

Judges Panel Puts Off Filing Deadline In 16 State Districts

By KEN HERMAN
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A three-judge federal panel postponed the filing deadline in 16 congressional districts until March 19 and blamed the U.S. Attorney General's office for the delay. The judges, in the order that also barred any congressional elections in Texas until new district lines are drawn, chastized the Justice Department for waiting until Jan. 29 to reject a redistricting plan it said diluted minority voting strength.

Judge Sam Johnson of the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals said in the order Monday that the judges' ability "to function in the best interest of the people" of Texas has been "substantially impeded" by the federal officials' late decision.

"This impediment has been occasioned by the unseemly delay, inattention and inactivity of the office of the At-

City Okays Use Of Center

The Hereford City Commission granted permission to the Full Gospel Businessmen International chapter here for use of the community center once a month for a breakfast meeting.

Wes Fisher opposed the proposal. The commission approved a franchise renewal to Hereford Cablevision for cable service to the community.

The commission authorized a formal call for election to seat members for new terms in places 3 and 4. The election will be April 3 in the community center.

Errors in property taxes were also authorized to be corrected.

Two City Policemen Resign

Two Hereford patrolmen have resigned their posts this month and taken jobs in Dumas, according to Chief Don Brush.

Joe Scott turned in a resignation Feb. 8 and Harold Briggs gave notice Feb. 13. Both cited personal reasons, Brush said.

Scott had been with the squad since July 1980 and Briggs since July 1979.

Brush had "no comment" on any details of the resignations.

Trash Bill Increase Next Month

March water bills will show the $1 trash collection increase, according to Dudley Bayne, city manager.

Residential rates were increased from $2.50 to $3.50 and commercial rates increased on a percentage basis.

A study in January showed that the city was losing money on the trash collection service due to increases in fuel costs and maintenance.

The chamber's Fun Breakfast of the year is scheduled Thursday morning at the Community Center, and the usual fun, games and prizes will be featured at the event.

Some folks don't like arising for a 6:30 breakfast, but it's worth the trouble to mix and mingle with your friends and neighbors, learn of the upcoming events in the community, join in the fun of the program, and be eligible for cash prizes!

If the political "experts" have you worried about the projected federal budget deficit, and the newscasts and daily headlines seem to forecast that the deficit is sealing our fate as a great nation, then you need to hear the other side of the story.

It's not that big of a deal, according to Richard W. Kopcke, vice president and economist of the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston.

"The debate over federal deficits rages on. But it is probably not worth the considerable attention it attracts."

Kopcke points out that "unlike the budgets of businesses, households, many state and local governments, and some foreign governments, the federal budget does not distinguish between current expenses and capital investment—the federal budget is nothing more than a cash flow statement."

He adds that "it is not unusual for a healthy business to show a cash flow deficit. Indeed, if the aggregate budget of America's non-financial corporations were calculated the way the national budget is, the total budget would show a deficit of $104 billion for 1980."

Some farmers use the same type of bookkeeping as the federal government. They have a habit of mixing capital expenditures along with operating expenses, and the two mix about as well as water and oil.

The economist says the reported deficit is a poor summary of fiscal policy. In all of the news reports, no mention was made of the nation's gross national product. Along with the projected budget deficit, we might keep in mind that the GNP—the sum of all business activity in the nation—is expected to hit $2.7 trillion this year.

So, a $100 billion dollar deficit amidst an economy that is cracking along at 2700 times that amount, can't be as sick as some writers and political pundits would have us believe.

Oil Rig Sinks, 84 Workers Feared Dead

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland (AP) — Eighty-four offshore oil workers, 15 of them Americans, were missing and believed dead today after the sinking of the world's biggest oil rig in a North Atlantic storm.

The 4,262-ton Soviet freighter Mekhanik Tarasov with 37 people aboard was listing 45 degrees in the same storm, but the weather improved slightly, and the crew chose to stay aboard until a Soviet fishing boat arrived. Meanwhile, a Danish fishing boat was standing by to take off the crew if the ship began to sink.

The search and rescue center in Halifax said the freighter was about 240 miles east of Newfoundland and about 65 miles east of the drilling site in the Hibernia field where the storm's huge waves capsized the $120 million oil rig Ocean Ranger Monday morning.

HALIFAX, Nova Scotia (AP) — A Soviet freighter with 37 people aboard was reported sinking early Tuesday in the stormy North Atlantic 65 miles east of the area where the oil rig Ocean Ranger and its crew of 84 men were lost the day before.

Ships and a plane dispatched to help the ship were not expected on the scene before daylight.

The Search and Rescue Coordination Center reported the 4,262-ton container ship Mekhanik Tarasov was listing 45 degrees. One report said the ship's cargo shifted, causing the list.

"She's in a very bad way," a spokesman at the rescue center said. "With a list like that, it's a wonder she's even still afloat."

Two ships, the Canadian Coast Guard's Sir Humphrey Gilbert and the Soviet fishing vessel Tolbachik, were en route to the scene about 240 miles east of Newfoundland. But at 1 a.m. EST the rescue

None Injured In Jet Mishap

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A Boeing 737 jet that clipped high-power lines and damaged its brakes slid off a runway into a sandy embankment during an emergency landing at Los Angeles International Airport, officials said today.

None of the 119 people aboard the Air California flight was injured in the accident Monday night, authorities said.

The jet was scheduled for a 9:05 p.m. landing at Ontario Airport, about 50 miles east of Los Angeles, but the pilot diverted to Los Angeles after it appeared the plane might have struck something, officials said.

"The plane hit two high-power lines and broke them about four miles east of Ontario Airport," said Los Angeles International opera-which leased the Japanese-built rig from a Louisiana company, said the crew included 15 Americans, 52 Newfoundlanders, 16 men from other parts of Canada and one Briton. The company said the names would not be announced until the families were notified.

It was the second highest toll in the history of offshore drilling, exceeded only by the loss of 123 men in the capsizing of the rig Alexander Kielland in the North Sea on March 27, 1980.

Only one body from the Ocean Ranger crew was recovered. Searching ships and aircraft reported sighting three of the rig's four lifeboats, with two bodies in one of them, two of the 12 lifeboats, and bodies in red-and-orange survival suits and debris in the water. But the 50-foot waves prevented recovery of the other bodies, and fog and low visibility hampered the search.

center said they were not expected to reach the Mekhanik Tarasov for at least three hours.

The Gilbert was diverted from the search for survivors from the oil rig after all 84 men had been given up for lost. A third ship sent to aid the Mekhanik Tarasov broke down and had to give up the attempt, the rescue center said.

A Canadian Air Force Buffalo was also being sent from Prince Edward Island with pumps and life-saving equipment. The ship was out of the range of land-based helicopters.

The rescue center said both it and the rescue ships were without direct communication with the Mekhanik Tarasov and were communicating via another ship in the area.

High winds and waves were buffeting the ship.

The Soviet ship was en route to a Europe from Trois Rivieres, Quebec.

tions officer Michael Powell. That mishap apparently triggered a failure of the jetliner's hydraulic system, officials said. The National Transportation Safety Board was investigating the accident.

Elizabeth Rogers, a passenger from Covina, said she thought she felt an impact during the approach.

"We started coming down and I didn't notice anything unusual. Then all of a sudden there was this big bump and then we just took off straight up in the air, all the thrusters going trying to get us up," she said.

Another passenger, James Nashby of Oakland, said he "saw what appeared to be a flash of light or sparks, or something to that effect."

Nancy Moved By Drug Treatment Center Visit

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Only the names and faces of the troubled teenagers varied. Their declarations before a huge audience that included a tearful Nancy Reagan were always the same: "I am a druggie."

For three hours Monday night, the first lady sat in a hot auditorium crowded with 300 drug-prone adolescents and 600 anxious parents involved in a treatment program called Straight Inc.

She listened to the songs they sang enthusiastically. She heard an unending litany of substances they once used to "get high." And she watched as a microphone was passed from parent to parent, some scolding their children for setbacks, others offering praise and love.

And when the microphone finally got to the president's wife, her voice choked. "My heart is filled with so many things," she told the teen-agers. "I am so proud of you and I love you, too."

Tears welling in her eyes, she turned to the parents: "Being a parent myself, I know how painful it must be for you. There's nothing as painful for a parent as having something happen to their children and nothing as hurtful."

Then again to the youngsters: "I wish you all the best of luck and the most wonderful lives and I know you will have it. I know everything will be just fine."

Mrs. Reagan's two-day trip on behalf of drug abuse prevention was concluding today after a stop in Dallas. Monday night's program was an unusual experience.

First, the children singing from their seats in front of the auditorium while their parents waited outside; loud, loud singing; a cappella; with hands moving in unison; such songs as "America" and "I'm On My Way."

Next, the counselors would ask what was the most outrageous substance they had ever used (roach killer); the most outrageous place they found to hide drugs (parents' mattress); how many had introduced drugs to children they babysat for (about half); and so on.

Girls were pitted against the boys. The competition was so strong that one counselor finally pleaded, "C'mon, girls. You can top the guys." All 300 of the children frantically waved their hands high in the air for a chance to reveal how outrageous they once had been.

Then the parents were admitted. Slowly and silently they filed in one-by-one, filling all

TWPA Meeting Re-Set

The Texas Wheat Producers Association meeting for Deaf Smith County will be at 7:30 p.m., Feb. 25, in Hereford State Bank.

The meeting had been postponed from earlier this month due to bad weather, according to Frank Zinser Jr., county director.

There will be no shots in the dark for the Deaf Smith County 4-H Shooting Sports Club. Trip to Africa Boosts Pope

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — After four crowded days in tropical African heat, Pope John Paul II has a bruise on his chest, lines around his eyes and about a pound less on his waistline.

But the 61-year-old Roman Catholic pontiff appears to be getting the same boost from this foreign trip that he got from the nine he made before the attempt on his life nine months ago.

"He's trying to prove to me he can do it all the same as before," said Archbishop Paul Marcinkus of Cicero, Ill., who plans the pope's trips.

Papal aides concede that the pope's gait is heavier, he jokes less frequently and he is more aware of security precautions since a Turkish terrorist shot him in St. Peter's Square last May 13. But even before his departure from Rome, he astounded his doctors.

They were reluctant to inoculate him against typhus and cholera shots, fearing toxic residues of the anesthetics administered when he was operated on six months ago would produce a dangerous reaction in combination with the shots. But there were no adverse effects.

John Paul is trailed as he goes about by his two doctors, Renato Buzzonetti, director of Vatican health services, and Stanislaw Wlodek, a Polish physician of long acquaintance. An ambulance also is usually in every papal motorcade.

But the pope's only injury so far is a chest bruise suffered when his jeep braked suddenly to avoid a surging crowd in the northern city of Kaduna and jolted him against the crossbar.

John Paul appeared to be pacing himself at the start of his visit, but the pace has picked up. After humid 100-degree mornings, he rebounds after lunch to joke with nuns and laymen and engage in the extemporaneous banter that has endeared him to crowds around the world.

If he has a pet peeve, it appears to be the security precautions that were increased Monday after reports

Texas Girl Critical

After Liver Transplant

PITTSBURGH (AP) — An 8-year-old Texas girl was in critical condition today after doctors completed a transplant operation that could save her life.

The 13½-hour operation that concluded about 5 a.m. EST today was to remove Cassie McPherson's diseased liver, which has malfunctioned because of a congenital disorder.

Surgeons were forced to improvise five hours through the operation when, after removing her liver, they discovered the girl apparently did not have a portal vein, which links the stomach and liver and is essential to healthy liver function.

The girl's mother said Dr. Thomas Starzl told her team of surgeons would try "something we've never tried before" to complete the operation, but he would not elaborate on the new procedure.

Without the new liver, donated by the family of an unidentified New York City boy who had been kept alive by a respirator, the Seagoville girl would have died within six months, her mother said.

"It was just in time," said Carolyn McPherson. "I doubt she would have lived to see her birthday" June 4.

Fifty pints of blood — 10 times the amount that circulates through the girl's body — was set aside for the operation.

During the operation, hundreds of blood vessels linking Cassie's liver with her bloodstream were cut and reattached to the donated liver.

Shuttle Driven To Launch Pad Ahead of Schedule

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Space shuttle Columbia was driven 3½ miles to its launch pad today aboard a transporter-crawler that inched ponderously along a gravel roadway to the seaside launch complex.

The move took 6½ hours and was a key step in preparing the shuttle for its third mission, a 7-day orbital flight beginning March 22.

The rollout of the 184-foot-high shuttle assembly from the cavernous Vehicle Assembly Building began at 4:21 a.m. EST aboard the 50-foot-high transporter. The journey ended at about 10:50 a.m.

Technicians expected to spend two hours or more making sure the mobile launcher platform, on which the shuttle is anchored, was connected and "hard down," or fastened securely, on the pad.

The transfer, five days ahead of schedule, began 40 minutes before its 5 a.m. scheduled start to avoid a storm front which was expected at Kennedy Space Center later in the day.

The first half of the move was carried out in darkness and then in scattered clouds and fog after daybreak. But the second half was in bright sunshine, with the black and white orbiter, its silvery twin rocket boosters and mustard-colored external tank silhouetted against a powder blue sky.

Gunman Fires

At Miami Attendants

MIAMI (AP) — A gunman fired several shots at two gate attendants and an Air Florida jetliner on the ground at Miami International Airport today, but no one was hurt and the man was quickly taken into custody, police said.

The plane's crew had seen the man coming and shut the plane's door before he could board, authorities said.

The man pulled the gun and started shooting while he was in the passageway between the departure gate and the plane, a Boeing 737 with 25 passengers and five crew members preparing to leave for Key West, according to airline spokeswoman Robin Cohn.

Dade County police spokesman Dave Graveline said the man also fired on officers. Ms. Cohn said the man, a Latin, held a one-way ticket on Air Florida's Flight 34.

Ms. Cohn said the gate agents thought he looked suspicious and called the cockpit. The crew shut the door before the man could get there. He pulled the gun and shot at two agents when they tried to search him, she said.

FBI agent Chris Mazzella said the agency was investigating.

"We consider the concourse area sufficiently close to interference with an aircraft to bring it within the jurisdiction of the hijack statutes," Mazzella said. "I don't know if we've got a hijacking (attempt), but we are investigating the incident."

"Our gate agent thought the passenger looked suspicious as he was coming through the jetway, so he quickly had the door of the aircraft shut," Ms. Cohn said.

Let the Aging Bear Scare

President Reagan's proposed budget, even as yours and mine, hopes to reduce expenses and increase income.

But... It includes increased expenses for military purposes.

Some of the President's best friends are objecting. Sen. Bob Dole says, "We are asked to make further cuts in food stamps and Medicaid and nutrition programs while increasing defense spending; some of us won't."

But Defense Secretary Weinberger says more weapons and manpower money is essential to rebuild our military power to match the Soviets.

"The Russians are coming! The Russians are coming!" Ronald Reagan and I were in the vanguard of those warning about Soviet expansionism 30 years ago.

Both of us were part of the scenario of the '50s when communism really was a Moscow-based missionary religion seeking to engulf the world.

And it's not that fear is out of date; the date is out of date.

The times they are a 'changing'.

The "domino theory" was intriguing. It was based on the Isaac Newton concept of inevitability. But nowhere on earth did the momentum sustain even to the second domino.

The Soviets have learned that for a nation's reach to exceed its grasp weakens rather than strengthens.

The Soviets in one country after another have been eased out or thrown out of Africa and much of Asia.

So fragmented is the Communism since Tito talked back that Moscow can't even control her next-door neighbor nations--Afghanistan, Poland.

In any modern days' East-West confrontation China's Communists would want to be on our side.

The times they are a 'changing'.

And American leadership, still trying to categorize as one the wide spectrum of "Reds," has misled us into replacing dictatorships with dictatorships in Korea, Vietnam--and next--El Salvador.

The Alex Haigs once upon a time had a very valid reason for fearing Khrushchev's burial plan for us, but time ravages all isms--including ours.

There should be our primary concern in the 1980s. Not the waning virility of the already over-extended U.S.S.R. but our own nation's economic health and strength.

The Red Bear can be kept treed without all those astronomically expensive ships and tanks--and certainly without dated armies or marching bays.

Just dangle the big bomb over Moscow; that's the only weapon we have which intimidates them anyway.

This new American administration with its thrilling opportunity for a new beginning must be diverted, distracted, derailed, scared witless by an aging bear grown tired and toothless.

Jogger Breaks Wrist Wrestling Dog From Leg

An early morning jogger remains hospitalized today after he was attacked by a dog between Beach and Aspen Streets on Plains Monday.

Wayne Thomas, 206 Sunset, was out jogging around 7 a.m. when a dog bit into his ankle. While Thomas tried to fight the dog he slipped and fell, breaking his right wrist.

He was taken to Deaf Smith

General Hospital for treatment.

Police are still working on identification of the dog.

Police responded to a disturbance call and upon arriving found a man lying on the curb. He told police that someone had hit him or cut him on the head. He was taken to the hospital for observation.

Riverside Chemical reported that someone had knocked two holes in a fertilizer tank.

Several residences on Elm Street reported that someone had driven a vehicle across their yards.

One imprint which could have been made by a bullet was found on a car, which according to the driver, had been fired at about three times while leaving a convenience store on Fifteenth and Avenue H.

A vehicle parked in the 100 block of East Sixth had a window knocked out.

Neighborhood kids were blamed by a resident in the 900 block of McKinley for throwing rocks and clods of dirt at his car. The resident told police about $100 damage was done.

Police returned a lost billfold to an Earth man who had misplaced it in a restaurant. Someone had turned in the wallet to police.

Police issued 32 citations since Friday night, made one arrest for driving while intoxicated and four arrests for public drink. One minor accident was investigated.

County officers report that two men were arrested Saturday night after a fight at the labor camp. Jerry Barrientez was arrested on charges of aggravated assault and Armando Murrillo was arrested for assault of a peace officer.

A table saw was reported stolen from a residence on Route 4 and two persons were arrested on charges of driving while intoxicated and public drunk.

the seats in one row before starting the next.

The true confessions began. Children who were new to the program stood up and recited the substances they had used — pot, acid, uppers, downers, on and on — always ending with, "I am a druggie."

Individually, they apologized for how they had lied to their families and stolen. They renounced their former

"druggie" friends. They set goals, usually a desire to be more honest and open with their feelings and to rebuild their family relationships.

"I was a low-life daughter," confessed one girl, who under Straight Inc. rules must remain anonymous. "I feel real bad about that. My long-term goal is to earn the privilege to go home." She began to cry.

A boy volunteered: "The friends I had, they were druggies. They weren't really friends."

Next, it was time for the parents. Some said simply, "I love you, Laura." The girl would shout out in return, "Love you, Mom."

The children, in unison, would chant, "Love you, Laura."

One father declared: "It seems like a bad dream." Another man told his son,

"I'm learning about my feelings. We are more open at home."

A mother told her daughter, "For the first time in your life you're happy." Another mother said she was confused. Still another was "really mad because I have given, given, given. I am in this program to stay."

And so it went. The audience seemed spellbound. With the least bit of encouragement, they would jump to their feet and applaud loudly.

For many children, the program takes a full year. The first 30 or 40 days are spent away from home with a foster family that has a child who is nearly finished with the program. For the remainder of the time, the child returns home.

Program officials say 50 percent of their participants are drug free one year later, 25 percent "have problems" and return for a refresher course, and 25 percent go back to drugs.

The program costs parents between $1,000 and $2,500. It gets no government funds.

Deadline

Chairman Chet Upham of Midland and Democratic State Chairman Robert Slagle of Sherman said Monday they did not believe the decision would delay the primary election in Texas.

It was the second time the three judges delayed the filing deadline. On Jan. 25, they pushed it back to Feb. 22 from Feb. 1. The Monday order also pushed back the filing deadlines for State Board of Education elections in the 16 districts. Board members are elected by congressional district.

The redistricting plan went to court when minority plaintiffs, including legislators, filed suit challenging the plan drawn by the 1981 Legislature during a summer session. The plaintiffs claimed the plan was unfair to blacks and Mexican-Americans.

Johnson said the Jan. 29 decision from the Justice Department came "140 days after the initial information was submitted" to the federal officials and three days before the Feb. 1 filing deadline set by law.

Several South Texas officials have asked the Justice Department to reconsider its ruling. There was no indication Monday as to what, if anything, the federal officials have decided.

The Monday order delayed the filing deadline for these congressional and State Board of Education races: 3, 5, 6, 7, 8, 14, 15, 18, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27.

Plaintiffs want Johnson and U.S. District Judges

William Wayne Justice of Tyler and Robert Parker of Beaumont, to extensively rework the map drawn by the Legislature. Attorneys for the state want the changes to be limited to the two South Texas districts that drew objections from the Justice Department.

Johnson said the order might force other changes in election procedures. He told lawyers in the case to tell the court by Friday what other changes might be needed.

The Monday order lifted residency requirements for candidates in the 16 districts.

Only Two Suits Open In Blackthorn Collision

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Lawyers representing the tanker S.S. Capricorn have settled all but two of the suits brought on behalf of 48 Coast Guardsmen aboard the Blackthorn when the ships collided two years ago.

Twenty-three crew members died in the Jan. 28, 1980, sinking of the buoy tender in the mouth of Tampa Bay. The Blackthorn capsized after the Capricorn's seven-ton anchor speared its side and dragged the buoy tender backward.

The announcement of the settlement came Monday as the second week of a civil trial began in U.S. District Court. Details of the settlement were not made public, but The Tampa Tribune reported Tuesday that the settlement totaled about $5 million.

During the investigations that followed the collision, the officers of the Capricorn blamed the Blackthorn for straying into the tanker's side of the channel. Blackthorn officers blamed the tanker for turning into their path.

The Coast Guard Marine Board of Investigation said both ships were to blame for steaming down the center line of the channel, but the federal National Transportation Safety Board put most of the blame on the Blackthorn.

Grace Period Allows Late Registration

The Selective Service System is continuing to make available for public inspection lists of registrants and their tentative local board assignments. This is in keeping with the intent of Selective Service that its procedures be open to the public.

The list may be viewed at the County Courthouse.

The lists cover registrations processed through September 30, 1981, and include men born in 1960, 1961, 1962 and 1963.

Local board assignments are arranged by ZIP code based upon the registrant's permanent address.

The requirement to register applies to U.S. citizens, and to aliens residing in the United States, born on or after January 1, 1960. Men born in 1960 and 1961 were scheduled to register during July 1980; men born in 1962 were scheduled to register in January 1981; those born in 1963 were scheduled to be registered during 1981. Men born in 1964 are required to register within 30 days of their 18th birthday. They may do so at any U.S. Post Office.

On January 7, 1982, President Reagan announced his decision to continue peacetime Selective Service Registration. In announcing his decision, the President declared a grace period during which late registration would be accepted without penalty. That grace period extends through February 1982.

Anyone who was scheduled to register previously but has not yet done so is encouraged to register immediately at any U.S. Post Office in order to avoid any possible penalty.

For further information on this subject, contact Paul D. Aikin, State Director for the Selective Service System in Texas, 214-784-7593.

Security Guard Indicted For Theater Murder

HOUSTON (AP) — A former security guard has been indicted for capital murder in the strangulation of the Alley Theater managing director who apparently surprised her killer during an office robbery.

A Harris County grand jury indicted Clifford X. Phillips Monday after hearing the testimony of one witness believed to be the defendant's girlfriend, officials said.

Grand jurors allege Phillips, who also used the name Abdullah Bashir, strangled Iris Siff, 58, on Jan. 13 with a thin cord and then with his hands before he robbed her.

Investigators speculated Mrs. Siff was killed in her office after she surprised the killer while he attempted to steal several items.

Phillips was arrested at his mother's home in Los Angeles a week ago on an earlier indictment that alleged he set fire to an abandoned meat market here the day after Mrs. Siff was killed.

Authorities found several of Mrs. Siff's belongings in the rubble, including her purse, fur coat, jewelry and television, investigators said.

Phillips had worked at the downtown theater for about a month, but was not employed there at the time of Mrs. Siff's murder.

Investigators said Phillips grew up in Buffalo, N.Y., and worked there as a painter. Buffalo authorities said he was on parole until Jan. 12, 1985, for an unspecified offense. Jurors in New York City convicted Phillips of manslaughter in the 1969 death of his 3-year-old son, Cleaf.

The boy's skeletal remains were found in May 1970 in a suitcase in the vacant lot. Prosecutors charged he fatally beat his son because the child sucked his thumb.

Impatient Patient Gets Award In Claims Court

MEDFORD, Ore. (AP) — A patient who got tired of cooling his heels in his oral surgeon's office took his case to small-claims court this week — and won.

Jackson County District Judge Robert Warren on Thursday awarded Con Sellers $85, plus $35 court costs for travel time and money he couldn't earn while he waited more than an hour last March 9 to see his doctor. Sellers, 59, said he drove 42 miles to show up 30 minutes early for his appointment, as instructed by the doctor's staff, and walked out 77 minutes later without seeing him.

The judge told the doctor's office manager that it appeared the office had overbooked patients with the idea that some wouldn't show up.

"When somebody makes an appointment, they're entitled to that time," the judge said.

Sellers said he had asked the judge for $221, but was pleased with the result.

'Hands Around The World' On Display

Approximately 50 paintings and drawings of students from around the world are on display at Bluebonnet, Shirley and West Central Intermediate Schools as part of the "Hands Around the World" art exchange.

The program is an international citizenship program coordinated by the Texas Cultural Alliance to give students the opportunity to study cultures of other countries through art.

Texas students will also be creating pieces to send on tour.

The project began in 1974 with an exchange between the students of DeSoto, Texas, and those in Guatemala.

In 1976, other countries joined the program in honor of the United States' bicentennial.

Lois Ethridge Gives Garden Club Program

The Hereford Garden Club met Friday in the home of Mrs. Jack Wilcox. The program of the day, featuring slides of beautiful roses in a large garden in Shreveport, La., was given by Lois Ethridge.

Mrs. Clinton Jackson, president, read a thank you for the donation on city Christmas decorations. The group voted to recommend Mrs. Clint Formby as an outstanding West Texas woman for the West Texas State University Awards Banquet.

A project at the Cowgirl Hall of Fame and the purchase of a Deaf Smith County historical book were discussed, but no action was taken at the present time. The subjects will be discussed at a later date.

Mrs. O.G. Hill, Sr., announced that the concrete sidewalks are now complete at the Garden Center. Several members planted Dutch iris, daffodils, and tulips at the Center last month.

Mrs. Jackson appointed Lois Lemons and Virginia Garner to assist Mary Stoy on the membership committee. Members voted to send a $5 flower gift to members who are ill.

Ms. Ethridge reported that the high school rose garden committee found that the roses were old and unproductive, and that new bushes should be purchased if the garden is to be continued. Another report will be given in March.

Committee Chairwomen Appointed

A meeting of St. Thomas Episcopal Women was held recently in the parlor of the church with Francie Farr, newly elected president, opening with prayer. Minutes of the last meeting were read by secretary, Nancy Denton, and the treasurer's report was given by Ellen Carter.

A budget for the year was presented and approved. Discussions were held concerning the showcase, which

Ann Landers

Proper Discipline Pays Off

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You must hate children. Several weeks ago you printed a letter and agreed with the writer that youngsters do not belong in beauty shops. A few days later you ran a letter about what a nuisance children are in restaurants. Just last week I heard the manager of a supermarket say he wished he could keep all children under 12 out of his store. He said they eat the fruit, knock over the merchandise and run in the aisles. Nobody wants kids. What are mothers supposed to do? Keep them in the attic until they are old enough to vote?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Honestly, some of your readers are exasperating! How do you stand it? For example, the mother who was mad at you because of your stand on taking hellions to restaurants.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This may be out of your line, but I have a lot of confidence in your ability to get the right answer—no matter what the problem.

No one objects to a well-behaved child in a restaurant. It is the sole responsibility of the parents to see that their children conduct themselves properly. My grandchildren could be taken out to eat at a very early age because they were not allowed to run around. They sat quietly and caused no problems. People often came by the table and commented to their parents on how well-behaved the youngsters were. I say if your child is boss in the house, he is sure to be a terror in a restaurant, and it's not fair to other patrons who pay for a quiet and restful dinner.—For The Record In Arkansas

I want to change my living room furniture around, but there are several deep indentations in the carpet from where the sofa, piano and two heavy chairs have been standing for several years.

Is it possible to get rid of those indentations, or am I stuck for life?—Color Me Blue

DEAR BLUE: The question you asked is out of my line, but I happened to have that same problem a while back and this is how we solved it:

Place a damp cloth on the dented area. Set the steam iron for medium and hold it over the spot for about five minutes—DON'T press, just hold it so the dent gets the steam. Take a brush and work on the dent until it disappears. (You might have to repeat this procedure two or three times, depending on the stubbornness of the dent, but eventually you'll succeed.)

DEAR ALEX: You missed the point completely. Those "wild animals" aren't wild because they have never been out before. Some of them have been out plenty. They are wild because no one took the time and expended the energy to teach them how to behave properly at home or anywhere else. Read the next letter and hopefully you will learn something.

consists of items for sale, and the annual bazaar. A contribution to Senior Citizens was voted upon and approved to furnish meals for some elderly and disabled people in the community.

Chairwomen were appointed for the following committees: Christian education, Meredith Wilcox; church periodicals, Claudia McBrayer; United Thank Offering, Vera Threewit; Christian social relations, Frances Hennen and Mary Fraser; ecumenical relations, Claudia McBrayer and Mary Fraser; devotional, Linda Gilbert; news editor, Rachel Hine; and means, Mary Waldrep; by-laws, Nancy Stewart; telephone, Francie Farr; St. Bridget, Ellen Carter; Garth, Margaret Betzen.

Money was appropriated for the purchase of needlepoint kneelers and new linens for the altar, and to the new Diocesan Center in Lubbock. The kneelers will be needlepointed by the church women.

The meeting was closed with prayer.

4-H Firsthand Career Day Set

By PENNY REINART
County Extension Agent
The 4-H and Youth Committee along with Hereford High School is planning a Career Day to be held at the high school on Tuesday, Feb. 23.

This Career Day will be an effort to help our youth become more aware of different careers available, their education requirements, the job market availability, and personal demands of the job. We feel this will not only aid them later in their lives, but also now in the class subject selections.

There are approximately 70 presenters from around the area representing 50 different career opportunities. These presenters will be meeting with students the entire morning answering any questions they may have. Afterwards, they will be invited to a luncheon at the Community Center.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic levels, race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

Have you ever seen the articles that try to make your winter tolerable by giving you indoor projects? They tell us how important it is to be creative and to keep ourselves busy. They mean well, but somehow I cannot imagine amusing myself by rearranging books according to titles, reframing pictures, cooking a meal over an open fire and eating by candlelight or bringing order to my kitchen drawers.

Winters don't do it for me anymore. Oh, sure, I know what the poets say about the alabaster-white countryside and how can we know the joy of spring until the hairs in our nose have thawed. I bought that too when I was 23 years old, but face it, Bunkie, at my age I can't afford to wait for the traffic light to turn green.

I like to devote my winters to self-pity. I'm trapped. If I hadn't panicked and married at the age of 22, I could be like the girl on Public Television who sits on a hillside day in and day out recording the behavior of gorillas. God, that must be wonderful. No meals to cook. No trying to start the car. No schools closing because of snow.

I probably won't live to see the spring. Might just as well make a list of who I want to have my Sarah Coventry jewelry, and my box of Italian chocolates hidden behind the chicken innards in the freezer.

I have a choice of things I can have for dinner without leaving the house: chili without beans, lasagna without cheese, salad without lettuce, pancakes without syrup, or steak and baked potatoes, without steak.

This is the worst winter in the history of the earth. It has to be. Why else would my dryer be broken? It overheats in the summer and stops in the winter. That's Bombeck's Law.

What could I do that's creative? Last year I rubbed my dry heels together to see if I could start a fire. I could and did. Maybe I'll write to my congressman and ask him to introduce a bill justifying the age of menopause to coincide with senility.

Or maybe I'll just step out on the porch and check to see if I can see my shadow.

It was once thought that the only proper time to take a lady driving was between three and five in the afternoon.

Movie Authenticity Good; Story Line Weak

NEW YORK (AP) — "The Wall" on CBS tonight is a movie in search of a documentary. The story of a band of Jewish resistors fighting the Nazis in the Warsaw Ghetto in the 1940s is un-faithfully authentic in its look but dismally lacking in the dramatic aspects of story line and character relationships.

Filmed in Poland in 1980, the sets of "The Wall" are so starkly real that viewers will almost experience the claustrophobia of being locked in.

The mass herding scenes, depicting Jews being rounded up and transported by cattle cars for "resettlement," are moving and painful. In fact, montages of Jews being mowed down by machine guns are interspersed too often, perhaps to compensate for the individual dramatic stories having so little impact.

The battle scenes on cobble streets and in tattered tenements are equally genuine and include World War II tanks, courtesy of the Polish government. But this reality of texture is not enough to capture the full flavor of John Hersey's novel about the 1943 uprising because the soul of that rebellion — its people — doesn't arouse much passion or emotional involvement.

Part of the problem is the movie's obtuse approach to the characters, throwing them together without enough identification to help viewers sort things out.

The common core is that the major characters live in the same building. Tom Conti, Tony Award winner for his role in "Whose Life Is It Anyway?", stars as Dolek Berson, a profiteer who sells black market goods to his fellow Jews, while denying the growing devastation around him.

Berson is intent only on survival, then develops a social conscience when he escapes from the ghetto to see firsthand that Jews supposedly being resettled are going directly to mass incineration camps.

His conversion is one main story line, but some holes in

Authorities Search For Abandoned Babies' Moms

HOUSTON (AP) — Authorities say they have no clues to lead them to the mothers of two baby girls, one whose body was found stuffed in a plastic bag and dumped in a trash bin, and the other who was abandoned in a schoolyard.

A woman searching for aluminum cans over the weekend in a northeast Houston neighborhood found the baby girl's body. Detectives said the child was fully developed and the umbilical cord was still attached.

Harris County medical examiners conducted an autopsy on the dead girl Monday, but the results were not immediately available.

An abandoned baby girl found in a schoolyard bush across town Sunday was taken to Ben Taub Hospital by paramedics and her condition was upgraded Monday to "improving," said a hospital spokeswoman who did not want to be identified.

The girl suffered from exposure to cool temperatures and light rain.

"She's improving and doing much better now than she was when they brought her here," the spokeswoman said.

Two children playing at a northwest Houston school heard the baby's faint cry and called paramedics.

"She was just a few hours old," said Paramedic William Sivley. "It really kind of tore me up. ... It looked like no one was going to give her a chance."

Doctors said the little girl

bie Christie. Their antics apparently helped fire the Whitefaces up as both the boys and girls took wins over the Ponies in District 4-5A action. (Brand Photo).

HHS Netters Perform Well

The HHS tennis team came out on the winning end for the most part as the Whitefaces competed with Levelland and Canyon netters in a triangular meet last weekend.

Hereford's boys defeated the Lobos 6-3, but saw the Eagles too much as Canyon won eight of nine matches. In girls play, the Herd took the measure of Levelland by a 6-1 count, and reversed the boys' total with an 8-1 record against Canyon.

Monte Hutto was the only double winner for the HHS boys as he defeated Canyon's Rhett Mudge 7-6, 6-2 and the whipped Jeff Jenkins of Levelland 6-1, 6-2.

Carol Zinser, Lisa Snyder, Kim Sims and Holly Veigel all took a pair of singles wins for Hereford in girls play, and then combined with partners to take two doubles wins also.

Zinser defeated Canyon's Pam Parker in number one girls play 6-3, 6-3, and then defeated the Lobos' Val Jackson 6-3, 6-4. Snyder beat Gina Wright of Canyon 7-6, 6-0, and then took Levelland's Stacy Paige 4-6, 6-0, 6-1.

Sims took a 6-2, 6-1 win over Canyon's Debbie Lou, and then beat Susan Brown of Levelland 6-2, 6-1, while Veigel beat Canyon's Tresha Rossenbaum 6-2, 6-4, and then took Levelland's Karen Petree by a 6-3, 1-6, 6-2 count.

Other singles winners for the Herd boys against Levelland included Trent Thomas, Donny Anderson, and Kelly Cassels. Thomas defeated Randy Rawls 6-1, 2-6, 7-6, while Anderson took a 6-4, 6-1 win over Kevin Newsom, and Cassels won a 6-1, 6-1 match over Kevin Barrett.

The Whitefaces will be in tournament action this week in Ft. Worth.

Stanton Freshmen District Champs

Keven Redus scored 24 points and Lee Brockman added 22 more as the Stanton Dogie freshman boys won the district basketball title Monday with a 78-57 blasting of Clovis Gattis.

The two teams entered the game with identical 8-2 loop records, but the Dogies proved to be too much as they raced to the easy win to close out the district chase at 9-2 and end up with a 12-4 overall mark.

In other action the Dogie 8th grade took a 42-40 win over Gattis, while the 7th grade Dogies lost by a 33-25 count.

La Plata's boys faced Clovis Yucca at the high school gym Monday with the 7th grade taking a 40-33 win, while the 8th grade fell by a 48-31 count and the frosh boys lost 58-35.

The Stanton 8th grade got 12 points from Johnny Pena in their two-point win Monday. The victory moved the Dogies to 6-5 in the district and 9-7 overall.

Vincent Brown tallied 12 points as the 7th grade Dogies fell to 8-8 overall and 5-6 in district play.

Bobby Baker scored 14 points as the La Plata 7th graders defeated Yucca Monday. Arthur Valez added eight points to the total, while Casey Daniels scored six.

Don Carl Tardy scored 14 points for the May 8th grade, and Doug Watts had seven, but Yucca raced to a 48-31 win, and the visitors defeated the Mavericks frosh 58-35 as La Plata's leading scorer Blair Rogers was at home sick.

Scott Calkins led the Mav effort with 12 points, while Mike Scott added seven more.

The La Plata and Stanton 8th and 9th grade boys will be playing in the Clovis Tournament this weekend, and the Mavericks will close out the season against Plainview next Monday.

Solidarity Key in NFL Battle

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) - Union solidarity could be the key to the National Football League Players Association's fight for 55 percent of owners' gross revenues, according to Miami Dolphins nose tackle Bob Baumhower. "I realize asking the owners for a percentage of the gross is shooting for the moon," says Baumhower. "But if we stick together, we can get it."

Negotiations on a new collective bargaining agreement to replace the current contract, which expires July 15, were to begin today at the Diplomat Hotel here. Although the NFLPA is expected to seek several improvements in the new pact, the union's demand for a greater percentage of gross revenues is the crucial issue. Ed Garvey, executive director of the NFLPA, and Jack Donlan, representing the NFL Management Council, will be the men negotiating for their respective sides in talks aimed at averting the first players strike since the ineffective, 44-day preseason walkout of 1974.

A lack of solidarity among union members was one of the problems confronting the NFLPA during the last strike.

The union revenue-sharing plan calls for establishment of a wage system, based on the number of years a player has been in the NFL, "plus bonus incentives for post-season play. Under the NFLPA plan, for example, first-year players would earn $75,000 in 1982, while base pay for a 17-year veteran would be $700,000.

The current system stresses individual negotiations for players, but the NFLPA said that approach has not worked for the majority of its membership.

The owners, through Donlan, have said that the revenue-sharing demand is unrealistic. "The owners are not going to let the union run their business," says Donlan.

The owners maintain that 44 percent of the gross is already going for salaries and that the average salary rose 14.5 percent, from $78,657 in 1980 to $90,102 in 1981.

But that figure still places NFL players far below their colleagues in the National Basketball Association, where the average salary is $186,000, and major league baseball, where it's $143,000.

Among other issues the union is expected to pursue during negotiations are improved medical, dental and life-insurance benefits as well as several changes in its retirement and pension plans.

The NFL Management Council consists of Donlan,

Vince Lombardi Jr., Chuck Sullivan, Dan Rooney, Jim Kensil, Leonard Tose, Hugh Culverhouse and Mike Brown.

Joining Garvey on the NFLPA executive committee are Gene Upshaw, Jeff Van Note, Dan Jiggett, Drew Pearson, Tom Banks, Stan White, Elvin Bethea and Tom Condon.

Vega Defeats Bovina, 47-43

The Vega Longhorns defeated Bovina 47-43 last night in a District 3-2A basketball playoff contest played at the La Plata gym. The win gave the Longhorns the top seed in the loop tournament, which begins Thursday in Muleshoe.

Vega (20-7) will meet Farwell at 8:30 p.m. Thursday, while Bovina battles Kress at 5:30.

The Mustangs, now 19-8, found themselves behind 41-29 after three periods last night but outscored Vega 14-6 during the final eight minutes to make a game of it.

Both teams finished with 8-2 loop marks, forcing the playoff game. The Longhorns forced the extra game last Friday night as they defeated Bovina 61-43. The win last night was Vega's 7th in-a-row.

Joe Potter led Vega with 16 points last night, while Brian Taylor added 13 and Lane Mason scored 11. Eddie Chisom paced the Mustangs with 14 points, while Ricky Shepherd added 10.

Calls from customers help these operators pinpoint the exact location of the outage, allowing service crews to make repairs quickly, with less inconvenience to customers.

The most energy-efficient portable appliances are those that can be used for more than one thing. For instance, an electric fry pan may be used to fry eggs and meats, make a cake, cook roasts or prepare one-dish meals. When buying portable appliances, look for good warranty coverage and local availability of replacement parts and service. And always read the use and care book provided by the manufacturer BEFORE using the appliance. Baking a cake in an electric skillet is twice as economical as in the oven.

Virginia, Sampson Survive Scare By Yellow Jackets

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD
AP Sports Writer

While 6-foot-9 Georgia Tech center Lee Goza involved 7-4 All-American Ralph Sampson in personal warfare, unheralded Georgia Tech nearly succeeded in upsetting top-ranked Virginia.

The Yellow Jackets, who have won only eight of 22 games this season, led the top-ranked Cavaliers by 11 points at halftime before succumbing 56-52 in an Atlantic Coast Conference game Monday night.

Sampson, who refused to comment after the game, scored 14 points for Virginia, but he fouled out with 2:23 left after battling with Goza the entire game and getting involved in a shoving match in the first half. Last year, Goza was accused of spitting on his giant rival.

The shoving match halted play and had both coaches on the floor to separate the players. Moments later, Sampson held out his hand to shake with Goza and when Goza reached out, Sampson jerked his hand away.

Goza called Sampson's action "third grade stuff. I played rough. He didn't seem to like it but I hope he gets used to it. He's a great player. He deserves to be Player of the Year."

Brook Stepe, who led Georgia Tech's upset bid with 26 points on 11 of 12 shooting from the field, said, "They don't quit. They kept coming after us. That's why they are the No. 1 team in the country."

Asked if the Goza-Sampson spat was really serious, Stepe said, "I can say without question they don't like each other. It's not just one of them doing that stuff out there. It's both of them. I think if the officials had whistled some fouls early and maybe called a technical on them, they might have had a little better control."

Virginia Coach Terry Holland said he "can't judge objectively" whether the Sampson-Goza battle got out of hand. "I was extremely agitated," Holland admitted. "But I sit on one bench and Bobby (Tech Coach Cremins) sits on the other bench and I'm sure we see it differently."

Othell Wilson, who scored 15 points as Virginia won its 13th straight game and improved its record to 23-1, hit a basket and two free throws in the final 1:19 to give the Cavaliers a 53-50 lead. Georgia Tech led 33-22 at halftime, but a 12-4 spurt finally pulled Virginia even at 42-42 with 8:29 on a layup by Wilson.

In other games involving ranked teams, No. 3 DePaul beat Ohio University 83-61, Drake upset No. 6 Tulsa 56-55, 12th-ranked Memphis State beat St. Louis 82-64 and No. 17 Arkansas beat Texas A&M 92-75.

Top Ten
Senior Skip Dillard, playing his final home game for DePaul, scored 19 points in the Blue Demons' victory over Ohio.

Bernard Randolph scored 13 of his 15 points in the first half, when DePaul hit its first 10 shots and took a 35-24 lead. DePaul, which has won 21 games in a row for a 23-1 record, also got 18 points from Terry Cummings.

Tulsa was victimized by a miraculous basket from a little-used Drake substitute. With 11 seconds remaining and Drake nursing a 54-53 lead, Terry Youngbauer of the Bulldogs missed a free throw that was rebounded by Tulsa's Bruce Vanley. But reserve Leon Van Hook jerked the ball out of Vanley's hands and it bounced off the floor and into the basket for a 56-53 Drake lead. A layup by Tulsa's Mike Anderson at the buzzer completed the score.

Cavs Still Number One; Indiana Breaks Into Poll

By TOM CANAVAN
Associated Press Writer
Virginia retained the No. 1 position in The Associated Press college basketball poll and Bobby Knight's Indiana Hoosiers took over the No. 20 slot in what could shape up as a second straight late season run toward the national title.

Virginia, which beat North Carolina State and Clemson by a total of just five points last week, collected 57-of-60 first-place votes. The Cavaliers, 25-1 following Monday's night win over Georgia Tech, also received 1,197 of a possible 1,200 points from the nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters, who voted before Monday's games.

North Carolina, DePaul and Missouri once again held down the Nos. 2-4 positions, respectively. Oregon State and Tulsa each inched up a slot, occupying the fifth and sixth positions, while Iowa, blasted by Indiana last Saturday, dropped two notches to No. 7 and was followed by Minnesota, West Virginia and Kentucky.

But the Top 20 news was Indiana, which is making its first appearance in the poll in six weeks. The Hoosiers stunned the college basketball world last season losing nine games during the regular season before putting it all together to win the national title.

Knight, one of the game's most controversial coaches, isn't making any predictions about this season.

"We're in the throes of development," Knight said last week. "If you remember last year at the Final Four, that team was in the throes of development. You always hope, no matter how well your team is playing, that it can become better."

Despite a 14-7 record this season, the Hoosiers appear ready to roll following their recent victories over Minnesota and Iowa.

"We haven't been consistent game, after game, after game," Knight said. "But by and large, we have played more good basketball than bad."

North Carolina, impressive in beating highly-regarded Georgia Sunday, received one first-place vote and 1,115 points in holding down the No. 2 position. Ray Meyer's DePaul Blue Demons were tabbed No. 1 on the other two ballots and collected 1,075 points. Once beaten Missouri got 1,031 points. Oregon State, winners over California and Oregon last week, picked up 920 points, while Tulsa, upset by Drake Monday night after the poll was counted, got 846.

Seventh-ranked Iowa had 747 points — 13 more than Big Ten rival Minnesota. West Virginia, currently riding a 20-game winning streak, had 661 points — 22 more than No. 10 Kentucky.

Idaho headed the Second 10 and was followed by Memphis State, Georgetown, Wake Forest, Fresno State, San Francisco, Arkansas, Kansas State, Alabama and Indiana.

Last week, the Second 10 was West Virginia, Kentucky, Idaho, Memphis State, Kansas State, Wake Forest, San Francisco, Fresno State, Washington and Georgetown. Washington, ranked 19th when surprised by California last week, fell from the Top 20. Arkansas and Alabama, ranked eighth and 10th last week, both tumbled nine positions after dropping two games apiece.

Ky., who set world records in the 100- and 200-meter butterfly events.

The other finalists were Greg Louganis, 21, El Cajon, Calif., in diving; Kathy Arendsen, 23, Holland, Mich., softball; Chris Campbell, 27, Ames, Iowa, wrestling; Tracie Ruiz, 18, Bothell, Wash., synchronized swimming; Lones Wigger Jr., 44, a U.S. Army lieutenant colonel from Carter, Mont., shooting; and Sheila Young-Ochowicz, 31, Pewaukee, Wis., cycling.

Louganis, who currently holds 14 U.S. diving titles, was a Sullivan finalist for the third year in a row. Last year's winner of the Sullivan Award, named for a founder of the AAU, was speed skater Eric Heiden. Lewis is the 30th track and field athlete to receive the award since its inception in 1930, and the first black athlete to win since Wilma Rudolph in 1961.

Other previous track winners, in addition to Rudolph, include Bruce Jenner, Frank Shorter, Bill Toomey, Randy Matson, Jim Ryun, John Pen- nel and Rafer Johnson.

AROSA, Switzerland (AP) — Switzerland's Doris De Agostini swept to victory in the final women's downhill ski race of the 1981-82 World Cup schedule. De Agostini's winning time was 1:36.67, .26 seconds faster than runner-up Maria Waliser of Switzerland.

GARMISCH, West Germany (AP) — The Mahre twins from Yakima, Wash., are returning to the United States with one world championship title, one World Cup crown and eight World Cup victories. Steve Mahre won the slalom in 1:35.79, with brother Phil runner-up in 1:36.66. The victory in the slalom and a 35th place in the downhill Saturday earned Steve the prestigious Kandahar Trophy, the oldest in Alpine skiing.

Lewis was among 10 finalists for the Sullivan Award, presented by former swimmer John Naber, the 1977 Sullivan winner, at the conclusion of Monday night's annual award dinner at the Indianapolis Convention Center.

Other finalists included Evelyn Ashford, 25, of Los Angeles, unbeaten in the 100-meter dash and acclaimed by Track and Field News as the sport's top woman athlete in the world; figure skater Scott Hamilton, 23, Denver, Colo., the reigning U.S. and world champion; and swimmer Mary T. Meagher, a 17-year-old high school junior from Louisville,

Lewis, a native of Willingboro, N.J., where his parents are track coaches at rival high schools, became the first person since Owens in 1936 to win both a track and a field event in the NCAA and U.S. outdoor championships.

In the long jump, Lewis last year recorded a world indoor record of 28 feet, 1 inch, an NCAA outdoor record of 28-3/4, and a wind-assisted jump of 28-7/8 in qualifying for The Athletics Congress meet.

Lewis was considered a threat to win three gold medals in last year's World Cup games. He won the long jump, but suffered a pulled hamstring and had to pull up in the 100, finishing ninth, and then skipped the relays.

Still, running for Houston in the Southwest Conference indoor championships, he had the fourth-fastest 60-yard dash of all time with a 6.06 clocking. He also ran the fastest 100 meters (10 seconds flat) in history without benefit of high altitude.

Lewis, a native of Willingboro, N.J., where his parents are track coaches at rival high schools, became the first person since Owens in 1936 to win both a track and a field event in the NCAA and U.S. outdoor championships.

In the long jump, Lewis last year recorded a world indoor record of 28 feet, 1 inch, an NCAA outdoor record of 28-3/4, and a wind-assisted jump of 28-7/8 in qualifying for The Athletics Congress meet.

Lewis was considered a threat to win three gold medals in last year's World Cup games. He won the long jump, but suffered a pulled hamstring and had to pull up in the 100, finishing ninth, and then skipped the relays.

Still, running for Houston in the Southwest Conference indoor championships, he had the fourth-fastest 60-yard dash of all time with a 6.06 clocking. He also ran the fastest 100 meters (10 seconds flat) in history without benefit of high altitude.

Lewis was among 10 finalists for the Sullivan Award, presented by former swimmer John Naber, the 1977 Sullivan winner, at the conclusion of Monday night's annual award dinner at the Indianapolis Convention Center.

Other finalists included Evelyn Ashford, 25, of Los Angeles, unbeaten in the 100-meter dash and acclaimed by Track and Field News as the sport's top woman athlete in the world; figure skater Scott Hamilton, 23, Denver, Colo., the reigning U.S. and world champion; and swimmer Mary T. Meagher, a 17-year-old high school junior from Louisville,

Housing Industry Looking At Private Pension Funds

By JOHN CUNNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Desperate for a new source of financing, the housing industry is looking closely at private pension funds, those huge and growing bundles of cash that generally go to finance everything else.

The match would seem to be a natural, since pension funds are built up by ordinary working Americans, the kind of people who haven't been able to afford a new home during the past three years or so.

If such funds could be invested to provide funding for mortgages now, as well as retirement later, it would seem to be one of those rare instances when the ordinary citizen gets double value for his dollar.

It may not be that easy though. The National Association of Home Builders feels that new laws are needed before the funds can be used to any great extent in housing. ERISA, it says, appears to be in the way.

Stuart Lewis, NAHB counsel, has testified before Congress that ERISA, or Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, prohibits financial transactions between "related parties."

The restriction was written into law to prevent the abuse of pension funds, he told Congress. But, he argues, the effect is to deny the funds, which he estimates at about $700 billion, from investing in a market where favorable commercial standards and interest rates exist.

Recent efforts to allow pension funds to invest in mortgages, Lewis says, have proved "unworkable," which is one reason why the NAHB endorses a bill filed by Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, to clear the way.

That bill, he said,

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Diet may cause gas

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have a very embarrassing problem. I'm a 31-year-old man and am annoyed with passing gas. I eat a well-balanced diet including all dairy products, meats, fruits and vegetables (no coffee or tea). The problem starts about a half hour to 45 minutes after I eat a meal. I do not have indigestion, belching or any other pain, just passing gas. I usually take Di-Gel or Maalox but neither seems to phase the gas.

DEAR READER — About half of the patients who go to see a specialist in gastroenterology suffer from gas complaints. So you are not unusual.

You should know that antacids are of little value in controlling gaseousness, despite what you may have thought from TV ads. Antacids neutralize hydrochloric acid in the stomach rather than relieving gas. Gas results from swallowing air or from fermentation of undigested foods.

In nervous people, excessive air swallowing may occur. Everyone has to swallow some air as you cannot prevent it when you eat or drink. In most people the swallowed air passes through the digestive system unnoticed by all. The fact that you eat a well-balanced diet may be your trouble, strange as that may seem. Many people cannot digest milk. The undigested milk sugar, lactose, enters the colon and is fermented by bacterial action causing distention and gas. Other undigested foods also ferment in the colon causing a release of hydrogen and carbon dioxide.

To give you a better understanding of gas problems I am sending you The Health Letter number 6-8, Controlling Gaseousness. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

A practical suggestion for you and others who suffer from gas is to start a list of the foods you notice cause gas. Eliminate foods one at a time and see if that solves your problem. You might start with eliminating milk and all milk products. Then if that doesn't make any difference, resume the milk but eliminate another food. Beans, cabbage, cucumbers, radishes, onions and applesauce are common gas formers.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My son, who is in college, didn't feel well. When he stood up his head felt like it was going to blow up. He went to the student health center and his blood pressure was low while lying down and lower when sitting up and very low when standing. Since low blood pressure runs in the family I was not concerned but I have since heard that low blood pressure could kill you. Is this true? What causes it to drop? What can he do to keep it up? The hospital doesn't seem to be concerned.

DEAR READER — The only way low blood pressure will kill you is if it is a response to an underlying serious disease or a shock response to some trauma. In most cases of consistent low blood pressure the "victim" often lives longer than the rest of us. Why? Because there is less chance of developing fatty-cholesterol deposits in the arteries. The blood pressure usually drops because too much blood pools in the legs. The usual symptom, if any, is faintness on standing. Symptoms can often be relieved by pressure garments applied to the legs or even elastic bandages if need be. These prevent pooling of blood in the legs.

What Is A Town?

A town is a group of people.

- It is schools.
- It is city government.
- It is churches.
- It is industry and jobs.
- It is retail businesses.

They all have to work together. All must have the support of the people. Or there is no town.

Give your local merchant a chance for your business. You shouldn't spend your hard earned money with him unless his selection is adequate and his price competitive. But give him the first opportunity to make the sale.

For the local retailer pays the highest percentage of local taxes. He most often is the civic leader who dedicates his time and talents to his town. He is contacted first for contributions to charitable projects. He provides jobs. Without his store you have no town.

Give the local merchant a fair shake ...that's all he asks

Booklet Outlines Story Of Great Plains Geology

"An immense sweep of country that spreads out east of the Rocky Mountains like a huge welcome mat."

So says the introduction to "The Geologic Story of the Great Plains," a booklet written for the general public in easily understood, non-technical language, and recently published by the U.S. Geological Survey.

Enhanced by numerous color photographs, maps and tables, the 51-page booklet explains what and where the Great Plains are, how they were formed and how they influenced American history.

The author, Donald E. Trimble, a retired USGS geologist in Denver, Colo., makes it clear from the opening paragraph that the Great Plains—often maligned as "a drab, featureless area" that stretches from the Rocky Mountains eastward into Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska and the Dakotas and southward from Canada to Texas—is in fact "a land of marked contrasts and limitless variety."

In explaining how that variety came about, Trimble takes the reader on a brief trip through time, beginning about 70 million years ago when a vast, inland sea that covered the area for about 500 million years began to recede.

The sediments deposited on the bed of that great sea, Trimble explains, are the oil- and water-bearing formations that now lie hundreds of sometimes thousands of feet below the surface of the Great Plains.

The landforms on those plains today, such as Pawnee Buttes in northern Colorado, Scotts Bluff in western Nebraska and Capulin Mountain in northeastern New Mexico, were created by geologic processes active during the last two million years. "It's truly a young landscape," according to Trimble.

After describing the Great Plains in general, Trimble outlines the area's various sub-regions, such as the High Plains, the Black Hills, the Missouri Plateau, the Colorado Piedmont and the Central Texas Uplift. Each sub-region is described geographically and geologically, with reasons given for their differences and similarities.

The origins of specific landforms are attributed to such activities as uplift, volcanism, glaciation or streamcutting.

"The Geologic Story of the Great Plains," written for readers of junior high school age and up, is a handy reference guide for the home or school library, or for the glove compartment for people driving across the Great Plains.

The booklet was published as USGS Bulletin 1493 and can be purchased for $4.50 per copy by mail from the Text Products Section, Branch of Distribution, U.S. Geological Survey, 604 South Pickett St., Alexandria, Va. 22304; or the Government Printing Office (GPO) Bookstore, 720 N. Main St., Pueblo, Colo. 81003. Orders must include the bulletin number, 1493, and checks or money orders payable to the U.S. Geological Survey or the Government Printing Office, respectively.

The booklet also can be purchased over the counter at USGS Public Inquiries Offices in Denver (169 Federal Bldg., 1961 Stout St.) and Dallas (1C45 Federal Bldg., 1100 Commerce St.) and at the Pueblo GPO Bookstore.

Wayland Has Own Graduate Program

PLAINVIEW, Tex. (Special) — Wayland Baptist University president Dr. David L. Jester has announced that the university had received full approval to begin its own program of graduate study beginning next fall.

Approval came earlier this week from the Christian Education Coordinating Board of the Baptist General Convention of Texas, Jester explained. The Coordinating Board oversees the entire operations of the nine educational institutions in Texas supported by the BGCT.

"This is one of the most important advancements in Wayland's history and falls in line with our new university structure," said Dr. Dan McLallen, academic vice president. "It is particularly significant in our efforts to become a total university."

As a result of the approval Wayland will phase out its cooperative graduate study program with Houston Baptist University, which has been in operation locally for the past year. However, all coursework completed in that program may be transferred into the Wayland program for students wishing to do so.

Through the graduate program Wayland will offer the master of arts in Christian ministries, master of education, and master of science in management degrees. Each is a 36-hour non-thesis program with emphasis on practical application and requires an internship.

A special graduate study committee consisting of Wayland administrators and faculty members from all three colleges began an intensive study in early November to address itself to some questions posed to the university earlier last fall.

"We appeared before a committee of the Coordinating Board, they outlined some questions for us to answer, and our committee went to work," said Dr. Bill Hardage, assistant academic vice president.

Dr. Sylvia Nadler, chairman of the Division of Health, Physical Education and Recreation, headed the study committee of 11, which then appointed three curriculum sub-committees. "The sub-committees brought their recommendations back to the full committee, which refined it and presented it for approval by the Coordinating Board," Nadler said.

The Board reviewed the committee results and accepted the recommendation that they be approved, Hardage added. A full self-study by the university, for use in receiving accreditation by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, is now forthcoming.

"The task before us now is to prepare for instituting the program by next September," Hardage said. "That means hiring a director as well as an additional four to five faculty members, implementing the curriculum, and designing mechanisms for application and admission, record-keeping, and evaluation."

The program will be made available at Wayland's extension centers in Lubbock, Amarillo and Wichita Falls as demand for it arises in those areas. In addition, all financial aid programs available to undergraduates will also be available to graduate students, McLallen noted.

Applications for admission and a schedule of classes will be available in the near future, and all prospective students should contact Hardage at (806) 296-5521 for more information.

enjoy the convenience of shopping close to home...

I used to travel to the big shopping area miles away and make an entire day of it. Upon returning home exhausted after one these "excursions," I realized by shopping at home, I could be saving time and money!

Now I do all my buying right here...in town. I can't believe the free time and extra money that I have saved in traveling back and forth! After all, this is our town. Let's support it!
