body produces far more cholesterol naturally than is taken in by eating.

The Texas doctors say it may not be necessary for people to give up their cholesterol-rich food if compactin proves to be effective.

"Inhibition of cholesterol synthesis with compactin... should stimulate their production of LDL receptors and reduce their LDL levels despite continued consumption of a diet rich in cholesterol," they wrote.

The doctors believe that compactin inhibits the body's production of cholesterol. And at the same time, it increases the numbers of LDL receptors — molecules that transport the remaining cholesterol into the cells.

White House counselor Edwin Meese III said Reagan was briefed about the Korean incident Wednesday by Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger during a previously scheduled meeting at the president's ranch.

"The president was concerned about it obviously," said Meese, who attended the meeting with Weinberger. "But there weren't really enough details yet from the Defense Department. They were still evaluating the situation."

Asked if the United States considered the incident a provocation and was thinking about responding, Meese said, "I think that's up to the Defense Department to evaluate the situation, which they are doing."

"No one was hurt and our plane was not endangered," Meese said.

He said it was flying in international and South Korean airspace but added that he didn't know the nature of its mission.

Speakes said Reagan was first told of the incident by the White House situation room about 9 a.m. PDT. It was not known when the White House was informed. Reagan was not told of the Libyan incident until about six hours after his aides learned of it.

Push

bassador Tommy Koh of Singapore.

Syrian Foreign Minister Abdul Halim Khaddam also is mentioned but is not considered among the front-runners.

Unless a deal is struck in the diplomatic equivalent of the "smoke-filled back room," the assembly will be faced with its first contested presidential election in 19 years.

The presidency is Asia's this year under a system of rotating it among the regions of the world each year. The regional groups usually decide in advance on a single candidate. But that isn't happening this year.

Both Koh and Kaiser are reported acceptable to the United States. It is hoping that one of them drops out of the race to prevent the chair going to Iraq, a country involved in a shooting war — with Iran — and a hardline opponent of Washington's Israeli allies.

Kaiser's supporters expect Koh to withdraw before the assembly session begins.

They reason that the Singapore diplomat already has his hands full as president of the U.N. Law of the Sea Conference, which is attempting to wind up seven years of negotiations on an international convention governing the oceans and deep seabed.

But assembly sources say the articulate, energetic 43-year-old Koh continues to wage a vigorous campaign.

Kaiser, low-keyed and 63, has been Bangladesh's chief U.N. delegate since 1976. Before his country won its independence in 1971, he was Pakistan's consul-general in New York and deputy chief of mission at the Pakistani embassy in Washington.

The handsome, debonair Kittani, 52, is a former assistant secretary-general of the United Nations and a graduate of Knox College, Galesburg, Ill. He now is an undersecretary in the Iraqi Foreign Ministry. He would be the first Middle Eastern Arab to hold the assembly presidency since Charles Malik of Lebanon in 1958.

Mine Closing May Wreck Idaho City

KELLOGG, Idaho (AP) — Idaho's panhandle has been devastated by news that the state's largest mine is shutting down, threatening up to 10,000 jobs and foreshadowing economic disaster for this lively mining town.

Gulf Chemical & Resource Co. of Houston, owner of the century-old lead mine, said Tuesday the Bunker Hill Mining Co. — the second largest industrial employer in the state — had lost $8 million in the first half of 1981 and depressed prices for lead made the foreseeable future bleak. The mine is to be shut by the end of the year.

"It kills Kellogg," said Ben Harrison, secretary of the Spokane Stock Exchange in Spokane, Wash., where Bunker Hill stock is traded.

"Bunker Hill is Kellogg. If they shut it down, that's it,"

said Wendell Brainerd, managing editor of the Kellogg Evening News.

Idaho officials estimate closing the mine will cost the state as much as $10 million in annual revenue.

On Wednesday, Idaho Gov. John Evans flew to Kellogg to meet with company, union and community leaders. Calling the shutdown "cold-hearted," he vowed to find alternatives for the thousands of employees who will lose their jobs.

Some Kellogg residents held out hope the mine would be purchased by another company and put back in business. But Bunker Hill employees note the mine has been up for sale for two years, and there have been no takers.

Police Seek Assault Suspect

Charges have been filed against a man in an assault case which happened last Saturday, and was reported to Hereford police yesterday.

Melba Rodriguez, 901 S. Lee, told police that she had been assaulted by the man around 1:30 a.m. Aug. 22. According to the police report the man allegedly struck the woman about the head and kicked her.

The incident took place at 901 S. Main Street. The Two incidents of criminal mischief were reported to the HPD this morning. Manuela Vasquez reported two slashed tires on her vehicle, which was parked on the east side of the hospital. Damage in the incident, which was discovered at 12:10 a.m. today was set at $250.

And, Hurschel Sims, 301 Cherokee, reported that a window was broken at the rear of that residence around 9 p.m. Wednesday. Damage to the window was estimated at $10.

Officers discovered an open door at a storage shed at Hereford Butane on Veteran's Park at 1:30 a.m. today. Manager Calvin Goodin was called to the scene, and nothing was found to be missing.

Police officers investigated one minor accident yesterday.

Heart and blood vessel diseases kill more Americans every year than all the other diseases combined. Many cardiovascular diseases have their origin at an early age, probably in childhood. Certainly, life's long health habits have their roots in childhood, with learning taking place both in the home and school. It is vital that we support a comprehensive approach to health educational programming in the school. The American Heart Association has developed a cookbook entitled "Children's Help Your Heart Cookbook."

Nutrition is the food you eat and how your body uses it. Good nutrition comes from eating wide varieties of foods. The American Heart Association offers these recipes for your pleasure and to help your heart be healthy through low cholesterol cooking.

This cookbook can be secured by sending $1.00 to The American Heart Association, 2404 West 7th, Amarillo, Texas 79106. Heart health education programming has been designated to meet student needs in several areas: knowledges, attitudes, and behavior. Materials have been developed which promote decision making skills and which hopefully will lead to more responsible lifestyle choices.

The Heart association program has been divided into four levels. Kindergarten, second, third and fifth grades, sixth and eighth grades, and ninth and twelfth grades. There are materials appropriate for several levels, the teacher is the best judge of what is usable for his-her class.

The American Heart Association would like to invite you to become involved with our program through your work as a Heart Association Volunteer or through your work with young people. We are aiming at one overall goal says Ralph Detten to reduce the premature death and disability due to cardiovascular diseases. What better place to begin than with the young people in our community.

Films available on a loan basis from the region office pertaining to the youth focuses, are "The Tin Woodman," "The Man In Search Of A Heart," "Happy Holly Heart". Coloring books are available to the pre-school and elementary schools. High school films are exercise film and film on what smoking will do to the cardiovascular system, says Mr. Detten.

The local Heart Association has someone to show the films in the schools if anyone is interested.

Pastries

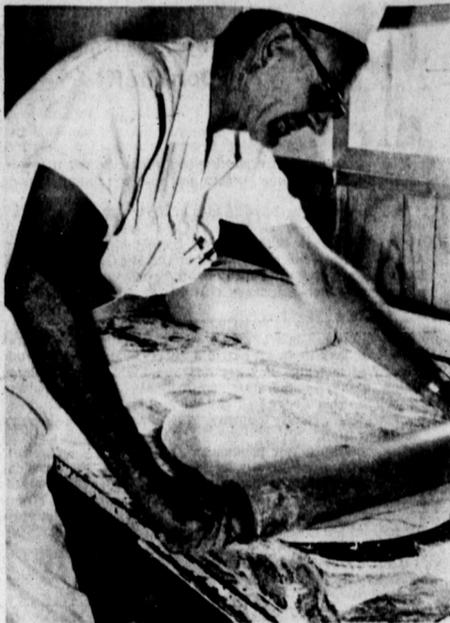

2 eggs
¼ cup warm water
½ cup shortening
3¼ cups flour (approximately)
½ teaspoon vanilla

1 package dry yeast
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon salt
¼ cup sugar

Soften yeast in water. Scald milk, add sugar, salt, and shortening, cool to lukewarm. Add eggs and vanilla, beat well. Add softened yeast, mix. Add enough flour to make a stiff dough. Turn out onto lightly floured surface. Knead until smooth and elastic, about 10 minutes. Place in a greased bowl, turning so that the greased surface is at the top. Let rise in a warm place until double, about 1 hour. Punch dough down and roll out ¼ inch thick. Cut with doughnut cutter. Place on greased baking sheets. Cover and let rise again until double about 1 hour. Handle the dough as little as possible to prevent the doughnuts from falling. Heat vegetable oil to 375 degrees. Fry doughnuts 2-3 minutes or until brown. Drain on absorbent paper towel. Glaze and serve warm.

2 cups powdered sugar
1-3 cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla

Mix together, dip warm doughnuts in glaze and let cool on racks.

...hard at work!

By DEBE GRAVES
Staff Writer

When you enter Troy's Sweet Shop one of the first things you notice, besides the aroma of fresh donuts, is a sign that says, "Welcome to the friendliest place in town." The staff and customers alike do their darndest to live up to that proclamation. Amid jokes, laughter, the sharing of tables and much ribbing, Troy Schuder gets a lot of work done and has great fun doing it.

"I really do love this job. We have a real good bunch of customers and I have fun visiting and joking with them," says Schuder, who believes that Hereford people are basically friendly and look for this type of atmosphere in the businesses they support.

Raised in Millersview, in South Texas, Schuder moved to Hereford 14 years ago after operating a spudnut business in Dimmitt for seven years.

To prepare the 150-170 dozen donuts the shop sells each day Schuder goes to work at 4 a.m. each day. He and his employees mix the dough fresh, roll it out by hand, cut it and fry 30 donuts at a time in grease heated to a searing 375 degrees.

After a workout like that most of us wouldn't want to eat a donut for anything, but not Schuder. "I eat two every morning, the cake donuts are my favorites," he says.

For those of you who see him and wonder how he keeps his slender build and for the worried wives, who cannot get their husbands to diet, rest assured Schuder claims, "There aren't any calories in the donuts, we cut them out of the center!"

Calories or not the business serves as a meeting place for coffee drinkers and non-dieters from 5 a.m. until 6 p.m. every day of the week

except Sunday.

Schuder and his wife, Betty, who was raised in Hereford, have a son, Kyle, who is a senior at Hereford High School this year, and a daughter, Troyce, who is a freshman at La Plata Junior High School this year. The family are members of Temple Baptist Church and enjoy yard work and camping and fishing trips together.

We surprised Troy recently when we appeared unannounced to interview him. Several of his regular patrons had requested we see if we could get his donut recipes out of him. Troy took it all in the good fun it was intended to be, and even has offered to give one free donut to persons presenting a copy of this article to him.

He did share a donut recipe with us, though the enormous quantities of ingredients he must use precludes him from sharing the exact recipe he uses at the sweet shop.

After trying this recipe, good as it is, don't be disappointed if your family still hungers after a good-ole Troy's donut occasionally, after all, he does have 21 years experience in turning out delicious donuts. One customer has even given his wife orders to bury him with a Troy's donut in his mouth!

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

I've missed it again.

The sale of bathing suits.

For 30 years, I've never been able to figure out when bathing suits are being sold. If I go in January, I am told, "Are you crazy? It's 30 degrees outside. Who is going to buy a bathing suit in this weather?"

If I go in May, June, July or August, the racks are filled with turtle-neck sweaters, double-knit wool slacks and fur coats and a salesperson says, "We had two or three a few weeks ago, but we've sent them back to the warehouse. We're into winter now."

I've figured out the retail bathing-suit season runs about two hours and 15 minutes.

Retail stores and shop personnel have always lived by a calendar that few of us can imagine.

It's like they're out of sync with the rest of the world. In October, they celebrate Christmas; in November, they stage the after-Christmas sales; in December, they bring out the spring cruise stuff for vacations.

In January, the aisles are lined with dogwood and white shoes; in February, it's Spring Bride Month.

In March, the new bathing suits are unfurled; in April, it's end-of-the-year sale; in May, it's the Autumn Harvest Bonanza and in June, it's back-to-school sale. July is always fur coat extravaganza.

In August, get ready for winter woollens and leather boots. In September, it's Holiday Entertaining, and in October, it's camping equipment.

The stores are rigged so that whatever season you enter them, you emerge from the wrong time capsule. Anyone who has ever tried on a winter coat wearing white sandals or a beach hat with snow on your parka knows what I'm talking about.

In the last store I visited, a salesperson guided me to the end of a rack with exactly six bathing suits swinging from it. I chose one and asked where I could try it on. As she opened the curtain, I heard her humming "Jingle Bells."

She must have thought I was crazy...swimming so close to Christmas.

Monsoon

"Monsoon" is a name for seasonal winds (derived from Arabic "mausim," a season). It was first applied to the winds over the Arabian Sea, which blow for six months from southwest and six months from northeast, but it has been extended to similar winds in other parts of the world. Monsoons are strongest on the southern and eastern sides of Asia.

Lapidary Club Plans Trip

The Deaf Smith County Lapidary Club met Monday evening at the Flame Room to discuss plans for their trip to the Oklahoma Panhandle in mid-October.

Joe Williams, president, conducted the business session. He expressed the group's appreciation to the public for their interest in the club's display at the recent Town and Country Jubilee.

The door prize, brought by the Roy Martin's, was won by Mrs. Ora Morgan.

Garth Thomas introduced a film on trailer safety.

The September meeting was changed to the 21st instead of the 28th so the members could attend a film showing at the library at 7 p.m. The film is titled - This is the Land, and will be open to the public. It will be shown in the Heritage Room at the Library. The club will then conduct their business meeting afterwards in the Bi-Centennial Room.

Thirty members were present.

HEATHCLIFF

COMMENTARY

Don Graff

By the numbers

You certainly know, assuming you follow the sports pages, baseball's four division leaders now that the major leagues are well into Season II.

You probably also have an idea of the top 10 or even 20 TV programs if you are a reader of the entertainment pages with their periodic bulletins from the network ratings wars. And you may even have heard of the Big Apple's 13 best bagel bakers if you are among the readers of New York magazine, a contemporary cult by no means confined to Manhattan.

But do you know 64 ways to combat violent crime? The Attorney General's Task Force on Violent Crime says it does. It lays them all out in a report that wraps up four months of hearings in six cities and delivers, or at least makes a voluminous start, on Attorney General William French Smith's pledge to make the problem of violent crime his "highest priority" during his service in the Reagan administration.

The report's major provisions — space does not permit mention, let alone details, of all — focus on the criminal justice system and procedural revisions that would strengthen the authority of law-enforcement agencies and the courts and limit some existing privileges of defendants. It also calls for federal aid to the states in the construction of more penitentiaries.

If for no other reason, the report is notable as a proposal for heavy additional expenditures at a time of much-pubcized budget cutting. The proposed new prisons alone add up to an estimated $2 billion.

Whether the entire report adds up to an effective assault upon the crime problem is, however, another case upon which the jury may be out for some time to come.

It is being presented to the public as a response to the public's own get-tough mood, something "the people want done" in the words of Griffin Bell, task force co-chairman and himself a former attorney general.

But in the first place, there is reason to question whether the report is addressing the realities of the actual crime problem or only what is perceived as the problem.

Why? Because it is a myth that "crime in the nation is rising by leaps and bounds."

Who says so? The Justice Department. In "Myths and Realities About Crime," a study by the department's own researchers that the attorney general's task force appears to have overlooked, the reality is found to be that "the incidence of certain major crimes of violence and common theft is just about keeping pace with population growth."

Griffin Bell observes that the report is in large part "symbolic," to restore public faith in the criminal justice system. More to the point, it is political, a response to public pressures rather than to the real nature of the problem. It will be a costly symbol if it must be paid for with inroads into the basic rights of that same public.

That would be doing a number on us all.

Boston, Tracy Exchange Vows

Flower decorations of mums and daisies decorated the altar of the First Presbyterian Church for the wedding ceremony uniting Lori Jane Boston and Mark

Aller Tracy, on Saturday, Aug. 8. Rev. Jesse Hodge, minister of the Wesley Methodist Church, officiated the ceremony. The bride is the daughter of

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Boston, Rt. 4, Hereford. Mr. and Mrs. Tom Tracy of Boise, Ida. are the parents of the groom. Angela Moyes of Dumas attended the bride as maid of honor, and Carol Bush, Tulsa, Okla. was bridesmaid. Best man was Paul Boston, from Amarillo, brother of the bride. Groomsman was Calvin Boston, also brother of the bride. Ushers were Eddie Derr and Lance Sumner, cousin of the bride, both from Hereford. Candlelighter and junior bridesmaid was Krista McPherson from Dumas.

Traditional wedding music was provided by Dwight Joiner, organist, and Lisa Honea, vocalist from Tulsa, Okla.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full length, candlelight gown of taffeta and chiffon with train. The gown was princess style with angel sleeves, and mandarin neckline edged in lace, and lace motif. Her wide brimmed hat, made by her mother, was trimmed in matching lace. She wore an opal ring belonging to her deceased grandmother, and her bouquet was of aqua and baby blue silk flowers designed by her sister-in-law.

The bridal attendants wore pale blue flowered silk, street length gowns with hats to match. The junior bridesmaid's gown was of aqua flowered silk with matching hat.

A reception was held following the ceremony at the Black House. Marion Luetze of Dumas, served the three-tiered cake, with Carrie Buchanan, also of Dumas, serving the punch. Cristie Boston, of Amarillo, sister-in-law of the bride, registered the guests.

Following the reception, the couple left for a honeymoon trip to Denver, Colo.; Salt Lake City, Utah; and on to Portland, Ore., where they will make their home.

Out of town guest were Mr. and Mrs. Tom Tracy, Boise, Ida.; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Boston, Amarillo; Mr. and Mrs. E.D. McPherson; and Mr. and Mrs. John Ward all of Dumas.

Today In History

Today is Thursday, Aug. 27, the 239th day of 1981. There are 126 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On Aug. 27, 1979, War hero Louis Mountbatten, the uncle of Britain's Prince Philip, was killed in a boat explosion off the Irish coast, with Irish terrorists claiming responsibility.

On this date:
 In 1789, the French National Assembly adopted the Declaration of the Rights of Man.
 In 1928, the Kellogg-Briand

Pact was signed in Paris, outlawing war and providing for a peaceful settlement of disputes.

In 1945, U.S. troops began landing in Japan at the end of World War II.

And in 1975, Deposed Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia died at the age of 83.

Ten years ago: bowing to U.S. pressure, Japan let its currency, the yen, float to reach its own higher valuation.

Five years ago: Scientists at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology constructed a gene, the basic unit of heredity, which was later implanted in a living bacterial cell.

One year ago: A large bomb caused extensive damage, but no injuries, at a Lake Tahoe, Nevada, hotel-casino shortly after an unsuccessful attempt to pay extortionists $3 million.

Today's birthday: Economist Walter Heller is 66 years old.

Thought For Today: The emotions may be endless. The more we express them, the more we may have to express. — E.M. Forster, British novelist (1879-1970).

Stabler Returns to Oilers

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Oilers quarterback Ken Stabler returned to workouts today with no apologies to his teammates for his 25-day retirement, but with a promise that it won't take him long to get ready to play football.

Stabler, 35, who doesn't try to downplay his love of the night life, said he presently weighed "about 210 or 212, but it's all liquids so ... it won't take me long to get ready."

The 11-year veteran shocked the Oilers July 23 by announcing his retirement without previous notice and then disappearing until he resurfaced Wednesday to sign a two-year contract.

Stabler said his retirement announcement was an honest statement and had nothing to do with trying to get more money. Therefore, Stabler didn't feel he owed anyone an apology for missing the rigors of training camp.

"I don't think they deserve it," Stabler said. "Fred Bilenkoff (a former teammate) didn't call me and say he was going to retire. George Blanda didn't tell me he was going to retire and I didn't expect it."

"You go out and play and try to win. That's all you ask of a player is to try to win. That's the only thing you owe is to play as hard as you can everyday."

Although Stabler missed virtually the entire Oiler preseason training camp and will return to a newly installed offense, Head Coach Ed Biles doesn't think it will take Stabler long to get back in the groove.

"This is the answer to my dreams because I know things were set up with him in mind," said Biles, who revamped the Oilers conservative 1980 offense. "Our whole offense was predicated on what he (Stabler) could do along with the talents of the rest of the football team and now the guy that can do that is here."

Stabler said he had started to think about ending his retirement because "it was tougher to stay away than I thought." Stabler said Gifford Nielsen's injury last Saturday finalized his decision to return.

Nielsen, who had waited three seasons to get a shot at the starting job, suffered a shoulder injury in last Saturday's 27-17 loss to Tampa Bay and is out for at least three weeks.

"I think I retired and unretired a bunch of times but after Gifford got hurt I think I decide to come back because there was a definite need," Stabler said.

Free agent quarterback John Reaves will start Saturday's final preseason game against the Dallas Cowboys, but Stabler may play several series of downs, Biles said.

"I was sorry to hear about Gifford and then after thinking about that, you wonder where does that leave them (Oilers)," Stabler said. "It takes nothing away from John Reaves because he can do the job also."

"But it does leave a team capable of winning and going all the way with one experienced quarterback and that's not a good situation, so here I am and I think it was the right thing to do at this time."

Although Stabler set numerous team passing records last season, he threw 28 interceptions, second in the American Football Conference, and managed only 13 touchdown passes as the Oilers lost to Oakland in the first round of the playoffs.

That was another impetus for returning, he said.

"After evaluating what we did last year, I think the defense kept us in the games we won," Stabler said. "The offense won very few games last year. That has something to do with coming back to finish up better."

Biles said last week that he would have to find out if Stabler was interested in playing football for money or for another Super Bowl ring. Stabler said he had decided to return until he heard that statement and then decided to stay retired.

But the slate has been wiped clean, Stabler said.

"In the heat of battle coaches have to say things at certain times and I understand how that game is played," Stabler said. "If I didn't come back and say something else it would stand that I was playing football only for money."

Nielsen said he was glad to have Stabler back.

"I'm kind of lost right now," Nielsen said. "I'm glad he's coming back, though. We've had a great working relationship and he can mean a lot to the Oilers."

"I've got to be happy because sooner or later I'm coming back and I hope everything is in great shape when I get back."

Biles said Reaves, if he performs well against the Cowboys, possibly would open the regular season in two weeks against the Los Angeles Rams, although by that time, he wouldn't hesitate to put Stabler into the game.

Grover Cleveland

Grover Cleveland is ranked, according to a ruling by the State Department, as both the 22nd and 24th president of the United States. He is the only chief executive to have served two nonconsecutive terms. First elected in 1884, he was defeated for reelection in 1888 by Benjamin Harrison, although he led in the popular vote. He ran against Harrison again in 1892 and won.

New Mile Mark in Question

Ovett Breaks Record?

COBLENZ, West Germany (AP) — Steve Ovett, the temperamental Britisher, broke the world mile record with a time of 3 minutes, 48.40 seconds — but will it count? Wednesday night, after the 26-year-old Olympic 800-meter gold medalist had entered the record of 3:48.53, set a week ago in Zurich, Switzerland, by his archrival countryman, Sebastian Coe, there was some doubt that the mark would be accepted.

The International Amateur Athletic Federation, the world governing body for track and field, insists that only change in events must be included in the official program. Since Ovett had decided only Monday to switch from the 1,500 meters to the mile, the meet promoter did not have enough time to make the change.

And since Ovett still was listed as competing in the 1,500 and no mile event was listed on the program, there is the possibility that the IAAF could reject the mark. Ovett's last-minute decision left several other competitors angry.

Steve Scott of the United States, who had said earlier in the day that he would run the 1,500, found himself included in the mile field when he arrived at Rhine River Stadium. After being informed of the organizers' decision to enter him in the mile, Scott refused to capitulate.

As it was, he made the right decision. Sticking to the 1,500, he broke Jim Ryun's 14-year-old American record of 3:33.1 with a time of 3:31.96.

Ticket Deadline Friday

Persons wishing to purchase season tickets for the five Hereford Whiteface home football games this year have until 5 p.m. Friday to do so according to Bobbie Kitchens of the school administration office.

The tickets are priced at $10 for the package, saving the purchaser $5 off the regular admission price at the gate, which is $3 per game.

The tickets are available from personnel in the school business office, Mrs. Kitchens said.

West Germany was the leader of the group of runners who refused to agree to Ovett's request that the 1,500 be rescheduled as a mile. Scott and Mike Bolt of Kenya also refused, and the meet organizers compromised by leaving the 1,500 on the program, and fitting the mile in as an extra event.

It was the first time the mile had been run at the stadium, and the organizers carefully measured the distance to make certain it was correct.

Bob Benn, Ovett's friend, set the early mile pace, then American James Robinson, one of the world's top half-milers, took over.

Wednesday night's effort came in his seventh attempt this season to better the 3:48.8 record he set 13 months ago.

The one-week span between the record races by Coe and Ovett was the shortest the mile mark ever has lasted.

4-Hers Attend State Trap Shoot

Deaf Smith Co. 4-H'ers recently attended the State 4-H Trap and Skeet Shoot at the National Gun Club in San Antonio. Hereford State Bank assisted in sending the 4-H'ers to state by furnishing a suburban for the long trip.

4-H'ers from all parts of the state were there competing for the high honors, states Robby Vann, County Extension Agent.

Chad Stephens was Sixth High Individual in the Junior Division (ages 12-16). He had tied for fourth place with two other contestants who had busted 47 out of the 50 targets shot. Chad finished sixth in the shoot off. Other Deaf Smith County 4-H'ers attending the shoot were senior - Coby Lassiter; juniors - Cody Ruland and Brant Reid; and Robby Vann, County Extension Agent.

There were some 300 contestants at the event. The divisions were sub-junior (9-12 years) who shoot 50 targets; juniors (12-15 years) who also shoot 50 targets, and seniors who shoot 75 targets. Teams may consist of five or two members or shoot as individuals as the Deaf Smith County 4-H members did.

The winning five member senior team was from Howard County with a score of 348.

Signups Underway For YMCA Soccer

The Hereford & Vicinity YMCA is now registering girls for its fall soccer league, with play set to begin the week of Sept. 20. The league is intended for girls in grades 1-6, and it is hoped to split the league into three divisions.

Fees for playing in the league are $6 for YMCA members and $13 for non-members according to Y director Weldon Knabe. The fee includes a team shirt, awards, and use of equipment.

The deadline for registering is Sept. 12, and registration following that date will be done only to fill spots where vacancies exist.

Knabe also said that volunteer coaches and persons to help referee the matches are needed by the YMCA. Those interested in coaching or refereeing may contact him at 364-6990.

"Our rules are set up so that every girl gets to play in every game," Knabe said. "The goals of the program are to have fun, learn the game, have good, clean competition, and develop skills."

Y Flag Football Starts Sept. 19

The Hereford & Vicinity YMCA began registration for the fall boys flag football league, which will get underway Sept. 19. The league is open to boys in grades 1-6, and registration will continue for the league through Sept. 9.

Player fees for the league are $6 for YMCA members, and $13 for non-members. Teams will be coaching by adult volunteers.

Teams consisting of first and second graders will play their games on Tuesdays after school, while the older boys' teams will play games on Saturday.

"Every game is supervised, and referees are provided," YMCA director Weldon Knabe said. "The league specializes in good, wholesome competition while teaching the fundamentals of team play and good sportsmanship."

Registration may be completed at the YMCA office located at Sugarland Mall. All league games will be played at Northwest school.

Braves Convince Phils

By The Associated Press
Gaylord Perry didn't get what he was after in Philadelphia but the Atlanta Braves and Rafael Ramirez pretty much did.

And Perry didn't make out half-bad either. The Braves, who are a half-game in front of Los Angeles in the National League West in the second season, used the unlikely offense of Perry and Ramirez for a 5-3 triumph over the Phillies Wednesday night. In the process of taking two of three games from the World Champions, the Braves convinced the Phillies they are for real.

"We didn't lose to any Mickey Mouse team," observed Bobby Wine, who is managing Philadelphia while Dallas Green is under suspension for a bumping incident Monday night with umpire Steve Fields. "They came back. They've got some power, and tonight they got a little help from the bottom of the order."

That means shortstop Ramirez and pitcher Perry, who was seeking his 296th career win. Perry also worked seven innings, allowing eight hits and three runs and getting no decision. But he did manage to hit his 10th home run in a 19-year major league career.

And Ramirez slashed three singles, including the game-winning hit in the 10th inning. Ramirez came to town struggling with a .207 average and left with six hits and tag against Philadelphia.

Rick Camp, 7-1 who has an earned run average of 1.39, was the winner. Ron Reed, 2-1, gave up six hits in three innings of relief for the loss.

Elsewhere, it was Houston 9, the New York Mets 3; Montreal 6, Cincinnati 0; St. Louis 9, San Francisco 4; Los Angeles 16, Pittsburgh 6, and the Chicago Cubs 9, San Diego 7.

Astros 9, Mets 3
Howe drove home five runs with a sacrifice fly in the first, a double in the third and a three-run double in the seventh.

Jose Cruz also had a sacrifice fly and Alan Ashby a run-scoring single in the first as the Astros took a 3-0 lead off Pat Zachry.

After Howe's double made it 4-0 in the third, the Mets scored twice in the bottom of the inning on a RBI single by Mookie Wilson and a sacrifice fly by Frank Taveras. The Mets scored again in the fourth on John Stearns' sacrifice fly.

Tony Scott's RBI double gave the Astros a 5-3 lead in the sixth and Howe's bases-emptying double in the seventh broke the game open.

Expos 6, Reds 0
Gary Carter, who drove in six runs against Cincinnati 24 hours earlier, added four more RBI with a two-run home run and a two-run single. Bill Gullickson, 4-6, threw a four-hitter, struck out six and walked none to record his first victory since June 10. He has allowed only one run in 29 innings since play resumed following the major league players' strike.

Carter's homer came in the third off Mario Soto. His single came after Andre Dawson had been walked intentionally to fill the bases in the fifth.

Tim Raines walked and stole second for his 56th steal in the third inning, tying the rookie record set by Gene Richards of the San Diego Padres in 1977. Raines sprained his right ankle on the steal, however, and was forced to leave the game two innings later.

Cardinals 9, Giants 4
Dane Iorg hit a bases-loaded triple to key an eight-run fifth inning that rallied St. Louis after Cardinals shortstop was ejected from the game and then yanked off the field by Manager Whitey Herzog for making obscene gestures to the home crowd.

Darrell Porter had a two-run single in St. Louis' biggest inning of the season, and Keith Hernandez hit his eighth homer in the fourth.

Dodgers 16, Pirates 6
Los Angeles had 19 hits in pounding Pittsburgh to sweep the three-game series.

Steve Garvey drove in five runs with three hits, including a three-run double, a run-scoring single and a sacrifice fly. Ron Cey was 5-for-6 with two RBI for the Dodgers, who erupted for seven runs in the second inning.

Cubs 9, Padres 7
Steve Dillard ended a seasaw contest with a two-run homer in the bottom of the ninth for Chicago.

The lead changed hands four times during the game, with two homers by Leon Durham helping the Cubs offset San Diego's five-run fourth inning, during which Luis Salazar and Joe Lefebvre knocked in two runs apiece. Lefebvre also had a homer to tie the game 6-6 and Salazar added a run-scoring single that gave the Padres a short-lived 7-6 lead.

World Series of Golf Format Criticized Again by Players

By GEORGE STRODE AP Sports Writer

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — The World Series of Golf's expanded 5-year-old format and its location are drawing criticism again from the pros.

Tom Watson dislikes the larger field of players and thinks the $400,000 tournament that began today at Firestone Country Club should be moved yearly.

Jack Nicklaus agrees with Watson's moving idea. Raymond Floyd sides with Watson on the size of the field that has included as many as 38 golfers. It has 27 participants this time.

The old format from 1962 through 1975 included only the winners of the four major tournaments. If one player won more than one major in a year, the championship of the Western Open or the Canadian Open joined the field.

Of course, Watson, Nicklaus and Floyd, all long hitters, rank in the forefront of challengers for the first prize of $100,000 Sunday.

"This Series should be like baseball's World Series," said Watson, the defending champion. "It's who has played the best for that year. It's not a personality contest. The format here is too large."

"I'd like to see it moved to different places around the world — England, Australia, Japan and maybe South Africa. That would help the format."

Nicklaus sidestepped the issue of the larger field by joking, "I liked the four-man format. At that point, I was usually one of the four and it eliminated the other 23."

Nicklaus, still searching for his first victory of 1981, said moving the Series around the world would help its image, too.

"If you're going to have a true World Series that lives up to its name, it should be moved," he said.

Floyd said of the format, "I liked it the first year when they expanded from four players to 20. We've got guys playing here who haven't even won this year. You're

Jackson Enters Hospital

NEW YORK (AP) — Reggie Jackson, grouchy and short-tempered, is undergoing a medical examination in an effort to determine whether there could be some physical reason for his season-long slump.

just filling up the field with 27 players."

The international field this time includes a trio of three-time winners, Bruce Lietzke, Watson and Floyd.

They rank one, two, three on the money list and in the complicated point system which decides the PGA Player of the Year. They also are in the top four for the Vardon Trophy, which goes to the player with the annual lowest stroke average per round.

Portions of the final rounds Saturday and Sunday will be carried by CBS-TV.

Amarillo Clips San Antonio; Takes 2-Game Loop Lead

By The Associated Press
Ron Tingley drove in three runs with a bases-loaded single as the Amarillo Gold Sox took an 8-3 victory over the San Antonio Dodgers.

The victory gave the Gold Sox a two-game lead over the Dodgers for the second half title in the Texas League Western Division as the teams entered the final week of regular season play.

Tulsa holds a two-game lead over Shreveport in the Texas League Eastern Division.

In other Texas League action, El Paso beat Midland, 11-7, and Jackson shut out Arkansas, 5-0. Tulsa's scheduled game at Shreveport was postponed because of rain.

Tingley's single came in the seventh inning and broke up what had been a close game.

Mark Thurmond, who had a no-hitter going for 5 and two-thirds inning, picked up the victory, boosting his season record to 12-5. Mike Glinatsis, 4-5, was the loser.

El Paso got the runs and Midland had the home runs as the Diablos took an 11-7 victory over the Cubs.

Fritz Connally had a three-run homer and Jim Tracy had a solo homer for Midland.

Sunny Park, 3-3, was the winning pitcher. The loser was Norm Churchill, 7-10.

Rob Simond limited the Arkansas Travelers to only five singles as he pitched a 5-0 shutout victory for the Jackson Mets.

The Mets got the only run they would need in the second inning when Rick Poe singled, moved to second on a single by Sergio Beltre, advanced to third on a sacrifice by Greg Pastors and came home on a grounder by Dave Duff.

Simond's record is now 6-7. Kerry Burchett, 6-10, was the losing pitcher.

Forgotten Murcer Lifts Yankees Over Twins

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Bobby Murcer apparently is one of those rare batters who can climb out of bed on Christmas morning and come up with a base hit.

The forgotten man of the New York Yankees climbed out of the dugout in the eighth inning Wednesday night and, as you might expect, came up with a base hit.

It was a solid pinch-hit single and drove in the winning run as the Yankees eked out a 3-2 triumph over the Minnesota Twins, only their fourth victory in the last 12 games.

"George (Steinbrenner) used to tell me they know what I can do and they want to see what everybody else can do," Murcer said in attempting to explain his wasting away on the bench except for an occasional pinch-hitting effort. Obviously, what Murcer can do is hit, and hit in the clutch, too.

In the only other American League contest, the Kansas City Royals trimmed the Detroit Tigers 6-1 behind Larry Gura's seven-hit pitching. The Chicago-Milwaukee game was rained out.

The Yankees originally signed Murcer in 1964 and he has been in the organization except for a 4½-year stint with the San Francisco Giants and Chicago Cubs. The Yankees reacquired him on June 26, 1979.

The 35-year-old Murcer, whose contract expires at the end of the season, would like to stay with the Yankees, but he also wants to play once in a while.

"I think they've written me off," he said after delivering his first hit — he's had only five at-bats — since the baseball season resumed. "I don't know why, but there's not much I can do about it. I wish I could give you something to prove I can't hit anymore, but I can't do that."

"I've asked a thousand times why I'm not being used more but it really hasn't done too much good. I'd really like to know why, but so far I haven't been able to get a good answer. In the situation I'm in, there's not much I can do about it. When I do play I seem to get the job done."

With Reggie Jackson riding the bench and Dave Winfield dropped to sixth in the batting order, Murcer stole the spotlight for a change, lacing his game-winning single off Al Williams following a one-out walk to Winfield and Bobby Brown's infield hit.

"We still didn't score a lot of runs, but it's better than scoring none at all," said Manager Gene Michael.

Royals 6, Tigers 1
Cesar Geronimo, a last-minute replacement for the injured Amos Otis, had two hits, including a two-run homer, while Gura posted his fourth consecutive victory since the season resumed. The Royals got a run off Aurelio Lopez in the second inning when Geronimo singled, stole second and scored on a single by Rance Mulliniks. Kansas City broke open the game with five runs in the fifth, triggered by a walk and Geronimo's second homer of the season.

White Highest Paid Lineman

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas Cowboys defensive tackle Randy White, who had threatened to sit out this season, has signed a multi-year contract that makes him the highest paid lineman in the league, a club official said.

Terms of the contract were not announced, but Cowboy president Tex Schramm said White's new salary would raise his pay above all linemen in the National Football League.

That probably would put the All Pro seven-year veteran's salary at over $200,000 a year.

Cowboy vice president Gil Brandt said White came in after the team meeting on Wednesday to talk about his contract. The two huddled with Schramm and negotiated an agreement.

"He's very pleased with his contract and we're pleased with our side of it," Brandt said.

White's agent, Howard Slusher, was not present, Brandt said. Slusher reportedly is vacationing out of the country.

White's contract left Pat Donovan, a seven-year veteran and All-Pro in his option year, as the only unsigned player.

Wide receiver Tony Hill was signed for the next three years, Brandt said, but Cowboy officials have been talking to him about a salary adjustment.

Wide receiver Drew Pearson has been attempting to renegotiate his contract.

Critics Assail Public Funding Alarming Excesses of Ex-Presidents

By Tom Tiede

SADDLE RIVER, N.J. (NEA) — Like millions of other upwardly mobile Americans, Richard M. Nixon has decided to flee the city for the suburbs. He has placed his New York apartment on the market and announced an intention to move in August to a $1.2 million home here on the idyllic side of the Hudson River.

Unlike the others who have taken this residential option, though, Nixon will not have to shoulder the moving expenses alone. He is a millionaire several times over, and his current income runs into six figures annually, but part of the cost of his flight to the suburbs is going to be paid by the public.

The reason is that Nixon is a former president. As such he is entitled by law to certain and perpetual taxpayer assistance. Thus when he moves to Saddle River funds will be available for some of the travel, for the freighting of personal books and papers and for the transfer of security arrangements.

No one knows how much it all will cost.

No one thinks it will be cheap, however.

The security item alone may be very expensive. Nixon's government-paid Secret Service detail has already begun to install electronic protection measures at the new home. Federal agents say a command post and checkpoint will be built, and the total tab could be as little as $50,000 or as much as $100,000.

Whatever the ultimate price, there is a mounting sense that it will be most untimely. It has only been a year since Nixon spent $200,000 in public money to move from San Clemente to New York, and suddenly, as the administration calls for budgetary sacrifices, the former executive is at it again.

Besides, some members of Congress are just now launching a new assault on the whole notion of public assistance for retired presidents. Critics claim the cost of the assistance is virtually out of control, and bills have been introduced in both houses that would institute some degree of reform.

Most of the bills are moderate. And each recognizes that some help for ex-presidents is good and proper. But as Sen. Lawton Chiles puts it, the excesses have become "alarming"; the Florida Democrat says taxpayers are now spending more money on former presidents than on the White House itself.

Chiles says at least $11 million will be spent directly on the care and feeding of former presidents this annum. And $12 million more will be spent to maintain seven presidential libraries. Hence the total of $23 million is $2 million more than the cost of supporting the White House and its staff.

Most of the direct money goes to protecting the three ex-presidents still living. Chiles says the Secret Service spends $5 million annually to guard Nixon, Gerald Ford and Jimmy Carter. The Secret Service also provides protection for two presidential widows, Lady Bird Johnson and Bess Truman.

Then, too, the taxpayers are required to spend $210,000 annually on pensions for the former chiefs, and upwards of $1.2 million on their retirement offices. Carter rents one of his two offices at a modest $3,000 a year (from his mother), but Ford's suite in Palm Springs, Calif., costs a steep $250,000.

Ford seems extravagant in other ways as well. Last year he spent more than $34,000 in tax money for telephone calls, and $1,100 for newspaper and magazine subscriptions. He is also the only former executive who will have built, separately, a publicly supported library and a publicly supported museum in his honor.

Yet the biggest spender of the three has been Nixon. He was given $27,000 in tax money last year to renovate the 15 rooms in his New York office, and $23,000 more to cover travel for his staff. All told, federal authorities believe Nixon spent almost a half million in federal funds in 1980.

And so the Congress is becoming sobered. Chiles points out that in 1955 the nation spent $65,000 to support two living former presidents, Herbert Hoover and Harry Truman. Now the cost has risen more than 350 times, and Chiles is the author of one of the bills that might legislate moderation.

The senator's bill would first limit the costs and the size of presidential libraries. It would likewise reduce the amounts of money allowed ex-presidents for their staffs. Finally, the proposal would do away with lifetime Secret Service protection for the men, and pinch it instead to eight years.

And if that's not enough, Indiana Democrat Andrew Jacobs has introduced a similar bill in the House of Representatives that cuts closer to the bone. He calls it the Taxpayers Relief Act, and, if passed, it would give ex-presidents a subsidy "not to exceed 10 times the poverty level (income) of an urban family of four."

No one knows if either measure will pass, but Nixon's latest move may help focus public pressure. At least the critics hope so. For they say if nothing is done, and help for ex-presidents expands in the next 25 years as it has in the last, the bill for their keep will be $8 billion by the turn of the century.

(NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

There have only been three former presidents who truly and desperately needed public assistance, and they did not get it.

Thomas Jefferson, James Madison and James Monroe retired at a time when they were expected to fend for themselves, like everyone else, and each of them died broke and in debt.

Since then, however, the nation's retired executives have fared better. The closest any has come to poverty was when Ulysses S. Grant was swindled out of his life's savings and declared bankrupt. Yet he recovered quite nicely. Before he died in 1885 he earned $450,000 from his published memoirs.

The only other worry in this respect was Harry Truman. When the one-time haberdasher stepped down from office in 1953 he refused a half dozen corporate offers to get rich. He thereafter supported himself from the sale of his father's farm, royalties from a presidential book, and one big television fee.

Today, ironically, the former presidents who are subsidized by public funds are three of the richest men to ever hold the office. Richard Nixon and Jimmy Carter are established millionaires, and Gerald Ford is reported to be earning $500,000 a year from various business interests.

Vandiver Moves From NTSU To Become A&M President

DALLAS (AP) — Dr. Frank E. Vandiver says he is honored to accept the presidency at Texas A&M but feels bittersweet about leaving North Texas State University where he took the helm in the wake of a financial scandal.

The Texas A&M Board of Regents announced Wednesday that on Sept. 1 Vandiver, 55, a military historian, will become the 19th president of the university.

Vandiver currently is president of North Texas and has been provost, vice president and acting president of Rice University.

He said his decision to leave North Texas and accept the $90,000-a-year post at A&M was not influenced by the opposition that met his proposed faculty reorganization plan.

But he said the unsettled proposal was "one of the things that made me a little" hesitant about taking the A&M presidency.

The proposal would have realigned the faculty into areas of expertise rather than general subject matter.

"I'd still like to see that reorganization or some kind of reorganization come about (at NTSU)," he said. "I'll be interested to see what they do."

Vandiver is expected to meet with North Texas regents in Denton today to submit his formal resignation and recommend that board members name NTSU vice president Howard Smith to serve as acting president.

Vandiver took the NTSU post a year ago after a financial scandal prompted the resignation of his predecessor, C.C. "Jitter" Nolen.

The scandal involved allegations of financial mismanagement in the NTSU Educational Foundation, the fund-raising arm of the university, and of bid rigging in the school's physics department.

Vandiver will take over from Dr. Charles H. Samson, who has served as acting president since July 10, 1980. He will succeed Jarvis Miller who was fired last year during a power struggle with Chancellor Frank W. R. Hubert.

"I am honored indeed to accept the presidency of Texas A&M University," Vandiver said. "With the help of a dedicated board of regents, a devoted system administration and a talented faculty and staff, the university can move forward on a path of national — even international — distinction."

Regents Chairman H.R. Bright of Dallas headed the presidential selection committee and said Vandiver was the only person offered the A&M presidency.

"We think Dr. Vandiver's background in military history is particularly appropriate for Texas A&M, with its long and strong military tradition ...," he said.

Vandiver published his first scholarly article at age 16, and went directly from high school to graduate study in history at the University of Texas at Austin, after satisfying his bachelor's degree requirements through examination.

He completed work on a master's degree in nine months and, two years later, earned a doctoral degree in history from Tulane University in New Orleans.

The Austin native is the author of 10 books, most dealing with the Confederate Army during the Civil War. His daughter, Nancy Ann, is a senior history student at Texas A&M.

Mrs. Brown Won't Show With Snyder Around

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The Beauty has forced the Beast into a studio cage of sorts as another chapter is unfolding on America's favorite Sunday afternoon soap opera, the "NFL Today."

Phyllis George Brown, wife of the governor of Kentucky, has won a concession that Jimmy "The Greek" Snyder not appear live on the set as a condition to her returning to CBS' popular pre-game football show Sept. 6.

There's been bad blood between the two because of Snyder's feud with her husband, John Y. Brown, stemming from the time Snyder worked for Brown in a public relations capacity. Last year, Snyder made Mrs. Brown cry offstage when he said he hated her husband. Ironically, Snyder takes credit for introducing the former Miss America to Brown.

Van Gordon Sauter, president of CBS Sports, said Mrs. Brown didn't think she could be cheerful and enthusiastic — two reasons she's on the show — with Snyder around. "She said she couldn't fake it, and I admire her honesty," Sauter said.

Thus Snyder's analysis of the day's National Football League games and his grapevine gossip will be taped beforehand, ostensibly while Mrs. Brown hides in her dressing room.

The show's atmosphere had been comforting to viewers, who will be hard-pressed to believe the smiles are real when anchorman Brent Musburger, Irv Cross and Mrs. Brown come on live, acting like one happy family.

"I don't mind so much not being on live," said Snyder. "But I certainly don't like her being the one who caused it."

Sauter says he suggested the move to allow Mrs. Brown to return and, also, to allow Snyder to polish his segments with retakes.

Musburger has relied on Snyder for spontaneous remarks when the show bogged down, and Sauter is sacrificing that for Mrs.

Brown's peace of mind. He considers her a lure for the fringe football fan.

There are those at CBS Sports, however, who were willing to call Mrs. Brown's bluff. They consider her cooling feature reports lightweight.

This is not the first time big egos had rocked the show's fragile chemistry. Last year, Snyder was involved in a bar-room brawl with Musburger over the amount of airtime Musburger was doling out. They managed to patch up their differences and even joked about the fisticuffs on air.

For now, though, it looks like the latest tiff is not repairable, and when the "NFL Today" family has its annual Thanksgiving Dinner on CBS, there'll be one less mouth to feed.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS
By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — The Texas Legislature may not meet in a second special session after all—Gov. Bill Clements announced last week he has reconsidered the call to repeal the ad valorem tax.

Repeal of the tax was the only issue important to Clements which he "lost" during the recent special session, and the Governor is the kind of batter who wants to knock every pitch out of the ballpark.

But the tax is the focus of a lawsuit, and both Clements and the Legislature now seem content to wait for a settlement in the courtroom. The verdict will give the officials the direction they need.

College Construction

The Texas Constitution levies a 10-cent per $100 valuation ad valorem tax which is dedicated to construction at 17 state universities and colleges. In 1979 the Legislature attached a statute which lowered the rate, making the tax so small that no one even bothers to collect it. However, Midwestern State University at Wichita Falls sued to overturn the Legislature's action as unconstitutional. It is scheduled for trial on August 24, but may be postponed 30 days.

Midwestern Regent William M. Thacker, Jr. came under a lot of pressure in the last days of the special session when the repeal issue was hot. Thacker reportedly caught a lot of heat from Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and other directions to drop the lawsuit. Thacker held his ground.

Would-Be Assassin

Several new twists have occurred in the strange case of Rep. Mike Martin. R-Longview, who was wounded in the elbow with a shotgun fired by an unknown person.

The attack on Martin in the final days of the special session left his colleagues baffled, and the police and press cynical, but for reasons no one could really figure.

Martin repeatedly made statements about living in fear, and indicated first that the shooting was related to an investigation his office was conducting.

Later he said he was the target of an anti-Christian occult group.

In the course of the probe, Martin ignored two Travis County jury subpoenas and left the state, going into hiding.

Cousin Arrested

Late last week authorities announced Martin's cousin in Longview admitted shooting Martin. No details were released.

And Martin himself is now being sought for arrest by Gregg County officials who uncovered an old misdemeanor warrant for his arrest.

Martin, a carpenter, allegedly assaulted his cabinet shop employee.

GOP Gears Up

The Republican Party of Texas chalked up the points in the recent regular and special legislative sessions, and, of course, scored high with Reagan's tax cut victory in Congress.

Now the GOP reportedly is actively recruiting candidates for the 1982 elections, and is courting several conservative Texas Democrats.

Targeted in Congress are Phil Gramm of Bryan and Kent Hance of Lubbock, two Democrats who voted with Republicans on the tax cut issue. Several legislators are also eyed as possible switch-overs.

In the Legislature, the battle over congressional redistricting has polarized the members, particularly in the House. The Democratic Party pitted itself against the Republican Party on the issue, and the outcome cannot really be categorized until all the ballots are in. Democrats claim Speaker Bill Clayton stepped in to win a compromise favoring Republicans. Republicans down-play the victory, saying it was conservative Democrats who actually carried the win for them.

And Clayton, who should know better than most, says his plan does not favor Republicans.

Who's right? No one will be able to say until the ballots are counted in 1982. But between then and now, political movers are not going to let the grass grow under their feet.

At any rate, conservative Democrats are on the spot again by virtue of pressure within their own party, and Republicans stand to gain a few seats in the Legislature.

Medfly Lawsuit

Texas agriculture officials last week filed a lawsuit against the California produce industry and the U.S. Agriculture Department, seeking reimbursement for funds spent protecting Texas from the Mediterranean fruit fly.

Now in effect is a $5,000-per-day program to stop produce trucks entering Texas borders and inspect them for the Medfly.

Sugar Increases Risk of Heart Disease

NEW YORK (AP) — Eating too much sugar can raise cholesterol levels and blood pressure, increasing the risk of heart disease, according to findings presented at a meeting of the American Chemical Society.

Evidence that Americans' fondness for sugar, soft drinks and baked goods is harmful to their hearts was presented by several researchers who have studied the effect of high-sugar diets on animals and people.

One of them also discovered that athletes might actually be harmed by eating sugar during an athletic event and that it could be easier to lose weight eating calories in the form of starches rather than in the form of sugar.

The average American eats 85 pounds of sugar a year, according to Catherine Wotecki of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. That includes sucrose (table sugar) and sweeteners such as corn syrup and dextrose found in processed foods.

The USDA's Sheldon Reiser, in testing people whose genes make them especially sensitive to sugar, found that high-sugar diets produced increases in cholesterol and related fatty substances called triglycerides.

"Those genetically sensitive people have a higher risk of heart disease and diabetes" if they eat high-sugar diets, Reiser said.

"Sucrose changes the intestines over a period of time," he explained and stimulates the production of certain hormones.

One of the hormones triggers insulin production, sharply altering the body's chemistry. The insulin could, in turn, trigger the production of cholesterol and triglycerides, he said.

Dr. Sathanur Srinivasan of the Louisiana State University Medical Center studied the effect of high-sugar diets on four species of monkeys and found that "sucrose consistently produced an increase in cholesterol levels."

High-salt diets are known to result in high blood pressure, but Srinivasan's monkey experiments showed adding sugar to a high-salt diet makes the blood pressure jump even higher.

But Srinivasan noted there was a problem in generalizing these findings to apply to the whole population because everyone's tolerance of sugar is different.

"The genetic proneness of an individual or a species has to be taken into account," Srinivasan said. "Some people can eat all the cholesterol they want and still not get hyperlipidemic (high cholesterol)."

The same is true with sugar.

Sugar is what chemists call a simple carbohydrate, because of its simple chemical structure. The carbohydrates in starch and grains are complex carbohydrates.

As Americans have been eating more sugar and other simple carbohydrates, they have been eating proportionately less complex carbohydrates, Wotecki said.

The complex carbohydrates don't seem to be as damaging to health as the simple carbohydrates, the researchers said.

Says Botha 'Just Follow-Up Operation' Not An Invasion

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Prime Minister P.W. Botha asserted that South Africa's invasion of Angola was just another "follow-up operation" against insurgent Namibians raiding South-West Africa.

The United States, Britain and West Germany condemned the incursion, and Britain and West Germany demanded that the invaders withdraw.

The South African Defense Force refused to give details of the operation. But Botha reported the invaders destroyed bases and arms caches of the South-West Africa People's Organization (SWAPO), and military spokesman said eight members of the security forces and 29 guerrillas had been killed in recent operations.

The Angolan government charged that two South African armored columns crossed the border between Angola and South-West Africa (Namibia) early Monday, advanced nearly 100 miles into Angola and clashed with Angolan troops while South African warplanes destroyed two Angolan villages.

Angola charged South Africa had massed 45,000 troops in South-West Africa, the disputed territory between the two countries, and was preparing to occupy part of southern Angola.

Botha in a report Wednesday to the House of Assembly acknowledged that South Africa had launched a "two-pronged" attack but said the targets were SWAPO guerrillas and the Angolan bases from which they raid into their homeland.

The prime minister said Angola's charge of a large-scale invasion was "not only exaggerated, but an absolute misrepresentation of the real state of affairs."

Recalling previous South African raids on SWAPO bases in Angola, Botha continued: "The so-called invasion to which the Angolan authorities refer was simply one of these follow-up operations and it would have been carried out without incident if the MPLA, as in the recent past, had not interfered."

The MPLA is Angola's Marxist government party, the Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola.

Meanwhile, Angolan President Jose Eduardo dos Santos called for an urgent meeting of the U.N. Security Council to debate the attacks, and U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim cut short a vacation in Austria because of the "grave developments" in Angola.

U.S. State Department spokesman Dean Fischer said the Reagan administration "deplores" the South African attack. But he said it must be "understood in its full context," including the presence of Cuban troops in Angola and "the provision of Soviet-originated arms for SWAPO."

Cuba has had an estimated 20,000 troops in Angola since they helped the MPLA win a civil war after the former Portuguese colony got independence in 1975. But there has been no report that they are involved in the fighting.

'Super Bikes' That Cost Up To $5,100

CHEHALIS, Wash. (AP) — You don't put Gary Klein's bicycles together on the night before Christmas. They can take a year from start to finish.

Klein builds "super bikes" that make most 10-speeds seem to ride like Sherman tanks in comparison. His handmade high-performance two-wheelers start at $3,500. A "show model" sells for $5,100. Frames alone are priced at about $2,300.

At those prices — most people spend in the $3,500-$4,000 range — you might think they'd be hard to sell, but last year Klein Bicycle Corp. sold more than 100 frames, and business is growing. There's now a two-month wait once you order.

"That's for most cases," he said. "It takes about a year for me to start and finish a frame. This is because of machining, welding, heat-treating. Once I get a frame heat-treated, it's about two months to finish it out."

What makes a Klein bike so special — and so expensive? Klein has invented a bicycle frame that's lightweight and doesn't bend.

He's overcome the bane of "bottom-bracket flex," which occurs when, through uphill or other hard pedaling, a bike's lightweight frame bends. That may cause the chain to rub or even spring off the derailleur, the gear changer that shifts the chain from one sprocket to another.

It's easy to build an inflexible frame with heavy metals, but they add too much weight. And weight, when you're pedaling, can slow you down.

Klein began working on the solution nine years ago while a student at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. A professor had organized a project to build a lightweight bicycle frame strong enough to resist flexing.

Klein used a frame of aluminum tubing with a larger diameter than the heavier steel-alloy tubing used in conventional high-quality bicycles. The larger diameter gave him rigidity while cutting down weight. But there were other problems with aluminum frames.

The tubing must be joined by welding rather than brazing used with steel tubing. So it had to be heat-treated to avoid damage during welding.

Five years ago, Klein overcame the technical problems and began building frames in a shed at his parents' prune farm in Santa Clara County, Calif. The company moved to Oregon last year.

"I'm selling to bicycle enthusiasts," Klein said when asked about his clientele. About half are racers or new to the sport and just getting serious about it.

"The rest seem to be people who have always had good bikes," he said. "They might think about buying one of my frames for three years before they buy one."

Ann Landers

Happy Ending

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You have printed much from and about "The Other Woman." Now, please print, something from the wife.

This female knows the man is married from the beginning. She has a choice — either to become involved, or avoid it. That's more of a choice than his wife and children have. By the time we learn of her existence, the marriage is strained — or over.

As for raising children alone, the wife must do this also. When the husband becomes involved with another woman, he ceases to be a family man.

I keep reading how difficult it is to be "The Other Woman." Does she think it is easy to be the wife of a man who cheats? Believe me, it's a lot less complicated to walk away from a man if you're not married to him.

She asks, "How were things before I came along?" "The answer in my case was "pretty good."

My husband became involved with a hellicat. When he told her he couldn't leave his family, she threatened suicide and said she was going to telephone me and spill everything. Finally, she DID call me — thinking I would throw him out. She was wrong. When I decided to stand by my husband, the crazy nut harassed me at home and him at work.

When my husband saw how unbalanced she was, he stopped seeing her. Thank heavens, I had the courage and wisdom to hang on. Now we are closer than ever. —Happy Ending To A Nightmare

DEAR HAPPY: When the Other Woman is bananas, it's easier for the wife to win. The same holds true when the wife is loony. Thanks for sharing.

DEAR ANN: I own a small business. We have one bathroom for employees only. Almost every day a customer asks if a kid can use it. It's always "an emergency."

We keep cleaning fluids in that room, and I am scared to death that some child might get poisoned. So we made a rule. The answer is always, "Sorry, no."

Some customers have become angry over this. We hate to make them unhappy, but shouldn't parents make sure their children use the bathroom before leaving home? What do you say, Ann? — Albuquerque Problem

DEAR AL: Making sure a child uses the bathroom before he leaves home is no guarantee he will not need to go again in an hour — or 10 minutes.

You are under no obligation to provide facilities for the children of your customers, but it would be nice if you could.

Buy a cabinet, with a lock, for the cleaning agents. It would be well worth the investment in terms of good will.

Legal Notices

The Commissioners of Deaf Smith County will open bids at 10 A.M. September 14, 1981 in the Courthouse for the following:

- 3 cars for the Sheriff's Department; a used tractor for Precinct 3 to be purchased with Revenue Sharing funds. Specifications may be picked up at 242 E. 3rd in Hereford. The Commissioners reserve the right to reject any and all bids.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Attorney General Mark White has issued two Attorney General's opinions which affect and should interest everyone involved in the cattle, ranching, farming and dairy industries. Opinion MW-289 discusses certain changes in laws on the registration of livestock brands, and MW-358 further clarifies the statutes.

Article 6899j, V.T.C.S. was passed by the Legislature and became effective on Aug. 30, 1971. Under this law and under Article 6890, V.T.C.S. all marks and brands registered after Aug. 30, 1971 and before Aug. 30, 1981 must be re-registered within six months of the latter date. Marks and brands must then be re-registered at subsequent ten-year intervals by the owner. All marks and brands will then be recorded with the county clerk, regardless of when they originally were recorded, within six months of Aug. 30, 1981, Aug. 30, 1991, Aug. 30, 2001, etc.

The attorney general is reminding every citizen who has registered a brand prior to Aug. 30, 1981 that citizens must re-register each brand with the county clerk within six months in order to protect their right to it. If everyone follows the registration schedule set out by the law, county clerks will have a correct, revised set of records every ten years, and there should be no dispute about the correct ownership of livestock.

To register or re-register marks and brands, the livestock owner may obtain forms either by mail or in person from his or her county clerk's office. There will be blank spaces on the form in which to describe the mark or brand and the location on the animal where the brand is recorded.

The forms should then be mailed or delivered in person to the county clerk, who will keep the forms in an indexed bound volume or on microfilm for easy reference. Opinion MW-358 answers questions concerning the recording of the marks and brands and the publication requirements to notify the public of changes in the law. Under Article 6899j, the county clerk is not required to notify individual owners of cattle brands of the ten-year expiration date of their registration.

However, the county clerk must publish notice of the registration date in a newspaper of general circulation in the county for a period of thirty days, paying for such notice out of the general county fund. Finally, when the clerk records the brands or marks, the date of record must be noted.

Attorney General Mark White and his office will be glad to answer any further questions on this matter. Interested persons should call 512-475-2501 for more information, or write to the Attorney General at P.O. Box 12548, Austin, Texas 78711. 39-30c

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Collecting too much iron?

DEAR DR. LAMB - Can a normal healthy man, young or old, collect too much iron in his body from eating too much blackstrap molasses or prunes? Under normal conditions, can the two be eaten every day? No blood has been lost. I am just speaking of your diet under working conditions. I realize that women need far more iron than men.

DEAR READER - There are many factors that affect the absorption of iron. If you get vitamin C when you consume iron, its absorption will be enhanced. If you have whole wheat cereal, the fiber in it will decrease your iron absorption. Within reason I would not think a healthy man would absorb enough iron from either molasses or prunes to be a problem. There are a few people with medical problems who do have to be careful about iron absorption, and that is the main reason the iron in bread was not increased beyond its present levels.

Blackstrap molasses is a good source of iron. According to the U.S. Department of Agriculture Handbook No. 8 on food values, 100 gms contains 16.1 mg of iron. That is quite a lot and I would be surprised if you would be using that much a day. Prunes contain far less iron. A 100-gm portion of dried uncooked prunes contains only 3.9 mg of iron. A 100-gm serving of prune juice contains 4.1 gms.

Cooking in iron cookware increases iron intake. To give you a more complete guide as to what factors affect iron intake, I am sending you The Health Letter number 17-6, Nutritional Aspects of Minerals. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Women in the childbearing years require more iron than adult men because of loss of blood with the menstrual period. The amount varies widely but it is generally about twice the requirements for men.

DEAR DR. LAMB - One of my co-workers who travels has been mentioning the beneficial effects of colonic irrigation. He says it is not particularly for constipation but rather to periodically completely rid the system of all waste materials. Although some cramping evidently occurs, he says that when combined with vibration and abdominal massage the overall feeling is pleasant and relaxing. There are a lot of places providing this service to a lot of people.

He and I will soon be on business in a city with a health club offering colonic irrigation and he wants me to try it. I am curious and my wife finds it all interesting and wants to try it, but I am also apprehensive. I will not try this if you say it is harmful.

DEAR READER - My advice is to try it. There have been some deaths reported from coffee enemas. Water enemas that do not contain the same salt composition as the water in your body tend to draw out needed body salts; this can be harmful. For years people have been intrigued with the idea that undigested food residue in the colon was harmful to the health but there is little evidence to support that notion. Apparently, some people do get pleasure from such things, which is part of the explanation for the enema habit at home. In most cases people would do better to establish a good bowel habit with good nutrition and forget enemas, colonics and laxatives. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Who's got 'Button' recipe?

By Polly Fisher POLLY'S PROBLEM

DEAR POLLY - I'm searching for a favorite recipe of mine which I have lost. It appeared in a woman's magazine about 15 years ago. This recipe was for something called "Button Cookies" and it included a frosting recipe as well. These were large cookies to be decorated with sayings of the day - like "sock it to me!" If any of your readers could share this with me, I would be most appreciative. - MRS. D.Y.

DEAR MRS. D.Y. - I'm sure you could make very similar cookies with a plain sugar cookie recipe and a butter cream frosting. Such cookies would also be good made from a spice or gingerbread cookie recipe. However, I suspect that there was something special about this particular recipe. If this rings a bell with any of you, dear readers, well "sock it to me!" - POLLY

DEAR POLLY - It amazes me how many people don't really know the easiest way to clean a blender. Just fill the container halfway with hot water, add three or four drops of dishwashing liquid, and put the lid on the container. Then replace the container on the base and turn the machine on. This way, you don't have to take the container apart and risk cutting your fingers on the blades. Rinse out the soapy water and you've got a clean blender. - ROBIN

DEAR ROBIN - Yes, that certainly is the easiest and fastest way to clean a blender. Thanks very much for this Pointer. However, I'd like to add that you really should take the blade assembly apart after the cleaning procedure you've described so that all the metal parts can be thoroughly dried - either by air or with a towel. Unless this is done, the parts on some machines could eventually rust, corrode or become otherwise damaged. - POLLY

DEAR POLLY - Here's a good suggestion for removing wallpaper from your walls. Mix together corn starch and hot water to make a paste. Apply this paste to the walls with a paint roller. Wait a few seconds to let the paste soak through the paper, then scrape the paper off with a wide paint scraper. The wallpaper will usually come off very easily. However, it's a good idea to cover your floor while you're doing this to avoid having a mess to clean up. - J.A.

Polly will send you one of her signed thank-you newspaper coupon clippers if she uses your favorite Pointer. Please or Problem in her column. Write POLLY'S POINTERS.

BINGO!

AUSTIN -- The people spoke last November. In a statewide election, they said they wanted bingo in certain circumstances.

During the special session, we had a chance to vote on the legislation that would make certain bingo games legal, and put the wishes of the people into operation. It was a hard choice for me because, like many people in our district, I really don't approve of gambling in any form.

Yet I voted for the bill. Here's what we voted for:

We approved a bill to legalize bingo games by well-established charitable organizations, which will use the bingo revenue for fund-raising purposes. The county in which the games are authorized may impose a tax of two percent of the gross receipts on the game.

This is a local-option bill, like the liquor by the drink. For bingo to be legal in a county, city, or justice precinct, it must be approved by a majority of the voters of that area. No bingo games may be conducted until the people petition for an election and win that election. The petition to call the election must be signed by at least ten percent of the qualified voters in that area.

Under our form of government, we all must sometimes make compromises. This was the case with the bingo bill. But we believe the bill will do a lot of good for many charities, including veterans' organizations and churches.

Also, bingo should pay for itself. The kinds of organizations which will be eligible for bingo licenses generally are composed of people who are law-abiding. In fact, the organization must have been in existence for at least three years (ten years for churches) before it is eligible for a bingo license. Therefore, we do not expect bingo to cost counties more than the tax it will generate.

Bingo was one of the hard choices we faced, but it was a good illustration of our government at work the way it is supposed to work.

The people now have a greater choice than they had before, both at the state and the local level. They can vote to allow taxed and regulated bingo games to help churches and charities, or they can vote to keep it out.

We know many of you have strong feelings for or against bingo games, and we would like to hear from you. Please write to Senator Bill Sarpalius, P.O. Box 12068, Austin, Texas 78711.

CANYON -- The Eighth Annual Panhandle Substance Abuse Institute is scheduled for Sept. 24-25 in West Texas State University's Student Activities Center. It will feature over 20 guest speakers from across the state and nation who will hold workshops on a variety of alcohol and drug-related topics.

One of the most prominent participants will be Robert Fredricks, coordinator of education services for Operation CORK, a San Diego-based alcoholism education program. The CORK system was originated by Joan Kroc. She is the wife of Ray Kroc, the owner of the McDonald's hamburger chain and the San Diego Padres.

Another headliner of the two-day institute will be Ken Eaton, director of substance abuse programs for the state of Michigan. Eaton will talk about developments in the area of alcoholism and drug abuse prevention. Fredricks will deal with the CORK employee systems program.

State Senator Bill Sarpalius will be the luncheon speaker during the first day's activities. Sarpalius was instrumental in getting legislation passed during the last session raising the drinking age to nineteen. Professionals and volunteers in substance abuse areas benefit directly from the workshops held during the annual institute. Several of the sessions are planned specifically for the medical community. They include presentations on nutrition, the addictive personality and the impaired physician. The general public is also encouraged to attend the two-day session.

Advance registration fee for the institute is $20 by September 18.
