Great racers stop in Hereford

A 1929 Ford Racer leaves from the pit area at Hereford Buick-Pontiac-GMC after a stop here during the Great American Race on Tuesday. A huge crowd greeted the 85 racing teams in their antique cars as they made their way across the country.

Huge crowd greets racers at local stop

Tom Miller's mouth was open most of the time he spent in Hereford on Tuesday with the Great American Race.

Miller is the president of Interstate Batteries. The company is the title sponsor of the 10th annual race which passed through Hereford on its way from Charleston, SC to Costa Mesa, Calif.

"I can't believe the crowd," Miller said. "We haven't had this many folks at most of our lunch stops."

Several thousand folks jammed the area around Second and Miles at Hereford Buick-Pontiac-GMC and along the flag-marked parade route through town.

"This really is unbelievable," Miller said. "It's a tribute to all you media guys and everybody that worked on this stop."

"Everybody" began with Ken Rogers, chairman of the committee on behalf of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce. He was assisted by several volunteers and persons who "sponsored" each of the 85 cars at the pit stop.

The cars were as old as 1910 and as new as 1941. Some were from as close as Irving; one car, an Auburn Boattail Racer, came from New Zealand.

As each of the cars came in, the drivers, navigators and sponsors were announced by Mike Carr, executive vice president of the chamber. As soon as Rogers and his volunteers had parked the cars along N. Miles, a throng moved to engulf the driver and navigator. The team members auto-graphed free posters, paid-for program books and other items for many instant fans of the old cars.

The pit stop was just that for some. One of the cars came in with an oil leak which was repaired on the spot as a small crowd watched. For others, it was a quick dash to the restroom.

The cars went on to Portales, NM from Hereford for a lunch stop, then finished the day at Albuquerque. Tuesday's leg was one of the longest, almost 500 miles in a circuitous route from Amarillo to Albuquerque. Today's jog was one of the shortest, from Albuquerque to Rio Rancho, near Farmington. The cars will go to Phoenix on Thursday in another very long trip. The race finishes Saturday.

Holman, not Holmes, received 'doctorate'In Tuesday's story about the problems facing former superintendent Roy Hartman, the Brand incorrectly reported that Jim Holmes had obtained a doctorate from the diploma mill in Colorado.That was an error which the Brand deeply regrets.

The story should have said that Bob Holman was one of the three persons who obtained a doctorate from "Western Colorado University," which had rented offices in Grand Junction.

Holman was also an administrator in the Hereford system at the time.

Holmes has gone on to be an education leader in several areas and at the Region 16 Education Service Center. In fact, when Holmes was in Hereford he was working on his superintendent's certification, which he obtained. He has received all of his degrees through traditional degree programs offered by universities.

Again, the Brand regrets the error concerning Jim Holmes in the story.Fanning is Shirley principal*Veazey is promoted

Long-time Hereford school administrator David Fanning has been named the new principal at Shirley Intermediate School.

Fanning has worked in the Hereford schools for 11 years. He was an assistant principal at Northwest Primary School for four years and has been a special education diagnostician for six years.

Fanning was one of three candidates considered by administrators and the faculty at Shirley.

"We let all of the Shirley teachers have a chance to interview and consider all of the candidates," said Superintendent Charles Greenawalt.

"We let them have a large say in this and more or less pick who they wanted."

Fanning is the third principal in three years at the school. John Dominguez left after the 1990-91 school year to become principal at an Amarillo school. Ron Tidmore was principal last year, but submitted his resignation in the wake of a dispute with several teachers. Several Shirley teachers have resigned or transferred to other schools, and assistant principal Linda Gromowsky also quit.

Greenawalt also announced this morning that Nena Veazey has been named administrative assistant to the superintendent. Veazey is a former assistant principal at Shirley and served several years as the district's special education director. Last year, she was director of intermediate instruction.

More women file complaints

WASHINGTON (AP) - Army veteran Barbara Franco says she was raped by two men at Fort Hood in Texas in 1975, but didn't even bother reporting the assault to her military superiors because she had been led to believe she would have no recourse.

"Living with the enemy limits your options," Franco told the Senate Veterans' Affairs Committee on Tuesday nearly 20 years after the alleged attack.

Franco and two other female veterans, including an Army reservist who said she was forcibly sodomized by her first sergeant in the Persian Gulf war, told the panel that they not only felt helpless at the time, but got brushed off by the Veterans Administration when they sought psychological assistance.

"I would rather have been shot by a bullet and killed that way than this," said Jacqueline Ortiz, who said she was assaulted on Jan. 19, 1991, while serving in the Desert Storm operation.

The three women's testimony came in the midst of the burgeoning scandal over the alleged sexual abuse of at least 16 women - half of them naval officers - at the Tailhook Association convention of current and former naval aviators in Las Vegas in 1991. That case prompted the resignation of Navy Secretary H. Lawrence Garrett III late last week, and led to the personal apology of President Bush to one of the victims who came forward.

Franco said that prior to her assaults, she had been misled by a superior at a unit formation into believing that a court had ruled that rape was "incident" to military service for women.

She and the two others testified that their pain continued years later, because the Veterans Administration facilities from which they sought help proved insensitive to their trauma.

Franco recalled trying to see the women veterans coordinator at one VA hospital and being sent first to an outpatient clinic and later directed to the gynecology clinic.

Ortiz said that after her first sergeant sexually assaulted her during the Gulf War, she immediately reported the incident to senior officers who ignored her complaint.

Bush doesn't want military in Yugoslavia

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Bush said today he is not prepared now to use U.S. forces in Yugoslavia, although the Pentagon has ordered six Navy ships carrying 2,200 Marines to patrol off the Adriatic coast.

"It's right for the United States not to go ramming in as the sole perpetrator of force," Bush said.

Although U.S. troops are moving into potential staging areas, Bush said, "right now I am not prepared to use those forces." But he said he hoped their presence would send a signal for an end to the slaughter in Yugoslavia.

The United States is trying to work through the United Nations to achieve a peaceful solution, the president said in a live television appearance from the White House Rose Garden.

"This is something that they feel is a European problem," the president said as he was interviewed by a group of tourists on CBS' "This Morning."

U.S. Marine and Air Force units are awaiting a United Nations go-ahead to mount combat air patrols over Yugoslavia and help assure the safe passage of relief supplies into besieged Sarajevo.

Backing its threat to use force if Serbian forces do not adhere to a cease-fire at the Sarajevo airport, the Pentagon ordered six Navy ships carrying 2,200 Marines to patrol the waters off Yugoslavia's Adriatic coast.

Defense Secretary Dick Cheney made clear Tuesday that the use of force remains an option. He said Washington would work only in concert with other countries and at the behest of the United Nations.

The next move depends on the U.N. Security Council's assessment of the aid effort, Pentagon spokesman Pete Williams said.

Meanwhile, German Foreign Minister Klaus Kinkel said opening the airport would not be enough to provide relief and that a land corridor should be opened to Split, the Croatian port city on the Adriatic.

"We cannot just stand by as observers, the Americans agreed with that," the visiting German official said after meeting with President Bush, Secretary of State James A. Baker III and Cheney.

No ground troops would be involved in a U.S. mission, Williams and Cheney said.

"I would expect that the U.S. involvement would be limited to naval and air support; that we would support other forces that would be involved on the ground," Cheney told reporters.

Cheney's offer to use force was read at a news briefing by Williams. The statement was in stark contrast

New poll considers city curfew, US aid to Russia

New topics for local and national issues are being polled by the Hereford Brand this week.

This week's local topic: Should the City of Hereford establish a curfew for persons under 18 to be off the streets?

If you would like to vote on that topic, call 1-900-407-9550, extension 13. Just follow the instructions, don't forget, each call will be 99 cents and billed to your phone number. Persons under 18 must have parental permission.

This week's national topic: Do you feel Congress should agree to Boris Yeltsin's appeal and President Bush's request for the United States to provide $24 billion in monetary support/aid to Russia?

For the national topic, call 1-900-407-8550, extension 13. Each call to that number is also 99 cents.

to past Pentagon proposals, which envisioned a strict humanitarian effort with no combat forces.

The spokesman said plans to use U.S. forces weren't complete but amounted to "prudent planning."

Carrier- or land-based jet fighters could be brought in to protect international forces landing relief supplies at the Sarajevo airport or an overland convoy bringing supplies from the port of Split into Sarajevo, the capital of breakaway Bosnia, military officials said.

"We're saying, 'We're ready to use force.' ... If somebody opens up on us, it's fair game to go after them," said one senior officer, speaking on condition of anonymity.

Williams noted the difficulties of supplying a city of 300,000, even with a multinational effort. Serbian gunners have rained artillery on the city and its surroundings for weeks.

The U.S. Navy would not be used to mount a blockade, nor would the Marines storm ashore to secure a port, Williams said.

The Marine force, composed of four amphibious ships, one destroyer and one cruiser, carries assault helicopters and troop carriers. The aircraft carrier Saratoga was on a port visit in France but could put dozens of U.S. fighter and attack planes within range within 48 hours.

World/National

WASHINGTON - Within five years of the post-Watergate campaign reforms, the Republican and Democratic parties quietly began soliciting millions of dollars in large corporate and union donations similar to those that prompted the changes, an Associated Press review has found.

WASHINGTON - Abortion-rights activists appear ready to forgive Bill Clinton for his "pragmatic, get-along compromises" on restricting abortions because he's evolved into a stronger supporter of their cause. "Let's say he's gone through a growth process," said Harriett Woods of the National Women's Political Caucus.

WASHINGTON - Japan is drawing U.S. praise for moving to cut its trade surplus as Prime Minister Kiichi Miyazawa and President Bush meet to discuss economic issues including aid to the former Soviet Union.

WASHINGTON - Congress is moving ahead on legislation to write abortion rights into federal law, setting up a veto showdown with the Bush administration.

JOSHUA TREE, Calif. - When a family of seven needed a portable toilet after this week's big earthquakes, they turned to Gary Daigneault for help. Within minutes, he found someone with a potty to spare. Daigneault, owner and news director of KCDZ-FM, became the middleman of the hour when he converted his music station into a disaster information and supply center.

SUPERIOR, Wis. - Rain helped disperse a toxic cloud released from a derailed tank car, allowing the return of many of the 50,000 people evacuated from their homes and businesses in Minnesota and Wisconsin. The spill caused a major fish kill.

WASHINGTON - U.S. Marine and Air Force units are awaiting a United Nations go-ahead to mount combat air patrols over Yugoslavia and help assure the safe passage of relief supplies into besieged Sarajevo.

MOSCOW - Courting billions in Western aid and investment, Russia floats the ruble against other currencies in a major step toward reforming the sputtering economy. But the move is expected to mean another blow to inflation-battered consumers by boosting import prices.

Super collider gets scientist support

Need told at hearing of Senate committees

WASHINGTON (AP) - A dozen eminent scientists, including four Nobel laureates, have launched a campaign to salvage the superconducting super collider after a House blow to the giant atom smasher.

The scientists got backing from President Bush for the $8.3 billion super collider during a White House meeting on Tuesday.

The president told them that restoring the money the House slashed from the project was "important not just for national pride, but for science generally."

The scientists told a joint hearing of two Senate committees, that the 54-mile-oval particle accelerator now under construction around the city of Waxahachie, Texas, holds the key to finding the origin of both matter and the universe.

The president told the scientists, "We are fighting for it and we are committed to it. ... We've got a handful of these major scientific projects that need support, even though we've got tough budgetary conditions."

"The synergy of inner space and outer space is one of the most important events in the history of science," said Leon Lederman, president of the American Association for the Advancement of Science and a 1988 Nobel Prize winner in physics. "Without the superconducting super collider's clarification, the field is broken. There is no other way to proceed."

Lederman told the Senate the collider is the key to the No. 1 scientific quest of the last 2,500 years: "How does the world work?"

"We have reached the bottom line, but the underlying simplicity still eludes us," he said. "Without the SSC's clarification, the field stops. There is no other way to proceed."

Lederman likened it to an extraterrestrial looking upon a soccer game from afar, seeing several people running around, but unable to see the ball, which would make sense of the seemingly random activity.

"The synergy of inner space and outer space is one of the most important events in the history of science," said Lederman, now a professor at the University of Chicago. "Never has the country faced an issue so momentous, so crucial to the advancement of science."

The hearing was convened by one of the project's biggest supporters, Sen. Bennett Johnston, D-La. and the chairman of both the Senate Energy Committee and the appropriations subcommittee on energy, after the House voted two weeks ago to halt construction.

Supporters acknowledged they have a fight on their hands in preventing the collider from meeting the same fate in the Senate as it did in the House.

Two of its supporters in the past, Sens. Daniel Akaka, D-Hawaii, and Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., said the public outcry to reduce federal spending has them in a dilemma.

DeConcini indicated his continued support would depend on reducing other programs, preferably defense spending, by $483.7 million to restore the construction funds the House eliminated for the collider.

Sen. Dale Bumpers, D-Ark., a longtime critic of the project, said the question isn't one of science but whether a project that will cost $20 billion over its life should be a priority when it "has no direct benefits for the economy or our people."

"Everything we would like to find and understand that the SSC would reveal will still be there 10, 20 or 50 years from now ... when we have put our fiscal house in order," Bumpers said.

Volunteers helped with Greatrace pit stop Tuesday

Scott Keeling directs a 1936 Buick coupe to its parking spot during the Great American Race pit stop here Tuesday. A huge crowd greeted the drivers and team members as they stopped in Hereford on their way to Costa Mesa, Calif.

Abortion rights law being framed

WASHINGTON (AP) - Congress is moving ahead on legislation to write abortion rights into federal law, setting up a veto showdown with the Bush administration.

The Senate Labor and Human Resources Committee today was considering a bill to protect the right to abortion. Sponsors hope the full House and Senate will pass it before the Republican National Convention in August.

The new push on the Freedom of Choice Act follows the Supreme Court's decision Monday that upheld the right to abortion but gave states new authority to impose restrictions.

The ruling "was a subtle, insidious attack on this most basic fundamental right," said Rep. Jack Brooks, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, whose panel passed the abortion-rights bill on a 20-13 vote Tuesday.

Instead of simply overruling the 1973 Roe vs. Wade opinion that legalized abortion, the Texas Democrat said, the court "pummeled it with a thousand small cuts."

"Four justices said, 'This (Roe vs. Wade) is a bad decision and we're going to overturn it as soon as we get a fifth,'" said Rep. Barney Frank, D-Mass.

The Senate bill, unlike the House version, specifies that it is not intended to establish rights beyond those set out in Roe vs. Wade.

Backers of the legislation concede they do not have enough votes to override an expected veto by President Bush, but they hope a veto would energize voters who support legal abortions.

Opponents argue that the proposals would establish new rights by overturning parental consent laws, bans on public financing of abortions and other restrictions.

"This bill has been sold as merely codifying Roe vs. Wade. This is an untruth," said Rep. Henry Hyde, R-Ill.

"Roe vs. Wade is still the law of the land," said another abortion opponent, Rep. James Sensenbrenner, R-Wis. "What the debate today is all about is whether there should be reasonable restrictions on abortion."

The House bill says states may not restrict a woman's right to have an abortion before the time of fetal viability, and later in cases where the life or health of the mother is at stake.

The panel voted to allow state laws "requiring a minor to involve a parent, guardian or other responsible adult" before obtaining an abortion. Thus, minors could be required to notify or get consent from a parent, as long as they could bypass the requirement by going to court.

Abortion opponents, however, said the phrase was deliberately ambiguous and might outlaw parental consent requirements.

The House panel also approved an amendment saying states could allow health care providers who object to abortion to refuse to participate.

Supporters of abortion rights were divided on that point, and the amendment was accepted on a 17-16 vote only after a sponsor of the bill, Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo., changed her vote from "present" to "yes."

Perot adds professionals to team

DALLAS (AP) - Ross Perot's presidential campaign, until now a band of talented amateurs fueled mainly by enthusiasm, is turning toward the tested methods of political professionals: ad agencies, television spots and even advance men to guarantee crowds.

Perot's advisers also say the independent Dallas billionaire will begin to be more specific about his positions on the issues as his still undeclared candidacy enters its next phase.

"We always planned to start something new in July," says chief spokesman Jim Squires.

The opinions will come out in a "natural evolution," Squires said, not in one fell swoop.

Perot's hired advisers have been divided over when to begin television advertising. Some believe there is no hurry because Perot is currently getting hours of free network and cable television exposure every week.

But some advisers say he may already have waited too long to project his message in ads that give the campaign complete control of what viewers see.

Perot has three media firms developing paid advertisements. Among those at work is Hal Riney, the San Francisco adman who came up with Ronald Reagan's "Morning Again in America" campaign theme.

One idea under consideration, according to a campaign insider, is testimonials for Perot featuring prominent Americans.

"He has made a helluva lot of friends over the years," says an aide.

Campaign co-manager Ed Rollins says Perot will formally declare his candidacy in July. He is well on his way to getting on the ballot in all 50 states and has reached that goal in 19 of them.

Before long, Perot plans to staff up with additional media spokesmen, and a chartered press plane for reporters covering the candidate - standard in most campaigns - may be the next innovation in the Perot camp.

Perot's choice for vice president - while still "on the back burner," aides say - may have to come sooner than planned because of ballot laws in states that require third-party tickets to be in place by mid-August.

Those laws would force Perot to make his selection before the Aug. 17-20 Republican National Convention in Houston. He had wanted to introduce his vice presidential nominee at a later convention of his own followers.

"We'd like to do our convention after theirs," Squires said. "We could challenge those states in court, or we might just do it before. We haven't decided yet."

Another task for Perot is converting his volunteer army of signature-gatherers into a more sophisticated political organization designed to register voters, arrange rallies and get out the vote.

To guarantee the success of his rallies, Perot is signing up advance men such as Joe Canzeri, a former Reagan campaign worker and political veteran going back to Nelson Rockefeller's run for the Republican nomination.

"I just try to help them with the things they don't know, like never putting the stage in direct sun," Canzeri said.

Panel probes release of convicted killer

AUSTIN (AP) - A grand jury has subpoenaed telephone records and other files of two former members of the Board of Pardons and Paroles in connection with the controversial 1989 parole of one-time Death Row inmate Kenneth McDuff.

Helen Copitka, who was on the board for seven years in the 1980s, testified for about an hour Tuesday before a Travis County grand jury looking into the role of paid consultants in parole efforts.

She confirmed after her grand jury appearance that she was questioned about her efforts on behalf of McDuff, who was indicted last week on two charges of capital murder in the deaths of two Central Texas women. He also is a suspect in the apparent serial killings of at least a half dozen other women.

McDuff's 1989 parole came despite his being sentenced to death in 1966 for the slayings of three Tarrant County teen-agers. His sentence was commuted to life in prison after the U.S. Supreme Court struck down the death penalty.

WFAA-TV in Dallas reported that the grand jury issued subpoenas Tuesday to Ms. Copitka and another former board member, Jim Granberry, for the telephone records and other files concerning McDuff.

Granberry cast the crucial vote for McDuff's parole, WFAA reported.

Ms. Copitka refused to comment Tuesday on whether she, as a paid consultant after leaving the board, had ever contacted board members in McDuff's behalf.

But WFAA said confidential telephone records of Cora Mosley, another parole commissioner, revealed that Ms. Copitka phoned Ms. Mosley on May 15, 1989, urging McDuff's early release.

According to Ms. Mosley's notes on the conversation, WFAA said, Ms. Copitka talked of improprieties that occurred during McDuff's trial and referred to the instability of McDuff's co-defendant, who was the prosecution's key witness.

A month later, the station said, Ms. Mosley cast the first vote to parole McDuff. A signature was missing in the place indicating whether Ms. Mosley had conducted a required face-to-face interview with McDuff. She told a WFAA reporter she may not have interviewed McDuff.

They included Ann Meyer, Hilda Perales, Susan Hennessey, Evelyn Wells, Mary Johnson, Violet Reinauer, Evelyn Walterscheid, Lani Long, Pat Simnacher, Janice Vasek, Loretta Urbanczyk, Nancy Paetzold, Connie Backus, Remi Mason, Patty Urbanczyk, Regina Walterscheid, Mildred Betzen, Theresa Artho, Alice Hund, Joan Straffuss, Judy Williams, Jo Ann Jesko and Gwen Hacker.

Sausage dinner July 11

The 20th Annual Nazareth German Festival is planned from 11:30 a.m. until 3 p.m. Saturday, July 11, at Nazareth.

The sausage and kraut dinner with all the trimmings is priced at $5 for adults and $3.50 for children under 12 years of age.

An arts and crafts show is planned from 10 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. that day at the Nazareth school cafeteria.

The "Suds and Sounds" band will be playing at the annual outdoor concert and dance which begins at 6 p.m. at the Nazareth community ball park. Admission is $10 per person.

That is the best government which desires to make the people happy, and knows how to make them happy.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This is in response to the anguished husband whose wife lost interest in sex after the loss of her child.

She is consumed by grief, and for her, sex is a chore and a bore when it should be a joyous dalliance.

Many women get weary of sex after 15 or 20 years, but for the husband, there is a strong biological urge. This woman is not fulfilling her marital obligation to provide sex for her husband, so he was considering an affair. You told him not to compound the problem by cheating.

I was upset by the word "cheating." A better way to put it would be "accommodating to the situation." This woman is not being cheated out of something she wants or needs. I'm sure she wouldn't quibble over a gentle lie that he is going to the library until midnight even though she knows the library closes at 9:30 p.m. Peace would reign supreme if she asked no questions. It's better than breaking up the marriage. She needs him, too.

And fie on you for copping out and giving him the usual pabulum-type advice to seek joint counseling. "Cheating" is out. "Accommodating" is in.—Surfside, Fla.

DEAR SURF: Fooling around on the side is never acceptable, no matter what kind of handle you put on it. In this case, the wife is grieving over the loss of a child, which makes the cheating even more despicable.

Your suggestion that a philandering husband who comes home after midnight tell his wife that he's been at the library (which closes at 9:30) is idiotic.

If you are married, please give my condolences to your wife. If you are single, do some woman a favor and stay that way.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Your response to "Gagging in Southern Oregon" made some accurate points. However, "Gagging" asked what purpose a necktie serves, and you replied, "A necktie may be utterly useless, but it adds a distinctive touch." I think this understates the complete lack of utility of this social pestilence.

For several years, I've been telling people that the necktie is man's most idiotic invention since virgin sacrifice. What I HAVEN'T stated is my nagging suspicion that the necktie was really invented by a woman as an act of retribution for the pain of childbirth.

Humankind has always indulged in various forms of artistic self-embellishment, but most have a far more practical application than the necktie. Here's a suggestion for all males who feel compelled to wear brightly colored bits of cloth around their necks. Follow the lead of some of our wiser Native American fashion buffs and wear feathers down to your backside. That way you will have something soft to sit on.

I confess that I occasionally wear a tie, but only when I'm on business in places like Washington, D.C. I cannot, however, put one on without feeling embarrassed and ashamed of caving in to "the establishment." That feeling is sure to persist until someone can give me a logical reason for this practice, which makes a statement about our intelligence as a species.

Thanks for listening to my tie-rade.—J.W. in Santa Fe, N.M.

DEAR SANTA: Maybe, in time, the tie will become obsolete like the corset—but don't bet on it. What would kids give Dad on Father's Day?

Dream Team rallies past Panama 112-52

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) - We now know the U.S. basketball team can come from behind.

For the first time in its three games in the Tournament of the Americas, the Dream Team trailed. Granted, it was 15-13 with 13:53 left in the first half against Panama on Tuesday night, but it was still a deficit.

A 16-0 run over the next 5:12 started the expected rout, but we finally knew they know how to rally.

"They were in a mode of taking good care of the ball and made a decision to pack in a zone and they were able to keep the score reasonably close," U.S. coach Chuck Daly said. "I've said it before and I'll say it again, once our defensive intensity picks up and we get stops, we can get out and run."

And run and run and run. The United States doubled Panama at 48-24 with 4:01 left in the half and it led 64-30 at halftime. The second half was kept interesting in seeing what the final margin would be. The 112-52 final score fell between the 79-point win over Cuba and the 44-point victory over Canada.

"I was just having a good time," Michael Jordan said.

The United States still hasn't officially qualified for the Barcelona Games; it would with a victory over Argentina tonight in its final qualifying-round game.

In Tuesday's other games, Argentina beat Cuba 73-71, Mexico downed Uruguay 98-89 and Puerto Rico defeated Venezuela 91-80.

In addition to United States-Argentina today, Panama played Canada, Brazil, already a semifinalist, met Uruguay and Venezuela faced Mexico.

The United States went outside against Panama's zone, making 10 of 19 3-point attempts led by a combined 8 for 9 by Jordan and Chris Mullin.

"Every time you come down you're looking at a pretty good shot," said Mullin, who missed just one of his five from beyond the international distance of 20 feet, 6 inches. "This is a regular shot for us. Everybody on our team can make that shot any time they want to take it."

The United States can also stop any shot the opposition is thinking about taking.

Panama (1-2) scored just 22 points in the second half and finished 20 for 59 from the field.

"I think so many people look at the U.S. and talk about their offense, but I think their defense is just fabulous," said Panama coach Jim Baron, who coaches St. Francis, Pa. as a full-time job.

The U.S. team was playing its first game without point guard John Stockton, who broke his leg Monday night against Canada when he was kicked by Jordan. Forward Larry Bird sat out his second straight game with a sore back and is still day-to-day.

Mullin led the United States with 19 points, 17 in the first half, while Jordan had all of his 15 in the opening 20 minutes. Magic Johnson had six points, five rebounds and 11 assists. Eddie Chavez led Panama with 12 points.

Argentina 73, Cuba 71

Argentina kept alive its chance to win Group A when Esteban Perez made a layup with 11 seconds to play.

Argentina (2-1) took its first lead of the second half at 71-70 on a free throw by Diego Osala with 55 seconds left. Cuba tied it on a free throw by Yudit Abreu 20 seconds later and Perez scored the winner after Argentina ran the 30-second shot clock down to 3.

Osala led Argentina with 16 points, while Andres Gilbert topped Cuba (1-2) with 17 points.

Puerto Rico 91, Venezuela 80

Puerto Rico (3-1) clinched a quarterfinal berth and second place in its pool behind Brazil. Mario Morales led Puerto Rico with 15 points, but it was the defense of Jose Ortiz on Carl Herrera that made the difference.

Herrera, who plays for the Houston Rockets, was held to 13 points on 5-for-12 shooting by Ortiz, who played for the Utah Jazz - and Herrera also had some foul trouble that limited him to 27 minutes. Venezuela (1-2) can still advance to the quarterfinals with a victory over Mexico (1-2) tonight.

Mexico 98, Uruguay 89

Mexico rallied from a 17-point second-half deficit. It took the lead for good at 89-88 with 2:48 left and Uruguay (0-3) didn't score again, missing four of five free throws, including the front end of three 1-and-1s.

Jose Arroyos led Mexico with 23 points.

Baseball game canceled

The West Texas Summer Baseball League game between Tulia and Hereford in Tulia scheduled for Tuesday was canceled.

The Hereford team's next scheduled game is Tuesday. They are to host Randall at 6 p.m.

Rangers hold off Blue Jays in wild game

By BEN WALKER
AP Baseball Writer

For years, Texas Rangers pitchers used to loosen up by throwing footballs. That was part of coach Tom House's unique - some said odd - conditioning program.

The Rangers no longer play football before baseball games. The scores just look that way sometimes.

Texas won by a field goal Tuesday night, outlasting the Toronto Blue Jays 16-13 in the highest-scoring game in Rangers' history.

Ruben Sierra went 4 for 5 with two doubles and a triple as Texas set season highs for hits (20) and runs. Dickie Thon, who homered, Dean Palmer and Sierra each drove in three runs for the Rangers.

Texas broke it open early with a touchdown and a safety in the third inning, scoring nine runs for a 10-1 lead. Joe Carter and Pat Borders hit three-run homers for Toronto, which had 12 hits. Borders' shot capped a five-run rally that fell short in the bottom of the ninth inning.

"We play a lot of ugly games," Texas' Rafael Palmeiro said. "This was one of them."

Kevin Brown (12-4) became the top winner in the major leagues despite allowing eight runs in seven innings. Reliever Gerald Alexander allowed the five runs in the ninth.

An error by third baseman Jeff Kent made eight of Texas' nine runs unearned in the third inning. Sierra hit an RBI double and drew a bases-loaded walk in the big burst, which featured six hits, four walks and a hit batter against David Wells (3-3) and Mike Timlin.

Twins 2, Angels 0

Bill Krueger pitched the best game of his eight-year career, a two-hitter that led Minnesota to its fifth straight victory, all on the road.

Krueger (8-2) struck out six and walked one in his second lifetime shutout.

Kirby Puckett went 2 for 4 and scored both runs, on Kent Hrbeck's double in the seventh inning and Gene Larkin's single in the ninth.

Julio Valera (4-7) allowed both runs on seven hits in 8 1-3 innings.

Athletics 4, Mariners 2

Jose Canseco, expected to go on the disabled list today, hit his 18th home run and Bob Welch and Dennis Eckersley shut down Seattle on six hits at the Skidome.

Mark McGwire drew a bases-loaded walk from Jeff Nelson (0-3) in the seventh inning for a 3-2 lead. Jerry Browne doubled home an insurance run in the eighth.

Canseco homered for the third time in four games. Sull, the Athletics planned to put him on the disabled list today because of a sore shoulder, which they want rested when the second half of the season resumes.

Red Sox 8, Tigers 5

Rookie Bob Zupic hit his first major league grand slam, a one-out shot in the ninth inning that rallied Boston at Fenway Park.

Zupic connected on a 3-1 pitch from Mike Henneman (0-3) for his first home run of the season and second of his career. Phil Plantier walked with one out, pinch-hitter Scott Cooper doubled and Jody Reed was intentionally walked, bringing up Zupic.

Daryl Irvine (1-0) pitched three innings for the victory.

Orioles 12, Brewers 3

Jeff Tackett homered, doubled and drove in five runs as Baltimore built a 10-0 lead after three innings to beat Milwaukee at Camden Yards.

Brady Anderson, Glenn Davis and Mike Devereaux also homered for the Orioles.

Rick Sutcliffe (10-6) won for the first time in four starts, pitching seven innings. Ricky Bones (4-4) was allowed seven runs in two-plus innings.

Yankees 6, Royals 0

Scott Sanderson controlled Kansas City, pitching a four-hitter at New York.

Sanderson (7-5) walked none and struck out four in his first shutout since last July 11. He threw first-pitch strikes to 22 of 31 batters.

Don Mattingly, Mel Hall, Matt Nokes and Pat Kelly each hit solo home runs, all on the first pitch.

Mark Gubicza (7-6) took the loss.

Indians 5, White Sox 4

Carlos Martinez singled through a drawn-in infield with one out in the bottom of the ninth for the winning run at Cleveland.

Albert Belle singled with one out in the Cleveland ninth for his fourth hit. He went to third on a wild pickoff try by Terry Leach (1-2) and pinch-runner Alex Cole scored when Martinez singled for his third hit.

Derek Lilliquist (3-2) pitched two scoreless innings for the victory.

Maddux, Drabek come through for teams

By The Associated Press

Greg Maddux and Doug Drabek, two of the highest-paid pitchers in baseball, have had some low moments this season. Billed as the aces of their staffs, they've struggled to stay above .500.

On Tuesday night, however, they looked like a million bucks. That's about one fourth of their annual salaries, but 100 percent of what their teams needed.

Maddux pitched a four-hitter and matched his career high with 10 strikeouts as the Chicago Cubs beat the New York Mets 3-1.

"He gets in a jam in the first inning and then gets out of it. Shoot, he's just a great pitcher," Cubs manager Jim Lefebvre said.

Drabek pitched a three-hitter and struck out nine as Pittsburgh blanked St. Louis 2-0 in only 2 hours and 13 minutes.

"He pitched well and he pitched quick," Pirates manager Jim Leyland said. "You need a performance like Drabek gave us when you're not swinging the bats, and he gave us one tonight."

Drabek (6-6) struck out Brian

Jordan four times in his second shutout and third complete game of the season. He gave up a pair of singles to Felix Jose and a double to Craig Wilson before retiring the last 14 batters.

"The curve is a key pitch for me and it was working from the start," Drabek said. "I was able to throw it for strikes, and when I was ahead in the count I was able to bounce it in the dirt."

Maddux (9-7) got his fourth win in his last five starts and went all the way for the fourth time this season.

"He doesn't give in to you and he changes speeds very well," Mets manager Jeff Torborg said.

Cubs 3, Mets 1

At Chicago, pinch-hitter Luis Salazar drove in the tie-breaking run in the eighth with a sacrifice fly.

Andre Dawson, who homered in the third, opened the inning by drawing a walk off Anthony Young (2-8). Lee Guetterman relieved and gave up a single to Mark Grace and a bunt single to Derrick May to load the bases. After Salazar's sacrifice fly, Rey Sanchez's suicide squeeze brought home an insurance run.

Pirates 2, Cardinals 0

At St. Louis, the Pirates scored both of their runs in the fourth off Rheel Cormier (1-6).

With one out, Lloyd McClendon walked and Don Slaught singled. McClendon scored on Cecil Espy's infield hit after shortstop Tim Jones allowed the ball to go through to the outfield for an error. Jose Lind followed with a run-scoring single.

Astros 5, Reds 1

At Houston, Jimmy Jones pitched five solid innings, and Luis Gonzalez drove in a run and scored another.

Jones (4-1) gave up one run, walked three and struck out two before leaving in the sixth with a blister on his right index finger. Xavier Hernandez went the final 2 2-3 innings for his third save.

Loser Chris Hammond (5-4) went six innings, giving up three runs on six hits.

Brewers 4, Giants 3

At San Francisco, Otis Nixon and Terry Pendleton hit consecutive fifth-inning homers and John Smoltz won his fourth straight decision.

Nixon's two-run homer off Trevor Wilson (5-8) was his second this season.

Smoltz (9-5) gave up eight hits, including Kevin Bass' ninth-inning homer, struck out seven and walked none.

Expos 7, Phillies 2

At Philadelphia, Ken Hill pitched seven strong innings, got two hits and scored twice.

Hill (8-4) gave up four hits, struck out two and walked two before being replaced by Mel Rojas, who finished with two shutout innings.

Mike Williams (0-1) took the loss in his major-league debut, giving up six hits and four runs in 4 2-3 innings. John Vander Wal drove in three runs for Montreal with a homer and a double, and Larry Walker had two RBIs with a homer and a sacrifice fly.

Padres 2, Dodgers 1

At Los Angeles, Bruce Hurst won for the seventh time in nine decisions and sore-thumbed Gary Sheffield hit a tie-breaking RBI single.

Sheffield batted for Hurst (8-5) in the seventh and grounded a single under shortstop Jose Offerman's glove to break a 1-1 tie.

Hurst allowed seven hits over six innings. Loser Ramon Martinez (4-5) gave up six hits in eight innings.

Navratilova defies laws of aging

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) - Back in the Wimbledon semifinals for the 15th time, Martina Navratilova is the first to admit she is defying the laws of aging.

"Some people are burned out at 25; I'm alive at 35," Navratilova said Tuesday after beating Katerina Maleeva 6-3, 7-6 (7-2) in the quarterfinals of her 20th Wimbledon.

Navratilova, the fourth seed, was joined in the semifinals by No. 1 Monica Seles and No. 2 Steffi Graf. Seles downed Nathalie Tauziat 6-1, 6-3, while Graf downed Nathalie Zvereva 6-3, 6-1.

The quarterfinal between No. 3 Gabriela Sabatini and No. 6 Jennifer Capriati was suspended by darkness Tuesday evening with the Argentine leading 6-1, 3-6, 5-3.

The men's quarterfinals were scheduled for today, with John McEnroe against Guy Forget, Boris Becker vs. Andre Agassi, Michael Stich vs. Pete Sampras and Stefan Edberg against Goran Ivanisevic.

Navratilova is ancient compared to the rest of the women's pack. Graf is 23, Sabatini 22, Seles 18 and Capriati 16.

"Age is a state of mind and I'm defying it as well as I possibly can," she said. "I'm just thrilled that I'm here and I'm healthy. I'm fitter at 35 than most players are in their 20s."

Navratilova becomes defensive when it's suggested that she is at the end of her career.

"Not to compare myself to any great artist, but should Van Gogh stop painting at a certain age?" she said. "While I can still play, why not? I mean people play golf until they are in their 50s at the top level."

"If you want to do a competition on athletic ability, I think I would be right up there. Because I can still do it physically, that enables me to still be up there."

Navratilova, who has a record nine Wimbledon singles titles, will face Seles in the semifinals. Seles has won five of the last six Grand Slam tournaments she entered and is halfway to a Grand Slam sweep this year.

Navratilova said she has nothing to fear from Seles' punishing groundstrokes.

"It's not like you're going to be boxing or anything where you may get your head knocked off," she said. "She hits a ball. I don't play Monica. I play the ball. I have absolutely nothing to be afraid of."

Navratilova will have to cope with Seles' grunting, though.

Tauziat complained Tuesday to chair umpire David Crymble that the high-pitched "scream" was keeping her from hearing the ball come off Seles' racket. Crymble told Seles to keep quiet.

"I think all the players agree" that Seles makes too much noise, Tauziat said. "I think everybody has to say something. Maybe the WTA should say something to her."

Seles said grunting is part of her game.

"I'm not doing it on purpose," she said. "I'm really trying to get rid of it. You don't know how hard I'm trying. I'm not doing it to hurt anybody, but I don't think I'm going to win a match because I'm grunting."

Fort Worth boxer earns trip to Barcelona

By JOHN STURBIN
Fort Worth Star-Telegram
FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - Now that bantamweight boxer Sergio Reyes has punched his airplane ticket to the Olympic Games, only one quest remains for his family.

Is it possible to drive a Ford van from Phoenix to Fort Worth to Barcelona, Spain?

"I wish I could," Benjamin Reyes, Sergio's father, said Saturday in Phoenix after the youngest of his four sons had locked up an Olympic berth with a workmanlike 51-28 decision against archrival Sean Fletcher of the Navy.

Reyes, winner of the Olympic Trials two weeks ago in Worcester, Mass., will represent the United States at 119 pounds at the boxing venue in Badalona, outside Barcelona, when the Summer Games begin July 25.

Seventeen family members - including Sergio's parents and his 82-year-old grandmother, Sofia Perez - made the 16-hour trek to Phoenix to watch their man continue his drive for the gold.

Did somebody say "drive" again? "I don't think Budget would like that idea," Ben Reyes, Sergio's oldest brother, said of the whimsical long-distance haul.

"Maybe we can put some wings on it," Arturo Perez, Sergio's uncle and first-and-always coach, said of the white van parked nearby.

The family left Fort Worth on Thursday and pulled into Phoenix around 1 or 2 p.m. on Friday, Perez said, after a few stops to accommodate assorted nieces and nephews. Still intact on the van's windows was a message printed with white shoe polish:

"Good luck Sergio Reyes at the Olympic Box-Offs, PH. Arizona."

Luck, however, had little to do with the three-round exhibition put on by Reyes, another proud product of the Golden Gloves program in Fort Worth.

Reyes, a member of the Marine Boxing Team stationed at Camp LeJeune, N.C., rocked Fletcher with a short right to the face almost midway through the second round, forcing a standing eight count.

"After the standing eight count, I didn't feel like I had to bang for three rounds," Reyes said.

Fletcher, who had been glued to Reyes from the outset, appeared stunned by the shot. He draped an arm around Reyes' neck to catch his breath.

"But I wasn't hurt," said Fletcher, 24, a resident of East Orange, N.J., stationed at Norfolk, Va. "I think he hit me with three good, clean shots there. I don't think it was the turning point, but after the eight count he just really turned up the heat, you know?"

In the third, Reyes twice drew oohs and aahs from the near-capacity crowd of 2,900 under the tent at The Pointe Hilton on South Mountain with a relentless attack of uppercuts.

There was no doubt about the computerized outcome.

By the time Reyes was declared the winner, brother Jorge already had lost his voice from cheering.

"I think the whole arena heard me," said Jorge Reyes, Sergio's soulmate during a Marine hitch that began gloomily with guard duty in Guam in the spring of 1989 and will end with his discharge on Sept. 18.

"Whenever Sergio fights, I can't sit still," Jorge Reyes said.

Sergio Reyes, 22, waved American and Marine flags after the decision and walked over to shake hands with undisputed heavyweight champion Evander Holyfield at ringside.

The last Fort Worth fighter to earn an Olympic berth was Donald Curry, the USA's representative at welterweight (147 pounds) in 1980. Reyes, like Curry, is a graduate of Paschal High School. And Reyes has already talked to Curry, a former two-time world champion turned manager, about going pro with Boxing Management Inc. of Fort Worth, after the games.

But to keep his Olympic gold and pro dreams alive, Reyes first had to get past Fletcher. Reyes had lost two successive fights against Fletcher, including a 3-2 decision in February during the Armed Forces Championships in Fort Huachuca, Ariz.

"Very few people in boxing can block uppercuts," said Reyes, who was ranked No. 1 in the world at 119 when he was disqualified against Fletcher last summer. "In the gym, most of my combinations came from the outside. My teammates back at Camp LeJeune, they're telling me every day, 'Up the middle, up the middle.' Hopefully, they'll be proud of me."

The fight stuck in Sergio's craw, however, was the third-round disqualification he suffered against Fletcher during the Olympic Festival in Los Angeles. Reyes was disqualified for a low blow after building a 42-29 point lead. Reyes subsequently charged that Fletcher faked the low blow. To avoid any questions Saturday, Reyes went head-hunting and unleashed the uppercut.

Reyes and all the boxers battled in temperatures that began at 90 degrees and edged near 100 as the afternoon wore on.

"After each round, I was very thirsty," Reyes said.

Roosevelt Sanders, Reyes' coach with the Marines and a member of the Olympic staff, did not want to hear it.

"Before the third round, I told him, 'Throw a thousand punches, man. Get tired, get exhausted. Go ahead and do it,'" Sanders said. "He did an excellent job."

Even the outspoken Fletcher, whom Reyes had termed "cocky" earlier in the week, graciously agreed.

"He had the best today," said Fletcher, who hoisted Reyes up after the decision was announced in the ring. "I know he's going to do American well and bring back the gold. I can't bow my head. He's a great guy and was the smarter fighter today. In the latter part of the second round and in the third, it showed. He won the bout."

Boxing training camp begins Wednesday at Fort Bragg, N.C. When he gets to Spain, Reyes likely will cross paths with reigning champ Vladislav Antonov of the Commonwealth of Independent States; Bulgaria's Serafim Todorov, rated No. 1 in the world at 119; and former champ Enrique Carrion of Cuba.

"I've beaten everybody in the world ranked 1, 2, 3, 4 and 10," Reyes said. "Sean Fletcher is No. 10 in the world. I feel I can go to Barcelona and bring back the gold medal."

"And winning the gold medal is not just for me, it's for my family."

Sanders said he was excited about working with Reyes to the end of his amateur career.

"If I had 12 Sergios, I wouldn't have a job," Sanders said. "But he's a tremendous person, boxing aside. The people in Fort Worth can be proud of this guy."

"This is a champion."

Lewis slowed by sinus infection

HOUSTON (AP) - Olympic gold medalist Carl Lewis said a sinus infection may have hindered his showing during last week's U.S. trials for the Barcelona games.

"I knew something was wrong all week, so I went to the doctor" upon returning to Houston, Lewis told KRIV-TV. "Basically what I found is that I had a sinus infection. I now have allergies I have to watch. It's bizarre for me, because I've never had allergies. I've never had sinus problems in my life."

Lewis, 30, who has earned six Olympic gold medals and is the world record holder in the 100-meter dash, failed to qualify for any track event except the long jump in the 1992 Barcelona Olympic Games.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: I have a ton of diverticula and am to take Metamucil for life, eat whole-wheat bread, fruits and roughage and drink lots of water. When I asked if they might shrink, I was told no, and possibly they might increase in size. I have had no symptoms and no pain. I have wondered why it is harder to get slacks on. Is Metamucil a lifetime thing? Is there any way to reduce the size of the diverticula.

DEAR READER: Most people who have diverticula, those little pockets of the colon, do not have any symptoms from them. The symptoms that are sometimes described are often from an associated irritable bowel syndrome. The increase in bulk consumption and the use of bulk formers such as Metamucil are helpful for this condition. If one of the diverticula becomes inflamed, which is called diverticulitis, it behaves a lot like appendicitis and does cause pain. In that case, antibiotic therapy and other directions regarding diet are followed until the acute phase is over.

Those diverticula are really small ruptures of the inner lining of the colon, through the intestinal wall, to form those small pockets. Some think that spasms in the colon that increase pressure inside the colon cause such ruptures to occur.

Once they have occurred, they cannot be reduced in size. But your program may help prevent them from getting larger or from developing even more small ruptures. I must add that if you have no symptoms, and follow the program recommended for you, the chances are very good that you will never have any problems from them at all. So there is no good reason to be depressed. Yes, your diet change and a bulk former are things that you will need to follow from now on.

I am sending you a free copy of Special Report 94, About Diverticulosis: Pockets of the Colon, to provide more detailed information. Others who want this report can send $3 with a long, stamped (52 cents), self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/94, P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077.

You may be forming more gas in the colon than before, causing some distention. That is the most likely explanation as to why your slacks are tight. However, that should settle down in time with your new program of increasing bulk in your diet.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I am 30 years old and I have painful boils. They have been around since I was 18 years old. Doctors have given me lotions to soften them, but it does not help. The boils are in line with each other along the belt line.

I have taken vitamins of all kinds. I even did the milk-and-bread trick. Sometimes the boils hurt so bad that I have taken a needle to poke them to make them smaller. But that makes them purple and bad looking.

The medical books I have seen say to use moist heat, but I don't know about that. I was wondering what the best treatment for this is. Do you think my belt is doing this or do I need more vitamins?

DEAR READER: Such abscesses are caused by infection of a hair follicle by staphylococcal bacteria. When you have such an abscess, and it is localized with the pus in the center, it should be drained by your doctor. Hot compresses are useful.

They are not related to your vitamin intake and not likely to be related to your diet. You do need to be checked for diabetes. And it would be a good idea to use suspenders instead of a belt until this stops. If they recur, you may need to wash the abdominal area regularly with pHisoHex (hexachlorophene), which is very effective in killing staphylococcal bacteria on the skin.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I am confused about bed rest. You said it was bad for your heart. I always thought that you rested your heart by staying in bed. I know that when people have a heart attack they are put to bed and their activity is limited for some time. Whenever I am sick, I go to bed. Is that wrong?

DEAR READER: Under certain medical conditions it is necessary to be in bed. Being in an intensive-care situation is one. If you have tubes in you and electrodes attached to you, it is not possible to be up and walking around. However, even then, bed rest will have a superimposed harmful effect. Years ago, a person with a heart attack was kept flat in bed for six weeks. That is not done any more because it is harmful. Bed rest is usually limited to the first few days.

Even then if a person's condition permits it is better to be sitting upright. The heart does not have to work as hard when you are sitting upright as it does when you are lying down.

It is clear that bed rest will cause you to lose water from your tissues. It will rob calcium from your bones and will cause your heart to shrink in size and have a diminished capacity to pump blood. Lack of movement of the legs will increase the risk of blood clots in the legs that may dislodge and circulate to the lungs to cause a pulmonary embolus.

A pulmonary embolus can be fatal, which is why I called my new Special Report 128 "Bed Rest: Dangerous to Deathly." I'm sending you a free copy so you can understand all the harmful effects of bed rest. Others who want this report can send $3 with a long, stamped (52 cents), self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/128, P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077.

Bed rest is at one end of the spectrum of activity and endurance athletics is at the other end. Many older people allow themselves to become inactive. That results in muscle atrophy and even loss of physical independence. If a person must be at bed rest for any reason, and their condition will permit, various exercises should be done in bed to maintain muscle strength and flexibility. And if you need to rest, it is better to rest sitting up rather than lying down, if possible.

Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers with health questions. You can write to him at P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077. Although Dr. Lamb cannot reply to all letters personally, he will respond to selected questions in future columns.

Americans give about $120 billion to charity a year.

It's a new concept in old-fashioned care

In the early days when settlements were just beginning across the Panhandle of Texas, it wasn't at all uncommon for doctors to make house calls. Hospitals were scarce in this vast region, and patients very often were cared for in the comfort and security of their own homes. Today, that kind of care still exists for people served by Deaf Smith General Hospital.

Home health care, provided by Deaf Smith Home Care Service, is an important alternative. For some, it replaces lengthy hospital stays or saves a patient from being placed in a nursing home. For those who have been hospitalized, it sometimes serves as an extended form of care. In other cases, where care is needed but a hospital stay is not necessary, it assures that a patient's needs will be met by competent, skilled professionals.

Licensed nurses provide skilled care for patients served by Deaf Smith Home Care Service and follow all orders given by the patient's physician. In addition to dispensing a patient's medication, they also remain on the alert for any changes in the patient's condition which immediately may require the doctor's prompt attention.

Other aspects of home health care include assistance from social workers to solve any problems they may stem from an illness as well as serving as an important resource to counsel patient and family members about other services available within the community. Physical therapists often are involved in home health care. Not only do they help instruct patients in exercises that can lead to greater physical independence, but they may also teach patients about the proper use of supportive equipment. The Home Care staff also provides patient education about an individual's particular illness and nutrition counseling.

The Home Health Care program has been a part of Deaf Smith General Hospital's services since 1982. In the past few years though, it has taken on increased importance in the rebuilding of DSGH. It is an important component of care that speeds patients in the recovery process and provides for an ongoing continuum of care.

Since DSGH joined the Lubbock Methodist Hospital system, the use of home health care services has increased substantially. Visits more than doubled between May 1991 and May 1992. So far this year they have increased three fold.

"This is another part of our total comprehensive delivery of health care," said Ron Rives, DSGH Administrator. "It is one of the trends in health care that also helps the hospital stay financially healthy."

As Rives explained, "The program makes good financial sense for hospitals now because of the way the federal government pays. Medicare pays a set amount for each hospitalization. If it costs us more to treat the patient than we receive, then we lose money. By allowing the patient to go home even though he may need some level of intermittent care, the hospital can be more efficient, and we can help our patients keep their medical cost down."

Most patients prefer the comfort of their own home over a stay in the hospital. When an individual needs some care, but not the constant attention that goes along with a hospital stay, Deaf Smith Home Health Services provides that care within a patient's familiar environment. In the long run, it costs the patients less and often helps them to recover more quickly.

Deaf Smith Home Health Care Services is an old-fashioned concept that has taken on new meaning through its application by Deaf Smith General Hospital. It's one more example of "Neighbors Caring For Neighbors."

Diarrhea could be harmful

By the age of 12 months, 84 percent of infants have had at least one bout of diarrhea. Dehydration caused by diarrhea is one of the leading reasons for a visit to the emergency room. More than 200,000 children under the age of five are admitted each year to hospitals in search of effective treatment, but many parents don't realize that diarrhea can be fatal. In fact, more child deaths annually are caused by diarrheal disease than by poisoning.

Know these important warning signs that may indicate you should call your physician for advice:

- Mild diarrhea that lasts for more than 24 hours
  - Severe diarrhea
  - Fever
  - Vomiting (2 or more times an hour for 2 to 3 hours)
  - Severe stomach pain (often indicated when the infant pulls knees to chest)
  - Blood in the stool
  - Lethargy or sleepiness
- If any of the above symptoms occur in your infant, contact your pediatrician or family physician for advice. To prevent dehydration, reach for Pedialyte, from Ross Laboratories. Pedialyte can be purchased at your local drug or grocery store without a prescription. Experts suggest you keep an oral electrolyte product on hand to use when your baby has diarrhea.
- The wrong thing to do is reach for apple juice or other "clear liquids" such as soda or water. Apple juice can, in fact, actually worsen diarrhea, and soda or water fail to restore the needed electrolytes (sodium, potassium and chloride) lost through diarrhea.

Hints from Heloise

Q. We're planning a long cruise, and I'm afraid of seasickness but don't like the idea of taking medicine that could keep me from enjoying myself.

A. Is there anything I could try that might lessen the possibility of seasickness? — Mr. and Mrs. V., Atlanta, Ga.

A. It wouldn't be a lot of fun to take a cruise and spend the whole time sick, so here are a few suggestions. You might want to consider taking a short two- or three- hour cruise before booking your dream vacation to test the waters, so to speak, but remember that large ships don't seem to rock as much.

Watch your diet. Try not to eat greasy or fried foods.

Staying in the middle of the ship seems to help, and watching the horizon might also help if you start to feel queasy.

However, you should probably ask your doctor or pharmacist about some motion-sickness medication just in case you turn out to be less than a perfect sailor. Hope you have a good time. — Heloise

Other uses for clean paper plates:
• Let children use as flying saucers.

• Use as fun flashcards for homework.

• Place between china plates to prevent scratching.

• Cover with adhesive-backed plastic to make a child's erasable board.

CARE PACKAGES
Dear Heloise: Would you please remind people when they prepare a care package for a friend who is recovering from a hospital stay to include plasticware and a paper cup? It's so much easier when the one recuperating can just throw everything away. — Debbie, Oklahoma

City, Okla.
Thanks for sharing this very helpful reminder. — Heloise

EASY CLEANUP
Dear Heloise: I save the lids from empty dairy cartons and coffee cans, and use them in the refrigerator to place containers on which might have unforeseeable drips. — Flo Abrams, Phoenix, Ariz.

ADDRESS DILEMMA
Dear Heloise: This is an idea I use in my address book when a cousin marries and I rarely see her. I keep her maiden name under the first letter of that name. But beside it I put "See—" and write the first letter of her married name. This helps me learn her new last name. — "Catnip" Mariano, Metuchen, N.J.

SOUND OFF
Dear Heloise: My latest pet peeve is people who are too lazy to take grocery carts with attached baby seats back inside the store. Who wants to put a child into a wet, cold or snow-filled seat? — Marsha Hagen, Franksville, Wis.

VCR CONTROL
Dear Heloise: My son spilled a glass of milk on our coffee table and narrowly missed our VCR remote control. I decided then not to take any chances of liquid spilling on it, so I put it in a small plastic bag for protection.

I don't have to remove it since I can press all buttons through the bag. — Jean Averna, Vashon, Wash.

Thanks for your hint. I'm sure many VCRs will now be put into plastic bags.

It's a good idea also for keeping dust and dirt off of them. — Heloise

GREAT RACE

A huge crowd greeted 85 racing teams outside Hereford Buick-Pontiac-GMC on Tuesday as the antique cars stopped for a pit stop in the Great American Race. Volunteers were busy clearing the crowd as the racers turned off Third Street onto Miles to park. The racing teams were offered drinks, donuts, goodies from KFC and anything else they needed during the stop by volunteers and pit stop sponsors for each team. Gretrace officials said Hereford's pit stop was better than many of the lunch and evening stops on the race route.

Give extra thought before naming baby

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) - One of the first and most important decisions parents make for their children stays with them for a lifetime - a name.

Kayla Hammer, an expectant mother enrolled in a Lamaze class, is looking for a unique name that is easily recognizable.

"But I don't want it to be extremely unique either," Hammer said. "I always thought choosing the name would be the fun part, but it's been the hardest of all."

Parents-to-be seek balance between familiarity and uniqueness.

"A name is one of the first elements in identity," said Dr. Lou Ann Hall, clinical faculty member at Texas Tech University's Obstetrics and Gynecology Department in Amarillo. "How one perceives that name is directly related to a sense of self."

The name, as a result, affects how people relate to others, Hall said. People think of specific things when they hear certain names. Those impressions come from past experiences or outside influences, such as media and movies.

Some names and personalities mix well, said Joanne Storm, a pre-kindergarten teacher at Carver Elementary Academy. One of her students, Danielle, fits her name, Storm said.

"She's just a Danielle through and through," Storm said. (She wears) ribbons, bows and is always immaculate. I began to think, 'Did she become the name or were they so accurate in naming her that she was born a Danielle?'"

But cultural changes sometimes make certain names seem inappropriate, Hall said. In those cases, people have several options: nicknames or legally changing the name, Hall said.

Hall's father's name is Argus, which was a family name. But when he was growing up, Argus was a female name, so he went by "Abe," Hall said.

"The mother or the parent can have very good intentions but not be tuned in to culture or self-esteem-enhancing names," Hall said.

A friend of Hall's is a professional woman who speaks regularly to groups. The woman legally changed her name because of people's perceptions. The woman's name was Sally Jo, and she changed it to Jacqueline.

"Sight unseen, you'd have a different perception of that person as an individual," Hall said.

Sources for names abound both at public libraries and at bookstores. Authors offer suggested names, their origins and meanings, first impressions of names and ways to decide on names.

Hammer said she looks at baby book names, but they will not affect her final decision.

"Names go in cycles, what is trendy at one time is not at another time," Hall said.

The traditional names of the early 20th century drifted out of favor in the '60s and '70s, replaced by outlandish names, according to Carol McD. Wallace, author of "20,001 Names for Baby," published earlier this year.

The urge for uniqueness still prevails in the '90s, Wallace writes. Children's names are a kaleidoscope of obscure Old Testament prophets, proud ethnic selections, creatively spelled favorites and sheer inventions.

But a counter movement afoot suggests some parents may prefer old-fashioned choices, such as Molly and Theodore, according to Wallace. Parents who really want their baby to have an usual name might consider Mary or John.

Local input from area educators backs up the author's claims of the rarity of old-fashioned names and their slight resurgence.

"We're kind of leaving those wild names that are hard to pronounce," said Lydia Maxwell, Lawndale Elementary School first-grade teacher. "People are going back to more common names like James, Josh."

Storm sees a mixture of names at Carver Academy.

She has no children with names such as Johnny, John, Peter, Paul, Mary or Martha. Instead, a sampling of names on one of her roles includes Tiana, Victoria, Carmen, Melissa, Christopher, Phillip, Tyler and Allegra.

"It just seems like certain names gain popularity all of a sudden," said Melanie Green, assistant director of Hopson Learning Center, one of seven Children's Learning Centers in Amarillo.

In toddler classes, Green has two Jordans and four children who pronounce their names like Brittany but have variations on spellings. The names Nathan and Joshua are popular among her school-age children.

First-grade teachers at Lawndale Elementary School struggle to perfect both the spelling and pronunciation of their students' names. They also see some complications for children with unusual names.

One student named Aprell had trouble learning to spell the month of the year, Davis said. A girl named Sumar had trouble spelling the season, summer.

Initial names, such as B.J. and J.R., also appear trendy today, said Karla Storrs, Lawndale teacher.

People also adapt more readily to ethnic names, Maxwell said. More Spanish students now use their given names, such as Juan, Petra and Jesus, instead of opting for translated versions.

When selecting a name, people should consider the entire name and the impressions they get writing and repeating the name, Hall said. She also advises parents to give children some options by selecting names that they can adapt or shorten.

Lose weight gradually say experts

Two researchers at the DeBakey Heart Center at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston have developed a weight-management program that emphasizes gradual changes in lifestyle.

Dr. John Foreyt and Dr. Ken Goodrick's The Living Without Dieting Program is a seven-step plan to set up a support system, establish an exercise habit and adopt a low-fat eating habit.

A key element of the program is accepting the reality that thinness may not be possible for some people.

"Genetic inheritance, childhood family practices and a history of dieting may have led to bodily changes and an excessive number of fat cells in the body so that thinness is not a realistic goal," Foreyt said.
