Postal Rate Change Effective Tomorrow

Reminder — new postal rates will go into effect tomorrow, according to Mrs. Curtis Traweek, Hereford postmaster.

Air mail rates, which are currently three cents an ounce, will be raised to four cents an ounce. The new stamp, the seven-cent air mail stamp, will be introduced tomorrow, when rates on air mail, not exceeding eight ounces, will be raised to seven cents an ounce. The present rate is six cents. Revalued six-cent air mail envelopes will be sold by the post office. The new rate on air mail envelopes has been raised to seven cents, and the revalued envelopes will be sold temporarily until regular seven-cent envelopes are issued by the government.

RATES—Mrs. Curtis Traweek, Hereford postmaster, is a booklet of four-cent stamps which will go on sale tomorrow, when new postal rates go into effect. Although Lincoln four-cent stamp is not a new stamp, it will become more popular on envelopes, as a four-cent rate will be required on first class matter. (Staff Photo)

County Demo Convention Saturday

MORE THAN 100 people are expected to attend the County Democratic Convention in district court room, third floor of the county court house, which is to start at 3 p.m. Saturday, according to county Democratic chairman Louis Woodford.

The major topic slated for the meeting is selection of delegates to the Sept. 9 state convention at San Antonio. Eight persons, and eight alternates, will be elected from the 94 county convention delegates.

Only one precinct failed to elect delegates to the county convention — Precinct No. 7, allowed to be represented. The precinct will, however, be should at least three from that district be present and passed on by the majority of other delegates, Woodford said. No precinct convention was held at the Dawn area Saturday, although A. T. Frye was elected chairman.

There will probably be several resolutions introduced for voting at the convention," Woodford added.

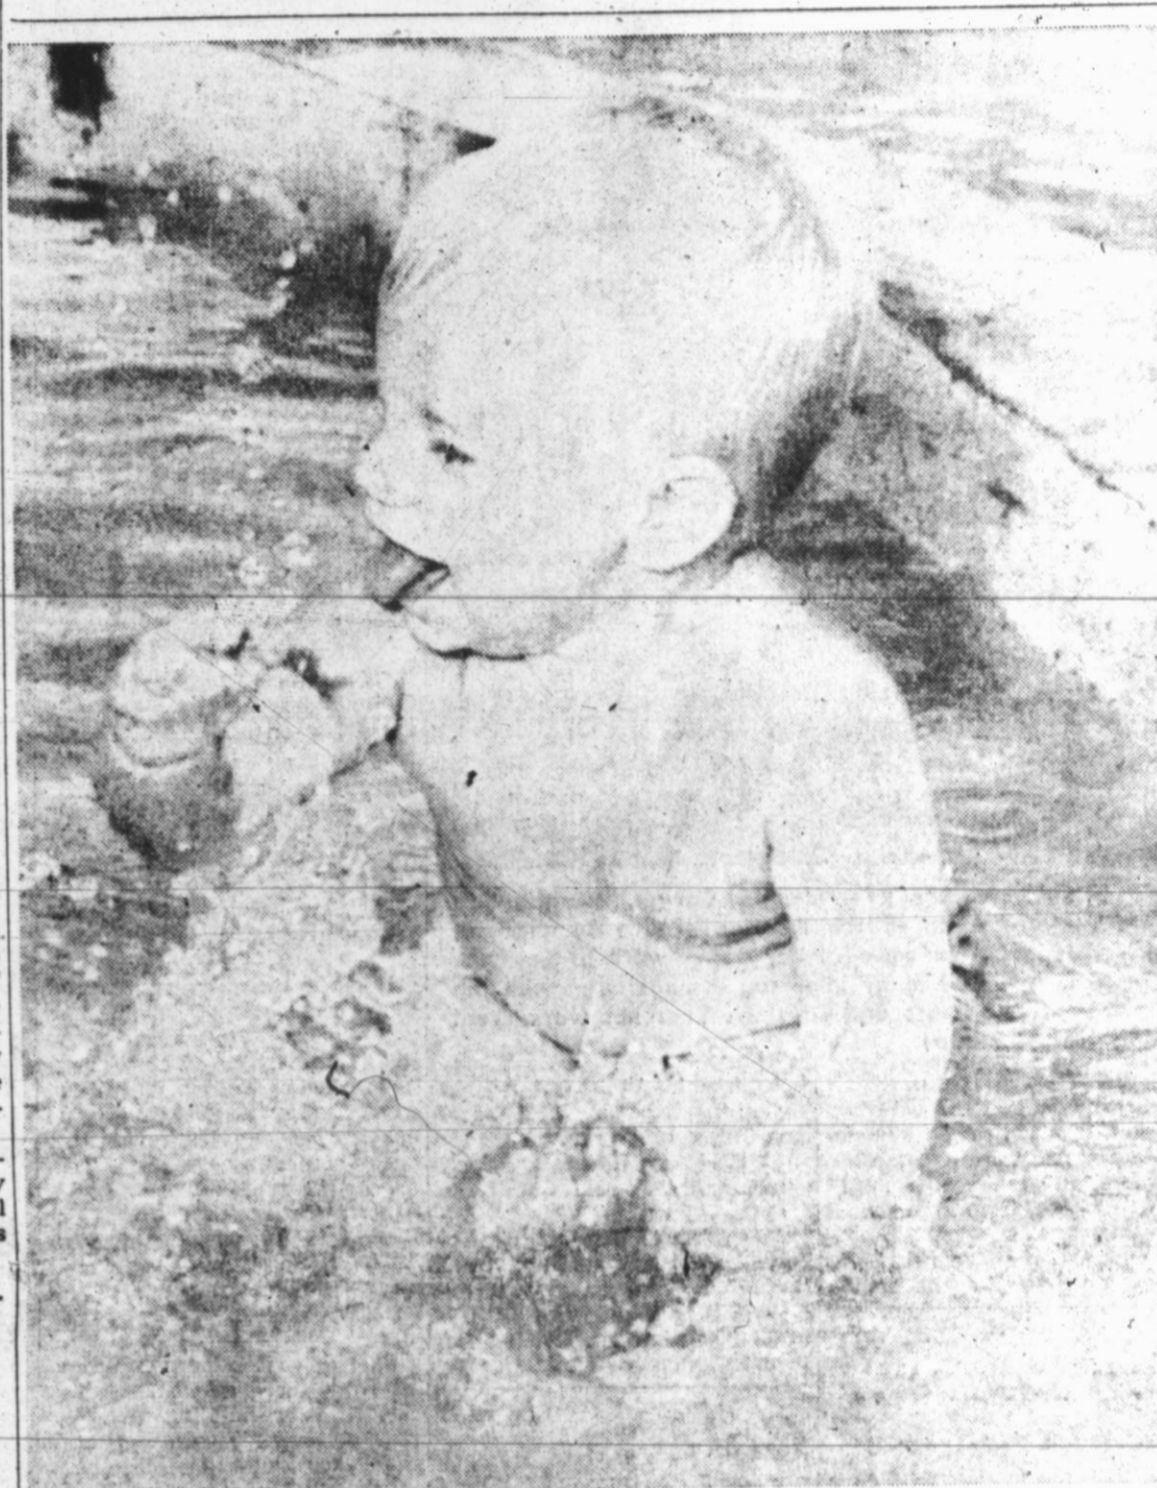

Precincts and number of delegates to be represented at the convention are: Precinct No. 1, 21; Precinct No. 2, 35; Precinct No. 3, 2; Precinct No. 4, 2; Precinct No. 6, 3; Precinct No. 7, 3; Precinct No. 8, 3; Precinct No. 9, 1; Precinct No. 10, 2; and Precinct No. 11, 22.

Number of voting delegates allowed at the convention is determined by the population of each voting precinct. Only those elected at the precinct conventions as delegates to the county convention are eligible to be elected to attend the state convention.

As county Democratic chairman, Woodford will officially open the convention, but will turn the remaining meeting's County Signs Contract With Highway Dept.

Five Meet With Equalization Board on Taxes

A contract with the Texas Highway Commission was signed Monday by Deaf Smith County commissioners to purchase the remaining two miles right-of-way, from Hereford city limit east, which connects the 11.2 miles already under contract from Randall County west.

Holding the county tax equalization board in conjunction with regular business session, five men appeared before the court to either complain on the amount of taxes or inquire why a certain amount had been set as taxes on their property.

In other business, the court met with a representative of Blue Cross insurance, talked with senior resident highway engineer W. V. York, did some preliminary work on the county budget, and approved a plot plan for the Conewey Subdivision.

THE CONTRACT signed by the commission calls for an agreement to purchase right-of-way for the expansion of Highway 60 into a four-lane route from Randall to Hereford.

Although the first contract for the 11.2 miles was signed early in the spring, no transactions have taken place because the Highway Dept. has not yet furnished the exact measurements.

Far different from last year, when several county residents verbally revolted against the increase in county taxes, only five men appeared before the equalization board Monday.

Differences were settled on all but two cases, the Plains Motel and Jim Hill Hotel.

The court, because of the variation between evaluation set on the two pieces of property by county, city and school tax assessors, decided county tax field worker Marcum Maddell should meet with members of the other two offices and set corresponding evaluations on the two pieces of property.

Dick Ross, manager of the hotel who told the court "The place can't stand to have the taxes raised," said the taxes had been raised from $874.50 paid in 1957 to $1,091.50.

Comparing his $874.50 county taxes last year with the school and city taxes, he said he paid $1,188.52 to school and $1,040.04 to the city, in 1957.

This is the second year of a new system of setting property evaluation, according to Waddell. The system is set on the replacement cost.

The court, on the suggestion of Waddell, passed a resolution that, "Effective Jan. 1, 1959, construction in progress will be assessed on a percentage of completion."

Waddell told the court under the present system, that material being used in the unfinished

FOR THE YEAR . . .

Hereford's Rain Gauges Have Measured 15.73

It has often been said that enough rain can not fall on the Panhandle, but compared to past years during the month of July — brother, we've had it.

This month, for example, the area in and around Hereford has seen eight rainfalls, which have produced a total of 5.55 inches — practically one-third of the year's total moisture of 16.78 inches. Already this year, the total amount of moisture has exceeded the 15.73 inches recorded at the end of 1957.

The total moisture for July, 1958, was only .40 of an inch, and the first rain that month did not come until July 21, when .23 of an inch fell. The total rainfall at the end of July last year was only 9.68.

Rains this year, for the most part, have been of the soaking type. Then, too, damaging hail contributed to the total moisture report, but, in general, the moisture this area has received has been useful, with few rains of the runoff variety.

THE FIRST RAIN this month was on July 2, when only .07 of an inch fell. But more abundant moisture came on July 5, when 1.35 inches fell, followed the next day by 1.93 inches.

The next rainfall came 10 days later on July 16, when .14

Final Rites for Wanda Sue Pruet

Funeral services for Mrs. Wanda Sue Pruet, 22, wife of A.T.C. Joe Pruet of Amarillo and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wimberley of Dawn, were held Tuesday afternoon in the First Baptist Church of Canyon.

Mrs. Pruet, a graduate of Hereford High School in 1954, died Saturday night in the family home at 3101 Julian in Amarillo.

The Rev. Straus Atkinson, pastor, officiated and was assisted by the Rev. Raymond Bowerlin of Avondale Baptist Church, Amarillo.

Burial took place in the West Park cemetery at Hereford under direction of Boxwell Brothers Funeral Home.

Mrs. Pruet was a member of Avondale Baptist Church and Phi Gamma Nu sorority, and attended Hardin-Simmons University, Abilene; Oklahoma Baptist University, Shawnee, and received a B. S. degree from West Texas State College, Canyon.

Surviving, besides the husband and parents, are a sister, Phyllis Wimberley; a brother, Carl Wimberley; and a grandmother, J. W. Wimberley, all of Dawn.

Wreck Saturday On Dairy Road

Two cars were damaged in an accident at 10:50 a.m. Saturday on the Dairy Road, 65 feet south of Highway 60. Police issued a ticket to one of the drivers.

Involved in the accident were cars driven by Oscar Payton Carter, 34, Rt. 3, and Emilla Gonzales, 26, Rt. 2.

Damage to the Carter car was estimated at $15, and to the Gonzales car, $75.

Carter was issued a ticket for failure to grant the right-of-way.

Burglars Hit Two Local Churches, Take $20.80

TWO BURGLARIES at the First Methodist Church in Hereford and one at the First Baptist Church Conkright Building Sunday and Monday nights burglarizing of the Baptist indicates a connection with the Church building here July 1, according to city police.

According to investigating officer Patrolman Arthur Findt, evidence indicates the burglaries may be the work of a young burglar or burglars.

Methodist Church officials reported $30 missing Monday, when they discovered a burglary. Tuesday morning they found a window open and signs of a prowler having been there, but preliminary checking revealed nothing missing.

Entry was gained at the Conkright Building either Sunday night or early Monday morning, when the burglar or burglars also hit that building, which is just across the street from the First Methodist Church, police said. A window had been broken, according to Findt, and 80 cents was reported missing from a desk.

The earlier burglary of the Conkright Building occurred some time on the night of July 1 or early on the morning of July 2. In that burglary, $13.50 was taken, and the burglar evidently went directly to the desk where a metal cash box was kept, according to police.

Findt said he thought there was a tie-in between the burglaries by the way money boxes were pried open and the time of the burglaries. On the grounds of the building, he said, small tracks were found, which

Sorghum Growers Still Hope Bill is Improved

The 62-11 passage of the Agriculture Bill in the Senate on Friday is being met with mixed reactions by farmers and farm leaders. Most are generally encouraged that even this late in the sessions that some corrective farm legislation is a must if producers are to make long time farm planning decisions or even look to next year's operations.

Bill Nelson, Executive Vice President of the Grain Sorghum Producers Association in Amarillo said, "We are disappointed that the legislation for corn and feed grains, including grain sorghums, does not offer any corrective cures but instead merely reduces what meager income protection the grain sorghum producers already have."

Nelson was apprehensive at the proposal of the Bill to abolish corn acreage control and open the way for even greater production at a time when total feed grain supplies are at record levels. He pointed out that in comparing 1952 with 1957, prices of feed grains declined 29 per cent and production increased 19 per cent. To lower further the prices and permit unlimited production, as the Bill proposes, threatens to accentuate the trend toward cheap feed — and therefore cheap livestock.

Rites Held for Mrs. M. Pool

Funeral services for Mrs. Munsey Ella Pool, 80, were conducted at 4 p.m. Tuesday in the First Methodist Church of Clarendon.

Mrs. Pool, who had made her home with a daughter, Mrs. Grady Parsons, 1008 Grand Ave., Hereford, died in Deaf Smith County Hospital at 11:30 p.m. Saturday, after being ill for two months.

Mrs. Pool's body was taken to Murphy Funeral Home in Clarendon Monday by Gilliland Funeral Home ambulance.

Services were conducted by the Rev. Howard Scott, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Hereford, and the Rev. M. C. Ryan of the Clarendon Methodist Church. Burial was in Citizens' Cemetery at Clarendon.

Mrs. Pool was born Dec. 27, 1877, in Tennessee, and was married to James A. Pool on Dec. 22, 1900, at Gordon, Tex. Mr. Pool died in 1934.

Mrs. Pool came to Hereford from Lubbock in June this year. She had lived here at other times in recent years. She was a member of the Clarendon Methodist Church.

Survivors are two sons, Archie B. Pool of Amarillo and Rufus Pool of El Cajon, Calif.; three daughters, Mrs. Minnie Cannon of Clarendon, Mrs. Brady Mae Patterson of Lubbock and Mrs. Parsons of Hereford; four brothers, Byron Owen of Clarendon, Lucian Owen of Gordon, Jim Owen of Letonia, Kan., and Beler Owen of Flagstaff, Ariz.; and five grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

Drilling in Hard Shale at Humble

Drilling has slowed down at the Humble Oil and Refining Co. well as looser formations have been penetrated and a harder formation of shale has been reached, according to Joe Reinauer.

A depth of 6200 feet was reached Tuesday evening, and the drilling rate is about 100 feet a day.

Tests reveal that drilling has completely penetrated anhydrite formations. The present depth is 400 feet more than Saturday's recording.

The well, on the Reinauer Bros. property, is located 35 miles west of Hereford near the New Mexico state line.

A favorable show of gas was the result of a test at the well early last week. Drilling had been averaging about 300 feet a day, as looser formations were being penetrated.

Reinauer said drilling is at a normal rate for the depth. No indication was given by geologists as to when a test might be run. Formations are being tested every two feet.

Two Posts Slated For Run-off Vote

Only two run-offs resulted in the Democratic Primary held Saturday, as far as Deaf Smith County is concerned. For the office of County Precinct No. 2 Commissioner, a run-off will be between incumbent Otto Massie and runner-up J. C. Morrison.

Voting will be held Aug. 23. Not official, according to Louis Woodford, is a run-off between Wilmer B. Hunt and Robert W. Hamilton, for the office of Associate Justice of Supreme Court, Place No. 1. Hamilton had 783 votes and Hunt 378. The third candidate, J. Edwin Smith, received 194 votes.

Massie received 515 votes Saturday, and Morrison 302. The other two candidates, Guy Newson and Lee Conklin, received 155 and 165 votes respectively.

Services Today for Mrs. Lowery

Funeral services for Mrs. Sarah Lowery, 77, will be held 10 p.m. today in the First Baptist Church in Muleshoe.

Mrs. Lowery died at 10 a.m. today in the home of her sister, Mrs. Jerry Carter, 205 E. F., Hereford. She had lived here about a year.

Services will be conducted by Rev. E. K. Sheppard, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Muleshoe, and the Rev. J. E. L. pastor of Trinity Baptist Church in Muleshoe.

Mrs. Lowery was buried in Muleshoe, under direction of Marcum Funeral Home of Ord.

Mrs. Lowery, born July 11, in Slater, Mo., had lived in Muleshoe before coming here months ago. She married Mr. Lowery in 1906 at Slater, and Mrs. Lowery came to Muleshoe in 1917 from Slater.

Survivors are her husband; sons, Melvin of Borger and Elmer of Denver, City, Tex.; daughters, Mrs. Jerry Carter of Hereford and Mrs. Omer of Muleshoe; two sisters, both of Missouri; and grandchildren and four granddaughters.

Odd Fellows Hall Is Burglarized

The Hereford Odd Fellows Lodge Hall was burglarized sometime the past weekend, and approximately $5 in small change was taken, according to Otto Gilliland, secretary of the lodge.

Police said entrance apparently was gained through a window at the north side of the building, which is located at 205 E. Sixth.

The screen to the window had been cut, and burglars apparently climbed through the window after removing the screen. The window was found open when the burglary was discovered.

The burglary was discovered Monday evening by Gilliland when he opened the building. The money was taken from a cash box in a desk, he said.

The only clue found was a few fingerprints. City police and the Sheriff's Dept. are continuing their investigation of the burglary.

Police Chief's Secretary Has 'Very Dull' Adventures

By DAVID STOKER

The adventures of pretty Virginia Cowan, secretary to Chief Henry Aycock of the Hereford Police Department, have been, as she terms it, "very dull."

But one finds this difficult to accept after listening to her story. Actually, her life has been rather exciting compared with the lives of other 19-year-old girls.

An example of this would be the trip she took recently with her parents during their vacation. They went to a place everyone dreams of visiting at one time or another — Las Vegas, Nev., where everyone slips away from the drudgery of the world, forgets there is such a thing as time and spends money as if it was water.

"I lost 50 cents in a slot machine and quit," Virginia says with a laugh.

The games of chance had to take a back seat to the many celebrities she saw while in Vegas. "I saw Julia Meade, Denise Darcelle, Anna Marie Alberghetti and The Ames Brothers," she says. "We also went to the Eddie Fisher Show. We couldn't get tickets for the early performance, so we had to see the late one which started at midnight. We wanted to see the Ed Sullivan show also but couldn't get tickets."

SHE ALSO GOT to visit San Francisco and Chinatown while on the trip. Her trip to Chinatown was her most enjoyable experience.

"The only reason I wanted to go to San Francisco was to visit Chinatown," she says. "My room is cluttered with oriental antiques that I collect, and I brought back a few more from Chinatown."

Virginia was born in Throckmorton, Tex., July 24, 1933 to Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Cowan. She lived in Throckmorton the first three years of her life and then her parents moved to Massachusetts where her father was stationed in the Navy during World War II. After her father's discharge, they moved back to Throckmorton. They moved to Hereford when Virginia was in the seventh grade and she went through the Hereford public schools until her graduation from high school two years ago.

It was two years ago that she began working for the police department. As secretary she types, keeps books, files papers and dispatches some.

"It's very interesting work and I like it real well," she says. "According to Virginia, she receives a lot of "kidding" from the other employees when everyone is in a good mood. "Everyone kids me and makes fun of me around here, and I really get mad fast. I suppose it's funny and that's why they do it," she laughingly says.

Virginia likes to swim and sews a bit too. She also likes to read and sees her share of movies. A couple of her favorite books and movies are "The Young Lions" and "Sayonara." Her favorite authors are Edna Ferber and Irwin Shaw.

She enjoys television programs too. Three of her favorite shows are "To Tell The Truth," "Alfred Hitchcock Presents" and "The Steven Allen Show."

Virginia lives with her parents at 1101 E. 13th St. She is not married and says she doesn't expect to be for a while, probably meaning that she is not serious about any one boy. This is a department that Chief Aycock and company joke with her about a lot.

"Everytime a new policeman or highway patrolman who is single is hired around here, they bring him over and introduce him to me. Oh! Horrors!" she exclaims.

Safe deposit boxes were moved from the present First National Bank building into the new structure Tuesday. Use of the boxes will be continued even though business transactions are still being carried out in the old building, bank authorities said.

McGee Furniture's store front this week got its near-finished look. A large sign extended from the building has "McGee" on it, while a huge "Furniture" neon sign covers almost the entire store front.

J. J. "Scotty" Buckner, 224 Ave. D, informed The Brand this week a Republican primary had been held in the county prior to last Saturday, as was stated in a recent publication. Children, Dolls Dress Alike

By DOROTHY ROE

For a while there it looked like today's dolls might be better dressed than their small mothers. But that danger now has passed.

Little girls may have dresses just like those of their favorite dolls, thanks to some smart teamwork by two alert young women — Virginia Carlson, doll wardrobe designer, and Eleanor Williams, pattern designer. Patterns and fabrics are available in stores throughout the country duplicating the dresses of fashionable dolls. There are eight patterns for girls aged 2 to 12, selected from the 1958 wardrobe of an eight-inch doll whose fashionable clothes have been fascinating little girls for years.

Local sewing center experts suggest that smart mothers select several of the patterns and duplicate favorite doll dresses for their small daughters. Nothing could be calculated to give a little girl a bigger thrill than this dress-alike idea.

Available in patterns and fabrics are five dresses, a coat, a cape and a pair of shorty pajamas. Dresses range from a festive party frock of pink polished cotton with a flower-printed organdy pinafore to a smart little school dress of red-and-white checked gingham with red bolero.

A highlight of the group is a red hooded coat in bright red velveteen, sure to delight any small glamor girl. The shorty pajamas, for both doll and child, are blue-and-white checked gingham, trimmed in lace.

Other dresses include a full-skirted style in red dotted Swiss and a lavender party dress with wide collar of white eyelet-embroidered pique.

Dresses and accessories for both dolls and little girls follow the latest fashion trends, including "no-waistline" dresses and headache bands.

DRESS ALIKE—This young mother wears an outfit exactly like that of her favorite doll—a red-checked gingham dress with white collar and red bolero. Patterns are now available for little girl's dresses to match doll fashions.

Laundry Bag Helps Mother

THIS IS REALLY A SACK—This laundry bag looks like a dress, hangs on a hanger, encourages junior neatness.

AP Newsfeatures

Little things can encourage a child to be neat and put her things away. A gay laundry bag, for instance, can teach her to put soiled clothes where they belong, so that her mother doesn't have to waste time on wash-day searching her room for things that need washing.

Here is an idea for a laundry bag that looks like a dress, easy to make from left-over fabric. Just be sure the fabric is washable, advise local sewing center experts.

To make the laundry bag, simply cut two dress-shaped pieces, with short sleeves and round neckline. A good size for the bag is 26 inches long, 16 inches across the body of the bag and 20 inches from sleeve-tip to sleeve-tip across the shoulder line.

Local Men At Grower's Meet

Five men represented Deaf Smith county at a meeting of representatives from 15 other counties in Dimmitt Friday night to review plans for a High Plains research program on vegetables.

Attending the meeting were county agent Lefty Thomas, Morris Easley, Roy Phillips, Carl Sevier and A. B. Lueb.

The meeting was called by the Extension Service at request of Texas' Hi-Plains Vegetable Council. Plans have been made to request specialists to be stationed in this area for carrying out Pilot Demonstration Work, a new program under which the state does not have to spend money procuring land for a station.

Specialists will, under the program, work on vegetable variety, insect control, fertilization, disease and irrigation water use.

Texas Tech has included research work in its budget, and delegates from there suggested the local senator and congressmen should "hear from the people on it and its need." A total of $25,000 has been asked for the next two years to get work started, Thomas said.

July, 1956, total moisture was only .79 of an inch, which brought the total to 5.91. The recorded moisture total at the end of 1956 was only 7.71.

Total for July, 1955, was only 1.43, which boosted the total to 5.54 inches for the end of July.

Cold Cream To make a good cold cream mix 2 tablespoons of oatmeal, 1/2 tablespoon of powdered borax, and 1/2 pint of rosewater.

Red Ants To exterminate red ants, try washing all the crevices of the room and cupboards with a strong solution of alum water.

Preserves Placing a few drops of glycerin around the edge of the preserve jar before covering, will prevent it from mold.

Ebony Finish If you wish to give an ebony finish to furniture, try the following: First use a coat of vermilion flat paint; then a coat of black paint that has already been mixed with a small amount of Chinese glue.

Corn If there is any corn left over from the previous meal it can be used by putting into the omelet with a little diced green pepper, or fill fresh tomatoes with it and then bake.

Mortar on Glass It is said that mortar can easily be removed from window glass by rubbing it with strong, hot vinegar.

Wicker Wicker furniture that isn't painted should be washed as quickly as possible with a strong solution of salt and water, then placed in a hot sun to dry. Do not use soapsuds, and do not let it dry slowly.

Seed, Elliston Lose in Tourney

Charles Seed, 19-year-old Hereford golf champion of 1957, and his partner Danny Elliston, also of Hereford, bowed out of the seventh annual Amarillo Invitational Partnership Match Play Golf Tournament in Amarillo Saturday morning as they were defeated in the second round of play.

Playing in the championship flight, the two were beaten, 11-8 by Harold Sexton of Arlington and Bob Giese of Amarillo.

The other ten local golfers, known for their link work around Hereford, also ran into bad luck. John Renner of Friona and John Etheridge of Dimmitt met defeat in the second flight consolation finals, one up on the nineteenth hole. They were defeated by Glenn Smoot and Ernie Dowell of Amarillo.

Joe Kerr and Wendell Burdine, both of Hereford, were dropped in third flight consolation, 9-8 by Canyon's James Scott (of WT basketball fame) and Bruce Winn. Doc Cowan of Hereford and Owen Dean of Anson were beaten in fifth flight consolation, 4-2 by Buddy Elephant and Roland Borger of Amarillo.

Joe Butler and Herb Griffith and Wayne Phillips and Bill Davis also met defeat in consolation play.

Winners of the partnership affair were John Cain of Sweetwater and Jerry Pittman of Tulsa, Okla., who came from behind with a three-up triumph over defending champions Frank Wharton and Dick Whetzel of Dallas.

CURB-SIDE WRONG-SIDE MILWAUKEE (M) - Three painters working downtown on a renovating project parked their cars in a two-hour zone on a busy street and left notes on the windshields saying: "Painters, working inside." When they returned they found parking tickets and new notes saying: "Policemen working outside."

Two Cars Wreck At Fifth, Main

An intersection accident at Main and Fifth at 1:50 p.m. Saturday did approximately $150 in damage to two cars. No injuries were reported.

Drivers of cars in the accident were Rosie Byrd West, 38, 206 Ave. I, and Mrs. Evelyn Zimmerman Winget, 49, 201 Grand Ave.

Damage to the West car was estimated at about $50, and to the Winget car, $100. No ticket was issued.

ANTIBIOTIC AFTER-EFFECT

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) - Antibiotics not only kill germs, a Michigan State University professor has found, they also kill and inhibit bacteria which prevent fungus diseases.

This leaves the body susceptible to fungus diseases, said Dr. E. S. Beneke. Familiar forms of fungi are athlete's foot and ringworm, but more serious are internal fungus infections. Ways of curing fungus infections have been developed, Dr. Beneke said, but are not completely satisfactory.

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) — A grandmother who postponed her art debut 50 years is achieving a reputation in New Mexico as a portraitist.

Mrs. Horace B. Hening, 78, took up the brush professionally six years ago. She has been painting with intense delight ever since.

This summer she is doing a portrait in oils of Mrs. Dennis Chavez, wife of New Mexico's senior senator, and another of Lucy Jackson, granddaughter of Geronimo.

Virginia Hening is realizing an ambition deferred for half a century. Coming as a bride to the New Mexico Territory in 1909, she put aside her carefully-nurtured artistic aspirations to rear a family of five on the frontier. Her husband is the publisher of the New Mexico Stockman.

During her girlhood, Virginia studied art in her hometown of Jacksonville, Ill., and later with Johannes Schumacher in St. Louis, and at Smith's Academy in Chicago. The challenge to paint again came from Mrs. Hening's in-law, Sam Smith, an instructor in art at the University of New Mexico. That was in 1952.

"Sam sent me an easel, a set of oils and a supply of canvasses and dared me to paint," she said. The challenge was accepted and Mrs. Hening enrolled as a student of Randall Davy, well-known Santa Fe artist.

This spring she had an exhibition of 32 portraits. She intends to mount an exhibition of new works at least once a year for the next ten years.

From the start, Virginia Hening has never lacked for competent critics, even within her own household. Sam Smith casts an appraising eye over each new portrait and a son, Brand Hening, himself a silk screen artist, also passes judgment on mother's work. "You may not be a great artist," Brand once told her, "but, like Grandma Moses, your work takes on immediate significance because of your years."

Mrs. Hening feels an attachment for Grandma Moses, saying, "We both embarked upon our careers at a ripe age."

BOARING 20s CAR STILL ROARING

OMAHA (AP) — The shiny green-and-black car W. C. Wakefield, 74, drives every day is a mere 30 years old.

Five generations of the Wakefield family have used it. One Wakefield spent part of a honeymoon in it. Three young Wakefields came home from the maternity ward in it.

On cold winter mornings Wakefield says his 1928 model sometimes is the only car that will start. He pushes the late models.

TWO MILES DISPOSED OF

BALTIMORE (AP) — The city government has thrown away nearly two miles of outdated records in the past two years.

That's how high the records would reach if piled one on another, says the Record Management Office, which has disposed of 116 tons of official papers since 1955.

FAST ON THE TRIGGER

FARMINGDALE, N. Y. (AP) — The Air Force's newest jet fighter-bomber, the Republic F-105 Thunderchief, packs an "airborne six-gun" capable of outshooting a 400-man infantry company.

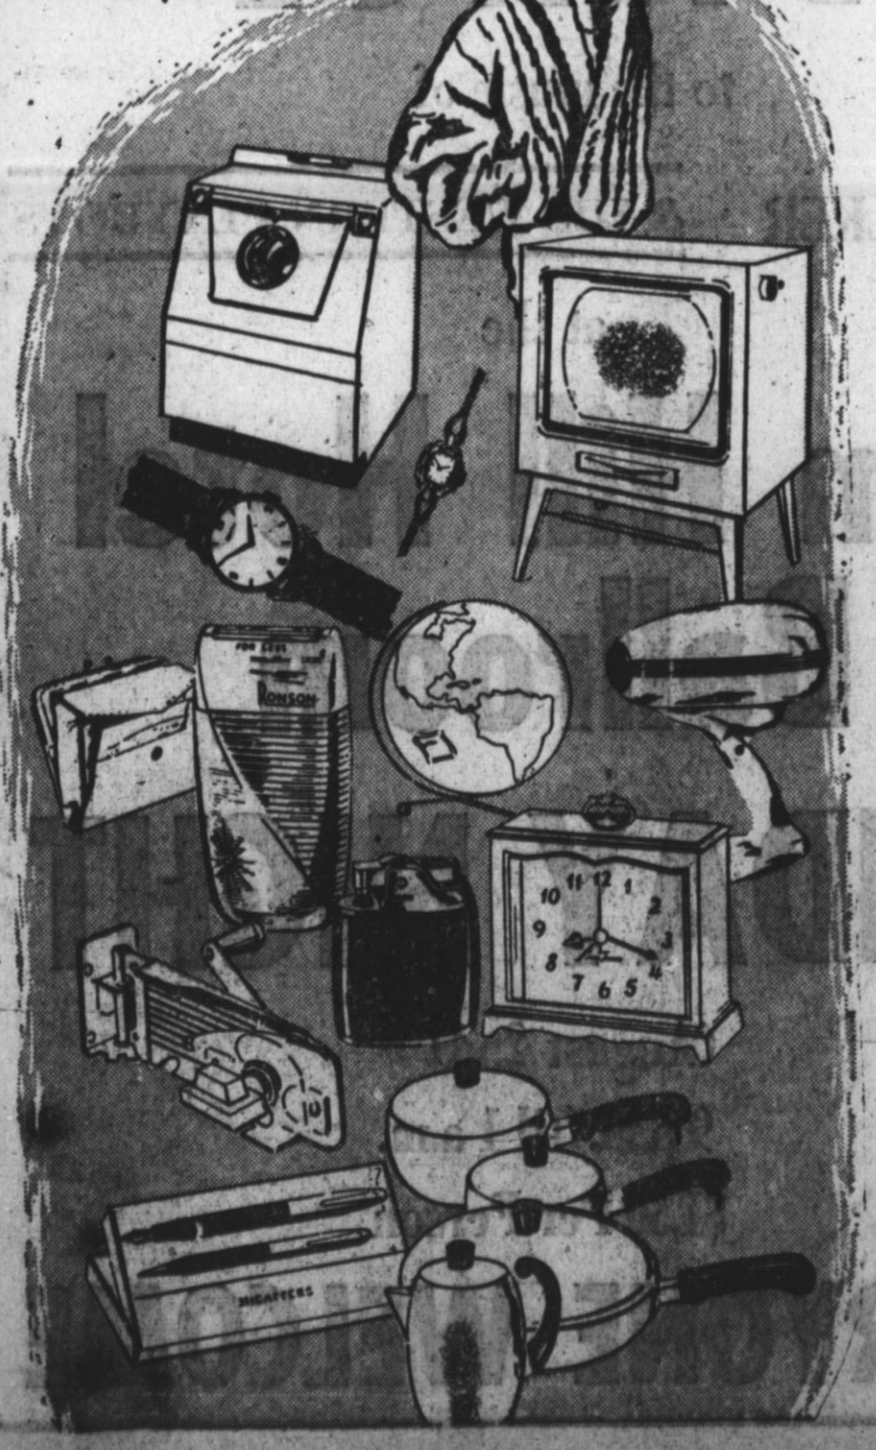

The Air Force said the 20-millimeter Vulcan automatic cannon is four times as fast as any other gun flying. It is capable of firing 6,000 rounds a minute — more firepower than an infantry company could generate in 20 minutes, Republic engineers said.

The new cannon has a rotating cluster of six barrels.

White Sox, Indians Tied in Pony League

The upstart, rampaging White Sox moved into a first place Pony League tie with the Indians Tuesday night as they kicked, knocked down and ran over the Red Sox to the tune of 16-5. Play followed the week-long Area Tournament.

Behind the red-hot hitting of Jim Bridges, Don Sheppard and Roger Albracht, the White Sox took an early lead and were never passed. Bridges racked out two base hits, including a two run homer in the sixth. Sheppard and Albracht collected three bingles apiece. They each drove across two tallies.

The entire White Sox club banged out 15 base hits in gaining their second victory against three defeats in second half play.

Catching fire also were the last place Tigers who crushed the first place Indians Monday night, 17-9, behind the clutch hitting of lean Tiger first sacker, Randy Dowell.

Dowell collected three hits in his four trips to the plate, scoring three runs and driving in five big ones.

Shortstop Mike Kelly had a good night, going two for two and driving in three runs. Bill Nelson, centerfielder of the Tigers, also drove in three.

The loss put the Indians in a first place tie with the White Sox. The two clubs will play Friday for the second half championship. The Indians were victors in the first half.

If the White Sox win Friday's tilt, they will probably play the Indians a playoff game for the city championship.

YOUNG MODERNS Teen Drivers Get Tips On Care of Jalopies

By VIVIAN BROWN

Now is the time for all good teen drivers to give that old jalopy a good look-see. Will it see you safely through the summer? Does it need overhauling? Is it in need of a good cleaning? How long has it been since it was washed?

Young moderns fall into one of the two brackets when it comes to car ownership: They either neglect the car completely or they spend all their spare time fiddling around with it.

There is life insurance in keeping your car in good form. You'll want a clean radiator. If the car is an old one and the former owner used alcohol anti-freeze, you may find your-when heading beachward.

As a precaution, drain the radiator, close the drain cock, pour in a solution of two gallons of hot water and a full package of washing soda concentrate and run the motor for twenty minutes. Drain the solution and flush the cooling system with fresh water, say the car experts.

You can get plastic seat covers or plastic upholstery in a shape with a good solution of washing soda which should remove grease laden dirt.

Clean battery terminals, a part of the car's anatomy that may be forgotten. Corroded terminals may make starting the car difficult. Use baking soda. Cell caps should be firmly placed before you begin painting them with a solution of one tablespoon of baking soda per quart of water. The soda neutralizes the acid and cuts corrosion. After drying them, coat the terminals with petroleum jelly to prevent future corrosion.

Windshield wipers can be a menace unless they are kept clean. They may gather grease from the windshield, so that when you drive on a rainy night the windshield is soon spread with oily film that may blur on-coming car lights. It's a good safety precaution to sponge off the wipers a couple of times a week.

Remember, too, to keep your eye on the speedometer. It doesn't pay to race the highway to keep a date a few minutes early. You may just land on a stretcher for your trouble.

Bible Words for Today

MATTHEW 5:13 - "Ye are the salt of the earth..." (King James)

Salt is designed to bring out the flavor of other foods. It serves its purpose best not when it calls attention to itself, but when it makes food taste better. If it has become impure or "lost its savour," it is no longer useful. If food has too much salt in it, we do not care to eat it. If there is no salt, we do not like it either.

These are the qualities which Jesus expected of his followers. Like salt, they were to bring out the best in those whom they met and with whom they associated. As salt becomes offensive when it is noticeable in food, so a follower of Jesus becomes obnoxious the moment he begins to call attention to himself.

Salt can be refined and purified even after it has been made unsavory. So can the Christian. By returning to the fellowship of Christ's influence and God's love, the Christian can be redeemed and purified. In these ways, the followers of the Master are called the salt of the earth.

Designing Cotton Crowns Designer

AP Newsfeatures
As we wear cotton nowadays, James Galanos, California designer and winner of the Cotton Fashion Award, has been high fashion circles ever since 1932, when he set up California to design expensive and expensive fashions for the income bracket. The designer has won the honors of the fashion date, and is known for his designs. In his summer color cotton fashions for occasion, from a shopping excursion to a formal ball. He uses sheer white organdy embroidered in red roses for a spectacular afternoon dress, goes tailored with navy and white dotted pique for a tailored summer suit.
The winner of this year's award was chosen by a jury of 12 fashion editors and retailers, honoring the designer making the most distinguished use of fashion.
Presentation of the award featured a showing of cotton fashions by 25 noted American designers, in addition to the Galanos designs. These covered the full range of cotton fabrics and textures, from cotton tweeds and terry cloth to cotton chiffon and organdy. Included were many splashy flower prints as well as casual cotton knits and elasticized cotton swim suits.
A highlight was Adele Simpson's balloon-skirted dinner dress in black cotton chiffon, contrasting with Tina Leser's bathing suit of blue and white elasticized voile.
The five previous Cotton Award winners are: Adele Simpson (1953), Harvey Berin (1954), Thomas Brigance (1955), Ben Reig (1956) and Anne Fogarty (1957).

dealing with grain sorghums calls for: (1) Discontinuance of corn acreage allotments; (2) Price support for corn at 90 per cent of the 3-year average farm price; (3) Price support for grain sorghums, oats, barley and rye in relationship to corn as the Secretary of Agriculture determines is "fair and reasonable" but not less than 60 per cent of parity.

In determining what is fair and reasonable for grain sorghum in relation to corn, the Secretary is to take into consideration the feeding value, the normal price relationship, the location and storability and other factors. If feeding value in relation to corn were the only factor to be considered, the support price for grain sorghum would be raised toward the higher corn price since grain sorghum feed value is recognized to be 100 per cent of that of corn. When the "normal price relationship" and "location and storability" are considered as instructed in the Bill however, the tendency will be to lower grain sorghum support prices toward the 60 per cent minimum level provided. Since corn has enjoyed consistent higher supports than grain sorghum, the long-time relationship has been that grain sorghum market prices have averaged considerably lower than corn.

The U. S. Dept. of Agriculture accepts corn for storage at 14 per cent moisture level, while it accepts grain sorghum only at 13 per cent. This unwarranted differential could be construed by the Secretary to be a factor in setting lower grain sorghum supports.

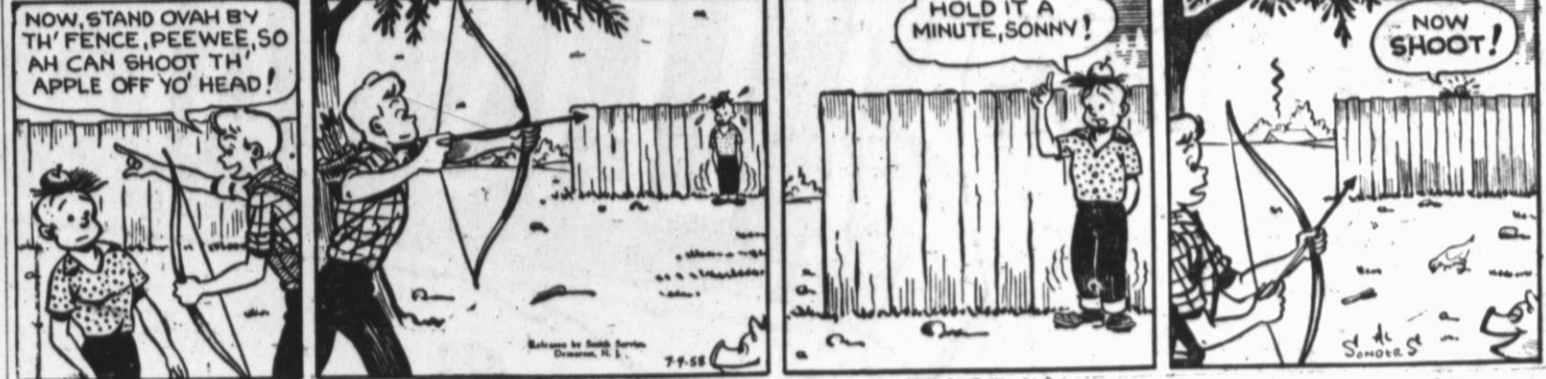

The grain sorghum association executive officer pointed out that at this date the legislation has only passed the Senate. He said that "as the Bill goes before the House and later in conference between the Senate and House there will undoubtedly be many changes." We will work with legislative leaders at both of these points to obtain the best final Bill possible for grain sorghum."

IN SUMMARIZING, Nelson criticized the Senate Bill as it was passed Friday as: (1) Abandoning the parity principle which offers some measure of equality for grain producers in relation to other segments of the economy; (2) Failing to provide corrective measures to the expanding production of feed grains; and (3) Neglecting to the specific as to grain sorghum support policies by allowing the level to be set as the Secretary of Agriculture "determines to be fair and reasonable."
The need for grain sorghum producers to expand their unified efforts to encourage Research into new uses, more efficient Production and Market Development will be greater under the proposed legislation than ever before.
It encourages increased production, it will be up to the grain sorghum growers to encourage increased markets.

Ribs A La Hickory Smoke

THE TUNE OF A HICKORY STICK—To flavor to those barbecued ribs, scatter hickory-flavored smoke sticks over the coals of your barbecue unit half-way through the cooking period.

EASILY BROWNSTONE
The Press Food Editor double getting the men make a charcoal fire in floor grill when they barbecue. Who doesn't pick a rib?
To be sure the fire is started an hour before the coals will give steady glow. A roaring fire won't do spareribs a bit of tender loving care and crisp.
I had a lot of fun a few days ago trying something our own backyard grill, hickory-flavored smoke that come in a convenient size of our open barbecue unit through the cooking for the ribs. We used recipe and all the enthusiastic about the greatest smoking an open barbecue unit, adding them to the coals. The way to get smoke penetration is to lower the fire box so the grill so as to slow the cooking process and lengthen the smoking period.
If you have a barbecue unit with a hood or lid that closes like a smoker, you can use the smoke and heat that the ribs will have a pronounced hickory flavor is possible to achieve an open unit.
Applied the marinade to the ribs with a light touch so there was plenty leftover, for dripping when the ribs were served. This dunk went over big. Because the marinade is made with honey, soy sauce and spices, we find rice is a perfect accompaniment to these ribs.
SMOKEHOUSE RIBS
Ingredients: 2 sets (4 to 5 pounds) lean fresh pork spare-ribs, 1 cup pineapple juice, 1/3 cup soy sauce, 1/3 cup honey, 1 1/2 teaspoons ground ginger, 1/2 teaspoon ground allspice, 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard, spiced hickory-flavored smoke sticks.
Method: Have sets of spare-ribs whole. Mix pineapple juice, soy sauce, honey, ginger, allspice and mustard. Pour over ribs in shallow container; refrigerate for 2 or 3 hours, turning ribs occasionally. Drain ribs; lace accordion-style on spit or place on grill; reserve marinade. Cook according to directions for your barbecue unit. Left-over marinade may be strained, heated and served with cooked ribs as a dip.
Smoker barbecue unit—Add smoke sticks to coals and close smoke hood or lid; cook over slow fire for about 2 hours or until tender. Brush with marinade occasionally during last half hour of cooking.
Open barbecue unit—Scatter a handful of smoke sticks on glowing charcoal when meat is about half cooked. Brush with marinade occasionally during last half of 1 to 1 1/2 hour cooking period.

Two Tickets are Issued in Wreck

Two drivers were issued tickets in an accident at the intersection of Sampson and Second St. at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday.
Drivers of cars in the accident were Richard Otero, 18, of Estancia, N. M., and Mrs. Beth Marsh Vines, 36, 511 Knight.
Otero was issued a ticket for defective brakes, and Mrs. Vines was issued a ticket for failure to grant the right-of-way.
Damage to each car was estimated at $125.

ART ITALIANO

LYNDHURST, N. J.—Macaroni, spaghetti, glue, cardboard, and water colors—these are materials used by an 8th grade art class.
The teacher, Mr. Ruth Horton, got the idea when she noticed the interesting patterns provided by spilled noodles. Now her pupils are gluing the paste to cardboard and applying paint.
The titles of such art work? "Man in the Bushes," "Jones Locker," and "Color." One picture was named "Just Spaghetti."

construction was not being taxed, and should be. The court agreed.

The county tax rate is $1.62, which is 25 per cent of the total evaluation. The school receives 45 per cent and city 40 per cent, of the 100 per cent evaluation. Others requesting information on property taxes were Charles Noland, Ivan Block and J. M. Langford.

Andy Anders, Blue Cross representative, informed the court policy rates for county employees under the group plan will be raised Oct. 1.
Plot plans approved for the Coneway Subdivision of the Whitehead Addition call for 15 lots, one road, and one alley. The addition will be located on south Main, between Main and the golf course, the creek and Austin Road.

PEA-PICKER'S PINCHER
NEW YORK—Industry has developed a pea-pinch to help farmers determine when their peas are ripe and ready to go to the canner.
The instrument, more formerly known as a tenderometer, was developed and patented by American Can Company. The exact tenderness of the pea is recorded on a gauge as they pass through sensitive steel fingers in the machine. The harder the peas, the more mature they are. Ripe peas are young and tender.

LONG-PLAY THIEF
TUCSON, ARIZ.—A music loving thief broke into a Tucson home and limited his loot to 200 long playing records. Police said the records were valued at $1,000.

Furniture Refinishing Class Attracts Housewives

Finishing Touches . . .

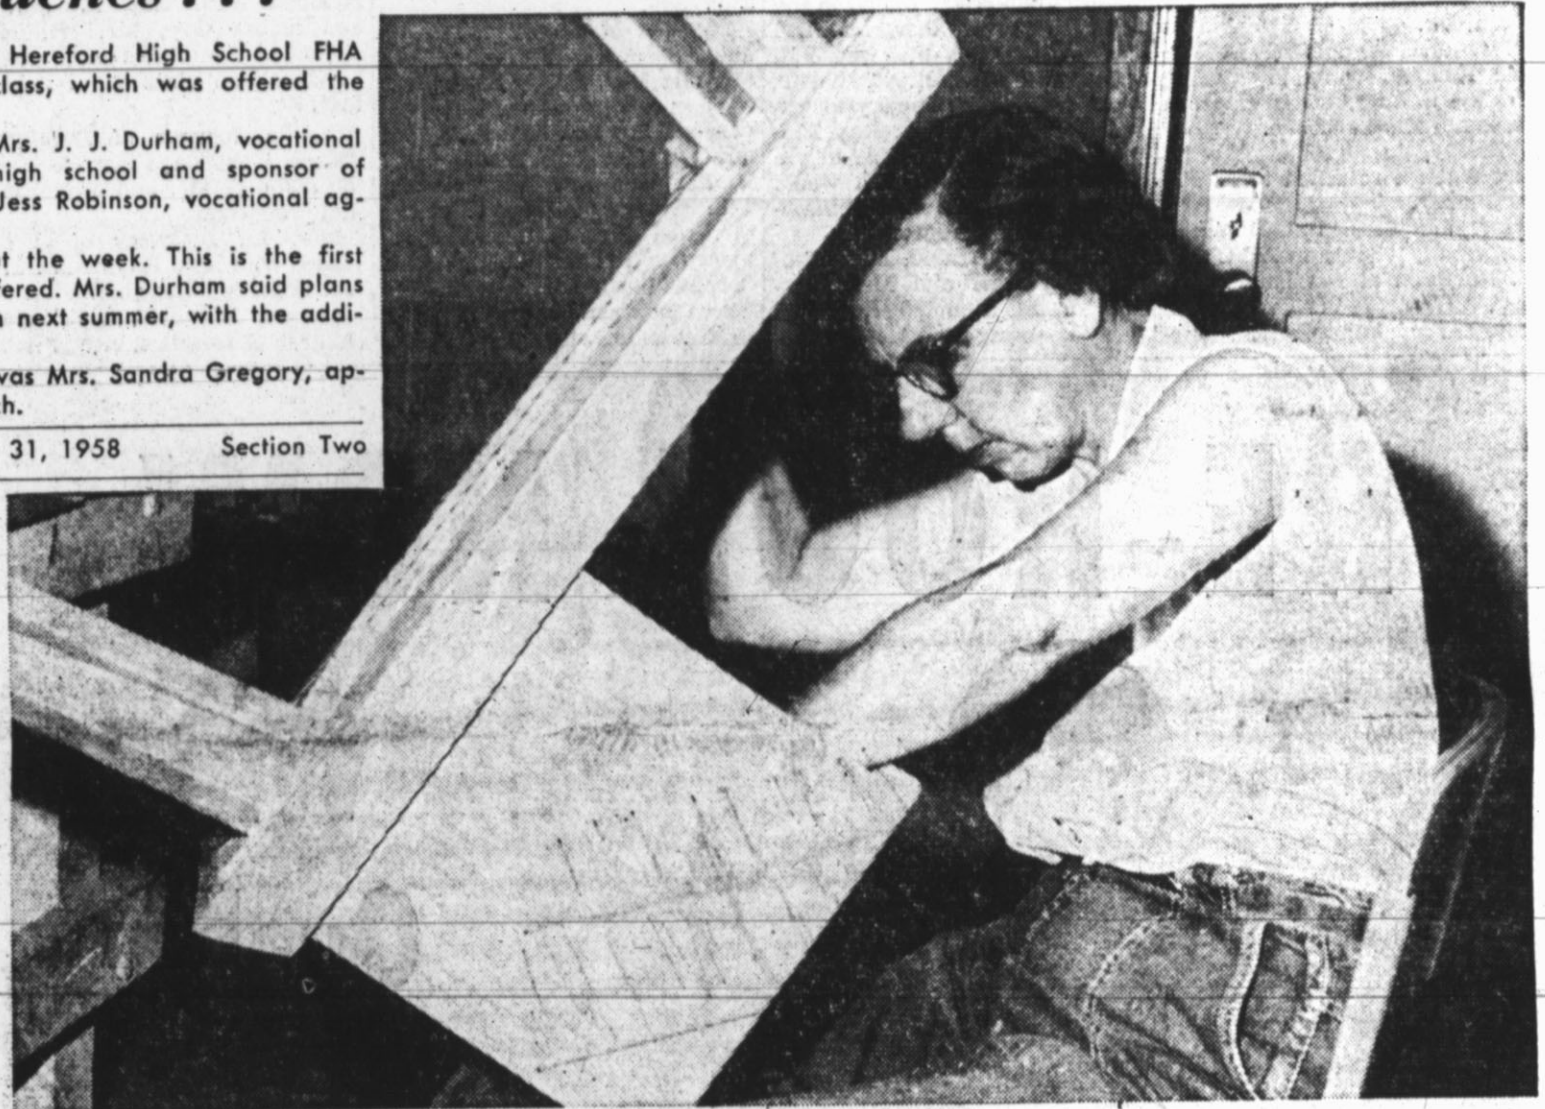

Ten adults enrolled in the Hereford High School FHA chapter's furniture refinishing class, which was offered the past week.

In charge of the class was Mrs. J. J. Durham, vocational homemaking teacher at the high school and sponsor of FHA. The class was taught by Jess Robinson, vocational agriculture teacher.

Classes were held throughout the week. This is the first summer the course had been offered. Mrs. Durham said plans are being made to hold it again next summer, with the addition of upholstery classes.

Helping out in the program was Mrs. Sandra Gregory, apprentice teacher from Texas Tech.

Girls Sew Their Own School Togs

By DOROTHY ROE

Every normal girl starts worrying about back-to-school clothes the minute her graduation dress is tucked away. Whether she's facing high school or college, clothes usually are her first concern.

Instead of just worrying about the situation, many smart girls are sewing their own campus clothes these days, starting early enough to get a wardrobe ready by September.

Local sewing center experts advise young seamstresses to select an easy pattern, such as a simple skirt, overblouse and jacket, made in dark cotton. Make the skirt and jacket plain, and dress up the overblouse with bold stripes of machine embroidery.

Here's the easiest way to put decorative striped stitching on a garment and still have the design matching at the seams and darts. Stripe the fabric with machine embroidery first, then cut out. Follow the usual rules for working with striped fabric, and your decorative trim will match perfectly at all construction points.

Such an outfit lends itself to mix-and-match treatment. An extra skirt in a color matching the embroidery on the overblouse, for instance, will add up to a whole new outfit. Or a tuck-in shirt of coordinated color will go with either skirt.

Versatile wardrobe stretchers such as this are the backbone of a back-to-school clothes plan. And if they are made at home the clothing budget can be stretched to include accessories such as shoes and handbags.

Complaint On Product May Help Manufacturer

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
Complain about shoddy or poor merchandise, advises an expert. Often the merchant and the manufacturer don't know it's no good.

Although there are plenty of chronic grippers around to keep store complaint departments busy, the average consumer is too likely to shy away from making complaints, even justified ones, says Prof. Jules Labarthe of Carnegie Institute of Technology.

Often merchants have found only one or two customer complaints about an item, "yet upon investigation some flaw or weakness in the fabric or construction was so serious that we could not imagine every customer being happy with the purchase when she used it," he told a gathering of homemakers recently.

"Too many manufacturers have become more interested in quick eye-appeal than in good construction," insists housewares designer Freda Diamond. "We see it every day in everything from ostentatious automobiles to pots and pans."

Recently, she recalled, a manufacturer brought her three brushes in a new line. She experimented with each. "They look very nice," she conceded. "But they don't work. Not one does the job it is supposed to do."

An appliance manufacturer recently put on the market a good-looking electric frypan — and only then discovered it was impossible to remove the electric plug without scorching the cooks' fingers.

"All this is bad design," continued Miss Diamond, and each instance shows that no one has taken the time or effort to find out if the item works right. The test too often these days is merely whether it looks good enough to sell well.

Miss Diamond blames a lot of this trend on some American automobile makers.

"They have done a super-duper job of aiming at vulgar conspicuous consumption," she said. "They've added useless chrome which has destroyed simple good lines."

And, because up to now cars have sold so well, other manufacturers think they have hit on the good formula. As a consequence, they have been dragging along our toasters and our vacuum cleaners with them into poor design and bad taste."

Remedies, she feels, lies at the source.

"I don't think manufacturers have made much use of women designers with products largely purchased and used by women," she said. "They usually will pull a woman in on a matter of color. And they will ask a woman how they should sell the item to other women."

"But apparently they don't yet think it is necessary to test the workability of a product with women who could tell them whether it is good or bad."

Meanwhile, dissatisfied customers can help remedy the situation — by complaining.

"If the product does not live up to specifications, it then becomes (the consumer's) responsibility to inform the retailer or the manufacturer of its shortcomings," said Labarthe. "Such reports speed up the identification of good or shoddy merchandise."

RETURNS HOME SUNDAY
Carolyn Brooks, who has been visiting in Abilene and Fort Worth for the past three weeks returned home Sunday.

FROM GERMANY—Johann Leypold, father of Mrs. Douglas Kelly, arrived in Hereford by train Sunday morning to be greeted by his daughter, left, Mrs. C. W. Owens, and other members of the family, and Mr. and Mrs. Ludwig Kovac. Here, he saw for the first time his youngest granddaughter, one-year-old Barbara. He had already seen Doris, 3, when Mrs. Kelly made a trip to her former home. Leypold will stay in Hereford for about three months, according to present plans. He is staying at the Kelly residence, 704 Blevins. He says he is deeply impressed with this area, especially as a farming country. (Staff Photo)

...face needs this accent of color. ...Q. What is a good dressing for dry and lifeless-looking hair? ...A. Mix a little baby oil containing lanolin with a few drops of water. ...Q. How can I remove some yellow perspiration stains from white washables? ...A. Sometimes after a good laundering you can bleach these stains out in the sun. Should the stains remain, sponge with hydrogen peroxide or hydrogen peroxide plus sodium perborate (one teaspoon to one pint of peroxide). Or, dip the stain into a solution made by adding two teaspoons sodium hydrosulfite to one pint of water. Rinse promptly and well. ...Q. How can I help to tone down the freckles on my arms? ...A. Try spreading a paste on them made of cornmeal and sour milk or buttermilk, keeping this on at least 20 minutes at a time and doing it every day. And, of course, try to keep those arms shaded from the sun as much as possible. ...Q. What is a simple, skin-toning facial beauty mask I can make myself? ...A. Just paint the white of an egg over face and throat, allow to remain on for about ten minutes, then remove with warm water. ...Q. How can I treat the ugly-looking open pores in my complexion? ...A. The usual root of this trouble is poor blood circulation. Use astringent lotions, applying with cotton pads by patting vigorously over face and throat. Rub some ice, wrapped in cotton, over the face as a final, stimulating touch.

Courageous Women Bare Cancer Quacks

By HARRY JUPITER

Bakersfield, Calif. — There are those, glib of tongue, who profit from the human fear of cancer by claiming to cure the incurable. And there are those with the courage to expose them.

Mrs. Eleanor McKee and Mrs. Claire Schaefer are among the courageous — volunteers in the fight against cancer quackery.

Mrs. McKee, a 34-year-old Woodville farmwife, carries a burn scar on her shoulder from the job she did in gathering evidence against Perle Savely, 79, of Lemoore, Calif.

Mrs. Schaefer, 50, of Bakersfield, executive secretary of the Kern County Cancer Society, went through treatment by a fantastic "ozone machine" to expose Franklin D. Lee, 70, of Bakersfield.

Savely and Lee were convicted of practicing medicine without a license. Savely was fined $400, placed on probation for two years and ordered to make restitution to his "patients." Lee was jailed for one year.

Mrs. McKee and Mrs. Schaefer met for the first time recently when they were honored in San Francisco by the American Cancer Society for their undercover work.

The quiet-spoken farmwife — the mother of five children — said she had been criticized by some people for her part in exposing Savely. It was so discouraging, she said, she consulted her minister, who "put his arm around me and said he was proud of me."

But there were rewards. The Tulare Advance-Register wrote an editorial addressing her by name:

"To you goes our nomination as Tulare County's 'woman of said.

"He reached into a bag and took out a 10-cent magnifying glass — the kind my children often play with — and looked at my shoulder. He frowned and told me I had cancer.

"He took a shoe paste jar from a box and took a penknife from his pocket. He wiped the knife on his pants and then used it to spread ointment from the jar on the mole on my shoulder.

"He was so convincing, apparently so sincere, that even though I knew he was lying, I half believed him."

body, she said.

After that, he prescribed sage tea and a flesh-burning ointment. Lee was arrested during Mrs. Schaefer's third visit.

"He had a fatherly appearance," Mrs. Schaefer said. "He was pleasant, jolly, reassuring and sang hymns in a nice baritone voice as he went from patient to patient. He said he could be a doctor if he wanted to but he didn't want to."

the year" for your humanitarian work in exposing a cancer cure 'quack' by exposing yourself to his treatment."

Mrs. Schaefer's greatest reward was even more personal.

"After Lee's trial, I heard of a woman who had planned to go to him," she said.

"She listened to the trial, then went to a regular doctor, who sent her to the county hospital. She's being treated for her ailment. Even if she were the only one — and I'm sure there are more — I feel that whatever I have done was well worthwhile."

Mrs. McKee, whose mother died of cancer, became worried after failing to dissuade a friend from going to Savely. She consulted the California Cancer Society. Agents of the Pure Food and Drug Administration persuaded her to go to Savely's house and show him a non-pigmented mole on her right shoulder.

"I agreed to do what I could, but I certainly didn't know what I was getting into," she

On another visit, Mrs. McKee was accompanied by a Pure Food and Drug agent who posed as her brother. A sample of the ointment was obtained. After analyzing it, agents arrested Savely.

Mrs. Schaefer was accompanied on her first visit to Lee by Mrs. Vernice Jensen, who had a miniature wire recorder concealed in her dress.

Lee examined Mrs. Schaefer's foot, explaining that all nerves were centered there. After squeezing the foot until she winced, she said, Lee told her she had kidney trouble, "needed a cleanup job inside," had a strong heart, a liver that was acting up, had female trouble and internal disorder.

Mrs. Schaefer said Lee treated her with an "ozone machine," a box and board with lighted tubes. It emitted fumes that made her dizzy as he moved it back and forth across her

Bible Words for Today

PROVERBS 3:6 "In all thy ways acknowledge — him, and he shall direct thy paths." (KJV)

God is to be taken into account in ALL aspects of life. Thoughts of Him are not to be limited to special seasons or to special places. He is to be acknowledged in the home, in business, at work, and at play. Our thoughts of Him ought to be so pure and so vital that our conduct would be influenced thereby.

This means that every plan we make should take Him into account. In every decision of our lives, we should face the question, "What is God's will in the matter?" With a satisfactory answer to that question, we should endeavor then to do what we know to be His will.

God demands absolute obedience and total surrender, because He knows that He is unable to "direct our paths" unless and until we are willing to obey Him and surrender to Him.

Let's turn ALL of life over to God!

Frontier Regarded Greater Than Ever

VERN SANFORD

During much of the century, Texas was the great land frontier. It came from the west, the restlessness, the hope, the hope was there was plenty of Texas.

The sod huts and free gone from Texas. But it is regarded by us as greater than ever and promising beyond our wildest dreams.

A survey by a national U. S. News & World described Texas as desolate "the new power of the United States. . . an empire. . . built on a house of priceless resources."

Wonderful. But Texas is now government and have taken the position of a state which will not convert frontiers. Other states are too, for energetic men and know-how to factories humming.

Most states are not hampered. Texas is, by a constitutional provision prohibiting tax money to advertise its advantages.

Some seam-splitting from Texas' expanding population was reflected in the reports of Texas Education Agency survey teams on conditions in the state's public schools.

As a result of the reports to the State Commission on Accreditation, nine schools were removed from the accredited list, and accreditation was withheld from six others. Fifty-one were warned they face loss of accreditation unless they improve standards.

Most of the schools' troubles seemed to stem from pupil populations and needs that outran community leadership and financing. Samples from the unfavorable reports: not enough textbooks, few or no library books, no laboratory facilities

"poured in," according to Bob Bray, member of the governor's staff assigned to the Commission. Said a letter from the Huntsville and Walker County C of C, "Never have I seen any publication so full of excellent guidance material for communities. . ."

With the letter came a contribution to carry on the Commission's work.

Next big goal is passage in November of a constitutional amendment to remove the legal shackles on financing. "Failure of the amendment," said Bray, "will handcuff the Commission. Our big job now is selling Texans on the need to sell Texas, non industry-wise and tourist-wise."

With funds and staff, the Commission will be ready to go ahead on an extensive effort — already mapped out — for research, information, advertisements, films, aid to local organizations, etc.

Disastrous droughts, the alarming loss of rural population and the stark realization that the state no longer can depend on its oil revenue, all emphasize the need for developing our industrial resources."

Actually, the number of schools having trouble meeting standards was only about 3.5 per cent of the total — or 66 out of Texas' approximately 1,800 school districts.

Better driving days are seen ahead as the State Highway Department unveiled its plans for 1959-60 interstate highway building.

A $200,000,000 program has been authorized to add 567 miles of controlled-access highways to Texas' portion of the national network.

Of this, $210,495,300 is earmarked for construction, $16,272,100 for right-of-way buying and an additional $33,322,500 for advance right-of-way buying.

Eventually, Texas is to have 3,033 miles of the interstate system within its borders.

National Bankers Life Ins. Co. of Dallas may continue in business, but without the control of its founder and majority stockholder, Pierce Brooks.

This was the effect of a ruling by State Insurance Commissioner William A. Harrison after a three-day hearing on NABLICO's affairs. State officials conceded the solvency of the company, but objected to certain investments and management practices.

Result: Brooks' controlling interest has been signed over to a trustee. Brooks has said he will sell the stock as soon as the transaction can be arranged.

Before going into summer recess until Oct. 1, Texas Supreme Court knocked down a portion of the state's new mental health code.

It declared unconstitutional the part which denies a jury trial to a mental patient seeking to have a court declare he is sane again.

OFF THE Shelf

By V. J. SANDERS

Robert Traver, author of Anatomy of a Murder, says of The Blanket, by A. A. Murray, "I picked up The Blanket the other night and was soon caught in a thrall that did not end even after I finished it. It hasn't ended yet. . . This haunting first novel by an awesomely talented new voice out of Africa is a soaring chant to the essential oneness of mankind. Here, too, is eloquent proof that the novel is far from dead, for here it is, almost exorcisingly alive."

The average reader would perhaps hesitate to remark so eloquently on the book, nor would he keep it by his bedside for the duration of his natural life, but the story is told very simply and presents a contrast between the primitive African and civilized justice. It is easily understood, and yet possesses a sensitive depth of meaning.

Set in Africa, naturally, the plot is this: The chief of a village orders his son and seven other men to murder a man who is suspected of being a little too friendly with the chief's youngest wife.

The murder is to be a medicine murder, called a "lire-la," which will appear to be an accident.

The old chief sends the supposedly unsuspecting victim off on an errand after presenting him with a brightly decorated blanket. The intended victim is supposed to return at a certain time, and the men wait in ambush beside a moonlit trail.

The victim, wearing the unique blanket, arrives and is instantly murdered. Only after the deed is done do the killers realize they have made a mistake and killed the chief's oldest son.

According to plan, the body is hidden, later discovered, and when the white policemen arrive to investigate, the chief deftly plants suspicion on the intended victim.

Well, everything seems to be coming along just fine until the chief's younger son goes berserk with grief and blurts out the whole story.

Everyone is arrested and a trial, with a white judge, follows. The son, Lepotane, who confessed, becomes a witness for the prosecution, and we observe the strange actions of a criminal trial in his eyes.

The book ends as it should, except perhaps, Lepotane, whose closing actions and words are as surprising as his confession of the crime.

door to any further consideration as to whether price advertising of eyeglasses is legal. In a ruling last month the court held that a new state law does not bar optometrists from advertising prices as long as the ads are not fraudulent or misleading. It's definite now that optometrists can advertise and quote prices in their ads.

MEMO TO ADVERTISERS

for advertising, too!

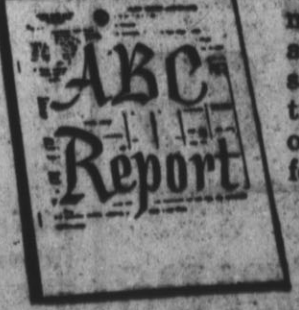

What a fix we'd all be in without those standards of measurement for the goods you buy and sell. Imagine the confusion, waste and doubt in business transactions if we didn't have accepted standards of weights and measures—known values.

We believe it is just as necessary for us to tell you what you get for your advertising dollars, in terms of known circulation value, as it is for you to do business with your customers on the basis of recognized standards. That's why this newspaper is a member of the Audit Bureau of Circulations.

WHAT IS THE A.B.C.? The Bureau is a cooperative and nonprofit association of 3450 publishers, advertising agencies and advertisers in the United States and Canada. Organized in 1914, A.B.C. brought order out of advertising chaos by establishing a definition for paid circulation, rules and standards for measuring, auditing and reporting the circulations of newspapers and periodicals.

WHAT A.B.C. DOES FOR YOU. At regular intervals one of the Bureau's large staff of experienced circulation auditors comes to our office and makes a thorough audit of our circulation records. He has access to all of our books and records to obtain the FACTS that tell you what you get for your money when you advertise in this newspaper.

WHAT A.B.C. REPORTS TELL YOU. The circulation FACTS obtained by the A.B.C. auditor are condensed in easy to read A.B.C. reports which tell you: How much circulation we have; where the circulation goes; how it was sold and many other FACTS about the audience we provide for your sales messages. Make your advertising investments on the basis of this audited information. Ask for a copy of our A.B.C. report.

REP. WALTER ROGERS WRITES:

Russians Have Propaganda Machine Going Full Speed

To the people of the 18th District:

The Russian Bear has his propaganda machine going at full speed producing advertising designed to convince other countries that Russia is leading the march for world peace.

Most Washingtonians in public life recognize that this propaganda barrage has been effective, even though some will not admit it. Our efforts to counteract it by exposing it for what it really is have not been too successful, because the State Department seems to lack the necessary imagination to offset it.

The recent exchange of notes between the several countries involved concerning summit meetings opened the door for Russia to profit measurably, propaganda-wise. I am sure that there must have been excellent reasons for the manner in which the State Department conducted itself with relation to this exchange.

However, the people from other countries with whom I have talked felt that their people might think the United States was reluctant to enter into summit conferences. The proposal of the President, with relation to using the United Nations as an agency for handling this matter, no doubt made sense to many who are familiar with the complexities and intricacies of the procedures of that body and international law. But to many peoples in other countries who are not blessed with a great knowledge concerning the operations of the U. N., it could be made to appear as a stalling tactic. And, Russia would not be averse to placing that appearance on it. It has been known for some time that Russia was using proposals for a summit meeting in its propaganda machine. It appears to me that this knowledge, standing alone, should have alerted us that it was our responsibility to mount a peace offensive in terms that could be clearly understood by peoples all over the world.

Many here feel it is time for this country to take the initiative and formulate a policy and an agenda for a summit meeting that will insure participation by those countries who are acting in good faith and expose those who are acting in bad faith for what they are. By the time this letter reaches you, the Administration will probably have asked for authority to increase the national debt to 288 billion dollars. The permanent debt ceiling is $275 billion. The Administration heretofore asked this session of Congress for approval to raise the debt ceiling to $280 billion on a temporary basis. This was done. It presently appears the new request of the Administration will be that the permanent ceiling be raised from $275 billion to $285 billion, and that the temporary ceiling be lifted from $280 billion to $288 billion. The temporary ceiling of $288 billion would probably run until June 30, 1959.

Last week the Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs was considering a bill concerning a number of Indians who were listed by name—such names as Edith Apple Bear, Thomas Hollow Horn, George Mountain Sheep, Stephen Red Elk, Emma Old Horse and Josephine Thunder Bull. About the center of the list appeared the name, PATRICK O'ROURKE. The Chairman of the Committee was asked, "What kind of an Indian is Patrick O'Rourke?" Whereupon the gentleman from Nebraska, Phil Weaver, volunteered, "A Cleveland Indian."

Pro-amateur type golf matches will be held at the local Municipal Course Sunday, Aug. 3, at 1 p.m. Play will be based on the point system, with five players forming each group.

Earl Hendricks played golf a couple of days with them in Trinidad, Colo. Dr. J. H. Channer, Bill Howard, Jim Wood and their wives went to Sante Fe, N. M., over the weekend for golfing and a short vacation.

The hall damage to the greens has been very extensive. In approximately 10 more days, they should be healed. They are looking much better now. An aerifying and top dressing may be added this week. The Pitch and Putt course, scheduled to open Aug. 1, will now open about Aug. 15, due to hail damage.

How do you look at the top of your back-west? Here are five pointers that should help. 1. Hold the club firmly, especially with the left hand. Too many golfers "let go" with one hand or the other.

2. Hold the left arm as straight as possible. 3. The left knee should point just behind the ball. Too many golfers add too much sway with their left knee.

4. Look over the left shoulder. A shoulder pivot of at least 180 degrees makes this possible. 5. Keep the hands high. Taller golfers with more upright swings have hands higher at the top of the swings than golfers with flatter swings, but get the hands as high as possible.

Army Enlists Homer Hinds

Homer D. Hinds, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Hinds of 310 McKinley St., was enlisted in the U. S. Army for three years service on July 24 at Amarillo. From Amarillo he was sent to Fort Carson, Colo., for eight weeks of basic training. Hinds enlisted under the Army's high school program, in which an enlistee may choose a school assignment before enlisting into the regular Army.

After basic training, Hinds will return to his home on a two weeks leave, then report to Fort Solcum, N. Y., to attend the Information Specialist School.

In last Saturday's matches, Mike defeated Funk, three falls to one in the first event. Tokyo Joe was scheduled to fight Funk, but Mike paid Tokyo Joe $70 to trade places with him. Mike lost the first fall and then took the last two.

The second event saw Ricky Romero down Tokyo Joe, three falls to one. Matches begin Saturday at 9 p.m.

4-H Dress Review Slated In Amarillo

Gas Hunting Regulations Set Commission

Basic hunting regulations in Texas have been set by the Game and Fish Commission for the 1958 fall season. The regulations will be the same as last season, according to the Executive Secretary of the Game and Fish Commission.

The regulations were approved by the Commission last week after they had studied reports throughout the state, particularly in areas where hunting authority has been returned to the Commission.

The hunting season will begin on Sept. 1 for doves in the North Texas section, and on Sept. 15 for quail in the South Texas section. The season will be Oct. 1 for mourning doves for the open white-winged dove season, which will be Nov. 17 inclusive.

The U. S. Fish and Wildlife Commission has authorized the posting of 20 mourning doves the first day. The daily limit will continue at 10. The white-winged dove season begins at 2 p.m. daily on Sept. 16 only and ends at sunset each of the two days. The limit is 10 per day and possession.

I have been chosen as commentator for the Dress Review and have received descriptions of dresses which will be entered for district competition. So far, none of them sound as pretty as Peggy's. The theme of the Dress Review will be "Roses of the Panhandle."

The district Dress Review, of course, is one of the highlights of 4-H Club work. It is the result demonstration of all counties carrying clothing as a major demonstration. Raiders to Tackle Toughest Schedule

LUBBOCK — Two Southwest Conference teams and a pair of Border Conference rivals make up Texas Tech's home football schedule this fall.

In Jones Stadium, Coach DeWitt Weaver's Red Raiders will meet West Texas State Sept. 27, Baylor Oct. 18, Arizona Nov. 8, and Arkansas Nov. 22. All except the opener with West Texas State will be played at 2 p.m. The Buffalo engagement is set for 8 p.m.

Special days have been designated for the games with Baylor (Dads' Day), Arizona (Band Day), and Arkansas (Homecoming). The 1958 schedule will mark the first time since 1949 for Tech to meet a Southwest Conference opponent at Homecoming.

To make a total of five Southwest Conference opponents — most in history — on the Red Raider schedule, Texas Tech will also play Texas A&M in Dallas Sept. 20, University of Texas in Austin Oct. 4, and Texas Christian in Fort Worth Oct. 11, all at night. The Red Raiders will meet five SWC opponents next year, also, before launching official title play in 1960.

gated farms are the best he ever saw, especially the oats. "I was surprised," he said, "when I saw the first big well; I had no idea of the volume of water coming from the many wells nor the extent of the irrigation at Hereford, though I had seen the pictures and occasional write-ups in The Brand."

25 Years Ago
 Two Hereford men, Emmett Hales and Omer Baker, Texas Rangers, were members of the strong posse of peace officers who formed a dragnet about the headquarters of bandits in New Mexico last week.

They were present for the capture of four of the desperadoes, and Mr. Hales was the first to enter the barricaded fortress found in the mountain of Lincoln county.

They left Hereford Thursday, spent that night, Friday and Friday night with 36 deputized sheriffs in a search for a band of robbers and killers known to be operating through New Mexico. The man hunt followed a gun fight at Ramon, N. M., last week in which a deputy sheriff and a Texas bank robber were killed, and the later shooting of a 20-year-old son of the Torrence county sheriff.

The fortress, formed by strengthening an old stone corral, was almost impregnable, according to the Rangers. Port holes for the use of machine guns were cut into the wall. A dozen avenues of escape were afforded through the passageways of the corral.

The Rangers expect to be called back to further assist the drive to clean up that part of the state.

Top Off Ice Cream With Fresh Peaches

PEACHY TOPPING—A bumper-crop of peaches this year makes peach sauce a natural for cooks proud of their desserts.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

Ice cream toppings are in business. We notice all members of families, and especially teenagers, like to spoon sweet stuff from small jars over the frozen dessert.

Chocolate and butterscotch sauces for ice cream are always popular. But now fruit horsers in deliciously, and the sauces made with it can be festive concoctions.

A big crop of peaches has obliged ice cream this year. Here's now to put them into a topping that's easy to prepare.

This sauce reminds us of tutti-frutti, although it is only a remote relative. We used to think tutti-frutti was a made-up word. But Mr. Webster dignifies its amusing sound by saying it's "a confection consisting of different kinds of preserved fruits."

Tutti-frutti, popular in Victorian and later days, is made with various sorts of fruits, sweetened copiously and brandy-flavored.

As fruits (pineapple, strawberries, raspberries, apricots, cherries, peaches) come into season, each is laid away—preferably in a stone crock in a cool old-fashioned cellar.

Real tutti-frutti gives us a comforting feeling of stability in this changing world! In our latest edition (1951) of Fannie Farmer the self-same recipe for the confection is given as included in our first edition (1896) of that estimable lady's book.

Our grandmothers wouldn't have used commercial pectin in a fruit recipe similar to our peach topping, but modern cooks are inclined to do so to gain a bonus in yield.

You don't have to reserve this topping for ice cream alone. It is pleasant served with simple vanilla-flavored rice and bread puddings. If you're new to preserving, remember to choose ripe but firm fruit for good color, texture and flavor.

Don't double a recipe! Cooking in small batches is recommended because small quantities need to be boiled a minimum amount of time so color and flavor are protected.

Follow manufacturers' directions for preparing jars. Follow recipe directions for quickly closing jars with an airtight seal.

GINGER PEACHY TOPPING

Ingredients: Ripe firm peaches (about 3 pounds), 3 tablespoons lemon juice, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 box (2½ ounces) powdered pectin, 5 cups sugar, 3 tablespoons minced drained maraschino cherries, 3 tablespoons minced crystallized ginger (wash sugar from ginger in hot water and drain before mincing).

Method: Scald peaches and remove skins; chop enough of the peaches into pieces about the size of a small raisin so you have 4½ to 5 cups. Put peaches, lemon juice, salt and pectin into a 5- or 6-quart kettle; bring to a hard boil. (Mixture will be foamy so large kettle is necessary.) Stir in the sugar; bring to a hard boil and let boil exactly 1 minute. Quick-

Send Your Dog To School He Bites The Postman

LEDGERWOOD SLOAN — How are your manners? Does he snarl and try to bite the postman? ... on your guests? ... try taking him to school, Forest N. Hall, Dallas instructor of dog show judge. ... it takes only a little effort and very little money to return a wild dog into a well-salvaged one," Hall says. "Actually, it's easier to train a dog than it is to teach his master how it's done."

Master General Summer recently ordered mail delivery stopped at homes where dogs have bitten postmen. ... noted that problem eight ago. He suggested that Dallas Humane Society start training classes for dogs owners.

"If you school your children, you should school your dog," he argued. ... He estimates that 3,250 Dallas dogs have completed 6-week obedience courses since then. ... Dallas is one of the few cities where the free classes are held weekly. There are hundreds of classes in other cities where a small fee is charged. ... "Or you can buy a book and get a lot of fun and exercise learning from it how to handle him," Hall says. ... Classes begin with the owners circling their dogs on leashes around an instructor, following his directions and repeating such single and simple commands as "heel, sit, lie and stay."

Matching Apron For Daughter's Dress Wise

By DOROTHY ROE

There'll be no crying over spilled milk if your small daughter's pretty school dress is covered with its own matching or coordinated apron. ... Smart mothers have discovered that it saves laundry time to make an apron to go with every school dress. Then when little Mary rushes home from school and into the icebox, the apron will keep the dress fresh and spotless for another day. ... Local sewing center experts suggest a plain-and-patterned combination, such as a simple puff-sleeved dress in red and white stripes and an apron of solid red cotton, trimmed in bands of rickrack and white eyelet ruffling. An outfit like this can be stitched up in a short time, using trimmings perhaps left over from another sewing project. ... Use a standard pattern for the dress. The apron is made with a buttoned waistband, so it won't interfere with a bow that may be on the dress. ... To make the apron, cut two eight-inch squares for the bib top. With right sides facing, stitch together around three sides, turn and press. Cut a piece 10 by 18 inches for the apron skirt. Gather on long side and stitch to bib section. Topstitch waistband and straps. Trim with alternating bands of black and white rickrack in narrow and jumbo widths. ... Both apron and dress may be made of one of the new no-iron fabrics, so they can be tossed in the tub and worn without ironing. If you add eyelet ruffling as a trimming, be sure also to get the kind with a permanent finish that needs no ironing. ... Little aprons such as this are so easy to make that many mothers sew several at a clip to go with various dresses. It's a good plan to buy coordinated

What Is Ptomaine Poison?

By Dorothy V. Whipple, M.D.

There isn't such a thing as ptomaine poisoning. That doesn't mean, however, that you cannot get good and sick from spoiled food. ... The things in food that cause trouble are germs. Ptomaines are substances formed in meats by germs, but they do not make you sick. You can eat them with the teaspoonful and never be the worse for them. It is the germs that make you sick. ... Knowing this makes it possible to avoid food poisoning and yet not throw away food that you might be a little suspicious about. ... If you have kept a pan of soup or a stew, or some left over turkey dressing or a meatloaf, a little longer than you had expected to and you are afraid to feed it to the family, don't throw it away. Cook it thoroughly and it will be quite safe. The heat of the cooking must penetrate every bit of the food; just searing on the outside won't do. ... Food that is most apt to cause food poisoning is often that which you suspect the least: cream filling in pies and eclairs, whipped cream, potato salad, cottage cheese. ... These are foods you cannot cook before serving. They must be carefully handled, kept refrigerated and used promptly. Foods of this type kept unrefrigerated for hours are dangerous. Don't take densely packed food out on a picnic unless you have some means of refrigerating it until eating time. ... Another frequent occasion when food poisoning is likely to occur is at a meal for a large group of people, prepared in some place not equipped for the serving of food — a church supper, a lodge meeting meal or something of that sort. ... Members prepare the food at home and bring it to the meeting place in bowls. The food may sit around for many hours in a warm place. During this time the few germs that were in it when it was prepared, and which would have done no harm had the food been eaten immediately, have time to multiply into many millions. ... This heavy growth of germs is what makes people sick. Quite often this dangerous food smells and tastes delicious. You cannot tell by sampling it that there is anything wrong with it. ... The symptoms of food poisoning are all too well known. Nausea, vomiting and diarrhea are the prominent ones. In severe cases there may be chills, prostration and even unconsciousness. ... If the vomiting and diarrhea continue for any length of time the individual loses so much water from his body that he becomes dehydrated and may have to go to a hospital to be given fluids directly into his blood. ... Another type of food poisoning — and a most serious one — must be mentioned. It is called botulism. Fortunately it is rare. This type comes almost entirely from foods improperly canned at home. ... Densely packed foods, such as spinach or corn or meats, may not be adequately sterilized in the home canning process. Commercial canners have good control of their operations and one can safely say that commercially canned goods are always safe. ... Fruits and other acid foods are much less dangerous than densely packed alkaline foods.

NEW SKIRMISH WITH SUCCESS

NEW YORK — Cy Feuer and Ernie Martin, holders of a record string of five consecutive Broadway hits, have set a date for their sixth production skirmish with success. "Whoop-Up!" a musical comedy based on the Dan Cushman novel "Stay Away, Joe," goes into rehearsal next October with White Way premiere set for Dec. 18. ... The producing team have made the stage adaptation and Feuer will probably direct. The music has been done by Morris Charlap, the lyrics by Norman Gimbel.

OLD 'NEW FACES'

NEW YORK — The next version of "New Faces," a recurrent Broadway revue, is going to depend on six previous finds as well as new talent. ... Producer Leonard Sillman, who expects his 1959 version of the showcase to be ready for autumn, is going to use the group to introduce his 10 latest performing discoveries.

SAILOR GOING TO SEA

NOGALES, Ariz. — After 18 years in the Navy, Alfred Camerlin Jr., 35, is getting sea duty for the first time. Camerlin served in Hawaii and at Naval Headquarters in Washington. His father said Camerlin requested the sea duty for "a change."

GOING TO THE MOUNTAIN

HARTFORD, Conn. — A Hartford banker, John D. Stout Jr., likes to ski. But it cost a lot to carry his family of four to and from the mountains. So he bought a retired city bus and turned it into a traveling ski lodge. The bus' name? "Desire."

A CHRISTIAN MOTTO: SERVICE TO OTHERS

Luke 6:31

And as ye would do to you, do ye also to them likewise

What do you really wish that men would do to you... leave you alone? Try it and you will have a lonely world... no home, no neighborhood, no church, no nation. Do you expect your employees to work for you while you forget their welfare. Do you wish others to deal kindly and generously with you? Do you demand that people be honest, truthful, and trustworthy with you? Would you rather others be courteous, and appreciative of you and lend a helping hand when you have a hard task to do? They who keep the Golden Rule will discover that it must work both ways. It is "the rule of God." In every land and in every age it is the basic rule for good living. One cannot improve on it. If you want Golden Rule treatment from others you must give Golden Rule treatment to them. It will work in the experiences of every man. It is the Divine Way. The Golden Rule is still very Golden.

YOU IN THE CHURCH THE CHURCH IN YOU

Character is a by-product of the church. It is here that that faith and influence are showered with benedictions stronger democracy. In the church the ministerial are molding religious character. Statesmen today declare that the church alone can furnish leadership to handle the affairs of state in these perilous times. Then we with our children should go to the church of our choice on Sunday. "You in the Church and the Church in you" form a combination for good. Be a regular CHURCH-GOER and a daily BIBLE READER.

Kimono Victim of Economy

By FRED SAITO

TOKYO (AP) — It's sad but true: The kimono is vanishing. Fewer and fewer girls are seen on the streets of Tokyo now wearing the long, lovely figure-hugging garment.

"The kimono is no longer the normal Japanese dress," Mrs. Yoshiko Sugino recently told newsmen.

Mrs. Sugino is an expert. She supervises 700 dressmaking schools throughout Japan with an enrollment of 100,000 exclusively concerned with teaching girls how to sew Western clothes.

"It is not a matter of fashion," she added. "The Japanese mode of life has been changing and now necessitates Western clothes which are more suitable for active work."

"The economy is another reason. During the war, many cities were bombed out and untold quantities of kimono were destroyed. In the post-war days, we simply could not afford to buy new kimono. As the Japanese economy was restored to the pre-war level some well off people began buying expensive kimono — but only on a very limited scale."

Backing up Mrs. Sugino, the Ministry of Education disclosed there are now 4,510 dressmaking schools in Japan, with an enrollment of 474,222 women and 817 men.

"I understand only about 10 per cent of the dressmaking schools are now devoted exclusively to kimono," said Mrs. Sugino. "About 40 years ago, the ratio was just the reverse."

One of the biggest factors in the rise of Western clothes is that more and more girls have had to go to work in the post-war years — girls who wouldn't ordinarily have had to seek employment in previous years. These girls find it easier to work in Western clothes.

The same thing applies to schools, where there has been a rising enrollment of girls who find Western clothes more comfortable in which to attend classes.

EAST BOWS TO WEST—The traditional Japanese kimono is surrounded by Western-style dress in downtown Tokyo. The daughter of the kimono-clad mother wears the extreme in Western style, the chemise, while the other woman is clad in a more conservative dress.

Some sociologists say the demise of the kimono actually began Dec. 17, 1932.

On that day fire broke out on the fourth floor of a department store here. Thirteen persons were killed and 128 injured, the majority of them kimono-clad sales girls.

As is customary with the kimono, the girls wore nothing, or at least very little, underneath.

And when they came climbing down the fire ladders, many became anxious about their appearance and fell to the ground.

Afterwards, the manager ordered all the sales girls to wear underclothes.

A year later all the girls switched to Western clothes — and so did tens of thousands of other Japanese women.

AT BOTH EXTREMES

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Here's a guy working both sides of the street. His classified ad read:

"Private Detective, shadowing, suspicions verified. Also marriage counselor."

MARITAL SURPRISE

NEW YORK (AP) — "There are always surprises in marriage, even after 30 years," says Alfred Lunt, star actor and husband of the equally renowned Lynn Fontanne.

As an example, Lunt recalled he was just about to go onstage one evening when his wife casually declared she could play the trombone.

"I'd never heard of such a thing in all our years," he said, "and I couldn't say more than 'What?' before the curtain went up. Imagine the suspense of having to play an entire act under such circumstances."

It turned out Miss Fontanne played trombone at age 7.

STICK IN THE MUD

WESTBROOK, Conn. (AP) — Police said a 67-year-old man got waist-high into trouble when he attempted to step from a dock to a boat.

He slipped, they said, and plunged into mud up to his belt. There he stayed for two hours. Passersby finally noticed him and dragged him out.

Bible Words for Today

JOHN 3:2 — "You are a teacher come from God..." (RSV)

Nicodemus, a ruler of the Jews and therefore an educated man, was able to recognize the greatness of Jesus as a master teacher. Why was this?

First because Jesus' profound grasp of the truth enabled Him to state things simply and clearly. A child or a hardened sinner could understand what He meant.

Second, He had the ability to meet any person on his own level. Mary, Martha, Peter, Thomas, Nicodemus, these and many others felt that He talked their language in a way they had never experienced before.

Third, He loved people for their own sakes. Where others might see only sin or failure, Jesus saw what they could become with God's love and grace.

Finally, Jesus lived what He taught. Of Him it could be said: Do as He does as well as do as He says.

Our great need is to see the Master Teacher as He is — here in our midst, in our hearts, if we allow Him there. Else, He stands outside and knocks with a hand that is scarred. If we hear and heed His words, we build our house on the rock; if we neither hear nor heed, we build on the shifting sands of confusion and defeat. If we listen, we can be helped by the Master Teacher to become the master of our daily lives!

Tips Listed for Good Pictures

By VIVIAN BROWN

Do you always take a good photograph?

If you do, you are an exception. Even the glamor girls who pose for the "ads" have their off days, and the high-priced photographers who take their pictures aren't always on the right lens beam, either.

During the summer months, when every day seems to have a camera hidden in his sleeve, you may expect to be photographed at the slightest notice, and you should be prepared.

Instead of reaching for your lipstick and that black eyebrow pencil, concentrate on your pose, the background and the kind of lighting to enhance the picture.

Many neophyte photographers wait until high noon and overwhelming sunlight to snap their pictures, when actually even an overcast day will offer better light for a subject. Cloudy days are especially good for photographing subject matter on beaches, for instance.

If your date suggests the bright sunlight picture, try to talk him out of it in a nice way, waiting until later when there is some shade cast by trees or buildings, giving softer light. As long as you have open sky above, your picture should have enough light on it.

Some camera fanciers still believe that the best picture is taken when the sun is over their shoulder and smack on the subject. "Tant so. Sometimes the sun behind the subject, back-lighting hair and the shoulders can give charming effects."

If you want to make sure that your picture is worth the click of the camera, here are some pointers:

1. Be sure to stand about 10 feet away from the camera. Don't creep up on it unless you want distortions — big feet, big hands or big nose.

2. Look around and see if there is an interesting background. Some photographers will have you stand against an unattractive garage or other unattractive site. Choose trees, bushes, and ocean background at the beach, perch yourself on a rustic railing or stand on a rock.

3. If he insists on a front face picture, turn your body slightly, instead of head-on, tilt your head a wee bit and if you feel awkward, hold something in your hand — a seashell, limb of a tree, a fan, a dog or cat.

4. If you are a little girl, don't affect the broad-shouldered pose of an Olympic swimmer. By the same token, big girls who look athletic shouldn't put themselves in the position of acting kittenish for a photograph.
