Yarborough Wins In U. S. Senate Race

Daniel Returned to Office

Election returns rolled in from the 254 Texas counties Saturday night to return four incumbent Democratic leaders to office. Gov. Price Daniel had amassed a total of 292,932 votes to outdistance his three opponents for an uncontested victory. Gonzalez had 77,025, Irwin 11,241, and O'Daniel 92,794.

Ralph Yarborough, with 265,022 votes, was 68,773 ahead of William Blakley, 196,249, at 10:30 p.m. to regain his seat in the U. S. Senate. Ben Ramsey held a 2-to-1 lead over George Nokes in the race for Lt. Governor, and John C. White was re-elected as Commissioner of Agriculture, piling up a plurality with 215,000 votes against Tom Griffin and Glenn H. Kothmann.

Joe Greenhill of Travis County was also "in," according to returns which gave him a total of 203,000 as compared with Sarah Hughes' 104,000 count.

DEAF SMITH COUNTY
Deaf Smith County pretty well followed the statewide pattern, polling the following totals in complete returns: Daniel 1209, O'Daniel 237, Gonzalez 189, Irwin 46 in the governor race; Yarborough polled 834 in Deaf Smith against Blakley's 761.

PARMER COUNTY
Yarborough 534, Blakley 482.
CASTRO COUNTY
Yarborough 861, Blakley 399.
BAILEY COUNTY
Yarborough 913, Blakley 543.

ASSOCIATE JUSTICE
In the statewide election returns it appeared that Robert W. Hamilton might face a runoff race against J. Edwin Smith. A late tabulation on these returns showed: Hamilton 176,000, Hunt 97,000, Smith 98,000.

Massie, Morrison Face Runoff; Alexander, Miles Both Returned

A total of 1721 votes were cast in the Democratic primary in Deaf Smith County Saturday to settle all races except that of Commissioner, Precinct 2, which will be the only contested county race in the August primary, when voters will choose between Otto Massie, incumbent, and J. C. Morrison.

Massie led the ticket Saturday with a strong majority, polling 515 votes; Morrison was second with 302; Conklin tallied 165 and Newsom had 155.

Another hotly contested vote was that of Justice of the Peace. C. B. Miles, incumbent, won with 877 votes to 592 for E. J. Grady.

Dave Alexander led his opponent, Ben Conklin, by a wide margin in the race for County Tax Assessor and Collector. Alexander polled a total of 1108 as compared with Conklin's 563.

Louis Woodford was returned as County Democratic Chairman, winning over Charles H. Hill, by a safe margin. The count was: Woodford 912; Hill 687. Several precinct chairmen also ran hotly contested races, which are reported on this page.

Other county offices were unopposed and, generally speaking, polled fairly close to the same figures in the election. Ralph Smith, clerk, led with 1721; Sheriff Charles Skelton was second with 1719.

Around Town

County tax equalization board will meet tomorrow at 10 a.m. in commissioners court room, second floor of the county court house, according to Judge Homer Henslee. Though the three members of the city tax equalization board have been named — Cliff Hicks, Monk Johnson and Palmer Norton, no date for its meeting has yet been set. Members of the school tax board met Tuesday.

Three swimming classes will begin Monday, Aug. 4, according to Bill Hardwick, county Red Cross water safety instructor. Adult beginners and adult intermediate classes will be held from 6:30 to 7:30 a.m., and a children's beginner class will be held at 9 a.m. To date, total enrollment for Red Cross classes is 420 students for the summer. More than 500 voluntary instruction hours have been used, Hardwick stated.

Germans Expect War To Break Anytime, Says Local Woman

By BOB HAMILTON

The people of war-torn Germany are living in constant fear of another war since trouble in Iraq arose recently, according to Mrs. George Brashear who has just returned from visiting her ailing mother in that country.

The war bride of an employee of the Allied Oil Co. said she cut her intended two-week visit more than half because of the situation in Germany.

Mrs. Brashear left Amarillo by airplane July 14 and New York the following evening to visit her mother, who has been given only a few weeks to live by her doctor. She is ailing from cancer of the liver, the same illness Mrs. Brashear's father died of in Sept. 1948. The mother visited here five months in 1954.

Mrs. Brashear's major fear was not being able to return home. She said she was afraid either war would break out or her passport would not be honored because she was formerly a German citizen.

She told of her grandfather, who had lived for some time in San Francisco, returning to Germany for a visit and being drafted into the army during World War I. He died in there, never returning to the country he talked of and loved so much.

Heavy troop movements, by both the Americans and Russians — she was only two hours away from the Russian Zone — were observed by Mrs. Brashear while visiting her mother.

"THE GENERAL feeling there," she said, "is that war will break out at any time. It's just pitiful how those people are. They didn't get the American job when they were in 1945," meaning why didn't we go ahead and fight Russia."

"If I had known before I left here the situation over there, you couldn't have called me over there for anything," she stated.

Even on the way back by airplane, Mrs. Brashear said there was a heavy cloud of tension within the airplane, and not until they arrived in New York was relaxation noticeable. They were afraid they would be called back, she stated.

After talking with her brother-in-law in Germany — he is a displaced person from the Russian Zone — Mrs. Brashear said she would kill herself before falling into the hands of the Russians, because of the horrors he told her.

Through an hour and a half interview with the Hereford mother of four children, she continued praising the freedoms we enjoy as Americans, and the need of more prayer to God for world peace.

"I've seen both sides of the fence, and that makes me appreciate the peace and freedom we have here," she stated.

"My greatest fear while I was over there visiting my mother was not being able to get back to my family. I was not so much afraid of war breaking out as not being able to be with my children and husband. I know what a mother means to her family during war, and the (Continued On Page 8)

Interest High in Chairman Voting

Precinct chairmen were elected along with state and county delegates Saturday, though three precincts, 4, 3 and 9, had to go by the write-in route, because no candidates filled in those precincts prior to deadline.

Precinct chairmen are members of the County Democratic Executive Committee. Ivan Block was elected in Precinct No. 11, defeating Don Guseman 187 to 162. Mrs. O. G. Hill Sr., received one vote, also. In Precinct No. 3, Waldron Melton received 32 write-in votes. No other candidates were submitted by the late-come method.

Elmo Hall, in the other write-in precinct, was elected chairman of Precinct No. 9 with three votes. Edwin Banks received one vote.

Ballots were voted in Precinct No. 1. Sylvester was elected by a large margin. Bill Waldrop got the most votes. Ronald Babione, Paul Conaway, and On Page 8.

Prowling Homes of Wealthy Delightful Part of Rare Job

RARE JOB, RARE HOBBY—Mrs. Isabella Charbneau Warren holds a miniature pipe organ, part of her personal collection of miniatures. Her profession gives her the lucrative pleasure of poking about in fine homes evaluating owners' personal property for tax and insurance purposes.

WENATCHEE, Wash. — Isabella Charbneau Warren is one of the nation's busiest women at one of its most exclusive professions.

She gets paid to poke around in the finest homes in America, putting a price tag on everything from that rare old bed linen in the household since grandmother's day to the oil painting purchased because it picks up the colors of the new sitting room drapes.

She is an inside residential appraiser, specializing — but not exclusively — in fine arts.

She and Mrs. Teresa Homer, who specializes in estates for a New York firm are the only women senior members of the American Society of Appraisers.

Mrs. Warren came about her interest naturally. Her father is Jules Charbneau of San Francisco, famed collector of curios and an international authority on miniatures. All her life she has been near the precious things which make a home a haven or a heaven.

Being near these things is not enough, however, to qualify as a senior appraiser. It takes years and years of study and hard work. The intensive training started 25 years ago when the Charbneau family moved to San Francisco and she came under the guidance of the late A. L. Gump and Stanley Grohs.

First she learned about porcelains, chinaware and rare art pieces in the swanky store operated by the Gump family. Then she shifted to the posh parlors of the gift department of Magnin store in San Francisco, there picking up a background in linens and housewares.

She topped this with work at the Saks Fifth Avenue-Beverly Hills store, becoming acquainted with names like Christian Dior, Valenciaga, Jacques Fath and others.

"First thing you know," she recalls, "I was appraising gowns, home furnishings and objects d'art for a whole lot of cinema celebrities." They included Eva Gabor, Dinah Shore, George Burns and Gracie Allen, Claudette Colbert, and Danny Kaye.

Right now, Mrs. Warren is totaling up the value of the contents of a "very large Park Avenue apartment — the value of which will run well into six figures." A while back she appraised the personal property of a California airplane company executive. That figure exceeded $300,000.

"He was very pleasantly surprised," she recalls. "And so might you be. The average man who invested $9,000 in the contents of his home 15 years ago would be hard pressed to replace it for 12 to 15,000 now. He probably only carries insurance to cover his cost — not what it will cost to replace."

On this she speaks with some authority, also. Her husband is an insurance executive and frequently utilizes her talents.

Advice for anyone who would like to get into her lucrative field?

"Study fine arts in college, then travel. Visit the factories of Sweden, Denmark, Italy, Spain and elsewhere. Learn something about how the really fine things are made. About the traditions, the materials, the great craftsmen. I love it. It's always new, thrilling and beautiful."

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio — For atmosphere, consider the quarters of two women graduate students at Bowling Green State University. They live in a windmill.

Inside, 22-year-old Roberta Simone and 23-year-old Kathleen Vogt enjoy a marine decor with brass railings and shipstyle ladders between the three floors.

They study to the gentle lapping of a tree-rimmed pond behind the mill and the creaking of the four chained-down vanes.

"About the only disadvantage," says Roberta, "is the number of campus visitors who spot this place on weekends and peek in the windows as if we were in a glass cage."

"And," chimes in roommate Kathleen, "it still takes concentration to carry a cup of coffee up those ladders."

The windmill was built in the 1830s with two ideas in mind. It was to house a pump for a proposed fountain in the pond and add glamor to a chimney which rises through the center of the structure from a heating plant below ground level.

The fountain never materialized and last year individual heating units replaced the central heat system which had served nearby duplex homes.

A kitchen and bath make up the first floor of the windmill. The second floor is a study room. The third floor, prone to shaking in strong winds, houses the beds.

Roberta is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Simone, of Cicero, Ill. Kathleen's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Vogt, of Westport, Conn.

Studying for masters' degrees in education, the two students plan to teach here next year in the university's English department.

THE LEGISLATIVE END

LANDER, Wyo. — State Rep. A. J. Hardendorf, Republican, said he is not going to run for re-election this year.

The reason, he said: "It's too much of a strain on my eyes to read the big stack of bills."

HUNGARY RECRUITS FROGMEN

BUDAPEST — Hungary has organized its first group of 10 frogmen — including two frogwomen.

They will look into such matters as an ancient forest in the

Summer Is The Time To Burn Up Calories

By VIVIAN BROWN

Why not have a calorie burning party, now that summer is here?

The easiest way to do it is to exercise, easier at this season than any other. You can eat less and exercise to your heart's content usually without fatiguing yourself.

Take your choice of sports. Swimming, that all-around muscle tightener also develops muscles, particularly in the arms and thighs. It helps broaden shoulders and gives a feeling of well-being and accomplishment as you become more proficient with your crawl or overhand.

Golf is a wonderful waistline cincher, but if a golf course isn't within your grasp, there are other sports. How many fat tennis players do you know? A strenuous game, it will surely shake off ounces. Have you tried your hand at rowing? There is the ladylike game of badminton, too, as well as hiking and roller skating, all good for burning off excess poundage.

Bicycling is a form of exercise that may appeal to young or old, fat and skinny. It helps slim the calves of legs which may have become flabby from too much relaxation. Thighs get their share of exercise, too, as you stretch when you cycle, placing the weight of your body on the feet as you push the pedals down. It helps flatten the abdomen and slim arms and wrists.

Time was when, Americans walked miles to school, in the fields and to the factory during the daily routine. The Sunday stroll was an outing. Too many of us have become sitters, relaxing in comfortable arm chairs, in automobiles, trains and planes.

Many of the country's health experts have been urging a return to some form of daily exercise to raise the general level of physical condition. Develop an interest in a sport that you may be able to do the year round as well as one you may enjoy during the summer months.

WRONG TIME, WRONG PLACE

HARTFORD, Conn. — Mrs. Josephine Jefferson tried to settle her argument in court, but the judge overruled her.

The 28-year-old woman appeared in police court to answer charges of breach of peace and resisting an officer. The complainant, Sam Williams, was there, too.

The judge had just sentenced Mrs. Jefferson to 30 days in jail for resisting the officer, and found her innocent of the breach of peace charge.

But then she swallowed Williams on the jaw. "Sixty days for contempt of court," said the judge.

Adaptability to environment and conditions has often been cited as the one tremendous characteristic which has contributed most to making America a leading world power. Whether it is true or not, I don't know, but I do know that we Americans do adjust rapidly.

BEST PROOF OF this is seen around the Lions Club Carnival each year. Some adapt faster than others, but when the week is over it would be hard to distinguish many of those old boys from professional booth operators or, as they say in the trade, "Carnies". Ronald Babione and Labry Ballard, for instance, were doing a jam-up job by the end of the week; Dub Reeves also had a professional approach; I found myself wondering if he failed to shave on purpose, or was just too lazy. F. W. Dool developed into a barker without peer, and you'd think that Bert Boomer grew up running a basket pitch in-

She was the world's most famous aviatrix, and she was flying around the world. Her name was Amelia Earhart Putnam, and she had opened up new worlds of achievement for the "weaker sex," setting records that few men could match in the air. She was somewhere over the Pacific Ocean when the last radio message came from her. It said, "Position doubtful." There was no more. All America waited for another word. Warships and airplanes were sent out to search for her. They found nothing, not a trace. And no other word ever came from her. But there was a final letter to her husband, one she had left behind... just in case. It expressed the courage of a great woman. When Mr. Putnam opened it, he read: "Please know I am quite aware of the hazards. Women must try to do things as men have tried. Remember the year? In that year a man who owned a car made sure he kept it in safe, tiptop condition. He looked around for reliable service... and he didn't take chances by 'letting things go' for a few more miles. The year was 1937. Service is our business... and we have the best factory trained mechanics... plus the most up-to-date equipment to give you reliable service, from a brake job to body and paint work. For dependable auto sales and service... see CHARLIE SEEDS MOTOR CO., INC., 146 E. Second. Phone EM 4-2727."

stead of pushing a pen. Harry Linderer, Woody Wilson, Harry Caylor and Fred Cunningham had the bingo game rolling in a fashion that would have made P. T. Barnum turn green with envy. There were a lot of others, as they say in the farm sales, "too numerous to mention".

It is amazing, though, how a bunch of business and professional men can shift into a complete new character overnight. This must be much the same way the Community Circus operates down at Gainesville. Anyway, I doubt if I will ever forget John Aiken spruced out in that Indian headgear.

Louis Woodford got more than one chuckle Thursday night when he passed the booths and asked acquaintances: "What are you doing, trying to make an honest dollar?"

Did you ever hear of so many damaged roofs as we have now? The hail storm seemed to have concentrated pretty well in town. Two or three sets of insurance adjusters have opened offices here — and will probably be on location for 30 days or so. Estimated damage to roofs in town is $250,000.

The elections will have come and gone by the time this hits the street, but I got a real chuckle out of gubernatorial Candidate Henry Gonzales definition of a Latin American which appeared in the Dallas News last week. Gonzales said: "A Latin American is a Mexican with a poll tax."

And now that the shouting is over, who kid ourselves? I don't know who will win, but it will make very little difference in the farm program whether Blakley or Yarborough gets nominated. Both men have held the office of U. S. Senator (the job they now seek) and I haven't seen any rigid parity price supports during either one of their administrations. The office just doesn't have the pull to alter more than one vote and, regardless of the outcome, that should be with the Democrats. When you boil it all down, it just means a prestige job for one or the other — and it definitely isn't worth losing the friendship of a neighbor.

Roy Oswald was telling a new integration joke about a Negro family that moved into a white neighborhood. The Negroes were quite proud of the situation and each morning the little Negro boy would tell the white boy next door: "I'm as good as you are, 'cause I live next door to you. Let's play." This went on for about a week until, one morning the Negro boy approached the white boy and said: "I see better than you. White Boy, and I ain't gonna play with you no mo. Wanna know why I see better?" The little white boy said he did, and the Negro boy replied: "Well, we both live here in the same neighborhood, and I see better off'n you is, 'cause I ain't got no ZXZ ZXVX Niggers livin' next do' to me!"

What few folks the vacations and fishing trips don't get, the conventions do. Clyde Cave just got back from a variety store meeting in Dallas, where he says it was fairly warm. Jim Roberts went through a washing machine factory in Michigan last week, and he is somewhat excited.

Howard Brown, might as well go ahead and go fishing. That's all he talks about these days. C. E. Coleman came back from Colorado bragging about the "grandpappy" trout he caught — and Howard has been on needles and pins ever since.

Sam Nunnally is one of the few old boys I know who can either take it or leave it, when fishing season rolls around. Sam can go out set a pattern for the boys one year then, next year never wet a hook or voice a complaint. His wife may not agree, but that's how it seems to me — and it is most unusual.

The Abe Martins and James Edmondsons are on their annual fishing trip this week. Abe used to write up his experiences in this column, and it worked out real well until he got too lazy. He even mentioned one time that I should reciprocate and do something for him, whereupon I immediately pushed him into the chair and offered to personally cut his hair. I thought it was a fair trade, but Abe wouldn't stand still for the deal. I sure wish he would come through with another one of those columns. Maybe if I would give him a shave with one of those straight-edge razors, he'd like it better.

The thought won't be popular with the small-fry, but the idea just occurred. All of this juvenile delinquency popped at exactly the same time the safety razor became popular. Wonder if the vanishing of the old-fashion razor strap had anything to do with the situation? Maybe it was just a coincidence.

Bob Hamilton says he predicted that someone would get killed at the Harrison-Highway 51 crossing in three months after they installed the traffic lights. He says they merely need to install some of those signs, "Traffic Lights Ahead," and the problem will be solved. Bob gets real worked up every time they have an accident out there, and they have had several. Might be the boy knows what he is talking about.

I notice where the Dallas Churches of Christ sponsored a big youth rally at which they featured Pat Boone and Bobby there, and they have had several. They reported 16,000 young boys and girls in attendance. Several observers suggest that churches of other faiths might follow the lead, featuring headliners of their own denominations to attract youth. Sounds like an innovation. It's a far cry from that old razor strap, but maybe it's the modern answer.

F. H. Oberthier was upset about Labor Camp sanitary Saturday morning. He has checked up on the situation, and says we are liable to have an epidemic at any time. Mr. Oberthier believes the situation is drastic. "We threw away $250,000 of good Hereford money on the airport," says Mr. Oberthier. "Why can't we do something about the Labor Camp?"

I agree, the city is effected sharply by Labor Camp conditions. However, it would appear to me that the problem is under county jurisdiction, since the camp is not in the city limits. Any immediate action would most likely have to come through the Commissioners Court and the County Health Officer. Maybe this is wrong, but that's how it looks to me.

Tony Curtis Believes Clothes Make The Man

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer
"There's an old argument about whom women dress for — the men in their lives or to impress other women," says actor Tony Curtis.

"But I don't think there can be any argument about whom men dress for. Each man dresses for himself. He has some idea of the kind of person he thinks he is or wants to be and he dresses to it. If his wife likes it, okay, that's fine; if she doesn't, that's just too bad."

Curtis, a blue-eyed, dark-haired movie star who has been drawing both teen-agers' squeals and critical raves, admits that for him one of the great joys of acquiring film gold is that he can indulge freely his sartorial fancies. "I've got lots of clothes," he says. "And I think clothes are a lot of fun. They do something for me."

"I've got clothes for all sorts of things. I've got a race track suit — it's a light glen plaid, cut a little wide and a little extreme. When I wear it I feel just right for going to the races. I've got a poker playing suit: comfortable soft-material slacks that won't bunch or bind even if I'm sitting down at a poker table for eight hours, soft-collared shirt and rolled sleeves. I feel lucky and happy in it."

Takeoff point for Curtis' opinions was a magazine article by an elegant, clothes-confident New York businessman who set down a number of do's and tabus for the would-be well-dressed.

Some of the male plummage arbitrarily banished from the realm of good taste by the writer included pastel shades, two-toned shoes, perforated hats, pseudo-Italian sports shirts, city suits of pale blue, green and — particularly — brown, maroon cummerbunds (black remains okay for summer), white shirts for day-time wear, flamboyant neckties, hats (except straw) with flat crowns, moccasins in the city and tartan jackets anywhere.

Curtis disagrees violently with the tabus. "I think clothes do make the man," he insists. "I think a suit can make you feel bet-

Dinner Honors Henry Tiefel

Thursday was a red letter day for Henry Tiefel. He celebrated his 81 birthday at a dinner given by Mrs. Tiefel, with his children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren gathering for the occasion.

Included were Mr. and Mrs. Thurman Johnson and their daughter, Donnie, Mr. and Mrs. B. P. Sowell, a grandson and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Johnson and son, Brent, a grandson, Johnny Rogers, who has recently returned from Army duty in Germany, the honoree and Mrs. Tiefel.

Mr. and Mrs. Tiefel came to Hereford in 1910 from Grayville, Ind., and located on a farm near Hereford. Later, they moved to Hereford, when he entered the construction and carpenter business. He is now retired.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Tiefel are active members of the Lutheran Church.

ter — or worse. And I think your clothes should both fit the occasion and your mood." Curtis spends time, thought and money on his wardrobe. (He also plays the decisive role in choosing the personal clothes of his wife, pretty Janet Leigh.) And it is a big one, containing, just as one item, 45 pairs of shoes.

"So I'm lucky now and can afford it," he says. "I can afford to pay $230 for custom-tailored suits."

But he insists that he's a shrewd buyer — a hangover from the days when money was scarce and a new suit was a major outlay. He says a man who knows what he likes need not pay big prices to have good looking clothes.

"You give me $150, and I can get a complete outfit," he said, "right here in New York. I know 30 small tailor shops (my father used to be a tailor) where you can get a good custom tailored suit for $80 or $90. I can get you a custom-made shirt, even, for $8 or $10. And I can get a good trench coat from one of these places where guys sell their clothes when they've gotten too fat for them. There's nothing that says a trench coat should be new — it's better when it looks used."

Curtis, lean and muscular, confesses that he likes his clothes fitted so closely that "you can see the man in the suit."

Whatever you do, says Curtis, don't let anyone — fashion arbiters or even tailors — talk you into buying clothes you aren't sure about.

"For a man, clothes aren't just something to cover you up, any more than they are for a woman," he insists. "They are a pleasure, and they are supposed to do something for you. So if you like loud colors and they make you feel happy, wear them. If you hate tuxedos, don't wear them: If you want to look like a Wall Street man, dress like one. But express yourself in your clothes."

EXPENSIVELY CASUAL—Tony Curtis relaxes over a cup of coffee while expounding his ideas on how men ought to dress. Clothes, he insists, make the man.

Hereford Mother Finds Time For Few Tricks--On Horseback

By DAVID STOKER
Most women are housewives, many are competing in business and politics, some are actresses but few, like Sally Skelton, are trick riders.

Pretty, actress-looking Mrs. Skelton, wife of County Sheriff Charles Skelton, is considered by many as one of the best trick riders in this part of the country.

Actually, Sally is both a housewife and a trick rider. She has two children that keep her rather busy in Melody, 10, and little Matt "Dillon" Skelton, who is only three months old. Taking care of Matt has kept her inactive from rodeo performing this year, but she plans and is looking forward to returning next year.

Mrs. Skelton was raised and has lived around horses most all her life. Her father raised horses in Amarillo, where she was born in 1929. At the early age of 10 she took up the rodeo, competing mostly in the women's barrel races. SHE ENTERED barrel races at various rodeos in Texas and once even performed in Hollywood as a stunt rider.

Action-packed experiences have been many in the life of Mrs. Skelton, but there is one she remembers very well.

"It was ten years ago when I performed in an all girls rodeo at Amarillo," she says. "The stock that was provided for us was supposed to be the second best and not as wild as they used for regular rodeos."

"Those horses and bulls were wild enough, though, because I broke five ribs," she says with a laugh.

Despite the five broken ribs, she won three firsts, two seconds and a third for a total of $190.

It wasn't until about four years ago that she decided to try the risky, dangerous trick riding. "A person who has been around rodeos for a good while gets tired of doing just one thing like barrel racing," she says.

Determination was her main asset. "I was very determined to learn trick riding despite my family thinking there was something wrong with me. I taught myself and practiced a whole lot. I had a pretty hard time learning, because the first horse I had wasn't a trick horse and bucked a lot. It was dangerous, but I was never seriously hurt."

In fact, since she has been performing, Sally has been very lucky, having been hurt only once.

"I was practicing for one of the shows right after the big snow of 1956," she says. "I know now that I shouldn't have been practicing in that kind of weather. Skoki (her horse) was frisky and the ground was too wet. I was doing a trick and she started bucking and threw me over the ground. I hurt my knee and it bothered me for sometime afterwards. But that's about the only accident I've had."

IN SKOKI, Sally feels that she has one of the best trick riding horses in the business. An experienced quarter horse, Skoki had performed throughout the Midwest, in Madison Square Garden and Canada before Sally bought her.

"You can't possibly be a good trick rider unless you have a good horse," Sally says.

Mrs. Skelton has performed in rodeos in Hereford, Dalhart, Pampa, Littlefield, Dimmitt, Earth, Morton, Shamrock, Amarillo, Wheeler, Midland and El Paso, mostly in rodeos sponsored by local riders' clubs. She usually contracts through one rodeo producer.

She is the owner of 10 brilliantly colored costumes and has designed and made many of them herself. One is shamrock green trimmed in silver, one is sunset orange with gold sequins and another is of dusty rose color.

Sally's act consists of various tricks, including the "Hypodrome," "One Leg Stand," "Full Fender Drag," "Regular Fender Drag," "Death Drag" and the "Stroud Stand." At night she does the "Hypodrome" twirling a lighted baton.

Although the "Death Drag" (hanging from the horse by one leg while the horse is at top speed) is considered the most dangerous by Mrs. Skelton, she says that standing up while the horse is running is the most difficult to learn.

About two years ago she added roping to her trick riding. Her roping tricks have such fancy names as "Merry-Go-Round," "Wedding Ring," "Hand Shaking," and "Tapping-In-And-Out."

Charles and Sally make their home at 241 E. 4th St. They have been married about eight years, having lived in Arizona before moving to Hereford in 1954.

CHARLES SKELTON, unlike the sheriffs of television land, is not a horseman and hates rodeos, according to Sally. "You couldn't get him near a rodeo," she says. "He can't stand to see me ride; he's so afraid I might get hurt."

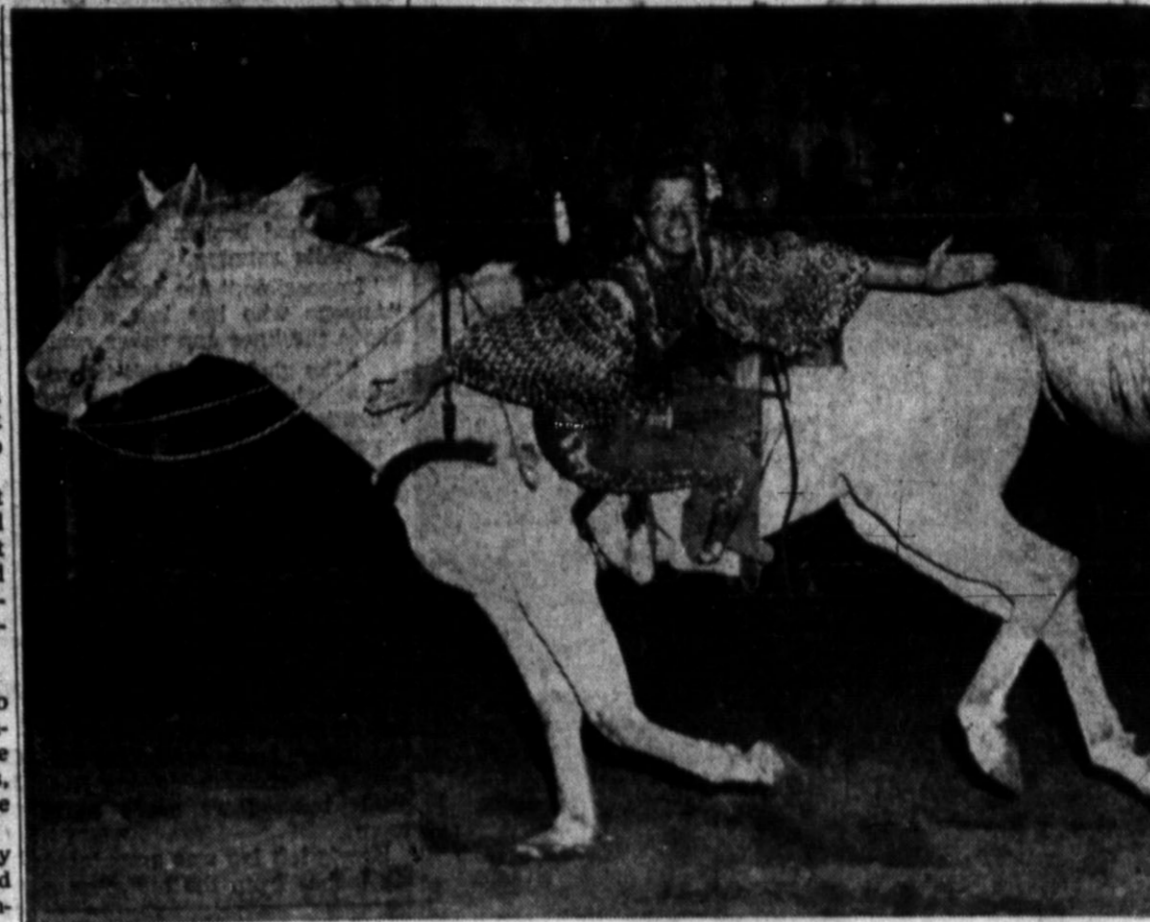

She is very anxious to get back to riding but says it will take her a long time to get back into condition. "You and your horse must be in top physical condition in order to perform correctly," she says.

WHEN AWAY from the rodeo she likes to knit and collect antiques. She also seems to like other animals besides horses, having a dog and two Siamese cats.

It will not be long until Sally will be thrilling crowds around the Panhandle with her death-defying tricks again. When there is a rodeo near Hereford you can bet she'll be there. But if she's not she'll probably be showing others the art.

"I've had offers to teach trick riding, and I think I'd like to do it someday," she says.

But that she will be a good teacher, too. Asked if she every gets nervous, Sally replies, "When I first started trick riding I got nervous right before the ride, but once I began I was all right. It doesn't bother me at all now. You can't afford to be nervous while you're riding - it's too dangerous."

SALLY AND SKOKI—Here is Sally Skelton performing one of her superb and dangerous tricks aboard her horse, Skoki. Sally has been trick riding about four years and is considered by many as one of the best in this part of the country. The trick she is doing above is called the "Full Fender Drag." (Personal Photo)

Girls Sell Pies At Carnival

More than 20 Hereford High School FHA girls participated in making and selling pies and hamburgers for the Lion's Club Carnival the past week to raise money for the exchange student program.

Contributions of pie ingredients and meat were made by donations from Hereford citizens. Through Wednesday, 155 pies had been sold.

Helping to supervise the program were Mrs. Dick Hagar, Mrs. F. L. Alexander, Mrs. H. Ward and Miss Della Stagner. In charge of the program was Mrs. J. J. Durham, vocational homemaking teacher at the high school and sponsor of FHA.

Also helping in the program was Mrs. Sandra Gregory, apprentice teacher from Texas Tech, and Miss Martha White, apprentice teacher from Texas Tech, who is working with the Plainview homemaking program.

A total of 22 girls and mothers helped in the making and selling of pies and hamburgers.

REVIVAL TO END
The Methodist Youth Revival will come to an end Sunday, July 27, at 8 p.m., with a covered dish supper in Fellowship Hall. Any interested persons are invited.

SALLY'S SADDLE—Making sure that her special made $285 trick saddle is kept in the best of condition is one job Sally Skelton appears to enjoy. Sally, who also owns a regular riding saddle, ordered the trick saddle from manufacturers in Atlanta, Ga. (Staff Photo)

Local Highway Patrolman Is 'One Satisfied Fellow'

By DAVID STOKER

SGT. DAN DUGGAN of the Highway Patrol has been working for the Texas Department of Public Safety eight years and says he is "one satisfied fellow."

"I like everything about law enforcement and nothing in particular. As for anything unusual ever having happened while I've been on the Highway Patrol, I can't remember such. All I know is that I'm satisfied and really like my work," he says.

Duggan, who has been here since April 1, of this year, was born in Many, La., Nov. 19, 1926 to Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Duggan. His father was an oil field worker, which caused the Duggan's to move around quite a lot.

"I went to 18 different schools by the time I was 14. We moved a lot but stayed mostly near Shreveport," he says.

When he was 14 his parents moved to Alto, Tex., where Duggan finished high school. Following his high school graduation, he attended Henderson Jr. College at Henderson, Tex., for nine months.

He was 17 at this time and decided to enter the service. He joined the Navy and for two years saw sea duty aboard three destroyers during the heat of World War II.

"I didn't see much action," Duggan says. "I stayed mostly on water and never got to be a hero."

Out of the service in 1945, he went into his father's line of work — oil, and worked in the oil fields at Longview, Tex., until 1950. It was then that he chose to join the Highway Patrol.

"I was always interested in law enforcement and knew that the Highway Patrol offered a man the best deal. It gives a man a better knowledge of the field and a better living, too," he says.

Before he became a patrolman, however, Duggan had to attend a general law enforcement school at Austin. The school mainly emphasized the study of traffic, and Duggan remembers that it was nothing easy.

"Out of the 56 that started in my class, 40 graduated,"

HIGHWAY HELPER—Sgt. Dan Duggan of the Texas Highway Patrol has been here since April 1, having moved from Beaumont. He is in charge of eight men in nine counties and says he enjoys being with the Patrol. Duggan and his family make their home at 426 Ave. I. (Staff Photo)

he says. Immediately after the school, he was assigned to Beaumont. He remained there until he was transferred to Crockett, Tex., in December of 1952. In June of 1953 he worked at Liberty, Tex., before being transferred back to Beaumont in May of 1955.

To make sergeant he had to take a competitive examination. Duggan passed the test and was assigned to Hereford, moving here April 1, of this year.

Duggan is in charge of eight men that supervise traffic in nine counties. He says he is short of employees and is looking for men all the time.

Duggan and his wife, Pauline, make their home at 426 Ave. I. They were married at Rusk, Tex., in 1952 and have three children. They are Dan Jr., 5; Linda Lee, 3; and Francis Ann, 2.

Wooden Leg Doesn't Stop Determined Man

MONTCLAIR, N. J. — The doctor refused to believe it when young Donald Kerr explained that he had broken his wooden leg while running.

"Impossible," the doctor said. "Anyone who has lost a limb above the knee can never run."

"I'm glad you didn't tell me that when you gave me my artificial limb," replied the youngster, who had some convincing evidence otherwise. He was a high school sprinter, ran the hurdles, and once jumped five feet seven inches.

Now, at 45, Kerr is trying to raise $100,000 for a rehabilitation institute to replace the one he started five years ago in an American Legion hall.

Called the National Institute for Amputee Rehabilitation, it has since been moved to the nearby Hasbrouck Heights Hospital but Kerr needs more room.

Kerr's left leg was amputated six inches from the hip after a railroad accident when he was eight. Despite his wooden leg, he determined to run again.

"Fear is an extreme deterrent to amputees," he says. "Handing any patient a preconceived notion that he should never expect to run, play or even walk normally is guaranteeing the development of a handicap he need not have."

Kerr has the record to prove it. Besides his accomplishments in high school, he was undefeated feather-weight boxing champion at Tulane University and was an excellent fencer. He is the current New Jersey state champion in badminton.

NEW LOOK AT JOHNNY

ASHLAND, Ohio — John Chapman, better known as Johnny Appleseed because he planted many apple trees in the late 1700s and early 1800s, used his knowledge of trees in more ways than one, historians here say.

During the War of 1812 against the British, he is reputed to have slipped through Ohio forests on a 54-mile round trip from the block house at Mansfield to Mount Vernon and back, in one day.

The purpose was to warn settlers of Indian massacres incited by the British and to bring soldiers from Mount Vernon to defend the Mansfield block house.

PIPE COLLECTION

PONCA CITY, Okla. — Raymond Brierly, 60-year-old lumber company sales manager, has collected more than 500 pipes — and he smokes them all.

The collection is so large he has cases of pipes in all rooms in his home. And Brierly notes with pride, he still has the first pipe he used when he started smoking at 15.

DETERMINED SALESMAN

NORMAN, Okla. — There's just no stopping some salesmen. When Dave Vandivier, Norman Transcript representative, called on feed dealer Harrison Wages to sell him an ad, he was told: "I'm sorry, but I don't have time to talk about it today — I have a whole truck load of feed to unload."

Vandivier took off his coat, pitched in and spent a half hour lugging 100-pound sacks of feed. (He sold the ad.)

Ten Enrolled in Furniture Class

Ten adults enrolled in the Hereford High School FHA chapter's furniture refinishing class, which was offered the past week.

In charge of the class was Mrs. J. J. Durham, vocational homemaking teacher at the high school and sponsor of FHA. The class was taught by Jess Robinson, vocational agriculture teacher.

Classes were held throughout the week. This is the first summer the course had been offered. Mrs. Durham said plans are being made to hold it next summer, with the addition of upholstery classes.

Enrolled in the homemaking summer program were Mrs. Lucille Smith, 505 Ross, Mrs. Al Yeager, 148 Center, Mrs. Betty Henson, 304 Ave. K, Mrs. Jane Kirby, 115 Ave. H, Mrs. Jesse L. Cline, 501 E. Fifth, Mrs. Jim Higgins, 142 N. Texas Ave., Mrs. Frank Elmer Patterson, 608 E. Fifth. Helping out in the program was Mrs. Sandra Gregory, apprentice teacher from Texas Tech, and Miss Martha White, apprentice teacher from Texas Tech, who works at Plainview with the homemaking class.

and target shooting takes up a considerable amount of Duggan's time. He also likes to read. "I haven't any favorite authors or type of book; I just read anything that might seem interesting," he says.

On Hereford? "This country is a bit different from where we came, but we like it."

SAFE BET

TUCSON, Ariz. — College graduates are really going out into a unique world — thanks to the earth satellites.

Addressing the University of Arizona's 1958 graduating class, Dr. Alan T. Waterman, director of the National Science Foundation, noted:

"It is safe to say this year's commencement is the first to be held beneath four different moons — one placed there by nature and three by man."

Texas College Football Fall Line Up Announced

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

Texas isn't as big as Alaska and it also doesn't have as much college football as two other states. This isn't said in a deflationary way, but introduces the subject at hand — just how much college football will the state have come fall.

In Texas there will be 33 senior colleges playing the game. That's 18 fewer than the state of Pennsylvania and two under Ohio.

There has been no decrease in college football as compared to last year. Texas colleges are in five conferences — the Southwest, Border, Lone Star, Missouri Valley and Southwestern. Here will be the line up next fall:

Southwest Conference — Baylor, Texas, Texas A&M, Texas Christian, Rice, and Southern Methodist. Texas Tech is in the Southwest Conference, but won't compete for the championship until 1960.

Border Conference — West Texas State, Hardin-Simmons, and Texas Western.

Missouri Valley Conference — University of Houston and North Texas State.

Lone Star Conference — Sam Houston State, Texas A&I, Southwestern State, Howard Payne, Lamar Tech, East Texas State, Sul Ross and Stephen F. Austin.

Southwestern Conference — Wiley, Texas Southern, Prairie View and Texas College. There are nine independents — Texas Lutheran, Austin College, Trinity, Corpus Christi, Abilene Christian, McMurry, Bishop, Jarvis and Paul Quinn.

The college football schedule will be launched Sept. 13, but there will be only a smattering of games. Virtually all of them hit the trail Sept. 20.

This year there'll be an instance of a white college playing a Negro College. That comes Oct. 25, when Corpus Christi engages Texas Southern at Houston.

There has been a reshuffling of the junior colleges, but 15 will start the campaign next fall — the same as last year. Kilgore and Tyler of the Longhorn Conference have joined Paris and Texarkana of the Texas Conference to form a new league called Texas Eastern. That leaves Navarro, Blinn, Cisco, Henderson County and Ranger in the Texas Conference. Ranger left the Pioneer Conference.

Del Mar of Corpus Christi, Victoria and Wharton of the Longhorn have entered the Pioneer Conference with Arlington State, Tarleton State, San Angelo and the Cameron Aggies of Oklahoma.

Thus, the junior college line up for the fall will be:

Pioneer Conference — Arlington State, Tarleton State, San Angelo Del Mar, Victoria and Wharton.

Texas Eastern Conference — Kilgore, Tyler, Paris and Texarkana.

Texas Conference — Navarro, Blinn, Cisco, Henderson County and Ranger.

Junior college football is one of Texas' most important sports. The national champion has come from this state two years in a row — Arlington State in 1956 and Texarkana in 1957. Arlington State twice won the Junior Rose Bowl.

Texas won't have as many colleges playing football as two other states, but they'll be just as loud.

UNDERSTANDABLE

JERSEY CITY, N. J. — A young boy who frequents the city baths says he has no choice. He has three older sisters at home and by the time it's his turn for the tub, all the hot water is gone. So he pays 15 cents for a bath at the city-run spa.

TWIN SIN

MILWAUKEE — Authorities at first were inclined to discount the report of a witness who told of seeing two men, exactly alike in every detail, carrying loot from Miller's restaurant.

But then police arrested the culprits — 22-year old identical twins.

HEREFORD FALLS EARLY

Local Stars Lose; Borger Wins Title

The Hereford Pony League All-Stars bit the dust early in an area tournament that was a blistering, red-hot nine from Borger, undefeated in three tilts, whiz by everyone to take home the area title.

Hitting seemed to be Hereford's main problem. Unable to cope with the superb hurling of Pampa and Borger, they got only three hits in the two games they played, getting one against Borger and two against Pampa.

Borger, the series champs, stopped Hereford Monday night, 5-1 behind the submarine, curve ball pitching of lean Johnny Wilson. Pampa, beaten by Littlefield in the opener, crushed the stars, 9-1 Wednesday and sent them home, eliminating them from further tournament action.

It was the excellent two-hitter by Pampa's Duke Garren that downed Hereford on Wednesday's affair. The big red head yielded only two scattered singles, one to Ron Greenway in the fourth and one to Jim Haney in the sixth.

The game was Pampa's from beginning to end. They scored one in the first, five in the third and three in the fourth. It was in the big fourth that Pampa first baseman Gerrel Owens lined a Bill Steele pitch over the left center field wall with two men abroad. The homer was Owens' second of the tourney.

Steele, who had relieved starter Gary Kendrick in the third, was chased to the dugout in the fifth; and Haney, the big stopper of the staff, came in and put out the fire.

Hereford's only tally was registered in the fourth frame. Gary Smith, the stocky right fielder, led off and took a Garren fast ball on the leg for a free trip to first base. Greenway followed with his single, and then Hale drew a free ticket to fill the bases. Garren then struck out catcher Eugene Jennings. But he then lost Randy Dowell on balls, allowing Smith to score from third. The next two Hereford swingers went down swinging to retire the side.

That was about the only inning the Hereford batters got any exercise, and they never threatened again. Garren was helped considerably by his teammates who played errorless ball. The big righthander struck out eight and walked seven in going the distance for Pampa.

In the second game Wednesday night, Borger slipped by Littlefield, 5-4, pushing across a run in the bottom of the eighth to take the victory. Pitcher Jackie Gray was the hero when he doubled in the last of the eighth to score Derwood Williams from first.

Pampa and Littlefield battled again Thursday with Pampa branding the team from Lamb County, 15-0 and earning a right to meet Borger in the night's second game.

Skinny, spectacled Johnny Wilson proved too much for Pampa in the first game, however, as he stopped them on six hits, 13-4 and pitched his team to the title.

Borger batsmen had a busy night, racking out 14 base hits, including a homer by right fielder Jackie Gray. Gerrel Owens hit his third tourney homer in the second.

If Pampa could have beaten Borger, a playoff would have been held Friday. Borger's Wilson and his team.

mates wicked bats couldn't be stopped, however.

Local Airport to Host Flying Tour

Hereford's new Municipal Airport has been designated as one of 49 airports in the entire state to be visited in October by the giant All-Texas Air Tour, a group of individual flyers who annually tour the state.

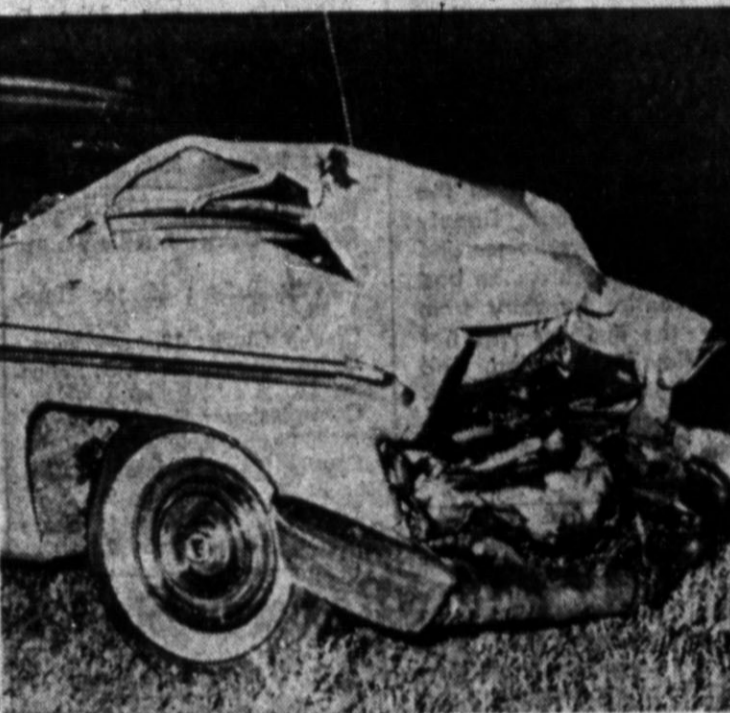

In a letter received this week by Bill Lenderman, manager of the Deaf-Smith County Chamber of Commerce, the tour's managing director Asa Burroughs stated the group would visit Hereford Oct. 9. This will be the 10th year of the tour.

The Texas Air Tour will leave Temple, by tradition, Oct. 4, and travel counter-clockwise around the perimeter of the state. The pilots will spend a night in a dude ranch, make a stop on the Mexican border, visit the East Texas oil fields, Big Bend country and wind up with a western celebration in San Angelo.

LAST YEAR, according to Burroughs, pilots from 18 other states and Mexico joined the tour. Flying groups from every state in the U. S. are invited to make the trip.

The All-Texas Air Tours are sponsored by the Texas State Aviation Assn., Texas Private Flyers Assn., Texas Flying Farmers, Texas Ninety-Nines, Texas Wing, Civil Air Patrol, and coordinated by the Texas Aeronautics Commission for the purpose of promoting civil aviation and getting fellow flyers better acquainted. Burroughs stated in his letter.

VISITING HERE Miss Jolynne Cokeland of Spearman and Bill Carmichael of Phillips are visiting here this weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Pete Carmichael.

A '56 Chrysler sedan was driven by Mrs. Ruby Hart, 40, of Muleshoe, and a '49 Willys was driven by Luz Arce, 30, of Hereford. ## Drivers Receive Minor Injuries In Highway Accident Thursday

Two drivers were treated for minor lacerations at Deaf Smith County Hospital after an accident on Highway 60, five miles west of Hereford, at 8:25 pm. Thursday. The drivers were Mrs. Ruby Hart, 40, of Muleshoe, and Luz Arce, 30, of Hereford. Highway patrolmen said the Hart automobile ran into the rear of the Arce car as both were traveling east toward Hereford. The Arce car, they said, hit a roadside tree and post after leaving the road. Arce said he was traveling about 30 m.p.h. at the time of the accident, and Mrs. Hart said she was traveling about 60 m.p.h., patrolmen said. No tickets were issued.

CARD OF THANKS To everyone who was so kind and generous with their time, food and care of my family and all the numerous little things that you did for us during my recent absence due to my mother's illness, no words can express our heartfelt gratitude and appreciation. God bless you all. Mrs. George Brashear and family.

Two Injured in Friday Accident

Two persons, one a five-year-old passenger, were treated for minor injuries after an accident at the intersection of Park and Highway 51 at 11:51 a.m. Friday. Drivers were Mrs. Ruth Tunnell Bartlett, 44, Hereford, and LeGrand Morton Sr., 32, car dealer of Friona.

Treated for minor injuries were Mrs. Bartlett, driver of one of the cars, and LeGrand Morton Jr., passenger in the Morton car. Both were released after treatment by physicians. Morton was issued a ticket for failure to grant the right-of-way. Estimated damage to the Bartlett car was $375, and to the Morton car, $350.

Visitor From Germany to Arrive Today

Johann Leybold will arrive in Hereford at 10:30 a.m. today, completing a trip all the way from his home in Nurnberg, Germany, to visit his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Kelly, 704 Blevins.

Leybold's wife visited here in 1956 and died after returning last year. Mrs. Kelly was there at the time. Work began April 17 by Kelly to start the red tape turning for Leybold's visit here. The first project was to have a statement notarized that he will assume responsibility and care of the European.

Leaving from Germany Friday, Leybold was to arrive in Chicago yesterday at 10 a.m. There, a German-speaking Red Cross worker was to meet him at the airport, take him to the Santa Fe station where tickets were already arranged through the Hereford office, and sent on his way with a label tag stating his name and destination.

Leybold speaks no English. Though his visa has been made out for a year visit, Leybold is not expected to remain more than three months, according to Mrs. Kelly. Most of the arrangements for his visit were handled through the local Red Cross chapter, through which several other foreign visitors have been able to reach their destination much easier than taking on the venture alone.

measurements over the county were received yesterday morning. Jack Fortberry, 45 miles northwest, received 1.60 inches Friday night and 1/4 inch Thursday. S. N. Thweatt, Garcia, one inch Friday. Frank Bezner, south of city, had .50 of an inch Thursday. Luther Lesley, 10 miles north, had a spinkie both nights. L. J. Strassus, 14 mile north, got .30 all together. J. T. Gilbreath, 18 miles northeast, got .25 of an inch Friday. Guy Walsee, Summerfield, Tom Draper, south of town, and A. G. Schlabs, southeast of town, all reported no moisture on either night.

The Double K Drive In will re-open tomorrow, according to Ervin Ward, after having a new awning installed.

James Glasscock, who this week held a Youth Revival Week at the First Methodist Church, talked on the topic of Communism before the Kiwanis Club Thursday.

Ben Childers will present the program Monday at the weekly Rotary luncheon. The June attendance for the local civic organization was 30th in the District, according to The Axie, with an 86.70 average, 2.96 below the district average of 89.66.

STOLEN SAFE FOUND—A safe taken from the Dimmitt El Paso Natural Gas office Tuesday night was found by Bud Paetzold Thursday morning about a mile east of his farm home on Austin Road. The safe had been dropped beside a culvert, supposedly the same evening as the theft. Entrance to the safe was made by prying the door off the 200-pound object. Officials of the Dimmitt office say it had contained $5,611 in drafts and checks and $180.04 in cash.

Shown inspecting safe are members of the Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Dept., Deputy Bill McCarver, Deputy L. R. Cherryhomes and Sheriff Charles Skelton. Although a man and his wife watched the entire burglary from their home's window, the incident was not reported until the following morning, and no leads to identification of the two burglars have yet been uncovered. ## Humble Well in Shale Formation

A depth of 5800 feet was reported at the Humble Oil and Refining Co. well Friday evening, and drilling is mainly in shale formations, according to Joe Reinauer. The well, on the Reinauer Bros. property, is located 35 miles west of Hereford near the New Mexico state line.

The present depth is 200 feet more than reported Tuesday. Tuesday's depth was 5600 feet and in dolomite, shale and anhydrite formations. A favorable show of gas was the result of a test at the well earlier in the week. Drilling had been averaging about 300 feet a day, and formations were tested every two feet.

Reinauer said drilling is at a normal rate for the depth, and the formations are running high.

RETURNS HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Bosley returned recently from a vacation to points in Colorado. While in Las Alamos, Colo., they visited with Roger Corbett, formerly of Hereford. Corbett's wife underwent surgery in the hospital on Monday.

TO TOUR STATES

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Reynolds left Saturday night on an extended tour through the north-west states where they will visit friends and fish.

Local Golfers in Amarillo Meet

TWELVE GOLFERS, most of whom saw action in the recent Hereford Tournament, have qualified and are now playing in the seventh annual Amarillo Tournament at the Ross Rogers Golf Course in Amarillo.

Most of them were defeated and forced into the consolation bracket as play got underway Friday.

Only Charles Seed and his partner Danny Elliston playing in the Championship Flight, won in the first round pairings Friday. Seed is the talented Hereford city champion of 1957 who was recently beaten in the City Tourney by Max Draver.

Seed and Elliston downed Donnie Seaman and Don Lackey, both of Borger, two-up.

Wendell Burdine and Joe Kerr met defeat in the third flight, 4-2. Dimmitt's John Etheridge, medalist winner of the 1958 Hereford Tournament, and his partner, John Renner of Friona, met defeat in the second flight play, 6-4.

Joe Butler of Dimmitt and Herb Griffith of Muleshoe saw action in the fifth flight and were stopped, as was Wayne Phillips and Bill Davis.

Hereford's Doc Cowan and his brother-in-law from Anson, Owen Dean, were beaten, 8-4.

Don Massengale, state amateur champion from Jacksboro and Bobby Nichols, Kentucky state titlist from Louisville, were leading in the championship flight as play began Saturday.

Germans...

strength and comfort she can give them," she said.

The trip was the first time Mrs. Brashear had ever been away from her children, although she did take her year-old son Steve.

"It was the first time I've ever been separated from my children, except when I went to the hospital, and then they visited me every day there," she stated.

Her other three children, Carol, 10, Gene, 9, and Tommy, 7, were cared for by friends in Hereford.

"YOU HAVE TO GO through something to find out how wonderful the people in this town really are," she stated, and explained her friends had all the family's clothes washed and ironed, the home, at 301 N. 25 Mile Ave., cleaned, food prepared and even flowers placed in various rooms when she returned Sunday evening.

"They even offered to pay my way over there," she commented.

Mrs. Brashear also visited a Hereford man while in Germany. U. S. Army Capt. Loyd Manjeot, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Manjeot, 122 Ave. E, is stationed with his family at Giessen, Ger.

"The baby wanted Loyd because he was the only man who had spoken English since we had gotten there," she said.

She said Manjeot helped her obtain some baby food and other foods at the military commissary which were either unavailable or too expensive at civilian stores.

She heard over one broadcast by a German station while there that all Americans of Gleesen living in the American-built district were restricted to their homes. This was during the large troop movements brought about, she believes, by the Iraq situation.

Prices in Germany are so high the families are having trouble making a living. Mrs. Brashear said; a quarter pound of coffee (not even as good as American brands, she said) cost 18 marks, or $4.50 in American money, half pound of bananas cost 85 German pennies — or more than an American dollar, a low grade of meat for stew cost three marks and 80 pennies per pound and milk 49 pennies a quart.

She said her brother, a street car conductor who makes 390 marks a month, has to hold down an odd job all the time and his wife, who has a 10-week-old baby, must also do part-time work.

The two-bedroom apartment in which the five-person German family lives in costs 120 marks a month. They had to make a 1,800 downpayment to rent the apartment, insuring its not being rented out from under them, which is a currently custom of that country.

Mrs. Brashear said she had planned to rent a small German car to travel to the various towns in which members of her family lived during her visit there, but found the rental cost too high.

She said the price is $1.50 per day, plus 4 1/2 cents per mile, with an 80-mile minimum, $25 for insurance, and thereafter must pay for the gas, which costs approximately $3.56 a gallon.

ON A BROCHURE of car rentals she brought back with her, an American Chevrolet Belaire was $4.50 per day, 50 mile minimum, $25 insurance, 9 1/2 cents mileage and you pay for gas.

When being checked at customs in Germany, Mrs. Brashear said she was charged three marks for a six-ounce bottle of instant coffee she had in her bag.

One American dollar is evaluated at four marks, 15 pennies in Germany money.

When exchanging $41 for German currency, she was given 170 marks. Not spending any of the 170 marks, she, when about to leave, had to turn in 172.20 marks for the same $41.

She said that had it not been for Capt. Manjeot she would not have been able to cash a $20 traveler check at a bank.

He told her the only such check to carry in that country was the American Express.

Germans evidently cater to the Americans very highly over there. When Mrs. Brashear was attempting to call Capt. Manjeot from another city, and was speaking in German, she said she was unable to make any contact with the American military post where he was stationed.

But, she said, when I called back and spoke in English, I was given the camp in a very short time.

Mrs. Brashear was also accompanied in her visit with her ailing mother by her sister, Angela, who now lives in Oklahoma City.

Also, involving the financial situation in Germany, she said her brother had purchased a semi-automatic clothes washer, of which he was very proud.

Since there are very few water-heaters in that country and almost all water is heated on a stove for very hot water use, the fact that the washer had a built-in water heater was very elaborate there. It rings a bell when the water is heated and rings again when the clothes are to be taken out and run through a ringer — it has no spinning, nor rinsing action.

The washer cost 1,200 marks, or more than $300 in American money.

Research Station For Vegetables

Topic of Meeting

Representatives from 16 counties will gather for a meeting of vegetable growers and other interested persons Tuesday evening in the district courtroom in Dimmitt.

At the meeting plans will be reviewed for a High Plains research program on vegetables, according to County Agent Lefty Thomas.

The county representatives have been invited to the meeting to discuss the need for such a program, Thomas said.

In addition to production, yields and varieties, the station would also provide information concerning insect control and disease control, he added.

Representing the Texas Extension Service will be C. E. Fisher, superintendent of the Spur Experiment Station, who will discuss the proposed program and Joe Cole, horticulturist, who will also discuss the proposal, centering his summary on the past and future of research in the High Plains vegetable program.

The Extension Service called the meeting at request of Texas Hi-Plains Vegetable Council, and pointed out that vegetable production has expanded from fewer than 6,000 acres in 1949 to more than 53,000 acres in 1958.

The service also predicted continued interest and growth in vegetable production in the area, citing that vegetables account for 6.4 per cent of the total crop income of the area and that it is produced on 1.2 per cent of the irrigated land in the area.

Precincts Set Orderly Pattern

At only one of the 10 county Democratic precinct conventions did a debate take place, according to reports by convention chairmen.

Precinct 11, meeting at Central Elementary School, went on record — the first in the county to do so — to officially recognize the faction in the state known as Democrats of Texas.

When a resolution was submitted by Wayne Thomas to go on record denouncing the DOT, the group voted 28 against the resolution and 22 for.

Convention chairmen elected were: Precinct No. 1, Sylvester Slagle; Precinct No. 2, R. L. Pool; Precinct No. 3, Waldron Melton; Precinct No. 4, not reported; Precinct No. 6, Mrs. G. W. Simmons; Precinct No. 7, not reported; Precinct No. 8, Glenn L. Burrus; Precinct No. 9, not reported; Precinct No. 11, Mrs. Q. G. Hill Sr.

Insurance Claims Agents in Town For Hail Damage

So numerous were the hail damage reports resulting from Tuesday afternoon's storm which struck Hereford and traveled south through Dimmitt, the General Adjustment Bureau has called in 23 of its personnel headquarters at 133 West 3rd.

Of the 23 personnel, 18 are damage adjusters and the remaining are experienced office workers. The workers came from four states.

Managing the operation is Cecil Holloway, branch manager of the G. A. B. from Amarillo. G. A. B. handles only capitol stock insurance company claims.

Holloway Friday estimated between 700 and 1,000 building damage claims, including residential and business structures, would be investigated here in Hereford, and 200 to 300 automobiles. Approximately 50 rural buildings covered by the companies in the county were also damaged, he said.

Actually, there were more buildings and automobiles damaged by the storm, but the count by Holloway will give a pretty good estimation on the picture.

He said he would judge the losses per building would average about $200, and between $150 and $250 per automobile. About six to eight weeks are expected to be required before all the claims can be adjusted, he said.

Heaviest damages occurred in the northwest, west and southwest sections of the town, and also in the business district, he said.

Hail stones that fell in the storm Tuesday were reported to have been as large as softballs by many of the city's residents. Hail fell for more than 30 minutes, starting about "pea" size, and increasing in weight and size as the storm progressed.

The central office here is also handling claims of damages occurring in Dimmitt, Holloway said.

Lewis-Bradley Vows Are Read In Church Ceremony

The marriage of Miss Bonnie Ruth Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Arthur Lewis, and J. Robert Bradley, son of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Bradley, was solemnized Sunday, July 20, at 5:30 p.m. in the First Methodist Church.

The double-ring ceremony was read by the Reverend Claude E. Canterbury, Episcopal Archdeacon of the Missionary District of North Texas.

Altar arrangements of Emerald Palms, white gladioli and daisies were illuminated by graduating wedding candles rising from candelabrum. Pews were marked by lighted candles down the center aisle leading to the altar. Candelights were Jov Story and Troy Don Moore.

Mrs. Bill Tolbert of Vega sang "Because," "All For You" and "The Wedding Prayer," and was accompanied by Miss Carol Ann Newell, organist, who played a concert of wedding selections preceding the ceremony and the traditional wedding marches.

Mrs. Glenn Wilson, attended her sister as matron of honor, and bridesmaids were Mrs. Norman Bartlett of Hobbs, N. M., sister of the bride, Judy Bradley, sister of the bridegroom, and Nancy Story.

They wore identical dresses, made of folds of pale yellow lace with full organza panel in the back. They wore matching mitts and half-hats of yellow organdy rose petals with brow veils, and carried crescent bouquets of white daisies. Debra Wilson, the bride's niece, served as flower girl and carried a white mullin basket filled with white and yellow rose petals.

Mr. Lewis escorted his daughter to the altar and gave her in marriage. The bridal gown, of imported lace and tulle over satin, was designed with a fitted lace bodice having a wide sheer yoke finished with a choker-type lace collar, and long petal-point sleeves.

The voluminous skirt of ruffled tulle was dramatized by a lace tunic that came to a point in front, and fell into a full panel with train in the back. Her finger-tip veil of illusion was held by a crown of illusion, dotted with seed pearls and sequins. She carried a white satin prayer book, topped with a white cattail orchid and surrounded with butterfly roses and stephanotis, and streamered with white satin ribbon and net.

The bride's mother wore a mauve-colored lace sheath fashioned with long waistline, finished with a matching satin band with bow in front. She wore a matching feather hat with white accessories.

The bridegroom's mother wore a champagne lace chemise with low neck and short sleeves, caught below the knees with rosebuds. Their corsages were of yellow Finch rosebuds.

Following the wedding, a reception was held in St. Thomas Episcopal Parish Hall.

The bride's table was laid in white organdy over yellow and centered with the attendant's bouquets of yellow and white daisies. Baskets of flowers in the bride's chosen colors were used about the rooms.

The four tiered wedding cake was topped with yellow sugar-rose and centered with a miniature bridal couple. The top layer was removed and reserved for the first wedding anniversary.

Wheat Support Price Raised

COLLEGE STATION — The U. S. Department of Agriculture has announced that because of an increase in the wheat parity price, the national average support price to producers for 1958-crop wheat will be $1.82 per bushel — an increase of four cents per bushel above the "advance" minimum price for this year's crop announced in April, 1957.

The 1958-crop average support of $1.82 per bushel compares to a national average support of $2 per bushel for the 1957 crop. When the minimum price was set in accordance with "favorable pricing" provisions of law, the USDA announced that the support price would be redetermined as of July 1, 1958, the beginning of the 1958-crop wheat marketing year, on the basis of the current wheat parity price and the per cent level of support as indicated by the relationship of the total supply of wheat available to a determined normal supply for the marketing year.

The July wheat parity price of $2.43 per bushel is higher than the estimated parity price of $2.37 per bushel used to determine the minimum price in April, 1957.

No change is indicated in the 75-per cent level of support announced in April 1957. At a support level of 75 per cent of parity, the July 1958 parity price calls for a 1958-crop national average support at four cents per bushel higher than the minimum support of $1.78 per bushel as announced last year.

This level is determined in a variable range from 75 to 90 per cent of parity on the basis of wheat supply relationships. The total supply of wheat available for the 1958-59 marketing year is now estimated to be 187.9 per cent of the normal supply. The available total supply is considerably above earlier estimates when the total supply was estimated to be 141.8 per cent of the normal supply.

CONFUSED SIGN PAINTERS WHEAT RIDGE, Colo. (AP) — The county commissioners voted to name a street in this Denver suburb in honor of an early settler named Bolsom.

Southwest Plans to End Sting of Bowl Setback

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

DALLAS (AP) — The Southwest Conference has a bone to pick with the country this fall — it wants to atone for the worst showing any league ever made in major bowl games.

The conference won't have as much experience as in 1957, but the sophomore crop is expected to be about the best in history and don't be surprised if there is a better intersectional record and bowl record when the dust has settled on the 1958 campaign.

Last year-end, all three of the conference's teams in bowl play took lickings — Texas A&M falling to Tennessee in the Gator Bowl, Texas losing overwhelmingly to Mississippi in the Sugar Bowl and Rice taking a thumping from Navy in the Cotton Bowl.

It brought the conference's intersectional record for 1957 to 14 victories, 10 losses and 2 ties. That's not very good when it is considered that the league won only two games from the powers — Arkansas beating Mississippi and Texas Christian downing Ohio State — and lost to Duke, Oklahoma, Notre Dame, Tennessee and Navy.

This fall Oklahoma, Duke, Army, Ohio State and Mississippi are the big guns on the conference's intersectional slate. The league will have to beat a majority of those worthies to feel it has atoned for some of its 1957 reverses.

There will be 118 lettermen on the seven squads that roll out Sept. 1 for the 1958 campaign. That will be 12 less than were on hand last year.

Teams with the most experience will be Texas Christian and Southern Methodist, with 20 lettermen each. Rice, the defending conference champion, comes up with 17; Texas, which finished second, will have 19, including five from 1956, and Texas A&M, which wound up third, will show 16. Baylor has 14 lettermen, Arkansas 12.

It appears TCU, Texas and SMU will be the top three in pre-season ratings. The Christians are ranked high because of experience and because they may have a strong passing attack to go with a riotous running game — something sorely needed last year.

Texas adherents say their team shouldn't be expected to be as good as last year because of some terrific losses and a mediocre sophomore crop. But the Longhorns look very strong in the backfield.

Southern Methodist gets its boost to the top because it has the nation's top passer in Don Meredith and the nation's No. 1 kicker in Dave Sherer. Also, it has two outstanding sophomore backfield prospects in Glynn Gregory and Frank Jackson.

Some think Texas A&M, despite its lack of manpower, should be ranked with the best, and Rice isn't considered a weak sister by any means. Arkansas and Baylor are rebuilding. Baylor saw 22 lettermen depart. And the Golden Bears were a flat last in 1957.

Rice's hopes appear to ride heavily on what Larry Dueltt does to replace those fine quarterbacks of 1957 — All-America King Hill and Frank Ryan. Dueltt was a sophomore last year and played halfback. But he has the makings of a standout quarterback.

Lawn Mower Safety Urged

COLLEGE STATION — A lawn mower can be a helpful and faithful servant, but it may turn into a dangerous machine unless a few safety precautions are observed, warned W. L. Ulich, extension agricultural engineer. Several injuries have occurred recently from objects being thrown by the mower, Ulich points out. Nails, wire, rocks and other objects can be picked up by the mower and thrown at tremendous speeds, causing serious bodily injury. To reduce the possibility of such injury, he advises going over the lawn before mowing to remove foreign matter and debris.

Start the mower on level ground, making sure your feet are away from the cutter blade or bar, he cautioned. Keep the machine firmly on the ground when starting by placing one foot on the deck and holding the handle with one hand, and don't leave the mower running unattended where it might be a temptation to children and others who don't know how to handle it, he added.

Be sure children and pets stay away from the machine when you're mowing, the engineer said. Keep a steady footing and balance when mowing on inclines, and don't make adjustments, remove clogging grass or sticks, or reach in front of the mower when the engine is running he advised. Always disconnect the spark plug wire when making adjustments and keep hands, feet and loose clothing away from moving blades, reels, motor belts and exposed chains, he added.

When storing the mower, he said, remove the spark plug or spark plug wire to prevent inquisitive youngsters from starting the machine.

Privacy Threatened By Air Audience IT'S: HER POINT OF VIEW

By BETTY BABIONE

The now-famous helicopter has been running the weather and politics a close third in the category of most-talked-about subjects around here lately.

The complaints I've heard in regards to the local whirlybird are a little different from those reported by Jim Gillentine in the Bull Column — he reiterated the opinion of others who think the copter flies too low, making distressing, distracting and otherwise disturbing noise (waking people from naps, etc.).

But the noise doesn't bother some people nearly so much as the invasion on their privacy. Those who enjoy sunbathing in the seclusion of a fenced-in yard or other spots ordinarily hidden from public view now find their privacy threatened by the possibility of an air audience. As in photography, timing and exposure are important things to be considered in sunbathing and the problem lately, with the latter, is when to time the overexposure.

Last Monday was the starting day for swim classes for pre-school children, sponsored jointly by the Red Cross and the municipal pool. Mrs. O. G. Hill Jr. is directing the program, and there is a new wrinkle in the procedure this year. There are almost as many mamas enrolled as there are children, and the main point of the instruction is to teach the adults to help their children as the little ones get acquainted with the water and take their first steps toward learning to swim.

Ralph Aitchley is helping Pat with the official instruction. The class lasts five more days, and I plan to wander by one morning and observe the group in action. I think that all those mamas working with all those small fry might prove highly interesting to watch, and perhaps I'll have more to say about it next week.

And speaking of swim classes: there are several members of the early morning class who were mightily offended that J. Gillentine referred to their group as the "old folks." Hap Cavness was so indignant that when I saw him, he was getting ready to march down and tell Mr. G. a thing or three (all in good humor of course!).

Connie Hopson is home from Chicago for a brief stay with her family in Hereford. Connie has finished her dramatic training in the windy city, and after her return there, she plans to travel on to New York City for further study and (she hopes) some practical experience. Good luck Connie! We'll be watching for you on TV!

Connie reports the last she heard of Mary and Ted Linnartz is that they are presently in Carolina (North or South — we can't remember which.) As you recall, Ted was a dental technician in Hereford for a while and Mary did a little bit of everything (she, being one of those rare persons who do lots of things well). They were a popular couple here and have been missed.

Gotta run now — it seems harder and harder to meet a deadline these days. Guess all the Carnival gossip and other assorted item will just have to wait till next time.

Will Hereford Be Out Front Tomorrow?

Experiment Station Could Be Vanguard of Economic Growth

The proposed meeting on vegetable research, scheduled Tuesday at Dimmitt, is one which should demand tremendous attention in this territory. The program, if properly carried out, could most easily revamp the entire economy of the High Plains Irrigation belt.

Estimated on normal price returns, the 53,000 acres planted in vegetables this year will yield approximately $36 million, according to Extension Service estimates. Growth of interest in the field has been tremendous, jumping from 6,000 acres in 1949 to 53,000 acres in 1958—an increase of almost 1000 per cent in less than 10 years.

Right now, Hereford is the vegetable hub of the High Plains. This immediate area produces approximately half of the vegetables of the territory and, in addition, local growers control large amounts of the acreage in other areas. Hereford is also a processing and marketing center for Plains vegetables. The territory here

Will Texas Have 2-Party System

The Republican party held its first primary election in Deaf Smith County Saturday. The number of people voting in the primary was not heavy, but significance of the primary itself could be important in the parade of things to come.

Many Democrats, in fact, were happy to see the Republicans hold a primary, chiefly because the growing number of Republicans in the area has become strong enough for the Republican minority to swing a balance of power in close races in the Democratic primaries. By the same token, some Republicans who voted in the primary Saturday were a little bit disappointed at not having a complete list of nominees.

All in all, however, operation of a Republican primary seems to be a good situation. In more industrialized areas, Republicans have descended on Texas in droves as plants moved in from the Eastern states. Splits within Democratic ranks, along with general protest against federal policies, has twice seen Texas lined up in the Republican ranks in recent years.

Does this mean that Texas is on the road to becoming a two-party state? Only time can answer the question but, in case two strong parties do develop in Texas, the situation would appear to be a healthy one. It would place Texas in a greater bargaining advantage with both federal parties, and might well result in stronger candidates for state, county and precinct offices. Where the primary has heretofore been the end of political campaigning, it would, under two parties, be the starting point.

Since World War II and the death of Franklin Roosevelt, Texas and the "Solid South," have been in somewhat of a turmoil. Most of the South will probably once again become solid but Texas, due to immigration through industrial expansion, may be an exception. If the result is two strong parties, who can complain? The system, after all, has represented the bulwark of American politics and growth since the very days in which our nation was established.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Mr. Fullwood Proposed On Tucumcari Mountain

By MRS. R. L. CRISWELL

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Fullwood of 206 McKinley St. have the distinction of living in the only adobe house in Hereford.

This Spanish-style house of six rooms and a full basement is the product of Mr. Fullwood, as he not only invented the machine he used in making the adobe blocks, but he also made the blocks and constructed the house.

The walls are 14 inches thick and the partitions are 10 inches. There is also an eight-inch layer on the ceiling for insulation. This floor for comfort, both summer and winter. Nothing ever freezes, and a window is always kept open for ventilation. It seems so solid, and the large basement sounds as if it would be a wonderful place to go when we have storms, or even tornadoes.

"I came to Deaf Smith County in 1891 with my parents," said Mr. Fullwood. "We lived at Dean, a small post office about half way between Amarillo and La Plata. My mother was Postmaster there.

"One morning at about four and my father ran a broom o'clock, the sheriff, Ed Connell, awakened my parents and told them he had located a man he wanted to arrest, but as he was camped in a canyon, he would like to wait there until daylight before making the arrest.

"Mother was a very frugal woman and was very proud of her canning and preserving, and she had learned to make tomato wine. She had made a small keg, and she gave the sheriff a cane straw to drink from the keg and told him to try it out. He drank so much he was unable to make the arrest, much to his chagrin.

"My father bought a tract of land near Hereford, and we moved on it and built a half dugout to live in. It was three or four hundred yards wide and one mile long.

"He built a surface tank of topsoil to use for irrigating a garden. We planted watermelons around the tank, and you have never seen such melons. We brought one to the Hereford Reporter Office (now The Brand) which weighed 78 pounds. This was in 1901.

"In the fall of the same year, we moved to Bard City, N. M. factory there. There is quite an art to making brooms, as well as other things for everyday living. We learned to know by the feel, of the amount of broomcorn it would take to make a certain weight of brooms, and the weight would vary only a few ounces per dozen.

"There were five different weights, 22, 24, 28 and 36 pounds to the dozen. These were parlor, regular, irregular and warehouse weights. The broomcorn is gathered and separated into three parts — handlebrush, for the center of the broom, turnover made the shoulders, and hurl was used to cover all this and make it into a smooth product.

"The broomcorn was gathered and tied into bundles of normal size, then dipped in an aniline dye and placed in the bleaching house, which was made of solid stone with no windows, to dry and bleach. Sulphur was crumbled over kindling to make a dense smoke, and this made the corn a uniform color.

"We had six men working in the factory, and each would make ten dozen brooms in a 10-hour day. We used a Baltimore Stitchee to stitch the brooms, and we would stitch 100 dozen brooms in ten hours. There were very few men who could make the diamond stitch as shown in the picture. This was usually done only on fancy brooms.

"We used velvet, silvered wire and the finest broom straw to make the fancy handles, and when there was a wedding, we would make a fancy broom for the bride with her name woven in the straw on the handle.

"During the county fair, father made a float and won first prize in the parade. We had a part of the machinery on the drey, and I made whisk brooms and my little sister threw them to the crowd as we drove along.

"My best girlfriend wore a broomstraw dress and drove the team to the dray. She wore a high top hat, and her dress had a wide Bertha collar made of the broomstraw and a long skirt, something like a Hawaiian grass skirt. I think I fell in love with her that day.

"The Staked Plains has always been known for its high winds and blizzards. My father invented a sod-cutting machine, which was pulled out on the prairie to cut sod to make windbreaks for the cattle.

"This machine had four blades on a roller, and cut blocks of sod 12" x 4". One horse could not shake it. It was so heavy that it took four good horses or mules to pull it, and it was a heavy pull then. Sod blocks of this type were used in Kansas and other plains states to build houses, but as far as I know, they were used only for windbreaks for livestock here.

"I will tell you a bit of Indian lore which happens to be near here. On the XIT Line Camp in Trujillo there is a draw with a solid sandstone rock bottom. Here, the Indians dug wells in this soft stone to conserve water for the long hot summer and drought. These wells were dug fairly close together, and there were eight or ten of them. On the walls were pictures that the Indians drew.

"I especially remember one that had an Indian mounted on his horse with his bow and arrow drawn, ready to shoot. There were different pictures on the walls of each well. It is presumed that the Indians kept the wells covered with buffalo skins to keep the water from evaporating, as well as to keep out small animals that might fall in and drown.

"Yes, we did our courting in a buggy and went for long rides. Our first automobile ride was almost disastrous for us. Another guy I knew took us for a ride in the country. We were about nine miles out when it broke down and we had to walk home. Of course it had to be late in the evening, and we were really late after we walked the nine miles home.

"Several couples had gone buggy riding to Tucumcari Mountain, and my girl and I decided to climb it. We crawled on our hands and knees and pulled each other up until we got to the top. I thought if she would climb a mountain with me, she would go with me anywhere. I proposed and was accepted on the top of Tucumcari Mountain, and it was a wise choice and a happy one with no regrets, for we have had a wonderful life together.

"We were married in a home wedding by the Rev. Joe Hedgepath of the Methodist Church." Mrs. Fullwood said. "In those FINEST MADE—"Diamond stitch" brooms, which very few men were capable of making in the early 1900's, were a product of the Progressive Broom Factory, which was owned by the father of R. B. Fullwood in Bard City, N.M. The "diamond stitch" was put on only the finest brooms.

QUESTION OF THE WEEK

Citizens Think Stores Should Close Later

Do you think the retail stores should stay open later in the evenings during the summer?

MRS. CLARENCE MORRISON—I think it would be a shame if the clerks couldn't go home, but I would certainly appreciate them staying open later. I can see the clerks' point of view, but living on a farm as I do, I can also see the farmers' point of view. It's very seldom that we get into town before any of the stores close.

W. W. ANGEL—That is just up to the retail stores. I think they should decide that for themselves. I would stay open as long as I thought I would get some business.

MRS. D. R. HOLT—Yes, I do think they should stay open, at least until 7 p.m. The main thing is getting parts for machinery that might break down. The farmers have to wait until 8 the next morning to get parts, and that time could be spent in the fields.

ROSS JO LANDERS—Well, it wouldn't be necessary for all of them to stay open, but maybe the department stores and the hardware stores, etc., for the benefit of the farmers. As it is, if we have a breakdown after closing time, we have to wait until the next morning to get parts.

MRS. ELMER COMBS—We run the Westway store and sometimes we have to stay open until at least 9:30. If we didn't, I don't know what the farmers around here would do, so I think the stores that deal in parts for farms and other stores related to a farmer's needs ought to stay open later during the summer.

VIRGIE DODSON—Yes, I think it would be very considerate for the stores to stay open because so many of our citizens work later, and it would bring in a considerable amount of business to the stores as well as being a neighborhood act.

MRS. ART LEWIS—Yes, I think they should stay open late at least two or three nights out of the week. I know how late most of the farmers get home, and it would be a great help to them.

JIM McDOWELL—Yes, I think they should for the benefit of the farmers, and I think that during the harvest season, the stores would show a definite profit.

EDUCATION MEETING HELD

The Vega Board of Education met in regular session Wednesday, July 9. The building committee made a report and were instructed to proceed with the erection of the contemplated band building, which is now being constructed east of the school gymnasium. This building will house the band, choral program, and all public school music classes. The committee will not proceed with its plans for additional construction until a quorum of the board is present to express approval of its present plans to build an additional teacherage. The committee was commended for its many hours of planning and work in making available the band building, which will enable the school to have a centralized library for the first six grades in rooms presently being used for the music program. As the state accreditation division plans a visit to the Vega schools in the fall, it is essential that the library be provided in order to meet the state accreditation standards with regard to libraries.—THE VEGA ENTERPRISE.

BURGLARS IN EARTH

Three rifles, three shotguns, four pistols and a radio were taken in Earth Saturday night in a burglary of Stephen's Hardware. County officers Elson McNeese and V. L. Smith Jr., who investigated the break-in, said the firm was entered through a back window. The intruders broke out two panes in the window and crawled through, the officers said. Inside, they pried open a showcase and took the pistols. The rifles and shotguns were taken from another showcase. The burglars left via the back door, officers said. It was not known whether any ammunition was taken in the burglary. Missing after the break in were three .22 calibre rifles, three 12, 16 and 410 gauge shotguns, three calibre pistols, three .25, .32 and .38 calibre revolvers and a radio with an alligator cover. County officers were continuing their investigation Wednesday.—LAMB COUNTY LEADER (Littlefield).

HOT SALESMEN COOLED OFF

Advertising sales personnel representing an Amarillo television were detained temporarily by Dumas City Police officers Friday afternoon, following a complaint by officials of North Plains Telephone Company that the men were soliciting local businesses by telephone, in violation of certain federal regulations. The two men were reportedly warned by telephone company employees about their improper actions, but at the time they denied knowledge of such a law. They were picked up by city officers when telephone officials later found them to be continuing their contacts by use of a second local telephone. As explained by the assistant chief of police, Frank Hudson, federal law prohibits solicitation of business by telephone unless that instrument and service is contracted for that specific purpose.—MOORE COUNTY NEWS.

The BOOTLEG Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his hindwood farm is discussing either the foreign policy or the farm policy of this country this week, it's hard to tell which.

Dear editor:

According to a lengthy, thoughtful newspaper article I read last night, there more than likely won't be any new farm legislation this year, and I was discussing this with some of my neighbors this morning and one of them said it was a good idea.

"That's fine," he said. "There's no use in passing brand new farm legislation every year. Don't hardly have time to get used to the one we got when they bring out another one."

I can't agree with this idea. In the first place, it's unfair to the farmer, or rather it's unconscientious. As I see it, the farmer is just as important, if not as expensive, as foreign countries, and you don't catch this country trying to get along on the same foreign policy year after year, do you?

I'm not saying the farmer is entitled to as many changes in the farm policy as the world is to changes in our foreign policy, which as I understand it changes on the average of once every day and twice on Sundays, but what kind of people would the world think we had in Washington if we wound up on the last day of December with the same foreign policy we started out with on the first day of January. The same thing even applies from Monday to Friday.

Anybody can lay out a satisfactory foreign policy on peaceful days, just as it's easy to have a satisfactory farm program when prices are high, the weather good, and you've got an unlimited market for all you can grow, but you have no idea how worrisome it is to lay out a foreign policy in the morning and have to change it by the time the evening newscast comes out. There's nothing wrong with our foreign policy, it's just that the rest of the world isn't made to fit it.

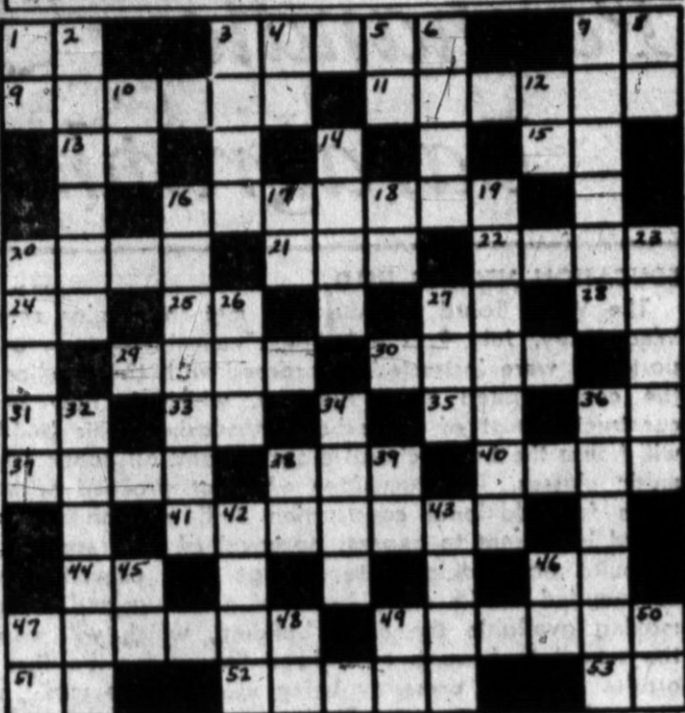

Washington has already seen that what its intelligence agents told it today can be one hundred per cent wrong tomorrow, and a friendly dictator who took a hundred million dollars today with a cordial grin can turn up the day after with an empty pocket and a scowl. Naturally we've got to be able to change our foreign policy to meet such a situation, or otherwise we'd naturally be accused of being caught napping. A foreign policy that can't be changed every time we make a mistake would be one of the most embarrassing things on earth.

The same thing is true with our farm policies. You've got to keep changing 'em year after year, I'm not suggesting day after day, or it'll only result in standardizing the confusion. Confusion isn't nearly as bad if it keeps changing.

We live in changing times, and we've got to keep our foreign policies and our farm policies changing too. Well, maybe times don't change really, but as long as Washington doesn't know it, and every day is a brand new one to it as far as what's happening in the rest of the world is concerned, you've got to keep hopping around.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

SAFE?—In the picture it appears that Berger second baseman Billy Mitchell is out at first by a good margin. However, he is safe on an error by the Hereford second baseman John Buck, who bobbled the ball and threw wild to first baseman Randy Dowell.  BILLINGS, Mont. (AP) — There are a lot of people who might have trouble proving they are married.
 Clerk of Court Andrew Palo has between 10,000 and 20,000 original marriage certificates that have never been turned over to the owners. Some are as old as 1887, before Montana became a state. They run into the 1930s.
 Palo explained that years ago the Clerk of the District Court kept the original marriage certificates on file. Then, in the 1920s, a Montana attorney gen-eral ruled that the original licenses be delivered to the owners.

Management Of Residues Change

By MAX SCHRADER

The management of crop residues following the harvest of a crop has changed considerably during the past years.

On irrigated land, all stubble was formerly plowed under after the harvest. It was felt that benefit could only be secured if it was put entirely underground where it could decay.

It is now known that turning it under doesn't actually get the decomposition of residues that other methods are able to get. Most irrigation farmers have discovered that the results are much better when they shred and then chop with an offset or tandem disk.

This mixes the residues and the soil close to the surface, leaving it open and porous and more able to absorb any rain we might get. Natural decay is speeded up by the presence of air and moisture close to the surface. Nitrogen fertilizer can be added to further speed up this action if deep plowing is to be carried out later.

The object of the dryland farmer in handling his stubble is different from that of the irrigation farmer. The dryland farmer knows that this residue should remain on the surface if he is going to get the protection from wind erosion that he needs.

He, unlike the irrigation farmer, isn't sure of an equal amount of residue the following year. Moisture, to him, is unsure and of great importance. The treatment of residues means a great deal more to him.

The dryland farmer wants to prolong decomposition and the disintegration of his protective residues. For maximum protection, he will use sweeps or other equipment which will work the soil and disturb the residues as little as possible.

Mr. Van Doren of the Bushland Experiment Station states that stubble mulch farming has proven to be the most effective means found in protecting the soil and conserving moisture. He also states that in fields where stubble mulching has been carried out, the production will average 15 per cent greater.

GREASY BEND, Okla. — Mrs. Fannette Thompson, a pioneer settler in this community, recalls how the name was given.

She says that the first settler wasn't very neat and that the community was on the bend of the Washita River — thus Greasy Bend.

Household Scrapbook

Home-Made Cement

A cement can be made that will mend almost anything around the home by mixing 1 quart of wood ashes, 1/2 cup of table salt, and enough water to give proper consistency. The dark appearance at first will afterwards turn almost white.

Plant Growth

Mix and dissolve thoroughly 1 tablespoonful of epsom salts and 1/2 gallon of old water. Pour this solution over the roots of the plants and it will hasten their growth.

Enlarged Pores

A good remedy for enlarged pores around the chin and nose is bathing with a little lukewarm water and borax.

Corks

If a cork breaks and falls into a bottle, put enough ammonia into the bottle to float the cork and put it aside for a few days. The ammonia will either eat or destroy enough of the cork to permit its easy removal.

Garden Fertilizer

Too much fertilizer on the garden is almost as bad as too little. It is better to give several light applications, which are thoroughly worked in, than one real heavy treatment.

Red Ink Stains

To remove red ink stains from white cloth try using ammonia and water.

Shade Springs

If the spring of the window shade roller is weak and the shade will not roll to the top, rewind it without removing it. Coax the shade up as far as possible, and then pass the lower end over the top of the roller from the front several times, or until sufficiently tight.

Parsley

When parsley is to be used for a garnish, chop it very fine, place in a cloth, squeeze the cloth tightly and hold under the cold water faucet for a minute. Squeeze again until all the water is out.

Tender Hands

If you have tender hands that are subject to calluses when using a broom or anything with a handle, cover the upper part of the handle with any soft material, sewing it firmly, and tacking the lower end of the material to the handle.

Beauty at Home

By Lynn Carter

Q. What comments do you have to make on the care of an oily skin?
A. An oily skin requires more supervision during the hot summer months, and a sensible daily routine consisting at least two soap-and-water washings, followed by chilled astringents. The pores secrete more wastes in hot weather, and must, therefore, be cleansed more frequently — otherwise collected impurities will start a fine crop of ugly blackheads or whiteheads. Make extra-good use of that complexion brush!

Q. How can I reduce the effect of a jutting chin?
A. By use of a darker shade of foundation makeup on it than on the rest of the face.

Q. What exercise will help to slenderize my midriff?
A. Lying flat on back, arms at ease, slowly raise one leg — knee rigid, heel extended. Try to raise it to right angle of body. Slowly lower it back to floor, and repeat with other leg. Keep your entire spine resting on floor throughout exercise.

Q. How can I remove rough skin from the heels and balls of my feet?
A. After soaking feet in a bath, rub the tough spots with a soft towel — and some of the skin will rub off. Then massage the feet, especially the rough areas, with a good body lotion. Once or twice weekly, massage an oily cream into the heels and toes and wear a pair of heel mits while sleeping. This should help you within a couple of weeks.

Q. What shade of fingernail polish is best for me?
A. The one which is, of course, most becoming to you. A simple guide for basic experimenting is: Brunettes usually need blue or rosy reds; blondes and redheads are flattered by the yellow reds; women with ruddy complexions may use a sun-warm red or rose to subdue their skin tone.

Q. How can I make up to help subdue a nose that is entirely too wide?
A. Blend some darker-than-skin-tone foundation along the sides of the nose, and a lighter shade down the center. This will subdue the sides, and bring out the center.

Q. What do you think of colored polish on the toenails?
A. All right — but only if you are fortunate enough to have pretty toes and feet! Remember — color draws attention!

Q. I have what some persons call a "box face," that is, it is almost square in shape. What is my most flattering hairstyle?
A. You should wear curls or soft waves above your brow to add the needed height to your features. And brush your hair up and back at the sides, and avoid a flat top.

"50% OF A SPORTSMAN'S WORRIES ARE OVER IF HE HAS A FREEZER TO PRESERVE HIS CATCHES!"

SAYS Mr. Lee Pool,
924 WEST FIRST STREET,
MULESHOE, TEXAS

What better "insurance" for a good catch than a home freezer, as Mr. Pool, a partner in an insurance firm, testifies. Says sportsman Pool, "When I get home with fish or game, regardless of the hour, I can immediately put the catch in my freezer and preserve its fine quality. One of my great joys in hunting and fishing is sharing of the fish I catch and the game I shoot, all year, with friends, relatives and neighbors." Whether or not you're a sportsman, you'll like the fine way an electric food freezer preserves the flavor and freshness of foods. Ask anyone who owns an electric home freezer.

Grasshoppers Are Grass Barometers?

Have you ever thought of grasshopper populations as barometers of range conditions?

According to a recent U. S. Dept. of Agriculture publication, differences in population levels are related to differences in the amount of perennial-grass cover, as found by USDA entomologist N. J. Nerney.

Observations of range grasshoppers on the San Carlos Apache Indian Reservation in Arizona from 1953-56 show range management doesn't destroy grasshoppers, but it increases the perennial-grass cover which in turn reduces the amount of succulent annuals.

Many hopper species prefer succulents as their food, which is also essential to maximum egg production. Good rangeland management also reduces the amount of competition between insects and livestock for the available forage, the article stated.

Machen, Busley Families Hold Picnic Lunch Reunion

By MRS. S. N. THWEATT

The McKenzie Park at Lubbock was the site for a reunion of the Machen and Busley families. This was the first time the complete family of six had gathered in about 42 years. There were between 40 to 45 who attended the picnic lunch.

The family included Mrs. Josie Busley of Friona, Mr. and Mrs. Tim Brook of Morton, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Curry of Lubbock, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Machen of Snyder and Mr. and Mrs. Minor Machen and children of Oklahoma City.

Those of the Busley family were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Brown and Larry of Rhea, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Coleman and children, Gary and Cinda, of Friona, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Mount and family, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Brown and Joe, Mr. and Mrs. David Busley and family, all of Lubbock and Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Busley.

Mrs. Josie Busley visited in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Bruce Coleman, over the weekend.

Eldred and Floyd Brown were in Amarillo Monday on business.

Mr. and Mrs. S. N. Thweatt spent Monday at the cattle sale in Amarillo, where they bought a calf. Mr. and Mrs. S. N. Thweatt were in Muleshoe Saturday on business.

N. A. Brown and sons lost about 50 acres of soil bank barley last week in a fire. Cause of the fire is thought to have been sparks from a highway mower. The Browns have already reseeded the land.

J. T. Gwinn attended the funeral services of Tiny Magness of Friona Friday in Friona. Mr. Magness was killed in an airplane accident 15 miles northwest of Friona. Roger Brown has just recovered from the measles.

Garry Coleman was ill last week and received treatment for hay fever, but he is reported to be improving now.

Charles Hoover lost about 200 acres of cover crop in a fire Monday. Cause of the fire is unknown.

The Browns plowed their land to try to prevent other fires.

The S. N. Thweatts received word from the W. L. Thompsons of Peirre, S. D., last week. They reported crops and grass in good condition there and the wheat is about ready to harvest.

The Thompson reunion will be held Aug. 9 and 10, either at Friona or Bovina.

TEARS FOR GINGER—Mr. and Mrs. Jess Carter, 407 Union Ave., are shown just after taking their one-year-old puppy from a Hereford Volunteer Fireman who had brought it from their smoking home. Fire broke out in the kitchen while the Carters were at church Sunday morning and Ginger, the only occupant of the home, was overcome by the smoke and died of asphyxiation. An insurance adjuster estimated Friday morning about $8,000 damages occurred to the house and contents from flames and smoke. The Carters have moved into an apartment until repairs, which includes a new roof, can be made. (Staff Photo)

Stuart. Booked for Sunday and Monday.

Soil Is Rich if Toadstools Grow

If your lawn is filled with toadstools, it's a pretty good indication the soil underneath is rich in organic matter and is fully satisfactory for a lawn. A recent U. S. Dept. of Agriculture article stated:

The growth of toadstools doesn't mean something is wrong with the soil — it just means you're going to want to do something about the lawn's appearance. A little extra lime over the area where the toadstools appear will sometimes help, but the best weapon is a long bamboo pole. Just sweep the pole across the surface of the grass and you can knock over a lot of toadstools in a short time.
