City Board in Special Budget Session Tonight

Major Projects Here Keep Builders Active

Construction projects now under way in Hereford have a total value of better than $1,275,000, a Brand survey revealed this week.

The biggest share of the total is accounted for by the $603,909 contract for widening 25 Mile Ave. from two to four lanes within the city limits with an underpass at the Santa Fe tracks.

BUILDING PERMITS issued last month added $121,900 to the total. The major share of the total for eight permits was accounted for by Neil Cooper who estimated costs at $100,000 for his new Cooper's Market at Sixth and McKinley.

at 318 Main, the site formerly occupied by the Candy Kitchen. The old structure has been demolished and work is now under way on the new with Ed Tiefert as contractor.

Other building permits issued during the month were primarily for the repair, remodeling, moving or making additions to homes. They included Clara Acker, an $800 permit for a residential garage; Gertrude Probasco, $1,000 for a double garage; B. B. Breeding for James W. Witherspoon, $450 for an addition; Max Y. Pennington, $150 to cover home repairs; $3,000 by Leo Price to move in a house; $500 by Hereford Parts and Supply for repair and remodeling of a store; and $1,000 by Sabina Stocker for construction of a home addition.

attorneys Cowsett & Bybee. And a $22,500 shop building for H&W Implement Co. in the 1400 block of Park Ave.

New residential construction projects include a number of homes ranging in value — according to permit declarations — from $8,000 to $15,000. Several homes are under construction just outside the (Continued On Page 2)

Public Meet To Be Called

A budget calling for a $90,000 increase in city expenditures during the coming year will be studied tonight in a special meeting of the city commission. The budget proposed by City Manager Dudley Bayne calls for $401,000 in expenditures by the city during the year beginning May 1, compared to an estimated $311,000 spent during the current year.

No increase in taxes is proposed for the bigger budget. The increased revenue, according to Bayne's estimates, will come from taxes levied on new property, service fees at city-operated facilities, garbage and trash fees, and water and sewage charges.

No raise is anticipated, either, in charges for water and sewer charges or city facilities other than commercial (not residential) garbage and trash collection. New trash fees for business house service was approved last month by the city commission.

HEREFORD'S CITIZENS will be invited to attend a public hearing on the proposed budget on a date to be set tonight by the city commissioners.

Mayor Henry Sears, who will conclude his four years' service on the board in April, said that he hopes the meeting will be (Continued On Page 2)

"Growing Pains" Are Evident in Board Meeting

Hereford is growing up, a fact that was brought home to city commissioners during their regular session Monday night. Their agenda included a number of matters giving ample evidence to the growing city.

The preliminary study of a proposed $401,000 budget was but one of the "growth factors" they encountered. "After hearing a report from the recreation commission appointed last year to study the needs of the city, the board members indicated they will approve recommendations for employing a full-time recreation director and earmark funds for a program for the city's youth.

They went on record as supporting the Army Reserve in action which may bring a $130,000 armory building to the city. They agreed to accept the deed to the golf course after learning that Bill Davis, Hereford Golf Club president, has obtained approval of the transfer from all club members. Directors are expected to complete the formality of signing the deed to the property this week.

CITY DADS DON'T, BUT: Officers Support Hot Rod Club's Bid for Track

Hereford law enforcement officers have given their full backing to the Road Knights, local hot rod club, in its attempt to get a drag strip.

Chief of Police Henry Aycock, speaking to the club at its meeting place, 208 Ave. A, Monday night said: "All we ask is that your organization obey the law, and we'll help you in every way we can."

SHERIFF Lowell Sharp Wednesday said he "concurred fully with Chief Aycock."

Aycock told the hot rodders that they must sell themselves and their club to the public. "Convince people you've got a good organization," he said. Claude Hicks, president of the club, and other representatives, plan to see City Manager Dudley Bayne and City Attorney Earnest Langley soon about the club using the city airport after it is completed.

THE CITY COMMISSION on Feb. 18, went on record against using the airport as a drag strip. Three of the five commissioners were present when the decision was made.

Dale Ham of Amarillo was present at the meeting Monday night. He brought letters endorsing hot rod clubs and drag strips from law officers across the nation.

"You don't have to convince me you need a drag strip. Let's you and me convince them (the public)," Aycock said.

THE ROAD KNIGHTS Club is sanctioned by the National Hot Rod Assn. If it obtains a drag strip, the strip must be 60 feet wide, 3,200 feet long and topped with asphalt to gain NHRA approval.

Aycock talked to the group about the need for traffic laws, saying the purpose of the laws is to protect people. He also discussed road safety and courtesy.

Delay Opening of New Building for Frio Baptists

First services in the new Frio Baptist Church building, originally set for this Sunday, have been rescheduled for Sunday, March 17, according to the Rev. B. H. Baldwin, pastor.

Delays in shipments of furniture and in inspection of the building's heating plant caused the postponement.

Dedication services for the building will be held later, Rev. Baldwin said.

The new home for the Frio Baptists is located seven miles south of Hereford and one mile north of the old Frio school house. It has approximately 6,000 square feet of floor space, including an auditorium with a capacity of 300 persons, educational program facilities and a sanctuary. Construction work was directed by D. C. (Doc) Miller of Hereford.

HIGHWAY PROJECT — Storm sewers were being installed this week along 25 Mile Ave., as a first step in the $603,909 project which will see the highway widened to four lanes within the city limits and the building of an underpass at the Santa Fe tracks. Highway officials, noting that motorists have been passing through barriers marking the road closed, fear that some motorist may pile-up in one of the deep excavations. (Staff Photo)

Dimmitt Man Is Fined, Sentenced

James C. Rawlings of Dimmitt was found guilty of driving while intoxicated, first offense, by jury trial in Deaf Smith County court Tuesday. He was fined $500 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in jail.

Willard Jones of Hereford was found guilty of bootlegging by the jury Monday. He was fined $200 and costs and sentenced to 90 days in jail.

organizations, joined the board of directors Monday. Other directors are from the civic clubs.

According to Guy Lawrence, the club plans to promote basketball, gymnastics, track and field events, swimming, wrestling, volleyball and judo as well as boxing.

Kilgore offered to bring down a team of experts to offer advice and training in any of the sports backed by the club.

THE CLUB bought a trampoline Monday night for gymnastics.

Lawrence asked anyone who is interested in coaching any of the sports to contact him or any of the directors. All coaching will be on a volunteer basis, he said.

Boxing Meet Set; Athletic Club To Expand Its Plans

A card of 15 fights between the Hereford boxing team and Plainview and Tullia ring clubs has been scheduled for Monday, March 18, at the Bull Barn.

The fight card is sponsored by the Hereford Athletic Club. A trampoline team from Amarillo will put on an exhibition prior to the fights.

Guy Lawrence, president of the Hereford Athletic Club, said advance tickets for the fights will go on sale as soon as arrangements are completed.

IN A MEETING Monday night, the club's board of directors made formal application for membership in the Amateur Athletic Union (AAU).

Les Kilgore, area AAU director from Amarillo, attended the meeting and assisted in making the application.

The athletic club was organized Feb. 18. Its purpose is to promote amateur athletics in the Hereford area.

Mr. Welty died Monday in his home at House, N. M. He moved to House from Hereford in 1947. He was a retired farmer.

The Rev. Howard Scott, First Baptist pastor, officiated at the services. Burial was in Rest Lawn Cemetery. Gilliland Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Mr. Welty had been ill for about a year before his death. He was born May 28, 1874 in Arkansas. He was a member of the Baptist Church.

Surviving are his wife of House, N. M.; three sons, W. W. and Herman, both of Hereford, and Troy of Shamrock; four daughters, Mrs. Pearl Enoch of Roswell, N. M., Mrs. Stella Harris of House, Mrs. Reba J. Buttram of Albuquerque, Mrs. Dolly Carmichael of Los Alamos, N. M.; a brother, Will of Donaldson, Ark.; a sister, Mrs. Mary Spurrier of Nugent; 27 grandchildren and 22 great-grandchildren.

Around Town

Jack Fortenberry was in town Tuesday with a report on the fine moisture received in the northwestern section of Deaf Smith County on the preceding day. "We have been feeding our cows out there for the past five years," he said, "but now we've enough moisture to at least start the grass to growing." Fortenberry reported a total of 1.10 inches of moisture, .60 from rain and the balance from snow that fell on Monday. Hereford, which had been enjoying intermittent rain, snow and sleet during the preceding week while "things were pretty dry" at the Fortenberry place 45 miles northwest of here, had to settle for just .05 inch of rain during the latest bit of "California weather."

School trustees, past and present, were guests of the Hereford Rural High School board at a steak dinner in Shirley Cafeteria Tuesday evening. The occasion preceded the teacher recognition program sponsored by the Parent-Teachers Assn., in the high school auditorium.

Back from a short vacation to the Central Texas area, Urlin Streu reports he made progress on his unusual "collection." Streu makes colored photos of county courthouses over the state. During the past three years, in which he has devoted considerable attention to the project, he has swelled his total to pictures of 190 of the 254 courthouses, now lacks primarily the far east Texas counties. He photographed 32 courthouses on his latest trip.

Revival services at the Temple Baptist Church, Ave. K at Forrest, are continuing this week. They will end Sunday. The Rev. Riley Fugitt, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Spur, is preaching the services.

Members and friends of the First Methodist Church are invited to attend a special evening service to be held at 7 p.m. on Sunday, March 10. L. C. Thomas, chairman of the church attendance fellowship committee, will be striving to reach a 700 person "Fill the Church" goal for the service in the church sanctuary. The sermon will be delivered by the Rev. Alby Cockrell, pastor. A world-wide attendance participation is now in progress at the church here and will continue through Easter Sunday.

VISITS CONGRESSMAN Raymond Higginbotham was in Washington, D. C. recently as a representative of Texas Farmers Union. While in Washington, he visited with Rep. Walter Rogers of the 18th District.

offered a contract to remain with the course. City Manager Dudley Bayne said yesterday that Posey had accepted the offer, pending final official acceptance of the facility by the city. He will receive $400 a month salary and have all concessions at the course.
Bayne was instructed by the commissioners to take bids on a watering system for the course as soon as possible after the transaction is completed.
Providing water for the fairways was the financial stumbling block that led golf club directors to seek to transfer ownership to the city. Drouth has caused the grass-covered fairways to be damaged by not only a shortage of water but by blowing sand.

THE HEREFORD RIDERS Club, represented by Harold Beauchamp, president, requested the city to furnish water to its arena at the eastern city limits. Noting that no main is within 1,800 feet of the arena, the commissioners agreed to consider the matter but tabled action.
Also tabled, pending further study of the costs of supplying sewage service, was a request from Wayne Wallace for approval of a Wallace-Hudson Subdivision addition to the city north of its present limits along Star St., and Ave. K.

The city manager was directed to solicit bids for a new 750-gallon pumper-type fire truck with special equipment needed to combat rural area fires. Bids are expected to be received early in April, but delivery is not expected before June.

A new billing machine, costing about $3,000 after credit for trade-in of an old machine and a governmental discount, was ordered for the city's water and sewage and tax departments. The present machine was cited as "worn out and inadequate" to handle the increased volume of business in the city offices.

THE SPRING paving project, which will result in widening of Ave. K for one mile from Park Ave. to a point past Aikman School, still did not get final action from the board. Members approved a motion to cite specific streets for paving, but had not completed their survey at noon yesterday.

The First of Texas, Inc., bonding firm of San Antonio, will be asked to present its proposal to aid the city in getting commitments for paving from homeowners along several of the city streets.

Finally, the commissioners approved the seeking of a public meeting of South Hereford residents to determine their wishes regarding incorporation into the city limits. And they approved advertising airport bonds for sale with the bid proposals to specify the fact that a 3 1/2 per cent interest rate has already been offered (by local banks).

chamber of commerce, Mr. Posey had been engaged in the real estate business in Hereford and still maintained his office at the time of his death.

When he was younger, Mr. Posey was active in county and community affairs, including the Hereford School Board, civic clubs and other community organizations.

A booster for Hereford and Deaf Smith County for the past 50 years, he foresaw "unlimited possibil-ties" in the country when he came here at the age of 21 and as one of his pioneer friends puts it, "Posey settled down and did his part to help make those dreams come true."

Surviving are his wife; four sons, the Rev. Abb Posey of Big Spring, J. M. and Clyde, both of Hereford, and E. B. Jr., of Baird; three daughters, Mrs. Laverne McMinn of Summerfield, Mrs. Mary Robinson of Amarillo and Mrs. Ellen Simpson of Hereford; a brother, Jim, of Eldorado, Okla.; 11 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Jack Welty who is opposing Nell Cooper, commissioner incumbent in place two who is asking reelection.

THE $60,000 BOOST in the proposed budget is accounted for, Bayne said, by these factors: The pending purchase of a $20,000 fire truck; a street paving program that will cost the city from $15,000 to $18,000 this summer; expansion of the park department to include a recreation program and operation of the golf course; $8,000 already spent on the swimming pool that was not provided for in the current budget.

While the city is embarking on a $100,000 land purchase and runway construction program to provide a municipal airport here, the scheduling of payments on the program will result in expenditures on that plan of $5,000 or less during the next fiscal year, Bayne estimates.

Although it is the responsibility of the current board members to approve the coming year's budget, candidates for three places on the commission will be asked to attend tonight's meeting. These include Ray Godwin, unopposed in his bid for the mayor's post, Don Little who is unopposed as candidate for the place now held by Commissioner Raylan Evans, and

3 HEREFORD CAGERS MAKE ALL-DISTRICT

Hereford High School placed three men on the all-District 1-AAA basketball team this season.
Jim Curtsinger, high scoring junior, warranted a spot on the first team while Bill Dufur, a senior, and Junior Fred Lookingbill made the second squad.
Phillips, the district winners, dominated the first team with three men while Dumas placed the other man.

Tommy Newman, David Bennefield and Don Smith of Phillips, Johnny Cleveland and Curtsinger were on the first team.
Levelland and Hereford each had two men on the second team and Phillips and Dumas had one.
Hereford finished fourth in the District 1-AAA standings and had 18 wins and seven losses in basketball coach.

city limits and contractor N. D. Bartlett has recently begun development of an extension to West-haven addition, just off Harrison highway at the western city limits.

AN ESTIMATED 200 men are employed on the various projects. J. R. (Pat) Patterson at the Texas Employment Commission office characterizes the construction labor market here as "stable, with no apparent shortage of workers and little demand for additional employees. Most of our skilled workers stay busy during most of the year."

While some of the projects are now nearing completion, future buildings and construction work now in the planning, engineering and discussion stages indicate a busy year ahead for construction men in Hereford.

Contemplated projects that are expected to materialize within the next few months include the paving of up to three miles of city streets, construction of a major runway at the municipal airport, expansion of the educational plant of the First Baptist Church, construction of a new Church of Christ building, and—possibly—building a $150,000 county jail.

There is also a strong possibility that a school bond issue proposal may be submitted to voters for their consideration of an expansion of classroom facilities and construction of a girls' gym at the high school.

TEXANS IN WASHINGTON

Mahon Watching Defense Spending

By TEX EASLEY
AP Special Washington Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — This is the season when the generals and admirals, accompanied by aides loaded down with secret documents, come to Capitol Hill to justify their request for money to operate during the next fiscal year which starts July 1.

The man who presides over the House Appropriations Defense subcommittee where they testify is Rep. George Mahon of Colorado City and Lubbock. A tall, quiet-speaking Texan whose black hair belies his 56 years, Mahon has been in on the hush-hush conferences for a long time.

He was one of the half dozen or so congressmen entrusted with the secret of the atomic bomb during its development. Other lawmakers took the word of these few colleagues that the appropriation of vast sums were justified, and passed necessary money bills.

AMONG THOSE who have been before Mahon's committee recently was a Texan who is in charge of the Air Force's super-secret program for development of the intercontinental ballistic missile. The witness was Maj. Gen. Ben A. Schriever, a 1932 graduate of Texas A&M. Born Sept. 14, 1910, in Bremen, Germany, and a one-time resident of Wichita Falls, the general flew 63 combat missions in the Southwest Pacific during World War II.

Now commander, Western Development Division Air Research and Development Command, with headquarters in California, Schriever reported that substantial progress had been made in the intercontinental ballistic missile program during the past year. While in town for the hearing.

Twirling School To Be Conducted by Champion Performer from H-SU

Opening soon in Hereford will be the Schroeter Baton Twirling Studio, featuring Naomi Zarbock Schroeter as instructor. Instruction in all phases of twirling will be available; one, two, three, fire, flag, lighted and hoop baton. Also rope, pom-pom and strutting; special routines for contest, show, duets, ensembles and corps.

Naomi Schroeter is now 23 years old and just recently finished her formal education at Hardin-Simmons University, Abilene. While attending the university, she was on a twirling scholarship and was featured as a soloist with the internationally famous Cowboy Band.

She is the wife of Alex Schroeter, and with her husband is now making her home in South Hereford. Alex was released from duty with the U. S. Army on Feb. 8 after two years' duty. He was last stationed at Fort Carson, Colo. The twirling classes will be held at the Schroeter home just a block west of the end of South Main St. The telephone number is 3887.

Formerly of Wheaton, Ill., the petite artist has an impressive record of twirling honors. In addition to winning the VFW title in 1950, she also won the national contest at St. Paul, Minn.; the Chicago-Land Music Festival; the South Milwaukee contest; and the East Meets West National contest. She also won top honors at the Illinois State Fair Competition in 1952 and was state champion for six consecutive years.

Since she competed in her first national contest at the age of 15, Naomi has gathered 71 medals and 22 trophies. Naomi's twirling career was cut out for her long before she ever owned a baton. A member of a twirling family, her

More recently she toured Europe with the Cowboy Band giving twirling exhibitions. For the past four years her summers have been devoted to teaching at twirling camps throughout the United States.

Naomi is listed in "Who's Who in Baton Twirling" and is a National Baton Twirling Teacher.

"All smiles and a yard wide" would be a good way to describe the faces of area residents following recent rains. Understand that even Jack Fortenberry got .60 of an inch, along with eight inches of snow. When it rains on Jack, you can pretty well figure that everyone got a little moisture.

One exception to the smile rule, however, was the folks around the hotel coffee shop. They got the food prepared, the tables set and were waiting for the weekly Rotary Club meeting — but the Rotarians didn't show up. Meanwhile, the Rotarians were enjoying lunch at Central School cafeteria in cooperation with Public Schools Week. They announced the change of place at the last meeting, it seems, but forgot to tell the hotel.

If this boomerangs on a big scale like it does at home when a husband does the same thing, you can bet that there was plenty of moaning and wailing.

Bart Dowell and Sam Nunnally also ate lunch at school this week and got to commenting on the large number of Spanish-American students who could speak both Spanish and English. One thing led to another — and they got to wishing that their own kids were bilingual. Finally, they wrote the school board members a letter asking:

"Would it be possible to have a Spanish teacher pass from room to room in the lower grades and help the children learn Spanish? If we could start this in the lower grades our children would be able to converse by the time they are in high school."

All of which is pretty well true judging from what I read. Exact, such a basic program is being carried out in some places. It has even been discussed by our own school board. It will, however, increase educational costs, which is not always popular. Many people will agree that it might well be worth the money and effort in this area. Besides, it is hardly equitable for the Spanish-American student to emerge from high school with such a definite advantage over his classmates. This is due, of course, to his home environment rather than to the school curriculum.

The reason most of us have no learned Spanish is due to the fact that we are too lazy. We just do not have the incentive.

A card from LA PRINCIPAUTE DE MONACO arrived this week to say that Howard Gault is having a wonderful time. "Each place is the best," writes Howard — and then he headed for Florence, Italy. He also added that he missed "Grace and the Prince."

Bill Lenderman, C-C manager, has decided that I am right. No matter what you do, you just can't win! First, Bill got a lot of complaints when the Amarillo News published agriculture income from Deaf Smith County, and showed it some $11-million too little. He got in touch with Wes Lizard, who ran a new set of figures.

Bill thought everybody was happy and — Wham — in comes a card with an Amarillo postmark and a Canyon dateline. It reads:

"Dear Willie:
"Now that you are duly accredited with a 1956 haul of $30 million by the Hereford peasantry, now you please have them keep quiet for awhile and stop screaming for more? As the population increases, then us town slaves are going to get tired and worn out having our salary checks deducted every month to furnish money to "on the Farm" aristocrats... now you're even bragging how much you got last year. As for me, I don't like onions nor potatoes, so why is it fair for me to be taxed to make an unwanted market for something I have no use for? I do like beer and my "corn" and I congratulate your "dry" county in being so broadminded that they will cooperate with so much grain sorghum for our distilleries in the making of good drinks.
With kindest regards,
Sam D."

Bill says if this is a sample of "kindest regards," he hopes the guy don't get mad.

Also, I hear a lot of talk about vegetable farmers being mad about the article on vegetable overproduction which appeared in The Brand Sunday. Some of them figured that they are being propagandized. If I know farmers, though, I would figure that it will have just the opposite effect. They will go out and plant twice as much as they planned. In view of present conditions, I sure would like to be in the potato seed business. Seed sales are liable to pick up... pronto and plenty.

If you want to make a million or two, here is an idea. I was in a crowd the other day and Oscar Zasley was telling about how the old timers used to keep a big pot of stewed apricots on the back of the stove. Sylvester Slagle mentioned something about "fried pies" — and everyone was smacking his lips. Ivan Block wondered why folks didn't make them any more, and Gwenn Davis solved the problem by saying that they aren't in the frozen food cases.

Someone could start turning out these frozen "fried pie" makings and really go to town. There is nothing better than fried pies, especially when they are baked. Absolutely nothing! Besides, the younger generation is being robbed of one of life's most pleasant experiences. Here is a chance to give the world a West Texas delicacy, second to none other. I wonder if there is anyone, anywhere — who honestly doesn't like fried pies?

SOME JOKES

A speaker was talking to a bunch of teenagers about things that happened in the early days of the West. He said Billy the Kid had killed 21 men when he was 21 years old.

A girl who had been listening open-mouthed asked:
"And what make of car did he drive?"

One Cleveland mother is having a hard time convincing her 13-year old son that crime doesn't pay. Some weeks ago he played hooky from school, "borrowed" $3 from the family's jealously guarded New Car fund, and went downtown.

He took in a western movie, bought a quarter chance on a new Dodge, played all the machines in the penny arcade, and arrived home at the usual hour.

He got away with it, and his crime might still be undiscovered — except that a man called the boy's mother the other day and asked where her son wanted his new Dodge delivered!

Scout Troop Is Formed at Black

A new Boy Scout troop in the Black community has been organized by Bruce Miller and Coy Patton, with 10 boys as the first members.

The scoutmaster will be J. W. Nazworth. Ellis Tatum will be assistant scoutmaster. Meetings will be held on Monday evenings at 7:30 in the Black Community House.

A court of honor has been scheduled for April 29 in the education building of the First Baptist Church, according to Wayne Thomas.

Fourteen boys from this district have registered for the National Jamboree at Valley Forge, Pa., on July 12-18, according to Dr. Roy Grubbs, camping and activities chairman. Some 50,000 boys from across the United States are expected to attend, said W. J. Hiatt, scout executive.

Twelve other boys are planning to take the canoe trip into Canada from Ely, Minn., July 8-21, Dr.

Grubbs said. Only six boys from the district went last year.

Henry W. Aycock has been appointed to the health and safety committee as chairman, succeeding Leo Box.

Hiatt presented to Joel Hodges, district chairman, a Boys Life desk flag for promotion of the Boy Scout reading program.

Dr. Milton C. Adams, district commissioner, said a district leaders roundtable will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, March 7, in the conference room at the Hereford State Bank.

Hereford area boys who will take the "Charles Sommers Canoe Base Trip" from Minnesota into Canada are Clint Conaway, Carrol Don Martin, Steve McWhorter, John Gosdin, Eddie Skypala, Craig Griffith and Gregory Combs.

Registered for the Jamboree at Valley Forge are Jim Bradley, Jan Wallace, Lewis Block, George Davis, Joe and Jimmy Reiniger, Richard Smith, Larry Edwards, Troy Don Moore, all of Hereford. A member of Troop 52, sponsored by the First Methodist Church, will attend on a special scholarship, but his not yet been selected. From Friona's Troop 56, Ted Sanders will make the trip. Black's new Troop 54 is making plans to send two boys.

English Classes Have Wide Range

By Mrs. Inez Welch, Mrs. C. O. Brown and Miss Flo Dickinson

The English classes in Stanton Junior High School offer the students a wide range of practical experiences. Class work includes the learning of fundamentals of grammar, creative writing, and oral expression.

The students are given a review of those fundamentals studied prior to entering junior high. New rules and techniques are introduced. Ample drill and testing is given to insure the students of a working knowledge of the tools of basic correct English. Various teaching techniques are employed in order to make correct usage a daily livable experience.

Creative writing is not separate and apart from the teaching of the fundamentals of grammar; on the contrary, it is the motivating power within that phase of teaching English. The students are given guidance in the writing of paragraphs, conversations, school activity announcements, school news items, letters, book reports, short stories, free verse, poetry, outlining, posters, learning to write checks properly, autobiographies, essays, themes, and play writing. These writing experiences encourage the students to use correct English and spelling, to improve their penmanship, and to enlarge their vocabularies.

Library Club Does Displays

Library club members have been responsible for some attractive displays recently.

Besides the January calendar bulletin board prepared by Kaye Kershen and Elaine Wagoner, there was an eye-catching display in the hall made by Polly Cornett and Azalee Brown. The theme was "Rock Around the Clock with Good Books." On a red and white background were shown the jackets of 12 new books. Scattered among these were black musical notes.

For February, Mary Kathrine Hucker prepared a valentine bulletin board featuring the club sweetheart (Pat Dawson) and the club beau (Carroll Willoughby). Their pictures were framed in large valentines. These were surrounded by smaller valentines bearing the names of books containing romances.

Peggy Bumpass prepared the hall display for February. Its theme is "Good Reading for Spring." Seated in a swing is a doll with a miniature book in her lap. Above the featured book jackets, butterflies are flitting about.

The members of the library club perform other duties in the library besides preparing displays.

Adult Education Courses Close

The first adult education classes closed on Tuesday, Feb. 12, when the typing classes and writers class finished the first session.

The writing class studied forms, market, taboos, trends in writing, analyzing publications, effects, and how to submit manuscripts.

The typing class mastered the touch system, cut stencils, wrote letters and learned to operate duplicating machines.

Other classes might be organized if interest warrants classes large enough to be taught. People interested can call Mr. Cunningham's office or Mr. Smith at 714-W.

'D.E.' Course Helps Prepare for Business

Distributive education is a public school program training young people who are preparing for jobs in the field of distribution.

The program has developed because of identical interests on the part of two groups:

1. Operators of retail, wholesale, and service businesses have expressed an interest in more efficient workers being graduated from schools.
2. Boys and girls realize today, as never before, that they must have specific training and experience to find a place in the highly competitive business world.

Distributive education welds those two interests into a program combining supervised work experience with practical classroom instruction. The coordinator, who conducts the program, has a practical background of business experience.

In school — Students spend half of each day in school taking the usual courses, including a course in distributive education. The "D. E." course is made up of basic topics which have been recommended by advisory groups of businessmen. Such subjects as accuracy in arithmetic and English, selling, good customer service, and correct business behavior are taught.

Upholstery Workshop Termed Successful

By ARGEN DRAPER

The upholstery workshops of the Messenger Club have been very successful. All the club women who were interested did attend. Sixty women in the county have expressed interest in the upholstery.

R. J. Cramer has cooperated in giving us some needles which are large enough to handle the thread in stitching plastic. He has always been very cooperative in the club women's upholstery work. When a woman upholds a chair, she understands why commercial people charge what they do in upholstering furniture.

One of the club women who was taking clothing inventory discovered that she has a number of blouses which she had put away. Most of these were about worn out; however, she felt that there was some more wear in them. She is making a jumper to wear with these blouses.

THE CHARLES BURKS, who live in the Arney community, have lost their collie dog. So if you see a collie between Hereford and Arney that looks like she is looking for the Burks; why don't you give them a call? Their phone is out of Amarillo on the Gurley Exchange. The number is 2452. Burks is Rachel Hunter's brother. We can sympathize with the Burks and we hope they do find their pet.

Roberta Campbell has three of the cutest puppies we have ever seen. If you handle it just right, I believe that Roberta would give you one of these.

Mrs. Roy Neeves and Mrs. Clinton Jackson were new members of the Westway Home Demonstration Club. Mrs. Neeves has been a member of the Bippus and Messenger Clubs. Mrs. Jackson has visited club a number of times. We are glad to have these ladies for.

Yearbook Staff Allotted Time for Working

This year, for the first time, the annual staff has had a regular period during the school day. Each day, the group meets and works on the 1957 Round-Up. The work is divided into groups. Lee Skypala is the editor, and Gladys Lee is the assistant editor. The business committee, which handles the financial aspects of the yearbook, is composed of Susie Loerwald-business editor, Jeanne Brown, Bette Jenn Noland, and Bettye Snead.

The layout committee, which plans how the pictures are to go on the page, is composed of Marilyn Sigle, layout editor, Jimmy Bradley, Carolyn Kirby, and Erin Wertemberger. The photography committee is headed by Mary Lou McCullough assisted by Bill Johnson, who also serves as sports editor, and Linda Inman. The copy committee is headed by Carlynn Williams who is helped by Betty Ferguson, Linda Hair, Nona Marie Strange, and Virginia Witherpoon. Erin Wertemberger is doing the art work.

The sponsors are Mrs. Virgil Dodson and Mrs. Olean B. Leggett. The staff has spent many hours of hard work in an effort to present a 1957 Round-Up which is bigger and better than ever.

Mathematics Emphasized

Interest in mathematics is constantly increasing. Additional courses have been added to the curriculum in Hereford High School during the past few years. Mathematic instructors report that a larger percentage of the high school student body is taking mathematics courses now than previously.

It is the purpose of the department to evaluate its progress in order to achieve functional competence in mathematics. They feel that the graduates now are better prepared to meet the challenges of a new world.

There is a greater need in the world today than ever before for capable mathematicians. All the larger industries are begging for them. There is a shortage of teachers of mathematics, and more and more engineers are needed. Engineers, scientists, doctors, research workers, skilled technicians, inventors, and others with a background in mathematics are the leaders in this fast-moving world to a better tomorrow. They had to begin early to study and work toward their goals.

For most pupils, mathematics and science are a little harder than other high school subjects. Most pupils take the easy way out, but for those who know where they are going, and for all who want to have the proper foundation for a happier and more useful life, it is suggested that students take all the mathematics and science available to them.

Art Students Enjoy Work

Members of the high school art class are glad they had lettering at the first of the school year, because it comes in handy when they are asked to make posters for other activities and organizations in school.

The students and Mrs. Dodson think it is fun to paint stage sets for the music and speech departments.

Their ventures in clay proved to be amusing to them and they hope others enjoy their creations, which were put on display early in the year.

Everyone's Christmas project was a success. Each made decorations in which he used balloons, string, starch, paint, and glitter. Art students didn't realize there was so much to learn about color and color combinations until they began this study.

They have done a few designs using different color schemes. And their doodling and perspective will come in handy in the future.

The students are trying out some new paint on their present project. They hope others enjoy their imaginary animals. They think they are out of this world.

Physical Education Program Outlined

By Mrs. Charles Duvall and Mrs. J. E. Moad

The Junior High School physical education program consists of 70 girls and 100 boys from the 7th and 8th grades. Physical education is combined with health, which necessitates alternate days in the gym for the boys and girls.

We work a health program in with our activities which consists of teaching proper eating habits, a well-balanced diet, correct posture and good general health habits. All of which go together to produce a healthier and more physically and mentally fit boy and girl.

The boys physical education classes of Stanton Junior High School have been learning some of the fundamentals of basketball during these winter months. Since fundamental maneuvering is essential in basketball, some of these physical education boys will be on their respective teams next year.

The boys will be introduced to each sport as the season progresses. Some plans are being made to have spring football practice before track season opens. After the opening of the track season, the rest of the school year will be devoted to it. Competition in this sport will be furnished by other schools in our district.

Girls in the physical education program have learned the fundamentals of basketball, volley ball, tennis, table tennis, shuffle board, and badminton.

The classes are opened with short calisthenic drills then the group divided into teams and some of the above games are played.

Since there is no competitive sport for girls in Hereford School to practice or work toward, we feel that it is best for all of the girls concerned to give them a well-rounded program of many different games and activities.

Driver's Education Stresses Judgment

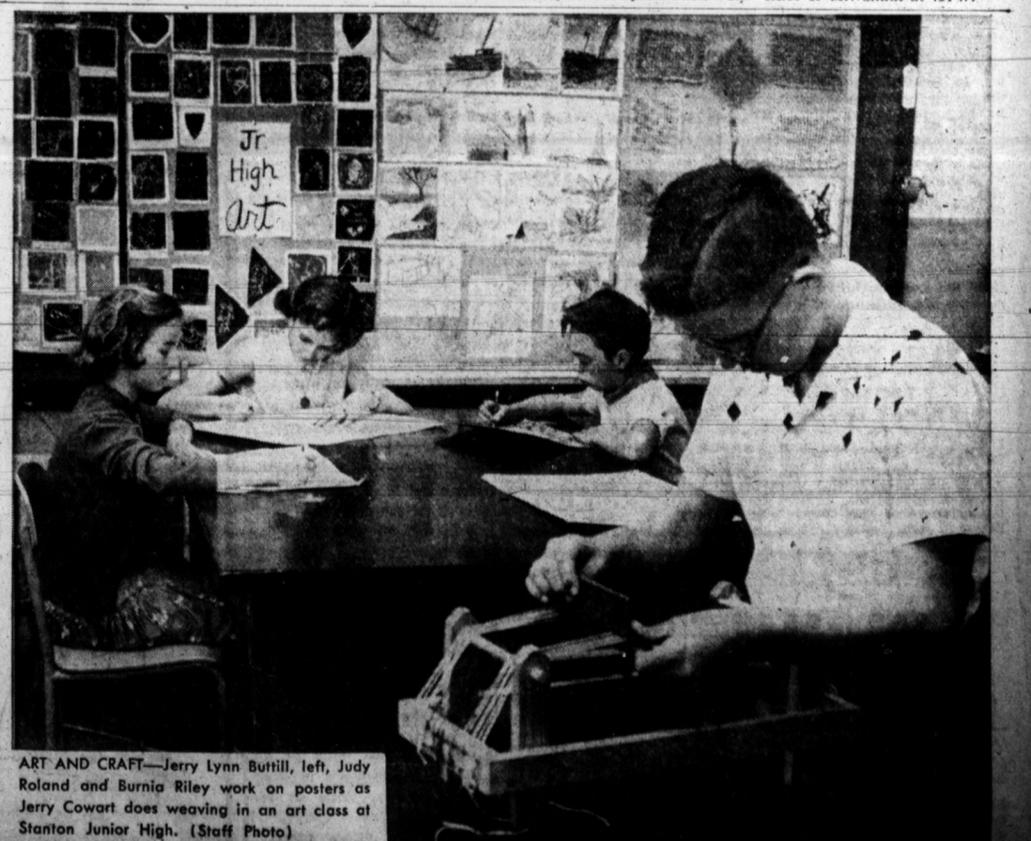

By W. H. KITCHENS

The driver's education teacher should be, and is, keenly aware of the dangers and delights that go with driving an automobile. One of his important tasks is transmitting that awareness to his students. He is charged with creating skillful, competent drivers.

That goal is much easier to reach than one might think. He may take a person who is very awkward and slow and work with him patiently for some time on driving skills and good habits, and he will learn to handle a car smoothly and with a fair degree of skill.

Attitudes and emotions are much harder to deal with than the driving itself. Drag strips and the encouragement of faster driving are two things that are making the task of creating good attitudes and stable emotions very difficult. The program is not trying to develop hot rod drivers and speedsters in the community. It is trying to develop good, sound drivers — those with good judgment and courtesy toward others.

"For 1957 let's drive with good judgment and don't you be the one to fall short of this goal," might well be the motto of the driver's education students.

Eban: Israel's Diplomatic Commuter

By HOWARD BENEDICT

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The winter-long series of crises in the Middle East has — among other things — run up quite a transportation bill for the Israeli government in the United States.

One day its representative to the United Nations, Abba Eban, is dramatically orating before the General Assembly. The next day, its ambassador to the United States, again Abba Eban, is in earnest consultation with Secretary of State Dulles in Washington.

In times of particular stress in the always tense Middle East, Abba Eban has been known to make two round trips between the United Nations headquarters in New York and the U. S. State Department in Washington in a single day.

But the indefatigable Israeli representative has lost neither weight nor sleep and seems to thrive on his double duties. He is accustomed to adversity.

WHEN EBAN took his seat as Israel's U.N. representative in 1949, the alphabetical arrangement placed him in an awkward position — between the delegates from Iraq and Lebanon.

Then, as now, Israelis and Arabs were not on the friendliest of terms. And Arabs especially didn't like Abba Eban, for in the previous year he had spearheaded Israel's successful struggle for recognition by the United Nations.

As much as the Arabs disliked Eban and what he stood for, they respected him as one of the most eloquent pleaders any country has ever sent to the United Nations.

He is considered a "tough" diplomat who defends his country's actions and policies with vigorous, forceful words. If need be, he can state his case in any of six languages: English, Hebrew, French, German, Arabic or Persian.

Eban was born in Capetown, South Africa, in 1915. His father died when Eban was an infant, and his mother brought him to London.

Eban began early to absorb Zionism — being influenced primarily by his mother, who worked as a secretary in the Zionist Office in London.

In 1938, Eban was graduated from Cambridge University with honors in Oriental languages. He was appointed to the faculty of Pembroke College Cambridge, for research and lecturing in Arabic, Persian and Hebrew literature.

HE ENLISTED in the British Army at the outset of World War II and was assigned as liaison officer between Palestine and Allied Headquarters in Cairo. His job was to secure Jewish volunteers for special and dangerous missions in behalf of the Allied forces in the Near East and Europe.

Eban remained in Jerusalem after the war and did extensive lecturing and writing on languages.

In 1947 he began his diplomatic service with the Israeli government which appointed him liaison officer with the United Nations Special Commission on Palestine. This group secured the vote of the U. N. General Assembly for partition of Palestine and establishment of the state of Israel.

Eban was appointed U. N. representative of the Provisional Government of Israel in 1948. In this capacity he worked long and hard for Israel's election to the United Nations — which came on May 11, 1949. Eban has been Israel's delegate ever since.

The Israeli ambassador is married and has a 7-year-old son. He maintains a home in Washington.

Speech Course Is Offered

Formal instruction in speech in the local school is limited to one year which is offered to sophomores, juniors, and seniors. However, a careful observer will note speech activity throughout the schools, starting with the simple relating of experiences in the first grade.

Dramatization, especially, is used in the lower grades, as children act out the stories they have read. At the junior high school level both English and social studies classes employ group discussion and other speech techniques to enliven their procedure.

Students not formally enrolled in speech in high school still receive some speech instruction through units in their English classes. Some attention is given to improvement in voice and diction, and in some classes students participate in group discussion and debate.

The one-year survey course in speech is offered in two semesters. Its aim is to help students to develop speech as a tool of communication, rather than placing emphasis on entertainment or competition, as such.

During the first semester, emphasis is placed on speech fundamentals and public speaking. The second semester's work includes practice on Interscholastic League speech activities, interpretation, and dramatics. The survey course acquaints students with the speech areas which they may want to develop more fully in college.

Hi-Y Club Seeks High Standards

The Hereford Hi-Y Club is an organization of boys in high school who perform a community service twice each year and assemble in worship and fun. The creed of the Hi-Y Club is "To create, establish, maintain throughout the school and community high standards of Christian character."

Meetings are opened with a devotional service conducted by the chaplain followed by a discussion of need and interest to boys. The meeting is closed with the Hi-Y benediction. Officers for the current year in Hi-Y are president, Lynn Boomer; vice-president, Bill Woodford; chaplain, John David Bryant; secretary, Edwin Schroeter; treasurer, Wheeler Sears, and sergeant at arms, Bobby Veigel.

Library Club

The highlight of the Hi-Y year is the annual trip to conference where hundreds of boys and girls meet to continue the work of Hi-Y and Tri-H-Y, and to discuss issues pertaining to youth.

H.H.S. Offers Solid Sciences

By BERT McCARTY

The courses comprising the science department of Hereford High School are general science, physics, biology, and chemistry. These are all considered solid science courses since each entails a certain amount of laboratory work styled along the needs of each particular study.

In general science, an overall study is made of basic science information as effects of electricity, and the forces of inanimate nature life process taking place in nature within plants and animals. Study of chemistry from the standpoint of basic materials such as water, air, gases. Elementary study of laws of motion, gravity, and heat.

Within the scope of biology, is found the study of plants and animals and the way in which they balance out in nature and exist as a community. Laboratory work is done in taking apart the specimens of study—in an attempt that the student understand better the materials they are studying. Some microscope work acquaints the student with its use and importance in the study of science.

Within chemistry is found a study of the elements of nature, comprising the metals, gases, liquids, solids, and laboratory work is provided whereby a student can identify the presence of certain materials within a given sample. Emphasis is placed on basic chemical laws, thus giving the student a better foundation for later work along this subject in college.

In his environment such as heat, sound, electricity, magnetism, light and others. Each of these are studied along with laboratory work to supplement such study, and demonstrations are given to help clarify information on difficult parts.

Within the science department of the high school is found some $3,000 in equipment, and facilities. The staff includes four science instructors, Mrs. Roy Calvert general science, William Phillips, physics, Coach Kitchens, biology, Bert McCarty, chemistry and biology.

In the social studies of Stanton Junior High School, seventh grade, the study of Texas history and geography have as an objective, the decreasing of the boastful and bragging attitude of Texans and increasing the knowledge of the value of our state in its entirety.

Pupils have access to materials which show why they may be proud of the heritage of Texas. They are encouraged to read widely, bringing reports of their reading to class. Biographies of the leaders and builders of Texas are studied as guides to character building.

Special projects, pictures, clippings from magazines or newspapers, relics they may have, trips they make and things they see on these trips may all be brought to the classroom.

Detailed highway maps are used in locating rivers, cities, colleges, parks and playgrounds, early missions and forts of the settlers.

A general idea of the functions of the state government is introduced.

The club holds regular meetings during activity period on the first and third Thursdays of each month.

Nancy Cockrell served as temporary chairman and Carolyn Shirley as secretary during the club's organization. Permanent officers elected for the year include Chick Weemes, president; Gladys Lee, vice president; Barbara Damron, secretary; Bill Knox, reporter; and Bill Woodford, parliamentarian. Mrs. Elmer Patterson, speech teacher, serves as sponsor.

The club holds regular meetings during activity period on the first and third Thursdays of each month.

During Public School Week the library will feature Books on Exhibit, a display of 550 books covering all grades from kindergarten through high school and 33 subject categories. Books on Exhibit is currently operating in some 30 states and in most cases is circulated through the state education department. The books are not for sale. The exhibit is for promoting good reading and will allow parents, teachers, and students to see the best of some of the leading publishers in this country as far as juvenile literature is concerned.

Parents visiting school during the week of March 4-7 should feel welcome to visit the library to see the books on display. The library will be kept open each evening from 7:30 to 10.

The library staff wishes the visitors to notice the hall display and the bulletin board. A recent attractive hall display was created by Azalee Browne and Polly Cornett. Its theme was "Rock Around the Clock," and featured jackets from 12 new books on a background of red and white with black musical notes scattered here and there.

The purpose of the school paper is to give publicity to school events

LEARN BY DOING: Students at Don Bosco Tech spend half of each day in the shop developing skills of the hands; the other half in class developing the brain. A requirement for admittance is an IQ of at least 100.

School Aims at Building Craftsmanship, Character

SAN GABRIEL, Calif. (AP) — In 1863 an Italian Catholic priest, Don Bosco, made this observation:

"The dangers that loom over the nations are tremendous unless the labor problem is solved in a Christian spirit. The problems of the future will be solved best when the employer and the working man work in harmony and sympathy."

It was Don Bosco's idea that education of the working-classes would be a way to help solve such problems.

The Catholic Church took Bosco's idea seriously. Today there are Don Bosco technical training schools in 57 nations. They are dedicated to the Italian saint's idea that boys who are going to become workmen should be trained to be well rounded citizens.

One of the newest has been established near here on a 20-acre site. It was proposed and sponsored by James Francis Cardinal McIntyre, head of the Catholic Church in southern California. Already one million dollars has been spent to acquire the site and build shops and classrooms. Eventually the school will represent an investment of some $2,395,000.

WHEN THE school was being planned the cardinal said: "Today, industry, labor and the community are faced with the disappearance of the trained, highly skilled craftsman; the man who is trained to be both a skilled, well-grounded craftsman and an integrated, well-adjusted citizen."

"To maintain the availability of this highly desirable craftsman-citizen is the great challenge facing industry, labor and the community today." The school opened its doors in September of 1955.

Now in its second year, there are 400 southern California boys attending this unusual educational institution. Cardinal McIntyre said that when the school is completed and the program fully developed there will be 1,000 boys at Don Bosco Tech.

The school accepts boys of all faiths and races. It is operated by the Salesian Fathers and Brothers, a Catholic order founded by Don Bosco. The Rev. Father Felix J. Penna, an ex-New Yorker, is the principal.

"ANY BOY with an IQ of at least 100 who's willing to take the gaff can get in our school," said Father Penna. "It's on a first come, first served basis, without regard to color, race or creed."

"We had to turn away 200 boys this year," said Father Penna. "Some have to come on three buses—get up at 6 a.m. They love their work — both in the shops and classrooms."

"We put all our emphasis on human relations," he said, "and thus these youngsters are being trained as potential foremen and supervisors to fill in the cultural gap between management and labor."

The boys pay only $8 a month tuition. They have a chance to learn trades that pay high wages. Where most high schools have 30 periods a week, Don Bosco Tech requires 45 periods, including 15 in the shops that line the attractive campus. In its second year the school is offering courses in auto mechanics, cabinet and pattern making, machine shop, photo offset printing and metallurgy.

Father Penna said half the day, or three hours, is spent in developing skills of the hands, the other half in developing the brain. The four-year course includes four years of English, three of history and one of business administration. "We hope to develop the mechanical man and the intellectual man at the same time and develop his character too," said Cardinal McIntyre.

140 Enrolled in Typing Courses

More than 140 high school students are enrolled in typing this year. Of this number, 23 are taking Typing II, which is being offered for the first time this year, with Bessie Patterson as teacher. A. J. Hudson teaches the five Typing I classes, in which 119 are enrolled at the present time.

The purpose of Typing II is to help the students develop greater speed and accuracy and become familiar with many types of letter and office forms which they might be called upon to use as office employees.

Of the students enrolled this year, 10 plan to use their typing in finding employment as secretaries or in doing other types of office work. The others indicate that they are taking the course to improve their typing for personal use.

The first aim of Typing I is to help students to develop enough speed and accuracy to make typing for them a useful tool. They also acquire basic knowledge in letter forms, addressing envelopes, writing post cards, tabulating, and other types of correspondence.

TRANSPORTATION LIMITED

DETROIT (AP) — Two 18-year-old high school juniors — Henry Adries and John Dudek — have their own rubber-tire hack.

They bought the 1937 model hearse with a 25-student capacity to transport friends to school parties.

"Girls are a little choosy, however," said Adries. "They'll ride in it to a tobogganing party, but they wouldn't be found dead going in it to church."

First in the low-price field with 2 big-car sizes, a contoured frame and an all-new "inner car," the luxurious '57 Ford brings you longer, lower, livelier going than ever before.

Comfort and "sighs" come king-size in the '57 Ford. That's because Ford alone in the low-price field is so wonderfully new all the way through.

The all-new frame, for instance, dips down and out between the wheels for extra passenger comfort, smooth going. Even most high-priced cars don't have this revolutionary new frame yet.

Power? Sure, all cars offer V-8's. But Ford has 22 years more V-8 experience than any other car at the price. And only Ford offers the Thunderbird's own engine.

You have to see those long, low, sculptured lines to appreciate Ford's "Look of Tomorrow." And you have to get behind the wheel to feel the inner beauty of this new kind of Ford.

64 Boys in High School P. E. Classes

Sixty-four boys are enrolled in three different physical education classes for boys in high school this year. These classes are composed of boys from all four grades in high school.

The following activities have been held in these classes: pass and touch football, dodge ball, basketball, rope jumping, tumbling, weight lifting, volley ball, and wrestling. Among the favorites are pass and touch football, basketball and gaining popularity daily is volley ball.

The first 10 minutes in each class is devoted to calisthenics, and the other activities listed follow. When it gets warm enough to go outside this spring, the boys will play softball. Another game to be added is ping-pong.

8th Grade Studies American History

By Mrs. Jim Garner and Mrs. Faust Collier

The purpose of the eighth grade social studies is an appreciation and knowledge of our American heritage in history and government.

This is developed through the study of the historical background of the better known documents pertaining to our nation. This is followed by memorization of the better known portions of such documents as Preamble to the Constitution, and portions of the Declaration of Independence, and Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, and some famous Patriotic literature.

Sports, Games Aid Physical Education

At the first of the school year the girls who were in physical education classes, along with their teacher, Mrs. Virgil Dodson, planned and scheduled the activities for the year. New games as well as old were given a place in the program. One-day each week is left open for the girls to choose the activity.

Stunts, relays, party procedure, and proper manner in which to apply for a job have been very interesting, the girls report. Basketball, volleyball, and variations of baseball, tennis and badminton are among the favorites. On Friday of each week the girls study their text books. They have date panels in which they discuss problems that arise in that connection. By following suggestions in the textbook, Teenagers, the girls are improving their personalities as well as their posture.

Recently, the P. E. girls have been thinking about the problem of teenage car accidents. Many of them think impartial law enforcement and stricter tests before obtaining a driver's license would help the situation.

IT'S: HER POINT OF VIEW TV Scenes Star Our Own People

By BETTY BABIONE

Doing the nice people that they are, I'm certain that Jerry Grubbs and Hazel Messick will continue to lead normal, unpretentious lives in spite of the fact that they both made their debuts in television this week.

There was no advance publicity or more people would have tuned in to watch our two local celebrities. Any number of Hereford's small fry have appeared on one or another children's programs originating in Amarillo, but few adults have had experience via the TV medium.

Of the two ladies, Hazel was given the most time on the screen — something just short of 30 seconds I believe. However her appearance before the camera was not the least bit exhausting (as you might expect for a first-timer) because it was in the form of a photograph. The photo was a pretty fair, full-length shot of Hazel, her two offsprings, and her electric dryer.

I suppose the children and the dryer are famous now too. Anyway, there's a good chance that we'll be seeing this foursome again and again on television. How about that?

LIKE HAZEL, Jerry Grubbs didn't have a "speaking part" but her appearance was noted for plenty of action. A film shown on a Monday evening newscast featured Jerry as she hustled across an Amarillo street in the rain. Viewers got a dandy close-up of her while she, drenched but laughing, ran for shelter from both rain and TV camera. Although entirely unrehearsed, her television debut was most entertaining.

Offhand the only other adults (who have also had television experience) that I can think of are John Alken and Mrs. O. G. Hill, and they didn't have it as easy as Jerry and Hazel did. . . both made speeches, in person, before the studio cameras and both programs were what they call "live" — that is to say not on film.

And let better mention the group of F.I.R.A. girls who presented a style show on Cotton John's program some time ago. Guess our fair city has been well represented on television after all.

SINCE RAINY weather brings leisure hours for some farmers, this week has proved to be an opportune moving time for farm families, who are transplanting themselves. And this is a switch. . . people are moving from town to the country.

Norma Faye and Alvis Jolly and their cute little girls are in the process of moving to their farm north of town and even seem pleased about it. The J. D. Greeson family went the other direction; their new place of residence is a farm south of town and Ludie Greeson isn't too pleased over the move as yet. She's a city gal, but I bet she gets used to it quick and before long she'll probably like living out there where there's peace and quiet.

Some nice people who left their country homes temporarily for a two week vacation in Yuma and points in California are Mr. and Mrs. Aubyn Hodges and the Walter Hodges. They returned last week end and report a glorious time was had by all. Correction please: Mrs. Walter Hodges didn't return with the rest of the party. . . decided she wasn't ready for her vacation to end, so she is still having that glorious time.

Haven't had a chance to ask Aubyn if he did any fishing, but I can't imagine his passing up the opportunity if he had it.

FORMER RESIDENT, Dorothy Hopson, journeyed here from Colorado Springs just to go to her dentist. . . learned upon arrival that said dentist was out of town this week. Oh well, Dorothy's family and friends enjoyed visiting with her while she was in Hereford.

Every now and then I can be serious, and now is one of those times. The annual observance of World Day of Prayer is Friday, March 8. The event is a united effort on the part of Protestant church women throughout the world; and it would behoove each one of us to take part by attending the local service. It will be a worthwhile experience if we take time out, one short hour or less, to share in this spiritual effort.

The observance Friday will be at 3 p.m. at the Presbyterian Church.

MONKEYSHINES
LA MESA, Calif. — Mrs. Charles Huckabey's husband told her there was a surprise for her in the garage. She went to look.

A monkey leaped at her and started swinging on her arm.

This was a surprise to Huckabey, too. His surprise was a pack-aged gift.

The monkey was turned over to police, who started looking for its owner.

Adrian Scouts Have Banquet

By JUDY PINNELL

The Adrian Cub Scouts held their Blue and Gold Banquet Monday night in the high school gym. The boys had been planning for some time for this occasion. They prepared all the decorations.

One group presented a centerpiece built like a church. A steeple and cross adorned the top of the church. To the left of the church was a group of Scouts camping out — complete with pup-tents and equipment. To the right of the church were boy scouts participating in a baseball game. This won the first prize.

The other group made as their centerpiece a log cabin scene, mounted on styrofoam and a large picture of George Washington centered it.

The theme of the banquet was

Homaking Program Covers Six Areas

The homemaking program in Hereford High School covers six main areas of learning. While much public understanding of a school homemaking program does not go much past the knowledge that cooking and sewing are taught students in homemaking courses learn many things in the areas of family relations, clothing the family, health, home care of the sick, and first aid, and child development.

Students who take homemaking courses are members of the Future Homemakers of America organization, which helps to develop personalities and leadership ability and in which degrees of achievement are given to further interest in homemaking.

Summer home project work is included in activities of the program, as are adult classes, play school, style shows, special occasion parties, dinners, teas, banquets, and home visits.

Four credits of homemaking are offered in the high school, three years of vocational homemaking, plus a one-half credit for two years of summer home project work.

Ghost Towns Dot Texas Gulf Coast

ROCKPORT — Ghost of pioneer settlements stud the Texas coast from Bolivar Peninsula, where Jane Long passed the bitter winter of 1821 in old Ft. Las Casas, to Bagdad the Wicked, on the Mexican side of the Rio Grande. Almost every pass and every bay had its little cluster of homes and wharves because, in the early days most settlers and freighters found it easier to enter Texas by way of the sea.

The booming city of San Luis Pass was served in 1839 by a stage coach and ferry from the then tiny town of Galveston, but its days were numbered. Founded on San Luis Island as a cotton port, with 18 feet of water at its wharves, its harbor was destroyed within five years by tide and storm. Today, only an occasional grave uncovered by waves shows where the town once stood.

Old Velasco, on the east side of the Brazos mouth, was one of the oldest towns in Texas. In the same year that Mrs. Long watched East Galveston Bay freeze over, the schooner Lively arrived in Velasco with the first of Austin's colonists.

Between the Texas Revolution and the Civil War, Velasco and its sister town on the other side of the river — Quintana — were famous summer resorts. Wealthy planters of the area came with their families and there were dancing, games and courting for the young folks, social events for their mothers, and poker and horse racing for the men.

HOWEVER, with the ruin of the plantation system during the Civil War, the glories of Velasco and Quintana departed, leaving them mere shadows of themselves until modern industrial development began.

Around Matagorda Bay there was another group of communities. Of these and the many other ghost towns in Texas, none lived longer, none thrived better, and none died

These settlements on Espiritu Santo Bay were probably earliest of all on the Texas coast, but the Spanish port of Copano, on the northern side of Copano Bay, was used for commerce and smuggling shortly after, necessitating the posting of coast guards there as late as 1833.

Ruins of Copano, a few old houses at Lamar, and several buildings remaining at the site of old St. Mary's mark the locations of these once flourishing villages, but of Argans City — originally built about where the south end of Copano causeway now stands — there is no more sign than there is of Aransas Wharf, built on St. Joseph's before the Civil War, about opposite the present location of the Aransas Pass Light.

At Brazos Santiago Pass, between Padre and Brazos Islands, the town of Brazos was constructed on a sand spit just inside the bar.

On the northern shore of the Rio Grande, where it emptied into the sea, was Clarksville, a town of a Chevrolet Wins Coveted Manufacturers' Trophy at Daytona Beach as "best performing U. S. automobile"!

Want facts about performance? Then look at the official figures from NASCAR's* internationally famous Daytona Beach competition for stock cars. Here's what you'll find: Chevrolet, in two weeks of blistering competition, proved itself as America's Number One performance car. Nothing in the low-price field could touch it.

No other car, regardless of price, scored such a sweep. And Chevy walked away with the famous Manufacturers' Trophy, hands down!

The 1957 Chevrolet is, by all odds, the most astonishing performer ever produced in the low-price field. Best of all, this superiority isn't limited to just a few extra-cost high-performance models. Every type of Chevy—from the six-cylinder models right up to the 283-horsepower "Super Turbo-Fire" V8's, from the single-carburetor V8's with Powerglide to the stick-shift "270's"—is a championship car.

Mrs. Turtle Has Turtle Collection

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The biggest collection of turtles is located, naturally enough, at the residence here of retired Col. and Mrs. Lewis Turtle.

The Turtles were married here in 1927.

"I decided to capitalize on my new name," Mrs. Turtle recalls, "and I began collecting. I collected all sorts and kinds—but never any live ones. I don't have any use for them."

As Col. Turtle's army assignments took him far and wide in this country and abroad, Mrs. Turtle began amassing the collection that now numbers in the hundreds.

She has turtles that ring bells, turtle ash trays, turtle soap, turtle candle sticks and turtle clocks. And she has a unique collection of turtle costume jewelry — earrings, pins, bracelets and the like.

Mrs. Turtle says she has never bought a turtle trinket. All of them have been gifts from friends and acquaintances and of course, old Army companions.

Once she began looking for a turtle door-knocker, she hunted high and low on the west coast and in Hawaii to no avail. When she returned to this country a friend sent her a door knocker. It had been purchased in El Paso.

The colonel himself is not too much of a turtle collector. "Until his retirement a few years past, Col. Turtle served in the Coast Artillery after his graduation from West Point. He was in the same West Point class with Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Beauty At Home

Q. How often do you recommend shampooing the hair?

A. This is entirely an individual problem. If one's hair tends to be oily, shampoo it as often as when the hair begins to stick or mat together. If the hair tends to dryness, less shampooing should be necessary.

Q. My face is ruddy, flushed, and flared, with visible veins around my nose and on my cheeks. How can I make up to camouflage this?

A. My first thought is that you should visit your doctor and have him recommend some dietary changes. Usually your condition is due to enlarged capillaries near the skin's surface, caused by overstimulation of food, liquids, heat or cold.

Q. How can I add a delicate fragrance to my handkerchiefs?

A. When laundering them, put a small piece of orris root in a muslin bag and boil with the handkerchiefs. This will add a faint aroma of violets to your hankies.

Q. My mouth has a rather heavy lower lip. What is the best way to lipstick?

A. You can create an optical illusion by using a lighter, brighter shade of color on the upper lip than on the lower. This makes it appear fuller and calls attention away from the heavy lower lip.

Q. What is a good exercise for flattening the tummy?

A. Lie on back on floor. Let your arms rest on floor overhead. Keep your knees stiff as you raise your trunk. Touch your fingers to your toes. Return to floor and stretch out. Keep repeating.

Q. Is there a good external treatment for perspiring hands?

A. A warm water and alcohol bath will help dry them. Two or three times daily, use an astringent lotion made of one part boric acid to 20 parts water. Then dust the hands afterward with some talcum powder.

Q. My hair seems to be losing its auburn tint. Is there something I can do about this?

A. Try this: Dilute a little salt of tartar in a pint of warm water, and rub well into the hair until a good lather is acquired. Leave on for about a half-hour, then rinse out.

Q. How can I mix a good bleaching lotion for my face?

A. Four ounces of lemon juice, two of rose water, and two of fine-grade glycerin. After washing face rub it with this mixture. It softens the skin, and it bleaches.

Q. How can I dress to help camouflage the appearance of large legs?

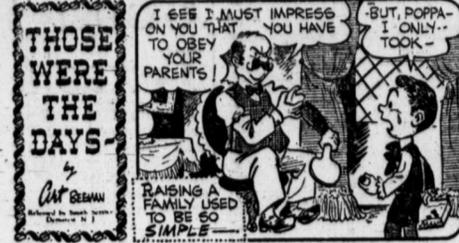

A. Wear darker shades of hosiery, and only moderately high heels.

Q. How can I treat a dry scalp and persistent dandruff?

A. Thorough and faithful shampooing, brushing and massaging, plus hot-oil treatments are your answer. You should use two stiff, clean hairbrushes, with which to brush at least 300 strokes every night. Brushing is the most vigorous exercise you can give your scalp, and it does wonders for its blood circulation. Drink plenty of water, which is very good for both scalp and skin.

Husband, Wife Team Catches Plenty of Fish

DALLAS (AP)—Lake Whitney is the fishing target for thousands of Texans, because of it there's a lot of talk among fishing people about the heavy fishing pressure.

But Roff Hood, a little fellow from Dallas who is about as good as they come in the bass catching business, just grins when this kind of conversation pops up.

In fact, Roff tells 'em, there's some water on the big lake that has never had a plug dropped in it.

"That's right," says Hood. "Some of that water in the upper end of the lake is still so full of brush that nobody's penetrated it enough to plug it. . . it is untouched."

Untouched water, to a fisherman, is almost a heaven on earth.

HOOD AND his wife, Marie, are among the best-known bass teams on Whitney, and very few people catch more fish. For quite awhile now, they've been coming in from their weekend trips with big strings of fish . . . and big fish. It is often said, by upper-lake observers, that the Hoods catch more bass than anybody.

This big fish business is old hat with Roff, who has been a fisherman for a long time, and few people take their plugging as seriously.

When Roff was discharged from the service, back after World War II, he decided he was way behind on his fishing. So he and Marie talked it over and took out for Florida.

For a solid year, they fished. PEOPLE around the St. Johns River always referred to Hood as 'the fishingest Texan in the world.' How did Roff pay for the venture?

"We'd fish for bass one day," Roff grins, "then fish commercially the next. . . to take care of what little expenses we had. It worked fine." Roff and Marie don't make an expensive thing of their fishing. They have the necessary equipment for camping out, and during the warm months simply pitch camp under the stars and fish.

No expense for cabins. Few weekends pass, too but what the Hoods don't head for Whitney, and a shot at those big bass they know lurk in that heavily-brushed water. HOOD IS also well-acquainted with Possum Kingdom, Texoma and Black Lake. He owns a cabin on Black, which is his favorite Louisiana lake, and figures PK is currently the best Texas spot.

He thinks Whitney, however, will yield lots of seven and eight-pound blacks in a year or two, and right now he says fishing on Whitney is good enough to be called "wonderful."

In the 1956 State Bass Tournament on Whitney, Roff and Marie finished high in the team running, and Roff was third in the individual competition, although they were plugging in unfamiliar water. Rains had muddied the upper end, and they had to move down to water they knew little about.

But Roff and Marie got 'em and it was no surprise, because they've made a habit of catching bass where others fail.

Despite the inclement weather, the opening of the stock reduction sale at George A. Stambaugh's yesterday morning was largely attended and the clerks were busy from the start. Ten free dress patterns were secured by ladies of the community and all were well pleased with their gifts. Mr. Charles E. Cole of Cork, Ireland, sales manager, has now put on three successful sales in Hereford.

A number of friends of Miss Alta Renfro gathered at her home Feb. 23 to help her celebrate her birthday. After a number of games a luncheon was served to the following guests: Misses Wright, Caylor, Beach, Wilson, Churchill, Robinson, Callia and Clara Lambert and Lillian and Myrtle Bennett; Messrs. Dunlap, Mount, Thomas, Bennett, Wright, Cochell, Kane, Cockrell and John and Fred Caylor.

FINE JUDGE

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Robert Bass was brought before Judge Eugene Loe in City Police Court on a charge of refusing to pay a $1.25 taxi fare. Loe learned the man was free under five-year probation so a conviction, even on a minor charge, would force him back to prison.

The taxi driver agreed to drop the charge if he were paid. Bass could find only a dollar in his pockets so the judge said: "It's O.K. I'll pay the quarter."

What am I?

You are a small part of a great plan. The more you learn the more you realize the greatness of that plan and find true humility.

Only when you acknowledge the fact that all men are in the image and likeness of God do you understand your relationship to all men, who are equally important parts of that greater plan and vitally necessary to its fulfillment.

The pattern is simple. The evidence is overwhelming. Hate destroys. Love creates. Peace is ours when we abide by the fundamental law of God, which commands, "Love thy neighbor as thyself."

Old-Time Driver of Ambulance Remembers When

DALLAS (AP) — L. B. Torrey still can get excited when he hears a "Code Three emergency" over his police radio, although he no longer has to hitch up the horses and go clanging to the scene of violence.
Torrey was the driver of a horse-drawn ambulance in 1912. He is retired now, but he still listens to the police radio.
Back when he was driving, Dallas was mushrooming into a metropolis and the population was sometimes violent.
"There was nothing dull about driving an ambulance in those days," he recalls.
"There were always plenty of cuttings and shootings along with the sick calls to keep you on the go."
TORREY began his career as an ambulance driver when he was 17.

He worked for the Sam Pollock Funeral Co.
"I made $50 a month and was on duty or on call 24 hours a day," he said recently.
Because the Pollock Co. had a quick harness system like those used on fire wagons, they made emergency pickups whenever the city ambulance was tied up.
"With the bell clanging and the horses at a full gallop, we got around pretty fast," he said.
Most of the streets were dirt or Bois d Arc blocks," he said, adding that the streets got pretty deep in mud at times.

EQUIPMENT was pretty fancy in those days, he recalled.
"The Loudermilk Funeral Home had three hearses," he said, "a white one with a team of white horses for youngsters, a grey one with a dapple team for middle-aged people, and a black one with a black team for elderly people."
"I was sitting in a restaurant eating one day, when the fellow next to me said he was going to kill himself," the ex-driver recounted.

"I asked if he was serious and he said 'yes.' So I asked him if he would be kind enough to go home and get dressed in his best suit and then join me at the funeral home and shoot himself there so I wouldn't have to go so far after him."
"He said, 'you're pretty hard-hearted aren't you?' You know maybe I was, but he forgot all about killing himself."

Thawing Frozen Pipes
When the kitchen sink pipe freezes, connect the electric iron, stand it on end against the pipe and it will thaw out quickly. Never thaw the middle of the pipe first, and keep a faucet open to know when the thawing is completed.

Tomato Sauce
To prevent curdling when combining tomatoes and hot milk, add a pinch of soda to the tomatoes and pour them into the milk. The curdling, which would take place if the order of pouring were reversed, is thus avoided.

Tapstry Furniture
Dust and dirt can be removed from tapstry furniture by rubbing with hot bran.

Cleaning Rugs
Shave one-half bar of good white soap into four quarts of boiling water, add one-half cup of salt, one cup ammonia, and one cup rubbing alcohol. Wipe rugs with a cloth dipped in this solution, and fairly well wrung out. Then wipe rug with a dry cloth.

The Nut Cracker
Have you ever tried the nut cracker for loosening the stopper on a bottle that seems glued on? It works fine as a wrench to open bottles with stubborn screw tops.

Frozen Plants
If your plants freeze, pour cold water over each pot, cover with newspapers and set in a dark place for several days. Gradual thawing may save them.

Roasting Pan
Pour a few drops of ammonia into every greasy roasting pan after filling the pan with hot water. If they are treated in this way immediately after being used and are left to stand until it is time to wash them, the work of cleaning them will be found half done.

Teakettle Knob
If the knob on the teakettle lid is hollow, try pressing a cork into the hollow space. It will keep the knob from becoming so hot and enable one to handle the lid more comfortably.

Next Day's Salad
The vegetables that are left from dinner, such as beets, peas, or celery, can be utilized in the next day's luncheon salad.

Shiny Suits
To remove shine from tailored suits, wet a thin piece of muslin in witch hazel and spread it over the shiny portion of the garment. Hold a hot iron over it until it steams. Then press on the wrong side.

BATTLING NEW BASS DUE SOON

AUSTIN — Scientific research designed to expand fresh water sports fishing facilities in Texas will pay another dividend this spring when the first consignment of small mouth black bass will be distributed.

Scene of the latest Game and Fish Commission effort to add even more variety for anglers will be the South Fork of the Llano River, over a stretch extending from Junction in Kimble County to Telegraph, about 15 miles distant.

This area, a rugged rolling, picturesque section on the northern fringe of the famous Edwards Plateau country, provided spring fed waters, a primary requisite for small mouth, said the commissions chief aquatic biologist, Marian Toole.

THE SMALL mouth project is being handled under the Dingell-Johnson Act, a Federal arrangement whereby funds are allowed on the basis of three-fourths from the United States government and one-fourth by Texas. This financing procedure, which originated under the Pittman-Robertson law precedent, for game animals, is based on an excise tax levied against sports fishing tackle for the specific purpose of maintaining and restoring angling resources.

The work is done by states under this procedure with strict supervisory control of both funds and techniques by the Federal authorities.

Toole described the small mouth program as "one of the more fascinating of our modern stocking jobs."

"Every experienced fly caster who has been around knows about the fighting instincts of small mouth bass," he said. "And they all look ahead to the time when their own state, if not presently populated with this little fighter, can put them on location."

HE WENT on to say that the small mouth has a striking resemblance to the ordinary black bass but does not reach the sizes of the "big brother." He described a two pound small mouth black bass as "a mighty big fish."

"If you get a two pounder on your light tackle, you would think you had a monster," Toole explained. "And your confirmed small mouth fan will argue that the small mouth's actions makes the black bass seem slow by comparison."

The stock of small mouth under the new program will be obtained from the Federal hatchery at Tishamingo, Okla., which is just above Lake Texoma, or about 40 miles into Oklahoma.

These small mouth are known as the northern species. About 10,000 will comprise the initial stocking. If subsequent checks indicate they are thriving, another consignment may be obtained next fall, said the Chief Aquatic Biologist.

AQUATIC Biologist Elgin Dietz, who will supervise the stocking, said the small mouths under order from the Federal hatchery will be one to two inches in length. He said if the environment proves satisfactory the small mouth will grow rapidly and be ready for action by next spring.

Dietz said the South Fork of the Llano seems ideal for the newest Texas fish species since the river is spring fed, thus assuring plenty of clear, swift waters and has rock or gravel bottom which "the little fellows" require.

He added that while some large mouth blacks and some spotted bass inhabit the South Fork the water is generally too cold for that species. He said tests indicate that some stretches of the river might become too warm for the small mouth that there seems to be adequate areas near the mouths of the springs.

Dietz said abundant food is available, mainly in crayfish, insects and larvae.

Soil Testing Labs Report Upswing in Business

COLLEGE STATION—Soil samples submitted to the State Laboratory at A&M College and the branch lab at Seymour during January were well ahead of the number sent in last year for testing. M. K. Thornton—extension agricultural chemist, said the State Lab handled 1,530 soil samples last month or about 200 more than for January a year ago.

Baylor County Agent R. L. McClung, who operates the Seymour Lab, said 130 samples were received by mid-January when bad weather made the job of taking samples almost impossible. By the end of the month, the total had reached 151 samples.

The two laboratory operators have received reports which clearly demonstrate the value of soil testing. McClung reported that the yields of lint cotton in his area were increased by as much as 225 to 434 pounds an acre by farmers who followed the fertilizer recommendations for their farms. Thornton reported similar increases for cotton from other sections of the state.

During 1956 the State Lab handled 9,755 soil samples and since September, Thornton said, the number of samples submitted was running well ahead of the number for last year.

Both men reported that interest continues to grow in soil testing work and give as primary reason, the great need for increasing per unit output in order to cut production costs. Too, the increasing use of irrigation to supplement the shortage of rainfall was cited as another reason why top production must be obtained to offset additional cost. The laboratory operators urge farmers and ranchmen to submit soil samples well ahead of planting dates so that full benefit can be derived from the test results and recommendations which go back to the producer from the lab.

Local county agents, SCS, soil conservation district personnel, the teachers of vocational agriculture and others can supply information on how to take and submit soil samples.

New Uses for Farm Products Being Sought

WACO — "Only through finding new uses for its products can agriculture prosper and share in the fruits of a changing and expanding national economy."

J. Walter Hammond, president of the Texas Farm Bureau, made that statement this week in announcing that the TFB will make a concerted effort to obtain adequate funds for agricultural research in Texas.

The state farm organization is seeking an appropriation of approximately $10.5 million for use by the Texas A&M Experiment Station over the next two years. In addition the TFB is asking for about $2.1 million for the State's Extension Service for the same period.

The Farm Bureau has been working closely with the Texas A&M Experiment Station and Extension Service in planning a program of agricultural research in Texas.

Hammond said the program would place emphasis on conversion of agricultural commodities into products which the consuming public needs and is willing to buy.

Passes have been sent to the following honoring them on the occasion of their Wedding Anniversary March 7-March 9.

Pasture Fertilization Called Good Investment

COLLEGE STATION — Every dollar intelligently spent on cultivated pasture fertilization will return from two to 10 dollars, says extension pasture specialist E.M. Trew, and he cites a soil test as the smartest one-dollar expense toward fertilizing pastures properly.

Pastures, like all other crops, require adequate plant food, says the specialist. Plant food in a ton of grass hay contains about 30 pounds nitrogen, 10 pounds phosphoric acid, and 30 pounds potassium, while a ton of legume hay contains about 25 per cent more N, P, and K, Trew says.

A soil test is the best means of determining fertilizer requirements Trew says, and adds that it is not uncommon to double pasture and meadow yields with good fertilizer management. Properly fertilized pastures make it easier for stock to make economical gains, maintain body weight, and avoid calving or breeding trouble, he says.

Trew warns against surface applications of nitrogen without adequate soil moisture and adds that dry fertilizer containing nitrogen causes burning when applied to plants wet from dew or rain. With temporary pastures it is best to band phosphate and potash into soil either ahead of or at planting, but they may be applied during renovation or cultivation in case of permanent pastures, Trew says.

The specialist says warm season grasses such as Bermuda or Dalgriss in permanent pastures may be fertilized either in early spring just before or at the time these summer plants begin growth or at fall and winter cultivation or renovation. He says 30 to 60 pounds of actual nitrogen per acre may be applied each time plants are grazed down, provided sufficient moisture is available for added plant growth. Cool season grasses such as fescue should be fertilized in the early fall ahead of the growing season.

Mixed fertilizers should be applied on temporary pastures, Trew says, before or at planting time.
