Former Hereford Resident Injured In Tornado

Ex-School Teacher Among 14 Indicted By Grand Jury

Rogers Submits Sugar Beet Bills

Members of a special committee of the Texas Sugar Beets Growers Association Wednesday expressed deep satisfaction with three legislative proposals to allow more production in the area.

Monday, three bills were introduced into the House by U. S. Rep. Walter Rogers of Panama. They were originally drawn up by the local committee, which includes James W. Witherspoon, Henry Sears and Lee Benefield.

After minor revision by Rogers, they were introduced basically as follows:

1. Eliminate acreage allotments for sugar beets, enabling sugar companies to make their own agreements with farmers, so that the farmers (Continued on page 2)

District Grand Jury returned 12 indictments against 14 persons Tuesday evening to wind up a busy, two-day session. Not a single no-bill was presented, and just one case was passed.

Among those indicted was Henry T. Romine, a former teacher in the Hereford school system, Romine, who is not now in custody, was indicted for contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Romine was hired last fall as drivers' education teacher at Stanton Junior High School. He was dismissed by the school board last month.

Local law authorities Wednesday said Romine was under a five-year suspended sentence from Dallas County for sodomy. The sentence was passed there in 1956.

Also indicted were: Thurman Johnson for robbery by assault, now free on bond; O. T. Tice, second offense driving while intoxicated, free on bond; Lauriano Padilla, second offense driving while intoxicated, in Deaf Smith County Jail;

Dan Brannen and Lisa Lou Brannen, indicted jointly for forgery and passing of forged instruments, are in jail in the Hereford and she in Canyon; Fermin Salcedo, burglary, in county jail;

Lewis Oudems alias Raylin Akins, forgery and passing of forged instruments, in Childress Jail; Pentecostese R. Vega, possessing a narcotic drug, out on bond; Jerry Wayne Williams, theft, out on bond;

Ronald Williams, receiving and concealing stolen property, out on bond; Richard Ward and Garland Crist, indicted jointly for theft under $50, are free on bond and their case will be transferred to county court;

Eulalio Castillo, indicted for theft under $50, is free on bond and will be transferred to a county court hearing.

The 69th District Court Grand Jury recessed at 6:30 p. m. Tuesday with its next meeting slated for June 13.

The Pettit Jury panel which was called Monday morning was released after roll call by District Judge Harry Schultz, who said a pending civil case had been settled out of court

City Announces War On Stray Dogs In Town

Hereford Police Chief Henry Aycock Tuesday declared a campaign to rid city streets and neighborhoods of stray or untagged dogs.

"We will have one man permanently assigned to this phase of enforcement until such time as we may secure citizen compliance," Aycock said, referring to the increasing number of "dogs that are allowed to run all over town."

Chief Aycock said that city ordinance requires that any animal impounded will be kept 48 hours, and if not called for at the end of that time, the animal will be disposed of.

"We are not going to shoot stray dogs on site," Aycock said. "We will put the dog to sleep with a 'cap-sure' rifle, and the dog will come out of the sleep at the city dog pound." The "cap-sure" rifle injects a drug which puts the dog to sleep temporarily.

He said owners may secure tags for their dog by presenting a certificate providing the dog has been vaccinated for rabies. The tags may be purchased at City Hall.

CofC Aviation Group Outlines Goals For Year

Seven persons attended the first meeting of the 1960 Aviation Committee of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce.

The breakfast session was held Tuesday in the C of C conference room, with Dr. A. T. Mims, chairman, presiding.

Although a formal program of work was not completed, the group decided to begin action (Continued on page 2)

Install Trustees, Name New Officers

In a storm-shortened meeting Tuesday night, newly-elected trustees were sworn in and a new slate of officers named for the Hereford Rural High School Board.

Bill Gentry, B. F. Cain and O. W. Parris were sworn in for three-year terms as trustees by Fred Baird, financial secretary. Gentry and Parris were elected last week and Cain was named to a second three-year term. Outgoing members of the board include W. R. Hair, president, and Ralph Hastings. Neither sought another term.

Tom Robinson was elected president of the board. He had served as president earlier in his tenure on the board. Other officers chosen were Dr. L. B. Barnett, vice president, and B. F. Cain, secretary.

Set Commission Meet Thursday After Recess

After a day-long session Monday, Deaf Smith County Commissioners agreed to recess and meet again on Tuesday, April 14, to clear up some unfinished business.

Commissioners continued their meeting until past 6 p. m. Monday, but spent most of the deliberation and conferences, taking little formal action.

Part of the day was spent in visiting construction sites at the new jail and the courthouse renovation.

IN DISTRICT MEET

4 Hereford High Entrants Capture Literary Titles

Hereford High School individual and team entries took four firsts, two seconds and three thirds places in District I-AAA University Interscholastic League literary contests at West Texas State College in Canyon Saturday.

First place honors went to Sharon Hill in senior division

Girls Declamation, Ronald Anderson in Number Sense, John Buck in Original Oration, and James Gentry in Extemporaneous Speech.

Stella Jo Wiseman won second place in Ready Writers, and Dudley Bayne Jr. rated second in Number Sense.

Third places went to Jimmy

Reinauer in senior division Boys Declamation, Doris Goodman in Original Oration, and Delores Price and Nelda Barnett as a spelling team.

Around Town

Hereford played several prominent roles in disaster and relief work Tuesday night immediately after word came of a tornado at Sunnyside. Doctors and nurses were dispatched to the Castro County Hospital, the Deaf Smith County sheriff's office sent down officers, and two ambulances were called into service to transport the injured.

Highway Patrolmen from Hereford manned roadblocks and assisted in rescue efforts throughout the night.

Juvenile Needs Cited At Legion Zone I Meeting

Practical education in crafts and skills is needed to curb juvenile trouble in many instances, Ray Whitmore told the Zone I meeting of American Legion in Hereford Tuesday night.

More than 50 persons attended the dinner and business meeting at the Legion Hall.

Whitmore, who is juvenile probation officer for Potter County, was principal speaker for the meeting.

"There is a need for more parents to cooperate with law enforcement officers in dealing with the delinquent child," he said.

"In this respect, we find a trend that a child in trouble often has a parent who has also (Continued on page 2)

Mrs. Carroll In Twisted Trailer

By DAN MUDD
Brand Staff Reporter

One of three victims of a tornado which flipped a 50-foot mobile home end-over-end for a distance of about 200 feet in Frieno late Tuesday afternoon was a former Hereford resident, Mrs. Marie Carroll. She was reported in fair condition at Parmer County Hospital in Frieno Wednesday morning.

Mrs. Carroll, 57, her husband, Tom, 57, and her brother, Jack Davidson, 55, of Danville, Ill., were all admitted to the hospital after a black funnel struck the trailer house with no warning leaving the home a pile of bent metal and splintered wood.

A school nurse for the Frieno School System, Mrs. Carroll sustained a back injury, broken nose and facial lacerations. Carroll and Davidson were treated for multiple minor injuries and have been released, a hospital attendant said Wednesday morning. Mrs. Carroll was a nurse at Deaf Smith County Hospital for many years.

Striking with equal force, a tornado hit Sunnyside Community, 13 miles south of Dimmitt, later in the day, leaving a path of death to three persons, injuries to about 25 others, and a mass of wreckage to homes, a church and more than 30 automobiles.

"I had just walked through the door of the trailer house, carrying a box," Carroll said. "Before I could set the box down on a table it seemed that everything in the house hit me."

Chamber Names White As Harvest Festival Head

Raymond White was announced as the chairman of the Harvest Festival for 1960 at a meeting of the officers and directors of the Chamber of Commerce Wednesday morning. White will appoint a finance and a publicity chairman within the next few days.

Other members of the Harvest Festival Board are appointed by the various organizations having a part in the community celebration. White has called the first meeting of the new committee for Wednesday morning, April 27.

In other action the Board of Directors approved a recommendation by Dr. Hap Cavness that materials be made available by the Chamber of Commerce at no cost to the participants in order that the Action Course in Practical Politics may be offered to high school seniors this fall. Cavness' recommendation was that this course be offered entirely separate from the school, perhaps in the Community Center building, as an opportunity for young people to secure additional knowledge in the workings of government. Cavness reported a very enthusiastic reception by all of the participants of the course concluding April 21.

Les Combs reported on Correspondence with the Texas Board of Water Engineers as to possible availability of water from Tierra Blanca Creek. The Board indicated that Buffalo Lake would have prior rights to water above the dam in light of the fact that the authorized storage capacity of Buffalo Lake has not been reached since 1941.

It was further indicated, however, that water from Buffalo Lake might be available to Hereford under certain circumstances. The Canadian River (Continued on page 2)

Vice Probe Talk Highlights Toastmasters Installation

Legislative committees are not new in Texas, and they seem to have their place in certain types of investigation procedures," said Potter County Attorney Lon Moser here Tuesday night while speaking on the recent Texas House Investigations Committee hearings held in Amarillo.

The personable young attorney spoke to more than 50 Hereford Toastmasters, their wives and guests at the Toastmasters' semi-annual installation banquet in the Jim Hill Hotel Ballroom.

Installed to six-month terms of office were Kenneth

Stanton Band Rates High In UIL Judging

The 58-piece Stanton Junior High School band received a I in sight reading and II in concert at Class C, Region 11, University Interscholastic League, contests at West Texas State College in Canyon Tuesday morning.

The Hereford High School band was scheduled to play in AAA class contests at WT Wednesday, beginning at 1:30 p. m.

Interscholastic League ratings include: I, "superior"; II, "excellent"; and III, "good".

Concert judges were G. P. Gilligan of Kermit High School, Hiram Henry of Oklahoma State University, and Jim Jacobson of Texas Christian University. Dr. Jo Haddon of Midland judged sight reading.

ed," Moser commented. "But there is a lot of 'investigating' to be done yet."
"You, as Hereford citizens, must appreciate the public officials who serve you well," the attorney advised. "Be aware of the good done by them. A safeguard in keeping your community with a good reputation is paying your public officials good salaries and knowing the officials you elect."

Moser said the first legislative committee hearing was held in this state in 1949.
"What do law enforcement agencies in Amarillo think of the committee hearings?" was asked by a Toastmaster's wife.
"I think some of them resent it," Moser answered.
The new Toastmaster officers were installed by Ken Gordon of Lubbock, District 44 Governor, Toastmasters International.
Outgoing officers included Dr. Milton Adams, president, Virgil Dodson, educational vice-president, A. Petersen, administrative vice-president, Bill Thompson, secretary-treasurer, and Kenneth Rudd, sergeant-at-arms.
Toastmaster of the evening was Dodson.

Hold Monday Rites For Brother Of Hereford Woman

Funeral services for Joe Litsch, brother of Mrs. Frank Annen of Hereford, were held at 10 a. m. Monday in St. Alice Catholic Church in Plainview. Father James Fitzgerald, pastor, officiated.
Rosary was recited at 7:30 p. m. Monday and Tuesday in Lemons Funeral Chapel of Plainview.
Mr. Litsch died at 7:45 p. m. Saturday in Plainview Medical Center Hospital after a long illness. He was 65 years old, having been born May 1, 1894, at Faye, Okla. He and his family came to Plainview 20 years ago from Wilson.
He was a veteran of World War I, and a member of St. Alice Catholic Church. He had

Rotarians Hear Rev. Thurston

The Rev. H. L. Thurston, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Hereford, gave a pre-Easter religious talk at the noon meeting of Hereford Rotary Club Monday noon.
The Rev. Thurston told of the significance of Christ's crucifixion. "He let the human tenderness of his suffering be revealed," the Rev. Thurston said.
The Rev. Thurston is a member of the local Rotary Club. He was formerly president of the Dalhart Rotary Club, and is a director of Christian Rural Overseas Program.
The program was introduced by Rotarian Jim Witherspoon. Guests included Rotarians Harry Schultz and Joe Nesbitt of Dalhart, Pete Carmichael and Earnest Langley were guests from Hereford.

been employed at Rockwell Brothers Lumber Company for the past 12 years.
Survivors, other than Mrs. Annen of Hereford, include a daughter, Mrs. Luther Grant of Plainview; a son, Jim of Moebette; four brothers: John of Nazareth, Carl of Amarillo, and Rudolph and Pete, both of Chicago, Ill.; six sisters, Mrs. Frank Braddock, both of Nazareth, Mrs. Annen, Mrs. Floyd Dysert of Enid, Okla., Sister Thomsine of Ft. Smith, Ark., and Mrs. Aaron Chandler of Compton, Calif., and seven grandchildren.
Burial was in Plainview Cemetery under direction of Lemons Funeral Home.

farmers, who were beginning to feel a bit desperate. Farmers with wells either had turned them on or were getting ready to start pumping. Although there was some hail, it caused little or no damage.
Deaf Smith County Commissioners are to meet again Thursday morning, after recessing Monday evening after their regular meeting.
And, as if you could forget, final day to file your income tax return will be midnight Friday, April 15.
Same deadline applies for Texas vehicle inspections. You must have the new sticker on by Saturday morning.
We expect a run on veterinarians and city hall this week as Hereford police start carcking down on loose and untagged dogs.

Deaf Smith County Farmers Union will meet at 7:30 p. m. Thursday, April 14, in the Flame Room of Pioneer Natural Gas. "An Arctic Adventure" film will be shown. Joe Berg, state vice president, will speak briefly. Each family is asked to bring a covered dish for the supper, which will precede the business meeting.

A very small, but most determined wife is all that keeps me from pouring our whole yard in concrete. The snow and rain last winter didn't seem to help our sickly looking grass at all. And every bit of advice we get is different. Some say it needs water, others claim fertilizing will help. A few pessimists say to plow it all up and start over again. If I could just manage to get all my advisors working at once, I'd probably have the best looking lawn in town.

Whitmore also cited a need to supply more work for the teenagers, to occupy them and train them in useful occupations. He also declared that irresponsible parents often are the cause of much juvenile trouble.
Hereford American Legion Post 192 and Auxiliary hosted the meeting with Ira Ott of Hereford, zone commander, presiding.
Among the guests were Charles Mason, 18th District commander, who spoke on state department affairs and membership. Roy Beard, Amarillo Veterans Hospital Service officer, reported on the conditions of the hospital, pointing out that all 146 beds are filled and there is a waiting list of 150. Two Hereford men are in the Veterans Hospital there.
Cecl Wilkins reported that the Hereford Legion project of selling flag service to downtown businesses was expected to be 100 per cent successful.

warning, the funnel at Sunnyside destroyed everything in its path. Three persons, J. B. Kidd of Plainview, Nona Beth Phellan, 12, of Sunnyside, and Thomas Riley Hogan, 51, a Sunnyside gin owner, were killed.
Kidd, president of the brotherhood association of Sunnyside Baptist Church, was killed after he left the church and entered his automobile. Hogan and the Phellan girl were killed after being thrown from their homes, located near the church.
Many of the church members attending the brotherhood meeting fled to a storm shelter near the church parsonage. The injured were taken to hospitals in Dimmitt, Plainview and Olton.
Declared a disaster area by the Red Cross, rescue crews of Civil Defense workers, firemen, law enforcement officers and ambulance attendants probed wreckage of nine buildings — the church, a gin, a store and six homes — throughout the night and morning.
Highway Patrol officers set up road blocks to screen the curious from rescue crews.
Cold and wet survivors huddled in blankets at the three hospitals while ambulance services continued to bring in the injured or dead.
Loss of electrical power plunged the small community into darkness. Portable floods provided light for rescue operations.

Plans for hosting the annual All Texas Air Tour next fall also were discussed briefly. The committee agreed that it would be good to stage some sort of air show at the airport during the annual Harvest Festival, which is scheduled July 28 - 30. Management of the airport and long-range plans for permanent improvement at the air facility also were discussed at length.

Most of us, deep down in our hearts, like to think that we are just as law abiding as the fellow next door, down the street, or clear across town. The same feeling is true concerning the communities in which we live - excepting Randall County, of course.

Consequently, I was somewhat taken aback Tuesday, while talking with Frank McKown, retiring district attorney, when he emphatically stated:

"Deaf Smith County has more criminal cases in court than the other five counties in this district combined."

The other five counties and their 1950 census read as follows: Dallam 7,640, Hartley 1,913, Moore 13,349, Oldham 1,672, Sherman 2,443. Total 26,917. Yet Deaf Smith County with 9,111 population provides more than 50 per cent of the criminal cases in the district.

Look at it another way. All six counties have a combined total of 36,028 population; this figure divided by our 9,111 would justify less than one-fourth of the criminal cases and, since we have two-fourths of them, it definitely figures that we have twice as much crime, per capita, as the average in our judicial district.

Toss in the fact that Moore is a leading oil producing county, along with considerable production in Sherman and some in Hartley - and it makes you stop and wonder. We have long considered ourselves a quiet, peaceful community with more churches, per capita, than any other town in the country. We have more parks, more organizations, and more clubs than we can finance. Yet, the District Attorney further says:

"I spent more of my time in Deaf Smith County during the past term of office than all of the other five counties combined."

I tried to convince Frank that the situation existed because we had better law enforcement officers than the other counties. He admits that our law men are good, but says that some of the other counties also have good officers. One thing he will have to admit, though, is the fact that we are meeting the crisis with a new, modern jail. If we must be infested with all of this sin and crime, it is nice to know that the boys will go first class.

Jim Connell, the Dumas man who sells office machines in this county, was telling me this week that all of the talk in Amarillo has it that Judge Roy Joe Stevens' law practice has more than doubled since the judge got all of the publicity through the TV hearings. Later, I heard that the judge had moved to Wichita Falls. Anyway, it is a good story, although it is hard for me to believe. People are not that "funny".

Bill Decker has so many activities that he sometimes gets them mixed up, and assigns the right activity to the wrong organization. However, he had a couple this week and seemed to have them in the right category.

As president of the Country Club, Decker says:

"Tell 'em that the swimming pool is in the plans - and that it will be finished by the time the club house is finished." As chairman of the Johnson - President club in this county, Decker says:

"Tell 'em I had so many people ask if Johnson would support the Democratic nominee, in case he does not get the Democratic nomination, that I called him on the telephone; Johnson definitely said that he will support the nominee, regardless of who that nominee turns out to be."

The outlook is excellent for a bumper dandelion crop. Ray Cowser is the only fellow I have met who says that he wiped out the dandelion population in his neighborhood. He used one of those stick deals, and was really bragging the other morning about his ability to combat the little yellow flowers. If you have a lot of trouble, he sugs and look him up. He claims to be and authority.

The annual Shrine Clinic for handicapped children will be held in Hereford again this year, according to Dr. M. C. Adams, chairman, who says the date will be May 21. Registration coupons will be printed in The Brand ahead of the clinic, according to present plans. Specialists will be here to help diagnose cases as in the past, Dr. Adams said.

Sometimes, I think that bankers are the smartest people in the country. Who else could stamp all of their bills "Insufficient Funds", mail them back to the senders - and get by with it?

Youngsters have a lot of things in 1960 that were unknown back in the 20's and 30's, but I think they are being rooked with these candy Easter eggs. Pity the poor kid who has never tasted the sweetness of a hardboiled egg, cracked outside and slightly colored inside, while his mother screams out:

"Don't you dare eat that, Junior, I told you and told you that that dye might be poison!"

Now days they even wrap the candy eggs in plastic paper and foil to keep them from getting dirty. All of which may be sanitary, but would not have exactly appealed to the kids of my generation.

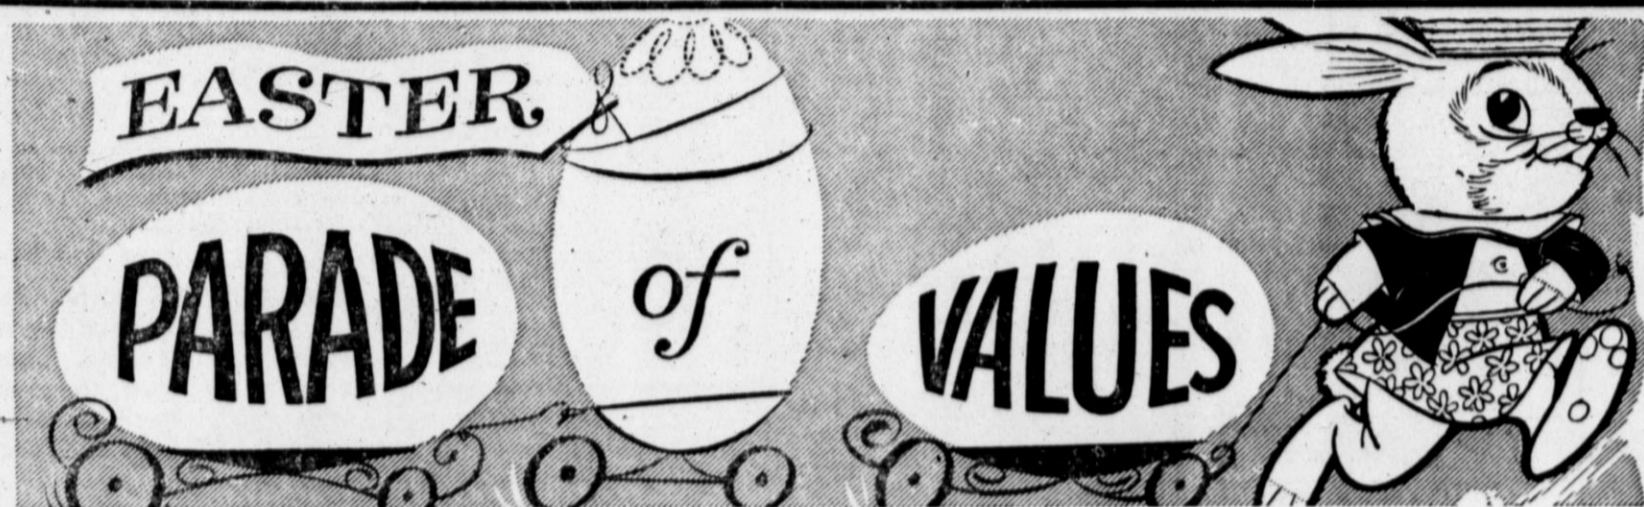

The last three Easter egg hunts I attended, they didn't even have one fight. When I was a kid we always had a good fight at every Easter egg hunt - or it was a flat failure. Come to think of it, we always had a good fight at the Chautauqua, Brunk's Comedians, the picture show, and at recess. Fact is, we used a lot more beef steak for non-eating purposes, but you've got to remember that good steak was 25 cents a pound back then - and that makes a lot of difference.

Yard enthusiasts and nature lovers owe it to themselves to drive out to the home of Mrs. A. O. Thompson, 208 Avenue E. and see the display of flowering shrubs - redbuds, flowering crab and flower peach. Be sure and drive around the block for the A-One, first class four. Audrey always has beautiful flowers and shrubs, but they seem to have outdone themselves this year. She hopes they will last through Sunday, but is afraid they won't hold out, so make it past today if possible. You'll say it was well worth the effort.

WALCOTT NEWS

Getting Rock From Ear Can Be Painful, Child Learns

By MRS. T. L. COLLINS
Denise Melton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Waldron Melton, stuck a rock in her ear at school Thursday, thinking she could get it out later, but found she was unable to remove the rock. Her parents took her to the Deaf Smith County Hospital in Hereford that evening.

Attending physicians were unable to remove the rock, so Denise was taken to St. Anthony's Hospital in Amarillo. She was in surgery from 12 to 2 a.m. She was dismissed from the hospital late Friday afternoon. She is improving rapidly.

A bus left Walcott School at 7 a. m. Friday for Happy, to attend the District 3-B Interscholastic League meeting for Literary events.

Thomas L. Collins drove the bus with 13 children who were entries. Mrs. Jack Weaver, and Joe Don. Mrs. J. V. Perrin and Mrs. Norman Minks were guests with the group for the day.

Nancy Minks competed in the story telling division; Mary Ruth Weaver, "The Unknown Soldier", sub - junior declamation; Clyde Wyly, "Just Rumbling On", in sub - junior declamation.

Marsha Burns gave "The Touch of the Master's Hand" in grade school declamation. John Perrin presented the grade school declamation, "It's Good to be a Livin'".

Larry Minks and Marilyn Tice, as a team, competed in number sense.

Gay Wyly and Phyllis Tice competed in fifth and sixth grade spelling. Adair Melton was alternate.

Dianne Jack and George Steward competed in seventh and eighth grade spelling. Sylvia Ivie was alternate.

None of the students received awards or ribbons.

Again on Saturday morning at 7 a. m. Thomas Collins drove a bus to Happy for the District 3-B Interscholastic Track meet. Among those attending were Donald Tice, George Steward and Coach G. W. Downing.

Steward took fourth place in chinning and Donald Tice took first place and won the blue ribbon, in the eight-pound "Shot Put" grade school division. He threw the Shot Put 47 feet and 4 inches, which was approximately 10 feet farther than the second place winner. District 3-B Interscholastic League includes these schools: Happy, Bovina, Lazbuddie, Nazareth, Hart and Walcott.

Deaf Smith County 4-H girls and boys gave their club demonstrations at Stanton Junior High School on Saturday morning. Those from Walcott participating were: "Safety in the Home", by Marsha Burns, who received a red ribbon, and Elizabeth Burrus, who received a white ribbon; "Features of a Good Salad", by Adair Melton and Phyllis Tice, both receiving red ribbons; "Public Speaking", by Vicki Burns, red ribbon;

"Feeding Milk - Fed Calves", Larry Minks and John Perrin, first place; "Gun Safety", by Damon Davis and Thomas Davis, both red ribbons. They placed fifth.

"Collecting Bugs and Insects", by Ronny Henderson, red ribbon; John Hall, red ribbon. They placed first in that division. There was no competition.

"How to Fix a Small Cut", by Ronnie Buse and Kelly Tyler, who received a blue ribbon and fourth place.

"Use of Hand Tools", by Billy Henderson and David Buse. Both got red ribbons and placed second.

Many Walcott families attended the demonstrations. Among them were Mrs. N. E. Tyler, Nancy and Jerry, Mrs. G. V. Hall and Danny, Mrs. Melvin Henderson, Mrs. J. V. Perrin, Thurman Davis, Waldron Melton, Mrs. Leland Burns, Mrs. J. T. Tice, Mrs. Glenn Burrus and Kathryn.

On Sunday cattle were worked on the Buel Monroe farm. The following ate lunch there: Mr. and Mrs. Joe Monroe of Clovis, N. M., Mr. and Mrs. Jim Monroe and children and Mr. and Mrs. Dan Guseman.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bass and Charles went to Amarillo on Friday to transact business and visit Mr. and Mrs. Quintus Meador and Greg.

Marsh Pittman from Hereford rode the high school bus out Friday afternoon to visit with Charles Bass until Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Payne, Darla and Larry from Hereford ate Saturday evening meal with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Rader. Larry stayed all night.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Downing spent Saturday in Canyon visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Cosby and Layne and Mr.

and Mrs. M. S. Downing.

Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Perrin attended the annual FFA banquet in Hereford with their son, J.V., Thursday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Gibson and Tony made a business trip to Amarillo on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Wyly, Debra and Gerald have moved to their new home near Friona, but the girls will continue coming to Walcott School this week to close out the fifth six - weeks before changing to Friona School.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Jack had visitors Sunday at dinner and in the afternoon. They were Mr. and Mrs. Elton Wyly and children. Mr. and Mrs. Bob Wyly and family, Mr. and Mrs. Porter and children from Tucumcari, N. M., Mr. and Mrs. Garland Lipe and baby from Muskogee, Okla., Mr. and Mrs. Harris Evans and children of Friona, Mr. and Mrs. Bertram Jack and family.

Mrs. Jim Stocks had a birthday on Tuesday. After a church practice at the Bippus Church last Friday evening, her Sunday School class of young people surprised her with a birthday party at her home. Those attending were: Thomas and Damon Davis, Sandra Heaton, Jack Dorris, Keith Henderson, A.W. Shurtart, Wayne and Peggy Sifford, Bill and Sylvia Ivie, Janell Weaver, Jerry, Kenneth and Nancy Tyler.

Ice cream, cake and punch were brought for refreshments and served to the group. A gift was presented to Mrs. Stocks from the group. Mary Sue Frazier, Lee and Carl Myers also signed the gift card, but were unable to attend.

Remember that Walcott P.T.O. will meet on Friday night, April 22, at 8 p. m. The first and second grades are preparing the program. There will be two plays, "The Wind Ward" and "The Easter Bunny Has Virus X", a fashion show, piano solos, Easter and spring songs and poems. Everyone is urged to attend, and bring sandwiches for refreshments.

The wheat continues to sprout higher and higher, almost each day in this area. Residents were not so pleased with the wind on Saturday and Sunday, having been spoiled by the extra - pretty spring days last week.

OFF THE Shelf

By H. A. TUCK

The Tower by Marguerite Steen is an off - beat novel just received by the Deaf Smith County Library.

London artist Tom Proctor had had some earlier small successes but his work of late had been attracting little attention. His wife stuck loyally to his side, yet was burdened with a child that needed constant attention.

Strictly by chance, Proctor did a wall mural that became the rage of London and gave him a commission to paint the interior of an old Moorish tower on the French Riviera.

It was to be the turning point of his career and the sought - after chance to perfect a new and off - beat style.

Proctor understood he was to share in the tower's publicity and as collaborator with the celebrated French artist Mesurat. But he had reckoned without the deceit of the wily Frenchmen and others, who were planning to take full credit for his work.

Neither was Tom aware that the Tower would throw him into a love affair born of loneliness and despair.

More than incidentally, The Tower is also a scathing indictment against the Socialist government of Britain. Socialized medicine and high income taxes particularly come in for some hard knocks from the authoress.

The Tower provides a startling glimpse behind the scenes of the modern art world. Although it comes from England, The Tower shows the trend to edit for American readers, as it contains few of the British spelling and grammatical uses which often slow down or discourage the reader.

The Mayflower which arrived in Plymouth, Mass., on Dec. 21, 1620, was three - masted. It had a speed of about 2 1/2 miles per hour.

The last shot fired against the Germans in World War I was from an American 14 - inch railway gun at Thierville, France. Its range was 21 miles.

Englishmen Report On U. S. Grain

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is a report on a recent 20-day visit to the U. S. A. made by six men from the British Isles.

Today we are interested mainly in feeding grains, and those which we get from the United States are mainly maize and milo. Stocks of old maize, together with the crop of new maize in the United States on the 1st October, amounted to a record of 149 million tons.

ropes, and that this will involve an increase in meat eating — be it beef, or pig, or broiler — and if they play their cards carefully a large proportion of the increased livestock will be fed on American surplus grain.

visit to America because the country is so big, and the conditions vary so much from place to place, that the same two people could travel in it for a month and never see the same thing, or even be within a thousand miles of each other.

but it is not true of the modern hybrid varieties of milo. Or it may have been due to the first shipments from the humid climate of the Gulf of Mexico arriving out of condition.

far, but in one respect milo is more attractive to me than maize; its protein content is nearly 2 per cent higher.

Committee Aiming At Goal Of Sound Financial Basis

By VERN SANFORD

AUSTIN — A 30-member committee appointed by Gov. Price Daniel will meet May 16 to begin work on a tall task.

Nearly three-fourths of the candidates for the Legislature this year have told the Texas State Teachers Association they favor a pay raise for teachers.

For the immediate future the tax program is to wipe out the general revenue fund deficit, which the governor estimates will be $40,000,000 at the end of this fiscal year.

Under the certificate plan, the borrower of $100 would agree to repay his loan through monthly payments on an investment certificate for $110.

Committee is to be made up of leading citizens in both public and private life. Six already have been named.

Under the certificate plan, the borrower of $100 would agree to repay his loan through monthly payments on an investment certificate for $110.

He hopes, said the governor, that the committee will work out some recommendations soon so that a special session can be called this year to pass teacher pay raises.

Highway Safety Topic Of Meet

Summerfield Study Club met with Mrs. J. C. Clearman Thursday afternoon, with Mrs. K. W. Neill as co-hostess.

During the business session, plans were made for delegates to attend Progress Day in Amarillo April 12, when a new district TFWC will be formed and a new name chosen for Seventh District.

Reports from the Seventh District TFWC Convention held in Lubbock recently were given by Mesdames Ray Johnson, L. H. Lookingbill Sr. and Guy Walser.

Mrs. J. R. Euler presented the program, dealing with "Safety on the Highways".

Members present were Mesdames Lee Curry, J. R. Euler, Ray Johnson, Earl Lance, Ky Sr., Guy Walser and the hostesses.

Takes Part In Air Exercise

MAINZ, GERMANY — Army Specialist Four Perry J. Kearns, son of Mrs. Lillian Kearns, 126 Bennett St., Hereford, recently participated with other personnel from the 8th Division's 505th Infantry in Operation Fer De Lance, an airborne exercise conducted near Pau, France.

The exercise included a daily air drop of a company size unit followed by field training maneuvers conducted under realistic combat conditions.

State Supreme Court has again refused to get involved in a dispute as to whether a Dallas district judge can hold a railway president in contempt of court because trains blocked a Dallas street.
However, the high court repeated, with emphasis, its belief that the district court order is void and "no trial judge will attempt to enforce" it.

Dallas Dist. Judge Jack Thornton sentenced M-K-T President W. N. Deramus to 240 days in jail and levied a $4,000 fine because Katy trains blocked a street more than five minutes at a time, against the judge's order. "Since then, an underpass has begun."
Deramus, a St. Louis, Mo., resident, has sought to avoid coming to Texas to appear in Thornton's court despite the Supreme Court's reassurances. Thornton has declared he would put the railway executive in jail.

WE RESERVE THE RIGHT TO LIMIT QUANTITIES

Englishmen

to a certain extent reduce that most expensive part of the ration — the protein oil cake.
It is true that maize is a much better source of Vitamin A than milo, but Vitamin A is no worry to us nowadays. So far as I am concerned the use of milo or maize in a ration is just a matter of relative prices, with a slight bias in favour of milo because of its higher protein.
There is, of course, the rather special feature of milo in its suitability for broiler rations. The Americans, who must have a yellow fleshed bird, insist on yellow maize in their broiler rations, whereas we want a white fleshed bird and, therefore, turn to milo.

Indeed the Americans seem to have realized that milo must be the basis of our broiler rations. The alternatives have their drawbacks. Maize produces a yellow flesh, barley is low in energy, and there are limitations to the use of wheat.

There is one thing which we told the Americans that they ought to do about their milo if they want to sell more of it, and that is to tighten up their grading standards. For instance,

No. 2 milo, which is the basis of the trade, can contain up to 15 per cent moisture. Now, if you ship milo with 15 per cent moisture out of the Gulf ports in their humid summer weather it may not arrive in very good condition. Indeed, they use 13 per cent moisture as the basis of their domestic transactions, and we suggested they should use the same basis in international trade.

That is enough about milo, which, except for use in broiler rations, is of most interest to the port miller and to people like me in the north-west where farmers do not grow barley.

We are, however, most of us interested in maize, and in this matter we came back with at least some good news.

The Americans agree that their method of determining moisture in maize has been unsatisfactory, and already they have adopted a different method which will result in a reduction of nearly 1 per cent in the moisture content of No. 2 Yellow American Maize.

We impressed upon them our dislike of such high proportion of dust and broken maize. They attribute this partly to the artificial drying of maize at country elevators and partly to the subsequent use of mechanical trimmers at the ports of loading. They are now considering this problem, although they do not yet know the solution.

We talked to several compound manufacturers and went over three mills producing compounds. Here I will risk two generalisations.

First, it seemed to me that the job of the compounder in America is easier than in this country. This is partly because all his principal ingredients are on his doorstep. He does not have to go to Canada for soya bean meal, or British East Africa for cottonseed meal, or the Argentine for maize. To a very large extent the materials he uses are all growing around him. By a happy chance, too, the amino acid deficiencies in maize are balanced by a corresponding abundance of soya bean meal. In the part of the country we visited, the basis of the compound industry was maize or milo with cottonseed meal and soya bean meal.

To me, the composition of their compounds seemed rather simpler than ours, but the most striking difference was that nearly all their beef cattle were being fed hormones. The second generalisation is that the Americans appear to be ahead of us in production methods, but behind us in the quality and finish of their products. British farmers would have complained about some of the cattle nuts or battery pellets we saw there. On the other hand the three mills which we saw were all operated electronically.

The mill foreman operated the mill from a control panel of switches and lights. His switches controlled the delivery of material from a series of bins into a mixer. From the mixer it went to a holding bin for delivery to the cuber, or for sacking off.

In the simpler models the operator kept his finger on the switch until the required weight of material from the bin was recorded on a scale in front of him. Then he transferred his finger to the next switch operating the next bin. The operator had to work at the control panel all the time.

In the more elaborate installations the switches were preset to the weights required from each bin, and a master switch was set to the number of batches required. The operator could then leave the control panel and the required number of batches were produced automatically.

One noticeable thing was that, apart from the pre-mix of minerals, vitamins etc., nothing was bagged until it was a finished product.

Maize, milo, cottonseed meal, alfalfa meal, all arrived in bulk, and in the larger mills the control panel, which delivered the ingredients to the mixer, also controlled the intake of ingredients to the bins. In the mills we saw this electronic apparatus was installed by the Hardy Scale Co. of Maywood, California, and we were told in each mill that it gave virtually no trouble.

There is some delivery of finished products in bulk, but not much. The mills we saw were said to be capable of producing from 30 to 50 tons per hour, but they did not appear to be doing this when we were there. They run for a day shift only.

I have said that I think the American feeding stuffs manufacturer has an easier job than we have in this country, but this is not true in the matter of mill workers.

In view of all we have heard about the organisation of American labour I was surprised to find that there were no trade unions in the mills we visited. I was, of course, prepared for a mixture of races and colours among the workers, but when I came face to face with it I realised what a great advantage we have in working in a homogeneous community.

In our small mill in Cumberland all the workers have the same background and interests, and broadly speaking they look upon our mill as their life's work. I am sure that this is not uncommon throughout this country.

In America, however, the workers are of very mixed origin and this inevitably leads, I think, to relative instability. I got the impression that the foremen are permanent employees but that there is a relatively big turnover of workers below that level. They work very hard indeed (perhaps harder than we do) when they are on the job.

Several hundred citizens and workers in the field of health, welfare and recreation are expected to attend.

Registration starts at 7:30 a. m. in the YMCA Building in Amarillo. The conference theme is "Community Living in the Sixties — People, Problems and Planning."

During the morning session panel discussions will be Today's Family and Its Children; Recreation and Character - Building Services; Moving people - What Are Their Problems?

The afternoon session will include panels on: Our Aging Citizens - What are Their Needs?; Youth in Trouble - What Are We Doing?; Health Services - How Are They Provided?

The sessions are open to all interested persons. Registration is $2.50, including the luncheon meal. Those who would like to attend are urged to send in information about which panel discussion they would like to attend in both the morning and afternoon sessions. Such information should be sent to Miss Carol Owens, President, Panhandle Chapter, Texas Social Welfare Association, P. O. Box 2823, Amarillo.

ing to get the land ready for now crop planting, many are beginning to irrigate the wheat, which is growing rapidly.

Some are still fertilizing and vegetable crop planting is underway on a number of farms.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lemons and family over the week end with her mother, Mrs. J. M. Waller of Morton.

but you cannot be sure that they will be on the job very long. This position alters the relationship between management and worker and adds to the difficulties of management.

I think, in another field, the relationship between the salesmen and the management is also rather different. I got the impression that in America there is materially more emphasis upon payment by results than there is in this country. The successful salesman seemed to be more highly paid and the unsuccessful one more likely to be looking for another job.

It would be natural if we were shown only the best and most up-to-date mills and, indeed, it was these which we wanted to see, but we did try to get into two small plants run by country merchants. In both cases, however, alterations which were in progress, or something of that kind, made a visit inconvenient.

Some country merchants, however, had solved the farm mixing problem in a way I have not seen in this country. Mounted on an 8' to 10' ton truck was an installation consisting of small elevator to pick up grain and deliver it to a grinder. From the grinder it went into a mixer. The truck also carried a bin full of mineral-vitamin pre-mix and a tank of molasses which discharged into the mixer. The mixture was then bagged off.

This machine travelled round from farm to farm where there was home-grown grain to be mixed into a ration. The merchant supplied the farmer with any proteins or other ingredients he might require to balance his rations, and charged for the use of the machine, with two men, at a rate per ton depending on the quantity to be ground and mixed. They made regular calls at certain farms once a fortnight.

In such a brief account of an extensive tour, as this must be, it is necessary to jump from one subject to another in a rather disjointed way. I am going to jump now from the manufacture of compounds to the sale of grain.

There seemed to be a certain number of local direct sales, but the greater part of the trade in grain is based on grading. This is facilitated by the fact that everywhere grain is handled in bulk. Nowhere, at any time, did we see grain in a sack. The queues of lorries waiting outside the local elevators, which indicated that the combine harvesters were at work, were carrying milo in bulk.

Every lorry arriving at the country elevator or every truck arriving at the terminal elevator was sampled, examined and tested for moisture before it was taken in. Those long, slotted sampling tools were standard equipment everywhere.

When the farmer brought his grain to the country elevator it was unofficially graded with an eye mainly on moisture content. The moisture of the incoming load was determined before it was off the weighbridge.

When the country elevator sold the grain, or delivered it to the terminal elevator, it was sampled and graded by official State graders. Sales between States are usually, — and exports are always, — based on grades determined by official Federal graders.

In the sale of wheat to American millers the terminal elevator goes much further than just grading. A sample is drawn from each bin and this sample is milled and baked in a laboratory so that the miller can be provided with information as to the baking qualities of the wheat in each bin before he buys it. The miller pays a small premium for the service.

As one who is at the receiving end of the grain trade I viewed this procedure with wonder and envy. I know I shall be told that there are a dozen reasons why anything of this kind is both unnecessary and impossible in this country. However, I remember the days when the idea of using a combine harvester here was ridiculed.

Incidentally, the farmers I talked to did not own any combine harvesters. This work is all done by contractors, who start on the early spring crops in the south and work their way north with the harvest, ending up in the late autumn in Canada some 2,000 miles from their starting point.

No account of the American feeding stuffs industry would be complete without some reference to its most recent subsidiary, the broiler industry. I use the word "subsidiary" advisedly. Broiler men in America may have started as independent producers but it was not long before they owed their feeding stuffs suppliers so much money that they became partners in the enterprise. One feeding stuffs manufacturer said to me "The last thing I wanted to do was to go into the broiler industry, but I'm there!"

The arrangements between the two partners in the business vary in detail, but basically the feeding stuffs manufacturer provides the chicks and the food, etc., and pays the broiler producer about 2 cents per lb. live-weight for broilers.

The manufacturer sells these to the packing station for 14 or 15 cents per lb. The broiler producer passes perhaps 1 cent per lb. to his landlord for rent on the land and buildings.

These figures are only approximate and most of the arrangements include an incentive bonus to the producer based on food conversion or profits. Everyone involved in the business complains that it is unprofitable and everyone goes on with it. Perhaps it is not the profit they are so worried about but the spec-

We make Gladiola Flour for the state of Texas and our neighbors right next door. We have to make it good enough to satisfy the best home bakers in America.

We've been doing that for 47 years, and women appreciate it. They buy far more Gladiola Flour than any other brand. For the kind of biscuits, cakes and pies they bake, nothing else will do.

Snow-white Gladiola is the one flour good enough for your family, too—even if you came here from Horse Cave, Ky. And it costs only about 1/2¢ a day more than the cheapest brand on the shelf.

REP. WALTER ROGERS WRITES:

Cherry Blossom Festival —Sans Cherry Blossoms

To the people of the 18th District:

Spring in all its glory is bursting forth in the Nation's Capitol. The annual Cherry Blossom Festival is in full swing, although the cherry blossoms have not yet blossomed.

However, nature will surely take care of this little matter before Easter. It seems each year that man and nature have difficulty in their timing.

If the Festival is set late, the blossoms bloom early; and if the Festival is set early, the blossoms bloom late. In any event, it is always a festive occasion and one which is enjoyed by all.

But the big event this year, as it is every year in the lives of Christian people, is Easter Sunday. The world, like many of its inhabitants, is blossoming forth in a new spring wardrobe, and a beautiful one it is. I have always felt that it must have been around Easter that George Washington made his final decision to locate the Nation's Capitol at the confluence of the Potomac and Anacostia Rivers.

There has been a lot of water under the bridges of both of those rivers since that decision was made, and there have been many changes in the world; especially in those things of which man has had control. But there has been very little change in the natural beauty of the country.

The churches will be crowded to overflowing on Easter Sunday. It's too bad that the same cannot be said of every other Sunday in the year. One pastor here is reputed to have predicted his sermon one Easter Sunday day wishing all of those present a Merry Christmas.

He explained as his reason for doing this that he would probably not see many of them again before that time. This is a thought which could well be pondered in the minds of many in this country, and there is no more appropriate time for such meditation than the Easter season.

The many revelations of wrongdoing in several segments of our economy would indicate that the moral structure of our nation needs some repair work, if not a complete overhaul job. And the defects which need correction are not confined to local areas.

They are statewide, in many instances, and nationwide. When favoritism from some regulatory agencies of the Federal government can be purchased like potatoes in a grocery store, something is wrong. When violations of the criminal laws are winked at because someone has been paid off, something is wrong.

When public property is mis-

It appeared to us as we went about the country that there was a very great deal of integration between agriculture and the associated industries, similar to that between the feedings stuffs manufacturer and the broiler producer. We found, for instance, the meat packers heavily involved in beef production, and a chain of supermarkets launching out into egg production. Except in the case of the broiler industry, however, this is an impression which I do not altogether trust. We have the same sort of thing to a limited extent in this country, and these establishments are more readily available to visitors than are the independent private farmers. Visitors may, therefore, get a false impression.

It is a pity that I have not time to tell you something of the social side of our activities and my impressions of life in America. We were entertained abundantly everywhere, from the "ehuck wagon" supper on the ranch, to the dinner in the exclusive country club.

We were guests at a dozen or more lunches or dinners given by Chambers of Commerce and other bodies — once even at a 7 a. m. breakfast given by a bank for 60 or 70 of its customers!

The gentlemen of the Press (with their inevitable cameras) were our daily companions. We were on the wireless three times, and on television twice. We visited their universities — saw their football — attended their churches. The days were not long enough for everything of interest and pleasure which they offered us, and for a long time we shall remember a lot of people with gratitude.

used to the profit of a few unscrupulous individuals, something is wrong. When young people and little children are used in the practice of fraud and cheating, something is wrong. When obscenity becomes an everyday occurrence, something is wrong. When people obtain government jobs through examinations taken by others, something is wrong.

Legislation can go a long way in setting up guide lines to help cure the ills reflected by the practices which have been revealed. However, legislation alone cannot cure these ills.

They can only be cured by the searching re-appraisal of the individual moral code. It has been said many times that you cannot legislate morals. This is as true today as it was when it was first uttered. It is being proven at the present time by the difficulty which is being experienced in trying to write into law a "code of ethics" for the Independent Agencies of the Federal government.

It is another case of the trouble man will always have in trying to improve upon the Ten Commandments. A scoundrel, a mountebank, and a crook will always be just that, regardless of the law, until he changes his own moral code and decides to live by the teachings of Christ.

Many good people who are morally and basically sound have had occasion in the last few years to wink at practices which they knew in their own hearts were not in keeping with the teachings of Christianity. Yet, if a profit was involved, they were able to conjure up some good explanation or excuse for engaging in the practice or permitting it. Now is the time, during this Easter season, for the people in this country to take an inventory of their Christian principles and to restock their shelves with those which they find short.

We appreciated seeing several folks from the Panhandle last week here in Washington. The very gracious Mrs. W. D. DeGrassi from Amarillo was in the Nation's Capitol as a Delegate to the White House Youth Conference. From Childress, we had Mr. R. A. Yarbrough, and Mr. and Mrs. C. C. to a certain extent reduce that most expensive part of the ration — the protein oil cake. It is true that maize is a much better source of Vitamin A than milo, but Vitamin A is no worry to us nowadays. So far as I am concerned the use of milo or maize in a ration is just a matter of relative prices, with a slight bias in favour of milo because of its higher protein.

There is, of course, the rather special feature of milo in its suitability for broiler rations. The Americans, who must have a yellow fleshed bird, insist on yellow maize in their broiler rations, whereas we want a white fleshed bird and, therefore, turn to milo.

Indeed the Americans seem to have realised that milo must be the basis of our broiler rations. The alternatives have their drawbacks. Maize produces a yellow flesh, barley is too low in energy, and there are limitations to the use of wheat.

There is one thing which we told the Americans that they ought to do about their milo if they want to sell more of it, and that is to tighten up their grading standards. For instance,

No. 2 milo, which is the basis of the trade, can contain up to 15 per cent moisture. Now, if you ship milo with 15 per cent moisture out of the Gulf ports in their humid summer weather it may not arrive in very good condition. Indeed, they use 13 per cent moisture as the basis of their domestic transactions, and we suggested they should use the same basis in international trade.

That is enough about milo, which, except for use in broiler rations, is of most interest to the port miller and to people like me in the north-west where farmers do not grow barley.

We are, however, most of us interested in maize, and in this matter we came back with at least some good news. The Americans agree that their method of determining moisture in maize has been unsatisfactory, and already they have adopted a different method which will result in a reduction of nearly 1 per cent in the moisture content of No. 2 Yellow American Maize.

We impressed upon them our dislike of such high proportion of dust and broken maize. They attribute this partly to the artificial drying of maize at country elevators and partly to the subsequent use of mechanical trimmers at the ports of loading. They are now considering this problem, although they do not yet know the solution.

We talked to several compound manufacturers and went over three mills producing compounds. Here I will risk two generalisations.

First, it seemed to me that the job of the compounder in America is easier than in this country. This is partly because all his principal ingredients are on his doorstep. He does not have to go to Canada for soya bean meal, or British East Africa for cottonseed meal, or the Argentine for maize. To a very large extent the materials he uses are all growing around him. By a happy chance, too, the amino acid deficiencies in maize are balanced by a corresponding abundance of soya bean meal. In the part of the country we visited, the basis of the compound industry was maize or milo with cottonseed meal and soya bean meal.

To me, the composition of their compounds seemed rather simpler than ours, but the most striking difference was that nearly all their beef cattle were being fed hormones. The second generalisation is that the Americans appear to be ahead of us in production methods, but behind us in the quality and finish of their products. British farmers would have complained about some of the cattle nuts or battery pellets we saw there. On the other hand the three mills which we saw were all operated electronically.

The mill foreman operated the mill from a control panel of switches and lights. His switches controlled the delivery of material from a series of bins into a mixer. From the mixer it went to a holding bin for delivery to the cuber, or for sacking off.

In the simpler models the operator kept his finger on the switch until the required weight of material from the bin was recorded on a scale in front of him. Then he transferred his finger to the next switch operating the next bin. The operator had to work at the control panel all the time.

In the more elaborate installations the switches were preset to the weights required from each bin, and a master switch was set to the number of batches required. The operator could then leave the control panel and the required number of batches were produced automatically.

One noticeable thing was that, apart from the pre-mix of minerals, vitamins etc., nothing was bagged until it was a finished product.

Maize, milo, cottonseed meal, alfalfa meal, all arrived in bulk, and in the larger mills the control panel, which delivered the ingredients to the mixer, also controlled the intake of ingredients to the bins. In the mills we saw this electronic apparatus was installed by the Hardy Scale Co. of Maywood, California, and we were told in each mill that it gave virtually no trouble.

There is some delivery of finished products in bulk, but not much. The mills we saw were said to be capable of producing from 30 to 50 tons per hour, but they did not appear to be doing this when we were there. They run for a day shift only.

I have said that I think the American feeding stuffs manufacturer has an easier job than we have in this country, but this is not true in the matter of mill workers.

In view of all we have heard about the organisation of American labour I was surprised to find that there were no trade unions in the mills we visited. I was, of course, prepared for a mixture of races and colours among the workers, but when I came face to face with it I realised what a great advantage we have in working in a homogeneous community.

In our small mill in Cumberland all the workers have the same background and interests, and broadly speaking they look upon our mill as their life's work. I am sure that this is not uncommon throughout this country.

In America, however, the workers are of very mixed origin and this inevitably leads, I think, to relative instability. I got the impression that the foremen are permanent employees but that there is a relatively big turnover of workers below that level. They work very hard indeed (perhaps harder than we do) when they are on the job, but you cannot be sure that they will be on the job very long. This position alters the relationship between management and worker and adds to the difficulties of management.

I think, in another field, the relationship between the salesmen and the management is also rather different. I got the impression that in America there is materially more emphasis upon payment by results than there is in this country. The successful salesman seemed to be more highly paid and the unsuccessful one more likely to be looking for another job.

It would be natural if we were shown only the best and most up-to-date mills and, indeed, it was these which we wanted to see, but we did try to get into two small plants run by country merchants. In both cases, however, alterations which were in progress, or something of that kind, made a visit inconvenient.

Some country merchants, however, had solved the farm mixing problem in a way I have not seen in this country. Mounted on an 8 to 10 ton truck was an installation consisting of small elevator to pick up grain and deliver it to a grinder. From the grinder it went into a mixer. The truck also carried a bin full of mineral-vitamin pre-mix and a tank of molasses which discharged into the mixer. The mixture was then bagged off.

This machine travelled round from farm to farm where there was home-grown grain to be mixed into a ration. The merchant supplied the farmer with any proteins or other ingredients he might require to balance his rations, and charged for the use of the machine, with two men, at a rate per ton depending on the quantity to be ground and mixed. They made regular calls at certain farms once a fortnight.

In such a brief account of an extensive tour, as this must be, it is necessary to jump from one subject to another in a rather disjointed way. I am going to jump now from the manufacture of compounds to the sale of grain.

There seemed to be a certain number of local direct sales, but the greater part of the trade in grain is based on grading. This is facilitated by the fact that everywhere grain is handled in bulk. Nowhere, at any time, did we see grain in a sack. The queues of lorries waiting outside the local elevators, which indicated that the combine harvesters were at work, were carrying milo in bulk.

Every lorry arriving at the country elevator or every truck arriving at the terminal elevator was sampled, examined and tested for moisture before it was taken in. Those long, slotted sampling tools were standard equipment everywhere.

When the farmer brought his grain to the country elevator it was unofficially graded with an eye mainly on moisture content. The moisture of the incoming load was determined before it was off the weighbridge.

When the country elevator sold the grain, or delivered it to the terminal elevator, it was sampled and graded by official State graders. Sales between States are usually, — and exports are always, — based on grades determined by official Federal graders.

In the sale of wheat to American millers the terminal elevator goes much further than just grading. A sample is drawn from each bin and this sample is milled and baked in a laboratory so that the miller can be

They can only be cured by the searching re-appraisal of the individual moral code. It has been said many times that you cannot legislate morals. This is as true today as it was when it was first uttered. It is being proven at the present time by the difficulty which is being experienced in trying to write into law a "code of ethics" for the Independent Agencies of the Federal government.

It is another case of the trouble man will always have in trying to improve upon the Ten Commandments. A scoundrel, a mountebank, and a crook will always be just that, regardless of the law, until he changes his own moral code and decides to live by the teachings of Christ.

Many good people who are morally and basically sound have had occasion in the last few years to wink at practices which they knew in their own hearts were not in keeping with the teachings of Christianity. Yet, if a profit was involved, they were able to conjure up some good explanation or excuse for engaging in the practice or permitting it. Now is the time, during this Easter season, for the people in this country to take an inventory of their Christian principles and to restock their shelves with those which they find short.

We appreciated seeing several folks from the Panhandle last week here in Washington. The very gracious Mrs. W. D. DeGrassi from Amarillo was in the Nation's Capitol as a Delegate to the White House Youth Conference. From Childress, we had Mr. R. A. Yarbrough, and Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Broughton along with their daughter Mrs. V. L. Castleberry of Alexandria, Virginia. Mr. Leo Forrest from Hereford, Mr. A. J. Garland from Goodnight, Mr. George L. Henry of Wellington, and Mr. Douglas Meador from Borger were

Called Meeting Held By Group

A called meeting in the form of a coffee was held by the Pioneer Study Club Tuesday morning in the home of Mrs. L. H. Lookingbill Sr.

Plans were made for Progress Day in Amarillo April 12, when also welcome visitors, as were Mr. Emmett Parsons, Mr. H. R. Spradlin, Mr. A. R. Watson, and Mrs. Jewell Robertson, all from Amarillo.

It was a pleasure to visit with Mr. and Mrs. Howard Payne of Dumas when they were in Washington briefly en route to an extended European trip and to see their son in Germany.

Many people complain about the Federal government getting into everything, except their own pet project. Here is part of a communication I received the other day: "I am against Uncle Sam playing big brother. But, no Texan, rural or urban, can fail to approve Federal appropriations for the eradication of the screwworm."

a new TFWC District will be formed.

Plans for projects, programs and new year's work were completed. Mrs. Ray Johnson was named yearbook chairman. She will be assisted by Mesdames Delmar Sigle, Buddy Evans and O. G. Hill Sr.

Plans were also made for the covered dish luncheon on April 26 honoring the Golden Age Group. Mrs. Buddy Evans will be hostess. Any one shut in or eight-ty years old may join the group by calling Mrs. Ralph McCullough.

ulative nature of the enterprise and the ever-present danger of disease.

It appeared to us as we went about the country that there was a very great deal of integration between agriculture and the associated industries, similar to that between the feedings stuffs manufacturer and the broiler producer. We found, for instance, the meat packers heavily involved in beef production, and a chain of supermarkets launching out into egg production. Except in the case of the broiler industry, however, this is an impression which I do not altogether trust. We have the same sort of thing to a limited extent in this country, and these establishments are more readily available to visitors than are the independent private farmers. Visitors may, therefore, get a false impression.

It is a pity that I have not time to tell you something of the social side of our activities and my impressions of life in America. We were entertained abundantly everywhere, from the "chuck wagon" supper on the ranch, to the dinner in the exclusive country club.

We were guests at a dozen or more lunches or dinners given by Chambers of Commerce and other bodies — once even at a 7 a. m. breakfast given by a bank for 60 or 70 of its customers!

The gentlemen of the Press (with their inevitable cameras) were our daily companions. We were on the wireless three times, and on television twice. We visited their universities — saw their football — attended their churches. The days were not long enough for everything of interest and pleasure which they offered us, and for a long time we shall remember a lot of people with gratitude.

NEW low profile TIRE

that gives 25% more miles!

Here's why

Gates Air-Float Deluxe NYLON Low Profile saves you tire money

Conventional Design

Conventional tire running on the road, bulges, flattens, slips and scuffs. High-power starts and high-speed driving increases this flexing and scuffing... builds up heat in tire body. Heat and scuffing shorten tire life.

Low Profile Design

Gates Air-Float Deluxe Low Profile Tire has revolutionary new shape to reduce sidewall flexing, eliminate serious heat and scuffing. This low profile shape plus new tread design actually increases tire mileage 25%!

Thousands and thousands of extra miles are delivered by the all-new Gates 1960 Air-Float Deluxe Nylon Low Profile Tire! The low profile shape greatly reduces sidewall flexing to do away with excess heat in the tire body and protect against tread scuffing, adding thousands of extra miles in tire use!

Tops in safety and traction, Gates Air-Float Deluxe Low Profile Tires have deep, cold-rubber tread in new quiet-running tread design that has more than 8,000 gripping edges! You're assured of safe, silent traction!

Actually Saves Gas! Because low profile shape eliminates slipping and scuffing — you really go farther on every cup of gas; an extra saving you'll notice in the long run!

Unconditional Road-Hazard Guarantee

Made with more than 2 miles of tempered nylon cord, this tire is so tough it is virtually blow-out proof! Guaranteed against any failure for full tread life. Should tire fail, you get a new tire, with full credit for unused mileage, based on Gates standard adjustment schedule.

Judy McGee Looks Back On Cheerleading, School Life

Miss Judy McGee is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Taft McGee and lives at 209 Avenue D. Judy was born in Oklahoma City, Okla. on August 15, 1942. She moved from Tuttle, Okla., with her family when she was three years old, and started to school in Hereford when she was six.

Judy said she didn't know about cheerleaders until she was in Junior High, but she thought it looked as if it would be a lot of fun. Judy has had a few embarrassing moments during her term as cheerleader but she would recall one time when we had our Homecoming and the rain, but we were really proud of Judy that night because during all the rain and wet weather she never lost her school spirit.

It also seems like Judy had a hard time keeping her shoe on during one of the downtown pep rallies. One of the most exciting moments for Judy was when we had an overtime basketball game at Phillips. She recalls that she almost had a few grey hairs over that.

She recalls one incident from her grade school days when she was in the fifth grade. She was playing "crack-the-whip" which was against the rules and she nearly got sent to the office because of it.

Judy belongs to the N. H. S., Tri-Hi-Y, Thespians, FTA, and in the past she has belonged to F. H. A.

Judy plans to go to college after she graduates, but she would like to advise the forthcoming cheerleaders to "work hard and have fun. You will never have such a wonderful experience and you will never have anything which will mean as much to you." She thinks it is the most wonderful honor ever bestowed on any girl. But you must put everything you have into it, and she knows the new cheerleaders will.

She would like to express her gratitude to all who helped her and the other cheerleaders this year and to all the people who supported the team. This has been a wonderful year and she hopes that she has lived up to all the ideals of everyone as a cheerleader.

Now the time has come to turn over cheerleading to the new but it has really been a wonderful year for Judy and she has really done her best. It would never have been the same without Judy and I am sure we all think she has done a good job—plus.

A POEM? The Old Maid And The Burglar

Oh, listen to the story of a Burglar bold
Who broke into a house;
He opened the window and crept inside, as silent
as a mouse.
He hoped to get some swag;
He hoped to make a haul;
But if he'd known 'twas an old maid's house,
He wouldn't have had the gall.
At nine the skinny old maid came in
"Oh, I'm so tired," she said.
And thinking things were quite all right,
She didn't look under the bed.
She took out her teeth, and her big glass eye, and the hair from off her head,
And the burglar had a thousand fits
As he watched from under the bed.
From under her pillow a pistol crept,
He was a total wreck,
The old maid wasn't asleep at all;
She grabbed him by the neck, she didn't scream or holler or yell,
She was as calm as a clam;
And all she said was, "Saints be praised!
At last I found a man!"
From under her pillow a pistol she took,
and to the burglar she said, "Young man if you don't marry me, I'll blow off the top of your head."
The burglar was too scared to yell;
he was too scared to scot;
He took one look at her big glass eye,
And said, "For Pete's sake! Shoot!"

Judy McGee . . . now

Judy McGee . . . then

Like Tips On Going Twins

Hello, all you cats! This is Kookie speaking to you from Antville while waiting for someone to bring me some horses to stable.

While I am sitting here on a dag tag with the zorros, I will give you a few pointers on dating.

Now, don't blow your jets! I am not flipped or need to be buzzed by Germville, but I'm just a cat who is really crazy and wants something to do.

Do you cats ever go twins? If you do, make it a point not to play octopus because more than likely the chick in skins you are with doesn't mind but the other two won't like it a bit and won't go twins with you again.

Well, it's time to move my roosted wheels, but if you ever get smog in the noggin and want to know what's on the front burner, just send a Washington and your question to me here at 77 Sunset Strip in Hollywood.

To those of you who don't dig any of this, here are a few words to get educated with so you can make with the King's Jive.

Bits of News

The FHA Chiff Supper was held March 26 at the High School Cafeteria. We would like to thank all the boys, girls, parents, and the Frio Trio, who made this supper so successful. Without their help it would not have been possible to manage our Annual Fund-Raising activities. All the proceeds from this supper will be used to bring exchange students to Hereford.

The Thespain Troop Presented the play they used at a contest on March 29. They have done a wonderful job on the play and we would like to wish them a lot of luck. The cast members are: Bobby Renfro, Judy Bradley, Judy Coffin, Kay Sims, Jonna Lee Bloeker and Jimmy Reinauer.

Word was received on Saturday, March 26, that seven girls from Hereford will be awarded their State Degree in FHA. These lucky girls are: Cherry Holt, Royce Pruitt, Phyllis Ward, Jane Pool, Twyla Springer, Sheryl Patterson and Dorris Willoughby.

April 4-8 was National FHA Week. The entire school participated in Campus Clean-Up sponsored by the FHA with the assistance of the Student Council. We would like to thank every person who helped with the campaign. Our school yard looks so much prettier.

Before Leaping ... Look Out!

Hey, girls! It's leap year again, and I don't have to tell you what that means. I sometimes wonder if Julius Caesar realized what a boon it was to the female race when he made out that calendar.

According to the encyclopedia, the length of the year is 365 1/4 days. Therefore, every fourth year, an extra day must be added to make up for the quarter day lost during the preceding years. From what I've heard, this special year makes up for lost time, too.

I've always wondered why they call it leap year. It's anybody's guess as to which of the two parties does the leaping. What I mean is, some girls can take the initiative without actually "leaping". Others simply take the word literally.

With luck, these individuals will pick a cooperative fellow who likes to let the gal do all the work. But in a pinch, the aggressor may run into a fellow who likes to do his own leaping, regardless of Julius Caesar's careful planning. What does a girl do then? If she has any mentality, she'll backtrack, but heck! What girl is willing to admit she's wrong? (knowingly, of course)

What I'm driving at is this. Does leap year really authorize a girl's proposal for marriage? The marriage bureau say it does. Of course, both parties must be perfectly agreeable. I also wonder how many marriages each leap year take place because the girl made the first move.

After looking into this, we find no real change in the matrimonial procedure. The groom - to - be proposes in most cases, but there are some who do take advantage of leap year. Usually the proposal is technically leap year style, but only to add a humorous touch to the "bended knee" situation.

Leap year does not necessarily have to refer to marriage. You can leap into one thing as easily as another. Let's say you've admired this fellow for practically ages. The question is how to let him know you're alive.

Of course this isn't easy even if it is leap year; but at least now you have an excuse if you need it. Now you must learn to "leap" gracefully and save face while you are at it.

Your actions must be shrewd, suave, and sneaky. Of course, since you are a girl, you already have the aptitude for this. Plan your approach carefully, but it's your entrance that really counts. Be careful not to trip or your strategy will be ruined. Of course you have your own ideas as to how to let him know you're alive. One way is to speak to him. Be friendly for a change. — I'm sure you all know what to do.

After breaking the ice, do not melt it, let your feminine charm work for you. In this world of today, with America's women shoulder high to her men, we girls might as well take one more step.

While Rome Burns . . .

(Editor's note: This little "gem" was taken from the wastebasket the other day).

"It is raining today, and it is coming through the walls and we are about to drown. In a minute I will be under water, and these will be my last words to the outside world. But, I can tread water for a while; that is until it gets to the ceiling, then I'm afraid to say what my fate will be . . ."

The water is almost up to the typewriter now. In a moment I will be unable to type . . . Mrs. Duvall is taking it all very well . . . she's fishing! Gads . . . she always had a good sense of humor poor lady . . . HEY! . . . she's got one! A five pound trout!"

A Challenge

In this era in which we are living, it is becoming more and more necessary that all students become well-educated in all areas. Athletes, because they do have ability beyond the average, should set the standards for other students in scholarship achievements. An athlete has a place of honor in his school. As a result of this honor, he should have the responsibility to set proper examples in citizenship, health, and scholarship. It is my sincere wish that the athletes of Texas, through the outstanding scholastic achievements which they have the ability to attain, will do away forever with the popular public misconception that "athletes are dumb."

Advice From A Lateness Expert

Holding an unblemished record as the only student late every day of her high school year, I am an expert in the various modes of making a late appearance. Being late in high school was much easier than being late now. I had a devoted friend who managed to roll me out of bed each morning and propel me to my homeroom nearly on time.

I was nonetheless always late, but during class prayers every morning, just at the split second my homeroom teacher declined her head for a moment of meditation, I craftily sneaked in through the back door.

Since I've entered college, my friend played a vile trick on me by getting married, and I am left with only an unsympathetic alarm clock to shake me from slumber. Naturally I am later than ever.

One of the most elementary ideas, usually adopted by freshmen, demands that you tiptoe to class appearing flustered and worried. Then you stammer apologies to the teacher who by now has halted his lecture and is watching you mince down the aisle.

An alternate plan of attack, especially good in spring: hurl the door open and fly in panting with an "AM I LATE?" expression on your face. Wave an exuberant greeting to the stunned man conducting the class and gallop to your seat making a great deal of noise. It is strongly advisable but you try a few practice pants before entering class to achieve the proper degree of breathlessness.

For pert girls - five-foot-three and under, it is permissible to side in and bestow a melting smile on the teacher while pleading, "Will you mark me present?" This approach is not recommended for males.

The man has a special angle to play up. If the professor is an old grad, especially of the rah-rah fraternity variety, a man could wander into class late with a vacant stare on his face. If the man happens to be in the same fraternity as the professor (oh joy of joys) he may come into class late for the rest of his life.

If none of these plots work and you are summoned to explain your conduct, there are thousands of clever excuses on tap. I find "I was dressing my little brother for school and missed by bus," useful for early classes. 17-year old brother would probably wince, but necessity is the mother of invention. Another excellent alibi is "I just had a tooth pulled this morning."

There are countless other plans, but I offer these to you free of charge. You may use them if you will. However, if you lack the spirit of adventure, play it safe and don't bother coming to class at all. Cut it—He probably doesn't take roll anyway.

We, this year's officers, would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone for helping make our clubs a success this year. We would like to say a special thank you to our sponsors, chapter parents, and the school administration.

Miss Substitute Teacher Blues

Wearily the substitute teacher tried to calm the last period class. What a day it had been!

Miss Busy, the regular teacher, had been suddenly called away, leaving no instructions. Consequently, the substitute had to rely on the various classes for information concerning their assignments.

An argument erupted in the first period class and apparently no one had the same assignment. She eventually quieted them and struggled to teach twenty pairs of hostile eyes. When class ended she was kindly informed, by a polite little girl that she had been teaching last week's lesson.

Second period wasn't any better but at least she got on the right lesson. Calculating eyes watched her closely, and she tried to overlook the occasional spitballs and erasers thrown behind her back.

Hungry students filed to the third period class looking at her out of the corners of their eyes. Most of them sat listlessly watching their watches. At the sound of the bell, dozens of inert humans sprang to life and sped down the halls to lunch.

Poor Miss Substitute sat wondering about the rest of the day and dreaded it. After lunch, however, she felt much better and thought stubbornly "What's wrong with me? They're just high school students full of youth and vigor."

By the end of sixth period she had changed her mind. Everyone acted as if he had had only two hours of sleep the night before. Practically every answer was a dull "huh" or a "I don't know." Maybe it was too much lunch.

Getting back to the last period class, the restless teacher and students waited for the bell to send them home. They sat noisily talking, paying little attention to her. Miss Substitute despairingly wonders why she got into this teaching business. She could use a little cooperation to help her answer the question.

Library News
We hope that everyone in school has enjoyed the displays in the hall which Ada Mae Betts and Curtis Crowell have arranged.

What does go on in the minds of a boy and girl when songs are played during the intermission at an outdoor movie?

PUP YOUR HEAD ON MY SHOULDER
(Boy) "Maybe then you'll let go of my hand, and I can eat my popcorn."
(She) "Oh no, you're not going to eat that popcorn all night long."

WHERE OR WHEN
(Boy) "Where was I when I met that cute girl?"
(She) "Wonder when he'll buy me a coke?"

WHAT DID DELA-WARE?
(Boy) "Ugh! Why did she wear that icky red dress?"
(She) "I wish I had worn my blue sweater."

ROUGHNECK
(Boy) "Wonder if she noticed I forgot to shave?"
(She) "My face feels like it's raw; why didn't he shave?"

LET THEM TALK
(Boy) "Just because I'm with Don's girl . . ."
(She) "I wonder what Don will say?"

IN THE STILL OF THE NIGHT
(Boy) "Oh for a little peace and quiet! Doesn't she ever shut up?"
(She) "He doesn't talk much."

LET IT BE ME
(Boy) "I wonder if she would go to the prom with me?"
(Girl) "Wish he would take me to the prom."

SIXTEEN REASONS
(Boy) "She is pretty cute."
(Girl) "But he is so nice and such big muscles."

SWEET NOTHINGS
(Boy) "Maybe she will let me hold her hand."
(Girl) "Kiss me, you idiot."

FOREVER
(Boy) "Will this show last forever?"
(Girl) "I could go on like this forever."

LAUGH UP YOUR SLEEVE
Dear Sam: From where does the saying "laugh up your sleeve" come?

Dear Patsy: When we ridicule a person secretly, we say we are "laughing up our sleeve" at him. This expression goes back to the days when this was actually possible. In olden days, a man's costume had very large sleeves, and it was possible to hide a laugh by hiding one's face in the large sleeve.

Dear Sam: I have a boy friend who constantly embarrasses me when we go out to eat. He always piles his plate and then adds to mine so no one will notice the quantity he takes. I feel silly but still let him think it is alright.

Dear Janette: If you mind, tell him so in a tactful way. If you can not do this avoid eating out. It reminds me of a favorite joke of mine. The young woman said to her escort, "That's the fifth time you've gone back for more punch. Doesn't it embarrass you at all?" Her escort replied, "Why should it? I keep telling them it's for you."

Dear Sam: The boy I like and have dated is now going out with my girl - friend, I think she is going with him just to show she can do it. But I do not know what to say about him when I am with her - that I like him a lot or don't care whom he dates. She will tell him what I say.

Dear Worried: Have you ever heard the saying "silence is golden"? Don't talk about him, then this "friend" (you consider this boy - stealer a friend?) can't repeat or distort what you say. If a direction question is asked laugh it off with "curiosity killed the cat" or "just let's talk about something else"! "Wouldn't you like to know?" is also a good damper. It is better not to talk about him with her or anybody else; it is a personal matter.

A Measure of Stature

Southwestern Life has grown to be one of the nation's largest insurance companies by any measure... it ranks in the top 3%. Just as the true stature of a man is measured by his character, not his height, the true stature of an insurance company is measured by the character it builds over the years. While proud of its record of growth, Southwestern Life is prouder yet of its ability to meet its obligations... and the way it treats its policyowners. Southwestern Life's obligations to more than 300,000 policyowners are secured by assets of $480 million. These resources increased by $30 million in 1959. And Southwestern Life policyowners are well treated. An ever-increasing part of the Company's new business is from satisfied policyowners coming back for more. Southwestern's insurance in force now exceeds $2 billion. Texans own more ordinary life insurance in Southwestern Life than in any other company.

IN MOBILGAS ECONOMY RUN — RAMBLER AMERICAN CUSTOM WINS OVER ALL COMPACTS WITH 28.35 M.P.G.

Rambler wins again! Under official USAC supervision, a Ramblar American Custom scored best gas mileage of all cars—28.35 M.P.G.—in the 17th running of the Mobilgas Economy Run. All cars were equipped with automatic transmission—and were chosen at random by USAC officials from dealer showrooms or factory assembly lines. No car owner should expect to match in everyday driving the mileage achieved in this test by Ramblar or any of the other cars. However, this test provides additional proof that Ramblar delivers best gas mileage wherever you drive.

How Can I?

By Anne Ashby

Q. Can you suggest an efficient way to dry a sweater after washing it?

A. Make a hammock of a piece of mosquito netting or other thin material, hang this hammock out in the sun, and lay your sweater on it. Be sure that the hammock is drawn out flat, so that the sweater is not doubled up. If the sweater is treated in this way, it will not get out of shape so easily.

Q. How can I pack some glass jars for safe mailing?

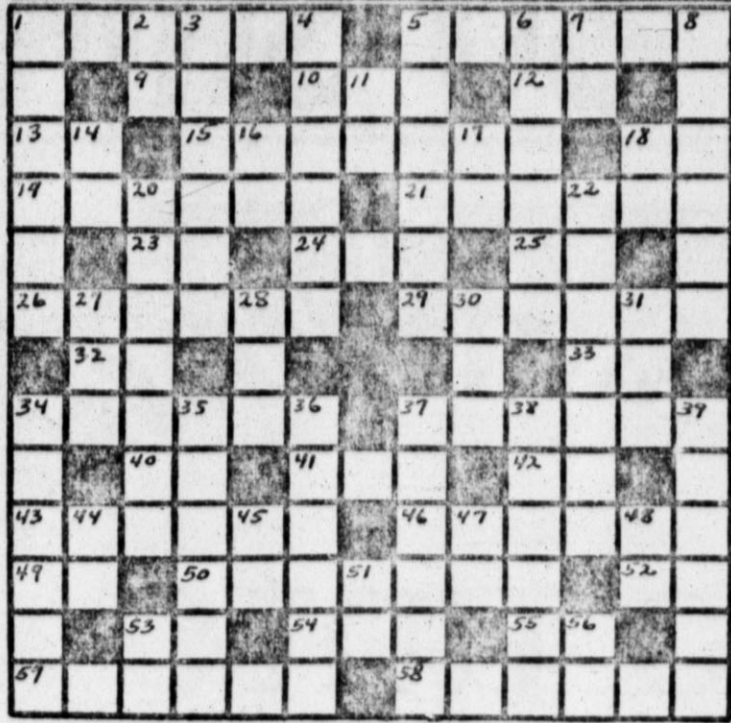

A. Pack them in popcorn, which is light and will add nothing to your postage costs. Your jars will be protected, and the recipient can even eat the popcorn if he's hungry!

Q. How can I remedy an electric clock which has begun to buzz or whir?

A. Try turning it upside down for several hours, and this treatment often proves a good silencer.

Q. Whenever I paint chairs and other furniture, which I have set on newspaper to protect my floor, my finished paint job invariably sticks to the newspaper and creates a mess.

How can I avoid this?

A. Try inserting a square of aluminum foil under each leg of the furniture. Your paint job will not stick to this.

Q. How can I give some of my cloth rugs a good, general, brightening - up treatment?

A. You can do this by sprinkling some salt over the rug, letting this stand for an hour or two, then vacuuming it.

Q. How can I remove rust from an iron frying pan?

A. You can do this with scouring powder and some steel wool. To prevent future rust, rub the inside and outside of the skillet with lard.

Q. How can I remove the lettering from sugar and salt bags?

A. Wet a bar of laundry soap and rub on the dry bag, repeating until the bag is covered with a thick layer of the soap. Then roll the bag up and let it stand for several hours before washing and boiling.

...the last on the Golden Rule. "Do Ye Even So Unto Them." We often paraphrase the Rule but it is extremely doubtful whether one could say it better than King James. There is the milk in the coconut. And the above portion of the Rule is the climatic phrase. We have declared what others should do, which is to say what is my duty... what I must do. We are bound up together. Then "together" is the significant word. There are rules in every game and the Golden Rule is simply saying play, but be fair about it. "Even So," makes it pretty limited. The patrolman allows no special privileges. I keep the common laws of the highway or I am denied the privilege of driving. Long, long ago a thoughtful man declared that God shows no partiality... He has no favorites. Any man who reverences Him and lives a good life is welcomed by Him. Therefore, the proposition is made. The challenge is before you to

OVER BACK-COUNTRY ROADS AT 45 WITH A SKY-HIGH LOAD OF TIMBER

Chevy middleweight shows the big rigs how it's done!

That's a 6303 medium-duty Chevrolet powered by a 283-cu.-in. V8. But there's sure nothing medium-duty about the load. Mr. J. E. Blankinship, Arkansas logging contractor, says both of his torsion-spring 6303s "move along at 40 to 50 miles per hour with 55,000 pounds gross weight and maintain a 5-trip-a-day schedule with no trouble at all." Figure the money you save when you've got a medium-duty truck that can cover 30,000 back-country miles a year with a high-tonnage load!

We've never seen anything like the amount of praise truck owners are heaping on Chevy's new torsion spring suspension. Owners like the fact the truck handles a whole lot easier, can move faster off the road without beating the driver to death and shaking loose all the sheet metal. They like the idea of extra thousands of miles before trade-in! . . . Drive a '60 Chevy just once. It's a whole new experience.

◀Chevy middleweight averages 200 miles of back roads a day dogging timber out of the woods and delivering it to the mill at Crossett, Arkansas.

PORTRAIT WALL: A large photograph can be the focal point in a room. Smaller pictures lend interest.

Perk Up A Wall With Photographs

VIVIAN BROWN

What to do about the walls in your home? Leave them blank unless you have something special to offer the viewer? Decorate them just as you do windows and floors? The trend is to use up wall space to display hobbies, family photographs, favorite paraphernalia — driftwood, rocks, conch shells, plaques. You should like what surrounds you in your home. If you owned valuable abstract paintings or mobiles and had a horror of modern art, what would be the point of displaying them?

Family photographs are becoming a part of the wall decor today, just as they were in previous generations, and for the same reason: The average person doesn't own expensive art but they do have photo portraits of children, grandparents, cousins, sisters, aunts.

The trend in family photograph framing is to use unusual mats and frames. Green, cocoa, warm beige, blue, yellow and other favorites are available. Textures in mats include shantung, burlap, linen, straw, offering unlimited possibilities for coordination. Bedroom fabrics in draperies — stripes, plaids, florals, make interesting and colorful ideas for mats.

If Junior is photographed with his cornet, a mat of old sheet music could ring a bell. Dad in his hunting outfit could be framed in a mat of burlap, canvas, straw. Beach scenes take to bamboo frames. Illustrations from old books often make interesting wall arrangements, perhaps in combination with other art. Flowers, birds, insects, costumed figures offer endless ideas.

An attractive focal spot in the living room could be a large glamorous photograph of the lady of the house, perhaps matted in turquoise or green and framed in antiqued white wood. A portrait photograph 20 x 30 could complement a large area above a fireplace.

If you use a number of small pictures, arrange them on the floor before putting them up on a wall. Try different placements until you get one that looks just right.

Collections of driftwood, shells, pistols can be mounted in shadow boxes, included in a wall layout along with paintings, photographs, drawings. The important point is to make an interesting layout, whether you use old weather vanes or a collection of butterflies or arrowheads to flatter your wall decor.

HEREFORD VISITORS

Mr. and Mrs. Add Woolsey of Amarillo visited with Mrs. O. Bee Woolsey Tuesday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Mike Woolsey visited in Tulsa Saturday and Sunday with his brother, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Woolsey. They returned to Hereford Sunday evening.

Andrew Carnegie, who donated fortunes to build free public libraries, had two favorite authors whom he read time and again — Robert Burns and William Shakespeare.

FEW JEEPS in the annual jeep derby, or ships on the sea, have anything much more decorative than model Josie Johns at the fore. Josie is posing to call attention to the annual up-and-down hill Jeep Derby contest April 21-23, over "the roughest track in the U.S.A." The contest is part of a general spring fiesta celebrating the riches of the Rio Grande Valley and the scenic spots of the New Mexico Southwest. (AP Photo)

The National Football League's second highest scorer in 1959 failed to make a touchdown. Pat Summerall of the New York Giants kicked 20 field goals and 29 extra points.

Dorothy Prowell 4-H Club Meets

The Dorothy Prowell 4-H club met in the home of Beverly Lemons Tuesday. Linda Lemons, president, presided at the meeting.

Miss Loreta Fowler, assistant county Home Demonstration agent, gave a demonstration on "Care of the Feet and Shoes". Diana Remling and Karen Shearhart gave a demonstration on "Planning a Vegetable Garden."

Sherri Marsh and Glenda Sue Dillard gave a demonstration on "Safety in the Home." Cynthia Hails gave a talk on "The History of Lamps."

Refreshments were served the following members and mothers: Peggy Jean Lemons, Linda Lemons, Terri Townsend, Diana Remling, Cynthia Hails, Catherine Smith, Glenda Sue Dillard, Sherri Marsh, Karen Shearhart, Beverly Lemons, Mrs. O. J. Remling, Mrs. Walter Lemons, Mrs. A. R. Dillard, Mrs. H. K. Shearhart and Mrs. Edgar Lemons and Miss Fowler.

The Los Angeles Dodgers' pitching staff struck out 1,077 batters during the 1959 season, a major league record.

The number of night games played in the National League rose from seven in 1935 to 298 in 1959.

Detroit Tiger third baseman Eddie Yost never played minor league baseball. He broke into the big leagues in 1944 with Washington.

Rust on Garments
Soak rust stains on garments with lemon juice, then hold the stained area over the spout of a steaming teakettle. After that, a few hours in the sun helps lots. For most stains on white washables, cover the spot with cream of tartar, gather up the ends of the article so the powder stays on the spot as though it were in the bottom of a sack, then dip the whole thing into hot water for five minutes. Ordinary laundering completes the job.

Greasy Soup
Skim the grease from the top of soup by taking square sheets of clean white tissue paper, laying one sheet at a time on the surface of the soup. All the grease will adhere to the paper.

Never Wring Silk
Never wring silk, but allow it to hang loosely to dry, letting the water drip. Silks should always be dried in the shade.

Glass Gliders
When glass gliders are used under the legs of heavy furniture, casters on the legs concentrate the weight in one spot, and will sometimes cause the glider to break. To minimize this possibility, slip a large steel washer between the glider and the caster.

Musty Smell
In the event that the jars and bottles you wish to use for preserving have a musty odor, fill them with cold water in which soda has been dissolved. This will soon freshen them. Wash in hot water and suds, rinse well, and they are ready for use.

Lemon Juice
Sprinkle a little lemon juice over fruit, vegetables, fish or meat salads just before they are served, and the flavor will be greatly improved.

Airplane Cement
For airplane cement stains, use acetone on all fabrics except acetate rayon or vinylon, which it dissolves. Amyl acetate (banana oil) can be used on rayon. Fingernail polish remover contains acetone and can be used on linen and cotton materials to remove airplane cement.

Home-Made Syrup
You can prevent home-made syrup from candying after it stands a while by adding a teaspoonful of vinegar to it.

To Draw Threads
To draw threads easily when hemstitching, scrub them with a wet brush which has been rubbed over a bar of soap.

Nail in Plaster
Placing the nail in very hot water before driving it into a plaster wall will lessen the danger of its crumbling the plaster.
