Hereford is back in the running for a state prison facility, but Texas Criminal Justice Department board chairman Selden Hale of Amarillo says it would be "very difficult" to place another facility in the Panhandle.

Five prison sites were awarded to Panhandle cities when the board made selections at its April 10 meeting, and some board members felt the Panhandle got more than its share.

El Paso officials Wednesday rejected the state's offer to build a 500-bed substance abuse treatment center in their city, and the TDCJ board will select a new site at its May 22 meeting in Huntsville.

The executive committee of Hereford's Prison Task Force met early this morning to discuss and evaluate its position on the new site offering. O.G. Nieman, task force chairman, said the committee decided to take a "wait-and-see" position.

El Paso had hoped for a large prison facility and had an incentive package amounting to $8 million, so the city council rejected the offer. The smaller unit will have about 170 employees and a payroll of $3.5 million, compared to 317 employees and a $6 million payroll for the 1,000-bed unit.

"The TDCJ considers all incentive packages to be the same for the 500-bed units as for the 1,000-bed units, so the big difference here will be the city's investment in water and sewer services," Nieman said.

The Hereford bid, said Nieman, was put together with a 1,000-bed facility in mind, and the city estimated it would need to add a dollar a month to city water bills to pay for extending services. The smaller unit might necessitate another fifty cents or dollar on sewer bills, according to City Manager Chester Nolen.

"The committee will need input from the city commission and citizens on whether they are willing to make that investment," the task force chairman pointed out.

He added that all the political factors and geographical considerations indicate that the unit will be placed in another part of the state, "but we need to have a feeling on what we can do, just in case."

Those cities who made the "short list" but did not land a prison last month will all be considered, according to the TDCJ. Those include Hereford, Muleshoe, Dimmitt, Shamrock, Childress, and Borger in the Panhandle.

While some TDCJ board members complained that the Panhandle got too many prison facilities last month, Nieman had a different view. "All the prisons were placed downstate before this round of construction. It seems to me the Panhandle and West Texas should get more of the sites, if only for geographical reasons."

Bush meets with several LA cops, but not the chief

LOS ANGELES (AP) - President Bush is extending his gratitude to the security forces that helped restore order in Los Angeles after last week's riots. But the city's top police officer won't be on hand for the tribute.

Police Chief Daryl Gates, whose support Bush actively courted during the 1988 presidential campaign, has been conspicuous by his absence during the president's two-day visit to this riot-torn city.

Bush made a point of praising the police and other law enforcement officials at every stop as he met with city leaders and toured burned-out and boarded-up sections of the city devastated in the riots.

Today he was to meet with hundreds of law enforcement officers and military troops at the Los Angeles Coliseum, the riot-duty staging area for police and state and federal troops. Bush ordered federal troops into Los Angeles when rioting broke out after the virtual acquittal of four white police officers in the March 1991 beating of black motorist Rodney King.

Multi-national consultant speaks to Kiwanians

Russia needs a boost from U.S.BY SPEEDY NIEMAN

The USSR has collapsed after 74 years of Communist Party domination, but without the help of the United States, the new Commonwealth of Independent States could turn to fascism, according to Bill R. Duncan, guest speaker for the Hereford Kiwanis Club luncheon meeting Thursday at the Community Center.

Duncan, who now resides in Amarillo, is an overseas consultant involved in the realignment of business opportunities in Russia and Central and Eastern European countries. He has taken off from that job temporarily, however, to lead an area Christian crusade into Russia.

In recent travels in Russia, Duncan said he has heard the phrase: "If Lenin is dead, then Christ is alive!" The consultant, and former U.S. Marine officer, said the Russian people "are looking for the light at the end of the tunnel."

He said the Soviets lost the Cold War, but we have not won it, yet. "If we don't give them the help and guidance in changing their system, someone else will and we could be fighting them in another 10 to 15 years," said Duncan.

He pointed out that the average Russian is not that different from the average American. "The big difference is that 285 million people have been dominated by 14 million Communist Party leaders for the past 74 years."

Duncan is spearheading a movement in Amarillo to send a Christian Crusade group to Russia, pointing out that there is "a love for the knowledge of Christ" in the Western Republics. He said the minister of education from Russia will appear at an Amarillo church Friday night. "He is intent on putting Christianity and Bible study into the school system under the new system."

He said the Commonwealth of Independent States have great wealth, but the market economy is not working. Inflation is rampant and the black market is flourishing. Goods and controls are needed.

Duncan said the average Russian has been spending 30 to 40 hours a week standing in line to buy food items. "All family members took turns standing in line, not knowing if there would be anything to buy when they got inside a store. And they were not sure what they could buy, but they would take it and trade for something else if necessary."

Duncan said the Communist Party boasted that everyone had a job, and now there are reports of unemployment. Wages, however, were not very much, ranging from $600 to $1,200 a year for most professions.

Duncan said the U.S. has an opportunity to move to the forefront in the economic development of the new Commonwealth of States. He was introduced at the Kiwanis meeting by Bud Eades.

Vitamin C may extend life

LOS ANGELES (AP) - A new study shows that vitamin C may help people live longer. But it's better to get your dose from five daily servings of fresh fruits and vegetables instead of vitamin pills, researchers reported today.

Researchers found that taking 300 to 400 milligrams of vitamin C daily may help men live about six years longer than men who don't. For women, the benefits are about one year.

The U.S. government's recommended daily allowance of vitamin C is 60 milligrams for most adults, and less for children.

The study, written by James E. Enstrom, an epidemiologist at the University of California, Los Angeles, was published in today's issue of the journal Epidemiology.

Gladys Block, a professor of public health nutrition at the University of California, Berkeley, said the study suggests moderate increases in vitamin C consumption might help reduce the risk of heart disease, premature death and cancer. She was not associated with the study.

But the research won't settle debate over the use of multivitamins or vitamin C supplement pills.

Medical groups have criticized supplements as expensive and lacking proven benefits. It also is uncertain whether the body absorbs vitamin C from pills as well as from food.

For those reasons, Enstrom, Block and other scientists believe it is better to consume the higher amount of vitamin C by eating five daily servings of fresh fruits and vegetables than by taking vitamin pills.

Foods rich in vitamin C include oranges and other citrus fruits, strawberries, cantaloupes, watermelons, tomatoes, sweet potatoes, cabbage, green leafy vegetables, cauliflower, broccoli, green and red peppers and snow peas.

But only 9 percent of Americans eat five daily servings of fruits and vegetables, so "it probably doesn't hurt - and this study suggests it may help - to take a multivitamin tablet daily," Block said.

Endeavour hurtling to rendezvous

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) - A wayward satellite and the nation's newest space shuttle are hurtling toward a weekend rendezvous today in a bold NASA mission to pluck the satellite from a useless orbit and put it to work.

The shuttle Endeavour, one year off the assembly line, began the celestial chase with a twilight liftoff Thursday from the Kennedy Space Center.

Its target is the Intelsat 6 satellite, which has been orbiting 350 miles above Earth since a miswired rocket failed to boost it to its 22,300-mile-high duty station two years ago.

NASA had been operating its shuttle fleet with only Columbia, Discovery and Atlantis since a 1986 explosion destroyed the Challenger and killed its seven astronauts. Endeavour is the Challenger's $2 billion replacement.

After the Endeavour went into a 205-mile-high orbit, engineers at the Intelsat control room in Washington commanded their satellite to begin a slow descent with the first of four firings from small maneuvering jets. If all works well, the two spacecraft should meet Sunday afternoon.

They began their meticulously planned closing maneuvers 8,437 miles apart.

"I think we saw the very best of America," said Daniel S. Goldin, new administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. "I'm just damn proud of America's team."

Commander Daniel Brandenstein and his crew of six trained more than a year for the weeklong mission, which includes three spacewalks for the first time in the 11-year-old shuttle program.

NASA chose an experienced crew for the demanding mission. Only pilot Kevin Chilton has never flown in space before.

Astronauts Pierre Thuot and Richard Hieb will venture into the cargo bay Sunday to snag the spinning satellite and attach a rocket. Kathy Thornton and Thomas Akers will go out Monday to rehearse space station construction techniques, and Thuot and Hieb on Tuesday will do more of the same.

Bruce Melnick will operate the shuttle's robot arm when it maneuvers the satellite into the cargo bay and during the construction exercises.

The International Telecommunications Satellite Organization (Intelsat) is paying NASA $93 million for the rescue of its $157 million satellite. When the spacecraft is fitted with a rocket and released from the shuttle, it will be boosted to its outpost, ready to relay 120,000 telephone and television signals simultaneously.

Pierre Madon, an Intelsat vice president, congratulated NASA on "a perfect job." He said the satellite will probably earn its owners $240,000 a day when it is operating

Nixon aides urged a Perot purchase

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Nixon administration encouraged Ross Perot to purchase a failing Wall Street brokerage in 1971, fearing the firm's collapse would hurt the economy, according to White House memos and former Nixon aides.

"I told them I cannot afford to do this, and put me at the bottom of the list," Perot told The Associated Press. "A couple of weeks later, they called back and said, 'Perot, you're back at the top of the list.'"

Perot says he eventually invested up to $60 million before the firm duPont Gore Florgan ended up in bankruptcy.

Perot's purchase was well publicized because it became one of the few financial disasters in his otherwise smooth path to becoming a self-made billionaire. But the degree of the Nixon administration's involvement was not previously known.

Nixon-era documents were reviewed in the National Archives by The Associated Press as news organizations sought a glimpse of Perot's public record as he weighs an independent bid for president.

The 20-year-old archive memos describe substantial ties between Perot and the White House, including instances in which the White House intervened with federal agencies on Perot's behalf and provided VIP treatment for his family.

The memos say Perot received some White House assistance after

Lower standards asked for seniors SBOE action on TAAS would allow more graduates

AUSTIN (AP) - Thousands of Texas high school seniors won't graduate this spring unless the State Board of Education temporarily lowers the passing standard of a comprehensive test. The board, told Thursday that 8,100 seniors would not get their diplomas this spring, tentatively agreed to lower the passing grade on the math portion of the test. A final vote was scheduled this afternoon. The weaker standard for the Texas Assessment of Academic Skills, or TAAS, would decrease to 6,624 the number of seniors who would not graduate after four tries at the test. They are the first who must pass the TAAS to graduate, rather than its less rigorous predecessor, the Texas Educational Assessment of Minimum Skills. Several board members questioned whether it was fair to require current seniors to pass the TAAS exam, when the easier TEAMS test had been in place at the beginning of their high-school career. The TAAS reading, writing and mathematics exam tests problem-solving skills and includes an essay. The TEAMS exam tested basic skills. The board heard public testimony Thursday that some students' mathematics courses did not give them the skills to pass the harder test. Board member Mary Helen Berlanga of Corpus Christi said the students were "caught in the middle." Without a different passing standard, she said, "We're going to penalize these children." But board member John Shields of San Antonio asked his colleagues to think about the message they would send by easing the passing standard. "The word will go out on the street ... 'Don't worry if you don't pass, because if enough people don't pass, they will change the standard, and you can still walk,'" he said. Under the previously established 60-percent TAAS passing standard, 8,138 seniors would not graduate with their class because they failed one or more sections of the test. That's about 4.7 percent of those who first took it beginning in the fall of their junior year. The test last was administered in April. Seniors can continue to try to pass the exam, with the next re-test scheduled for July. Last year, 4,440 seniors did not receive diplomas because they failed the basic-skills TEAMS test. Under the proposed interim TAAS passing standard, students would pass the mathematics section of the test if they answered correctly 33 of 60 items. The existing standard requires them to answer 36 items correctly. The one-time change is meant to make the current test's passing standard equivalent to that on the TEAMS test. According to documents from Texas Education Agency staff, there is no direct equivalency between the TEAMS language arts test, and the TAAS reading and writing tests. The TAAS passing standard goes up to 70 percent for the class of 1993. This year's juniors already must meet that higher standard in taking their exit-level test. In April, more than 60,000 juniors failed one or more sections of the TAAS. They will have three more opportunities to take the exam before their scheduled graduation. More than 187,000 juniors first took the test in fall 1991, and more than 97,000 failed at that time. The seniors and juniors who failed may take special remedial classes aimed at helping them pass the test. Once a student passes a section, they do not have to take it again.

Appeals court is next stop for CED

AUSTIN (AP) - The next round in the legal battle over Texas' public school finance system may be fought in a New Orleans appellate court. On Thursday, U.S. District Judge James Nowlin again rejected an order to stop collection of this year's school property taxes. He also refused to set a trial date on the case brought by several taxpayers. Jim Keahey, attorney representing the taxpayers, said he would appeal to the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans. The attorney general's office also will appeal findings that Nowlin has made against the state, said Assistant Attorney General Toni Hunter. Last week, Nowlin held that continued collection, of what has been determined by the Texas Supreme Court as an unlawful tax, violates the federal Constitution. But he said an injunction against future collection of the taxes was not proper "at this time." He said it could have a disastrous effect on school children. Keahey said that ruling addressed only a requested temporary injunction, and so he asked that Nowlin schedule a trial on a request for a permanent injunction blocking collection of 1992 taxes. But Nowlin dismissed Keahey's motion as moot. Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock and House Speaker Gib Lewis said the attorney general should immediately appeal Nowlin's declaration that the state has violated the U.S. Constitution.

They said the order may become final and unappealable, if an appeal is not filed by next Monday. "In that event, the 1992 CED (county education district) taxes would be uncollectible, unless taxpayers made voluntary payments," Bullock and Lewis said in a letter to Attorney General Dan Morales. If non-payment became the rule, the state would find itself up to $5 billion short "with no effective way to raise the money in the time available to keep the schools open next school year," they said. The Texas Supreme Court said the current county education district tax system violates the state constitution but could be used for 1991 and 1992. It gave lawmakers until June 1, 1993 to fix it. Under the system, 188 county education districts levy property taxes for public education. The taxes are shared in the CEDs, which are made up of one or several counties. The taxpayer suit said collection of an unconstitutional tax, without opportunity for a refund, violates their due process rights under the 14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. Keahey predicted the 5th Circuit Court will affirm parts of Nowlin's findings, and send it back to him for a trial. "I can not believe that the federal courts will permit the violation of the U.S. Constitution by the collection of the C.E.D. tax later this year," he said.

Ex-sheriff to help drug investigation

PECOS, Texas (AP) - More drug indictments are expected to follow the sentencing of a former West Texas sheriff and a co-defendant, a federal prosecutor says. Former Presidio County sheriff Rick Thompson and co-defendant Glyn Robert Chambers of Alpine faced sentences ranging from 10 years to life in prison in connection with the seizure of more than a ton of cocaine in Marfa last December. Both men have agreed to plead guilty and cooperate with authorities. They were to be sentenced today by U.S. District Judge Jerry Buchmeyer. According to Thompson's plea agreement unsealed March 22, he was involved in drug smuggling with Chambers and "with other persons to the grand jury unknown." "There will be other indictments," said Tom Beery, an assistant U.S. attorney from Midland who is prosecuting Thompson and Chambers. "They may be smaller indictments of individuals not directly related to this seizure, but they will be part of this investigation," Beery said Thursday. Thompson initially said he was using 2,421 pounds of cocaine in a reverse sting with Chambers as his informant when investigators seized the drugs in a horse trailer at the Presidio County fairgrounds Dec. 4, 1991. In a reverse sting, law officers pose as drug dealers. The cocaine's street value was estimated at $48 million. But Chambers shattered Thompson's story when he agreed to plead guilty Jan. 24 with a promise to testify against the sheriff. Thompson reluctantly agreed to plead guilty Feb. 11 and resigned his office two days later. In return, the government is recommending the least possible sentence, 10 years with no fines. Attorney Barry Crutchfield, of Lovington, N.M., who is representing Thompson, said the sheriff was "used" by cocaine smugglers and "didn't realize it until it was too late." "There is always a reservation about making a deal with anyone," Beery said. "But the reality of the way the system works, is if the person is amenable to working with the government then we are willing to listen."

"You can't get testimony and information for major drug investigations unless you are talking to people from the inside like Robert Chambers." Charges against the sheriff that were dismissed included conspiracy to possess with intent to distribute more than five kilograms of cocaine and importing and causing to be imported more than five kilograms of cocaine from Mexico. The government also agreed not to prosecute Thompson, 45, for any past narcotics or gun violations or for any perjury committed before the grand jury in the past in the Western District. Chambers, 37, faced the same charges as Thompson, but pleaded guilty to conspiring to possess cocaine with intent to distribute.

Release of Iranian hostages probed

WASHINGTON (AP) - Congressional investigators will review FBI wiretaps as they probe whether the 1980 Reagan-Bush presidential campaign plotted to delay release of American hostages in Iran, federal law enforcement and congressional sources say. Attorney General William P. Barr has authorized the FBI to allow the investigators to review the classified video and audio tapes of a surveillance in New York City, the sources said late Thursday. The tapes will be made available to a House task force headed by Rep. Lee Hamilton, D-Ind., which is investigating allegations that Ronald Reagan's 1980 campaign negotiated with Iran to delay release of 52 American hostages until after the election. Under that scenario, Reagan campaign operatives allegedly offered the Iranian regime of the Ayatollah Khomeini the opportunity to buy U.S. arms in return for preventing President Carter from negotiating an "October Surprise" release of the hostages. The tapes of FBI wiretaps and closed-circuit television surveillance were made during an investigation of illegal arms trafficking in New York City, said the sources, who spoke only on condition of anonymity.

The FBI investigation included surveillance of the late Iranian businessman Cyrus Hashemi, whose links to the alleged plot were detailed in a book, "October Surprise," by former Carter administration official Gary Sick. The question of whether to give the congressional investigators access to the tapes had been discussed at the highest levels of the Justice Department, another law enforcement source said. Sick, a Columbia University professor, has urged Congress to subpoena the records of the FBI surveillance. Sick said Hashemi became the subject of a national security investigation in November 1980 when the FBI obtained secret warrants to wiretap his office at First Gulf Bank and install a video camera to monitor the entrance. The House voted earlier this year to authorize the investigation. The task force has spent the last several months organizing a staff, headed by former federal prosecutor E. Lawrence Barcella Jr. Senate Democrats failed to win authorization for a parallel inquiry, though the Senate's Foreign Relations subcommittee on the Near East is conducting its own informal investigation.

Here is my job description: I am a wife, mother, friend, confidante, personal adviser, lover, referee, peacemaker, housekeeper, laundress, chauffeur, interior decorator, gardener, painter, wallpaperer, dog groomer, veterinarian, manicurist, barber, seamstress, appointment manager, financial planner, bookkeeper, money manager, personal secretary, teacher, disciplinarian, entertainer, psychoanalyst, nurse, diagnostician, public relations expert, dietitian and nutritionist, baker, chef, fashion coordinator and letter writer for both sides of the family.

I am also a travel agent, speech therapist, plumber and automobile maintenance and repair expert. During the course of my day, I am supposed to be cheerful, look radiant and jump in the sack on a moment's notice.

From studies done, it would cost over $75,000 a year to replace me.

I took time out of my busy day to write this letter, Ann, because there are still ignorant people who believe that a housewife is nothing more than a baby sitter who sits on her behind all day and watches soap operas.

If I could afford to pay someone to do all the things that I do, I would be delighted to go back to working an eight-hour day with an hour for lunch and two 15-minute breaks.

What do I get out of my job in the absence of a salary? Joy, happiness, hugs, kisses, smiles, love, self-respect and pride in knowing that I have done a full day's work to ensure the physical and emotional well-being of those I love.

Now if you still want to classify me as just a housewife, go ahead.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My first wife passed away after 30 years of marriage. At that time I bought a burial plot containing four spaces, and she is buried in one.

I have since married a lovely lady. You can probably guess the problem already. Upon my death, I would like to be buried beside my first wife, and I would also like my second wife to be buried beside me. My second wife refuses to be buried in the same plot with my first wife. Unfortunately, she has very few relatives and there is no family plot where she can be buried. She has made it clear that she would be deeply hurt if I insist on being interred beside my first wife. I feel strongly that neither of them should be "abandoned" and that I have an obligation to both.

Can you give me a solution to this problem? --Dallas

DEAR DALLAS: If your present wife refuses to share your selected plot, she's the one who loses out. Your decision was made many years ago and she should accept it graciously.

Gem of the Day: Most family trees have at least one crop failure--and a little sap.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: Can you please tell me how long dried fruits like figs or dates will keep. I would appreciate any storage hints you can share. -- Kelso M., Houston, Texas

Here's an easy way to keep the dried fruit fresh. Simply place it in an airtight jar -- an old mayonnaise jar (clean, of course) will work -- and store in the refrigerator. The fruit can stay fresh for up to a year. -- Heloise

ROTATING CANNED GOODS
 Dear Heloise: I thought you might appreciate my method of keeping canned goods rotated in the pantry or cabinet.

When my daughter was very small and always looking for ways to help me, I would put her in charge of the pantry where I kept the canned goods.

The week after Christmas she would go to the pantry with her marker and mark all of the cans with the last two numbers of the year and then move all the cans to the front of the shelf.

I would then be able to place all newly purchased items behind the marked cans. We knew to use the cans in front first and could also recognize foods which needed to be used.

Now that she is grown I have to do this myself, but now I have more time.

I would also begin to let my supplies dwindle down by only buying essentials the last month of the year. -- Barbara P., Walkertown, N.C.

Mary Ann Macha feted with bridal shower

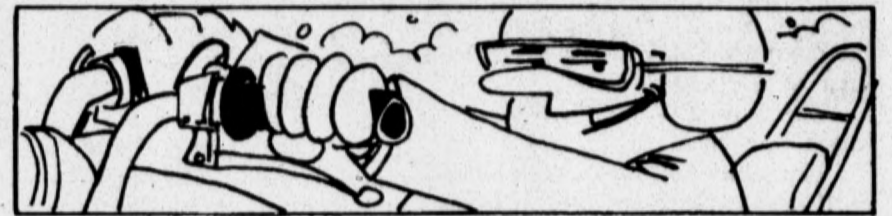

Mary Ann Macha, June 6 bride-elect of Doug Marnell, was honored with a bridal shower Saturday, May 2, in the home of Donna Albracht, 125 Kingwood.

Guests were greeted by the honoree; her mother, Mrs. Felix Macha; her grandmother, her grandmother, Mrs. Clara Albus; the prospective bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Jim Marnell; his step-grandmother, Mrs. Hubert Schwertner; and the hostess, Mrs. Roger Albracht.

Donna Albracht registered guests and Nancy Paetzold and Shelly Diller served refreshments of pumpkin roll, assorted cookies, fresh fruit with dip and punch with floating pansies.

The bride-elect's chosen colors of pink and fuchsia were used throughout the decorations. Food was served on crystal appointments and the centerpiece was a floral arrangement of mauve and pink flowers placed in a crystal bowl.

A vacuum cleaner was presented to the honoree from hostesses: Donna Albracht, Nancy Paetzold, Cheryl Betzen, Shelly Diller, Sylvia Paetzold, Renee Kuper, Bernadette Kalka, Judy Detten, Betty Kriegshauser, Ann Meyer, Jo Ann Jesko, Dolores Foster, Evelyn Walterscheid, Lorine Schwertner, Melody Betzen and Joan Strauss.

There are 4.7 million registered motorcycles in the United States.

The Amarillo Baptist Association Lock-In will be held May 15-16.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Nancy Dimmock, the church's missionary in Morija, Lesotho, in Africa will be the speaker for the 10:30 Sunday morning worship service. Nancy will show a slide presentation of the Dimmocks' work as medical missionaries. The congregation has been supporting Nancy and Frank Dimmock's missionary work for the last six years, so it will be exciting to see how the gifts have been used to minister through them.

Mrs. Dimmock will speak to the combined adult Sunday school classes at 9:30 a.m., following which will be a reception in her honor.

Frank and Nancy Dimmock have served as mission co-workers with the Lesotho Evangelical Church since they were wed in 1985. Since that date, the couple has worked at Scott Hospital in Morija, a village of 3,000, site of the first mission to Lesotho more than 150 years ago.

Frank's responsibilities initially included the oversight of 45 staff members in the Community Health Care Department. The department is involved with the curative services of 14 health centers and 26 village clinics serving more than 150,000 persons. In April of 1988, the Scott Hospital board of management requested that he assume the role of hospital administrator until a full-time person could be recruited.

Because the Dimmocks have one of the few telephones in their area, they are also the community's answering service and emergency contact. Lesotho is a tiny mountainous kingdom completely surrounded by South Africa. About 200,000 of Lesotho's workers are employed in South Africa as farmers, miners or industrial workers.

Both Frank and Nancy are members of the Montreat Presbyterian Church in Montreat, N.C.

The adult Bible study, led by Mary Dziuk, will meet at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday, May 13.

The youth of the church led the worship service May 3. Appreciation is extended to Greg Coplen, Lezly McWhorter, Shannon Guy, Darla Hubbard, Jill Robinson, Jenny Parker, Lori Hammock, Heidi Hafziger, Mindy Salazar, Veronica Hernandez and Scott Parker for participating. A skit, "The Deception of Diane," was presented. Doug and Lynn Schroeter sponsored the senior high youth and Sue Malamen is the junior high youth sponsor.

CENTRAL CHURCH OF CHRIST

Sunday morning Bible classes will meet at 9:30. Classes are planned for the needs of different age groups. The morning worship service, which begins at 10:25, includes The Lord's Supper, congregational singing, prayer and meditation. The 6 p.m. Sunday service is a time of encouragement and edification.

On Wednesday night at 7:30, the congregation meets for special study and devotion.

FELLOWSHIP OF BELIEVERS

Doug Manning is leading a series of classes, "A Walk Through the Bible," each Sunday from 9:30-10:15 a.m. Worship services are from 10:30-11:15 a.m.

The public is invited to all services at the church located at 245 Kingwood.

Children Sunday School is offered from 9:30-10:15 a.m. A nursery is provided during Sunday school and the worship service.

Among the congregation's ministries designed to meet various public needs is a "taxi" service. Persons needing transportation to and from any church or have other transportation needs, may call 364-0359 or 364-3869. There is no cost.

There are about 300 species of toads.

Husbands' support needed by wives

Women are more likely to breastfeed if they have their husbands' support and encouragement, says a study at the USDA's Children's Nutrition Research Center in Houston.

Results from the study, directed by Dr. Gary Freed, former pediatrics resident at Baylor College of Medicine, indicate that prenatal education could be the key.

"This study examines the expectant father's attitude and influence on the mother's decision to breast or bottle feed," said Ken Fraley, CNCR co-investigator and biostatistics programmer with Baylor.

During the first session of childbirth education classes, 268 men were asked about plans to feed their soon-to-arrive infant. Fifty-eight percent reported that the mother-to-be planned to breastfeed.

The men were then asked to fillout a questionnaire that explored perceptions and knowledge of breastfeeding. Responses revealed, for example, that many expectant fathers did not know that breastfed infants are more resistant to infections than bottle-fed infants. They survey also included general demographic information including age, race and level of income.

Fraley reports that investigators found differences in attitudes between men whose spouses intended to breast feed and those who reported plans to bottle feed.

"Men in the group whose wives reported an intention to breastfeed said they believed breastfeeding was better for the baby, helped with infant bonding and protected the infant from disease. These men also reported they wanted their wives to breastfeed and had respect for breast-feeding women.

"On the other hand, women whose partners thought breastfeeding was bad for breasts, made breasts ugly, interfered with sex and, in general, knew little about the nutritional benefits of breastfeeding, reported a greater intention to bottle feed," Fraley said.

Freed believes the study reveals a number of misconceptions and a lack of education regarding breastfeeding.

"Fathers need to be included in the nutritional aspect of their child's well-being as well as the general childbirth information provided in prenatal classes," Fraley said.

Educational programs could be developed to dispel misconceptions and convey the positive benefits of breastfeeding including significant protection against disease.

"It is unrealistic to expect fathers to be more supportive if their role is not recognized, and they are not equipped to make an "informed" decision," Fraley said.

Worksheets assist homeowners

The tough economic recession makes energy conservation all the more important. Improved home energy efficiency could mean lower utility bills and more money in the bank.

While many homeowners have considered making energy-conserving improvements to their homes, they are often left wondering what they need to do, how much it will cost and how much energy and money it will save.

The Texas Energy Extension Service's new Home Energy Checkup factsheet outlines an easy-to-follow, four-step process that helps homeowners determine the cost and benefits of different energy efficiency measures for the home.

The steps include surveying existing home conditions, determining the amount of energy reduction as a result of potential energy saving improvements, converting those reductions into a dollar savings figure, and the calculating the payback period, or the time it takes for energy-conserving measures to "pay for themselves."

Each step comes with its own worksheet to help homeowners gather the right information and perform calculations. By filling in the worksheets, homeowners can find out instantly the cost effectiveness of different energy-saving home improvements, as well as how soon they can expect those improvements to yield lower utility bills.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

THE SHEPHERDS' PROTECTORS

WHILE THE YOUNG SHEPHERDS GUARDED THEIR FLOCKS THEY IN TURN QUITE OFTEN WERE GUARDED THEMSELVES BY SMALL BANDS OF YOUNG MEN WHO WERE SUITABLY ARMED TO WARD OFF BRIGANDS AND OUTLAWS WHO MIGHT STEAL THE SHEEP. THESE YOUTHS WERE USUALLY IN SOME KIND OF MINOR TROUBLE WITH THE AUTHORITIES. FOR PAY THEY RECEIVED FOOD FROM THE OWNERS OF THE FLOCKS. SUCH AN ARRANGEMENT WAS MADE BY DAVID AND HIS SMALL BAND OF COMPANIONS WHEN HE HAD TO LEAVE SAUL'S PALACE UNDER THREAT OF DEATH. THIS MEAGER BEGINNING LATER LED TO DAVID AMASSING AN ARMY POWERFUL ENOUGH TO ENSURE HIS CONTROL OF THE ENEMY PHILISTINES WHEN HE WAS MADE KING.

Armstrong's clutch shooting bails out Bulls

By The Associated Press

An Olympian effort by B.J. Armstrong bailed out Michael Jordan, Scottie Pippen and the Chicago Bulls.

The upset-minded New York Knicks, down by 12 points in the fourth quarter, trailed just 79-78 with 2:04 remaining before Armstrong, a reserve who gets little recognition with U.S. Olympic team members Jordan and Pippen on the team, lifted the Bulls to an 86-78 victory Thursday night.

Armstrong scored six consecutive points down the stretch as the Bulls evened the best-of-7 Eastern Conference semifinal 1-1.

"It's something you always dream of," Armstrong said. "You don't know when the opportunity will come, but you have to answer the call."

Jordan finished with 27 points, but only six in the second half, while Pippen scored six points on 2-for-12 shooting. Jordan also missed three of four free throws in the closing minutes before Armstrong, who scored 18 points, hit two clutch baskets and then a pair of free throws with 19.2 seconds remaining.

In Thursday's other game, Clyde Drexler and Terry Porter scored 27 points apiece and the Portland Trail Blazers pulled away in the final quarter to beat Phoenix 126-119 for a 2-0 lead in their Western Conference series.

Tonight, Utah takes a 1-0 lead over Seattle into Delta Center at Salt Lake City, while Boston meets the Cleveland Cavaliers at Boston Garden after taking the homecourt advantage in the series with a 104-98 road victory Monday, tying the series 1-1.

Drexler also had 13 assists and eight rebounds while Porter, who had 31 points in Portland's 113-111 win in the series opener, scored 12 in the fourth quarter.

The Trail Blazers, who led by 19 points after one period, withstood an incredible third-quarter scoring outburst by Kevin Johnson.

Johnson had only two points at halftime, but he had 22 in the third quarter and finished with 35. His 16-for-16 performance at the free-throw line, all in the second half, was one shy of the NBA record for most foul shots without a miss in a playoff game.

Jerome Kersey, who scored 25 points, and Porter each had five as the Blazers outscored the Suns 10-4 to start the fourth period, breaking an 88-88 tie at the start of the quarter.

Cedric Ceballos finished with 20 points and Dan Majerle 19 for the Suns, who return home for Game 3 of the best-of-7 series Saturday.

Patrick Ewing, who scored 34 points in New York's series-opening 94-89 victory, was held to four for three quarters before finishing with 16 points and 16 rebounds. His basket with 2:04 left closed the Knicks to 79-78, but they didn't score again. Armstrong scored the next six points before Jordan's free throw finished it.

Xavier McDaniel finished with 15 points for the Knicks. Horace Grant scored 14 for the Bulls, who travel to New York for games Saturday afternoon and Sunday night.

Boston has won 12 of 13 games since Larry Bird was sidelined with a chronic back condition.

Dee Brown, weakened by a virus ailment in recent weeks, is expected to play against Cleveland. But Brown's replacement, John Bagley, has played the best basketball of his 10-year NBA career in the past month.

Bagley, overweight at the start of the season and considered unlikely to make the team, had 11 points and 11 assists in Boston's victory Monday.

Utah's 108-100 win over Seattle Wednesday night extended its home record this season to 41-4. But two of those four regular-season losses were to Seattle.

Accused UT assistant to resign

AUSTIN (AP) - Assistant basketball coach Jamie Ciampaglio, whose handling of the team's meal money and his expense accounts has been questioned, is expected to resign his post at the University of Texas, according to a published report.

The Austin American-Statesman today reported that two athletic department officials confirmed that Ciampaglio will resign, possibly as early as today.

"It's over," one UT athletic official said. "I don't know when it'll be official. They're working on the details."

Another official who requested anonymity, said, "Let me tell you this: Something is going to happen (today). I think it's Jamie's call, though."

Ciampaglio, accompanied by his lawyer, met Thursday with Athletic Director DeLoss Dodds and Head Coach Tom Penders to discuss allegations concerning his handling of the team's meal money and recent published reports that he was reimbursed more than $600 by the school for two rounds of golf that were never played.

The assistant coach is also under investigation by the Travis County District Attorney's office for alleged improprieties in the way he handled the team's meal money and in his expense accounts.

Penders, who would not comment on reports that Ciampaglio would resign, said Ciampaglio never admitted to any wrongdoing during the meeting.

"He said, 'I can explain certain things,'" Penders told the newspaper.

Neither Ciampaglio nor his attorney, Abraham Kazen, could be reached for comment Thursday. Kazen has said Ciampaglio would not be available for interviews.

Texas President William Cunningham did not want to comment on whether Ciampaglio would announce his resignation today.

"I think something will always happen tomorrow," Cunningham said Thursday night. "Tomorrow ..."

"I just don't have any comment."

Dodds could not be reached late Thursday, the newspaper reported. Athletic department spokesman Bill Little confirmed that Dodds met with Ciampaglio, but declined to say what occurred.

The newspaper reported April 12 that six current and former players said Ciampaglio withheld thousands of dollars in university funds that were intended for their meals on road trips and after-home games.

The amount could have exceeded $5,000 in the 1989-90 and 1990-91 seasons, according to the players and university records.

"It was obvious money was being taken from us," one player said. "What (Ciampaglio) did with it, what he planned to do with it, I don't know."

The newspaper reported Wednesday that Ciampaglio was reimbursed by the school more than $600 for rounds of golf that documents and interviews indicate were never played.

Ciampaglio turned in one expense report for a round of golf played by four "ACC" officials on March 30, 1991. A conference spokesman said the officials named have not worked as officials during the past 11 years.

Ciampaglio turned in another expense report that indicated he was in Indianapolis on March 30 attending the NCAA Final Four and National Association of Basketball Coaches Convention, the newspaper reported.

Sullivan, Iba to speak in Amarillo

Texas Christian University head coaches Pat Sullivan and Moe Iba will speak at a gathering of TCU alumni Wednesday in Amarillo.

The informal event will begin at 6:30 p.m. with a reception at Amarillo Country Club, with dinner at 7. Reservations are $10 per person and are due by Monday. These can be made by check, payable to TCU and sent to Byron Gossett, 2815 S. Bonham, Amarillo, Texas 79109. For more information call (806) 935-4266 or (806) 335-1681.

Sullivan was named head football coach in January after six years as an assistant at Auburn, where he was a Heisman Trophy-winning quarterback in 1971. He played four seasons with the Atlanta Falcons and one with the Washington Redskins, and he was inducted into the National Football Foundation Hall of Fame last year.

Iba topped off his sixth season as men's basketball coach by finishing third in the Southwest Conference and playing in the National Invitational Tournament. He recently received a three-year extension to his TCU contract.

In winning the NFC title game and the Super Bowl in January 1991, the New York Giants scored 35 points to 32 for their opponents, the 49ers and the Bills.

Winfield's slam wipes out Mariners' lead

By The Associated Press
Dave Winfield had a tough act to follow at the Kingdome.

Ken Griffey Jr. had hit two home runs and Kevin Mitchell one to help the Seattle Mariners build a 7-1 lead. Winfield made it all disappear, however, when he hit his 10th career grand slam with two outs in the ninth inning off reliever Mike Schooler to give Toronto an 8-7 victory.

"You go up there thinking about hitting a grand slam a lot, but rarely does it happen," said Winfield, who has 412 career homers. This was a tremendous victory.

It was Toronto's fifth straight victory and Seattle's eighth loss in nine games. Trailing 7-3 after eight innings, the American League East-leading Blue Jays scored five runs in the ninth off Calvin Jones and Schooler (0-2). Jones struck out Candy Maldonado to open the ninth, but Greg Myers doubled and Manuel Lee singled in a run.

After Devon White was walked by Jones, the Mariners brought in Schooler, who got Roberto Alomar to fly out for the second out. But Schooler walked Joe Carter to load the bases and then gave up the homer to the 40-year-old Winfield on a 2-2 pitch.

Winfield swung and missed at Schooler's first two pitches. He then stepped out of the batter's box and slammed his right palm hard onto the top of his batting helmet.

Winfield, signed as a free agent by the Blue Jays, now has six home runs and 20 RBIs. He's batting .360.

Angels 6, Yankees 0

At Anaheim, Julio Valera pitched a five-hitter for his first major league shutout as California beat New York, sweeping the two-game series.

Valera (2-1) struck out three and walked one in his sixth career start and third since joining the Angels in the April 12 deal that sent backup shortstop Dick Schofield to the New York Mets.

Scott Sanderson (2-2), who pitched a one-hitter here last July 11, fell behind 3-0 when Mike Fitzgerald hit the right-hander's first pitch of the second inning for a home run.

White Sox 7, Red Sox 6

At Comiskey Park, winner Donn Pall, Scott Radinsky and Bobby

Thigpen pitched shutout relief as Chicago rallied from a 6-0 deficit created by 10 walks in the first two innings to beat Boston 7-6. It was the fifth straight win for the White Sox.

Joey Cora's sacrifice fly in the sixth drove home the deciding run after Boston's Matt Young had squandered the lead. Chicago pitchers allowed only six hits but walked 15 batters.

Greg Harris fell to 2-2.

Orioles 5, Twins 4

At Baltimore, Joe Orsulak scored the winning run on a wild pitch by Rick Aguilera, capping a four-run, ninth-inning rally that lifted Baltimore past Minnesota.

Aguilera's wild pitch, the Twins' fourth of the game, gave the Orioles their eighth win in nine games and improved their home record to 12-2.

Storm Davis (2-2) pitched the ninth inning for the Orioles, who swept the two-game series and have

Athletics 6, Tigers 2

At Oakland, Bob Welch pitched seven shutout innings and Rickey Henderson and Mark McGwire hit home runs for the A's.

Welch (1-1), the 1990 AL Cy Young award winner who endured his first sub-.500 season last year when he was 12-13, walked one and struck out none. He allowed five Detroit hits in his second start since returning from the disabled list.

Dennis Eckersley, the A's fourth pitcher, got the final five outs for his major league-leading 11th save.

Frank Tanana (1-3), who beat the A's last Saturday when Welch made his 1992 debut, was tagged for four runs in the seventh.

won four in a row from the Twins for the first time since 1983.

Indians 8, Rangers 7

At Arlington, rookie Kenny Lofton hit his first major league home run, a three-run shot in the fifth inning, as Cleveland beat Texas to send the Rangers to their fifth straight home loss.

With the score 4-4, Junior Ortiz delivered an RBI single and Lofton hit loser Mike Campbell's first pitch into the right-field stands.

Rod Nichols (1-2) was the winner.

Royals 6, Brewers 4

At Kansas City, Kevin McReynolds and Bob Melvin drove in two runs apiece and winner Curt Young recovered from a shaky first inning as the Royals beat Milwaukee to hand the Brewers their fifth straight loss.

Young (1-1), who spent his previous nine seasons with Oakland and was making his first start in a year, gave up three hits and two runs on his first seven pitches. But he lasted 5 1-3 innings, giving up 10 hits and three runs.

Dan Plesac fell to 2-2.

Franco undergoing therapy

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - The physical therapist treating Julio Franco, the defending AL batting champ, says he wasn't aware of his client's impressive credentials.

"I didn't even know who Julio was. I don't follow baseball really at all. If this had been Larry Bird, we'd be talking a different story," Douglas Kelsey said Thursday, after examining the Texas second baseman's bruised right knee.

Kelsey will be using a unique rehabilitation program he designed to help Franco return to the Rangers' everyday lineup for the first time this season.

Kelsey said Franco will be put into a hydraulic "unloading" machine to begin the to begin a two-part rehabilitation process.

"We have quite a bit of work ahead to get the program fine-tuned," Kelsey said.

Kelsey will begin by determining the maximum amount of weight to be exerted on Franco's ailing knee, "the optimal loading zone." If too much or too little weight is added, the rehabilitation can be setback.

Once the zone is reached, the second baseman can begin simulating baseball-like movement.

"For example, he could move side to side. What we would do is mimic that for certain periods of time," Kelsey said.

Kelsey's goal is to get Franco's injured right leg to be able to handle as much of his body weight as the left side.

Right now, the left leg can take about 320 pounds of pressure, 120 pounds more than his actual weight of 203, while the right side is limited to 210 pounds.

"He ought to be equivalent to the other side. When that will happen is the $64 million question," said Kelsey, who plans to test the leg's strength in seven to 10 days.

Franco also will undergo aerobic workouts to keep the rest of his body in shape.

Kelsey said he has asked Franco not to do any lower body exercises outside the therapists' supervision. He also has told him to avoid any activity which causes him pain.

"If it hurts to go upstairs, he's got to go a different way," Kelsey said.

Although the All-Star is on the team's 15-day disabled list, Kelsey said a return that soon "may be a little optimistic."

Kelsey said he developed the technique in 1987 and marketing began on it last fall. So far it is being used in several hospitals and private clinics around the country, he said.

Braves repel Pirates' rally

By The Associated Press
Last year's National League playoff foes put on a playoff-caliber show at Three Rivers Stadium.

Mike Stanton struck out Barry Bonds and Jose Lind with the bases loaded in the eighth inning, helping the Atlanta Braves beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 4-2 Thursday night.

Bonds looked at a third strike that he thought was high and Lind went down on a half-swing to end the inning.

"There isn't a tougher situation in baseball than that," Braves manager Bobby Cox said. "Bases loaded, one out and Bonds up. He went right after him."

Stanton came in after the Pirates loaded the bases against Juan Berenguer with two hits and a hit batsman. He saved the game for Tom Glavine (5-1), whose streak of 20 straight shutout innings ended in the first when he gave up consecutive singles to Jay Bell, Andy Van Slyke and Lloyd McClendon.

The Braves, who won the NL pennant last season by beating the Pirates in seven games, took a 3-1 lead in the sixth on a homer by Mark Lemke.

Cubs 9, Astros 2

At Chicago, Sammy Sosa homered, doubled and scored twice and Andre Dawson had a pair of doubles and a single as the Chicago Cubs won their third straight.

Sosa led off the first inning with his first homer, then doubled and scored in the second. Dawson doubled and scored in a four-run first, singled and scored in a three-run fourth and doubled in the sixth, leading to Chicago's ninth run.

Houston's Ryan Bowen (0-4) gave up five runs on five hits in one-plus innings, raising his ERA to 14.14 as a starter. Mike Morgan (2-2), who allowed a pair of runs in the first inning, won his second in a row and pitched his first complete game since last Sept. 24. He gave up seven hits and struck out two.

Houston is 3-8 in its last 11 games, and is 1-7 on the road.

Giants 2, Cardinals 0

At St. Louis, San Francisco's Bill Swift became the NL's first six-game winner with a four-hit shutout.

Matt Williams' two-run homer in the fourth off rookie Donovan Osborne (3-1) accounted for the only runs. It was the seventh homer of the season for Williams, who entered the game hitting .189, and the first given up by Osborne in five starts spanning 36 1-3 innings.

Reds 4, Mets 2

At Cincinnati, Rob Dibble's sensational relief pitching and two RBIs by Reggie Sanders made the New York Mets pay for shoddy fielding.

Volleyball exhibitions help scholarship fund

The Super Team, the volleyball duo of Gary Abramson and Chris Hoover, will play two exhibitions Saturday in Hereford. First, they'll take on seniors from the HHS volleyball team, then play a team of Hereford coaches.

The exhibitions are sponsored by the HHS Key Club and will benefit the Gene Brock Scholarship Fund.

Abramson is a former regional champion of the United States Volleyball Association, and has served as assistant coach for the U.S. men's national team. He was named the all-time greatest player in the Heart of America Region by the USVBA.

Hoover is a doubles, triples and beach doubles champion.

There will be an auction, also benefitting the scholarship fund, between games and after the second game.

The exhibitions start at 7 p.m. in Whiteface Gym. Tickets are $2, available at the door, from any Key Club member or call Bill Spies at 364-8532.

Professional fishermen like Jimmy Houston use them. Successful bass club anglers like Randall County's Billy Moore win money with them. Fun Tournament winners like Plainview's Keith Frost wouldn't go to the lake without several of them. The "them" on each angler's rod is a spinnerbait. It is perhaps the most versatile, easy to use and best fish catching lure that has been invented.

When the water temperature approaches 60 degrees, knowledgeable bass anglers will quietly stop depending on a jig-N-Pig and begin catching quality bass with the trusty spinnerbait.

Spinnerbaits come in two basic styles. The old in-line spinner still catches fish in open water but is rarely used in this part of the country. Most serious anglers now use a safety pin style spinnerbait. This style can be worked in the thickest cover in the lake without fear of snagging on every cast.

During the past four years, fishing superstar Hank Parker has made more money selling his classic tandem-bladed spinnerbaits than he ever earned on the professional tournament trail. Hank recommends trying his tandem-bladed lures in several sizes--1/4 ounce, 1/2 ounce, or even a 3/4 ounce--until the fish reveal their favorite size.

Oklahoma's Jimmy Houston will throw an oversized (No. 7 or No. 8) single blade during the spring warmup and switch to tandem blades only after the water heats up to 65 degrees.

Part of the fascination of using a spinnerbait is trying to determine why any fish would attack a piece of bent metal with twirling blades on one end and colored plastic surrounding an exposed hook on the other end. Some experts claim it looks like a minnow or a small school of minnows. Other authorities claim that a slow-moving and bottom-bumping spinnerbait is acting like an injured crawdad. All agree it catches fish.

Next Week--Is Colorado better than Tennessee or does willowleaf beat them both?

Just returned from a Fun Tournament at Lake MacKenzie. John Kovacs of Dimmitt bested the field with a three fish limit weighing 6.54 pounds. Jerry Graves of Claude placed second while Tommy Pugh of Amarillo was third.

Tip-Of-The-Week Buy some big minnows, and head over to Lake MacKenzie near Silverton because some huge hybrid striper are working the islands in the main lake area. Local angler Albert Hartman caught a 12-pound striper that measured 29 inches long and is the new lake record. He reports that several monsters broke off. MacKenzie is a little lake with some big striper.

May 7--Next Fun Tournament at Lake Meredith
May 16--Next Big Bass Tournament at Lake Baylor
May 21--Next Fun Tournament at Lake Greenbelt.

An error by an official in the 1932 Olympics forced the runners in the 3,000-meter steeplechase to cover 460 extra meters. Percy Williams won gold medals for Canada in the 1928 Olympic track competition after hitching cross-country to reach the trials.

Rodriguez favored in Murata

FRISCO, Texas (AP) - Chi Chi Rodriguez hasn't won a tournament this year but there are two good reasons to think he might earn a championship trophy this weekend. First of all, Lee Trevino has decided not to play.

Trevino, winner of five of the last six senior tournaments including last week's event at Las Vegas, shunned the eighth annual $450,000 Murata Reunion Pro-Am tournament which begins today.

Trevino usually plays in his hometown of Dallas but said he was tired of the tour grind.

"We'll miss Lee except on Sunday," said Rodriguez. "He's been too hot to handle."

The second reason to pick Rodriguez is his success factor in the Murata tournament.

Rodriguez won last year's Reunion at Stonebriar Country Club in a sudden death playoff over Jim Colbert.

He's a two-time defending champion.

"It's frustrating for me not to have won this year," Rodriguez said. "My putting is a little off. My problem lately is that Trevino has a bigger computer. But I'm starting to play good. When I put well I win. That's what's been keeping me back."

Other former champions in the field include Don January, Orville Moody, Don Bies and Frank Beard.

The biggest threat to Rodriguez in the 54-hole event is expected to come from Trevino's partner in The Legends of Golf, Mike Hill, who is third on the Senior Tour earnings list this season with $245,662. Hill made $1,065,657. Hill and Trevino won The Legends two weeks ago.

BUSH

Gates wasn't invited to today's meeting, or to any of Bush's other sessions with various law enforcement officials, White House aides said. Gates has been under attack since the King incident, which was captured on videotape by an amateur photographer.

Bush was meeting separately today with firefighters. He also planned to give his impressions of his visit in a speech to volunteers involved in the cleanup effort at a Boy's and Girl's Club.

His spokesman, Marlin Fitzwater, said Bush would use the speech to outline "a number of ideas but not a specific agenda."

However, Housing Secretary Jack Kemp suggested the trip would end with a new push for the long-dormant administration proposal to set up "enterprise zone" tax breaks for businesses willing to locate in inner cities.

Gates, who has announced he'll resign at the end of next month, came under new fire last week for moving too slowly to get the rioting under control.

Gates, in an interview with CNN on Thursday, said "there was a glitch, no doubt about it" in the early police response to the spreading civil unrest. But he blamed it in part on criticism the police had previously received for being too aggressive and brutal.

Blast to the Past

West Central Intermediate School students perform in "Blast to the Past" during a Cinco de Mayo program on Thursday. The skit took students back into Mexico's past.

In 1895 there were two cars registered in the state of Ohio. They collided.

CLASSIFIED ADS

Classified advertising rates are based on 15 cents a word for first insertion ($3.00 minimum), and 11 cents for second publication and thereafter. Rates below are based on consecutive issues, no copy change, straight word ads.

TIMES	RATE	MIN
1 day per word	.15	3.00
2 days per word	.26	5.20
3 days per word	.37	7.40
4 days per word	.48	9.60
5 days per word	.59	11.80

If you run ads in five consecutive issues with NO changes, you get the same ad in the Reach 4 More free. The regular charge for that ad would be $4.00.

CLASSIFIED DISPLAY

Classified display rates apply to all other ads not set in solid word lines--those with captions, bold or larger type, special paragraphing, all capital letters. Rates are $4.15 per column inch; $3.45 an inch for consecutive additional insertions.

LEGALS

Ad rates for legal notices are same as for classified display.

ERRORS

Every effort is made to avoid errors in word ads and legal notices. Advertisers should call attention to any errors immediately after the first insertion. We will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion. In case of errors by the publishers, an additional insertion will be published.

ATLANTA (AP) - A federal appeals court has rebuffed a sheriff who tried to stop merchants from selling "As Nasty as They Wanna Be" on the grounds that the 2 Live Crew album is obscene.
The 11th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals said Sheriff Nick Navarro of Broward County, Fla., failed to prove his case. Witnesses for the rap group testified in the civil lawsuit that the hit album had artistic merit.
The ruling Thursday reversed a 1990 opinion by U.S. District Judge Jose Gonzalez, who found that sexual references in the lyrics appealed to "the loins, not to the intellect."
"It's a great day," group leader Luther Campbell said from his Miami office at Luke Records. "This makes me so happy - I'm going to go get drunk tonight."

Industrial Technology students win Best In State honors

Hereford High School and Hereford Junior High School Industrial Technology students did very well again this year at the state contest in Waco. Besides many award-winning projects, nine students received Best In State honors. On top row from left are Ty Nall and Shay Henderson, air hockey table, and Brent Marnell, chest; and James Payne, swiveling chair, and Nathan Diller, corner cabinet. On bottom row, from left, are Kirk Marnell, rolltop desk; Jessica Serrano, table, and Chris Lyles, clock; and Clay Wallace, candle holder. The projects have been on display this week at Hereford State Bank.

he bought the brokerage firm, but aides later decided not to send him a thank-you letter for fear of linking President Nixon to the purchase. "The president should not now indicate this commercial deal on his part was done primarily in behalf of the national interest. ... Should the deal go bad the existence of such a letter might be embarrassing," an April 1971 memo said. Recollections differ as to who initiated Perot's involvement in the Wall Street firm's purchase. Peter Flanigan, the White House aide assigned to the deal, said in an interview with AP that Perot already was interested in buying the firm before the White House got involved. But Perot insists he had no intention of buying it until he received numerous calls from White House aides who told him "the stock market will close if you don't buy this firm." Perot said when he finally agreed to pursue the purchase, he was told he only would need to invest $5 million. But the costs of the purchase quickly rose to $50 million and losses eventually pushed his total cost to $60 million before the firm was placed in bankruptcy, he said. Once Perot decided to buy the firm, the White House worked behind the scenes to help him close the deal, providing assistance with the New York Stock Exchange and a special "tax arrangement," a Jan. 12, 1972, memo said. Perot acknowledges making the requests. He said the stock exchange help involved his request to change the rules prohibiting investment in more than one firm. The tax matter involved getting the IRS to clarify whether he could deduct from his federal taxes the interest from his debts in the purchase. The January 1972 memo, prepared for Nixon Chief of Staff H.R. Haldeman, detailed Perot's contacts with the White House and said the administration's "encouragement was substantial" in the duPont Gore Florgan matter. That memo said the deal should be viewed as a business arrangement that could benefit Perot. "Perot made the business decision to invest and has overstated the administration's degree of obligation," it said. But documents dating to around the time the firm was bought suggest Nixon did in fact ask Flanigan to lobby Perot. Flanigan and Alexander Haig said the administration wanted the firm bailed out because officials were worried that its failure would hurt Wall Street and worsen fears about the economy. "As requested by you, I talked to Ross Perot. ... I told him you were appreciative of this move and agree with him that this is important in the national interest," Flanigan wrote Nixon in a memo dated Dec. 4, 1970. Haig, White House chief of staff near the end of Nixon's tenure, said in an interview he was told that Nixon aides were urging Perot to buy the firm so it would not falter "during a time when the economy was in trouble." "I always thought it was a rare instance for anybody to take on that kind of risk and lose that kind of money," Haig said. Perot ultimately lost heavily in the investment, placed the firm in bankruptcy and eventually closed it. But first he requested a private meeting with Nixon in June 1973 to discuss his "Wall Street troubles," memos say. The records don't indicate whether a meeting ever transpired, but they do include an aide's recommendation to Nixon that the meeting be held. "A presidential meeting with Ross, coupled with some limited economic actions, might be enough to keep him in business at least through the summer," a June 1, 1973, memo suggests. Haig said his recollection was that Perot never got the meeting but that he was seeking "some government help to stop the hemorrhaging." "Ross said he had done this at their request and was losing a hell of a lot of money. He said, 'Al, what should I do?' And I said get rid of it," Haig recalled.
