DANIEL IN NARROW LEAD; GUINN, SOWELL ELECTED

Local Races Draw Voters

Deaf Smith voters yesterday turned out in four precincts where local offices were at stake in numbers just under the totals for July's Democratic First Primary. They renamed one veteran incumbent, J. T. Guinn for Precinct 3 Commissioner, while a second veteran commissioner, M. T. (Marlon) Rutter of Precinct 1 was displaced by his opponent Charles R. Sowell.

Guinn, now in his 22nd year as County Commissioner, triumphed over his opponent Charles R. Hoover by a margin of 74 to 56 votes. He piled up a 51 to 27 edge in his Garcia community home voting precinct, no. 8, to offset the 26 to 19 margin gained by Hoover in his own Roe community voting box, precinct 3. Guinn gained 4 absentee ballots to 3 for Hoover.

Sowell edged into the precinct commissioner's post held for the past six years by Rutter by a scant 21 vote margin, polling 328 to 307 votes.

At the precinct 1 polls, Sowell had 292 votes to 248 for the incumbent. Rutter took precinct 7, Dawn community, by a 49 to 20 margin. Sowell had the advantage in absentee voting, 16 to 10.

The local races undoubtedly contributed to the interest displayed in the second primaries by this county's voters. The total votes cast in the July contest for Commissioner of Precinct 1 was 678, while 635 votes were cast for the post yesterday.

In the two precincts which decided the issue for Commissioner of Precincts, 137 votes were divided among three candidates in July, while Guinn and Hoover drew a total of 130 votes in Saturday's polling.

The precinct 1 post was sought in July by five candidates. Sowell then ran behind Rutter with just 158 votes to 226 for the incumbent.

Here's how the races were tallied in complete but unofficial returns:

Rotarians To Hear Of Studies Abroad

Speaker at the Rotary Club tomorrow noon will be Gerre Hancock, Rotary Foundation Fellow from Lubbock. He has just returned from a year of study at the University of Paris in France, and will report on his experiences to 25 Rotary Clubs in the 183rd District.

Hancock graduated from Lubbock High School in 1951, and entered Texas Tech. When he transferred to the University of Texas, he studied organ with Dr. E. William Doty. He graduated from the university in 1955 and has been studying in France for several months.

During his period of study in Austin, Hancock was organist at a University Baptist Church, and was a member of Phi Mu Alpha and Pi Kappa Lambda.

LIQUOR ISSUE TO POLLS

Setting a date for a local option election on liquor sales apparently will be a duty on Monday of the County Commissioners Court.

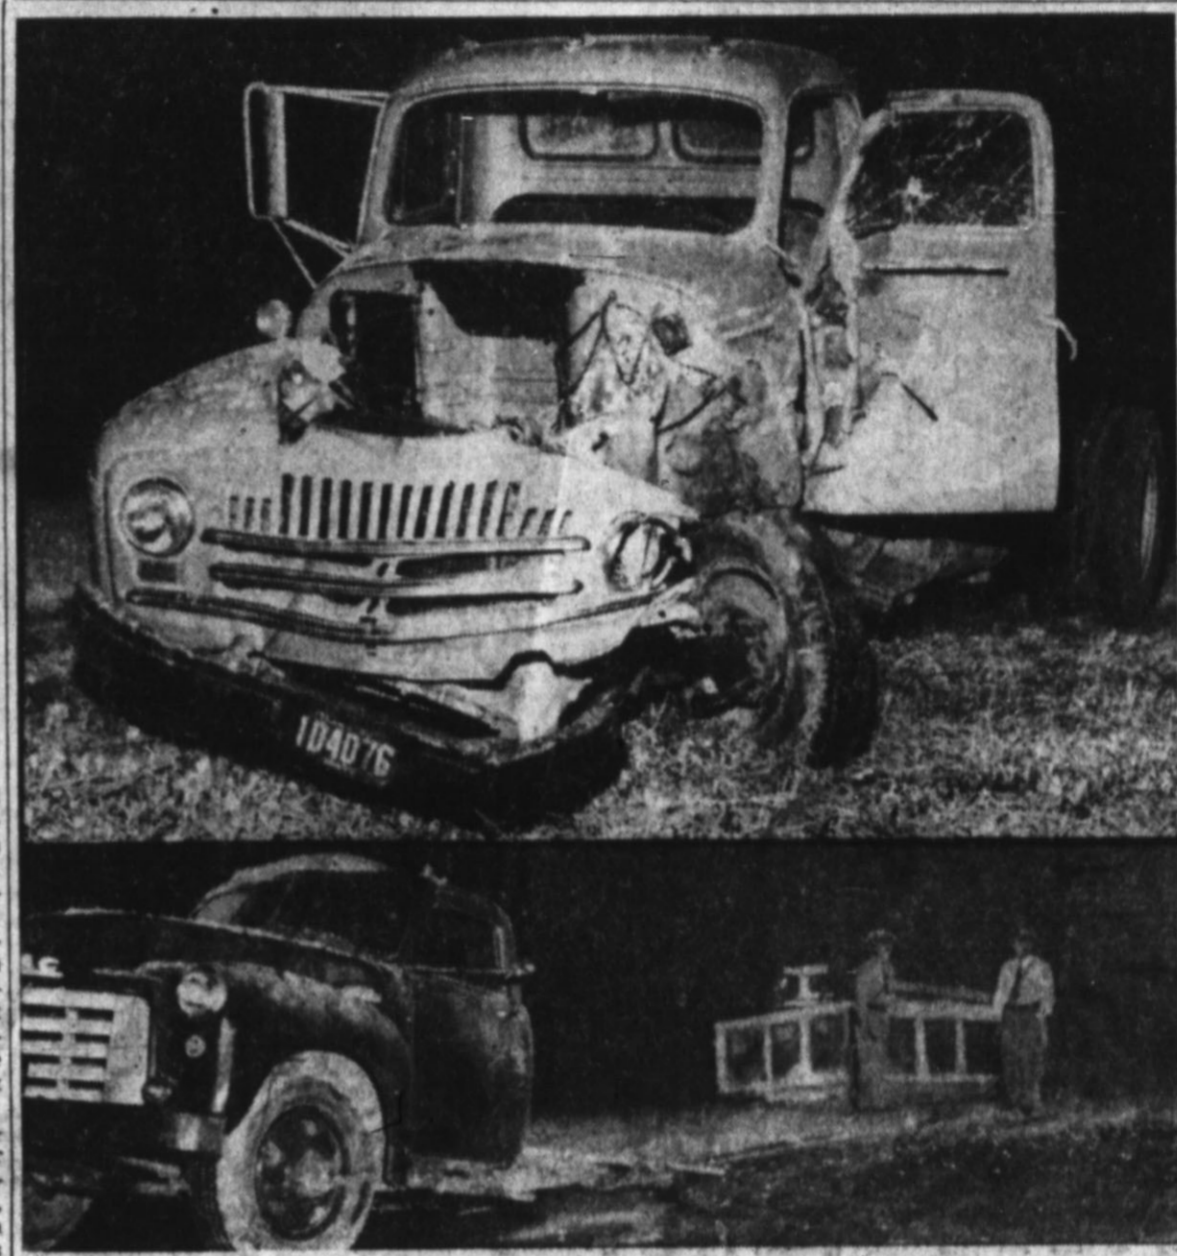

In conference Saturday morning with County Clerk Ralph Smith, County Judge Homer Henslee learned that 840 signatures had been found fully qualified as Deaf Smith County voters. Just 816 signatures on the local option election petition were said to be required by law to result in a mandatory election for and against the sales of alcoholic beverages.

Circulators of the petition filed copies with the county clerk at 9 a.m. Thursday. About 900 signatures had been obtained, and the clerk's office staff immediately began checking petition signatures against county poll lists.

Smith said that "without a doubt" enough qualified voters had signed the petition to call, under Texas statutes, for an election.

Judge Henslee said that the law requires setting an election date not less than 29 nor more than 30 days after the County Commission officially receives the petition. He added that the list will be checked by commission - employed attorneys.

Most probable date for the election appeared Saturday to be Sept. 22, with absentee balloting to begin 29 days earlier.

ONE DRIVER DOZED—In an accident 5.7 miles west of Hereford at 4:15 a.m. Friday, an empty, east-bound '50 model dump truck smashed the concrete mix loaded bed and rear wheels from a truck, bottom, bound for Black with Melvin Frank Belt, 32, Amarillo, at the wheel. Highway patrolmen said the other driver, Dalton Ray Newkirk, 20, Shamrock, "went to sleep." He was issued a ticket for driving on the wrong side of Highway 60. Both men were employed hauling concrete mix from a Hereford plant to Black. Newkirk received minor lacerations of the head; Belt wasn't injured. Damage was about $2,800. City police aided in the investigation. (Staff Photo)

Funeral Rites For Charley A. Hoover

Funeral services for Charley Allen Hoover, 63, were held yesterday at 4 p.m. in the Rose Chapel of Gilliland Funeral Home. Interment was held in West Park Cemetery, with services conducted by Rev. Howard Scott of the First Baptist Church.

Hoover died Friday morning in the Deaf Smith County Hospital from the results of a gasoline explosion Aug. 13 which caused second degree burns on 70 percent of his body.

The Walcott community farmer and rancher was injured at his home 36 miles northwest of Hereford when he threw some gasoline into a trash barrel and smoldering ashes caused the barrel to explode. He jumped into a horse tank, and neighbors brought him to the county hospital, where he had been since Aug. 13.

Hoover was born in Tulla in 1893, and during his childhood years, the family lived in various western states. They moved to New Mexico in 1922 and he lived there until his marriage to Ruby Thompson on April 30, 1916, in Portales.

The Hoovers moved to Texas, and in 1925, came to Deaf Smith County. He punched cattle for various ranchers in this area until 1933, when he bought his farm.

A member of the Farm Bureau, and known by many Hereford people, Hoover has been ranching and farming in Deaf Smith County for 23 years.

His wife preceded him in death on July 24, 1956, after a lengthy illness.

Survivors include two sons, John A. Hoover of Pampa and Charles R. Hoover of Hereford; three daughters, Mrs. Roy Pruitt, Mrs. Jack Jorgenson of Manhattan Beach, Calif.; and Mrs. Sal Caso of Lyndenhurst, N.Y.; three sisters, Mrs. Jesse Hill of Portales, N.M., Mrs. Laura Walker of Amarillo, and Mrs. Maude Toote of Cardwell, Idaho; and a grandmother, Mrs. N. Thornton of Friona.

Homemakers At Achievement Day Program Friday

Several homemaking girls and their mothers attended the achievement day for high school homemaking students held Friday evening. This was the final activity for completion of summer projects for the students.

The girls were guests for a swimming party at the John Paetzold home, and had a buffet style supper at the George Paetzold home. Later in the evening they gave reports of their summer projects.

Marion Jo Wilson, president of Phi Nu, an honorary homemaking club at Texas Tech, spoke to the girls on "Explanation of Homemaking in College." She also told of her trip to Pennsylvania for a homemaking club convalesce recently, and about the National Homemaking Association convention in Washington, which she also attended. Marion Jo, a senior at Tech, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Wilson.

Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Overall, Fred Gunningham and J. A. Hodges.

How They Voted

Table showing voting results for Daniel, Yarbrough, Wilson, and Moore across various precincts and gubernatorial candidates.

Ralph Sees Win Ahead; Price Waits

With 1,096,613 votes counted from 209 counties in Texas, 126 complete, Sen. Price Daniel had 533,788 votes to 542,825 for his opponent Ralph W. Yarborough. The race continued at a very torrid pace, Yarborough edged to within 10,963 votes of Daniel. Daniel said at 9 p.m. in a telephone interview with the Texas Election Bureau that "It is too early yet to predict an outcome." He again charged that Yarborough's stiff competition came largely from support from organized labor interests.

With over 700,000 votes counted in Texas, at 9 p.m. Saturday Price Daniel had taken a narrow 21,473 vote lead over his opponent in the gubernatorial race, Ralph W. Yarborough.

Yarborough from his Austin home, noting that he had gained victory in several counties carried in July by Daniel was perhaps the first man in the state to decipher a trend in the vote reporting. "A victory trend has set in for the loyal Democrats," he declared.

The 384,997 to 363,594 margin held by Daniel, however, still left the outcome of the bitterly contested runoff campaign "anybody's guess."

Yarborough ran a poor race in Deaf Smith County, 784 votes to Daniel's 4196. But while Daniel lost ground from the First Primary when he polled 1258 votes here, the Austin attorney apparently picked-up several hundred votes—he polled just 389 votes here in July.

Will Wilson took a decisive lead over Tom Moore in the Attorney General's race. When he was trailing by 433,907 to 276,499 votes at 9 p.m., Moore conceded defeat from Waco.

In Deaf Smith County, Wilson won by a 1282 to 670 vote margin. Moore congratulated Wilson on having run a clean race "on the issues rather than delving into personalities." The victory marks the most recent step in a long and successful career for Wilson.

Ben Ramsey did not gain a very strong "vote of confidence" here. On the ticket alone for the Lieutenant Governor's position after his opponent A. M. Aikin Jr., withdrew from the race despite winning a runoff place against the incumbent, Ramsey polled just 1282 of approximately 2000 votes cast here. He ran second behind Aikin in Deaf Smith in July, polling 793 votes to 1077.

The turnout of 2000 voters in this county for a Democratic Second Primary was generally regarded as "very good for a runoff election." In July over 2400 of the 3100 qualified voters in Deaf Smith cast ballots.

The two County Commissioner places at stake in Deaf Smith evidently held dear the interest displayed by voters. In the four precincts where the decisions were to be made there were nearly as many votes cast as in July. It was in the other seven precincts that over 300 of July's voters stayed away from the polls.

In the Panhandle, at 9 p.m., Yarborough had 19,080 votes to lead Daniel with 17,302, with 13 of 24 counties reporting complete.

EARLY VOTER—Casting his ballot at Precinct 2 early Saturday was Paul B. Schroeter, with election official and clerks Tam Alderson, Mrs. R. G. Blue and Mrs. Noqa Jowell keeping watch over the proceedings. The voting pace was slower than during the First Primary, officials said. (Staff Photo)

Increased Income Expected To Give A Close Balance

A record - size budget of $822,365 was approved in a special session this week by Hereford Rural High School District trustees. Receipts from local taxes, state funds and federal sources, are expected to balance the budget.

The costs of schooling the children of the district ballooned almost $200,000 over the previous high budget, $622,474 for the 1955-56 school year. Construction of the new 16-room Ela Alkman Elementary School, costs of which will be reflected for the first time in this year's bond payments, plus costs of acquiring a new school site and stadium grounds are major items accounting for the big budget increase.

Prepared under the direction of Robert Wagoner, school board president, and Supt. Fred Cunningham, the budget had the recommendation of Fred Baird, school district tax assessor-collector.

Board members had studied the budget in detail during regular and special sessions since June before its formal adoption in a special session Monday night.

Baird estimated total receipts for the district this year will be $867,105.57. State funds allocated for the district this year are $388,388 compared to $349,824.77 received for last year's expenses.

Local taxes are expected to provide $382,000 of the costs compared to the $247,000 anticipated from local sources at this time last year. The big increase here came largely through the approval by district voters of bond issues to

CHIEF BAFLED IN EFFORT TO CLEAR UP ATTACK CASES

Jailed at Georgetown on charges of rape is John W. Wright, about 35, colored and a three time inmate of state penal institutions. Chief of Police Leo Box, just back in Hereford after 1,277 miles travel to interview the man and check on his activities in the surrounding area, said Saturday, "I believe he is the man we're looking for, but can't get any help to prove or disprove it."

Chief Box said it proved impossible to have any of three women who have claimed to be victims of attempted rape or rape here during recent weeks to travel to Georgetown to aid in identification of Wright as the man sought here.

Mrs. Beatrice Simpson, 18, left town Thursday with her husband, Chief Box declared. She was traveling on funds supplied, at least in part, by Sheriff Lowell Sharp to defray her expenses to the Central Texas city, he added.

She travelled instead to Idalou, Okla., the Chief of Police said, "and she was our best bet, the only woman actually of the three, who claimed to have had a good look at our 'rapist'."

He added that she refused earlier in the week to travel to Austin for a lie detector test. The latest Hereford victim of attempted expansion of school facilities.

Boosting the school tax rate from $1.35 to the state maximum of $1.50 to cover the 1956-57 collections was approved earlier this month by the trustees. The new rate allows $1.10 for operation and maintenance, and 40 cents for interest and sinking fund.

Federal lunch program funds, allocated through the state, this year will be $12,000; $2,000 less than was appropriated from this fund for the last school year. Miscellaneous income is expected to total $2,710.

Operating funds will be paid out as follows, according to the approved budget:

Administration - Instructional administration salary, $13,172; business administration salary, $10,400; clerical assistance salary, $2,400; instructional administration supplies and expenses, $3,600; business administration supplies and expenses, $4,400.
Instruction - White teachers salaries, elementary principals, $30,627; high school principals, $5,000; elementary supervisor, $5,302; elementary teachers, $288,195; high school teachers, $92,738; high school librarian, $4,400; band director, $4,800; chorus director, $5,108; vocational agriculture, $9,334; high school homemaking, $8,223.34; distributive education, $4,206.67; substitute teachers, $3,000; exceptional children teacher, $3,167. Colored teachers salary, $6,858. Total salaries, $455,201.

Radar Stations Make Air Safe

By TOM STONE

HAHN, Germany. (AP)—The U.S. Air Force's new radar storm tracker here, one of four planned for Europe, can keep a watchful eye on menacing weather 400 miles away.

It can spot a storm, track it and help Air Force weather forecasters in predicting the amount of rain, snow or hail the storm will produce.

The information spells safety to airmen and aircraft in flight or on the ground.

The other three towers are under construction at U.S. Air Force Bases at Bordeaux, France, and Sculthorpe and Prize Norton, both in England.

When all four are operational, they will give a continuous picture of approaching weather in an area from Northern Scotland to the Alps and from the Iron Curtain, west to Ireland, the Bay of Biscay and Spain.

The station at Bordeaux will for the first time permit the probing into of unplotted areas of the Bay of Biscay off the coast of France and Spain.

In the past, damaging storms have developed there unobserved and swept over the continent without warning.

The four radar sets are the first in Europe specifically designed for weather forecasting, the Air Force said.

The radar storm trackers, which cost approximately $180,000 each, are mounted atop 100-foot towers. Radar consoles and remote indicators are scanned by air force weathermen.

T/Sgt. WAYNE BACON, whose home is in Dallas, Texas, scans the operating console of the Storm Tracker at the Hahn Air Base in Germany. The radar equipment can pick up menacing weather conditions 400 miles away, providing new safety to airmen flying in the area. Four such stations are to be constructed.

All-Weather School Coats

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor
AN ALL-WEATHER COAT is a back-to-school must. According to today's fashion-minded school girls, versatility is an important factor in their fall wardrobes, and each garment must serve a variety of purposes.

A prize example of such double-duty practicality is a reversible coat, peacock felt on one side and red paisley cotton print on the other, which can sail gaily through any occasion from a football game to the junior prom. In addition, it's easy to have it waterproofed for protection against rain.

Local sewing center experts suggest you make it yourself, using one of the new easy-to-sew patterns. They chose a design slightly flared to go over suits or full skirts. It has an attached hood, a button tab closing and perky slashed cuffs.

RAIN-OR-SHINE COAT — Easy for the young seamstress to make at home in peacock felt on one side, red cotton print on the other. Umbrella to match.

Made in felt, it offers no trouble to even an amateur home seamstress. Felt is available in a wide range of wonderful colors, and may be cut in any direction. The fabric requirement for a size 14 coat is 2 5/8 yards.

For easy pattern alterations, use the inch-rules printed right on the pattern pieces.

The finished coat may be waterproofed at home with a new spray, or your dry-cleaner can make it resistant to showers.

For extra protection and a gay ensemble touch, the pattern includes directions for making an umbrella. Get a little extra of the printed lining fabric and cover the frame of an old umbrella. Spray the waterproofing solution on the umbrella or hand it over to your cleaner for a professional job. The coat described is made with McCall's Pattern 3765.

The Curry County Settlers Day was Saturday and several attended from this community, including Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Pinnell, Rebha and Wanda. The main attraction of the gathering was the rodeo, with many of the top rodeo contestants competing. In the match calf roping, Wayne (Tuff) Pinnell, formerly of Adrian, came out on top for first place. The reward was a large shining belt buckle.

He roped three calves in 41.3 seconds. Bill Bomar presented a close second and Templanton a third. The match-roping only served as more cause for more roping. In a jackpot, Wayne Pinnell was again successful, winning first place.

Jerry Montgomery of Canyon visited with Rebha and Wanda Pinnell this week.

Mrs. F. W. Waldrop and children, Elliott and Eva of Denison, are visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Loren Creitz and family this week. Mrs. Waldrop and Mrs. Creitz are sisters.

Christian Church Groundbreaking Plans Announced

Ground breaking ceremonies for the new First Christian Church will be held Sept. 9, according to Ira Scott, campaign committee chairman. The architect's plans have been approved and bids will be let on Aug. 30.

Dr. Ray Lindley, vice president of Texas Christian University, will be the speaker for the ceremonies. Lindley graduated from Phillips University in Enid, Okla., and received degrees from Brite College of the Bible, T.C.U., and Yale University.

He has been listed in Who's Who in America, Who's Who in Education, and Who's Who in Ministry. During the summer of 1952, Lindley served as one of the five Disciple delegates from the U. S. to the Conference of Faith and Order of the World Council of Churches at Lund, Sweden.

Billy Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Robinson, will assist Dr. Lindley with the services. Billy is a Timothy of the church, and will enter Brite College of the Bible at T.C.U. in September to complete his ministerial education.

The U. N. World Health Organization says 370 million people live in areas exposed to the risk of malaria.

UNIVERSITY STUDENTS

Tent Camp Going 44th Year

ESCAPING SUMMER HEAT and high city rents, Mrs. Margery Hardrath, clerk-treasurer at Camp Gallistel, and her daughters, Sarah, (right) and Sue spend a warm afternoon on the front porch of their tent home. The tent colony has been operating for 44 years, giving students at the University of Wisconsin and their families an inexpensive way to get out in the country.

By ROGER BLOBAUM

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—About the only thing that's changed since 1912 at a university student tent colony on Lake Mendota near here is the rent—it's gone up from $5 to $15 a summer.

Every summer for 44 years, between 30 and 40 University of Wisconsin student families have pitched tents on wooden platforms on five-acre wooded Camp Gallistel. Their object — to escape high rents, hot apartments and ringing telephones.

The camp is the only one of its kind in the country. Gasoline irons and lamps that were old standbys a decade ago have been taken out of retirement by the younger generation of campers.

The ice man drops 50 - pound chunks into repainted wooden ice boxes, sharing his customers with the popular diaper service route-man. Student husbands commute to the University of Wisconsin a few miles away while their families loaf on a long, shady pier which reaches out into the lake and serves as a gossip exchange in the absence of backyard fences.

Two dozen tanned children shout and splash away nearby with beach balls and inner tubes. A. F. Gallistel, a university faculty member, and his wife have owned and maintained the camp since 1912. They spend their summers in a cabin nearby and make a telephone available.

Their tenants are married students with monthly incomes ranging from almost none up to $150 who accept studying by a gas lamp in exchange for relief from hot, cramped apartment quarters in Madison's university area. The camp temperature over the years has averaged 10 degrees cooler than downtown Madison.

Several campers are school teachers, who return to the university for a summer to brush up on a special subject. One family with two sons rents two platforms, using one for a sleeping annex for the boys and the home tent for cooking and a quiet study for Dad. The annex also doubles as a camp checker and rummy center for the younger set on rainy days.

Perch fishing's fine all summer long—just off the camp pier is the well-known Lake Mendota perch "shell" where a string can be caught almost any time by dangling a worm on a length of heavy line.

A blue whale, when the food supply is good, can put on 300 pounds of weight a day.

Chips Are On The Table In Hooker Clash

The Hereford Palmetto Polo team engages Hooker, Okla., in Dalhart today.

Hereford won handily over the Hooker team, 11-4, in a game at Dalhart July 29. Hooker once played regular polo before switching to palmetto polo.

At the present time, the Hereford riders claim wins over every team in the district including Dalhart, Hooker, and Fritch. After the double-go this weekend, they played Dalhart Saturday night, the Hereford poloists will have one remaining district clash, against Fritch.

The chips will be on the table in this week's affair. Hereford could clinch the district championship with the Hooker victory.

FOIBLES—FANCY AND PLAIN

'The Odds For That To Go.. They's Thin'

By KENT SNARE

All this guff in the nation's dress about, whether or not, M. Mantle will disrupt B. Ruth's long standing home run marker, is a bit wearing. Actually M.M. faces the identical dilemma that has confronted some other prodigious pokers, ere this.

The salient fact being the large sized round tripper outfit which the Babe hung up for posterity during the September lap, wherein he poked 17 over the palings.

The would-be crown usurpers may surpass or approach the record during the season right up to Labor Day and then wind up flat of their back in attempting to clamber over that one. Just to take a gander at the Mick's immediate problem, as far as figgerments go, including last Thursday's tussles, he had garnered 43 lappers and that was accomplished in 122 games or roughly one per each three contests.

That leaves him with 32 games, if they get in the full 154 game schedule, in which to acquire 17 more homers, thus entitling him to a tie with the Bambino.

To achieve this will require more than one circuit blow in every other contest, same being considerably better than he's been doing. Mr. Ruth really left his tracks in that September song of his. Not only outsized ones, but to date, such deep ones that no hitter has been able to cover them with a better record.

The reason I mentioned Labor Day as the crux of the situation is that on Sept. 6, 1927, the Babe slapped three out of the park and on the following day, poked two more over. He made the hill steeper by contributing three round trippers on the final two days of the season. He hit those 60 lappers often various and sundry flingers, both port and starboard types.

One still remembers a lot of those tossers, but there are included, some who are long gone and not easy to recall by name. He whammed two off of Ernie Nevers, who is still regarded as one of the all time football greats of Stanford University and for that matter, you could include the balance of the U.S. and A. However, Ernie's pitching prowess never approached his grid greatness and he never ascended a pedestal of ability therefrom.

Returning to M. Mantle, if he is close to the Babes 49, attained by Ruth with 20 games left, shortly after Labor Day, then he will have trimmed the cloth of chance in his favor, more than somewhat, but as the boys in the back room are wont to say, "The odds for that to go, they's thin... and medium long, besides."

Russell Hopes For Turnout Of More Than 50

Hereford Whiteface gridsters will don workout uniforms Friday to begin preparations for Hereford's first year in 1-AAA.

Head coach and athletic director L. B. Russell is busy this week preparing and sorting equipment. Russell said he expects more than 50 boys to turn out for "A" and "B" team workouts.

Varsity and "B" team players are to report for practice at 7 a.m. Friday, according to Russell. The head coach emphasized that freshman hopefuls are not to report until school starts Sept. 4. Twice daily workouts will be held until school starts.

District 1-AAA will present a challenge to the Whitefaces this year, and "Scat," a former Little All-American at Hardin Simmons, indicates he plans to get the most out of this year's squad. The Whitefaces made the jump to 1-AAA along with two other 1-AA teams after a statewide Interscholastic League shuffle. Dalhart, Canyon, Perryton, and Shamrock all remained in the lower classification. Levelland, a previous member of 1-AAA, Littlefield, Phillips, Dumas and Hereford will vie for honors in the new district.

Hereford lost six starters off last year's district runner-up team which won eight games and lost but two. From all indications, Russell stated, other teams were hurt as badly or maybe worse by graduation.

Two new coaches will mentor the Whitefaces this year. The posts were not left open by resignations, but were a part of a stepped up athletic program announced earlier by Superintendent of Schools Fred Cunningham.

"We felt we needed to step up our athletic program in every sport to keep pace with other member teams of 1-AAA," Cunningham declared.

John Paul Jones, formerly assistant coach at Plainview, was hired as varsity line coach. Jones, John Poindexter and Russell will all concentrate on varsity tutoring alone. Alex Glass, 210-pound star at Southwestern State Teachers College, will be the new "B" team and elementary mentor. Cubby Kitchens is freshman football and head basketball coach.

The Whitefaces will open their 1956 schedule Sept. 14 with the Canyon Eagles at Canyon. Home opener will be with Tulia Sept. 28. This year's schedule is one of the roughest in recent years. Two AA-AA schools, Plainview and Clovis, are on the non-conference slate.

Tech Boosters To Hear Coach Here Monday

Dewitt Weaver, athletic director and head football coach at Texas Tech, will speak before Texas Tech ex-students and boosters of this area Monday night in the Jim Hill Hotel ballroom.

L. C. Walker of Lubbock, executive secretary of the ex-students association, will be with Weaver. A short business meeting will be held before Weaver's talk. Castro, Parmer, and Deaf Smith counties compose the membership of the area organization. This is the first meeting since re-organization in May.

IN BENEFIT GAME

Little League Dads Find Out Hard Way

A bunch of men made a fool of... played a ball (?) game here Friday night.

Little League Dads, hankering to outdo their 98 percents, found out the hard way that: 1. The Old Gray Mare ain't what she used to be; 2. Things are easier said than done; 3. It's all right if Ted Williams spits.

The score: three touchdowns and three extra points (21) for the Yankees - Cardinals and a touchdown and a field goal (9) for the Dodgers-Giants.

Pelley Baffles Men

Young Mickey Pelley, feminine pitching wonder from Dimmitt, pitched the first inning for both teams and faced only six men. Miss Pelley pitched a perfect game for five innings against the Little League Mothers last week. It appeared that she had less trouble with the men than the women.

Each team used their entire bench in an effort to outscore (or outwit) the other team. The Dodgers-Giants paraded 20 men and Blue Turpin to the plate, while the Yankees-Cardinals used 14.

The game, surprisingly, did resemble softball in these ways: 1. They used a softball most of the time; 2. The umpires couldn't see. Any other resemblance was purely coincidental.

All proceeds from the game went into the Hereford Little League treasury. Gatekeepers collected $28.66.

A light sprinkle accompanied by dust hampered activities at the start of the contest. Both quit before the game got going good.

The umpires had a hard time of it. The mediators, Ora Hale, June Callaway, Marty Gabbert, and Shorty Watson, were Little League mothers.

The managers, Lynton Allred and Ken Loerwald for the Dodgers-Giants and John Buck and Tom Coffman for the Yankees-Dodgers, are fathers of Little Leaguers who graduated to the Pony League.

Joe Smith, doped as the Yankees-Cardinals' big threat, was unable to play because of sickness. After the calm first inning, in which only three men stood at the plate for each team, things broke loose.

The Dodgers-Giants were runless in the top of the second. Larry Summers' walk with two outs was to no avail. Leland McMurray ended the inning with a popup to pitcher John (Speedball) Winkler.

But the Yankees-Cardinals began a run production which didn't stop until the game ended. Four runs crossed the plate. Duane Balze opened with a single. Jimmy Allred snared Raymond Lueb's fly to left, but Bill Howard reached first safely on a bunt. Both runs scored when Pete Turner was safe on second baseman G. W. Duncan bobbled his rap. Harold Loerwald singled him to third. The sacks were loaded when John Winkler got on. Loerwald was forced at third on Earl Stagner's grounder, but a run scored. Another scored on Irving Willoughby's hit.

Alfred Homers

Jimmy Alfred started a wave of home runs in the third when he swatted one of Winkler's change of paces over the left field fence with two mates aboard. Dr. A. T. Mims and W.R. (Dub) Hair had singled before him.

However, the Yankees - Cardinals retaliated with six runs in the bottom of the third. Duane Balze got all the way to third when Leland McMurray momentarily corralled his deep fly to center but couldn't hold on to it. Raymond Lueb then smacked a fourmaster over the left field barrier. Bill Howard singled and went all the way to third on a passed ball; he scored on Harold Loerwald's double. Loerwald was tagged out at second by Dr. A. T. Mims who fielded Pete Turner's grounder. He also threw Turner out at first.

Winkler reached first again and

SPORTS GLANCES by Bill Knox

Hereford's Whitefaces will be faced with the toughest schedule in the school's history when football season opens September 14.

The Whitefaces having made the jump to AAA this year, could have a good season without winning half their games! That's how tough the new district 1-AAA is going to be, but the non-conference slate isn't going to be a bed of roses.

RUSSELL NOT TALKATIVE

When it comes to football, L. B. Russell seems to be about the most untalkative fellow in town. Most football coaches are about this time of year, and we figure it might not be a bad practice for all the coaches to be that way.

The way we figure it, unless the coach has an absolute cinch, he's sticking his neck out either way he goes.

COACHES FACE DECISION

If he's not too sure and predicts unbounded success for his team—then his team loses—he's got alumni all over his back and in general he's either made a fool of himself or overrated his team.

On the other hand, if he's afraid to venture so far as to predict a highly successful season and predicts only moderate or limited success for his team, the alumni will say he hasn't got spirit.

We're inclined to think that the last way is the best if you've got to talk. That way if you don't go out on a limb too far and your team comes up with a football powerhouse, you're a fine fellow and the greatest football genius there ever was.

But if you don't want to take a chance, the best way is to keep your mouth shut. For a few games anyway.

LAST SEASON SUCCESSFUL

The 1955-56 season for the Whitefaces was the most successful in recent years. Hereford won eight and lost two, one of the losses an upset to surprising Perryton. The other, of course, was to Phillips.

Graduation took its toll, but Hereford was hurt by graduation no worse than Phillips, Dumas, Levelland, or Littlefield, which leads us to believe that Hereford has just as good a chance as anybody.

Wayne Smith, G. C. Merritt, Martin Moore, and Walt Kaul will be hard to replace. All were named to the all-district team. However, two starting ends, a tackle, a quarterback, and a halfback will return for L. B. Russell to build a team around.

HAWK'S HURT WORSE

Phillips was "hurt worse"—they lost 18 men—but the situation is different in other matters which need not be mentioned. Whether Phillips lost one man or 18 men is beside the point; they always have a fine football team.

It looks to us like Dumas is better than Phillips; mainly because Dumas has had all along what Phillips and Littlefield, it seems are rated as the bottom two teams, and nobody but Hereford and Littlefield care in what order.

One mustn't overlook Levelland. While considering the Lobos' chances, it is good to keep in mind that they have been in AAA one year previously and that experience is the best teacher. This goes for football, too.

PREDICTS SEASON FINISH: Here's the way 1-AAA looks to us, of course, with the prerogative of changing one's mind: 1. Levelland, 2. Dumas, 3. Phillips, 4. Hereford, 5. Littlefield.

Of the six non-conference games facing the Herd this year, five will be tough to win. Only Tulia may fail to furnish much opposition.

Canyon should win 1-AAA this year, and it'll be a tough chore for anybody to derail them. Oton, defending 2-AA champion, will be rugged if from nothing more than prestige. Plainview doesn't play the brand of football most AAAA schools play, but AAA schools will find them hard to beat. Forties wasn't hard for Hereford last year, but

HAROLD RATLIFF SAYS:

Minor Leagues In Texas Made Courageous Record

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF, Associated Press Sports Editor: Talk of the dire straits into which professional baseball has fallen is not backed by the facts if Texas is the criterion.

Twenty-one clubs started the season and there will be 21 at the finish. While several of the clubs were in trouble and there had to be local money-raising drives to make it, only one actually quit and it was replaced. In fact, one club sued its league in order to get back in after giving up the ghost.

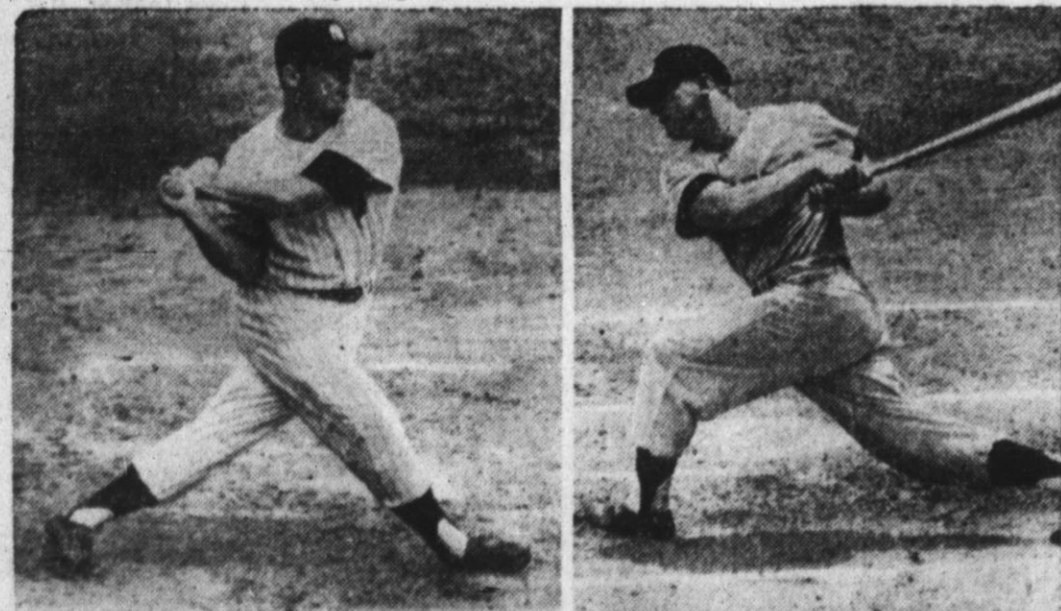

Lubbock had to drop out of the Big State League but the franchise was moved to Texas City without a hitch and apparently did all right there. Beaumont quit but got back in and raised the money to continue not only the remainder of this season but is likely to be in the circuit when the gong sounds next spring.

Paris in the Sooner State League; Amarillo in the Western; Wichita Falls, Waco, Beaumont, Abilene, Victoria, Corpus Christi and Fort Arthur in the Big State; Ballinger, San Angelo, Midland, Plainview, Pampa and El Paso in the Southwestern League, and Dallas, Houston, Fort Worth, San Antonio, and Austin in the Texas League were the clubs that started in Texas Baseball and are going to finish.

There's no denying that minor league baseball is tough to operate, that few clubs ever manage to make money. But there's a brighter lining to the clouds next year. The big leagues finally awoke to the fact that the minors were going to have to get help if they survived. Next year there'll be some $500,000 in funds to help the Class D, C, B, and A clubs when the going gets rocky. It will be raised by big league players appearing in exhibition games.

The hope that the majors were going to help undoubtedly was what kept many of the minors operating this season.

scored on Earl Stagner's hit. Stagner came around when Irving Willoughby blasted another hit. Blue Turpin's attempted pickoff throw which sailed over the left field fence was enough for Willoughby to score the sixth run of the inning.

Narrow Gap

The gap was narrowed to 10-5 in the top of the fourth when the Dodgers-Giants scored a pair of tallies. Sheppard singled to lead off the inning, but he was erased when Larry Summers hit into a quick double play. Leland McMurray singled; then Dr. A. T. Mims carried a mighty drive over the center-field fence to score the two runs.

The Yanks-Cards continued the scoring barrage with five more in the last of the fourth. They had the benefit of only three base hits, but three errors aided the cause considerably.

Gerald Banner's bases empty home run in the top of the fifth accounted for the lone Dodgers-Giants tally of that inning, but the victors put the game on ice with a sextet of tallies in the bottom of the fifth. The big blow was Duane Baize's home run with one man on base.

Three runs crossed in the top of the sixth for the Dodgers - Giants, but they were to no avail.

How Can I?

Q. How can I treat a dish that is cracked, but not entirely broken?

A. Boil the dish for about 45 minutes in enough sweet milk to cover it. Any cracks will glue together and become invisible. The dish will stand almost as much ordinary usage as when new.

Q. How can I prevent the popping and spattering of grease when frying food?

A. By sprinkling a little flour in the frying pan.

Transportation and lunchroom programs ordinarily "break even" on operating costs through state reimbursement, and budgeted costs will undoubtedly be offset by receipts from state funds, Cunningham said.

The budget showed that the interest and sinking fund had a balance of $55,677.57.

To reach the anticipated total for local tax collections, Baird's office will need to continue its record of 98 percent collections, counting current and delinquent tax payments. It was noted that the discounts averaging 2 percent for advance payment of school taxes are a factor that prevents the total tax collections from reaching 100 percent.

ed to police as "attempted rape" told the chief she could not identify her assailant by his looks, "but might be able to recognize his voice." She was unable, she told Chief Box, to travel to Georgetown to aid in identifying or ruling out Wright as a suspect on Wednesday, Thursday or Friday the three days the chief was in that area on the case.

"When complainants and witnesses in these cases will not give us any cooperation and show no interest in trying to identify the man, clearing up the cases or the charges is particularly difficult," Chief Box declared.

Wright, who faces life imprisonment or the death penalty if proven guilty on charges now pending, was arrested following the rape in Temple on Aug. 11 of a white woman. A citizens posse aided police officers in arresting him.

Box said that the circumstances surrounding the Temple incident were identical to those reported by the first two women who claim to have been assaulted in Hereford. His words to the victim there and method of entering the home were identical to that reported by the women here. His physical description closely matches that given here, and he had a car of the same type in which he escaped from the scene here.

"But," the chief emphasized, "until we can positively identify him, we'll never know."

Moslems Operate Charity Kitchen In Jerusalem Through 400 Years

By WILTON WYNN

JERUSALEM, (AP) — Hundreds of street wells and widows receive their daily bread in Jerusalem today because charity ranks with holy war among Moslem virtues.

A free soup-kitchen set up over 400 years ago as an act of atonement by a Turkish conqueror following a bloody invasion of Palestine still doles food to the city's poor.

The Ottoman Turkish Conqueror Sultan Selim engaged in a terrible slaughter when he marched into Israel in the 15th century. But after his conquest, he sought to atone for the blood-shed by acts of charity in Jerusalem. His wife Sultana Khasgieh joined him in his project.

They endowed the "tekia Khasgieh," as the kitchen is called, using funds from a tax on several Turkish villages which the Sultan controlled.

Now the "tekia" is one of several charities supported by religious endowments.

The "tekia" opens its doors regularly at 11 a.m. The long line of the poor file into a room where Sheikh Jamil Younes Huseini doles out nutritious wheat soup which is the "tekia's" regular fare.

Moslem sheikhs in charge of the "tekia" say this daily act of charity has been carried out continuously since the time of Sultan Selim except for a few weeks during World War I.

Grain was so scarce then that none was left for the poor. After a time, however, the general of the Turkish army in Jerusalem diverted enough supplies from his troops to allow the kitchen to resume its work.

Although little known to the Western world, the "tekia" is a common institution in Islamic countries and has been ever since the Prophet Mohamed listed alms-giving as one of the pillars of the Moslem faith. There is a large "tekia" in nearby Hebron, and they are found in the larger Moslem centers like Damascus and Cairo.

Miss Cummings And Mr. Dement Say Vows

Candelabra and tall baskets of white chrysanthemums backed by emerald palms decorated Central Church of Christ Friday at 7 p.m. when Miss Norma Cummings, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Cummings, became the bride of Raymond Lee Dement, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Dement, in a double ring ceremony. Minister J. V. Davis conducted the service.

An A-Capella choir, in the background, sang the processional and recessional wedding music. Raymond Wells, soloist, sang "Because" and "Walk Hand in Hand." Mrs. W. T. McDermitt, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a beige taffeta frock made with fitted waist, low neck line and full circular ballerina skirt. Ann Dyer was bridesmaid. Her dress of aqua taffeta was made identical to the honor matrons.

Attendants' Attire

All the attendants carried Colonial bouquets of yellow split carnations and wore lattice caps to match their dresses.

Betty Buse and Royda Boyd served as candlelighters. Their dresses matched the other attendants in beige and blue respectively.

Benny Dement, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man and ushers were Kenneth Brock, and Bob Higgins.

Bride Chooses White

For her wedding the bride chose a traditional gown of white slipper satin. The tight bodice had long fitted sleeves that came to petal points at the hands fastened with lace covered buttons, and a V-neckline that came to a slender point in front. The floor length full gathered skirt, was worn with hoops and featured a wide panel of Chantilly lace in the front.

A tiara of satin embroidered with seed pearls held her waist level veil which was edged in lace. The bridal bouquet was a single white orchid surrounded by Frenched carnations and tied with love-knot streamers, carried on a white Bible.

She was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father.

The bride's mother wore navy linen trimmed in rose with a white carnation corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a navy suit with white accessories and white carnation corsage.

Reception Held In Bridegroom's Home

Following the wedding a reception was held in the home of the bridegroom's parents. The service table was laid in lace over yellow and centered with the attendants bouquets of yellow carnations. J. R. Williams of Phillips, Ray Cole and Morris Davis of Amarillo, Wayne Pittman, B. E. Rhodes, and Bob Higgins.

When the couple left on a short honeymoon trip, the bride was wearing a powder blue shantung suit with small white satin hat trimmed in sequins. Her accessories were in white and she wore the orchid from the wedding bouquet. Upon their return they will reside at 121 W. Park Ave.

Donna Caylor, Mr. Burks Are Married On Saturday

The First Baptist Church was the scene at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 18, for the marriage of Miss Donna Marie Caylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Caylor, and Mr. James Donald Burks, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Burks of Quitman.

Twin-ring vows were exchanged before the altar illuminated by pyramiding pink tapers in seven-branched candelabrum in the background, which cast a rosy glow about a high sunburst arrangement of pale pink and delicate rose gladioli centering the nuptial space. Pews for the immediate families were marked by bows of white satin ribbon.

Rev. Howard Scott, pastor, performed the marriage ceremony. Musicians were Mrs. Howard Scott at the organ, and Miss Carol Howard of Quanah, vocalist, who sang "Because," "How Do I Love Thee" and "The Lord's Prayer" in conclusion of the ceremony. Bride Wears Nylon Tulle

The fitted bodice was fashioned with a modified Mandarin collar with satin detail extending down the front, and three-quarter length push-up sleeves finished with a satin band.

The voluminous skirt which featured underskirting of tulle and satin, was worn over hoops to emphasize the fullness.

Her fingertip circular veil of illusion was attached to a pill box of pleated-tulle embroidered with butterfly sequins and seed pearls. The bridal bouquet, carried on a white Bible, was fashioned of pink sweetheart roses resting against a heart-shaped cluster of stephanotis, with cascading petal-tipped streamers of white satin ribbon.

For sentimental reasons she wore her maternal great-grandmother's wedding band and a strand of pearls borrowed from a cousin. The bride's mother wore a beige taffeta dress accented with gold embroidered thread, with black accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore black tweed with black accessories. Each wore a corsage of pink Pinnocchio rosebuds.

Streu's Diary

August 24, 1956

DEAR DIARY:

Been neglecting you for a long time, but things have been transpiring from time to time, and I just haven't had time to write. As most everyone now knows, our son Oliver (Tuffy) is with us again in Streu Hardware, having served his four years in the Navy. Aside from our personal pleasure in having him home, we feel that we are in a better position to serve you than ever before. You'll enjoy trading with him.

Have so many things to tell you about that I just don't know where to begin — perhaps with mail boxes of all kinds, shapes and colors — priced from 85c to $7.50 — also house numbers in Nu-Lume, bronze and black.

Just got in a new key making machine and seventy-seven different key blanks, so we can once again serve you with duplicate keys for most every purpose.

Have received our new '57 line of RCA Victor Hi-Fi Victrolas — prices start at $84.50 on the '45' and as low as $134.50 on portable models. Other models up to $650 — you have to hear Hi-Fi by RCA to really understand what the meaning really is. We are happy to demonstrate any time without obligation. New shipment of records yesterday including Presley's "Hound Dog," Winterhalter's "Canadian Sunset," Perry Como's "Oh, My Maria" and many other new numbers. Also several new "33's" for the lover of classical stuff.

Still have a few models of '56 RCA TV's to move at very, very low prices indeed — or will give a real long trade-in on your old set. We are not raising the prices on our TV sets in order to give a discount — as sometimes has happened elsewhere — we have price tags on all our sets, and will gladly show you the manufacturers' list. Have a '57 RCA Victor Big Color TV on the floor and will be glad to demonstrate it whenever there is a color program on tap. Just call for program times.

I'm getting plumb behind on my fishing, and the old bug is giving me plenty of trouble these hot days — guess I'll have to take off for trout waters again before winter sets in. Have tried lawn mowing and golf and other amusements, but nothing will take the place of a trout on a light fly rod.

Been a long time since I raised any Cain about civic matters, but the down-town alleys in Hereford are a disgrace to the town. If visitors to Hereford made an alley or two in the business district, they would never move here. I offer no solution, only a big beef.

POTPOURRI

Deaf Smith Crop Is 'Fabulous' But So Are Prices In Morocco

By CAROL INMAN

There have been many exaggerated stories about Deaf Smith County from the results of our potato harvest this year, but the one Mrs. Gladys Miller heard recently was the grand daddy of them all! She had been visiting through Arkansas, and other states, and heard all kinds of tales about Deaf Smith County. The most fantastic one she heard was an Oklahoma City man reported that there was a man in Hereford who planted 17 acres in potatoes this year. And he made $70,000 off the crop!

Says Mrs. Miller: "We'd better look and see if there is somebody to verify these statements." I agree, Mrs. Miller, I haven't heard any stories quite that odd, but there have really been some whoopers going around.

Evidently Deaf Smith County—and Hereford—are becoming known over the nation because of the potato harvest this year. And everyone must admit, we DID have a wonderful crop!

Enjoyed Company
"Maybe this will be my last batch of company," says Mrs. Roy Calvert, "but I've enjoyed every minute of it!" Visiting with her this week are her sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Melton and children Ramona and La Verne of Redding, Calif. Last week was busy for the Calverts too. They attended the wedding of a niece in Cheyenne, Okla. Janet Calvert was married to Frank Lovett, and they will attend the University of Oklahoma.

Ed Lines Travel
What a time the J. Edward Line family is having this week. They left recently for a fun-packed 10-day pleasure trip to Colorado. For Edward to have fun, he likes to fish, so they're spending several days at Lake City, Colo. And the Lines are going to visit other points of interest in Colorado and other states en route home.

Jimmie Curtisinger has returned home after spending the past month in Breaugh, Mo. While there he visited in the home of friends and former schoolmates. Jimmie brought a friend, Bill McFarland, home with him, and the boys plan to have some "Texas-style fun" until Bill leaves at the beginning of school.

Three Hereford students attended the University of Colorado summer session this year. They are Miss Helen Johnson, Lisle T. Woodford, and Joe R. Ballard. Around 6,000 students attend the summer session each year. In addition to the regular credit classes, participants also have a variety of workshops, conferences, and institutes.

Family Story
The John Hamby family is another busy group here this week! Daughter Mrs. Glenn Campbell got out of the hospital Monday and she's staying in her parents' home for several days before returning to Amarillo. Another daughter, Norma Hamby, returned to Hereford Monday. She has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Sparks of Rudoso this summer.

Lloyd Wayne Davis arrived in Farwell Friday and the John Hambys drove over and got him. He's been visiting in Houston with his aunt, Mrs. J. R. Kirkmever, and visited two days in Hereford with his grandparents, the John Hambys. They drove him to Clovis Monday and he took a train home to Carlsbad, N.M. It's evident that the fourth grade tyke will have lots of stories about his adventures to tell his schoolmates when he starts back to school this fall. Lloyd is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Artie Davis of Carlsbad.

With all the visiting and activity going on, John Hamby decided it would be a good time to go fishing. So he loaded up the car, and went to Buffalo Lake for a couple of days—just lazing around in the sun and fishing when he felt like it. His fishing luck wasn't too good, however, and he decided to throw everything in the lake and came home Thursday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Wagner and family visited Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sextoce in Los Alamos, N. M., recently. They also visited the 62nd reunion of the Armored Field Artillery Battalion in Albuquerque.

H. Miller and family of South Dakota are visiting in the home of his mother, Mrs. F. A. Miller.

Ups and Downs
Mr. and Mrs. John N. Jacobsen Jr., and children returned Friday from a week's vacation in Colorado and New Mexico. Among other points of interest they visited the Royal Gorge and Pike's Peak.

Morocco Mail

Judging from the interesting letters the former Gayle Gault, now Mrs. Phillip Kendall, writes home to her folks, the Howard Gaults, she is amazed and maybe a little breathless at the country, people, and customs in countries she saw from America to Morocco in Africa, where she and her husband now live.

Letters from Gayle describe quite clearly the country, people, and customs in and around Port Lyantry, French Morocco, where the Kendalls now live. She described the trip over by plane, and her life as it now is in Port Lyantry. She writes about Argentina, Newfoundland: "I wish you could see that place. It is barren and rock and cold. Fifty degrees on their warmest days. Needless to say we almost froze. Seven hours later we arrived in Lages on the Azores. . . country is half mountainous, half flat. . . cultivated fields are big and separated by rock fences, uneven in shape.

First Impression
"Four hours later we flew over Casablanca and in no time landed at Port Lyantry. My first thought was 'This looks like Texas.' It was flat and had few trees. The grass is pretty and there are palm trees and tropical flowers everywhere. . . buses here are not regular. . . and very slow.

"Port Lyantry is both pretty and ugly. Some streets are very pretty due to the beautiful flowers. Lots of the city is dirty and poor. The people are either French or Arab. The men dress as Americans do, but the women cover everything but their eyes. Of course, the men wear turbans on their heads. . . one native woman we met yesterday spoke Greek, Arabic, French, Spanish, and Yiddish

(Jewish language.)
French Food
"Food is delicious. . . and is French. A dinner consisting of soup, fried fish, steak, green beans, fruit, and wine only costs about $1.40. Breakfast consisted of three pieces of melba toast, jelly and the worst coffee I've ever put in my mouth. You just can't imagine how black it is!

Super (Smell) Market
"Last night I had shrimp. They were whole. (I nearly fainted!) They had to be picked out and were quite good — eight or 10 for 73 cents — quite a bargain!

"Today we went to the French market. You just can't imagine how it is. There was a huge circular table with all kinds of fish around it. Even eels and snails. The smell was terrible. Close by were rabbits (alive) and cleaned rabbits. There were baskets and pottery, plants and fresh cut flowers.

"There were meat markets and countless fruit and vegetable markets, cheeses, pastries, and wines. I can understand why things have to be very carefully cleaned here.

Contrasts Aplenty
"The weather here has been so pleasant. It's plenty cool enough for a wrap when the sun goes down. The days are warm and sunny. Here geraniums grow in bushes. They are just thick. There are also lemon, orange, and all kinds of citrus trees.

"I've also seen a banana tree (no bananas though) and they say that the poinsettias bloom beautifully at Christmas. As you go inland for a few hundred miles there is a definite change and in winter you go from greenery and sunshine right into snow.

Bargains Galore
"I stopped at the market today and spent 500 francs or $1.25. I bought four large peaches, five medium onions, 2 garlic, 1 loaf bread, 1 head lettuce, five large tomatoes, and 10 eggs. This surely seems like a lot for the small amount of money. All the things very fresh and of excellent quality.

"Our friends bought them a car last week so we celebrated by taking a trip to Rabat, the capital of Morocco. It's about a 40 minute drive from here. The French part of the city is just as modern as can be. It is, by the way, a good sized place. We explored every nook and cranny and finally found the native section of town known as the 'medina.'

Arabs In Rags
"It is like everything you can imagine an Arab village to be like. The streets are very narrow—just room enough for one car and most of the time they are crowded with people because there are no sidewalks. You see every kind of Arab there is. Rich ones (few) and many poor ones. Most of them just dressed in filthy clothes and dressed in rags. The streets are lined with little open shops of every kind. Cafes are so dirty looking that you can't imagine it, grocery stores and fruit stands, clothing shops, and leather, brass, silver, and dozens more of native goods for sale.

Roman Ruins
"Yesterday we went to some old Roman ruins. They are definitely off the beaten track. You have to go down an old dirt road and through some native villages that look as if no white person had ever been there before.

"In the villages, people live in grass shacks, which are, as usual, very dirty. There are dozens of children and a few burros and horses around. Children beg for money, cigarettes, gum, and anything else you have."

Final Thought
Gayle writes much more about the county of French Morocco, but these excerpts from her letters give one a general idea of the country there. It can all be summed up in what she closed one of her letters with, however:
Gayle writes: "Our travels so far have taught us to thank God that we are Americans. We live a life

CARD OF THANKS
I want to thank Dr. Mims, Mrs. Martin, and the other nurses and all the hospital staff for being so good to me while I was in the hospital. May God bless each and every one of you in your great efforts to care for the sick. I also want to thank all the nice folks for flowers, gifts, and cards, and all the visits. They were all a big help to me. And thanks to the nice folks at the City Drug Store for the Hereford Brand which I really enjoyed.

FIVE DAY REST
ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP)—Two city Sanitation Department employees took a noontime siesta under a tree recently. A taxpaying citizen noted their naps stretched on and on and reported them. They were given five-day suspensions to rest up.

Land leveling is often one of the early problems faced by farmers who supplement rainfall with irrigation. Now is the time, says Bob Thurmond, extension agricultural engineer, to start planning for the job. Land leveling is an expensive and time consuming job but the benefits last for years. A good job requires the services of a competent engineer.

Drouth Cancelled Range Field Day

The U. S. Southern Great Plains Field Station, Woodward, Okla., has announced cancellation of its 20th annual Range Improvement Field Day, previously scheduled for Oct. 6, 1956.

This action was deemed advisable because the severe drouth conditions necessitated removing many experimental cattle on June 19, 1956. All spring grass plantings failed due to drouth, and forage production on the grazed ranges has been only one-third of normal.

Present plans are to hold the educational Field Day in the fall of 1957, at which time the public is cordially invited to attend.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank Dr. Wills, the nurses, and the staff of Deaf Smith County Hospital for being so nice to me during my stay in the hospital. We thank our friends and neighbors for their prayers, visits, cards, flowers, food, telephone calls and every kindness to us during my illness. May God richly bless each of you.

Sincerely,

Accidents Damage Total Set At $575

A trio of recent minor automobile accidents have resulted in damages estimated at $575, according to Hereford Police Department reports.

An accident on Sunday at Fifth and Main caused $450 damages. Glenna Kay Bellar, driving a 1953 Dodge, collided with a 1951 Mercury, driven by Audrey Wayne Rogers. A ticket was given to Glenna Kay Bellar for negligent collision.

Two accidents occurred on Monday. The first one happened on Main Street when Mrs. James C. Massengale of Lubbock, driving a 1949 Chevrolet, backed out of a parking place into a 1954 Chevrolet, driven by Ronald L. Zimmerman. Mrs. Massengale was issued a ticket for not having a driver's license and failure to grant right of way. Damages to the Zimmerman vehicle were estimated at $25.

In the other mishap, Wiley E. Phillips of Pampa, driving a 1950 Ford, was involved in a collision with a 1955 Chevrolet, driven by Lindley R. Davis. The accident occurred at the intersection of Whittier and Highway 60. Phillips was given a ticket for failure to grant right of way. Estimated damages were $50 to each car.

Dr. Grubbs Is Speaker For B&PW Meeting

Dr. Roy Grubbs was the guest speaker at the Business and Professional Women's Club Monday evening. The 16 members present met on the patio at Lovella Cowser's home, with Bea Barrett acting as co-hostess.

The speaker stressed several things of importance and common sense items to keep in mind. The program was sponsored by the Health and Safety Committee composed of Johnie Morris, Lovella Cowser, and Pearl Hunter.

Pauline Howard and Della Stagner volunteered to assist in editing the "Short Wave," the local club news letter.

Ursalee Jacobsen was appointed by the executive committee to be chairman of the style show, and her assistant will be Madlynne Faughn.

Southwind Della 2d 3783690, a registered Holstein-Friesian cow, owned by Edmund Campbell of Seguin has set a new Texas production record for junior three-year-old Holsteins on a twice per day milking. She produced 14,788 pounds of milk and 659 pounds of butterfat.

PINT-SIZE COP

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — When the City Council voted 12-year-old Diane Grady the title of honorary junior auxiliary policeman, it was no empty gesture. She earned it.

Diane saw a robbery in a store. She dashed across the street and jotted down the license number of the car outside. The information led to a quick arrest. Diane is a policeman's daughter.

Mothers' Poll Is Revealed
IT'S: HER POINT OF VIEW

By PARDY LINER

It's been rather difficult to get a line on anything very unusual in the way of social activities and personal incidents this week. Guess those of us who aren't away on vacation are busy getting young'ns ready for school.

Have heard considerable comment from mothers who are wondering where sons and daughters will attend classes until Ela Alkman School can be occupied. I am no George Gallup (that we're of opposite sexes is only one of the differences between us); but according to my own informal poll, more mamas would prefer driving junior across town to one of the churches than to have to get him to one of the schools by 7 a.m. for a half-day schedule.

Just A Chance

It doesn't seem likely that the choice will be up to the parents, however; so my efforts as a pollster will go entirely unheralded except for my own mere mention of it here.

Thinking about school and related subjects brings to mind Clara Gillentine and her task of organizing Camp Fire Girls and Blue Birds in Hereford. Clara's problems in this endeavor are too numerous to mention, but a major one at this time is the need for volunteer group leaders.

Shirley Situation

So far as we know, the direst need is at Shirley School, where there will probably be a sufficient number of prospective Blue Birds to warrant two groups; but there haven't been enough women willing to take the leadership of even one group.

Surely, being a Blue Bird Leader isn't any tougher than being a Little League Mother, and there didn't seem to be any shortage in the latter department. Clara has been doing a wonderful job, especially considering it's a multiple responsibility; but she cannot lead every group herself. So... Blue Birds, anyone?

Vanished Profit

If I were of grade school age again, I wouldn't mind being Virginia Kroll's daughter — particularly in the summer time. The younger Miss Kroll has often been seen "helping" her mom and dad at their Dairy Cream stand. Virginia says, in good humor, "that those are the times when the profits literally get eaten up."

Rare Family

Ruth and Bill Kerr were among several couples who entertained Rev. and Mrs. Floyd Grady who are in the United States on leave from the Mission Field in Brazil. The Kerrs held an informal "open house" Sunday afternoon for Rev. and Mrs. Grady and their four children, and all who had the opportunity to meet the Grady family agree that they are an extremely interesting and very rare type of family.

Everybody has heard the phrase "I'd walk a mile for a Camel," but it isn't so often that we hear of someone driving 60 miles just to get to play bridge all day. This unusual occurrence happened last week when six or seven ladies from Panhandle converged at the home of Mrs. Spicer Gripp for that very reason: To play bridge, that is!

Record Maybe

They arrived in time for breakfast coffee and were joined very promptly by several local bridge-enthusiasts. The session lasted until 6:30 p.m. (isn't that some sort of record?)

Am sure the gals took time out to eat; at least, I've never seen players sit at the game table for very long without edibles. What I'm wondering is: did they all take their own food or was the hostess prepared to appease appetites for the duration of the house party?

Convention Observations

'Tis my slightly biased opinion that the lady speakers at both political conventions made as good a showing as the men orators and were twice as good-looking!

On the whole (with the exception of Mr. Stevenson) the Republicans used better English grammar, but this fact won't matter one 10th of one iota; unless English and the speech critics are the only ones that vote next November. Oh well, these are only observations, remember. I did think the Republicans were rather clever in their presentation of all their notable lady politicians within a well arranged, 30 minute "participation" period.

My nomination for best-dressed among the Democratic femmes that were pictured on the TV cameras is Mrs. Frank Clements, wife of the keynote. I particularly noticed her the night of her husband's address; she looked very chic in a black suit with her wide-brimmed white hat providing a stunning contrast.

And at the Republican Convention, Mrs. Eisenhower appeared in some "smart" ensembles, as did Mrs. Nixon. My favorite in Mamie's wardrobe was the matching dress and hat combination that she wore the final night of the convention. The material looked like satin but could have been any of several "polished" fabrics.

Gov. Knight's wife was dressed elegantly in her brief appearances; her choice of clothes tends toward the dramatic, and she was easily spotted on the television screen.

Now the conventions are over, and Mrs. Housewife can again fit her favorite TV programs into her work schedules or visa-versa.

Say, Mr. Editor, thanks for plugging my column in yours. I'll do the same for you some time.

SOME PAY MORE, SOME PAY LESS... BUT

Tax Equalization Is Basis Of Democratic Government

Members of the school Equalization Board pointed their finger accurately and directly at a situation which in recent months has resulted in numerous rumors, some gossip and no constructive action. The condition centers around tax inequities in the school district and in Deaf Smith County. To say the least, many citizens in both governmental subdivisions feel that they are being discriminated against.

The opinion of the equalization board is summed up in the last paragraph of their official report to the Board of Trustees, and reads as follows:

"We would like to have you consider in some manner, possibly with the cooperation of the county and city tax agencies, hiring some full-time help to actually appraise all properties subject to tax and arrive at your equalization in that manner. We do not know what your future requirements will be in the way of income but we do suppose they will become greater and at the present time it seems that city property is just about taxed to the hilt as far as valuations are concerned. We arrived in this presumption because most every person who appeared before us as an equalization board was a city property owner who complained of their valuations being higher than their construction or purchase cost or actual market value."

In the first place, it is evident that the Equalization Board was deeply concerned or they would never have specifically pointed to the situation, thus making it a public matter. All of which brings up the question of just how assessments in the district actually do run. The following chart, in round figures, reviews the situation:

TAXABLE VALUES FOR SCHOOL TAX PURPOSES, in the Hereford School District.
Land, 448,000 acres	$10,600,000.00
Farm Improvements	1,100,000.00
City and Industrial Property	8,000,000.00
Banks, Utilities and Railroads	2,000,000.00
Personal Property, (City and rural)	4,300,000.00
Total	$26,000,000.00

Delving more deeply into the figures, it appears that irrigated farm land near town has a taxable value of $37.50, dropping 2 percent in each of 20 zones which comprise

Water Sells For 20c Half Gallon

People take a lot of things for granted and, frequently, these things are the very basis of their existence. We have in mind particularly such things as health, the right to vote, wholesome air and water.

Take the City of Dallas, for instance. Associated Press reports this week state that water is being sold in cartons, through dairies at the going price of 20 cents per one-half gallon. This figure is approximately six times the average price on No. 1 crude oil. Yet we consider the man who owns the oil well a rich man, while men who own good water wells are approximately a dime a dozen.

It is strangely familiar to the old story about the man shipwrecked on a desert island with a million dollars in gold, which he would gladly have traded for one ham sandwich.

The whole thing boils down to supply and demand. When Dallas had plenty of water, Big-D residents failed to attach much value to the commodity. Today, as the supplies in Dallas and other East and Central Texas towns dwindle, they are placing more and more value upon water as a commodity.

Hereford, on the other hand, is blessed with an abundance of good, pure water and boasts one of the lowest city water rates in Texas. Most of us who stop and think twice are bound to admit, however, that the vast underground supply of water is worth far more than a like amount of oil. This is true from an economic as well as a standpoint of immediate necessity. We are indeed fortunate, and it behooves us to conserve every possible drop of water against such conditions as those faced in Dallas and other areas in 1956.

the school district. It is also well to remember that this actual taxable value represents 40 percent of the real value, which is the basis upon which taxes are levied in the district. Farm houses, barns and other improvements are assessed on the same basis as city houses and improvements, according to reports from the tax office. Approximately $1 1/2 million is also assessed against farmers in the form of personal property under the heading of irrigation wells.

Deaf Smith County, operating on a much lower budget, generally assesses land on the basis of $20 down to $5 an acre which, like the school district, is divided into graduated cricles.

When you get down to brass tacks, forget your prejudices and personal interests, it is definitely apparent that the land owners in Deaf Smith County do have a distinct advantage over the town property owner when it comes to paying taxes. As one experienced tax man puts it, "The land owner is paying on approximately 20 percent of the real value of his property, whereas the town property owner is paying on something like 40 percent of the real value of his property." This would put the home owner in the position of paying around twice as much as the land owner in the school district—and the situation is possibly more out of line on the county level.

At the same time, it is well to remember that some of the town-owned assets are also paying far below their part of the school, city and county tax bill. Store inventories, for instance, are an unknown factor and, without question, are too low in many cases. There is also the little matter of bank deposits—recently reported at $12 million—which are going tax free. Figured on the basis of 40 percent, the bank deposits alone would present a taxable income equal to one-half of the present land tax values in the school district. There are, of course, other points where discrepancies exist.

Most of the tax payers we know are not complaining so much about the cost of local taxes as they are complaining about the lack of equalization. County, school and city taxes are deductible from federal income taxes and, therefore, do not create the problem they otherwise might. Most people, we feel, would rather spend their tax money on the local level for good schools, good roads and good city government than send it to Washington for re-distribution through bureaucrats.

Heavy bonded indebtedness in behalf of the school district is already creating a pinch on local operations. The tax rate was recently boosted from $1.35 to $1.50 for the coming year—and still more money will have to be provided in future years. Therefore, it seems apparent that while the town property owner can expect no reduction in his taxes, it is practical that the land owner will be raised on assessed valuations to the point where his taxes will become more equalized with other values within the district.

The entire situation presents a difficult problem. How to accomplish equity in taxation is a problem which faces the various governing bodies involved. Meanwhile, it is well to remember that equalization of taxes is the very basis of the operation of a democracy. Most people want to pay their part—no more, no less; our federal, state, county, school district and city laws are based upon this assumption. The further we wander from equalization, the further we are from equity, justice and true government "of the people, by the people, and for the people."

Hospital Wing Has No Debt, No Taxes

Last week a contract for $116,000 was let for construction of a new children's wing in connection with the Deaf Smith County Hospital. Many people made contributions and showed general interest, but we wonder how many have paused to consider what a remarkable achievement the community has actually made.

In the first place, tax payers of the county actually saved $85,248 in cash money. This was made possible through a grant of

Stagner Prefers Home Life After Fine Military Record

By GIL CARLISLE

EARL STAGNER... who came home

Like many other American men in World War II, Earl Van Stagner compiled an illustrious combat record. When the conflict ended, some of the men chose to make a career of the service. Others came home.

Earl was one of the men who came home. He believed that he'd rather live an everyday citizen's life. That's what he's been doing since 1946. And doing it well.

Enjoys Hereford
A man of wisdom and foresight, Earl returned to the country where he was born and raised—Castro and Deaf Smith Counties. "No one enjoys living in Hereford more than I do," says Stagner.

Born in Dimmitt on Oct. 24, 1919, Earl attended public schools in the Castro County city when he became old enough. He graduated from Dimmitt High School in 1937.

Soon afterwards he entered West Texas State College to pursue studies in physical education and education. While in college he was an active participant in two sports, football and basketball. Earl was an outstanding athlete at West Texas, playing under two of the school's greatest coaches, Hal Baggett and Jack Curdick.

Graduating in 1941 with a Bachelor of Science degree, Stagner entered the U.S. Army Air Force. He received his cadet training at Tulare, Calif. Transferred to Merced, Calif. for his basic instruction, he later won his pilot's wings at Mather Field in Sacramento, Calif., on May 21, 1942.

Next duty station for Earl was Hawaii, where he remained until September of 1942. At this time he was assigned to the Solomon Islands as a member of the 72nd Bomb Squadron, piloting B-17's. To Guadalcanal.

One of his big war thrills came when he was piloting a B-17 in a group of the huge bombers that were the first ever to land at Henderson Field on Guadalcanal. Earl flew 67 missions during his tour of duty in the Far East.

Returning to the States in May, 1943, Stagner was sent to Sioux City, Iowa. It was there that he met Joy Farmer who became Mrs. Earl Stagner when wedding bells rang for the couple in May, 1945 in Sioux City.

Recent Promotion
After the end of the war, Earl and his wife returned to Hereford. He attained the rank of major while in the Air Force. Recently Earl was promoted to Lt. colonel in the U.S. Air Force Reserve.

After coming home to Deaf Smith County, Stagner taught in Hereford High School for a half year. Then he assumed a position with the Hereford Implement Co., in June, 1946, remaining with the firm until April of this year.

He is now employed as office manager of Don Little's B. F. Goodrich Store. Earl is a member of the First Baptist Church.

Sees Hereford's Need
Speaking of Hereford, Earl believes "That an organized summer recreation program for both young and old is the town's greatest need." An avid sportsman, he takes to the golf links on weekends. Fishing spots are his lure at vacation time.

Earl and Joy are the parents of two boys, John, 5, and Gary, 9. The family resides at 210 Ave. J.

LATE EARLY MAIL

BAY CITY, Mich. (AP)—On a sunny day last May, Postmaster Frank Sweeney, an advocate of early posting of Christmas mail, found in his filing cabinet 84 cards his wife had given him to mail last Christmas. The shamed postmaster "promptly" mailed them.

TREE FARM MOVEMENT

WASHINGTON, D. C. (AP)—The national Tree Farm movement, aimed at growing and harvesting trees so this country will always have an adequate source of wood pulp and lumber, has now been extended to 42 states. Vermont and Connecticut in joining 40 other states brought to more than 8,000 the number of tree farms certified by the American Forest Products Industries, Inc. They embrace nearly 39 million acres.

QUESTION OF THE WEEK

Mirror, Mirror On TV-Set; Name A Man My Vote Gets?

There's many a slip between the conventions and the November election. But never before have Deaf Smith County residents had so good an opportunity to watch the show window of the nation's major parties as they have been afforded during the past two weeks by the "miracle of television." As for the benefits, here's what a few answered to two pertinent questions:

Do you think the televising of national political conventions gives ordinary citizens a better understanding of the workings of the Democratic and Republican parties? Did the television coverage of the conventions help you resolve any issues that might affect your vote?

HAROLD BANKS—"Yes, definitely. I doubt if the televising actually had any influence on my vote because I had my mind made up before the conventions started."

ANSEL McDOWELL—"I sure do believe that the televising gives citizens a better understanding of the workings of the parties. No, but I enjoyed both conventions on television."

DENNIS LOMAS—"Yes, the televising does help citizens understand the party workings. No, not especially, but I did enjoy the show."

ELIZABETH WOMBLE—"Yes, but I believe that a person has to do a lot of reading and thinking besides watching the conventions on television to understand the workings of the parties. Yes, I would say that my vote was influenced."

GEORGE McLEAN—"Yes, in my opinion it does. My vote might have been influenced to the extent that I am now better informed on the issues as a result of watching and listening to the discussions of both parties on television."

MRS. KENNETH KELLY—"Yes, I truly believe that the televising helps to understand the party workings. I think everyone should watch the conventions on television. Yes, I believe that the televising would influence my vote."

MRS. PEARL BOYER—"Yes, it certainly has helped me. No, I don't think that my vote was affected."

MRS. ELLA BURDINE—"Yes, I really believe that the televising does help citizens better understand political functions. I watched both conventions and learned a lot. Yes, it did affect my vote."

$58,000 made through the J. E. Hill Estate, plus $25,532 which the county would have otherwise paid out in interest at the estimated rate of 2 1/2 percent over the customary 15 year period.

Today, instead of facing payments to the tune of $143,748, citizens of Deaf Smith county face the world debt-free on the new hospital addition.

Another unusual thing for these days was the fact that no government or tax money was sought or used. Consequently, no "strings" are attached to the operation of the hospital.

Considered in this light, the new hospital unit reflects an exceeding amount of credit on the county's population, past and present. Such, no doubt, was the thinking of the late

J. E. Hill and of the trustees who manage the estate. Today's citizens rallied to the call and met the challenge after a fashion which would have made the heart of any pioneer, including Mr. Hill, swell with pride.

We owe gratitude to Mr. Hill and to the trustees for the gift which made possible the new hospital unit. Possibly even greater, however, was the manner in which the gift was made. In facing and meeting the challenge, we have shown the world—including ourselves—that we can do things without government sponsorship, without taxes and without long-range indebtedness, or deficit spending.

We have pulled ourselves up by our own bootstraps, as the old saying goes—and the feeling: Well, it's simply wonderful.

DIMITT BOASTS TWO NEW ELEVATORS

Two brand new elevators in Dimmitt will help hold an expected bumper grain sorghum crop this year if all goes well. The new Dimmitt Wheat Growers 580,000 bushel elevator is nearing completion. The $274,940 structure was begun last May and is located adjacent to the original elevators of the organization. The Northside elevator, located off Highway 51 north of town, is now being constructed by Fred Bruegel at a cost of about $250,000. It will have a storage capacity of 537,000 bushels of grain when finished.—THE CASTRO COUNTY NEWS.

DEMANDS BREAK ALL RECORDS

Floydada Municipal Light Department and Floydada Municipal Water system are reaching out for the dollar knife. At least, they are making all-time high marks in production and sales. Sales of electric energy have been soaring, with the demand from homes for lighting and cooling appliances giving the electric department a high 24-hour run one day this week of 25,400 kilowatts. Peak load for the day was 1,400 kws. J. D. Parks, superintendent of the department was pleased to see the demand climb above the figure he had set of 24,000 kws. In the water department the city actually billed out 28,303,500 gallons of water at the rate of nearly a million gallons per day from July 15 to Aug. 15. The production run through the master meter was 31 million gallons.—THE FLOYD COUNTY HESPERIAN.

NEW SCHOOL BUDGET ADOPTED

The Canyon Independent School District plans to spend $443,152.20 during the coming year. The school board adopted a budget calling for that expense total, which is only $287.20 above last year's budget. The board also retained the present tax rate of $1.50 per $100 valuation. Of the budget, $229,008.75 is expected to come from the outside sources and $214,143.45 from the taxpayers of the school district.—THE CANYON NEWS.

The BOOTLEG Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his bindweed farm has been listening to the national political conventions, but what he found out is hard to say.

Dear editor:

I'd been listening to political convention speeches so long out here lately I felt like I had to get some rest so I borrowed a newspaper out of my neighbor's mail box yesterday morning. I can't see how borrowing a paper just to read it is much of a crime, after all, the print stays the same, regardless of who reads it first, it's not like borrowing a pair of socks, and come to think of it, everything in the paper must have been read two or three times before anyway by the people who put it together, although occasionally you run into an article that looks like it was never examined before by anybody, at any rate, I took the paper and settled down under a shade tree and turned to the inside pages just to avoid the convention news.

I hadn't gone long when I ran into an article describing sound waves which a scientist said apparently came from the planet Venus. According to him, it wasn't an echo, or sound from our planet bouncing back, although he said it sounded like static.

I don't know whether anybody is living on Venus or not and am not very curious about trying to find out, as I'm not through exploring the area bounded by my farm yet, but the fact that the noise this scientist heard coming from there sounded like static doesn't mean anything.

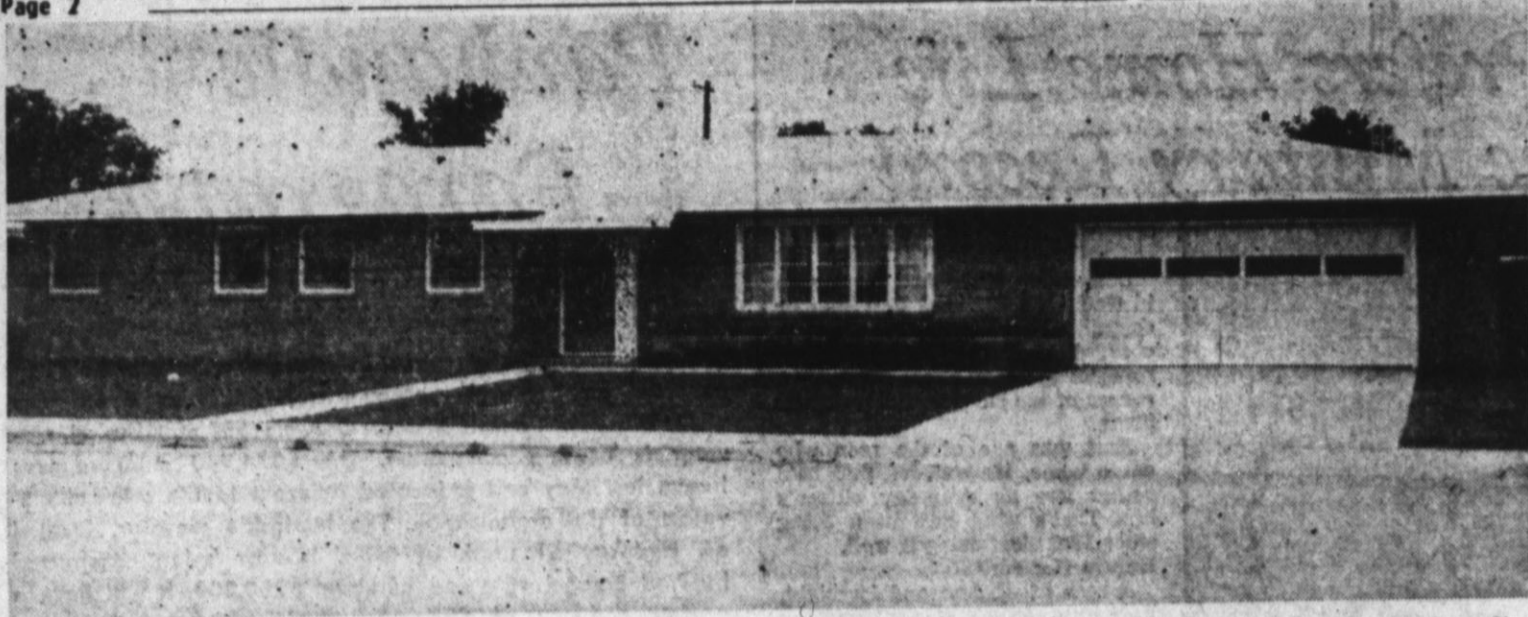

That is, I don't know how far out a radio beam goes, but if it can reach Venus and if there is anybody living there and he heard say a broadcast from a political convention on this earth, you think it would make much more sense than static?

I'll tell you, I listened pretty closely to the Democratic convention in Chicago, and while the Democrats are accused of favoring economic planning, I don't believe anybody who would run seven women speakers, one right after the other, before the microphone in one long stretch, was guilty of much planning.

And I'm not saying the Republicans are any better at it. In fact, I don't believe there are enough speakers in the world, not to mention just one party in the United States, can fill up four days before the microphone and not wear the audience down to a nub.

Conventions, like plowing, are necessary, but anything anybody can do to shorten either will have the undying gratitude of a lot of people, although I will say this, I've never heard a speech yet, regardless of how dry it was, that could drive me to plowing.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

SUITABLE MEMORIAL

NEW DELHI — Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru says the Indian government would welcome a suitable memorial to the Indian national army — which fought with the Japanese in World War II — at Singapore.

The Prime Minister, answering questions in Parliament, said his government was considering the matter in view of a recent statement by Singapore Chief Minister David Marshall that he would give courteous consideration to any Indian request for such a memorial. However, Nehru said India had not taken any initiative.

Nehru said an earlier memorial to the INA at Singapore had been destroyed by the British in 1945. He said this old memorial was a simple stone pillar, easy to put up and easy to knock down. As a result, he said, it went up frequently and each time was wrecked.

School Supplies With Novel Touch Compete For Youngsters Attention

Once again it's time for doting moms and pops to dole out money to youngsters for the inevitable school supplies! Some of them are lucky, however. Their youngsters have saved allowance money, baby sitting money, or lawn-cutting money to buy notebooks, paper, pencils, and scissors for the trek back to school.

You'll get more for your money this year, according to Hereford variety store managers. For the school supplies they have everything on stock from rocket shaped pencil sharpeners to polka dotted notebooks.

Gifts A Bonus

One store even offers a two-binder zipper notebook with a large package of notebook paper free. Two binder notebooks, by the way are required for school use. Paper with three holes is handy for teachers when grading paper.

Of course today's youngsters and teenagers want something unusual, so manufacturers have added records, maps, sports figures and other oddities to notebook covers—available in colors of blue, pink, white, green and red. The original brown notebook can still be found in most stores, but the pastel shades are quickly crowding them out.

Price Range

Notebook prices range from 25 cents for cardboard loose-leaf binders to $6.95 for cowhide notebooks, with edges reinforced with vinyl plastic "armor-guard" binding. The cheaper notebooks can also be found in blue denim, with places reserved inside the cover for class schedules, autographs, sports schedules, and activity schedules.

Polka dots and stripes aren't unusual in notebooks either. They can be found in local variety stores in red with white polka dots in a two-ring zipper binder.

"Zipper binders will be the best sellers because they are in pastel colors this year," comments Clyde Cave, of Cave's Variety Store.

Special Features

With all the items students carry with them from class to class, the zipper notebook is the best bet. Inside pockets are for pencils, erasers, notes, rulers, and odds and ends.

A map of the world in color can be found on a plastic notebook at Ben Franklins, or if you'd prefer, there is a brown zipper notebook with a Texas map engraved on it. "One best seller will be the notebook with the Texas map on it," states S. B. McLallen. "This was a top-notch seller last year and should repeat."

Inside Dope

"Our $1.98 zipper notebooks with 'your name engraved in gold free' will be the best sellers for us," reports D. C. Cleveland of Perry Bros.

The inside of the student's notebook will also be a bright array of color. Cleveland reports that a new item this season is the pastel composition theme books which are now selling in green, gray, pink, and yellow.

Bright Pencils

Pencils range from 12 for 24 cents with a free sharpener to 10 cents each, and they can be found in bright colors such as fusha or chartreuse, red, green, black, and blue are also common colors for school pencils this year.

Paper is no problem anymore. You can buy a 10 cent package or if there are several children in the family, four large packages for $1 is a good buy. Notebook paper for Hereford students should have rounded corners and medium spaced lines. Teachers also prefer students to use loose-leaf organizers to enable them to find papers easier.

For Beginners

First grader supplies are now available at the local variety stores—they have wide-spaced tables, jumbo pencils, blunt and pointed scissors, large crayons, and the thick white paste first graders use. Notebooks are not necessary for the elementary graders, but most of them like to use them. Many children carry their books to school in a plaid book satchel, with retractable handles, which also has a large pocket for crayons and pencils.

Oddities which are sold by the stores are pencil cases containing a ruler, four pencils and a sharpener, an eraser, protractor, and five crayons. If you want something really different in pencil sharpeners, why not buy one in the shape of an airplane, rocket, boat, or a round ball?

Down-To-Earth

Still among the down-to-earth school supplies are scotch tape, drawing tablets, paste—either in liquid or thick form—nickel note tablets, and a few other items. So far, these are still in the original shape and color!

For a finishing touch, there must be a key chain ornament on the notebook. These, of course, are to aid in zipping the notebook, and to make noise to annoy people. The more that can be loaded on one of these chains, the better! (Editor's Note—The student can always collect his heavy key-chains from the teacher at the end of the year.)

A rabbit's foot is popular for the key chain. Also found on key chains are gold footballs, basketballs, and baseballs, guns, cars, and pencil sharpeners.

Whatever your child chooses for supplies this year, it's certain that a parade of colors will blossom out as Hereford youngsters begin school this fall.

Wonder Why Boy Friends Move Along?

AP Newsfeatures

"Much adieu about nothing" can worry a girl. It's getting to be as easy to lose a beau these days as the curl in your hair on a windy day.

If you've had the problem lately, consider the answers to 20 questions asked of a number of young men. Your own little fault may be listed advising you why you get the leave-ho at unexpected times.

He may bid you adieu if you are guilty of...

1. Table hopping. He doesn't like the second fiddle role at the expense of his wallet, so keep your seat at his table when he's dating you.

2. Criticizing his mother. (One boy said his steady date annoyed him by criticizing his mother's cooking.)

3. Wearing "whistle-bait" dresses—too low-necked or in flamboyant colors or design.

4. Gossiping, particularly about friends.

5. Bad table manners. (Leaning ungracefully over the table, combing the hair or making up at the table.)

6. Ridiculing the interests of others such as baseball, football, hockey and making no attempt to understand these ventures.

7. Acting too anxious to dance with somebody else or making the pointed statement that "he's such a wonderful dancer."

8. Ordering the most expensive items on a menu.

9. Smoking excessively, tapping a cigarette nervously and other mannerisms such as dangling a cigarette from the mouth.

10. Being overly possessive or displaying too much affection in public.

11. Sloppy dress (too-long slpstraps showing).

12. Acting neglectful the moment the date is distracted to other entertainment.

13. Talking about how poor or how rich her family are. "Why mention it," asks one young man.

14. Aping a man in dress, speech or humor, and especially the telling of man-style jokes.

15. Unkind attitude toward animals, children and own parents.

16. Incessant talking.

17. Gushy letters (one boy abhors gruesome stationery—garish colors or designs.)

18. Telephone him too often and seeming too anxious for a date.

19. Bursting into tears at the slightest provocation.

20. A pushover in the necking and petting department.

FROM RULES TO TICKETS

Young Cops Clean Up Traffic

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — "Somebody must have moved it," said the tearful blonde driver as the adamant "cop" wrote her traffic ticket.

The driver was 10, the "cop" was 9 and the vehicle was a bicycle.

The bicycle parking program at Glenmont Elementary School is just like a traffic program for the grownups — from rules to tickets to penalties.

Teachers report: "It's working just fine and the situation is very greatly improved."

Where once bicycles were parked helter-skelter — generally as close to a school doorway as possible — the bikes now are in orderly, spaced-out rows.

When one is out of line, parked too close to another or not in a standing position, the small rider finds an official-looking traffic ticket taped to the seat of his vehicle.

The young traffic officers take their jobs seriously, reports Mrs. Fred Danner, a fourth-grade teacher. Tickets are issued in profusion.

Each ticket has three check points: illegal parking, illegal riding and unsafe operation — plus a blank for other infractions. The original ticket goes home to the parent and the duplicate to the teacher.

Allis? Sure, just like the grown-ups.

Three tickets mean the bike rider must walk to school for the rest of the school year.

"That's why we started it near the end of the school year," explains Mrs. Danner. "No one was likely to reach the limit this year."

Wayne Saddles-Up And Rides Again

THE SEARCHERS

"The Searchers," starring John Wayne will show at the Star Theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. Wayne comes home to find that Comanches have been rustling cattle off several Texas farms and he joins a band of rangers to look for them. While they are gone the Indians massacre his family with the exception of teen-age Lucy a sister, and his youngest niece, Debbie, played by Natalie Wood. Over a period of five years, they find Lucy killed, and that Debbie has grown to womanhood as an Indian. Wayne now decides to try to kill Debbie, whom he feels has disgraced the family by becoming a Comanche. He corners her, and is faced with the prospect of killing the last of his family.

FREE MOVIES

Showing Wednesday at the Star will be "Target Zero" a free movie for back-to-school youngsters. Richard Conte and Peggy Castle star in the movie depicting the story of fighting G.I.'s in World War II. "Road to Denver" starring John Payne and Mona Freeman shows Thursday at the Star for the youngsters also. This is the story of two brothers fighting face to face and pistol to pistol.

RAGE AT DAWN

Randolph Scott portrays an ex-Confederate spy engaged by a Chicago detective agency to round up a vicious band of desperadoes in "Rage at Dawn." The story deals with the train robberies, bank hold-ups, and the eventual capture of the Reno Brothers. This movie shows Sunday and Monday at the Tower Drive In, co-starring Forrest Tucker, Mala Powers, and J. Carrol Naish.

DOUBLE FEATURE

The story of a husband who never had time to come home is "The Seven Little Foys" starring Bob Hope. It's the wonderfully, richly human story of the most famous pop in show business, Eddie Foy, who vowed he'd do a single act all the way, on stage and off but wound up mothering his seven wild hooligans the only way he knew — by putting them in the act! This movie shows Tuesday and Wednesday at the Tower Drive In. Also showing on the same program is "Lay That Rifle Down," starring the all-time favorite, Judy Canova, and Robert Lowery.

TARGET EARTH

A silent army of giant killer robots sweeps down from the planet Venus to lay siege to one of the largest cities in the United States in "Target Earth," showing at the Texas Theatre Sunday. Almost all the people of the city are evacuated before the enemy strikes, leaving but a few, unaware of the invasion, to face its unknown dangers. Starring in this production are Richard Denning, Kathleen Crowley, Virginia Gray and Richard Reeves.

Butzbach Zeitung Folk See Our GI As Well Behaved

Mrs. George E. Brashear of Hereford, a native of Butzbach Zeitung, Germany, proudly displayed this week a copy of her hometown newspaper, the Butzbacher Zeitung which proclaimed that the people of that city were very happy with the behavior of American soldiers stationed there.

"It makes my heart glad," said Mrs. Brashear, as she displayed the following editorial:

"The citizens believe that the unit (here) is comprised of picked troops and that the commanders of the unit take care that their men conduct themselves well. During the evening and night hours it is exceptionally quiet in the streets of the town. Consumption of alcoholic beverages in German establishments by American personnel is far below average."

Mrs. Brashear hopes that the impression Americans have made in her old hometown will help to counteract some of the adverse publicity our American soldiers have received lately in other publications.

"I feel that those stories are just Communistic propaganda," said Mrs. Brashear, judging by the impression received from her own meeting with American soldiers — like her husband George — and the way the folks "back home" report the news in a German town the size of Hereford.

LITTLE BOYS ROOM

GREENVILLE, S. C. (AP)—Cats up trees, children stuck in culverts and, of course, fires of any sort will bring out the fire department.

Firemen here had a new one to add to the list after they were called to a school to rescue a second grader from the little boy's room.

What happened was that after the teacher had decided the boy had been there long enough she found that the door lock had jammed. School people worked with the lock without success, then called the fire department.

By the time a ladder truck arrived the door had been removed, however.

Ballot Thieves May Charge Up Million Votes

Over a million votes will be stolen in the forthcoming presidential election unless citizens are more vigilant than they were in 1952. This prediction is based on a country-wide survey showing increasing election frauds reported by Jack Harrison Pollack in a September Reader's Digest article, "How Crooks Steal Your Vote," condensed from the National Municipal Review.

The Honest Ballot Association estimates that at least a million votes were stolen in the 1952 presidential election. Past Results Samuel H. Still, veteran investigator of election campaigns for Congressional committees, told Mr. Pollack that about 50 public figures are now in offices they would not have won if the elections had been legally conducted. Election thievery is not confined to any area nor to any type of election, the survey finds.

Paper ballots, still used in two thirds of the United States, offer the greatest opportunity for fraud. They are easy to change, easy to fake, easy to stuff. "A favorite trick of the crooked ballot-counter," Mr. Pollack writes, "is to conceal a piece of pencil lead (with wax to make it stick) under a fingernail or a large ring. While smoothing out the ballots before counting them, he will mark additional crosses before candidates' names—thus invalidating them."

Machines Jimmied Voting machines have helped reduce election frauds. But they are required in general elections in only six states. Desirable as they are, voting machines aren't 100 percent tamper-proof. Ballot thieves can wedge a matchstick, hairpin or metal clip under a lever to prevent it from registering.

Bible Words for Today

MARK 8:34 — "If any man would come after me, let him deny himself and take up his cross and follow me." (RSV)

In that day the cross was not a symbol of salvation, but an instrument of torturing execution. It was as if Jesus had said, "Let him get a rope and hang himself." This does not mean to court martyrdom. No reader of these lines is likely to suffer more than mildest persecution, and probably hardly that. Nor does cross-bearing mean those slights, disappointments, illnesses, disasters and even death to which all humanity is heir. None of these is cross-bearing.

In Jesus' time it would have been foolish to offer a cross-bearing man a fortune or high office, for, being about to die, they could have no meaning. Cross-bearing is living without thought or desire of wealth, honors, power, prestige or glory, but rather spending one's self in giving one's self away where others may be most helped.

Small Colleges Advantages Are Said Numerous

The concern of small colleges with the individual makes them better for students and happier for teachers than big impersonal universities, writes Dr. D. Elton Trueblood in an article, "Why I Chose a Small College," in September Reader's Digest. He reports the small college has undergone a remarkable rebirth in the last 10 years.

Dr. Trueblood, now professor of philosophy at Earlham College, of Richmond, Ind., earlier was on the faculties of Stanford and Harvard. Scientists, business leaders, and persons with distinction enough for Who's Who in America, Dr. Trueblood writes, are produced by small colleges out of all proportion to their size and resources.

How They Rate "Of the first 50 institutions in America, judged by the scientific eminence of their graduates," reports Dr. Trueblood, "39 are small privately supported colleges."

Of the 106 board chairmen and presidents of America's 66 billion-dollar companies 62.3 percent are graduates of such independent institutions.

Roger M. Blough, chairman of the U. S. Steel Corp., for example, is a graduate of Susquehanna University; Eugene G. Grace, the chairman of the Bethlehem Steel Corp., of Lehigh University; Harlow H. Curtice, president of General Motors, of Ferris Institute; Robert E. Wilson, chairman of the Standard Oil Co., of Indiana, of Wooster College; Ralph J. Cordner, president of General Electric, of Whitman College; John J. McCloy, chairman of the Chase-Manhattan Bank, of Amherst College.

Virtues Named Dr. Trueblood lists three virtues in small college life.

"First," he says, "is the affectionate, abiding concern for the individual. . . In a university with 10,000 or 15,000 students, a student can go through four years and until his Commencement never even see, much less meet, its president. The professor in the small school has students in numbers small enough so that each, for him, is a person in whose welfare he can take an intimate interest. Develop Capacities "The second fact which works to the great advantage of the student is this: every student has the opportunity to find and engage in those activities which will develop his maximum capacities. In a student body of many thousands an individual is often lost in the anonymous mass. His role in the university's extracurricular activities is not that of participant but of spectator.

"The third and to me the most important advantage of the small college is its concern, rooted in religion, for character development. . . I chose a small college because I wanted to be part of a life where this character-developing influence is pervasive, where it is shared by all the students and promoted not only by professors of Bible and religion but quite as much by men in chemistry, biology and psychology."

Alumni Helping Nearly half of the small colleges operated in the red last year but Dr. Trueblood reports an upswing in alumni giving and a rallying of industry and business to the small college's support. "Many must have additional buildings and facilities," writes Dr. Trueblood. "But now the prospects are vastly improved as more and more Americans recognize what the small college contributes and how essential it is to strengthen and extend its contribution."

Beef cattle shows in Colombia, South America, request judges from Texas A&M, Louisiana State University, the University of Florida and Michigan State University. EXPRESSION OF SENTIMENT DELANO, Minn. (AP)—A trend back to epitaph - personalized memorials is reported by an executive of a large cemetery monument firm. Don Gilmer of the Delano Granite Works said "this expression of sentiment is the essence of commemoration. These symbols of sentiment carry a message to posterity."

They can manipulate the curtain release cord so that your vote does not register. Or they can take advantage of laws permitting assistance to handicapped voters to step inside the curtain with you.

Antiquated laws still encourage phony registrations of "ghost" voters listed as living in flophouses, office buildings, vacant lots, Turkish baths, mental institutions and graveyards in whose names party workers can vote undetected. Or they may cast a vote in the name of a legally registered voter who plays hooky on election day. Signature identification of the voter, which permits comparison with his registration, is required in only 24 states.

Absentee Voting Absentee voting permitted in many states to accommodate sick persons encourages fraud when party workers are allowed to pick up the ballots.

You can foil ballot thieves by taking these precautions:

Vote early and don't let anyone interfere with you inside or outside the polling place. Mark paper ballots neatly, get a new ballot if you make a mistake, and watch to see that it is put in the proper box. See that the curtain is closed before using a voting machine and press the levers all the way down. Seal an absentee ballot with wax, mullage, or tape. If you are registered and cannot vote, you can be sure no one has voted for you by checking the registration book after the election is over. Report suspected frauds to election judges, your local newspaper, district attorney or a citizen's organization. Volunteer to watch at the polls for organizations like the Honest Ballot Association in New York which is working to improve conditions.

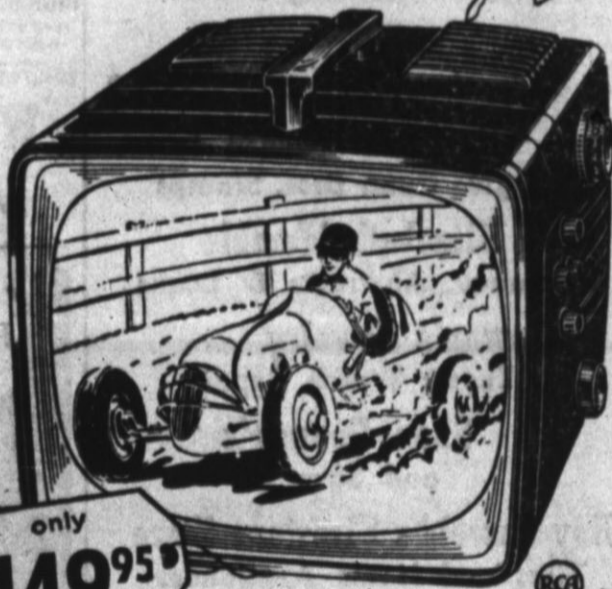

The Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Committee warns farmers and their families not to disregard the dangers of heatstroke and heat exhaustion. Hard physical labor in the hot sun or a stuffy place might bring on heat exhaustion in a hurry. Prevention is the best treatment for both.

TEXAS FAMILIES ARE RETURNING TO OLD PRACTICE; SIGHTSEEING

By GARTH JONES
Austin, Tex. (AP)—Texas families are going sightseeing together again.

That's the observation of Mrs. Leonora B. Beck, the vivacious white-haired receptionist at the state Capitol who possibly gets asked more questions than anyone in the state.

"Years ago the mother and father would bundle all the kids in the family car and take off sightseeing," Mrs. Beck said. "Then there was a change. Maybe it was the war with one or both parents working or away from home. You would see groups of grown people and groups of children, but not so many families."

She stopped to greet a visiting Cub Scout den, patting each uniformed stalwart on the shoulder and handing out leaflets telling that the Capitol is 309 feet, 8 inches high and contains 15 carloads of Texas red granite.

We still get lots of organizations, like those cute little boys, but the wonderful thing is that the families are coming back. There will be the father and mother and the children. The father usually starts explaining that Davy Crockett was more than a song or a TV show, then they come over and ask me questions."

Mrs. Beck's little booth is located in the rotunda and her smile greets one and all as they cross the Terrazzo floor depicting the historic battles of Texas.

"There's no doubt about it, people are visiting the capitol more than ever before. There's no way of telling but we must average 1,000 to 1,500 visitors a day," said Mrs. Beck, who became familiar with the Capitol while her husband was a state senator. She became receptionist after his death.

Working with Mrs. Beck is W.H. Townsend the official guide. At 10:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. daily he takes groups on a tour from the vaults in the basement to the various state courts on the upper floors.

The question most often asked the state's official greeting team is: "Can we climb to the top of the dome?"

The answer is "NO" — unless you are in an escorted group. The upper flights of the circular stairway and walks have just been redone in an effort to hide years of accumulated penciled, cut and painted signatures, cartoons and what have you.

Another frequent question is whether the small crack in the foyer floor was caused by "that man" jumping out of the dome. The answer again is "No."

The man fell from the dome ceiling long years ago, but the foyer floor has been paved at least twice since then.

"It's just one question after another," says Mrs. Beck, "but that is why I'm here and I love it. One of these little dirty-faced boys asking me questions may some day be governor or senator."

POTTSVILLE, Pa. (AP)—Even the court was surprised but took the situation in hand when Bernard Dusky, 29, of nearby Mahanoy City, pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing left shoes while drunk.

Dusky told Schuylkill County Court he didn't know why he took only the left shoes from a store window and burned them but admitted it only happened when he was drunk.

Judge Charles W. Staudenmeier ordered the man to undergo a mental examination.

NOT IMPRESSED
McCOOK, Neb. (AP)—The driver of a car tailed by police finally stopped, got out and let his companion take over the wheel.

The change didn't impress the cops.

Brought into court, both drivers, George Shepard of Oak Creek, Colo., and his brother Henry of Lenora, Kan., were convicted of drunken driving and fined $100 each.

Household Tips

Use a small napkin and a plate when you crumb the dining table after a meal.

You can now buy drawer dividers to help keep kitchen cutlery in place.

It's correct to place butter pats on bread-and-butter plates before guests sit down. A roll may also be placed on the plate.

Need Vitamin B1? Eat a couple of tablespoons of dried brewer's yeast every day.

Equal parts of orange juice and ginger ale make a refreshing drink.

Blanched almonds, fried in deep fat and then sprinkled with salt, make a delicious snack.

Add a half cup of shredded coconut to a regular recipe for fudge.

Leftover potatoes? Dice them and add to a thin white sauce with minced onion for a nutritious soup. Sprinkle with paprika or minced parsley before serving. Or garnish with grated raw carrot.

Nice for a change: sliced dates added to bran-muffin batter.

Work saver: canned scrapple that needs only to be sliced and fried. Nice for Sunday morning breakfast.

Pineapple, strawberries and bananas make a delicious dessert compote.

Serving canned figs? You'll need three to four for each portion.

A little salt pork, ground with beef for hamburger, adds a juiciness many people like.

Preparing oyster stew? Use the clam broth and light cream for the liquid, celery salt and Worcestershire sauce for the seasonings.

Bits of salt pork, cooked crisp, makes a delicious garnish for frozen fish chowder. Gives it a home-made taste!

Dip small sugar lumps in orange juice; press into the tops of rich baking powder biscuits before baking.

To crisp slices of bread, bake them in a slow (300 degrees) oven for 20 minutes or longer. Half-way through the baking time, turn the slices so they will brown evenly.

Slice rounds of carrot and cut away the centers. Thrust small sprigs of water cress through the carrot rings and serve as an appetizer or use as a garnish.

Breading sea scallops for a Friday night supper? Count on a quarter cup of fine dry bread crumbs for each pound of scallops.

Sprinkle fish fillets with salt, pepper and paprika; arrange the strips of onion and green pepper over the fillets; dot with butter or margarine; wrap the fillets and vegetables in squares of aluminum foil and place on baking sheet. Bake in a moderate (375 degrees) oven about 25 minutes. Slit the foil on top with a kitchen scissors and serve in the packages.

and serve in the packages.
