RESIGNS POST

Pastor Hits 'Watered' 'Dry' Policy

Declaring that he cannot accept a "watered down" policy in combatting the threatened invasion by liquor forces of Deaf Smith County, Rev. V. W. Marcotelli today announced his withdrawal from the ranks of Deaf Smith County "Dry" organization.

He also said that he cannot accept the office of vice president of the Ministerial Alliance of Hereford under present conditions, and that he will refrain from taking part in the organization.

This announcement marks the second resignation from the Ministerial Alliance as a result of the "wet-dry" election. Rev. Lester Jones resigned the post of president last week. Rev. Jones said, however, that he plans to continue as a member.

Helped "Dry" Organize Dissatisfaction on the part of Rev. Marcotelli, pastor of the Assembly of God Church, apparently grew out of the failure of the "dry" group to follow through with the publication of names of signers on the petition requesting the election.

Rev. Marcotelli, who has been active in laying groundwork for the Dry organization, served as temporary chairman during its formative stage and as chairman of the nominating committee which selected officers last Friday night.

"A change of policy was desired that would be more conciliatory than the policy of firmness that had been outlined from the beginning," he declared. "Among the plans we were pursuing was the printing of the names of the petition signers, and this policy had been announced through the press."

Some of our leaders wanted to back down on this plan in the face of apparent opposition. From the outset I had made it known that I would not go along with a "watered down policy" in opposing the threatened invasion of the liquor forces in our county, so I felt that it would be best for me to carry on my part of the opposition as an "Independent Dry" the rest of the way.

Rev. Marcotelli still favors printing the list, and sums up his opinion as follows: "I do not believe that public sentiment is as top-sided on this"

When the county lots occupied for the past quarter century by the Bull Barn go on sale at 10 a.m., next Tuesday, Sept. 18, the Commissioners Court members will be on hand at the courthouse door to set on special buying bids and pass on final bids.

The ballots were ready at the clerk's office on Wednesday morning but none had been cast through mid-afternoon.

The voter will pass on the issue, marking his ballot either "for" or "against" the "legal sale of all alcoholic beverages for off-premises consumption on"

LOCAL OPTION ELECTION DATE NOW IS OCTOBER 2

Date of the local option election here now will be Oct. 2.

Opening their first—and regular—monthly session with spokesmen for both the "wets" — who presented the election petition to county officials—and the "drys"—who strenuously oppose the issue—in the audience, the County Commissioners on Monday rescinded their action of Aug. 27.

Requests Presented Then, the commissioners heard a request from the "wets" that the election be set for Saturday, Oct. 6.

And then a request from the "drys" that all polling places in the county be opened for the election. The "drys" had no particular request concerning the date of the election but wanted to make certain of the "when."

The commissioners set Tuesday, Oct. 2 as the election date after officially accepting the petitions, which contained about 900 signatures, 840 of which have been accepted by the county clerk's office—834 by the court. Only 816 signatures of qualified Deaf Smith County voters were required to make calling of an election on the issue mandatory.

All Boxes Open Nothing that Adventists have previously refrained from voting in elections held on Saturday, members of the county court said that they feel the Tuesday election day will be fair to all concerned. And all polling places will be open.

They had earlier set the election date for Sept. 25, but rescinded that action after a member of the Texas Liquor Control Board pointed out a section of the state law which specifies that legal option elections can be set only during the regular meeting day of a commission.

While the Deaf Smith County court has met for several years on both the second Monday—specified in State laws as the regular meeting date for Commissioners Courts—and the fourth Monday, they rescinded their action to comply strictly with the law.

Guests of Mrs. W. A. Gentry over the past weekend were Mrs. Tom Baker and son Arthur of Marysville, Calif., former residents of Hereford. They were visiting relatives here and looking up old friends.

Ballots Now Available On Local Option

Absentee balloting in the local option election set for Oct. 2 in Deaf Smith County will run from Sept. 12 through Sept. 27, according to County Clerk Ralph Smith.

The ballots were ready at the clerk's office on Wednesday morning but none had been cast through mid-afternoon.

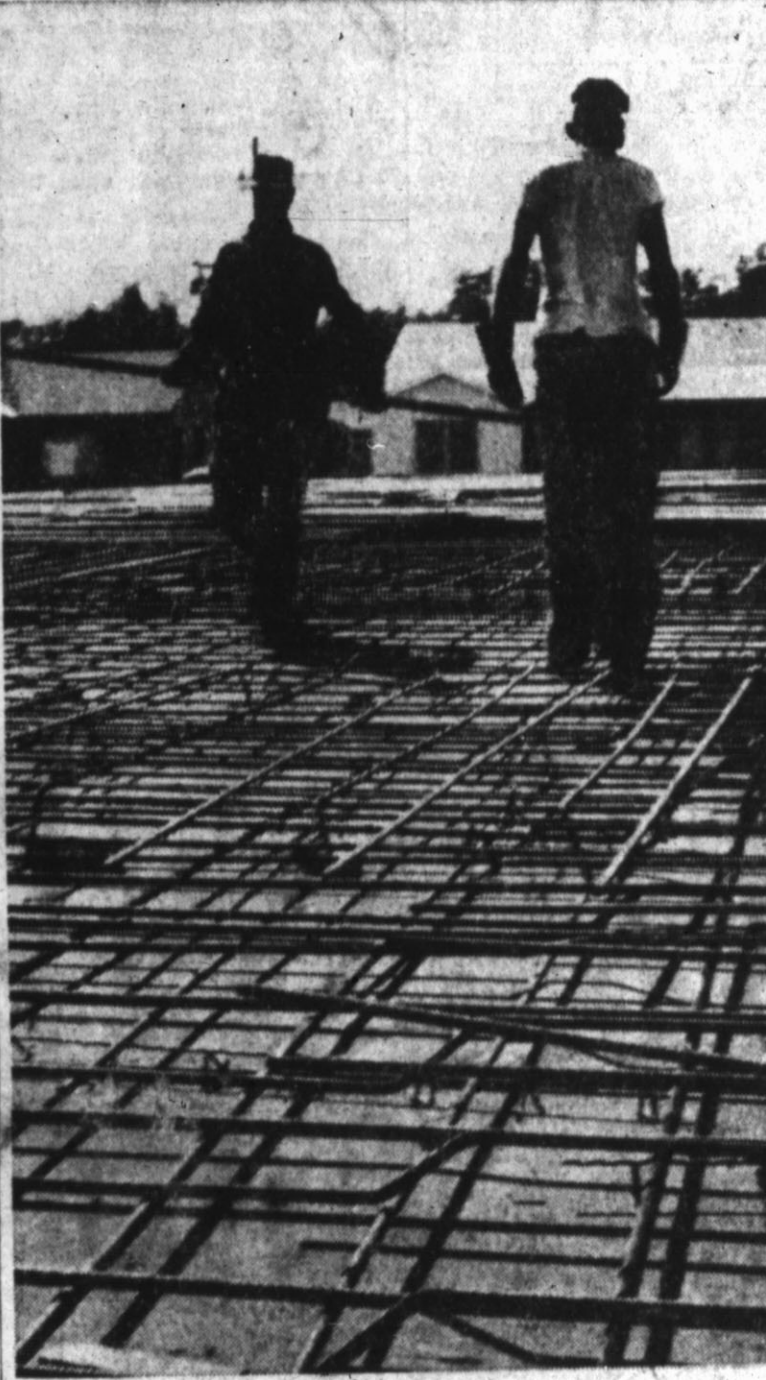

The voter will pass on the issue, marking his ballot either "for" or "against" the "legal sale of all alcoholic beverages for off-premises consumption on"

MONDAY'S ACTION COURT WANTS A LOT FOR LOTS

Work Continues On New Water System

With four new wells now in operation and the proposed new reservoir in the final stages of completion, the water supply for the City of Hereford will soon be doubled, according to City Manager Dudley Bayne. He sets Oct. 1 as the tentative date for the completion of the water project which was begun in March of this year by the Panhandle Construction Co. of Lubbock.

Much of the new expanded system is already in use, Bayne said, with the balance of new mains to be put in use with the completion of the Ave. C booster station. The final phase of the project will be the changing of the pipe connecting the old underground storage to the city wells to the new Ave. C reservoir. The McKinley St. station and reservoir have been in use for some time, he added.

In an effort to relieve future water shortages for Hereford residents, 11,930 feet of new water mains are included in the present project. This figure includes 5,000 feet of 12-inch main, 5,220 feet of 10-inch main and 1,710 feet of 8-inch main. In addition, nine new fire hydrants are also to be installed.

To carry water from the new wells to the booster stations, well supply lines totaling 8,035 feet have been installed. The new wells will be metered, as will the old, to check the actual output of water in the entire system.

The expanded water distribution system is to be financed by a $355,000 revenue bond issue, approved by the voters of Hereford earlier this year.

"THAT BLUE HORSE"

Schools Went Over Budget For 1955-56

The Hereford Rural School District ran about $12,500 over its $222,000 budget for the past school year, Fred W. Baird told school trustees Tuesday night.

Baird attributed the bulk of the $12,500—about $13,000 to payment of salaries. The financial secretary noted that two additional teachers hired after the budget was adopted accounted for a good deal of the increase.

Receipts were just $200 over the anticipated revenue, he said. Running a bit short of operating capital, the trustees found they will need to borrow $50,000 to get through the first month of school. Repayment will come when school taxes and state school funds start rolling in at the end of the month.

Baird said he and Robert Wagner, board president, were instructed by the board members to borrow the money.

Several committees were appointed during the session to advance school work. One group will investigate needs for paving a 33,201-square foot parking lot at Alkman Elementary. A second group will look into the needs for "weatherizing" the school's barracks buildings that have been moved from the junior high school grounds.

Car Safety Check Begins Saturday

Hereford auto inspection stations have received the stickers necessary for compliance with the Texas Public Safety Commission's setting Sept. 15, 1956 to April 15, 1957 as the period during which automobiles and other motor vehicles must be inspected under provisions of the State's Motor Vehicle Inspection Law.

A check of the stations here revealed that all had ordered the stickers about a month ago, and all will be ready to begin inspections on the Saturday opening date.

Col. Homer Garrison Jr., director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, said that motorists should avail themselves of the opportunity to have their autos inspected as soon after Sept. 15 as possible in order to avoid the inconvenience and delay which is usually associated with the end of the seven-month period by the "log jam" of car owners who wait until just before the deadline to have their vehicles safety checked.

HERE'S HOW

Portraits Personalize Rooms

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

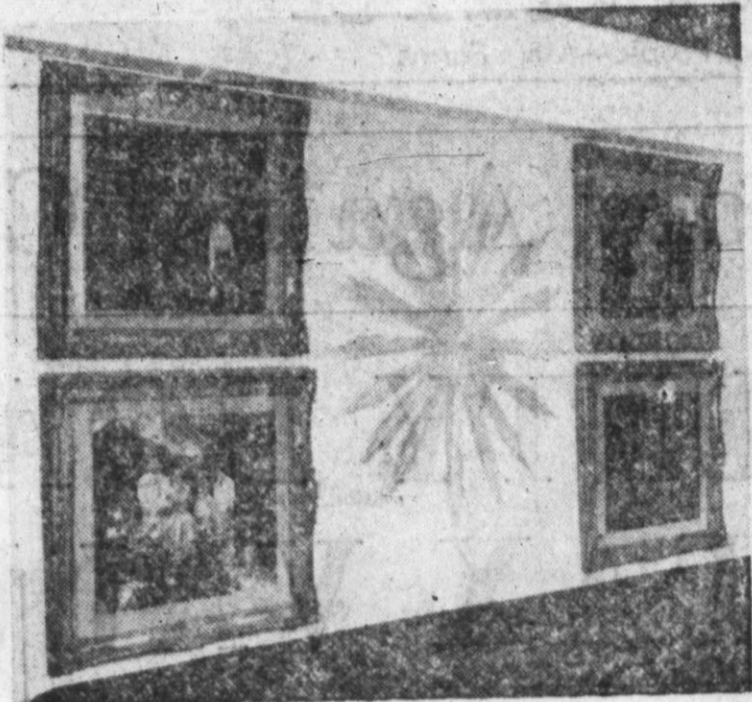

Love that portrait of yourself or your family? Why not make it a part of your decor?

These days the family album goes to the walls. It is considered fashionable gain to exhibit family portraits. Brand new settings are suggested to make you proud of those family images. What's more it helps inject the family personality into the home.

At a recent exhibit of portraiture the newest in photograph techniques and tonal quality was employed to illustrate the trend. The prominent decorators put their talents to work and came up with some fascinating ideas.

Decorator C. Eugene Stephenson showed how a full length color portrait of mother may fit in gracefully into the living room. In a bedroom arrangement, he placed two photographs of the children on either side of the bed. A handsome color photograph of the man of the house was displayed in the dining-room.

Dorothy Draper, another decorator, showed how to group large family portraits using old gilded frames, formerly reserved for cherished paintings. Four were placed over a 10-foot sofa in a room on either side of a large Italian gilded sunburst. An advocate of personalizing the decorating plan in every room, Mrs. Draper featured portrait photographs of two boys in colored frames in the kitchen, dramatizing the setting against silver and gold walls.

Rev. Marcontell also stated that he has been advised of his selection as vice president of the Ministerial Alliance at its meeting Monday, but declined to serve.

C. P. Grimes Has Brush With Death In Montana Lake

A former Hereford resident, C. P. Grimes, narrowly escaped drowning in the icy waters of Fort Peck Reservoir near Circle, Mont., on Sunday, Sept. 2, when the boat in which he and four companions were riding was capsized in a sudden storm, according to the Circle Banner.

Grimes' farm in Montana and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Grimes of Hereford.

Drowned in the boating accident were Jay Elverud and Dean (Skippy) Freitag, both of Circle.

The firemen were spending the Labor Day weekend at the lake and were fishing about a mile from shore when the wind storm struck. A sudden high wave filled the boat which capsized immediately. Four of the occupants clung to the boat, and Elverud stayed afloat for a time with the aid of a life preserver and a gasoline can.

After a five hour ordeal in the frigid waters of the lake, the four survivors were rescued by a passing boat. Freitag reportedly panicked as the rescue was in progress and he sank out of sight. The other victim of the tragedy apparently passed out after several hours in the water.

Grimes was a member of the searching party which later recovered the body of young Freitag from the depths of the lake.

to the high school and to Parkview Elementary.

The board awarded a contract for window blinds on 16 classrooms and offices at Alkman to Curtis Blind and Linoleum Shop at Amarillo. The company won the bid on its offer to equip the building with 'semi-blackout type' blinds that will make each room suitable for use of audio-visual equipment. Its bid of $1,185 was considerably lower than that made on similar blinds by a Lubbock firm.

A green light was flashed for Bill Stanford, assistant superintendent, to get a landscaping plan for the new elementary school drawn up by Armstrong Nursery. Action was tabled on a request by the Bud to Blossom Club to plant a rose garden at the school pending completion of the landscaping plan.

Rice Studio of Plainview was awarded an $875 contract for stage curtains to be installed in the Alkman gymnasium.

Veteran's Memorial Park officials offer to buy a used lawnmower from the school for $150 was approved.

"The question of the Blue Horse Tablet" was posed by Don Zimmerman, board member. "Some local store managers have been unable to obtain this tablet, specified for use by first graders."

Zimmerman was told to inform the store owners that similar merchandise will be satisfactory to the first grade teachers.

"You can't tell that to the kids though. When teacher says a Blue Horse Tablet, they want a Blue Horse Tablet," said Zimmerman.

Board members agreed that a conference this spring with store managers should help prevent the recurrence of the "Blue Horse" incident.

The board okayed a proposal that Hereford insurance agencies hold a conference to consider preparing a master policy for all school property. The policy would provide for an equitable distribution of the insurance plan among the several companies.

Wagoner presided over the meeting. All members except Tom Robinson, who is recovering from a kidney infection, were present.

said that bargain hunters aren't apt to find him knocking down any 'bargains' according to the commissioners.

They—the county, that is—needs the money to defray building costs for the new agricultural exhibit building at Dairy and Veteran's Park Rds.

Aside from a discussion of the property sale, and setting Oct. 2 as the local option election date, the commissioner's regular monthly meeting was anything but routine.

Budget Reading
County Judge Homer Henslee announced that the County Budget for the coming year will be read for the public when the court holds its next Monday session, Sept. 24. The county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office manager, Faust Collier, was notified that the county will be needing space now occupied by that office about Dec. 1. "We're planning to locate the Sheriff's department there," the court said.

Office Furnished
County Surveyor Major Schroeter was notified that he may be able to continue operating the Alex O. Thompson Abstract Office in the courthouse's southwest corner. "We're required to furnish the surveyor an office and that one is not big enough for many other purposes," the court observed. Rent on the room was set at $40 per month, and it was noted that the surveyor will charge for his services "by the job."

Sank Ramey, who won his Democratic primary bid for election to the newly created office of County Tax Assessor, was hired to replace Betty Humphreys. Miss Humphreys recently resigned her position in the assessor's office to move to California.

One commissioner noted that Ramey will serve as a "girl in the assessors office until January." He took the kidding in good spirits.

The court also heard, then tabled action pending notification from the state level, a request to supply clerical help to aid the Farmers Home Administration office here in processing of applications for emergency drought feed.

BEFORE YOU PAINT

Deep red paint is becoming popular for house color. It's a good idea before deciding on red or another color to size up the surrounding houses and make sure that it will not clash with colors used on neighboring homes. Ask yourself also, whether "barn red" will suit the architecture of your house.

A bell thought to have been used by Saint Patrick is in the Irish National Museum.

Bells were known as early as 2,697 B.C. In that year, the Chinese Emperor Hoang-ti commissioned a set of bells to serve as the official standard of pitch.

CHILI PLUS

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
 Associated Press Food Editor

Busy day main course! Chop some onion and green pepper and cook them in a big skillet along with ground beef. Now raid your pantry shelf and add a can of tomatoes, one of tomato sauce, another of whole-kernel corn and still another of red kidney beans.

Begin to simmer the scramble with salt, pepper; a suspicion of sugar and chili powder - making this Chili Plus as hot as you like. If you use chili powder with a delicate hand, you'll find adding a little tomato seasoning powder will point up flavors beautifully. The powder is a blend of vegetables, spices and herbs that comes in a small jar and does wonders for all dishes containing tomatoes.

Let all the flavors get thoroughly acquainted with each other while the meat and vegetables bubble gently for half an hour or so. About 10 minutes before you're ready to serve, put some prepared packaged biscuits - the ready-to-bake sort - in the oven. When the biscuits are handsomely brown and toplofty, split and butter them. Arrange the biscuits over the Chili Plus and let everyone help himself. The gravy of the skillet dish will taste good over the biscuit. If you serve the Chili Plus as soon as it's cooked, the gravy may be thin; if you refrigerate it and reheat, the gravy will probably thicken.

Ingredients: 1 cup thin strips onion, 1 large green pepper, (cut into thin strips), 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 1 pound ground chuck beef, 1 can (1 pound) tomatoes, 1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce, 1 can (12 ounces) whole-kernel corn, 1 can (1 pound) red kidney beans, salt, pepper, sugar, chili powder, 1 or 2 containers ready-to-bake biscuits, butter.

Method: Cook onion and green pepper in 2 tablespoons butter in 12-inch skillet until onion is wilted - about 10 minutes; use low heat and stir several times. Add the ground beef; mash with a long-handled kitchen fork to crumble meat; cook until meat loses its red color. Add undrained tomatoes, tomato sauce, undrained corn and undrained kidney beans; mix well. Add salt, pepper and chili powder to taste. Simmer for 1/2 hour or longer. Bake biscuits according to package directions; split at once and spread with butter; sandwich together again. Place biscuits over meat mixture and serve at once. Makes 6 servings.

Farm Bureau Asks Investigation Of Cotton Classing

WACO — Farm Bureau leaders in the area served by the Smith-Doxey government cotton classing office at Dallas are asking for a Congressional investigation of government classing.

Hoyt Gaston, Waxahachie, a director of Farm Bureau, said that he and other Farm Bureau officials in North Texas requested the investigation because of widespread complaints about the way the government is classing this year's cotton crop.

Gaston has conferred with Rep. E. C. Githings, (D-Ark.), chairman of the cotton subcommittee of the House Agriculture Committee. The Farm Bureau director said Githings was agreeable to holding either one or a series of hearings on the matter.

Cotton farmers in the North Texas area served by the Dallas classing office complain that the government classers are placing grades on their cotton $10 to $20 a bale lower than private classers. Smith-Doxey officials say they are only following government standards.

A mass meeting attended by both Smith-Doxey officials and cotton farmers was held Aug. 29 in Dallas. Gaston said he has had numerous complaints that government classers have placed even lower grades on cotton sent to the classing office since that meeting. The Dallas meeting was called by Gaston and Edwin Sanderson, Paris, another Farm Bureau director.

Gaston said that other cotton-producing areas are voicing complaints at the way government classers are grading cotton this year. He said Rep. Gathings promised to contact Rep. W. R. Poage, Waco, vice chairman of the House said he hoped Poage would act immediately to call hearings on the issue.

THAT FOREIGN FLAVOR

Mrs. George Brashear Offers Recipes; German Style Roast, Cucumber Pickles

"This is my favorite roast, and the only way I can prepare it so my family likes it," declared Mrs. George Brashear, as she explained her recipe for German style roast.

Mrs. Brashear is very interested in American foods, and aside from the roast, cucumber pickles, potato soup, and various cakes, she uses American recipes completely in her cooking.

Mrs. Brashear met and married husband George in a small town near Frankfort, Germany, while he was stationed in the armed services there, and came to America in 1948. They have three children, Carol, eight, who will be in the third grade; Gene, eight, who is a second grader, and Tommy, five. George is employed at the Jimmie Allred offices, and Mrs. Brashear is content to "just be a housewife."

Her family enjoys the roast by the German recipe so much that Mrs. Brashear makes it quite often, and it is her favorite "Sunday dinner." She also prepares it for company, because it can be cooked in advance and reheated.

The neat German war bride also takes great pride in her German cucumber pickle recipe. She has presented many friends with the delicious pickles, and also gives the recipe to many people. She prefers to make the pickles by the gallon, and the family of five eat "sometimes eat a gallon in a month." The pickles will not spoil after being opened. Mrs. Brashear's mother also used this recipe for cucumber pickles when she was in Germany.

GERMAN STYLE ROAST
4 to 5 pounds roast
1 large onion
3 garlic cloves or garlic juice
salt and pepper
1 teaspoon paprika

Rub salt and pepper and paprika into roast. Melt 4 tablespoons shortening in roast pan. Brown the roast well on both sides and add chopped onion. Simmer roast slowly in own juice for 30 minutes, then add ½ cup water at 15 minute intervals for one hour. Add enough water for the amount of gravy desired. (approx. 5 cups). Cook slowly for 1 hour, if more water is needed, add, and cook 15 minutes more. Dissolve three tablespoons flour to thicken gravy. If you prefer to have a garlic taste in your roast, add three garlic cloves by cutting small holes into meat and inserting the cloves. This will not affect the gravy and give it a garlic taste. If you wish for the gravy to have a garlic taste, add the garlic juice to the roast.

CUCUMBER PICKLES
Cucumbers 2½ to 3 inches in length, to make one gallon
2 cups white vinegar
6 cups water

ONE MORE TURN and the cucumber pickles brought the family recipe over from Germany Mrs. George Brashear and Carol are preparing in 1946. (Staff Photo) will be ready for preserving. Mrs. Brashear

2 teaspoons salt
3 teaspoons mixed pickling spices, Torn Bay leaves
1 teaspoon dill seed
1 teaspoon mustard seed
1 teaspoon whole cloves
1 teaspoon allspice
½ teaspoon whole black pepper
4 pods small hot red pepper

After washing the cucumbers, place them in three gallons lead water with one cup salt, and let stand overnight. Drain and dry in towel placed in jar. For the liquid, add the vinegar, 6 cups water, and the salt and bring to a boil. Put the spices into the jar with the cucumbers, and pour the hot liquid over the cucumbers. Seal the jar tightly, and the cucumbers will be preserved and ready to serve in six weeks.

Weed Talk Will Highlight Tour In Parmer Area

Area farmers interested in soil conservation have been invited to attend a district tour to be staged in Parmer County on Thursday, Sept. 13. The tour is to begin at the Parmer County Courthouse at 2 p.m., according to Joe W. Jones, Parmer County Agent.

Tour plans call for stops to be made at 12 farms in the county, with the day's program to end with a weed identification demonstration and discussion by Cecil Ayres of the Texas Tech agronomy department.

Each farmer has been asked to bring with him to the meeting a weed specimen which Mr. Ayres will identify by its correct name to aid the farmers in their weed control projects.

Farms to be visited and the growing situation to be studied at each, as well as demonstrations to be seen, are as follows: Arthur Hasehoff, cotton fertilized with barnyard manure; John West, 10 hybrid sorghums on dryland; Walter Kaltwasser, fertilized cotton with check plots where no fertilizer used; Cecil Winegeart, and Gilbert Kaltwasser, irrigated sorghums; Darwyn Metcalf, true falls in grain sorghum.

Carl Rea, grain sorghum following alfalfa and bencheveled land to catch and hold tail water; Roy Clark, four row cotton — skip four rows with two middle rows interplanted with soybeans; Red Wright hybrid corn and grain sorghum seed production; W. F. Elliott, bindweed control in cooperation with highway department; Rene Sneed, DeKab and Texas hybrid grain sorghum demonstration.

Jones stated that he expected the tour to end at the Hub in Parmer County about 5 p.m.

Turkey has a population of 24,109,641.

Backyard Swimming Pools Are Popular; Expensive 'To Keep'

AP Real Estate Editor
The backyard swimming pool is giving air conditioning some lively competition in home improvement glamor. Of course, there aren't as many private swimming pools as year-round air conditioned homes, but the pools are increasing at a rate of about 30,000 per year. And what man can afford both of these luxuries at once?

Each of these modern refinements can cost about the same, although swimming pools usually run higher. You can't argue that it costs less to run a pool until you have tried it. The water cost may be low, but other liquids of bottled varieties seem to be needed. Friends get the idea that you asked them over to get wet both outside and in. The entertainment bill can be rugged.

If you're good with a pick and shovel, it might be possible to build a swimming pool on a do-it-yourself basis. One man built a pool for less than $300. It's poured concrete and measures 11 by 17 feet. In Alabama you can get a do-it-yourself kit for a pool measuring 20 by 40 feet for $1,475. But made to order pools usually run about $2,000 to $3,000. This may seem strange, because when you build a house you can figure roughly that the inclusion of a basement will add only about $1 per square foot. This would make a 20 by 40 foot concrete-lined hole in the ground cost about $800 instead of $3,000. But there are all kinds of pools.

Last spring Esther Williams demonstrated her prefabricated fiber glass swimming pool at the International Home Building Exposition in New York Coliseum. Now she is making a personal appearance tour of backyards around the country and might have splashed in yours by this time.

You can have a concrete pool, a feel pool, a plastic pool, or an inflatable type, which is a big brother to the youngsters' wading pool. A big hole in the ground seems to be the one thing you need for this Hollywood touch. Forms for the concrete often are dispensed with. The sides of the hole are cut as straight as possible.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY to Cathy Doughman, left, who was four on her birthday Sept. 7. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Doughman. welded wire reinforcement is erected, and concrete is sprayed over it by the gunite method.

One contractor with dealers scattered around the country has been offering a pool for about $1,600 with no money down and five years to pay. The craze seems to be so great that there is no worry about repossessing a hole in the ground if your payments go sour.

The shape of a pool — whether it should be round, square, trapezoidal or kidney style — has suddenly become important. A cartoonist recently wisecracked about the millionaire who had no imagination — he had a plain rectangular swimming pool.

Of course, the initial cost is not the whole story. You may start with a pool, but you'll wind up with a terrace, a barbecue, a shaded gallery for spectators, a miniature sandy beach, deck chairs and umbrellas and maybe a cabana — and still you won't be the first person who spent more on his backyard than for his house.

Even if you hold down on the embellishments, you'll have to have a climb-proof fence to prevent tots from wandering back in the yard and falling in. You'll need plenty of liability insurance. You will need filters and a special vacuum cleaner.

But it certainly must be worth it. A recent issue of Swimming Pool Age estimates that 94 million dollars will be spent on backyard pools before this year runs out.

Americans saved more than 16 billion dollars in 1955.

There are 15,000 rose bushes of 150 varieties in the Sunken Rose Garden in Santa Fe, N. M.

Vivid Italian Styles

By CELE WOHL

FLORENCE — Italian fall and winter fashion openings at Florence were highlighted by the splendid resort collection of Emilio Pucci. Borrowing brilliant colors and lively designs from medieval banners of Siena, Emilio put on the most eye-catching show of the current season.

Schubert, too, was applauded for his best presentation in two years. He was a subdued Schubert whose style was quiet, dignified and happily lacking in the flamboyance that once made his clothes most suitable only for the film stars.

Noteworthy were the conservative offerings of two mature dress makers, Antonelli and Carosa. Both showed graceful, ladylike creations that looked fresh and chic without strained — for effects.

Roberto Capucci, boy wonder of the Italian fashion world, showed spiral — draped spherical skirts which resulted in an overturned-brandy-glass silhouette. His floor-length sheaths, narrower than any body else's, barely permitted their wearers to mince and inch along.

Guidi and Veneziani differed drastically from their colleagues on what new lines should be. Guidi cut his hems up into revealing V's at the back of the knees, dropped them to floor-length points at the sides. He used unexpected vents, panels floating from everywhere, asymmetrical boleros and hobble-harem skirts.

Jole Veneziani went in for a modified sari effect that she called the "Wrapped Line." Dress fronts were close draped and banded to the figures. The rear view was important. Her wrapping line was accomplished in suits by curved diagonal buttoning on jackets. The coats had unbuttoned diagonal closings outlined with deep blue dyed Persian lamb, chinchilla or mink.

Marucelli, the other major designer showing at Florence, offered a line called "Cocoon." Dresses were securely wrapped and wound around their wearers. For evening, she liked confining sheaths under free — flowing draperies and bouffant overskirts.

They outdid themselves on ball gowns of rich satins, diaphanous chiffons, rustling failles and taffetas. Exquisite Italian hand embroideries of silver and gold threads, beads, brilliants and crystals give these dresses a uniqueness.

Thirteen boutiques showed at Florence before the haute couturiers. They produced the amusing casual clothes that make Italians and foreigners alike nostalgic for the carefree life of Capri and Cortina. The small houses offered culottes, back after many years, patch work shirts and pants, tooled Florentine leather collars, printed plush dresses and jersey knit after-ski pants among dozens of delicious little items.

Despite their individualistic notions, all the designers showed a great many classic snug-skirted suits for daytime wear and full-skirted dresses for cocktails and evening.

AFTERNOON ELEGANCE... This dramatic dress is a black brocade with splashy colorful print, matching cape, by Antonelli of Florence. Cossack hat is by Rome milliner Conessa.

Wheat Sowing And Chance For More Rain Fill Conversations

By MRS. S. N. THWEATT
Wheat sowing and people discussing the possibility of getting rain are the two main subjects around the community this week.

A number of farmers are sowing wheat. The Brown brothers just finished 500 acres. Smiths, Colemans, Thweatts, Fords and several others are also sowing large amounts. But they can't sow all their land because some didn't get any rain on it.

Demonstrators Study
Mrs. Floyd Brown, her sister, Rose Carwell of Los Angeles, Cal., and Mrs. S. N. Thweatt, living room demonstrators of the Messenger H. D. Club, attended the drapery workshop. Mrs. Argen Draper was in charge of the meeting held in the County Courtroom at Hereford on Saturday. Mrs. Thweatt and Mrs. Brown will give the demonstration to the club the first meeting in October.

Home From Colorado
Mrs. Ruth Coleman has returned from her long summer stay in Colorado.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Irlbeck have traded their farm west of Bootleg for a home in Hereford. They moved last Friday and are enjoying their new home very much. They live at 210 Catalpa Street, and her phone number is 866-N. She declares she'd love to hear her old neighbors' voices.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Buse are the people who bought the Irlbeck place. They have moved out to the farm and are trying to get settled. The children started to school Monday at Walcott. We're very glad to welcome the family to our community.

Fishermen's Luck
Mr. and Mrs. Buster Thweatt of Amarillo, brother of S. N. Thweatt, were guests in their home for Sunday night supper. Buster and wife had been fishing at the lake but didn't have any luck.

Earl Baker and some friends of Lubbock were out looking over Baker's farm Sunday. They camped out overnight at the lake and found it cool since the rain and hail. Guest of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Brown over the weekend was Mrs. Brown's sister, Mrs. Cecil Corwell of Los Angeles, Calif.

Frank Ford spent the weekend in Lubbock with his family. He said they were all about to get settled down and back in school. Mr. and Mrs. Pat Patterson are new people in our community. They are working for the Thweatts and live a mile north of Bootleg. They moved to Garcia from Dallas.

Three Drivers In Collisions Here

Three drivers involved in collisions in Hereford this week escaped serious injury in accidents that resulted in the total demolition of one car and $450 damages to two others.

Harold Busby, 16, leaped from his early model Mercury early Sunday morning just before it ran under a 1941 International truck parked at 113 Ave. F. His car was demolished and police officers who investigated gave him a ticket for negligent collision with a parked vehicle and driving without a license. The truck, owned by Bobby Noyes, had damages estimated at $50.

On Tuesday at 8:55 a.m., cars driven by Margaret D. Trautmann, 817 Blevins, and Christine Bridges, 201 Irving, were involved in a collision at the intersection of Mabel and Blevins.

Investigating officers issued a ticket for failure to grant right of way and for not having a Texas drivers license to Mrs. Trautmann. The Trautmann vehicle damages were estimated at $300, while Bridges' car damage was estimated at $150.

"Why All The Mystery in Prescriptions?"

By Donald G. Cooley

"Reprinted from BETTER HOMES & GARDENS. Copyright, Meredith Publishing Company, 1956. All rights reserved."

PART I

Are doctors and pharmacists trying to hide something from you? Don't you have a right to know what you're paying for—and swallowing? Why all the mystery?

When your physician writes a prescription and hands it to you, what is the first thing you do with it?

You take a peek at it. If you're human, you do.

A lot of good that does you! Maybe you can decipher an everyday word or two, but you're stopped cold by strange terms and baffling abbreviations such as "S., q.s., t. i. d., ss." If it makes any sense to you, you're an exceptional patient. It's only natural to be curious about a medicine you're going to swallow. What is it? What is it supposed to do for you? Why does your pharmacist give your prescription such careful scrutiny when you hand it to him? Is a prescription written in a kind of secret code to hide something from you?

Most prescriptions look mysterious. They aren't, really. A doctor's prescription is actually a friendly, kindly, perhaps life-saving piece of paper. There is no secret code or black magic about it—except that it's a passport to a world of modern drugs that often cure in ways that seem pretty close to magic. Doctors write, and pharmacists fill, more than a million prescriptions every day. They use some special symbols and technical terms to transmit exact information. Musicians, chemists, plumbers, accountants, gardeners—in fact, persons in any skilled occupation, including your own—use words of special meaning that sound mysterious to outsiders.

If your prescription is written in Latin, you could have it filled anywhere in the world. Latin is a universal language of science, traditional for many materials and processes of pharmacy, and it never changes. However, many physicians now use plain English—well, not always too plain—in writing prescriptions. But abbreviations of Latin terms persist. An example is "q.s." If you read those letters in a prescription, would you think you were on your last legs? All it means is "if necessary."

WHERE PRESCRIPTIONS BEGIN

Nothing could be more personal than a prescription. It is written after consultation or examination of the patient. It is like a personal check, signed by the doctor, directing a pharmacist to "pay to the order of" a specific patient a specific medicine good for what ails him or her at that moment.

Don't distract the doctor with a lot of talk while he is writing a prescription. What is he thinking about? More things than most patients realize: age and weight of patient, previous history, present condition, the best medicine for the patient, size and timing of drug dosage, to name a few. Let him think quietly.

Perhaps the doctor will tell you what he is prescribing. If he doesn't, it isn't cricket to try to worm the name of the drug out of him. To know the name of a drug is not necessarily to understand it. Take a widely used drug like aspirin, for which you need no prescription. Probably you just want to swallow something to relieve a headache, but your doctor could talk for hours about the subtle effects of aspirin on fever mechanisms, stomach acidity, endocrine glands, pain centers, rheumatic conditions, and you'd begin to understand more than you want to know about aspirin. A little knowledge is not dangerous, since all knowledge is a little knowledge, but the mere name of a drug reveals nothing about the reasons why a doctor prescribes it for a particular patient.

The Hallmark of Circulation Value

In the same way that STERLING on silver signifies a standard of known value, so is the A.B.C. emblem a symbol of integrity for the circulation of newspapers and periodicals. It means that circulation so identified is measured according to the rules and standards of the AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS.

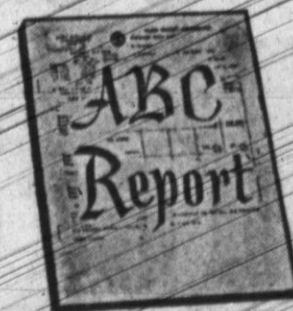

The A.B.C. is a cooperative and non-profit association of 3,450 publishers, advertisers and advertising agencies. Organized in 1914, these buyers and sellers of advertising brought order out of advertising chaos by setting up standards for paid circulation and establishing rules and methods for measuring, auditing and reporting circulations.

Therefore, the work of the A.B.C., of which this newspaper is proud to be a member, provides you with a direct and valuable service. You can buy advertising as you would make any other sound business investment—on the basis of well known standards, known values.

At regular intervals one of the Bureau's large staff of experienced circulation auditors makes a thorough audit of our circulation records. The results of this exacting audit show: How much circulation we have; where our circulation goes; how it was obtained; and many other facts that you need in order to know just what you get for your advertising dollars. This audited information is published by the Bureau in easy-to-read A.B.C. reports which are available to our advertisers on request. Ask for a copy of our latest A.B.C. report.

TILT OPENS HERD'S FIRST AAA SEASON

Friday night. Elliston was the leading pass-catcher in the region last year and was named on the all-regional eleven. He is a one-year letterman.

"Their size will make it hard to run against them," Coach John Poindexter stated. Standout in the Canyon line is 239-pound Elston Burkham, a junior who is noted for his speed. Other regulars are Richard Burgess, 229 pounds, Dory Funk Jr., and Leonard Miller. Hereford's forward wall will be guided by Gene Waits, one of only two returning starters. Waits, at 195, will hold down the tackle position and will be the heaviest player on the team.

Line Gains Weight
The Hereford line, doped to be one of the smaller in the district, has taken on new faces and also added weight. Weight averaged in the line for the Herd is now around 175. Blackfield average is 168.

Other linemen expected to see action are Bill Drake, Bobby Burrus, Taylor Sims, George Heard, Bill Dufur, Charley Self, Charles Weemes, Pete Plank and Wheeler Sears.

New additions to the Hereford line are Bobby Burrus and George Heard, who will man the guard positions. Both Burrus and Heard tip the scales at 190.

Starting Backs
Starting backs are expected to be Bryant at quarterback, Bobby Veigel, converted end, at fullback, and Bill Callaway and Wayne Caster or Ed Schroeter at halfbacks. Callaway is the heaviest back at 180.

Workhorse of the Eagle offense is Harlie Adams, hard driving half back. Neblett, a versatile athlete, is a double threat at his quarterback post. He saw action only on extra points against Floydada. He injured an ankle in workouts before the game, but Eagle coach Guy Harrison said he would be ready for service against the Whitefaces. Adams also suffered a slight back injury against Floydada but is expected to be ready by Friday, Harrison said.

See Weaknesses
Weak spots in the Canyon defense appear to be around end and passes, Poindexter said. He and Russell both stated that "they'll get their fill of passes and end runs before the night is over." No weak spot offensively looms for them, but without Neblett, passing is weak, according to scouting reports. Reserve quarterback is junior A. L. Pruet.

"Passes should be very effective," Russell said, "and we'll find out."

WILL ATTEND HOMECOMING

Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Alexander will be in Silverton Saturday to attend homecoming celebrations held by the Silverton Public School. Mrs. Alexander is a former pupil and teacher in Silverton.

GOOD DIPLOMATS

HALIFAX, (H) - Leo Dolan, the head of the Federal Tourist Bureau, told a service club meeting here that service clubs do more to promote good relations between countries than all the speeches of diplomats.

LEADS LINE—Leading the Hereford Whiteface line into Friday's battle with the Canyon Eagles will be 195-pound tackle Gene Waits, a senior letterman. Waits starred against the line in the final game of last season, which Hereford won, 20-14. (Staff Photo)

Passing Combination

FOIBLES—FANCY AND PLAIN

NORMAL (UNRIPE) GUESSES

By KENT SNARE
Somebody in the revenue department of this gazette got too many dollar signs afore his eyes and jumped the gun with the 1956 football contest, leaving me with my guesses still up and unripe, as is customary with sports guesses, even if one has time and the sources wherein to look 'em up. However my guesses won't be unduly different than when I think I know a little about the contestants, their records and their woes, as the results will be as usual, too many wrong.

The foregoing is not in the nature of an alibi, but in the case of the high school games, I will list last years scores, if they met and show, did not play (dnp), if they didn't, further than that I deposesh not. So for this week's trays, leave us at 'em:

- Hereford at Canyon. 20-13.
- Corpus Christi at West Texas. 0-46. They are pumping the Bufts up pretty tight but I don't think this one is for deflation.
- Capitol Hill, Oklahoma City at Amarillo. 13-40.
- Wofford at South Carolina. 7-26. More of the same this trip.
- VMI vs. Stetson. To be played at St. Petersburg, Fla. Both weak but the Soldiers should march unimpeded. Dnp.

New Mexico Ags at Tulsa. Dnp. Tulsa has come back far enough to take this one.
South Dakota State at Montana State. Dnp. Even the home grounds won't help here. SDS.

Arkansas Tech at Memphis State. Dnp. Last lap Arkansas State at Jonesboro took Memphis 21-20 and beat Tech 33-6. No blues in Memphis Christian at McMurry. 6-13. Crosstown type of brawl, probably as tight as a wet shoe. Might try moistening a finger and going with the wind.
Montana at Arizona. 0-29. A repeat for Luppino, Hatcher, Arrigoni, Sine & Co. I had their book at hand or I wouldn't have attempted that, & Co. line.
Dumas at Palo Duro. 13-6.
Colorado Western at Wyoming. Dnp. From different leagues, same ellipse, Wyoming at will.
Omaha at Emporia State. 35-13. No different this year. Omaha has one of the better small college clubs.
Utah State at Drake. Dnp. State's Jack Hill should be enough single-handed.

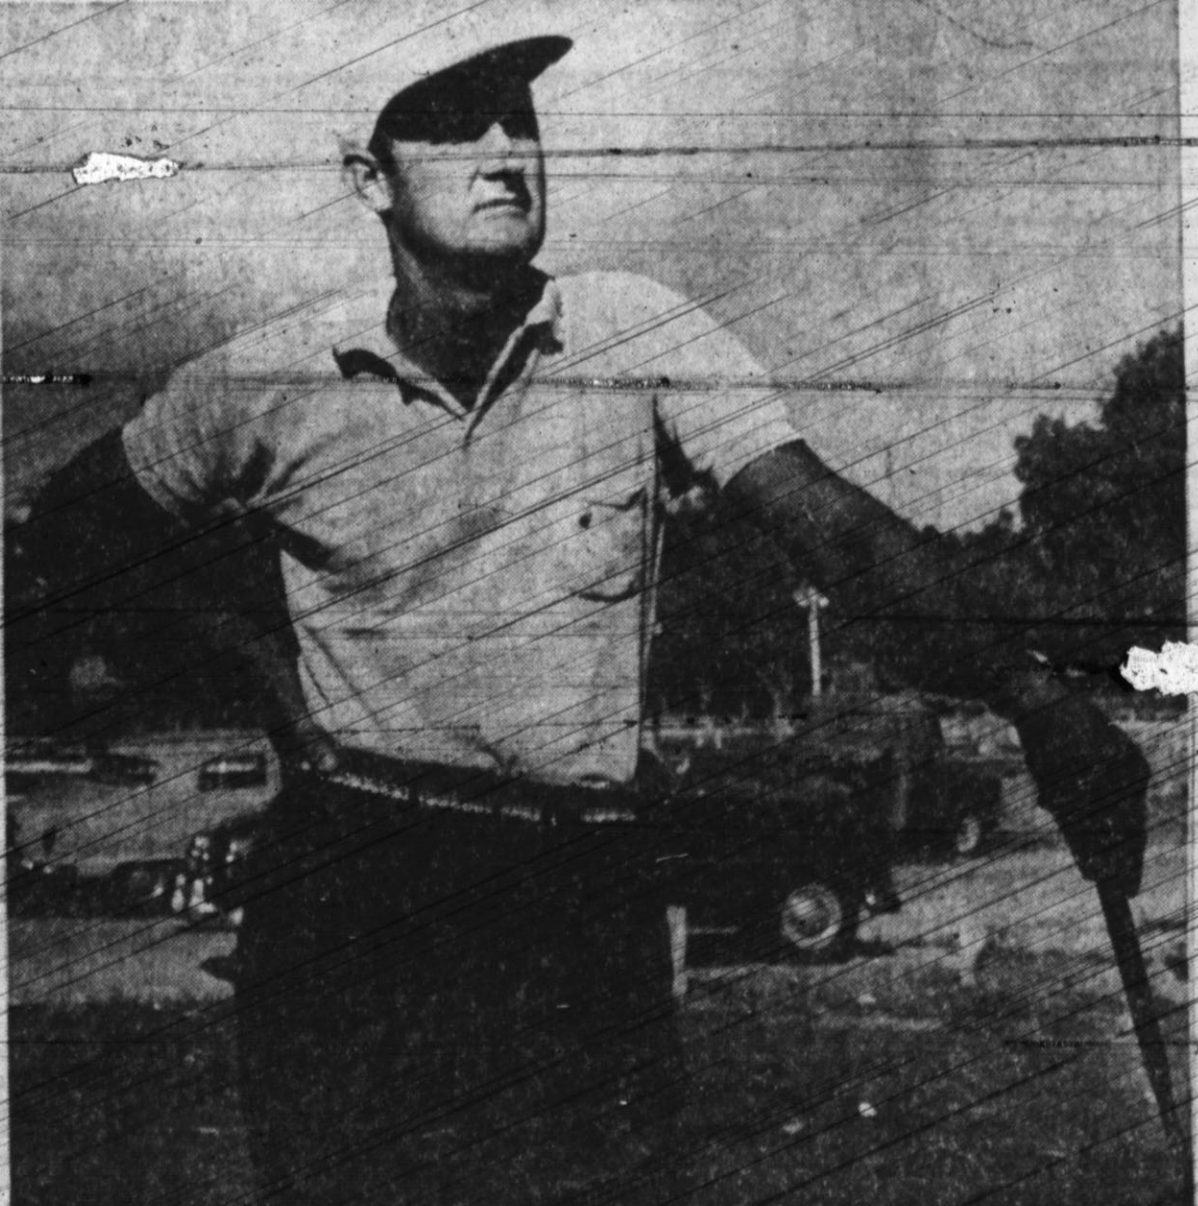

BYU at Wichita. Dnp. Wichita trounced Utah State last year 19-0 and the Ags took BY 47-21. Wichita with the score determined by discretion, or fatigue, or both.
Iowa State at Denver. 7-19. It should be reversed this time, that is the result, not necessarily the score.
Littlefield at Plainview. Dnp.
Austin (El Paso) at Pampa. 6-6. Berger at Snyder. Dnp.
Shamrock at Lefors. 0-32.
Paducah at Quanah. Dnp.
Phillips at Childress. 61-0.
Levelland at Brownfield. 60-0.
Adamson (Dallas) at Lubbock. Dnp.
Paschal (Fort Worth) at Monterey. Dnp.

WEARS GLASSES, TOO

Keen Marks (Wo)man Triumphs After Husband Decides She Is Hopeless

DALLAS (H) - Alphonso Ragland, an expert marksman, gave up trying to teach his wife, Betty, skeet shooting five years ago.
So she went to a professional, Benny Bickers, who detected her flaw—she was swinging her shotgun so quickly tracking the flight of the bird that she was firing well ahead of the target.
Now she fires when she picks up the bird in her sights and the fast swing of the shotgun gives her the lead she needs.
And so she now is one of the two or three finest woman skeet shooters in the world.
Betty was a good swimmer and she skied well until she broke her leg, but poor eyesight made her an unlikely candidate as a modern day Annie Oakley.
But with glasses her eyes are sharp.
Mrs. Ragland took up skeet shooting so she could hunt with her husband, who is an indefatigable nimrod. Now she shoots her share of quail and pheasant in season and then prepares the fowl with the skill of a French chef. She is a small blonde with the tuffy hair of her Finnish ancestors. Recently Betty fired 350 rounds with a 12-gauge shotgun and broke 345 targets, winning three of five women's championships in the Texas State Skeet shoot. She and her husband tied the world's record for husband and wife with 395 targets out of 400.

She has been a consistent winner in skeet shoots for several years, is a member of the women's All-America team and is on a national skeet magazine's all time team of women skeet shooters.
After she learned to control her lightning-fast swing in 1951, Betty tied for the national all-gauge handicap title.
This year she started by breaking 100 targets in a row with her 12-gauge for the first time. Once she got past 100 she rallied on for 314 targets before she finally missed one in competition. She won the men's and women's open competition in that meet — the Houston Open.
At New Orleans in April she won all five women's events. She went on to break 199 out of 200 targets in the men's open.

DEFENDING CHAMP—Opening his defense of the Hereford Invitational Golf Tournament trophy Friday will be Cecil Holland, splendid Amarillo golfer. Holland decided Bud Abbott, 2 and 1, in last year's finals. (Staff Photo)

Opening Rounds Start In Golf Tourney Here

The fifth annual Hereford Invitational Golf Tourney gets underway here today with some of the area's top golfers trying for honors.

However, Thursday play will be highlighted by the West Texas Pro-Amateur Matches and the Hereford Golf Club Cup Matches. Qualifying for medalist and championship flight in the invitational is also Thursday.

Schedule of Play
The Pro-Am will commence at 9 a.m. and will be played by the point system. Each bogey will count one point, a par two points, a birdie three points, an eagle four points, and 25 points for a hole-in-one or double eagle. Each group will be composed of a pro, an A player, a B player, a C player, and a lady. Entry fee is $3 for amateurs and $5 for pros.

The three low teams will split merchandise prizes on a 50-30-20 percentage basis. Two low amateurs will split 10 percent of the prizes on a 60-40 percentage basis. Pros will split cash by the 50-30-20 system.

Also in connection with the program will be the cup matches with a pro and three ladies representing each club. Their combined total strokes will win the large trophy for one year. Hereford Golf Club is the defending champion, having won over Huber Country Club of Borger by one stroke last year.
Cecil Holland of Amarillo, will defend his championship in the Hereford Invitational Golf Tourney which opens qualifying today and first round matches Friday.

Other entries include Bob Geise, Bobby Westball, Orval Reynolds, Jack Newby and Jim Owens of Amarillo; Jack Williams of Plainview, C. E. McGinnis, Grover Austin, John Forman of Pampa; Don Kaplan, last year's medalist, Elgie Seamster, David Houck of Borger; Russell Haberer of Muleshoe; Rex Brown of Floydada.
Local favorites include Bob Lindsey, Charles Sead, Max Dreyer, John Renner and Jeff Mintzer.
Entry fee is $12.50 and deadline for entering is 8 p.m. Thursday.
John Patton will be the official starter. Medalist will receive pen set desk golf trophy, the winner of each flight will receive a set of four Tony Penna golf woods valued at $90, the runners-up in each flight will receive a $50 golf bag, and the consolation winners will get a $30 convoy golf cart.

The Hereford Brand

SPORTS

SPORTS GLANCES

by Bill Knox

Someone's got to be different.
Coach Johnny Hickman of the Levelland Lobos is about the only fellow in 1-AAA who has much to say about his team's prospects when it gets down to district play. All the other coaches, hard-jerk Chesty Walker (who can't remember losing a game), John Whinnery, Gene Mayfield, and L. B. Russell, are either staying mum or singing the blues off-key.

How They Feel
Hickman doesn't mind telling anybody in an uncertain time that

Hereford Club Opens Wide Lead In Matches Here

The Hereford Golf Club took a 452-stroke lead over the Muleshoe Country Club and a lead of 156 strokes over the Portales Country Club in the Bi-State Mens Golf Association matches played here on Sunday.

Hereford Golf Club Country Club, 1,276 strokes; Portales Country Club, 1,280 strokes.
Low net honors went to Jim Garner, an upcoming Hereford golfer, who shot a 73 with a 16-stroke handicap for a net of 63. Garner received six balls for his fine effort.
Second low net honors went to Cubby Kitchens and O. F. Lange, both of Hereford, with nets of 65. They split three golf balls. (How they split three golf balls evenly is beyond me.)

Terry Dill of Muleshoe had the low gross score of 72, even par. Charles Seed of Hereford was next with a 73. Kenneth Wright of Clovis paced the pros with a five under par 67. Other pro scores were Hereford's Bud Posey-70; (Senior) Pedro Lopez of Muleshoe-73; Har-game may be the best game of the year in 1-AAA.

This week's predictions: Dumas over Palo Duro, 20-6; Levelland over Brownfield, (it was 60-0 last year and this year the Lobos are better, Brownfield worse); Plainview over Littlefield, 19-13; Phillips over Childress, 27-7; Hereford-Canyon, unpredictable; Amarillo over Capitol Hill, 27-13.

CAR TROUBLE
MURPHYSBORO, Ill. (AP) — Harry Ralston, local Moose Lodge governor, pitched in to help bartenders serve customers celebrating the lodge's sixth birthday.

He was doing OK until a customer asked for a "screwdriver," a new drink made with vodka. It stumped him for a few seconds until he walked to a storage drawer and produced a small screwdriver.

"No," the customer said. "It's a drink."
"Oh!" Ralston said, "I thought you were having trouble with your car and needed a screwdriver."

LOST HORSES
CARTERVILLE, Ill. (AP) — Reports that every horse found on the loose hereabouts belongs to State Patrolman Floyd Myers are highly exaggerated.

Myers, a horse fancier, appears in western riding events. A telephone report that a horse was wandering on a highway rolled him out of bed at 3 a.m. recently. It wasn't his.

"Whenever a horse gets loose, everybody around here thinks it's mine. I only own six," he said.

Family Appetites Perk Up On This

Cool evenings hint of fall and kindle family appetites for hot, nourishing foods such as stewed chicken with corn meal muffins. It's a satisfying combination for the hungry, hard-working bread winner, the outdoor play conditioned children, and the busy homemaker who finds ease of preparation an added attraction.

To stew chicken, place pieces in kettle. Add 1 cup water and 1/2 teaspoon salt for each pound. Cook gently 2 1/2 to 4 hours, until thickest portions are fork tender. Prepare gravy, using the broth. Serve chicken and gravy with the muffins.

FALL PALATE PLEASER—Stewed chicken with corn meal muffins

By Jimmie Gillentine
In at least one respect, politics and war are highly similar. Both are costing more and more as the years pass. When people first started warring between themselves, it cost very little to kill off one's opponent with a rock or club. In these days of jet planes, hydrogen bombs, radar devices and the like, it costs a lot of money to kill one of the enemy.

Time was, too, when Abe Lincoln delivered his party platform promises beside the cracker barrel in the general store at practically no expense, other than loss of his time. In 1952, the Republicans and the Democrats turned loose of some big money. They say, however, that it will not hold a light to financial costs of the 1956 campaign.

"It's my horseback guess," says Matt McCloskey, Demo National Committee treasurer, "both parties will spend at least $100 million all told in 1956."

"His Honor" Mayor Henry Sears gets around over Texas quite a bit. Only recently he visited in San Antonio and, more recently, in Marfa. Henry allows that the only passably good crops he has seen here in the triangle: Amarillo-to-Kubbock to -Lamesa - to -Amarillo. Come to think of it, I will have to agree. What's more, conditions in this immediate area are far, far above the average — even for the triangle. I have the feeling that very few of us fully realize how fortunate we are in the Hereford territory. Sometimes, things may seem otherwise — but careful comparison will change your mind.

Leo Forrest is an old boy you just can't get ahead of. Not long ago I was chiding him in this column about the "long" estimates on potatoes, onions and other crops in this area. I thought maybe he had been talking with Bill Lenderman or some of the real estate boys. The revolting development of the whole thing occurred this week when Leo dropped into the office and asked, "Do you know where I really got those average figures I sent to the REA newspaper?" I told him. I did not, but they sure weren't very accurate.

"Then it's all your fault," countered Leo. "I got every single one of them from the columns of The Hereford Brand."

What does one do in a case like this? I am used to getting batted around and called dirty names — but it makes me most unhappy when they stand there and prove I have learned to handle a lot of situations, but not this kind.

You've heard of kids who figure that their granddads "hung the moon." Bruce Barrett, two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barrett, 119 Avenue G, is no exception. His grandfather, "Toots" Caldwell of Claude has been visiting the Barretts and, assisted by Bruce, seems to have made quite a few minor household repairs. The other night a beam appeared, creating some little discussion among the elders until Bruce took one good look at the quarter shape and casually remarked:

"That's all right, Granddad will fix it."

Folks around the Deaf Smith County tax office are feeling pretty good these days. They just got back their annual report from the State Comptroller, with a special notation "no errors on tax roll." This, it appears, is unusual. Deaf Smith, in fact, got the No. 13 spot in the 254 Texas counties reporting. The entire crew, including Assessor - Collector Lowell Sharp and Deputy John Hastings, is mighty happy about the whole thing. They'll even tell you that "13" is no longer to be considered an unlucky number.

"There's no business like show business" — they say. And, apparently the Lions Club boys are finding this out the hard way. The bugaboo which is furnishing their No. 1 headache is the approaching "West Texas State vs. A.C.C." football game, scheduled here for Friday night, Sept. 21. Advance ticket sales just aren't setting the woods on fire — and the club had to put up a stiff guarantee (around $700) to bring the game to Hereford.

I promised to give them the plug here, because they figure that folks don't know about the game. They even figure that people don't read Sports Pages. If they are right, of course, we are pretty stupid to spend so much money and space covering sports — and we might be pretty stupid, even if people do read sports pages.

Actually, I think they are just having a good case of "pre-opening jitters." That is how so many producers get so many ulcers. It's sort of like stage fright to an actor. Show business is a big gamble from the standpoint of the producer. Even the best of them buy a lemon once in a while. However, I think the Lions will come out OK on this deal. Hereford has more football enthusiasts than a Great Dane has fleas, and they will turn out at the first game of the season on Whiteface Field — and the first local college game I can remember. Proceeds will benefit the New Bull Barn. This, within itself, could be a big factor in attendance, especially for fans who would rather sit in a seat than on a bucket when they go out to attend some event in the New Bull Barn.

L. J. Clark, who works for the State Highway Department, has a gripe with which a lot of people will agree. It centers around the fact that it is next to impossible to back out of a parking place on Main Street when traffic is congested on Saturdays and Sundays. Also Dollar Days. So many cars stack up in waiting for traffic lights to change that the parked car waits and waits — and by the time the light changes, there is always another line of cars to take its place. The situation really is bad. L. J. figures that people are pretty inconsiderate in this matter and, of course, he has a point.

It isn't easy to change human nature, though. In fact, I doubt if it can be done at all. If the situation continues to get worse, which it easily might, the one improvement would be parallel parking on Main Street. This was considered some time ago, but the date would be expensive in the replanting of parking meters. It would also cut down sharply on the available number of parking places. However, it is still the only practical answer when, and if, the situation merits such drastic measures. Members of the City Commission, I am sure, would be glad to hear your expression on the subject. They are Raylan Evans, Neil Cooper, Dr. R. R. Willis, Troy Moore and Henry Sears. They are a bunch of fellows who seem to be doing their best to please the majority of the people and they will appreciate your sentiments on this, or other matters.

It's just as important to give advice to girls who want to gain weight as to those who want to lose weight says movie actress, Natalie Wood. She explains:

"It may sound odd to expound theories on how to put on weight when newspapers, magazines and bookstalls are loaded with literature on how to get thin. But there are lots of people who have trouble gaining weight. I'm one of them."

Natalie says that technicians working on the set are forever telling her how skinny she was as a child. It seemed to be her trademark.

Now, she says, she'd like to gain weight but her energy burns it off faster than she can accumulate it. Natalie wears size 5 dresses, found only in specialized shops, where the selection often is not complete, another handicap to the slim-Jill figure.

But occasionally the handicap can work to her advantage, she says.

"The studio bought me a beautiful wardrobe of clothes for my role in 'The Girl He Left Behind' with Tab Hunter. These clothes are put back in stock as a rule when the picture is finished, to be used over and over by bit players and extras. But because the sizes were so small, the studio decided it would be silly taking up room storing them, so they gave them to me."

Natalie tried the reverse technique for gaining weight. She read stories about how to reduce and then did what they said not to do—she ate creamed foods, fried foods, biscuits, bread, potatoes, spaghetti, noodles, high-calorie vegetables such as lima beans, thick gravies, sauces, gooey desserts.

But then she found that her face erupted from too many sweets—candy, pastry, etc., and that sweets deprived her of body building food, because she lost her appetite for spinach, meat, carrots and other nutrients.

"It was a mistake," she says, "to try to diet that way. The quick energy you get from sweets gives you a false sense of fullness that disappears soon and is only satiated by more sweets."

After a trial and error method, Natalie has decided the best idea for gaining weight is "to eat large helpings of good wholesome food at regular mealtimes. In addition, drink lots of malted milks, whole milk and cream.

"A favorite gain-weight treat of mine is ice cream and ginger ale mixed together in equal proportion—it is not only refreshing, healthful and satisfying but it seems to do the trick," she says.

That formula for weight gaining is successful for many skinny types and has been a popular recipe for a good number of years.

Timely Apple Dessert Recipes

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Hankering to use apples from your own tree or the market stalls? Then here's a recipe trio you might like to try. In each of these desserts apples are paired with coconut—a combination of textures and flavors many folks like.

MACAROON APPLE BETTY

Ingredients: 3 cups thinly sliced pared cooking apples, 2 to 4 tablespoons sugar or honey, 1 tablespoon butter or margarine (melted), ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, 3 tablespoons butter or margarine, 1/3 cup sugar, 1 cup corn flakes, 1/3 cup thinly flaked coconut, light or heavy cream or vanilla ice cream.

Method: Mix together the sliced apples, 2 to 4 tablespoons sugar or honey (depending on sweetness of apples), melted butter or margarine, salt and cinnamon. Turn into greased 1-quart baking dish. Set aside. Cream 3 tablespoons butter or margarine and 1/3 cup sugar. Crush cereal fairly fine; crumble with coconut and butter-sugar mixture. Spread over apple mixture; cover. Bake in moderate (350 degrees) oven 30 minutes. Remove cover and bake until apples are tender—about 15 minutes longer. Serve warm with cream or vanilla ice cream. Makes 4 servings. (You will need about ½ pint of light or heavy cream or ½ to 1 pint of vanilla ice cream for the dessert accompaniment.)

Note: This dessert may be reheated successfully.

BAKED APPLES WITH COCONUT-CREAM TOPPING

Ingredients: 6 tart medium-sized apples, ½ cup water, ¾ cup sugar, ½ cup heavy cream, 2 tablespoons sugar, ½ teaspoon grated orange rind, ¾ cup thinly flaked coconut.

Method: Wash and core apples; pare off about 1 inch of the peel from the stem end. Place apples in a baking dish that fits them with little extra space. Pour water into baking dish. Fill apple cavities with the ¾ cup sugar—there will be 2 tablespoons of sugar for each. Bake in hot (400 degrees) oven; baste apples several times during baking with syrup in bottom of baking dish. Bake until apples are tender—about 45 minutes. Cool. Place apples and syrup in individual serving dishes. Whip cream until partly stiff; whip in 2 tablespoons sugar and grated orange rind until stiff. Fold in ½ cup of the coconut. Top apples with mixture. Garnish cream with remaining ¼ cup coconut. Chill before serving. Makes 6 servings.

VERSATILE APPLES . . . make three luscious desserts.

Bake tart green apples (large size) and cut each in half. Serve baked apple halves with maple-blended syrup and vanilla ice cream. Garnish with thinly flaked coconut.

VARYING APPLESAUCE

Add crushed pineapple to applesauce for a delightfully different flavor.

Mix bottled horseradish with applesauce and serve with pork.

Dissolve red cinnamon candies in hot applesauce for pretty color and spicy flavor.

Use orange juice instead of water when you are cooking apples for sauce.

Add cinnamon, nutmeg, and plumped raisins to canned sweetened applesauce.

MAPLE APPLES A LA MODE

Display Scarcity Slows Sales Of Modern Features For Homes

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER
AP Real Estate Editor

Progress in the adoption of new ideas in home building and home modernization—new inventions, new materials, new methods—the classic rate of the husbands who went to rescue their Sabine women—one step forward and two steps backward.

Why don't more homeowners jump at a good thing when they see it?

Answer: In most cases they don't see it and have no chance to see it. There are no department stores for all building materials and equipment, where you can wander around and feel of everything from cast iron soil pipe to marble chips for the roof—from sump pumps and dehumidifiers to prefabricated fire-places and chimneys, real wood wallpaper, sliding glass doors, etc.

Consider sliding glass doors, for example. The glamor of them may be apparent to you immediately. But it would take a brave man to order a set if he had no chance to see how they work—how they glide at a finger touch, how they are weather stripped, locked, screened and drained. The problem is: where to see them in operation in the brief time one has to select plumbing fixtures and fittings, paneling, paint, insulation and the 101 items you must choose. It's just part of the headache that goes with home building or remodeling.

Home shows try to solve this problem, but they are comparatively few and far between. Home builders maintain an eight-story exhibit building in Washington, but a trip to Washington would cost many distant homeowners more than they plan to spend on a project. So a chain of permanent exhibition buildings—show-cases for materials, appliances, furnishings, financing and landscaping—is being planned to dot the country at strategic intersections of the new network of superhighways now being linked up.

The first of these showcase buildings is scheduled to be opened shortly in New Jersey, where it will be within reasonable driving distance from the population centers of New England, New York and Pennsylvania. It is sponsored by Built-In Age, Inc., whose head, Charles S. Cohan, announces that similar buildings will follow on sites already obtained near Chicago and near Dallas, California and Massachusetts projects are on the drawing boards, he says.

Cohan's first intention was to provide a permanent exhibit for the use of architects, builders, engineers and bankers. "When I realized that perhaps 80 percent of the families in this country want to improve their homes or build a new home, I changed my plans," he said. "Each building not only will be open to the public, but will also be a vast television stage, designed and built to carry the message of modern housing into every home within the reach of TV."

In the meantime, the Sliding Glass Door and Window Institute, comprising various manufacturers of those products, has issued a new brochure on standard sizes now being made. It is distributed from the institute headquarters, 7421 Beverly Blvd., Los Angeles 36, Calif.

"The use of sliding glass doors," it says, "originated in Southern California where temperatures are comparatively even the year around. Today, through advances in manufacturing, improved weatherstripping and the perfection of double glazing to withstand both heat and cold, they can be installed and enjoyed in all parts of the country."

Westway Community Residents Gather For A Picnic

TALKING THINGS OVER—Mrs. Bess Werner, left, had just delivered one of her sage remarks, which accounts for the expressions on the faces of Mrs. Joe Landers and Mrs. C. O. Brown. RIGHT: G. C. 11 Home Demonstration Clubs On Busy Activities Schedule

By MARGARET BELL
A busy schedule of fall activities has begun for the members of the 11 Deaf Smith County Home Demonstration Clubs as the first meetings of the new club year get underway.

Election of officers for the coming year is the first item on the slate of business for each club, and a summary of the principles of landscaping is to introduce the new study lessons, according to Mrs. Argen Draper, county home demonstration agent.

Subject of one September meeting will be "Homestead Improvement" with the program planned to summarize the landscape study followed by the clubs for the past four years. Mrs. Draper commented that despite the effects of the continued drought on the landscape projects of the club members, improvements have been made in the extended program. Roll call for the meeting is to be answered with insects which have bothered the members' vegetable and flower gardens, and with the control to be used for the pests.

Stress Insect Control
The agent, Mrs. Draper, will present a demonstration concerning insect control at this meeting of each club.

"Religious Training" is the program topic to be presented by the program leader of each club at the other meeting this month. Mrs. Draper said that some clubs have made plans for an outside speaker to discuss the topic at this meeting.

Roll Call Topics
Roll calls from which the members may choose a topic are: What prayer means to me; Religious training in other countries; Characteristics of a woman of the Bible; An experience in my Christian life; Family altar in our home.

Girls' 4-H Clubs of the county, under the supervision of Mrs. Dorothea Prowell, assistant agent, will present achievement programs of their recent studies on family relations. "Courtesy" is to be the program topic for one September meeting of the 11 clubs, and each group will also entertain with an Achievement Tea to honor each girl's parents and other family members.

The achievement teas will feature exhibits of the clubs' accomplishments during the past year. Each 4-H member has been asked to exhibit at least one of her club accomplishments at the tea. The members' homes and community centers will be the scenes of these achievement programs.

Wyche Club

A summary of the past four years of the study of farmstead improvement was presented to the Wyche Home Demonstration Club as it met in the home of Mrs. C. C. Ellis on Sept. 6. The program was introduced by Mrs. W. P. Axe, leader, who presented the speaker, Mrs. Argen Draper.

Color slides of landscaping were shown as Mrs. Draper summarized the landscape study.

Drouth Hit Sales Of Livestock Are Under Tax Ruling

Drouth stricken farmers have been provided income tax relief on the sale of livestock by Public Law 629 approved June 29, 1956. When a farmer has to sell his livestock, in excess of the number that he usually sells in his ordinary business, due to a drouth, he can consider the sale as an involuntary conversion. The tax relief provisions relating to involuntary conversions have in the past applied to such things as the burning of your house, losses by flood, etc., on which insurance is collected.

No tax is due on the sale of property due to an involuntary conversion if the property is replaced with like kind within a specified period, generally before the end of the following year.

H. B. Hamill, administrative officer of the Amarillo internal revenue office stated that farmers who are having to sell livestock due to drouth conditions will qualify. He pointed out that the Farmers Tax Guide for 1955, internal revenue service publication 255, sets out the procedures the farmers should follow. Chapter 43.

Publication 225 is available at internal revenue service offices and "agents' offices. Thousands of farmers used this publication in preparing their 1955 tax returns.

Beauty At Home

Q. Will you please suggest some good skin bleaches I can use?
 A. Butter is very good. Wash the face and neck with it at bedtime. The juice of a lemon in a cup of milk makes another good bleach. Peroxide of hydrogen also will whiten the skin. Dilute it and use it like a lotion, avoiding the eyebrows and lashes. If it smart, dilute it with some rose water.
 Q. How should the oval-shaped face be made up?
 A. Rouge the center of the cheeks, blending it up over the cheekbones toward the temples in the circular fields. Carry rouge very lightly up under the eyes, especially if you have dark circles. Keep eyebrows natural, starting them on a line directly above inside corners of eyes. Make up the mouth full, and follow its natural line.
 Q. Just what causes graying of the hair?
 A. A lack of pigment in the hair. In older people, this is natural. Premature graying is often caused by vitamin deficiency. Include ample quantities of meat, butter, and green vegetables in your diet.
 Q. Is "hair-pulling" considered a good scalp manipulation?
 A. Yes; this is circulation-building and is practiced by some of the professionals. Grasp a small handful of the hair, pull it hard and away from the scalp. Repeat this for a 10-minute period, until the entire scalp has been exercised. As a daily routine, this should prove beneficial to your scalp and hair.
 Q. What makeup is good for the eyes that are too widely set apart?
 A. If you will apply your eyeshadow heaviest toward the nose, it will tend to bring the eyes slightly closer together.
 Q. What else, if anything, can I do (besides exercise and massage) to help reduce a double chin?
 A. A very beneficial practice consists of rubbing the double chin with ice (covered with gauze or cheesecloth), or applying ice water frequently. This contracts the skin and increases its elasticity.

 Q. What shape of eyeglass frames should a girl with a square type of face wear?
 A. She should strive to create width by wearing a frame slightly wider than the widest point of her jawline. The bridge should be arched to create length from the bridge to the point of the chin. The lower part of the frame should have a slightly upswept curve.
 Q. What is a good after-shampoo rinse for very oily hair?
 A. Three ounces of vinegar to 1½ pints of warm water.
 Q. How can I remove leather stains from one of my frocks?
 A. If the material is washable, try soap and water, using plenty of soap and rubbing thoroughly. If glycerine is worked into the stain first and allowed to stand for a half-hour or more, the stain will yield more easily. On unwashables, try glycerine, working it into the stain carefully with a glass rod, or rubbing lightly between the hands. Let stand for a half-hour, then rinse by sponging with water.
 Q. Is there any special beauty mask beneficial to an oily type of skin?
 A. Very good is a mask of fuller's earth mixed to a smooth paste with witch hazel.
 The word "circus" comes from the Latin word meaning a circular arena.

SUMMER DOG CARE

BOSTON, Mass. — Pets can suffer heat prostration just as well as humans, says the Massachusetts Veterinary Assn.

Never, the association says, lock an animal in a car standing for hours in the sun, or in tightly-closed apartments and hot, stuffy rooms. Water should be made available to them at all times.

If the animal shows signs of severe panting, weakness and apparent helplessness it's an indication of approaching prostration. To combat this serious danger, the association says, the animal's body should be swabbed with cool water.

If the pet's discomfort is not quickly eased, death can follow quickly.

While the standard gauge between rails on railroad tracks is 4 feet 8 1/2 inches, railroad tracks around the world vary from track gauges of 5 feet 6 inches down to 1 foot 3 inches.

How Can I?

Q. How can I prevent the shoe tongue from slipping to one side?
A. Cut two short slits near the top of the tongue, about a quarter of an inch apart, and slip the lace through these slits before inserting through the top holes.

Q. How can I soften and whiten the skin?
A. A good method for softening and whitening the face, neck, the arms and hands is to mix a little raw cornmeal and sour milk, and apply.

Q. How can I make matches waterproof?
A. Dip them into very hot melted paraffin.

Q. How can I remove ink stains from a rug?
A. Saturate the spot with vinegar, then sprinkle salt over it. Take a large spoon and dip up all possible. Repeat this formula several times and then rinse in cold water.

Q. How can I remove stains from white enamel furniture?
A. By adding a small piece of potash to a kettle of clear water, letting it stand for a few minutes, and then washing the furniture with this solution and soap.

Q. How can I remove mortar from window glass?
A. Try rubbing with hot, strong vinegar.

Q. How can I re-use used paraffin?
A. By heating it to the boiling point and straining through three thicknesses of cheese cloth over a funnel. Repeat this operation if necessary. It can be cleaned with a brush and warm water if not too dirty.

Q. What can I take to produce sleep?
A. Steep spring onions in a course brown sugar and take a teaspoonful at night. This will not only produce sleep but is very healthful.

Q. What is the correct way to roll pastry?
A. Never operate the rolling pin backwards and forwards when you make pastry. Roll it forwards only and then lift it.

Q. How can I make strawberries keep their nice red color after they are canned?
A. Add 2 tablespoons of vinegar to each quart when canning. After the jar is sealed, place on its side until the berries are cool; this keeps the berries from coming to the top.

Q. How can I make buttonholes that will not become frayed and unsightly?
A. Overcast the buttonhole around the edges before working. Then proceed in the usual way.

He's 72, Has Four Jobs And No Plan Of Retiring

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — William Rentschler has been able to avoid "the worst job on this earth—complete retirement."

The daily working schedule of Rentschler, 72, includes:
—An eight hour stint as a cigar-maker.

—Several hours of bookkeeping as the Louisville Federation of Labor financial secretary.

—More time as secretary of the Union Label Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor.

—Still more hours as secretary-treasurer of Cigar Makers Union 32.

Recently, Rentschler, secretary of the LFL for 33 years, tried to give up the job. "At my age, I felt I needed more sleep. I thought the members would let me resign."

He was wrong.

The LFL voted to defer action on the resignation and at the next meeting Rentschler decided to stay on until the end of the year.

He says if compulsory retirement was applied to his trade, the cigar making industry might go out of existence.

The number of men qualified in this area, Rentschler says, is few enough and most are getting on in years.

When he joined the Cigar Makers Union in 1903, it was one of the most potent influences in organized labor, with 45,000 members. From its ranks came Samuel Gompers, founder, first president and leading light of the AFL.

Today, says Rentschler, the Cigar Union's national membership is down to 7,500.

In his free time, Rentschler, a bachelor, goes dancing.

"I'm a good dancer — or was until I had an appendicitis attack a few years ago."

After 37 years as a union official, you might expect he would have written some union history as well as made it.

"Too busy to write history," is Rentschler's answer. "I don't really remember too much about those early years of union work around here. I was dancing all the time, you see."

Cleaning Silverware

To clean silverware, put four quarts of soft water into an aluminum pan, and add one heaping tablespoonful of salt and two heaping tablespoonfuls of baking soda. Let come to a boil. Put the silverware into this solution and let it stand for a few minutes. Remove, and wash in strong suds. Rinse with clear boiling water. Dry thoroughly.

Curling Feathers

When curling feathers or plumes shake the tips through steam from the spout of a kettle, and then curl with a silver fruit knife or a whale bone.

Perfume Stains

Perfume stains can be removed from the dressing table scarfs by using peroxide of hydrogen.

A Brighter Polish

Try adding a little vinegar to the water with which you wash your windows, and a brighter polish will be the result. This added shine also produces a glare which makes it more difficult to see through the windows from the outside.

Greasy Soup

To remove the last drops of fat from the top of the soup, just throw a lettuce leaf into the vessel. It will absorb the grease and can then be removed after serving its purpose.

Rust Spots

Rust spots that have accumulated on the stove during the summer months can be removed by rubbing linseed oil on them. If the spots are obstinate, sandpaper the areas where they remain.

Combs and Brushes

To remove grease and dirt from the combs and brushes add a teaspoon of ammonia to a quart of water. Rinse, shake the brushes, and dry in the sun.

The Sink Drain

Hot grease should not be poured down the drain pipe of the sink. It will congeal as soon as it strikes the cold pipe and tend to clog it.

Prunes

The flavor of prunes will be greatly improved by adding a little cinnamon and lemon.

Dissolving Old Rubber

The old rubber should be shredded finely, then heated under pressure for several hours with a strong solution of caustic soda. All paint, glue, fillers, cloth, etc., will disintegrate, but the rubber will not be affected. Wash the resultant mass several times with water to remove all alkali. The pure rubber that results can then be formed into sheets, or however desired.

Aerialists Offer Thrill A Second

TRAPEZE— "Trapeze" is a taut drama with a circus background which was filmed in Paris. This movie stars Burt Lancaster, Tony Curtis, and Gina Lollobrigida and shows five days—Friday, Saturday, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday—at the Star Theatre. You'll hold your breath as suspense mounts when the stars do their daring aerial stunts. Gina Lollobrigida, as the woman who wants her name in the lights, pretends to fall in love with Tony Curtis, so he will help her on the road to fame. Burt Lancaster, embittered by an aerial stunt that left him crippled in one leg, realizes the sort of future Tony Curtis has ahead of him, tries to reason with the ambitious tumbler that Gina would ruin the balance of their act. Quarrels ensue, and a tension-torn triangle nearly ruins the show. Also showing is "Busy Buddies" a Tom and Jerry cartoon and Paramount News No 7 and No 8.

JUBAL
Glenn Ford stars in "Jubal," showing Saturday at the Tower Drive In. This is the story of a range drifter who never has to look for trouble; it clings to him. Ford portrays a wanderer who winds up with a job on Ernest Borgnine's ranch in lonely Wyoming. Borgnine's young wife causes trouble, and Ford is forced to kill Borgnine in self-defense. As Ford flees, he falls under the heart-warming spell of Felicia Farr, the daughter of the leader of a religious group. This film was made chiefly in the Grand Teton country of Wyoming, with scenic backgrounds of snow, pine trees, and the towering Tetons. "House of Tomorrow" is the cartoon for the kiddie's enjoyment.

Child Should Use Allowance Wisely, Authority States

With school days here for millions of boys and girls, the question of the "right" allowance is being faced by millions of parents.

The size of an allowance may present a problem at first, but it is a problem that can be solved without a great deal of difficulty, according to one authority on family finances, Dr. Harlan B. Miller, educational division director of the Institute of Life Insurance. Under Dr. Miller's direction the Institute of Life Insurance has distributed thousands of copies of a booklet to high schools for classroom use, in which the principles of sound money management are explained.

To begin with, Dr. Miller says, a child can be given money of his own to manage even at the tender age of six or eight years, as long as he understands that he must pay for certain things out of his allowance.

Encourage Saving
Many a very young child can make his own church contributions or even manage the spending of a few cents a week for candy. As a child gets older he may be given the responsibility of purchasing inexpensive personal articles such as socks, or handkerchiefs—and his allowance increased in proportion. At the same time he should be encouraged to save part of his allowance to build the habit of thrift. He may save for something special.

A boy may be able to put aside money over a period of four or five weeks for a baseball; or similarly, a girl may be able to save toward her hobby of record collecting. Certainly by the time a child is 13 or 14, he should be responsible for buying some of his wardrobe out of allowance, Dr. Miller believes.

Because each child is different, and because each family is different, it is utterly impossible to say that a 10-year-old or a 15-year-old should receive so many cents or dollars a week as allowance, Dr. Miller points out. To arrive at a reasonable amount, parents and children must sit down together and take into account the family's program. "Fort Yuma" starring Peter Graves and Joan Vohs. They find themselves among the midst of Apache raids as they trek across the Indian territory. The story centers around the horror-filled days in the desert with the travelers stalked at every turn by Apaches Chief Mangas' son and his Membrano tribe. Also starring in this movie are John Hudson and Joan Taylor. "Hell's Horizons," starring John Ireland and Marla English, also shows Friday and Saturday, along with a Tom and Jerry cartoon.

Perk Up That School Wardrobe

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor
Practically every school girl has a wardrobe of cotton skirts, some of which may be looking a little weary after a season or so of hard wear.

A few minutes at the sewing machine can put new life in old skirts and brighten them up for the new school term. Local sewing center experts suggest adding colorful appliques to solid-color skirts, raiding the scrap bag for fabrics.

For example, you can make a plain skirt into a conversation piece by adding appliques in a sailboat motif, using simple outlines, with single-fold bias tape for the hulls of the boats. Seagulls also may be made from bias tape, stitched in a wide V.

Here's another new trick: Take two packages of the very wide (No.

income, the general needs of a child and then agree upon what the youngster is expected to do with an allowance.

Once an allowance starts, it should be paid regularly. There should be no additional handouts or doles, Dr. Miller advises, because they will defeat the purpose of giving an allowance, which is to endow a child with a growing sense of financial responsibility. By the same token, allowances should not be withheld as punishment.

Own Earnings
In time, boys and girls will begin to supplement their allowances with earnings. Parents should encourage their children to earn their own money, in Dr. Miller's opinion. The older a child gets, he explains, the more he should come to rely on his own earnings. A girl will typically turn to baby sitting. Boys also baby-sit, Dr. Miller notes; they may have newspaper delivery routes, mow lawns, shovel snow, run errands and perform the variety of minor but remunerative jobs around the community.

Just because a youngster earns money doesn't mean that his allowance should be slashed, Dr. Miller says. As earnings go up, give him more responsibility for buying personal articles out of his total income.

Independent earnings, while desirable and necessary to a growing youngster, may bring one very real problem, Dr. Miller cautions. Outside jobs often cut heavily into a child's time at home, and there is always a danger that homework and study, and such things as music lessons and social life may be neglected. Parents might do well to keep this possibility in mind when giving a youngster permission to work.

NEW LIFE FOR AN OLD SKIRT—Colorful sailboat and sea gull appliques are stitched in contrasting bias binding. Wide rickrack braid in two colors is used to simulate ocean waves as colorful edging for the hemline of the skirt.

SMALL DINNER

HELENA, Mont. (AP)—It was no light lunch. A 40-foot hot dog and a 10-foot hamburger was on the menu for delegates to the National Association of State Approval Agencies convention. Police escorted the lunch from the bakery to the dining room.

These are only a few suggestions for effective trimmings. Any girl will be able to dream up her own ideas for individual appliques to give old skirts a new lease on life.

Terrie Jan Townsend attended a birthday party for Karen Johnson at the Johnson home in Westway last Sunday.

Labor Day guests of the Johnnie Townsends were Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Townsend and Lamar of Hereford.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis West and Mrs. Ruby Lee Vaughn and Randall enjoyed a four-day vacation in Colorado recently on the river near Plataro. They reported frost on top of houses and cars every morning, and also witnessed rain and sleet.

Mr. and Mrs. Sammy West, Joe, Jan, and Jay and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis West attended a Mexican supper in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Claborn of Friona Thursday night. Mrs. Claborn is the daughter of the Lewis Wests.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Lesly were hosts to a steak barbecue at their home Tuesday night. Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Lewis West and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Duckworth of Post.

Returns to School

Sammy B. Lesley left last week for Lexington, Mo., where he began the fall term at the Wentworth Military Academy.

This community is well represented by the first graders in the Hereford schools this year. They are Mike Higgins, Cinda Hanna, Lonnie Hale, Jane Shearheart, Donnie Fangman, Terrie Townsend, Eugene Bowman and Glenda Sue Dillard.

Ward Harvest Opens

Maize harvest began in the community last week, but will be a few days before it will be in full swing. It began on the Higgins farm, worked by Lewis West.

Mrs. Lewis West and grandchildren, Joe, Jan and Jay West visited Thursday with her mother, Mrs. Sam Lesly of Hereford, who is ill.

Recent guests in the J. B. Halle home were his mother, Mrs. W. B. Halle of Amarillo, and two sisters, Mrs. Clyde Martin of Clarendon and Mrs. Monroe Herrington of Arkansas.

Reunions Galore

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis West have been kept busy attending reunions. They attended a family reunion of Mrs. West's folks in Wheeler, the old Settlers reunion at Roaring Springs, a family reunion in the Hereford Park, and the most recent one was on Labor Day at Mobeetie, where Mr. West grew up. They were accompanied to Mobeetie by the Birch West family of Hereford. On Tuesday night, the group were supper guests in the home of Alph West of Pampa, a brother of Lewis and Birch.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Royal, Ann, and Gary left Saturday morning for Denver, Colo., where Ann will enter Colorado Women's College.

Crossed Eyes Are Defect That May Make Child Blind

Don't assume that a child will outgrow crossed eyes, warns Dr. Henry A. Holle, state commissioner of health. Crossed eyes are a serious defect. Vision in the crossed eye may fail to develop and the child will grow up without useful sight in that eye.

In later years, the eye may straighten and appear normal, yet the person will be partially blind—often without knowing it.

Factors Responsible

Various factors may be responsible for crossed eyes: near or far-sightedness, faulty muscles and excessive nervous incoordination; a blow on the head; heredity or disease. Any one of these may affect the ability of the two eyes to work together, causing one of the eyes to turn in, out, or upward.

As a result, the two eyes are unable to focus on the same object at the same time. The youngster sees double, because his crossed eyes view an object from widely different angles.

Too Young To Tell

The child is disturbed, but often too young to explain his difficulty. He squints his eyes and tilts his head, unconsciously trying either to combine the two images into one, or simply to ignore one image altogether. But neither attempt succeeds.

So he finally gives up trying to see with both eyes. He unconsciously eliminates the image in one eye, now sees only one image, and actually becomes accustomed to "one-eyed" sight.

Need Treatment Early

The longer a child is cross-eyed,

The more difficult it is to improve his vision. If treated early—preferably before the age of four—crossed eyes can usually be corrected. Some forms of treatment can be started as early as the age of one year. And even cross-eyed children up to nine or later can occasionally regain normal sight if they receive competent medical treatment.

The specialist may first recommend glasses if the youngster is near or far-sighted; in some few cases that alone will do the job.

Exercises Help

Exercises for the eye muscles may be used to teach the two eyes to work together again as a team. These do not take the place of surgery or glasses, but are valuable. Sometimes an operation is necessary to line up the crossed eye with the normal one. One operation may be all that's needed, but it sometimes takes two or three before the eyes are exactly straight, since several eye muscles may be involved. Complete correction may take a year or more.

One set of eyes can last a lifetime but it takes responsible care by parents during the years of childhood. Habits formed then will carry over into adulthood.

Plays Piano Without Arm; Declares - - 'No Handicap'

SPARTANBURG, S. C. (AP)—If someone asks Roy B. Johnson to play something on his piano, he'll probably grin and oblige with "Leaning on the Everlasting Arms," an old hymn.

Johnson, now 38, was 13 when a friend pulled the trigger of what he thought was an unloaded shotgun. The blast took his right arm off above the elbow.

Johnson doesn't consider himself handicapped. In fact, he has refused offers of an artificial arm.

"It would just be in my way," he says.

Interested in music for as far back as he can remember, Johnson had the habit of going to church early so he could practice on the piano before the services.

After the accident, he was determined to keep playing. He reads music, but has had no formal training.

Still, he quickly picks up unfamiliar melodies when they are hummed or sung.

Some of his favorite songs are from sheet music and hymnals that his mother had. She died when he was nine days old. His home at nearby Lyman, S.C., often is filled with friends, mostly young people, who enjoy his music.

Johnson is an elevator operator at a textile mill at Greer, S.C.

He hopes some day to own a pipe organ. He figures he can do a better job on it, playing the bass notes with his feet.

DESPITE AN ACCIDENT which caused the loss of most of his right arm when he was 13, Roy B. Johnson demonstrates some of his piano playing.

"Let This Cup Pass"

"Nevertheless, not my will but Thine be done."

Have you prayed such a prayer? Have you ever asked God to remove the heavy cross, the rough way, the bitter cup? The Master had but one aim: to do the will of His Father in Heaven. Jesus said, "not my will but Thine be done." Is that your attitude? Do you ask to know His will with you? Do you bother to go to church and take your family? Have you realized that all you have come directly from God? Do you count it a privilege to support His Kingdom's work? Have you made the doing of His will the primary motive in living? Brother, nothing else really matters. Your church and your pastor can help you in this vital matter.

YOU IN THE CHURCH
 THE CHURCH IN YOU

Character is a by-product of the church. It is here that young and old alike are showered with benedictions that fortify and influence for a better citizenship and a stronger democracy. In the church the ministerial are molding religious character. Statesmen today declare that the church alone can furnish leadership to handle the affairs of state in these perilous times. Then we on Sunday "You in the Church and the Church in you" form a combination for good. Be a regular CHURCH GOER and a daily BIBLE READER.

HERE'S HOW

A Woman Can Hang Wall Covering

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeature Writer

It is no secret that the average man can't drive a nail in spite of the do-it-yourself movement. Many housewives have taken over like-ly chores — repairing washers, re-placing blown-fuses and repairing electric cords.

Women have become so adept at little things that they are taking on some of the larger jobs that have become simplified by manu-facturers, such as papering walls.

Wall covering is made easy with pre-trimmed material in 24-inch widths, simple to measure, cut and hang on the wall. Plastic coated wall covering may be stretch-ed or shrunk to fit after it is on the wall by patting it with a damp cloth. If a mistake is made, just peel the fabric off and put it up again.

The job goes like this:
Set up your work table with needed materials — a plumb line for establishing a vertical edge, a roller for smoothing seams, a razor in a holder for cutting off excess material, a sharp pair of scissors for cutting, a stiff brush for brushing out wrinkles and af-fixing covering to wall, a soft brush for applying paste to back of wall covering and ordinary wall paper paste.

A routine speeds efficiency so measure and cut strips needed, matching the pattern as you measure each subsequent strip. Num-ber strips in order on back with a soft pencil. Apply paste to back and fold over strip until ready for use.

Using plumb line, establish a vertical straight edge for hanging the material. Hang it, matching the pattern as you brush out wrinkles with stiff brush. Cut off excess material. Butt seams together. Wash down finished wall with damp cloth or sponge.

There are more than 100 patterns and textures in plastic coated wall covering to choose from.

Home Repair DOs-DONT's

USING A HAMMER
AP Newsfeature

DO... know that the size of an ordinary curved claw hammer (the kind usually used in the home) is determined by the weight of the head... with a 16-ounce size about right for most general purposes.

DO... grip a hammer firmly near the end of the handle, hold-ing the nail at the desired spot with the other hand and tapping lightly (wrist-action only) a few times until it has taken hold in the wood.

DO... then remove one hand from nail and, this time bring-ing arm into play, hit the nail harder — but not so hard that con-trol is lost.

DO... if nail begins to bend slightly, try straightening it out by hitting it a few taps in a direction opposite to that of the bend, al-though in most cases it's better to remove the nail and start over with a new one.

DO... tighten a loose hammer head by driving in a wooden or (preferably) metal wedge — not by soaking the hammer head in water, as is sometimes suggest-ed, since that is at best only a temporary cure.

DONT... when pulling out a nail with the hammer claws, over-look the use of a wood block, which serves the double purpose of preventing damage to the work and providing extra leverage.

DONT... use a curved claw hammer for prying up wood; a "wrecking" bar is the proper tool.

DONT... expect a smaller hammer to be easier on your muscles just because it is light in weight; for heavy jobs, such as driving long nails into 2 by 4's, a heavy hammer is less fatiguing.

DONT... drive a nail through a knot if it can be avoided; if it can't, drill a small hole through the knot to lessen the chance of splitting it.

PREPARE several strips ahead of time as professionals do. Brush paste evenly and fold two-thirds, then one-third.

BRUSH covering on the wall with a stiff brush, using upward and outward strokes. A RAZOR BLADE in a holder makes a good trimming tool.

SHORT CUT

READING, Pa. (AP) — William Fletcher inadvertently found a new more thrilling method of using a playground sliding board.

The five-year-old Reading young-ster tumbled from the top of the 18-foot high board to the ground below.

Hospital attendants said the boy didn't suffer a scratch.

But Billy said he learned a les-son—stick to the conventional.

INSULTING FENCE

BONNYVILLE, Sask. (U)—Councilors of this Northeastern Alberta town described a new steel picket fence around the federal building as a "Monstrosity." Dangerous and an insult to Bonnyville.

NO FURTHER COMPLAINTS

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (U)—Judge M. C. Lewis Jr., reports that a marital triangle case was settled out of court—in fact, right outside the courtroom.

The wife was accused of making telephone threats to another woman. The judge took no punitive action, but admonished the two women to leave each other alone.

Wife, hubby and the other woman left the courtroom together. Seconds later there was the sound of a vigorous slap. A witness told the court it was delivered by the "other woman."

No further complaints. The purple passion fruit produces more "ripening gas" (ethylene) for its size than any other fruit.

MIRRORS MOTHER'S MOOD

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M.D.

It's a strange thing how quickly a baby knows that his mother is upset. A baby doesn't like an upset mother. He doesn't have one smitch of sympathy for her troubles, and he tells her so in no uncertain terms.

Mary and Bill had a quarrel at the breakfast table. Mary said they must have the Rosens over and she'd invited them in for dinner tonight. Bill hit the ceiling, shouting: "That old So-and-So — you know I can't stand him and that simpering fool of a wife. Why can't you have them around (if you must) while I'm at the office?"

Mary was crushed but before she could explain further Bill shoved his chair back, grabbed his hat and slammed the door after him.

Mary was angry and hurt. She and Bill had very few fights. She felt somehow she was to blame and yet she knew she wasn't. She became more and more upset as she ruminated on Bill's behavior.

She was brought back to the present by a loud wail from the other room. It was time to feed Peter. She took a bottle of milk from the refrigerator, warmed it up and walked into Peter's room, still thinking about how unjust Bill was.

She picked up the baby, changed him and sat down to feed him. She didn't talk to him quite as much as usual, she was so busy thinking about Bill.

Peter knew there was something the matter. This wasn't his warm friendly Mama. This person had tense, jittery arms. She was jerky and impatient. She did not feel nice. She didn't sound nice. He didn't like it. He cried, he did not want to have anything to do with the nipple, he pushed it away and cried harder. Mary was annoyed. "What's the matter with you, Peter, aren't you hungry?" she put him over her shoulder, but it didn't help. Peter crawled up her chest and bellowed into her ear. What he was saying was:

"Go away, you are not my Mommy! I want my nice friendly Mommy." But Mary couldn't translate his shrieks. She thought he must be sick — maybe he had colic.

Just then the phone rang. She laid Peter in his crib, shrieks and all.

"Mary, honey," the voice said, "I'm sorry I acted like such a boor, please forgive me." "Oh, Bill!" was all Mary could get out. "The Rosens are a bore, but I know you're right and I'm glad you asked them over. I'll try to get home early."

"Bill, you're wonderful, but I must go now; Peter's crying." Mary practically danced into the other room, picked up Peter, told him he had the most wonderful father in the world. Peter stopped crying, beamed at this good old Mommy, grabbed for his bottle as soon as Mary got it within reach and sucked it down to the last drop.

"Peter," said Mary to the relaxed little bundle, "you knew I was all mean inside. I don't know how you knew it, but you did. Oh, Peter, I won't do it to you again."

New Federal Law Affects Farmers Employing Kids

Every commercial farmer and grower whose products move in interstate commerce directly or indirectly became subject to the child-labor provisions of the Federal Fair Labor Standards Act when the school term opened here on Sept. 4. But Hereford school officials point out that the enforcement of the law is still strictly a federal matter.

While enforcement of the law does not concern local officials, its effect on the legal status of employment of children in agriculture the day local schools open was explained recently by William J. Rogers, regional director of the Department of Labor's wage and hour division in Dallas.

School Hours Provision "This law," he said, "exempts growers of agricultural and horticultural products from its $1 minimum wage and overtime provisions, but it specifically prohibits employment of children under 16 years of age in agricultural occupations during hours school is in session in the school district in which they live while working."

"In other words, children of any age may be employed on the farm by the grower in the planting, cultivating, harvesting or handling of agricultural products during vacation periods, on weekends and before and after school. The grower may use his own children in agricultural work at any time and at any age on his own farm."

Higher Law Applies But he noted that these are federal restrictions. Each of the 48 states has a child-labor law of its own. So he advised growers to consult with state officers, local school attendance officials or study State laws to determine their provisions: When the State child-labor standards are higher than those of the Federal law, the State law should be observed.

"The federal regulation requires that each grower subject to it have on file for each employee under 18 a record showing his full name, date of birth, the home address and the local address if the minors are employed on days when school is in session," he said.

Protects Children Primary purposes of both federal and state child-labor laws, according to Rogers, are to protect children from exploitation, and to encourage them to stay in school and obtain the education that will make them better citizens of tomorrow.

Here are the steps Mr. Rogers should take to protect himself from unintentional violations:

1. Learn the requirements of both state and federal child-labor laws.
 2. Do not employ or permit children under 16 to work in or about the farm or hothouse during hours school is in session.
 3. Make sure the youth is of employable age and keep the required records for at least three years.
- He emphasized that the federal law applies to all children, whether they reside in the area or are members of migrant worker families. Also that the grower himself is held liable for any violations even though the under-age children were hired and paid by a labor contractor or processor or others.
