Strikers Still Resist

Military Controllers Directing

By H. JOSEF HEBERT Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Increasing numbers of military controllers are directing civilian air traffic as the Reagan administration tries to rebuild the nation's striketorn flight system.

But striking civilian controllers say the administration's "insensitive and fascist tactics...will only make our resolve stronger."

About 75 percent of the regularly scheduled commercial flights operated Friday, Transportation Secretary Drew Lewis said there were indications that passengers were returning to 12,000 striking controllers even if the union calls an end to the walkout and resumes bargaining - something it has shown no sign of doing. He did say, however, that controllers who can show that their striking colleagues harassed them into staying out of work would be permitted to return.

Announcing that 5,163 notices of dismissal had been sent to the strikers and more were expected to be sent during the weekend, Lewis told reporters:

"None of these people will be permitted to come back and we don't want these people to come back....My job right now is really to rebuild the system."

As part of that rebuilding,

The military controllers will remain on duty until civilians can be found to take

Low Unemployment Rate Temporary Say Experts

WASHINGTON (AP) - The nation's unemployment rate, dipping unexpectedly to 7 percent in July, could approach 8 percent by the end of 1981, some economists say.

"The unemployment rate on balance will be going up. It's not going to go down as it happened to go down in July," predicted Thomas D. Thomson, senior vice president and chief economist of Crocker National Bank in San Francisco.

"We're still looking for some increase ahead," said Sandra Shaber, senior economist at Chase Econometrics in Bala Cyn-

Robert Dederick, the Commerce Department's assistant secretary for economic affairs, said the sharply lower unemployment figure for July, reported Friday by the Labor Department, probably would not be repeated in the next few months.

July's drop, from 7.3 percent in June, was unexpected, he said. But he added that July is often a volatile month for employment statistics. "I never put a great deal of stock in a one-month

Carter Blasts Reagan

ATLANTA (AP) - Former President Jimmy Carter said Friday that Ronald Reagan shirked his duties as the nation's chief executive by pushing so hard for the federal tax-cut program.

"It's a wonderful tax program for rich people and special interest groups," Carter said in an interview with an Atlanta radio station.

"One of the things I learned in Washington, there is a tremendous momentum to pass a bill like that at any time. The only thing that stands between a bill like that for special interests and its passage is the president." Bureau of Labor Statistics.

She speculated that business executives were waiting to see the effects of President Reagan's tax cut and the promised military buildup.

But some private economists saw the drop in unemployment as a fluke. "I view this as an aberration," said Thomson. "I think it's temporary," argreed Allen Sinai, vice president and senior economist of Data Resources

Inc. in Lexington, Mass. The government reported last month that the economy contracted at an annual rate of 1.9 percent in the April-June quarter.

Leading indicators of future economic performance were down 1.5 percent in May and 1.3 percent in June, and other government figures also show a sluggish economy.

Inflation, meanwhile, has fallen below the double-digit levels of a year ago.

A three-year federal investigation into the "Cowboy Mafia" - a group that allegedly planned to smuggle more than 100 tons of marijuana into the United States - has resulted in the indictment of millionaire rancher

Cauble, 67, of Denton, was indicted Friday on 3 counts of racketeering and seven counts of bank fraud and embezzlement by a federal grand jury in Tyler.

Rex Cauble.

The former Texas Aeronautics Commission member, flanked by his attorneys, Roy Minton of Austin and G. Brockett Irwin of Longview, was released after posting the $250,000 bond set by U.S. Magistrate Roger Sanders.

"I am innocent and I will be vindicated in court," Cauble told reporters as he left the federal courthouse in Sherman. He and his attorneys declined further comment on the indictment. The federal panel returned the indictments about 11 a.m. Friday after Thursday hearing testimony from two associates of Cauble and a review of the evidence into drug smuggling along the Texas Gulf Coast by U.S. Attorney David Baugh.

Three counts of the indictment accuse Cauble of racketeering. Each carries a maximum penalty of 20 years in prison and a $25,000 fine. The seven other counts, bank fraud and embezzling, are punishable by prison terms of five years and fines of $10,000.

The first count alleges that Cauble and his company, Cauble Enterprise Inc., conspired to carry out racketeering activity affecting interstate and foreign trade.

He is accused of conspiring to smuggle 212,000 pound of high-grade marijuana from Colombia to the Texas cities of High Island, Port Arthur and Orange.

The 40-page indictment also alleges that Cauble embezzled more than $147,000 from the Western State Bank of Denton and the South Main Bank of Houston.

Cauble owns controlling interest in those banks and in Dallas International Bank.

In the early 1970s, Cauble's wealth was estimated at $75 (See CAUBLE, Page 2A)

Khomeini Foes Seize Embassy

WASHINGTON (AP) -The hostages are free and the demonstrators are under arrest following a brief takeover of Iran's only U.S. diplomatic outpost. At least three people were injured.

Opponents of Iran's religious leader, Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, seized the Iranian Interest Section at the Algerian Embassy on Friday, sparking a melee between pro- and anti-Khomeini forces.

Demonstrators opposed to Khomeini's regime held about a half-dozen people hostage for about 40 minutes. Authorities said that at first they could not tell the captors from the hostages.

One person was shot and wounded during the takeover and was reported in serious condition at Georgetown University hospital. The person was not identified.

Two dozen demonstrators face charges of destroying diplomatic property, a federal crime punishable by up to five years in prison and a $10,000 fine. FBI spokesman Larry Knisely said late Friday night that the FBI is conwith District of Columbia police.

Outside the interests secoffice, some tion demonstrators shouted "Long live the people, death to Khomeini" as they were frisked and loaded into police vans.

French Await Evacuation From War-Torn Iran

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) -French nationals awaiting in downtown Iran. The evacuation from violencewracked Iran were reported still shuttered inside their embassy in Tehran today as Iran's media announced a top Islamic judge was assassinated and the government executed another 46 opponents.

Tehran radio reported Ahmad Faqihi, a chief judge of the Islamic Revolutionary Court and two of his bodyguards were slain in the central Iranian province of Fars. His attackers, who escaped, were described as two motorcyclists who ambushed his car, shooting him twice in the head and five times in the chest and arms.

The radio also said that firing squads had executed 46 "counter-revolutionaries," raising to more than 300 the number of Iranians killed in seven-week-old crackdown on foes of the fundamentalist regime. There were also Iranian reports of other assassination attempts and the death of an assassination target wounded last month.

Observers in Tehran reached by The Associated Press said the French nationals were gathered inside the Q: Why is the speed limit on West Park Ave. 40 MPH when it is 30 on every other street in town, even on seldom-used Dairy Road?

The traffic is heavy (especially during the school months) entering and turning off Park Ave. from residential streets, schools, churches, shopping areas, clinics, etc.

Most important are the lives of the children who ride bicycles and walk across the street. Why can't the speed limit be lowered to a safer speed?

A: The Brand checked with City Manager Dudley Bayne, who said that speed limits are determined by a survey of traffic done by the state. Bayne said all speed limits in town are 30 MPH unless otherwise marked. The number of vehicles using a particular street, and the prevailing speed of those vehicles, are taken into consideration when speed limits are posted Bayne said.

A further check with Ron Matthews of the state highway department office here revealed that the city is "probably following guidelines" of the state in having the speed limit on West Park set at 40 MPH. Matthews said the city has been given jurisdiction over all speed zones within the city limits since it maintains all traffic lights with the exception of the new light at Moreman and Hwy 385, which is maintained by the highway depart-ment. Matthews said it may be possible to get the issue checked into by contacting A.L.

McKee, District Engineer with the highway department's Division 4 in Amarillo, but that a more logical first step would be to make known to the city commission the concern over the higher speed limit in question.

Controllers Fired

Controllers

CHICAGO (AP) - A federal judge Friday dismissed contempt of court citations and heavy fines against two locals and eight officials of the striking Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization because the strikers have been fired and thus cannot return to work.

Blasting government attorneys for their handling of the case, U.S. District Judge Marvin Aspen threw out the proceedings after the government admitted it would be impossible for the controllers to comply with a back-to-work order.

Aspen said President Reagan's order dismissing all controllers who did not return to work made it impossible for strikers to comply with the back-to-work order, issued at the request of the government.

"I cannot hold an individual in contempt of court for not returning to work if the employer won't take the person back to work," Aspen said.

The ruling vacated $750,000 in fines that would have been levied Friday against two PATCO locals. In addition, Aspen threw out $750 in fines pending against each of the eight union officials.

At the request of government attorneys, Aspen had issued a temporary restraining order earlier in the week prohibiting the strike and set a scale of fines that escalated with each day controllers remained on strike. A $250,000 fine was to have been levied against the local on Thursday, while each of the eight officials would have been fined $250.

Newly Fromed Airline Should Begin Service

ST. LOUIS (AP) - Eugene A. Cernan, the last astronaut to walk on the moon, announced Friday that a newly formed airline has applied to the Federal Aviation Administration for operating authority to serve air travelers in 16 cities.

Cernan is chairman of the board of the airline, Air One, which plans to begin service in late 1981.

We see a growing need for the return of convenience and comfort for the business air traveler - first class service and comfortable first class seats," he said.

"We plan to fill that need at rates which are 10 percent to 25 percent below those now in effect for coach class travelers," he said.

The cities the airline plans to serve are St. Louis, Kansas City, Denver, Houston, Dallas, Ft. Worth, Chicago, Memphis, Indianapolis, Atlanta, New Orleans, Las Vegas, New York, Miami, Detroit and Washington D.C.

Hereford Student Attends National Twirling Contest

Christy Burford, 11 year old daughter of Bill and Joyce Burford, 325 Centre, spent most of her summer vacation practicing in preparation for the National and World Twirling Contest held in South Bend, Indiana, on the Notre Dame Campus.

Christy is a member of "The Piercettes," a team of area twirlers who are coached by Shelia Pierce of Amarillo. They currently hold the titles of "Texas State Champs" and "Southwest Regional Champs" which they have held for two consecutive years, in the dancetwirl division in the National and World competition.

This year the team placed second in the national and world competition, with a third in another division. The twirling team also brought home additional trophies for third and fourth places.

Christy was a member of the trio that placed first, and a duet, placing second. In individual competition, she placed third in 2-baton, sixth in flag, ninth in T-strut, and 10th in solo.

Christy will be a 7th grader at La Plata Junior High School this fall.

Stretching Your Meat Dollar

By LOUISE WALKER County Extension Agent Stretch your meat dollar and make a major impact on your food budget. During 1981, food-price hikes will be due mainly to upward trends in prices of meat and meat products, forecasters predict. Since meat costs are usually the largest part of the food budget - 25-30 percent, follow several meat-stretching basics and save.

Meat stretching depends on two major steps: buying and preparing.

Generally the most economical meats are those that take longer to prepare including chuck or rump roasts.

These are as nutritious as other meats, providing highquality protein, iron, B vitamins and some fat.

Let "cost-per-SERVING" be a buying guide. Don't go by "cost-per-pound" only.

To figure according to "cost-per-serving," determine how many servings a pound of various cuts of meat will yeild, then look at the price per pound and DIVIDE it by the number of servings. Your answer is the cost-per-pound of ground meat costs $1. It yields four servings. Divide $1 by four. The answer is 25 cents, so ground meat - in this case costs 25 cents PER SERV-

Here'as an example of how that works:

Now let's compare that with ribs. Say a pound of ribs cost 60 cents. Ribs only yield about two servings per pound. So divide 60 by two. The answer is 30 cents, so ribs, in this case, cost 30 cents PER SERVING. Surprisingly to some consumers, the ribs are more expensive than the ground meat in this example.

How can you know the number of servings different cuts of meat will yield?

Use this guideline: meat that is mostly lean with no about four or five servings per pound. Round steak and ground beef are examples.

Meat with much fat, bone and gristle, such as short ribs or spare ribs, usually provides only one or two servings per pound.

Finally, in buying meats, consider a variety of meats so you can take advantage of specials. Compare prices of beef, pork, lamb, poultry and fish. Also, the "variety" meats, such as liver, kidney and other organ meats, are usually bargains.

"Prepare" to save - that is, prepare menus and food items with savings in mind. Use more ground meats, since they are economical, versatile and convenient. Use them in elegant casseroles, pastas, meat loaves, meatball dishes or as simply meat patties.

Stretch the number of servings per pound by adding nonfat dry milk, soy mixtures, rolled oats, cracked wheat, egg and bread crumbs.

Or you can use vegetables as meat extenders -mushrooms, celery or onions are examples. Add a bit of crumbled bacon, garlic, herbs and spices and you have interesting tastes with budget-impactful economy.

10 vary the meat selection grind your own meat and mix less-expensive cuts with more-expensive cuts - half chuck with half sirloin, for example, or half lamb shoulder and half beef round. An interesting combination is white-meat-chicken with

Another argument for grinding your own meat focuses on specials - savings can be significant when a larger cut of less-tender meat is on "special" and you grind it

Usually pre-packaged ground meat at the grocery market is made from lesstender cuts anyway, along with trimmings from the chuck, round and sirloin. Pork and lamb ground meat

Tunics- Flattering Silhouettes Making A Comeback, Says Saunder

COLLEGE STATION Tunics - among the most flattering fashion silhouettes for all figures types - are making a strong comeback, says Becky Saunders, a clothing specialist.

That's good news to anyone on the lookout for a wardrobe extender, she adds.

Mrs. Sanders is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

A definite trendsetter, the tunic adds wardrobe versatility - sporty or dressed up, Mrs. Saunders says.

Belted or unbelted, it goes over anything - pants, shorts, dresses, skirts.

Depending on styling, fabric, color and proportion. the tunic can make the most of any figure, the specialist

Unbelted, it flatters short or long waistlines.

To add height, try a slimlined tunic, particularly one coordinated with a matching skirt or pants - with a focal point near the face or neck. For shorter figures, a tunic that falls between the fingertips and the full hipline is flattering proportion.

To minimize hips, include an emphasis at the neck or shoulder with shoulder pads, tucking or soft gathers in the tunic.

To appear shorter, add wide decorative belts or cummerbunds, which are a current fashion interest anyway. For a bit heavier look, select tunics in bulky fabrics, shiny or metallic textures, light or bright colors or those designed with flowing sleeves and decorative horizontal yokes, belts or trim.

If you're trying your hand at making your own fashions at home, consider a tunic -most are easy and fast to

Also, outdated dresses are ideal for recycling into tunics. Just change the sleeves, collars, waistlines and hems for a "brand new" tunic.

For a really quick-and-easy makeover, use a dress with straight lines for your new tunic. Just shorten the hemline and add a slit at each

Double Dipping

A first step in cleaning up the Social Security system was made recently when the House-Senate group agreed to end the minimum benefit beginning next Feburary.

The bleeding-heart liberals have already termed the move as cruel action against three million people currently on the Social Security

Actually, it appears to be the first move in getting the extra fingers out of the SS pie and the first step in curtailing the fast-growing practice of "double-dipping" out of two or more retirement funds.

The savings to social security funds is in the neighborhood of $7 billion!

The liberals have described the victims of the cuts as "mostly senior citizens on very low, fixed incomes, who are struggling to survive from day to day." This is a bunch of hogwash, according to Rep. Phil Gramm. "Of the 3 million people drawing so-called minimum benefits-actually unearned benefits-74 percent are drawing pensions of more than $900 per month."

Gramm adds that "as far as anyone needy losing their benefits, that's just not so. Anyone needy automatically qualifies for Supplemental Security Income program and gets $255 a month.'

What's not right, says Gramm, is under the current law, even if you're not needy and have paid as little as $3 to Social Security, you can draw $3,065 a year in minimum benefits."

He says it is important to remember "that any needy person over 59-or any blind or disabled person-automatically qualifies for SSI and a minimum of $255 a month. They aren't affected in any way by the SS cuts."

Congress added Supplemental Security Income in 1974 and this actually eliminated the reason for minimum benefits, but it was not taken out, says Gramm. Many of the 3 million on SS will not be affected because SSI will make up the difference. Others have earned the minimum benefit and will receive it.

Gramm says about 1.3 million will be affected. According to a study by the General Accounting Office, 800,000 of them have substantial outside benefit. GAO estimates that 450,000 draw at least $900 a month in federal pensions, and the other 350,000 have spouses who earn an average of $14,000 a year.

There is no significant information on the remaining 500,000 people. If any of them meet the national definition for being poor, blind or disabled, they qualify for SSI but haven't signed up for it as yet.

Gramm summed up the problem this way: 'Minimum benefit is a quirk in the law that's producing almost $3 billion in abuse over three years, and if we're to protect people who paid Social Security taxes and need it, we've got to knock off those who didn't earn it and don't need it."

Don't Die In '81

If the tax bill passed in Washington this week has any one single message contained in it, it's this: Don't die in 1981!

If you're feelin' poorly, hang in there for five more months.

The tax bill, as passed by the House, and with little differences from the Senate bill, makes major and sweeping changes in estate taxes, in retirement programs, in investments-but few of the changes take place this year. Nearly all start either in January, 1982 or later.

For the same reason, accountants busy pouring over the details of the tax bill, declare that every taxpayer ought to be finding every possible deduction in 1982 and postponing all possible income until 1982.

Many of the tax breaks for individuals won't take effect until 1982 or later. The reduction in the so-called marriage penalty is to be phased in starting in 1982. The tax benefit of the new tax-exempt savings certificate comes in 1982.

Allowing charitable deductions by taxpayers who use the short form doesn't take effect until 1982. Liberalized rules that allow members of pension plans to deduct personal contributions or set up deductible independent retirement accounts may well stimulate savings across the country, but they don't start until next year.

Robert Hanson, national director of tax services for Arthur Young, says taxpayers should immediately review teir wills and gift-giving plans...after January 1st, the limit on tax-free gifts rises to $10,000 from the current $3.000. And in view of the significant easing of estate taxes, Hanson cautions: above all, don't die in

I just do not understand why it is alright for baseball to strike and not alright for aircontrollers to do so. I recognize the air controllers are striking against the U.S. Government and somehow that is verboten. It seems the issue is whose ox is being gored.

My point is, Mr. President, if you want to get tough and show us how to take a stand, do it with baseball players. Leave those air-controllers

I don't want those guys mad. I want them happy. I don't want my pilot to hear, "Find the runway yourself!"

I don't want some little old grandmother filling in for those guys. The last thing I want is someone thinking those little dots on the screen are a design for a doily. Remember, Mr. President, you fly also. I do not know who does the ground control for dear old Air Force One but it better not be one of the guys you fired. You might find yourself in a holding pattern for three days.

To make matters worse you have made the guys mad in the wrong cities. Chicago, New York or even St. Louis are hard enough to get into without angry controllers. Why not pick on smaller towns. I have never been in a holding pattern over Lazbuddie, Tex.

I hate to overreact but I am not all sure God intended for us to fly. I know they tell us flying is the safest way to go. Somehow, it is not very comforting to know the plane must land on a small strip of concrete somehwere down there. When I want to park my car I can control that myself. When in a plane, I have to trust a pilot who trusts a guy down there looking at a radar screen. That is asking for a lot of trust.

Now you have made the guy mad...I may walk from now on.

The Reagan Renaissance

Let's call it "The Reagan Renaissance."

When his tax cuts cleared that critical House vote, the president said, "The first six months of 1981 will mark the beginning of a new renaissance in America."

Let's call it "The Reagan Renaissance."

After fifty years of preoccupation with "relief programs," this administration, with bipartisan support, is providing relief for taxpayers.

Author Ayn Rand tried a generation ago to tell us that we can't have lights without generators.

Voice of Business

Relief for taxpayers fuels the generators again.

Over the next three years Americans' income taxes will be cut 25 percent.

Other tax cuts are designed to encourage us to save or invest that money - thus to generate a tidal wave of economic activity.

It has been difficult for workday Americans fully to appreciate their personal stake in capital gains taxes and taxes on investments.

Yet reducing those top taxes from 28 to 20 percent and from 70 to 50 percent respectively will inevitably encourage investment which generates energy, consumer products, jobs.

Similarly, allowing faster depreciation allowances to industry will allow replacing old machinery with new creating jobs.

Money you are encouraged to save is re-loaned for expanding businesses, building houses, creating jobs.

Two-income families have been so mercilessly discriminated against that some couples divorced "for tax purposes."

There will be no more marriage penalty.

Some workers have declined salary increases which would have pushed them into higher tax brackets. Under the new legislation, indexing will take care of that.

"government charity."

The inheritance tax will be modified to reduce the likelihood that the surviving spouse will have to sell the family farm to pay the taxes. Again, after half a century of "relief programs," this administration is providing relief for taxpayers.

Let's call it "The Reagan Renaissance" - and then live

Bob Nigh

It's My Turn

Somehow we find it extremely difficult to feel sorry for the nation's striking air controllers. How can a person earning between $20,500 and $49,200 a year contend that they're underpaid? That's not bad for a 40-hour work week.

The nearly 13,000 union controllers, who direct air traffic at 23 regional centers and 500 airports across the nation, are demanding shorter work weeks, greater retirement benefits and some additional pay increases among their reported 99 separate demands to the federal government.

The government estimates that complete satisfaction of the union's demands would cost the U.S. Treasury $681 million a year. Transportation Secretary Drew Lewis says the government is offering increases at the tune of $40 million per annum; still far beneath the $575 million per year the controllers' union estimates the demands would cost.

One man in Washington is not even bothering to talk. President Reagan, while extending his deadline once, has put a stop to the nonsense, and the pink slips are on their way to the estimated 12,000 controllers who are still refusing to go back to work.

We can't help but admire the president's stand on this issue. As one of our old football coaches said, "If you don't want to play, we'll find someone who will."

Evidently the feds are writing the strikers off, and preparing to re-stock the larder with new merchandise. Latest reports indicate that thousands of Americans are flocking to area government employment centers to get applications to become air traffic controllers.

For example, 1,760 people in New York filled out applications within a five-hour span, and regional personnel offices are averaging 400 calls per day about the jobs.

Evidently there are a lot of Americans who are willing to work those "long hours" for the $10 per-hour wage a beginning air controller earns.

The Bootleg Philospher Royal Wedding

Editor's Note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his Deaf Smith County Grass farm on Tierra Blanca Creek has a Royal Wedding. Dear Editor:

By this time that Royal Wedding in England with all those plumed uniforms and horse-drawn carriages has faded from public attention but a few odds and ends remain in my mind. Even though the U.S. networks sent over their anchor people, none of them touched on these matters.

For instance, what do the British do with all those horses in between weddings? It may be years before they can put on another such shebang and somebody's got to feed those horses and keep their coats shiny. And those royal uniforms and plumed hats...the television people never inquired, but are there royal keepers of the coachmen's regalie? Is the guy in charge called the Royal Moth-Baller?

In view of the fact 500 million people around the world watched the show on TV, have the British ever thought of putting on the show oftener? Have they thought of how much tourist trade and royal trinket sales they could generate if a King or Queen few parting remarks on the could serve say only one fouryear term or eight at the most? The television reporters kept pointing out somewhat sorrowfully that Prince Charles may have to wait 15 or 20 years before he can become King. So what? There are men in the U.S. who've waited that long to become President.

It's none of my business, but British royalty ought to figure out some way to bring out those horses and carriages and ancient uniforms more often. Even Ringling Bros. & Barnum & Bailey know you can't wait that long in between circuses.

They don't want to let the British people find out about royalty what the American people have found out about baseball. For years we were told baseball is our national pasttime, but this summer it's been found that everybody seems to get along very well without it, except the people who make hotdogs. Yours faithfully,

The Reagan Riots?

WASHINGTON - By the summer of 1982, American cities will be afflicted with riots similar to the recent disturbances in Great Britain--a by-product of Reagan economic policies and renewed racial tension.

That is the suggestion of a number of journalists in recent weeks who have tried to portray the turmoil in Britain as a harbinger of similar troubles in this country once the President's budget restraints take effect.

This parallel is foolish at best, and at worst, a prime example of irresponsible journalism.

To equate the economic policies of President Reagan and Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher is inaccurate enough. Despite good intentions, Mrs. Thatcher has presided over sharp increases in government spending as well as a doubling of Britain's value-added tax. The President's approach is exactly the opposite: To slow the growth of spending and reduce the tax burden.

Even more indefensible is the notion that the Reagan economic program, especial- one day run with blood." ly its reliance on the private sector to secure prosperity for our people, is a prescription for economic misery. By cutting so much as $35 billion from a federal budget which will exceed $700 billion, these commentators suggest, the President is tearing apart the very fabric of our society. There will be no jobs, no hope, and eventually, no lawand-order in our cities once this plan is carried out.

The most extreme expression of this attitude that federal spending programs are the cure-all, catch-all and end-all American society comes from Washington Post writer Henry Fairlie, who stated recently: "The private sector cannot invite the poor into its supermarkets...The citizenship in the supermarket and in the commercials can be granted only by government." And then, he issues a blunt

"Can you get that, Mrs. Thatcher? Can you get that, President Reagan? If you do not, even though you do not intend it, your gutters will

But wait a minute. Didn't the worst wave of urban riots this nation has ever experienced occur at the very crest of Lyndon Johnson's Great Society spending binge in the mid-1960's?

Well, er, yes, admit Great Society liberals, but that was because we succeeded in raising the expectations of the poor--expectations which couldn't be matched by economic performance. What they refuse to admit is that the poor become the victims of over-promising politicians who insisted that if we simply waved the magic wand of federal spending over poverty, then it would all but disappear. In fact, the federal government attempted and failed at precisely what Mr. Fairlie claims we should still be attempting today: To increase the wealth of one group of Americans by taking wealth from another group. Instead, the federal government with its bloated budgets, punitive taxes and over-regulation, has hampered the productivity and undermined the earnings of all Americans.

To correct this, President Reagan has formulated a program in which all segments of our society share the burden of the budget axe. He has promised no overnight miracle cures, but he has sought to remove many of the shackles which have been clamped on the private enterprise system since the inception of the Great Society. He has done so in recognition of a simple fact-that private enterprise in America is responsible for the greatest and most evenly distributed material prosperity in man's

Rioting is about the most pernicious form lawlessness that can afflict a modern society, because it is not the act of an isolated criminal but infectious destructiveness on a mass scale. Before Mr. Fairlie and others bandy about any further predictions and comparisons arising from Britain's recent riots, I suggest they check their facts, their istory and their hyperbole.

Employer efforts toward child care have resulted in workers doing a better job, less absenteeism, better employee attitude toward work and organization and lower job turnover, said a 1978 U.S. Department of Labor survey.

At the same time, the arrangements benefited the children, surveyors found. Working parents need reliable, good-quality child care, says Diane Welch, a family life education specialist.

"They need to be assured their children are in an environment that fosters development," the specialist

"This means, first a facility that is open during the parents' work hours," she Welch is on the home eocnomics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

When parents feel confident about child-care arrangements, they can focus on their work," the specialist continues.

When they do not, their work may suffer from lost time or parental worry - and the child can suffer from poor-quality child care," Welch says.

CONCERN RISING

More and more attention is focusing on employer policies that recognize family life needs and respond to them sensitively, but much work must still be done in order tomake the ideas become reality, Welch says.

MAKING IDEAS WORK How much work will it take to put the ideas into practice, and who will do the work?

Welch answers that question this way:

"A real need is for parents, communities and business and industry to work together.

Theirs could be a dedicated effort to review needs for child care and to start plans to meet those needs and others as they emerge," she says.

A "starting place" might be three approaches now in the "talking stages" among groups concerned with programs to meet child-care needs, Welch continues.

Approaches fall into three major categories, or levels, of service for parents:

-information and referral systems

-easier access to child-care already available -child care itself offered at

These approaches are based on already successful child-care services established by employers and employees as well as communities working together, Welch adds. INFORMATION, REFER-

My Dearest Darling Wing,

Your letter really got my interest stirred up about dancing. I called the Larrymore Studio long distance and talked to Mr. L. I'm gonna take the teachers training course. Just think, I'll have a profession with good hours and pay, and pleasant work. What bothers me most is them French names of ballet steps.

I'll sure be glad when I get back home, so I can see you, and get started on my dance lessons. With the help of that video and the spoken class records to practice with, it will be easy. Which do you think I'll like the best - tap, jazz, ballet, or ballroom? I know I'll like ballroom with you as my partner. Are you still taking the exercise classes? Mr. L said enrollment has started earlier this year. He is busy getting entertainment programs ready.

I'll cut this short since I'll see you in a week or so. I've already told them they can take this job and shove

Pitchers Ahead of Hitters Following Strike

By ALEX SACHARE AP Sports Writer

Tony LaRussa, manager of the Chicago White Sox, figured at first that the hitters would be ahead of the pitchers when major league baseball resumed following the strike. Then he saw what the hitters looked like.

"I changed my mind the first day the players came back," said LaRussa, whose team played a scoreless tie against the Chicago Cubs Friday night in a game called after nine innings by mutual agreement.

"I realized then that the pitchers had a better chance to stay in shape than the players," said LaRussa. Notice I said players, not hitters. Pitchers have only one skill to maintain, while players have to hit, run and six hits.

Watson Fails To Make Cut

DULUTH, Ga. (AP) - Tom Watson, golf's dominant figure over the last five seasons, never got anything going in the 63rd PGA and failed Friday to qualify for the final 36 holes.

"I scored just about as high as I could," said the dejected Watson, "I just couldn't make anything happen. No excuses."

Watson, who had a fat 5-over-par 75 in Thursday's opening round, followed that with a 73 Friday and was 8 shots over par at 148 for 36 holes on the Highlands Course of the Atlanta Athletic Club.

"I just didn't do anything well," he said. "I had it in position to make some birdies but I never got it close to the very sharp.' Watson retained a slim hope of making the cut when he went to the final hole with a 6-over total, but he plunked his second shot in the water, dropped for his third and then placed his fourth shot 12 feet from the pin.

He missed that and had to settle for a double bogey six on 18 for the second consecutive day.

I thought I had to make a par or at worst a bogey to make the cut," Watson said. On missing the 12-footer, he said, "I left a lot of 'em short." It was only the second time this year that Watson had missed a cut, the other coming in the Tournament Players Championship.

Watson was gunning for his thard consecutive victory in Georgia this year, having claimed the coveted Masters title in Augusta and the Atlanta Classic earlier.

Needing a solid score to get in contention for this year's final major event, Watson never had that chance, going bogey-bogey at the start.

He collected a birdie on No. 6, bogeyed the seventh and added another birdie at 16 before the disaster at 18 removed any hope of surviving the cut.

Ironically, Watson was sharing a house this week with Tom Murphy, who has led after each of the first two rounds. The last time the Murphys and Watsons shared a residence was at the Heritage Classic at Hilton Head, where Murphy failed to make the

Hunting, Fishing Licenses

Ready AUSTIN - Hunting and fishing licenses for 1981-82 will be available from most license outlets across the state beginning Aug. 17, according to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department. All hunting and fishing licenses expire at the same time, Aug. 31, each year, so sportsmen are reminded to obtain new licenses if planning to hunt or fish after that

The department's free hunting and sport fishing regulations digests also will be available on Aug. 17, officials said. Licenses are available at most sporting goods stores, tackle shops and at Parks and Wildlife Department offices.

On another front, the New York Times reported in its Saturday editions that the new players' agreement could encourage clubs to sign free agents. Throughout the strike, the players had charged the owners were trying to discourage teams from signing free agents.

Because of a provision inserted into the agreement at the last minute, a team signing free agents can protect from the compensation more players than a team not signing free agents. The owners had intended the difference to be the other way around.

CLEVELAND (AP) -"He's the little guy in the white hat," the barmaid said, seeing Roberto Duran through a window.

There he was, a snow white hat covering some of the mop of coal-black hair - Roberto Duran, the fighter whose image color was always villain black until that night in New Orleans

The 5-foot-71/2 Duran, with the blazing eyes and the attacking style, was Hands of Stone, El Animal. Then last Nov. 25 in the Superdome he quit in the eighth round and lost the World Boxing Council welterweight championship to Sugar Ray Leonard.

NWF Wanting Reagan To Fire Interior Secretary Watts

The National Wildlife Federation has called upon President Reagan to fire James G. Watt as Secretary of the Interior.

Dr. Jay D. Hair, executive vice president of the nation's biggest citizens conservation group, said Watt has "lost the confidence of Americans who are concerned about our environment and the conversation of the natural resources, Mr. Watt was appointed to protect."

The NWF, Hair said, has reluctantly decided that "the evidence of Mr. Watt's unsuitability for the job he holds has become so overwhelming...that the sooner he is relieved of his duties the bet-ter it will be for our country and our resources."

NWF has 4.5 million members. Before deciding Watt should be fired, Hair said, NWF made a study of his six-month record in office and "found it wanting in nearly every respect." NWF also polled 4,000 of its members and found that although they voted two to one for Ronald Reagan over Jimmy Carter last year, they rejected Watt's position on 10 of 11 current environmental

The 117-page study of Watt's record and the results of the membership survey were made public at an NWF news conference. While other . environmental groups have denounced Watt in recent months, NWF held its fire. Hair said, in the hope that "patience is the best remedy for every trouble."

The Federation tried to maintain a dialog with Watt while others were calling for his ouster, Hair continued, but finally found that "our patience has not been rewarded."

NWF found, Hair said, that Watt "places a much higher priority on expolitation and development than on conservation..that while he pays lip service to environmental protection, he is working to undermine or circumvent many of our basic environmental protection laws...(and) that he is inflexible and unresponsive to ideas and entreaties from the conservation movement."

Hair said he saw no possibility of

'rehabilitating' President Reagan's most controversial

Cabinet officer and therefore "removal is the only option we see open to the President. We have reached this conclusion reluctantly-even sadlybecause we have no personal animus against Mr. Watt, and we still want to cooperate with the Reagan Administration in bringing about the 'new beginning' for America that the President called for so eloquently in his inaugural

The NWF study of Watt's record listed what it called "ten Secrtarial actions most damaging to the conservation of our natural resources." The list:

address."

-Crippling budget revisions -Emasculation of the Office of Surface Mining

-Amended rangeland policy -Dismantling water policy reform

-Moratorium on habitat acquisition -Accelerated offshore oil and gas leasing -Concessionaire management of parks

-Less protection for endangered species -Law of the Sea Treaty scuttled -Destruction of Consensus on Resource Conservation It also contained a list of eight issues on which Hair said he asked Watt to take "immediate action" during their June 9 meeting. The list included a lifting of the ban on park and refuge acquisitions to permit the purchase of "critically threatened" sites, a delay in oil and gas leasing on Alaska Wildlife refuges, a resumption of the listing of endangered species, and urgent implementation of new strip mine rules to prevent evasion of the Surface Mining Act.

The poll of 4,000 NWF associate members revealed, according to Hair, that the Secretary is "out of step, not only with the views of conservation leaders who have called on him, but with the mainstream of American thought on conservation issues." The poll asked eleven questions on six environmental issues, including further acquisition of parklands, mineral exploration in wilderness areas, oil drilling in marine sanctuaries along the continental shelf, and further listing of endangered species.

Recent Ruling Assures Ducks Of North Dakota Habitat

Federal acquisition of habitat vital to the millions of migratory ducks which breed in North Dakota every year can continue as a result of a decision recently handed down by the U.S. Court of Appeals in St. Louis, Mo.

The court decided in favor of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, which had sued the state of North Dakota in 1980, charging that bills passed by the state legislature in 1977 violated federal statutes protecting migratory birds.

"This decision represents a significant victory for wildlife and wildlife habitat," said Thomas Tomasello, attorney for the National Wildlife Federation, which along with the North Dakota Wildlife Federation, an NWF affiliate, had filed a friend-ofthe-court brief on the side of precedent that states cannot enact legislation which would eliminate the Fish and Wildlife Service's ability to implement national wildlife programs. Specifically, the decision allows the Fish and Wildlife Service to acquire prairie pothole habitat in North Dakota, thus protecting it from further agricultural development."

ting Conservation Stamp Act protects migratory birds by providing funds from the sale of duck stamps to hunters for the acquisition and preservation of their habitat. The Fish and Wildlife Service now owns about 768,000 acres of prairie pothole easements in North Dakota, purchased from willing sellers. Underthe leases landowners may the government. Potholes are found over thousands of miles of central Canada, and about three million acres of the Dakotas and Minnesota. According to Tomasello, thousands of these potholes in the U.S. have already been drained and the land converted to agricultural use.

> Potholes provide habitat for all kinds of prairie wildlife, but millions of migratory ducks could not survive without them," he emphasized. "Almost 50 percent of all North American ducklings are born in the pothole region. These prairie wetlands prevent flooding in years of heavy rainfall, and provide farmers and ranchers with important forage crops. They also act as buffers against water pollution. This decision will allow the Fish and Wildlife Service to purchase enough prairie potholes to meet the needs of thenation's migratory watefowl.'

Now's Time For Hunter Safety

AUSTIN -- The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department says summer is a good time for hunters and prospective hunters to think about taking a hunter safety training course.

The 10-hour courses, which cost only $1, are held in most counties of the state by volunteer instructors certified by the Parks and Wildlife Department.

The course stresses safe gun handling, but also includes tips on conservation, wildlife identification and hunter ethics.

Some states such as Colorado require nonresident hunters to complete a hunter safety course before being eligible for a hunting license. All such states recognize the Texas course.

To locate a hunter safety instructor in your area, contact a Parks and Wildlife Department office, local game warden, or call (512) 479-4999.

Mourning Dove Limit Increased

AUSTIN - Mourning dove hunters will be allowed to harvest 12 birds per day during the upcoming hunting over last year.

Possession limit on mourning doves will be 24 for the 1981-82 seasons.

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission in a meeting in Austin last week also modified the proposed South Zone mourning dove hunting dates. The season will open on the earliest possible date allowed under the federal framework set by the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service. The dates will be Sunday, Sept. 20, 1981, through Nov. 2, 1981, and Jan. 2-17, 1982.

The Sunday opening represents a departure from tradition, as the seasons normally start on a Saturday to provide a full weekend of hunting. However, hunters testifying at the hearing and department biologists concurred that in many parts of Southeast Texas most of the doves are native birds which tend to leave the area early in The North Zone season was adopted as proposed, Sept. 1 through Oct. 30, 1981. The wing-winged dove season for 16 counties along the Rio Grande will be Sept. 5-6 and 12-13. The whitewing bag and possession limits will at 10 and 20 respectively.

In all counties which do not have a whitewing season, shooting hours are one halfhour before sunrise to sunset. In counties having concurrent whitewing and mourning dove hunting, shooting hours will be noon to sunset during the four days of the whitewing season.

In South Zone counties which have an open season on whitewings, the fall season for mourning doves will end on Oct. 29.

Hunters should be aware that there also has been a change in the "fully feathered wing" requirement for doves. Last year, hunters in all South Zone counties were required to leave one feathered wing attached to all doves harvested, until the birds reach the hunter's home or a processing facility. This year, the commission specified 37 counties in which the requirement will be in effect, rather than the entire South Zone.

Mayonnaise And Salad Dressing Considered Safe For Summer

COLLEGE STATION -- A&M University System. How safe are mayonnaise and salad dressing during hot weather?

With family groups taking part in summer camps, picnics and other outings, many homemakers are concerned about the general safety of mayonnaise or salad dressing in sandwiches and salads.

Mayonnaise is of special interest because salads made with that ingredient have been implicated in food poisoning outbreaks in the past, according to the Food Quality and Safety Committee of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas

"Commercially prepared mayonnaise and salad dressing are safer than most people believe," says Al Wagner, committee chairman and Extension food technologist.

"These products will not support the growth of pathogenic bacteria. In fact, they are resistant to most microbial spoilage. Consequently, they should be of little public health concern," adds Dr. Ranzell Nickelson, committee member and Extension seafood technology specialist.

The misconceptions about mayonnaise may result from reported food poisoning cases in Europe or from homemade mayonnaise, Nickelson adds. In these cases, the acidity of the product has not been as high as in similar products in the United States.

While the exact origin of the word "Mayonnaise" is obscure, it may stem from French word 'moyeunaise,' "moyeu" meaning egg yolks.

Mayonnaise is-by government identity standards-a semi-solid emulsion of edible vegetable oil, egg yolk or whole egg, vinegar or lemon juice, usually with salt and

Salad dressing, a more recent derivative of mayonnaise, was first prepared in the early 1930s as a low-cost substitute for it, explains Dr. Cass Ryan-Crowe, committee member and Extension foods and nutrition specialist. It is essentially a cooked starch dressing mixed with mayon-

"Ingredients such as acetic (vinegar) and-or critric (lemon or lime) acid are responsible for the acidic nature of mayonnaise and salad dressing," she adds. These products lower the unit of measure (pH) that indicates the acidity or alkalinity of a product to 3.0 or 4.0, with 7.0 considered neutral for most food products.

"Since common spoilage and food poisoning bacteria prefer the neutral level of most foods, the lower unit of measure in salad dressing and mayonnaise will reduce or inhibit the growth of these bacteria," Wagner explains. "This is obvious in that both are shelf stable in the food market or home refrigerator after opening.' It's necessary to refrigerate mayonnaise after opening to combat contamination from household utensils previously used on raw food, Nickelson warns.

Salads in which the products are normally used also contain many ingredients that are subject to contamination, such as chopped meat products, eggs, potatoes, raw vegetables and spices. Additionally, other culprits may be unclean hands of food handlers, utensils and chopping boards, Nickelson cautions.

Consumers should consider these safety steps suggested by the Food Quality and Safe-

5. Shelf life of sandwiches prepared from processed meats, including bologna. salami and other cold cuts, can be lengthened if mayonnaise or salad dressing are applied to both pieces of bread.

6. Sandwiches and salads containing mayonnaise or salad dressing should be stored in insulated bags or ice chests for picnics and "brown bag" lunches, especially in ... hot summer months.

Before the strike by air traffic controllers erupted into the toughest labor confrontation of Ronald Reagan's administration, many bluecollar workers were unhappy helped elect. Now, the strike could help Reagan regain some popularity among this traditionally Democratic group and among Americans generally, a possibility some union leaders view with foreboding.

Douglas Fraser, United Auto Workers chief and among the most liberal American labor leaders, says the strike "could do massive damage to the labor movement" and that the main winner would be Reagan.

The public generally opposes strikes by the government workers responsible for public safety. The controllers gave Reagan the national equivalent of an unpopular police or firefighters strike.

The controllers called the first national strike by federal workers in U.S. history at the moment Reagan is riding the crest of public dissatisfaction with the costly federal govern-

In the campaign, Reagan strategists rightly said the GOP candidate's economic positions could appeal to the blue-collar workers who have substantially led to the past successes of the Democratic party.

On Election Day last year, blue-collar workers split their votes, with Reagan getting 48 percent and Carter 45 percent, an astonishingly good showing for a GOP candidate. Reagan didn't do quite as well among those from union households, losing their votes to Carter by a 42-50 margin, according to the AP-NBC News poll of more than 11,000 voters on Nov. 4. Since taking office, Reagan's support among blue-collar and union voters has eroded somewhat, the most recent AP-NBC poll showed.

For example, only 45 percent of the blue-collar workers gave Reagan good or

For folks interested in the arts of branding and roping. Figure 3 cowboys will give a Old West fashion.

The Figure 3 Ranch is a part of the original JA Ranch once run by Col. Charles Goodnight of Goodnight-Loving cattle trail fame. Christian's grandfather was a Panhandle pioneer and originally worked for Col. Goodnight.

The "Cowboy Morning" was developed by the Christian family in order to give visitors the opportunity to see a ranch as it operated 100 years ago.

"Since so much of our land and livestock are in the canyon, we still utilize the horse extensively to work our cattle," notes Christian.

Visitors arrive at the ranch house in a modern vehicle. But from there it is a trip back into the Old West.

Visitors take a wagon ride across the prairie to the breathtakingly-beautiful spot on the edge of the canvon.

"One thing that most people don't realize, is that it's not an easy thing to put a team of horses and a wagon together," says Christian. "We had some horses and purchased some more. Then we began to build our wagons and train the teams.

"We found the average age of an experienced team driver is between 75 and 80 years old. So we had to train our sons and others to drive the wagons."

The "Cowboy Morning" is a family operation with Christian, his wife Anne, and all of their children, Joe, Rit, Mary and Frannie.

When they are not running their summer "Cowboy Morning," the Christians run an Aoudad sheep and buffalo hunting operation on the floor of the canyon.

Aoudads are an exotic breed of African bighorn sheep which have been stocked in the canyon and have adopted it as their native home. The buffalo are a part of the original herds that roamed the plains and canyon during Indian times. "We think this is a unique

Contraceptive Methods Not Always Effective

Couples who are sexually active and who don't want to conceive a child usually practice some form of birth control. Many kinds of contraceptives are available, including birth control pills, the IUD, the diaphragm and the condom. Except for sterilization, there is currently no method of birth control which is 100 percent effective. There is always a chance, however small, of pregnancy.

The Texas Medical Association (TMA) says that all of these methods will protect you against an unnlanned pregnancy in most instances. However, the success of contraceptives depends on your careful and proper use of

In the most extreme instances there is currently a method of pregnancy preven-

"morning after pill" is shorttion available after the sex act has taken place. It is called the "morning after pill."

The "morning after pill" is not a back-up contraceptive method. It is used exclusively in the single, unpremeditated sex act. Its most common use is in cases of rape.

The "morning after pill" is not, as the name implies, one single pill at all. It is actually a series of high-dosage female hormone pills given over a five-day period. A more accurate name for the term, high-dosage estrogen therapy. Because of the therapy's side-effects, the "morning after pill" cannot be thought of as an alternate means of contraception, says TMA.

The drug used most often in this hormone therapy is diethylstilbestrol (DES). Side-effects of DES include vomiting and nausea. Recent medical research also has linked DES with cervical and vaginal cancer. The so-called "morning after pill" is no simple solution to poor judgment.

Even in the case of rape, this "morning after pill" is administered with great caution. If used at all, it is given to women who are in the middle of their monthly cycle. It must be given within 72 hours of intercourse, preferably within 24 hours.

The therapy works by preventing the possibly fertilized egg from becoming implanted in the womb.

Stitch as much as possible while the garment pieces are flat. For example, hem the sleeve or stitch on trim before stitching the under arm seam together. Also some sleeves can be sewn to the garment

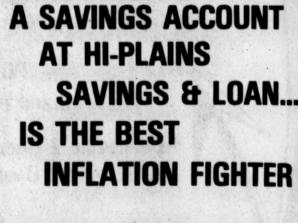

Use the free arm of machine when stitching small areas such as sleeves. Use the sleeve board for pressing these small areas

Use fabric that has body. This is more durable and easier to handle.

Select patterns that are simple with few seams. This will not only take less time to construct but also will be easier to care for. Decorate only the front or back of garments. This will mean less construction time and it will assist a child in learning the front from back of the garment.

When constructing pants, build in knee reinforcements

WTSU Dairy Trains Students

CANYON - The West Texas student in animal science, State University Dairy, located northeast of Canyon, produces more than 350 gallons of milk every day.

The dairy is managed by Joe Wise, a Canyon graduate and has 125 cows.

"Most work at the dairy is done by student employees," said Dr. Kenneth Wilson, associate professor of animal science and faculty advisor to the undergraduate students who do the dairy chores and the graduate student manager.

Students who are enrolled in course number 297, a Practicum in Animal Science, do chores that are related to the Dairy. They learn about feeding, breeding and health care of the animals and get three to six credit hours upon completion.

"The course, which is designed to permit greater hands-on-experience, gives our students an opportunity to do the real job and get exposed to the real husbandry," said Wilson. The cows are milked three times each day, at 4 a.m., 1 p.m. and 7 p.m. The milk is sold to private milk producers, who in turn, sell it to different milk companies, he

Wilson explained that the dairy is used for formal laboratory courses, such as

and livestock reproduction, which introduces topics such as pregnancy determination, artificial insemination, semen processing and embryo transfer.

The dairy also, hosts community activities such as 4-H and FFA judging contests and field trips for more than 3,000 Amarillo grade school students each year. WTSU animal science graduate students are required to their research studies at the dairy and continuing education courses are also offered at Registration for the fall semester classes at WTSU is Wednesday, August 26, in the WTSU Activities Center.

Grain Farmers Threaten Suit Over Government Corn Sales

Associated Press Writer Many Texas High Plains farmers will be forced into bankruptcy this year by capricious federal agency plans to dump surplus corn into an already tight market, the grain growers complain.

"I think it is going to break an awful let of farmers this year," says Merwyn Igo of Halfway, a corn farmer.

"This is the most unfair thing the USDA (U.S. Department of Agriculture) has ever done to a regional market in crop. our opinion and we think it's Harp of Abernathy, executive director of the Grain Sorghum Producers Association, which plans to sue the government. "I don't agree that we're a villain," counters Herb Cast with the commodity office of the USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service in Kansas City. Of the proposed lawsuit, Cast said, "We've been sued before - he's getting no virgin there." The subject of the brouhaha is a large supply - 45.3 million bushels - of excess corn the government bought in the Midwest last year and shipped to Texas for storage. It is to be used as "feed grain," meaning livestock feed rather than human consumption.

"In 1979 farmers across the U.S. were asked to plant fence-to-fence to supply the world market, especially Russian demand that developed for feed grains," Harp said. "We did this, and then came last year's Russian grain embargo."

producers with a lot of extra corn, particularly in the highproduction states of Iowa, Wisconsin and Minnesota. The government agreed to buy corn grown for the Soviet Union and store it in midwestern warehouses and elevators - for a while. But within months those warehousemen told the government to get its grain out of their storage space to make room for the upcoming

"It has been longstanding illegal," chimes in Elbert policy (in that circumstance) that we do our level best to move inventory, and we had plenty of storage offered to us in West Texas," Cast said.

In fact, he said, West Texas warehousemen were crying for business, so the government shipped them a large share of the surplus.

"About 60 percent of it was stored in Plainview," said

And there it sits today, with tempers flaring over plans for its disposition.

The Carter administration, Harp said, hinted that the corn would not be dumped on the local market, but no guarantees or decisions were made. After the election, Ronald Reagan's budget director, David Stockman, was outraged to discover the government owned so much surplus grain and ordered it "On June 19 we were informed that they were going to sell from this stock for unrestricted use," said Harp, and he began a campaign to collect a legal defense fund from association members.

That January 1980 stroke More than 600 farmers from "We're doing our level best by President Carter stuck" Brownsville, Texas, to Linto get the market price out of coln, Neb., chipped in and a law firm has been retained, Harp said "We hope to meet with the USDA again, sometime in the next couple of weeks, and discuss the problem," he said. "After that, we will make the final determination when and how to proceed. We hope we will not be forced into the legal action."

Harp says the grain was grown for export and that is where it should be sold, especially since there is too much of it for Texas feedlots to absorb.

"That grain that they dumped in our laps would fatten 1.1 million cattle," he said. "If it were all put in one train, the cars would stretch 250 miles.'

our inventory and selling it strictly in accordance with the law - so I don't really agree that we're a villain," he continued. "That's where we get to cross-purposes with Mr. Harp: He's got a point, I guess, and he's got an appealing kind of argument when you just look at it from a farmer's point of view."

And what is the farmer's point of view?

"We make about 8,000 to 9,000 pounds of corn an acre.' Igo said. "If the market price drops 50 cents a hundred (pounds), that's $45 an acre, if everything else is normal. If you're renting land, you might make $50 or $60 an acre off corn, so that 50-cent fall cuts your margin as low as $5

Lightning Causes 85% Of Cattle Deaths Protection Methods Recommended

By JULIE SMILEY

Farm Editor When natural disasters make headlines and the number of deaths is listed, lightning is not usually mentioned among the killers.

However, research shows that lightning killed 55 percent more Americans from 1940 through 1973 than tornadoes, and 41 percent more than hurricanes and floods, according to the Lightning Protection Institute, Harvard, Ill.

The Institute said many lightning deaths are not included in national summaries because lightning usually strikes only one victim at a time. The death of one from lightning does not attract as much national attention as several killed at once from floods, tornadoes and other Statistics by the World Meteorological Organization show an average of 10 lightning flashes to ground per square mile per year in the U.S. The Deaf Smith County area has a mean annual of 40 to 50 days a year with a thunderstorm.

Most likely targets are tall structures, or isolated trees and buildings.

Lightning, compared to an ordinary house current, is many times stronger. The normal house current has from 110 to 240 volts and 100 amperes or more. "A typical lightning discharge, with 10 to 100 million volts and 1,000 to 300,000 amperes, may leap a mile or more," according to the Institute. Lightning usually strikes in a 50-meter

Lightning is also a great destroyer of property, and again, this is not a wellknown fact because it usually strikes randomly, one target at a time.

The Institute said lightning bolts cause over 30 percent of church fires, over 18 percent of lumber yard fires, and damages or destroys an average of 18,000 homes and 12,000 other structures each year in the United States.

Of interest to cattle raisers is the fact that of every 1,000 cattle deaths in the U.S. annually, 850 deaths are related to lightning in some way, according to USDA statistics. Most animals killed by lightning result from lightning striking barns and trees, or striking the animal in an open field. Only 10 to 20 percent of annual U.S. cattle deaths are due to causes other than lightning, according to the In-

Dr. Don H. Poling, DVM, Vega, said he has "no way of kowing" how many animals are lost to lightning. It happens occasionally, but not every day.

Many do not report an animal struck by lightning, but a few will call and ask him to do an autopsy.

"It is difficult to tell if it is fresh," he said. "But there are some post-mortem signs." After eliminating other causes, Poling said he looks mostly for electrical burns on the animal's body.

"You can usually put it together, "he said. "They're is usually a fence near, or they are on top of a hill, or they were under a big tree."

Acording to the Institute, two-thirds of all cattle deaths could be prevented by protecting barns, loafing sheds and milking parlors with proper lightning rod systems. Properly protecting or fencing off pasture and wood lot trees is another recommendation.

In relation to numbers, barns are the most destroyed class of building, the report

Why are barns so susceptible to damage?

The Institutes' report said old and new barns are both highly flammable, prominent and distant from fire protec-

To protect the house, barn, sheds, silo and other farm buildings, all metal tracks, guys, lines and other metal bodies should be bonded to prevent sideflash.

A sideflash is a "secondary discharge between an object, like a kitchen sink or tree trunk and a nearby body (like yours) which has an electric charge of opposite polarity," the report said.

Arresters should be installed where needed, and fences should also be grounded, bonded and interrupted. Arresters are designed to protect wiring and appliances from electrical surges which could come over powerlines during a thunderstorm.

When using lightning rods. the report said they should be placed a maximum of 20 feet apart on high points of the roof and projections.

When outdoors during a thunderstorm, individuals are advised to get off the tractor and stay away from lone trees, machinery and metal objects, wire fences and dirtfloored, unprotected sheds and barns, said the Institute.

If an individual is in a thunderstorm with lightning striking all around and no available shelter, he should kneel down and bend low, keeping hands off knees and touching the ground only with knees and feet, according to the Institute.

About 1,800 thunderstorms occur around the world at any given moment, with about 100 strikes per second, according to the report.

Lawyers Selected To Defend Grain Farmers

By JULIE SMILEY Farm Editor

Lawyers have been selected to represent High Plains grain producers in the proposed lawsuit against the federal government over 45 million bushels of corn imported by the Commodity Credit Corporation.

Elbert Harp, Grain Sorghum Producers Association executive director, Abenathy, said GSPA and the Texas Corn Growers Association have employed the law firm of McWhorter, Cobb and Johnson, Lubbock, to defend area grain producers.

"It will take some time for the attorneys to prepare the case and file suit in federal court," said Harp. "As soon as they are ready, and we collect the rest of the money needed to continue the suit, we'll be ready to go." He said about 60 percentof the needed $250,000 has been collected.

David Langston has been chosen as part of the legal team because he is "No. 1 in government law and knows government inside and out," said Harp. He was assistant to Congressman George Mahon. Langston has represented agriculture in Congress and before USDA, and "knows the inner workings of government as well as anyone in West Texas," said Chosen for their experience and knowledge of government, Harp said the law firm chosen is also interested in West Texas farmers' wellbeing.

Following the Russian grain embargo, USDA bought about 200 million bushels of corn from grain-buying companies, and put it in storage. The grain companies had bought the grain from farmers to fill orders.

Midwest corn-belt states had to relocate stored corn to make room for the 1980 corn crop. Forty-five million bushels of corn were shipped to the northern High Plains.

Two-thirds of the 45 million bushels is being stored in the Plainview area, and the remainder within a 75-mile radius of that city, including

Hereford. Harp said the volume of grain imported to the High Plains is equal to 31 percent of the expected 1981 corn crop for New Mexico, Oklahoma

> GSPA and TCGA believes this action is illegal, and are ready to file suit against the federal government for losses imposed on producers in the High Plains.

AMARILLO - Growers having to make the most of a limited irrigation water supply will be interested in the 1981 Annual Field Day at the North Plains Research Field near Etter, August 19.

Cecil Regier, manager of the research field says high and low pressure sprinkler systems will be compared, improved furrow irrigation and furrow diking will be shown, and the best corn, sorghum and cotton varieties and hybrids will be on display.

According to Dr. G.B. Thompson, research director from the Texas A&M Center in Amarillo, the event will start at 1:30 p.m. with a welcome from Joe Cox, chairman of the North Plains Research Field Steering Committee. This will be followed by Dr. Robert Merrifield, associate director, who will describe expanded research in the next two years by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

Dr. Kenneth Porter, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station wheat breeder, will discuss yields from improved wheat and barley varieties. TAM 105 a new wheat variety developed by the researcher frequently yields 100 bushels per acre under high irrigation and fertility.

During the field tour of the east campus at the research field, Dr. Bob Stewart, USDA research director from Bushland, will describe the "Limited-Irrigation-Dryland (LID) System." "In two years of research, neither tail water nor runoff has left fields using this system," Stewart said. Furrow diking for dryland grain sorghum will be shown by Reggie Jones, USDA soil scientst.

For the first time in 1981, cotton varieties were planted at the research field. Dr. Jerry Quisenberry, USDA plant breeder, Lubbock, will discuss the potential of producing cotton on the North Plains. Regier and Tommy Moore will direct people through corn and sorghum hybrid trials.

In a separate tour of the west campus, Tom Marek and Dr. Dan Undersander, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station scientists, will describe the low and high pressure sprinkler systems being tested. In addition, they will present results of 1980 experiments comparing the two systems.

Conventional tillage, minimum tillage and no-tillage are being compared under the two sprinkler systems.

"We are planning the biggest field day since the start of the research field at Etter," Regier said, "and we believe growers will benefit from seeing our research.'

A meeting designed to organize a county-wide prairie dog control program will be held Aug. 11 at 12 noon at K-Bob's Steak House, Hereford, according to Juston McBride, county extension agent.

"This program can only be successful when conducted by all producers in a given area on the same date," said McBride.

Mike Yeary from the Rodent and Predatory Control Service has agreed to help with the program in Deaf Smith County. A time between August and the first of December will be chosen to implement the control program.

By DENISE SMITH Staff Writer

With a new format and a theme of "Raisin a Ruckus." the annual Miss Hereford Pageant will be staged here Saturday, Aug. 15, with 26 local coeds vying for the beauty title.

The new Miss Hereford will receive the crown now held by Diane Warden, along with $600 in cash provided by the sponsor-the Women's Division of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce.

The candidates for the title range between the ages of 15-18. First runnerup and second runnerup will recieve $300 and $200 cash, respectively.

The big pageant is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Saturday in the high school auditorium. The 26 candidates will be seen in evening-wear competition, and the 10 finalists will present their talent.

All 26 contestants will participate in a talent contest beginning at 2 p.m. Saturday. Admission to this part of the show is $1. The girls will also be interviewed by the three judges prior to the evening

The pageant production Saturday night will include special entertainment by Miss Hereford of 1980 and by Holly Hodges. The stage show is under the direction of Keith Ann Gearn, assisted by Terri Morgan, Admission is $2.50. Tickets are available at the C of C office.

Pre ticket sales are underway with tickets being placed at the Chamber of Commerce office, Casey's Books and Records, First National Bank, Hereford State Bank, Etcetera, Pants Cage, the Funny Farm and Boots and Saddles.

A former Cornhusker, John Dawson, program director for KGNC AM-FM in Amarillo since 1974 will emcee this year's Miss Hereford Pageant.

Dawson grew up small town of Crete, Neb. A graduate of Crete's Doane College, he began his radio career at KVRH in Salida. Colo., in 1952. For seven years he was program director and disc jockey at KFTM in Fort Morgan, Col. Later, in Denver, he was program director and newscaster for KOSI AM-FM for 14 years; the "beautiful music" format he helped establish at KOSI FM was a factor in the station's success which led this year to its sale for a U.S. record setting total of more than nine million dollars.

Dawson and his wife Sharon live within a block of KGNC; they have five grown children and three grandchildren. Sharon is a dental lab technician.

Dawson was a victim of the 1945 polio epidemic; his hobbies include swimming, writing and photography.

Judges for the event include Dr. Billy Ross and Avis Ross of Lubbock, and Walter Maynard of Dimmitt. Dr. Ross is chairman of the Mass Communications Department at Texas Tech University. His wife is an academic program assistant in the registrar's office at Tech. Both are former judges of the local pageant.

Mrs. Maynard has served on the steering committees of the Miss Grain Sorghum of the Nation pageant and the Miss Dimmitt pageant, and she is a talent consultant for both of the pageants. 833 Children Enroll In 'Monster Madness'

By DIANNE PIERSON

County Librarian The Deaf Smith County Library has been an exciting place this summer. "Monster Madness," the Summer Reading Club, was a tremendous sucess.

Total enrollment was 833 children. Approximately 385 children completed the requirements of "Monster Madness;" and 114 children read at least 10 books each. The Tuesday morning programs at the library were also a great success. Special thanks to all the parents who came to the weekly programs and helped us each week. Our weekly programs averaged 235 children each. Some programs we had approximately 325 children. We're looking forward to next year's pro-

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

A couple in England who wanted to adopt a child were turned down because they were too happy and officials said, "The child would not be exposed to the negative aspects of life."

Boy, that's something we all fight every day, isn't it? With a houseful of kids dancing around, spilling sugar, destroying furniture, clogging up the toilet, borrowing your car, and changing clothes every three hours, it's really hard not to "go with the flow" and succumb to terminal happiness.

That's why, early in motherhood, I made up my mind that my kids were going to get all the advantages of being exposed to the "negative aspects of life" if I had to sit up nights. It was a rotten job, but someone had to do it.

My children have never told me to my face, but I hear from other people they have declared me the best bluebird of misery to ever come down the pike.

I try. "Negative aspects" are more effective when a child is happy. Example: You have just told your child he can go with you on an airplane to visit your sister in Pennsylvania. He jumps up and down with ecstasy and you say, "You keep bobbing up and down like that and you're going to hit your head on the cupboard, and end up in the hospital with a concussion and you can just stay home."

Prom nights can also be made depressing if you try. "You look wonderful, but if you're not home at curfew, we're going to be waiting up for you and you'll regret this night for the

Even the occasion of a new bicycle is fertile ground for negativism. "Happy birthday! And remember, if you so much as leave this bike unlocked, just once..it's gone. They never find them and you'll be back to pedaling your feet!"

Frankly, it's hard for me to imagine a home where parents never point out life's pitfalls. They never know hostility. They never know anger. What do they talk about?

Candle Wedding Unites Couple

Miss Bette Carol Stewart of Dawn and David Lathon Johnson of Amarillo, were married Saturday evening in Polk Street United Methodist Church, Amarillo, by Dr. Clifford Trotter, pastor.

Two brass spiraling candleabras boasting ivory tapers highlighted the church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Stewart of Dawn. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lathon Johnson of Amarillo.

Attending the bride was Claudia Kay Suttle of Bangs. Best man was Bob Harston of Bridesmaids were Kinda Kay Neie, the bride's sister of Lubbock; and Cynthia Ann Stewart, the bride's sister-inlaw of Amarillo:

Groomsmen were Dennis Roy Johnson, the groom's brother of Amarillo; and Darren Haley, also of Amarillo. Guests were escorted to their seats by Dan Wesley Johnson, the groom's brother of Amarillo; Gerald Ray

Stewart, the bride's brother, also of Amarillo; and Bobby G. Neie, the bride's brotherin-law of Lubbock. Attending as flower girl was Heather Lynn Stewart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Stewart. Steven Dale Stewart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Neie was ring bearer. Serving as candle lighters were Jennifer Joy Stewart and Kevin Duane Neie. The adult handbell choir of Polk Street United Methodist Church, under the direction of Robert Pfaw, rendered the bride and groom's wedding selections. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a chapel length ivory gown, featuring a high beaded bodice and scalloped neckline accented by sleeves of chiffon ruffles, which fell gracefully over tightly-fitted headed cuffs.

She wore an ivory fingertip length tulle with a beaded Juliet cap. She carried a silk arrangement of peace roses accented by stephanotis and

For jewelry the bride chose to wear a pearl necklace, which was a gift from the groom, and pearl earrings which she borrowed from her mother.

Her attendants wore floorlength, sleeveless soft yellow crepe dresses draped by pink choffon overlays with V-necklines

A reception followed the candle light wedding in the social hall of the church. Guests were registered by Rosemary Margaret Dyches of Lubbock.

Karen Marie Oglesby of Sweeney served the bride's three-tiered cake which was laced with sugar peach roses and highlighted by a flowing fountain. Punch and coffee were served by Alice Ann Gunter of Fritch. Others assisting the reception party was Martha P. Harston of Amarillo.

For a wedding trip to New Mexico, the bride wore a street length ivory dress featuring a V-neckline and laced bodice.

The couple will make their home in Amarillo after Aug.

The bride is a 1978 graduate of Hereford High School. She is presently attending Amarillo College studying computer systems and library science. She is employed by Blankinship Enterprises of Amarillo. The groom is a 1975 graduate of Amarillo High School. He attended Texas Tech University and is presently attending Amarillo College, studying computer information systems. He is employed by Texas Electric of Amarillo.

Palo Duro Baptist Ladies Host Westgate Party

WESTGATE GATE By Helen Kirkeby

The Westgate birthday party for July was again hosted by the ladies of the Palo Duro Baptist Church. Residents having birthdays were Vada Barton, Mildred Elliott, Mae Coffee, Mary Emma Payne, William Thomas and Ludie Dean. A variety of cakes and good homemade ice cream were served. Thank you ladies for your special treat we loved it all.

We are always grateful to all who volunteer their services in our Nursing Unit. You are dedicated people who deserve a great deal of credit for the love shown the elderly. You are a very important part of our team and we hope that you will continue to remain a part of our activity program in the future.

The doors of Westgate have taken on a new look recently with the addition of name plates, donated through the generosity of the Home Builders Class of the First United Methodist Church. They are a very attractive addition to our halls and we invite you to come and see for yourself. Many, many thanks to all of you who have helped in this project. May God bless each and every one of you.

KING'S MANOR NEWS

By Ruby Stevenson King's Manor Lamar Memorial Garden Room was the setting for the Candlelight wedding ceremony July 31st, at 7:00 P.M. of our hostess, Mrs. Mildred Porter and Mr. Andy Powers, one of our residents.

Music was furnished by Mrs. Katie Price at the piano as guests arrived. Rev. Wallace Kirby, Chaplain, performed the single ring ceremony. The bride wore a beautiful blue street length georgette dress. There was a reception following for the many centered with a large arrangement of roses. The three tiered wedding cake was beautifully decorated with pink roses. The brides cake was served by Mrs. Edith McElwee. Punch was served by Mrs. Bibby Morgan. The grooms table was lovely, centered with a large chocolate cake decorated with blue flowers and two gold horseshoes entwined. Mrs. Molly Ritter served coffee while Mrs. Eunice Petersen served the

First United Methodist Church To Begin 1981-82 Choir Program

All choirs of the First United Methodist Church, for adults, youth and children. will begin their 1981-82 program August 17. Registration is underway now, according to Bert Bostic, music

First rehearsals will be held August 17, and other rehearsals are scheduled for the various groups on five days of each week.

There will be three handbell choirs in addition to the vocal groups. The Ladies Handbell Choir is tentatively scheduled to rehearse at 6:30 p.m. On Thursdays, Youth Handbell Choir for those in grades 7-12 at 4:30 p.m. Sundays and a beginners handbell choir, grades 4-6, at 4:30 p.m. Tuesdays.

clude: Cherub Choir, age 3-K. at 3 p.m. and the Carol Choir, grades 4-6, at 4 p.m. Mondays; Sunshine Choir, grades 1-3, at 4 p.m. Youth Choir, grades 7-12, at 6:30 p.m. and the Sanctuary Choir, high school students and adults, at 8 p.m. all on Wednesdays.

Registration forms are available at the church office, Bostic said, or he can supply them. In the children's choirs, Choir Mothers will assist with registration and transportation.

the past 17 - an argument.

The big jerk said, "She is not MY mother - she's yours. You buy her something." For Christmas last year he gave me a set of mops. Last year it was a new motor for the washing machine.

I know he loves me. When I was sick in the hospital with a ruptured appendix three years ago he almost went out of his mind. So why can't he take the time to buy me a sweet card for a quarter when my birthday rolls around? What's wrong with people who don't have an ounce of sentiment in their souls? Please explain - From Missouri But He Won't Show

DEAR MISSOURI: Your husband probably received very little affection when he was growing up. When this happens it is very difficult (sometimes impossible) to be affectionate with others. I'll bet the big jerk is really nutty about you. He just doesn't know how to express it. Instead of being resentful and hard-boiled, soften up and teach him.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: In the last few months you have rerun two wonderful columns I had not seen before. I wish you would do repeats more

I never miss your articles when I am in town, but when I'm traveling I'm too busy to see a paper. The repeats are always of superior quality. Trust those people who ask for another look. We all profit from it.-Morristown, N.J.,

DEAR N.J.: Thanks for the bouquet. Here's another point

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Another rerun today. What's the matter with you? Getting lazy in your old age? If you can't furnish your readers with a fresh column every day I suggest you retire. I feel gypped when I see a repeat. The next time it happens I am going to call the publisher and complain .-- Want My Money's Worth

DEAR MONEY'S WORTH: can't please everybody, so I'm going with the person whose letter appears above yours. I'm still getting thankyou letters on "Dead at 17" and I've run it three times.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: In social conversation recently someone used the expression "lace curtain Irish." My husband (a Protestant) asked the woman what the expression meant. She said, "It means a terrible housekeeper who never dusts the cobwebs from the windows, and they look like lace curtains."

I was brought up in South Boston and heard that expression often. "Lace curtain Irish" are people who can afford the best while their poor neighbors have to stuff newspapers through the broken panes to keep the cold

Dean Sets Goals For School

WTSU - A closer working relationship with hospital and health officials and a collaboration with the region's newest school of nursing are among the goals of Dr. Charlotte Rappsilber, who will begin her first semester as dean of the West Texas State University School of Rappsilber, who succeeded Dr. Hazel Aslakson in July, has spoken to members of the Panhandle Association of Hospital Administrators and has scheduled a meeting on Aug. 10 with the dean of Texas Tech University's new nursing school at Lubbock and with directors of Amarillo College's nursing program and Northwest Texas Hospital School of Nur-

VFW Supports Wigwam

An official meeting of the Veterans of Foreign War was held Thursday evening at the VFW Hall. Among action taken, the organization decided to support Camp Wigwam with a donation of $100.

The group also decided to sponsor one camper for the ference Center in Amarillo.

"I don't think we'll lose any Amarillo students, but we may emphasize our RN degree completion program more," she explained. There has been no enrollment decrease in the generic program but we may need to spend more time on recruiting and let potential students know what having a baccalaureate degree means to their future career in nurs-

Rappsilber said she plans no major changes in the WTSU nusing school because "the program is so wellestablished and successful and we have such a seasoned faculty."

Providing continuing education to area registered nurses is a goal. Continuing education for nurses has been emphasized regionally, she said, and a public demand does exist.

Continuing education will focus on enrichment and expansion of training for RNs in hospitals and as a community service in collaboration with the Amarillo Hospital District and Amarillo College's nursing program.

The new dean said she also plans faculty development incentives especially for the nursing faculty members who are interested in writing and research. She also is working on the application for a grant to offer gerontological nursing or nursing for the elderly.

The WTSU program, with an average of about 20 teaching faculty members and almost 400 students, is a larger program than at Corpus Christi State University where Rappsilber had been since 1976. The nursing program at Corpus Christi State University had seven faculty members, fewer than 100 students and graduated the first class in 1976.

She will teach a master's course in nursing administration during the fall semester which begins on Thursday. Aug. 27.

"I hope to see the master's degree program grow to meet the increasing demand," she said. "There's more demand for nurses than there is supply. There are more nurses now than ever before, but the health system just swallows them up.'

A former first lieutenant in the United States Air Force and a flight nurse in the Pacific, Rappsilber also has authored a book chapter on leadership for change in nursing and organized the Association of Inservice Directors.

During several summers, she has served as a staff nurse, not as a supervisor, at community hospitals to keep in touch with what nurses experience.

"It's awfully important for the faculty to know what's going on in the front line of nursing. It's a real shocker that we're not always teaching nurses what they need to know," she said. For example, she explained that nurses in the past only had to memorize about 100 medications and the number has ined to probably 100,000.

When she talks with hospital administrators ando ther health care professionals, she said, "It's so important to keep in communication so they can understand the curriculum problems and we can understand their needs. It always brings t omind how increasingly much nurses need to know. If we taught all they wanted nurses to know, it would take a 10-year curriculum. However, we work closely to insure that essential knowledge is included and skills for problem-solving in new situations are emphasized.

IT'S TRUE: BUT DON'T PRESS THE PANIC BUTTON!

Some of Jesus' disciples began talking about the beautiful stonework of the Temple and the memorial decorations on the walls.

But lesus said, "The time is coming when all these things you are admiring will be knocked down, and not one stone will be left on top of another; all will become one vast heap of rubble. "Master!" they exclaimed. "When? And will there be any warning ahead of time?"

He replied, "Don't let anyone mislead you. For many will come announcing themselves as the Messiah, and saying, 'The time has come.' But don't believe them! 'And when you hear of wars and insurrections beginning, don't panic. True, wars must come, but the end won't follow immediately--for nation shall rise against nation and kingdom against kingdom. and there will be great earthquakes, and famines in many lands, and epidemics, and terrifying things happening in the heavens.

But before all this occurs, there will be a time of special persecution, and you will be dragged into synagogues and prisons and before kings and governors for My name's sake. But as a result, the Messiah will be widely known and honored."

Villian Of Larry King's Play Is Very Popular

HOUSTON (AP) - A year after television reporter Marvin Zindler's coverage forced Fayette County Sheriff Jim Flournoy to close the famous "Chicken Ranch" brothel in La Grange, Texas, 6-foot-5 "Big Jim" was still mad.

So mad, in fact, that when KTRK-TV's consumer affairs reporter showed up again, Flournoy, then 71, threw Zindler's toupee into the mud, broke two of his ribs and told him to "get the hell out of

The two eventually settled out of court for an undisclosed amount, but to this day lots of folks in La Grange, 90 miles west of here, resent the big city newsman whose expose did in the 120-year-old institution which inspired Larry King's play "The Best Little Whorehouse in Texas."

For that matter, there are people right here in Zindler's hometown who don't care much for him. But he is nevertheless the most recognized local television celebrity in Houston, and many regard him as an angel of mercy.

Either way, no one accuses him of being conventional.

His singsong signoff -MA-A-A-R-VIN ZINDLER, E-Y-Y-Y-E-WITNESS NEWS!" - at the end of each night's broadcast could drown out a jet whine. It is the loudest part of what may be the noisiest two minutes on any evening news

His voice is not the only thing that's loud. Beneath Zindler's white toupee are a white suit, a white shirt, a white tie, white socks, white shoes - and purple tinted glasses. Zindler isn't used to being cast as the villain, as he was in King's play. The formula for his stories always involves victims and villains, says Dave Davis, producer of the station's 10 p.m. news. And Davis says KTRK takes pains to ensure that Zindler is always on the right side in consumer disputes.

We take the victim first, then waste no time in getting to the guy in the black hat," says Davis. "When we do, there's usually not much he can say. The best thing he can do is say that he appreciates Marvin's calling the problem to his attention and that he'll do his best to correct it."

The formula also calls for lots of indignation.

On a recent show Zindler was furious because an elderly woman (the Victim) was starving. She had been unable to get an appointment through the Harris County Hospital Board (the Villain) to be fitted with dentures.

The next night he reached the same level of rage because a teen-ager (the Victim) has yet to receive payment ($1,282.50) for a calf he sold to the owner of a yard maintenance service (the Villain) at a Future Farmers of America auction.

"An inequity is an inequity," he says.

The mail supplies Zindler with stories. His secretary, Betty Barry, reads more than 50,000 letters a year and gleans from them about a dozen candidates a day for

Though she is in large part responsible for Zindler's success, Mrs. Barry says she to his next appointment. would not trade places with Zindler himself supplies the anger that goes into his broadcasts. It's no act, Davis "If he weren't 100 percent convinced that he's right, he couldn't get on the air and yell and scream," Davis In private today he rails repeatedly about the man who failed to pay the boy for the calf. "He should have paid that

All of this has made Zindler with the possible exception of Earl Campbell - the most widely recognized man in Houston. He draws a crowd every time he gets out of his car. Kids shout his name and imitate his signoff.

In some circles, Zindler may also be the most respected man in town. A score of people gather around him at a low-income housing project, hoping to touch him, some daring to shake his hand. Others stand with their eyes upturned as if to receive a blessing.

"I know," Zindler says, his eves full of compassion. "Maybe we can get some of those Guardian Angels out here," referring to a New York-based volunteer citizen force organizing in Houston.

"That'd sure be good," the man says, his face suffused in happiness, although he does not look certain he knows what a Guardian Angel is.

"I can relate to the Guardian Angels because I used to ride with the police back when I was a kid," Zindler says later. Davis says that's a key to Davis says KTRK's news shows lead the ratings.

"Marvin is what we call a hook," Davis says. "It takes something like a Marvin to get people off the couch to change the channel at 10 o'clock."

Davis pulls no punches in talking about the real Zindler.

"He's a jerk in person," Davis says. "But I knew there was enough good in him that I could work with him."

Armed Forces Government Says A Military Operation Is Underway

LA PAZ, Bolivia (ap) -The armed forces govern-ment said Friday "a military operation is under way accor-ding to plan" to gain control over rebel army units based in the southeastern city of Santa Cruz.

Government secretary Enrique Crespo made the brief announcement of the operation in a report by telephone to The Associated Press.

He gave no details, and denied a report that rebel soldiers had turned back air force planes attempting to land loyal troops at Santa Cruz, 325 miles southeast of La Paz. "It's a lie, there is no truth in that," he said.

Military sources in La Paz said earlier that loyal infantry and armored units had been ordered to Cochabamba, 135 miles southeast of La Paz and on the highway to Santa Cruz. The Cochabamba army commanders were of Gen. Luis Garcia Meza, demands Tuesday and mander, led a coup against a resigned as president. Military sources and witnesses at the La Paz airport said one of the rebel leaders, Gen. Alberto Natusch Busch, arrived at the airport in the afternoon to join in church-sponsored talks.

Study Says Energy Conservation Could Save 7 Million Barrels Of Oil A Day

HOUSTON (AP) - An in- ings the United States might dustry study indicates energy conservation could amount to the equivalent of 7 million barrels of crude oil a day by 1990 with only minor lifestyle changes and without abrupt social changes or political ac-

Shell therefore took 1977 energy use rates, projected economic and population growth, social and political attitudes, and developed an energy use profile for 1990.

The projections indicated that, without any particular effort to conserve, energy use would be expected to increase from the equivalent of 35.9 million barrels of oil a day in 1977 to 47.6 million barrels in "Energy use would grow at an average rate of slightly less than 1 percent a year as new energy saving technology comes into use,' the study report said.

"The moderate case would require the adoption of available new technology at 'normal' rates, consistent with moderately increasing energy prices, historic investment criteria, and equipment retirement schedules. It would not require, or result in, abrupt social changes or political actions. There would be only minor lifestyle changes, with the old system remaining available to those whose values and or purchas-

But, Shell said, the effect of new energy realities is evident. "Pre-embargo estimates of 1990 energy demand were about 67 million barrels a day and, as recently as a year ago, estimates were at about 55 million barrels a day," the report said.

Shell identified a variety of conservation measures and estimated the energy savings that would result at two different levels of conservation effort, moderate and intensive, by comparing each with the 1977 reference case.

Under "moderate" conservation efforts, it was estimated energy use in 1990 could be held to about 40 million barrels of crude oil equivalent a day, 16 percent below that of 1977 and a daily savings of more than 7

ing power allow or dictate it."

Under the "intenstive" level of effort, the study anticipates faster energy price increases and a much greater emphasis on conservation. Shell estimates such an effort could hold energy use by 1990 to about 36 million barrels a day crude oil equivalent, 23 percent below the reference case, and a savings of 12 million barrels a day. Such a level would be slightly above retirement of many capital equipment items. For this to heppen, both political and economic pressure for conservation would be great, with many conservation incentive programs. There would be large lifestyle changes, with very few retaining the old style."

Shell said it was once thought that energy use could not be reduced without reducing economic growth, "but the experience over the past decade has changed that view."

The study report said the amount of energy consumed for each dollar of Gross National Product dropped steadily in the last decade.

Shell expects the trend to continue in the 1980s as GNP grows about 2.5 percent annually and the energy-GNP ratio declines to near 45 by 1990.

But, Shell adds, there still is much debate over the amount of energy that will be needed and can be saved in the future and about the measures that should be taken to achieve various

Several Injured, 2,000 Evacuated After Derailment

- Shifting winds bearing a cloud of toxic gas forced more than 2,000 people to flee their homes Friday after a chemical tank car was punctured in a freight train derailment in downtown Bridgman. police said.

Chemical experts temporarily plugged the leak about midmorning, about seven hours after the train derailed, and a permanent plug was installed about an hour later.

"The cloud was right over our house," said Mary Jo Reck, 58, who lives two blocks from the accident site. "It looked like a rocket launch with those big, billowy clouds."

Late Friday, state police Set. Jeff Wallis said the cloud "has lightened up a lot. This morning, you couldn't see for a whole city block." State health officials, air and water quality experts rushed to this southwest Michigan town of 2,300 to advise in the emergency. Officials initially evacuated 1,000 people who live nearest the derailment. but were forced three times Natural Resouto expand the evacuation in Bridgman.

BRIDGMAN, Mich. (AP) move the toxic cloud, said Berrien County Sherriff's

Deputy Jon Spencer. In all, an estimated 2,600 people were evacuated from Bridgman and nearby Lake Township, said Wallis, who added that the earliest that evacuees would be allowed back into the area was early Saturday. 'The earliest we're looking is 2 a.m. and that's speculative," Wallis said.

Spokesmen at hospitals in Benton Harbor, St. Joseph and Berrien Springs said 14 people were treated Friday for burning eyes and throats. None had required hospitalization.

As evacuees were taken to River Valley High School, about 6 miles south of the town, police prepared to close nearby Interstate 94, a major east-west thoroughfare, if the wind shifted.

Gov. William Milliken's spokesman said state health officers were on hand to "determine the impact on water supplies" and to see if medical reinforcements were needed. Air quality experts from the state Department of Natural Resources also were

Detective Hailed As Hero For Solving Mysterious 'Suicides'

HOUSTON (AP) - Johnny mistaken rulings of suicide, Bonds, 33, grew up a "country kid" in Kemp, Texas, the son of a farmer. "I've worked at some kind of job since I was 10 or 11 years old," he Markham Duff-Smith, 34, was raised in Houston's fashionable River Oaks neighborhood. He moved from job to job and fancied himself an investor.

In 1979, the two men's lives became entwined. As a result, one became a hero. The other was sentenced to die, accused of arranging the murders of four people - including a baby - so he could inherit his family's money.

Police Detective Bonds' two years of tracking Duff-Smith ended last week with the death sentence, but he still gets worked up when he reflects on the celebrated murder case.

His digging overturned two in the head. John Wanstrath one of them more than four vears old.

"One thing about this case is I was mad," Bonds says, "I was mad at Duff-Smith. I was mad at the medical examiners. To think that somebody could something this horrible and get away with it!

"I resent anybody that feels like everything ought to be given to them," he says. "I detested him."

Bonds' and Duff-Smith's paths first crossed on July 6.

Bonds had been sent out on a homicide investigation. Three bodies had been found in a home in the fashionable Memorial area of Houston. They were Diana Wanstrath. 36, her 35-year-old husband and their 14-month-old son,

Each victim had been shot was slumped in his chair. Diana lay in front of the fireplace. Kevin was facedown in his crib, next to his teddy bear.

Bonds said he had seen many bodies during his seven years as a homicide detective, but he could not forget Kevin Wanstrath, and says he vowed to find the baby's

He says he is not bitter, but he still does not understand why the Harris County medical examiner ruled the slayings a murder-homicide. The case was closed after the examiner ruled that Diana Wanstrath shot her husband and infant son, then herself.

There was one fact that especially troubled Bonds there was no gun at the scene. Medical examiners said perhaps it had been removed by someone trying to save the family embarrassment.

Bonds did not buy that. "When they came down with that ruling, I thought, 'Well, why do I do this job?"

Despite the ruling, which officially closed the case, Bonds continued to investigate. He was encouraged by phone calls from friends of Diana Wanstrath who said they did not believe she could be a murderer.

Because the Wanstraths left a sizable estate, he said, he considered all heirs possible suspects.

The one who got the lion's share of the money was Diana's adopted brother, Markham Duff-Smith. Bonds was suspicious when he met the brother the night after the bodies were discovered.

"He didn't show any emotion at all - very businesslike," Bonds said. "As soon as he left, we thought, 'there's something wrong. This guy doesn't react right.'

"We confronted the whole family after the funeral and told them, 'Look, all of y'all are making money off of this, and just about every one of you is a suspect.' And we asked them all to take polygraphs. By confronting all of them together, nobody could say no.

"So everybody comes in to take the polygraph, and Duff-Smith's the last one, and he's the only one that shows up with an attorney," Bonds says. "He blew it. He was the only one who had a problem with the polygraph.'

Bonds said he was then certain he was on the right track. He played a hunch and got the file on another unusual death in Duff-Smith's family - the 1975 strangulation "suicide" of Duff-Smith's mother, Trudy Zabolio.

"By about July 24th (1979), I was convinced the Zabolio case had been murder, too," Bonds said.

The Veterans of Foreign War recently held a benefit dance in Hereford, with proceeds being given to the Kristi Holmes fund established at the Hereford State Bank. The VFW was able to raise $416.85 which was presented to Nell Rhoton, teller at the bank, by L.R. Boggs, left, and Tommy Goheen, VFW commander. Kristi was unable to be present for this presentation due to illness. The Holmes family would like to extend their appreciation and thanks to everyone who has helped by their donations.

Tans Are Tempting But Not Always Healthiest

Fashion being what it is, it strongest - and so are your burn on cloudy days and is unlikely that a pale summer face will be the rage this year or next. But a healthy glow is not the same thing as a deep tan or sunburn. If you do intend to get a tan, try to satisfy yourself with just enough sun to avoid that pasty I'm-in-the-office-all-day

Prolonged exposure to the sun has well-proven bad effects on the skin, says the Texas Medical Association (TMA). Studies have shown that over-exposure to the sun can cause premature wrinkling and aging of the skin, and is a major cause of skin cancer. Basically, there is no health value in tanning.

If you are unable to resist the lure of a tan, however, start slowly. Begin with 15 minutes in the sun, gradually increasing to 30 or more minutes per day.

Always protect your eyes and the sensitive skin of the eyelids by wearing sunglasses.

Use a sunscreen preparation that contains PABA, a chemical which blocks the burning ultraviolet rays of the sun while letting the tanning rays come through. Preparations which contain 55 to 75 percent alcohol adhere to the skin best. Never use baby oil or other creams which do not contain PABA. Suntan lotions also lubricate the skin, preventing it from drying out in the sun.

Avoid being out in the sun from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. This is when the sun's rays are

Washington Star a Fallen Star

WASHINGTON (AP) The Washington Star published its last edition Friday and had its biggest press run. It outsold its competition and, at age 128, died proud.

"There is a great silence today in Washington," wrote one reader, the president of the United States. "A fine newspaper is gone and a noble tradition ended."

Ronald Reagan's epitaph was etched on a front page bearing a bold legend that never before was meant to be taken literally. "FINAL EDI-TION," it said.

But the final was a special, too. With its reporters still on the street, scrambling after the news one last time, The Star went out with a hefty, 80-page paper full of reminiscence, pride and nostalgia - and with a bittersweet abundance of the advertising it couldn't find when it counted.

Inside, the Star four pages of letters reflected readers' dismay at the closing of a paper that had been dropped on to Washington front porches for more than a century and a quarter. In recent years, the thud hasn't been loud enough and the front porches hadn't been numerous enough, and so the paper closed, even though it had 322,000 subscribers and a reputation for steady, solid reporting.

One reader, paraphrasing Shakespeare, blamed the community for the paper's demise: "The fault, dear readers, lies not in The Star, but in ourselves."

As for 'Reagan's observance of "a great silence," that was a bit premature. There was a great clamor for the final Star. At the end, Washingtonians couldn't buy Dealers hawked it for up to $3 a copy, some from the trunks of their cars. People bought stacks of 10 and 20 copies for souvenirs and police had to line up the crowds, 100 deep at times.

The Star said it wound up printing 640,000 copies almost twice the normal press run. It was the first time the Star run exceeded the weekday circulation of the rival Washington Post since March, 1954, when the Post bought and merged with the old Washington Times-Herald. The Post normally circulates about 585,000 copies.

Quality Answering Service Hereford, Texas

But, as Assistant Managing Editor George Beveridge put it, the surge in Star circulation "came a little late."

Time, Inc., the paper's last owner, announced two weeks ago it would close the paper

- which it said was losing $55,000 a day - unless a new buyer could be found. None could, but the reprieve gave the Star two weeks to prepare its obituary and the community two weeks to prepare for the event.

The Star's demise made Washington the country's largest one-city newspaper.

Russia competed in the Olympic Games, revived in 1896, for the first time in 1952.

"ENDLESS LOVE"

"Endless Love" From Universal Pictures. Produced by Dyson Lovell. Directed by Franco Zeffirelli. Starring Brooke Shields and Martin Hewitt. Rated "R." *

By STEVE K. WALZ-FILM CRITIC

Scott Spencer's novel about passionate teenaged love was praised by many literary critics, but Franco Zeffirelli's attempt to translate it for the big screen is an outright failure.

REVIEW

"Endless Love" turns out to be nothing more than a Brooke Shields vehicle, complete with heavy breathing, this time to heighten boxoffice interest. I'm not one to downplay Brooke's looks, for she is phenomenally beautiful, but I cannot fathom why she must continue to do roles

·like this over and over again. With each film Brooke is becoming more and more typecast as a young nymph waiting to be liberated by a gorgeous hunk of male beef. n this case it's Martin Hewitt, portraying a 17-year-old high school student named David to Brooke's 15-year-old Jade. David's parents are too busy disliking each other to realize that their son has been stay ing out all night making passionate love to this young girl, who hasn't even reached the age of consent. Gosh, what a lesson for today's teens, huh? Jade's affair with David becomes too much even for her hip parents, so the youngman is barred from seeing her for thirty days. In his anger, David tries to burn down Jade's house and is subsequently thrown in the nut house. But his desires haven't been doused in the least. So the saga continues.

For two hours, I sat and wondered when this film was going to end. The storyline was razor thin, the acting ludicrous at best, and Brooke rendered the kind of performance the audience came looking for-purely physical. So no matter how much I dislike the film, people will still flock to see "Endless Love," only because Brooke gets to make whoopee. What a waste of beauty and potential screen talent.

"BLOW OUT"

"Blow Out" From Filmways Pictures. Produced by George Litto. Written and directed by Brian DePalma. Starring John Travolta and Nancy Allen. Rated "R." * *

REVIEW

"Blow Out" is a thriller new sounds, he witnesses a terrible car accident. The that Sally's expired date was more "Sweathog" in this pera major political figure, and sona the politician's strongmen request that he keep his mouth sued by a tr. ned hit man who wants to eliminate any incriminating evidence they may have in their possession.

'Blow Out" keeps 'you riveted to the screen as the taken right out of today's film builds to a pulsing headlines. John and Nancy crescendo. But the climactic Allen (DePalma's fabulously showdown between Jack, gifted wife) are caught up in a Sally and the hitman is sometale of political intrigue. Jack what disappointing. LOS ANGELES (AP) -The police show "Hill Street Blues" has swept the Emmy nominations, but "Lou Grant" and the two miniseries "Shogun" and "Masada" were not far behind.

"Hill Street Blues," which airs on NBC, received 21 nominations, believed to be a record number for a regular dramatic series. Only "Roots," with 33, got more, the Academy of Television Arts and Sciences announced Thursday.

"Shogun," also on NBC, had 14 nominations, and ABC's "Masada" and CBS's "Lou Grant" tied at 13 each.

Two comedy series, ABC's "Taxi" and CBS's "M-A-S-H" each got nine.

Other multiple nominations went to CBS's "Playing for Time" and "Dallas" and PBS's "Dance in America," six each; NBC's "Barbara Mandrell and the Mandrell Sisters," CBS's "WKRP in Cincinnati" and PBS's "Cosmos" and "National Geographic Specials," five CBS led in nominations with 104. NBC was second with 92, and ABC was third with 79. PBS got 32, and seven went to syndicated shows.

Nominations are for programs telecast between July 1, 1980 and June 30, 1981.

The prime-time Emmy Awards will be presented Sunday Sept. 13 at the Pasádena Civic Auditorium. CBS will carry it live.

"Hill Street Blues" was nominated as best dramatic series, and seven members of the cast were selected. Daniel Travanti was nominated for best actor in a dramatic series, and regular Veronica Hamel and guest star Barbara Babcock were nominated as best actresses. Supporting nominations went to Michael Conrad. Charles Haid, Bruce Weitz, Barbara Bosson and Betty Thomas.

"Shogun," in which Richard Chamberlain played a shipwrecked English sailor who became a samurai and Toshiro Mikfune was a Japanese warlord, was nominated for best limited scries. They were nominated

'Hill Street Blues' Tops Nominee List as best lead actors, Yoko best dramatic series. Other nominations went to Edward Asner as best lead actor and to Mason Adams, Robert Walden, Linda Kelsey and Nancy Marchand for their supporting roles.

"Taxi" and "M-A-S-H" were nominated as best comedy series. Alan Alda was nominated as best actor in a comedy for "M-A-S-H" and was nominated for best lead nominated as best supporting actress for an episode of

"Taxi." Supporting nominations went to Danny DeVito of "Taxi" and to Harry Morgan, David Ogden Stiers and Loretta Swit of "M-A-S-H."

Newlyweds Fallon and Jeff (Pamela Sue Martin and John James) share a tender moment, but the overall situation isn't as happy or loving as it might seem-as is soon evidenced when they begin a doubles match in tennis against her father and his new bride-in Episode 5 of ABC-TV's serialized drama, DYNASTY, airing Wednesday, August 12.

Nostalgia is what makes you recall the family's 1920s touring car and permits you to forget changing tires three times in a 50-mile drive.

When you were 20, you'd bring her the sun, moon and stars; after 40, you'll let her know what channel is carrying re-runs of "Star Trek."

Why do the folk next door run their vibrotherapy machine only when your favorite telly program is airing?

People who listen to the still, small voice of conscience have hearing that's more acute than most of us.

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D. Problem with . scarred liver

DEAR DR. LAMB hemorrhaged and was taken to the hospital while visiting our son. I do not drink. They found varicose veins in my esophagus and cirrhosis of the liver. Although I never knew I had hepatitis, they found large scars in my liver from it. Our daughter nearly died with it 26 years ago. I probably had it and didn't turn yellow. The doctors said that if I had known then, the doctors could have taken care of it but it was too long ago to do anything about it now. They said I was lucky to be alive. Please send me any information

DEAR READER - Varicose veins of the esophagus is a good way to describe the cause of your bleeding. We call them esophageal varicies. As the liver becomes scarred from the cirrhosis it obstructs the normal circulation through the liver area. This makes it difficult for the veins in the lower esophagus to drain properly and they enlarge. When one ruptures a person may vomit a lot of bright red blood.

Cirrhosis is a form of scarring of the liver. It can be caused by many different medical problems. I note that you do not and never have used alcohol. That can happen. About 60 percent of all cases of cirrhosis are caused from the excess use of alcohol but that doesn't mean everyone who has cirrhosis has been hitting the bottle. incidentally, hepatitis can also be caused by long-standing untreated heart failure and a number of other diseases, too. So I can't be sure your problem is due to hepatitis without jaun-

You will need to follow your doctor's advice carefully. A good diet that includes all the important vitamins and minerals is important. You may need some extra vitamin B complex. You don't need this advice, but those who drink should know that once liver damage has occurred it is unwise to use alcohol in any form. Alcohol is a toxin to the liver.

DEAR DR. LAMB Would a young man aged 25 who falls asleep at a party after three beers have a medical problem? He sometimes gets so busy he forgets to eat a meal. There is hypo-glycemia in his family. He has never had a five-hour glucose tolerance test. Just wondered if this could be related to a prediabetic condition.

DEAR READER - There are a lot of people who are tired who fall asleep after a few beers. Alcohol is a depressant and tends to induce sleep in most people, but not all. Being so busy you forget to eat suggests being tired from working more than anything else. If such a person has a habit of frequent small periods of falling asleep it could be narcolepsy, which is rather rare. Unless he has a habit of falling asleep on other occasions when he would be expected to stay awake it probably means nothing. Hypoglycemia can cause me but such a din . t justified w out d
