500 EXPECTED FOR SOIL AWARDS HERE

Program Set for Thursday in Bull Barn

MORE THAN 500 farmers, their wives, and farm youth from 51 counties in the Panhandle and South Plains are expected here on Thursday for the twelfth annual "Save the Soil and Save Texas" awards program.

The meeting, sponsored locally by the Tierra Blanca Soil Conservation District and the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, will begin at 7 p.m. Thursday in the Bull Barn.

The outstanding farmers, conservation groups, homemaker and the person rendering most outstanding service to farmers in the region will receive cash awards, and trophies presented by the editor and conservation director of the Fort Worth Press, originator of the state-wide program. Ten youngsters who have written outstanding essays on conservation's meaning will receive trophies and medals.

CAROLYN SANDERSON of Route 4, Dimmitt is first place winner in the essay contest.

Raymond A. Higginbotham of Hereford, chosen earlier this year as the local district's outstanding farmer, will receive a plaque for his achievement, along with farmers from 13 other conservation districts in the region. These awards are sponsored by local Lions Clubs.

Luther Lesly, supervisor's chairman in the Tierra Blanca SCD and a director in the state association of SCD supervisors, will serve as master of ceremonies for the program. The Rev. Lester Jones, vicar of St. Thomas Episcopal Church, will deliver the invocation.

The welcome address will be given by Dr. A. T. Mims, C-C president.

Walter R. Humphrey and Marilyn Garrett will represent the Fort Worth Press in making the annual (Continued On Page 2)

Pony League Play To Be Scheduled

Starting date for Pony League baseball will be set Monday in a meeting scheduled for 8 p.m. in the Jim Hill Hotel, according to Jimmie Allred, league president.

Allred said final selection of team managers will be made and dates set for player tryouts, player auction and starting day.

All persons interested in Pony League activity are invited to attend, Allred said. The league is for boys 13 and 14 years of age.

DOUBLE TROUBLE—Dandelions, shown above in the flower and seed stage, are causing lawnkeepers a lot of trouble here this season. Some chemical sprays have reportedly caused them to flourish, but those in which a chemical is applied in an oil base have proven effective where the homeowner was willing to sacrifice a bit of grass to rid himself of the pest. (Staff Photo)

MOSQUITO CONTROL WORK—Dusting of Hereford and adjacent areas began Thursday when Pilot Bill Kirkies of American Dusting Co. spread 600 pounds of BHC along Tierra Blanca Creek. He is shown above just as he zoomed up to clear the trees at the South Main St. bridge. A "chemical cannon," turbine-type duster, will be used by the city to blanket residential areas during the summer. Insect control measures that may be used by individual homeowners and farmers are detailed on Page 7, Section 2. (Staff Photo by ROY CLARK)

Around Town

Dr. R. R. Wills of the Hereford Clinic urges all persons who are unable to pay for polio vaccine shots to see Mrs. Jewel Smith at the county welfare office and get a certificate of their inability to pay for the shots. They can then come to the clinic for free inoculations, Dr. Wills said.

Shirley School Parent - Teachers Assn. will meet Monday at 3:45 p.m. in the school's cafeteria. New officers will be installed and the program will be given by the third grade.

Lloyd Neill, owner of Neill Cleaning Co., and C. D. Fitzgerald, owner of Master Cleaners, both became members of the National Institute of Drycleaning, Silver Spring, Md., this week. The institute represents 8,500 drycleaning plants in the U.S. and foreign countries.

AAU Registration Planned on Monday

Official registration with the Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) for gymnastics, judo and wrestling will take place Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the Bull Barn.

All Hereford area youths from 6 to 18 interested in these sports are asked to report for registration by the Hereford Athletic Club, sponsor of the sports.

Cost of Call Will Double

Price of local coin-operated telephone calls will go from a nickel to a dime Thursday, according to Bill Leavy, area manager for Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.

"The majority of coin calls are placed by transients in Hereford, Leavy said. He said the 10 cent coin charge is in effect in every state except Texas and it will be in use in most Texas towns by the end of the year.

Ex-Sousa Man Conducts Whiteface Band Tuesday

William V. Webster, one of the four living members of the John Philip Sousa Band, will be in Hereford Tuesday evening as guest conductor for the final band concert of the year for the Whiteface Concert and Junior High Bands. He will present the first local Sousa Award to the outstanding senior musician in the local group and will conduct Sousa's "King Cotton," according to Director Charles Bell. He will rehearse with the band Tuesday afternoon.

The annual spring concert will be staged in the high school auditorium Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. For the first time there will be a small admission charge of 25 cents. Bell said it is not the purpose of the band to make money off the concert, but the charge will be necessary to defray expenses of the guest conductor. A feature of the evening's program will be the final number, All Glory, Laud and Honor, in which the band will be assisted by the high school mixed chorus under the direction of Don Moore. The contest music played during this semester will be a major part of the remainder of the program. The Sousa award will be financed yearly by the Hereford Lions Club and will be presented by them annually. This is the first year (Continued On Page 2)

CANCER DRIVE REACHES GOAL

The American Cancer Society fund drive reached its goal of $1,000 during the past week. Ed Line, chairman of the local chapter expressed thanks to everyone who aided in the fund campaign and particularly to the members of Beta Sigma Phi sorority who under the direction of Mrs. Helen Nelson, president, and Mrs. Jess Robinson, committee chairman, did much of the work.

MISS SWISHER RETURNS Miss Mattie Mae Swisher, hospitalized at St. Anthony's Hospital in Amarillo since Dec. 1, returned to Hereford Wednesday. She is now living at 813 S. 25 Mile Ave.

MINORITY OPINION FAIRFAX, Okla. (AP) — V. J. Lockett, superintendent of schools here 22 years, was given another three-year contract but he decided to resign.

He said that since the vote was 4-1 for re-election he felt he didn't have the unanimous support of the school board. He pointed out the past 22 years he had been approved without a dissent.

Robert Kinsey Heads H.H.S. Student Body

Robert Kinsey was elected president of the Student Council in elections held Thursday. Other officers chosen by the student body are Steve Slagle, vice president, and Marilyn Newell, secretary.

Candidates were nominated formally in assembly Wednesday morning, when lively campaigns for each were staged. Kinsey's campaign was handled by Pat Ferguson and Wheeler Sears. Terry Higgins, also a candidate for the presidency, was represented by Sue Kirby, Bill Callaway and Bill Knox.

Stumping for Slagle were Jimmy Bradley and Alvina Ritchie, while Danny Martin's campaign for the vice presidency was handled by Sue Kirby and John Gilliland.

Mayor To Welcome Pioneer Citizens

The schedule of events for Hereford's annual Pioneer Day, Friday, May 31, has been completed by officials of the Mid-Plains Pioneer Assn.

Registration will begin at 9 a.m. in the lobby of the Jim Hill Hotel. The Business and Professional Women's Club will be in charge of registration.

At 10 a.m. the annual meeting of the pioneer group will be held in the hotel ballroom. J. C. Allred, president, will call the meeting to order. Mayor Ray Godwin will welcome the senior citizens to Hereford and Vern Witherspoon will give the response.

Allred will conduct a business session which will include recognition and introduction of pioneers, a memorial service and election of new officers.

A basket lunch will be spread on the courthouse lawn at noon and the afternoon will be spent swapping yarns of days past and (Continued On Page 2)

Dawn H. D. Club Celebrates Its 10th Anniversary

The Dawn Home Demonstration Club celebrated its 10th anniversary Friday with a luncheon and program held at the home of Mrs. R. T. Stewart.

Twenty persons were present, including six of the nine charter members. Charter members attending were Mesdames C. C. Norton, W. P. Caraway and H. C. Hershey of Hereford, J. B. Caraway, and Orval Galley of Dawn and W. W. Wilcox of Bovina.

Mrs. Caraway led the group in singing. Mrs. Murl Little read a poem telling what the club had learned from its programs over the past decade.

Mrs. H. S. Fuller, president, read a history of the club. Mrs. R. T. Stewart gave a club program on detergents.

Mrs. Orval Galley conducted a memorial service for Mrs. L. W. Loegwald and Mrs. W. J. Stewart, deceased charter members.

Mrs. Arger Draper, county H.D. agent, organized the club 10 years ago. It now has 17 members. Attending, other than those already mentioned, were Mesdames Jessie Sisco of Bovina, T. L. Sparkman Jr., Leon Hoffman, L. W. Toolev, Marion Russell, Ray Polan, H. R. Stewart, Zed Stewart, H. D. Fowler, R. L. Johnson and Miss Lulu Botsford.

Absentee Ballots Ready for Jail Bond Election

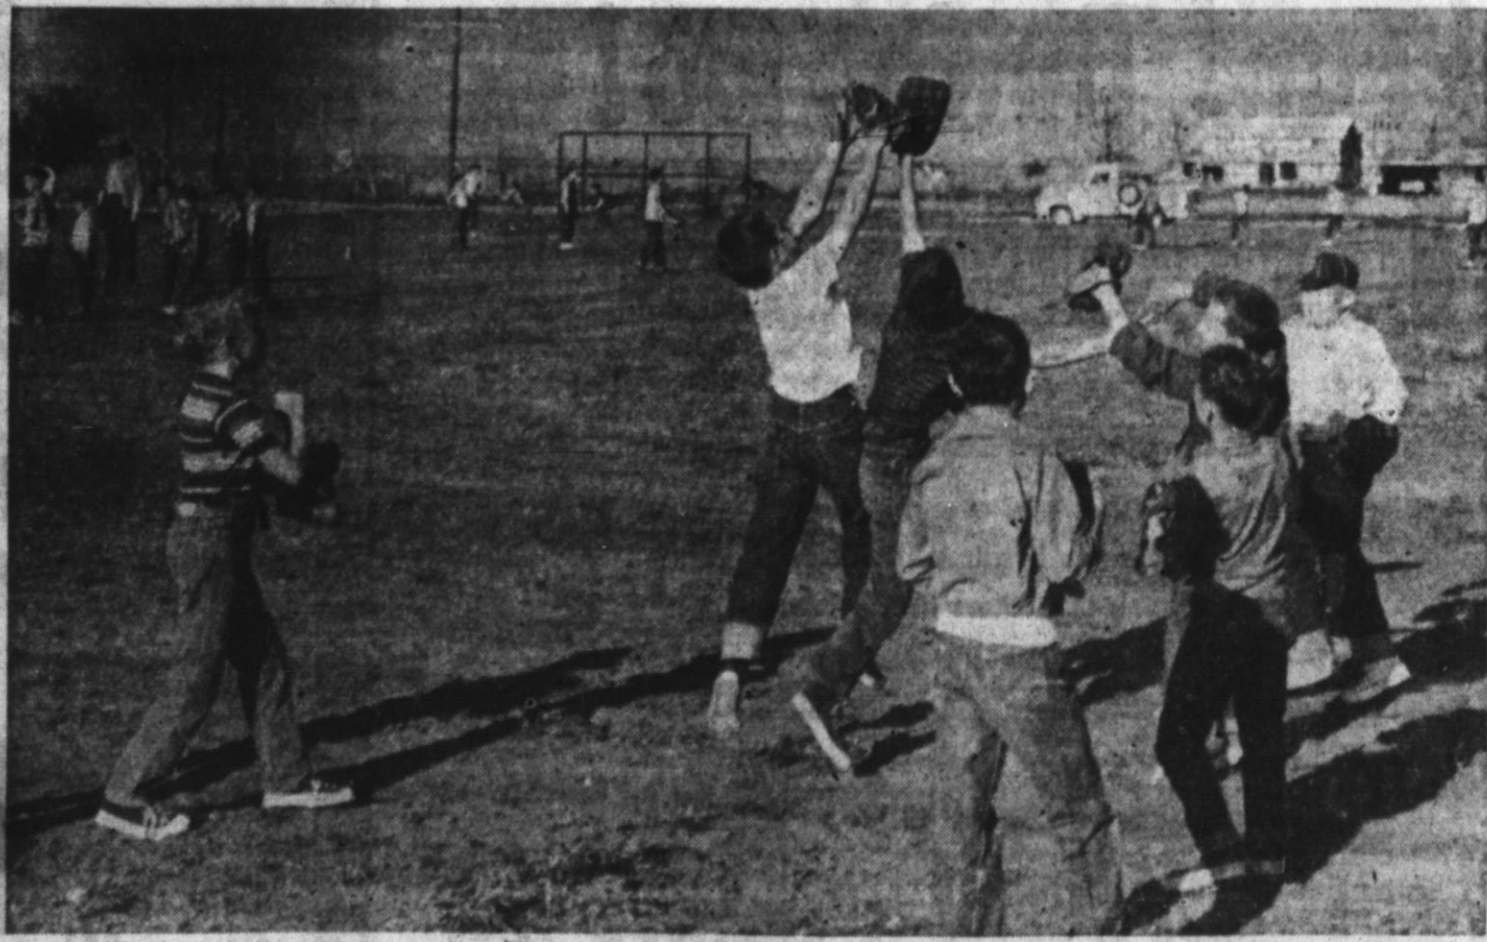

Absentee ballots are available now in the county clerk's office for persons who will not be able to attend the polls on May 18 for the $175,000 jail bond election.

Voters must have either real or personal property on the county tax rolls in order to participate in the election.

The ballots are worded to permit voting either "for" or "against" the "issuance of bonds and the levying of the tax in payment thereof."

The Deaf Smith County Commissioners called the election in a special meeting on April 29, after more than a year of study regarding the conditions of the present jail and the need for its replacement.

If the $175,000 bond issue is approved the funds will provide for payment of construction costs of a new 42-prisoner jail, for payment (Continued On Page 2)

How To Sew for an Angel

AP Newsfeatures
An angel smock and ruffled pants make any little girl look like an angel, even if some cynics insist most children are angels only when asleep.

Perfect for playtime or party time is this charming little set. Local sewing center experts suggest that the gathering and cording attachments on your sewing machine will make quick work of both. They can be made in a few hours from a printed pattern that features inch-rules on the pattern pieces for simplified alterations.

The smock, sleeveless and so cool, flares out from a gathered yoke underlined with eyelet-embroidered beading through which a ribbon has been run, and terminates in deep scallops. The scooped neckline, loose sleeves and scalloped hem are piped in contrasting bias tape, and embroidered above one scallop by the head of an angel, complete with wings and a halo, and the phrase "I'm an angel." An iron transfer is included with the pattern, so that embroidery is merely a matter of stitching over the transferred design.

The pants, made in only four pieces, have elastic run through the waist for a snug fit. Ruffles are made from two straight strips of fabric, gathered and hemmed by machine, then added to the pants. The piped pant-legs are easily gathered by using elastic sewing thread in the bobbin of the machine, and regular mercerized sewing thread on top.

In making children's clothes, it is important to remember to use only durable and washable fabrics and trimmings in clear colors, the ones most becoming to the fair coloring of a small child. Clothes should fit loosely and comfortably to provide for the ease and freedom of movement needed by active youngsters.

Here are a couple of hints to use in making children's clothes: back buttons with a small piece of tape, or an extra piece of fabric, to keep the fabric from ripping when stress is given to fastenings during rambunctious activity. And, if you believe that "a stitch in time saves nine," restitch all seams for added strength.

Another suggestion is to purchase an extra half yard of fabric, beyond that suggested on the pattern envelope. Little girls love to have their dolls dressed in the same fabric, and little boys enjoy stuffed animals to match their clothes. A quick glance through the needlework and transfer catalog at the pattern counter will reveal dozens of suggestions for toys that can be made from left-over fabrics.

Eugenia Alexander Heads Speech Club

Eugenia Alexander was chosen president of the Speech Club during its regular meeting on Thursday. Elected to serve with her were Virginia Cox, vice president; Janie Bookout, secretary-treasurer; Betty Noland, reporter; and Gerwin Morris, parliamentarian. Chick Weemes, retiring president, conducted the meeting, and Alvena Ritchie, chairman, made the report for the nominating committee.

P-TA Workshop Scheduled

Mrs. Stanley Erskine, state vice-president of the Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers, will be in Hereford Wednesday to conduct a school of instruction for newly elected officers and others who are interested from Parent-Teacher units in Deaf Smith, Parmer, Castro, and Swisher Counties. She will be accompanied by Mrs. W. E. Miller of Canyon, district president.

The workshop will be held in the high school library, starting at 10 a.m. and continuing until 2 p.m. The group will go to the Western Wheel Inn for the noon luncheon. Representatives of the local Parent-Teacher units are serving as hostesses for the meeting.

Three Recitals Set This Week

A series of three recitals in conjunction with National Music Week will be presented this week by Parker Music Studio of Hereford.

Today a recital of sacred songs will be presented at 4 p.m. in the First Christian Church. Claudia and Cynthia Loerwald, Sue Sowell,

DR. WILLIAM PEARCE

Gary Smith, Don Fellers and Marylynn Gibson will sing the sacred songs.

Thursday a joint recital featuring Judy Summers, pianist, and Marylynn Gibson, vocalist, will be given in the Wesley Methodist Church at 7:30 p.m.

Next Sunday a voice recital will be given in the First Christian Church at 4 p.m. The singers are the same who will give the sacred song recital this afternoon.

History Society To Hear Pearce

CANYON (Special) — Dr. William M. Pearce, head of the department of history at Texas Technological College, Lubbock, will speak at the banquet highlighting the annual meeting of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society Friday, May 10, in Canyon.

Subject for Dr. Pearce's talk will be "The Matador Ranch, 1879-1951." An authority on the Matadors, Dr. Pearce has written several research papers on the subject. A native of Plainview, he holds an Associate in Arts degree from Kemper Military School and a Bachelor of Arts degree from Southern Methodist University. He received his MA at Texas Tech and his Doctor of Philosophy at the University of Texas.

He formerly taught at Dalhart and Odessa, and was at one time archaeologist for the National Park Service and a member of the advisory board for the Western Range Cattle Industry Study. Dr. Pearce will speak at the banquet at 7 p.m. in the West Texas State College cafeteria, where officers elected at a 3 p.m. membership meeting at the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum will be installed. Reservations for the banquet should be made in advance, since attendance is limited to 320 by space in the cafeteria and nearly half that number already have made reservations.

Conservation Men To Be Welcomed; Cotton Week Plans

Members of the Hereford Merchants Assn., Friday voted to tie in with the national publicity of National Cotton Week, May 20-25, but will not enter a candidate for the National Maid of Cotton contest.

The merchants decided there is not enough time to prepare for the week and said too many other things were going on at the same time. They decided to plan to participate fully in the week next year.

They also voted to have ribbons saying "Welcome Area I Champs" to be worn Thursday when the Area I Soil Conservation meeting is held here and soil conservation awards are made. Some of the merchants plan to have welcoming signs painted on their windows.

In other action, the group tabled a motion to go on record as being for a plan to reduce parking fines to 25 cents if the fines are paid immediately. If not paid immediately, the fine would be one dollar. Bob Lamm made the suggestion, saying other cities have found it successful and had lost little revenue. He said it keeps customers from worrying about tickets.

The Chamber of Commerce is to contact cities using the program and report to the merchants.

Lady Golfers Pick Officers, Slate Tourney

Officers for the Women's Golf Assn. of the Hereford Municipal Golf Course were elected Tuesday in a meeting at the course's club house.

Juanita Sims was named president; June Gladman, vice president; Dorothy Ward, secretary-treasurer, and Rowena Posey, reporter.

Tournament and entertainment committees were appointed by the president. The club voted to have Ladies Day every other Tuesday instead of every Tuesday.

The ladies will start the season with a breakfast Tuesday morning at the Western Wheel-In and then hold a partnership tournament at the course.

Attending the meeting Tuesday were Earline Ross, Jo Brock, Lucille Posey, Mary Harman, Rowena Posey, Juanita Sims and Dell Sherman of Hereford; Ola Mae Trimble, Polly Manning, Dugan Butler and June Gladman of Dimmitt.

Mrs. J. H. McDonald Honored by Shower

Mrs. J. H. McDonald was honored with a going-away shower Friday night in the home of Mrs. Pete Guinn, 802 Blevins.

The McDonalds are moving to Amarillo this month.

Hostesses were Marian Guinn, Lois Hollingsworth and Winona Brotherton. A white lace tablecloth, spring banquet crystal and silver appointments marked the table. Coffee and cake were served.

Attending were Clara Acker, Jennie Warren, Pat Robinson, Joyce Tremble, Jean Ballard, Evelyn Dean, Emmas Suit, Teresa Lamm, Helen Nelson, Barbara Cooner and Winona White and the hostesses.

Mrs. McDonald's Sunday School group gave her a gift. Members of the class are Mrs. H. L. Ward, Mary Catherine Poarch, Mrs. Clay Angelo and Betty Whitaker.

Sending gifts were Frances Stine, Ann Woodward, Naomi McKee and Mary Filippo.

Rain Speeds Weed Growth

By MRS. S. N. THWEATT
Moisture fell again last weekend measuring better than half an inch at Bootleg. Everything is looking better and it won't be long until the farmers will be busy killing weeds, which are really growing.
N. A. Floyd and Eldred Brown returned Friday from a trip down state. They reported plenty of rain and wheat already heading out and waist high in some fields.
Mr. and Mrs. S. N. Thweatt visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Burks Saturday night.
Mrs. Bruce Coleman and Mrs. W. D. Howard were in Hereford Tuesday night.
Mr. and Mrs. Eldred Brown and Tommie, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Brown and Rodger and Earl all were guests of Mrs. C. W. King of Rosedale, N. M., for dinner Sunday.

Mrs. N. A. Brown, Jack Buse, Floyd Earnest, Eldred Brown, S. N. Thweatt and Bruce Coleman attended a dress pattern demonstration given by Mrs. Ernest Brown at her home Monday afternoon.
A hat-making demonstration will be given Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Floyd Brown. Those coming should bring frames to work on and a sack lunch.
Mrs. N. A. Brown visited her father, L. W. Potts of Rosedale, N. M., Monday afternoon.
Mr. and Mrs. S. N. Thweatt had Mr. and Mrs. Ed Burks of Westway as guests Monday night. The Burks left Friday for Brownwood to take their wool to market. They sheared their sheep last Saturday.
Messenger H. D. Club will meet Friday at 2:30 p.m. in the home of Mrs. E. M. Jack. Mrs. W. D. Howard will give the program on meat cooking.
The third sewing demonstration will be given by Mrs. Floyd Brown at her home Monday.

WESTWAY NEWS

Moisture Gives Cause for Talk

By MRS. T. B. THOMAS

Still heading the list for conversation is the moisture. The rain is a welcomed thing. Maybe it will save some worry over this summer's harvest.

Mrs. Gene Roach, Wallace and Martha of Tatum, N. M., were weekend guests of her mother, Mrs. Bess Weaver, and a brother and his family, Mr. and Mrs. George Turrentine. Wallace wanted to celebrate his sixth birthday here with his cousins, Janice, Carol and Patty. The Roach children brought a lamb to the girls for a gift.

The Rev. E. L. Naugle filled the pulpit Sunday. Deborah Lynn Pierce, Deborah Lou Thomas, Daniel Scott Thomas, Joe Robert Wagoner, Sandra Frank and Billy Frank joined the Methodist Church after communion. Guests for the morning services were Nina Newman and Fred Inman.

Mrs. Bess Weaver accompanied Mr. and Mrs. O. Wertenberger and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Plank to Canyon Sunday to attend the Art Festival.

Art Shaffer of Hereford visited in the Joe Wagoner home on Wednesday.

Mrs. T. B. Thomas, Deborah and Mrs. G. C. Merritt visited in Hereford on Wednesday with Mrs. Dave Alexander.

Nathan Wilson was the victim of an accident in the woodworking shop in Hereford High School on Thursday afternoon. Nathan was using a saw when he cut off the end of one finger, and hurt a forefinger.

The sewing class being held at the community house is progressing. It was interrupted Thursday when Mrs. R. L. Wilson was called away. Taking part were Mrs. George Turrentine, Mrs. Kenneth Rudd, Mrs. B. B. Northcutt and Mrs. P. B. Sowell, Jack Renfro, T. B. Thomas, J. C. Morrison and Frank Hafner drove up around Adrian Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Jack McCracken of Hereford visited with Mrs. Jack Renfro Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Ralph Packard and Mrs. T. B. Thomas attended a P-TA meeting at Aikman School Monday afternoon.

Recent guests in the Roy Neaves home were mother and brother of Roy, Mrs. F. A. Neaves and Jim Neaves of Lockney. Past weekend guests included mother of Mrs. Neaves and brothers and their wives, Mrs. F. M. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Taylor, and Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Taylor all of Happy. Mrs. Taylor remained here for a longer visit.

The Westway H. D. Club met Thursday afternoon for its regular meeting in the home of Mrs. Waldron Melton. Argen H. Draper gave the program on wall decorations. Mrs. R. L. Wilson was elected to the office of secretary and treasurer after Mrs. Morris Easley resigned. Refreshments were served to 15 members. The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Ernest Flood.

Mrs. J. H. Landers and Ross Joe made a trip to Amarillo Saturday while Ross was home on Easter vacation.

Bud and Marvin Morrison of Hereford visited in the T. B. Thomas home Thursday noon.

Mrs. C. A. Sauley took Harley Alsup back to Roaring Springs where he will leave to go back to his base in California.

A group of boys met Tuesday afternoon at the community house to organize a boys 4-H Club at Westway. Hugh Clearman met with the boys and the elected officers and will have another meeting soon. Present were Danny Thomas, Woodrow Northcutt and Nathan Wilson.

Mrs. Morris Easley, Susan and Dickie attended a Cub Scout picnic Thursday afternoon in Hereford.

Mrs. Elmer Combs and Mrs. G. C. Merritt, members of the local Rebekah Lodge were a part of the team that entered the district contest in Borger Saturday night. The group of ladies ran into some turbulent weather before they reached Hereford on Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Thomas, Dieder and Deborah and Danny were in Amarillo Saturday afternoon where Danny was a part of the Hereford 4-H boys skit put on Cotton John's program on KGNC-TV.

Mrs. Dick Godwin honored her son, Ricky, on his third birthday Saturday afternoon with a party and inviting all his friends to join him. Teresa, Susan and Paul Rudd, Lynn, Patsy, Marie and Kit Rudd, Jeffery and Gerald Shipley, Karen Sue and Kathy Jean and David Headstream and Janet Lynn Miller.

Mothers attending were Mrs. Kenneth Rudd and Mrs. Harold Rudd, Mrs. Bill Standford, Mrs. Hershel Miller Jr., Mrs. James Headstream, and Little Bill Godwin.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Godwin and boys were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Garland Solomon and boys in Hereford Sunday.

Mrs. M. T. Rutter was in Lubbock Thursday where she completed her course for the National Flower Show judging.

Juvenile Decency League Helps All

PARIS — Paris youngsters, hearing too much of "juvenile delinquency," have formed "Juvenile Decency at Paris High School."

The organization has profited in fun and service and parents and teachers say they have profited in closer association with the youngsters.

Three worthy causes profited $253.27 each.

Paris High School Student Council launched a month-long drive to get money for the March of Dimes, Heart Fund and "Texas Tribute to Freedom," a student-supported Hungarian relief program. They labeled this effort: "Juvenile Decency at PHA."

After expenses of the "operation decency" were deducted, Student Council had $759.91 to divide between the three causes. Gross profit was $812.45.

THE EVENT which provided most fun for students and most funds for the pot was inter-class competition to select "Mr. and Mrs. Heart Throb of PHS." The school campaign and Heart Fund drive ran concurrently, and the "Heart Throb" title stemmed from there.

Each class selected a boy and a girl to run on a straight ticket. Votes were a penny per. Devices to help individual class candidates win the title added up to $660.60.

Other enterprising ventures undertaken were curb hopping, pizza suppers, soft drink parties, Saturday breakfasts, ribbon, coat hanger, chewing gum, pencil and candy sales, white elephant parties, dances, pie and cake walks — and even an expurgated variation of the Spin-the-Bottle parties.

MONEY MAKING gimmicks in connection with the social events were refreshment sales, and admission costs. Each host or hostess strives to choose the most unique basis for charging admission.

One of the popular plans is to greet guests with the tape measure. Boys pay a penny an inch for every inch across their shoulders; girls pay for their waistline measurement. Shoe size is a variation of the idea.

Individual classes competed in other activities. One class sent its attractive girl members to work "for free" hopping curbs at a drive-in. Their tips went into the class penny-a-vote poll.

ANOTHER farsighted class asked permission to charge 10 cents or more for parking at a public lot normally used free by a large portion of Paris working people.

For one entire week — in pouring rain — members of the class were on hand at 6:30 a.m. to dun customers as they drove into the lot.

Student Council, which underwrote the entire campaign, sponsored a benefit show, bringing teenage talent from all neighboring towns. More than $100 accrued from that scheme.

The PHS basketball team gave an exhibition game during school hours, charging 10 cents a person. Sports enthusiasts, as well as Oh-boy-we-get-to-skip-history types, paid their dimes to the tune of more than $75.

DISTINGUISHED CALLER STILLWATER, Okla. — First it was skunks invading Stillwater in search of food.

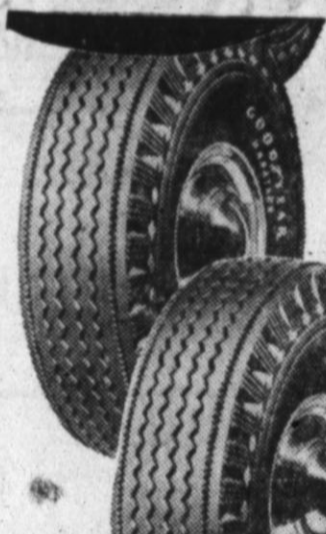

And then workers in the municipal building got even a bigger start when a white, furry animal started walking around.

Patrolmen Don Prickett and Oscar Davis cornered the animal and it was identified as an albino opossum — a real rarity in these parts.

PERSONAL INTEREST
RUPERT, IDAHO — There was personal dignity as well as professional reputation at stake when law officers started hunting the burglar who cleaned out Parker's Laundry and Dry Cleaners here.
Among the loot was two pairs of trousers — one belonging to Sheriff Theo Johnson and the other to Police Chief Jake Wall.
The thief was caught at Pocatello. But neither Johnson nor Wall got their pants back.

Flynn Says (Once More) He's Hanging up Sword

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Errol Flynn, the Captain Blood, the Sea Hawk and the Robin Hood of a thousand cinema adventures, has announced that he's putting his period tights in mothballs and, if not hanging his sword into a plowshare, at least hanging his reper over the fireplace.

It's not, please understand, that at 48 a man is too old to cut a swathe single handed through a gang of miscreants. It's just that Flynn is bored with leotards and epees and proposes to devote himself to acting, although not necessarily in sack suits.

"This," announced Flynn, interrupting himself to order a Bloody Mary (one part tomato juice, two parts Mary), "is the new Flynn. This is the serious Flynn. . ."

FLYNN WAS reminded that just about a year ago, on his return to Hollywood after almost five years abroad, he was heralded then as the "new" Flynn. He overlooked the reminder and went on to explain that during a year off in Spain, sometime while reading Gibbon's "Rise and Fall," "David Copperfield" and the collected works of Anthony Trollope, he decided to put his swash-buckling days behind him and acquaint the public with the more cerebral side of his nature.

Right now, for goodness sake, the new serious Flynn is not only reading Guy de Maupassant for kicks, speaking filially and sentimentally about his mother, but has arranged to play Rochester in "Jane Eyre" on Broadway next season.

Those are not all the surprises due admirers of the old, uninhibited Flynn. Brace yourselves for a disappointment, Flynn fans — he's determined to play Cardinal Richelieu on Broadway. This may be a fulfillment of an old ambition, as Flynn insists, but it gets him about as far away from cape and doublet as possible. The old Cardinal not only was a bit of a villain, but he stuck determinedly to floor-length cassocks.

Flynn's firm resolutions sound as sturdy as a paper cup in spite of his choice of earnest words. But his record, for the past seven years, indicates either that Errol is settling down or that press coverage of the Mediterranean area and England is not as intense as that of Hollywood.

AT ANY RATE, since his marriage to Patrice Wymore in 1950, the ebullient wayfarer with the rake-hell reputation has been seen more often on the late, late shows than on the front pages. He has remained married during this period to his former leading lady. At the moment a lot of miles separate him from his third wife and their child — she is in Barcelona studying for a singing career, and he's rather noncommittal about the entire situation. But at least he's still married.

Those who liked the old frivolous Flynn have, however, another opportunity to glimpse him. A film made last year in Cuba called "Big Boy" is currently re-released. While Errol appears without tights and sans sword, he does play a fish-swinging, gun-shooting black jack dealer on the trail of counterfeiters. Even in a single-breasted suit, it's Flynn in a familiar role.

NEW FLYNN, OLD WAYS—Errol Flynn, who claims his days as a swashbuckler are over, can't resist a look at a pretty ankle on Manhattan's Fifth Avenue.

Look Who's New!

IN THE BAG

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Here's one for those who like to ponder the devious ways of bureaucracy:

On a Dayton street corner stand two mail boxes, one sternly labeled "out of town mail" the other "local mail."

Three times daily a mail truck pulls up and the driver casually empties both boxes into the same bag.

Disinfecting A Room

When disinfecting a room, paste strips of paper over the cracks of the doors and the windows. Loosen the bedding and the carpets. Then burn two or three formaldehyde candles, according to directions on the box, which can be secured from any druggist. Leave the room closed about eight hours, then open and air.

LITTLE'S Of Hereford

The Hallmark of Circulation Value

In the same way that STERLING on silver signifies a standard of known value, so is the A.B.C. emblem a symbol of integrity for the circulation of newspapers and periodicals. It means that circulation so identified is measured according to the rules and standards of the AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS.

The A.B.C. is a cooperative and non-profit association of 3,450 publishers, advertisers and advertising agencies. Organized in 1914, these buyers and sellers of advertising brought order out of advertising chaos by setting up standards for paid circulation and establishing rules and methods for measuring, auditing and reporting circulations.

Therefore, the work of the A.B.C., of which this newspaper is proud to be a member, provides you with a direct and valuable service. You can buy advertising as you would make any other sound business investment — on the basis of well known standards, known values.

At regular intervals one of the Bureau's large staff of experienced circulation auditors makes a thorough audit of our circulation records. The results of this exacting audit show: How much circulation we have; where our circulation goes; how it was obtained; and many other FACTS that you need in order to know just what you get for your advertising dollars.

This audited information is published by the Bureau in easy-to-read A.B.C. reports which are available to our advertisers on request. Ask for a copy of our latest A.B.C. report.

Mrs. Pete Guinn Is Named Girl of Year by Beta Sigma Phi

HEREFORD CHAPTERS of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority presented Mrs. Pete Guinn, 513 Star, as their Girl-of-the-Year at the annual Founders Day Banquet and ball held in the Hotel Jim Hill ball-room Tuesday night.

May poles and flowers accented the May Day theme in table decorations with yellow, pink, white and orchid ribbon streamers and pastel center poles lending a gay and colorful note along with May baskets filled with pastel shaded spring blossoms.

Opening the program, Ed Line led the group in singing the National Anthem, followed by the Sorority opening ritual led by the Kappa Iota Chapter president, Mrs. Glen Nelson, and the Beta Sigma Phi grace was sung by a trio made up of Mrs. Ed Line, Mrs. Clyde Russell and Mrs. T.M. Cox Jr.

MRS. PETE GUINN

FOLLOWING the banquet dinner Mrs. Nelson gave a welcome to husbands and guests and a message from the founder, Walter W. Ross, was read by Mrs. Ronald Babione, president of Xi Epsilon Alpha, Exemplar Chapter.

Mrs. Max Stipe read a poem entitled "Our Charter is Our Sovereign Right." Mrs. Jess Robinson gave the Founder's Day Pledge and Mrs. Norman Moore told of the achievements of the Sorority, both national and local, during the past year. A check for $1,553.12 was presented to Ed Line County cancer crusade chairman, as Beta Sigma Phi's contribution, and a love gift of $25 was presented to the Exemplar Chapter from the Kappa Iota group.

MRS. GUINN, honoree at the dance, was presented as the girl-of-the-year, previously selected by secret ballot, and the "Prize Winning Song" was sung by Mrs. Paul Harvey, followed by the closing ritual.

Mrs. Guinn was selected for the honor on the basis of her untiring and thoughtful services in sorority activities, and to the community.

Born in New York City, Mrs. Guinn, the former Marian Baker, spent her childhood in Fall River, Mass. After graduating from high school there she was graduated from Thibodeau Business College in Fall River and then she met Pete Guinn of Friona who was stationed with the Marines at New Port, R.I. The wartime romance ended in their marriage in 1946.

They moved to Hereford from Friona in 1949 and since living in Hereford she has been a member of the Baptist Church, serves as historian in the Aikman School P-TA and has recently taken over the leadership of the Merry Blue Birds.

IN CHOOSING her for the girl of the year honor, members also considered her devotion to Beta Sigma Phi ideals, and her genuine concern for others. She has worked for the Cancer Crusade and served as service chairman in 1956. As vice president for the past year she has had charge of training new pledges. She has been outstanding in her willingness to tackle any task that needed to be done.

Guinn is owner and operator of the Guinn Motor Co. The couple has two children Betty, 9, and Pete, 6.

Dedicatory Services This Morning for Frio Community's New Church

Original Pastor Returns for Day To Preach Sermon

THE NEW Frio Baptist Church will be dedicated this morning by the man who was its first pastor almost 27 years ago.

From an original membership of six, the church has grown to 143. On the first day services were held in the church 15 persons were baptized in addition to the original six and two more joined that night, making a total of 23 members.

First services were held Aug. 17, 1930 and were held in the Frio School house until the new building was completed.

The Rev. Herman Coe was the original pastor and he will preach the dedicatory sermon at 11 a.m. today. In 1930 he was a ministerial student at Wayland College, Plainview.

THE REV. COE and other ministers who succeeded him mostly were Wayland students and drove to Frio each Sunday to preach.

In 1944 the church had enough members to become a full-time church and the Rev. Truitt D. Allen became the full-time pastor. The Rev. Allen will give the evening sermon today. He is currently at Hobbs, N. M., and the Rev. Coe is pastor at Brazoria.

The new building has a seating capacity of 304. It is shaped like a cross. Darwin C. (Doc) Miller designed the building and supervised the construction. He is Sunday School superintendent for the church. Frank Robbins, a deacon, designed and installed the indirect lighting system.

GROUND WAS broken for the building in August of last year and first services were held on March 17 of this year.

The building is of concrete block construction and plans call for a brick veneer to be added at a later date. It is radiant heated.

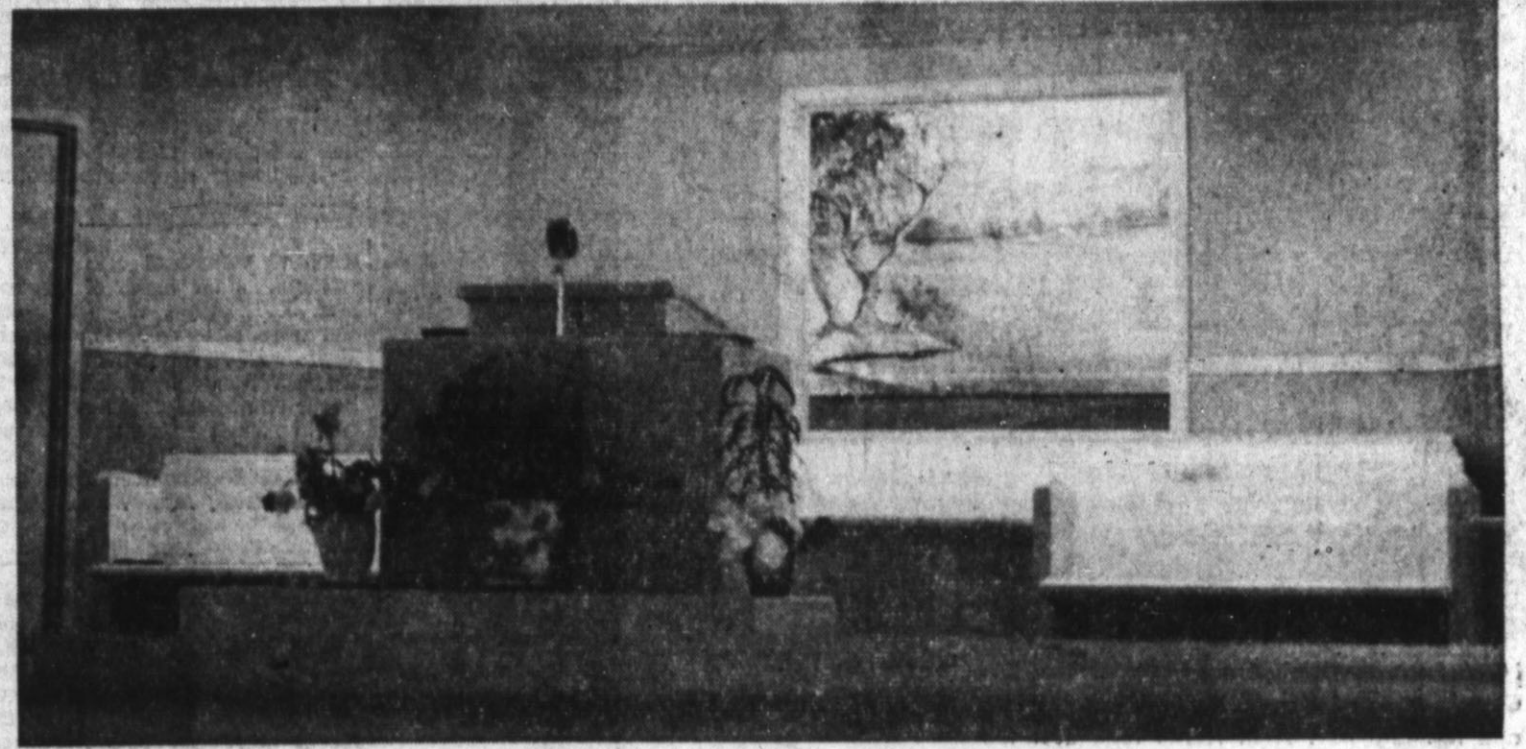

The wings, or arms of the cross, house the educational facilities, including rooms for primary, secondary and adult Sunday school classes and a nursery. A cry room is situated at the rear of the main auditorium.

A STUDY has been provided for the pastor, the Rev. B. H. Baldwin, at the rear of the building. The Rev. Baldwin has been pastor since 1956.

Landscaping is next on the program with plans for a series of windbreak trees at the rear of the church and grass and shrubs on the lawn. Total cost of the building was $41,000.

ARRANGE FLOWERS—Mrs. Owen Andrews, Mrs. T. L. Sparkman Jr. and Mrs. H. M. Mobley, who were among original members of the church, plan a flower display for the pulpit.

INTERIOR—Soft indirect lighting illuminates the pulpit, choir section and baptismal scene of the new church.

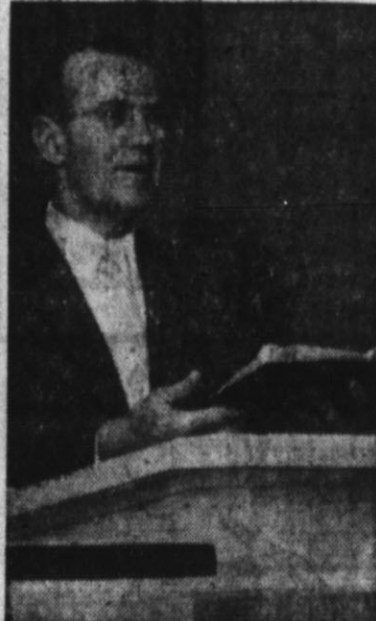

INTERCOM. SYSTEM—Mrs. Elmer Jones, left, Mrs. J. E. Andrews and Miss Alma Andrews, all original members, inspect the intercommunication system in the pastor's study.

CRY ROOM—A mother puts her fretting baby in a crib in the cry room which is at the rear of the auditorium.

ELECTRICIAN—Frank Robbins, a deacon of the church, designed and installed the lighting for the church.

PASTOR—The Rev. B. H. Baldwin has been pastor of the church for two years.

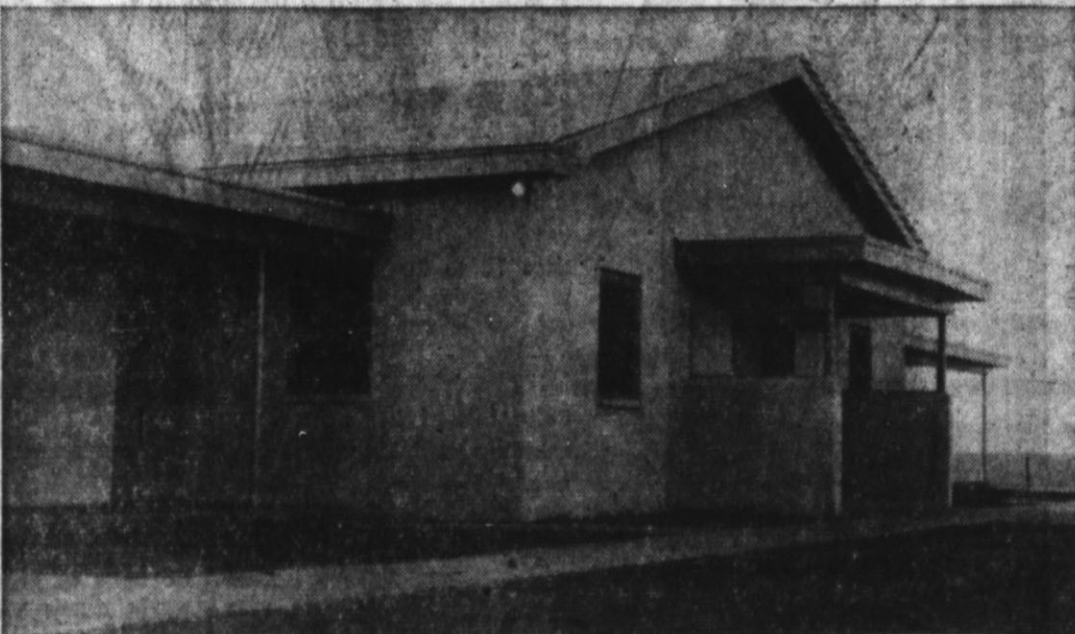

DESIGNER—Doc Miller and his wife practice a hymn. Miller, who is Sunday school superintendent, designed and supervised the building.

EXTERIOR—The entrance to the new church and educational wings. The building is of concrete block construction.

Texas Tech Exes Form Association

A tri-county Texas Tech Ex-Students Assn. was organized last week. The counties included are Deaf Smith, Farmer and Castro. Clint Formby of Hereford was chosen president; A. M. Kemp of Dimmitt, vice president, and Oliver Street of Hereford is secretary-treasurer.

In addition to organizing the association, the group made plans to take several Hereford High School students to Lubbock to see a Southwest Conference football game this fall.

KANSAS VISITORS

Guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Beyer the past weekend were their children, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Beyer Jr., of Hutchinson, Kan., and Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Beyer of Amarillo. The J. E. Beyers Jr., were en route on an extended trip through the Northwest and were accompanied from here by her sister, Mrs. W. E. Dameron.

presided over the annual business meeting with Mrs. Colby Conkwright, Amarillo District WSCS president, giving the prayer and devotional. Committee reports were heard and delegates to the recent meeting of the Northwest Texas WSCS held in Abilene, Mrs. Lee Benefield and Mrs. Grant Hanna, gave reports.

DISTRICT OFFICERS

Training Day was announced for May 17, in Amarillo to be held at Trinity Methodist Church.

Mrs. Hanna, retiring president, was presented with a life membership recently in appreciation of her work in the local WSCS. She has also represented the Methodist women on the United Church Council, serving as president the past year. She is also the newly elected vice-president of the district United Council group and is currently serving as youth secretary of the Amarillo District WSCS.

Hostesses for the May Day luncheon were Mesdames G. S. Solomon, Ralph Gragg, Edgar Roe, C. R. Winget and Bert Boomer. Springlike decorations for luncheon tables included dainty May poles and bouquet arrangements of lilacs.

Wanda Riddle, Charles Brown Plan Marriage

Mrs. C. W. Riddle has announced the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Wanda, to Charles E. Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Brown, 302 Ave. K. The wedding will take place June 8 in the Wesley Methodist Church.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Hereford High School and recently completed a course in an Alburque, N. M. Beauty School.

The prospective bridegroom graduated from Dimmitt High School and is currently employed with the Ware Well Drilling Company. They plan to make their home in Hereford.

Victim of the Gum Machines

IT'S: HER POINT OF VIEW

By PARDY LINER (GUEST)

I hope it's customary for this column to be "proofed" or there might be lots of mistakes this time. I'm a gum chewing, two finger, hunt and peck typist and don't always peek what I hunt.

My favorite chewing gum is the yellow or white from the Lions Club gum machine. These pesky machines have the same fascination as the "one arm bandits" of Las Vegas. They certainly bring forth the gambling instinct. I spend all my pennies trying for my favorite color, and even though I get it at first try, I can't resist seeing if I can better my usual one out of five. According to the mothers of small fry, the machines intrigue them too, as they demand gum from each machine they see. It couldn't be love for game of chance with them — or could it? Anyway it is for a good cause — so long may the gum machines thrive.

CONGRATULATIONS to Ansel and Elizabeth McDowell on their beautiful store. Hear they plan to have draw draperies across the store front. This will add to the window appeal on Main Street. If I ever have a car wreck down town, it will be caused by gazing at the always attractive displays in The Vogue and Little's windows. Now with the prettiest drug store in the Panhandle; the Thursday, Friday, Saturday buffet luncheons served at the Jim Hill Hotel; the attractive window displays and quality merchandise in our stores, we don't need to shop out of town. Even Pardy Liner found she didn't need to look for pickled okra in Lubbock — it's available in Hereford.

This first week in May has occasioned two lovely May Day theme parties. Imogene Wills, Frances Early, Freda and Jen Fuller were hostesses at the Episcopal Hall for a gala affair. The beautiful dresses and interesting and lovely hats put the Easter Parade in the shade.

ROBERTA WILSON and Morgan Cain had on most becoming and unusual hats at the party given by Prudy Black, Ann McCullough, Robbi Cogswell and Ruby Gilbreath. The Jim Black home was a virtual spring garden with lovely spring flowers in every room and tables centered with May poles and miniature baskets of flowers at each guest's place. It's place favors like these, which every grandmother hopes the childless guest will give her to take home to the grandchildren.

It isn't just grandmothers who are indulgent. I understand grandfathers and great grandfathers enjoy baby sitting. Ask Lynn Kester why he doesn't follow bedtime schedule for grandson Mickey, and F. H. Oberthier about the great pleasure he gets in being called on to baby sit with charming great-granddaughter Lisa Kirby: Don't believe the regular Pardy Liner is going to think she got a bargain in a ghost writer. The trouble with a bargain, usually, is that only the price is right.

PRIVATE CARE
MILWAUKEE — There had been a siege of colds and flu in the Donald Laine home, so when Donnie, 4, went to bed he prayed thusly:
"And please, God, make my daddy better and my sister better and my mother — well, she went to the doctor today so you won't have to do much for her."

ROSE OF SAN ANTONIO
SAN ANTONIO, Tex. — The San Antonio zoo has acquired a rare whooping crane captured on a ranch near Lometa, Tex. They named it Rosie.

Zoo Director Fred Stark hopes he can get a mate for Rosie from the Austwell refuge on the Texas gulf where crippled males are sometimes spotted.

Less than 30 of the 6-foot white birds, once plentiful in North America, returned from their winter nesting grounds in Canada. They were within 15 birds of extinction at one time in recent years.

The only others in captivity are Crip and Jo in the New Orleans zoo.

By Jimmie Gillentine
The rains came. Not in such abundance here as other places, but just at the right time to accomplish the most good for the wheat and cattle boys — and still to do the least damage to vegetable growers. This country is getting so diversified that a rain seldom falls, but that it brings problems and headaches for some type of farmer. Back in the days when we put all of our eggs in one basket such was not the case.

Unbecoming as it may seem, I cannot resist pointing out that the rainfall pattern is following my predictions of last October almost to the letter. I still contend that 1950 will be our big year in this current cycle. Furthermore, I hope it doesn't get so bad as they are having in the Ft. Worth-Dallas country. However, it might. It sure is in the cards.

Several years back all of the smart alecs were forecasting the doom and disappearance of the small community, due to school consolidations, automobiles and other modern facilities. The folks out Frio way this week showed them just how wrong people can be, when they opened the new Frio Church after seven months of diligent and cooperative effort. The whole community pitched in lock, stock and barrel and came up with a fine building. It is a Baptist Church by denomination, but pretty well serves the whole area. Doc Miller, Sunday School superintendent, designed the building and supervised construction, including two educational wings. B. H. Baldwin is pastor, and the folks are having Herman Coe, their first pastor, back for the opening. Everyone is proud of the accomplishment, and justly so. The Black community, likewise, is back in the running in statewide competition for small communities. Westway has another group of people I have always admired.

Truthfully, it appears that the folks who really want a community have built them stronger than ever before. All of which proves that communities, like people, are made stronger when they face and survive adversity, hardship and difficulty.

Did you ever hear of beryllium? It is a mineral used to harden steel and sells for something like $71.50 per pound. The Borger paper had an article recently about a Borger corporation which has a big beryllium strike on property owned near Salida, Colo. It said that the group has turned down fabulous offers for its 1,200 acres, said to be teeming with the heady stuff. The most interesting thing, though, was the fact that Consolidated Mining and Development Corporation lists seven directors, three of whom are from Hereford as follows: Dr. C. M. Stapp, J. B. Noland and W. N. Hodges Jr.

All of these boys are right secretive about the deal, but the grapevine does I get indicates that a tremendous big portion of the stock is held by Hereford people, who have something like $200,000 invested in the corporation. Reports indicate that the property might run up to $37 million in actual value. This does not count some of the other minerals likely to be found, nor does it include the probability that there is a huge bed of uranium under the beryllium, gallium, lanthanum, etc. The corporation has 89 stockholders and something like one-third to one half of them are reported to be from Hereford.

The property is 14,243 feet above sea level and due to heavy snows has a limited operating period, but they are getting ready to dig in. Looks like a lot of people may turn up with a big strike. Anyway, it will be nice to know folks with a lot of money.

The Pony League is shaping up, and will probably iron out a lot of details at the meeting Monday night. Boys, 13 and 14, will include Little League graduates and, judging from last season, should turn in some mighty nice ball playing. Jimmie Allred, president, says they are coming along on the field plans, it will be located in Veterans Park south of town.

Demolition work started this week on the old Parker house at McKinley and Fourth. The Bill Waldreps plan to rebuild on the location with a modern brick home. The house, incidentally, is a landmark of many years standing as Cliff Acker can tell you.

Everywhere people are talking about how much things are changing around town. Understand the barber consolidation will get underway tomorrow. They are planning a thoroughly modern place.

My troubles are specific, though, centering these days mostly around a white rat called "Honey." Foolishly, I bared my feelings in this column concerning the him (or her) and now I not only have to live with the revolting creature, but also seem to have incurred the wrath of a former owner and genuine rat lover — as the following letter indicates:

April 26, 1957
Dear Mr. Gillentine,
The first time you mentioned your "14-inch rat" I was able to keep my comments to myself, but since you now have stretched her tail to 12 inches, I must speak up in her behalf. Her welfare is naturally a concern of mine since she was once a highly regarded member of my own household with her three sisters, five brothers and mother.

I found their mother lost or abandoned by the tennis court and brought her home after determining beyond doubt that she did not belong in the neighborhood. In about two weeks she had nine pink babies for us to admire — and we did. Everyday she bathed them promptly at 9:30 a.m. and polished them again after each feeding. Everyday my three girls and I eagerly watched them to see how much hair they had grown or what new games they would play.

One morning we found the mother dead from eating on an inedible dish I had foolishly used to feed them. Quite naturally her babies received added attention from us to help them adjust to being orphaned. Of course we planned to give some away but put it off as long as possible because we hated to part with any of them.

Much to my disappointment, very few people share my views on rats and the petting thereof, and we had to part with the four little girl rats since there were fewer of them. They were by far the more playful, industrious, clever and affectionate.

Now you see that yours is not an ordinary rat by any means, but one with a good family back-

Catholic Women Hold Tullia Meet

The Amarillo District Council of Catholic Women held a one-day session in Tullia Tuesday at St. Williams Parish. Eleven parishes were represented with 81 members attending.

Theme for the day was "Christian Realism — The Answer to World Peace." Mrs. Lawrence Jentzen of Vega presided and Mrs. Ray Wilhelm was re-elected parliamentarian. Mrs. Andrew Kershen served as chairman of the nominating committee for new officers.

Mrs. Ed Loerwald discussed the subject "Resolution — A Basis of Action" and a panel discussion of the 1956 Christmas message of Pope Pius 12th was presented by Mrs. Gene Loerwald, Mrs. James L. Polrot of Amarillo and Mrs. Francis Androcek of Dalhart.

The main address was given by the most Rev. John L. Morkobsky, Auxiliary Bishop of Amarillo.

Others from Hereford attending were Mesdames Ed Dziuk, Ed Jesko, Matt Jesko, Helen Fangman, John Henderson, Ed Dziuk Jr., Ted Higgins, and Barbara Scoggins. Three companions from the Girls Training School at St. Joseph's Mission at the Labor Camp, also attended.

Summerfield Club Installs Officers

The Summerfield Study Club held its closing luncheon in the home of Mrs. Chester Wiggins Thursday.

Feature of the event was the installation of recently elected officers with Mrs. D. C. Kinsey of Hereford conducting the ceremony.

Theming her talk "Bells and their Meaning," Mrs. Kinsey likened each officer's work to the ringing of a bell, spreading her influence as the bell spreads its sound to all in hearing distance.

She said, "So closely have bells been associated with the social and religious life of mankind, that they have come to symbolize certain characteristics of truth, faith and

JEAN CAISON

G. D. CAISON, JR.

We have recently purchased the Western Wheel Inn from Emmett and Dell Sherman, and want to take this opportunity to invite you to drop by for a visit at your earliest convenience. And . . . you might just want to bring the family down today for one of our delicious Sunday Dinners.

At any rate, we sure want to see you Tuesday for a Free Cup of Coffee and Doughnut. It's on the House, Tuesday, May 7th at the Western Wheel Inn.

Jean and G. D.

A Note of Appreciation from Emmett and Dell

THANKS FOLKS.

It has been a pleasure to serve you during the past years. We have enjoyed every minute of it and we're sure that the Caisons will share our enthusiasm for your friendship and generous patronage.

And may we take this opportunity of inviting you to continue visiting the Western Wheel Inn. We know you're going to like G. D. and Jean, and the service which they give.

Again, may we say "Thanks folks" . . . it's been a pleasure.

WOMAN MAYOR HARD-WORKING POLITICIAN

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — Dona Felisa Rincon de Gautier, mayor of San Juan since 1945, is representative of the esteem and confidence the men of Puerto Rico extend to their women in public life.

Women have had the vote in Puerto Rico since 1932 and enjoy the same rights men have, the mayor told members of the Woman's National Press Club at a luncheon in her honor. In fact, she said, there are more Puerto Rican women in government than men.

"The secret," explained Mrs. de Gautier, "is that they never antagonize the men. The men are very generous, and very pleased. Another thing, no matter how much the women have to work, they are always women. After a day in their offices they go home and change their clothes to look pretty for their menfolk."

Dona Felisa, as she is affectionately called by her associates and citizens, is the wife of Genaro Gautier, a San Juan lawyer. She was owner of one of the city's largest dress shops before she got actively interested in politics with the Popular Democratic Party in 1940.

Four years later she was urged to run for mayor, but listened to the advice of her husband and father and declined. Both men gave her their full support when she did run for the office and have been her biggest boosters ever since, she says.

When she first took office, the streets of San Juan had many goats and beggars and only five garbage trucks. Now, the goats and beggars are off the streets, but provided for, and there are close to 100 well-manned garbage trucks.

One of the most practical and popular innovations made by the lady mayor, however, is the open house she holds in her office every Wednesday. Anyone may come — its chief purpose is to afford an opportunity for citizens to voice pleas, or complaints, express appreciation, or make suggestions. Hundreds come.

But every day is a long day, sometimes 16 hours, for this remarkable woman whose work has been praised on both sides of the Atlantic. In 1956 she was president of the Sixth Inter-American Congress of Municipalities in Panama. In 1955 she was a representative of both that organization and the American Municipal Assn. to the International Congress of Local Authorities in Rome.

Mrs. de Gautier came to Washington to confer with the State Department before embarking on a second lecture tour of South American countries. The department has sponsored both tours for the lady mayor who was named "Woman of the Americas" in 1954, an annual honor bestowed by the non-official inter-American organization, Union of American Women.

DEFINITION
MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — A 19-year-old blonde arrested in a apartment with two men on bank robbery charges said she didn't know the meaning of "aiding and abetting."

U. S. Commissioner C. O. Lundquist explained that the charge would apply "even if all you did was fry an egg" for the bank robbers.

SLIP OF THE TONGUE
CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) — Radio Announcer Keith Ashton's tongue slipped a little during his broadcast.

"The 34th Wyoming legislature is now in its final week of law-breaking," he said. After a short pause he backtracked: "Apparently that should be law-making."

Senior Girls Are Honored by Mothers at Dinner Party

Sixteen senior girls in Hereford High School, most of them having started to school the same year and continued close friendships, were honored at a surprise dinner party given by their mothers in the home of Mrs. G. W. Newsom Tuesday evening.

Colors of red and white in flowers and appointments carried out the class colors about the house and at the buffet table in the den from which the dinner was served. Congratulation cards were attached to a sterling silver spoon as a starter in their favorite pattern as a gift from each girl's mother.

Mothers told of amusing incidents occurring when the honorees were "little girls" and conversation and informal music made up the evening's diversion.

Mothers and their daughters attending included Mrs. Robert Wagner and Elaine, Mrs. L. J. Strafus and Loretta, Mrs. Earl Springer and Sue, Mrs. Travis Caraway and Sandra, Mrs. Frank Daniel and Dorothy Faye, Mrs. G. W. Newsom and Jane, Mrs. Carl Williams and Carolyn, Mrs. Edgar Skypala and Kee, Mrs. Alby Cockrell and Nancy, Mrs. Charles Holt and Clarith, Mrs. Frank Huckert and Mary Katherine, Mrs. Andrew Kershen and Kay, Mrs. A. J. Peters and Patricia, Mrs. Jack Brown and Jackie, Mrs. Melvin Summers and Elisabeth Brummer, exchange student, and Mrs. J. E. Kirby and Sue.

Here's a treat to make with canned or stewed pears: fill centers with vanilla ice cream and sprinkle with chopped toasted almonds.

Know how to prepare kidneys before cooking? Split through the center lengthwise after removing outer membrane. Cut away white membrane and tubes with kitchen scissors and wash in cold water.

Household Tips

Press the breast bone if you want to determine the age of a chicken before buying it. The bone of a young bird will be soft and pliable; it becomes firm and hard as the bird ages.

Place wilted vegetables in ice-cold water or between layers of crushed ice to freshen them. Then cover with clean, damp cloth and store in refrigerator.

Have a bit of broccoli leftover? Mix it with the egg you're scrambling for lunch for a delicate flavor variation.

Try this with leftover cooked cereal: pack while warm into a clean loaf pan, cool thoroughly; remove from pan, slice and pan fry.

If your cheese sauce has curdled slightly, beat with a rotary beater just before serving.

Brown or white eggs are used interchangeably; their color has no relation to quality, flavor or food value.

Ever try sprinkling a bit of nutmeg on boiled rice for flavor accent? Delicious when served with poultry.

Slip a few slices of pimiento on a cheddar cheese filling for a tangy toasted sandwich.

Try these variations with packaged vanilla pudding: stir in instant coffee, or tiny semi-sweet chocolate pieces.

Bananas, dipped in batter and fried, make an excellent accompaniment to a ham steak.

A five-pound corned beef brisket will serve a family of four generously for two meals.

French toast looks pretty topped with a spoonful of red jelly.

Know your vinegars! There are many types available and each has a distinctive flavor. Vinegars are made chiefly from cider, wine, malt, grain or spirit.

Serve cooked breakfast cereal piping hot! It tastes best this way.

Use fresh cold water to cover bones and meat when you make stock.

Vegetables may be seasoned with a little very finely minced onion and melted butter.

Making sandwiches for a picnic? If you prepare them ahead, store them in the refrigerator. But remember that filled sandwiches should not be stored for more than 12 hours.

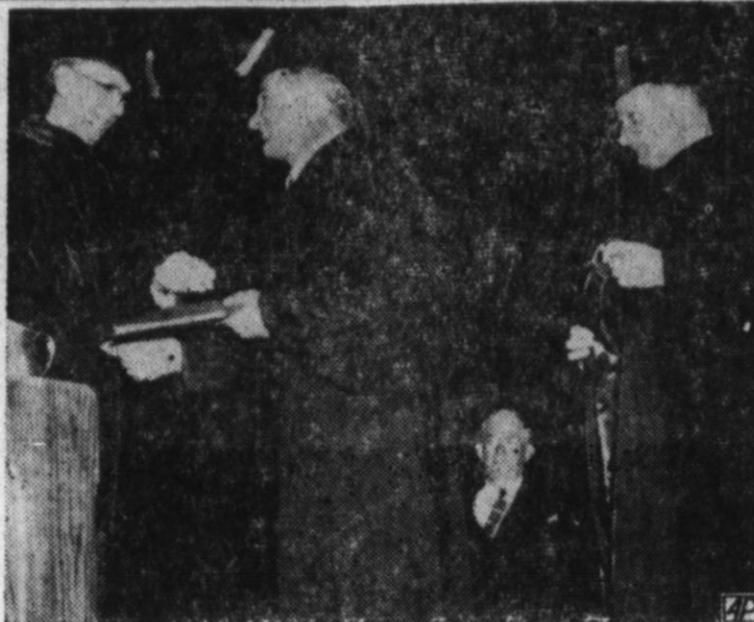

SUDDEN VISIT
HARDIN, Ky. — Miss Regina Pace opened the window one night and yelled to a neighbor: "there's a car in my bedroom."

The retired school teacher was so right. Not only was an auto in her bedroom, so were its two occupants.

Their injuries were mild considering how they got there.

The auto had left the highway, torn through a fence, bounced across a field and smashed through a wall of Miss Pace's home, knocking her out of bed.

DESTINATION?

Miniature Antique Show Held at Bay View Club's Meeting

BAY VIEW STUDY Club concluded its 1956-57 activities at a tea given in Fellowship Hall of the First Methodist Church Thursday afternoon.

Arrangements for the tea were made by the social committee including Mesdames Carl Perrin, Ansel McDowell, Leo Forrest and Francis Hardwick. The table was laid with a white embroidered linen cloth and centered with an arrangement of yellow tulips. Mrs. Will S. Kerr, president, poured. Officers recently elected were installed with Mrs. Eugene Naugle conducting the rites. Those assuming duties of office were Mrs. Will S. Kerr, president; Mrs. Phillip Barkley, first vice president; Mrs. Lee Benefield, second vice president; Mrs. R. B. Miller, recording secretary; Mrs. Howard Gault, corresponding secretary and Mrs. Leo Forrest, treasurer.

THE PRESIDENT appointed the following committees for the 1956-57 club year: membership — Mesdames Phillip Barkley and D. H. Alexander; program — Mesdames Carl Perrin, Jack Gilliland, Jas. W. Witherspoon and E. W. Harrison; social — Mesdames Howard Gault, J. W. Spradley, Earl McElwee and Miss Frances Turrentine; cheer — Mesdames R. B. Miller and John McLean; federation — Mesdames Lee Benefield and Francis Hardwick; telephone — Mesdames J. C. McCracken and Eugene Naugle; welfare — Mesdames Ansel McDowell and W. C. Hromas; Americanism — Mesdames Leo Forrest and A. M. Jones; parliamentarian, Mrs. Colby Conkwright and reporter, Mrs. John McLean.

The program was in the form of a miniature antique show under the direction of Mrs. Phillip Barkley. Members brought antique pieces from their private collections and told of their origin and gave interesting comments.

MRS. BARKLEY gave a comprehensive discussion of antiques in general and spoke in particular of antique china, pewter and glass.

Members in attendance were Mesdames Paul Mathers, Phillip Barkley, Lee Benefield, Colby Conkwright, Leo Forrest, Howard Gault, Jack Gilliland, Jimmie Gilentine, Francis Hardwick, E. W. Harrison, A. M. Jones, Will S. Kerr, J. W. Kirby, J. C. McCracken, Ansel McDowell, R. B. Miller, Eugene Naugle, Carl Perrin, J. P. Slaton, J. W. Spradley and Earl McElwee.

HOT TRIP
MARION, Ill. — It never blazes but what it burns for the Irvin Clendenin family. While they were shopping in town, their four-room frame house five miles away was destroyed, contents and all. Then Clendenin burned out the motor of his car while speeding to the scene.

VANISHING WEST
CINCINNATI — The Wild West is dead — at least in Ohio. County Prosecutor C. Watson Hoover has ruled that a local vigilante group being organized under an 1880 "horse thief" law has no police powers.

MENTAL LAPSE
GRANITE, Okla. — Mrs. Charles Rodolph decided to improve her memory and checked out two library books on memory training. Three weeks later she got a notice from the library — she had forgotten to return the books.

Group Informed Mesquito Control Is Needed To Prevent Sleeping Sickness

GET MOSQUITO CONTROL NEWS—Pencils poised, these ladies were among members of the health committee of the county planning committee, who heard health department representatives outline the need for and means of controlling mosquitoes Tuesday during a meeting in the district courtroom. Fieldman W. D. Power told the group that two culex-family of mosquitoes have been identified as carriers of sleeping sickness disease. (Staff Photo)

When the health committee of the county planning committee met last week, prevention of another outbreak of sleeping sickness was outlined by Mrs. Jack Higgins, chairman as the group's primary objective.

W. D. Power, field representative with the state health department office at Lubbock, told the 40 persons present that mosquito control is a must if the disease is to be prevented from spreading during an outbreak.

Power gave advice and a list of things necessary to control mosquitoes on farms. A number of points he listed are applicable to the city as well as rural areas. He said a farm or rural resident can do much to help protect his family and livestock from mosquito-borne disease and mosquito annoyance by:

1. Properly preparing fields and pastures so water is not ponded or pooled.
2. Properly constructing and maintaining ditches so they do not become overgrown with vegetation or hold water for several days.
3. Reducing waste irrigation waters to the lowest practicable amount.
4. Elimination of standing water in well pump sumps.
5. Keeping house screens in good repair.
6. Destroying all mosquitoes that enter the home. Any commercial household spray is satisfactory.
7. Removing all artificial water containers on the premises, such as tubs, barrels, cans, old tires, etc.
8. Screening or closing cisterns so mosquitoes can neither enter or leave.
9. Eliminating any openings or septic tanks or cesspools by which mosquitoes might enter or leave.
10. Connecting all sink drains, etc., to home sewage disposal system so no water is discharged above ground.
11. Stocking large stock watering troughs with fish and preventing overflow and pooling of water.
12. Consideration of some form of modification of any "playa" lakes or ponds that exist upon the premises.
13. Larviciding of mosquito sources until they can be eliminated or modified. Equipment and chemicals already present on the farm may be satisfactory.
14. Residual spraying of sheds, garages, storm cellars, shrubbery and other daytime resting places of adult mosquitoes. Particular attention should be given to livestock sheds and chicken houses.
15. Prevention of pooling of water from evaporative type air conditioners. Where recirculating pumps are used a teaspoonful of household spray placed in the water pan each week will control this possible source.

Big Name Dressmakers Strike Gold on Beach

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

Bathing suits are big business, as evidenced by the high-powered designers now getting into the sun-and-surf act.

It is a recent trend of the times that American women have become name-designer-conscious, and take as much pride in the labels in their swim suits as in those in their evening gowns.

Nettie Rosenstein is the most recent arrival in the swimwear couture lineup, having discovered that a swimsuit is as basic a part of the average woman's

Mrs. Rosenstein's swimwear designs, however, have no hint of the understated restraint of her discreet dress creations. When she turns her designing eye toward the surf, this noted dressmaker throws off all inhibitions and shoots the works on allure. Her theory is that a lady should be discreet in the drawing room, but daring on the beach.

That's why you may see a 1957 bathing beauty in a gold-lane swimsuit that fits like a second skin, is a perky creation of candy-striped can-can ruffles or in a startling creation of white fishnet over flesh-colored jersey.

Rivalry runs high along our rich beaches this season, as such designers as Hubert de Givenchy, Christian Dior, Schiaparelli and Nettie Rosenstein all get in the swim. And the competition is not only in the designs but also in the presentations. At present Mrs. Rosenstein holds the showmanship lead, after unveiling her latest swimwear collection amid icicles and snow peaks, beside a heated outdoor pool in Sun Valley, Idaho.

Favorite figureheads on American sailing ships included Abraham Lincoln, Benjamin Franklin, and of all people, Davy Crockett who probably never saw a larger body of water than a river he could swim.

to good sanitation. Space spraying is effective as a control of adult mosquitoes but is not advocated as a complete program for control of flies. In emergencies where cost is not a consideration, the method of space spraying for a rapid reduction of adult fly population can be advantageous. Space spraying can be effective after sanitation has eliminated most of the fly breeding sites and as a spot treatment where immediate elimination of a breeding site cannot be secured.

Suspensions made with water wettable powders are good for residual spray of porous surfaces but leave an unsightly residue. Concentrations above 2 1/2 per cent are likely to clog nozzles so twice as much material must be applied. Suspensions require equipment which provides constant agitation to keep formulations properly mixed.

AT PRESENT the chemical formulations recommended by the State Department of Health for use in the control of flies and mosquitoes are as follows:

Residual spray for fly and mosquito control:

1. 5 per cent DDT emulsion or solution or 2 1/2 per cent suspension on surfaces of all resting places.
2. 5 per cent chlordane emulsion or solution on surfaces of all resting places except interiors of dwellings.
3. Where odor is not a consideration, 5 per cent BHC (made from 12 per cent gamma isomer benzene hexachloride) emulsion or solution of 2 1/2 per cent suspension.
4. 5 per cent methoxychlor emulsion on surfaces in dairy barns.

Space spraying for fly and mosquito control:

1. 2 1/2-5 per cent chlordane emulsion or oil solution applied at rate of five quarts per acre. This gives required deposit of one-quarter to one-half pound chlordane per acre.
2. 5 per cent DDT emulsion or oil solution applied at rate of five quarts per acre. This gives required deposit of one-half pound DDT per acre.
3. 5 per cent BHC emulsion at rate of five quarts per acre if odor is not a factor.
4. 2 per cent Lindane emulsion or solution at rate of five quarts per acre.

Larviciding for fly control:

1. 5 per cent chlordane emulsion applied to fly breeding material at rate of one pint per 100 square feet.
2. 1 1/2 per cent Lindane emulsion or 5 per cent BHC emulsion (if odor is not a factor), both at the rate of one pint per 100 square feet.

3. 3 per cent gamma BHC dust. Larviciding for mosquito control:

1. A DDT solution applied at rate of 0.1-0.2 pound of DDT per acre may be required but above 2 pound per acre is not recommended where fish and wildlife must be considered.
2. A BHC emulsion applied at the rate of 1 pound of 12 per cent gamma BHC per acre.

KILL JOYS

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Two officials proposed that Milwaukee County stamp out the coffee break, contending the practice by county employees is costing the taxpayers one million dollars a year.

The curb was asked by Anthony Romano, of the Civil Service Commission, and C. Stanley Perry, corporation counsel. They said they drank milk.

Warner kept the date. He was greeted by Frank Cevalina, a buddy of World War I he hadn't seen in 39 years.

The two recognized each other immediately.

Streu's Diary

May 3, 1957

DEAR DIARY:

April showers, May flowers — and bang!!! Here it is only one week until Mother's Day!! Yes, sir, Mother's Day comes early this year — and I haven't even a smattering of an idea what to give Jean. However, I do have a flock of suggestions for you guys to give your wives and mothers — just cast your eyeballs on this array — artificial flowers and fruits — last the year around — even two or three years. Two new patterns in Vernon Pottery. Several new patterns in Royal Jackson china — new shipment of Fostoria crystal, including brand new pieces in American pattern — these you should see. Then there is Magnalite, Revere and other cooking utensils — all kinds of work-saving kitchen gadgets — and hundreds of other lovely, long-lasting gift items for the gals. And, fellers, we will do a bang-up job of gift wrapping for you — no extra charge.

Suggest also that you might buy Mother a new RCA Victor TV — or Hi-Fi record player — or some new records — or a portable radio to tote from room to room (these are nice for traveling and picnics, also). You just can't miss when you shop Streu's for Mother's Day gifts.

Just around the next corner is Graduation — and most graduates, whether girl or boy appreciate a fine RCA Victor TV, Hi-Fi, portable radio, clock radio — or a flock of new records. Of course, we have many other gift suggestions for the graduates.

Just received: RAID — house and garden bug killer — kills flies, mosquitoes, roaches, ants, moths, gnats, silverfish, spiders, wasps, bedbugs, crickets, aphids, red spiders, caterpillars, Japanese beetles — and dozens of other pests — looks like the answer to a housewife's prayer for "a kill-em-all spray in one package. Price—only $1.59 — at Streu's.

Also received: pipe fittings, and wash boards, dandelion spray and sprayer, lawn mower handles, grass catchers, bolts, cow bells, nylon starter ropes for mowers and outboard motors, plastic coated gloves for cement workers, KV extending closet rods, the new Wiss Scalloping shears, skeleton keys, and many other items.

We are in a position to handle several more Budget Accounts. May we suggest that you can buy most anything at Streu's on this plan — stop in for the complete picture.

I notice numerous empty beer cans along Main Street — also in the residential streets — most of these are tossed out of cars driven by teenagers — now I wonder — just where do they get Beer???

STREU

P. S. Jean says that if you cannot make up your mind on a Mother's Day gift, she will gladly fill out a gift certificate for you — and let the recipient pick her own gift.

April Showers Bring May Flowers

A-TISKET, A-TASKET—Pretty Sue Ellen Douglas, dressed for the day, happily knocks at her neighbor's door with a May basket of bright tulips. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Townsend Douglas.

MAGIC OF SPRING—Two four-year-old playmates, Camille Langley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Langley, and Mike Click, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Click, discover the magic of spring as they compare flowers beneath a blossoming cherry tree.

KNEE-DEEP IN TULIPS—Two-year-old Deborah and Bobby, six to four, stand knee-deep in their grandmother's tulip bed to fill their May basket. They are children of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Banner and the grandmother is Mrs. Russell Hunter.

AFTER THE RAIN—Mrs. Wallace Cox gathers tulips after an early morning shower. Nodding with every breeze along the garden fence they say a bright good morning to every passer-by. (Staff Photos)

Garden Club Tulip Tea Is Colorful Spring Occasion

One of the prettiest social affairs of the season was the Garden Beautiful Club Tulip Tea held Friday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Townsend Douglas. Members of the social committee served as hostesses, including Mesdames Edward Roberson, V. O. Hennen, Roy Smith, Joe Reinauer and Townsend Douglas.

Tulips and other spring flowers garnered from gardens of members, were everywhere about the house arranged with knowing eyes and practiced hands to reveal spring's own message of beauty. The tea table was centered with an arrangement of gold and yellow tulips in a large crystal container. Appointments were in silver. Mrs. Ansel McDowell, president, presided.

Sandra Roberson, Sue Ellen Douglas, and Jonna Lee Blocker provided piano music during the afternoon and Sandra Roberson read "How to Cook Your Husband."

Special guests were Mesdames A. E. Douglas, J. W. Thomas, Gwynne Owen, Ida Ricketts, Bob Lawrence, W. M. Lenderman, J. M. Gillentine, Earl Huckabee, Richard Barnard, Sam Long, W. C. Meharg, Maurice Tannahill, H. E. Miller, O. L. Clink, J. B. Elliston, J. R. Allison, J. T. Gilbreath Jr., Jimmie Allred, J. W. Norvell, Gilbert Davis Jr., and Henry Sears.

Members present were Mesdames Howard Armstrong, N. D. Bartlett Jr., Ray Townsend, S. L. Easley, Wayne Edwards, J. B. Harlin, E. W. Harrison, Charles Hood, D. C. Kinsey, Ansel McDowell, Dick Miller, G. P. Owen, Lloyd Pool, B. E. Roberson, Mary Seigler, W. J. Stanford, Robert Veigel, Gerald Wilson, J. L. Woodford, E. W. Hobson and the hostesses.

IN PIANO RECITAL
Evelyn Hacker of Hereford, a music student at Eastern New Mexico University, Portales, will participate in a general music recital Monday night at the school. Miss Hacker will give a piano recital.

For a quick appetizer: put sardines on individual strips of bread and top with thick tomato sauce and grated cheese, and slide under the broiler until brown.

GOLDEN PHANTASY—is the name Mrs. Edward Roberson gave this arrangement. She is pictured placing the table centerpiece at the Garden Beautiful Club Tulip Tea given in the home of Mrs. Townsend Douglas Friday. Golden and yellow tulips from her garden were used.

In Canasta, Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Sanders played high and Tilden Slagle and Mrs. Pete Gwinn played second high.

Glenn Wilson was high in hearts and Glenn Watson, second high. R.

Child Study Club Plans Final Meet

Child Study Club met with Mrs. Tommy Braddy recently when the plans were made for the closing program to be held May 9 in the form of a luncheon at the Wesley Methodist Church.

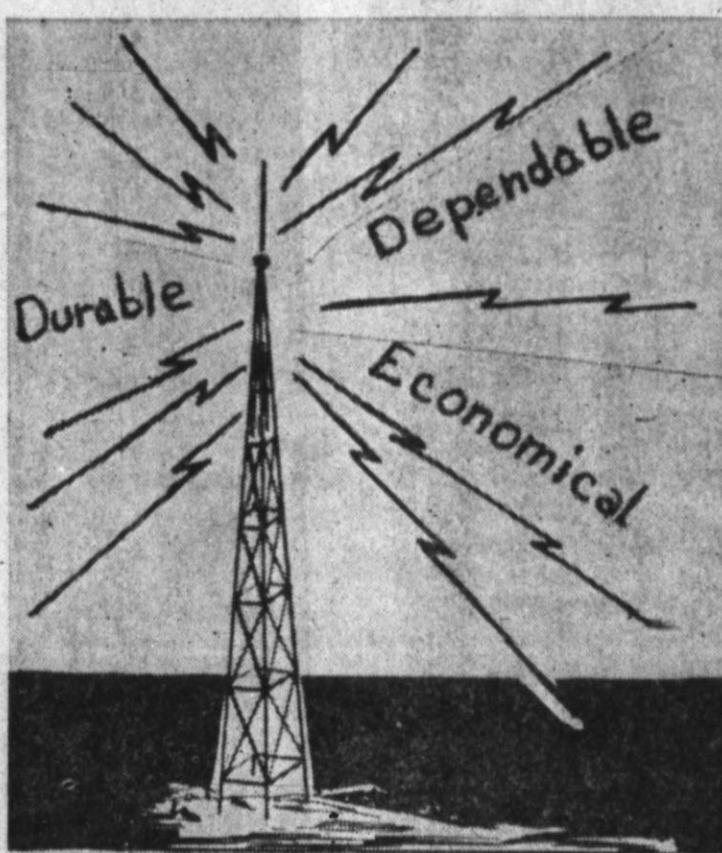

During the business session Mrs. Clinton Jackson, president, read a letter on new teacher pay legislation and urged members to write Representative Rogers in support of the pending bill.

Mrs. J. C. Reese presented the program on Russia reviewing an article appearing in a recent magazine revealing first hand views of the schools, the homes, the children and manner of living in Russia. She quoted from the authors "Prior to World War I 97 per cent of the people were illiterate, now 90 per cent are literate."

Members present were Mesdames J. W. Witherspoon, F. G. Witherspoon, Marvin Knox, J. C. Reese, Helen Coffman, Clinton Jackson, Merlin Kaul, George Springer, Maurice Tannahill and the hostess.

Facts You Need To Know About AGRICULTURAL AMMONIA

AGRICULTURAL ANHYDROUS AMMONIA

The anhydrous part of the name means without water. Ammonia—at normal temperatures and pressures—is a colorless gas consisting of 82 per cent nitrogen and 18 per cent hydrogen. This is the most concentrated form of Nitrogen fertilizer known.

WHAT AMMONIA DOES FOR CROPS

Ammonia combined with the clay is insoluble in water and resists leaching. Plants in the early stages of growth absorb and use nitrogen in this ammonia form directly.

At soil temperatures above 50 degrees, with proper moisture, soil micro-organisms change the ammonia nitrogen into nitrate nitrogen. Since many plants prefer the ammonia form in their early stages of growth and the nitrate form later, this conversion process of NH₃ closely parallels the plants' needs.

THIS ANHYDROUS AMMONIA Fertilizer makes it possible for your crops to have adequate supplies of nitrogen throughout their growth—and at low cost.

WHY YOUR LAND NEEDS NITROGEN

- ★ For greater growth, yields, profits
- ★ For higher protein in food and feed crops
- ★ For quality crops of healthy, dark green color
- ★ To speed decomposition of crop residues

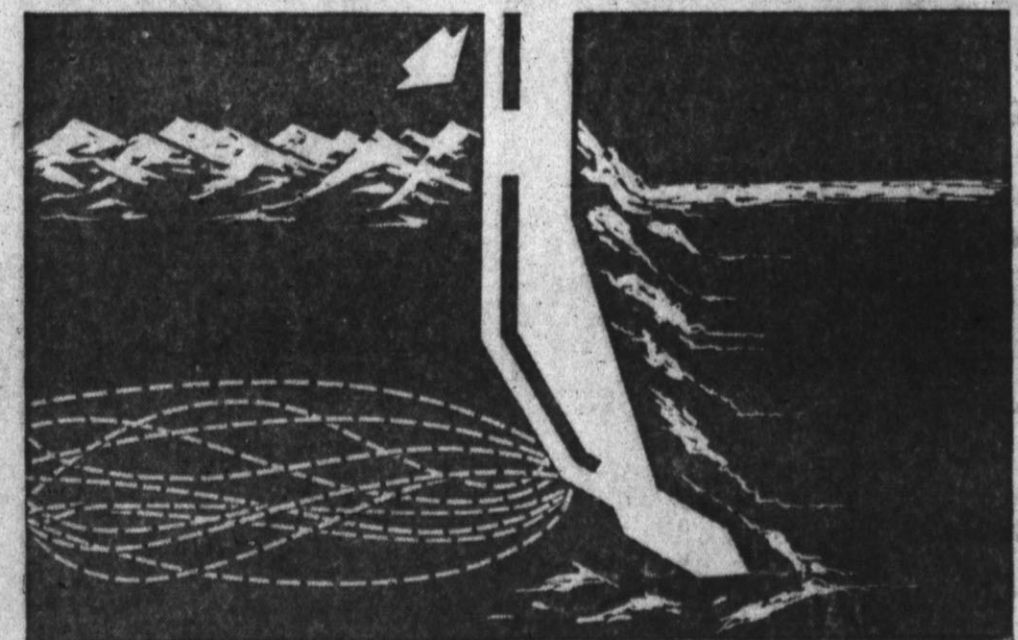

YOUR INDIVIDUAL SOIL NEEDS

It's impossible to provide an exact fertilizing program suited to all farms. Climate, soils and management of soils vary greatly from state to state, county to county and farm to farm.

So, consult Hereford Butane, Inc. Have your soil tested. A soil test is the best way to find out just what your individual field needs. Check your previous cropping history. Then you can be sure that you are applying the right balance of plant food for efficient, economical crop use—higher yields.

PHILLIPS 66 AGRICULTURAL AMMONIA (82% NITROGEN) properly used will return many times your original investment in increased crop yields.

FOR MORE NITROGEN AT LESS MONEY, GET PHILLIPS 66 AGRICULTURAL AMMONIA AT HEREFORD BUTANE, INC.

Artist Argue Over Art, Artists, Spectators and a Baltimore Chimp

By W. G. ROGERS
Associated Press Arts Editor
NEW YORK (AP) — The artist feels his way rather than thinks it; he should not be bothered with the opinions people have of his work; yet it is these people who will save him for posterity.

These were some of the conclusions arrived at by some of the people some of the time at the recent American Federation of Arts convention in Houston, Tex. — the biggest art convention ever held in this country, it was said, attracting a nationwide audience of more than 1,500. Besides special loan exhibitions, such as the "Three Brothers" show of the Duchamp trio which had moved there from the Solomon R. Guggenheim Museum in New York the chief drawing card was a band of speakers rare at art or any other conventions.

MARCEL DUCHAMP of "Nude Descending a Staircase" fame; Stuart Davis, abstract painter; James Johnson Sweeney, director of the Guggenheim museum and president of the MacDowell association; poet and novelist Randall Jarrell; Meyer Schapiro, critic, author and Columbia professor; Vincent Price, actor and collector; teachers and gallery officials from Princeton, Sarah Lawrence, Queen College and other institutions and other dignitaries.

The one thing the audiences at the various sessions could count on was that the experts would not agree with the experts, and indeed they didn't. They quarreled over big and little matters: Is anybody greater than Rembrandt, does the artist know just what he's doing, should he be both with his public, and why, and can a monkey paint as well as a man?

It was Schapiro who was willing to concede that "Rembrandt is greater than any living abstract expressionist," but was nagged on to it by Sweeney, the moderator. Davis complained: "I don't see why the discussion would have to start with the assumption that Rembrandt is automatically greater than any possible contemporary painter."

Duchamp thought "the artist acts like a mediumistic being," but Rudolf Arnheim, of the Sarah Lawrence faculty, hewed the truth was a bit less than that:

"WE CANNOT HELP being worried by a widespread inclination of artists to surrender their creative initiative. Creative work tends to be looked upon as something done through the artist rather than by the artist."

Davis was doubtful about the value, except in a commercial way, of any wide appeal in a work of art, but Duchamp stood in staunchly for the creative whose role, he argued, is to determine the weight of the work on the esthetic scale."

It was Jarrell, the non-painter, who took the most controversial stand: he questioned the extreme of present-day abstraction, "abstract expressionism." He threw a monkey wrench — literally, a chimpanzee — into the proceedings when he heard the opinion that the paintings of Jeff. of the Baltimore Zoo, the recently televised chimpanzee, were not really different, distinguishable from the "abstract expressionist" works of the com-

William C. Davis on Maneuvers

FORT POLK, La. (AHTNC) — Army Specialist Second Class William C. Davis, son of William A. Davis, Route 3, Hereford, is participating in "Exercise Sledge Hammer" with the 1st Armored Division at a maneuver area near Fort Polk, La.

The maneuver, which is scheduled to end May 24, is designed to test the combat readiness of the newly formed "Pentomic" division.

Specialist Davis entered the Army in 1950 and is assigned to Company A of the division's 13th Cavalry.

WALCOTT NEWS

Skating Party Honors Members of 8th Grade

By MRS. T. L. COLLINS

The annual Walcott-School skating party for the seventh and eighth grades was held Monday afternoon and night, beginning the activities for the graduating eighth grade.

The students went to a skating rink in Amarillo, skated for 2½ hours, had a late snack and returned home. Attending were: Johnny Buse, Betty Lockhart, Edna Steward, Mary Kerr, Barbara Neinst, Aylard and Ray Northcutt, J. V. Perrin, Jerry Williams, Lee Myers, Merry Kay Pruitt, Cecelia Burrus, Kelly Newman and Bobby Tice. T. L. Collins and A.L. Shelton accompanied the group.

Mr. and Mrs. Rex Selbert and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Giesbrecht of Marion, Kan., arrived Friday afternoon for a weekend visit with Mr. and Mrs. Norman Minks and family. Selbert and Minks were friends in college at Kansas State. Saturday the group visited Palo Duro Canyon and the Panhandle-Plains Museum at Canyon. Sunday they visited the Jack Renfros and then the Selberts left for home.

Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Turner and family went to Pampa to see a daughter, Mrs. Dale King.

Johnny Avera has the measles and is out of school.

Connie Hoover, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hoover celebrated her fifth birthday Monday. Mary Alice Burrus and Denis Melton spent the afternoon with her.

pletely upright, unshy, educated homo sapiens, and even asked rashly whether it "was anything but unreasoning prejudice that demands that the painter be a man?"

His question drew laughter, and approving laughter, too, but on the whole the sessions seemed fundamentally in agreement on major points:

MODERN ART couldn't be ignored; the artist was never so free; the important and basic communication of our time is not the model, superficial communication of information, but art communication, or as Schapiro expressed it, "communion." The very same speaker believed that "the freedom of the painter in the last 50 years has immensely expanded."

This convention, a feature of the federation's program in its almost half a century of endeavor, was called to consider "just what the 20th Century has contributed to creative thought and expression." Three principal sessions were devoted to "The place of painting in contemporary culture," "the creative act" and "from artist to public."

Headed by James S. Schramm of Burlington, Iowa, the AFA is perhaps best known to the public through its circulating exhibitions, of which today more than 100 are on the road in this country and neighboring lands.

EGGED ON

"They sold them, swapped them and gave them away," said Deputy Sheriff Bud Street. "We keep finding more stolen chickens and we can't tell who they belong to."

DEPOSIT BOTTLES

KANSAS CITY (AP) — On Aug. 21, 1914 Anton Haas, a Wallace County, Kan., farmer received a check for $2.16 when he returned a case and 24 empty bottles to what was then the Kansas City branch of the Pabst Brewery.

A few weeks ago, Haas, now 79, was going through some old papers when he found the check. The Kansas City brewery closed in 1923 but Haas presented the check to the First National Bank of Kansas City. Bank officials dusted off their old accounts and came up with one that credited the brewery with $66.91. Haas got his $2.16.

Picture of an efficient housewife

Today's busy young matron must use consummate craft and profound planning to enjoy, legitimately, the luxury of "lollygagging" with McCall's Magazine. Inevitably, her planning must include the help of as many time-and-work-saving major appliances as an enterprising entrepreneur can wrangle from her husband. But the true test of a girl's domestic acumen comes in selecting these household helpers. She must consider original price, quality, performance, and (not the least) operating costs — which can amount to fabulous sums over the years. It's the housewife who chooses GAS equipment who gets her work done faster, more easily, and puts the most in her piggy bank. For GAS costs less to buy, install, and use. When it's time for your next appliance — "Go First Class with GAS and Save the Difference" like so many Smart Moderns are doing.

THESE OUTSTANDING GAS APPLIANCES INCLUDE:

1. UNIVERSAL completely automatic GAS Range
2. DAY & NIGHT automatic GAS Water Heater
3. SERVEL Gas-Fired Furnace
4. SERVEL Gas-Fired Air Conditioner
5. SERVEL Gas-Fired GAS Hot Water Heater
6. CALINATOR automatic GAS Clothes Dryer

General Benefits Should Result From Completion Of Hereford's New Airport

With construction work on the new Hereford airport in its initial stages many people are beginning to wonder, for the first time, just how much effect the new transportation facilities will have on the community. Only time can answer the question fully, but there are general results to be anticipated.

Business transactions will likely provide the greatest benefit to the community as a whole. Today something like 25,000 planes are hopping from coast to coast in the dispatch of routine business affairs and, while it is not likely that they will greatly alter the routine of the smaller retail merchants of Hereford directly, they will open new vistas to the vegetable markets, grain handlers, cattlemen and oil developments of the area. In addition to stimulating trading and, in turn, creating new markets and general employment, the new airport will go a long way toward establishing Hereford as a four-county center, fitting well with Hereford's modern hotel and tourist court facilities.

Airline transportation, although probably distant so far as local stops are concerned, will likely expand through charter airline services from Lubbock and Amarillo airfields in the form of small planes which will deliver passengers to the Hereford airport.

Chemicals and spraying service made possible with the new airport will, once again, establish Hereford as a focal point for the North Plains vegetable area. This phase offers one of the greatest opportunities to be developed through the new landing field.

Private planes, though destined to grow in numbers with the new airport, will probably never be a great item in its operation and, likewise, will never contribute great benefits to the community.

So far as problems are concerned, we are inclined to go along with the Lubbock airport manager who spoke here recently and said: "Hereford's greatest airport problem was overcome when the people of the community voted to construct the airport." There will be some headaches, of course, but there is no good reason why the Hereford airport should not go immediately into a period of sound operation.

It is a progressive step toward a better community, and should mark a period of continued growth and expansion.

Shorter Work Week Presents Problem

In no other generation have the people of any country seen so many changes as have those in the 50-to-70-year age bracket in the United States today.

The advent and spread of automobiles, aviation, electricity and atomic power are generally accepted as the most startling—and leaders are predicting even greater—changes in years to come. Of all the changes, however, there is probably none of such great magnitude as that of the short work week. Fifty years ago a man "toiled from sun to sun and a woman's work was never done."

Today we generally accept the 40-hour work week as a national average and, according to union plans, the goal will be a four-day work week in 1958. Add to this such items as unemployment pay and retirement benefits, and you have a total of the most dynamic change yet recorded.

You also have such questions as: "Can we maintain a 32-hour work week and efficiently compete with other nations?" "Can people cease working and still be truly happy?" "Will the honest labor of other nations overcome the world leadership established by this country?" "Are we riding a good horse to death?"

It is also natural that we review the results of the shorter work week in France, along with other countries where it has been tried.

As the United States work week has shortened, the number of psychiatrists has increased; today our insane asylums and mental institutions are literally bursting at the seams, our percentage of divorces has increased at an alarming rate, and we have come to accept the term "juvenile delinquency" as an important part of the American vocabulary.

Maybe the shorter work week has nothing to do with it, but people are people, despite the changes in the way they live. Down through history men have worked toward a goal and, upon achieving it, have often found disappointment. The four-day work week could easily follow the same pattern.

Church Expansion Is Keeping Pace

Letting of construction contracts this week on the new Church of Christ building brings to a climax an expansion program involving the major churches of the community. Some of the denominations have moved to new locations, while others have seen fit to enlarge or expand on their present sites. Several, in fact, are now in the throes of their second phase of expansion since World War II.

Summed up, the situation unquestionably indicates that spiritual growth within the community has kept pace with general growth of population in the area. The situation, in comparison with reports concerning lack of religious interest over the nation, speaks well for the Hereford territory.

So long as church members are loyal enough to put their money back into their churches, there can be little question as to their interests. Even more important, though, is the fact that the newcomers are joining with the old timers in attending church regularly. It all points to the fact that Hereford is not only growing, but that it is growing as a Christian community.

When the church expands, it is news. When all of the churches expand, it is even bigger and better news, because it is indicative of a trend of growth, including the type of people who make the community a better place to live.

Women's Suffrage -- Soviet Style

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet humor magazine Krokodil has attacked Russian farm men for giving themselves soft office jobs and sending their womenfolk out to the fields to do all the heavy work.

The caption on a front page cartoon of the periodical reproduced above declared: "In collective farm managements, in the offices of machinery and tractor stations and on state farms, office positions as a rule are occupied by men and hard labor is shoved off onto the shoulders of women."

TEXANS IN WASHINGTON

Lone Star State Men Hold Key USDA Posts

By TEX EASLEY
AP Special Washington Service
WASHINGTON (AP)—Two Texans hold key posts in one of the most interesting, if least known, governmental units—the Agriculture Department's Foreign Agricultural Service.

The FAS's assistant administrator is Gustave Burmeister, 56-year old native of the McMullen County ranch country. Another South Texan, Burl Stugard, 55, is in charge of the agricultural attaches in Latin American countries. Owner of a Rio Grande Valley farm, he once served with the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine at San Juan, Tex.

Thirty-four years ago Burmeister joined the Agriculture Department and it's safe to say he knows about as much of its operations as one man can know. Only days after he graduated from Texas A&M in 1923, he was back at the family ranch when a long distance call came through telling him his application for a job was approved and he should report to work in Houston.

"RIGHT OFF the bat I was assigned the task of taking a livestock census in Texas," recalled the affable Texan, "and I have been dealing with statistics ever since."

He did so well in conducting that first comprehensive livestock tabulation in Texas he was sent to Wyoming to do the same thing. In 1929 he was sent to New England to handle crop and livestock estimates, and while there started taking night courses at Boston University. He got his Master's degree in 1931, and a paper he wrote on agricultural economics came to the attention of Washington bigwigs. It wasn't long before they called him in to a headquarters post.

When the FAS was organized in 1953 as the successor to the Office of Foreign Agricultural Relations, Burmeister was charged with handling programs to help expand foreign markets for U. S. agricultural products. He now is responsible for trade policies and agricultural analysis.

AS AN EXAMPLE of the kind of service the FAS renders American farmers Burmeister recalled that a British purchasing agent showed up here several years ago wanting to contract for some Florida oranges.

About the same time some Texans were here trying to dispose of surplus grapefruit. While talks were going on, a freeze destroyed much of the Florida oranges. Burmeister launched a drive to help the Texans—the British official was about to turn elsewhere over the globe for oranges. He ended up buying enormous quantities of Rio Grande Valley grapefruit.

The U. S. agricultural attaché is a combination diplomat, salesman and reporter of developments in foreign agriculture which might affect the American farmer. Since President John Quincy Adams in 1827 directed all U. S. consuls to send to Washington rare plants and seeds for distribution to American farmers, our attaches have promoted importations as well as markets abroad for our surplus crops such as cotton and wheat.

FROM JULY 1950 to April 1955 Stugard was the U. S. agricultural attaché at the American Embassy in Madrid, Spain. In 1954, incidentally, Congress shifted the agricultural attaches from the State Department to the Agriculture Department. They still are attached to the U. S. embassy staff in the foreign land where they are assigned.

Stugard, who has 13 Latin American attaches under his supervision expects to go to some embassy assignment "south of the border" after another year on duty here. Late in May he attends a "market development" conference in Rio de Janeiro.

Reared in Kansas and a graduate of the University of Kansas, Stugard first went to the Rio Grande Valley in 1916. His father, O. H. Stugard, had gone there in 1912 and bought when the area first was opened up to development. The elder Stugard, 85, now lives in Austin.

Mrs. Burl Stugard, the former Christine Whitehorn, works on the staff of Sen. Lyndon Johnson. She is formerly from Fort Worth.

WEED CONTROL LAW FAVORED

Floyd County Commissioners Court last week deferred action until the regular session of the court on May 13 on the petition of 67 Floyd County farmers for an election to create a Weed Control district embracing the 934-section area of the county. The county's financial status and the possible expense to taxpayers are in the background of the court's cautious approach to the creation of a Weed Control District, it was indicated. The Weed Control Law is a new local one and applies only to counties in the northwest corner of the state—42 counties in all. It was passed in 1955 on petition of farmers who represented to legislature that obnoxious weeds pose a menace to rich farm lands of the High Plains and Panhandle. Experiences in combating noxious weeds on farms and the adjacent roads and highways were related by numerous farm operators present. Some of them expressed fear that the present generation of farm people may leave their rich lands to the succeeding generation, made worthless by the encroaching noxious weeds. Bindweed is the primary danger at this time, said most of the speakers in a group of 90 persons meeting with the county board in their last session.—THE FLOYD COUNTY HESPERIAN

PLAN OCHILTREE COUNTY JAIL

First step in solving a long-standing community problem was taken by the Ochiltree County commissioners Wednesday when they employed the Amarillo firm of William C. Townes and Associates to draw plans and specifications for a new county jail. It is expected that a bond issue for the construction of a new jail will be placed before the citizens of the county once the plans have been approved. The commissioners have made a study of the needs and have made their suggestions to the architect. What is planned will be a two-story structure with living quarters for the sheriff downstairs and a cell block upstairs. It is planned to construct cells to accommodate 24 male prisoners, four women and four juvenile prisoners at a time. The downstairs living quarters would have three bedrooms, living room, kitchen and bath. Also downstairs is planned the sheriff's office, a private office, storage rooms, filing space, darkroom, a holdover cell plus a garage.—OCHILTREE COUNTY HERALD

The BOOTLEG Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his bindweed farm has an unusual idea this week, probably on the impractical side.

Dear editor:

Statistics don't mean much to me, I never have found it necessary to wait on Washington's figures on whether or not the cost of living has gone up to find out for myself, all I have to do is buy something and I know right off, but the other night I was reading in a newspaper which I'd been saving up for a week—I know it's discourteous to wait that long to read a paper that the people who produce it worked like mad to get out in 24 hours, but if you haven't heard some news, it's still news, even if it's seven days old—at any rate, about this article I was reading:

According to it, Washington has discovered that in the last 10 years food prices have increased 16 per cent in the store, while prices received by farmers for the food dropped 14 per cent.

In other words, farmers have been getting less for raising it, while retailers have been getting more for selling it, and this got me to thinking.

Now there's no use in blaming the grocery stores, they aren't making any more profit now than they did 10 years ago. The fault lies with the farmer.

His trouble is that he doesn't know how to grow beans for example in a cellophane bag. The ordinary farmer growing beans, he just grows them in the same old-fashioned way and delivers them to market, rattling around in the back of a truck or sewed up in a tawsock, and then's when things begin happening to the price, and by the time they get to the grocery shelf, the beans have shot up considerably in cost.

It's the cellophane bag that does it, and if farmers are smart they'll get the agricultural colleges to working on a bean that can come up and mature inside a bag, ready to stamp with the current retail price. Instead of working on varieties of beans that grow faster, are more drought-resistant, storm-proof, and uniform, what the college experts out to be doing is perfecting varieties that mature inside 25-cent bags, 50-cent bags, $1.25-bags, and on up, all ready to put on a grocery shelf. The same thing is true of radishes, carrots, roasting ears, potatoes, tomatoes, etc.

The cost of getting a bean inside a cellophane bag is what's holding the farmer back.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Pre-School Clinic Serves Good Cause

An emphasis was placed on Hereford's pre-school clinic this year which should be carried on and expanded in years to follow.

From a total of 119 children examined, the report showed 70 distinct ailments which needed attention, and some of them were serious indeed. The results of the clinic might well be far more important to the future of the child than any possible school program; this is especially true in regard to the tuberculin possibility and to the nine reported heart murmurs.

If we ignore the fact that the human race is becoming weaker by generations, which is another subject, we must still realize that education without reasonably good health is a waste of time and of money. Our public schools, according to many critics, may over-stress this particular theme but, after all, they do have a strong point.

Locating and correcting ailments before a child starts to school is all the more important because ailments can often be corrected at this age, where they would be impossible to cure in later years. Unquestionably, the program should be encouraged and expanded in years to come.

Career of Helping Blind Started Amid Heartbreak

PITTSBURGH (AP) — One day almost eight years ago an elated young college instructor stood in a hospital corridor and gently tapped his fingers on the window of the nursery. He was admiring the new-born twin sons:

Three months later he learned they had been born blind. The shock almost drove Dr. Alton G. Kloss and his wife to despair. But instead of despairing he embarked on a career devoted to helping sightless youngsters.

Today Dr. Kloss is superintendent of the Western Pennsylvania School for Blind Children, serving 31 counties of western Pennsylvania. It is one of six such private schools in the country.

ONE OF HIS SONS, Eric, is a pupil at the institution. His other son, Alan, is blind and also cannot speak, a result of brain cells damaged at birth. He can walk only a little.

"Well, we can't brood," says Dr. Kloss. "One thing sure it has made us more understanding of other individuals." Dr. Kloss was director of the placement and admissions at Thiel College in Greenville, Pa., when doctors told the parents their twin sons would never see. He quit his job and spent the next year in research on education of the blind.

In August of 1950 he became superintendent at Western Pennsylvania.

AT THAT time the school had one main building, a gym, kindergarten, industrial arts and teachers cottage and the superintendent's residence. Most of the buildings were in a deplorable condition. The equipment was worn out and inadequate.

In six years under Dr. Kloss' direction, the school has undergone a two-million-dollar renovation. It now provides board and education without charge for 180 blind children and has a staff of 100 teachers and employees. And next summer a new $350,000 kindergarten will be opened.

Children are admitted at the age of 4. Except in unusual circumstances they don't leave until they are 15 or older.

"But they enter the world poised and self-confident with hopes for the future," says Dr. Kloss.

Alumni include lawyers, ministers, shippers, chiropractors, salesmen, social workers, drill press operators, teachers, X-ray developers and shoe repairmen, even auto mechanics.

ASKED IF children ever get into fist fights or other arguments, or if they avoid conflict, Dr. Kloss explained:

"They are normal, healthy children. They all have a basic drive. They didn't they would be sick. There is no essential difference between educating the blind child and the sighted child."

The school provides eight years of elementary school and four years of high school, plus many recreational activities. Students are given every opportunity to mingle with the sighted world at concerts, radio stations, operas, theaters and sports events.

An independently owned and operated institution, Western Pennsylvania derives its income from state appropriation, from a limited endowment fund and contributions from interested individuals and groups.

THE SCHOOL has become Dr. Kloss' home and workshop. He works 10 to 15 hours a day — sometimes longer. In addition to the twin boys he has one daughter, 9-year-old Joyce. At 44, he is a gentle, intelligent man with a huge supply of enthusiasm.

But sometimes the ordeal of watching the busy, exploring hands of a blind youngster gliding over flowers or probing thousands of dots in a braille book becomes too much even for Dr. Kloss to bear.

"Occasionally I have to get away from it all," he says. "So I throw my khakis in a suitcase and drive off to the forest."

"A couple of days alone hiking and seeing the wonders of nature makes me think that we sighted have a lot to be thankful for."

"So I get in my car and head back to school, saying to myself over and over — 'how lucky I am.' After that it is all work again — no looking back. You can't run away from reality."

WRONG BED

MOUNT STERLING, Ky. (AP) — There's nothing like a bed when you're exhausted — but look before you sleep.

This man didn't. He broke a pane of glass in a rear door, paused long enough to shed his topcoat and shoes, then turned down the spread and jumped in.

It was one of the most unusual window displays ever seen at the Wheeler Furniture Co.

Police arrived an hour later and escorted the man to a less comfortable bed in jail.

After promising to replace the glass in the store's rear door, he was fined $60 for drunkenness.

ON THE HOUSE

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — Six soft drink vending machines were robbed in a single night. One of them was at a service station jointly owned by Owen Marshall and Pat Toney — both city policemen.

Frances Dameron Leads Music Study Club Program

MISS FRANCES Dameron was leader of the program "Toward An American Opera" at the Music Study Club session held in the home of Mrs. W. J. Stanford Monday afternoon.

Miss Dameron told something of the beginning of the opera and listed six composers who led the way toward American opera. They included, Gershwin, Menotti, Dameron, Thomsen, Bernstein and Schumann.

The musical program included "Italian Street Song" from The Firefly by Friml, sung by Mrs. W. T. Carmichael, with accompaniment by Mrs. A. J. Schroeter. "Summertime" from Porgy and Bess played by Mrs. Schroeter. Three vocal selections sung by Mrs. C. W. Parker accompanied by Miss Phyllis Sumner; "When I Grow Too Old To Dream" (Romberg), "Naughty Marietta" (Herbert) and "Altwien" by Dodowsky. MISS PHYLLIS Sumner, student of Mrs. Ellis Coombes, a guest pianist, played "Moment Musical" (Schubert) and "Fantasia Mexicana" (Copland). Mrs. W. J. Stanford played a back number "March in the Night" by Gottschalk, and accompanied at the piano when the hymn of the month, "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross" was sung in unison by the club members. Mrs. C. W. Parker directed.

During the business session reports were heard and plans were made for the closing luncheon which will be held on May 13 at the Wesley Methodist Church.

Members present were Mesdames J. R. Allison, J. E. Beyer, Bill Bradley, W. T. Carmichael, Ellis Coombes, R. P. Conaway, C. C. Ferguson, J. C. McCracken, C. W. Parker, T. W. Roberson, A. J. Schroeter, A. O. Thompson, S. O. Wilson, Mrs. Frances Dameron and the hostess.
