Season's first snowfall hits Hereford

By KIMBERLY THOGMARTIN
Staff Writer

While streets and roads remained covered this morning by the season's first snowfall, only a few non-injury accidents were reported by law enforcement authorities.

Hereford and Walcott schools were in session today and it was generally business as usual this morning, though streets were slick and traffic moved slowly.

KPAN Radio reported slightly less than one inch of snow on the ground this morning. It began falling late Tuesday morning and ended sometime in the night. Weather observers in the western part of the county said the ground was well covered after an estimated two inches of snow fell from the skies.

Details were not available on the two area accidents being investigated at presstime this morning, but apparently no injuries resulted from either mishap. Hereford Police Tuesday were called to North Highway 385 near Sugarland Mall where a semi-truck jackknifed. Department of Public Safety troopers were handling a one-car rollover on East Highway 60 few miles outside of Hereford.

Ice on roads was expected to melt by this afternoon, with much sunshine and high in the middle 30s forecast. Forecasters are calling for 10 hours of sunshine Thursday and highs in the low 40s.

The high temperature recorded Tuesday was 32 degrees. Tuesday night's low was 27 degrees, KPAN reported.

According to the Associated Press, weather officials are warning that the state's first winter storm could stick around for awhile.

"It looks like we're getting ready to have some winter weather," Don Mankin, a meteorologist with the National Weather's Service in Fort Worth, said Tuesday night.

"This is the first threat of frozen precipitation. I would imagine we'll see much more of this. It's December, and anything can happen in December."

Snow fell over parts of the Panhandle Tuesday while freezing rain, drizzle or light rain dominated the weather picture elsewhere across the state.

The precipitation was triggered by warm, moist Gulf of Mexico air that rode up over colder air trapped at the surface.

John Boyd, a meteorologist with Weather Center, a private weather forecasting company, said areas of the state as far south as Austin could also see traces of freezing rain and snow.

After the storm clears through the

The sun woke up to a white landscape this morning in northern Texas, including to this scene at the public golf course. Slightly less than one inch of snow was recorded to have fallen locally prior to this morning. No more flakes are predicted in the immediate forecast.

Santa Claus still taking requests

Children interested in expressing their gift wishes to Santa Claus have until Friday, Dec. 14 to send their letters to the Brand, which is forwarding them to the North Pole.

This annual service includes printing those present requests in the Brand either on Sunday, Dec. 24 or during the preceding week.

"This sure helps me out during the Christmas rush," Claus commented late last month. "It helps me cut down on overtime for my elves here at the North Pole and lets me have time to get my reindeer and sleigh ready for my Christmas Eve visits..."

"Be good, boys and girls, and mind your parents. Watch for me on Christmas Eve...Ho, Ho, Ho!"

Police arrest four on Tuesday

Local police officers made four arrests Tuesday, one for possession of a prohibitive weapon, the law enforcement agency reported this morning.

The Texas Employment Commission, located at 403 W. Seventh St., was the victim of vandalism sometime Monday night. At 8 a.m. Tuesday, the office reported its front glass door had been broken - probably by a B-B pellet - sometime since the previous afternoon.

The criminal mischief was valued at $250, police said. Meanwhile, police investigated two minor thefts and a case of harassment Tuesday. The other arrests were for drunk in control of a motor vehicle, inability to pay a fine and a warrant charge.

TUESDAY'S HIGH: 32 (normal: 53 record: 73 (1938))

OVERNIGHT LOW: 27 (normal: 27 record: 4 (1972))

OUTLOOK: Clear tonight with a low in the middle teens and light winds. Thursday is to be fair with a high in the lower 40s. Winds are to be 5 to 10 miles per hour from the southwest.

Jail bids again exceed funds

By REED PARSELL
Managing Editor

For the second time this year, bids for proposed renovation and addition work at Deaf Smith County Jail have exceeded the allotted funds.

Tuesday afternoon, county commissioners held a special meeting to open the general construction offers. Two bids were received, the lowest for $1,560,000 by Sam J. Smith Construction of Amarillo.

Last year, the county issued $1.5 million in certificates of obligation to help fund the proposed $1.55 million project. When five bids were opened late last spring, however, the least costly proved to be $1.827 million from Area Builders Inc. of Odessa.

Following that June 14 meeting, commissioners declined all offers and went back to the architectural firm in charge of the project: Gondeck and Associates. The San Antonio firm was instructed to somehow reduce the project's expenses but still have it meet all requirements imposed by the Texas Commission on Jail Standards.

Commission learns Tuesday

Construction of Amarillo joined Smith as the only bidders. It offered to have the work done within 550 days for $1,649,000. Smith claimed it could wrap up the project in a little more than 13 months.

The only action taken Tuesday by commissioners was they acknowledged the two offers had been received. Gondeck officials are to review the bids and make a recommendation later this month. Glen Nelson, county judge, said he understood a general construction award would be made on Monday, Dec. 17.

On Tuesday afternoon of last week, bids for the detention equipment bids were opened. Of the two received, the lowest was from San Antonio's Southern Steel. It said it could complete its phase of the project for $377,000 within 345 days. The other offer was $398,000 in 240 days by Willo Products of Decatur, Ala.

Nelson explained the general construction offers include detention equipment work. It has not been specified, he said, which detention bidder would be used for the project. Just because Southern Steel will charge less does not mean it will get the job; estimated days needed to complete the project is important, too, Nelson stressed.

When bids were advertised at the end of November, Bruce Coleman pointed out $120,000 of the $1.55 million set aside has already been spent. The commissioner explained that figure represents Gondeck's architectural fee.

Therefore, acceptance of Smith's offer would leave the county $130,000 over budget for the proposed jail work.

"I'm pretty optimistic with the bids," Nelson said over the telephone this morning. "I think probably we'll be satisfied with the lowest bid...It's not too far off the mark. Possibly we could go with that."

Renovation of the county jail, as outlined by Gondeck last summer, is to involve two phases. The first is adding a 30-by-30-foot recreation facility to one side and an expanded holding area to the other. Remodeling of the now existing structure represents the bulk of the second phase.

Collections for special fund approach $1,200

Christmas will be a little brighter for some needy families in Hereford, thanks to the Christmas Stocking Fund and the caring spirit of local residents.

The CSF is a non-profit organization formed for the purpose of seeking out less-fortunate families and providing them with clothing, food or other help during the Christmas season.

The funding effort is underway and a total of $1,195 had been received through Tuesday. The Hereford Brand is accepting contributions and reporting the donors every few days. Ben Childers is serving as treasurer for the CSF.

Persons knowing of needy families should submit information to the Social Services office, located near the west entry of the courthouse. The Brand is not taking applications. A CSF screening committee will determine the needs and try to help the most needy families.

Checks or money can be taken to The Brand office, 313 N. Lee, or mailed to Box 673. If donors desire to remain anonymous, they should so indicate when making a contribution.

Amarillo firm picked for hospital project

By REED PARSELL
Managing Editor

Northline Construction of Amarillo had its bid for performing Deaf Smith General Hospital renovation work accepted Tuesday evening by the DSGH board of directors.

The firm, whose head has previously helped with DSGH

Northline Construction to do work

building projects, claims it will do the proposed work for $140,220. The second lowest bidder, Wiley Hicks Jr. also of Amarillo, had offered its general contractor services for $3,335 more.

Board members stipulated Northline must agree to let DSGH retain 10 percent of the project's cost until all work is shown to be completed. The company had bid hospital officials would keep only 5 percent while the second half of the project was being finished.

Hospital Administrator James Bullard was to phone Don Miller, head of Northline, this morning to see if the 10 percent addendum would be acceptable. Tuesday evening, Bullard commented it should pose no problem.

Miller is a former employee of Wiley Hicks Jr., which has been hired for some prior DSGH building escapades. The head of Northline has also overseen extensive renovation work at the local Swift Independent Packing Company plant.

It seemed agreed Tuesday either Northline or Wiley Hicks Jr. could adequately perform the proposed DSGH project. The slight difference in cost proved to be the deciding factor.

"If all things are equal," commented board member Eddie Reinauer, "I'd give it to the low bidder."

Marjorie Ford, another DSGH director, said equality of the choices created a tendency to "give it to the little guy." Whereas Northline apparently needs the work, she pointed out, Wiley Hicks Jr. "seems to have plenty to do."

The vote in favor of Northline was 5-0. Dr. Gerald Payne did not attend Tuesday's specially-called session.

To be included in the renovations is remodeling of 19 patient rooms. Along with headwall units and access to the nurse call system, each room is to be given new blinds, tile, lighting, paint and an air conditioner. Ceilings are not part of the project, Bullard said last week, but might need to be replaced soon.

Aside from patient quarters, also to be altered are the hospital's front entrance and emergency room. New X-ray equipment and color television sets were added to DSGH last year.

Though headwall and vacuum units have been ordered, some other items - including blinds - are still to be purchased. Decisions on subcontractors and color coordinations can be made at a later date, Bullard said Tuesday.

State

Oil prices hurt state revenues

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Legislature could be facing a bigger revenue shortfall than previously expected unless world oil prices take an upward turn, Comptroller Bob Bullock says.

Bullock on Tuesday said the current oil price situation means at least $250 million less in state government revenues than he earlier estimated, and he said that situation could produce a budget shortfall of about $900 million.

"If I had to tell the Legislature today what they can expect, I would say their revenue shortfall is $900 million, not $640 million as expected," Bullock said.

The state derives substantial revenue from oil and gas severance taxes. On top of that, the oil industry pays a large amount of sales tax on equipment and other purchases slowed by a depressed oil market.

Although Bullock's projection isn't yet official, he said that without a change in oil prices on the spot market, the estimate is what will be given to the Legislature when it convenes next month.

Movement's workers indicted

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — A routine transportation search on a bus bound for Houston led to the indictment of two sanctuary movement workers accused of transporting two Salvadoran aliens from the Mexican border, authorities said.

Jack Elder, 49, and Stacy Lynn Merk, 29, were indicted Tuesday following a complaint filed by the U.S. Border Patrol that alleged the two transported the aliens from Mexico to a Rio Grande Valley bus station, Assistant U.S. Attorney Robert Guerra said.

Elder runs the Roman Catholic-sponsored Casa Oscar Romero refugee halfway house in San Benito, about 15 miles north of the Rio Grande. Ms. Merk is a worker at the house, believed to be the first stop of the nation's "underground railroad" movement.

Ms. Merk was convicted in May of conspiracy to transport two Salvadoran aliens and was given two years' probation by U.S. District Judge Filemon Vela of Brownsville.

When he sentenced Ms. Merk, Vela threatened to imprison her if she did not stop helping illegal aliens enter the United States.

University of Texas head quits

AUSTIN (AP) — University of Texas officials are voicing sadness that UT-Austin President Peter T. Flawn will retire next year.

Jon Newton, chairman of the UT regents, said Flawn has been one of the nation's top college administrators.

"The board of regents is saddened that Dr. Flawn has elected to retire from the university at the end of this academic year," Newton said after Flawn's announcement Tuesday.

"We regard him as the finest university president in the United States, and his leadership will be cited as crucial in the development of that institution to international academic and research standing," Newton said.

Flawn, 58, UT-Austin president since August 1979, said he will step down effective Aug. 31, 1985.

"The position of president is very demanding. It consumes all the time and energy that the occupant has," Flawn said. "After five years as president ... I want to pursue other interests while I have the years to do so."

Highway fund running out

WASHINGTON (AP) — As of today, 44 states are virtually out of federal interstate highway money and there will be no more interstate grants coming from Washington until Congress approves a formula for distributing $7.2 billion from the highway trust fund.

The Federal Highway Administration considers a state "virtually out" of interstate funding when its account falls under $10 million.

Colorado, for example, is down to $66,000. It is one of 10 or so key states with big projects stalled, including major sections of the interstate system in the Denver area and interchange work held up for years by local squabbles over locations.

As one of the states that has drawn all of its interstate funds from the federal government, Colorado state highway officials know they have about $116 million waiting, if only Congress could agree to release it.

The projects "were ready to build and now are really under the gun" to get started, according to Francis B. Francois, executive director of the American Association of State Highway and Transportation Officials.

Better test estimates sought

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Pentagon-funded earthquake experts are seeking better ways to measure the size of nuclear weapons tests to discourage cheating on future test ban treaties and help determine if the Russians are violating current limits.

"If a treaty were to be signed, we want to be able to verify it," said Bob Blandford, program manager for test ban verification research at the Pentagon's Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency, or DARPA.

Earthquake researchers who met Tuesday in San Francisco at an American Geophysical Union session on "nuclear seismology" presented highly technical papers on their efforts, which include:

—Making more accurate estimates of underground nuclear bomb explosion yields. Precise measurements could help settle debate on whether the Soviets are violating the informally recognized, unratified treaty limiting test detonations to 150 kilotons, said Tom Bache, Blandford's predecessor who is a consultant in San Diego.

—Improving the ability to distinguish underground weapons blasts from real earthquakes or earthquakes triggered by nuclear tests.

Victim said to be U.S. diplomat

The hijackers of a Kuwaiti airliner held at Tehran's airport said today the passenger they had shot and killed Tuesday was a U.S. diplomat, Iran's official news agency reported.

"The hijackers in their negotiations have identified the dead passenger, who was previously said to be British national, as an American diplomat," said the Islamic Republic News Agency, in dispatch monitored in Nicaragua.

IRNA said it was not clear whether the American was killed during a clash aboard the hijacked Kuwait Airways plane, or whether the hijackers had begun implementing a threat to start executing American and British passengers if their demands were not met.

IRNA gave no further details about the likely identity of passenger, who died shortly after being shot and tossed out of the hijacked jet Tuesday morning. IRNA said the passenger was dead on arrival at an airport medical center.

IRNA said the Arabic-speaking hijackers, said to number four to six, threatened to blow up the plane if their demands "for the release of mojahedeen (fighters) and detainees in Kuwait" were not met.

IRNA did not elaborate on the hijackers' demands. But the Kuwaiti newspaper Al-Watan said today they are demanding the release of 14 prisoners from Kuwait jails.

Gas leak aftermath

Disease from corpses feared

BHOPAL, India (AP) — Doctors today warned that disease could spread from the corpses of thousands of people and animals killed by a poison gas leak at a pesticide plant, and a newspaper reported that four previous accidents occurred at the facility.

Local officials said at least 1,200 people were killed, and more than 200,000 were affected by the leak early Monday. They said 20,000 may suffer serious aftereffects such as blindness.

Police and rescue workers searched house-to-house today for bodies and assisted in mass burials and cremations during the night that lit up the sky of Bhopal, a central Indian city of 900,000.

The United News of India said nearly 800 bodies were buried at the city's main Firdaus Manzil graveyard or cremated at the Chola Vishram Ghar cremation ground.

The government confirmed only 574 deaths, but doctors and officials at mortuaries and cremation grounds in Bhopal said at least 1,200 bodies had been counted so far.

Most of the dead were children and old people whose small or frail bodies could not withstand the leak of methyl isocyanate from an underground tank and the U.S.-built Union Carbide facility.

Some died in their sleep and others while in flight from what officials are calling one of the world's worst industrial accidents.

A spokesman for the state's Information and Public Relations Department said today that officials were recording "one death every minute."

The gas leak forced a mass exodus of the city's residents, and most have not returned for fear of further leakage. The leaves on the trees were shriveled and yellow. Streets were littered with thousands of carcasses of animals.

Milk supplies to the city were likely to drop due to the death of an estimated 3,000 cattle and the closing of several of the city's dairies. Volunteers at the overflowing hospitals set up 100 booths to collect donations for victims.

A public works official, asked about removing the rotting carcasses of cattle, said: "You are asking about cattle, but we are having difficulty handling all the human bodies at this time."

The independent Indian Express newspaper reported today the Union Carbide plant had been hit by at least four accidents since December 1981 that killed one person and injured 30.

The newspaper said a plant operator died following a leakage of deadly phosgene gas in December 1981. Fifteen people were affected in a second unspecified accident that took place 15 days later.

Four plant workers were seriously affected when a pipeline burst in October 1982, prompting people in nearby localities to flee in panic and last year two laborers were stricken after exposure to gas, the newspaper added.

The daily said the latest tragedy could have been averted if the government had heeded earlier warnings about the plant, which went into production in 1980. It quoted state Labor Minister Tarasingh Viyogi as telling the legislative assembly in late 1982 that "There is no danger to Bhopal, nor will there be."

Doctors at Bhopal's Hamedia Hospital said the accident was expected to cause severe long-run health problems to the survivors.

Dr. Parveen Chaudhary said many survivors may lose their eyesight and surviving women may not be able to have children.

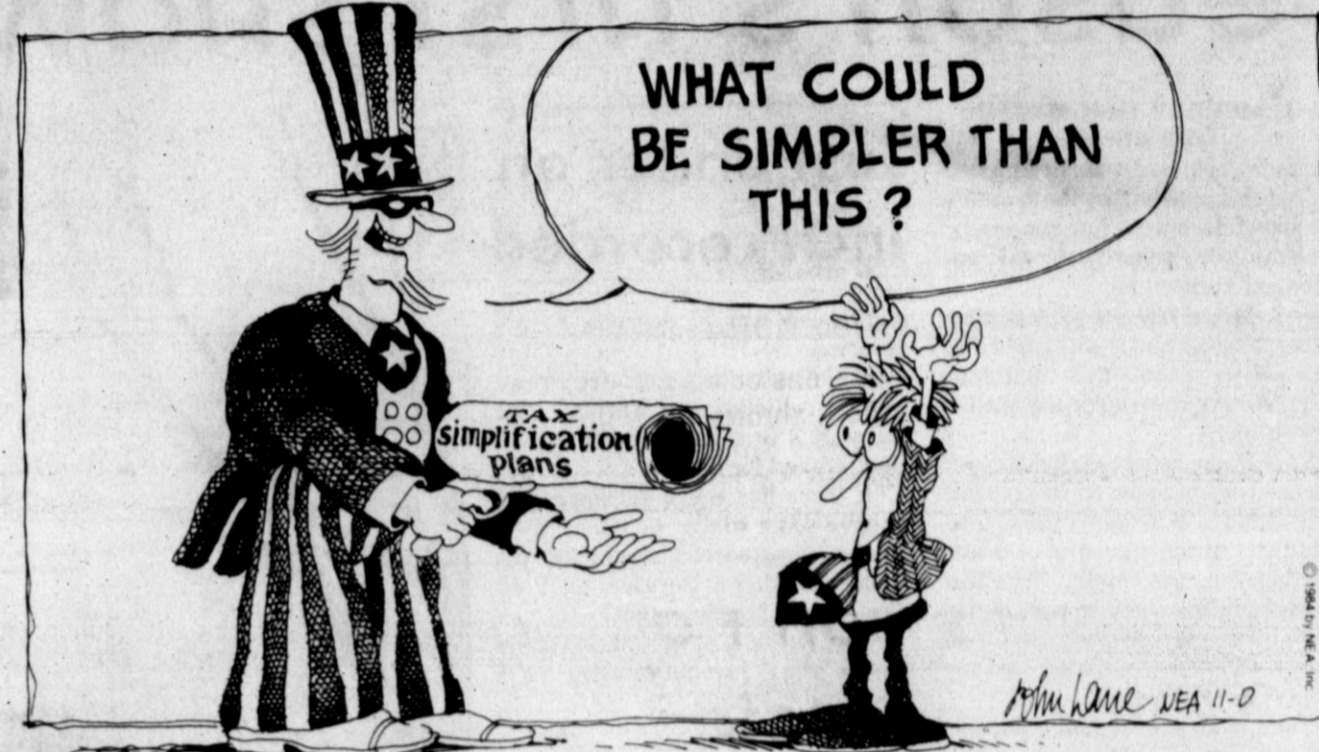

The Indian government ordered Union Carbide Corp. to come up with a compensation plan for victims and the families of the dead.

S. Mitra, a plant official, told The Associated Press the gas escaped from a 15-ton tank that had not been tapped since October. So much pressure had built up within the tank that it had "over-passed" a safety filter, he said.

Areas surrounding the plant were mainly slums inhabited by poor laborers placed there under a government resettlement plan.

Many people there, said they thought the factory manufactured medicine and did not know what the siren meant when it sounded two hours after the accident.

On domestic spending

Reagan ready to order cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Still undecided on how much to trim the Pentagon's military buildup, President Reagan is giving his Cabinet marching orders today for cutting spending across the spectrum of the government's domestic programs.

"Domestic (spending) is wrapped up," a Reagan administration official said after Reagan concluded a one-hour meeting Tuesday with his senior budget advisers in preparation for a session today with the Cabinet.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes said budget director David A. Stockman was using the decisions Reagan has made so far on domestic spending as the basis for instructions on program cuts that will be delivered to the department secretaries at the meeting.

Administration officials asking not to be quoted by name have said that the president and his advisers have been looking at a plan that would cap spending for some programs while cutting others.

White House officials have said the president wants to reduce planned spending in the 1986 fiscal year, which begins next Oct. 1, by $42 billion in order to hold total federal outlays to the current level.

The idea is to hold the deficit, now projected to reach more than $200 billion next year, to $170 billion.

Cabinet secretaries can appeal the reduction orders handed to them, but the president has been involved in a line-by-line examination of the budget and officials have indicated that the department chiefs will have to make strong cases if they hope to reverse the tentative decisions.

The final decisions will become part of the new budget Reagan sends to Congress early next year.

In previous years, Reagan resisted calls to trim the growth of military spending, but this year's round of budget cutting — conducted in an atmosphere of growing concern about deficits — apparently will extend to the Pentagon.

Stockman has told congressional Republicans that there is an $8 billion target for reducing the planned increases in military spending. But Speakes refused to say that Reagan has endorsed that figure.

WEATHER

state today, Boyd said another storm could hit the state by the weekend.

"We have another pretty wild winter storm heading for us for Friday and Saturday," Boyd said.

Nationwide, the AP said the first real taste of winter was felt from the desert Southwest to the Appalachians today, dumping eight inches of snow in New Mexico, turning roads to treacherous ice-covered ribbons in many states and packing winds that made it feel like 26 degrees below zero.

The heaviest snowfall overnight was expected in northwestern Arkansas and parts of Oklahoma, where up to five inches of snow was already on the ground early today. Ten inches was predicted in the higher elevations of Arkansas.

The mercury plunged overnight in many cities. The National Weather Services reported temperatures at 10 degrees below zero this morning at Butte, Mont. It was zero at Redwood Falls, Minn., with a wind chill temperature of 26 below zero.

The storm that moved through the Panhandle was expected to continue up the East Coast, possibly bringing snow as far north as western Maine by Thursday night. It is expected to bring rain to much of the East Coast with up to six inches of snow today in the Appalachians.

A second storm, triggered by a blast of arctic air, is moving south from Canada and spreading out through the Northern Plains.

SUSIE ROBINSON

Susie Robinson, 86, died Tuesday at 6 p.m. in her home, 108 Center. Services will be Friday at 2 p.m. in the First Baptist Church with the Dr. Rev. Ron Cook, pastor, and the Rev. Doug Manning officiating. Burial will follow in West Park Cemetery under the direction of Gilliland-Watson Funeral Home.

She came to Hereford in 1903 from Vernon and was a retired school teacher. She was a member of the First Baptist Church. Graduating from Hereford High School in 1916, she married Jim Lipscomb in 1918. He preceded her in death in 1975. She married J.O. Robinson in 1978.

Survivors include her husband; a brother, George Suggs of Hereford; and several nieces and nephews. Family requests memorials to the American Cancer Society.

OLIVER C. CUMMINGS

Oliver C. Cummings, 88, died at 12 a.m. today in Deaf Smith General Hospital.

Services are pending with Rix Funeral Directors.

He was a member of the Central Church of Christ. Survivors include one son; and one daughter, including Lois Lomenick of Hereford.

CELIA ZAVALA

Celia Zavala, 57, died at 6:42 a.m. Tuesday in a Giddings hospital after a brief illness.

Services will be at 11 a.m. Friday at St. Anthony's Catholic Church. Burial will be in St. Anthony's Catholic Cemetery under the direction of Gilliland-Watson Funeral Home.

Born in Raymondville, she was a Catholic.

Survivors include six sons, Ruben of Amarillo, Pilar of Hereford, Fred Clemente, Manuel Jr. and Inez, all of Lamar, Colo.; a daughter, Beatrice de Los Santos of Raymondville; three sisters, Chloe Garcia, Juanita Pinales and Fina Pinales, all of La Villa; and 21 grandchildren.

It may say "LADIES" or it may say "WOMEN" in any of three languages. Or it might include a line drawing of a skirted figure, thus to communicate in any language.

But whatever it says on the door it is likely to be an Olympic distance beyond the evermore convenient "MEN'S ROOM."

Why? Because most architects are men, utterly oblivious to the singularity of female physiology.

Whole cities have been constructed by men smart enough to span the sky with a bowstring truss, yet too dumb to know that women have to stop and go more often.

The problems are two: physiological makeup and makeup. A woman also needs a place to primp.

Presently there is a widespread whispered protest against those public buildings where the powder rooms are too few and too far.

Women are telling women which theatres are "not worth the wait." From Chicago's cavernous Arie Crown Theatre there is no relief. The lobby line is longer than the intermission and the only optional comfort station is in a restaurant a city block away. Either way, 25-to-one, you'll never make it.

Chicago's Auditorium Theatre, on the other hand, offers more stalls — but at the bottom end of an endless marble staircase.

Women are subtly voting a preference in restaurants based more on their restrooms than on their kitchens.

The Ladies Room off the Drake lobby in Chicago is duly noted as properly equipped and maintained.

Perhaps nowhere are Chicago and visiting women more dehumanized than by the smelly, primitive, wholesale plumbing at Wrigley Field.

Any woman knows pregnant women who have had to stop going to church in the third month because they can't make it up the stairs and down the hall to the single-stall lav.

Women in ski lodges, motivated to militancy, have been known to "take over" post guards and use for themselves an unoccupied men's room as well as their own overcrowded one.

Granted, adequate public washrooms neat and functional, are costly. But it pays.

The fashionable Scottsdale, Ariz., outdoor shopping mall suffered diminished traffic until merchants demanded the city provide convenient, clean public restrooms.

After which traffic measurably increased.

What irony, that it was women who brought indoor plumbing to the American frontier—yet here and now they are relegated to the way-out-house again—

All dressed up with no place to go. (c) 1984, Los Angeles Times Syndicate

Resident's son named assistant director

WTSU — Doug James, a recent graduate of West Texas State University, has been named assistant director of student activities and the Virgil Henson Activities Center at WTSU.

His duties as assistant director include the supervision and direction of programming through the Student Activities Council. He is responsible for planning and coordinating special events, and serves in an advisory capacity in the area of residence hall programming.

James' long range goals include a university reservation system that will upgrade the programming system now being used because, according to James, "We need cooperative programming on a campus-wide basis, and everything needs to be scheduled in advance." Publishing a programming guideline for each chartered campus organization is also a project James would like to see incorporated into the system. "I hope we'll eventually see only one major event scheduled at a time. I think this will help build a common spirit among the students and organizations at WT," he added.

As a student at WTSU, James was resident hall director for Conner, Guenther and Jarrett Halls. He was student government president in 1982-83 and president of the WTSU Herdsmen, a men's spirit organization.

James' university honors include Outstanding Young Men of America, WTSU Distinguished Student Service Award, WTSU Man of the Year and Who's Who Among American Universities.

Doug is the son of Eileen James of Hereford and Marvin James of Lubbock.

Entry forms for the event, which is sponsored by the Women's Division, may be picked up at the Chamber office.

There are no rules and regulations given from the Chamber of Commerce. Participants may simply use their own creativity. Everyone is eligible, including last year's winners as long as they enter in a different category.

The resident and business divisions include two categories: the entire home and a door and/a window. Judging will take place after dark on Dec. 11. First and second place prizes will be awarded in each category. All prizes will be in Hereford bucks.

Bridal shower honors Boazman

Debra Jo Boazman, bride-elect of Andrew Wingert, was honored with a bridal shower Saturday morning at the E.B. Black House.
 Guests were registered by Susan Higgins of Amarillo. Jan Drake of Arlington served refreshments from a table covered with a candlelight colored lace overlay and red cloth. Centering the table was a Christmas arrangement of a large red candle surrounded by holly, cedar and red apples in a burlap covered basket trimmed in red velvet.
 The basket was given to the bride-elect as a gift from the hostesses along with a kitchen center.
 Guests were greeted by the bride-elect, Mrs. Keith Davis of Fort Worth, her mother, and Mrs. George Warner, mother of the groom.
 Cinnamon rolls, cheese wafers, sausage balls, a fruit plate, coffee and almond tea were served to those present.

Free gospel rock concert Saturday

"Lazarus" and "Power and Light" will be presented in a gospel rock concert beginning at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at the Hereford High School auditorium.
 The public is invited to attend free of charge to hear the bands from Amarillo.
 Monty Smith of Hereford, one of the concert coordinators, explained that the groups will be performing original music, some of which they have recorded. "This particular kind of music offers an alternative to secular rock music."
 Prior to World War I, dinner jackets were generally regarded as informal wear to be worn only in the absence of ladies.

Abundant Life

Bob Wear
 THE ONE IMPORTANT concern will always be the same; how do we feel about ourselves, how do we manage ourselves, what do we expect of ourselves, etc.? One of the most common mistakes made is in being too hard on ourselves. We may expect too much of ourselves, we may not appreciate ourselves, we may be measuring ourselves by faulty standards, we may be trying too hard, we may even be inclined toward self-defeating or even self-destructive attitudes and practices. These and related ways are adopted by too many otherwise potentially great persons. Too many persons are too hard on themselves, and often manifest about the same attitudes toward other folk.
 SO FAR AS the human scene is concerned, what you think of yourself is the most important evaluation of you. This does not mean that you are not concerned about what others think, of course you are; however, this concern must not be too great. Some folk will not think well of you regardless of how much you may merit their approval. The main concern must be for yourself, not in an egotistical or vain way, but in the structure of reality, good sense, and with a true perspective.
 IF YOU ARE not feeling good about yourself, it may be time for you to shift gears, to turn toward the higher side of life. Begin to count your blessings; concentrate on your work; give wise consideration to your continuing self-improvement; stop measuring yourself by others. Be good to yourself, not in a self-indulgent manner, but in the wise and justified manner of "self-appreciation."
 YOU CAN USE good judgement, make indicated corrections in your thinking and action, be patient, kind and understanding toward yourself and toward others. You can do these things, be happy in the doing and in the noticeable results. Do not be hard on yourself, because you deserve better treatment.

Child Display

Jamie Gilmore, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gilmore, displayed his wildlife scenes Monday afternoon at the library. Being interested in photography for about two years, he goes with his father to take the pictures. The ones on display for December were taken in the zoo in San Antonio. Gilmore is a fourth grader at Shirley Elementary School.

The United States has more radios than any other country in the world.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I just read your column about parents sleeping with children of the opposite sex.

I agree with you but will go one step further: Parents and children do not belong in bed together regardless of gender or the parents' marital status.

I have an 8-year-old stepson who cannot sleep alone because he is afraid. His mother always kept him in bed with her. When he visited his grandparents he slept with them. Now when he visits his daddy and me, bedtime is a major production. One of us must lie in bed with him until he falls asleep. Sometimes it takes hours.

A child who needs to be comforted after a bad dream should be kept in his own bed and read to. If he learns he can get into his parents' bed by having a bad dream, he'll have one every night. Stick to your guns, Annie, you're 100 percent right on this one.—Paying The Price In Portsmouth

DEAR PORT: I shall! Thanks for the reinforcement.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: For one hour every day the minister of one of our local churches plays its musical bells over an outside speaker for everyone in a five-block radius to hear. It's not everyone's kind of music. He also has been presumptuous enough to broadcast his weekly sermon for those same unfortunate residents. It's not everyone's kind of sermon.

Holiday safety important

COLLEGE STATION — Holiday buffets offer both a creative and efficient way to entertain a large number of guests in a limited space.

But serving meals buffet style requires extra food safety precautions, says a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service food and nutrition specialist. The two basic rules to remember are to keep hot food hot and cold food cold, explains Marilyn Haggard.

Instead of setting out large buffet servings, try smaller ones, replenishing the food as needed from the stove or refrigerator, she suggests. If meat, poultry or egg dishes are left at room temperature for more than two hours, food poisoning bacteria may have an opportunity to grow. Frequent refilling ensures that these foods will remain safe to eat.

Heated serving dishes, such as hot trays or chafing dishes, are great for keeping food warm and tasty, Haggard says, but they may not keep foods at a high enough temperature to prevent the growth of harmful bacteria. Hot foods should be kept hot (between 140 degrees F and 165 degrees F) until served.

Cold meats, potato salads, meat salads and other cold foods should be stored in the refrigerator at 40 degrees F or below until served, notes the specialist.

After eating, cover and refrigerate all perishables immediately, especially meat and poultry products. Divide large meats and other foods into smaller portions. Food in smaller portions cools more quickly to temperature where bacteria quit growing, advises Haggard.

GARAGE SALE

NEW YORK (AP) — A garage sale is a good way to get rid of unwanted household items and make money at the same time.

To make the most of the sale, it is best to make all the items look good. In some cases, just a thorough cleaning will do the job. But a quick spray of paint on other objects, such as outdoor furniture, can triple their value, while aerosol paint removers and lacquer can help restore old furniture to a much more profitable condition.

Ronnie Bell wins Grand Prize in football contest

Ronnie Bell, 202 E. 16th St., won the $100 Grand Prize in the Brand Football contest which ended this past weekend, edging Joan Kalka by a touchdown on the tiebreaker game. Each of the two season winners missed six games in the final contest, but Bell guessed 48 points on the tiebreaker and Kalka picked 42. The LA Ram-New Orleans total was 55. Kalka wound up with second-place money of $35 in Hereford Bucks, while the tiebreaker also decided the third-place winner. Dave Hopper and Bernadette Kalka each missed seven games and both picked the Rams with a total of 49, but Hopper was closer on the differential with 7 points. Hopper was awarded the $15 third prize.

Only those who had won a cash prize during the season were eligible for the Grand Prize contest. There were four other contestants who missed eight games. They included Marie Cogdell, Melinda Gamez, Melvin Kelka Sr., and Rick Castaneda.

Cowboy boss up for Sunday's game

DALLAS (AP) — Tom Landry's emotions are usually hidden under a thick skin, but Washington Redskins week is always special for the 25-year veteran coach of the Dallas Cowboys.

"You always get fired up for the great teams," Landry said on Tuesday.

One of American Express' often-repeated "Do you know me?" television commercials showed Landry in cowboy garb surrounded by Washington Redskins.

"I imagine they'll dust that thing off one more time," Landry said. "I guess they'll have one more run of it."

Landry uses the Redskins as a measuring stick for his own team.

"Washington is better overall than they were last year," Landry said. "That's why we will have to play with them from the first. You can't

Clovis edges Hereford in OT

Roles reversed as 'Cats win

By DENNIS BALL Sports Editor

The Hereford Whitefaces found themselves in a different role Tuesday night in the HHS gym.

They trailed throughout much of the ball game.

The Clovis Wildcats used a 62.5-percent field-goal shooting mark in the second half to down the Whitefaces 52-50 in overtime in a non-district girls basketball game. Hereford trailed by as many as 13 points the final quarter, but 5-11 junior post Shelly Edwards canned a 14-foot jumper at the buzzer to knot the score at 50.

The game differed from previous ones the Herd has played because this time it was the Whitefaces who had to come from behind. In all the Herd's games — with the exception of the opening loss to Levelland — Hereford has had to either fight off fierce comebacks by the opponents or lose in the final minutes.

The Clovis win drops Hereford's record to 2-4 overall, while its district mark is unchanged at 1-0. Clovis moves to 2-2, both wins coming over Hereford.

"We made a heckuva comeback to get back in it there at the end," Hereford coach Larry Sowers said. "I have to give our girls a lot of credit. They really worked."

Hereford scored 23 points to 13 for Clovis in the fourth quarter.

A contributing factor to the Wildcat win in overtime was that Clovis had only three team fouls heading into the extra period. When Hereford's Natalie Sims was fouled at the 1:00 mark, Sowers said he thought Hereford was sitting pretty with its best free-throw shooter at the line.

Instead Hereford had to inbound the ball in the backcourt.

"That really hurt us not being in the bonus in overtime," Sowers said. "I should have looked up to see how many team fouls they had, and we could have planned a play. I was happy that Natalie was going to be shooting free-throws, though."

After Hereford had missed a shot

The water in the swimming pool at the University of Southern California for the 1984 Olympics was kept at a steady temperature of 77 degrees Fahrenheit.

following the timeout, Clovis' Tracy Moore hit a 15-foot jumper with 6 seconds left and a hand in her face to provide her team the margin of victory.

"This is the first real break we've had," Clovis coach Dale Severson said. "I was trying to call timeout but they (his players) didn't hear me. Tracy made a good shot."

"Hereford did a good job. They've got some super shooters who stuck it in the hole when they needed to."

Stacie High led the Whitefaces with 15 points. Edwards added 12 and Darla Alford picked up 10. For Clovis, Amy Foreman had 16 to be the only Wildcat in double figures.

The Whitefaces failed to score their second field goal of the game until 58 seconds remained in the first quarter. Hereford has had a similar problem throughout the season, Sowers said.

"We were tight as a drum at first," he said. "I don't know what it is that's causing us to be that way. We were fortunate Clovis didn't start any faster than they did."

For the night, Hereford made good on 36.2 percent of its field-goal attempts. Clovis hit 51.2 percent from the field.

Hereford trailed at the end of the first period 9-6. Halftime score was 17-16, and Clovis led at the end of the third quarter 38-27.

Grand Prize Winner

Ronnie Bell, left, accepts $100 in Hereford Bucks from Brand Publisher Speedy Nieman after winning the season-ending grid contest for weekly winners. Bell edged out Joan Kalka, who received the $35 second prize. Dave Hopper's tie-breaker total gave him third place and $15 over Bernadette Kalka.

Quarterback vital to USFL survival

Money may lure Flutie away from NFL

An AP Sports Analysis
By DAVE GOLDBERG AP Sports Writer

A dilemma named Doug Flutie is about to confront the National Football League.

It presents this question: is the NFL willing to go dollar-to-dollar against Donald Trump and the United States Football League to keep Flutie from the USFL, where he might be the savior for a league that's been in a state of confusion since its second season ended last July.

For Boston College's 5-foot-9½ Heisman Trophy winner has what the USFL desperately needs — with his uncanny ability to regularly produce 35 yards on fourth and 34, he creates the drama that puts people in seats and in front of television sets. That can ultimately get the USFL the network TV contract it needs for its move to the fall in 1986.

Without Flutie, the USFL may not make it to the fall of 1986.

Ever since his "Hail Flutie" pass against Miami on Thanksgiving weekend, he has become a phenomenon as much as a quarterback. The game got a 9.8 rating — 9.8 percent of all the TV homes in the country. But to hear the talk in cabs and bars and trains, almost everyone saw at least a replay.

"All things being equal," says Flutie, "I'd like to try the NFL for the prestige and the challenge."

But money is sometimes not equal. Like any college star confronted with the prospect of becoming an instant millionaire, Flutie isn't making his choice too definite, particularly while there are still some NFL teams — a dwindling number, to be sure — whose computers flash "reject" when they see a 5-9½ quarterback.

Enter Trump, a man so brash that he told the Washington Post recently that he would like to help negotiate an arms-control treaty with the Soviets and, more important, a man worth an estimated $400 million.

Last week, the USFL awarded Flutie's rights to Trump's New Jersey Generals by doing what the NFL cannot do — saying "you want him, you got him," and giving each team an extra territorial pick that put Boston College into Trump's orbit.

There are also practical matters.

As soon as Flutie plays his last college game, in the Cotton Bowl on Jan. 1, Trump will be free to offer him goodies just short of the apartment in the Trump Tower that he says Don Shula demanded to become the Generals' coach last year. Or, as Trump told a reporter this week: "I'd go as far as is reasonably ridiculous."

The NFL draft, on the other hand, takes place the last week of April, leaving Flutie to wait four months before he even knows who wants him. Even with his preference for the NFL, can he resist Trump's blandishments that long?

Moreover, can the NFL do anything about it?

Unlike the USFL, it cannot just assign his rights. Nor is it willing to move up its draft. Nor can Pete Rozelle call teams with high draft picks and tell them to ante up for Flutie or trade his rights.

Even before the USFL's $1.32 billion antitrust suit against it, the NFL was treading softly. Now that USFL attorney Roy Cohn bellows "conspiracy" every time anyone in the NFL whispers "USFL," the league is even more gun shy.

Detroit freezes Boston shooters

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD AP Sports Writer

The only way to cool off the red-hot Boston Celtics may be to cool them off, literally.

The Pontiac Silverdome, where the Detroit Pistons play their games, was so cold Tuesday night that most of the 19,413 fans kept their coats and gloves on.

The Celtics, who won two National Basketball Association Championship Series games last June in steamy, unairconditioned Boston Garden, didn't find the low temperature to their liking as Detroit ended the defending champions' 10-game winning streak with a 104-99 decision. "Early, we missed many easy layups and wide open shots," Boston Coach K.C. Jones said. "Plus, it was a cold, cold building. Maybe if they'd pay the heating bill..."

Guards Vinnie Johnson and Isiah Thomas scored 24 and 23 points, respectively, for the Pistons, who handed the Celtics only their second loss in 17 games this season.

Lakers 116, Cavaliers 112
Los Angeles survived a 13-point deficit and a career-high 37 points from Phil Hubbard to beat Cleveland, which fell to 2-16.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, who had 31 points and 13 rebounds, and Earvin

"Magic" Johnson, who finished with 28 points and 14 assists, scored eight points each in the third quarter to lead a 31-18 Laker run in the period.

Trail Blazers 112, Suns 104
Portland stayed one game behind the Lakers in the Pacific Division as Kenny Carr had 22 points and 16 rebounds against Phoenix.

COWBOYS

let them get out ahead. They can control the game on you."

Landry had some good news from the Cowboy team physicians on Tuesday. Injured offensive tackle Phil Pozderac may play this Sunday against Washington.

"We feel there is a good chance Pozderac will be ready to go," Landry said.

Landry also has given Danny White a starting vote of confidence at quarterback although the Cowboys' veteran quarterback. White suffered four interceptions and completed only 32 per cent of his passes in a 26-10 victory over Philadelphia Sunday.

"Danny didn't have a good day but he's a professional and we expect him to play well this week," Landry said. "It didn't change my opinion of him."

Also, Landry said starting right guard Kurt Petersen, who has missed the last two weeks, "might be available for spot play."

The Cowboys and Redskins, two of three teams tied atop the National Conference Eastern Division race with 9-5 records, tangle at 3 p.m. in Texas Stadium. Oddsmakers have rated the game even.

Landry admitted the Cowboys were "a very unpredictable team."

He said the Cowboys had an outside shot at going to the Super Bowl.

"We're capable of it but we can't beat any of the teams left on our schedule (Washington and Miami) playing the way we did Sunday," Landry said.

The Redskins whipped the Cowboys 34-14 on Oct. 14 in Washington with Gary Hogeboom as the starting quarterback.

National Finals Rodeo

Jones wins steer wrestling

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — John W. Jones Jr. ended a scoring drought to finish first in steer wrestling at the fourth go-round Tuesday night of the National Finals Rodeo, but still trailed Byron Walker by a whisker in the overall standings.

Jones of Morro Bay, Calif., whose father once won the steer wrestling world championship, entered the finals leading in the overall standings, but failed to place in the money during the first three go-rounds.

Meanwhile, Walker of Ennis, Texas, finished first in the opening go-round of the finals to narrowly take the lead.

On Tuesday night, Jones' 5.4 second first-place finish, coupled with Walker's failure to finish among the money-winners, put Jones within $2 of the leader.

Paul Tierney of Rapid City, S.D., finished in second place with a 5.5 score, followed by Butch Myers of Welda, Kan., and Paul Hughes of Kim, Colo.

Danny Brady of Henderson, Nev., — who broke his arm at a rodeo last week — remained atop the bareback riding standings, finishing his first ride of the finals, but out of the money.

Lewis Feild of Elk Ridge, Utah, had accumulated $9,000 at the finals to edge close to second-place Larry Peabody of Three Forks, Mont. Neither man finished in the money Tuesday night.

Bruce Ford of Kersey, Colo., the defending champion in bareback riding, won the fourth go-round with a 77 score, followed by Mickey Young of Jerome, Idaho and Chuck Logue of McKinney, Texas, in a second-place tie, and Dave Appleton of Eulees, Texas, in fourth.

Dee Pickett of Caldwell, Idaho, and Mike Beers of Rufus, Ore., remained atop the team roping standings with a 6.1-second, first-place finish in the fourth go-round.

Finishing second were Dennis Watkins of Taft, Calif., and David Motes of Fresno, Calif., followed by Tom Cox of Laveen, Ariz., and Rick Stock of Showlow, Ariz. and also Tee Woolman of Llano, Texas, and Clay O'Brien Cooper of Gilbert, Ariz., who trail Pickett and Beers in the overall standings.

Roy Cooper, who trails Pickett in the overall standings, did not earn any money in the fourth go-round of calf roping, finishing fifth. But he still has a $25,000 lead over Pickett in the calf roping standings.

Dan Webb of Boswell finished first in the go-round with a score of 9 seconds. He was followed by Jerry Jetton of Stephenville, Texas, and Cliff Williamson of Madden Alberta, and Clay Tom Cooper of Monument, N.M., in a third-place tie.

Pickett, with his finish in team roping, remained atop the all-around standings, with a lead of $6,700 over Cooper.

Pickett has $102,142 in earnings in the all-around, while Cooper has $95,405.

In saddle bronc riding, defending champion Brad Gjermundson of Marshall, N.D., who has earned more than $10,000 at the finals alone, edged to within $2,000 of first-place Kent Cooper of Declo, Idaho, when he finished second in the fourth go-round.

Jim Kelts of Millarville, Alberta, Canada finished first in the go-round in saddle bronc riding with a 79 score. Following Gjermundson in third place was Monty Henson of Mesquite, Texas, and Bob W. Brown of Fort Worth, Texas. Henson moved into third place in the earnings standings with his third-place finish.

Lee Ann Guilkey of Decatur, Texas, finished second in Tuesday night's go-round in barrel racing, finishing the ride in 16.49 seconds. She remained atop the overall standings by about $5,000.

The winner of the go-round was Jimmie Munroe of Valley Mills, Texas. Following Guilkey were Kathy Spears of Siloam Springs, Ark., and Marlene Eddleman of Ordway, Colo.

Ted Nuce of Manteca, Calif., finished first in a brutal go-round of bull riding, in which only three riders were not thrown before the buzzer. Nuce recorded a score of 86.

Others who scored in bull riding were Lane Frost of Lane, Okla., and Glen McIlvain of Mesquite, Texas.

In the overall standings, Don Hay of Mesquite, Texas, remained in first place in the bull riding standings by $8,000 over Charles Sampson of Los Angeles, Calif.

NBA

Knicks 100, Nuggets 98
New York rallied from a 33-18 deficit to overcome Denver, which had won 10 of its previous 11 games.

Darrell Walker, who scored nine of his 12 points in the fourth quarter, hit the game-winning basket from the baseline with three seconds left and led a Knicks defense that held the Nuggets to 16 points in the final period.

It was New York's first victory in five games with Bernard King, the NBA's leading scorer, out with injuries.

Jazz 107, Warriors 105
The comeback story of the night was at Oakland, where Utah fought back from a 65-42 deficit to defeat Golden State on Adrian Dantley's two free throws with one second left.

The Warriors still led 82-66 going into the final period, but the Jazz outscored Golden State 41-23 to pull ahead at the end. A three-point play by Purvis Short, who led the Warriors with 24 points, gave them a 105-104 lead with 31 seconds left, but Dantley tied the score with a free throw.

Larry Smith missed two free throws for the Warriors before Dantley, who led all scorers with 26 points, was fouled with a second to go.

Bulls 112, Nets 97
Orlando Woolridge scored 20 of his 37 points in the pivotal third quarter as Chicago rallied to whip New Jersey.

Michael Jordan scored 14 of his 20 points in the fourth quarter.

Spurs 114, Hawks 106
Artis Gilmore had 24 points and 15 rebounds and George Gervin added 23 points for San Antonio against Atlanta.

The Hawks, who got 34 points from Dominique Wilkins, went without a field goal for an 11-point stretch in the second half to allow the Spurs to take the lead.

COLLEGE STATION—This is the time of year when our mailboxes are stuffed with advertisements, Christmas cards, bills—and appeals for contributions to charity. Americans give $55 billion to charity each year, and most of it is contributed during November and December.

giving to charity is to help those in need," says Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service home economist Nancy L. Granovsky. "Yet, the charity industry is one of the largest and least regulated, so consumers cannot always be sure their dollars are being used legitimately."

But consumers can now check-out charities just as they would any other type of business investment, she says.

The Philanthropic Advisory Service of the Council of Better Business Bureaus (BBB) and the National Information Bureau (NIB) both serve as voluntary watchdogs for the charity industry, Granovsky explains. They rate charities according to their use of funds, fund-raising practices, public accountability and ethics.

The NIB believes the cost of fund-raising should be no greater than 30-35 percent of the funds collected. Both groups publish lists telling which charities meet their standards and which ones fail.

For more information consumers can write to the Philanthropic Advisory Service of the BBB at 1515 Wilson Blvd., Arlington, Va. 22209, or the National Information Bureau at 419 Park Ave. So., New York, NY. 10016.

Before giving to local charities, check with the local Better Business Bureau or Chamber of Commerce for information, Granovsky suggests. You can also ask the charitable organization for a statement of how contributions are spent, including the percentage that goes to administration.

Mauro says

Canadian river bed ownership unclear

PAMPA, Texas (AP) — State Land Commissioner Garry Mauro says he plans to meet soon with land owners along a section of the Canadian River where property ownership is being disputed.

"The Canadian River has always been a headache to Texas because we don't know what we own, but the river bed is open to the public and that is the real question," Mauro said Tuesday at a luncheon here.

Mauro said because of nearby Lake Meredith and what he termed "obscure laws," it is hard to determine which parts of the river bed are owned by private individuals and which parts are publicly owned.

He said lack of a definitive boundary is causing numerous problems.

"It is illegal for land owners to fence off public land, and without a very expensive survey, we do not know what the state owns and we don't know what the landowners own," he said. "A lot of people are affected because land owners can't have access to the river to water cattle and the sportsmen want access for public hunting."

An 18-mile section of the Canadian River was surveyed before Mauro took over the land office, and he said an additional 66 miles of the river bed is to be surveyed where it has been cut off from Lake Meredith by a dam.

There are several ways to define navigable streams for river bed lines, he said — the key is determining the gradient boundary, which he termed "a very complicated technical issue."

Two other problems in finding a workable solution exist. One is how to survey the area in question, the other is how to determine the river bed course, which has been changed by the damming of Lake Meredith.

Mauro said State Rep. Foster Whaley of Pampa and State Sen. Bill Sarpalius of Canyon are working to resolve the problem.

Mauro said the two are working with Gov. Mark White to get money appropriated in the state budget to help solve the problem.

He said lawyers and surveyors are studying data already collected trying to find a solution. He added he has tentatively set a meeting in Amarillo with land owners, and the meeting will be either before Christmas or after New Year's.

Mauro also commented during the luncheon on a Texas-Israeli project, which is a joint attempt at making arid dry land here productive. The project is being conducted in the Trans-Pecos region, where the state owns over 1 million acres of land that project supervisors say is similar to that of southern Israel.

The first of three phases of the project has been completed, he said, and work has begun on the second phase.

"The Israelis have made their deserts bloom, and if we could make our Trans-Pecos area productive likewise ... it will be less we have to collect in taxes," he said.

Hospital auxiliary meets for Christmas luncheon

The Hospital Auxiliary gathered in the Flame Room Monday at noon for the annual Christmas luncheon.

No business meeting was conducted by Theda Seiver, president, but the Auxiliary treasurer, Lupe Cerda, presented Jim Bullard, hospital administrator, with a check for $1,000 which will be used to buy five reclining chairs in the patients rooms.

Bullard and Gerry Hollinger were guests for the luncheon. Members present were Grace Covington, Baxter London, Anne Kershen, Jane White, Etoile Manning, Nell Culpepper, Anna Stuidt, Alice Gilliland, Bonnie Sublett and Seiver.

Also, Mary E. Williamson, Mary Lou Spinhirne, Helen Brown, Gwen London, Peg Hof, Cerda, Bea Hutson, Bertha Dettmann, and Irene Reinart.

While Spanish is the official language of the Republic of Paraguay, 90 percent of the population speaks Guarani. Most of the 3.3 million people are Mestizos, although there are Caucasian, Indian and Negro minorities. Roman Catholic is the official religion, with about 97 percent.

County to seek emergency $5 million

HOUSTON (AP) — A Harris County agency will seek as much as $5 million in emergency funds this week to create shelters for mentally ill people roaming the streets of Houston.

The decision Tuesday came in the wake of revelations that officials of the Austin State Hospital have been driving vanloads of newly released mental patients to Houston and dropping them to fend for themselves at a downtown bus station.

Robert Navarro, board chairman of the Harris County Mental Health and Mental Retardation Authority, said he hopes to ask for the aid Friday, when the eight-member board of the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation holds its regular meeting.

"I talked to several state officials and they said they were very interested in the proposal," Navarro said.

Eugene Williams, the county agency's executive director, said the money would be used to provide a range of living projects, including apartments with 24-hour supervision and "group homes" where patients who require little supervision could live.

Williams said he did not condone a plan the state hospital unveiled Tuesday under which patients not met by friends or relatives upon their release in Houston would be taken to local missions.

Williams called the missions "inappropriate places for mentally ill people" and said the plan amounts to "putting a Band-Aid on a major wound."

State hospital supervisor Kenny Dudley said that when four or five patients are discharged from the facility today, they would be taken to a clinic and met by two Harris County social workers. A hospital employee will offer to drive the patients to Salvation Army shelters or missions if they are not met.

Dudley has held his position only two weeks.

Officials of the state hospital said about 20 patients a week have been discharged and dropped off at the Greyhound bus station in a seedy section of downtown Houston in the past year.

Houston mental health officials and operators of emergency shelters say that many of those transported by Austin State Hospital to the Houston bus station end up wandering the streets.

Don Johnson, executive director of the Star of Hope Mission, said about 125 of the 500 people who spend the night in the shelter two blocks from the bus station are mentally ill and need professional supervision because they are violent or agitated.

"We've had several killings here right in front of the sidewalk," he said.

"Most of the mentally ill are incapable of surviving on their own. Therefore it seems to me that the mental health system is obliged to go the last step in arranging and following up on placement in the community," Johnson said.

Before starting the van trips, hospital officials bought released patients a bus ticket to Houston. They ended that practice because patients sometimes got off the bus before reaching Houston.

The practice of dropping off the patients at the bus station is prompting the doctor in charge of the Harris County Unit at the hospital to quit.

Of wine found in floating bottle

Navy crew seeks payment

MONTERREY, Mexico (AP) — It was a final shipboard fling for five young friends. In a moment of "craziness" they wrote a note promising two bottles of wine to the finder, popped it into a bottle and hurled it into the ocean.

The young men — one American, one from Mexico City and three from Monterrey — never dreamed that more than three months later members of the Canadian Navy would ask them to make good on their promise.

Jorge Velazquez and brothers Mario and Felipe Salinas, all of this northern industrial city, said they met Michael Oakley of Carecreek, Ariz., and Emilio Yarte during a summer cruise near Nassau in the Bahamas.

The young men, all in their early 20s, were partying on shipdeck in the early morning hours on the last day of the cruise when, on a whim, they decided to launch a note in a Paul Masson wine bottle they had just emptied.

"To whom it may concern," the message began.

"The date is July 24, 1984, 3:15 in the morning. It is the last night of a most beautiful cruise aboard the TSS Fairwind — we are having a wonderful time. Whoever may find this bottle, we wish you a long and happy life.

"If this bottle is found by a caring and trusting soul, there will be a reward of two bottles of Paul Masson Chablis — and the gratitude of all of us."

Each person then wrote his home address.

The young men said they had forgotten about their sea message — until last week when letters on Canadian National Defense stationery started arriving at their homes.

"I thought it was navy propaganda," Velazquez told The Associated Press.

So, it was a "tremendous surprise" to find the letters were written in reply to their message, said Mario Salinas.

When we read your note we all got a good laugh out of it. I am now claiming those two bottles of Paul Masson Chablis on behalf of my crew who have all signed this letter below," the letter said.

Hargreaves, whose squadron is based in Halifax, Nova Scotia, also included a copy of the young men's original note in his letter.

The things turned out, the merrymakers say they're glad they didn't promise a reward they couldn't pay.

"It could have occurred to us to offer my car," said Mario Salinas. "Or a million dollars," said Velazquez.

"How is it possible that they found the bottle in the middle of the sea?" he asked.

"We did it for pure craziness," Salinas said.

But, he said, the group "definitely" will make good on its promise and is planning to contact the Canadian Embassy to help them deliver the reward.

While they're at it, Salinas said, perhaps they'll send the crew a bottle of tequila, serapes and other gifts typical of Mexico.

Blue law foes organize

AUSTIN (AP) — A high-powered lobby effort fueled by big-name Texas stores that want to open on Sunday could succeed in erasing the Blue Law, says a prime backer of the controversial law.

"I'd say we have a problem this time," said Tom Blanton, Texas Automobile Dealers Association vice president for legislative affairs. "They've never had this battery of high-powered lobbyists surrounding the Capitol before."

The "high-powered lobbyists" have been hired by Texans for Blue Law Repeal Inc., a non-profit corporation formed by Joske's, Target, K-Mart, Kroger, Eckerd Drugs, Revco Discount Drug Centers and Zales Jewelers. The companies want the 1985 Legislature to repeal the statute that bars sales of 42 items on consecutive Saturdays and Sundays.

The retailers joined up after lawmakers told them it would take a coordinated effort to win repeal of the law. Lobbyists Dick Brown and Galt Graydon will lead the Capitol fight.

Their other earlier efforts were futile. They spent a lot of individual corporate time for no purpose," Brown said of previous repeal efforts.

Representatives of the seven companies were either at a Tuesday private meeting here or participated by conference call, according to Brown.

Peter Larkin, spokesman for Kroger, said: "The law is very difficult and confusing... Our problem is it's very difficult to determine what we can sell and what we cannot sell."

Larkin was on hand later Tuesday at a closed-door meeting where the Texas Retailers Association affirmed its support for the Blue Law. Mickey Moore, the association's executive vice president, said about 75 percent of the 1,500 members like the law.

The retailers association and the Texas Automobile Dealers Association have led fights in the past against repeal efforts.

In Houston, almost 280 stores opened Sunday in open defiance of the law.

House Speaker Gib Lewis, who has heretofore supported the state's Sunday closing law, now says he thinks a proposal for repeal stands a better than even chance in 1985.

"He thinks it either ought to be enforced or repealed," said Dick Merkel, Lewis' press secretary.

But neither Lewis, Gov. Mark White or Lieutenant Gov. Bill Hobby has taken a firm public stand on the issue.

In Houston, the Retail Merchants Association filed lawsuits Monday against three businesses — including one of its members — that it claims defied the Blue Law last Sunday.

The suits name as defendants the Eckerd drugstore chain and the Siegel's and Toys-N-More stores in Deauville Mall in Spring, Texas.

Tom Conner, merchants' group attorney, said the suit against Eckerd's, an RMA member, was filed in response to merchants who have claimed the group selectively enforces the law.

"Eckerd's was such a rallying cry for those (anti-Blue Law) merchants, we wanted to make it crystal clear that the Retail Merchants Association does not play favorites," Conner said Monday.

Betancur arrives for official visit

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Colombian President Belisario Betancur arrived Tuesday for an official, four-day visit during which he will discuss the Central American situation with President Miguel de la Madrid.

Both are leaders of the four-nation Contadora group trying to promote a peace treaty for the troubled region. Their meetings here come as a third Contadora president, Jaime Lusinchi of Venezuela, is in Washington for a meeting with President Reagan.

The Mexican leader greeted Betancur at the National Palace downtown after the visitor arrived at Benito Juarez International Airport. At a brief, public welcoming ceremony, de la Madrid said: "Mexico and Colombia are engaged in a common struggle in search of their own, independent paths. He described his Colombian colleague as "a great statesman, possessor of an exceptional lucidity."

For his part, Betancur referred to the countries of Central America and the Caribbean and said, "Each one of these nations must choose its own destiny, without necessity for any type of paternalism."

The president then held the first of two scheduled private meetings. A communique is scheduled to be issued Wednesday.

Betancur's visit here, his second since taking office in 1982, has a principal point in the discussion of the Contadora group.

The group was formed by Mexico, Colombia, Venezuela and Panama in January 1983 on the Panamanian resort island of Contadora in an attempt to find a peaceful, regional solution to the tensions in Central America.

Queen Elizabeth confirmed the death sentence against Mary, Queen of Scots, on Dec. 4, 1586.
